Planner Unfolds Second Phase For Pampa's Future Improvements

By TEX-DEWEENSE News Staff Writer

The second phase of a comprehensive plan to provide guidelines for Pampa's approach to future capital improvements and development was outlined here yesterday afternoon by Marvin Springer, Dallas urban planning consultant.

Springer met at City Hall with members of the City Planning Commission and city officials to explain his firm's recommendations for schools, central business district, parks and open space, and public buildings.

The Planning Commission and City Council last December approved the Dallas consultant's first phase comprehensive plan report covering the city's economic base, land use, projected population growth, thoroughfares and housing.

Attending yesterday's meeting were Luke McClellan, planning commission chairman, and Bill Duncan, member of the planning group; City Manager Charles Hill; City Engineer B. M. Wofford, Public Works Director R. B. Cooke and Kirk

Duncan of the Downtown Business Association.

They heard Springer recommend plans to be carried out in future years for improvement of the central business district, alternate plans for a proposed municipal building plaza, proposed school sites, intersection street space treatment at downtown corners, parking inventory, differentiation of street space, proposed fire stations, and future park planning, among other proposals.

One proposal in connection with the City Hall Plaza Plan would call for the plaza to replace buildings now located west of Frost St. to the alley between Kingsmill and Foster. It would close Frost to traffic between Kingsmill and Foster and become what Springer described as a "parking and people area" for pedestrians.

The Dallas planner explained his firm was making only recommendations to be projected into the future if Pampa was to keep pace with other proposals.

City Officials Attend Forum In Amarillo

City Manager Charles Hill, B. M. Wofford, utilities director, and Ronnie Wood, personnel director, were in Amarillo today attending a forum discussion on a proposed Regional Planning Commission for 25 Panhandle counties.

Hill said he had been authorized to go to the meeting by the City Council.

"We are just going to listen, I'll say."

The city manager stated he would file a report on today's discussion at the regular meeting of the city council next Tuesday.

The proposed planning commission, known as the Council of Governments, would be set up to act as a clearing house in obtaining state and federal aid for regional town and cities in the 25-county area.

Today's forum session was scheduled to run from 10 this morning until 3:30 this afternoon.

Four speakers were on the program. Dan Petty of the State local relations committee of the governor's office in Austin said (See OFFICIALS, Page 2)

San Antonio Transit Company To Try And Force Drivers To Work

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—The city-owned San Antonio Transit Company has announced it will take no moves to force bus drivers to return to work before a contract settlement is reached.

The bus strike in Texas' third largest city entered its third day today with thousands of commuters, shoppers and students forced to find alternate means of getting about town.

Neither the transit system nor the union scheduled any negotiating sessions to arrive at a new contract. Both sides agreed to a contract in negotiations, but the Amalgamated Transit Union Local 694 rejected it Tuesday.

The city's bus strike idled 425 drivers and all the city's buses.

The transit company said Wednesday it made no plans to seek an injunction to force the drivers to return to work, but the company's board of trustees

Mrs. Pike Tells Of Judean Desert Ordeal

Editor's Note:
In this story written exclusively for UPI Mrs. Diana Pike tells of her 10-hour ordeal in the Judean Desert after her car broke down and she left her husband Dr. James Pike to search for help.

By DIANA PIKE
Written for UPI

BETHLEHEM (UPI)—What started as a quiet one or two hour drive with my husband has become the greatest nightmare of my life. We left our Jerusalem hotel on Monday afternoon just to drive out into the wilderness a short way. We wanted to get a feeling for the land of the Bible. The Bible says Jesus used for prayer and meditation.

We were only going to be gone for an hour or two. We had to be back in Jerusalem for dinner with Prof. David Flusser, with whom we were consulting about a book we are writing on the historical Jesus. Israel is such a small country it would seem impossible for anyone to get lost in it. We had plenty of gas but all we had with us was two bottles of coke.

On the map it looked like a short road which would take us a little way into the desert and back to civilization.

When we had traveled 15 miles we realized that something was wrong. Finally we tried to turn the car around since we could go no further but we got stuck in a rut and for an hour and a half we tried to move but failed. We abandoned the car and started to walk. After two hours Jim, who was not used to so much physical exercise, could go no further. He said his muscles were so sore he felt like a hiker the day after a long hike.

We rested a long time in a small cave. Then I told him we must go on. We did for a short time but Jim said he could go no further.

He lay down on a flat slab of rock and I lay down beside him. I told him if we were going to die in the desert I wanted us to die together there. But then I realized that if I still had strength and could go on it would be very selfish for me not to go for help for Jim. There might be some hope then. We said goodbye.

He told me he loved me and I said if I died on the way for

Sign Up Date Told For Adult Classes In Pampa High School

Registration for the Pampa Vocational and Technical Night School will be conducted from 6:30 through 8:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 29 in the main hall of the high school, according to high school principal Cameron Marsh.

Marsh said, "If a person would like to enroll earlier than 6:30 p.m., the main office at the high school will be open for enrollment on Monday, Sept. 29 from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Classes will begin Monday, Oct. 6 and will be in session from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Monday thereafter.

The fall semester will continue through Jan. 26.

Marsh explained enrollment in the Vocational and Technical Night School will be for job placement, aid in securing employment, or for pleasure only.

He said, "A high school diploma is not required for enrollment in the vocational school. Credit in high school may be applied toward a high school diploma, but students presently enrolled in regular school may not attend."

Courses to be offered and fees charged are according to the following schedule: Basic English, $24; American History, $24; American Government, $24; Basic Economics, $24.

Analysts See No Substantial Effects On Hanoi's War Policy

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—American officials believe the death of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh probably will have no substantial effect on Hanoi's war policy for the foreseeable future.

They expect his survivors among the leadership to continue much the same policies on the battlefield and at the peace table because all of them have been intimately engaged in implementing those policies for many years.

The consensus was that any significant change in Hanoi's attitude or actions could come only after enough time has passed to erode the powerful effect of his personality on the country and the Hanoi politburo.

Even those few officials who at times had underestimated Ho in life had no inclination to downgrade the effect the legendary 79-year-old figure would have in death.

This did not mean, the U.S. intelligence analysts said, that there would not be a considerable power struggle in Hanoi among the top members of the Communist hierarchy. However, they expected this would be fought behind the scenes without affecting the general objectives for which "Uncle Ho" had pledged to fight a protracted struggle.

Some of the leading candidates are tabbed as pro-Moscow and others are described as leaning toward Peking. But all are fundamentally strong Vietnamese nationalists dedicated to Ho's objectives of unifying the country under the Lao Dong (Communist) party. Among those who might eventually take Ho's place, four are most prominently mentioned:

Le Duan, Communist party secretary general, is considered a tough Communist who approves of Mao Tse-tung's rigid operations in China but, at the same time, leans ideologically toward Moscow. He is a southerner and therefore especially insistent on bringing South Vietnam under Communist rule in any settlement. But he has usually sided with moderate elements in Hanoi whenever it has been a question of choosing between Moscow and Peking.

Truong Chinh, a 60-year-old veteran is generally considered pro-Peking. It was he who carried out a brutal land

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., visiting the Senate floor late Wednesday, fell asleep briefly while listening to a long speech. The speaker was his father, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon says U.S. forces in Vietnam as of Aug. 31 were well below the goal of 515,000 set after President Nixon ordered 25,000 troops withdrawn June 3. A spokesman said strength at the end of the month was 509,800.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which will consider the nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to the Supreme Court, says there is no basis for conflict of interest charges against Haynsworth. Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., commented to newsmen about Haynsworth's 1963 vote as a U.S. Circuit Court judge in favor of the Darlington Manufacturing Co. at the time Haynsworth was vice president of a firm that supplied vending machines to textile mills owned by Darlington's parent company.

Measure May Go To Another Committee

AUSTIN (UPI)—The House begins debate today on a $357 million tax package that could break the five-week-long legislative stalemate.

But early indications have been that the measure would wind up in a House-Senate conference committee.

Should the eight-part measure be rejected by the House and sent to conference committee, hopes for early adjournment of the second special legislative session would be dimmed, if not wiped out.

Previous conference committees have been unable to agree on a tax bill.

The Senate approved the bill, which raises most of its revenue through a tax on out-of-state corporations and a one-fourth per cent sales tax increase, on a 22-9 vote after some of the most heated debate of the stormy five-week summer sessions.

The House scheduled a special meeting Wednesday night to take up the bill, but adjourned after receiving it from the Senate.

Speaker Gus F. Mutscher said Wednesday he was "basically opposed" to the tax package, and indicated Senate leaders broke an agreement with him to draft the "compromise" package.

Mutscher accused the Senate leaders — primarily Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Sen. Ralph Hall D-Rockwell, of "misrepresenting the truth" in one area. That area involved Senate sentiment toward giving "rebates" to certain industries whose taxes were being raised.

The speaker said Senate leaders had told him the Senate would not accept any "rebates."

Yet, Mutscher said, the Senate exempted lease-use gas from a one-half per cent increase in the natural gas tax.

He indicated he thinks the alcoholic beverage industry should get a similar reduction in its production taxes if it is brought under the sales tax, and that telephone service is brought under the sales tax.

As of Wednesday night, Mutscher said House sentiment on the tax bill was "about evenly divided."

