Rangers Don't Want To Hang Up Weapons

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—If six of the Texas Rangers had their druthers, they would have liked to put the whole thing off for a couple of years.

And yet there they were, seated at the grand table, being honored by an entire town while their boss sang their praises from the rostrum.

Eight Texas Rangers had to hang up their guns Thursday. And they even were given a couple of new guns to hang up.

Except for two Rangers who reached the age of 70 this year, the men indicated they did not want to quit. But a recent Department of Public Safety rule makes retirement mandatory at 65. Retirement age used to be 70.

The retiring Rangers are Capt. A. R. Crowder, Ernest D. Daniel and R. L. Badgett of B Company, Dallas; Mart Jones of A Company, Huntsville; W. E. Renfrow of C Company, Lubbock; Zeno Smith of D Company, San

PATCO Threatens FAA With Massive Resignations

DALLAS (UPI)—The Federal Aviation Administration was bitterly attacked Thursday by members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) who are threatening the FAA with massive resignations.

Robert Hartson, regional counsel for PATCO, said nearly one third of the 1,800 controllers in the five-state Southwest region would resign if salaries, working conditions and air safety were not improved.

"If as many as 20 per cent of the air traffic controllers resigned, not an airliner would fly. There would not be a corporation airplane in the sky," he said.

"We asked the members what they wished to do," Hartson said. "Fifty per cent have said they would rather resign than continue to be a part of the Federal Aviation Administration in the fashion that they have been."

The issue hinges on negotiations presently underway in Washington between the FAA and the six organizations representing controllers.

Hartson said at a news conference many airports in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico, there are not enough controllers, and too much faulty or worn out equipment.

He said the FAA also failed to fulfill its responsibilities when it did not react "firmly" to proposals for a 913-foot skyscraper in Dallas.

"I'm afraid the FAA dropped the ball on that one," he said. He said this disregard for the safety of pilots, their aircraft and passengers, was another example of FAA incompetence.

On another point, he said "In 1952 the first radar was installed in Oklahoma City, and the same radar is still in use today."

"But new equipment has sat on the field in crates for the past two years and has not been installed. We asked the FAA why and they gave a deadline date of June 1969, but that deadline has come and gone. I don't know why it hasn't been installed."

Hartson also said there is faulty radar coverage of a large area east of Dallas.

"A radar aerial was moved from Love Field to Greater Southwest and for the last couple of years there has been a big gap just east of the city that has no radar protection," he said.

Hubert Humphrey To Seek Seat In U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hubert H. Humphrey will seek the Senate seat Eugene J. McCarthy has decided to vacate next year, political aides of the former vice president said today.

Humphrey's return to the Senate as a Democrat from Minnesota would give him the forum he is thought to need to go after his party's presidential nomination again in 1972.

Chances that the 1968 Democratic standard bearer would get a second shot at the White House may have been enhanced last weekend when a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy plunged off a wooden bridge. The accident killed a 28-year-old woman passenger and could put the Massachusetts senator's political future in jeopardy.

Humphrey was in Yugoslavia near the end of a European tour, including a visit to Russia, and was not available for comment. His office said, he would return to Washington Sunday.

But his political confidants, who declined to be named, said there was no doubt he would run for the Senate after McCarthy announced Thursday in Minneapolis that he would not seek a third term. They also brushed off Humphrey's own estimate that in 1972 he would be too old at 61 to make another bid for the presidency.

Clay Given Five Year Prison Term

HOUSTON (UPI)—If it hadn't been for the black suit and blue-striped tie, one would think a character from a not-too-long-ago boxing legend had stepped out of the pages of history.

"I'm down to 220 from 230 pounds and I ran three miles in Memorial Park this morning," Cassius Clay said, and you half-expected him to crawl through the ropes and into the ring to defend his heavyweight championship of the world.

Clay suffered another setback in the legal world Thursday. He was sentenced to the maximum penalty for refusing to be inducted into the armed forces—five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

It was in this same federal court two years ago—before the same U.S. District Court Judge Joe Ingraham—that Clay received exactly the same sentence for exactly the same offense.

Clay's chief attorney, Charles Morgan Jr. of Atlanta, said he would appeal.

"All that I can say is that I'm sticking to my religious beliefs," Clay told the judge when the sentence was read.

It was because of his Black Muslim beliefs that Clay was convicted of refusing induction in the first place. Clay contended he was a Black Muslim minister, but the court didn't see it that way.

Authorities Find Fugitive Dying In Chicago Hospital

CHICAGO (UPI)—For three years, authorities searched for Thomas Hart Fisher, charged with contempt in connection with a settlement involving the massive King Ranch in South Texas.

They found him Wednesday, dying in a Chicago hospital.

Fisher's physician, Dr. Richard N. Rovner, said Thursday his patient is suffering from degeneration of the brain and spinal cord. Rovner said Fisher has only a few months to live.

Fisher entered the Passavant Hospital six months ago, Rovner said.

He was formally placed under arrest in his hospital room Wednesday.

Screams Are More Than Bad Dream

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (UPI)—The owner of the fashionable summer house entered his daughter's bedroom and found her safe. But the screams of her friend, Caroline Louise Hart, 14, were more than a bad dream.

Miss Hart, the pretty daughter of a prominent Texas publisher, died with a shallow, jagged wound in her chest made by an unseen assailant Thursday who walked into the unlocked beachfront house.

"The girl cried out as if she was having a bad dream," said Cameron Duncan, owner of the two-story house.

Funeral services were set for 3 p.m. today in San Antonio at the Georgian Chapel of Porter Loring Funeral Home. Burial will be in San Antonio's Sunset Memorial Park.

Apollo 11's Moon Explorers Are Relaxing In Splendid Isolation

BOARD USS HORNET (UPI)—Apollo 11's moon explorers relaxed in splendid isolation today and steamed toward home from their mid-Pacific splashdown—a trip that takes longer than the return from their lunar conquest. Two boxes containing 60 pounds of priceless rocks Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. picked up on their moon walk were on their way, too, and expected to beat the astronauts back to the Manifold Spacecraft Center in Houston by almost two days.

After undergoing the most thorough initial medical checks of any astronauts and eating meals of pancakes and sirloin steak, Armstrong, Aldrin and Michael Collins relaxed after eight days and 952,700 miles in space.

Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins returned from their epic trip at 11:30 a.m. CDT Thursday when they plopped into the Pacific Ocean.

The trip back to Houston, by the Hornet, by truck, plane and truck again will take about 65 hours—hours longer than it took Apollo 11 to get from lunar orbit to its flawless splashdown.

They were greeted by President Nixon, but even he had to see them through the trailer window. When the astronauts get back to Houston they will trade the trailer for a place in a special $11-million quarantine building where they must stay until Aug. 11. They will share that building with the rocks.

"There are no significant physical abnormalities," said Dr. Clarence A. Jernigan after the initial medical checks.

Ted Given Suspended Two-Month Jail Term

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy tonight to speak to the people of Massachusetts.

Kennedy, whose driver's license was suspended Wednesday pending a Registry of Motor Vehicles hearing, was driving his sedan when it went off a rail-less wooden humpback bridge sometime between 11:15 p.m. Friday and 1 a.m. Saturday and plunged into eight feet of water in a tidal pond.

Mary Jo Kopechne, 28-year-old secretary-riding with him was killed.

In a statement which appeared to startle both Walter Steele, special prosecutor for Dukes County, and Kennedy's attorneys, Judge Boyle asked, "Has there been any deliberate attempt to conceal the identity of the defendant?"

Police Chief Dominick J. Arena, looking surprised, responded, "Not to my knowledge."

1,240 'Copters Lost During Vietnam War

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. headquarters said today North Vietnamese anti-aircraft gunners shot down an Army helicopter within sight of Cambodia Thursday, killing all seven Americans and two South Vietnamese aboard.

It was one of the costliest 'copter losses in the current battle lull, now approaching its sixth week, and brought to 1,240 the number of American helicopters shot down in South Vietnam during the war.

Simultaneous command announcements tabbed two more American units to leave for home under President Nixon's withdrawal plan. The 650 soldiers involved will make the flight Saturday.

The downed helicopter was on a "troop-hauling mission" three miles from the Cambodian border, due west of Saigon, when the Communists opened up, military spokesmen said. It crashed in flames.

That area, known as the "parrot's beak" for the way Cambodia juts into South Vietnam there, is a longtime Communist base area, recently fortified with radar-guided anti-aircraft guns like the ones used in North Vietnam.

No ground fighting was reported in the border region, although military spokesmen said scattered fighting Thursday cost the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese 112 killed against light Allied losses.

