

Nixon, Diaz Meet Pledging Nation's 'Amistad'

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI)—President Richard M. Nixon journeyed to Texas for the first time since he became Chief Executive Monday and in a ritual rife with diplomatic symbolism, dedicated one of the most massive projects undertaken by man on the North American continent.

The theme of the affair was "friendship" and Nixon and Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz were almost enveloped by it.

The dam the two leaders came to dedicate is called Amistad, Spanish for "friendship." And wherever the two men went, friendship followed.

Only a small band of demonstrators were on hand and they were not there to protest Nixon, the Vietnam War or anything of that nature. Their gripes were directed at Texas Gov. Preston Smith.

But more than anything else, Nixon and Diaz Ordaz talked of friendship between themselves and their nations.

"Mexico-United States, friends forever," said Nixon.

"One more bridge between our two countries," said Diaz Ordaz. And later: "I trust this first contact with you will help to establish an enduring friendship."

"We meet today on an international border—beautiful because we can see what two countries can accomplish when they work together," Nixon said.

"The Amistad Dam is a symbol of cooperation that binds our two countries. It is an impressive physical achievement, providing recreation and water supplies for our people."

"Our relations are the best they have been in history," said Diaz Ordaz. "I believe we can make them even better. This dam is only one part of the road we have walked together and will continue to walk together, to respect ourselves."

"We are two countries with a long frontier between us and consequently many problems—but none that cannot be solved," the Mexican president said.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and daughters Tricia and Julie, stopped in Texas on their return to Washington from their month long vacation at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif. The temperature during the ceremonies reached 108 degrees.

The President was greeted by Mexican girls twirling pink parasols, Texans under cowboy hats, mariachi musicians, military trumpets and, of course, the traditional 21-gun salutes. The public was invited and some 10,000 accepted.

City Council Gives OK For New Budget

By TEX DEWESE, News Staff Writer
The Pampa City Council today gave final approval to a $1,917,000 budget for fiscal 1969-70 and then paved the way to get the money to foot the bill.

The action came after a 35-minute public hearing on the budget attended by nine persons, two of whom were outspokenly against the council's proposal for either a one-cent sales tax or a 50-cent increase in Pampa's ad valorem tax rate, plus an increase in the refuse collection fee.

Two men who voiced the opposition were E. C. Sidwell, former mayor, and Ted A. Mastin, 1109 Charles.

Sidwell charged the budget figure for the coming year was "exorbitant and unrealistic." He also criticized tax department supervisory costs.

The former mayor assailed the commissioners for waiting until one day after the Amarillo sales tax election to vote on the issue in Pampa.

"Amarillo is getting some relief if the sales tax is approved," Sidwell said. They will have a cut in garbage collection fees and a reduction in tax rate. "But here in Pampa there is no relief. If we don't approve the sales tax we get a tax rate increase and an increase in the cost of collecting trash."

Ho Given Heroes Funeral Today

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnam gave Ho Chi Minh a hero's funeral in Hanoi today. A 21-gun salute and low-level passes by warplanes marked the ceremonies before 100,000 mourners, many of them leading figures in the Communist world.

Hanoi Radio said Ho's "revolutionary mission" was ennobled by Le Duan, first secretary of North Vietnam's Communist party, who vowed his nation would intensify its efforts to defeat the United States.

In addition to representatives from 19 nations, the broadcast said, attending were 100,000 Hanoi residents and combatants in formal clothes and wearing mourning bands.

"At the same time one million people and troops of the capital are gathered around loudspeakers to follow the ceremony program of the requiem service."

Following the eulogy for Ho, whose death at age 79 was announced Wednesday, there were "21 cannon shots and airplanes flying to bid farewell," the broadcast said.

A period of mourning for Ho will continue through Wednesday in North Vietnam. A 72-hour cease-fire in South Vietnam called in his honor by the Viet Cong high command will expire at 1 a.m. Thursday.

Among the foreign delegations attending the funeral was a new group from Communist China.

"What you have designed for Pampa is a choice of the hangman's noose, the firing squad, or poison."

Mayor Milo Carlson disagreed with the Sidwell analysis of Pampa's situation. He stated the Pampa budget for 1969-70 is only about $600,000 higher than it was during Sidwell's term as mayor ten years ago.

"I think we are well within our spending limits," the mayor said. "Nationally, cities over the country have and are experiencing considerably higher costs than Pampa."

Mastin said he concurred with Sidwell that city costs were running too high.

"Why don't you check your expenditures," he said. "They've been going up for the

Dirksen's Body Lies In State At Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The body of Everett McKinley Dirksen returns today to the Capitol he frequently dominated with wit, words and legislative leadership.

President Nixon, a junior senator with Dirksen-18 years ago, led the official mourning with a brief eulogy scheduled at 11 a.m. CDT in the Capitol Rotunda. A response was planned by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn. Dirksen's son-in-law and a man already mentioned as a dark horse possibility to succeed him as Senate Republican leader.

The Illinois senator, famed for his curly white hair and his ability to tackle the national psyche, died Sunday from a heart attack, five days after undergoing lung cancer surgery. His body will lie in state at the rotunda until noon Wednesday, then be moved to the National Presbyterian Church for a funeral service.

BITTER SESSION ENDS

Legislators Have Only Handful Of 'Housecleaning' Chores Left

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas legislators, their consideration of new bills abruptly cut off by Gov. Preston Smith, face only a handful of "housecleaning" chores today before ending one of the bitterest special legislative sessions in history.

Speaker Gus F. Mutscher said he and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes would try to gavel the second-called session to a close "sometime between noon and 2 p.m. today."

Smith served notice on the legislature Monday night he would not permit it to take up any more new bills, and told the lawmakers in effect to pack their bags and go home.

"I am sure the members will understand that to open the call for additional measures would mean the session could continue for the full 30 days," Smith said.

"The members are to be commended for completing their task of raising and appropriating money to finance the state for the next two years. Since that has been accomplished, I would urge them to adjourn," Smith said.

The two major tasks assigned

President Nixon Back On Job After Vacation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House was open for business again as usual today, with President Nixon in the Oval Office for the first time since he left for his vacation retreat at San Clemente, Calif., Aug. 9.

Nixon arrived in Washington shortly before midnight Monday, looking tanned but tired after a daylong, transcontinental trip with stops to dedicate a dam on the Rio Grande and to inspect hurricane damage in Mississippi.

After traveling to the Capitol Rotunda at noon today to deliver the eulogy over the coffin of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, a close friend, Nixon had an appointment with the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, Ellsworth Bunker.

Bunker, fresh from meetings last week with Paris Vietnam talks negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge, was expected to discuss with the President possible new diplomatic moves concerning Vietnam, the new South Vietnamese cabinet and more U.S. troop withdrawals.

The President's return to the rigors of Washington was eased somewhat by what was believed to have been his largest and most enthusiastic domestic reception since becoming President.

More than 75,000 persons turned out to greet him and his wife, Pat, at the Gulfport Municipal Airport in Mississippi. Air Force One had just flown the President low over the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Nixon told the crowd the devastation from the Hurricane Camille he had just viewed was the worst damage he had seen since World War II. He conferred with top state officials and congressional leaders aboard his plane before speaking to the crowd.

"I pledge the continued interest on the part of the federal government and all the departments and agencies, and I pledge to you that what has happened to you and Louisiana has touched the heart of the nation," Nixon said.

Before arriving in Mississippi, Nixon joined with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz in dedicating the huge Amistad Dam on the Rio Grande separating the United States and Mexico.

Biggest Attack Since 67 Middle East War

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Israeli tanks landed from assault craft in Egypt in the biggest attack since the 1967 Middle East War and blasted a 30-mile front south of the Suez Canal, officials announced today.

An Israeli spokesman said the raid inflicted "dozens" of casualties and caused heavy damage to Egyptian military installations including radar stations used to spot attacking Israeli planes.

Israel reported one of its aircraft was shot down by Egyptian anti-aircraft during the raid. Cairo Radio also reported dogfights today along the Suez Canal but gave no details.

The first naval battles since the 1967 War had been reported in the Gulf of Suez below the city of Suez today with both Egypt and Israel claiming to have sunk several of the other side's motor torpedo boats.

The Israeli military spokesman said the attack began Monday night, when Israel reported its motor torpedo boats had destroyed two Egyptian PT boats but had lost one of its own with its three-man crew because of an accidental explosion aboard. (Cairo today claimed the destruction of an Israeli torpedo boat and its crew.)

Military observers said the strike was aimed at cutting down Egyptian fire power that had been taking an increasing toll of Israeli troops along the Suez Canal. The two sides have the greatest concentration of fire power there since the battle of El Alamein in World War II.

The spokesman said the Israeli raiders landed between El Hafayer, 24 miles south of Suez, and Ras Zafrana, 64 miles south of the city that is the southern end of the canal.

(Heavy Israeli artillery and mortars opened up today against Egyptian positions in the Suez area, Cairo reported.) The spokesman said assault

Murder Victim's Rites Held Today

SKELLYTOWN (Staff) — A brindle-colored, striped cat sat on the front porch of the modest white frame, green-shuttered house on Lindberg St. just off of Sixth in Skellytown.

It was late Monday afternoon. The cat was washing its face with its paws to freshen up for the dinner its mistress always served just about that time. Inside the house, County law officials were searching out clues that hopefully would lead to the apprehension of the person who strangled Tabby's 69-year-old mistress Mrs. Edith M. Beighle sometime after 10 p.m. Saturday.

Outside the house, a seven-year-old boy rode his red bicycle up and down in front of the house. As the news car pulled up in front, the boy addressed a question to the occupants.

"Do you have a gun with you? You'd better," he said. "Everyone in Skellytown has a gun now and they're all loaded ready to shoot."

The scene of the murder house where the victim had lived for 44 years or more, is one of seven on Lindberg Street. But only three of the houses are occupied.

'Long Lucy, It's Been Nice Knowing You

Mrs. Lucy Schanefelt, 1113 E. Foster, has resigned her position as proof reader on the editorial staff of the Pampa Daily News. She will be leaving this week to make her home in Sydney, Neb.

