PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Man got his first close look at the dazzling white south polar cap of Mars Tuesday night in television photos taken by Mariner 7 as it flashed by 3,000 miles away.

In some pictures it seemed to spill over into surrounding dark craters, and in others it had the appearance of a hazy cloud.

"Fascinating," said Dr. Robert P. Sharp, a geologist with the Mariner project. Although "snowy" seemed the most apt description of the polar cap, scientists leaned toward the theory it is composed of frozen carbon dioxide, dry ice, and perhaps is only one yard thick.

One of the objectives of Mariner 7 was to find out if it is dry ice or water ice. If it is composed of water, deemed unlikely, the possibility some form of life could exist or has existed on Mars would be significantly increased. The answer may come at a special briefing Thursday when scientists have had a chance to examine readings from the instruments aboard Mariner 7.

The 32 "near encounter" pictures displayed Tuesday night were snapped by Mariner 7 Monday night as it streaked by the southern hemisphere of Mars.

They were stored in the spacecraft's tape recorder, played back to earth Tuesday and run through a computer to bring out the Martian features before being shown.

Romanian Leader Says His Army Ready To Defend Nation

BUCHAREST (UPI)—Nicolae Ceausescu, the Romanian leader who angered his Communist allies with his warm welcome to President Nixon, said today his people and his army are ready to defend their nation in case of war.

people, to serve independent socialist Romania. Ceausescu said any threat would come from "imperialism." But he did not say which imperialists he meant and, in light of his recent calls for better relations with America, his strictures appeared in a different context from that of similar statements by leaders of other Communist nations. Ceausescu is both Romania's president and first secretary of its Communist party. His independent foreign policy, climaxed by the visit here last weekend of President Nixon, has visibly upset Russia and other Communist nations—so much so that none sent one of its top leaders to the congress.

Controversial Water Bond Trails By 5,331

DALLAS (UPI) — Texans gave surprising and overwhelming support to a raise in welfare spending, then settled into an economy mood. The $3.5 billion long-range Texas Water Plan to irrigate the state's drylands into the next century trailed today by 5,331 votes.

With about 97 per cent of the vote counted, the Texas Election Bureau said the controversial water bond plan trailed by 310,212 to 304,881. Officials gave the proposed amendment little chance of success. If it were defeated, the water plan would be the fifth among nine proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution to be defeated.

The other seven proposed changes in the Texas Constitution were defeated locally by an overwhelming majority.

Election clerks were not kept long after the polls closed at 7 p.m. counting the 1,500 total votes cast in the county's 14 precincts.

Mercury Climbs Into Upper 90s

Partly cloudy, skies are not enough to cool Pampans much today as the mercury was expected to climb again into the upper 90s.

There will probably be no repeat of last night's remarkably lucid skies with a chance for showers predicted for the Panhandle and coastal plains of Texas tonight.

The prediction is a 20 per cent chance for precipitation. The winds are from the south at 10-20 mph. The low tonight should approach last night's 71. Thursday's high should be in the upper 90s.

Temperatures around the state Tuesday remained hot but were several degrees lower than usual. Early morning temperatures ranged in the 70s and 80s.

Bonds of $500 on each count of aggravated assault of an officer and driving while intoxicated was set by Gray County Judge Sherman Lenning, Jr. today for Gene Stanley Groves, 19, 429 Carr.

Groves was taken to Highland General Hospital early this morning following a fight with Pampa police officer T. J. Hill and was expected to be released about noon today, according to a hospital spokesman.

According to Hill's police report Groves struck him in the head at police headquarters following his arrest for driving while intoxicated. The report says Groves struck Hill twice on the head and once in the face and that he (Hill) and Lt. John Thomas had to render Groves unconscious to subdue him.

Hill said he was checking Groves personal belongings when the fight erupted.

Nurses Receive Silent Reward Of Profession

The silent rewards of the nursing profession were illustrated for graduates of Highland General Hospital School of Vocational Nursing in commencement exercises held Tuesday night in First Christian Church.

Guest speaker, Rev. Carlton Downing, told the story of a young boy, whose eyesight was restored by surgery. In appreciation he gave his favorite toy, a battered teddy bear, "Sweetie Pie," who had accompanied him to surgery, to the surgeon.

The teddy bear now occupies a place of honor, among other recognitions the surgeon has received throughout his life.

Rev. Downing said it is a matter of what kind of emphasis is placed on rewards that determine their value.

Two of the 13 graduates were singled out for special honor. Nelda Lou Wall was class valedictorian with a grade point average of 93.75. Bonnie Lee Alsup was salutatorian with a grade point average of 92.40.

Director of Nurses Vermell Meador introduced the class to the hospital board president, Gordon Lyons, who presented diplomas.

Presentation of school pins was made by the class instructor Mrs. Bessie Franklin, R.N., with Mrs. Wanda Heath LVN conducting the lamp lighting service.

Mrs. Sue King provided professional and recreational music and served as accompanist for soloist, Gail Craddock.

Receiving diplomas were Bonnie Lee Alsup, Mary Elizabeth Altom, Myrtle Brock, Martha Aileen Childers, Cynthia Davenport, Josephine Davenport, Carol Ann Hunter, Coela Elizabeth Martin, Zora Pearl Moore, Pauline Newman, Donna Verdene Searl, Nelda Lou Wall, and Evelyn Maxine White.

A new class of students in the LVN program will start Aug. 25 with 16 enrolled in the 12-months program.

Welfare

cessfully combated by Gov. Preston Smith and other supporters of the proposal.

Bob Johnson, manager of the Texas Election Bureau, would not project a final vote nor would he declare the plan was defeated. This reluctance indicates there was still a mathematical chance the plan would pass.

In last year's general election, one amendment that originally was thought to have failed, was declared to have passed several weeks after the election when all the final returns trickled in to the election bureau.

The nine proposed amendments generated more interest than most "experts" predicted. About 250,000 more persons went to the polls than expected.

The welfare spending amendment had a much easier time of it than was predicted with 409,622 persons voting for it and 221,359.

The welfare amendment, No. 5 on the ballot, was considered along with the Water Plan to be the most controversial of the nine. Voters went against a similar proposal in the November elections.

It was somewhat of a surprise, therefore, that amendment No. 5 received more votes for than any of the other nine. State legislators for the second time in two years were denied a raise. Latest returns showed the amendment going down by close to a 2-1 margin as 384,592 did not want legislators to set their own salaries while only 197,438 were for the plan.

"I think the results of the defeat will be that it is going to become virtually impossible for people to receive the kind of service they should have from representatives and senators," said Sen. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, the sponsor of the amendment.

If it passed, the legislators would have received an immediate $2,000 a year raise.