Overnight, guerrilla gunners shelled 11 allied targets causing light losses, and a bus hit a mine 68 miles southwest of Saigon, killing two South Vietnamese soldiers and 11 civilians, spokesmen said.

Both home-bound outfits were instrumental in pioneering riverine warfare in the water Mekong Delta—a tactic that put both infantrymen and artillery on boats on the delta's canals and rivers.

The artillery battalion, commanded by Maj. Walter Bryde Jr., of Newburgh, N.Y., has received the Presidential Unit Citation for its performance, along with the Vietnamese Gallantry Cross.

Three meritorious Unit Citations have been awarded the Transportation Company—a boat outfit now under the command of Capt. John E. Henry of Ellenwood, Ga.

The continuing lull in ground fighting had no effect on U.S. bombing operations, with headquarters reporting eight overnight B52 strikes against suspected areas of guerrilla activity.

Five of the nighttime raids centered northwest and northeast of Saigon, most of them hitting between the capital and Cambodia, where the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have gone to rest in the past.

Two other B52 strikes were (See CHOPPER, Page 2)

Burk Takes Top In Calf Roping Event At Rodeo

Barry Burk of Duncan, Okla., who is 10th in the all-around money standings, added $401.80 to his total winnings at the end of the first round of the 25th Annual Top O' Texas Rodeo last night.

Burk won top spot in calf roping and took second in steer wrestling to become the top money winner in the first round of the rodeo.

A crowd, said to be larger than the estimated 2500 that attended the opening night competition, watched the entrants compete for first round leads.

Ben Hawkins, of Hanna, Okla., flew in from Cheyenne, Wyo., to take top money in the steer wrestling event with a low time of 7.0 seconds.

In the only other timed event, Annette Kilgore, Oklahoma City, won the barrel race in 16.5 seconds.

In judged events Sid Savage, Melrose, N.M., improved his first high score by three points (See BURK, Page 2)

Drowning Victim Had Taken LSD

HEMET, Calif. (UPI)—A warrant for the arrest of Timothy Leary was out today after an autopsy showed that a 17-year-old girl who drowned at his ranch was under the influence of LSD.

Narcotics investigators raided Leary's mountain center ranch here Thursday and arrested five persons for possession of marijuana.

Leary was not at the hippie commune at the time.

Later in the day a warrant was issued in Riverside Municipal Court for his arrest on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The victim, Charlene Renee Albrecht, 17, of Laguna Beach, Calif., was swimming in the nude in a 30-foot-deep pond on the ranch when she drowned July 14. She had lived in the commune for 10 days.

The population at the ranch ranges from several hundred persons on the weekends to a handful at other times. Most of the permanent residents live in Indian tepees.

City Manager Agrees With Dog Pound Complaint

A complaint about conditions at the city dog pound was answered today by City Manager Charles Hill who stated he was in agreement with the complainant.

The complaint charged that the building which houses stray dogs picked up by the city was "small, dirty and smelly and looks as though it hadn't been cleaned out for a month."

The complainant, in a letter to The News, charged that "pans the dogs eat from are rusted and the poor animals had no water in the 90-degree heat."

The city manager said the problem was one the city has been unable to solve satisfactorily for many years.

"We even had budget plans for a $2,500 expenditure for a new dog pound building," Hill said. "However, with the pinched financial condition Pampa is in right now, we do not have the money."

Hill said he would immediately see to it that the present building is cleaned up, disinfected and that water and food would be supplied to the impounded animals.

"We have to carry water," he added, "since the only water pipe available is one from the Country Club water system that can be used only when golf greens are being watered."

The city manager said plans are being studied to get a temporary plastic water line from the city sewage plant to service the dog pound.

He said the city hopes to be able to work out some future plan for a new dog pound at a new location when finances become available.

Huge Welcome Given Nixon In The Philippines

MANILA (UPI)—The Philippines today prepared a mammoth welcome for President Nixon amid security precautions intensified because of recent bomb-throwing incidents and threatened demonstrations.

The Chief Executive is scheduled to arrive at 12:30 p.m. (12:30 a.m. EDT) Saturday on the first Asian stop of a 24,000 mile round-the-world tour. He will stay 23 hours.

Police said the bombing incidents perhaps were Communist inspired and possibly directed against the Nixon visit.

Three of the bombings were aimed at U.S. agencies. An 18-year-old Filipino was killed in one of the attacks.

Since the first bombing Tuesday, a security force of about 300 men has been assigned 24 hours a day to the U.S. Embassy, all other U.S. government agencies and the chanceries of 19 other foreign missions in Manila.

Preparations include a full alert for riot police because of youth and labor demonstrations planned at the U.S. Embassy and the presidential MALACANANG Palace, where Nixon will be a house guest Saturday afternoon and evening.

The targets of the bombing attacks in the past three days included the South Vietnamese Embassy, the U.S. Consulate building, the U.S. Information Service Library and the joint U.S. military advisory group compound.

Now You Know By United Press International President Nixon was the second U.S. president to board a naval vessel named Hornet.

On exactly the same day, July 24, 104 years ago President Andrew Johnson boarded the iron-clad sidewheeler Hornet for a cruise on the Potomac River near Washington.

Francis L. Land Announces Resignation From Medicaid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Francis L. Land announced today his resignation as director of Medicaid—the troubled federal-state cooperative program of providing medical care for poor people.

Land became director of the program at its inception in November, 1966. He plans to leave the post Aug. 31.

Only a few days ago, Land denied reports that he was leaving amid increasing criticism within the government of the Medicaid program.

Land, 49, is a native of Carrington, N.D., and was a general practitioner in Ft. Wayne, Ind., for 15 years before joining the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Medicaid costs are soaring and the federal government has announced steps to cut them.

Earth's First Defense Against Moon Germs

HOUSTON — A commonly used antiseptic was used as mankind's first line of defense against any organisms that Apollo 11 astronauts might bring back from the moon.

The decontaminant is Betadine antiseptic, prepared from a chemical complex of polyvinylpyrrolidone-iodine made by BAF Corporation for the Purdue Frederick Company and affiliates. Betadine, one of the most potent antiseptic microbicides known to science and medicine and widely used as a surgical antiseptic, was selected by NASA for the initial decontamination of the capsule and its astronauts. It provides rapid, broad-spectrum germicidal actions against microorganisms causing infections in man, lower animals and plants.

Frogmen leaped into the Pacific to secure the return capsule. When the spacecraft hatch opened, the frogmen will give the astronauts biological isolation garments, which they donned and the Betadine antiseptic the same antiseptic that has been used as a spray for skin irritations and wounds and in skin diseases and mouthwash gargles was used by the astronauts on their entire bodies and over their special garments.

As the astronauts entered a life raft, the frogmen then sprayed Betadine over the raft, the spacecraft hatch, the astronauts and themselves, in the hope of eliminating any germs that may have returned with the first men on the moon.

Soviet Luna 15 Came After Moonshot Flops

WASHINGTON — Russia lost four moon-mission spacecraft in succession before finally succeeding in putting Luna 15 into orbit.

Of the four costly flops, two never got off their launching pads. One exploded and burned on the pad, the other burst into flames and crashed within seconds after lift-off.

The other two Soviet mooncraft had to be destroyed because of major malfunctions after they were airborne.

This succession of disasters explains in a large measure why the Reds are so psychotically secretive and mysterious about their space operations. They have an obsessive fear of failure and inadequacy.

Luna 15 also throws significantly revealing light on why the U.S. won the race to be the first to put a man on the moon.

Russia lacked the scientific, technical and industrial resources and skills.

At the start, the Soviet had a decisive lead with a far more powerful booster rocket. The U.S. was distinctly inferior in that regard. But once it caught up, the U.S. steadily forged to the front with its greatly superior technology and means.

U.S. authorities also have good reason to believe Moscow's primary interest in space is military, and that its experiments and developments in that field are intrinsically for military purposes. In the opinion of informed experts, certain structural and other characteristics of Luna 15 lend themselves strongly to the nature of a military "device."

It is highly significant that no foreigner — and relatively few Russians, for that matter — has seen a Soviet space vehicle.

Unlike the U.S. which televises its spacecraft and flights, Russia does neither. Even after a successful orbit, the tightest secrecy persists. What pictures are released are innocuous and unrevealing.

Another basic difference between the space operations of the two countries is that the Soviet's is under military rule and the U.S. is civilian control.

Considerable is known by U.S. intelligence about the Reds' space activities. Much of this detailed knowledge is gained through scientific and technological measures on hand in the air and under water. Their nature and type can't be indicated.

