Work-Vacation Over For Nixon; Heads For Texas

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon, tanned and rested after a month-long working vacation in California, shut down the western White House today.

The roundabout trip back to Washington included dedication of a dam on the Texas-Mexico border and an assessment of the damage caused by Hurricane Camille in Gulfport, Miss.

The President and his party were to depart aboard Air Force One at 7:45 a.m. PDT for Del Rio, Tex., where Nixon will meet with President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico at the crest of the $78 million, mile-long Amistad Dam.

Guests on hand for the luncheon at which the Mexican government will be host included Secretary of State and Mrs. William Rogers, Atty. Gen. and Mrs. John Mitchell and former Texas Gov. and Mrs. John Connally, as well as Gov. Preston Smith of Texas.

Following private talks with Diaz Ordaz, the Chief Executive flew to the Municipal Airport at Gulfport, Miss., for a meeting aboard Air Force One with Gov. John Bell Williams, Sens. James O. Eastland and John Stennis, and Rep. William Colmer.

The White House indicated Sunday it would go along with South Vietnam's rejection of the 72-hour truce proposed by the Viet Cong in memory of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

Ho's Successors Have New Pledge Of Soviet Support

Kosygin Meets With North Viet Leaders

TOYKO (UPI)—Mourners from 12 nations, including the United States, flew into Hanoi today for Ho Chi Minh's funeral. Ho's successors won new pledges of full Soviet support for their war effort.

The Vietnam News Agency, in a dispatch from the North Vietnamese capital, said Gus Hall, secretary general of the U.S. Communist party, was among the arrivals this morning from Moscow.

Hall joined Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other officials from the Communist bloc and non-Communist nations as well in mourning the death of the 79-year-old North Vietnamese president.

Kosygin laid a wreath at the foot of Ho's bier in Ba Dinh Hall Sunday. On it was inscribed this pledge: "The Soviet people are firmly convinced that the Vietnamese people will obtain new victories in building socialism and in defending their homeland against imperialist aggression."

"In this endeavor, the Vietnamese people can always believe in the full support of the Communist party and government of the Soviet Union."

Later, the Soviet news agency Tass said, Kosygin met with the top leaders of North Vietnam to discuss the war and Moscow-Hanoi relations. Tass reported "an atmosphere of friendship and complete mutual understanding."

Moscow Radio earlier had criticized the Communist Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, for leaving Hanoi before Ho's funeral, scheduled for Wednesday. The broadcast called Chou's move "disrespectful" of Ho.

Chou's departure Friday before Kosygin arrived underscored the split between the two Communist giants, both of whom are reported jockeying for influence among the leadership council Ho left to govern North Vietnam.

Broadcasts and news dispatches from Hanoi described long lines of North Vietnamese waiting to view Ho's body in Ba Dinh Hall. They said Ho's rubber sandals lay in a box at his feet and that he was dressed in the plain outfit he wore on his strolls in Hanoi.

Delegations from the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Hungary, East Germany, Mongolia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, France, Britain, the United States, Japan, India, Sweden and Canada were among the 20 foreign nations represented in the North Vietnamese capital.

Motives Sought In Skellytown Murder

SKELLYTOWN (Staff)—Skellytown First Baptist Church, where the woman was an organist and pianist, Rev. Merle Rogers and his wife, discovered the body.

The minister and his wife had become alarmed when Mrs. Beighle failed to show up for church services.

The last known contact with the dead woman was at about 10 p.m. Saturday when she talked by telephone with a Pampa woman.

Entry to Mrs. Beighle's home was gained by cutting a hole in a back screen door and unlocking the latch.

Sheriff Nunn said his deputies had been able to lift three or four partial latent finger print impressions at the home.

"They are pretty poor prints and some of them could be the dead woman's," Nunn said.

The sheriff said the death of Mrs. Beighle and Mrs. Elsa Nickell, who was murdered July 13, of this year in Panhandle.

Elbrick Has Freedom After 76-Hour Seige

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Brazilian authorities knew all along where terrorist kidnapers were holding U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick but made no move to rescue the envoy for fear he would be killed, a police official said today.

Shortly after Elbrick was freed unhurt from three days' captivity, intelligence agents Sunday raided the deserted mansion where the said terrorists had kept the ambassador hostage.

The official said Elbrick's captors had fled, leaving behind Communist propaganda, weapons and ammunition.

Elbrick was released Sunday by guerrillas who had held him for 76 hours to obtain freedom for 15 political prisoners of the Brazilian military regime.

The 61-year-old career diplomat, cut slightly on the head by a blow on the forehead but otherwise in good condition.

A heavy overcast of clouds hung over Pampa throughout the morning hours emitting now and then a few drops of moisture.

The Weather Bureau said thundershowers would develop later today over portions of North Central and Northwest Texas and along the Coastal Plains. The radar station at Galveston, however, reported no rains early today.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen Dies Of Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Everett McKinley Dirksen, an old-time orator whose timeless political skills made him the hub of Republican power in Congress is dead at 73.

The man, who for 10 years was the voice, vehicle and vital force of the Grand Old Party in the U.S. Senate died Sunday after three heart stoppages, six days after an operation for lung cancer.

In a congressional career that covered 35 years, first as a representative from the corn-belt region of his native Pekin, Ill., and later as a senator, Dirksen was one of the most colorful and controversial politicians of his era.

The tributes were immediate and deep. President Nixon said "He will be remembered as a giant in the history of Congress and as one who on the great issues always placed the nation first."

