SOUTHERN SCHOOLS

Notice Served To Discontinue Segregation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration is serving notice on 121 Southern school districts that they cannot continue operating segregated school systems even though their federal education funds have been cut off.

"The Justice Department is going to be moving against 40 or 50 of them in the near future," said Leon E. Panetta, chief civil rights officer of the Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW).

"They have already filed five or six suits."

Panetta said in an interview the new tactic—against school districts that are seemingly beyond government reach when they no longer receive federal education funds—is part of the administration's desegregation policy announced July 3.

Under this policy, the administration's key weapon against desegregation is through law suits, which often require years for final disposition. But the administration also may use the Johnson administration's favorite weapon—the cutoff of federal aid, which had immediate impact.

Among "kinks" Panetta described were Justice Department resources and the length of the process to develop and prosecute cases.

HEW hopes to beef up its legal division to better develop cases before they are referred to the Justice Department, Panetta said, "so that a suit could be filed at an early stage. The key is to try to prevent additional delay."

And the Justice Department, too short-staffed to monitor districts under court order to desegregate, will allow HEW to monitor them, he said.

The administration will face another civil rights test when school begins—the problem of student demands for black studies programs and racially separate housing—at colleges and universities.

Will it still be an issue as it was last spring when his office called on Antioch College in Ohio to submit regular reports that its separate black program was not violating the 1964 Civil Rights Act?

"I think so," Panetta answered. "This is tied to the whole campus unrest issue."

Panetta said government policy on the issue has developed beyond Antioch. HEW also has advised Duke and Cornell universities on their black studies programs.

International Dinner Giver By Altrusans

Fellowship and food bridged a language barrier and established beginnings of a bond of international understanding between Pampa Altrusans and 28 foreign-born women from 18 different countries now living in Pampa.

The dinner was given Tuesday night in the Fellowship Hall of First Methodist Church.

The bond of understanding was further strengthened by the book review given by Mrs. James F. Malone, wife of the superintendent of Pampa Independent School District.

Mrs. Malone interpreted "I've Only Got Two Hands and I'm Busy Wringing Them" by Jane Goodsell. Given in the first person singular, the reviewer helped her listeners identify with a harried housewife battered by television commercials.

Pilot Wears A Skirt

HOUSTON (UPI) — When Air East Airlines made its inaugural flight from Houston to Austin, Tex., Monday, the co-pilot wore a skirt.

Jo Claire Welch, 30, of Houston, was the first woman pilot hired by a regularly scheduled domestic airline.

The brownette Miss Welch, only hours away from becoming a lady-captain—captainette?—describes herself as "an old maid school teacher," more often addressed as "Hey, you with the skirt!"

The daughter of Mrs. Berman Kinney of Seattle, Wash., she earned an English degree at Trinity University in San Antonio, and later taught eighth grade English in Odessa, Tex.

She credits her uncle, Dr. Edwin Goodlad, Breckinridge, Tex., for getting her interested in flying in 1960. "He knows I have never been run of the mill," she said. "I thought of being a stewardess, but after seeing the cockpit, I knew I wanted to be a pilot."

Now with more than 1,500 flying hours, many in the airlines' six-passenger turbo-jet Navajos, she said she looks forward to flying the 18-passenger Handley-Page Jetstreams, which the airline has ordered.

Fred Yost, Air East President, who hired Miss Welch, said "Why not? She is a qualified pilot and she is a very talented young lady. She even acts as our executive secretary," a position which is presently vacant.

Councilmen Accept Revised City Budget

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

The Pampa City Council today accepted a revised version of the 1969-70 city budget in the amount of $1,917,878, which reflects current revenues that would be raised from a proposed 50-cent increase in property taxes or the passage of the one-cent city sales tax.

The original budget version, proposed by City Manager Charles Hill, called for a budget of $1,844,902, using cash reserves on hand.

The mayor and four councilmen elected not to use cash reserves that would bankrupt the city at the end of the 1969-70 year, but to balance the budget with current revenues secured from a property tax increase or a city sales tax.

The one-cent city sales tax election has been called for Sept. 24.

In the event the public rejects that issue, a city tax ordinance is being readied that would raise city property tax from $1.72 to $2.22 per $100 evaluation based on 40 per cent market value. Revenues from this source would derive approximately $240,000.

The ordinance will have its first reading on Sept. 9 and will be ready for the second and final reading on Sept. 25, the day after the city sales tax election in order to provide the city with operational expenses for the fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1.

If the city sales tax passes, the property tax ordinance will be waived.

In his budget message to the council, City Manager Charles Hill said, "The new budget is (See BUDGET, Page 2)

Citizen's Committee Appointed By Mayor

Mayor Milo Carlson today announced the appointment of a Citizens Information Committee, composed of a cross-section of business and professional men, to take the City Budget Story to the people.

He said, "The city has to have additional money. This is necessitated by inflation, the Canadian River Water payment and the expense of the sanitary landfill operation ordered by the state."

The alternatives to raise the money are a one-cent city sales tax or a 50-cent increase in property tax.

Last week, the city council called an election for Sept. 24 for the sales tax vote. In the Sept. 9 Council meeting, an ordinance will be placed to raise the property tax from $1.72 to $2.22.

"The city budget must be balanced," he said. "The Citizens Committee has recommended the sales tax be placed before the citizens as the most desirable method of solving the city's revenue problems. The mayor and the councilmen wholeheartedly concur."

"In order that the citizens of this community can be made aware of the differences between the sales tax and the property tax, I have appointed a Citizens Information Committee."

Former Mayor Jim Nation will head the committee which will be augmented by John Fritsch, Ray Duncan, Floyd Watson, Ben Sturgeon, Travis Lively Sr., Kay Fancher and H. Donahue.

Possession Of U.S. 'Top Secret' Plans

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — The West German magazine Der Stern reported in its current issue it has received copies in the mail of top secret U.S. contingency plans for an "unconventional" war in Europe.

Der Stern did not publish the plans, which it said covered 33 pages, 20 of them stamped "secret" and the others stamped "secret."

American authorities confirmed the authenticity of the plans, Der Stern said, and with West German intelligence officials launched an investigation into what appeared to be a major breach of Allied security.

In San Francisco, Ramparts magazine said it had copies of the same documents and would print them. There were indications the plans were at least six years old.

Der Stern said the plans were prefaced by remarks that said their purpose "was to prepare the leadership and the layout of responsibilities for beginning and executing an unconventional war in the area of the U.S. European commander."