It can be reported that the failure of each of the four Soviet moon-mission craft was known to U.S. authorities almost as soon as to the Russians.

And, after litigation, the court agreed with the insurance company that his liability policy did not protect him.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Despite the promise to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller by Panama's ruling military junta that it would hold free presidential elections next year, there are increasing doubts that the junta will meet its schedule.

The surprising thing is that many Panamanian businessmen and just plain workers seem willing to accept it.

The reason is that business is improving and the young men running the country have kept most of their promises.

United States aid has been resumed after a seven-month freeze and the U.S. Southern Command Headquarters in the Canal Zone is delivering to the National Guard such non-lethal items as trucks, bulldozers and tools.

It has not resumed deliveries of weapons or ammunition.

The new Panama power structure is based on men all under 50 and attesting to their determination to cast Panama in a new mold is one item of special significance.

Traditionally, Panamanian governments have been subject to the manipulations of perhaps a dozen wealthy families, most of them intent on personal gain.

Even the new government's critics admit that it has broken the grip of the "botellas" which annually cost the country millions of dollars.

A botella, or bottle, is one who receives a regular government pay check but does nothing to earn it.

At the top of the new structure is National Guard Commandant Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos, just turned 41. The men to whom he gives his orders are Provisional President Col. Jose M. Pinella, presently recovering from a heart attack, and his temporary fill-in Col. Bolivar Urrutia.

One extremely influential figure in government is Nicolas Ardito Barletta, a 30-year-old Ph. D. from the University of Chicago who is director of planning and administration of the presidency.

He sees the government as seven-fold:

1. Economic development
2. Education
3. Health
4. Housing
5. Industry
6. Labor
7. Transportation

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Some shrewd programming imagination resulted in an unscheduled, but winning, special broadcast involving moon coverage, baseball and entertainment on NBC-TV Tuesday evening.

It all started with a long-awaited baseball game that never came off—the annual major league All-Star contest, scheduled for Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in Washington, D.C., with President Nixon to throw out the first ball.

NBC-TV came on the air at 7:30 p.m. EDT, well before the planned start of the game, and presented some colorful feature material about a newly selected group of players named as all-time greats.

There were also interviews with a couple of superb, retired players, Sandy Koufax and Mickey Mantle, both relatively new employees of NBC-TV as color commentators. Another ex-player, Tony Kubek, also a network sports announcer, conducted the interviews, with Curt Gowdy the anchorman.

Alas, however, all the buildup went for nothing because it was raining in Washington, and the game finally was postponed shortly before 8:30 p.m. EDT, and rescheduled for 1:45 p.m. EDT today.

At any rate, NBC-TV executives used their imagination as the baseball coverage went off the air Tuesday evening. In the lengthy period of moon coverage that followed, there was inserted some special material that was planned for prime time last Sunday night but was canceled out because the astronauts moved up the hour of their lunar walk.

Included was an altogether charming film segment of reactions of youngsters to the manned lunar landing, and their own feelings about going to the moon as compared with staying on earth.

In the midst of this special material, meanwhile, there was, of course, the highlight—another live, color television transmission from the astronauts in space, en route home.

For the constant televiewer, one of the pleasures of the combined (by accident) baseball-moon-entertainment package was the feeling that here, whatever the reason, was programming that was not airtight; that is, totally secure, distant, almost inhuman.

The Family Lawyer

"As long as you are doing the driving, let me pay for the gasoline."

Suppose that you, as the driver, accept this kind of an offer from your passenger. Could such an arrangement knock out your liability insurance in case of an accident? After all, liability policies often do say that the driver must not use his car to carry passengers for hire.

Nevertheless, in a number of cases, courts have held that the insurance coverage is still in effect. They reason that a payment by a passenger just because he is "hiring" the car.

But suppose the arrangement is somewhat more formal. Take this situation:

A young man heading for a Florida vacation took along three passengers—all of them strangers. Before they started on the journey, he collected from each passenger a flat fee as payment for transportation.

Here, after an accident on the highway, the driver was informed by his liability insurance company that his liability policy did not protect him.

And, after litigation, the court agreed with the insurance company. The judge said that even though the driver was not a regular "carrier," he had indeed been carrying passengers for hire on this occasion.

In the final analysis, your insurance coverage will depend on the exact language of your particular policy. Many modern policies do have a specific provision allowing you to carry on a share-the-cost basis—such passengers as friends, neighbors, fellow workers, or school children.

It is a wise precaution, before collecting any but the most informal contributions from passengers, to check your insurance policy first. Otherwise, you may be caught without an insurance umbrella when you need it most.

Business Activity Had Upward Trend In June, Down Now

Business activity continued its long upward trend during June. It appears, however, that the rate of advance again lost some steam. The Babson Composite Business Chart climbed to 136.6, up from 136.4 in May, but still substantially above the year ago 132.8 reading.

Once again it was capital goods which provided most of the strength for industrial activity in June. Benefiting from a husky backlog of unfilled orders, which was augmented by a burst of orders in April and May designed to beat the expected termination of the 7 percent tax credit, output of machinery and industrial and commercial equipment registered another good increase. Production of fabricated metal products also trended higher, as did clay, glass, and stone.

First Presbyterians Enter Refugee Resettlement Program

By DON TURNER
Born in Budapest, Hungary, she obtained permission to travel to Yugoslavia. Once in Yugoslavia she fled to Italy and was granted political asylum and sent to the Refugee Camp at Trieste.

Yesterday she was scheduled to come to Pampa through the efforts of the First Presbyterian Church. The church recently entered the Refugee Resettlement Program sponsored by the United Presbyterian Church of the United States of America who is a member of the World Council of Churches. A Council committee originally started the program.

This, basically is the story of the life of Liona Katalin, 23, who has broad vocational training in metal and woodwork.

The Church World Service Committee is trying to place thousands of refugees like Liona each year in jobs and homes in the United States.

Nearly all of the refugees are members of churches in Hungary, Romania and Czechoslovakia who fled communist oppression and life restriction.

"Most of them are young people who saw their parents grow up under communism and didn't want any part of it," Frank Smith, chairman of the Worship and Sacrament Committee at First Presbyterian Church, said. "They want to improve themselves, their living conditions in a free country."

Applicants for replacement in the United States are thoroughly screened to make sure they do not have any Communist or un-American sentiment.

"We try to be sure they are open-minded," Smith said, "and that they will be open to a new way of life."

After the applicants are thoroughly screened their applications are sent to New York where various denominations participating in the resettlement program receive them.

Dossiers of the applicants are sent by the denominations to local churches in those areas which have the most suitable environment and job opportunities for the applicants.

Most applicants to the Pampa area have skills in welding, machine operation, metal work, foundry work, engineering, technical work or other fields closely related to local industrial needs.

The churches are responsible for temporary housing, job interviews and temporary financial assistance for each applicant they request. If the denomination headquarters agrees that the local church can help resettle the applicant arrangements are made to bring the refugee to his new home.

Efforts are made to keep expenses of the refugee to a minimum before he gets his new job. The World Council of Churches loans the refugee the money to get to the United States in a chartered refugee flight.

A loan for transportation from New York to the sponsoring town is given the refugee by the Church World Service Committee.

Once he gets to his new home town the sponsoring church's responsibilities begin.

First Presbyterian Church will be placing single refugees with families for the first three to five weeks.

Married people and their families will live in the White Deer Manse, given the church by the Presbytery of the Plains for the program.

Job interviews are lined up for each immigrant before he comes and take place immediately after they arrive.

Every effort is made to make the new resident feel at home in Pampa. First Presbyterian program is presently a pilot project.

Miss Katalin was to be the first immigrant resettled in Pampa. Tomorrow the second refugee is expected. He is Ferenc Kiss a native of Cluj, Romania, of ethnical Hungarian origin and of the Rumanian Reformist Faith. He also fled to Italy from Yugoslavia.

Sometime in August Imre and Erika Nagy and their three year old daughter are expected here. Nagy has been employed as a mechanical engineer and as a teacher of mechanics and steel construction with a technical college. He and his family escaped much the same way that Miss Katalin and Kiss did.

If the program is successful with the First Presbyterian Church, it is hoped that other Pampa churches will participate in it, Smith said.

There is no way to evaluate the practicality of the program, but the principle is clear.

"It is a moral obligation to get people out of communist rule," Smith said.

Christian Church Teens To Discuss Relations Crisis

FORT WORTH — The 800 teen-agers expected here next week for the annual Texas Youth Convention of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) will have no chance to shut out the nation's crisis in human relations.