Richard B. Russell, dean of the Senate Democrats, added: "Few senators have been more universally loved by the American people... when he spoke the nation listened, and his eloquence on the issues of our day was a source of national strength."

The Senate planned to meet briefly today and then adjourn in tribute to one of its best-known figures. Tentative funeral plans were for the late lawmaker's body to lie in state Tuesday in the Capitol Rotunda and after services at National Presbyterian Church to be taken by funeral train to Pekin for burial.

In the Senate, it was Dirksen's oratory, exuberant charm and flair for the theatrical, as well as his keen talent for compromise, that often won him the balance of power despite the minority status his party usually held.

Outside the Senate, it was Dirksen the master answerman who caught the imagination of the public, effusively stating his party's position on evening television news shows during the Kennedy-Johnson years and pausing between sentences for a sip of water as a rapt convention hall of his fellow Republicans waited for his next word.

EVERETT M. DIRKSEN

Texans Express Grief Over Death Of America's 'Most Eloquent Voice'

Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen transcended political parties as well as he avoided the labels many tried to pin on him.

He was called a conservative Republican and yet former President Lyndon B. Johnson said Dirksen was the Senate's most instrumental man in pushing through most of Johnson's civil rights legislation.

When President Nixon took over, Republicans grumbled Dirksen cooperated more with Johnson than his Republican successor.

Dirksen was born in Pekin Jan. 4, 1896, and his early days were spent on a small prairie farm run by his widowed mother. He was later involved in a dredging business and in a bakery at Pekin, but he broke into national politics with his election to the House in 1932.

Dirksen left the House in 1942 because of an eye ailment, but two years later he had amazingly recovered and took on Scott W. Lucas, then the Senate Democratic leader, and defeated him. He became party whip in 1957 and two years later won the Senate leadership post on a 20-14 vote.

Doctors had removed the upper two-thirds of Dirksen's right lung last Tuesday in an operation with added hazards because Dirksen suffered from emphysema and had an enlarged heart. There was every indication he would recover and return to the Senate duties that often put him into a dawn-to-dusk work schedule.

Laella, his wife of 42 years, was with him at Walter Reed Army Hospital Sunday afternoon when he suffered three cardiac arrests. All efforts to get him breathing again failed.

Ex-Bishop Pike May Be Buried In Holy Land

BETHLEHEM (UPI)—Former Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, who died in the Judean wilderness seeking the truth about Christ, may be buried in the Holy Land he loved.

Pike's body was discovered Sunday by Israeli border guards at the foot of a 90-foot cliff, six days after he was reported missing in the desert where Jesus spent 40 nights fasting.

An autopsy today indicated Pike died of exhaustion six days ago.

Pike's widow, Diana, and her brother, Richard Scott Kennedy, said they were consulting Pike's 84-year-old mother in California and other relatives about burial plans for the controversial churchman.

Mrs. Pike told newsmen earlier she hoped Pike would be buried in the Holy Land. "He loved the Israeli people and the Holy Land so deeply," she said. "I feel there is no more appropriate place for him to die if he had to die."

After Pike's body was found near the fortress of King Herod the Great, Mrs. Pike recalled her 56-year-old husband's last words to her—"If I die here, I am at peace. I have no regrets."

Pike's body was found 2 1/2 miles from where Mrs. Pike had left him last week in a state of collapse after their automobile stuck on a rock pit. She had sought help alone. Apparently, he had been trying to scale the cliff.

Mrs. Pike, the clergyman's third wife, and her brother said they would have no word on their own plans until a decision was made on Pike's burial.

Mrs. Pike said her husband died in quest of truth about Jesus, whom he loved and adored more and more, the more he learned about Him. "I am sure he was filled with courage and hope and complete trust in God when he died."

Man Killed As Ireland's Religious Conflict Continues

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Gunfire from a speeding car killed one man and wounded another today in the latest outbreak of violence in Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic-Protestant conflict.

A Protestant underground radio broadcast said the dead man was a Protestant and urged its listeners to rally in force at their barricades. Police said the victim was Jack Todd, 23, whose religion was not known.

British troops, shouldering bayoneted rifles and with tear gas grenades strapped to their uniforms, sped to the shooting scene on Alloo Street in one of the city's Protestant sections.

An army spokesman said the men were shot from a speeding car while a shop in the area was being looted.

"Feeling is running high," the spokesman said. "The feeling seems to be that this was the work of Catholics—although we don't even know the religion of the man who was killed."

West Belfast looked like a city under siege. Bands of Protestants and Catholics milled behind their respective barricades which army units have been trying to persuade them to take down.

Motives Sought In Skellytown Murder

SKELLYTOWN (Staff)—Robbery and possibly rape are being investigated as motives in the murder of a Skellytown woman, found dead in her bed Sunday afternoon.

Carson County Sheriff John Nunn said that contents of five purses in the woman's home were strewn about the room, and no money had been found.

Sheriff Nunn said whether or not Mrs. Edith Beigle, 69, was raped would not be known until an autopsy, scheduled this morning in Amarillo, was completed.

"Certain signs point to the fact rape may have occurred and due to the fact we can't find some money she was supposed to have had leads us to believe either one or both could have been the motive," Nunn said.

Mrs. Beigle was found with an electric blanket heating cord tied around her neck about 3 p.m. Sunday.