The documents also listed U.S. troop strengths, weapons positions and logistics and electronics capabilities, the magazine said.

Entitled "Plan 10-1," the documents arrived in a heavy envelope postmarked Rome, Der Stern said. It did not say whether they had been given to the American authorities.

Also inside the envelope was a typewritten letter in English that said the sender was carrying out the wish of Maj. Gen. Horst Wendland, deputy director of the West German Federal Intelligence Agency until he committed suicide last Oct. 8.

The signature on the letter was not legible and there was no return address, Der Stern said.

Photostatic copies also were sent to journals in Italy, France and England, the magazine

Decision On Tax Bill Halted By Differences

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas legislators, deadlocked in a tax fight that has survived bomb threats, fistcuffs and angry accusations, must settle their differences and pass a tax bill today or expect to start a new 30-day special session Wednesday.

There is little hope that the lawmakers can iron out their tax problems and get a bill through both Houses before the current session runs out at midnight.

At least five tax proposals have been rejected by the legislature.

The latest of those came Monday when the House leadership backed away from a toe-to-toe fight over a measure that would put food under the sales tax. The proposal, which passed the Senate with a one-vote margin, was rejected 147-0 on the House after Speaker Gus F. Mutscher gave up on efforts to muscle it through the lower chamber.

Even though Mutscher tried to skirt a floor fight by dismissing the tax bill, five—and perhaps more—House members got into a shoving and shouting match during House consideration of the proposal.

The skirmish started when Rep. James Nugent, D-Kerrville, and Rep. Curtis Graves, D-Houston, staged a tug-of-war over use of the House's back microphone. Finally Graves jumped on top of the press table and angrily shouted his remarks at Mutscher.

Before the affray ended, Reps. Rex Brahm of Houston, Guy Floyd of San Antonio, Henry Sanchez of Brownsville and R. C. Nichols of Houston all got into the action.

A bomb threat in the capitol had delayed House and Senate sessions for more than an hour.

House and Senate tax writers met Monday night to offer counter-proposals for a third compromise tax bill, but the head of the Senate conferees talked out of the session after declaring that the House leadership was controlled by the beer industry.

Sen. William T. Moore, D-Bryan, said the Senate would not accept any tax bill which did not include a tax on beer (See DECISION, Page 2)

Heat Relief Brought As Clouds Stay

Promising clouds delivered approximately .02 inches in Pampa last night, but the clouds and showers are expected to remain in the area for several more days.

The cooling rains which will probably end out August came as a needed relief to record high temperatures set earlier in the month, in several areas of the state.

Thunderstorms in Austin Monday seemed to equal the mood of Texas politics—ferocious.

Nearly four inches of rain fell on Austin causing flash flooding which subsided shortly after the downpour ended.

Thundershowers across the state began tapering off overnight, however, Tyler measured 12 of an inch of rain, San Antonio .03 and Fort Worth .02.

Burger Man Free On Bond In Assault Charge

AMARILLO (UPI) — Jerry Wilson, 25, of Burger, Tex., was arraigned and released on $1,000 bond Monday pending extradition proceedings in New Mexico where he is charged in connection with the abduction of his wife.

Wilson is charged with aggravated assault in Albuquerque, N.M., against John Curtis, 34, of Dallas, Curtis was to have married the woman, Sue Fischer, last Thursday in Albuquerque.

Wilson allegedly leaped into Curtis' car as Curtis and Miss Fischer were on their way to be married, Curtis said Wilson struck him and Miss Fischer and said he would kill the woman.

Curtis managed to jump out of the car in an effort to summon police. Wilson and the woman fled to Juarez, Mex., where they remarried.

A federal kidnapping charge against Wilson was dropped when FBI agents learned the woman voluntarily accompanied Wilson to Mexico.

New Mexico Gov. David Carrasco requested Wilson be extradited. Such a request would be handled through the office of Texas Gov. Preston Smith.

Leukemia Society Poster Girl Dies

DALLAS (UPI) — Charlene Stone, 7, the 1969 Poster Girl for the Leukemia Society, died in Dallas Monday.

She was a native of Richardson, Tex., near Dallas.

She received both letters and personalized photographs of former President Lyndon B. Johnson and an autographed copy of "Book of Texas" by former Texas Gov. John Connally in 1968.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Stone of Richardson, two sisters and a brother.

Funeral services were to be held today in Richardson.

COLD WET WEATHER could not keep the members of the Pampa High School marching band from practicing their routines this morning. While Pampans shivered in the cool air, many of the bandmen wore Bermuda shorts as they stood formation. Battle Erupts In Que Son Valley

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Marines 60 miles south of the coastal city of Da Nang, units of the Army's Americal Division reported having killed 74 Communist troops Monday.

The latest fighting in the area killed at least 21 Americans and wounded more than 100.

The Marines had been fighting for more than 24 hours in the 10-mile-long valley 340 miles northeast of Saigon. They lost at least 20 killed and 62 wounded and reported killing 11 North Vietnamese.

Nixon Learns Expected $22.9 Billion Windfall Has Evaporated

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — The Nixon administration has discovered that a $22.9 billion windfall expected to be available for federal domestic programs when the Vietnam War ends has evaporated.

Dr. Daniel P. Moynihan, President Nixon's assistant for urban affairs, said an economic forecast released last January is "not realistic" and new studies show the money "just won't be there."

Moynihan apparently referred to a report prepared by former President Lyndon B. Johnson's administration, but issued by the Nixon administration in early January.

The $22.9 billion figure was the Cabinet-Coordinating Com-

Motorcycle Gang Feud Continues

TAYLOR, Mich. (UPI) — A continued feud between Detroit-area motorcycle gangs erupted into another shootout early today, leaving a plainclothes policeman who observed the fracas critically shot and one gang member seriously wounded.

Taylor police said plainclothesman Freeman Sutter, 27, on stakeout in another case at the Top Hat restaurant, was gunned down when he tried to stop a gang member fleeing the shooting. Sutter emptied his revolver at the suspect while falling, police said.

One suspect, Larry Prince, 22, Taylor, believed to be a member of the Scorpions motorcycle gang, was arrested in the parking lot and his brother, Wayne, 19, was sought.

An early American contribution to man's sedentary comfort is the rocking chair, which most authorities believe was invented by Benjamin Franklin. LIVELY HOBBY AND GUEST-ROOM plays up to patterns for good effect... note random-shear carpet, "Willow Hill," of durable, beautiful olefin fiber. Interesting window treatment (fiberglass panel cuts off an ugly view) is enhanced by tie-back curtains faced in same shade as carpet.