In an apparent economy move, voters also rejected proposals to hold annual legislative session (No. 9) and to remove the interest ceiling (No. 6) from bonds issued by state agencies.

The annual legislative sessions proposal went to defeat with 319,141 going against and 254,550 voting for. The legislature now meets in regular session for 140 days in odd-numbered years.

Campus To Double As Parking Lot

A paved, all-weather campus area, located just south and adjacent to Pampa Junior High School in downtown Pampa, is now available to motorists for free, all-day parking.

The public parking arrangement is effective during the summer months. When school convenes, it will be available on weekends and holidays.

School Supt. Dr. James F. Malone said no arrangements had been worked out regarding after-school hours parking.

Earlier this year, the Downtown Business Association requested school trustees to open the campus to the public when not in use for school activities. In exchange the DBA agreed to pay $3,000 of the total $14,000 construction cost.

Kirk Dupcan, DBA president, said the sum would be made in two payments, $1,500 this year and $1,500 in 1970.

Duncan said future plans call for angle-on-street parking on the south side of the campus area. Construction plans have not started on this particular phase.

Converting the junior high school grounds from a dusty area into a paved campus is part of a $24,000 paving package approved by Pampans in the April 1 $900,000 School Bond Election.

SDS's 'Work In' Fails To Work Out

NEW YORK (NEA). — A couple of months ago the nation's business community was shaken with warnings that dissident students planned to infiltrate the summer labor market and raise all kinds of revolutionary hell.

The scheme, called a "work-in," was traced to a pamphlet prepared by Chicago members of the Students for a Democratic Society. In it, youths were urged to take jobs, befriend employees — and, when possible, agitate rebellion.

Both the FBI and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce issued worried statements. Businessmen everywhere prepared for the worst.

Now, with the summer fading away, hardly anybody mentions work-ins anymore. The worst has failed to come. What has happened is that nothing has happened.

Many labor union and labor management officials agree that though militant students probably have been hired, in large numbers, they have not so far been noticeably disruptive.

The AFL-CIO has reported "no trouble at all." Al Zack, the union spokesman, says: "I have not heard of a single incident arising from summer help. And I don't think we're going to have any."

Teddy Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Union, echoes this observation. "It's possible we have some of these students in our union now," he says, "but if so, they haven't given us any trouble."

Joe Walsh, an official with the United Auto Workers, adds that his union is "not even concerned with it (the student problem); we weren't concerned at the beginning of summer and we aren't now—it's nothing."

Dozens of the nation's major corporations also say student trouble has failed to surface — although many of them admit they expected something to happen. An official at General Electric puts it this way:

"Because GE is involved in so many areas where security is necessary, we naturally are always ready for any emergency or any possibility of disruption — from whatever source. But to my knowledge this summer has been no different from any other. And there is no indication I know of that the summer's student employees are causing any kind of unrest."

Some other corporations checked are not quite so positive that the student situation is completely calm. A few companies, in fact, admit they've had some annoyances. Student employees recently tried to stage a walkout at a Chrysler automobile plant. Various chain stores have had woes. And an airline, which desires anonymity, says it has regretted hiring some of its student workers because "frankly, they worry passengers."

But the incidents, even according to pessimists, have been small, especially when measured against the trembling predictions of two months ago. And there are several reasons why.

One, according to agents of the FBI, is that "the publicity may have scared the kids off." The argument is that the student plan was only effective as long as it was relatively secret, which it never was.

Two, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is that "businessmen were thoroughly prepared." Therefore, says chamber publicist Joe Gambatese, "Employers may have blocked out a lot of the disruptive job seekers."

A third reason, according to many, is that the student infiltration scheme was largely a hoax. One merchandise employer calls it "just a big, ugly put-on—and the newspapers and TV fell for it like a bunch of

But the most important reason why student labor problems have failed to develop, say a large number of union people, is that, as a steelworker executive insists, "We'd never let a bunch of kids screw us up."

This opinion is further explained by AEL-CIO's Al Zack:

"We have a hell of a lot of people in the trade union movement who have not had the good fortune to go to school and goof off."

"Remember that union people have families. They do not want their jobs jeopardized. They just aren't about to listen to a bunch of goof offs who come in during the summer and spout off at the mouth."

In other words, says Zack, students have not disrupted the labor force this summer because the labor force is not that easy to disrupt.

"Students are welcome in the plants," he adds, "as long as they do not goof off. If they do, then it's the union man's duty to handle the situation."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The recent price compression in the market has been so extreme, Winslow, Cohn & Steetson says, that even a temporary letup in liquidation could produce large and rapid percentage recoveries. The "technical rally" could well turn out to be something far bigger, the firm feels, "coming at a time when real progress in Vietnam may be at hand, taxes may be cut, and interest rates may be reversing their trend."

A change is beginning to take place in the over-all business environment amid a growing realization on the part of businessmen and investors that economic restraints will be continued until inflationary pressures subside, Goodbody & Co. said. "The markdown in stock prices has gone a long way toward discounting the probable decline in business activity and corporate earnings," the firm says. However, further pressure on stock prices seems likely.

Eache & Co. believes the market may be making some final adjustments to the inroads of monetary restraint and "may be in a good position to respond avidly when the first signs of monetary ease loom on the horizon." A bottom for the market probably will emerge sometime in the third quarter, the firm says. In the meantime, technical rallies can be expected.

NEW YORK (UPI)—When Harry Morgan set out to produce a special on the generation gap he thought from what he had read that almost any father and son anywhere would provide good dramatic material for a study of alienation.

Four hundred interviews later Morgan was seriously beginning to wonder if an unbridgeable chasm really existed between the generations. The fathers said it did—in other families not their own. The sons said it did—but not with their dads; it was their friends who couldn't make contact at home.

Eventually, however, Morgan found four families representing four facets of the problem and the result is an absorbing documentary, "Fathers and Sons," which CBS-TV is transmitting Aug. 12. It will be followed a week later by "Mothers and Daughters," the other side of the disturbed and disturbing relationships of our times.

"Of course the gap exists," Morgan said over lunch at Spats, "but the indications of our research is that it is not as wide as people say. I'm speaking of basic differences, not such superficialities as dress, hair and music. The Establishment has adopted some of the campaigns of the kids—civil rights, war protests and so on. If we keep legitimizing and adopting what starts with the kids, where's the gap?"

Morgan got his story by setting up his cameras and asking the right questions. The son of a police officer, a graduate in psychology, analyzed himself on request as an "under achiever" suffering from the boredom that has led him to pot and hashish, disgusted with a world in which "age masquerades as knowledge."

The fact his son used drugs until he heard it on camera from the interviewer—and the gap Morgan had been seeking yawned wide and sad.