States Senate has lost its most eloquent voice," said Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex. "He was without an equal in the Senate in his command of the English language, and debate and discussion and analysis of laws will suffer because of the absence of his wit and humor in the give and take of legislative combat.

"He was one of the Senate's luminaries," Yarborough said. "The Senate is dimmer because he is gone. All the country will miss him, but the Senate will miss him most of all."

Former President Johnson wired a personal message to Dirksen's widow when he learned of the death of the man from whom he liked to take advice and to whom he regularly gave it.

"I am very sad, as I know all Americans are, at the loss of a man who in a very important time in history of this country expressed the sentiments of the majority of the American people," said Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, a Democrat.

"The Republicans have lost a minority leader and the American people have lost a senator, and the free world has lost a leader," Barnes said.

"Sen. Dirksen was a man of great ability and will be greatly missed," said Democratic Gov. Preston Smith. "He furnished tremendous leadership in Congress when it was so badly needed. He was a great public servant. One that was admired, loved and respected by millions of Americans."

"I'm very sad," said GOP National Committeeman Peter O'Donnell Jr. of Dallas. "The Senate has lost a great leader. America has lost a man it loved very much."

QUACKS STEAL TIME FROM YOUR LIFE

Medical quackery is still a multi-million dollar business and it is growing all the time. Every day they steal, not only money but more importantly, precious treatment time from the misguided sufferer. Most frequently these quacks prey upon people with Arthritis, Rheumatism, skin disorders, obesity and cancer.

Always consult with licensed physicians, dentists and pharmacists. When in doubt check your local medical society or public health authorities. Beware of the promised quick-cure or medical gadget unless your physician approves.

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We were surprised and disappointed to learn that you approve of sex education in the schools. When did you change your mind? Not too long ago you told a couple of high school students who wanted to study a marriage manual together, "You don't need to study the violin two years before you're able to practice."

Isn't that what sex education in school is? MR. AND MRS. B.: DEAR MR. AND MRS. B.: No! Sex education in the schools deals with animal and human reproduction, personal hygiene, health, including the seriousness of venereal disease, etc. Marriage manuals deal with the "physical" side of marriage, giving explicit instruction in sexual behavior. This, I agree, has no place in our schools, and is not taught there, contrary to what you may have been led to believe!

DEAR ABBY: How can an intelligent woman like you be for sex education in the schools?

Why I heard that one teacher got so carried away while conducting a sex education lecture that she completely disrobed in front of the class!

In another school, the teacher herded the whole class into a dark closet and told them to "feel" each other!

I could tell you much more, but you wouldn't believe it.

HORRIFIED IN MELROSE, FLA.

DEAR HORRIFIED: I'm sure I wouldn't. And I don't believe the above incidents ever happened either. I have heard all these wild tales (and more) but teachers who supposedly did the above, the schools in which these incidents were supposed to have occurred, or any of the children who were actually present.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your sensible statement concerning sex education. From my observation, I must conclude that those who equate sex education with smut and even communism are the ones who insist that this subject be left in the hands of parents.

On the other hand, I have a friend who is a physician, clearly qualified to handle the subject of sex. Yet, when the time came to tell his own son the facts of life, he was so embarrassed that the son was completely mystified by it all and failed to grasp the content of his father's message. The boy later learned about sex in the traditional alley, as do some 80 per cent of our youngsters.

One might also point out that most parents would be capable of teaching their children reading, writing, and other subjects, but for some reason, when it comes to sex, trained teachers seem to produce much better results.

"BIRDS AND BEES"

DEAR ABBY: I think you are all wrong to say that sex education in schools is okay. During school years children should concentrate on reading, writing, and arithmetic. And in their spare time they should think about dolls, flying kites, and baseball.

I heard that a school in southern California tried sex education 10 years ago and they had to stop it because over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant.

AGAINST SEX EDUCATION DEAR AGAINST: Can you provide me with the name of that school in southern California—and proof that over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant? If so, I will publicly apologize.

JEANE DIXON

TUESDAY, SEPT. 9

YOUR BIRTHDAY TUESDAY: Your experience in the year ahead promises to be less demanding than last year's, with more opportunity for reflection. Your earnings should stabilize at higher levels now. You may find yourself choosing to travel rather than stay at home and working alone rather than in company. Tuesday's natives are prudent and philosophic in their living.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Much can be accomplished Tuesday so put forth your most effective effort. Your emotional ties manifest themselves sharply and clearly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If you are going to improve your property be sure that you have a full understanding with everybody. It's an excellent day for getting things done in this area.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Confusing conditions, come and go — do not let them lead you into snap decisions. Stick with your plans and continue to stay busy. Home and family life are strongly favored in the evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stir yourself a bit Tuesday as there is much to be gained by the effort. Your work will require an extra spurt. Travel connections are erratic.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): The inclination is to daydream. Travel, particularly on water, is hazardous. Wait for the whole story before you pass judgment about a partner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The resolve Tuesday to find a sound personal improvement program; further study, if you are not presently pursuing. Keep a steady course, a conservative philosophy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Sometimes your friends see things that you miss; give and take advice. Persuade people to attempt more in planning their lives.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your personal touch is essential to your financial affairs Tuesday — do not delegate any activity. Take enough time for decisions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Expect others around you to change their minds. Journeys may be delayed or cancelled. Somebody you care about puzzles you. Business is tense. At night find a quiet place to study.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Efficiency Tuesday. Endeavor to collect what ever is due you. Wear something new. The evening lends itself to games, mild sport.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Put in a full day as early as you can. Dealings with friends can be constructive today, but be clear so there are no misunderstandings. Diplomacy will be needed.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): This is one of those days where you go along with younger people instead of trying to push them your way. Somebody at close range will be temperamental or erratic, so prepare to cope with a tantrum.