The bright spot of the move, according to Lucy, she will be closer to her daughter Mrs. Martin Honig and two grandchildren, Jimmy, 9 and Victoria, 7.

For the past almost nine years, Lucy has been a defender of correctly spelled words, a supporter of proper punctuation, and a ferreter of faulty lines. She was often the heroine of the editorial staff, bailing them out of errors committed in haste.

It would make an interesting statistic to know how many typographical errors her quick mind and eyes sought out and corrected. That was her job and she did it well. But the ones that slipped by hurt and hurt badly.

Lucy came to work at the Pampa Daily News on Dec. 28, 1960. Less than two years later, tragedy struck when her husband, A. A. passed away unexpectedly of a heart attack.

Saturday night, when the proofing was finished for the Sunday edition, there was a little party for Lucy in her proof-reading room that also serves as a Coffee Room.

The Saturday night crew toasted Lucy with lime sherbet punch, cookies and mints served from a crystal service with lime green napkins. Hostesses were two of Lucy's co-workers Teletyepeters Velta Edwards and Brenda Stroud.

And from the rest of the News' Staff, she was gifted with a charm necklace inscribed with the date of her employment and the date of her leaving. There were other gifts, too. To let her know she will be missed.

UF's Third Space Mission Blasts Off Today

About twenty people attended this morning's blast off of the third space mission in the 1969 Sheet the Moon United Good Neighbor Campaign. This marked the take-off of the Professional Division under the command of Doctor Joe Donaldson.

In this morning's count-down Donaldson reviewed the purpose of the United Good Neighbor Campaign and echoed Command Pilot Frank Culbertson's statement that the 1969 "flight" will only be successful if everyone on the team does his or her job.

Other speakers at seven o'clock breakfast meeting included Drive Chairman Frank Culbertson and Assistant Sims. They pointed out that the Professional Division Goal was a total of $10,000 to be attained by the various sections in the Division.

The School Division is headed by Dr. James Malone and has a goal of $3800. The Doctors' Ministers, headed up by Rev. Sam Hulsey, $4,000.

Ben Sturgeon leads the attorney section with a goal of $1,500; Accountants under Paul Brown; Dentists, under Bob Rogers; Hospitals under Wes Langham and Farmers and Ranchers under Paul Bowers have goals of $400, $800, $500 and $500 respectively.

Sheriff's Office Recovers Two Stolen Vehicles

Gray County Deputy Sheriff's Department recovered two stolen cars Monday, one which the owner didn't know was missing.

Nickols found a 1956 Chevrolet belonging to Charles Parker, 903 Campbell, in a field near Kentucky St. with the two front wheels missing, a front headlight busted and seven bullet holes in the window on the driver's side.

Parker, who had the vehicle parked on Price Rd., did not know the car was missing.

Deputies also found a 1956 Chevrolet belonging to Jim McDaniels, which was reported stolen about 5:40 a.m. Monday. The car was found four miles southeast of Pampa where it had been run off into a ditch.

'Truth In Packaging' Starts Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal Trade Commission (FTC) regulations governing "truth in packaging" goes into effect Wednesday, almost three years after Congress passed the law. The regulations are designed to eliminate conflicting claims like "giant," "King-sized," "Jumbo" which confront shoppers on the labels of products.

Such descriptions of size in the past have often left the buyer wondering which was the best purchase for his money.

The FTC is responsible along with the Food and Drug Administration for administering the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act of 1966, a law designed to let the consumer know exactly what he is getting in terms of pounds and ounces. It originally was scheduled to take effect July 1, 1967, but a delay was granted so the regulations could be prepared.

The FTC rules cover soap and detergent, paper towels, napkins and plates; household cleaners, waxes and polishes; kitchen wraps and utility bags and thousands of other household items.

The commission was set July 1 to implement the rules but called for another postponement after several court protests were filed. The rules were subsequently revised to exempt durable goods like refrigerators and furniture, which are not consumed or packaged in the usual sense, as well as textiles, apparel and paint products.

All but a dozen classes of food came under the law under 14 checks.

Delegates Named To Altrusa Meet

Two delegates and two alternates were named Monday to represent the Altrusa Club of Pampa at the District Nine conference of Altrusa International to be held in Fort Worth Oct. 17-19.

Attending the Fort Worth conference will be Mrs. Marie Fitzgerald, president; Miss Verne Meador, vice president; as delegates; Director Van Vanderberg and Recording Secretary Genevieve Henderson as alternates.

At Monday's noon luncheon meeting in the Coronado Inn, announcement was made of the official visit of the District Nine president, Mrs. Carol R. Haberman of San Antonio. Mrs. Haberman will be in the Panhandle area the weekend of Sept. 26, at which time she will visit Amarillo Altrusans on Friday; the Pampa Altrusans on Saturday, Sept. 27 and the Borger Club on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Linda Brumley was introduced as Altrusa Girl of the Month for September. Miss Brumley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Parks Brumley, 185 Christine, is a senior at PHS.

City Budget For 1969-70 ...

(Continued From Page 1) Water & Sewer Fund to the last six years and if the city keeps on going the way it is, Pampa will open its arms to the Council of Government in order to get federal money to operate. And that's something we don't want.

After further bantering back and forth between sidewalk and the mayor and Commissioner Hugh Burdette, Mayor Carlson said:

"We need the money. The only argument seems to be the method of obtaining it. Then he closed the public hearing.

In quick succession, the council unanimously approved on first reading, the budget ordinance, an ordinance providing a 50-cent increase in the tax rate from $1.72 to $2.22, and an ordinance increasing refuse rates 50 cents a month for residential and commercial users.

The latter legislation will boost the collection from $1.50 to $2 for one family units, $2.50 to $3 for triplex units and $5 to $5.50 for quadruplex units. The council also voted to set a special meeting for Sept. 25 the day following the sales tax election, to canvass the election and give second reading to the budget and tax rate ordinance. In other business the council approved on second reading an ordinance changing zoning regulations in Block 7 of the Prairie Village addition. Transferred $100,000 from the Following the 40-minute ceremony commemorating friendship and the speeches dedicating it, the heros of state and their wives returned to a hut on the Mexican side of the river to lunch on melon, quail de Cuernavaca, Mexican rice, fruit salad, Alamo wine and champagne. Nixon presented Diaz Ordaz with an autographed picture of himself.

"It was here, in Mexico, Mexico, Nixon said the three Apollo 11 astronauts would begin their around-the-world goodwill tour next month in Mexico.

Diaz Ordaz, in extending the invitation to the astronauts, through Nixon, said "We will make our best efforts to receive these three intrepid heroes in the manner in which they deserve to be received."

The astronauts will begin their tour in Mexico Sept. 29.

Gerda Poses Threat To Eastern Seaboard

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (UPI)—Hurricane Gerda lashed the lonely Outer Banks with strong winds as it moved up the Atlantic today on a course that posed a potential threat to 700 miles of the Eastern Seaboard.

A hurricane watch was ordered from Cape Hatteras to Cape Cod, Mass., by the National Hurricane Center in Miami. The weather bureau said Gerda would probably swipe at Cape Cod this afternoon.

During the night Gerda swept on a more northeasterly path and a hurricane watch in effect for New York City and New Jersey was lifted at 2 a.m. CDT. It remained in effect for Long Island and Long Island Sound.

The weather bureau at Washington, D.C., in its 3 a.m. bulletin, said Gerda was at latitude 35 north, longitude 74 west, about 100 miles east of

Everybody Stood Back At The Burnett Home

Twenty-four hour protection is okay but the B.V. Burnett family, 316 N. Nelson, found out you can't get too steamed up about it.

Mrs. Burnett was drying clothes and accidentally put a can of underarm deodorant in the dryer with the clothes.

It didn't take long for the deodorant to explode blowing open the dryer door, cracking windows and catching curtains on fire. Luckily, no one was injured.

The Pampa Fire Department answered the call but fire was already out. Besides slight fire damage the wash room also suffered water damage.

"Dozens of the enemy were killed or wounded in the raid," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said the Israeli plane was shot down by an American-manufactured Skyhawk missile. There was no word on how the Egyptians would have secured the missile.

The Israeli spokesman gave no indication if their forces used recently delivered American F4 Phantom jets in the raid. The Phantoms began arriving in Israel only last week. The first of 50 to be delivered to the Jewish state.

The Israeli army spokesman said Egyptian jets and troops made no effort to interfere with the armored raid's progress but a spokesman later said one Israeli soldier was wounded.

The spokesman said all Israeli troops returned to their base, complete with their equipment.

Noted Master Of Ceremonies, Bud Collyer Dies

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI)—Bud Collyer, master of ceremonies for "Beat the Clock" and other early television game shows, died Monday night, it was 61.

The congenial performer had entered Greenwich Hospital three weeks ago for treatment of a circulatory ailment. His wife was with him when he died at 6:23 p.m. CDT.

Born Clayton J. Heermance Jr. in New York, Collyer took the name of his mother, who acted under the name of Maxie Collyer, and was part of a theatrical family. He attended Williams College, studied law at Fordham University and pursued a legal career for two years, before landing his first steady job in show business.

Collyer's easygoing charm and manners brought him jobs as announcer, quizmaster and emcee on a number of radio programs as well as acting stints with several soap operas.

He also played Superman on the WOR Radio Network from 1938-52.

The tall, brown-haired emcee often held "down several spots" as a television host at one time. He conducted "Number Please" and the long-running "To Tell the Truth" simultaneously on two networks, and at other times hosted "Feather Your Nest," "Break the Bank and Winner Take All."

Investigating officers believe the murderer gained entry through a front door. The screen had been slit and forcibly torn back. The wooden front door was unlocked and was open.

Funeral services for the beloved church organist and piano teacher for Skellytown youngsters were to be held at 3 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church in Skellytown. Rev. Rogers was to officiate assisted by James Douglas of the Skellytown Church of Christ.