If for nothing else "Fathers and Sons" would be worth seeing for Theo Jacobs, captain of the Cornell football team, an impressive young man in intellect and physique, scornful of the "superblackness" concept of some other black students. "I don't hate whites because they're white," he said. "I was never taught to hate. My parents were the strongest influence in my life."

Morgan remarked that television camera crews are notably cynical.

"But they said to Jacobs, 'If you ever go into politics let us know and we'll come and work for you.'"

The first recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor was Jacob Parrott, a soldier from Fairfield County, Ohio, in 1863.

WASHINGTON — Unlike the smoke rings that lazily rise to the ceiling and dissipate, the dangers of smoking remain. Study after study confirms the grim report issued by the Surgeon General's committee in 1964.

Our hospitals and our cemeteries testify to the accuracy of that report and those which followed:

Over 300,000 Americans will die prematurely this and every year from diseases associated with cigarette smoking, according to former Surgeon General Luther Terry. This is almost ten times the number of Americans killed in Vietnam in the past eight years; it is six times the number of people killed on our highways in traffic accidents.

How will they die? Lung cancer is a major cause, killing at least ten times as many people as died from this disease in 1936. Heart disease, a major killer in its own right, takes an extra toll among cigarette smokers. Emphysema, a crippling and irreversible lung malfunction, which eventually is fatal, once rare, is now becoming more common among heavy smokers. All in all, the death rate among men who have been smoking since they were teenagers is double that of nonsmokers.

Despite these grim figures, nearly 4-500 children smoke for the first time, every day, according to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, which is now engaged in a program to discourage teenagers from becoming smokers. Moreover it points out that one-third of our high school students smoke and that by the PART OF NEW YORK? No, it's the sort of thing they're constructing in heretofore old-fashioned San Francisco. The only apparent opening in the city's new Insurance Center Building is a tiny smoke spout on the roof. Actually, the structure has many windows, but they're all on the other side. This building is one of dozens along San Francisco's startlingly changed waterfront.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Navy says it has awarded Lockheed Aircraft Co., Burbank, Calif., a $461 million contract to produce six experimental models of an antisubmarine plane. If the Navy exercises its option to purchase 193 of the planes, total cost would be an estimated $3.2 billion spread over eight years. First flight of the plane, which would have a speed of 460 miles an hour and a range of more than 2,000 miles, is set for 1972.

Pampa Teacher Attends Meet At Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — Elizabeth Hurley, Pampa High School journalism teacher, is representing Pampa as a supervisor at the 12th annual Southwestern Council of Student Publications Workshop on the campus of Texas Technological University here this week.

Miss Hurley is one of the supervisors for the newspaper portion of the workshop that opened Sunday.

More than 500 high school and college journalists and sponsors representing about 90 schools in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Tennessee and Louisiana, were expected on the Texas Tech campus for general and work sessions in yearbooks, newspaper and photography.

Taylor Publishing Company, Dallas is coordinating the workshop with Jerry Dixon of the company's National Educational Division and a delegation of seven other Taylor officials teaching the students.

HONG KONG (UPI)—More than 3,000 people were killed in an earthquake last week in China, a pro-Nationalist Hong Kong Chinese newspaper reported today.

The Hong Kong Times said the epicenter of the July 26 earthquake was in Swatow, a coastal city 150 miles east-northeast of Hong Kong.

Many buildings collapsed in the earthquake, which registered 5 on the modified Mercalli scale of 12, the newspaper said.

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)—President Milton Obote of Uganda has presented Pope Paul VI with some unusual gifts, including 22 elephant tusks, two stuffed antelope and a stuffed-crested crane. The Pope gave Obote a $50,000 check for Ugandan welfare programs.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—A man and a woman were arrested for hit-and-run and drunken driving during the weekend when their car struck 10 parked cars, a tree and a house. Police said Edward Galvan and Helen Zamilpa were taking turns behind the wheel.

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Even the best of baseball minds were stumped Sunday when the message board at the Oakland Coliseum asked, "Who holds the record for the most babes in a single season?—Hornsby, Musial, Ruth, Cobb?"

When the crowd began to howl, the errant word was changed to "bases."

CAREER CORNER by F. J. Latin

My children are growing up and I'd like to obtain a job as a personnel interviewer. I have a genuine interest in people, am told-I communicate well, but feel I need schooling in this field. Would a few night courses be sufficient or does this position require four years of college?

A—Whom do you want to work for? What type of worker do you want to interview—clerical, technical, executive? How high is your moon?

In essence, if you want to go anywhere in personnel administration, go for a degree. If you'll be content with entry-level interviewing jobs, you can probably get by without it. Requirements vary so much between employers that the only way to find out your chances in your community is to knock on employers' doors.

I'm not sure whether you mean you want to work for an employer interviewing applicants, or in an employment agency finding jobs for clients and employees for clients, so let's keyhole some possibilities.

EMPLOYER-TYPE JOBS. You may luck into a spot requiring no personnel training or experience but it's not easy. Good bets to jobshop are organizations that hire lots of women—department stores, telephone companies, insurance companies and banks. Interviewing jobs may have clerical duties included at the junior level. Though department stores often pay junior interviewers less than other business employers, (typical retail monthly salary: $375-450ish), they offer merchandise discounts, may hire—without training or experience, and can provide a good place to start. Again, to move upward, you usually need a college background. Banks, utilities and insurance companies pay better and may hire interviewers without a degree, but prefer a college grad. Some specify an associate degree (two years) as a minimum. Some promote personnel secretaries to what one personnel director described as a "semi-interviewer" which means some clerical duties and only initial screening responsibilities.

GOVERNMENT JOBS. In addition to federal, state and local government agencies, the state employment service offices will hire interviewers without a degree if they have appropriate personnel experience. For details, obtain a free copy of "Careers in Employment Security" from your state employment service office.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Like nature, politics abhors a vacuum.

Thus Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts was being conceded the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination before there were any signals from him to indicate that he wanted it.

The Democrats had no other figure with glamor, ready access to the money and a standby campaign organization needed to win the nomination. These assets have been virtually written off as the result of the automobile accident on Chappaquiddick Island two weeks ago.

Kennedy said last week that he will not be a candidate for the 1972 presidential nomination, and that he had not felt inclined before the accident to seek it. Now the political vacuum is pulling former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey the 1968 nominee for president, and his running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, into the forefront of speculation three years before the Democrats nominate their candidate.

No one else is yet in sight, although events often reshape the political outlook drastically over a period of three years. President Nixon may appear unbeatable by the winter of 1972, and the Democrats may have little interest in the choice of their nominee. Or Nixon may be in trouble and they may have more candidates than they want competing for the favor of their national convention delegates.

Muskie emerged from the 1968 campaign as an attractive and respected candidate, who spoke with a muted voice even before Nixon said it was time for Americans to stop shouting at one another. But he comes from a state with only four electoral votes and lacks a broad political base. He would need much help to establish that base.

