Young, Duke On Moon's Plateau

Seeking clues to the nature of the moon in its remotest past, astronauts John Young and Charles Duke ride their Lunar Rover over the rugged mooncape of Descartes. Rock samples collected on the Apollo 16 mission to the central highlands may date back to the original lunar surface. The area may also contain evidence of long-ago volcanic activity.

Reorganized Board Approves Salaries And Building Plans

By RAY BAXTER

Despite a stormy session that burdened a weighty agenda further with unscheduled discussions, sharp repartee and a loose application of Robert's Rules of Order, the Pampa school board reorganized, established teacher salaries for the coming year and approved plans for the vocational building.

A crowd of some 63 persons filled the room around the panel to hear the outcome of the salary question. That question actually became more a matter of the calendar than the amount. Common practice has been to ratify teacher contracts about this time of year but establish the salary schedule in August after the budget had been approved.

Dr. James Malone, supt., noted that certain members of the board had asked from time to time that he have information at hand that would allow salary amounts to be established when contracts were approved. The reasoning here was that it was only good business as well as a more fair treatment of teachers who must otherwise wait through the summer to know how much they would be earning next year.

Dr. Malone made an oral report on the projected income for 1972-73 based on the current tax rate explaining the additional supplements possible.

Mrs. Helen Warner, an elementary teacher in the local system, presented a report of a study made by members of the local classroom teachers organization. Among the samplings made by the group was a group of 34 districts above the line made by Interstate 40 highway. It was noted these were of similar economy and culture as Pampa. Of these, 17 had a salary schedule above Pampa's, five had the same—$500 above the state schedule—while 11 were below.

Mrs. Warner said the recommendation of her group was to maintain the $500 increment for the coming year. This came in the face of unofficial discussion of cutting the supplement. She fielded questions in a manner indicating she had researched her subject well.

At the close of her report Ben Sturgeon moved to accept both the oral report of Dr. Malone and that of Mrs. Warner's group and establish teacher salaries at the current $500 above state base. He was seconded by new member George McCarroll—a move that figured rather dramatically in the events that followed.

Gikas moved to table the motion pending further study. He was seconded by Warren Hasse. Gikas' plea for tabling was based on the need for further study, particularly on the part of the new board member, McCarroll.

At this point, McCarroll—who had seconded the motion to act—politely but pointedly noted he was capable of speaking for himself saying he had taken particular time to study the figures involved. His point was that a complete consideration of the overall budget would, indeed, fragment it but he pointed out that the question of the increment level involved only $156,000 out of a budget of $4-million-plus.

Gikas called then for a consideration of budget items and was reminded that this was out of order on the very grounds he had imposed last month. In spite of this, Sturgeon yielded to such a discussion for a time then called for his question.

Gikas apparently lost what little sentiment he had mustered, for his tabling motion was voted down and Sturgeon's motion passed over Gikas' vociferous but out-of-order attempts to block it.

At the outset of the meeting, McCarroll was sworn in by Gray County Judge Don Cain. Following this Bob Carmichael was elected president; Ben Sturgeon, vice-president and McCarroll, secretary.

U.S. Warplanes Strike Deep Into North Viet

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers and fighter-bombers struck deep into North Vietnam today, attacking supply depots, transportation facilities and air defenses 80 miles south of Hanoi, the northern capital.

Aground, North Vietnamese troops launched furious attacks around An Loc and knocked a South Vietnamese battalion out of action near that district capital 60 miles north of Saigon.

In announcing the raids on North Vietnam, the U.S. Command said the attacks centered around Thanh Hoa near the coast, 215 miles north of the militarized zone separating the Vietnam. An Air Force F4 Phantom jet was shot down 42 miles southeast of Thanh Hoa. The two crewmen bailed out over the Gulf of Tonkin and were rescued by helicopter, the Command reported.

The U.S. command said in a statement that the latest raids were against "military targets in North Vietnam that are helping support the Communist invasion across the demilitarized zone into South Vietnam."

The Command declined to disclose the number of aircraft involved in the strikes.

Alert Test Set Monday

Pampans will get a pre-hearing of the city's new six-siren disaster alert system at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the test has been set to check all sirens to determine if they are in top operating condition.

Wofford said he wanted Pampans to know when they hear all of the sirens sounding simultaneously Monday afternoon that it is only a test. The tests will be made at each location in all city areas by city workers and employees of the Southwestern Public Service Co.

Other business was of a routine nature.

Sen. Ralph Hall Seeks Local Support In His Bid For State Lt. Governor

By LARRY HOLLES

Pampa may not have received much rain lately, but there has been an influx of candidates in the past few weeks, with several more yet to come.

State Sen. Ralph Hall brought his campaign for the Democratic nomination of lieutenant governor to Pampa and other parts of the Panhandle yesterday, joining other candidates who have preceded him.

Passing out large silver-colored medallions centered with shiny 1972 pennies, Hall breezed through the city greeting citizens and visiting the news media.

Feeling that honesty in public government is the greatest need in state politics, Hall said, "What's at stake today is responsiveness and vitality of government. For too many years we have watched the decline of government existing for the public good instead of private greed."

Discussing the recent stock scandals and charges of nepotism and other scandals, the Rockwall resident noted, "We need an ethics bill that would require financial disclosures and a law prohibiting lawyers in the legislature practicing before the state boards and agencies."

He has twice passed "the toughest ethics bill ever introduced in any state legislature," Senate Bill 86, through the Senate only to have the House defeat it.

"I'm an East Texan that voted for a water plan to benefit West Texas," Hall said, moving to another topic.

He then noted that one of his opponents, Bill Hobby, had helped to defeat an earlier plan for West Texas water with an editorial in the Houston Post.

Hall believes the state should pass a comprehensive water program "based on the simple belief it's only equitable to help 'at Texans get water," which could be of benefit to the rest of the state.

He added that both water and an extensive highway system are musts for aiding cities to develop and to help keep young people in the smaller and less populated communities.

Returning to the need for honesty in government, he said the people need to regain confidence in the leaders in Austin.

"Confidence in government is a basic and fundamental element, and without it government at any level cannot function," Hall stated.

The former county judge also explained that immediate tax relief is necessary for the state's farmers and ranchers making their living from the land. "Expansions of our SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. stepped onto a rocky plateau today to begin man's first exploration in the mountains of the moon.

Young's footfall, the ninth human imprint in the ancient lunar dust, was recorded at 11:56 a.m. EST. Duke followed him down the ladder of the landing ship Orion five minutes later.

"Here you are mysterious and unknown Descartes, highland-plains," Young said as he touched the surface. "Apollo 16 is going to change your image."

The explorers hope in this mountainous Descartes region to find evidence that volcanoes once erupted beneath the lunar surface, sculpturing mountains, canyons and plains in the formative period more than four billion years ago.

An antenna problem on Orion prevented a television camera from relaying pictures of their first steps on the moon as was the case on previous lunar landings.

The astronauts were to erect their own portable antenna on the surface to make later television possible.

Young and Duke, who almost had their landing cancelled Thursday when astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly had trouble with the command ship Casper, were awestruck by the landscape of mountains, craters and desolate desert-like terrain.

"It's absolutely beautiful," Duke exclaimed. "There are rocks all over the place."

"Fantastic, super!" Young said. "There's a big hole over there. I never saw such a big hole." The Apollo 16 commander commented, "It's probably 10 meters deep."

He said the landing site was smooth and couldn't have been better.

"Anywhere else around here and we'd have landed on a great big slope," he said.

The explorers, eager to get started today, quickly ran through their suitup and checklists and moved outside ahead of schedule. They depressurized the cabin so that it matched the outside vacuum and after checking with Mission Control, Young said: "Okay, let's go."

As the Apollo 16 commander stood on the hatch stoop, he exclaimed: "My golly, how beautiful! There is a big boulder!"

During the seven-hour exploration, Young and Duke planned to set up a nuclear-powered science station and to drive their battery-powered moon car across an undulating plain to inspect two craters named Spook and Flag for evidence of volcanic activity and other lunar secrets.

Mission Control said the moon walkers probably would have one of their three excursions canceled and their time on the moon shortened because of a late landing caused by an engine problem in the command ship, Casper.

But Young and Duke were lucky to have made it as the ninth and 10th Americans to land on the moon.

Pampa High School To Open Model Congress Tomorrow

Students from more than a dozen high schools in the Texas Panhandle will gather tomorrow at Pampa High School for the Model Congress sponsored by the Pampa Jaycees, Pampa Jaycee-Eltes and the school's Social Studies Department.

The program will get underway at 8:45 a.m. with a joint session of the student House and Senate in the auditorium. Registration begins at 8 a.m.

Following the opening session students on 12 committees will hear more than 20 witnesses and write legislation on subjects such as skyjacking, capital punishment, sex education, pornography, gun control, mercy killing, pollution and others.

U. S. Senator John Tower and State Rep. Phil Cates will divide the duties of President of the Senate in the afternoon session. U. S. Congressman Bob Price and Graham Purcell will alternate as Speaker of the House of Representatives.

"I am excited about a project like this one which seeks to interest and involve young people in the legislative process," Cates said. "Last fall I enjoyed being a part of the Model Legislature and feel that both the students and those working with them gained a great deal. I am sorry Senator Tower was not able to spend the entire afternoon with us, but I am looking forward to presiding over the Senate during the last half of the afternoon session."

General chairman John W. Warner conducted two orientations for student chairmen and vice-chairmen this week giving them hints about ways to present their legislation more effectively. Witness chairman Benny Kirksey had a session with student witnesses yesterday morning at the high school and will have a short session with other witnesses shortly before the testimony begins tomorrow. Jaycee parliamentarians under the guidance of Philip Kimbley have had two orientation sessions about their duties.