They will hear speeches about the crisis, see plays dealing with it, sing songs based on it, consider resolutions addressing it, discuss possible solutions in "Encounter" groups and turn their only offering over to the church's urban emergency program, "Reconciliation."

The assembly will draw

Christian Youth Fellowship members to the Texas Christian University campus from all corners of the state. It will open with a 7:30 p.m. session on Wednesday, July 30, and close with a 7 a.m. Communion service on Saturday, Aug. 2.

Speech-making by adults will be minimized. And the five scheduled talks by youths will merely be brief messages on aspects of the general theme: "Fulfill Your Ministry."

The only adult speaker will be K. David Cole, consultant on special ministries for the Christian Church in Texas, minister of Denley Drive Christian Church and director of South Cliff Christian Center in Dallas. He will deliver two addresses.

Heavy use will be made of the medium of drama. On the opening night a play, "Even the Hater," presented by TCU theatre arts students, will fill the slot occupied by a keynote speech in many conventions.

The next evening, the youth will go to Fort Worth's Casa Manana for a performance of "West Side Story."

Throughout the assembly the Covenant Players, a professional religious drama troupe, will present short plays — half a dozen or more.

The proposed resolutions would call the church to "more responsible action" in response to the national crisis and affirm the youths' "belief in the equality of all men, the brotherhood of all races and the freedom of movements of minorities within this country." Those similar resolutions were drafted by participants in a Youth Churchmanship Seminar held earlier this month at Lake Brownwood Christian Retreat.

In one of eight simultaneous Encounter sessions on Thursday and Friday afternoons, the teen-agers will learn about the local Community Action Program on a bus trip through the inner city. Another group will find out about a Block Partnership Program in which Dallas church members in middle and upper income brackets team with residents of disadvantaged areas to work on urban problems.

An offering to support the Disciples' national "Reconciliation" effort will be taken in the final service.

New Church Trend Begun By Lutherans

Churches in the United States own about $102 billion worth of land and buildings.

The figure comes from a recent study by Martin A. Larson and C. Stanley Lowell. It is frankly an estimate and may be off by a few billion either way. But it gives an indication how deeply churches are involved in the real estate business.

The edifice complex of contemporary Christianity is a stark contrast to the example of the early church. During its first and most dynamic century, the church was too busy spreading the Gospel to worry about building programs.

The world "church" in those days denoted a body of people, not a place. Christians met for worship in private homes, in catacombs, in open fields.

Today, the first thing on the agenda for most new congregations is to put up "a building of our own." No matter how well a congregation may be getting along in temporary quarters, its members can hardly wait to take on the burden of a big mortgage and the upkeep of a building that may be in use only two or three hours a week.

This is a woeful situation, according to Dr. Donald L. Houser, executive secretary of the Board of American Missions, Lutheran Church in America. He is urging Lutherans to recover the outlook of the early church by emphasizing mission and ministry rather than structure and facilities.

In the future, Houser contends, building a church should be considered "a last resort." Before even considering such a step, a congregation should explore all possibilities of serving its community from such locations as storefronts, recreation halls in high rise apartment buildings, trailer units, or multiple-purpose service centers.

A few brave and innovative congregations already are demonstrating that it can be done. In Lombard, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, a Lutheran congregation called the Community of Christ the Servant is using a renovated barn as a base for a ministry that includes a youth program, a theater program, operation of a coffee house and a weekly fine arts festival.

Similar congregations with out-churches can be found in New York, Washington, Los Angeles and many other cities.

If they are the pioneers of a major new trend in American religious life, as Houser believes, the public image of the church may change from rich landlord to humble servant—a change most congenial to the teaching and example of its founder.

Knowles Appointed Plains Minister

AMARILLO — Dr. John C. Knowles of Fort Worth will become area minister of the High Plains Area of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in Texas on September 1.

He has been director of church relations for Texas Christian University for the past seven and a half years.

His appointment was announced here by Johnnie Moore, president of the High Plains Area Association and pastor of the First Christian Church of Slaton.

Dr. Knowles will serve 38 congregations with almost 10,000 members in a 47-county area of northwest Texas. He will be based at Canyon temporarily.

"The constituting convention of the High Plains Area, which includes two previously separate districts of the church, will be held in Plainview on Oct. 12."

"As the Disciples' first area minister for the High Plains, Dr. Knowles also will be a staff member of the state organization of the Christian Church, which has its offices in Fort Worth."

Before he joined the staff of TCU in 1962, Dr. Knowles was minister of the First Christian Church in Houston.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Peter the Great, famous for his attempts to Westernize Russia in the 18th century, was attracted not by Western culture, but by Western military power and industrial productivity. To increase Russian productivity, Peter started by encouraging sobriety. The World Almanac says, "He made all men jailed for drunkenness wear a 'medal for hard drinking' around their necks during their imprisonment. The medal weighed 18 pounds."

Baptist Commission Endorses Amendment

DALLAS — The Christian Life Commission of the 1.8-million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas has endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment which would authorize the Texas legislature to spend an additional $20 million for the aged, blind, handicapped and poverty-stricken children in Texas.

Texas will vote August 5 on the proposed amendment, which will appear as Proposition 5 in a list of nine recommended changes in the Texas Constitution.

James Dunn, secretary of the Christian Life Commission, Texas Baptists' agency which speaks to social concerns, issued the following statement, authorized by unanimous vote of the commission at its quarterly meeting.

"Proposition 5 is important. Many will be affected by the decision in August. A larger percentage of people live in poverty in Texas than in any other state of the nation.

"Many old people, scraping out a meager existence on welfare checks, will anxiously wait to discover whether that existence will be even more meager," the statement said.

"The blind will be hurt if it fails to pass. The disabled will be hurt. Hungry children will be hungry."

"The Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission supports the

Love' Theme Of Christ Scientist Sermon Sunday

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be heard this Sunday in all Christian Science churches. Included in the sermon is the statement: "And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing."

A correlative passage from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker-Eddy, comments: "To love one's neighbor as one's self, is a divine idea; but this idea can never be seen, felt, nor understood through the physical senses."

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost, are open to all and begin at 11 a.m.

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

HOWARD REYNOLDS

There seem to be so few practicing Christians in our day. Why is this so? I believe that James 4:7-8 gives us a straight answer to our question. "Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you." God requires that we submit ourselves to Him. Today so few people are really willing to be governed by any higher being or law, other than themselves. Is this not why so few Christians live up to the faith they profess? The rebellious want the benefits of Christianity, but they do not want God to tell them how to run their lives. Anyone who wants to be a Christian must submit to God.

Once we have submitted our will to God, we then, "resist the devil." Our only safety is in resisting the devil and his temptations. If we resist, the promise of God is that the devil will flee from us. This promise should be very precious to us. God also wants us to draw nigh to Himself. You may ask, "How do we draw nigh to God." I believe the answer is simple. Church attendance, prayer, and Bible study are the avenues through which we come close to God. Some people do a fair job of going to church, but few, very few spend time in prayer and Bible study. Let us remember God's promise, if we draw near to Him, He will draw near to us.

—Howard J. Reynolds

The Pampa Daily News

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Air-Route Politics

President Nixon's latest decision in the trans-Pacific air case could leave him open to the same charges leveled at former President Lyndon B. Johnson — playing politics with the lucrative air route awards.

The news item then went on to point out that, by overruling the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) recommendation that Continental Airlines get a new air route across the South Pacific, Nixon's action undoubtedly set up Eastern Air Lines as the top contender for the lucrative award.

Some of the political implications of the squabble were brought out when it was revealed in the same release that: (a) Continental is headed up by Robert Six, "a widely known large contributor to Democratic party coffers;" (b) Laurence Rockefeller, "brother of Republican governors in New York and Arkansas," is a shareholder in Eastern Airlines; and (c) CAB, itself, is made up of three Democrats and two Republicans.

Of course, President Nixon, like LBJ before him, is playing politics with the air lines as he will be playing politics in every subsequent decision he makes. President Nixon is a politician, and politics is the name of the game. It's only natural, considering the nature of the pastime, that the participants throw bones to those believed to be on their side and can be counted on to assist when election time rolls around again.

All of which goes to show the fallacy of government intervention in things economic. Neither President Nixon, nor CAB, nor any other bureaucratic regulatory body, is in a position to know which air line should get a particular route or, even, how many routes are really needed. Even the air lines themselves do not know for sure until they have set up the service and offered it for the approval or disapproval of the traveling public in wide-open competition. The public, with their freedom of choice dollar and cent "votes" of patronage or non-patronage, are the only ones equipped to decide whether any business enterprise should succeed or fail.