Police Impose Curfews On Riot-Torn Cities

By United Press International

Police enforced curfews to maintain relative calm early today in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Camden N.J.; Hartford, Conn.; and Dayton, Ohio, all plagued by recent civil disorders.

The 465-man Camden police force, including 43 trainees, was mobilized Wednesday night in an effort to prevent resumption of racial violence. Two persons were killed in clashes in a South Side ghetto area Tuesday night amid scattered window smashing and looting.

State and local police swept through Hartford's North End late Wednesday enforcing a curfew. Police said the situation was "not very bad," but more than 112 persons were reported arrested, 57 of them for curfew violation.

The area has experienced nearly two days of firebombing and looting. Mayor Ann Ucellio said a state of emergency declaration will remain in effect "until I feel the city is safe and secure."

Cut In Oil Depletion Endorsed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration today endorsed a cut in the oil depletion allowance from 27.5 to 20 per cent and urged the Senate to be tougher than the House in its treatment of oil industry taxation.

Although President Nixon promised during his election campaign to oppose changes in the depletion allowance, Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy said the administration "accepts" the House plan to cut the allowance to 20 per cent.

In addition, Kennedy urged the Senate to go "even further than the House in boosting oil taxes. He said tax advantages from the depletion allowance and one-year write-offs of intangible drilling costs should be included in the base for computing a minimum income tax.

The House excluded depletion and intangible drilling costs from the limit on tax preferences, apparently deciding the cut in depletion hit the oil industry hard enough.

The administration offered two sweeteners to the industry. It said individuals gaining at least 60 per cent of their income from oil operations should not have to include the intangible drilling deductions in the limit on tax preferences.

It also said the House went too far in eliminating the depletion allowance for U.S. companies operating wells in foreign countries. He said foreign wells should be entitled to the same allowance as domestic wells.

Two UF Divisions Start 'Moon-Shot'

The Special Gifts Division and the Commercial and Industrial Divisions of the Pampa United Fund held a combined breakfast meeting today at the Coronado Inn.

Division quotas were assigned and solicitations will start immediately of individuals and businesses, who annually contribute large amounts to the fund.

All signals are "Go," commented Frank Cuthbert, drive chairman. "To complete this drive and collect funds in the amount of $82,700 that will insure the continued operation of Pampa's participating agencies."

Health and welfare agencies supported by the Pampa United Fund include the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Pampa Milk Fund, Pampa Welfare Index, Gonzales Rehabilitation Center, U.S.O., Medical Research Foundation of Texas.

Attending today's breakfast meeting were officers and directors of the United Fund.

Special Gifts Division is headed by Gordon Lyons, who announced his team majors Wednesday.

Commercial and Industrial Division is chairmanned by James McCoy and Norman Fritzer.

C&I majors are Paul Keim, Charles J. Cook, J. C. Roberts, Pete Blanda and Jim Stallings.

Approximately 25 UF drive leaders attended the blast-off of the two divisions.

Professional Division, directed by Dr. Joe Donaldson will blast off Sept. 9 followed by the Public Employee solicitation headed by City Manager Charles Hill on Sept. 11.

The "special" divisions will complete their solicitations before the public is contacted in a general drive set for Sept. 23 under the direction of Ray

Sun Shadows Foretell Of Fall To Come

Sun shadows are beginning to slant at pre-autumn angles signaling the approach of fall, football games, and falling leaves.

Early morning fog and rains had cleared, the Texas Panhandle today, leaving Pampans with bright blue skies, slight winds, and upper 80 temperatures.

The showers which the Weather Bureau said were caused by high humidity and area of cold air over the state, stretched from far East Texas to West Texas.

The steady rains kept temperatures generally in the 70s and 80s throughout the state, but it got up to 99 for the high at Cotulla. It was only 81 at Dallas and Big Spring Wednesday.

Police Department Seeks New Employee

Pampa Police Department is looking for a new employee today to join their Parking Control Division.

Chief Jim Conner announced today the resignation of Cherry Kuhlmann, who had been a member of the department since Sept. 16, 1968.

The opening is in what was once the "Meter Maid" division of the police.

Conner said applicants must be from age 21 to 49, have a high school education and be in good health.

Odds And Ends From Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Odds and ends from the nation's capital—mostly odd:
 Title of the Week Award goes to the Commerce Department's National Bureau of Standards for the leaflet: "Selected Values of Electric Dipole Moments for Molecules in the Gas Phase."
 "Herbert Hill of the NAACP," said the interviewer, "now says that his organization through the courts and through demonstrations will try to stop all publicly funded construction until you admit more blacks. What do you think will happen to that idea?"
 "Well, replied AFL-CIO President George Meany, "if he is successful, he will stop all publicly funded construction."
 The march of the acronyms goes on.
 First the Labor Department came up with jobs for job opportunities in the business sector.

 needed capital improvements and growth.
 "Nothing is intended to be immediate," Springer said. "Our recommendations—and we believe them to be practical—are merely for the people to be informed about so they can make decisions as to what they want done in future years."
 Duncan, speaking for the DBA, raised the question of how the program was to be financed in view of Pampa's financial crisis and the problems it faces to meet current operating expenses.
 "This is something that will be decided by civic and community groups who organize for action on the city's future improvements and make the decisions on what priorities should be followed by the city governing body," Springer said.
 "We have only set forth what we think needs to be done for Pampa's future. The costs will depend upon what and how much the people want to achieve. The things we have recommended are accomplishes over periods of time."
 City Manager Hill said:
 "Pampa right now can issue no more bonds until 1975 or 1976 and the city is nearly ten years away from launching any major additional capital improvements."
 Springer asked the Planning Commission to study his second phase report and meet with him again in about two weeks to file any objections and to offer any revisions in the comprehensive plan.

 reform program in 1956 which subsequently was criticized by other leaders for its "excesses." He lost his job as secretary general of the party, but has staged a comeback and is now chairman of the national assembly and a member of the politburo. He has been one of the most vocal advocates of carrying on the war until all Hanoi's maximum demands are met.
 Premier Pham Van Dong has been running the government since Ho retired some years ago and became the court of last resort but stopped taking active part in government itself. The fact that Pham Van Dong actually has been running the government does not, however, mean that his influence in party affairs is necessarily as great as some of the others.
 Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap, who lost some "face" when the 1968 Tet offensive in South Vietnam failed to achieve its objectives, nevertheless remains in a very strong position. He is the outstanding spokesman for the strategy now being followed against the Americans. That strategy calls for undertaking only small scale hit-and-run attacks in an effort to minimize Communist losses while inflicting as many American casualties as possible to increase American public opinion pressure on President Nixon to pull out of the conflict.
 U.S. officials acknowledge there is a considerable element of guesswork involved in trying to predict who will succeed Ho, since the revered father of Vietnamese Communism had never specifically indicated upon whom he wished his mantle to fall.
 Some officials considered it possible that some form of collective interim leadership would take over, with a behind the scenes power struggle to age who emerged as No. 1. They did not, however, expect this internal power struggle to result in any early or significant change in Hanoi's basic policies.

Those who are considered among the most likely candidates to succeed Ho all appear to share his firm belief that North Vietnam must make certain of its victory in the South this time and not depend upon any negotiated settlement which leaves open the possibility of an independent government in Saigon.

Rotarians Hear Report On Social Security Program

The federal government's Social Security program serves 8,755 people in a seven county area consisting of the northeast corner of the Texas Panhandle. So stated Howard L. Weatherly, Social Security administrator of the Pampa office at the Wednesday noon luncheon meeting of the Pampa Rotary Club.

Weatherly said these people draw Social Security payments totaling $609,326 per month during the calendar year of 1968. Of this figure Gray County residents received the lion's share of four phases of social more than $277,000 monthly.

The administrator explained the four phases of social security to the Rotarians. Those being: medicare, survivors, disability and retirement. He broke medicare down into two parts—hospital coverage and doctor coverage. The survivors phase was the one part of the Social Security program most widely used.

Weatherly said the Pampa office has eight employees, and this area was formerly under Amarillo jurisdiction. The Pampa office was opened in December 1965.

 help he would know it was because I loved him. I left him then, climbed down to the bottom of the canyon and walked away from where I had left him. Sometime during these 10 hours I was hanging on to the cliff with my hands feeling for footholds with my feet. It was completely dark and I could see nothing but the shadows of the huge rocky cliffs. Once I stepped out and there was nothing and I fell head over heels into the canyon. The canyons and the mountains seemed to be endless. Each time I would climb around one rocky point there would be nothing but more mountains ahead. A very strange feeling came over me—it was as though I was separated from my body and my body was a friend helping me on. I felt no pain though I knew I was being cut and bruised.

When they took me back on Wednesday and showed me the canyon I climbed down I could not believe it. Israeli soldiers said it was impossible to do but somehow I had done it. It seems impossible that Jim should be lost like this. I know the country well and have enlisted the help of Bedouins who know it even better.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A record rainfall snarled highway traffic, disrupted electrical service and knocked out some rail service in the New York metropolitan area today.

The rainstorm began at 4 a.m. Wednesday and thus far had dumped 5.6 inches in parts of New York and New Jersey.

The weather bureau called the storm a "major but localized storm" and fairly unusual because it remained over the city "dropping the heaviest rainfall in the metropolitan area."

The Long Island Rail Road—plagued by equipment shorted-out by flooding in extended period—was forced to suspend all service to and from a tunnel.

Many main arteries leading into Manhattan were rendered impassable because of flooding in low-lying areas.