Bills which are reported favorably from committee will be brought up on the floor of the House or Senate in the order proposed by the rules committees set up for each branch. Legislation approved by both houses will be sent to Tibby Rogers, PHS student body president, who will serve as President of the United States for the day. If he vetoes the bill, it will be returned to both houses to see if the veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote.

News conferences for high school journalists have been scheduled for Price at 9:30 a.m., Purcell at noon and Tower at 12:30 p.m. Price will hold a general news conference at 10 a.m. and Purcell's general news conference will follow at 10:30 a.m.

Each student will receive a packet containing copies of all 10 bills, an agenda, staff reports on each bill, evaluation sheet and information on how bills become law. Dan Stanley is in charge of the packets. Heading the committee for writing the bills for the packets was Mike Holmgren.

Approximately 150 Pampa students have registered for the Congress under the direction of social studies teacher Howard Graham. Nancy Dingus, Carolyn and Kathy Gallman have teamed together as a student committee making posters and publicizing the project at the high school.

Auditorium Dedication Scheduled For Sunday

Plans for the dedication of Pampa's $1.2 million M.K. Brown civic auditorium Sunday afternoon were in the final stage today.

City Manager Mack Wofford said practically everything had fallen into place in the last-minute check of details for the auditorium doors to open at 2 p.m. Sunday and the program to begin at 2:30 p.m.

Principal speaker at the dedication ceremonies will be Frank H. Wardlaw, director of the University of Texas Press, Austin, who was a close personal friend and associate of Mr. Brown.

An endowment to the University of Texas Press was given by Mr. Brown in 1960 for the purpose of publishing historical books about ranch life in the U.S., principally in the Southwest.

Mr. Brown and Wardlaw worked closely together on the project and at the time of Mr. Brown's death in 1964 three books had been published in the M.K. Brown Range Life Series. Since that time additional volumes have been published by the University Press.

Mr. Brown became so enthused with the success of the project and its general acceptance by the public that he was in the process of having an additional book republished (outside the Range Life Series volumes). This book, "Mrs. Adair's Diary" was released early in 1965 after Mr. Brown's death, and the usual autographing party was held in the White Deer Land Museum with Frank Wardlaw as speaker for the occasion, and the late Arthur Teed as master of ceremonies for the program.

Don R. Lane will be master of ceremonies for the Sunday dedication program.

The address of welcome will be by Mayor Milo Carlson, followed by remarks by Roy C. Sparkman, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Another highlight of the program will be "Reflections" by William Jarrell Smith, also a close friend and associate of Mr. Brown, and secretary-treasurer of the M.K. Brown Foundation.

The invocation and prayer of dedication will be given by the Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, rector of St. Matthews Episcopal Church.

Presentation of the colors will be by Boy Scouts and the pledge of allegiance will be given by Vincent DiCosimo, Troop 22 of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council.

A medley of the late Mr. Brown's favorite songs will be played and sung by the Pampa High School Band and Concert Choir.

Following the dedication program members of the boards of directors of the Pampa Community Concert Association and Pampa Fine Arts Association will serve as guides for auditorium tours until 6 p.m. Sunday.

The auditorium will be open Monday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for an art exhibit in the main foyer.

Professor Offers Solution To Environmental Problems

HOUSTON (AP) — A California professor says managing the environment is too complicated a task to approach by the "one problem-one solution" method.

What must be developed is a national socioeconomic model—a set of mathematical formulas expressing "the interactions of the economic, political, social and technological components of our complex society," said Dr. Neil H. Jacoby, UCLA economics professor.

Jacoby told a management sciences meeting that the development of the socioeconomic model should be the central task of a new Institute of Environmental Studies.

He indicated that environmental problems touch many aspects of human civilization, and the solutions are just as numerous and complex as the problems.

For example, he said, Los Angeles smog could be attacked in a number of directions, but something like the socioeconomic model is needed to determine the best combination of solutions to be applied.

Emissions of pollutants from cars and smokestacks could be controlled by regulation, authorities might stop people from moving into Los Angeles, reasoning to reduce the number of buildings might be introduced, heavy taxes might be levied on automobiles, or an electric-powered mass transit system might be built.

Jacoby said these are just some of the solutions that might be applied to one environmental problem.

"The wide ramifications of this problem, which involves only one environmental variable in one region, show how intricate must be the analysis required to reach a rational solution," he said.

He said the development of a socioeconomic model would take years but he noted that even while it was still being completed it would be useful.

Record Turnout Predicted For May 6 Texas Primary

DALLAS (AP) — A record Democratic voter turnout of 1,750,000 in Texas' May 6 primary was predicted Thursday by Robert Johnson, head of the Texas Election Bureau which collects and tabulates statewide ballot counts.

Previous record for a primary was in 1970 when Lloyd Bentsen defeated Sen. Ralph Yarborough for the Democratic nomination. The vote in that race was 1,540,000. Gov. Preston Smith had no opposition for re-election in that primary.

About 100,000 republicans are expected to vote in their primary.

Current registration is about 4.2 million voters, and Johnson said he expects a turnout of 43 to 44 per cent, compared with 39 per cent of those eligible who voted in 1970.

Johnson said he does not view the new eligibility of youths 18 to 21 years old as having a significant impact on the ballot total, since registration is up only slightly over the 4,149,250 who registered in 1970 before youths were gained voting privileges.

Employees at Levines Pampa Store will take the spotlight Saturday, April 22, when they don Roaring Twenties costumes as a special feature of the store's 52nd Anniversary Sale.

According to store manager Garland Quarles, employees chose the theme to keynote more than a half century of business.

Among the most unusual sights to be seen at Levine's Saturday will be Evie Eaves, who created her own costume. Evie has been with Levines since 1967 and is a saleslady in the Boys Department. Costume Day will highlight the final week-end of the 52nd Anniversary Sale at Levines. "We've grown from one store to an 11-state chain in this half century and seen many changes," observed Store Manager Garland Quarles, "but we still enjoy the lively neighborhood spirit that has been such a vital part of our history. We hope our customers will come and share the fun of Costume Day with us!"

Anti-Trust Is Pro-Trust

Some of the persistently more popular activities of government are those that are bundled together under the label "anti-trust."

The reason for the continuing acceptability of the so-called "trust-busters" is that people generally want the little guy to get an even break with the big guy. In other words, they don't want some powerful company to act like the government and to push others around by force. Therefore, they did not object when government got the power to smash enterprises the government considered to be in violation of fair trade practices.

Consequently, when this newspaper attacks the "trust-busters" and the so-called anti-trust activities, the reader wants to know why. Our answer is that the "anti-trust" activities are not what they seem; they do not live up to the publicity. But, of course, our answer is hard to understand because it flies in the face of what the general public has been led to take for granted. The truth is difficult to explain.

But now comes a convenient example that illustrates the point.

Back East, some smaller grocery chains found they were unable to compete with national chains in one important respect—they did not have a means for manufacturing their own brand of products as each of the larger chains was able to do. To correct this deficiency, they organized a cooperative association of 23 small and medium-size regional chains which today operate stores in 33 states.

The name of the association was Topco Associates, Inc., and it puts the "small" back in the competitive ball game. Each of the member chains continued to operate independently from all the others. Their only connection is Topco which supplied a substitute for "house brand" merchandise.

The anti-trust section of the U.S. government heard about the operation. Government lawyers sued the group, charging the members were conspiring in restraint of trade. The U.S. District Court for northern Illinois ruled that the government was wrong, so the anti-trust section appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. On March 29, the court gave its opinion.

The court noted that "Topco was founded in the 1940s by a group of small, local grocery chains, independently owned and operated, which desired to cooperate to obtain high quality

Ireland's Seeds Of Hatred

By DON OAKLEY

A visitor from outer space would be at a loss to understand what is going on in Northern Ireland.

Here are people who are making life a hell for each other and who are killing each other on an increasing scale, yet there are no visible differences between them, no obvious reasons why they should be mortal enemies.

One side is not light-skinned, the other dark. One is not curly-haired, the other straight. Physically they are identical and interchangeable with one another, sex for sex and age group for age group.

Any child's game has different colored or different shaped tokens so that the players can tell one another apart.

Everyone in Northern Ireland speaks the same language. Cultural differences are only the most superficial, and they are not natural or necessary differences but differences that result purely from an artificially imposed distinction.

What is that? What is it that distinguishes one resident of Northern Ireland from another? What is it that he is willing to kill the other man (or woman or child) for, and is willing to die for himself?

It is based on the most artificial and invented of differences—religious sectarianism. And the really tragic thing is that tens of millions of people in other countries who are of the same two religious persuasions as the Northern Irish feel no need to kill one another, or even to argue about so minor a difference.

There is, of course, the factor of the majority (Protestant) denying the minority (Catholic) its civil rights. But you have to know what a man's religion is before you can oppress him. It helps to know his address and what school he went to, but these things are merely consequences of his religion.

There is, also, the matter of the Catholics' desire for and the Protestants' opposition to a political union with the Republic of Ireland. Yet here again, the desire of the Catholics is religious, not nationalistic; and the opposition of the Protestants flows not from patriotic love of Northern Ireland but from fear of officially Catholic Ireland.

This is not to say that the hatred that is rampant in Northern Ireland is not very real. Even blood brothers can be deadly enemies.

But the hatred was not universal, nor did it seem to have gone beyond all hope of reconciliation, until fairly recently—until the extremists set to work in earnest.

The bombers and snipers and assassins have killed more than 200 people since the present "troubles" began in Northern Ireland two years ago. Now the British army has added 13 to that number, in a mass killing in Londonderry.

The Irish Republican Army has, of course, vowed revenge for that.

Yet at bottom, it is almost as if the Irish needed to hate one another—almost as if they did not have religion to fight about or to use as a sign to tell friend from foe, they would have to invent something else.