Burial was planned in Memory Gardens Cemetery by Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The hapless Hubert Humphrey. And Making of the President, 1968. Ronald Reagan, and Nelson Rockefeller, and George Wallace. And Richard M. Nixon. But also on hand are the Vietnam War, the violence in our city streets and the demands for law and order. This past Friday night, accounts of presidential races, and it is the finest to date because of its essentially subjective outlook.

Once again, the man who had guided White's television as chief producer-director Mel Stuart, and the application of his fine intellect to over-technical and editorial matters is again on view used in the form of a complimentary sense as applied to an artist who is too old and too wise to return to television are worth noting.

All the principal characters are on view in Tuesday's hour. The enigmatic Eugene McCarthy, seemingly straight out of a Lawrence Durrell novel, series, several cuts above the

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

An atmosphere of unreality surrounds the talks between the United States and Thailand over eventual withdrawal of American troops from the territory of that small U.S. ally.

The unreality springs from the fact that neither side particularly wanted the talks now, that neither foresees the immediate possibility of American withdrawal on a massive scale, and that their outcome depends on other events whose final outline still must be determined.

The circumstances arose out of Thai irritation with American doves who feared that a contingency defense plan worked out by the United States and Thailand in 1965 could lead to U.S. involvement in "another Vietnam."

The Thais have said emphatically they do not want U.S. help in dealing with their own Communist-led guerrillas which today are not believed to number more than about 1,500 in the jungled hills of the northwest. They also say they see no particular need for the continued presence of some 48,000 American military men after the issue of Vietnam and Laos has been settled.

The contingency plan which American military planners hoped would just quietly fade away provided that, in the event of an attempted large-scale Communist invasion of Thailand through Laos, American and Thai forces would move into Laos to preserve a buffer zone.

The plan would not fade away and the outcry in Congress and elsewhere led the suspicious Thais to believe it was time to declare their independence.

Whether or not this is the time for the talks, eventually major decisions must be reached.

Among these is the stance the United States is finally to assume in the Pacific.

Since 1950, this stance has taken a 180-degree turn and appears now to be taking still another turn.

Clarendon College Enrollment Higher Than Past Years

CLARENDON (Staff)—Clarendon College announced today, pre-enrollment exceeded all first-day enrollments in its 71-year history.

At closing time Sept. 2, the first day's enrollment exceeded last years by 210 percent. Additional students are expected to enroll for the next ten days of pre-enrollment which will end Sept. 17.

According to George C. Bourns, public relations director, pre-enrollment is most important especially for freshmen students because of the value of counsel, consultation and assurance of admittance to the respective sections of classes before they are filled or closed.

September's schedule is: Sept. 11 and 12, staff duty days; Sept. 15, dorms open at 1 p.m.; Sept. 15, sophomore registration 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Sept. 16, freshman orientation, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.; Sept. 17, freshman registration 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Sept. 18, classes begin with a Western Aggie Dance starting at 7 p.m.; and Sept. 30, will be the last day to register or add classes.

Anderson Sets Two DWI Bonds

Bond of $500 was set by Justice of Peace E. L. Anderson today for J. M. Thrasher, 47, 400 Jupiter St., on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Anderson also set bond of $1,000 for James Erwin Rowley, 58, Box 543 Canadian, on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Complaints were filed on both men by the Department of Public Safety.

Pampa's Holiday Plans Being Made

Plans for Pampa's Christmas holiday activities, along with other retail trade promotions will be launched at a meeting of the Retail Trade Committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a 10 a.m. meeting Wednesday in the chamber conference room.

Jim Stallings, committee chairman, today urged all Pampa retailers to attend the Wednesday morning session.

Low Death Rate Crowding Globe

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A world with too many people is the result of a blessing that backfired.

"We halved the death rate in just 10 years," said William E. Moran, president of the Population Reference Bureau. "But the birthrate is staying just about the same."

The net result: Overpopulation!

"We've gained a mastery over death," continues Moran. "Very suddenly, we have been able to vaccinate, to inoculate and to treat all kinds of diseases that kept the population level reasonable. It happened so quickly, people haven't adapted to it."

Countians Not To Receive Cut On Ad Valorem Taxes

A discount usually given by the county on ad valorem taxes will not be given this year according to Gray County Tax Collector, Assessor Jack Back.

A discount of three per cent for October, two per cent for November and one per cent for December will be given by the state but not by the county as in years past.

TV Spotlights Man And His Environment

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prompted by the problems of air and water pollution and the population explosion, television is going to take an ambitious look at the history of man and his relationship with his environment.

A one-hour documentary, "The Natural History of Our World: The Time of Man," will be aired on CBS-TV Thursday, Sept. 18 (8:00 to 9:00 p.m. EST) in an effort to show how man got to be the way he is today.

The color special, co-sponsored by The National Cash Register Company and The Hartford Insurance Group, is described by Marshall Flaum, its producer-writer-director as "the story of the evolution of life on this planet and the interaction of all living organisms with their environment—with constant referral to the condition of man today."

Blocking and tackling the two things you've got to do well to win football games, were not the two things Pampa did best Friday in its scrimmage against Vernon.

"After looking at the films of the scrimmage it was evident that our defensive secondary needs to improve as does our blocking on running plays," coach Swede Lee said.

Lee said that blocking and tackling would be two things Pampa would spend a lot of time on in practices this week.

"We had some glaring deficiencies in our defensive secondary. We had hands on both runners that broke for long touchdowns against us and didn't bring them down," Lee said.

The coach said the Pampa pass protection was good but that blocking on running plays was not as good as he would like.

"We didn't seem to be going quick enough. We just weren't getting the take off we should have. Our defensive line play was good and bad and I think we might have gotten tired," he said.

The Harvesters held a 7 p.m. practice Monday so they could get used to the new lights, installed last week at Harvester Stadium. Practices the rest of the week will be held in the afternoon.

When Pampa hosts Hereford Friday in the season opener the Harvesters will be facing a team that was hit hard by graduation but sports a lot of beef throughout its lineup.

Two starters and eight other lettermen dot the Hereford roster and two of 'em are being mentioned as possible All-State candidates.

John Martin will start at fullback for the Whitefaces and the 234 pound senior will be hard to bring down. Then there is 230 pound senior tackle Tony Gorman to contend with.

Gorman and 155 pound halfback Jerry Tyler are the only two returning starters back from the 12-6 loss to the Harvesters a season ago.

Set to help out Martin and Tyler in the backfield is 150 pound senior Woody Woodward and 150 pound senior Richard Lyons.

Joining Gorman at the other tackle is 185 pound Bentley Coleman while the guards will probably be 190-pound senior John Seiver and 160 pound Steve Whitaker. All were on the junior varsity last season.

Lettermen return at the end positions in 175 pound senior John Seiver and 160 pound Steve Whitaker. All were on the junior varsity last season.

Lettermen return at the end positions in 175 pound David Paetzold and 190 pound senior Rodney Dearing. The center will be either 172 pound senior Tom Timberlake or 160 pound senior James Head, both of whom lettered last year.

Marsh Pitman, another senior at 185 pounds and a returning letterman probably will get the call at quarterback.

"Jolly Roger" Irked Over Reputation As Scrambler

DALLAS (UPI)—Roger Staubach, the Dallas Cowboys quarterback who made a reputation in college as a passer, a little irked at the fact he is more noted for his dippy-doodle running tactics than as a passer.

Staubach, the Dallas Cowboys quarterback who made a reputation in college as a passer, a little irked at the fact he is more noted for his dippy-doodle running tactics than as a passer.

The modest, crewcut rookie, who looks more like he is fresh out of college than a man who spent four years in the service before he ever got a chance to bark a signal in pro ball, got his first test under fire against the New York Jets Saturday night and came away with signal flags flying high.

He had seen some brief action in previous cowboy preseason games, but always on a "look-see" basis as coach Tom Landry spelled starting quarterback Craig Morton. Against the Jets, however, he was thrown into a do-or-die spot when Morton dislocated his finger late in the second quarter. The Cowboys were trailing 9-3 and had been ineffective against the stern New York defense—the one which throttled the Baltimore Colts in the last Super Bowl game.

Pirates, Wheeler In Top Area Prep Opener

Area high schools lineup on the football field Friday to get the 1963 season underway in this the 50th year for high school football in Texas.

What should be the top area attraction will unfold at Lefors where the class B Pirates host District 2-A co-favorite Wheeler in a battle in which the Mustangs will be a two touchdown favorite.

District 5-B favorite Groom will open the season against a class A opponent when the Tigers host Vega in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

In District 1-A Silvertown hosts 1-A co-favorite White Deer and McLean takes on 2-AA powerhouse Shamrock in McLean. Claude plays at Panhandle. Clarendon hosts Memphis and Happy plays host to Turkey.

Canadiana plays at Booker in a battle of 1-A and 5B teams, respectively, while Texoma is at Stratford. Stinnett hosts Gruver and Spearman is at Surratt.

Miami opens its 8-man season across the state line by playing at Forgan, Okla.

Lefors may surprise a few people this campaign when it gets inside the opponent's 50-yard line.

The Pirates have a sophomore who boots field goals, soccer-style from around 45 yards away. He is 135-pounder David Seright, who's father is a new minister in Lefors.

Seright was born and raised in Brazil where his father did missionary work. He learned his kicking there and the Pirates should benefit greatly.

Lefors is coming off a 3-6 season and new coach Scott Dunnham has 12 lettermen back from that squad.

Wheeler, a 34-0 winner over Lefors last season, will be strong again this season, not as strong as in year's past, but better than average.

Coach Jake Cottrell returns only four starters from a team that compiled an 8-3 record last season and the district title on a coin flip. Five other lettermen are back and the backfield is where the Mustangs appear strongest with two star-starters and three lettermen in the fold.

Wheeler has two possible All-State prospects in tackle Gail Ledbetter, a 215 pound senior, and 210 pound senior Gary Davis, who may be moved from tackle to guard.

Groom, the District 5-B winner last year and 6-5 for the season, lost its opener 22-8 to Vega last year but the Tigers will be stronger in almost every position.

Coach Roger Arnold has seven starters back from last season and seven other lettermen to give Groom the nucleus for a strong team and a good season.