Pattern Mix Home Decor

A play on patterns... that's the message in today's home decor. Just a few years back more than one pattern in a room was unheard of.

A good example of coordinated prints and patterns in a lively hobby and guest room which you can create.

Start with a richly patterned random-shear carpet — such as "Willow Hill" of easy-care Herculan olefin fiber. Makes so much sense — since with luxurious yet durable olefin fiber, messy stains disappear just by blotting up immediately and sponging up the evidence with the suds of a light detergent and water.

Add striking black and white striped wallpaper, a multi-green geometric pattern on an easy chair and exciting prints on throw pillows — here is a perfect place for round-the-clock living.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

Senior Center visitors commented the nice showers we got Thursday and Sunday evening were quite a relief from the heat we've been having lately.

Mrs. Daisy Brunson was back at the Center this week after a long absence. Mrs. Margaret Conley was also back. Mrs. Conley has been assisting in the care of her sister, Mrs. Irene Ann Burnett who is a patient in Casa Del Nursing Home.

A guest was Mrs. Ralph Berger, Cushing, Okla., who is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mosley and came with her hostess.

Mrs. Genia Noland brought a new member, Mrs. Jessye Gault who enjoyed playing canasta. Welcome to the Center, Mrs. Gault.

Frank Carter is home from the hospital and was back with us Thursday.

Mrs. Elma Bailey is leaving soon for a visit with relatives and friends in Oklahoma, Missouri and Illinois.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Lillie Reynolds, Claude Lawrence and Mr. C. C. Dodd.

The Friendship Class of First Presbyterian Church was hostess. Serving refreshments were Mrs. Faye Walker, A. D. Hills, Ellice Patillo, Jess O'Brien, Owen Gee, Louise Blankvist, W. D. Dixon, Alice Ruth Colwell and Misses Lucy Herlacher and Elsie Cunningham.

Your reporter left Wednesday evening on the porch step and was unable to be present

Thursday afternoon. Thanks to others for gathering the news. Called Friday on yours truly were Mrs. Emma Tinsley, Mae Cude, Lucy Hale, and Mrs. A. McClendon.

Mrs. Mollie Hethcock had a visit from her granddaughter, Dwinnna Dean when Mr. and Mrs. Mathis came from Albuquerque, N.M., for the weekend. They also visited other relatives while here.

Mrs. C. G. Miller attended graduation service of her granddaughter's husband, Neil Rogers from West Texas State University last week. Mrs. Miller's granddaughter and her husband, and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Porter took Mrs. Miller to Amarillo for the graduation.

Red Cross Volunteers with transportation were Mrs. Olive Hills, Doris Wilson and Leila Clifford.

Altruists assisting were Jay Flanagan, Marie Fitzgerald, Louise Sewell and Ruth Sewell.

The once-upon-a-time woman who chose drapery fabrics and window treatments as an afterthought in the decorative plan is "long gone." This fall a new woman has emerged who is exacting in tastes, demands more character in colors, and who considers windows as areas of creative design. "ART DECO" — THE FINGERTIP COAT. Fashion's latest trend is at any gal's fingertips in this city pants coat of shadowy blue Kitovi processed Alaska fur seal accented with shimmering Sandrift Lakoda sheared Alaska fur seal sleeves and bib.

Art Deco Is Chic Theme For Fall Dinner Parties

This fall why not be the first hostess on your block to give an Art Deco party! To be absolutely authentic, you should know that Art Deco is a style that originated in the twenties (named after a Paris exhibition of decorative art and accessories).

It attained its most complete, extravagant expression in the thirties and now, in 1969 it is enjoying an unprecedented revival that is sweeping through fashion and home furnishing circles as well.

It is characterized by stylized geometric patterns, small repetitive over-all patterns, lots of plain, smoked and frosted glass — always heavy and chunky-metal and metallic fabrics; the birth of laminates and plastic in furniture as well as simple but strong curvilinear lines in furnishings and housewares (remember the old curvy shaped radios).

For further inspiration on this period just look at any thirties movie on the TV late, late show especially those with Jean Harlow and Katherine Hepburn.

Since fashion too is exploiting this style — especially in at-home-wear — as the hostess you'll have no trouble finding an Art Deco jump suit or flowing culotte pajamas. Accentuate the outfit with long ropes of pearls or crystal beads and you're ready to welcome the guests.

Send out poster-style invitations with bold-out type letters. Use a small, over-all patterned tablecloth. Buy an inexpensive geometric poster to serve as a backdrop for the table.

Serve buffet style and keep the menu simple to accommodate guests in an informal but flowing setting that allows all to circulate in a free-wheeling, easy style.

Dust off the chunky glassware from the attic or (Mom's or Grandma's attic) and pour a ruby red wine. Not only is it the perfect choice to accompany the Art Deco theme, as ruby red or garnet was one of the most popular colors of that era.

A tri-colored ice cream mold bombe is the perfect Art Deco dessert. To make, simply layer a 6 to 7 cup mold with a pint each of chocolate, pistachio and strawberry ice cream. Freeze. Unmold on a chilled plate. Pass hot fudge sauce if you wish. It will serve 10.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a junior executive in a large firm. Last summer one of the senior partners invited us to spend the week-end at his summer place at the lake. We went and were treated very graciously.

My husband told me that they are inviting us again this year, and here is my problem. Last year during the daytime we all sat around in bathing suits, robes, etc. However, on Saturday night they took us to a nearby nightclub which turned out to be very swanky. All the women (including my hostess) wore dressy dresses, and all I had was a summer shift and a sweater. Naturally I felt inferior and embarrassed, but I wasn't told in advance that I would need a dressy dress. Actually, I don't own any dressy evening clothes.

I don't want to offend this couple, but I don't want to go into debt to buy clothes for one week-end which I probably won't wear anywhere else. I hate to deny my husband this opportunity to socialize with his bosses, but what can I do? Don't suggest "borrowing" clothes. I'm not the type.

SIMPLE FOLKS
DEAR SIMPLE: All you need is a little imagination and a lot of self-confidence. No one expects you to compete in a fashion show. If you don't own a sewing machine, rent one and discover the joys of sewing. If you're all thumbs, surely you have a friend who isn't. If not, do a little bargain hunting. By all means, go, and have a good time. I admire your unwillingness to go into debt or to "borrow." And I'll bet if you were to wear the same summer shift you wore last year, nobody would know the difference or care.