Speaking of outer space, a story on the Star Trek television series a few years ago dealt with the last two survivors of two warring races occupying the same planet. One was pure white all down the right side of his body and solid black on his left side. The other was a mirror image of the first—black on his right and white on his left. This was the basis for their consuming hatred.

more sense than the reality of what is going on in Northern Ireland.

GLOBAL VIEW

Hanoi Leadership Split Three Ways

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The current North Vietnamese invasion of the south was a compromise.

It is the culmination of a deep ideological struggle which has wracked Hanoi for two years, on what path Vietnam, as communism is to follow—doctrinaire Marxism-Leninism or a communism modified to suit Vietnamese customs.

This fight has split the Hanoi leadership into three major groups—those who argue for a quick military solution, those who believe North Vietnam can win at the Paris peace talks with a little push, and those who favor the Mao Tse-tung theory of protracted war, with more emphasis put on rebuilding the socialist north.

The present bitter compromise is between these three. Thus the invasion has something for each. It is not a last ditch drive or a final gasp of the north. Nor is it, on the contrary, a sign of major strength. It is basically an attempt to get out of the "trilemma" outlined above.

The men who favor a quick military solution are getting a chance to try their theory—that South Vietnam's armies and President Thieu's government will collapse under a series of

STRAIGHT TALK

TOM ANDERSON

Playing God

Murdering babies is now big business. In effect, the mushrooming abortion clinics' advertisement might read like this: "Have your baby murdered while you wait!" "Kill now, pay later." "Quick, easy, inexpensive. We will not be undersold or out-murdered." "Ask about our special lay-away plan."

Incidentally, the old question as to whether the fetus is "a living soul" has been given an answer by research, according to William P. O'Connell, who declares: "Many feel that the choice is the woman's. I would agree if it were clear that the fetus is part of the woman and thus hers to dispose of. The evidence, however, is to the contrary. Microbiology has established that the zygote is human and an autonomous, if dependent, organism from conception. Once fertilized, the cell is no longer latent life. It has its full and human allotment of chromosomes. It is uniquely human, like no other living thing or part of a thing, anywhere along the evolutionary chain."

The most basic question seems to be: "Is embryonic or fetal life human life?" (The Chinese date a person's age from conception rather than birth.) At what age would you advocate destroying a child's life in utero? By the eighth day? (Sex is certain then.) By the 10th day? (The first veins develop.) By the 14th day? (Mouth develops.) 21st day? (Heart is beating.) 56th day? (All organs present.) 62nd day? (Hair and eyebrows.) 64th day? (Eyes are developed but still closed.)

When is it too late to destroy this person? What about that person's rights? Do legislators have a right to pass a law permitting the destruction of an innocent life, in its embryonic or fetal stages? At what age is a person entitled to due process of law? What crime has he committed which is punishable by death? Why not kill—the mother—instead? Doubtless the Women's Lib groups will present the inference that the mother is any more guilty than the father. One Woman Lib (or Lesb as the case may be) recently bragged to a younger group: "I have been fighting for Women's Lib ever since you were in your father's womb."

Until the 12th week after conception, a common procedure is dilation of the entrance to the uterus and curettage. Dr. Alan Guttmacher detailed this method in the Clinical and Obstetrics and Gynecology Journal:

"A sharp curette is then inserted to the top of the fundus with very little force, for it is during this phase that the uterus is most likely to be perforated. Moderate force can

Altitudes Out For Heart Victims

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have a heart problem that was brought on by a fractious gallbladder removed after a week's delay due to the heart's unstable condition. I suffered two serious attacks and my case was considered very serious. My doctor is very good and gives me periodic checkups and he tells me I have made a remarkable recovery, but I would like to know more.

At my age, 82, I feel that there are things I would like to do, such as a two-day trip or more in the mountains (not climbing) above the 8,000 feet limit. I do not have any heart pains, but I have herpes zoster in my chest and arthritis in my neck.

I know you can't diagnose my case by remote control, but since I have no heart pain and desire to do things, I believe I will grow stronger if I do them instead of sitting and admiring four walls. What do you think?

Dear Reader—I am all in favor of people remaining moderately active as long as they can. It is one of the things that makes living enjoyable and probably prolongs life and health. Of course I don't know how much heart trouble you have really had from your letter so it is difficult for me to be very specific. It sounds to me like you are able to walk around comfortably and get around in your usual environment. I note that you live in Colorado and apparently already live at some elevation of altitude. This may make it easier for you to visit higher altitudes than someone who lived at sea level.

In general for people who live at sea level, I feel that they should not go to altitudes higher than 5,000 feet, if they have any significant heart trouble. If it is necessary for them to go to altitudes higher than this, they should proceed cautiously and not try to combine these events with fishing or hunting or other forms of increased physical activity that is not within their usual daily level of activity. After a week at higher altitudes, it is safer to increase one's level of physical activity.

I suppose if you already live at an altitude approaching 5,000 feet, that up to 8,000 feet wouldn't make too much difference, but at any time you go to a significant increase of altitude above your usual living quarters, I would strongly recommend that you take it easy initially.

Even at 82 I am sure that someone with your enthusiasm can find a lot of things to do without going to significantly higher altitudes. Just keep in mind that both altitude and exercise increase the work of the heart and the combination of the two significantly increases the load on the heart.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS

Former President Harry S. Truman once called Presidential primary elections "eyewash." He spoke as a professional politician and in a way his description was accurate. For we have seen all too many times how committed delegation strength, accumulated through the balloting of the electorate in primaries, can go down the stream once the grand show of national conventions gets under way. These conditions can lead to the emergence of candidates who didn't actually show popular strength in the primary contests. But with all its faults, ours is still the best system in the world.

Even if the conventions do not yield to popular mandates of the people in the various states, the presidential primaries still serve a tremendous purpose in our political scheme of things. They are the means of expression for the voters on a lot of current issues. As we reel off the primaries this spring, the people come face to face with issues such as inflation, taxes and school busing.

When the votes are counted, the will of the majority is made known and any candidate who does not heed these sentiments is not worth his salt.

The crux of the political matter will come in the summer months when the two major parties assemble to name their candidates for President and Vice-President and write a platform of intentions for the next four years. Voting in the primaries can be of decisive importance in the selection of our future leaders and their instruments of government.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Australian ballot is a secret voting method which provides the names of all party candidates printed on one ballot at government expense. The World Almanac recalls that this system of voting originated in Australia in 1858. Massachusetts was the first state to adopt the method in 1888.

Liquor-By-Drink Improves Texas Image As Convention Site?

Editor's Note: It is just one year this Friday since the legislature legalized liquor by the drink in Texas. Have all the happy or all the dire things predicted for the new alcohol permissiveness developed? a situation?

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — in just 10 months, a drink before dinner has become part of many Texans' ritual for an evening out.

More than 10 million mixed drinks are sipped in public places each month. And over 75 per cent of cocktails are downed in public bars and restaurants licensed under Texas' year-old liquor by the drink law.

The bottle wrapped in a brown paper bag is a thing of the past. The non-so-private "private" club is getting that way. The changes, which almost amount to a revolution in Texans' drinking habits, have happened in an incredibly short time.

Gov. Preston Smith signed the liquor by the drink law into effect April 21, 1971, after legislative leaders pushed for legalization of mixed drinks by the summer tourist season. Voters had removed the 1935 ban on the summer tourist season. Voters had the 1935 ban on the "open saloon the previous November.

Restaurants and public bars were selling their first cocktails by early June after several dozen areas held local option elections in May.

How has liquor by the drink—something few Texans had seen in their lifetimes—worked out? "It is coming along very, very fine," says Walter Erdmann, executive assistant to the president of the Texas Restaurant Association, which lobbied hard for mixed drinks.

"We haven't had any problems with mixed beverage places," said O. N. Humphreys Jr., the teetotaling administrator of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

But prohibitionists who opposed liquor by the drink remain convinced it can bring nothing but trouble. Liquor by the drink is now legal in all or part of 53 counties, including most of the state's major population centers.

Almost 1,500 restaurants and bars have "mixed beverage" permits, enabling them to sell drinks to the public. The ABC says the number of active private clubs has dwindled from about 1,730 before liquor by the drink to approximately 700 now.

This total of 2,200 licensed drinking places indicate the prohibitionists were right about one thing: The number of establishments where Texans can drink has increased.

Dr. Albert F. Tucker of Dallas, executive director of Texas Alcohol Narcotic Education (TANE), acknowledges that statistics are a little sketchy. "We do believe liquor by the drink has increased (alcohol) consumption considerably in Texas," he said in an interview.

"We also know it is costing the people a tremendous amount of money for additional local option elections... And we think when the record is all in, there will be more deaths on our highways," Tucker added.

"The thing that is breaking our back, of course, is the 18-year-old vote. They already have voted liquor by the drink in four college communities (Lubbock, Commerce, Nacogdoches and Huntsville). We just don't think it is fair. We think the legislature should definitely regulate voting or residence requirements for voting to keep a group of youth from voting something on a community that they will not have to live with. We think it is tremendously unfair to allow youth to be able to vote in an election that creates all the problems legal alcoholic beverages bring on a community."

Federal court decisions knocked out a portion of Texas' election law requiring voters in the 18-21-year-old group to register to vote in the cities where their parents live.

Most college students register where they go to school. Whether liquor by the drink has boosted consumption of alcohol or auto accidents is hard to determine on the basis of available statistics.

During the 10-month June 1971-March 1972 period, consumption of distilled spirits was 268,017 gallons higher than for the comparable 10 months a year earlier.

BUT ABC figures indicate consumption climbed more than 750,000 gallons from fiscal 1969 to 1970 and almost 1.4 million gallons from 1970 to 1971. Fiscal 1971 included three months of liquor by the drink—June, July and August—and those months had a net increase of 55,472 gallons over the same period a year before.

Humphreys says he has been unable to detect any increase in violence associated with drinking because of liquor by the drink.