The Holland Tunnel linking New York City with New Jersey under the Hudson River was reported flooding and motorists were advised to use either the George Washington Bridge or the Lincoln Tunnel as alternates.

The New Jersey Turnpike dropped the speed limit from 60 mph to 45 and several sections were reported flooded.

Subway service from the suburbs to Manhattan was disrupted and service had to be curtailed in some sections.

The New York Telephone Co. reported that the rain had caused line failures Wednesday but emergency crews working through the night had restored most service. However, 3,600 lines in the busy Madison Avenue area still were out at the start of the business day and were not expected to be fully restored before late afternoon.

Roper Home Wins Third In Ward Three

J. H. Roper of 321 Miami was third place winner from Ward Three in the recently-concluded Pampa Chamber of Commerce Beautiful Yard Contest.

In re-totalling points at the Chamber office, it was found the Roper residence had an accumulation of more points than the residence previously named as the 3rd place winner in Ward Three.

Chairman Warren Fatheree said the committee regretted the inadvertent error and added the Roper lawn on Miami St. was really an outstanding one.

The owners of the 10 "most beautiful yards" in Pampa's four wards will be honored with the presentation of a certificate and a color photograph of their home at the September membership luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce in the Coronado Inn.

Our shows are high-class art not pornography. But they could put the heat on those bottomless places.
 —Dave Rosenberg, San Francisco night club publicity director, on a proposed city ordinance banning topless acts.

The Cyclopes of mythology were giants who had only one eye, which was in the middle of the forehead.
 Martin Van Buren was the first U.S. president born an American citizen. He was born in 1782.

It May Be A Woman's World, But Space Now Belongs To Man

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Recently space officials announced that any flight to the planet Mars would take two years and might possibly include women.

"I can see women going to the moon," one cynic reacted. "That's only a couple of weeks. But two years of it—with some dame looking over your shoulder, telling you to watch out for the meteorites—never!"

So far, outer space has been for men only. There has never been an American woman astronaut. Females have applied for positions in each of the six astronaut selections, but none have even come close.

One turn-down wrote a letter to a space authority in 1966, saying: "I don't like being a sore loser, but in this case I never had a chance. I believe I was turned down because of my sex. I can't prove it, but I think it's so."

Space officials differ. They say astronaut selection, like any government-sponsored undertaking, is color blind, sexless and nondiscriminatory.

Says one authority, Col. John Prodan:

"It has always been a question of choosing the best-qualified individuals. Nothing more than that. And in this situation, women had to have at least a thousand hours of jet flying time in their record—no women have ever had this much time. And, in the case of scientist-astronauts, the women applicants have simply not measured up to the standards of those men chosen."

Colonel Prodan, who is with the National Aeronautic Space Administration's Flight Crew Division, adds, however, that female astronauts are possible:

"The Russians have already had one up there. The only thing that stops them now in our program is their background. We don't have any women test pilots, for instance. We don't have any women fighter pilots in the military. But if one comes along who has acquired the proper background and qualifies otherwise, she could conceivably make it."

Many people connected with NASA agree. Especially women. And most especially NASA consultant Jacqueline Cochran.

Jackie Cochran is perhaps the most famous woman flier since Amelia Earhart. During the Second World War, she directed the more than 11,000 women who flew (mostly ferry ships) for the U.S. military. And she still holds more than 100 air records.

Her view of women astronauts:

"Piloting a space ship is no big barrier. There isn't one of us (experienced) women pilots who couldn't handle space craft. And, physically, here's no problem either. Women can take anything men can."

In the early days of America's space exploration, Miss Cochran (her married name is Mrs. Floyd Odium) contributed $20,000 of her own money to finance a clinical study of just how females might fare in outer space. Twelve women were tested, along with 12 men. The differences were negligible.

"We so testified before congressional hearings in 1962."

Miss Cochran says. "They were conducting inquiries into number of space aspects, and we testified our opinion that, physically, women would make fine astronauts."

With it all, however, Jackie Cochran says she has never recommended that NASA hire women for space. In fact, to the contrary:

"Look, from a very practical standpoint, our space program is still in the early stages. The whole thing boils down to and expediency. Say you do have a woman in the program, she'll spend all the money to train her; and then she gets pregnant. What then?"

Yet, Miss Cochran admits, women astronauts can't be counted out. They may not become space pilots in the near future but it's probable they will serve in other capacities.

NASA's Colonel Prodan puts it this way:

"My guess is that the first women in space will be scientists. Some day we'll have manned laboratories orbiting the earth and sitting on the moon—and then we'll need women. I suppose it may be kind of like this television program, Star Trek. Men will be aboard to face the physical and mental rigors. And women will be along to take care of details."

Emilio Manes, who was granted political asylum in Uruguay. He promptly began working with the Uruguayan terrorist Tupamaros against the nation that gave him protection.

How Long the Lull?

Paris peace talks observers interpret the present lull in the Vietnam fighting this way: The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong will not undertake any major attack against U.S. or other allied bases in South Vietnam for another two weeks—and may allow the lull in ground fighting to go on even longer.

OAS Now Laying Groundwork For Changes In Political Asylum

The Organization of American States (OAS) is laying the groundwork for important changes in the right to political asylum in Latin America. The OAS juridical commission, with headquarters in Rio de Janeiro and composed of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, the United States, Mexico, Peru and Venezuela, is studying the possibility of eliminating the right to asylum for guerrillas and terrorists. This would put an end to situations such as occurred in the case of Brazilian terrorist Roberto

DMTS Group Has Dinner Meeting Here

The first meeting of directors and licensees of the Development Training Services, a Pampa-based organization, convened here recently for a dinner meeting during which awards and appointments were made by Joel R. Combs, who heads the organization.

Dinner in Furr's Cafeteria was followed by attending the outdoor musical production of "Texas" in Palo Duro Canyon. Stan Seely of El Reno, Okla., the DMTS executive director for Oklahoma, received the "Andale-1969" award for his accomplishments during the past year. "Andale," according to Combs, is a Spanish word meaning "hurry" or "get a move on."

Combs also announced the appointment of Jerry Thomas of Fort Collins, Colo. as head of the education department for the organization.

Also recognized during the evening were Bill Littell of Lawrence, Kans.; Chuck Habruck of Fort Collins; Lynden Wilcoxson of Weatherford, Okla.; Ron Ellis of Amarillo.

Special guests were families of the DMST licensees and directors.

The firm is currently engaged primarily in conducting speed reading classes across the Southwest.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The British, renowned for their austere tranquility, celebrate at least one "explosive" occasion on their historical calendar. The World Almanac notes that Nov. 4 is set aside as Guy Fawkes Day. On that date in 1605, Fawkes' plot to blow up King James I and the entire Parliament was foiled when 36 barrels of gunpowder were discovered in the cellar of the Houses of Parliament.

Prevent Monotony On Autumn Menus With Flank Steak

It's exciting for the family to have something different to eat. It's exciting, too, for the homemaker to try a new way to prepare something or a meat cut that's not been tried before.

- Flank Steak, Creole-Style
- 1 large or 2 small beef flank steaks
  - 1/2 pound bulk pork sausage
  - 1 cup soft bread crumbs
  - 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
  - 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
  - 2 teaspoons salt
  - 1/2 cup chopped onion
  - 2 bay leaves
  - 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
  - 1/2 green pepper, chopped, if desired
  - 1 cup water
  - Flour for gravy
- Pound or lightly score flank steak or steaks on both sides. Combine sausage, bread crumbs and parsley and mix well. Spread sausage mixture on 1 large or 2 small flank steaks and roll as a jelly roll. The steak or steaks with string and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add salt, onion, bay leaves, tomatoes and green pepper. Cover and cook slowly 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until tender. Remove steak or steaks and bay leaves, pour off excess fat, add water to cooking liquid and thicken for gravy.

HOME-BAKING FOR TEENAGERS... after-school fun, learning to cook

Food Page

For After-School, Plan Home Baking Activities

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (SPL) — Inevitably, there comes a day when the kids can't play outdoors because of weather. On those days, learning to cook can be a great after-school activity.

To keep a budding cook interested, keep the recipes simple, the results quick and the clean-up time short. Simple recipes using refrigerated Danish roll dough fulfill all these requirements, and assure fail-proof results. Here are two for the kids to try.

CINNAMON DANISH PIN WHEELS

1 can (11 7/8 oz.) refrigerated cinnamon Danish rolls with raisins, Marschino cherries, drained

Separate dough into 8 rolls. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Cut 4 slits in each roll to within 1/4 inch of center forming 4 sections. Flatten slightly and separate sections at slits to form petals. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 to 14 minutes or until golden brown. Spread icing on warm rolls. Top with cherries. Serve warm. Makes eight pinwheels.

CINNAMON DANISH JELLY CUPS

1 can (11 7/8 oz.) refrigerated cinnamon Danish rolls with raisins, 2 1/2 tablespoons jelly

Separate dough into 8 rolls. Cut each roll into 4 quarters. Place 4 quarters part side down in ungreased muffin cups, shaping to side of cup. Leave center of cup open. Bake at 375 degrees for 13 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove immediately from muffin pan. Spread icing on warm cups. Spoon 1 teaspoon jelly into center of each cup. Serve warm. Makes eight cups.

Novelty dish: Olive-hamburger pie.