DEAR ABBY: Now I've seen figures, elements yet to fit into the equations before the balance can be seen.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Matters relating to putting on weight — or taking it off — are likely to be startlingly successful if developed along natural lines.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Impending changes are rumored. Wait until you know more of the details before deciding how to react. Your friends and neighbors take turns doing things which seem to inconvenience you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emotional stress builds up Wednesday because your intuition tells you to keep a good idea held up until another time comes around.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You meet more competition in several fields: job, romance, prestige in the area of a hobby. Expect no thanks for courtesy; extend it nonetheless, and concentrate on essentials for the long pull.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Start early with optimism. Keep moving all day. Financial puzzles tend to be resolved with unexpected help, some of it from people you thought lacked resources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friends are impractical, while bankers are too practical. Both are just as well left alone. At a hard-driving pace finish a lot of details so they never come back! Check figures as you go!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Wednesday (with no intent on your part) your spontaneous reactions may well break rules. Apologize where you should and go on without a backward glance.

everything! Coffee dispensers that look exactly like filing cabinets!

KAY IN SEATTLE
DEAR KAY: Beautiful! They'll match up perfectly with lots of coffee drinkers who look exactly like office workers.

DEAR ABBY: Our son was killed in Vietnam early in 1968. He left a widow (I'll call her Annie) and three small children. Annie was a good wife to our son and we love her very much.

We recently had a letter from Anne telling us that she plans to marry a captain in the air force. She wants us to come to the wedding, which will be very small, and she has asked my husband to give the bride away. (Her own father is dead.) Annie's fiancé also wrote us a very nice letter, asking for our blessings.

My husband and I would like to go because we want to meet the man who will be the "father" to our son's children. The problem is our eldest daughter. She claims that there was something between Annie and this captain while our son was in Viet Nam, and she says if we attend the wedding it will show that we have no respect for our dead son's memory.

She has raised such a commotion that it has left me sick. We can't believe that there is any truth to what she says about Annie. Under the circumstances, what would you do, Abby?

DEAR TORN: I would go to Annie's wedding.

To meet the demand of the more exacting woman, manufacturers of fiber glass drapery fabrics are introducing a complete new line of fabrics in colors as shocking as shocking pink, as verdant as a spring green, as hot as a flame color and as deep and dramatic as purple and black.

Here the tote bag, a summertime favorite, has the trim lines of a handbag as designed by Julius Resnick. Made in a Nova Tweed fabric, the handsome bag in assorted neutrals and clear pastels opens wide but meets at the top when held by double strap handles. Strap handles are looped around the bottom of the bag and secured at the sides with handsome gold-toned buttons. A wall zipper pocket accommodates money and important papers.

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 27
Your birthday Wednesday: The coming year promises advancement, more detailed responsibilities, much more authority (maybe suddenly and surprisingly). Your capacity for understanding yourself and others improves so that relationships assume markedly different qualities. People who have confused you are now seen with clarity, and you have the choice of whether or not to continue the association. Wednesday's natives; hard workers for their communities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Round up associates for group activities. Do more than minimum housekeeping to free energy for the big push. (Keep moving; get a great deal done on your special project.)

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Long journeys, dealings with authorities are not favored Wednesday. Your friends are unlikely to do more than merely advise. Take time to deliberate on your progress.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Now comes an unpressured day in which you are freer to express yourself. Teamwork improves. You find yourself thinking of odd coincidences.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Serious negotiations fill some of the day; serious study should fill the night. Long-term arrangements about home, or working conditions are feasible to establish Wednesday. Get busy and do something for yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Until the 29th, you are not entirely free to follow your own unmixing intuition. There are missing

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Market sentiment is still "most acutely sensitive," to changes in interest rates and a cut in the prime rate, which could come at almost any time now, would be the kind of news that might accelerate and broaden the current advance, says Winslow, Cohn & Stetson.

There is a possibility that dividends on certain utility stocks may have to be cut, the firm says, and "money flowing out of utilities into other sections of the stock market could be a major source of general strength later this year."

After such a vigorous rally, investors should begin to place less emphasis on buying, and in-and-out traders should begin to place more emphasis on selling, observes W.E. Hutton & Co. At the same time, the firm says, those who have money to invest should be looking around for stocks which they would like to buy on weakness.

Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis anticipates still higher levels for the stock market. Recent improvement has been significant, the firm says, noting that the rally has been supported by most major technical indicators, with only volume proving somewhat limiting. There has been enough technical improvement to suggest that the market has reached at least a temporary bottom, the firm adds.

Having weathered a first test of the July low, the stock market could work higher during a period of backing and filling, says Dreyfus & Co. However, more time may be required to form a base sturdy enough to support a sustained advance. Selected purchases, the firm says, should work out well over the next year or so.

The Spanish Pueblo of Yerba Buena, renamed San Francisco in 1847, was established Dec. 7, 1834.

Hollywood Reports

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—He was a movie star. One of the big ones, Dana Andrews.

His name went above the title. His pictures made money and some were distinguished films: "The Best Years of our Lives," "Laura" and "The Ox-Bow Incident."

Andrews also played in the best of the television shows. For whatever reasons, roles grew scarce for Andrews, who turned to business and real estate developments to earn a fortune. He joined that collection of famous names heard but not seen.

Beginning late next month he will be visible every day on television, joining the acting fraternity which wends its way from movie marquees to prime-time television and, finally, daytime soap opera strips.

The path has been paved by the likes of MacDonald Carey, Jack Kelly and Joan Bennett. Andrews will star in "Bright Promise," a little to warm the hearts of American housewives on wash day.

Georgia showed a 9 per cent gain in personal income in 1968.

Window on the World: Red Buildup

While the United States and its allies are deescalating militarily, diplomatic sources in London say Russia is fast strengthening her military posture around the world. At home, the buildup of nuclear weapons and the rockets to deliver them has been stepped up. Soviet naval forces abroad are being expanded to put them on a par with the United States fleet. The diplomats offer several possible reasons for the sudden Red arms race: fear of Communist China, fear of the possibility of a secret deal between Washington and Peking to "gang up" on Russia and to strengthen Moscow's hand in any strategic arms limitation talks with the United States.

Diplomatic Goo: The diplomatic corps in Manila is still talking about the blooper pulled by a top Philippine official during the recent Indonesian independence day reception. Foreign Undersecretary Manuel Collantes, after making the usual congratulatory remarks, proposed a toast to "President Sukarno."