"From the standpoint of law enforcement, we haven't had a bit of trouble with mixed beverage permittees," Humphreys told an interviewer. "Your beer tavern is more of an enforcement problem than the mixed beverage places. They have more breaches of the peace and sales to minors."

The mistress gets equal time to tell wife her side

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-R. Y. Hunt Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from a wife who had a message for her husband's mistress. Please be fair and give me equal time, Abby. I have a message for that wife.

Dear Wife: You say, "Never expect to see him on Sundays or holidays."

Are you kidding? He goes to his office for a few hours on Sunday so I can meet him there. Or else we talk for hours on the phone.

You say, "Never call him at home." We have that worked out, too. I ring once and hang up. Then he goes immediately to his place of business and I get in touch with him there.

You say, "Don't ever expect him to take you out in public."

Who needs the public? We are private people.

You say, "You can't depend on him in time of personal crisis."

You are so right, but neither can you, as he is hardly ever home.

You say, "Don't believe him when he says his wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin) and she hasn't slept with him for 10 years."

He never said that. YOU did!

You say, "Don't ever expect his wife to divorce him, even if she catches him. She knows that you are not his first and won't be his last. Also, she is not about to give up her status, financial security and retirement income because of you. However, her discovery will probably terminate his affair with you, so be prepared to get some new clothes, circulate and find another married man whose wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin) and hasn't slept with him for 10 years."

I really pity you. What good is all that status when all your friends know that your husband is in love with another woman?

YOUR HUSBAND'S MISTRESS

DEAR ABBY: Two of my girl friends and I were talking about our problems when my mother walked in and heard us. She said, "Why don't you write to Dear Abby about it?" So here goes:

We are sophomores in high school and our problems are students who smoke in the lavatories.

I suffer from bronchial asthma and my two friends have allergies, and those school lavatories are so filled with smoke by the end of the day, we can't even go in there. Abby, we are not exaggerating!

Sure, we have a "No Smoking" rule in our school, but the principal and most of the teachers smoke themselves, so they don't push it. [But they have their own smoking room.]

Don't you think we have the right to ask for smoke-free lavatories? Please, tell them.

People with no respiratory problems take breathing for granted. BONNIE, MARY & LINDA: BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

DEAR BONNIE, LINDA AND MARY: All right, I've told them. [Ever think of getting up a petition?]

DEAR ABBY: I read that letter in your column from "Irked Salesperson" who said, "Nothing irks me more than to approach a prospective customer with, 'May I please help you?' and have her say, 'No thanks. I'm just looking.' And then she promptly walks away."

Well, I would like to tell you what irks ME! To go into a store, wanting to buy something and not having much time to waste, and not being able to find anyone to wait on me!

ALSO IRKED

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69780, Los Angeles, Cal. 90089. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

THE BRIDE
The bride was attired in a gown of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was styled with a Sabrina neckline, accented with pearlized sequins, and long, tapered lace sleeves. The floor-length skirt was designed in three tiers, accented with pearlized sequins.

Her waist-length veil of illusion was edged with rose lace appliques, and her bouquet was of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Houston, Galveston and Dallas.

Peculiar Eater
The flamingo eats in a peculiar manner. It plunges its head underwater and sifts the mud with a fine hairlike "comb" along the edge of its bent bill. In this way, it strains out small shellfish and other animals.

ECOLOGY-MINDED — Fashion designers crusade for clean air and water by sprinkling ecology-inspired motifs on spring and summer sportswear. Maid of Cotton Debbie Wright lends her influence to the move in a cotton knit pullover emblazoned with ecology symbols. The top can be paired with straight pants as shown or worn alone as a short dress. In turquoise, yellow, and green, it's by Charlie's Girls.

SATURDAY, APRIL 22
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Work habits change, constant readjustment fills the year. It's up to you to make sure the majority of these steps are in the right directions. Many complex problems are simply outgrown and left behind. Strive for clarity of expression. Today's natives look for drama of patterns in daily living.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: This is one of those days when it seems nothing you want is handy and anything you do strays from its purpose. Let matters settle without pushing too hard.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Many interesting stimuli come and go, and you wonder what you've gained from the exchange—little that is tangible, but much entertainment.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: If you will listen first, then ask question, you find your partner has no better plan than yours, that both ideas have to change a bit.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Talk is cheap enough but doing comes dearer. See that you get some of both done in moderation this complex day.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 23]: Technical assistance includes extras you didn't ask for. Friends and romantic ventures prove tantalizing. It's an interesting day.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Teamwork and compromise make many more good things possible. Build family experience.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: It is just as well to leave developments undiscussed until you see more of where they lead. Family contact includes some friction.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Any loan or investment you offer now must be extremely long-range and perhaps risky speculation. Personal outlays are to be cut where you can.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Ask for anything you feel you've earned or can get an advance hold on. Keep your story simple and straight, whatever others do.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Stick to routines; steer clear of speculation, solicitations of eager salesmen. Get skilled advice on pending questions.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Talking about financial situations is not the same as making definite but premature changes. Wait for inspiration and better knowledge.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Surprise need not lead you into rash reactions. Your loved ones require patience and tact. Conditions improve finally.

The student could not wait to leap from his chair to see how the professor was going to play the six-spade contract. After all, the student had bid the slam without knowing whether there would be a play for it.

When he saw the professor's cards he knew he had made a bad bid. Hopefully he watched to see what, if anything, the professor could do to save the sinking ship.

'EXPLO 72' Set On Grand Scale

DALLAS—"Dear America and the World: Please find enclosed 6 million brochures, 3 million prayer stickers, 95,000 bumper stickers, 5,000 T-shirts with emblems, 1,000 color films, and 550 billboards all inviting you to join us in Dallas, June 12-17.

"R. S. V. P. EXPLO 72, Dallas, Tx. 75222.

"We're getting together to help change the world. So might read an invitation to EXPLO 72, the Christian training conference expected to attract 100,000 people and help ignite a spiritual explosion—taking the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the entire U. S. by 1976, and throughout the world by 1980.

EXPLO, sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ International, is expected to be the largest training conference ever held in America. Billy Graham, EXPLO's Honorary Chairman, Arthur Blessitt ("Minister of Sunset Strip") and Bob Harrington ("Chaplain of Bourbon Street") are among the 145 noted Christian leaders who will speak. Johnny Cash, Larry Norman and Kris Kristofferson will provide Jesus Music.

The Cotton Bowl will be utilized every night for mass rallies. The all-add-day Grand Finale, a Jesus Music Festival to be held on Saturday, June 17.

is expected to assemble one-quarter million.

The purpose of the conference is to train the delegates in how to experience the abundant Christian life, and how to share their faith in Christ. Seminars—some 100 each morning—will be conducted by the Campus Crusade staff. The afternoons will be devoted to the viewing of some 150 exhibit booths, to be set up in the Texas State Fair exhibition buildings, showing the highly varied work of Christian organizations from Jesus People to seminaries to mission organizations.

After EXPLO, "Operation Penetration" will be implemented. This direct extension of EXPLO during August and September will involve the organization of some 100 smaller conferences to be held throughout the U. S. as EXPLO delegates seek to find five others each to be trained.

Campus Crusade President Bill Bright foresees through this multiplication effect a force of 1/2 million trained Christians, ready to share their faith on high school and college campuses, in communities, and the military by the Fall.

He also foresees 10,000 people dedicating their lives to Christian service as a direct result of EXPLO and its follow-up efforts.

ORDINATION SET—Charles Stafford, pastor, Locust Grove Church, Canadian, is to be ordained to the gospel ministry at that church at 3 p.m. Sunday. A 1969 graduate of Pampa High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Stafford, 627 Sloan.

30-Thousand Russian Jews Are Expected

MOSCOW (AP)—About 5,500 Soviet Jews have emigrated to Israel so far this year, informed sources reported today.

They said if the present rate of departures is maintained, an unofficial target of 30,000 for 1972 could nearly be attained. This total was passed on by unofficial Soviet sources to Israeli officials and is believed to reflect the Kremlin's intentions, they said.

In 1970 an estimated 1,000 Soviet Jews were issued exit visas. Last year, replying to pressure from the Jewish community and foreign criticism, the Soviets allowed 13,905 Jews to leave.

Sources in the Jewish community said Soviet officials are maintaining the ban on emigration of Jewish scientists who have worked in defense-related industry or research.

Sources who follow the question closely said the Soviets appear to have several reasons for their present policy on Jewish emigration.

By allowing larger numbers to leave, the Kremlin is attempting to counter damaging criticism of its handling of the "Jewish question."

Yet the Kremlin rids itself of a lot of troublemakers by insuring that the preponderance of the emigrants are the least educated, the most backward and the most recalcitrant of the Soviet Jews who want to leave.

Catholics Grow

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The number of Roman Catholics in the world increased by seven million from 1969 to 1971 but the number of priests kept falling, as it has done steadily for about a decade. Priests were down 4,228 to 347,481.

The "Activity of the Holy See," a yearbook, listed 533,004,110 Roman Catholics for 1971. This made a world average of 1,535 Catholics for each priest.

Newly ordained priests numbered 3,500 or 532 fewer than in 1969. Many seminaries were closed.

BAMBOO BACKBONES
One dark winter night years ago as a Missionary in Japan, I was driving our jeep through a bamboo thicket. Normally 15-20 feet tall, the bamboo was weighted to the ground by a heavy moist snow. The loaded bamboo tops arched over from each side to the middle of the narrow dirt road. As we approached the thicket, all we could see ahead of us was a wall of suspended snow. Carefully I drove to the thicket and nudged the hardened, drooping bamboo arches. The gentle nudge dislodged a little of the snow and suddenly the tough bamboo sprang upright on either side of the car casting its burden high into the air. As we gently pushed our way through the thicket, archway after archway sprang up straight and tall in a fantastic choreography of strength and resilience.