Humphrey may have suffered from overexposure since his first national political triumph in 1948 when he persuaded that Democratic National Convention to write what was then a strong civil rights plank into the party platform.

For more than two decades, he has had his moments of glory and his moments of gloom.

Although he still appears to have unlimited energy, Humphrey will be 61 at the time of the next presidential election. When a non-incumbent is nominated for the presidency, his party presumably is choosing a candidate to serve in a man-killing job for eight years. Dwight D. Eisenhower became president at the age of 62 and Harry S. Truman at 69. No other president since James Buchanan in 1857 has begun his service in the White House after his 60th birthday.

Political Logic Twisting

The Democrats' No 1 man in the California senate has some rather interesting logic concerning education.

Sen. George Moscone feels schools in California and around the nation are having financial difficulty primarily because of a misconception of terms.

"In the American system of government, localities administer civil affairs as agents of the states," he said.

"Historically, the over-all control of education and of school was always a state function. Yet, schools were administered on the local level and this led to the belief that schools are a local responsibility.

"Our present system of school support is caused by our failure to distinguish between local government and local self-government," Moscone said.

Agents of the states? Local government versus local self-government? Control of schools always a state function?

That is enough, twisting of history and ambiguity of phraseology to last a medium-sized politician a lifetime.

Apparently Moscone's history goes back only as far as Horace Mann.

Perhaps it wasn't the best, but there was once a system of education when a community built its own school, hired its own teachers and let the curriculum without state government's even knowing it was happening. Many schools were even financed voluntarily.

That simple approach to education turned out giants like of which this country hasn't seen since.

Despite this normal tendency of all politicians to change history around, Moscone's comments about state control are accurate if applied to today.

The truthfulness of his statement on a local government versus local self-

CAPITOL EYE:

Nixon Has Eye On '70 Elections

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon has begun putting the new gloss of updated management techniques on his political operations. But much valuable time has been lost and he may need immense good fortune to come out well in the 1970 elections.

No one can visit Republican National Committee headquarters today without encountering a host of eager new faces, freshly minted organizational charts, a flush of energy and high morale.

Already well-established in the White House itself, of course, is former South Carolina state chairman Harry Dent, with his paneled office in the East Wing symbolizing a related bow to the political realities of the presidency.

Memoranda dealing with patronage matters and the thousand and one political problems that concern governors, mayors, state chairmen and others are arching across the short trajectory from White House to nearby committee offices and back again.

On a recent weekend at Airline House in Warrenton, Va., committee officials were joined by representatives of the senatorial and congressional campaign committees to burnish the new party mechanisms and get ready for the day when all three groups would gather under one new roof near Capitol Hill.

Yet the nearly euphoric state which seems to be accompanying these changes can't obscure the damage done in the first several months after Nixon was elected.

All aside from the endless irritation caused in many states by the President's unorthodox and erratic job-filling procedures, the patronage operation was largely wasted as a lever for providing potential early advantage to 1970 candidates for Congress and some key states offices.

Use of some available federal jobs to give candidates showcase identity can often avoid later bruising primary battles, since they may gain a commanding lead for nomination if they are otherwise suitable choices.

More than a few well-placed Republicans are fuming over what they consider the Nixon administration's senseless throw-away of this opportunity.

The President himself evidently did not wake up fully to this matter until he became angered at the special-election loss this spring of a vacated Republican U.S. House seat in Montana.

Coming on top of the earlier loss of Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's Wisconsin seat, this outcome made still more distant the prospect that the GOP can capture the 218 seats in 1970 needed for a controlling majority. Their total after Montana was 190, down two from the frail net gain of four they managed in the 1968 election.

The party may not find it easy, either, to hold onto the Massachusetts seat vacated by the death of Rep. William Bates and due to be filled this fall.

Worse still is the outlook that many other holes may be opened up in the GOP house lineup as sitting congressmen in several states perhaps decide to try for U.S. Senate seats next year. With the Democrats' Senate edge only 57-43, the lure is great.

But any heavy use of congressmen as 1970 Senate "material" could gravely disadvantage the GOP struggle for the House.

Some of these things are judged inescapable difficulties. But some of Nixon's good political friends are faulting him for blowing the patronage bit, for waiting too long to install new National Chairman Rogers Morton and get party reorganization under way, for being so intent on quickly adopting a high-flown, statesmanlike posture that he grossly neglected the grubby, routinized political necessities of his new office.

Yet—a steady de-Americanizing of the Vietnam war, a period of relative quiet in the cities, and the continued strife in the Democratic party could combine to offset this unaccountably bad beginning and put his party in good position for the important 1970 races.

You Could Get Out Of This Trap

Pharaohs And Fallacies Of That Moon Adventure

By SEYMOUR (Sy) LEON

The tremendous achievement of landing men on the moon has been accomplished. A resounding "well done" has been given to the men of science who worked so long for the moment of victory. It was a victory, too, for human cooperation; for it displays to the world and sets down a moment in history that will, for all time, exemplify the capacities for unlimited good that men can create by working together.

It is somewhat disturbing to note that the success of the man on the moon project is being largely, if not wholly, credited to the government. The astronauts in the program have, of course, been recognized, and justly so. But they have been acting as REPRESENTATIVES

OF THE GOVERNMENT. The participating private companies supplied virtually all of the production and research know-how—and they, too, have taken a subordinate role to the government. So the story is being set down by the historians (government chroniclers) that this is merely one more illustration of the necessity for government; that men acting individually or in concert are incapable of doing the really BIG things. If that is true, then we have learned nothing in the past five thousand years since the pharaohs built the pyramids.

That, too, was hailed as a feat of engineering too great for mere men: It required slave labor from the men who were forced to haul the huge blocks of stone to the man or men who provided the engineering genius. But the man who went down in history as the "builder" of the great pyramid was Pharaoh Khufu (or Cheops).

Do we, today, still consider ourselves insufficient to tackle massive programs? Are we actually as ineffectual as the great pharaohs and the great governments would have us believe? Or is it just that men have, lost (or possibly never had) confidence in their abilities?

For, after all, when one looks at the matter objectively, government actually did nothing constructive for the Apollo project, with the exception, perhaps, of forcing great numbers of persons to pay for something which they may or may not have voluntarily chosen to support. . . much like the slaves who toiled at the pyramids.

Consider this: Governments always act in restraint of trade; they always act in a RESTRICTIVE manner. That's what they are designed to do.

Did you know that about twenty years ago a movie producer wanted to place a small satellite in orbit around the earth? His motive was one of pure profit. It was a promotion for an intended film. He claimed he had the scientific know-how to get the job done and his budget was about $1 million. He was restricted from undertaking this effort, of course. The government was planning its own satellites, and the budget was slightly more than $1 million.