Food Buying Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Interior for UPI.

USDA's food and nutrition experts report that food shopping for the post-Labor Day weekend should be relatively easy because there will be ample displays of meat and poultry and adequate stocks of some fresh vegetables and fruit in food stores and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys are expected to be specials in all areas. Beef cuts should also be ample, especially roasts and steaks and ground beef. Smoked picnics are in abundance along with hams and the usual fresh cuts of pork.

Fish buys to watch for according to the U.S. Department of the Interior, are Maine sardines, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions.

Fresh vegetables in best supply are corn, onions, potatoes and lettuce.

Bake Hamburger, Olives For Thrifty, Novel Pie

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

If you want something different but thrifty, try this hamburger pie. The mixture of eggs and cottage cheese that goes on top, and is garnished with sliced pimento-stuffed olives, gives the entire dish a novel flavor and appeal. You'll enjoy it.

OLIVE-HAMBURGER PIE

- 1 pound ground beef chuck
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons catsup
- 1/2 cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives
- 9-inch unbaked pastry shell
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup creamed cottage cheese

Paprika (optional)
Sliced pimento-stuffed olives

In skillet, brown beef and onion; drain off excess fat. Stir in flour, salt, pepper, catsup and 1/2-cup olives. Turn into pastry shell. Mix together eggs and cottage cheese, pour over meat mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 to 35 minutes or until top is lightly browned and set. Garnish with sliced olives. Four to six servings.

Serve Norway Sardines In Vegetable Casserole

A 13 1/2-ounce tin of Norway sardines has many thrifty uses. Here's one we tried last evening. It's served with crisp dipping crackers.

NORWAY SARDINES AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

- Ingredients
- 3 (3 1/2-oz.) cans Norway sardines
  - 1 cup medium white sauce
  - 1 cup carrots, sliced and cooked
  - 1 celery stalk, chopped and cooked
  - 1 cup sweet peas, cooked
  - 1 cup Lima beans, cooked
  - Salt and pepper
  - 4 slices dry toast

- white sauce
- 1 cup carrots, sliced and cooked
  - 1 celery stalk, chopped and cooked
  - 1 cup sweet peas, cooked
  - 1 cup Lima beans, cooked
  - Salt and pepper
  - 4 slices dry toast
- (To make medium white sauce: Melt 1 tablespoon butter in pan; add 1 tablespoon flour add to 1 cup medium white a boil, stirring constantly; cook for 2 minutes or until thick. Season to taste.)

Cook carrots, celery, beans and peas together. Drain and add to 1 cup medium white sauce and contents of 3 cans of drained Norway sardines. Season to taste. Heat on top of stove over low flame; stirring lightly. Serve on toast or over mouth of boiled rice or mashed potatoes. 4 generous portions.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By United Press International

Every traveler should make two lists. The first should include your itinerary and projected activities; the second, what costumes to take. Include hose, jewelry and lingerie on the second list. Then start packing the second list down so that the largest number of costumes can be arranged from the smallest number of items.

Some consumers complain that the eggs in their frying pan do not cover as large an area as they once did. Egg sizes haven't changed. Weight classifications have been the same since 1930. But quality has improved. A high quality egg, according to authorities, covers a small area. The thick white is large in volume and stands high and firm around the yolk.

Thrifty dish: Norway sardines and vegetables.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST in WASHINGTON (UPI) — Un- less he maintains a legal residence elsewhere, there is no way that a denizen of the District of Columbia can vote a congressional election. No way.

Yet fund-raising dinners for members of Congress frequent- ly are held in this voteless enclave. And some of them even maintain campaign com- mittees here.

In recent days insinuations have been published that having a D.C. campaign committee is the next best thing to having a numbered Swiss bank account.

It was pointed out that because the committees are not required to make public re- ports, they can be used to hide contributions that might be embarrassing to a senator or representative back home.

I was not exactly flabber- gasted when I saw these implications in print. (I am pretty easily flabbered but it takes a lot to get me gasted.) I was, however, mildly dismayed.

I could not believe that a member of Congress would resort to such chicanery.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Ordeal of Anatoly Kuznetsov, an hour CBS-TV interview with the writer who recently defected from Russia, was broadcast Tuesday night. A chilling, powerful human document.

In many ways predictable in its essential matter, the program nevertheless was riveting because of the civilized but pointed questioning of reporter Morley Safer, and above all because of the sense of tragedy present in Kuznetsov himself.

The 40-ish Soviet author interviewed in London, outwardly resembled a young Ivy League professor — bespectacled, pleasant looking, puffing on a cigarette, wearing a conservative tie and natty Russia jacket without a collar. He camp,

Career Women Create Own Problems In A Man's World

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—If there are problems for the woman working in the man's world, they're problems of the woman's own making.

The opinion comes from Patricia Npot Lahatte, who has spent most of her successful career in positions usually filled by men.

"I don't want to sound precocious," says Mrs. Lahatte. "But a woman who behaves like a lady has no problems."

Currently, Mrs. Lahatte is president of the International Newspaper Promotion Association (INPA), representing more than 900 newspaper executives of the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and 24 other countries. The job in essence is to sell the newspaper to the world.

Mrs. Lahatte fits none of the stereotypes of the successful business woman. She's an all-around person, assured, direct, unimpressed with life in the executive suite, and believes that with a woman at the helm the men themselves "tend to pay a little more attention to the business at hand."

In a telephone interview, Mrs. Lahatte talked of how her own career was shaped, of the seemingly endless "struggle" of women for equal rights, of the need for every person to develop his or her talents to the utmost.

Mrs. Lahatte, a divorcee, started in the art world. A graduate of the Atlanta High Museum of Art, her first job was art director of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution Sunday Magazine and the Sunday rotogravure section. Later, she became picture editor of the Journal, a post then held by no other woman on major newspapers. She moved then to head up the papers' promotion department, and in four years of "coming up through the ranks" moved into the INPA presidency.

"Atlanta has honored her as its 'Woman of the Year in Business,'" for Mrs. Lahatte served on practically every major civic committee. She's never given up her painting, she's a well-known hostess, cares for an 87-year-old mother, and gardens at one of her two residences, a "holiday" house on Lane Berkeley, within commuting distance of the city.

That second home (the other is a house right in Atlanta) is her "refuge," she says. "It helps to reverse what I've done all week long."

"It's really not a man's world anymore," says Mrs. Lahatte. "And there is no excuse today for a woman to let the man outgrow her."

There's so much of a pearl accent to winter clothes that America's cultured pearl importers have been rushing back to Japan for more pearls to fill the sudden demand. Some importers, newly returned from Japan, report that the cultured pearl supply situation is getting desperate. A smaller than usual harvest of pearls was drawn up from the seas last winter, aggravated by an unprecedented cold spell which killed millions of pearl oysters.

District VFW Officer Slates Auxiliary Visit

Ladies Auxiliary to Pampa Post No. 1657 Veterans of Foreign Wars met in V.F.W. Hall 123 West Foster, recently as Mrs. J. W. Dart, president, presided at the business session. After the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag, Mrs. Georgia Mack, chaplain offered the prayer.

Mrs. C. D. Malone, secretary, read official communication from Mrs. Irene Kropp, District Nine president, stating she would visit the auxiliary Oct. 7. She reminded the hospital pledge of 25 cents per member to the Veteran's hospital at Amarillo. District dues had been increased to 25 cents per member also.

It was announced Mrs. Mile Bird was a patient in a local hospital. Mrs. May Muse was nominated and elected to fill the chair of guard. A rummage sale will be held Sept. 18 at 321 N.

Cuyler. Mrs. Tony Smith, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Dear Abby
by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I suppose a 29-year-old girl should know better than to get herself in a fix like this, but it's too late now.

Billy got me in a family way. (He is 42.) He said he would marry me right after harvest time. He didn't have any cash on hand so I bought myself a set of rings and started right off wearing the wedding band because I was starting to show. I paid 30 dollars down on the rings and 2 dollars a week. Then I had a miscarriage. Billy says there is no sense in marrying me now. So now I am stuck with no husband, no baby, and a set of rings. What should I do?

DEAR LULU: I think you're well rid of a man who might not have gotten around to marrying you at all. I don't know how long you've had the rings, but perhaps the jeweler will take them back if you agree to stand some loss. Under the circumstances I think you came out ahead. And by the way, next time, use yours.

DEAR ABBY: I know a man who insists that there is no such thing between a man and a woman as a "platonic" friendship. He says that given the time and opportunity they will form a physical relationship. What do you think?

DEAR MITZIE: I think anyone who would subscribe to such a theory is admitting that he is incapable of holding the interest of a member of the opposite sex without a physical relationship.

DEAR ABBY: Near where I live is a creek, which naturally is a big attraction to the adventuresome little neighborhood boys.

One day I was surprised to hear the father of one of the boys tell the whole bunch that there were monsters in the creek, and if they played near it, the monsters would catch them.

I disapproved of this "scare technique" from the start, but I just kept my mouth shut. It's true that the boys don't play near the creek any more, but I think more harm than good was done by that monster story. Today I had a sobbing bunch of kids in my living room. They were afraid to leave because "the monsters are out there." (This was in broad daylight. I wonder what they dream about?)

I also wonder what will happen when Junior finds out that Daddy lied to him.