DALLAS (UPI)—Coach Tom Landry looking back today on the 25-9 win by the Dallas Cowboys over the New York Jets, felt less like the conqueror of world champions and more like Gen. George Armstrong Custer if he had survived for one more stand.

Landry and his Cowboys will make many more stands, but they hoped they would not be as costly as Saturday's win over the Jets.

Under many circumstances, a trouncing of the Super Bowl victors would be a moment to savor. Not this one, however. It came at too high a price for the Cowboys.

For one thing, Joe Namath, the man the Cowboys were gunning for, did not even suit up for the game. And beating Namath-less Jets was like outwitting the Mission Impossible team on their vacation.

What's the point?

That was not the only reason for disappointment in the Cowboys camp. There is Craig Morton, the team's top quarterback, out at least two weeks and bothered for at least half a season with a dislocated finger. Not an ordinary digit, mind you, but the one on the right hand, next to the thumb.

Morton uses to guide footballs to passing receivers.

If that wasn't enough, speedy Bob Hayes, the Cowboys' ace split end, separated a shoulder and team traiger Dr. Marvin Knight said Sunday Hayes would be out at least a month.

"We did surgery on Bob (Sunday) morning, a Cowboy spokesman said. "It went well. Dr. Knight said that as soon as the soreness is gone, Bob will have freedom of movement.

"That doesn't mean contact," the spokesman said. "But he will be able to run and work out and such. This is a minimum of four weeks we're talking about."

While Morton's injury came during the game, the injury to Hayes was much more exasperating. He separated his shoulder during pregame practices Saturday night.

"The Cowboys have one more preseason game, next Sunday with the NFL champion Baltimore Colts. The Cowboys open the regular season in Dallas Sept. 21 against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Speaking of replacements for Hayes, Landry said he could activate Bobby Joe Conrad, placed on waivers last week, or switch Dennis Homan from flanker to split end. The Homan move might be the more logical.

Simpson Flops In Rams' Game

By United Press International
Don Maynard is dead wrong about the New York Jets. They can't win without Joe Namath.

Maynard, the Jets' talented flanker, tried very hard to convince the public that the Jets could win without Namath in the lineup. He said so after the Jets whipped the Giants several weeks ago at New Haven, and he said it again last week prior to the Jets pre-season game with the Dallas Cowboys.

With Babe Parilli and Al Woodall sharing the quarterback duties, in Saturday night's game against the Cowboys, the Jets rolled up only 136 yards in total offense and managed only three first downs—all in the first quarter. Twice they got inside the 10-yard line but each time had to settle for a field goal by Jim Turner.

Namath, who didn't suit up because of a blood clot in his left leg, instead watched helplessly from the sidelines as rookie Roger Staubach guided the Cowboys to victory.

The promising rookie connected on 10 of 16 passes for 160 yards and scrambled 17 yards for a touchdown himself before leaving the game midway in the third period after being shaken up.

It was a rough game for both sides as five Jets' players were injured, though none seriously. Linebacker Al Atkinson (bruised knee), guard Randy Rasmussen (bruised shoulder), cornerback Redy Beverly (pulled groin muscle), running back Lee White (bruised knee) and split end George Sauer (concussion) all needed medical treatment but are expected to be back in action next weekend when the Jets open defense of their American Football League championship against the Buffalo Bills in Buffalo.

In other pre-season games Saturday night, Los Angeles overwhelmed Buffalo, 50-20. Green Bay topped Pittsburgh, 31-19. Cleveland beat Washington, 20-10. Minnesota edged New York, 28-27. Detroit nipped Philadelphia, 23-21. Kansas City defeated Atlanta, 14-10. Cincinnati tripped Denver, 13-11. Houston crushed New Orleans, 30-14, and Miami blanked

Nobody's Laughing At Moody After Victory

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Have you noticed? Nobody's laughing at Orville Moody and more.

Orville's gone and done it again—with a three-under-par 67 Sunday for a 141 total that gave him the World Series of Golf by two strokes over George Archer. Suddenly his notions about practicing and cross-handed putting are getting more serious attention, for it's obvious Moody is actually a genuine golf star.

And Orville, tucking the $50,000 check, for first prize in the World Series into his pocket and heading for Las Vegas to host a military golf tournament today, is saying some pretty serious things.

"I think I'd like to establish a scholarship fund for some deserving young golfers," said Moody. "That's with some of the money. Some I'll give to my sponsors, some to my wife.

Moody won the World Series in the pouring rain at the Firestone Country Club course by out-lasting Masters champion George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., who had a 69-143; PGA champion Ray Floyd of Lake Havash, Ariz., who had 73-145; and British open champion Tony Jacklin, who had 72-145.

Archer, who will undergo medical examination this week for the persistent stomach pains that have been bothering him in recent tournaments, and Floyd and Jacklin were consoled with $6,250 each.

The Choice Will Be Made By The Voters Of Pampa!

Will we take advantage of the one-cent city sales tax available to us or will we accept a 50c per hundred dollar valuation increase in "Ad Valorem" or property taxes?

There are many questions to be answered regarding the Penny for Pampa—some of which are answered here.