The Japanese have long considered bamboo to be a symbol of unbreakable endurance and strength. I was awed and impressed by this demonstration of those qualities.

A part of Christ's joyous message is that Christians can and should develop bamboo backbones. "Be strong in the Lord" is the Christian's resounding motto. "Lo, I am with you always," is Christ's uplifting promise. "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me," provides daily Christian fortitude. "Be watchful, stand firm in your faith, be courageous, be strong. Let all that you do, be done in love" was Paul's admonition to all Christians. Faith, for the Christian can and should develop to the place where we can face pain, hunger, loneliness, anger, frustrations, sorrow, despair and death in a victorious spirit that brings inner peace and joy.

But there are times for all of us when the pressures of life seem unbearable. We are weighed down by our problems until we feel we are almost to the breaking point. It is then that the gentle nudge of love, concern, understanding and care by the Pastor or our fellow Christian is sufficient to cause us to throw up our heads and to stand straight and tall in Christ. Once a little of the load is dislodged we can toss the remainder into the air and be free and strong again.

That is, we can if we've developed bamboo backbones—the resilience and strength of a deep faith in God, and the conviction He is with us and cares. A beloved old hymn puts it another way—"Take your burden to the Lord and leave it there."

The Jesus People: A Plan for Action

"I have become convinced that the 'Jesus Revolution' is making a profound impact on the youth of America and shows signs of spreading to other countries. One thing is certain: Jesus Christ can no longer be ignored! Our generation cannot escape Him. We cannot dismiss Him as a myth or a figment of the imagination."

Billy Graham in "Jesus Generation"

By REV. DAVID POLING

Certain independent, evangelical youth organizations caught the early signals of the Jesus movement. Campus Crusade, Inter-Varsity, Youth For Christ, and Young Life were among the first to sense the rising interest of youth in the Jesus message. Some of the movement was pure therapy—trying to find someone or something to take the place of drugs or break the bondage to addiction, sexual disasters, and terrifying games with witchcraft.

Duane Pederson and his "Hollywood Free Paper" (now reaching a one million press run every month) tackled the underground fifth movement head-on and offered a paper, filled with joy, hope, and recovery. Bible study centers were opened over California. Campus revolutionaries found their match in the Jesus kids who turned thousands away from mindless violence to meaningful encounter—with Jesus.

One person who has kept in touch with the various groups of the Jesus movement—here and overseas—is none other than Billy Graham. His crusades have been attended heavily by young people and the kids have found a much warmer welcome from the Graham team than in many of the traditional churches—which seem terrified by a genuine religious revival!

In his new book, "The Jesus Generation" (Zondervan $4.95), Dr. Graham gives an excellent summary of the problems facing young people today—as well as their parents. He devotes much time and space to the practical fulfillment of a conversion experience.

It is not enough to drift in the afterglow that accompanies a major turnabout in one's religious life. Direction, planning, and response are the key to growth in the Christian life. Writes Graham:

"One of a Christian's responsibilities in following Christ is to have a new attitude toward work. So many young people want Christ without responsibility. Jesus was not a dropout. As a carpenter, He worked hard with his hands. The Apostle Paul made tents for a living while he carried on the work that God had assigned him. Whatever work a Christian does is done unto the Lord. He should do his best at whatever his trade or vocation."

Dr. Graham urges young people to follow their conversion with commitment: concern for the lonely, the poor, those in prison or institution. He gave this example:

"I heard about a colony of so-called hippies who were converted to Jesus Christ. Visiting such families in distress became their 'thing.' A home was robbed. The family was in distress. This group helped them. They prayed for them. But they also secured legal aid for them. This is Christian commitment in action."

Right now the Jesus movement is mainly made up of young people. But their close companion and frequent counsel is a tall grandfather from Montreat, Billy Graham, who speaks to their condition with understanding and grace.

Thank You for Life

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Tami Hogan was a bright 9-year-old who always showed her parents her school work. Except one item.

It was a crayon illustrated poem called "Thank you for life" that she wrote herself. It said:

"Thank you Lord for letting me be alive today.
I like you for my family.
We do live quite happily.
We always play together.
Oh! Thank you for the sunshine weather.
It's just wonderful to be alive!"

Tami's father, Gary, a lieutenant with the suburban Carmichael fire department, said he and his wife found the poem the day after his little girl died last Thursday of leukemia. "My wife looked in a folder, and there was this poem right on top. We'd never seen it before. I wonder if she planned it that way."

"We never told her that she had leukemia because we always hoped she'd become well again," Hogan said. "We just told her it was an infection."

"She was reserved, shy and thoughtful. She was always concerned about everybody else, even at the last. The day she died she asked her mother how she—her mother—was doing."

Tami's grandmother, Mrs. Robert Mead, said the youngster "could put herself in your place. She knew more than what you thought she knew about life."

People In The News

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito has canceled a trip to Okinawa on May 15 where ceremonies will be held marking the island's return to Japan by the United States.

Sources said the decision was linked to security fears.

Hirohito, 70, however, will attend a similar ceremony in Tokyo the same day.

The government recommended last December that Hirohito make the trip to Okinawa for a tree-planting ceremony marking the occasion. But sources said the government decided against the trip Monday after learning that many Okinawans are displeased with terms of the Okinawa reversion agreement.

LONDON (AP) — The Earl of Harewood, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, has been named managing director of Sadlers Wells Opera in London.

Sadlers Wells is London's popular opera, with performances which traditionally are given in English.

The 49-year-old earl, appointed Monday, previously has held jobs as a director of the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, and artistic director of the Edinburgh International Festival.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Charles Boyer will end a five-year absence from movies to costar as a 216-year-old man in a musical remake of "Lost Horizon," producer Ross Hunter announced Wednesday.

Boyer will fly from his home in Paris for the role this summer. His last film was "Barefoot in the Park," in 1967.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, just back from Moscow, was asked to comment on his impressions of Soviet Communist party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev and Butz recalled that the subject of rainfall come up in their discussions.

"He talked about the difficulty of crop production in the Ukraine with limited rainfall—where they have about 16 or 17 inches," Butz said Wednesday.

"He said that with that kind of rainfall neither the capitalist god nor the Communist god can get corn."

Son-In-Law Of Johnson Bank Officer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Patrick Nugent, one of former President Lyndon Johnson's sons-in-law, has been elected a director of Capital National Bank here.

The bank chairman is Edward Clark, who served in the Johnson administration as ambassador to Australia.

Nugent, 28, is married to Johnson's younger daughter, Luci. He is an officer of Communications Properties, Inc., an Austin-based national cable television corporation.

Tomorrow Is Something to Fear pants. Flies swarm around the dung piles next to the cooking pots. Someone has vomited and the pack dogs are feasting. An old woman is curled into a fetal position with stomach cramps. A man is picking the fleas out of his wife's hair. A chicken with a broken leg pecks at the ground. A woman stands up, hikes her pant leg, and with miserable unconcern urinates on a stone.

It is terribly hot.

Mrs. Thien wears a conical hat.

Her teeth are black from chewing betel nut. Her hairline is retreating. There are scabs and scales on her cheeks. She is 45, but old.

"Look," she says, using the only English word she knows. She lifts her crippled son up for observation. He is 12 years old, yet less than 3 feet tall and so light he can be hoisted like a paper box. "Look." She takes his pants down to show his shriveled leg. It is discolored, thin as an arrow and it wobbles. "Look." She shakes the leg and the knee and ankle wiggle in an obscene dance.

The boy does not protest. He floats there, in the woman's hands, like a puppet.

Then, almost by reflex, though he has not been instructed, he holds out his hand and spreads five sticky fingers.

Begging for money. "You give?"

The begging, actually, is not precisely necessary. Though past refugees here have been largely ignored by their nation and their world, some help has been given the latest batch. Students from Hue University have assisted thousands of the spring offensive victims. Northern legislators have been unified in their call for government aid. Thus the wretched thousands continue to survive.

But what a survival. Mrs. Thien has a huge bump on her leg from a snakebite. Her youngest daughter cannot sleep at night. A soldier stole one of the family's bags of belongings. And then there is tomorrow. Tomorrow Mrs. Thien is afraid of tomorrow.

"Cai gi se xay ra cho toi?" "What," she asks, "will happen to me next?"

The refuge now has 9,403 acres out of 12,000 approved in 1965 by the commission.

(ED. NOTE: Some 3 1/2 to 5 million people have been displaced in the last decade of the Vietnam war. This is a story of one of them.)

By TOM TIEDE

QUANG DIEN, Vietnam (NEA)—As rural existence goes in this country, Le Thi Thien had it fairly good. She was the wife of a hamlet chief, had five relatively healthy children, was sheltered in a snug home, never wanted for food and enjoyed the blissful comforts of ignorance common to middle-ground peasants in this war.

Now all that's ended. The drop in fortune started a few years ago for Mrs. Thien. When her husband, a respected leader of a tiny hamlet near Vietnam's Demilitarized Zone (Dong Duong), was conscripted into the South Vietnamese army. He marched off one day and never returned. She heard he was killed in a battle somewhere. Poof. Blown away. There wasn't enough of him left, officials said, to bring home to bury.

The disaster forced Mrs. Thien to fend for herself and her children. It wasn't easy. It never is for war widows here. She was promised government assistance to smooth the way a bit, but never got it. So she hired herself out for servant work. She tried selling roadside pineapples to troop convoys. She took in washing.

One day her No. 2 son became ill. She had no money to get professional help, so she turned to one of the touring shamans that proliferate here. The quack gave the boy an injection in the leg. A few days later the leg stopped growing. Now the lad is a cripple, on crutches, another burden for his agonized mother.

Down, down, down. "All bad happened," Mrs. Thien says. The home deteriorated. The clothes did, too. The larder emptied.