Our government officials, Richard Nixon included, are always talking about their compassionate concern for the consumers and, as a result, continually dreaming up schemes and regulatory agencies to prevent "monopolies" from forming. Yet, every time the government interferes with free and competitive workings of the market place with preferential awards and competitive-killing franchises, it is effectively assisting in the formation of monopolies and harming, not only the discriminated against companies concerned, but every consumer everywhere.

President Nixon says, and was elected on that premise, that he is interested in getting this country back on the right track. If he really means that, he can show evidence of his good intentions by, first, taking himself out of the air route squabble and, secondly, by recommending elimination of CAB and all other meddling regulatory agencies. By doing so, he would not only be restoring a healthy competition to our economy but in addition, would be removing untold thousands of bureaucrats from the backs of staggering taxpayers, making them available to a labor hungry market in productive, rather than tax-consuming, enterprises.

But do not hold your breath.

The Myth Hangs On

People, in general, see the fallacy of the once hallowed "Divine Right of Kings" and, rightly, reject monarchy. The realization that the claims of old-time rulers were ridiculous and vicious resulted in the toppling of throne after throne.

However, the same idea, in an insidious and even more deadly form, has been reinstated in the idea and form of the modern State — supposedly governed by "representatives of the people elected to office by democratic process" — with the result that people occupying governmental positions today possess and exercise powers that would make kings and potentates of yesteryear blush with envy.

Whereas, when the king himself claimed divine rights and exercised dictatorial powers, the people knew whom to blame when things went wrong, now, suffering under the illusion of "government of, by, and for the people," enslaved people all over the world are put in the frustrating position of, in effect, blaming themselves when things go astray due to government intervention.

The fallacious belief, almost universally held, that the governors and the governed are one and the same, has the net effect of stifling analytical thought, suppressing penetrating criticism, and preventing independent action.

Caught up in this "you ARE the government" myth, people are virtually reduced to making use of the vote, the ballot, as their only form of protest — not realizing, of course, that their vote and their very participation in the process, they are sanctioning the idea of the Divine Right of Kings in the form of the Almighty State and, thereby, helping to perpetuate the very system that is oppressing them.

Aside from the demonstrable fact that elected "representatives" go their own merry way once their assumption of power has been confirmed, as appointed bureaucrats go theirs' no matter what the outcome of the elective process, an indication of the contempt with which the democratic process is looked upon by those holding and exercising governmental powers can be gained by asking a few pertinent questions. For example:

When were "the people," who, supposedly, ARE the government, ever allowed to vote on the question of war or peace?

When were "the people" ever permitted to cast their votes on whether their sons, husbands, brothers and sweethearts were to be drafted or not?

When were "the people" ever allowed to indulge in the democratic process on whether taxes (not just some taxes, or some particular form and degree of taxation, but taxes per se) were to be abolished or not?

And, finally, when was the question, and continued existence of political government itself last put to the test of democratic vote?

But still the myth of the Divine Right of Kings, in the form of the Almighty State, sanctioned and sanctified by popular referendum, hangs on. One particularly persistent manifestation of the continuing strength of the myth often surfaces in the form of an argument when some persons let it be known that they refrain from indulging in the political voting process. The argument goes something like this:

"If you fail to vote against a proposal which you oppose, your non-vote is, in effect, a vote FOR the proposal."

And, at first blush, the argument (or, rather, the cliché) sounds like applied logic; until, that is, one asks oneself the $64 question, which may be put thusly:

"Should the way individual people live their own lives and spend the fruits of their own productive labors (which is what politics is all about) be decided by process of majority vote or be left to the individual, to whom that life and those fruits belong, to decide for himself?"

In this connection, we rather like the counter-argument: For good men to do nothing is not evil; for good men to use the state to propagate an idea, is with which the democratic

CAUSES OF VIOLENCE?

Soon after the tragic assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, President Johnson appointed the "National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence." Now, a recently issued report by the commission's staff has alarmed those who are genuinely concerned with the "causes and prevention of violence."

The staff report stated: "American society urgently requires fundamental social and political change, not more firepower in official hands." The significance of this statement is made clear by other assertions in the report.

The report denies that subversives play a major role in the outbreaks of violence throughout the country. Yet there is substantial evidence that communists and communist-front groups have been actively engaged in the riots. For example, leaders of the Students for a Democratic Society, who openly idolize Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh, have fomented much of the violence on college and university campuses.

The report contends that little violence has accompanied mass demonstrations in the country and that any violence has usually been provoked by the police. The 99 policemen who were injured in the recent Berkeley "demonstrations" before any force was used against demonstrators would surely disagree with this statement.

The report charges that the police, not the rioters, should be controlled. The authors of this report have obviously forgotten that civilization can't survive without order, which exists only if the law is enforced.

The commission should reject this report and listen instead to those who point out the aged truth that only sound values and absolute fundamental principles can preserve a society from widespread violence and ultimate chaos.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Is our government our enemy? If so, how?

ANSWER: The government would not be our enemy if it followed the spirit of the Constitution which was the Declaration of Independence, that the governments derive their just power, from the consent of the governed. All men are created with the equal right to try to live and to get more liberty and to pursue happiness. If the government followed these principles, it would not be our enemy. But when it starts to violate these principles, it becomes a plunderer of what man produces and it does become our enemy.

Taking from one by force to give to another is plunder. No individual has the right to do it. When the government does it and claims to be doing right it is using a double standard of right and a double standard of right is no standard at all.

We have been adopting step by step the idea that the state has the right to do things that no individual has a moral or just right to do. To that degree, our government is our enemy.

BRANCH HEAD BILL:

Somebody Pays Their Keep

By BILL KENNEDY

We had the opportunity recently — or the sad experience — to drive and stroll through the hippie, beatnik, bumfuck section of one of our big cities. And a "section" is what it is. They just moved in and took over a few blocks and proceeded to settle into their co-ed pads, or piggins or whatever you want to call their dwelling places. I'd choose the latter, except that I have a great respect for pigs.

(Let somebody get the mistaken idea this is a "racist" piece, I should explain that most of the ones I saw in this particular "ghetto" were white.)

No need trying to describe it. You wouldn't believe it without seeing it anyway. All the dirty heads and faces; the dirty underwear — and lack of it — showing; the rusty bare feet; the dirty rags they wore for clothes and head bands; the gaudy beads and jewelry on females, males and "its"; the sheet-white faces and the smogs of "pot" and naked mattresses on the floors. Like I said, you wouldn't believe it without seeing it.

But it is there, not only in this city, but in most. I used to know some genuine gypsies —

Editor: I want to compliment you on your editorial in last Friday's News regarding the agricultural situation and also on the front page story in the Sunday issue regarding the visit of Bob Price and his group in the Panhandle.

I think the tremendous development in agricultural production with accompanying development of related industries during the last few years is the most important thing that has happened in the Panhandle area since oil and gas were discovered — and possibly more important than that — and the more favorable publicity we can have on this subject including plans for water development, the better off this entire area will be.

Editor: Once again the American breeze is filled with laughter of men, women and children. All are well pleased with the suffering of God's animals at sporting machines for the thoughtless.

Still there is much that can be said for and against rodeo as a sport.

But the case for compassion, mercy and clemency can be summed up in one very short sentence. "Like all other schools of legalized cruelty rodeo has millions of defenders, but no defense."

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Sensitivity to Sunburn Increased by Drug Use

Everyone who tries to avoid sunburn is not aware that some drugs, when used regularly, may increase the sensitivity of the skin to sunlight. This photosensitivity has been classified as either phototoxic or photoallergic. This first may be induced by the tranquilizer, Thorazine; the antibiotics, Declomycin and Declostin; and the sulfa drugs. Persons taking these drugs are in no danger if the sunlight strikes them through window glass. When lesions do occur, they resemble sunburn and may result in blistering and peeling.

Photoallergic reactions may be induced by the diuretics, Anhydron, Dramox, Diuril, Esidrex, Exna, Hydrodiuril, Hydroxymox, Hygroton, Naqua, Natyretin, Oretic, Renese and Saluron; the fungicides, Fulvicin, Gribulvin, Grisactin and Griseofulvin; the antihistamines, Mephergan, Phenergan and Synalgos; the antidiabetic agents, Diabinese and Orinase; miscellaneous drugs, such as Cardenz, Chenatal, Neocylene, Neocyten, Pabalate, Pabrin and P-B-Sal; and the externally applied antiseptic, Impregon.