- Q. How is it we are allowed the great privilege of voting "For" or "Against" the sales tax, and not the $0.50 tax on our property? (Bill McAllister)
  - A. Under the State law, the City Commission can not pass a sales tax without the vote of the people. The City Commission can pass a property tax increase without the vote of the people as authorized under State law and the City charter. The City Commission believed that the people should have a choice in the matter of whether 1c sales tax should be used for the needed City revenue, or a 50c increase in property taxes.
  - Q. Why can't Cole Addition, Mesilla Park and Price Road be annexed into our City so they can help pay City taxes. (Mrs. R. B. Ragsdale)
  - A. The developed areas of Cole and Mesilla Park Additions are now within the City Limits. It has been estimated that the developed area along Price Road would cost approximately $300,000 to $400,000 to be provided water and sewer service by the City. This money is not available. The State law requires that any area annexed must be served within three years or they may be deannexed. The Cole area in question will be called the Cole Addition on S. Hobart and the cost would be much greater than Funds on hand.
  - Q. Why didn't or couldn't you have thought of a way to tax the non-property owner or transient? (Mrs. Dewey Palminter)
  - A. The only method, under the law, that cities can tax non-residents is through the city sales tax.
  - Q. Why is there a need for so much money?
  - A. The payment of the Canadian River water bonds did not start until this past year. This amounted to approximately $153,000. The added cost of providing a sanitary landfill operation as required by state law this past year, amounted to approximately an additional $70,000 in equipment and preparation. Even with ten fewer employees and economies in operation, fixed costs such as Social Security have risen 50% in the past four years. It cost the City $27,000 more for Social Security payments this fiscal year than it did in 1965. General Fund Operation tax has not been increased in over seven years.
  - Q. How would the cost of a sales tax compare with the cost of the property tax for the average family?
  - A. The following are several examples of the effects of the property tax, and the sales tax:
- | Property Tax               |  |
|----------------------------|--|
| Homeowners — $10,000 Home | — $20 yearly increase                       |
| Homeowners — $15,000 Home | — $30 yearly increase                       |
| Homeowners — $20,000 Home | — $40 yearly increase from 50c property tax |
- | Sales Tax                                 |  |
|---|--|
| Family of four — $ 9,000 income          | — Pay $18.00                          |
| Family of Four — $10,000-$11,000 Income | — Would pay approximately $21.00 year |
| Family of Four — $15,000-$16,000 Income | — Would pay approximately $24.00 year |
| Family of five — $20,000 income          | — would pay approximately $37.00 year |

Stock Exchange Reaps Benefits Of 'Socialism'

There is one overriding reason why this nation is heading into socialism and away from free enterprise. That reason is that the people in the nation want socialism. If they really wanted something else, that would be what we would be getting. The climate of business and enterprise reflects the wishes of the people.

Now we quite understand that the folks who call themselves anti-socialists or even anti-communists, THINK they are opposing socialism or communism. And, in the main they are quite sincere about it, when they think of Russia or of strangers, or of people who have different views from theirs.

But socialism and communism are not Russian in origin and don't have anything necessarily to do with strangers or with people who have ideas contrary to yours.

The whole idea of socialism is that property is to be taken over by the state and then redistributed on the basis of need.

One of the most clearly socialist programs of all is called urban renewal. This is absolutely socialist as Karl Marx would have seen it. It is a government-backed program in which property the government covets for uses which are different from those to which the property is presently committed. It is taken from the rightful owners by force. Then the government turns around and distributes this property to others who agree to put up the kind of building or convert the property to some kind of use that the government favors.

This is full-circle socialism. From each according to what he promises to do with it. Who would you imagine as being the persons backing urban renewal? Naturally, you'd expect government people to back it and you'd be right. Government people are naturally socialist. The use of force is normal to them and the employment of force in relation to groups for the "benefit" of the social "whole" is their ordinary employment.

But outside of government who would want it? Strangely, the principal people in favor of urban renewal are the businessmen and the industrialists themselves. Men who for a long time have coveted certain properties but have despaired of getting them because others owned them, now league up

Sensing The News By THURMAN SENSING

One of the most significant developments on the national scene took place in Pittsburgh recently when construction workers staged a counter-demonstration against black militants who had persuaded city officials to halt building projects until more minority group workers had been hired. The counter-demonstrations paraded around City Hall shouting: "We are the majority."

At long last, it seems that the silent majority is finding its voice in America. During the 1960s, the majority seemed to be in retreat before the arrogant demands of a militant minority with political muscle. In the Kennedy-Johnson era, an organized minority group had only to make a protest—and federal agencies hastened to implement its will. The temper of the country is changing, however, as the Pittsburgh story indicates.

Highly significant in this connection was a recent article by Prof. Herbert J. Gans in The New York Times Magazine. His article was entitled "We Won't End The Urban Crisis Until We End 'Majority Rule.'" This is a curious thesis, but Prof. Gans strained to find arguments to support it. His analysis is profoundly revealing of liberal thinking at this time.

According to Prof. Gans, "majoritarian democracy" was adopted when America was a small, agrarian nation. Times have changed, he insists, and it's time, in his judgment, for something he calls "pluralistic democracy."

The Professor urged that minorities have a veto on legislation affecting them. He urged public financing of election campaigns and recommended free television time to all candidates—even from the third, fourth or fifth parties. Under "majoritarian democracy," he said, "minorities can be tyrannized because their demands are diametrically opposed to the majority's. When this happens, with a school or other institution, the minority should have the right to secede, establishing its own institution."

