Enlarged C. of C. Membership Will Welcome Briggs Tomorrow

DINNER WILL BE SERVED TO ENTIRE BODY

B. Frank Bennett to Be One of the Speakers

BARCUS WILL REVIEW YEAR

New Manager to Tell of Plans—Meet at Pla-Mor

A membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Pla-Mor auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The occasion will be the reception of new members following the membership drive and the official welcome of George W. Briggs of Eastland, new manager of the local Chamber.

All new members are urged to attend and get together in an enthusiastic meeting and reception. There will be an excellent program following the dinner served in the auditorium.

The chief speaker of the evening will be B. Frank Bennett, of Amarillo, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce who will be a guest of honor. Mr. Bennett will give an address on the work and accomplishments of the W. T. C. C., and the future program of that organization. Pampa has 120 members in the W. T. C. C.

Scott Barcus, retired secretary of the local Chamber, will give a graphic review of the accomplishments of the local body during the past year. The new manager, George W. Briggs, will tell the members his plans for the future and accomplishments of the past. Mr. Briggs arrived in the city yesterday morning and took over his duties as manager of the local organization.

In the absence of M. K. Brown, president of the Pampa body, who is on an extended trip to Europe, J. H. Lavender, vice-president, will be chairman of the meeting.

With the membership drive practically completed, 460 memberships have been taken out. The workers are confident that the quota of 600 memberships will be reached soon.

A genial, quiet mannered man of middle age today presided over the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

George W. Briggs of Eastland, whose organization there brought fame and prosperity to the county now known as "The Egg Basket of Texas," brings a fund of experience calculated to be of much value to Pampa.

Mr. Briggs first consideration is to get well located, and he laughingly told The News this morning that he probably would not revolutionize the city before tomorrow. He expects to give first attention to urgent matters upon which the C. of C. directors are working, then to assemble as many facts as possible about the city as the basis for future work. He will give special attention to publicity.

The directors have voted to give Mr. Briggs an allowance for car maintenance, on a monthly basis, to enable him to visit every portion of the oil field and to show visitors the community. This item was placed in the annual budget.

While the budget lacks somewhat more than $2,000 of being raised, the remainder includes memberships of many of the oil companies which realize the service of the Chamber of Commerce and will contribute to its support. Also, a number of solicitors have not seen all the persons on their lists of prospects.

SLATON TRYING TO PREVENT LEAVING OF COACH MITCHELL

Trustees Better Pampa Offer for Services—Best Athlete Turned Out by Teachers College.

Acceptance of the coaching position in Central high school on the part of Odus Mitchell of Slaton awaits the action of local trustees, who have an amended proposition under consideration.

Trustees at Slaton do not wish Mitchell to leave, and have offered him a substantial increase in salary—above the offer made him here—to remain he visited here recently an offer that were the salaries the same he would prefer to come to Pampa, although living conditions here are higher.

Relative to his athletic ability, Head Coach S. D. Burton of Canyon said of him:

"Mr. Mitchell attended our college for five years doing his last year of high school work here and completing the four years of college work. He is the only man to make four letters in four different sports. He was twice selected for All-State end in football and was unanimous choice for center in basketball for three years. He was first baseman on the baseball team, and held the T. I. A. pole vault record 3 years. Without doubt, he is the best athletic ever turned out by the West Texas State Teachers college. "He is clean through and through and has wonderful control of his high school men."

Wreckage of Ship Indicates Tragedy

GLACE BAY, N. S., May 2.—(P)—Wreckage picked up around Sestari Island and the body of a man washed ashore in Fluke's head cave today told a mute story of the wreck of a ship in the graveyard of the north Atlantic. Her crew of 32 was believed lost.

Saturday night the Dutch freighter Callisto sent out an SOS stating she was aground near Port Novo ledge in the forbidding Cape Breton coast near the north tip of Nova Scotia. Since then wreckage, seaman's clothing and the body of a man have been picked up along the coast and although the Canadian government steamer Montcalm has been patrolling the vicinity of the accident since Sunday morning, so sign of any survivors has been found.

CARNEGIE GIRL LOSES LIFE IN SAVING SISTER

Repeats Former Feat, But Is Swept Down Stream to Her Death

ALICIA, Pa., May 2.—(P)—Awarded a Carnegie hero medal in August, 1925, for saving two persons from drowning in the Monongahela river, Miss Cennis Gaddis, 20, herself was drowned near the same spot, while saving the life of her sister, Agnes, 13.