Persons taking these drugs may get an allergic reaction (sneezing or hives) when they are exposed to sunlight or even diffuse daylight and, in extreme cases, artificial light. The sensitivity usually clears up within a few days after the use of the drug has been stopped but, for those who must take these drugs, special care to avoid exposing the skin to bright light must be exercised.

Q — I gag after every meal. What causes this? A Nalcedon jabber before breakfast helps a little. Should I keep taking this drug indefinitely?

A — In gagging, forcible contractions of the stomach diaphragm and abdominal muscles stop just short of vomiting. In the morning, this is usually caused by thick mucus in the back of the throat that is hard to dislodge. It may also be caused by a nasal polyp and is often associated with chronic sinusitis with its accompanying postnasal drip.

Nalcedon is a combination of several drugs for the relief of nasal congestion. It may cause slight drowsiness and should not be taken by anyone with high blood pressure, an overactive thyroid, diabetes or heart disease. Perhaps if you first get a glass of water when you first get up and avoid very dry indoor air, you will find less need to use this drug.

Wider Base Seen Vital To Survival Of Saigon

By BRUCE BOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The National Liberation Front and President Thieu's Saigon government are locked in a major political stalemate in South Vietnam which is no less significant than the bloody impasse on the battlefields.

The NLF's formation of a provisional government was, among other things, an acknowledgement that the fronts political struggle for the vital allegiance of larger and larger numbers of South Vietnamese was not going well.

The provisional government, embracing also the secondary Alliance of National Democratic and Peace Forces, is a new net intended to draw in wavering or uncommitted elements of South Vietnamese society and suggest to America and the world — at heavy cost to Saigon — the advancing "legitimacy" of the Viet Cong. Of the record of the NLF and the Alliance (formed in early 1968 for the same purpose, though on a less pretentious scale) the new political mechanism probably will not succeed.

But, by the same token, the Saigon Government is not widening its popular base, either. Worse still, it is not trying. In fact, rather than welcoming new, diverse, and often healthy opposing elements, Thieu and other leaders have discouraged them. In critical instances, they have repressed them.

There is nothing really startling in this, of course, since Saigon governments from the time of the 1954 Geneva accords have been characteristically inhospitable to new elements they perceived as potentially threatening to their power.

If, as now seems likely, the American military role in Vietnam is hereafter destined to diminish at a fairly steady pace, Saigon will obviously need all the home-based support it can get to survive more or less on its own. And it will need sympathy abroad which, as a basically repressive regime for all its new constitutional forms, it does not enjoy today.

A following report will examine the important reasons why, over the years, Saigon has usually spurned moves toward a widened base or has simply blown opportunities toward that end.

It has been saved from itself, sometimes too thoroughly, by great American military presence and the persistent inability of the NLF, the Viet Cong and related groups to make the enduring political alliances they need in South Vietnam.

Estimates by allegedly detached observers in Saigon suggest that the NLF and its "provisional government" today command no more than 15 per cent of the South Vietnamese population as either hardcore or sympathetic supporters.

Hardcore strength is figured at around 750,000, but this includes some 300,000 Viet Cong and civilian members of the NLF.

Should these figures be even just roughly accurate, Hanoi's present reluctance to sanction early elections in South Vietnam is understandable.

In the elections proposed for July, 1956, by the Geneva pact (but never held), it was broadly assumed that both North and South Vietnam would vote — on the general subject of reunification — and that the then more populous Communist North would engulf the rival South.

No such prospect is currently envisioned. An election this time would be limited to the South, and to the choosing of a government for Saigon under the terms of a new military and political settlement.

However firm Hanoi stands against such a test today, its leaders know they will have to pay some price for the withdrawal of major U.S. forces from Vietnam. Internationally supervised elections are the obvious American bargaining weapon.

It is perhaps this recognition which puts urgency in the NLF's new quest for a greater hold on the South Vietnamese people. Yet, beyond the "provisional government" gambit, Hanoi may very well be fresh out of compelling popular appeals.

Peking Sends Trouble Shooter To Help Hanoi

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It has scarcely been mentioned here publicly that Mao Tse-tung has sent the notorious Wang Yung as ambassador to North Vietnam.

But Wang's new activities are being monitored closely in the United States and by our allies in Thailand, Laos and Cambodia.

In the 1940s, when this reporter was in China, Wang was political commissar of the Red Chinese armies in Yunnan on the Thai and Lao borders. He was top-flight man on underground political organization and infiltration. Thailand, Laos and Cambodia were his specialties.

Wang was considered especially proficient in working back, the Communist Chinese and North Vietnamese had already begun joint underground political and military guerrilla operations in the area.

The major recruits were among those very tribal groups in which Wang is most expert. The officers and non-commissioned officers, however, were local tribesmen. They were largely Lao and North Vietnamese under the leadership of Chinese from Yunnan, where Wang formerly operated.

News reports of the past few months have emphasized the effort the Chinese are putting into developing roads from the southern Chinese border into Laos leading toward key points on the Thai borders. These reports have coincided with reports of increased infiltration of agents from North Vietnam, Laos and China into Thailand and the returning to Thailand of young men trained by Communist centers in neighboring countries.

One of this reporter's contacts years ago was a high officer in Ho Chi Minh's Laos occupation forces well aware of Wang's activities. He's convinced Wang's appointment is a prelude to expanding Peking-Hanoi operations in Thailand.

WORLD ALMANAC OF FACTS

Although LeBlanc, Brahm, Brunel and North used a system of interchangeable parts for rifles prior to Eli Whitney, it was the latter who achieved widespread acceptance for the idea. The World Almanac says. Unable to make a living by his cotton gin, Whitney won a government contract for making 10,000 rifles the same parts of which would be as much alike as "the successive impressions of a copperplate engraving."

Your Horoscope JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, JULY 26
 our birthday Saturday: Your own special instincts guide your life this year. Many times you will be surprised to find yourself following different, more conservative behavior. This is the time to establish or consolidate your base of operations. Romantic interests tend to be serious now. Saturday's natives are sensitive to flaws in home situations but circumspect about doing anything.

RIES (March 21-April 19): Saturday has to be played as it comes; from the first incident, schedules are done away with. Rivals act in mischievous ways, and you must be free to react.

AURUS (April 20-May 20): Personal plans are delayed while everyone concerned has his say on what is to be done. Travel, particularly by automobile, is not favored. . .

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Saturday's decisions will have to be revised. It is easier to keep matters simple from the start. Try to stay a distance from the problems of close relatives. Discretion is the keyword in travel and business.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You will find that many relationships fade now, while others close with dramatic emphasis. Your life becomes less cluttered.

L.E.O. (July 23-Aug. 22): What you had thought was a compliment turns out not to be one at all. Keep a straight face and go on. Personal treasures, whether from the attic or current hobbies, are not for public display Saturday. Children are apt to be noisy, aggressive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Nobody wants to do any of the things you had planned; be patient, wait until they work around in a circle and come back to the starting point.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Advice from outsiders Saturday tends to be destructive to your home situation. Expect some rise in the cost of everything.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your employment conditions tend to change Saturday. Many of the old routines are on their way out, permanently; new technology is coming in. Look over your home for its value and condition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Do not expect enthusiasm from others now. Where you see direct action must be taken, do it and get it done.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There is no point in pursuing a line of questioning — the person just doesn't want to divulge the details and that's as far as you will get.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Considerable quarrelling Saturday between people who care for each other. When outsiders involve themselves, the difficulty begins.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Calm down, and compromise when your loved ones begin tantrums. Any moment of embarrassment passes quickly if you will just go on.

Betty Canary U.S. Public Image

If more than two people get together any more, the conversation turns to those U. S. citizens who have emigrated to Canada. Not the young men who find serving in the Army to be against their principles. We're talking about the solid-citizen, money-in-the-bank sort of people who have been quoted recently as saying, among other things, that they no longer find this a free country, a place where they, in good conscience can live.

Personally, I wish the emigrants Godspeed and a happy life in the North. But, I do believe they are just a bit premature in writing off this country.

Even after this past discordant decade, I can't see the American public image as all bad.

We keep hearing about the Naive American and the Ugly American and the Fast-Buck American. Then, of course, there's the Patronizing American. I suppose I've met at least one representative of each group but I'm not yet ready to say the American Dream has turned into a nightmare.

Actually, I've always believed having room for these types — plus a few thousand more — was what the United States is all about.

Besides, none of them is a Typical American. Neither is the one referred to as a money-grubber or the one called "vicious industrialist" or even the flag-waver. The picture drawn of the wife-swapping, alcoholic, pseudosophisticated is hardly that of the Typical American. We aren't all racists, neither are we revolutionaries. The T. A. simply cannot be struck from any one mold.