He also wants proportional representation, which would give splinter parties a place in every legislative chamber. What Prof. Gans proposed is a receipt for chaos. France in the 1930s had proportional representation, and it prevented maintenance of a strong government with a working majority. The communists, of course, gained a place at the governmental table, and disruption resulted.

It seems fair to say that the American people aren't about to buy Prof. Gans' proposal for "pluralistic democracy," which amounts to the tyranny of a minority. They aren't going to let dissident black power elements establish taxpayer-financed Jomo Kenyatta academies because community protesters don't like the public schools. They aren't about to require the television networks to give every kook a huge listening audience or finance the election campaigns of the lunatic fringe in American life. Finally, the American people don't seem in a mood to let a minority dictate public policy at the local or national level.

A minority group has rights the same rights as a majority group—the rights every citizen has. A minority, however, cannot be what the ultra-liberals want it to be, namely, a privileged class in America that can disrupt a city by halting garbage collections or blocking construction of private and public buildings. In Pittsburgh, for example, the construction workers have a right to work without interference by radical-led groups.

Some of the nation's politicians, who have been catering to militants in recent years, may not have gotten the word. American communities and great industries cannot be held up virtually at gunpoint by militant factions who threaten to plunge a community or a plant into chaos if their edicts aren't obeyed.

Predraft Tests Would End Young Men's Uncertainty

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Unpublished spot studies make it clear that "the inquiries" most young people see in the draft is that for as much as seven years or so they may have to live with a question over their heads: Will I or won't I be called to military service?

Many young men believe that this uncertainty makes it impossible for them to work out their futures with a reasonable amount of certainty. Some say they can't make plans on graduate schooling or for their occupation. They find employers reluctant to take young men who may be drafted they don't know when. Some young men hesitate to get married. Some don't start advanced schooling for fear it will be interrupted. Some say they volunteer for service just to end this confusion.

It is to solve this problem of uncertainty that the 19-year-old, youngest-first draft has been proposed.

Congress has yet to take action on the issue because politically the 19-year-old draft is a hot potato. Neither the White House nor Congress is anxious to be the one to tell the nation's mothers that their 19-year-olds are going to head the list of draftees.

The President and the Department of Defense already have the power to take 19-year-olds first. But both would rather let the responsibility for this decision fall on the lawmakers. Congress seems to be in no hurry to act on the matter.

Meanwhile, the certainty fuels the antidraft demonstrators—expected to resume in earnest as students go back to high school, college and university this fall.

The issue gives the student agitator some sympathetic backing among the great pool of serious students. But there is a partial way out. Until the 19-year-old draft problem is settled, there is a very effective way to ease the uncertainty among half the young men of draft age—and at very little additional expense over the long run.

The figures show that today around half of all young men fail to pass their military physical or mental examinations and, therefore, are not taken into service.

At present, these tests are not given until a short time before it appears that the young man may be inducted. By that time, if he has gone through four or five years of college, he may be 22, 23 or 24 years old. He has been faced with uncertainty for a goodly length of time.

But suppose the military physical and mental tests were given to young men when they reached 18 years and six months?

Then, if past experience is any guide, half the young men would be found unfit for military service and would be free to make their life plans. They would know immediately that they would not be called for service except in a serious emergency.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Periodical Checkups Helpful in Diagnosis

A—A prolongation of a part of the normal cycle of the heart beat seen on an electrocardiogram (ECG) is interpreted as a blocking of the impulses originating in the nerve bundle that controls the heart rate. The cause is usually a coronary heart attack or an enlargement of one side of the heart.

Since the seriousness depends on many factors in addition to your ECG tracing, you should have check-ups every four to six weeks until your condition can be completely evaluated. The treatment is aimed at the cause and is almost always medical rather than surgical.

Q—Since January, I have been able to hear my heart beat, especially when I am lying down or sitting in a quiet room. Two checkups have not shown anything wrong? What could cause this?

A—This is a form of palpitation—a type of self-awareness that most persons learn to ignore. Once you get the habit of listening for your heart to beat (subconsciously reassuring yourself that you are still alive), it is hard to stop unless you get so interested in what is going on outside of your body that you forget to listen.

Clearing House

Got something you would like to get off your chest? Here's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested that you should be more forthcoming in their minds. So, in the public interest, get it off your chest.

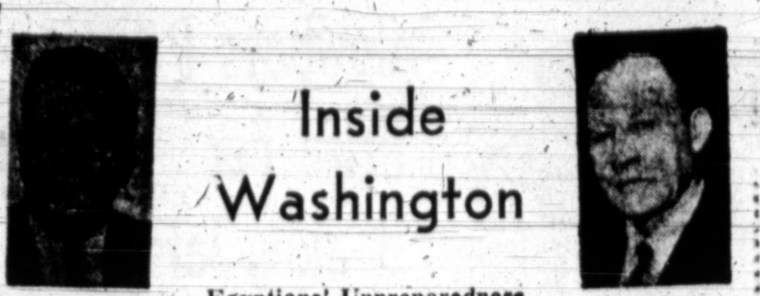

Editor: Do not be lulled into a sense of false security by the city hall promise that the one per cent sales tax is the answer to all the city's problems, because it definitely is not.

Because of the gross negligence in the administration of the city's affairs, they will surely ask you next year for an increase in the water rate or an increase in the ad valorem tax or both.