The fact that the moon was reached by 1969 is considered creditable to governmental action. That's probably true. If private enterprise and initiative had not been restricted from activity in space, we might very well have reached the moon ten, twenty, or even fifty years ago.

It is claimed as a victory for our government that we got there before the Russians. We out produced them! That's nothing new. American industry has been "beating" the Russians for years.

Perhaps if we relied more on our most effective, proven weapons—private initiative and private profit—our accomplishments in space and diplomacy would be more frequent and more formidable.

Your Dental Health

By DR. WILLIAM LAWRENCE

Gum Treatment

Can Save Your Teeth

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:

About two years ago my dentist told me I had periodontal disease and unless I took care of it at once I'd run the risk of early tooth loss. He referred me to a periodontal specialist who gave me what I can only describe as one grand skewering. It took three appointments before he even began treatment. First consultation, then full-mouth X-ray exam, the further exam and lecture on home oral physiotherapy and, finally, eight appointments for scraping and scraping and scraping. It didn't seem possible that I had so much tartar on my gums. Then some gum pockets had to be cut away and that hurt—not while he did it but, afterwards, during healing.

Well, O.K. It was finally over and I must admit that my mouth felt great. My gums didn't bleed and my mouth tasted better. My only complaint was that I had to spend most of the day working on the spaces between the teeth to keep them clean. I wore out dozens of toothbrushes, used miles of dental tape and got slivers in my gums from the special balsa wood toothpicks I had to use.

Well, O.K. again. But now my dentist says I again need gum treatment. What gives? I thought I was finished. Cured. How many times is enough? —Disillusioned Ronnie D.

DEAR RONNIE D: With so many things happening to you, you either forgot or weren't listening when your periodontist must have told you that there is no specific "cure" for periodontal gum disease. In fact, the cause is not fully understood; or, to put it another way, there are many contributing causes. Not least of these is you; that is, your general health, mental health, diet, habits, night grinding, arrangement of teeth, oral hygiene habits and age and heredity.

Added to this are the bugs that cause the disease, poor dentistry and just tough luck having all these things.

Therefore, prognosis is varied, to say the least. The most you dentist should promise you is an excellent result and the hope that he can maintain your teeth and gums in good health. But bone absorption and occasional gum flareups are often unavoidable even with continued regular periodontal treatment and diligent home care.

Sometimes much more is needed. Loose teeth with minimal bone support must be sacrificed and remaining teeth splinted in order to stabilize them and fill in spaces.

Successful treatment has its rewards: healthy gums, more efficient chewing apparatus, better cosmetic effect and, very often, better mouth habits and care. It's worth every penny of time and effort and money.

Campus Protests Damage Leatherneck Recruiting
WASHINGTON — Student demonstrations, whatever their impact on the government's other on-campus activities, have seriously interfered with officer recruitment for the Marine Corps.

Spokesman for the other services, the CIA and such, have mostly minimized the actual effects of campus protest. Not so the Marine Corps commandant, Gen. Leon F. Chapman Jr., who faces the issue like a tough-talking leatherneck.

Significantly, Chapman says the anti-war sentiment of "some college administrators," in addition to the anti-Vietnam attitudes of militant students, lies behind the Marine Corps' troubles on college and university campuses.

About 4,000 new Marine second lieutenants are needed each year. Only about 100 of them come from the Naval Academy at Annapolis and perhaps another 300 from ROTC programs. The rest have been recruited directly on college campuses.

Like the ROTC programs, CIA interviewers and other on-campus manifestations of a federal presence, visits of Marine recruiting teams have become a target for student protesters. Those demonstrations accelerated toward the end of the last college semester.

As a result, the Marine Corps came up some 800 candidates short in its annual search for second lieutenants. Chapman reported to Congress recently that the corps has abandoned its requirement for a college degree, as a commissioning prerequisite, so as to make up the deficit on junior college campuses.

Chapman did NOT say so, but some veteran Marine officers, feel the recruiting of less mature second lieutenants will, inevitably, tend to downgrade the calibre of junior officers, with some small damage to combat effectiveness.

CANDID COMMENTS
Questioned recently about the problem by the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chapman reported that Marine recruiters have had "increased difficulty" in recent months and "we are not making our quotas."

He attributed that, "primarily to the dissension on the campuses, where we recruit on the order of 85 per cent of all our new young lieutenants."

The general explained that Marine Corps recruiting teams have had some problems on major college campuses. Much of the trouble, however, has arisen on the 1,300 or 1,400 middle-sized and small college campuses around the country, where we get a high percentage of our officers."

Chapman said campus unrest has had results which interfere with officer recruitment: "There are a few campuses where our appearance, permission for our recruiting officers to appear, is continually postponed, time after time, with the net result that we do not get on those campuses. They are very few in number, however."

"A much larger number are those in which our recruiters are permitted aboard, but are relegated to out-of-the-way places where they cannot interview and attract the young officers, prospective officers."

"There are a number of campuses where the recruiters are permitted aboard, but are surrounded by the dissident students, who prevent the recruiter from talking to the prospective candidates."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Has the rising drug use by the very young been in part caused by compulsory schooling and child labor laws?

ANSWER: We would not know whether compulsory schooling and child labor laws are true causes of drug use, but we think they probably contribute to the problem. A Los Angeles paper recently ran a story on the rising drug use by school age children. In the story, Michael Brown, an assistant professor of political science at Cal State Fullerton, who had made a study on drug use, was quoted as follows:

"These kids have been brought up in a sterile suburban environment . . . insulated from every kind of significant experience that children of previous generations were forced to confront. Everything is done for them and nothing is a challenge; nothing is new. . . The kids don't come into contact with the kinds of things that make them grow and learn and mature and enjoy life. They're ripe for the first different experience that comes along and promises a relief from this stupefying boredom."

If Professor Brown is correct in his statements, then it seems obvious that laws which compel children to attend school up to a certain age and which deny them the opportunity for meaningful work in the real world where they can gain self-respect and the satisfaction of accomplishment, certainly must share the blame.

Young people today spend the greater part of their time in school or school-connected activities and most of them are in tax-supported schools. Yet Professor Brown states that they do not come into contact with the kinds of things that make them grow and learn and mature and enjoy life—that nothing is a challenge to them. The implications of the professor's statements is a pretty heavy indictment against the system. Freedom Newspapers for years has claimed that the tax-supported schools can't educate, and now it looks as if the professors' own studies are supporting what we have long maintained.

Children from families who see to it that they do grow and learn and mature apparently are the ones who have no need or desire to experiment with dangerous drugs.

Suppose you are a little feller. One night you go to a party and get stoned out of your gourd.