McLean picked on a toughie for its opener. The

Scrimmage Film To Be Shown

The Pampa Harvester Club holds its first regular meeting of the season, beginning at 7:30 p.m. today in the high school cafeteria.

Coach Swede Lee will show a film of the Pampa-Vernon scrimmage from Friday night and discuss Friday night's home opener with Hereford.

Laver Called Best In World After Open Win

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—"You may well be the best player the world has ever seen."

That just about tells it all about Rod Laver of Australia.

With those words Alastair B. Martin, president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, presented a check for $16,000 to the tough-minded, 31-year-old left-handed professional, king of the courts with an empire stretching from Australia to France to Wimbledon to Forest Hills.

The tennis world was at Laver's feet when he completed an unprecedented second grand slam of the championships staged by those four nations with a comeback victory Monday over a fellow Australian, Tony Roche.

Under miserable conditions on a wet center court that twice was fanned by a helicopter's rotors in an effort to dry it out, Laver whipped Roche, 7-9, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, for the U.S. Open championship.

With 30 straight victories under his belt since the first round at Wimbledon this year, Laver feels he is at his all-time best, still improving in match toughness, and must be reckoned with while he plays out the last three years of his five-year contract with the National Tennis League.

Moody's To Play In Odessa Golf

ODESSA (UPI)—The Moody brothers, one of who is the latest winner of the World Series of Golf, begin play Thursday in the opening round of the 21st annual Odessa Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

Professional Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., and Ken Newell of Fort Worth, Tex., are listed as the favorites. They finished a stroke out of first last year with a 72-hole total of 265. They also finished second in 1967.

Pro Rodeo Standings

DENVER (UPI)—Nearly $1 million has been won by professional Rodeo Cowboys so far this year, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said today.

Cowboys picked up an additional $35,947 in three rodeos this past weekend.

Paul Mayo, 27, of Grinnell, Iowa, was the week's top money winner. He pocketed $1,301 in three riding events at Lewiston and Filer, Idaho, and moved to fourth place in world bareback bronc riding standings.

Three-time world saddle bronc riding champion Marty Wood of Diamond, Mo., won $990 in saddle bronc riding at Fort Madison, Iowa.

In the all-around cowboy title race, determined on winnings in two or more events, Larry Mahan of Brooks, Ore., held onto his lead.

The 25-year-old cowboy won $709 in the Idaho rodeos to boost his total for the year to $42,954. Mahan is the only cowboy to go over the $40,000 mark in four consecutive years.

Doug Brown, a fellow cowboy from Oregon, is second in the all around competition with $37,223 and stands first in the bull riding event.

Dean Oliver of Boise, Idaho, who previously was second in the all around, slipped to third after injuring his back and now is out of competition. He virtually clinched a record eighth calf roping crown, however, and won some $34,919 for the year.

THE STANDINGS:
 ALL-AROUND—1, Mahan, 2, Brown, Silvertown, Ore., $37,223.
 3, Oliver $35,882, 4, Mark Schricker, Sutherlin, Ore., $25,274, 5, Bob Berger, Halstead, Kan., $23,594.
 SADDLE BRONCS—1, Bill Smith, Cody, Wyo., $21,405, 2, Mahan $15,771, 3, Berger $14,371.
 BAREBACK BRONCS—1, Ga Tucker, Carlsbad, N.M., $17,375, 2, Royce Smith, Tona, Idaho, $16,512, 3, Jim Ivory, Pampa, Tex., $16,065.

Defectors Deflate Red Culture

LONDON (NEA)—The myth that the Soviet Union is experiencing a cultural thaw has died hard here in Britain, thanks to left-wing writers and intellectuals.

The defections of two famous Soviet artists—novelist Anatol Kuznetsov, 40, and pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy, 32—has exposed the new cultural freedom for the false dawn that it is.

Even novelist Graham Greene, who a year ago was loudly boasting that he would prefer to live in Russia than in America, has now changed tune as the result of recent examples of Soviet literary repression. Greene is now urging his fellow novelists to boycott Soviet publishers until the repression stops.

Amnesty, an organization which defends the rights of political prisoners, has wired the Soviet attorney general demanding an open Soviet trial, with Soviet and foreign journalists present, for Andrei Marchenko, the proletarian writer who is due soon to face charges of "spreading anti-Soviet slanders."

It is another "Antol"—Antol Kuznetsov—who has touched off this flurry of activity here in London.

Until Aug. 1 of this year, Kuznetsov's novels "Babi Yar" and "Fire"—had sold over seven million copies in the Soviet Union. On Aug. 1, Kuznetsov defected to England rather than to submit to the slow torture of seeing his works distorted and turned into pot-boilers by the Soviet literary experts.

"I could no longer write, no longer sleep, no longer breathe," Kuznetsov declares by way of his explaining his action.

Actually, the defected novelist has much in common with his fellow countryman, Vladimir Ashkenazy, though the two have never met.

It is hard to chop and change Tchaikowsky to suit some political theory. But by cutting musicians off from contact with the outside world, one can effectively stunt their growth, as Ashkenazy found when he was living in the Soviet Union.

At the age of 17 he had come in second in the Chopin International competition in Warsaw.

In 1962 he won the Tchaikowsky International competition, which he had been forced to enter against his will (he was sick with flu at the time).

The following year, Ashkenazy asked the Soviet authorities for permission to live in England on compassionate grounds. (He had married an Icelandic girl, whose parents lived in England.) Grudgingly, permission was granted on the understanding that the pianist would spend much of his time in Russia giving concerts.

Ashkenazy returned to Russia, once, in May, 1963, and with nightmare consequences: He and his wife were held in Moscow for weeks against their will until Khrushchev, who was then premier, relented and let them go.

The pianist, now world famous, kept quiet about this

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—While the overall technical picture is still suffering from the bearish cast of the past several months, progress is being made to turn the tide upward once again, according to TPO Inc. The ability of the list to trade within a reasonably tight range over the next several weeks could provide the technical base and restore the technological confidence necessary to carry stocks into a new bull market, the firm said.

Substantial buying pressure may be brought to bear on a broadening range of stocks by cash-heavy portfolio managers who cannot now pay the premium for those issues that have led the recent advance, according to Glore Forgan, Wm R. Staats Inc. While the early stages of the rally just before Labor Day focused on stocks which had resisted decline, the current phase is broadening dramatically as investors search for undervaluation in groups down sharply from the bull market highs, the firm said.

New Dictionaries Define Words Like...

NEW YORK (NEA)—A new dictionary is being introduced in the nation this month and it promises to shake the eyeteeth of tradition.

The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language, 155,000 words long, is definitely not square (stagnant, characterized by rigid conventionalities). Rather, it is groovy (slang; pleasing, deeply satisfying). That is to say, man, it's mod ("stang; stylishly up to date").

According to the book's editor, lexicographer William Morris, the type is bigger, the photos artier and the definitions easier to read (there are no abbreviations); than any comparable volume in print today.

And there is something else: "I suppose," says Morris, "we have published more of what can be called the 'language of confrontation' than any other dictionary in history."

He means, of course, street talk. He means nitty-gritty, upright, black power, pot, bust ("to arrest") and make out ("to pet, neck").

He also means four-letter words. "We probably hold the record on four-letter ones," says Morris. "I don't know of any dictionary that carries more."

We handle them like any other words. We do label them as "vulgar" or "vulgar slang" when necessary, but we indicate how to pronounce them and we give all of the various meanings (in some cases a half dozen) — none of which, I should add, are written to excite the Freudian instincts of anyone."

Morris says the dictionary publishes the words with no particular relish, but only out of necessity. His feeling is they are part of the language, very much an active part, and must, therefore, be defined.

Bill Morris, certainly, is not the first lexicographer ("one who writes or compiles a dictionary") to think this way—only the first to think extensively this way. Four-letter words have been published in standard dictionaries since the 18th century. Wordsmith's Nathaniel Bailey (1721) and Rev. John Ash (1775) established the mold — and their early works had their early explanations of the same words used today.

In the 19th century, however, such words (then called "cants") fell into hard times, at least as far as their inclusion in "dictionaries" went. Says Morris: "Nobody dared dignify bad words while Queen Victoria was on the throne." For instance, the Oxford Dictionary began publishing by volume about 1880. Queen Victoria reigned through the publication of volume G. After her death, many four-letter words were printed in remaining volumes — but, even today, there are no nasties up to G.

Since then, cant words have crept slowly back into use until a couple of years ago, when Random House published a "revolutionary" dictionary broke new ground with the language of confrontation.

Now the American Heritage book is carrying on, even bolder.

The trend, editor Morris concedes, could cause some problems. Less than 2.5 million dictionaries are sold each year; the market must expand to allow another publishing entry. And so the necessity of public acceptance is apparent.

But Morris says he's not especially worried. "Look around at the books and magazines of today."

Good books and good magazines. They are using these words by the many thousands of examples.

Eyeglasses Limited To Highbrows?

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI)—More than a third of the Germans still think only intellectuals should wear glasses.

As a result, says the Baden-Wuerttemberg state medical press service, most industrial accidents probably happen because some laborer who needs them still refuses to use spectacles.

Nevertheless the situation has improved. Although 50 percent of those asked in 1959 thought it "unsuitable" for a bricklayer to wear glasses, the comparable figure this year was 38 percent.

Researchers say many workers still refuse to or are reluctant to wear glasses because they fear they will be accused of "high-hatting" their colleagues.

A law introduced a year ago requiring all applicants for a driver's license to submit to an eye test should help, researchers say. However, as driver's licenses are issued here for life, it is reckoned that either because they don't realize they need them, or for "social reasons," 21 percent of the women and 14 percent of the men drivers who ought to wear glasses do not.

As the newspaper, Die Welt, noted in reporting the latter statistic "it is impossible to estimate the number of deaths these persons have on their consciences."

JUMPING JACK
WELHOLME, England (UPI)—Things have really been jumping in Welholme since Mark Bowering, 10, entered international competition.

He claims to have smashed the previous mark of 1,600 with a record 2,204 consecutive pogo stick jumps.