The one thing we seem to have in common is a penchant for name-calling. If there is a characteristic trait, it might well be the belief that each person knows best what is good for the country.

The results are confusion and turmoil at times but there is also awareness of our faults and a determination to correct them. Some of our mistakes have surely been appalling and we have apologized by taking action to eliminate them. Some mistakes have been amusing and we could afford to laugh at ourselves.

To those who tell me we're on the eve of destruction, I answer that the shake-up in national morals we've had indicates the dawn of a new era.

To those who tell me they're on their way to Canada, I can only say I've found that country a terrific place to visit, but I'd much rather live here.

Ribbons and headbands—even wide belts and ties—now can be kept organized and free of wrinkles. These fashion musts are hard to store but a handy chrome plated gadget which hangs over any closet door solves the problem. Twenty-four prongs are two-inches wide—large enough to keep everything neat and visible.

A thought for the day: Roman poet Quintus Ennius once said, "No one regards what is before his feet; we all gaze at the stars."

POLLY'S POINTERS Lengthening Shirt Tails Creates No Problems

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. R. M. that I have been lengthening my husband's shirt tails for years. Cut 10 inches off the bottom of an old shirt of the same color. Measure the front edge, tear to the seam, cut through it and tear again. Lay the shirt to be lengthened out flat, place and pin the piece to be added on the under side of the shirt edge. Sew close to the edge along the bottom. I sew across twice, with both rows fairly close together. Turn to the wrong side and cut, leaving about one-half inch. You do not need to remove the original shirt hem and the piece added already has a hem and slits in it. Shirt tails seldom show any wear and this is easy to do. The piece should measure about four inches longer when finished than the original shirt tail and this splice will not show above the belt as it only helps to hold the shirt down.

only about six inches long at the most. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I made the shirt tails longer on three of my husband's sport shirts and they worked fine. His shirts were plaid, so I used the predominate plain color for the added tails, which were six-inch pieces added to the bottoms of the shirts, sewed flat to the underside and with the shirt hem left in. Three-inch slits were made at the sides so they do not fit too tight and the added tail stays down and does not show.

HD Agent Gives Ways To Deter Crooked Salesmen

Crooked sales pitches via the telephone are on the rise. They trap people into buying things they don't need or into seeing salesmen they don't want to see. Tricks include free gifts, phone surveys and get-rich-quick schemes.

Jimmie Lou Wainscott, Gray County Home Demonstration agent, gives these tips which may warn you of phonies. The caller gives no identification. He says he is making a survey and requests a personal interview.

"He assures you he is not selling anything—just wants to interview you as part of an advertising campaign. . . He describes a 'special offer' that your common sense tells you is too good to be true; or . . . He reels off prices, costs, offers and questions so fast that you cannot follow what he is telling you," she said.

Miss Wainscott says the Better Business Bureau suggests replying: "Please send me a letter about the matter. I'll consider your offer after I've had a chance to investigate. Thank you for calling. Good-bye."

This way you discourage a gyp artist while not cutting yourself off from someone whose business is perfectly legitimate.

Basic Suit Requests Fill Knitter's Mail

By JUDY LOVE

If the weight of the morning's mail bag is any indication, knitters pick up their pens when they give their needles a rest. Many are asking for specific styles to knit, and recent letters show a preference for a good, basic suit—simple and smart.

The answer for most of you will be the three-piece handknit I'm featuring today. It has a sleek and easy skirt with a classic cardigan jacket. The suit is a modified version of the ever-popular Chanel styling with its clean lines and narrow border trim. As an added attraction, the suit includes a sleeveless, square neck shell knitted in a three-color stripe. You'll want to wear it with other knitted or fabric skirts, too.

Knit the costume in colors to suit your favorite season. Instructions are available for sizes 10 to 18.

For your copy of an instruction leaflet for the three-piece suit, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for leaflet S172 and be sure to include your name, address and zip code.

Knit Knacks

Dear JUDY LOVE: In a recent column you answered a question concerning cardigans that "ride up" in the back. You advised using short rows. My question is, how to solve the problem of riding up when making straight neck yarn-over raglan cardigans?

—H.B.

DEAR H.B.: When yarnover raglan cardigans ride up in back, the real problem usually is in the front shaping. These cardigans often are somewhat less than roomy at the bustline, causing the back to pull up.

To solve the problem, you can work short rows, but do them in the front of your work. Start about one inch below the armhole at the point where a dart would be placed in sewn work.

This should give you a little more fullness in front, allowing the shoulder line to fall in proper place. The back of your garment will then stay smoothly in place.

The number of short rows to knit will depend on the particular style and pattern you are working. It's a little tricky, and I'd suggest that you take your garment and knitting directions to the instructor where you buy your yarn—for first-hand help. She should be able to show you exactly where to work the short rows and the number to work.

Wild patchwork furs will make the scene come fall and winter. Oscar de La Renta, designing for Oliver Gintel, offers one made of felt patches colored purple, yellow, green, black and fuchsia. Another designer made a skirt of multi-color patches of rabbit fur.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a Taurus (born April 24) and I am very much in love with a Scorpio (born Oct. 26).

First, let me explain that before I knew anything about the zodiac, I foolishly married a Sagittarius, so our marriage was doomed from the start.

My Scorpio married an Aries (an impossible union). They would have made excellent business partners, but their temperaments were all wrong for marriage.

Anyway, my Scorpio has left his Aries, but I can't get rid of my Sagittarius. I'd divorce him but I have no grounds, and he won't divorce me, although he has all the grounds he needs.

My horoscope says I should make no important decisions of the heart until after the first of next year but I just can't see spending another Christmas with this miserable man.

My lawyer says that he (my husband) should be the one to move out, but my husband says he is happy here and if I'm unhappy I should do the moving. There is a lot at stake (financially) and I don't want to spoil everything. Can you help me?

TAURUS

DEAR TAURUS: Being a "Moon Child" myself (July 4) I hesitate to meddle in areas about which I know nothing. Namely, law and the zodiac. Take your cues from your lawyer, lady, and quit stargazing.

DEAR ABBY: I need an unbiased opinion on something. I drove over to my husband's office one night. He has a bedroom there for when he stays in town. Much to my surprise his ex-wife was there! They were in the bedroom with the lights off and the door locked.

He claims they were only "talking." He said the lights were off because he hates her so much he couldn't stand to look at her face.

There is a desk and two chairs for conversation so it wasn't necessary for them to be in the bedroom.

First, would you believe they were only talking? Second, would there be a reasonable doubt in your mind?

ROSITA

DEAR ROSITA: First, no! Second, all!

DEAR ABBY: I am about to lose my mind. My father is 73 years old, retired, has no financial worries, and he lives alone in a very nice, modern home. My problem is in getting someone to keep house for him. They quit him one after another. The last one (a very unattractive, common woman in her middle sixties) was an excellent housekeeper, and I paid her double what she could get anywhere else, and she quit after one week!

When I asked her why, she said she'd rather not say, but she did agree to clean for him daily if I would come over and stay in the house with her, or if my father would get out of the house, but she wouldn't stay alone in the house with him.

Now, Abby, I cannot imagine my father making improper advances to her, or any of these other housekeepers, but what else am I to think?

What would you do if you were in my shoes?

HIS DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: I would get my father to a doctor for an examination from the neck, both ways and try to determine the condition of his mind. And in the meantime, I would try to line up a male domestic.

National League Roundup

Sun Helps Cubs Up League Lead

By United Press International
The sun, which Chicago Cubs star Ernie Banks calls "the greatest light in the world," played an important role Thursday in the Giants' 5-3 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The score was 1-1 with two out in the bottom of the sixth when Don Sutton of the Dodgers walked Billy Williams and gave up a single to Ron Santo. A wild pitch moved the runners up and Banks walked leading the bases and bringing up Al Spangler.

Spangler, a lefthanded hitter, lofted a high fly to short right field which appeared to be the third out, but rightfielder Andy Kosco lost the ball in the sun, and it fell for a two-run double. Randy Hundley followed with a two-run single, and the Cubs took command.

In other National League action, Cincinnati edged New York, 4-3, in 12 innings, Atlanta outslogged Montreal, 9-6, St. Louis edged San Francisco, 2-1, Pittsburgh topped San Diego, 4-3, in 10 innings and Houston defeated Philadelphia, 7-3.

Tony Perez' 23rd homer of the year in the 12th inning provided the Reds with their margin over the Mets. Bobby Toland and starting pitcher Jim Merritt also homered for Cincinnati while Cleon Jones and Donn Clendenon hit homers for New York.