The Gaddis sisters were two of a party of eight thrown into the swollen stream when a rowboat capsized Monday near Alicia number 2 mine of the Monessen Coal and Coke company. Seven were drowned.

Miss Gaddis, a school teacher, was on her way home from commencement exercises with her sister. The rowboat used as a ferry, was being propelled across the river when a negro passenger jumped from the ferry to a flyboat and in so doing capsized the small craft.

As the passengers struck the water, Cennis seized her younger sister, succeeded in removing her heavy outer coat and held her high enough out of the water that she might grasp an overhanging tree limb. Agnes clung to safety but the elder sister was swept to her death.

Santa Fe Official Is Visitor Here

F. J. MacKie, superintendent of this division of the Santa Fe, spent yesterday afternoon and last night in Pampa.

He conferred with city officials relative to the proposed subway in West Pampa, specifications for which are being prepared and drainage problems studied in connection with the proposal.

Should the Santa Fe be given a permit to take over the Kell railroad, this additional 81 miles will be a part of Mr. MacKie's division.

Robert J. Morris, 16-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Morris, is in the hospital suffering from a fractured hip received when he fell yesterday afternoon.

The limited thundered over his body the engineer jamming on brakes furiously.

When trainmen returned to pick up the corpse, it leaped from the right of way and fell unscathed. "Overtaken, the 'victim' was arrested for drunkenness. American Mines in Nicaragua Are Destroyed by Band

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, May 2.—(P)—The American owned gold mines La Luz and Bonanza in Northern Nicaragua, have been blown up and destroyed by raiders, according to reports received today.

Assistant Manager Johnson of the La Luz mine, authority for the News reported that all the dynamite at the mines was used to blow them up and to effect complete desolation. The region is deserted by the natives. The band responsible for the outrage moved off in an unknown direction.

The fate of George B. Marshall, assistant manager of the La Luz mine reported to have been seized by the Rebels who raided the mine on April 12, is still unknown.

FORDS COMING HOME

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., May 2.—(P)—Henry Ford and Mrs. Ford sailed for home today on the Majestic, ending their prolonged visit in England.

Their last day was spent in New Forest in Hampshire. They dined at Beaulieu and went aboard the steamer last night.

Miss Louise Miller, deputy county clerk who has been ill in Denton for the last two months, returned home this morning and taken up her duties again. Miss Miller says she is glad to be moved to Pampa.

Bishop and Accuser

By NEA Service

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—One of Europe's bitterest church wars, which has involved the imprisonment of a bishop, the expulsion of a pastor and nearly six years of heated argument and litigation, has come to a head in Kansas City at the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The bishop is Bishop Anton East of Denmark. The pastor is the Rev. John P. Ingerslev, former pastor of the Jerusalem church of Copenhagen. Their cases and the feud between them, will be given final review at the quadrennial conference.

Bishop East is one of the most prominent churchmen in Europe. Rev. Ingerslev, a Dane by birth, had lived for years in America and had won fame by conducting a church mission in Baltimore. In 1920 Bishop East summoned him to Denmark to engage in similar work at Jerusalem church.

All went well until 1923 when a group of laymen in Rev. Ingerslev's church protested over alleged irregularities in the way Bishop East had been handling funds contributed for charity. Rev. Ingerslev backed these charges, and was promptly cited by Bishop East's council of district superintendents. Charges and counter charges were made, and in 1924 Rev. Ingerslev prepared to come to Boston to lay the case before the Methodist conference.

WARDS WOULD BE BUILT IN TWO PLACES

East and West Parts of City Need Consideration

GYM ALSO IS MAJOR ITEM

Bond Issue of About $125,000 Would Be Necessary

A petition asking the board of education of the Pampa independent school district to call an election to authorize issuance of $125,000 in bonds for new school buildings is being circulated.

The petition, necessary to call an election, contemplates the erection of two ward buildings and a gymnasium. The ward schools likely would be of eight rooms each, and would be located in East Pampa and West Pampa, respectively.

The gymnasium, a building complete in itself and probably of six and stucco construction, would be located on the Central campus. It would have ample seating capacity about a floor large enough for a basketball court of standard size, together with lockers, showers, and regular gym equipment. Also, there likely would be a stage, permitting use of the building for theatrical productions.

Bank Robbed

SEDALIA, Mo., May 2.—(P)—Compelling bank officials to lie on the floor, two robbers entered the Lamonte bank at Lamonte, twelve miles west of Sedalia today, scooped up $1,200 in cash and fled.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., May 2.—(P)—Three bandits who this morning robbed the Lamonte bank at Lamonte, Mo., were captured between Lamonte and Knobloster when they were forced to flee to the woods. They were brought to the Johnson county jail here.