Personally I think it is wrong to lie to children to make them behave. Good old-fashioned (and honest) discipline builds better characters in the long run. As it says Proverbs 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

TRUTHFUL RANGER
DEAR RANGER: I'm with Proverbs.

DEAR ABBY: Ask the man who owns the mute parakeet if he knows whether he has a male or female bird. If he has a female, he had better forget about trying to get it to talk because only the males talk.

And by the way, Abby, do you know how to tell the difference between a male and female parakeet? And don't tell me that it matters only to another parakeet.

PARAKEET OWNER
DEAR OWNER: The male parakeet has a bluish, brownish stripe across his beak. The female beak is clear. Ha!

Your birthday Friday: Surprises and short periods of spectacular growth characterize the coming year. Your intuitive faculties sharpen with every incident. Romantic interests continue stronger than before but with fewer and less obvious opportunities for expression. Friday's natives tend to be changeable in mood and always prefer the most dramatic course of action.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Plans develop weak spots Friday; errors are common. Relatives make sudden demands. Self-restraint and tact cope with these temporary inconveniences.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Expect people to be both impetuous and sensitive; see the situation as a test of your ingenuity. Be easy on your loved ones.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Early tensions yield to burgeoning optimism if you bear with it. Care with money is essential all day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take a critical tour of your home to check for supplies, shortages, repairs, ideas for improvements. Be prepared for the unusual.

Foreign Flavor
CHICAGO (UPI)—Italian and Oriental canned meat dishes showed great gains in 1968 in the canned meat departments of grocery stores and supermarkets across the nation, says the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Italian meat-pasta combinations moved faster than 20 per cent of the total department sales. Chow Mein and other Chinese style dinners now account for 11.1 per cent of total sales. Quick serve dishes such as chili and sloppy-joes in-a-can are increasing in popularity with teenagers.

South African rock lobsters are fished with baited hand-nets from two-man dinghies. The rock lobsters live on rocky shoals where the icy Benguela current flows up the coast of South Africa from the Antarctic.

The best time to begin painting is during a relatively dry time of day. Temperatures should be above 50 degrees and morning dew evaporated. Water-thinned (latex) paints offer a little leeway from less than ideal conditions. They can be applied to slightly damp surfaces and during humid weather.

Enhance Room Decor
With Candles, Pictures
By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — Will you please comment on decorations, such as candles and pictures, on the top of old-fashioned pianos and mantels? I understand that most interior decorators do not approve of these decorations.

DEAR N. G. — I think you are wrong in assuming that decorators do not approve of candles and pictures as such. The height of an upright piano discourages the use of tall ornaments, such as candlesticks because of the resulting bad proportion.

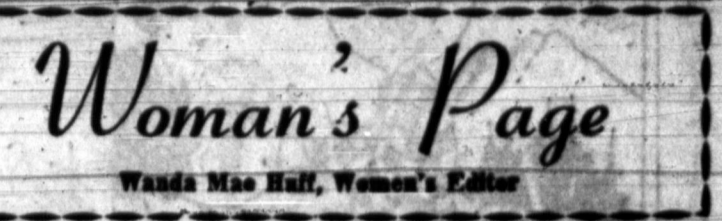

Framed photographs scattered here and there on piano and mantel tops usually look as if they were put down in the first available spot. They could be assembled and grouped on one wall of some room, other than the living room, or placed together on a table in the bedroom and be enjoyed far more when kept together.

I can't imagine what objections could be made to using candlesticks with candles on the mantel. The most important thing is selecting decorations for both these places is size and proportion, — something broad and low would doubtless look best on the high piano top, and the height and size of the mantel would determine its decoration.

DEAR POLLY — When hooks and eyes are put on screen doors, the hook is usually on the screen door and the eye on the door frame. As the door is opened

Specialist Advises Women On Use Of Leisure Time
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Women need to reorient their thinking so they will not feel a sense of guilt and uneasiness over increased leisure time activities reports a home management specialist at Pennsylvania State University.

Helen E. Bell notes that household automation is releasing most women from the drudgery of household chores and giving them time to call their own. Many women in this situation get frustrated, Miss Bell says, because many Americans still believe work is what chiefly counts in our society. She says the thought of leisure time frightens too many housewives and they fear boredom. Miss Bell suggests women begin now to prepare themselves for their extra free time so they can use it to best advantage.

Pressure On Jets Landry Says

SPORTS

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, who does not consider any pre-season game a "big one," says the pressure will be on the New York Jets and not on the Cowboys when the two meet in the Cotton Bowl Saturday night.

"They are the world champions and the pressure will be on them to live up to that rating and to beat us," Landry told his weekly press club luncheon Wednesday.

"Yeah, I think we'll beat 'em," he told another questioner and then went on to say that a victory "would benefit us immensely."

"But, I don't consider any pre-season game a big one," Landry added.

The Cowboys coach voiced a lot of respect for the Jets and particularly their quarterback, Joe Namath.

"The Jets are a very sound football team. Their defense doesn't appear to be very good, but it is. It is always a 4-3 defense with two inside linebackers and National Football League clubs always have trouble running against an AFL team."

"When Weeb Ewbank has had his first group in there, he's tough to beat," Landry said.

He didn't do that against Oakland and he got beat."

Landry described Namath as "one of the quickest quarterbacks I've ever seen...He also has good visibility for the secondary...which is the key to a good passer...he has the same type of accuracy as Sonny Jurgensen, but he's quicker."

While the Jets are expected to go with its first team since this will be the last pre-season game for the champions, Landry said he would continue to use his backup players for the Jets and also the Baltimore Colts game here Sept. 14.

He didn't say so, but he left the idea that he would be alternating at some key positions in an effort to determine who would be starters for the season-opener against St. Louis.

He said rookie sensation Calvin Hill of Yale would start at running back and that regular Craig Baynam would play the second half.

The same sort of switching would go on involving fullbacks Walt Garrison and Les Shy, centers Malcolm Walker and Dave Manders and tight ends Pettis Norman and Mike Ditka, Landry said.

Asked if the players who started the final pre-season game against Baltimore would be the season starters as in past years, Landry replied: "Not necessarily. We have never been so blessed with depth before," he said.

The Cowboys got within the 49-player NFL limit and then some by waiving running back Danny Reeves and defensive back Mike Gaechter as injured; waiving veteran wide receiver Bobby Joe Conrad to the taxi squad; and releasing veteran linebacker Bill Saul and rookie defensive tackle Ken Salesky of Idaho.

Reeves and Gaechter can be activated by the season opener and Landry indicated Gaechter definitely would be. But, he indicated he might wait a while longer to allow Reeves to fully recover from a knee operation.

SCOTTY KING will be back in action for Pampa Friday night when the Harvesters journey to Vernon for a 7:30 p.m. scrimmage. The Shockers scrimmage Lefors at 6 p.m. today. Pampa has only one player on the injured list, quarterback Ross Holman, who strained muscles in his right arm.

Texas Star Waived By AFL Chargers

By United Press International

Scott Appleton, College football's top lineman in 1963 and a six-year veteran of the pro ranks, was the major casualty today as professional football teams made another cut in their rosters to get within league limits.

Appleton, a former All-America tackle from the University of Texas and winner of the Outland Award as the top collegiate lineman in 1963, was placed on waivers Wednesday by the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League. He was one of seven players the Chargers placed on waivers.

Also cut by San Diego were wide receivers Tom Burnett and Mike Simpson, center Cal Withrow, defensive tackle Dan Sartin, running back Mill Mason and linebacker Jim Campbell.

Former Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte, placed on waivers earlier in the week by the Philadelphia Eagles, was one of the two players acquired from the Eagles by the Minnesota Vikings. Huarte, a former Notre Dame quarterback, and kicker Rich Duncan were acquired by the Vikings in exchange for a draft choice.

The Dallas Cowboys placed starters Danny Reeves and Mike Gaechter on the waiver injury list, waived Bobby Joe Conrad to the taxi squad and cut a veteran and a rookie.

In addition to Reeves, Gaechter and Conrad, the Cowboys waived veteran linebacker Bill Saul and rookie defensive tackle Ken Salesky.

The Los Angeles Rams placed five players on waivers. Players put on waivers and released outright were Bobby Webb, Ron Berger and Richard Harvey while Nate Shaw and Allen Marcelin.

SWC Teams Look Good In Drills, But Weather Hampers Practices

By United Press International

The football teams look pretty good, but the weather was lousy.

That was the majority opinion Thursday from Southwest Conference coaches as the opening game weekend rapidly draws nearer. In fact it is coming so close, J. T. King has said his Texas Tech Red Raiders will hold their remaining practice sessions in secret.

Rain, which threatened Texas practice the day before, hampered those at Arkansas and forced a shift at Baylor Wednesday while cool, cloudy weather required a change in strategy at Rice.

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said two of his quarterbacks, John Eicher and Walter Nelson, looked good in passing drills despite the steady rain. No. 1 quarterback Bill Montgomery, in the final stages of recovery from a shoulder operation, dressed in pads, but did not throw during the 90 minute drill.

Coach Ell Beall kept the Baylor Bears indoors because of rain in the Waco area. But it didn't seem to hamper practice any since the team was able to practice goal line stands and passing drills with quarterback Steve Stuart at the helm.

The Rice Owls practiced for only 20 minutes because of the cool weather and the threat of rain. Coach Bo Hagan moved linebacker Donnie Johnson of San Antonio to offensive end and switched running back Butch Robinson of Houston to defensive end.