Hank Aaron's 535th career homer in the seventh inning broke a 5-5 tie and sparked the Braves' come-from-behind victory. Aaron's homer came with a man aboard and moved him into fourth place on the all-time home run list, ahead of Jimmy Foxx and one behind Mickey Mantle.

Pitcher Nelson Briles won his own game with a run-scoring single in the seventh inning as the Cardinals nipped the Giants. Briles singled home

Julian Javier with two out to beat Juan Marichal and notch his 10th victory of the year.

Matty Alou doubled with one out in the 10th and scored on a single by Carl Taylor for the winning run in the Pirates' triumph. Alou had let the Padres tie the game in the eighth when he committed a two-base error in centerfield. Willie Stargell and Richie Hebner each homered for the Pirates.

Denis Merke drove in four runs with a bases loaded triple and a run-scoring single to pace the Astros' victory. Don Wilson went the distance for Houston to record his 11th victory against seven losses.

Richie Allen, making his first appearance with the Phillies since June 24, had a double and a single in four at bats while Johnny Callison belted a homer for the losers.

Sam Sheds Yips To Take Lead In Canadian

MONTREAL (UPI) — Sam Snead is 57, old enough to have the "yips," the putting-stroke ailment that makes foot-long putts feel like long twisters, and can put a middle-aged golfer out of the tournament scene before his time.

Sam has had the "yips," but it looks like he has them beaten. He had seven one-putts greens and never needed more than two putts as he shot a five-under-par 67 for a one-stroke-first round lead in the

SAM SNEAD ... takes lead

Canadian Open which started here Thursday. Sam has one stroke over Chick Evans, 31, who says he has never won anything of note before, and won $9,000 in 1968, his first year on the pro tour.

Evans, who put on a strong finishing rush for a second-nine 33 to give him his 68, is from Northbridge, Mass.

Seven golfers are bunched at 69, including Roberto de Vicenzo and Tony Jacklin, the recent British Open winner.

They are followed by eight grouped at two-under-par 70, and 15 at 71, including Doug Sanders, Tommy Aaron, who eagled the par-5, 466-yard 18th, and defending Canadian Open champ Eob Charles.

Billy Casper, at 72, had a "very cold putter" which hurts his game.

Pinegrove, measuring 36-36-72 for the 65th Canadian Open, is no monster, but it does play 7,031 yards for the tournament. Of the 152 starters, the low 70 and ties will go on over the weekend for the $125,000 purse, with $25,000 to the winner.

Lolich Takes Mad Out On Kansas City

CARL YASTRZEMSKI ... helps Boston

By United Press International
The way he fired the ball Thursday night, Mickey Lolich may very well have seen only teammate Denny McLain at the plate.

More the pity for the mismatched Kansas City Royals as they were made the sacrificial victims of Lolich's ire. The Detroit southpaw took time out from his squabble with McLain to whiff 13 Kansas City batsmen and allow them only four hits in the Tigers' 2-1 victory.

Earlier in the day Lolich teed off on his fellow pitcher, saying, "McLain doesn't think about his friends or his teammates. All he thinks about is himself." Lolich proceeded to explain that Denny had left him and his wife stranded in Washington following Wednesday's All-Star Game when McLain, a flying enthusiast, changed his destination from Detroit to somewhere in the South.

"When I asked him how we were supposed to get back to Detroit," Lolich continued, "all he said was, 'That's tough. That's your problem.'"

Detroit In Second Place
The triumph boosted Detroit into second place in the American League's Eastern Division as Boston dropped to third following an 8-6 loss to Seattle. The Baltimore Orioles maintained an 11 1/2 game advantage over the Tigers by beating the Chicago White Sox, 5-2, and in other games Oakland edged Washington, 2-1, the New York Yankees turned back the California Angels, 3-1, and the Cleveland Indians squeaked past the Minnesota Twins, 6-5.

Boog Powell's 25th homer with a man on base capped a three-run Baltimore uprising in the seventh inning that snapped a 2-2 tie. Mike Ceular, with eight-inning relief from Eddie Watt, boosted his record to 11-0 while Tommy John took his ninth loss for Chicago.

Gerry McNertney's three-run double highlighted a five-run third-inning for Seattle as the Pilots raced to an early 7-0 lead. Carl Yastrzemski drove in four runs for Boston with a pair of two-run singles but John O'Donoghue retired the Red Sox without a hit over the final 2 1/3 innings to save Gene Brabender's eighth triumph in 15 decisions.

Jackson Walks
Oakland scored its winning run with two out in the eighth when Reggie Jackson worked loser Joe Coleman for a walk.

went to second on a wild pitch and came home as Sal Bando's looper fell into short centerfield for a single.

Joe Pepitone, playing for the first time in five games after suffering a wrist injury, hit a two-run double in the third inning when the Yankees scored all three of their runs against California.

Berring, Mann Share Lead

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (UPI)—You've got to have heart to be a success on the ladies pro golf tour.

Carol Mann, the second leading money winner on the tour, had heart Thursday in the first round of the Ladies Professional Golfers Association 72-hole championship.

The cool weather following a day of rain caused Miss Mann to come up with a muscle spasm in her right shoulder with five holes to go. However, she parred the last five holes to come in with a three-under-70 to share the first-round lead with Susie Berring of North Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Betsy Ravis of Spartanburg, S.C. had a lot of heart too. She last won the LPGA championship in 1959 but had nines of 37-34, one stroke off the lead. The 34 was three under par. "It was the best round I've had this year," said the 18-year veteran of the tour.

Kathy Whitworth, leading money winner on the tour, had a one-under-par 72 for the 18-hole test. She ran into trouble on the treacherous back nine when she bogied the 13th, 14th and 15th holes. "Then I settled down a little," she said.

They were the only four women to break par in a field of 63—a record for an LPGA championship. The purse of $35,000 is also a record.

Pampa Babe Ruth Stars Hit State Finals

GRAHAM — The Major League's Dick Radtitz has nothing on Pampa Babe Ruth pitcher Gray Haynes.

Radtitz, considered one of the top relief pitchers in the majors, couldn't have done a better job than Haynes did Thursday night for his Pampa mates.

Haynes, now 3-1, in playoff competition, came on in the fifth inning with the score tied, 3-3 and a runner on first with nobody out.

The 15-year-old pitcher then retired the next 14 of 15 batters he faced, striking out nine in four and two-thirds inning of relief.

Pampa batters broke a 3-3 tie with three runs in the top of the ninth and a 6-3 victory over Levelland eliminating them from tournament competition.

Pampa meets unbeaten South San Antonio at 6:20 today in what they hope will be the first game of a doubleheader.

The local stars hit the finals from the losers bracket and must beat San Antonio twice tonight for the state tournament. Haynes, who lost to San Antonio Tuesday night in relief, has now given up just two runs, only one earned one, in 22 and two-thirds innings of work in the playoffs.

The Pampa pitcher relieved starter Mike Edgar, who was touched for three runs on five hits. None of the runs, all coming across in the third, was earned.

Two errors and three hits tied the score at 3-3 in the third and Pampa was forced to go the two extra innings for the victory.

Levelland's Darrel Weaver handcuffed Pampa after a shaky start and went the distance, giving up 10 hits and striking out 11 Pampa batters.

Randy Bloomer opened the Pampa ninth with his second single of the night and after Mike Redell was called out for stepping out of the batters box on an attempted bunt, Haynes walked.

Dale Ammons was safe on a fielder's choice with Bloomer going to third and itaynes was out at second of the second out.

But Greg Shultz, Pampa's leading hitter, slapped his second hit of the night to plate Bloomer and Al Ferguson, who leads the club in runs batted in, got his third hit, a double, to plate Ammons and Shultz.

Pampa got off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Shultz and Ferguson hit back-to-back singles and after the next two batters went down, Jeff Hogan singled home Shultz and Bloomer followed him with a run-scoring single.

Pampa added another run in the third when Ferguson walked and scored all the way from first on Edgar's single.

Levelland's runs came in the wild third inning.

END OF THE RIDE — This cowboy had his share of bad luck during the Thursday night action of the Top O' Texas Rodeo. His bareback riding bronc went to its knees halfway through his ride, burying its head in the arena floor, and throwing the cowboy off over the front of the horse.

Goodspeed Wins At Cheyenne

A crowd of about 8,000 watched Thursday's events when home-state favorite Bill Smith of Cody stormed into the lead in saddle bronc riding with a 69 point performance. The lead had been held by Mel Hyland of Port Kells, B. C., with 66 points.