The men gave their names as Arthur McClure, Kansas City; R. D. Shaffer, Kansas City; and Edgar Holland, Warrensburg.

Two teams, captained by Bob Kahl, captain of the 1928 Harvesters, and Tommy Robinson, will take the field. In all 26 boys have been out for practice and have been training hard. They are in excellent condition for the opening tilt. Several new faces will be seen on the line-up this afternoon as twelve new men are out to make places on the squad. Troy Stalls and Archie Walstad will be missing. They are attending the state track meet in Austin this week.

AMERICANS EXCEL in many things, including the fine art of ridiculing their police departments.

Perhaps our policemen as a class have not been of the highest calibre, yet, giving little attention to personnel and less to adequate salaries, it is our own fault.

Chicago, with perhaps the outstanding crime problem of the day, has turned to its personnel problem in an attempt to combat the organized crime which approaches being a dominating force there.

"You may be surprised that I put the requirement of mutual understanding and support between public and police first, but I do so because it is one of the fundamental conditions which must be satisfied if the police are to serve their purpose with full efficiency.

To secure this relationship it is necessary that the police themselves should be deserving of confidence. They should perform their duties without favor or affection, malice or ill-will, as it is put in the declaration of service which a constable makes in our country.

"It is essential also that this relationship of mutual understanding and support exists between the police courts and the prosecuting agencies. I find it hard to imagine anything calculated to be more disheartening and demoralizing to a police force which is seeking to do its duty than to have a perfectly good case, on which time and labor have been expended, thrown out of court and the offender released to prey once more upon society upon the grounds of some trivial technicality of the law or on any grounds which are contrary to the weight of the evidence.

In this regard, it may be said that the problem is an international one. The smallest municipality would do well to consider itself related to the general scheme of law enforcement. Just as crime rings are becoming international, so must the forces of law and order inter-link their efforts in the interest of efficiency.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, keynote speaker at the Republican convention: "I don't want to talk about any issues. I've got to make the keynote speech."

Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Senate Republican leader: "Go see someone else. Thanks for calling, but I'm a presidential candidate. I have to wait to see my party's platform."

The Hon. Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House: "Nothing doing!"

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, "Governor Smith's senator": "I don't know. Come around some time later."

A leading Democrat up for reelection who shall be nameless lest his profanity lose him the church vote: "Oh, for God's sake! Get away from me! Not now!"

Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon: "In certain localities, I suspect prohibition will be an issue and there are others where farm problems will be an issue. Many voters believed in Republicanism or Democracy—in Republicanism particularly in New England and the east, where the tariff counts more than in the central states...."

At this point Senator McNary remembered a pressing engagement and hastily excused himself.

The "Mouth" of the Mississippi—As It Looks to Coolidge only one with enough nerve to admit it.

In a moment of extreme mental activity, your correspondent decided recently that it would be a splendid idea to obtain and write a series of interviews with leaders of the two big factions of the politicians' union on what the big campaign issue was to be and all about it.

Thus the readers of this newspaper could gather after dinner around the family fireside and calmly discuss, on the basis of these precious pearls of wisdom straight from the politicians' union, the best place to deliver the family votes in November.

But your correspondent is forced shamefully to report a miserable flop. The interviews resulting from your correspondent's requests for answers to the question: "What will be the big issue and why?" were exactly as follows:

Senator Moses: "By the time the two conventions write their platforms there won't be any issues worth talking about. This campaign will hinge on personalities—more so than any campaign since Cleveland ran against Blaine."

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, keynote speaker at the Republican convention: "I don't want to talk about any issues. I've got to make the keynote speech."

Well, perhaps Cice-President Dawes might talk. But Dawes, one was reminded, never gave interviews. Wouldn't he even discuss the merits of his friend and presidential choice, Frank Lowden? He would not.

How about Secretary Herbert Hoover? Any chance that he might talk issues: "None!" came the answer.

Down to the Democratic National Committee to see Chairman Clem Shaver. But Chairman Clem gently reminded your correspondent that his job was that of a harmonizer. A little later, perhaps. Your correspondent suggested that if Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican committee should consent to identify and describe the big issue as he saw it, there would be no reason for Chairman Shaver to hold out. Chairman Shaver agreed that there might be something in that.

An instrument which magnifies several thousand million times makes it possible to hear people think. Every politician ought to have one.

It is strange how some men who like to tell jokes on themselves are incensed if anyone else tries even a mild one on them.

TWINKLES

Army aviators must keep 75 feet above persons on the ground. Great is the Army.