You pick up a secretary and take her for a ride. You run off a bridge into a pond and almost drown yourself. You fight your way out of the car and make it back to the party house and sit in a parked car until daylight. You then get friends to drive you home.

Along about 10 A.M. you sober up and remember the pretty secretary who was with you. . . "O-my-gosh" you exclaim "poor Nellie lies at the bottom of the pool."

You realize that soon someone will find her. You run to the sheriff's office with a wild tale of being, not under the influence of ambrosia, but under the influence of amnesia. . .

When you tell this silly story, the sheriff claps you in the pokey and charges you with involuntary manslaughter. . .

But suppose you are not a little feller and the same thing happens. Suppose you have millions of dollars, are a senator, and own all of Massachusetts. The sheriff then says, "Excuse please. But I must post a slight charge for leaving the scene of an accident."

"Unfathomable words of law like this is what causes the little feller to get stoned out of their gourds. . . and senators too, I reckon . . ."

Shaky Future Of Saigon

It is not premature, even in view of continued North Vietnamese obstinacy at the Paris peace talks, to think about the postwar future of South Vietnam.

Although it has not stated it in so many official words, the United States is clearly committed to ending its active military involvement in the war, sooner or later, one way or another. Part of this process has been the pressure brought in the past few months against President Nguyen Van Thieu to persuade him to offer accommodation to the Viet Cong and other political elements in a future, freely elected government.

Unfortunately, however, between the Thieu regime on the one extreme and the Communists on the other, there exists a serious vacuum in South Vietnamese politics—and Communists are well-known for their abhorrence of political vacuums. The dismantling of the American military shield may reveal how deep, and dangerous, that vacuum is.

For the Saigon government has effectively silenced or isolated almost all its rivals, including those who are anti-Communist as they are anti-Thieu.

The most scandalous example is Truong Dinh Dzu, who ran second to Thieu in the presidential election in 1967. He has been in prison for a year, having been sentenced to a five-year term for advocating the very kind of coalition the Thieu government now ostensibly champions.

Duong Van Minh, one of the generals who helped overthrow the dictatorship of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963, was killed to prevent him from running in the 1967 election.

Au Truong Thanh, former minister of economics in the government of now-Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and a prominent anti-Communist, is in exile in France. His name was thrown off the 1967 ballot because of his peace advocacy.

More recently, Nguyen Lau, anti-Communist publisher of an English-language newspaper in Saigon, was sentenced to five years in prison for expressing his views on peace to a Viet Cong agent.

There is a long list of other former or potential South Vietnamese leaders who could play important roles in a non-Communist coalition government but who have attracted the suspicion or displeasure of Saigon and been imprisoned or exiled or otherwise relegated to political uselessness.

For the sake of long-range American strategic interests in Southeast Asia, if not for the sake of democracy and the tens of thousands of American soldiers who have given their lives in this war, it is essential that viable political alternatives be encouraged in South Vietnam.

Peace could come sooner than expected. And an unprepared-for peace could be more menacing to South Vietnam than North Vietnam's attempt at a military take-over in 1964.

Out With The 'In' Glasses

Not only is bad taste "in" in the world of mod fashions; in at least one respect good sense is "out."

Those big, three-inch-round sunglasses that have become so popular among the younger set came up for discussion at the recent annual meeting of the American Optometric Association in Philadelphia.

psychic tinting of the glasses, which ranges from pale lavender to dark blue, does not protect the eyes from the sun and that pieces of glass so large usually have optical defects.

Some of the lenses magnify, while others do just the opposite. Wearing them is like looking through the wrong end of a telescope. Others distort vision in other ways.

What's good for our young people is good for Pampa. Who isn't for wholesome fun and entertainment for our youth? If the Gunnye Shack is filling that need, well and good.

My observation is from the intersection of Kingsmill and Somerville Streets, and I've often wondered why go to all the trouble to make the Gunnye Shack appear as a slum or hippie joint when with the same amount of effort it could have been made attractive.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I married my husband he promised he'd lose 10 pounds. He's only 5 ft. 8 in. and carries all his extra weight in his belly. I told him I couldn't think of anything more repulsive than being married to a fat man, and I meant it, too. Well, we've been married for nine years, and instead of his losing 10 pounds like he promised, he gained 35 more! Abby, when he starts getting amorous, that fat belly of his just knocks me cold. He says if a wife really loves her husband, his belly won't matter. I say if a man really loves his wife he'll try to keep his sex appeal. I'd like your opinion.

FAT MAN'S WIFE: What some women find "repulsive," other women overlook. I'm sure there are a lot of fat men who haven't suffered any loss of love because their physiques have gone to pot. (Women, too.)

DEAR ABBY: My brother is being married soon to a girl I'll call Sharon. Sharon's aunt gave her a bridal shower to which my mother and I were not invited. The excuse she gave us was that the place was "too far away and hard to find." How about that? My mother and I bought a shower gift anyway, and sent it to the shower with my brother. When Sharon's sister saw my brother bringing our shower gifts, she had a screaming fit and refused to give them to Sharon at the shower saying Sharon's mother and aunt would be embarrassed. Our gifts were given to Sharon later that evening after she came home from the shower. Your thoughts on the matter would be appreciated by my mother and me.

HURT AND UPSET: DEAR HURT: If you were excluded from the shower for what you considered a phony

Pampa Drops In Loser's Bracket

FT. SMITH, Ark. — Only one Texas team will be left in the southwest Regional Babe Ruth baseball tournament when play ends tonight.

Pampa and Whorten, Tex. met in a loser's bracket game at 4 p.m. and the loser will go home and wait until next year for a chance to reach the national tournament.

Pampa was dropped into the loser's bracket Tuesday when Arkansas state champion, North Little Rock, jumped on two Pampa pitchers for seven runs and a 7-4 victory in second round action.

Whorten stayed alive in the tournament with a 4-1 victory over host team Fort Smith while defending national Babe Ruth champion Tulsa handed New Orleans its first loss, 7-4.

Monday after Pampa beat Carlsbad, N. M., 1-0, in the opener, Tulsa downed Whorten, 5-0 and New Orleans clipped Fort Smith, 9-1.

Tuesday it was just a case of Pampa not taking advantage of Little Rock mistakes and the winners capitalizing on Pampa mental and physical miscues.

Little Rock scored two runs in each of the last two innings to put the game on ice after Pampa, who came from behind twice, had tied the game 3-3 in the fourth.

Jeff Hogan, 3-0, started for Pampa but control trouble proved his end with one out in the fourth, the game tied 1-1 and Little Rock had runners on second and third.

Marc Gamblin, who had pitched only two-thirds of an inning in the 14 previous playoff games, came on in relief and after getting the first batter to strikeout, gave up a two-run double to Jim Ginn and a 3-1 Little Rock lead.