U.S. Cancels B52 Bomber Strikes, Cuts Offensive During Cease-Fire

SAIGON (UPI)—Without fanfare, the United States canceled B52 bomber strikes and cut back offensive sweeps during the three-day Communist ceasefire that began yesterday in honor of Ho Chi Minh.

Reliable sources made the disclosure but U.S. headquarters had no comment on it. Officially, the United States has followed South Vietnam's decision to ignore the Communist truce.

Military spokesmen reported nearly a dozen guerrilla violations of the cease-fire in the 14 hours after it began at 1 a.m. but called them "insignificant," comparatively speaking.

Ahree South Vietnamese were killed and 21 others were wounded, field reports said. At least three Americans died and 15 were wounded in Communist cease-fire violations.

The U.S. Command also has ordered all American artillerymen in the field to hold their fire unless fired upon, according to the sources.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother read in the paper where a 15-year-old girl got pregnant from swimming in a public pool, and now she won't let me go swimming in a public pool. She said the article said that in Sydney, Australia, the courts have decided that the Municipal Swimming pool is the "father" of a child.

It seems that a 15-year-old virgin girl began having pregnancy symptoms after having swum in a public swimming pool. Her mother took her to a doctor who examined her and said that the girl was still a virgin, and the symptoms were "false." The symptoms continued, and after nine months the girl gave birth to a healthy baby boy.

They called this a billion-to-one chance that some male sperm in the water impregnated the girl. The city agreed to pay the girl a pension.

Will you please tell me if this is possible?

ALSO FIFTEEN DEAR ALSO: I have checked with my medical authorities and they concur that this one tops the story about the "star rising in the East." I have heard that there is nothing new under the sun. But perhaps there is something new under the water.

DEAR ABBY: I am a recent college graduate. My parents paid my tuition and room and board at college. I paid for all my books, clothes, and other expenses by working.

Recently my father handed me a bill for $7,492.23. He said that is what I owe him for college, and he wants it paid back now.

I did not promise to suggest or agree to pay back any money when I started college. My parents are not in any financial trouble. The bill seems way out of proportion since my school cost only $430 per semester and I finished in seven semesters.

My father refuses to explain why the bill is so large, and he is threatening to sue me. Do you think I need a lawyer?

PITTSBURGER DEAR PITTSBURGER: Not yet — if the facts are as you stated them. But should your father actually sue you, then

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 10
 YOUR BIRTHDAY Wednesday: Your concerns this coming year turn to making more profitable use of existing conditions and opportunities.

Any reasonable program should improve your earnings markedly. Romantic interests become more important and quite sensitive. Wednesday's natives often have writing and acting talents or some special way of attracting public attention to a cause.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Use style in conduct Wednesday; tell your favorite jokes with a new twist. Follow up any offer of financial opportunity or backing. Round out an active day's work with a quiet party for younger people in the evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your original plans now make more sense and get better cooperation from all sides. Creative ventures are strongly favored. Put in a full day; get as much accomplished as you can while this influence prevails.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Home and family life will likely be satisfying at present. Check to see what older people are doing and whether you can help them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Plan speculative or contingent ventures, but do nothing about them Wednesday. Put into action your personal economy program; cut down home and working place expenses.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may be beguiled with a dream for the distant future. At this time, however, keep matters simple and to the point. You now can have that serious talk with friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There is more success in quiet, confidential actions Wednesday. You are at your lunar high and can make a better deal for yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Start early and put in a solid day of consistent, but moderate, efforts. Results are very promising. Gather friends and relatives in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pampering, conservative effort now will set your affairs onto the right tracks. Watch details as you go. During all this welter, allow some time to help out mate or partners.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Startling news is the most likely opener for the day. From there on out it's a challenge to keep things calm, peaceful, and in balance. Find solitude in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It is important Wednesday to keep notes and records of whatever happens. Younger people are to be sustained in their search for social maturity. Check your wardrobe; think about additions or replacements of anything that shows wear.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your day should be tranquil so that you can take care of postponed chores. Settle joint funds into secure investments. Enjoy a quiet evening with an old friend.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Teamwork and travel, especially if connected with any outdoor program, are favored and likely to produce good results Wednesday. Take your loved ones on some adventure.

By ROBERT MUSEL LONDON (UPI) — Enter her fickleness... of wit never a word."

This book seeks to repair the omission. There is the famous review of the film, "I Am a Camera" by critic Caroline Lejeune: "Me no leica."

There is American writer Helen Rowland on marriage: "A husband is what is left of the lover after the nerve has been extracted."

And Jayne Mansfield on men in general: "Men are creatures with two legs and eight hands."

Philosophy from Ninon de L'Enclos, a 17th century feminist and friend of Cardinal Richelieu of France: "If a man gives a woman wealth it is only proof of his generosity, but if he gives her time it's proof of his love."

"Love never dies of starvation; but often of indigestion."

Character analysis by Dame Rebecca West, the writer: "He is every other inch a gentleman."

The Pampa Altrusa Club gave a triple celebration Thursday at Lovett Memorial Library, as it was the 14th anniversary of the Senior Center organization, was birthday celebrating day and the day to observe Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lawrence's 60th wedding anniversary.

Those having September birthdays were Mmes. Lucy Hale, Libby Lewis, Vurnie McClendon, Dave Kendrick and L. E. Henderson, with an attendance of 70 members.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lawrence, 1617 Mary Ellen were celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary on Sept. 8. They were married in Gainesville and moved to Pampa where they reared their son and two daughters. Their son and family visited them earlier. Their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Cramer, Oklahoma City, Okla., and her daughter and family, McLean, planned to help their parents observe the anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Atchison and sons, Jimmy and Art, Arlington, and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Cullum, Dallas, were Labor Day weekend guests of Mrs. Atchison and Mr. Cullum's mother and sister, Mrs. Fred Cullum and Mrs. Lib Mitchell and family.

Mrs. Libby Lewis made an extended visit in Lubbock, Plainview, and Hale Center. Mrs. Lewis attended funeral services for her brother-in-law, Jesse Heffner, in Shamrock last week.

Mrs. Grace Hamilton accompanied her daughters, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Melton to Pueblo, Colo., and spent the weekend with Mrs. Hamilton's grandson, and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Melton and attended services, Sunday at Hillcrest Baptist Church, where the Rev. Melton is pastor.

Council of Clubs Lists Officers, Committee Chairmen

The Council of Clubs met for the first meeting of the new year recently with Mrs. Genevieve Henderson, president, presiding. Genevieve Tidwell gave the morning meditation.

Officers added to the original committee chairmen; Constitution and By-Laws — Mrs. Ruth Sewell; House — Mrs. Projects, Mrs. Libby Shotwell; Telephone, Mrs. Donald Walberg; and Club Calendar, Mrs. Clara Quay.

Rho Eta Chapter Has Rush Party

Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi entertained 17 guests at their first "rush party" of the season held in the "Flame Room" of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

Twelve rounds of "Panhandle Bridge" provided the entertainment for the evening. The high prize for bridge was won by Mrs. Larry Ledbetter, and Mrs. Darrell Eccles won the low prize.

Members and guests were decorated hats to represent their husbands' occupations. Some of the varieties were a washing machine agitator, an adding machine cover, and dental equipment of all shapes and sizes.

Rushes present were Mmes. Max Hogan, Jack Eddins, Gayle Trullinger, Randall Cross, Edward Dicken, James Poorman, Darrell Eccles, Butch Dunham, Cecil Shirley, Larry Ledbetter, Richard Gordon, Harry Hall, Tommy Lindsey, Buddy Williams, Bobby Stephens, and Miss Jenni D. Finch.

The Council Of Government

We liked the city manager's comment about Pampa not being interested in getting involved in the Council of Government thing that was kicked around in that 25-county Texas Panhandle forum over in Amarillo the other day.

In the first place, local officials and governing bodies can think up enough with which to burden citizens without any help from a regional setup.

The trend today seems to be for more and more government. It has been said that government, when it is examined, turns out to be nothing more nor less than a group of fallible men with force to act as though they were infallible.

This could very well be true of the Council of Government. Another step in more government. This is not desirable.

Pampa right now is engaged in a $33,000 deal with an outside planner who is telling us what we should do in the future. He

The New TV Season

According to This Week Magazine's comment on coming television, "Television's Live Ones" by Leslie Lieber; there will be some effort to recover from the summer doldrums and to contain "the least violence of any season to date."

Lawrence White, vice president for NBC-TV programs, East Coast, complained that the past shows characters were there just to get to the action. "I don't say 'violence' because that is a comparative term. Who knows what is too much?"

Program planner White claimed that accent next season will be not on the action, but

The Great Deceiver

Governmental dilution of the money supply (inflation) has been called the "Great Deceiver."

The phrase is apt, for that is what inflation does. It deceives. As a matter of fact, it makes accurate future economic calculations almost impossible.

Research Review, published by the Economic Research Corp. of Des Plaines, Illinois, unless you realize that the dollars you are dealing in today are not the dollars (in constant value) of yesterday, you will:

- 1. Understate costs. 2. Overstate profits. 3. Pay income taxes on what is in reality capital.

In other words, you are in for trouble. The warning is intended primarily for businessmen, of course, however, since all of us have to make economic calculations just to survive, it applies to the wage earner as well.

Let us see if we can put the problem in language everyone can understand.

Suppose, for example, Mr. Jones is the owner of a business whose nature allows him to replenish his operation supplies (his capital goods) on a yearly basis. As a matter of habit and convenience, he has grown accustomed to performing this essential chore during May of each year. At this time, with his income tax returns for the past year out of the way, he has found that he is in a better position to determine his net worth.

Well, in May of 1969, let us say, with all bills, including taxes, for 1968 paid, but with operating supplies last year coming year yet to be purchased, Mr. Jones finds upon examining his books that he has cleared exactly $100,000. At this point he is feeling pretty good. "Let's see," he muses, "operating supplies last year cost me $75,000. Assuming that

WASHINGTON:

Are Nixon's Men On The Wrong Track?

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — It may be that President Nixon's men are off on the wrong track in their attempts to cool inflation.