There were angry murmurs from Indonesian Embassy officials and the red-faced Collantes said the toast was really in honor of President Suharto. Later, Collantes apologized in private to the Indonesian ambassador.

More Irish Troubles? British officials hope reorganization of Northern Ireland's police forces can be completed within weeks to allow the withdrawal of the 6,000 British troops now keeping the peace between Protestants and Catholics. Police reorganization will be one of the major problems studied by British Home Secretary James Callaghan on a fact-finding visit to Ulster next week. But officials privately are still concerned that when the British troops pull out, the violence between the two sides there may be a new eruption.

Spanish Unions: The cabinet is expected to meet next week to deal with projected reforms of the state labor syndicates. The syndicates headed by Jose Solis Ruiz are pressing for greater autonomy and the right to vote for their own representatives in government instead of having them appointed by the government.

Harvesters Start Training

88 Report For Practice

Coach Swede Lee and assistant coaches welcomed, with wet hands, 88 prospective football players Monday morning as the Harvesters opened conditioning drills.

The wet hands came from the wet practice field and coach Lee's luck? stayed with him. Through two spring and fall drills Lee has yet to open one in Pampa that it hasn't rained.

The Harvesters practiced Monday morning at Stephen F. Austin Grade School but returned to their own field for the Monday afternoon session.

Until Friday the players will work out in shorts and go through exercises and conditioning drills. But Friday they don pads for the first time and Lee is planning some long, hard-hitting drills.

Monday there were 43 varsity members reporting and 45 Shocker hopefuls. All the players ran through play routines and ran and ran and ran.

Everybody reported in pretty good shape, at least as far as we could tell," Lee said.

The coach said that the wet fields hampered drills considerably and it was really hard to tell just how good shape everybody was in.

Lee did say that almost all the players were near the weight they were asked to report in at.

"We only had one player who was way off what he was supposed to be," Lee said.

Quarterback John Jenkins weighed in at a smooth 200 pounds; Scotty King at 175 and Don Willis at 162. The smallest Pampa lineman sat the scales to 177 pounds and the largest to 219. Only six of the players were over 200 pounds.

There was one casualty Monday despite the no contact work. Shocker Garvin McCarroll was pass-catching and slipped and broke his collar bone.

Lee said the Harvesters would have one out-of-town scrimmage session before the season gets underway Sept. 12. But the team or where the scrimmage will be held has not yet been decided.

The Shockers will scrimmage Sept. 4 at Lefors beginning at 6 p.m.

The Harvesters will be on parade tonight, beginning at 7:30 in Harvester Stadium when the Harvester Club hosts an ice cream social.

Everybody is invited to the free affair and all fans are urged to attend.

SCOTTY KING gets help from coach Bob McAlister Monday as the Harvester footballers reported for fall workouts. King is getting a pad put on his right knee to act as a brace and help prevent injury.

Silent Mets Creeping Up On Slipping Cubs

By United Press International
Gil Hodges once watched Leo Durocher give the classic textbook example of how to pull a team from behind down the stretch to the pennant.

Now Hodges would like to show that he learned from the master how it's done. Hodges was playing first base for the 1951 Brooklyn Dodgers when Durocher managed the New York Giants from 12 1/2 games back on Aug. 11 to the pennant on Bobby Thomson's famed homer.

Now Durocher is managing the Chicago Cubs and Hodges is managing the New York Mets and just 10 days ago, the race was all over. The Mets were 9 1/2 games back on Aug. 14, in third place and a game behind St. Louis. On Aug. 16, both the Mets and Cards were 8 1/2 back.

"Smack for so little"

What is "Quality"?

Quality is at once the most elusive and yet the most tangible thing in the world.

Some ships have quality . . . some shoes, some books, some beers.

There is no synonym for it, because there is no substitute for it.

Wheeze, Sneeze? It's Allergy Month

One out of every 10 Americans is suffering, to varying degrees, the miseries this month.

That is the estimated proportion of the population afflicted with some sort of allergic disease, with the most common complaint being hay fever, for which this is the high season.

Allergies are much more than personal annoyances. They represent a major — and costly — national health problem. The annual bill for drugs, primarily antihistamines, comes to $135 million alone. Time lost from work as a result of allergy-connected illness amounts to some 25 million mandays per year, at a payroll cost of more than $40 million.

Allergies are the No. 1 chronic disease among children, accounting for a third of all chronic conditions in the under-17 age group. More than 36 million school days are lost per year.

Allergies rank seventh among medical reasons for draft rejection, with a rejection ratio of 7.4 out of every 1,000 examinations.

The allergy sufferer must see his doctor on the average three times more frequently than other patients.

Of the estimated 22 million Americans with one or more allergies, 16 million — including five million children — are victims of asthma-hay fever. But nature's pollen isn't the only villain. The list of allergens, and man-made allergens, is almost endless.

Five per cent of the U. S. population can't take penicillin, while others are allergic to other drugs, detergents, cosmetics, plastics and right down the list of the wonder products of our inventive society.

It all adds up to more than sufficient reason for designating the period Aug. 15 to Sept. 15 as National Allergy Month, during which the Allergy Foundation of America is conducting an intensive campaign to educate the public and aid individual sufferers.

Information may be obtained by writing, appropriately enough, to "SNEEZE," Box 1005, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Assembly Line Is Key To Lower Cost Housing

To meet the goals established by the Housing Act of 1968, America has to build some 2.6 million units a year, both houses and apartments. The construction forecast for this year is only 1.5 million units.

At this rate, the nation will be more than 10 million units short before the end of the next decade.

With land, labor, materials and financing costs zooming the price of housing at the current rate of 10 per cent per year, million of Americans, especially those with low incomes, are rapidly being priced out of decent housing. It is clear that the old way of doing things — erecting a dwelling brick by brick and board by board on site — is no longer good enough.

No one is more aware of this than George Romney, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The onetime president of American Motors, who stole a lead on the auto industry with his compact car, has launched a campaign called "Operation Breakthrough." Its aim is to bring automobile assembly line methods into the construction industry and mass-produce small town houses to sell below the $20,000 level, preferably in the $10,000-$12,000 range.

Already some minor, but important, breakthroughs can be reported.

In Detroit, Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers, who used to sit on the opposite side of the bargaining table from Romney, has been a moving force behind the creation of the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority.

The authority has placed an initial order for 250 three-bedroom, factory-built houses with one manufacturer and 800 slightly more expensive homes with another.