If you vote for the city sales tax, you will contribute to the creeping paralysis that will have the citizens of Pampa paying probably three times as much tax in the next five years and you will still be carrying an unjust load.

We urge you to speak up and demand that the people in city hall properly perform the duties with which they are charged, instead of taking the easy way out by so nobly stating that they will let the citizens of Pampa name their own poison.

Red China Buying Wheat

WASHINGTON — Red China is again compelled to buy huge quantities of free world wheat to avert a severe food shortage.

This is the sixth consecutive year the communists have had to do that.

From initial soundings, indications are Peking is in the market for approximately the same amount of grain bought last year—4.9 million tons.

Also, the same four countries will probably be the principal suppliers. They are Argentina, Australia, Canada and France.

Since 1964, they have sold Red China a combined total of 25,432,000 tons of wheat for cash.

As previously, the Reds are forced to obtain free world grain because of poor harvests.

That was caused by a combination of natural and ideological disruptions. Prolonged droughts, disastrous floods and still-prevailing widespread internal turmoil and peasant resistance due to the so-called "cultural revolution" materially reduced wheat output. The consequence of this latest agricultural setback is far-reaching.

It has direct adverse impact on Red China's industrial development and military posture.

The need to apply extremely scarce foreign currency to import food and fertilizer will drastically restrict the purchase of greatly needed machinery, equipment and materials to expand the country's limited industry.

Similarly, Peking's sinister nuclear potential will be hampered. Immense resources are required to produce nuclear warheads and missiles, and they won't be readily available if the first urgent priority is buying grain. This is particularly serious in view of the menacing border and other tensions with Russia.

NO MIRACLES—According to Peking propaganda, Mao Tse-tung's little red book of axioms has performed wondrous feats of many kinds, but strangely it is totally impotent when it comes to producing wheat.

Despite incessant exhorting and iron-handed pressuring, the communists have failed utterly to increase grain production to meet the zooming population growth. Even in 1967, when the weather conditions were the most favorable in years and a bumper wheat crop of around 200 million tons was harvested, that still was short of basic needs and 4,261,000 tons had to be imported.

As might be expected, Peking's raucous propagandists carefully never mentioned the curious uselessness of Mao's little red book in the crucial agricultural field. When it comes to turning miracles there, he is a resounding bust.

The following record reveals how badly:

1964 — China had to import 5,542,000 tons of wheat, buying 2,543,000 tons from Australia, 1,580,000 tons from Canada, 1,073,000 tons from Argentina, 346,000 tons from France.

1965 — Peking again had to buy 5.25 million tons: 2,276,000 tons from Australia, 1,559,000 tons from Canada, 1,404,000 tons from Argentina, 11,000 tons from France.

1966 — Again China had to resort to free world wheat for a total of 6,375,000 tons: 2,694,000 tons from Canada, 2,018,000 tons from Australia, 1,554,000 tons from Argentina, 108,000 tons from France.

In 1967 and 1968, it was the same story. While Peking yowled and yammered about "imperialism," "capitalism" and the rest of the communist hate litany, it had to buy more than 8 million tons of free world grain to feed its people — 4,261,000 tons in 1967, 4.4 million tons in 1968.

There is no likelihood Red China will turn to U.S. for wheat. Notwithstanding Secretary of State Rogers' announcement of willingness to improve trade relations, Peking hasn't given the slightest indication of being interested. It has completely ignored the overture.

In one respect, the world grain situation is a lot more favorable to Red China than in the past.

Late last month, Canada, Australia and France made so-called "selective price cuts." These rates were below the minimums fixed by the International Grains Agreement. To meet this competition, the U.S. was forced to follow suit.

What happens next remains to be seen.

This free world price war is directly to Peking's advantage. It is bound to profit in a buyer's market, and already is letting most favorable in years and a bumper wheat crop of around

The Manion Forum

By MARILYN MANION

Why Not Recognize Red China?

The battle rages anew each year on the East River. And each time—so far—the result is the same: Red China will not be invited to join the United Nations.

In recent years, a good many American "China experts" have been questioning the wisdom of such an attitude. "How can we ignore 700 million people?" they ask. A few groups even urge that the United States extend diplomatic recognition to Red China. After all, we can't just pretend that the Chinese people don't exist.

Well, should we, or shouldn't we? Are "anti-Red China" attitudes provincial and out of date? Are we making fools of ourselves by ignoring the fact that mainland China under Communist rule is a reality?

Dr. Stephen Pan, a distinguished Chinese scholar and author, is a genuine "China expert." In the course of a recent Manion Forum radio interview, Dr. Pan vetoed the possibility of our recognizing the Chinese Reds. For one thing, he said, recognition would be illegal.

There are two main factions," says Pan, "in mainland China today within the Communist Party. One is under the leadership of Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao. There is another faction under Liu Shao-chi and Teng Hsiang-ping. Before 1966, the Communist Party in China was dominated by Liu Shao-chi and Teng Hsiang-ping. From 1966 to date, the Mao-Lin faction has become more dominant and has the upper hand.

In international law, premature recognition amounts to interference or intervention in a country's internal affairs. If there is a revolution in a given country, when two factions are fighting in the form of civil war—as in mainland China today—then, if you recognize section A, it means that you are against section B. That's the reason why in international law it is considered to be an interference.