They've assumed that if the proper economic screws can be tightened, interest rates raised, industrial expansion cut, demand reduced one way or another, then prices will come down.

Traditionally, this reasoning has held true when the inflation has been the result of such heavy buying that the nation's production capacity has been strained to the limit. But this is not true today.

Most economists this reporter has interviewed, whether in government, in private research organizations or as advisers to major business firms, believe the present inflationary spurt was indeed set off by the increase in demand which accompanied the war in Vietnam. But there is evidence that today's continuing price rises are not so caused.

Industry is not operating at the near-capacity levels of some time back. Profits are declining.

The economy has been cooled so markedly the Gross National Product is creeping upward at a dangerously slow pace.

Unemployment is growing. The signs point to steady upward gains in unemployment that will reach politically unacceptable levels by middle or late 1970.

Yet inflation continues to grow. Analysis of the data shows that the gains continue heaviest in the services, in trade, construction, maintenance and medical care, rather than in manufacturing and that the economic measures used to bring an economic slowdown have themselves increased the cost of living appreciably.

Higher interests charges, for example, are passed on to the consumer.

Economists in and out of the government this reporter has talked to say today's inflation is due not to heavy demand but to rising costs. Most point to rapid wage increases over the past several years. But it is to be noted that the data indicates that it is not rising labor costs in manufacturing that have brought this pressure on prices, for, in large part, these have been compensated for by increased automation. It is rather the heavy increases in labor costs in the services, where the introduction of labor-saving devices has been exceedingly slow.

The administration's anti-inflation program has not attacked these costs.

Worse yet, the administration invoked economic slowdown aimed at reducing demand seems to be encouraging a slowdown in the very heavy continuing investment in computerization, automation and other modernization essential to holding prices down as labor costs rise.

Thus the anti-inflation drive is encouraging a future price rise. And making the U.S. less competitive with foreign industry.

Data on this score is already ominous. Of late, there has been a marked decline in labor productivity — not just a slowdown in the rate at which productivity is increasing — but an actual decline in output per man.

Because this means an increase in costs, it will mean higher prices.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The American bison, once slaughtered to the point of near-extinction, has become somewhat of a gourmet's delight. Thanks to sustained conservation efforts and the initiative of private ranchers, says The World Almanac, diners with imagination can now purchase bison steak at select stores and restaurants. It remains to be seen whether this transition from prairie to platter will cause the best further survival problems.

Another Generation Gap

Uncertainty Hanging Over Nixon's Welfare Program

By DON GRAFF (NEA Correspondent)

Analysis and debate are going to be lengthy and heated.

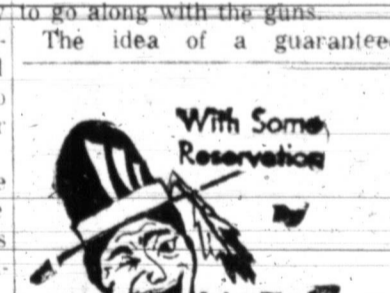

Beyond that, not much can be said with much certainty at this point about the package of welfare and state-aid proposals President Nixon has unveiled, particularly not as to the form they are likely to take when they finally, if ever, emerge as legislation.

The current Congress, as it has demonstrated in the tax and ABM issues, is not of a mind routinely to rubber stamp administration initiatives. And here, the President has entered an area in which some very influential men from Capitol Hill have some very strong opinions, personal and political, of their own.

Despite the controversy stirred — inside Congress and out, and even within the administration itself — there is nothing really new about the most significant proposals.

The possibility of cutting strapped state and local governments in on proceeds from the highly productive federal income tax has been kicking around for a number of years, and came close to implementation during the Johnson administration until the rising costs of Vietnam demonstrated that there was no going to be, at least for the time being, all that much butter to go along with the guns.

The idea of a guaranteed

I see where Mr. Richm has sent a message to congress. He wants some federally enforced safety standards to protect the workin feller on his job. At last they have found out that the business orge has been hiring employees all these years so they could kill them off at random.

The ever popular solution is, of course, a five-man board to set the standards and police them in the states. I don't like that word 'police' but there you are. The board would be very rank — in fact in rank with the national labor relations board, which is about as rank as you can get.

The five-member board will be appointed for five-year terms which means abtther 25 years of tax salaries down the drain. They will have authority to assess penalties of up to 10,000, geets on the poor employer who don't meet the standards.

It's a good thing we are going to have these fellers police the employers. I'm sure it is worth it if it can prevent accidents like the feller who was working in a candy factory and fell into a cauldron of hot chocolate. Before they could shut down the machinery he had already been distributed and boxed into 20,000 candy bars along with a pannel of hickory nuts.

Your Dental Health

By DR. WILLIAM LAWRENCE

Be Suspicious of Any Abnormalities in Mouth

Self-evaluation of your dental health may save your life. Interrupt your headlong rush through life long enough to look at yourself. Has that bump on your neck gone away? What about the sore on your lip that heals but keeps coming back? How about that fleeting, odd, numb feeling you get in your chin every once in awhile?

Be alert for signs and symptoms that are different from normal for you. Does your tongue get sore often? Has your denture suddenly begun to fit poorly? Or difficult or painful to wear? Has your mouth suddenly become dry? Have your gums become swollen, discolored? Do they bleed at the slightest touch?

This is not meant to frighten you. Rather it's to make you worry more about your dental health. Possible embarrassment of being called a hypochondriac should not preclude your concern about health, or seeking proper medical and dental advice and care.

The lump in your throat when you swallow, the occasional pain in your jaw, the swollen, rubbery bump in your neck, or the hard fixed, enlarged gland on the side of your face, could be due to chronic inflammation or worse, could be a Six-month checkups aren't enough. Disease doesn't wait to develop at 6-month intervals, or 3-month intervals. Be your own dental health detective, and report clues to your dentist.

Each day when you look at yourself to shave, comb your hair, or put your face on, look also at your lips, cheeks and tongue and as much of your mouth as you can manage to examine.

If you wear dentures, examine ridges and grooves they rest on.

Any sore that doesn't heal quickly and stay healed may be a potential cancer.

Any bump or lump, or pain, or numbness around the face, a sore on the lip, a gray spot on the tongue or inside the cheek, an ulcer on the floor of the mouth, if detected and treated early has a far better chance for successful treatment with minimal disfigurement and least dislocation of your life.

DEVALUATION OF FRANC

There Is No Easy Way

(The Wall Street Journal) If an individual insists on living beyond his means, sooner or later he must face up to the results. So it is also with nations.

The latest country to prove the truth that simple notion is France, with its devaluation of the franc. To their credit, French officials did decide to move before crisis became chaos.

Like many other nations, the U.S. included, France long had acted as though a government were somehow exempt from the rules of financial prudence. It acted as though a government could pretty much spend as it pleased, with little regard to its income, and then easily circumvent any problems that arose.

The French government has spent more than its income in six of the past seven years, and the deficit has been steadily rising. In the third quarter of last year the budget deficit came to nearly 30 per cent of revenue; at that rate the U.S. in the current fiscal year would be running a deficit of more than $60 billion.

Part of the rising spending went for 'prestige' projects, such as those in the atomic and defense fields. Whatever these efforts may have contributed to French prestige internationally, they surely contributed to the deterioration of the nation's currency.

Last fall a great many people decided the franc wasn't worth quite as much as the French government said it was. But former President Charles de Gaulle flatly ruled out devaluation of the franc, and the speculative waves for a time appeared to recede.

Like France, any country can hold back the waves for a time by imposing economic controls, by borrowing from the International Monetary Fund, by letting its currency reserves run out. During the second half of 1968 France was losing reserves to other countries at a rate of $500 million a month; in the first half of this year, the loss was still averaging $300 million monthly.

This pace could not continue forever; by early next year

French reserves would have been exhausted. So the new government of President Georges Pompidou has decided to face up to the facts — or, at least, to try to.

France could, if it wanted to, raise the true value of the franc to its official value. In a statement over French television, Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing said this course would have required not just a slowing of France's economic expansion, but an actual cut in its production rate and a substantial, and perhaps prolonged, rise in unemployment.

Extreme austerity would have been rough on the public, which usually has to pay for its political leaders' mistakes, and it could have been fatal to the politicians' careers. So French officials opted for devaluation.

As the officials appear to realize, devaluation also is no easy way out. It does tend to discourage imports and encourage exports, if other major countries do not retaliate, and that can help the balance of payments. But the erosion of a currency's value can be stopped only by responsible domestic financial policies. All too often, one devaluation only sets the stage for another.

No one should know this better than the French, who have gone through 13 devaluations in 41 years. The first step — a freeze on prices — obviously solves nothing, though it may mollify unions temporarily. Of much more help will be projected cuts in government spending and restrictions on credit expansion.

There is no way to know how it will work out — whether, for one thing, the French public will be willing to sit still for the treatment. Sizable sectors of the U.S. public, even now undergoing similar anti-inflation care, are vocally impatient with some of the results, notably the high interest rates.

The inflationary spiral can be a lot of fun for a while on the way up. Sooner or later, though, maybe everyone will realize that there's no easy way to stop that spiral once it's well under way.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Northern Ireland's Agony

By PAUL HARVEY

Yes, there are some parallels between the recent religious rioting in Northern Ireland and our own black-white ferment. For one important one, a minority considers itself discriminated against.

Admittedly, the sectarian squabbling in Northern Ireland has very deep roots. In the ninth century Norsemen launched their hit-and-run expeditions of plunder.

Soon after the Normans seized England in 1066, they coveted and invaded Ireland. In the 1600s England renounced the Pope, Ireland remained staunchly Catholic.

Subsequent Kings of England fought bloody battles for control of Ireland and, in 1690, won control. Irish resistance was subdued but Irish resentment persisted.

In subsequent years that resentment resulted in such a pox of rioting that Britain, in 1920, decreed Ireland an "independent state."

But Britain held on to the six predominantly Protestant counties in the north. These counties remained loyal to the Crown for 49 years.