TCU Coach Fred Taylor, who said Tuesday's workout was "lousy" overall, was a bit more mellow Wednesday. Taylor watched the Frogs work on some blocking and tackling exercises and said "It was one of our better workouts."

Tech Coach King said from now on the Raiders will practice behind closed doors as the team prepares for its Sept. 20 opener against Big 8 for Kansas.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who said the fruits of his psychological maneuver staged a few days ago, Royal said Billy Dale would assume the running back position formerly held by Chris Gilbert, the all-everything record breaker who graduated.

Royal said Jim Bertelsen of Hutchinson, Wis., a sophomore, was just not getting the job done as well as Dale.

The word is out at SMU about one Larry Guthrie who, one Mustang coach figures might make people forget about Gilbert.

"I'd say he's in the thick of things for the No. 1 tailback's job," says backfield coach Ray Utley in one of his more conservative moods.

At College Station, the Texas Aggies completed their second day of full pads action in a slow, steady drizzle.

Amarillo Goes To Memphis Trailing By 2

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—The Memphis Blues fought all season long to stay above the 500 mark in the Texas League's Eastern Division. They just barely made it with a 66-65 record on closing day.

But today the Blues are just one game away from the league championship, and the next two games in their best-of-five series with the Amarillo Giants are on the Blues' home field in Memphis.

Bob Johnston scattered seven hits Wednesday night for the Eastern Division winners to take a 4-1 win over Amarillo, the winner in the West.

Memphis scored two runs in the top of the second inning and added a pair of insurance runs on a two-run homer by first baseman Don Engbers in the eighth.

Amarillo, held scoreless for 17 straight innings, scored its first run of the playoffs on a bases-empty homer by Chico Cadeno in the ninth.

Bill Frost, who was relieved by David Hernandez in the ninth, was the loser.

Amarillo actually out-hit Memphis 7-6 but committed two errors.

Quarry Quits Ring To Act

OAKLAND (UPI)—Jerry Quarry says he's all through as a boxer and next February he's going to embark on an acting career.

The 24-year-old Irishman from Bellflower, Calif., made good on his promise to quit Wednesday night when he announced shortly after knocking out England's Brian London in the second round that he has had it.

"That's it," he said, "I'm all through. My hands hurt too much and there is no sense in going on. I'm going to enter USC in February to learn about acting."

Quarry had said a month ago that the fight with London would be his last but hardly anyone believed him, not even his father Jack, who manages him.

London, beaten by Quarry on a decision more than two years ago, was no match for Jerry this time either. Brian had hoped to use an upset over Quarry as ammunition for a $50,000 bout with former champion Sonny Liston. He was game as long as the fight lasted but at 35 was giving away too much.

London never saw a left hook that put him down midway through the second round.

Majority Becomes Monopoly

In yesterday's editorial, "Democracy With A Small d," we attempted to show how "Democracy With A Small d," the market place.

But the argument perpetually arises, this is not the same thing as politics. In government two men will run for office. Both of them can't possibly hold that office. Thus, the votes through the majority process, select the one best suited. He will hold the office. The other one will not. What is wrong with this?

The same thing is wrong with it as would be wrong if you went into a store seeking to buy X brand of beans and you were informed that because more people like YYY brand, that would be the only kind of beans you could buy.

Further, you would be told that you could not solve the problem for yourself simply by abstaining from buying beans. You must buy them. And you must buy brand YYY. Further, you must eat the beans.

At this point democracy would have been capitalized. And this is what we have done in government in this country.

Let us suppose that two men run for the presidency. Let us further suppose that one of them, brand YYY, is Mr. Kennedy. Let us further suppose that the other one of them, brand X, is Mr. Nixon. Mr. Kennedy gets more votes than Mr. Nixon.

But the voters who voted for Mr. Nixon do not obtain their choice. They wanted Mr. Nixon to run their affairs. They got Mr. Kennedy. They are frustrated.

Of course, those who voted for Mr. Kennedy are delighted. Not only do they get the man they want to run their affairs, they get a man who is empowered to run everyone's affairs.

But there is always a third category of people, those who want neither Brand X nor Brand YYY. There may be those who wanted Brand Z. There might even be those who don't want any brand at all. They want to run their own affairs entirely without having a Nixon, a Kennedy or a ZZZZ to run them.

But by the majority process, all of them regardless of their personal wishes or convictions, must now pay for Brand YYY. And they are bound to use

Brand YYY even if they'd rather not.

Suddenly, we see what has happened. In our support of Democracy we have moved away from the concept of rule by the people. Instead, we now have monopoly rule. All minorities, regardless of their interests, desires or whatever, are compelled to go along with the monopoly.

Now if we practiced small-d democracy in this country, those who voted for Nixon would have him running their affairs; those who voted for Kennedy would have him, those who voted for someone else to regulate their lives would have him.

And those who didn't want anyone to run their affairs for them, would be left without anyone running their affairs.

This would be moral. Each would then get to pay for what he himself voted that he wanted. The man who refused to participate would not have the "advantages" he would have gained had he done so. Perhaps he would regret this later. But that is his business. Just as it is your business to refuse to buy beans and to suffer from hunger if that is what happens.

We can virtually hear the cry of alarm. "But this would mean that we would have many presidents... at least two. And how could we get everyone to go along on a given policy in that case?"

The answer is that you could not. But would this be bad? The concept of representation is essentially a concept of agency. Someone is to act for you. But how can someone act for you, if that someone is completely committed to actions contrary to your own best interests? To suppose that he represents you because others have chosen him is to suppose a lie. He can only represent you if you select him, and then if he confines himself to your interests.

It is capital D Democracy that is doing us in. Men who are opposed to your own best interests obtain power over you through actions taken by others.

Democracy (capital D) means majority control of all. Majority control of all means monopoly. And it always results in monopoly control in the hands of minority. This is never moral, nor is it necessary.

Half Pay Offer May Spread

All movie actors, as everyone knows, make pots of money.

What everyone knows doesn't quite jibe with the facts. For Hollywood's actors are hurting so badly because of the overseas exodus by film makers that they've agreed to work for half pay.

The idea is that if films they work in make money, they'll get the other half of their pay plus a bonus; if the film goes broke the half pay will be it. If producers agree, the exodus of film makers to foreign lands may be slowed or halted. Otherwise, Hollywood will lose its claim of being the film capital of the world.

The time may not be far off when the actors' offer of half pay may be the "thing" in America. For as everyone knows the quality of workmanship on many household appliances, automobiles especially in repair services on household appliances, is so poor that it drives customers to distraction. You've read where General Motors, Chrysler and Ford have called back cars by the millions for factory replacements or alterations.

This problem has become so acute that household appliance customers sometimes insist upon an article made in Japan or West Germany because they have a reputation of needing fewer repairs. In other words, better, more meticulous workmanship.

Some American firms arrange to have the finely-machined parts made in Japan or West Germany, not because wages are lower and the cost is less, but because they get fewer complaints from the customer.

Other American firms have found a different solution. They buy or start factories abroad to produce American designed appliances to be sold abroad. Considerably less cost.

This trend promises to continue because of the disparity in wages and living conditions here, in contrast to those in other nations. Wide variance in wages and standards of workmanship are certain to upset conditions, especially in America, as we adjust to increasing living standards and wages forthcoming in foreign lands.

Meantime, don't be too surprised if competition from abroad eventually becomes keen enough to force organized labor to come forth with some plan akin to the half pay offer of Hollywood actors.

U.S. POLICY TOWARD EAST-WEST TRADE

Recently representatives of the U.S. State Department, in testimony before Congress, requested that the Export Control Act be extended. This act, which expired last month, puts limits on trade with communist countries.

This act should in fact, be extended. Our country should do nothing to bolster the economies of communist nations, especially while U.S. servicemen are fighting communism in South Vietnam.

At the same time the act should be strengthened. U.S. exports to communist bloc countries have increased 56 percent since 1962, despite its present provisions. Among the items authorized for sale have been rubber, aluminum and magnesium scrap. These items have military significance and undoubtedly may have found their way to North Vietnam for use against our fighting men.

In light of these facts it is disturbing to note that the Commerce Department is reportedly planning to relax some of its controls on East-West trade.

The Office of Export Control is considering action to increase the number of products that may be transhipped from non-communist countries to communist ones, to relax the requirements for individual export licenses for many items, and to process requests for licenses more rapidly.

Industrial chemicals, nuclear radiation testing equipment, and metal-working machinery are among the items which would be more readily available to the communists if these plans are implemented.

The administration made a wise decision in requesting extension of the Export Control Act. But this policy must be consistently applied in all departments of government so that we will do nothing to strengthen our enemy.

Clearing House

Get something you would like to get off your chest? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested that you should have more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their mind. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and get it off your chest.

Editor:

The best way to get people to vote a new tax on themselves is to convince them that someone else is going to pay most of it. This is the appeal to our baser instinct—greed.

I would prefer to appeal to a finer quality—that of gratitude. Gratitude to all the fine people who come into Pampa from surrounding towns, to spend their money here with us. Is it fair to ask these people to pay for city services from which they derive little or no benefit?

I would rather defeat this sales tax—and in doing so tell all the people in our trade area that we do appreciate their business and that we want very much to keep it.

We in Pampa can pay our own way. Let's not kill the goose that lays the golden egg. Rather let's kill the sales tax and say to all our out of town customers and friends! Thanks and keep coming back!