On the legislative front, the first major step — to break the logjam of restrictive local building codes — is to use the phrase of the Urban Land Institute, is a bill introduced in Congress by Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., called the Building Sciences Act of 1969, it would establish a nongovernmental institution, to act as a clearing and building code co-ordination center for the entire country.

In the private sector, 41 concrete firms operating 67 plants throughout the country have formed a new consortium to produce building components.

Perhaps most encouraging of all, the 900,000-member United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, largest of the AFL-CIO building trades unions, has modified its tradition "procedures" by signing an agreement with a prefabricated housing manufacturer to put up 1,000 units in Rochester and Syracuse, N.Y., and Akron, Ohio.

The union is also negotiating with the Urban League to set up centers to train unskilled workers for employment in the company's factory.

The day when houses or apartment modules will be rolling off the assembly line, by the tens of thousands is still some years distant, but the idea is well into the tooling-up stage.

All In 180 Years

1790 and 1970 are more than just the same numerals rearranged. They are the A.D.'s, respectively, of the first census and the upcoming; 180 years apart — but hardly more desperate in that regard than in the questions asked in the then and now.

Article 1, Section 2, of the Constitution provided for the census, specifically called an "enumeration." Its questions in 1790 — and for a long time afterward — related to name, age, and address.

As formulated last year, the questionnaires going out for answers April 15, 1970 involve far more than that. The short form (for 80 percent of the nation's households) can be answered — it is estimated — in an average of 15 minutes.

For the other 20 percent the long form applies, taking, it is said, the better part of an hour, if you hurry.

The challenge of "snapping" was applied at the outset. A questionnaire of 100 questions, with 100 assurances that the information obtained would be just between the bureau and the person interrogated. And much has been said on the part of these officials to sugar-coat further the enlarged decennial pill which the law says must be swallowed, regardless.

The purpose and embroidery of what started out to be simply an enumeration (of people) as the basis of congressional representation has changed a lot since 1790. So have a lot of other things.

Big Lift For Nation Is Priority

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Amid the persistent talk that President Nixon is shaping major domestic policies largely according to a "southern strategy," some significant critical voices are heard saying this course will fail him in the long run.

One leading public figure puts it like this:

"If he wants to make his scratches high on the wall (of history), he's going to have to make some forward-looking moves that will not please the Strom Thurmonds of his party."

A top Democrat who thinks Nixon has a strong chance of winning re-election in 1972 nevertheless contends that he works within too narrow limits: "Nixon is trying to run the country as if he were a senator or a congressman. He follows the trend of public opinion. That may put him in tune with the nation, but I doubt whether that is the way to be a good president."

The first-cited source says that even if there is an emerging conservative Republican majority of the sort projected by Kevin Phillips, author and special assistant to Attorney General John Mitchell, the President will not be allowed to play it too heavily. There is a small but articulate group of people in the media, the academic world and elsewhere. This source adds, which will not let Nixon ignore in any substantial way what it regards as the crushing problems of the cities — the racial struggle, poverty, pollution, etc.

"This man says that the cities' financial plight today is so bad that their condition can only be described as hopeless. They need massive infusions of money which must come from federal sources."

In the view of this key figure, the urban problems described are not limited to the old established centers which for decades have been the principal bastions of Democratic power. They also afflict the newer cities in the conservative southern and western zones which political analyst Phillips insists are the foundation places for a new Republican majority.

Says the source: "Wherever you go, you find people discouraged. They have a feeling that things just aren't working, that the country is almost falling apart."

"I'm very much concerned that if something big doesn't happen to change this, the nation could be in very serious trouble in just a few years. We can't simply go pooping along like we've been doing."

Yet this man wonders whether Richard Nixon, at least as presently revealed, has the leadership capacity and drive to break this national mood of discouragement. His observation:

"I think the President perceives intellectually that the country needs a big lift. But it may be that by character and nature he is too calculating and cautious to supply it."

His doubts notwithstanding, the cited public figure still falls back on his insistence that the pressures on Nixon to take drastic innovative action will be immense, that he will not be able to take the steam out of these forces while he devotes chief attention to the "southern strategy."

It is felt that the President's recent drop of 13 percentage points in a public opinion poll, least of his popularity may be the first's strongly supportive evidence of these interesting judgments.

HE'S WAVING AT YOU!

A New Source Of Power

By JAMES H. COUNTRYMAN

The widespread belief that the revolution which is now in progress in America was inspired by racial unrest, and by dissident youth, is without foundation in fact. The revolution is the ripened fruit of political apostasy which was embraced in the early days of the New Deal. And ever since that time the Constitution and individual freedom have been under siege by revolutionaries of all three departments of the National Government.

In recent years the Federal Establishment has done little or nothing to restrain criminal insurrection in our solvent, and remained deadly silent and shamefully quiescent when lawless elements in our society armed themselves with the torch, and with other implements of warfare, and burned our cities, pillaged business establishments, and murdered our citizens.

The insurrection continues unabated, and it constitutes a threat to the peace and safety of us all. It is the violent whirlwind which we are reaping, and which erupted after the bitter winds of revolutionary change and disenchantment with our way of life, years ago.

A coalition of Liberals, Socialists, and other disturbing elements have been in control of the Government ever since 1933, and their accomplishments so far have been the mutilation of the Constitution and the fragmentation of our Republican form of government. The new order which is to be established is a welfare state. It promises the good life for all. But its certain destiny is a return to the Dark Ages, and a police state.

This new and fast developing society is to thrive upon the luscious fruits of America's labor, industry and enterprise which are to be shared by all alike, with no thought given to the millions who refuse to accept honest employment, but who prefer to live upon the resources of others. Only a wicked philosophy can seek to justify these incredible aims. But it holds that the world, meaning the American taxpayers, owes everyone a living. And, as we have already seen, when the distribution of the wealth did not proceed with "all deliberate speed" the impatient ones simply took to the streets to burglarize and steal that which belonged to others in order to get their share of the wealth now. This is the culmination of the doctrine proclaimed in liberal circles which holds that the violation of some laws, and the serving of jail sentences are badges of honor.

Not only do the philosophers of the welfare state have no compassion for the taxpayers and self-supporting citizens, they go a step further and erase the line of distinction between the deserving and the undeserving and as we contemplate the world around us, we are struck by the extent to which individuals are concerned with help to the undeserving. In Shaw's "Pygmalion," Doolittle, the dustman, makes these pointed observations about himself: "I'm one of the undeserving poor... I don't need less than a deserving man: I need more. I don't eat less hearty than him; and I drink a lot more. I want a bit of amusement, cause I'm a thinking man... I ain't pretending to be deserving. I'm undeserving; and I mean to go on being undeserving. I like it... Undeserving poverty is my line... It's the only one that has any ginger in it."