Now, the one-third Catholic minority in Northern Ireland has been complaining of discrimination. The Protestant government was accused of favoring Protestants in housing, jobs, voting rights. Catholics began marches and demonstrations demanding their "civil rights." When some Protestants countermarched, riots broke out.

Police sought to subdue rioters, the government banned demonstrations.

Demonstrations continued anyway. The recent chapter of this unfinished history is written in blood.

Because there are significant parallels in Northern Ireland's civil rights ferment and our own, the United States watches with more than passive interest the several efforts to placate the factions.

The previous government of Terence O'Neill tried to placate the Catholics. They said he didn't do enough. The Protestants said he went too far. The O'Neill government toppled.

Then his successor, James Chichester-Clark, tried — but was similarly criticized by both sides.

On balance, the Protestants in Northern Ireland are more prosperous. They insist it is because they are more industrious. The Catholics, again, blame "discrimination" for the fact that theirs are more menial jobs, their proportion of unemployment is higher, their income lower.

Again, the similarity to certain of our own domestic differences is obvious, but with volatile religious fervor added.

And there, as elsewhere, you'll hear the majority cry that the minority should "leave the country," move back with their own people. But there, as elsewhere, few do.

This "Irish problem" has disrupted British politics disproportionately for two centuries, but why in the last year did the long history of antagonisms burst into open flame?

Indirectly, it may well be related to worldwide social revolution, but why did it begin under O'Neill's moderate administration?

If there is a lesson here that we should heed, it is that once you undertake to redress social grievances you increase the appetite of the aggrieved.

And that hunger, in all of us, is insatiable.

WIT & WHIMSY

Idleness is a millstone around the neck of a man with ambition.

Two men were discussing the work of a renowned artist. Bill — "He painted a spider's web on the wall that was so realistic the maid spent 2 hours trying to wipe it down." Phil — "Fantastic."

Bill — "But artists do things like that." Phil — "Maybe so, but maids don't."

TIMELY QUOTE

It will get votes like motherhood.

—Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., on the House-passed tax reform bill that gives middle-income taxpayers a 5 per cent tax cut.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE—This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa Office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The News, as a public service to taxpayers.

Q — I made an error on my 1968 income tax return and the IRS has just billed me for an additional $22, plus interest charges. Why do I have to pay any interest since it was an honest mistake and I filed my return before the deadline?

A — Under the law, interest is required to be charged on unpaid tax liabilities at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. The interest charge is computed at that rate from the due date of the return, April 15, until the tax is paid.

Q — On the tickets I bought to a charity concert there was a note listing the amount I could take for a charitable contribution. Why was this amount less than the price of the ticket?

A — A tax deduction for a charitable contribution may be taken only for the amount in excess of what you normally would have paid to attend a similar concert. The difference between what you paid for the tickets and the amount allowable as charitable contribution reflects the value of the concert.

Q — I have a sales job that requires me to use my car several days a week. Since my boss doesn't pay me for the use of my car, can I deduct these expenses on my tax return?

A — If you have to use your car on business then the costs can be deducted. However, the costs of getting to and from your job are personal and not deductible. You may deduct the actual expense including depreciation, or if you prefer, a standard rate of 10 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and 7 cents a mile thereafter. Business related parking fees and tolls may be deducted in addition to the standard mileage rate.

Q — Our 16 year old daughter has a part-time job after school, but we still provide over half her total support. Since she is our dependent should she take a withholding exemption for herself on her job?

A — Your daughter may claim her own exemption for withholding purposes even though she is your dependent. She is also entitled to claim an exemption for herself when she files her income tax return, if she is required to file a return. She must file a return to claim any refund of income tax withheld.

Washington Window

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Moving quietly through Congress is a bill that is good news for government workers and bad news for taxpayers.

It would perpetuate a system adopted experimentally in 1967, under which federal employees have received substantial pay increases each year for the past three years.

The crux of the system is that Congress delegates to administration agencies the power to set pay scales for 2.3 million white collar and postal employees.

The only guideline laid down by Congress is that government salaries should be "comparable" to those paid by private industry for the same levels of work. The Civil Service Commission and the Bureau of Labor Statistics are charged with determining which jobs in private industry are comparable to each grade of government employment, and with conducting surveys to see what private industry is paying for those jobs.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, second-ranking Republican on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, says there are at least two things seriously wrong with this system.

First, "most federal jobs have no real counterparts in private industry," so that comparisons "involve a lot of subjective judgments" about the relative difficulty and responsibility of government in private jobs.

Second, the administration agencies which make the comparisons are staffed by civil servants whose salaries are directly affected. Thus, Gross contends, "government employees in effect are setting their own pay."

The bill to make this system permanent is sponsored by Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and was approved by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee Aug. 7, on a 22-2 vote.

Udall's bill would set up an eight-member commission to review data on salary comparability and to approve, modify or reject proposed pay adjustments. The commission would be composed of four spokesmen for government workers and four policymaking officials of the executive branch, representing the Budget Bureau, the Civil Service Commission, the Defense Department and the Post Office Department.

The four employe spokesmen would share three votes, so that the administration representatives would always hold a 4 to 3 majority. Congress would have 30 days in which to veto pay scales adopted by the commission.

The bill now awaits House floor action.

The latest federal pay raise, which took effect July 1, averaged 9.1 per cent for white collar workers, and brought their average annual salary to just under $10,000. The top scale for civil servants went up to $33,495 a year. The federal payroll now runs $49 billion a year.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As Howard Smallsreed, managing editor of the Ashland, Ohio, Times-Gazette, was looking over his news printer one day last month, his heart suddenly contracted under an icy grip of fear.

The cause of his alarm was an item on the ticker which read: "The smallest tubing made, pure nickel lengths less than half the diameter of a human hair, is used for the artificial insemination of mosquitoes."

Ordinarily, that bit of information might not have given Smallsreed more than a brief moment of mild disquietude. But Ohio was at that time experiencing an extraordinary mosquito infestation.

Ashland was situated within a nine-county area where the mosquito problem was described by Gov. James A. Rhodes as having "hit disaster proportions."

One can therefore readily understand Smallsreed's panicky feeling when he ran across the item about artificial insemination of mosquitoes.

"I was fearful," he wrote, "that some bumbling federal agency had been given unlimited funds to improve the breed."

Smallsreed wrote that in a letter asking me to check into the mosquito artificial insemination program and make a report.

I immediately began a canvass of the federal agencies I thought most likely to be involved in fatherless mosquito breeding.

First I called the Bureau of Deceptive Practices at the Federal Trade Commission. Then I called the Subversive Activities Control Board. Other calls were made to the Office of Emergency Planning, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Reorganization Board, the Family Service Bureau of the Army and Air Force Exchange Service.

Finally, more or less in desperation, I called the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. None would admit to having any knowledge of impregnating mosquitoes without due process of procreation.

Has Lines Out

I still have some lines out and I'm confident I will come up with the answer eventually. Meanwhile, I will lay odds that it has something to do with the way a mosquito lays eggs.

I am convinced that the artificial insemination program is part of the research being done to find ways of controlling insects without using chemical pesticides.

Only the female mosquito, as you know, bites human beings. Very well. Through the process of artificial insemination, perhaps it is possible to perform selective fertilization so that only the male eggs will hatch.

By confining reproduction to the male-mosquito, the test tube breeders would finally render the species extinct. Until that happened, a predominantly male mosquito population wouldn't bother us much anyway.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 9, the 252nd day of 1969 with 113 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1776 the term "United States" was made official by the second Continental Congress.

In 1919 almost the entire Boston police force went on strike, demanding recognition of a new union. The walkout ended three days later but Gov. Calvin Coolidge ruled that strikers would not be permitted back on the force.

In 1943 American and British forces from North Africa invaded Italy at Salerno.

In 1968 New York public school teachers went on strike.

FINAL TOUCH

SOUTH WOODFORD, England (UPI) — Real Estate executive Douglas Enderby spared no expense for a "dream house" he was redecorating, but had to send his staff to London for a final touch he felt was needed. They came back empty-handed.

He explained, "... we found it's downright impossible to buy a doormat that actually says 'welcome.'"

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Anita Louise, long away from the cameras, will play a guest role with Gene Raymond in "Mannix," the television detective series starring Mike Connors.

Backstairs At White House

The question arises as President Nixon nears the end of his current stay at the western White House; Why would a man spend $340,000 for an oceanfront estate and drive 12 miles away to a Marine Corps beach to swim?

The President on this trip seldom has gone swimming in front of his house, but has driven instead to so-called Red Beach at Camp Pendleton, an enormous Marine Corps installation, 12 miles south of San Clemente.

The reasons for this use of Red Beach are varied:

The beach in front of the San Clemente estate is pebbly and relatively short. Also, railroad tracks run alongside the beach and a daily, afternoon train would put numerous passengers in a position of watching, however briefly, the President in the surf.

The Marine beach gives the President much more privacy than his own beach, simply because there are no neighbors armed with motion picture cameras. The Nixon neighbors at Cypress Shore, a high-priced residential community adjoining the Nixon property, have a clear, unobstructed view of the President and his family when they go swimming.

The government has installed beach facilities on the Marine shore, including telephone and power lines. The President can remain there for hours and still keep in touch with his many burdensome problems.

His idea of a great afternoon is to go to Red Beach, take a nap and then go for a long walk along the beach with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his chief staff advisor on national security affairs. These beach sessions sometimes run for more than three hours.

The Red Beach installation, modest as it is, leads to the inevitable question: How much does the western White House setup cost the taxpayer?

An accurate answer is impossible. It would take the General Accounting Office years to break down the cost of a presidential establishment such as the western White House because the bill is split so many ways—among the armed services, the U.S. Secret Service and the General Services Administration.

How, for example, would the Air Force compile a cost accounting for the operation of the President's plane as divorced from the normal operating costs of a jet transport? The plane has to spend a certain number of hours in the air each month to remain serviceable. Crew costs are constant—the men aboard are members of the Air Force and their pay goes on, regardless of the President's location. Their per diem expenses are minimal since they spend most of their off-air time on this particular mission at nearby El Toro Marine Air Station.