Then recently, the woman hit bottom. Last month, during the early stages of North Vietnam's offensive across the DMZ, Mrs. Thien woke up to hear a terrible bombardment of mortars not far from her hut. She looked out to see the night sky blinking with explosions. The war was at her doorstep.

She dressed her kids. Hurriedly stuffed a few belongings into wicker bags. And joined thousands of others in a flight to safety.

Today, Mrs. Thien and her children are living on a slab of cement in this tiny village north of Hue. So are dozens of others.

Pitiful sight. Pieces of canvas have been strung up to keep the rain off. Children lie about sleeping in soiled

Recorrectional Institutions For Texas Youth Rapped

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A New York researcher recommended today that every applicant for employment at Texas youth correctional institutions should be given a psychiatric examination.

"It must be recognized, however, that one cannot be sure that a psychiatric examination will reveal 'ordinary' unfitness, although it should reveal latent or overt sadism," said Austin H. McCormick, executive director of the Osborne Association, Inc.

McCormick's group has investigated Texas youth correctional institutions every two years since 1962, except 1970, at the request of the Texas Youth Council.

"The attacks leveled at the Texas Youth Council's institutions for juveniles are usually charges of physical abuse or other mistreatment of boys.

"As a major premise, one must accept the undeniable fact that there are bound to be instances of physical mistreatment of boys in any institution, and that this will be true as long as it is possible to weed out of the candidates for staff positions individuals who are temperamentally unfitted to deal with teen-age boys in an institution setting.

"The boys know a hundred ways to try the patience of an adult; some of them are in institutions because they have driven parents and teachers almost crazy.

"Moreover, some of the candidates for staff positions have very short tempers, have been accustomed to impose physical punishments on their own children, and may even have latent sadistic tendencies," McCormick said.

McCormick also recommended that the new state school for girls at Brownwood be made a coeducational institution, and if it works there, the new school being built for boys at Giddings also should be made coeducational.

"...this is the normal way for boys and girls to live," McCormick said. "It presents problems, of course, especially in the sexual realm."

Island Landing Is an Event—and an If AGANA, Guam — (NEA)—The captain of Air Micronesia's flight west from Honolulu is in a chatty mood.

"Well, folks," he says over the loudspeaker, "we'll take a look at a lot of islands today."

He isn't kidding. Before we hit Guam, we'll touch down at Kwajalein, Majuro, Ponape and Truk. And we are lucky—the flight usually has to refuel at Midway, but on this day the headwinds are negligible so we by-pass Midway.

Out in Micronesia, they call the airline "Air Mike." That shows their fondness for the new carrier, a subsidiary of Continental Airlines, which has opened up these remote islands to tourism and commerce.

There is no first-class section in the plane. The seats have been removed and the area is loaded with cargo. On its twice-weekly flight, it carries everything. It's cheaper, to say nothing of quicker, to send goods by plane than by ship.

At each island, boxes and crates of all shapes and sizes are loaded and unloaded. And, at each island, the natives come out to see the plane come in. It is an event. It's also pretty much of an event for the passengers, too.

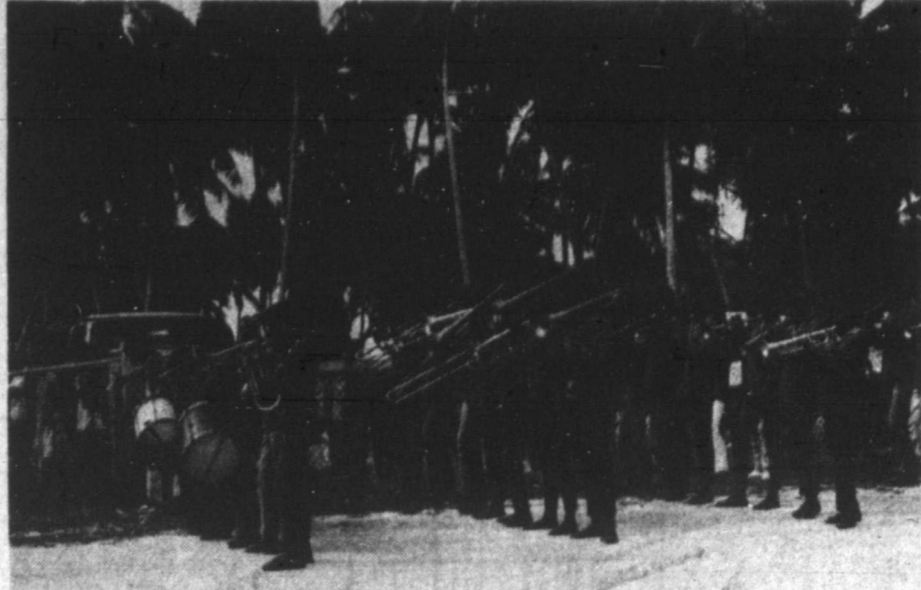

"Ladies and gentlemen," the captain says, as we prepare to land at Majuro. "It looks like we're in luck. I see Father Hacker's Boys' Band is out to greet us."

The pilot has a chance to see what's waiting on the ground. As he explains it, the island air strips are "uncontrolled," meaning there is nobody on the ground to give him any information. So he has to make a pass over the strip first.

He has to check wind and runway conditions. The runways are gravel and there may be holes since the last landing. And, he says, he has to look for obstructions—pigs, goats or babies.

Dominic P. Renda, Air Mike's president, says his infant airline has two planes—the 727 and a DC-6. The DC-6 is needed because some of the runways (on Palau and Koror) are too short for a jet.

"Even on the others," Renda says, "the runways are short. Truk is the worst for the 727. We have to touch down at the water's edge and skirt a hill on the way down, and there are brutal crosswinds."

Father Hacker's Boys' Band greets arriving air travelers to Majuro—along with pigs, goats, babies and holes on the runways.

Each of the islands is different. Kwajalein, site of a missile base, is neat and carefully tended, full of concrete block houses and strange-looking structures. The captain warns us that no picture are allowed and the passengers are herded into a room, guarded closely and the only diversion is a gift shop staffed by "The Yokwe Yuk Women's Club."

Majuro is a stringbean of an island which boasts the longest highway in the far Pacific—35 miles of straight road connecting the atoll's two villages, at each end of the 35-mile-long, 50-yard-wide island.

Ponape is volcanic, green-covered mountains thrusting out of a clear blue lagoon. Truk is a vast circular lagoon, dotted with dozens of palm-bordered islands. And, finally, Guam, a big island with a handsome new airport and cars and newspapers and movie theaters.

Now, suddenly, this remote area is within reach of tourists, and Micronesia hopes that this will mean an economic boost. They need it. The islands are in a bad way, economically.

As of the moment, Micronesia's imports exceed its exports by five to one. The total product of the islands is around $5 million—most of that, copra. And, last year, they imported $3 million worth of beer and soda pop alone.

They are almost totally dependent on what is brought in. They do have tropical vegetation, including bread-fruit and coconuts and taro and yams, but virtually no meat.

"They raise chickens," says an American on Guam, "but mostly to fight, not eat." Cock-fighting is Guam's big sport.

"We must do more in agriculture, fishing and tourism," says Edward Johnston, High Commissioner of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. "I think our greatest potential is in marine resources. We estimate that we can do up to $100 million a year in skipjack tuna. And we must get in to aquaculture—raising shrimp and oysters."

But it is in the realm of tourism that Micronesia has its greatest potential. They like to think of themselves as the next Hawaii—"This is how Hawaii was 30 years ago," is a remark heard often in the islands.

Continental Air Micronesia has put up three handsome new hotels on Guam, Truk and Koror. And there are others, particularly on Guam and Saipan, which are the favorite honeymoon spots for young Japanese couples. Both Guam and Saipan have dual signs everywhere, in English and Japanese, because of the thousands of Japanese who visit.

Guam, actually, according to Johnston, is "the fastest growing territory under the American flag."

The Americans who govern Micronesia believe tourism will be big, but they would still like to see more agriculture. A large cattle ranch has recently been started on Tinian, near Saipan. They'd like to see a revival of the

Harvester Tracksters Go To Regional Meet

By CLAY LIVELY
Eleven Pampa Harvester regional track qualifiers from the district championship team are in Lubbock today to compete in the region I-AAAA meet being staged there today and tomorrow.

Pampa's 440-yard relay team, composed of Chuck Reeves, Garvin McCarrell, Rick McGuire and Richard McCampbell, qualified by placing first in the district 3-AAAA meet held last week-end in Amarillo. The alternate for the Spring relay team is Bobby Owen.

The Harvesters' mile relay finished second in the district meet to advance to regional. There will be a change in the mile event this week-end, as allowed by University Interscholastic League rules. Larry Marlar will run on the team along with Bobby Owen, Dennis Stowers and Terry Riddle. Mike Reddell, who ran on the team last Saturday, will concentrate solely on the 800-yard dash, the event he won in the district meet. Since relay races are team events, substitutions are allowed on them. Steve Mathis will be the alternate for this team.

Freddie Wilson, who placed second in the district meet in the high jump will represent Pampa in Lubbock.

McCampbell will compete in the 100-yard dash, in which he placed first last weekend. Owen finished second in the 440-yard dash in Amarillo and qualified to advance to the regional meet.

Coach Ed Lehnick had these comments about this year's Harvester track team. "I got a tremendous amount of satisfaction out of our win April 15, 1972. It was the day I've been waiting for since become track coach six years ago. I am extremely proud of the athletes on the team and I got a great deal of personal satisfaction also."

"The seniors on this year's team and I made a lot of miles together. Last year marked our first real progress. We will miss all of them next year but we return a bunch of quality people."

"Our field events should be much stronger next year than they were this season." (Editor's note—Pampa returns among others Mark Warren and Billy Lemons in the shot, Wilbon in the discus and Tommy Downs in the long jump. All of these boys placed in the district meet.)