Today is Thursday, Sept. 4, the 247th day of 1969 with 118 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1609 Henry Hudson discovered the Isle of Manhattan.

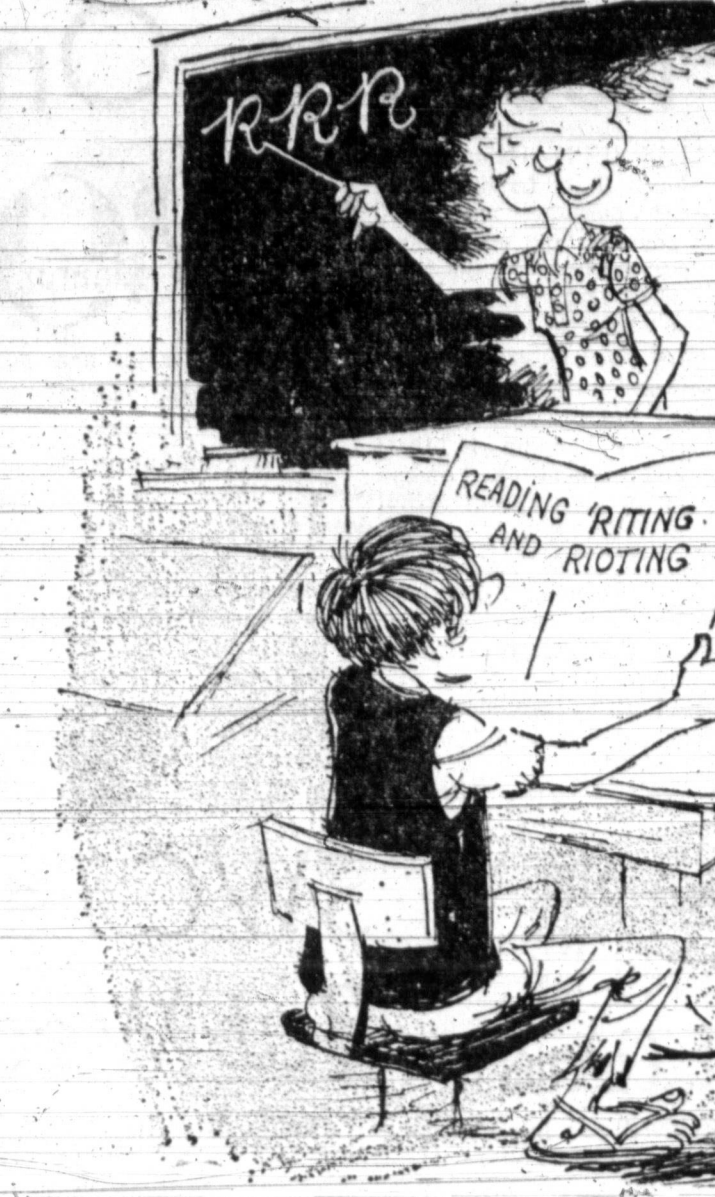

In 1781 Spanish settlers founded the city of Los Angeles.

In 1840 Adolf Hitler promised the German people he would invade Great Britain—a promise never carried out.

In 1945 Adm. William Halsey led the U.S. Third Fleet into Sagami Bay, 30 miles from Tokyo, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's occupation of Japan began.

A thought for the day: Greek philosopher Phaedrus said: "He who covets what belongs to another—deservedly—loses his own."

Air Travelers Spill Onto Rails

By PAUL HARVEY

The best possible news for air travelers is evidence of a renaissance of the railroads. Overcrowded air carriers demand relief; overcrowded airports force curtailment of schedules.

Now, with a traffic jam upstairs, a resumption of interest in rail passenger service is coming along just in time.

The problems of air travel will get worse before this relief can be felt. Airlines, with more passengers than they can handle, may get altogether as impersonal, unreliable and rude as did the railroads when they did not want passengers.

Indeed, the next era of "luxury transportation" may be on the ground.

Commercial travelers are learning that "predictability" is more important than "speed."

The new Turbtrain between Montreal and Toronto is typical of the new generation of rail travel, and this one is already in operation. It averages 85 miles an hour and, when the roadbed is improved and many grade crossings eliminated, it will average more than 100 miles an hour.

Similar trains are presently under construction for the Boston-New York run and later, between Boston and Washington.

Between Chicago and Carbondale, 307 miles downstate, the Illinois Central contemplates a high-speed (170 m.p.h.) train. With stops, the run could be made in three hours.

Counting the time to and from airports—and stacked up over airports—that time beats most present jet plane schedules!

But again, speed is less important than predictability. Time was when you could set your watch by the daily whistle of the 5-15 hopefully that time may come again.

Trains have many advantages with which planes cannot

Brown Eyes, Blue Eyes -- No Set Hereditary Base

Q — Our blue-eyed son does not believe he is our child because both my husband and I have brown eyes. In one side of his family tree blue eyes have predominated. I have always heard that two brown-eyed persons could have a blue-eyed child but that two blue-eyed people could not have a brown-eyed baby. Is that true?

A — Although brown eye color is a dominant and blue a recessive hereditary trait, human genes have become so mixed that the simple Mendelian rules of heredity cannot be applied to man. Tell your son for me that in his own children, if he has more than one, any conceivable combination of eye colors may occur. As for your quoted statement, it is true in a general way but exceptions can occur.

Q — Is there any scientific reason why first cousins shouldn't marry?

A — If all the genes on both sides were desirable ones and no hereditary diseases or defects clouded the picture, this would be a strong reason for two first cousins to marry. Since this is rarely the case, such a marriage greatly increases the chances of perpetuating undesirable characteristics in an aggravated form.

Q — How great are the risk factors concerning the perpetuation of family weaknesses, mental or physical when third cousins marry? Would duodenal ulcer or colitis be transmitted to their offspring?

A — The risk in third cousins is so diluted that it is not much greater than when total strangers marry. Ulcers and colitis are usually caused by emotional stress. Heredity has nothing to do with their occurrence.

Q — What is the cause of a pilonidal sinus? Is it contagious? Can it be cured?

A — A pilonidal cyst is a developmental defect that occurs at the lower end of the spine. It remains rudimentary until late puberty when it is likely to enlarge greatly in size. It contains sweat glands and sometimes hair but it causes no trouble until, as a result of an injury, it becomes infected and a draining sinus is formed. It is not contagious. The standard treatment is complete surgical removal of the cyst. If any of the skin lining the cyst is left behind there will be a recurrence. A new treatment that shows promise consists of injecting full-strength penicillin into the cyst and using a deplimentary cream to keep the area free of hair.

Saigon Rests Victory Hope On U.S. Public Opinion

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Strange enough, by a most curious type of logic, men high in the administration now believe that if we assume Hanoi will not make an agreement and therefore we prepare for an endless war, and Hanoi can become convinced that we are indeed planning to go on forever, then, and only then, will Hanoi be prepared to negotiate in earnest.

It is for that reason that both in Saigon and in Washington military-political analysts are watching with the most careful attention the autumn 1969 plans for student youth antiwar demonstrations in the United States.

It is a major reason for the gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops.

It is behind the strong words of praise President Nixon has given for President Thieu during his visit to Saigon.

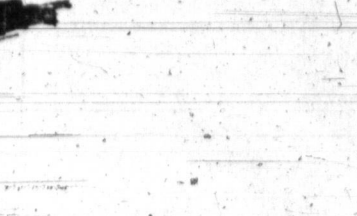

Administration analysts here and in Saigon believe we are winning the war in Vietnam. Ho Chi Minh's successors face growing problems at home. Under normal circumstances, they believe, they therefore could be expected to negotiate. Except for one thing: Captured documents and intercepted Hanoi radio broadcasts make it clear he expects to win in Washington. As in the war with France he counts on public opinion to force an American pullout at any price.

That is, if Hanoi believes American public opinion against the war is rising to dangerous levels, as in the last days of the Johnson administration, he need only wait awhile to win.

But, or so the theory runs, if Hanoi believes Nixon has public opinion under control, then it will negotiate, because in North and growing Vietnam the situation is growing steadily worse.

This is the watch on the demonstrations. If they are large and effective and attract a good deal of public sympathy, Hanoi may be further convinced Nixon cannot hold out for long. If the demonstrations burnish the analysts' reason, they might rethink.

Is McCarthy's 'Place' For Poet-N.Y. Senate Race?

WASHINGTON — Sen. Eugene McCarthy may run for re-election after all — in New York.

That's still iffy, but significantly he isn't flatly ruling it out.

The poetry-spouting Minnesota "peacenik" has disavowed intention to try for another Senate term from his home state or any other. But while outwardly evincing no burning desire to enter the New York lists for the seat of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, at the same time McCarthy is listening to increasing urging that he do so.

This characteristically ambivalent attitude takes on importance because of another key facet of the ardent backstage movement to persuade him to be a Senate candidate in New York.

This is that he lay the groundwork for that coming out for Mayor John Lindsay — who lost the Republican nomination and is running as a kind of "fusion" candidate, as the proclaimed choice of the Liberal party, as head of a yet to be formalized independent ticket of some sort, and with the fervent support of New Yorkers, so-called reform and defecting Democrats and other white and black dissidents.

Lindsay is very eager for McCarthy's active backing; wants him to electioneer for him in the impending fall campaign. They have had several unannounced conferences on that.