A President's extended stay away from Washington does, indeed, cost the taxpayers money. But chief executives have been doing this sort of thing for many years.

'I've Paid My Dues'

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Human nature is bound to be nutty. After all, it comes from human beings and what is nuttier than a human being?

You take all the people hollering for equality for the races. They want a shot at the good things in life, man. Great. So what happens when one of them makes it; starts enjoying the good things? They say he's selling out, that's what happens. Robert Hooks doesn't care what they say.

"I don't want to live in a rat-infested Harlem tenement any more," he says. "I've done that."

"I grew up in the hellhole of the world—the slums of Washington, D.C. Then I moved to the slums of Philadelphia, which are no bargain."

"Even when I moved to New York, 11 years ago, I lived in the slums. So now, when I can afford it, I don't live there any more. And I don't care who says I'm selling out, because I don't live there any more. I've paid my dues."

You pay a lot of dues as a kid in Washington's slums. How many points do you get for being bitten by a rat?

"Once I was bitten on the hand. They took me to the doctor, who treated it and bandaged me up. The next night, the rats gnawed through the bandage and bit me on the same hand again."

How do you get out of there? Well, maybe if you're lucky, you have an older sister.

Hooks had one. She got him started in the right direction. She worked in the Washington playgrounds as a counselor. He was 9. She put him in plays she staged on the playgrounds.

"My friends used to say I was a sissy. Bobby Dean, they'd call—that's my real name. Bobby Dean Hooks, not Robert, just Bobby Dean. Bobby Dean, you're a sissy man, you're a punk."

"So, naturally, I didn't want to do any more plays. But my sister made me do the plays. We all slept in the same bed and she'd pinch me with her toes—she had a way of pinching with her toes that really hurt—and she'd pinch me until I'd promise to do the play."

If some of this sounds like a Bill Cosby routine, it could be, Hooks knew Cosby when they both went to Temple. Cosby put in time in the Philadelphia slums when Hooks was there. They weren't close friends then, but they are now.

Cosby may be the one to help Hooks start a West Coast branch of his highly successful Negro Ensemble Company.

That theatrical group is on tour here now and Hooks is proud of it.

Of course, some of the people who think he's selling out because he doesn't live in the slums any more object to the word "Negro" in the group's title. Hooks n couldn't care less.

"When we started," he says, "it was still fasionable to say 'Negro.' But even though some people want us to change to black, I think we've moved beyond that. We're not worried about questions of nomenclature and neither am I, personally."

Negro, black, Afro-American. It's all the same to me."

seasons on N.Y.P.D., one of the better fuzzi-and-robbers series. It's over now and his current ambition is directing. There's a good chance Cosby will give him a shot at directing a few episodes of his new show this season.

"I don't think," Hooks says, "that black actors are directed well, generally, by white directors on TV. They don't seem to know how to make black actors appear natural."

Whichever way he goes, it's almost certain to be up—and way up, when measured by where it all began.

Whichever way he goes, it's almost certain to be up—and way up, when measured by where it all began.

Even here, there's a generation gap.

"My mother," Hooks says, "is still working as a domestic. She doesn't have to, but she likes it. She works for Mrs. McGee in Philadelphia. Mrs. McGee has pictures of me on her wall."

Hooks, put in a couple of

Illness Fails To Unhorse McClure

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—That Ray Stark has guts. Now he has pitched Barbara Streisand

the idea of playing Sarah Bernhardt. It would be a non-musical, with Barbara going it straight and serious. She's intrigued, too. The Disney Studio sent "The Newcomers" company all the way of Jackson Hole, Wyo., to shoot some crystal-clear, smogless scenery stuff. Word from Wyoming; shooting had to be postponed cause of heavy smog over Jackson Hole. Dame Judith Andersons big ambition—to play Hamlet. "And I will do it," she says, "but not in New York or Los Angeles."

Director Charles Jarrott was on his way to the studio in London, where he was in charge of the Richard Burton Genevieve Bujold production of "Anne of the Thousand Days."

HEROES' HEROES: E.G. Marshall Justice William O. Douglas.

"I greatly admire people who can think clearly," E.G. says. "People who can put their thoughts and ideas down on paper clearly and succinctly. When I was doing The Defenders, I did a lot of reading, and I became acquainted with Douglas' writings, and I became a great admirer. To me, he's a hero."

Never one to waste time, he was ordering his lunch on his car telephone as he drove.

"A slice of melon," he said. "And a cup of barley broth. Then I'd like a small steak." At that point, another car slammed into his.

"—well done. The steak, not the car."

Doug McClure wasn't feeling well. He was stretched out on the couch in his trailer.

"A bad day," he said, smiling bravely. "I deserve a gold star for being here at all. I've been on this lot 10 years. I've been in three series. In all that time, I think I've been tardy for work maybe four days, that's all. I worked with pneumonia."

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION TO THE DULY QUALIFIED RESIDENT ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS; AND TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an election will be held in and throughout the City of Pampa, Texas, on the 24th day of September, 1969, on the question of the adoption of a One Percent (1%) Local Sales and Use Tax within said City in keeping with the following ordinance adopted by the City Commission of said City, as follows, to-wit:

AN ORDINANCE ORDERING A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD IN THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS, ON THE QUESTION OF THE ADOPTION OF A ONE PERCENT (1%) LOCAL SALES AND USE TAX WITHIN THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS, ON THE 24TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1969, AT WHICH ELECTION THERE SHALL BE SUBMITTED TO THE RESIDENT QUALIFIED VOTERS OF SAID CITY OF PAMPA, FOR THEIR ACTION THEREON, THE FOLLOWING PROPOSITIONS:

"FOR ADOPTION OF ONE PERCENT (1%) LOCAL SALES AND USE TAX WITHIN THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS."

WHEREAS, Article 1666c, Vernon's Texas Civil Statutes, Chapter 62, Page 62, authorized the governing body of any city, town or village in Texas to call an election for the purpose of adopting a local sales and use tax within such city, town or village. Now, Therefore,

Section 1. That a special election shall be held in and throughout the City of Pampa, Texas, on the 24th day of September, 1969, at which election there shall be submitted to the resident qualified voters of said City of Pampa, for their action thereupon, the following proposition: "FOR ADOPTION OF ONE PERCENT (1%) LOCAL SALES AND USE TAX WITHIN THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS."

Section 2. That said election shall be held at one polling place for all qualified voters of said City of Pampa, and the polling place and presiding officers for said election shall be, to-wit:

City Commission Room City Hall, City of Pampa. Geo. W. Scott, Presiding Judge Ray Dudley, Alternate Judge.

Section 3. That said election shall be held in accordance with the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas, and all duly qualified resident electors of the City of Pampa, Texas, shall be qualified to vote.

Section 4. That the ballots of said election shall conform to the requirements of Section 2, Subsection 2, of Article 1666c, Vernon's Texas Civil Statutes (Act 1967, 68th Legislature, Regular Session, Chapter 62, Page 62), and to the requirements of Chapter 1 of the Election Code of the State of Texas, as amended, and the instructions to be printed thereon shall include the following:

OFFICIAL BALLOT INSTRUCTIONS: Place an "X" in the square beside the statement indicating the way you wish to vote.

FOR ADOPTION OF ONE PERCENT (1%) LOCAL SALES AND USE TAX WITHIN THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS.

Section 5. That election judges and clerks are directed to comply with Article 6.06, Election Code of the State of Texas, as amended (Section 1 of House Bill 131, Acts 1967, 68th Legislature, Regular Session, Chapter 62, Pages 102, 103), which provides that a square shall be placed beside each proposition in which the voter is instructed to place an "X" or other clear mark to indicate the way he wishes to vote, but which also provides that failure of a voter to mark his ballot in strict conformity with the directions on the ballot shall invalidate the ballot, and the ballot shall be counted if the intention of the voter is clearly ascertainable, except where the law expressly prohibits the counting of the ballot. It is specifically provided that the election officers shall not refuse to count a ballot because of the voter's having marked his ballot by scratching, but the statement of proposition for which he does not wish to vote.

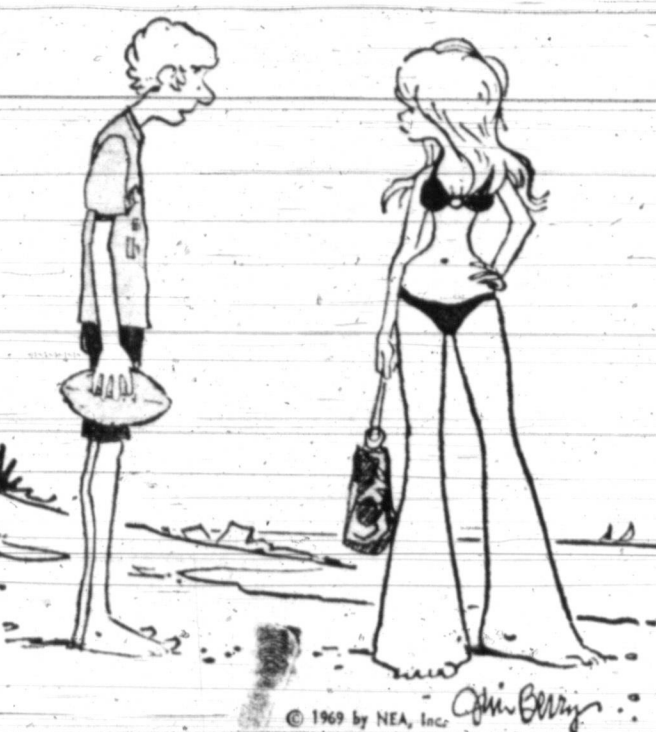

Section 6. That notice of the election hereby ordered and called shall be given: (a) by publication on the same day of two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published within said City of Pampa, the date of the first publication to be at least twenty-one (21) days prior to the date set herein for such election; (b) by posting of such notice at the polling places in each of the election precincts of the City of Pampa, not less than (20) days prior to the date set herein for such election. It is hereby found and determined that the Pampa Daily News is a newspaper published within the City of Pampa, Texas, and is a newspaper of general circulation within said City of Pampa.