Doolittle was supported by the compassion of "middle-class morality" and he despised the hands that laid bread upon his table. Later, when he was projected into the middle class, its morality distressed him because there was no "ginger" in it for him.

The philosophy of aid to the undeserving has been responsible for packing our relief rolls with Doolittles. The Christian world believes that it is humane to help those who have failed to help themselves. Even more, it accepts the divine logic which teaches that it is more blessed to give than to receive. But these sublime ideals are for voluntary observance. They must yield to a higher law which forbids the taking by force or otherwise, that which belongs to one person and giving it to another in order to implement any concept of charity to the undeserving.

We are now painfully aware of the fact that if we permit the Doolittles to become displeased with the measure of our generosity, they will revolt and become an element of disorder and ugliness in our society. Thus, the undeserving have become armed with a potential power of coercion, and the sentimentalists compound the mischief by the foolish notion that we must maintain such persons on a higher level of benevolence in order that their revolutionary energies may be sapped through the enjoyment of that which they do not earn.

The philosophy of aid to the undeserving has recently given birth to another mischief of far-reaching consequences. It holds that the undeserving have not only a legitimate claim on our compassion, but a legal right to be sustained by the resources of others, while they themselves decline honest employment and live in idleness. And therein politicians have discovered a means of mobilizing votes. The undeserving recipients of our generosity have become organized into powerful minority groups, and are using our money to pay the cost of our exploitation. They proliferate by what they feed upon. Priorities are created for the undeserving, but there are no priorities for those who are forced to pay taxes to support this incredible fraud. The Government has become a powerful instrument of coercion in the hands of the undeserving. On election night there must be much laughter, and great rejoicing, when the ballot boxes arrive at the tabulation centers and are found to be stuffed with ballots cast en bloc by the Doolittles, all of whom have voted to perpetuate their benefactors in office.

In retrospect, this is the indictment, and the proof is self-evident. What shall the verdict be?

The Doctor Says

Training Suggestions For the Tyro Footballer

About this time of year preseason football training takes its toll in the form of heat stroke. Most such cases can be prevented by observing the following suggestions:

Prospective players should avoid summer work in an air-conditioned environment but should work where they can become acclimated to the heat. Drinking six to eight ounces of fluid every hour will prevent heat cramps. If sweating is profuse, salt should be added in the proportion of one teaspoonful to six quarts of water.

A player's weight should be recorded before and after each practice session. If he loses more than 3 per cent of his normal weight during practice he is not drinking enough water. Players should report all headaches, excessive fatigue, sleeplessness and loss of appetite to the coach. A critique period after practice helps the player to relax and cool off before his next meal. The coach should shorten the practice session if, in addition to the heat, the humidity is high. Rubber sweat shirts should never be worn as an aid to conditioning.

Q—Is there any way a parent can detect whether their children practice masturbation?

A—No. All children at one time or another show an interest in touching or stimulating their genitals. False ideas of the damage this does to their minds or later development as solid citizens and good marital partners have led to needless worry on the part of many parents.

Q—My daughter, 5, frequently complains that her stomach hurts. Could this be worms or something more serious?

A—Although most stomach aches are not serious, a few may be. If the pain is accompanied by fever or vomiting, you should call your doctor. In the absence of these symptoms, the commonest cause is indigestion, eating too much, too fast or the wrong foods. Allow the child to rest and give her a light diet until she has recovered. In some children a food allergy is the underlying cause. Worms are a possibility and can usually be diagnosed by closely examining the child's stools.

JOHN GOLDSMITH Ruling Blocks Revocation Of Carmichael Citizenship. ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — A Supreme Court ruling is barring the way to revoking the U.S. citizenship of hate and violence-preaching black extremist Stokely Carmichael.

In May 1967, in Beys Afroyim vs Secretary Dean Rusk, the tribunal, in a far-reaching decision written by Justice Hugo Black, explicitly declared invalid any congressional action aimed at cancelling U.S. citizenship, Black, oldest member of the court, proclaimed:

"We hold that the Fourteenth Amendment, was designed to and does protect every citizen of this nation against a congressional forcible restriction of his citizenship, whatever his creed, race or color. Our holding does no more than give to this citizen that which is his own, a constitutional right to remain a citizen in a free country unless he voluntarily relinquishes that citizenship."

Congressional consideration of vigorously cracking down on Carmichael developed last month after he gave vent to a series of vituperative denunciations of the U.S. while attending the so-called Pan-African Cultural Festival in pro-Soviet Algeria.

In the forefront of this proposed move was Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Ela, long a caustic critic of black revolutionists. But after a careful exploration of the matter, Rogers found the way barred by the sweeping 1967 Supreme Court decree. This specifically excludes any congressional action to deprive Carmichael of his citizenship.

The one-time fire-breathing head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and former top Black Panther official was born in Trinidad, West Indies, in June 1941, and was automatically naturalized when his father was made a citizen by a special act of Congress in 1953. Carmichael is now living in the African nation of Guinea.

In a published interview in Algeria during the Pan-African Cultural Festival, the violencespouting revolutionary declared himself "primarily an African and not an American," and stentoriously called for "armed struggle by blacks in America."

"It is for my black people," he fulminated "that I am willing to kill or die. Carmichael, closely associated with Kwame Nkrumah, deposed dictator of Ghana, talked at length about the need for "armed struggle in order to break out completely from the white culture of America." In the U.S. and elsewhere, he held, blacks must "strive for revolution not only to gain power but also to further the culture with which they live and form their values."

Throughout, Carmichael vigorously "opposed any cooperation with whites, maintaining that the "black nationalist movement must grow stronger before allying with anyone. The only way for black progress is by armed struggle and revolution."

The 1967 Supreme Court decision arose out of a case in which a Polish immigrant who became naturalized left the U.S. and voted in a foreign election. When he applied for a U.S. passport, the State Department refused to grant it on the ground he had lost his citizenship by violating the 1940 Nationality Act. It provides a U.S. citizen shall "lose" his citizenship if he votes "in a political election in a foreign state."

The State Department's ruling was upheld by lower courts, but reversed by the Supreme Court. Justice Black, in speaking for a majority of the tribunal, held that:

"Citizenship in this nation is a part of a cooperative affair. Its citizenship is the country and the country is its citizenry. The very nature of our free government makes it completely incongruous to have a rule of law under which a group of citizens temporarily in office (Congress) can deprive another group of citizens of their citizenship."