Ford is going into the orange business. Perhaps he will make 'em smaller, sweeter, and cheaper, for there is no demand for Cadillacs in oranges.

Reports from Eastern points indicate that some towns have gone a-rye over politics.

Fun for nothin'—Watching a proud daddy take the small son to a barber for the first time.

Law enforcement is so erratic that it sure does make some people mad if they operate illegally for a long time and finally are caught at it.

But in spite of civic desire for a clean town, one doesn't often read of Texas Rangers being met with a brass band.

A big bunch of prominent oil men are to attend the American Natural Gas association meeting in Dallas next week. We hope they come through the Panhandle on their way home to learn where and why the "Amarillo field" isn't.

Even Anti-American Socialists abroad are ordering typewriters made in the U. S. A. They can curb everything else, even with their appetites if necessary, but not their verbal output.

President Coolidge has been invited to take his July vacation at Lookout Mountain. By that time he'll know whether or not he has a look-in.

BARBS

Senator Fess, Republican keynoter, was asked the other day what the issues in this election might be. The senator couldn't answer. He probably has been too busy working on his keynote speech to think about issues.

Well, Al Smith has milked a cow. Guess that makes him all O. K. with the farm people.

Well, the oil trial is over. By the way, if you ever should be charged with murder or anything, have your lawyer try this combination in picking a jury: Three grocers, one steamfitter, one repair man, one auto salesman, two clerks, one merchant one expressman, one broker and one railroad agent. It worked for Sinclair.

Fundamentalism Is Tabled As Issue at Methodist Meeting

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—(AP)—An attempt to inject the Modernist-fundamentalist controversy into the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here was headed off at the outset of today's session when the 855 delegates voted almost 10 to 1 against consideration of a resolution on the subject.

The resolution was introduced by the Rev. Harold Paul Sloan of Hudson field, N. K., chairman of the New Jersey delegation. It asked that the conference consider "widespread disloyalty throughout many divisions of the church to the doctrines of deity, virgin birth, original sin and the second coming."

Mr. Sloan, in presenting the resolution, said he had petitions from 525 communities in 41 states and carrying 10,000 signatures supporting his action and that he wanted an unbiased investigation.

Dr. Daniel L. March, president of Boston university and a member of the New England conference, immediately protested against consideration of the resolution.

Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington, presiding, said the matter was so controversial that its consideration would have to be voted upon. A vote by hand raising did not satisfy Mr. Sloan. A standing vote was then taken and consideration overwhelmingly voted down.

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—(AP)—After emphasizing prohibition as the major issue in the presidential campaign, the Methodist Episcopal conference here has demanded a "bone dry" plank in the platform of all national parties.

In a session preliminary to drafting their report for submission to the conference, officers of the temperance board served notice that dry candidates would be demanded and that their organization would be in the thick of the fight to obtain such nominees.

A demand was made by Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board, that voters be told exactly how all candidates stand on enforcement of the prohibition law.

While Mr. Wilson did not mention the name of any presidential candidate, R. V. Johnson, field secretary, said the board opposed the nomination of Governor Smith of New York and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Grun of Stinnett visited friends here yesterday.

Mrs. O. J. McAllister underwent a serious operation at the Pampa hospital this morning.

Mrs. Will Benton of Americus was the guest of the American Legion auxiliary last night.

Wives of Fliers Given Finery by New York Firm

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Mrs. James Fitzmaurice and Mrs. Herman Koehl today were reveling in one of the joys of being wives of trans-Atlantic fliers—each had three complete outfits as the gift of one of fifth Avenue's leading establishments.

The two women spent more than two hours choosing their finery. Patsy had been included in the store's invitation, but when her mother refused to agree to her choice of a selection the entire proceedings left her cold—even more so, if possible than the tumult of the day before when her dad was being cheered and decorated.

Mrs. Fitzmaurice wanted a navy blue outfit for Patsy, but the latter finally won a compromise in a coral dress and coat and a large black sailor hat. The coral, she probably felt, was nearer red than the navy blue, anyway.

Both Mrs. Fitzmaurice and Mrs. Koehl chose shades of blue. Mrs. Koehl selected an afternoon frock of mottled French blue and white, trimmed with hand-forging; a navy coat with large blue fox cuffs and a satin scarf, a navy Bankok hat and champagne colored gloves, shoes and handbag. For evening wear she picked a chiffon robe de style of hydrangea blue.