McCarthy insiders appear quite certain he will declare for Lindsay.

According to them, he will do that regardless of what he decides about running for the Kennedy seat next year. One close lieutenant put it this way: "It's a matter of timing. At the right time, Gene will do everything he can to help Lindsay."

Insiders are stressing McCarthy feels completely free to do that because he has all but officially severed his Democratic ties. They say that whatever he may run for in the future — senator, governor or President — it will be as a third party independent.

From their account, McCarthy apparently feels a new "liberal party" has a promising future in U.S. politics.

SUGAR DADDIES — Foremost among those strongly counseling the "New York strategy" are two multi-millionaires who were among the top contributors to the Minnesota "peacenik's" unavailing presidential scramble last year. They are:

Howard Stein, head of the big Dreyfus Fund, who paid out some $40,000 in debts in the New Hampshire primary, and forked over liberally in other state contests. After the Democratic convention, McCarthy solaced his jaded sensibilities as Stein's guest on the French Riviera.

Martin Peretz, militant liberal and financial angel, thanks to his wife's inherited millions, of activist movements and candidates. She is the former Ann Labouisse, Singer sewing machine heiress; he teaches at Harvard; and both go in for far-out "political philanthropy." They largely financed the uproarious 1967 New Left Conference in Chicago that, in effect, was taken over by black militants. Among knowledgeable McCarthyites, the Peretzes are credited with lading out at least $250,000 for his 1968 "crusade."

Insiders are saying Stein and Peretz are being counted on to provide quite a bit of money for Lindsay's campaign. According to these sources, the Peretzes are expected to give $100,000.

In these quarters it is also claimed Stein, Peretz and other millionaires McCarthy devotes have indicated willingness to raise $1 million to finance his running for the Senate in New York. That kind of big-money devotion may explain McCarthy's airy nonchalance about his future.

Asked recently what he plans to do after his Senate term expires next year, he replied loftily, "Oh, there is always a place in the world for a poet."

In addition to McCarthy's book about his 1968 campaign, titled "The Year of the People," he has also completed a book

Back to School

of poems — his second. The first was privately printed. In one poem, he describes himself as "the existential runner," although he says most of his poetry has no relation to politics.

GOING IT ALONE — Meanwhile, McCarthy has taken up bachelor quarters in a well-known Washington hotel.

This rift in the 24-year marriage with his wife Abigail has long been in the making. Although outwardly continuing to live together, they have been estranged for years.

While separating, the McCarthys have no immediate intention of getting a divorce.

They are Catholics; Mrs. McCarthy is a leader among Catholic laywomen. Also, they have four children — three daughters ranging from 13 to 21, and an 18-year-old son.

McCarthy dines from time to time with a feminine friend in the capital's ritzy French restaurants.

His attendance in the Senate is somewhat better than it was last year — when he gave himself what amounted to a 12-month leave of absence. Out of 339 record votes covering a wide range of domestic and foreign issues and problems, McCarthy was present for 12.

This year he has been on hand for most of the important ballots. But that's all. He has largely ignored the Senate's debates and deliberations.

He took no part in the liberal's long fight to revise Rule 22 on filibustering, and was equally inactive on the nonproliferation treaty and the so-called "national commitment" resolution to allow the Senate's claim for consultation by the White House before taking military measures or making crucial foreign policy decisions.

In the month-long battle over the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system, McCarthy showed up for most of the decisive votes. But he only made one short talk. It was a rambling, disjointed discourse in which he said little about the ABM. Most of the time he orated about other matters, among them his views on the "infallibility of Presidents." McCarthy didn't think much of it.

What little he had to say about the ABM also was characteristically whimsical, as follows:

"I think in the case of the ABM we have what is not really a basic military question, it is a question not as much of military policy as it is a question of diplomatic or foreign policy. It is a question of how we want to deal with other nations in the world."

There is still much resentment among friends of Israel over McCarthy's refusal several months ago to join with some 300 other members of Congress in a published "Declaration in Favor of Direct Arab-Israel Peace Negotiations." The signers included 63 senators and 223 congressmen; McCarthy, the only Senate liberal to balk, explained his position on the ground, "Israel should make concessions."

DON'T BLAME US — Peace Corps Director Joseph Blatchford is "very emphatic that the Peace Corps was in no way responsible for the riotous opposition Gov. Nelson Rockefeller encountered during his recent Latin American touring.

That possibility was raised by Rep. Gus Yatron (D-Pa.) at a meeting of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. It was considering the bill authorizing the Peace Corps' new $101.1 million budget, and Yatron noted that more than 13,000 Corpsmen have served in Latin America in the past eight years.

"If your organization is doing such an outstanding job," said Yatron, "why did Governor Rockefeller meet with such violent hostility during his visit to those countries?"

"It wasn't due to Peace Corps volunteers," replied Blatchford sharply. "I know that." And he also knew it wasn't the people with whom our volunteers work the people in the villages and in the slums. I think the hostility is due more to difficulties over foreign policy and from radical student elements."

Yatron refused to be convinced.

WAC's Top Brass Best Bet To Become First Lady General

NEW YORK (NEA)—The United States military may be in the process of selecting the longest-haired brigadier general in its history.

She's Elizabeth Hoisington, director of the Women's Army Corps.

The changing of old regulations (which prohibited women generals) makes it possible.

This month, for the first time, 12 WAC colonels are being considered (along with the usual men) for one-star rank. And Liz Hoisington, 26 years in service, both enlisted and officer, is reportedly the best female bet.

Nothing would please the WAC chief more. But not just for herself.

"I'd be very proud," she says, fingering a pencil in her neat-but-not-feminine Pentagon office. "I'd be very, very proud for the corps."

Cynics will say this is the stock comment. But those who know "Col. Liz," as some call her, say it's also an honest one.

"The corps is everything to her," insists one subordinate, "and I mean everything. She never gets away from it, she never stops thinking about it. She has never even found the time to get married. Well, that's not exactly correct either. She is married — to the corps."

The wedding of the WACs and Liz Hoisington took place in November of 1942. She was sworn into the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, as it was called then, as a private. She was an Army brat (her father was a colonel) and three of her brothers were graduated from West Point, one becoming a general.

Liz Hoisington joined the newly formed women's service "because it was a chance to do something important, because it was an opportunity to help the country and because it was such an adventure to belong."

However, she adds:

"I really didn't have any idea of making a career of it then. Actually, none of us thought Army careers were possible. We were in for the duration only and we felt the old WAAC would end with the war."

In fact, the old WAAC did end. And so did, in most part, the subordinate role it played in the military organization. In its place, the WAC was formed. The Army began to put its women on a competitive level with its men. And Liz Hoisington decided to stick around for good.

Her corps is solidly entrenched in the military establishment — its mission, she says, is a vital one. WAC strength is growing — 11,800, moving toward 33,000. Standards are lofty ("higher than the men's"). And most important — all is finally equal.

"Up until 1967," Col. Hoisington says, "Army regulations would not let women become even permanent colonels. The WAC director would assume rank of temporary colonel for the term of her assignment. Then, if another director was named, she would fall back to lieutenant colonel."

"Now that's changed. We don't know if a woman general will be named soon, but it's at least possible now. I think this is good. Most other things in the Army have always been equal between men and women — the pay and the training. And now there is no limit on promotion possibilities either."

Col. Liz believes that Army women, while not as physically capable as Army men, are even in most other ways.

"We can't go slogging along with rifles in our hands. We just aren't built that way.

Evidence In Assaulting A Police Officer Charge, Melts

EAST CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Edward J. Newcombe, 24, of Arlington appeared in East Cambridge District Court Tuesday on a charge of assaulting Patrolman Francis E. McKenna of Arlington with a snowball last Feb. 23.

Newcombe's lawyer approached the bench and said to Judge M. Edward Viola, "Your honor, I request that the charge be dismissed on the grounds that the evidence (snowball) has disappeared. In fact you might say it has melted."

The judge looked down at the defendant, then at the patrolman, and smiled. He dismissed the case.

Woman Spends Weekend In Well

MCKINNEY (UPI)—The dove season opened in Texas on Labor Day. If it began one day later, Sammy Gardner might not be alive today.

The Dallas woman, about 40, spent the majority of the Labor Day weekend braced against a brick wall in seven feet of water in a covered 15-foot deep well. Her screams were finally heard Monday by two hunters out on the first day of the dove season who rescued her.

It started out as our brewmaster's own private recipe. Something he brewed a little at a time for his friends.

Introducing ENCORE.

What began as an experiment in the art of brewing has ended in the discovery of a beer with a flavor never before achieved.

Our brewmaster created it as his own private-recipe beer. And since he never intended that it be sold to the public, he added a few refinements—like slow-lager ageing. A time-consuming, rather costly way to make beer.

Only recently have we been able to make enough to offer it for sale.

Today, you'll find ENCORE in certain fine restaurants, good bars, and in leading take-home stores. Discover it soon, and see what sets ENCORE apart from all other beers.

What is "Quality"?

Quality is the loving accumulation of little things, in which each part is as important as the whole. It is the unique combination of care, concern, and craftsmanship. It is a quiet, invisible something that need not call attention to itself—that exists even when it is ignored by those who know no better. Quality is the attitude that nothing is too unimportant to be good.

ENCORE. Our brewmaster's own.