After Pampa tied the score in its half of the fourth the winners struck for the winning runs in the sixth on a walk, triple and ground out.

Two unearned runs came across in the seventh on a one-out error and successive singles with two outs.

Hogan gave up four hits and three runs, all of which were earned, struckout five and walked four.

Gamblin was touched for four runs, two earned, on four hits and fanned three while walking three.

Pampa touched winning southpaw David Palmer for seven hits but only two of its runs was earned as Palmer fanned seven and walked only one batter.

With two out in the first Doug Thompson tripled for Pampa and came home on the first of six Little Rock errors. Then Mike Edgar and Dale Ammons reached base on errors but Hogan struckout to retire the side.

In the fourth Gamblin singled to open the bottom of the inning, went to second on a single by Larry Knutson and moved to third on Mike Reddel's force out. Reddel stole second and both he and Gamblin scored on Greg Shultz's single.

The last Pampa run came in the seventh when Al Ferguson reached first on an error, went to second on Thompson's single, to third on a ground ball by Edgar and scored on Ammons' ground ball to the shortstop.

Pampa left eight runners stranded while Little Rock stranded 10.

Cardinals, Jets Play Exhibition

By United Press International

Thaddeus Kwalick Sr. just wants his son to have the things his old man never had as a kid. Convinced that contract negotiations between Ted Jr. and the San Francisco Forty-Niners had come to a standstill, Pop telephoned San Francisco General Manager Jack White, and today the three men—along with Kwalick's agent—will get together at the Forty-Niner training camp in Santa Barbara, Calif.

St. Louis Coach Charley Winner's problems also are relative, as his Cardinals continue preparations for their exhibition opener against the world champion New York Jets Saturday night.

Winner will be coaching against his father-in-law, Jets' boss Weeb Ewbank, as New York, a 26-24 winner over the College All-Stars last week, takes on the NFL club which dominated the All-Stars in an earlier scrimmage.

Winner may risk family unity, but as John Stofa and Dennis Byrd can testify, pro football has little room for emotional ties.

Stofa, the first player ever on the Cincinnati Bengals roster and the man who quarterbacked their only three victories last season, was placed on the team's taxi squad Tuesday after being waived last weekend to make room for rookie Greg Cook and second-year man Sam Wyche.

Byrd, the No. 1 draft choice of the Boston Patriots a year ago and a starter throughout his rookie season, was waived by new Coach Clive Rush, and Byrd, who could be recalled within 48 hours, admitted "it was a surprise."

Alvin Haymond, the leading NFL punt returner in 1965 and 1966, also was surprised when the Philadelphia Eagles traded him to the Los Angeles Rams for two taxi squad members and a 1970 third-round draft

Rebels Hope To Extend Win Streak

DALLAS (UPI)—The South takes the court in tonight's 25th Texas High School Coaches' Association all-star basketball game seeking to extend the longest winning streak in the association's history.

The North has not won in this series since 1962, the last time the game was played in Lubbock, but the northerners are heavily favored to crack this string this year.

The basketball game in Memorial Auditorium will be the first of two highlights of the 37th annual clinic sponsored by the THSCA. The football game will be played Thursday night in the Cotton Bowl.

Coach Bobby Weise's South squad faced a decided height disadvantage tonight, and things could be even worse if Weise's lone tall man cannot play.

Robert White, a 6-8 center from Hearne, has been bothered with a slight ankle sprain and is listed as only a tentative starter for the game. Other than White the South has no man over 6-5. The North has three men 6-7 or better.

Gibson Wins 14th In Decision Over Padres

By United Press International

Now it's the Giants' turn to be king for two.

The Giants ended Cincinnati's two-day stay in the top spot in the Western Division by sweeping a doubleheader from Philadelphia, 6-2 and 5-3, Tuesday night. The sweep put the Giants one-half game ahead of the Reds, who beat the New York Mets, 8-5, in the first game of a doubleheader but lost the second game, 10-1.

The Atlanta Braves, who were in first place last Saturday, swept a doubleheader from the Montreal Expos, 1-0 and 4-3, to remain within a half-game of the Giants.

The Giants' Dave Marshall drove in four runs, and Ron Hunt and Bobby Bonds hit consecutive homers in the fifth inning of the opener. In the second game, Bob Bolin scored the run that snapped a 2-2 tie.

In other games, Chicago beat Houston, 5-2, to stretch its Eastern Division lead to 7½ games over New York while St. Louis edged San Diego, 2-1, to move within two games of the Mets. Pittsburgh drubbed Los Angeles, 11-3.

Pete Rose, Bobby Tojan and Tony Perez hit homers in the first game as the Reds routed Tom Seaver and whipped the Mets in the first game. But the Mets rebounded in the second first place with an eight-run third inning.

Orlando Cepeda's three-run homer in the seventh inning carried Atlanta to the second-game victory and a sweep of the Expos. In the first game, Gary Sutherland's wild throw on an attempted double play gave the Braves the only run of the contest in the ninth inning.

Chicago In Command

Chicago remained in command in the Eastern Division when winning pitcher Bill Hands singled in a second inning run to cap a two-run rally as the Cubs beat the Astros. Hands, 13-8, went 6 2-3 innings and Phil Regan finished up.

Bob Gibson, 14-9, scattered nine hits as the Cards beat San Diego, handing the Padres their ninth straight defeat.

Pioneer Wins

Delbert Daniels hurled brilliant ball Tuesday to send Pioneer Natural Gas by Champlin-Oil, 15-4, in softball action here.

North, South Football Squads Prep For Tilt

DALLAS (UPI)—Gary Keithley and Brad Dusek could find themselves tangling with each other some Thanksgiving afternoon in a few years, so it is good that they are going to get acquainted Thursday night.

Those two were named Tuesday to start as quarterbacks for the South and the North in the annual Texas High School Coaches' Association's all-star football game.

Coach Travis Raven of the South selected Keithley, of Atvin, in his starting backfield along with Steve Sanford of Houston Lee, John Harvey of Austin Anderson and Dennis Howell of Port Arthur.

Dusek was picked by North coach Truman Nix and will be joined in the northern backfield by Donnie Joe Morris of Amarillo Palo Duro, Eddie White of Daingerfield and Lane Bowen of Brownwood.

Going to Austin

Keithley will enroll at the University of Texas this autumn and Dusek will attend Texas A&M, so it is quite possible the two will meet again in one of those classic Aggie-Longhorn Thanksgiving Day battles.

The North will go into Thursday night's game in the Cotton Bowl with a six-game winning streak and is expected to extend it to seven. Both teams will look a little alike when the game starts, however.

Both Nix and Raven said Tuesday they would probably try to get their teams' running games going before taking to the airways.

"We believe that you can't start to pass well until you run," said Nix. "And Dusek impresses me more as a running quarterback than a passing quarterback."