Mrs. Fitzmaurice chose an afternoon dress of middle blue Canton crepe, a straight wrap-around coat of navy blue, a hat of navy blue straw and navy shoes. Her evening dress was a gown of flowered lace trimmed with three tiers of yellow chiffon.

Methodist Colleges in South Must Have Millions

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 2.—(AP)—Millions of dollars are needed to avoid suspension of many institutions controlled by the Methodist Episcopal church, South, it was reported to the board of education in session here today by Dr. H. H. Sherman, financial associate.

While the church's seventy-four educational institutions have assets of $65,497,097, their combined debt totals $4,000,000 and practically every school is hampered by financial difficulties, Dr. Sherman said, advising that the situation be considered at the next general conference.

MODEL HOME FORMALLY OPENED LAST NIGHT

More Than 300 Visited New Residence Last Night

TO BE OPEN FOR INSPECTION ALL THIS WEEK

The Pampa Daily News Model Home on north First Street was formally opened to the public last night. It was estimated that more than 300 persons passed through it during the evening. It will continue to be open during the remainder of the week.

Many of those who visited last night expressed surprise at the many features which were built into the home which has appeared small. The spacious rooms and convenience of arrangement were appreciated by both those who have built their own homes and those with no experience in building.

The interior decorating and finishing was completed yesterday afternoon and the furniture installed. It was a completely furnished and finished home when its doors were opened last night.

The furniture, furnished by the G. C. Malone furniture company, is appropriate and fitting the individuality of the different rooms. It was selected specially for the home according to the effects which each piece was to bring out.

Chas. A. Symonds, designer and builder, is well pleased with the interest that people have shown in the home. He is keeping it open the remainder of the week that everyone may have an opportunity to visit it.

Those who visited the home last night expressed surprise at each new room which was opened. The inspection which was reserved last night was thorough. The invitation to visit and inspect were accepted liberally. The walls, woodwork, closets, tile work and other fixtures were of particular interest to all.

Mrs. Stella Hughes of Texas Woman's College of Fort Worth was a visitor at the high school today.

J. H. Lavender and L. L. Lavender were business visitors in Shamrock today.

Negro Is Named Congressman to Replace Madden

CHICAGO, May 2.—Four ward committeemen substituted for a primary election yesterday and named Oscar DePriest, 57-year-old negro, as the Republican congressional nominee from the first Illinois district. His name will replace that of the late Congressman Madden.

DePriest, a former alderman and county commissioner, is one of many Chicago politicians who have been the victim of bombers. His home was bombed several years ago during racial disturbances.

Although DePriest is aligned with the republican faction dominated by Mayor Thompson, the mayor was understood to have taken no active part in urging DePriest's selection. The first congressional district is largely populated by negroes, yet the late Congressman Madden won re-election easily over the negro candidate, William L. Dawson. No negro ever has been elected to congress from this state, and there has been no negro member of congress from any state in 27 years.

Dawson indicated he would challenge the selection of DePriest on the ground that the four committeemen who made the choice had not received their certificates of selection following the April election, and so were unqualified. Election officials, however, saw little merit in Dawson's argument. Assistant Attorney General Harrison, also a negro, announced that he would run as an independent against DePriest if the Dawson petition were denied.

"If this great district is to send to congress the first negro seen there in a quarter of a century, we have the right to say who that negro will be," Harrison said. "Our plan is to run an independent, and I am ready for the race."

Independent negro leaders have petitioned Gov. Small to call a special election to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman Madden. They such election be named by the ward committeemen as the candidate on the Republican ticket in November. Gov. Small has not indicated his attitude.

GOOD CROP PROSPECTS

Emmett LeFors, Pampa ranchman, is quoted in the Daily Drivers' Telegram of Kansas City as saying that crop conditions in his vicinity are very good.

"Wheat looks promising, and now with the planting of row crops with the ground in such fine condition, the outlook is favorable," he told the Telegram. "In recent years we have been spreading out in mixed farming, and as a result the acreage is larger each year. Row crops are being planted now and they will get a fine start. The past two years we have fared well, as cattle have been selling on a good paying basis, and the wheat and cotton crops have been profitable."

Chicago Rages Over Killing of Girl By Bandits

CHICAGO, May 2.—The Sunday night murder of the 17-year-old theatre usherette, Pearl Eggleston, has from its lethargic tolerance of crime.

Three powerful agencies—the city council, the U. S. district attorney, and the circuit judges—already have answered. To their protests against crime have been added those of the city governments of Oak Park, where she was slain.

The city council in a resolution adding $500 to rewards already posted by others, demanded that every means be exhausted by police to bring the girl's slayers to justice. "The entire city," said the resolution, "is stunned with horror at the wanton, cold-blooded murder of Miss Eggleston. This crime is a serious challenge to organized government."