Dr. Pan, whose book, Voice of Peking, is a literal translation of Red Chinese broadcasts, knows what is going on right now inside China. For instance:

"The drafted Constitution, which has been prepared by the Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao faction," says, "among other things, that we, meaning the Chinese Communists, will overthrow imperialism headed by the United States. Now, everybody should have enough common sense to know what that means. It is written in the Constitution of the Communist Chinese Party that the United States is one of the arch-enemies I don't understand how any American can say in light of this, Mao-tung, we are going to recognize you. I think this is really incomprehensible."

"If the United States recognizes the regime of Mao Tse-tung today, it means strengthening the hands of Mao Tse-tung to crush all the opposition elements and also to kill the hope of the 700 million people in China who love freedom. In other words, American recognition today would mean the killing of the hope of the 700 million people regaining their freedom."

Dr. Pan thinks that present prospects for ultimate freedom in China are good, because the country is in chaos. The time is ripe. Recognition by the U.S.A. could put out the sparks of hope forever.

Marines And Militants

The Commandant of the Marine Corps, General Leonard F. Chapman, Jr., recently stated that the biggest thorn in the side of the Marines, at the moment, is not the Viet Cong, but the militants in Republic USA, who have seriously hurt the Corps' officer recruiting efforts.

The Marine Corps selects its officer candidates on 1,100 college campuses; but in the past year the student demonstrators have caused disruptions, in varying degrees, on 250 of them.

This has resulted in the Marines getting between 500 and 700 fewer recruits than their required goal of 3,000 candidates.

It should be noted that the demonstrators against R. O. T. C. seek to prevent others, those who want to enlist, from exercising their right to volunteer for service. The protesters themselves are in little "danger" of becoming Marines, for the majority of them would undoubtedly fail to muster up to the Marines' stature.

The main objective of militant groups, like S.D.S., is for America to become militarily weaker, while the communists continue to strengthen themselves. We are less resistant to communist advances, all over the world, when the Marine Corps is undermined. There must be solutions to nullify the disruptive activities of the Left. One would be for Marine recruiters, as well as those of other services, to open R.O.T.C. offices just off the campus grounds.

A better solution would be if, as happened at a few colleges, the majority of the students come out in force to enlist; so that the voices of the militant Left become just small ripples of dissent on a sea of patriotism.

Kentucky Fried Chicken 'Tasty And Tempting'

At the age of 65, Colonel Harland Sanders, of Corbin, Ky., was forced out of the restaurant business.

The restaurant, setting by a service station he operated featured his delicious fried chicken and excellent service.

This reputation gave him enough business to expand the restaurant to 142-seat capacity and open two others.

Sanders decided to name his featured item Kentucky Fried Chicken and continued to perfect the preparation by frying it in skillets, Dutch ovens, and pressure cookers.

He finally decided upon a pressure cooking method that was precise in timing, temperature, special blending of 11 different herbs and spices and developed Kentucky Fried Chicken as it is today.

But if an interstate highway had not bypassed his business, Kentucky Fried Chicken may not have become the nationwide franchise it is today.

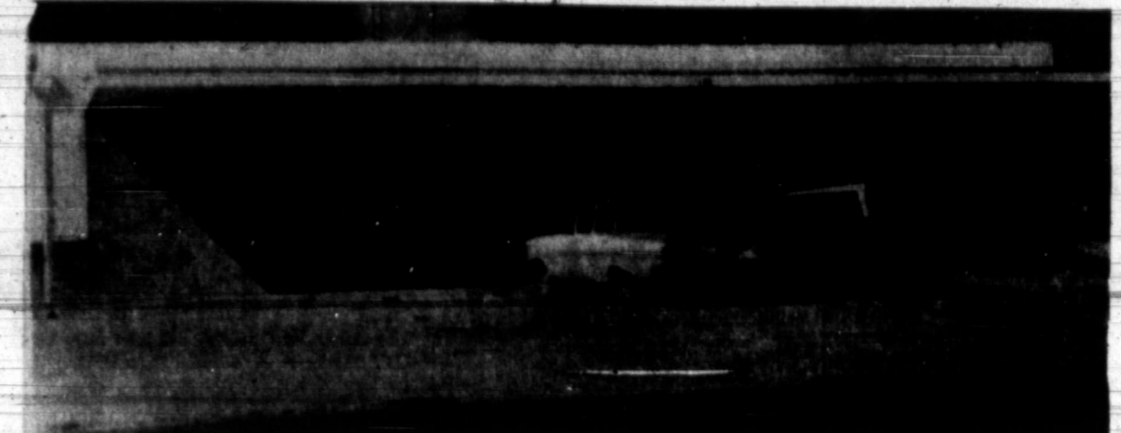

Sanders sold out his business before the highway was built and set out across the country selling his Kentucky Fried Chicken recipe.

Today the organization has grown to 2,119 franchise locations in all 50 states, Canada, the Philippines, Australia, the Bahamas, West Germany and other parts of Europe.

Jack Ward's Kentucky Fried Chicken came to 1501 N. Hobart this January and began serving the same widely acclaimed fried chicken that Sanders served in his first restaurant.

Customers can buy the chicken in six different containers: the snack box, individual box, thrift box, bucket, barrel or party-picnic pak. And there are separate boxes of livers and gizzards, too.

When you eat Kentucky Fried Chicken you don't have to make your own trimmings either. Cole slaw, baked beans, potato salad, potatoes, gravy, bean salad, biscuits and the "best darn fried pie in town" are all yours when you "visit the colonel."