Handle To Mideast Peace: Fate Of Palestinian Arabs

By DAVID POLING

The war between Israel and the Arab states is just this side of being a "hot" conflict. You read daily reports of bombing raids, commando skirmishes and new plans for a major offensive by either side. The power talks have not gained any significant ground in his search for peace in the Holy Lands.

The United Nations resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, still stands unimplemented.

A high United Nations official told this writer there simply was no solution to the war as long as the position of the United States was in absolute support of Israel. He was especially critical of the Jewish community in America and its influence on Washington policy.

All of this makes for confusion and uncertainty within the Christian community. As we have written before, a small but vocal group in the Christian family sees the Israeli victory of June, 1967, as the fulfillment of biblical prophecy. To their thinking, God's victory over evil, unbelieving world rises on the tracks of a Sherman tank and is implemented by napalm and flamethrowers.

A larger, more universal gathering of Christians has rejected this "hot-war" theology from Old Testament sources in favor of the love and spirit of Jesus. Yet they, too, feel great sympathy and compassion for the aspirations of the great sympathy and compassion for the aspirations of the Jewish community and the success of the state of Israel.

The net result is a feeling of excitement and pride for the "underdog" Jewish nation and a certain disdain and scorn for the Arab masses led by Nasser and Company.

Fortunately, there are thinking Christians in other parts of the world who are neither swayed by American sentimentality nor Israeli prowess. Some of these are missionaries, professors, teachers, businessmen in the Middle East — many in Lebanon with its sizable bloc of Arab Christians. On one hand they must live with Arab nationalism and, on the other, with the universal claims of the Christian faith — which is neither an American nor an Arab franchise.

From Beirut, Lebanon, I have just received the latest statement of one such group and its viewpoint deserves broad reading. They bring the conflict down to perspective in one solid paragraph:

"The No. 1 question, which must be answered before there is any reasonable hope of peace in the area... is simply this: What is to happen to the Palestinian Arabs? Over the past 21 years over two million Arabs whose families have lived in Palestine for centuries have been pressured, frightened and, in some cases, driven out of their homeland by the egotistical territorial demands of the 20th-century Jewish immigrants. You have been repeatedly subjected by the Western press to panic attacks about the Arab threatening to 'drive the Jews into the sea,' but ironically, what actually has happened is that the Zionists have driven as many Arabs as possible into the desert."

The writers of this Christian statement from Beirut insist that the major problem to be settled is not free passage on the Suez, nor the future arrangement of Jerusalem, the Holy City for three world religions, nor even the boundary lines between Israel and Jordan and Egypt. It is finally to be resolved in the largest grouping of displaced people on the face of the earth — the Arab refugees.

The organigram derives its name from the Malay word meaning "man of the woods" according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The English term stone represents a weight of 14 pounds.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the nicer things that has been happening to me in middle age is failing eyesight. I truly enjoy not being able to see as well as I once did.

In my youth, when I had 20-20 vision as certified by the U.S. Air Force, I was never much of a girl-watcher. If a real knockout hove into view, I would give her a second glance at course. But I was not one of those all-out, gung-ho, dedicated giggers.

The reason I now realize, is that I could see too far. My vision was so keen I could pick out flaws in females a block away. And being highly discriminating in matters of feminine beauty, I would avert my gaze when imperfections were sighted.

But as I began to recede ever deeper into middle age, this situation changed abruptly. I now find myself leering almost constantly, my little piglike eyes bright with libido.

Early Onset Of Syndrome

At first I marked this down to an early onset of the "dirty old man syndrome." None of the other symptoms associated with the syndrome, such as excessive wrinkling, were manifested, however.

I then concluded that my standards of pulchritude had eroded over the years, causing me to gloat at girls who once would have hardly been accorded so much as a single glint. Wrong again.

If a girl actually gets within my optic range—that is, close enough for me to get a good look at her—I find that I am as much of a connoisseur as ever.

Only recently did I finally figure out the real cause of my belated outbreak of "girl-watching." It is a combination of miniskirts and nearsightedness.

"Legs Dead Ahead"

I will be walking down the street and there will be a sudden flash of legs on the periphery of my vision. My eyes immediately send a message to my brain, "Legs dead ahead," they report.

The brain messages back for more information, but if the distance exceeds 25 feet, my eyes can no longer provide any details. "Legs look good from here," is all that can report.

The brain arbitrarily assumes that the rest of the girl looks good, too, and so I saunter along under the pleasant illusion that I am scanning a beautiful woman.

Ten years ago, there wouldn't be one female in 50 that I would consider pretty enough for prolonged perusal. Now the streets are teeming with them. Myopia has improved their looks so much I can hardly wait for astigmatism!

Justice For The Buyer Proposed

DENVER, Colo. (UPI)—The Nixon administration proposed today that consumers be permitted to join together and sue firms indulging in deceptive or fraudulent practices.

Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, said the proposal would be "a major factor in giving the consumer the voice he deserves—one which will go a long way toward giving the consumer 'justitia emptori'."

"Justitia emptori" is a Latin phrase meaning justice for the buyer.

Mrs. Knauer said in an address prepared for the Consumer Federation of America that one of the consumer's major problems is that he gets illegally taken at the market place, the loss is generally lower than a lawyer's fee.

"But it costs hundreds to get justice for dollars," she said.

"We have an answer to that problem—class action," Mrs. Knauer said. "By joining together and sharing attorney and court costs, consumers can bring suit against a firm indulging in deceptive or fraudulent practices and obtain redress damages," she said.

Justice For The Buyer Proposed

DENVER, Colo. (UPI)—The Nixon administration proposed today that consumers be permitted to join together and sue firms indulging in deceptive or fraudulent practices.

Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, said the proposal would be "a major factor in giving the consumer the voice he deserves—one which will go a long way toward giving the consumer 'justitia emptori'."

"Justitia emptori" is a Latin phrase meaning justice for the buyer.

Mrs. Knauer said in an address prepared for the Consumer Federation of America that one of the consumer's major problems is that he gets illegally taken at the market place, the loss is generally lower than a lawyer's fee.

"But it costs hundreds to get justice for dollars," she said.

"We have an answer to that problem—class action," Mrs. Knauer said. "By joining together and sharing attorney and court costs, consumers can bring suit against a firm indulging in deceptive or fraudulent practices and obtain redress damages," she said.