George E. Q. Johnson, U. S. District attorney, declared that the federal government might be compelled to intervene unless public opinion itself ended crime and its union with politics.

Circuit judges appointed three of their number to investigate charges of the Chicago crime commission that criminals have made a mockery of justice here.

Rewards totalling $2,100 have been offered, including $500 by the city of Berwyn and $1,000 by the management of the Rice theatre where Miss Eggleston worked and where she was shot by one of the three men who robbed the ticket office Sunday night.

The girl's funeral today took on the attributes of a solemn civic rite, the mayor of Berwyn and the alderman of that suburb were to attend in a body, as were official representatives of Oak Park and Chicago.

SEEK WOMAN'S IDENTITY

HOUSTON, May 1.—(AP)—George Andrew, district attorney's investigator Tuesday was trying to establish the identity of a woman, 40 to 45 years old, whose body was found beside the port Houston Shuttle street car tracks Monday. Her skull was crushed, back broken and body mangled.

Police were working on the theory she may have been slain and the body left on the tracks. The theory was discounted by Mr. Andrew, who advanced the suggestion she may have gone to sleep beside the track.

PHARMACISTS SELL DRUGS

AUSTIN, May 2. (Special)—Many pharmacy college students at the University of Texas practice the business of selling in drug stores at the same time they are learning to compound prescriptions, according to dean W. F. Gidley of the college. There is a large percentage of the students enrolled in the college who are earning the money to pay their school expenses by working in drug stores, dean Gidley said. All senior students in the college are legally registered pharmacists.

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Ward of the state orphanage since she is four SALLY FORD is "famed out" to CLEM CARSON the summer she is 16, and meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student, working on the Carson farm. When Carson makes remarks about David's friendship for Sally, David hits him. They run away and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally as "Princess Lilla", crystal gazer.

In Capital City, location of the orphanage, Sally is recognized when the orphan troop in, chaperoned by a beautiful "Lady Roundful." GUS, the barber, directs attention and Sally is saved. Sally learns from ARTHUR VAN HORNE, handsome easterner visiting in Capital City, that the "Lady Roundful" is ENID BARR, wife of a wealthy New Yorker.

In another state Sally and David go about the streets without fear of being detected by the police. David gives Sally a sapphire engagement ring. MRS. STONE, matron of the orphanage, gets word that Sally is with the carnival and she travels to the next state to bring her back. Gus sees her jerk the veil from Sally's face and gives a signal. During a melee in which Mrs. Stone is accused of stealing a purse and is taken away to a "schiller" court, Sally escapes. Hastening to David she tells him what has happened and he agrees that they must run away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

During the two hours that they waited for the Reverend Mr. Greer, "the marrying parson," David and Sally sat stiffly side by side on a horse-hair sofa, only their fingers touching shyly, listening to countless romances of sloping couples with which old Mrs. Greer regaled them in a kindly effort to help them pass the tedious time of waiting. Her daughter-in-law, recently widowed by the death of the only son of the family, trailed weakly in and out of the living room, her big, mournful black eyes devouring David's magnificent youth and vigor.

"You remind her of Sonny (Bob)," Mrs. Greer leaned forward in her arm chair to whisper to David. "Killed in the war he was, and Cora just can't become reconciled. Seems like the only pleasure she gets out of life now is acting as witness for weddings. And I must say she cries as beautiful and sweet as any bride's mother could. Some of the sloping brides appreciate it and some don't, but Cora means well. Once, I recollect, she spoiled a wedding. It seems that the girl's mother was dead set against this boy, and when Cora started to cry, just like a mother."

The story went on and on, but Sally heard little of it, for her heart was suddenly desolate with need of her own mother. Lucky girls who had mothers to cry for them at their weddings! Her cold fingers gripped David's comforting, warm hand spasmodically. Somewhere in the world there was a woman who was her mother, a woman who had not waited for the marriage ceremony before succumbing to just such love as that woman's unwanted daughter now felt for David.

Understanding and pity for that harassed, shame-stricken girl that her mother must have been just a few days' past succumbing into Sally's throat if David had not been so fine, so tender, so good—Sally shivered and clung more tightly to his hand. In a few minutes she would be his wife and safe, safe from Mrs. Stone, the orphanage matron, the reformator.

"I hear Mr. Greer coming in," Mrs. Greer beamed upon them and bustled from the room. She returned immediately, a plump hand resting affectionately on the shoulder of a tall thin stopped old man whose sweet, bloodless, wrinkled face glowed with a faint radiance of kindness and benediction.