Dusek will have to share part of the quarterbacking duties, however, with Andy Duval of Abilene Cooper and Jerry Reynolds of Spur.

American League Murcer's Homer Powers Yanks

By United Press International

One of the reasons the Baltimore Orioles lead the Division by 14 games is because Manager Earl Weaver hasn't been able to keep a promise he made to himself last winter. Weaver was thinking of benching Brooks earlier this week but decided against it after talking it over with him. He was rewarded for his faith Tuesday night when Robinson slammed a two-run homer in the 10th inning to give the Orioles a 7-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

In other AL action, New York edged California, 3-2. Detroit beat Minnesota, 4-3 in 13 innings. Chicago whipped Washington, 11-4. Seattle topped Boston, 9-2, and Oakland beat Cleveland, 8-3, before losing the nightcap of their doubleheader, 10-4.

Legislature Makes Traffic Law Changes

First of a Five-Part Series
AUSTIN — A number of changes in the State's traffic laws, some of which are highly significant to Texas motorists, were made by the Texas Legislature during its 61st regular session.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, noted that the new laws will all be in effect by Sept. 1, and pointed out that Department of Public Safety patrolmen will begin enforcement on that date.

While the measures range from one establishing new motor vehicle inspection procedures to allowing the owner of a parking lot to remove cars parked on the lot without his consent, one of the most important is the new "implied consent" law covering breath testing of drivers.

Under the terms of this law, a motorist is "deemed to have given consent" to a breath test if arrested for any alleged offense arising out of his actual operation or physical control of a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Refusal to take the breath test may lead to suspension of the suspect's driver license for up to one year.

Another measure which directly involves drivers is one which requires that slow-moving vehicles, that is, vehicles traveling at less than the normal speed of traffic, be driven in the right-hand lane or as close as practicable to the right-hand curb or edge of the roadway except when passing.

Also effective on Sept. 1 is an act which establishes a new intersection right-of-way law for the State of Texas. Under this, there are four rules governing the right-of-way at intersections. In cases of collision, it will be presumed that the driver did not yield the right-of-way if the four conditions haven't been satisfied.

The Legislature also made changes in the "following too closely" law. Drivers, after the effective date, must give due regard to the speed of the vehicles, traffic upon and condition of the street or highway, to insure that their motor vehicle can be safely brought to a stop without colliding with the preceding vehicle or bearing into other vehicles, objects or persons.

A change in the Motor Vehicle Inspection Act places Texas on a 12 month inspection period, raises the inspection fee to $2, and moves the location of the inspection sticker from the right of the windshield to the left. It also adds exhaust emission systems on 1968 or later vehicles, and exhaust systems on all vehicles, to the list of items to be inspected.

Still other new laws remove the restriction on protruberances, such as studs on tires, which do not injure the roadway; adopt a slow-moving vehicle emblem; prevent racing, horn blowing, contests for speed, etc., in privately owned parking areas; and make it illegal to modify any passenger vehicle so that the lower most portion of the vehicle has less clearance than the lower most portion of any rim of any wheel in contact with the roadway.

Another measure, which does not become effective until Jan. 1, 1970, makes an officer's accident report available to the public upon the payment of a $2 fee.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are growing indications that the war in Vietnam will become the first major conflict in modern history to die of old age.

Such a possibility has been suggested recently by a number of military and diplomatic experts, the latest being former Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk said this week there is now about an even chance the war would end by "withering away" rather than by negotiated settlement.

Granted that Rusk has not been blessed with 100 per cent prescience in previous utterances on Vietnam. Nevertheless, the prospect that the war will succumb to senility is interesting to contemplate.

In times past, of course, it was nothing uncommon for a war to drag on until everybody lost interest in it and it expired of natural causes. Let's assume, for purposes of conjecture, that something of that sort will happen in Vietnam. Let's assume that by 1983 all but 10 American troops have been withdrawn from South Vietnam and only 14 North Vietnamese soldiers remain below the DMZ. Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese on both sides have long since returned to rice farming.

For all practical purposes, the war will be over. Then the only question will be: how to stop the peace conference.

I have a feeling that ending the peace conference may prove even more difficult than ending the war. It wouldn't surprise me if the peace talks outlived the war by 10 years or longer.

Indeed, a situation could arise where the peace talks would be the only thing standing in the way of peace.

Long after the fighting has ceased, U.S. negotiators in Paris will still be demanding that the Communists agree to take certain actions to show their good faith as a necessary first step in the bargaining.

Obscure Information Nader's Weapon

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Bureauers respond to a visit from Ralph Nader or one of his associates with pleasure, excitement, or a nervous stomach, but never with nonchalance.

Nader, a free-lance crusader for consumer protection and government efficiency, started out as a loner. He still works alone but he has gathered an entourage of lawyers and college students who share his sense of mission.

The students—90 from all over the country—work under the direction of four lawyers and a Ph.D. in political science at the Center for Study of Responsive Law in Washington. The center is in one of those Victorian mansions that characterize Washington's older neighborhoods. Its turrets and gingerbread could come from a gothic novel, alone on a heath and inhabited by mad scientists.

But inside the atmosphere is dynamic. Offices are anti-septically white and sparsely furnished.

Offices are anti-septically white and sparsely furnished. Nader's has no office at the center. Despite the publicity surrounding his work, he managed to keep the location of his home and office, and his telephone number a secret. He's the chairman of the board of the Center but his job is that of an adviser.

Nader and his "raiders" seem to be able to locate information that most people do not even know is available. They often surprise the people and agencies they are investigating. Armed with relevant but obscure facts, Nader often seems to know everything and be everywhere at once.

James Turner, one of the five young men who are coordinating the work at the center, says most of the information Nader publicizes would be available to anyone who looked for it. "The things Ralph has been talking about for the last four or five years are things people have been talking about in their homes for 20 years," Turner said.

"There's always some little guy stuck away in some little office who has been putting information together on things we're interested in for years," Turner explained. "He thinks nobody cares about his work so when one of us comes in and says 'I want to see your statistics,' he says, 'Wow.' He's dying to tell someone."

Too Early To Prepare Plaques

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Came to work the other morning and found an unusually provocative memo on my desk. "It is not a bit too early to start preparing plaques and historic spontaneous utterances for the first man on Mars," the memo said.

I assumed, of course, that the memo had been written by Spiro T. Agnew, our far-sighted vice president who has taken an early lead over the rest of the nation in interplanetary goal-setting. Closer scrutiny, however, revealed it to be the handiwork of my friend Rogers, a forward-looking journalist who has an uncanny knack of solving problems that have not yet appeared.

It may not be enough, for the first man on Mars merely to "make an historic spontaneous utterance that will be telecast back to the people on earth," Rogers pointed out.