"We also return McCampbell, McGuire and Reeves off the sprint relay team and Marlar and Mathis off the mile relay."

Lehnick further said, "We're looking forward to the meet this weekend and to next season."

In the meet today and tomorrow Pampa faces some pretty tough obstacles in their attempt to advance some people to the state meet.

Two of the teams that Pampa's sprint relay squad must face beat the only group that Pampa lost to this year. Abilene High (41.7) and San Angelo (41.9) beat Odessa Permian to advance to the regional meet. Permian beat Pampa earlier this spring at the Mustang Relays in Andrews.

Pampa has a season best time of 42.0 for this event. Borger is the other district team that will be entered at Lubbock.

In the mile relay, Pampa (3:23.0) must face Monterrey (3:18.0), Permian (3:19.5), Midland (3:20.5), Plainview (3:21.0) and Amarillo (3:23.7). Pampa ran that time early in the season and windy days have contributed to keeping them from lowering it.

McCampbell should have a good chance to place in the 100 as should Reddell in the 800. Owen will have to compete against two of the state's premier quarter-milers (Borger's Willie Johnson and Plainview's Tim Son) in his event and Wilbon must go against the two top men in the state in the high jump, Elroy Williams of Palo Duro and Dennis Deloach of El Paso Irving.

Harvesters Take On Longhorns

The Caprock Longhorns come to Pampa today in an attempt to break the Harvesters' new-found winning habit. The game will get underway at 4:00 in Optimist Park, with the winner going away in third place in the league. Both teams now stand at 2-3 in district play.

"Caprock has a very capable team with three of the top ten hitters in the district," said Coach Deck Woldt. "We've got to win this one to stay in the race at all," he added.

Larry Knutson will pitch for the Harvesters with Dale Ammons at catcher. Bill Simon will be at first base. A.J. Brewer at second. Mike Edgar at shortstop and Gary Hayes at third.

In the outfield for Pampa, Al Ferguson will be in left, Marsh Gambin in center and Rick Musgrave in right.

The Harvesters have won their last two district games against Palo Duro and Amarillo High, after losing their first three.

Caprock beat Pampa in the district opener, April 4; the other two losses were to Tascosa and Borger. The Harvesters have started hitting the ball better and committing fewer errors of late. In Tuesday's win over Amarillo Pampa had no errors in the game.

Michigan State wrestlers beat Oklahoma State and Oklahoma in dual meets this year, marking the first time a Big Ten team has ever beaten two Big Eight powers in the same season.

Baseball Roundup

By Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Pirates needed a hand in the ninth inning and settled for Dave Giusti's palm.

"I went to the palm ball and it worked," Pittsburgh's top reliever said after bailing the Pirates out to a late jam to preserve a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday night.

Giusti reached back for his Sunday pitch after the Cubs had scored two runs with none out and had a man on second.

He coaxed Art Shamsky to foul out, then got Rick Monday and Bill North on strikeouts. "I figured they had never seen the palm ball," said Giusti, referring to National League newcomers Monday and North. "I used them on Monday to set him up and struck him out on a fastball. Then I used the palm ball all the way with North."

The hot Los Angeles Dodgers walloped the Atlanta Braves 11-1 and the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 2-1 in the National League's other games Thursday.

The Baltimore Orioles nipped the Detroit Tigers 1-0 in the American League's only game. Rain washed out the game between Milwaukee and New York.

Pittsburgh took a comfortable 7-3 lead into the ninth inning on the combined pitching efforts of Dock Ellis and Luke Walker. But Walker issued free passes to the first two batters in the last inning and then gave up a two-run double to Don Kessinger.

Giusti replaced Walker at this juncture and squirmed out his hot water.

Manny Sanguillen drove in two early runs for the Pirates and they scored three more runs in a seventh-inning rally highlighted by Willie Stargell's first home run of the season. Ron Santo crashed a two-run homer for Chicago in the sixth.

The Dodgers continued their assault on Atlanta's beleaguered pitching staff, scoring six runs in the second inning on seven straight singles. A total of 18 hits in Thursday night's game at Atlanta Stadium gave the Dodgers 50 for their four-game sweep of the Braves. They scored 26 runs.

Bobby Bonds singled home the second of two San Francisco runs in the fifth inning and the Giants held on to beat San Diego. Sam McDowell pitched the first five innings for the Giants and gained his second National League victory with relief help from Jim Barr and Jerry Johnson.

Loser Steve Arlin had a no-hitter going until Chris Speier opened the fifth inning with an infield hit to trigger the Giants' two-run rally.

Paul Blair's fourth-inning homer, one of only two Baltimore hits, provided the winning margin as Pat Dobson hurled the Orioles past Detroit.

"I can't pitch any better," said Dobson, who threw 63 strikes and 29 balls.

Dave Roberts of Detroit is the third brother to skate for Michigan State's hockey team. Previously, his brothers Jack and Doug won Spartan letters.

Dierschke Signs With Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Sammy Dierschke of Sealy, one of the most sought after sprinters in the nation, was signed to a national letter of intent by Texas A&M University Thursday.

Dierschke, a two-time state champion in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, had best times of 9.4 in the 100 and 21.0 in the 220.

He was sought by more than 30 major colleges and was named to the high school All-American team last year as a junior.

The Aggies also signed Jack Graham of Albuquerque, N.M., who was the state champion in the javelin with a toss of 245 feet.

Lefors Jr. High Banquet Saturday

LEFORS—There will be an all-sports banquet Saturday honoring all junior high students. It will be in the Lefors High School cafeteria beginning at 7 p.m.

The banquet is sponsored by the junior high mothers club. It will be financed by the proceeds from their booth manned at the Halloween carnival.

Bill Snyder, head basketball coach at Fritch High School will be the speaker. Harold Hooker, Lefors junior high principal will be master of ceremonies. All junior high parents are invited to attend; tickets will be available for them at the door.

Green, Dickinson Share T O C Lead

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP)—Hubert Green walked up to the ninth green at the long, tough La Costa Country Club golf course clapping his hands about a short iron shot that left him a four-foot putt for a birdie.

"Well, I was pretty proud of the shot and I thought it deserved to be applauded," he said with an Alabama drawl.

Green combined enough of those good shots with his strange putting style Thursday

Dickinson, 44, and Green, 25, fired four-under-par 68s for a two-stroke advantage over defending champion Jack Nicklaus, Bruce Crampton and Jerry Heard.

Nicklaus hit all 18 greens but needed 35 putts to stay among the leaders in this elite field of 26 players who have scored regular tour victories in the last 12 months.

Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino had their troubles with the deep, clinging rough that makes this one of the most demanding courses on the pro tour.

Trevino never really got it going. He finished with a string of four consecutive fives on his card for 75. Palmer, who shot a 74, had the makings of a decent round until he bogeyed the 17th from the rough, the took a double bogey six on the 18th when he almost lost his tee shot in the foot-high grass.

Someone asked Green, a tour sophomore who hasn't played well since winning the Houston Champions International last year, if he were talking to himself on the course. "I'll talk to anybody," he quipped. "The only thing is, when I'm playing there's nobody out there to watch me and nobody to talk to."

Green uses an unorthodox putting style, crouching far over, his feet well spread and his hands about four inches apart on the club.

But he needed only 27 putts.

Schramm Hopes For "Sudden Death" Rule

DALLAS (AP)—While Tex Schramm admits "it's hard to get 20 people to agree on anything," he believes there just may be enough sentiment among National Football League owners to vote for "sudden death" in all exhibition and regular season games.

The 26 owners and club representatives meet in May in New York to discuss the pesky problem of dealing with unwanted ties in NFL contests.

Schramm, general manager and president of the world champion Dallas Cowboys, also is chairman of the competition committee which studies possible NFL rules changes, such as the one passed in March moving the hulk marks in three and one-half yards.

"We were only several votes away from getting 'sudden death' in Hawaii," said Schramm, a proponent of the change. "From the fan standpoint, this was a real key change a lot of league people wanted."

Schramm said "There is enough interest for a change of heart."

It takes 20 of 26 votes to get a rule changed.

He added "I have talked to some people who weren't in favor of it who indicated after thinking about it they would reconsider."

Schramm said there may have been some negative votes cast against "sudden death" because of sentiment for the two-point rule after touchdowns.

"A lot of the owners thought we ought to do one or the other," Schramm said. "In some cases, negative votes were cast against sudden death because they were for the two-point rule."

Researchers Contend Football Shoes Unsafe

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The conventional seven-crest football shoe is a major factor in knee injuries and should be banned by high school, college and professional teams, say an orthopedic surgeon and an athletic trainer.

Dr. Joseph S. Torg of the Temple University Health Science Center, and Ted Quadenfeld, head athletic trainer at Temple University, came to this conclusion after an exhaustive, three-year research study on the cause of knee injuries.

"Any coach, athletic director or responsible administrative authority who permits football players to wear the conventional football shoe with seven cleats is derelict in responsibility for the health and welfare of his athletes," Torg and Quadenfeld said.

The Torg-Quadenfeld research involved using soccer-style shoes for all players in the Philadelphia Public High School and Philadelphia Catholic High School leagues. The experiment was carried out for three years in the public league and two in the Catholic league.

Pampa Rifle Club Schedules Matches

The Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club will hold its April hunting rifle matches this Sunday at 1:00 at its range located six miles west of the city on 23rd St.

Entry fees for the matches are $3. for men 17 and over, and $1.50 for women and junior entries.

All hunting rifles may be used, regardless of caliber. Scopes and mounts of any type as well as regular coats (not hunting coats) will be permitted.

Three classifications will be used for men and women at the matches: Class A—score of 136 or higher; Class B—121 through 135; Class C—120 and less.

Trophies will be awarded for high total scores in Classes A, B, C and to the highest scoring junior shooter.