"This is little Miss Sally Ford and David Nash, Papa." Mrs. Greer told him. "They've been waiting patiently for two hours to get married. I've been entertaining them the best I could with some of our very own romances. Often tell Papa we ought to write stories for the magazines."

"Well, well! The 'marrying parson' rubbed his beautiful, thin hands together and smiled upon Sally and David. "You're pretty young, aren't you? Yes, Mama, and I believe in youthful marriages. I was 19 and she was 17 when we took the big step, and we've never regretted it. You have your license, I presume?"

David's hand shook noticeably as he drew the precious document from his breast pocket and offered it to the minister. Through old-fashioned gold-rimmed spectacles the minister studied the paper briefly, his lips twitching slightly with a smile.

"Well, well, Mama," he glanced over his spectacles at his beaming wife. "Where is Cora? She's going to enjoy this wedding enormously. The more she enjoys it, the more she weeps," he explained twinkling at Sally and David. When Mrs. Greer had left the room the old minister bent his eyes gravely upon David. "Do you know of any reason why you two children should not be married, my boy?"

David flushed but his eyes and voice were steady as he answered. "No reason at all, sir. We are both orphans and we love each other."

Mrs. Greer and her daughter-in-law entered before the old preacher could ask any further questions, but he seemed to be quite satisfied. Taking a much-worn, limp leather black book from his pocket, he summoned the pair to stand before him. Sally obediently adjusted the little, dark blue felt hat that fitted closely over the masses of her fine black hair, and smoothed the crisp folds of her new

"Join right hands," the minister directed.

As Sally placed her icy, trembling little hand in David's the first of the younger Mrs. Greer's promised sob startled her so that she swayed against David, almost fainting. The boy's left arm went about her shoulders, held her close, as the opening words of the marriage ceremony fell slowly and impressively from the marrying parson's lips:

"Dearly beloved—"

Peace fell suddenly upon the girl's heart and nerves. All fear left her; there was nothing in the world but beautiful words which were like a magic incantation, endowing an orphaned girl with respectability, family, an honored place in society as the wife of David Nash.

A bell shrilled loudly, shattering the beauty and the solemnity of the greatest moment in Sally's life. Being her on the sofa, she heard the faint rustle of Mrs. Greer's stiff skirts, whispers as the two witnesses conferred. The preacher's voice, which had faltered, went on, more hurried, flustered:

"Do you, David, take this woman—"

Again the bell clamored, a long, shrill angry demand. The preacher's voice faltered again, the momentary question left half asked. He looked at his wife over the top of his spectacles and nodded slightly. Mrs. Greer's skirts rustled apologetically as she hurried out of the room. Sally forced her eyes to travel upward to David's stern, set young face; their eyes locked for a moment, Sally's piteous with fright, then David answered that half-asked question loudly, emphatically, as if with the words he would defeat fate:

"I do."

A clamor of voices suddenly filled the little entrance hall beyond the parsonage parlor. Sally, recognizing both of the voices, was galvanized to swift, un-Sallylike initiative. Stepping swiftly out of the circle of David's arm, but still clinging to his hand, she sprang toward the preacher, her eyes blazing, her face pinched with fear and shame of all color.

"Please go on," she gasped. "Please, Mr. Greer, don't let them stop us now. Ask me—'Do you take this man—?' Please, I do, I do."

"Sally, darling—" David was trying to restrain her, his voice heavy with pity.

"I'm sorry, children," the old preacher shook his head. "I shall have to investigate this disturbance, but I promise you to continue with the ceremony if there is no legal impediment to your marriage. Just stand where you are—"

The door was flung open and Mrs. Stone, matron of the orphanage, strode into the room, panting, her heavy face red with anger and exertion. She was followed by a flustered, weeping Mrs. Greer and by a small, smartly dressed little figure that halted in the doorway. Even at that first dreadful moment when Sally knew that she was trapped, that the half-performed wedding ceremony would not be completed, she was conscious of that shock of amazement and delight which had always tingled along her nerves whenever she had seen Enid Barr. But why had Enid Barr joined in the cruel pursuit of a luckless orphan whose worst sin had been running away from charity? If David's arms had not been so tightly about her, she would have cried to run away again.

"Are you too late?" Mrs. Stone demanded in the loud, harsh voice that had been a whip-lash upon Sally Ford's sensitive nerves for 12 years.

"Are they married?"