Using 1968 as the base year for the public league—the last in which the conventional seven cleat shoe was used—Torg and Quadenfeld developed some interesting figures. There were 51 knee injuries in 1968 with the conventional shoe as against 24 in 1969, 32 in 1970 and 29 in 1971 with the soccer type shoe, the study showed.

"It is our contention," said Torg and Quadenfeld, "that in most instances, one factor is essential for a significant knee injury to occur. That is the cleats must firmly fix the foot on the ground... With the foot fixed, a force imparted by violent contact or rotation of the trunk and thigh is then transmitted to and absorbed by the... knee."

The two said that their study was predicated upon the belief that a foot fixation is dependent upon the number and size of the cleats. The fewer the number and the smaller the cleat tip, the less surface area bearing weight and the greater the force sent through each cleat.

The soccer-style shoe has twice as many cleats as the conventional shoe. The diameter of the cleat tip is a half-inch as against three-eighths.

In addition to the public league figures, the Catholic league study showed 93 knee injuries in 1968 using the conventional shoe, and 38 in 1970 and 35 in 1971 using the soccer style footwear. Ankle injuries also were greatly reduced—72 in 1968 as against 36 and 39 the next two years using the soccer shoe.

Torg and Quadenfeld sought to submit their findings to the National Collegiate Athletic Association through the advisor to the organization's rules committee.

"Much to our disappointment, the rules committee chose to ignore our request," Torg said.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker won the Preakness Stakes twice in seven-tries. He won with Candy Spots in 1963 and with Damascus in 1967.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

13—A Tactical Tip

a stroke. For another thing, he probably will have a better shot to the pin from the safe side.

Here is what I mean. If there's a sand bunker 200 yards off the tee on the right side of the fairway and another one 270 yards off the tee on the left side, the average player should aim down the left side. I would do just the opposite, but that's because I consistently can fly the ball over a bunker 200 yards away and might hit a drive 270 yards.

If you can clear that 200-yard bunker seven times out of 10, I still would advise you to aim away from it. The percentages dictate that you aim down the safe side, and don't let your pride convince you otherwise. I don't know many average golfers who are very good at hitting out of fairway bunkers. I'm not. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

a little more muscle

An adjustable shock absorber. For most people, ordinary shock absorbers work just fine. Most of the time. But how about when you haul things, like a boat? Or carry extra weight around in your station wagon, like the little League team?

Or when you take off for a vacation in that big camper? You need a little more muscle. You need Monroe Ride-Levelers. They're for cars that carry heavy loads sometimes. They go on the rear of your car, and all you do is fill them with air at a gas station for instant muscle. When the heavy work is done, let the air out and you have a conventional shock absorber again. Ride-Levelers. A little more muscle from Monroe.

TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — You could hardly do better in these troubled days for the beleaguered television networks than CBS's Wednesday night special, "It Takes a Lot of Love."

It was an hour dedicated to man's love for animals and vice versa. There was a boy and his dog, a girl and her horse, an old lady and her cat, a woman with a 60-pound beaver who likes to sit in her lap—all very gentle and sentimental.

Sponsored by a pet food company, the program was the sort to warm the cockles of the nation's animal lovers, who make up an enormous segment of a population which supports—according to the program—24,184 veterinarians and 71 million cats and dogs.

It was a curious mixture of cliché and interesting feature material not too skillfully blended. It opened with irresistible shots of a puppy playing with a ball and worrying an old shoe and learning about newspapers. Then it moved to the more heart-tugging problem of young people trying without much luck to find homes for assorted kittens.

An interesting portion showed the work of a Montgomery County, Va., dog warden—not dog catcher, he insists—who spends most of his time trying to reunite lost pets with their owners and to find homes for strays. His great triumph was to retrain a savage police dog without a home to a happy life as watchdog for a lumber yard.

The program moved on to a young man living in the Snake River country of the West with a "friendly eagle" for a pet; a California business couple with a bright chimp named Moe which has acceptable table manners; a red setter named Laramie who is an unofficial member of the staff of a Missouri mental hospital and can reach the hearts of children with greater ease than psychiatrists.

A down-to-earth segment showed the ranch which a Utah politician has turned into an animal preserve. He finds, he said, that after dealing with people all day, animals are relaxing and undemanding. He has discovered, incidentally, that buffalo are the most affectionate of his wild pets.

The program was a refreshing change of pace in specials—warm, happy, even funny at times. It was also a fantasy of sorts since it was a world inhabited by happy, cared-for animals.

Amarillo Man Appointed SPS Finance Director

Bert Ballengee of Amarillo has been named director of finance for Southwestern Public Service Company. It has been announced by Roy Tolk, chairman and president of the electric company. Ballengee, who has been with Southwestern since 1949, has been director, data processing, since late in 1961.

"Bert Ballengee has the background in education and business experience to ultimately assume full responsibility for the execution of the company's financial program and relations with the secure holders and financial community. We are embarking on a program designed to lead to that objective as quickly as possible," Tolk said in announcing the appointment. Ballengee will report directly to the chief executive in his new assignment.

The new financial executive is a native Amarilloan and a graduate of that city's schools. He earned a bachelor of business administration degree from the University of Texas at Austin in 1948 and has accumulated an additional background in specialized business and finance courses under his company's educational program.

Ballengee started with Southwestern in the Amarillo accounting department in 1949 and became chief clerk in the department and filled that post until he became the company's personnel manager in 1957. When the utilization of computers and data processing came to the fore at the electric company in 1961, he was named head of that activity as director, data processing.

Ballengee and his wife, Fern, a former home service director for Southwestern have two children, Ben and Ann Claire.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Norma wants specific advice on how to serve more attractive "cheese cake" in the boudoir. Scrubbed this case, for the odds favor you wives if you'll play your cards more selectively. But this involves the "No Trump" method!

CASE T-559: Norma R., aged 35, is the wife of the bearcat husband who constantly criticized her.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "If Howard is scolding me unmercifully to hide the fact he cannot function in our bedroom, what can I do?"

"Like the normal wife, I admit to being somewhat diffident about sex matters. So I naturally wait for him to make the advances."

"But he has been platonic for almost a year, so how should I overcome my feminine timidity?"

"You urge me to become more seductively aggressive."

"And to serve Howard more cheese cake in the boudoir."

"Besides, you say if a wife plays her cards seductively she need never worry about losing her mate to an outside paramour."

"Just how can a wife become a siren in her own boudoir?"

Erotic No Trump

Wives, remember there is a "No Trump" rule in boudoir romancing with your husband. Which means you are not required to follow suit, as per the prudish dictates of the past. The sky's the limit!

So play your face and figure cards with queenly assurance! But if you are now more than 15 pounds above your weight on the honeymoon, beware!

For fat wives lack much of the erotic appeal of slender sirens!

So do smoking wives, whose stale tobacco halitosis almost

HONORS PIANIST
NEW YORK (AP) — Spain has awarded its highest honor for women, the medal of Dame of the Order of Isabella the Catholic, to pianist Alicia de Larrocha in recognition of her artistic and cultural work abroad.

The investiture took place at the home of the consul general of Spain in New York, Hon. Adolfo Martin-Gamero, at a dinner. At the request of Mme. de Larrocha, the ceremony was private.

asphyxiates the usual ardent husband.

Beware! If your mate now ignores your kisses and is abrupt in his desire for marital union, maybe it is your tobacco halitosis that has caused him to by-pass your pretty mouth!

Also, learn how to disrobe enticingly!

And dilly-dally in the process, with the lights on, to gain 100 per cent of your seductive allure (unless your equator is enveloped in ugly blubber).

In that event, better hide in the bathroom as you take off your girdle.

For many husbands have reported immediate impotence when they viewed the rolls of blubber cascade over their wife's hips as she shed the restraining girdle that had hid such obesity.

Men usually are influenced by female sex "fetishes," such as lace on the hem of your slip.

So avoid the lace-less nylon slips, plus fabrics (and sequin dresses) that suggest metallic harshness.

Don't skimp on perfume, either, for sweet scents are another customary fetish that men link with romantic sirens.

If you have twin beds, get rid of them pronto!

For it is much more difficult to seduce a semi-platonic mate from a distance of 6 feet!

But never let that 6-foot twin bed barrier defeat you wives. If he will not cross over, then you should take the initiative.

At the start, he may defensively be caustic and deflate your feminine ego; but ignore his verbal barbs, for as soon as you make him function, he'll think you're cuter than Cleopatra.

For further specific advice, send for my medical booklet "How to Prevent a Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mclott, Indiana 47558, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Two Giant Chinese Pandas Officially Presented To America

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two giant pandas, gift of friendship from the Communist Chinese, were welcomed Thursday by First Lady Pat Nixon, who pronounced them "adorable endearing creatures."

In separate air-conditioned quarters behind glass walls,

Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing appeared on the scene before a crowd of reporters and photographers, a Chinese delegation, the First Lady and officials of the Washington National Zoo.

Unable to hear much through their glass homes, the pandas happily ate gruel, nibbled on bread soaked with honey for the occasion and climbed up on a pile of oak logs. Ling-Ling reached up to nibble a tempting morsel of bamboo.

Mrs. Nixon lingered to watch them with evident delight. She said, "They give you an extra dimension of joy."

Outside the zoo house where the pandas are temporarily quartered, there was an official ceremony with a crowd of several hundred looking on.

Ting Hung, head of the bureau of public service of the city of Peking, who came along with the pandas to help get them settled in their new home, officially presented the "pair of giant pandas to the American people in token of friendship of the Chinese people."

Like the two musk oxen the U.S. gave to the People's Republic of China, Ting said, the animals would remain as "a symbol of friendship."

Mrs. Nixon said the pandas "will be enjoyed by the millions of people who come from across the country to visit the nation's capital each year."

Widows of New Guinea's Asmat tribesmen roll in the mud to mourn their husbands.