"I was reading the service when you interrupted, madam," the Reverend Mr. Greer said with surprising severity. "And I shall continue it if you cannot show just cause why these two young people should not be married. May I ask who you are, madam?"

"Certainly, I am Mrs. Miranda Stone, matron of the State Orphan's Asylum of Capital City, and Sally Ford is one of my charges, a minor, a ward of the state until her eighteenth birthday. She is only sixteen years old and cannot be married without the permission of her guardians, the trustees of this orphanage. Is it clear that you cannot go on with the ceremony?" she concluded in her hard, brisk voice.

"Is this true, Sally?" the old man asked Sally gently.

"Yes," she nodded, then laid her head wearily and hopelessly upon David's shoulder.

"Mrs. Stone," David began to plead with hands trembling upon Sally's bowed head, "for God's sake let us go on with this marriage! I love Sally and she loves me. I have never harmed her and I never will. It's not right for you to drag her back to the asylum to spend two more years of dependence upon charity. I can support her. I'm strong. I love her—"

"Will all of you kindly leave the room and let me talk with Sally?" Mrs. Stone cut across his appeal ruthlessly. "I may as well tell you, Mr. Greer, that my friend here, Mrs. Barr, a very rich woman, intends to adopt this girl and provide her with all the advantages that wealth makes possible. She has been hunting for Sally for weeks, and it is only through her persistence and the power which her wealth commands that we have been able to prevent this ridiculous marriage today."

"We shall be glad to let you talk privately with the young couple," the old minister answered with punctilious politeness. "Come, Mama, Cora!"

"Will you please leave the room also, Mr. Nash?" Mrs. Stone went on ruthlessly, without taking time to acknowledge the old man's courtesy.

"Sally's arms clung more tightly to David. "He's going to stay, Mrs. Stone," she gasped, amazed at her own temerity. "If you don't let me marry David now, I shall marry him when I am eighteen. I don't want to be adopted. I only want David—"

"I think the boy had better stay."

Enid Barr's lovely voice, strangely not at all arrogant now, called from the doorway.

When the minister and his wife and daughter-in-law had left the room Enid Barr softly closed the door against which she had been leaning as if she had little interest in the drama taking place, and walked slowly toward David and Sally, who were still in each other's arms. Gone from her small, exquisite face was the look of aloof indifference, and in its place were embarrassment, wistful appeal, tenderness and, to Sally's bewilderment, the most profound humility.

"Oh, Sally, Sally!" The beautiful, contralto voice was husky with tears. "Can't you guess why I want you, why I've hunted you down like this? I'm your mother, Sally."

AMERICAN CHAIN RESTAURANT PLUS BAR, INVADERS GERMANY

BERLIN, (AP)—American caterers have begun to blaze a trail into Germany. An "American Restaurant" recently opened on the Kurfurstendamm in Berlin's west end was the first of a chain of American eating places planned for Germany.

If the large crowds that gathered at the opening for the press and subsequently for the public of this combination quick-lunch counter and an American bar of 1919 were any criterion, the invasion may soon make Berlin restaurant keepers green with envy.

In the two large plate-glass windows flanking the entrance are seen a typical American soda-water fountain on the one side and on the other a dignified chef officiating at a roasting-pit. Inside is a bar of generous length complete with a row of attached collapsible seats of wood and nickel.

Attractive waitresses ministering to the wants of guests and enormous glittering silver urns and milk machines add to the American setting. A large variety of hot dishes, prepared as everything is electrically, alternate with cold delicacies, including sandwiches and pie. And to complete the American picture, diners pay at the counter as they go out, without bothering about tips.

Carl Hilleburg, Bernard Hilgenburg, and Fritz Greul of Elk City, Ok., left for home yesterday after spending the week-end the guests of Joe Robinson.

Chicago Wrestler Will Meet Lewis in Title Match

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 2.—(AP)—Nick Lutze, popular young Chicago mat star, tonight will make a bid for the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, meeting the famous headlock hold of the title holder, Ed "Strangler" Lewis, with his unbending jack knife scissors and the champion's greater weight and experience with speed and sense of yank.

Industrial League Just Formed Will Start On Sunday

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Pampa Industrial Baseball league will get off to an official start with The Gulf Petroleum gunners meeting the old original Oilers. At an enthusiastic meeting of league officials and team managers last night, the date of commencing the league was decided, a book of rules adopted, and complete details of the league completed.

Six teams have definitely entered with the prospects of two more teams coming in. The teams entered to date are the Oilers with L. J. Sherrill, manager; The Roxana-Emire, H. E. Zoller, manager; Gulf Petroleum, C. E. Swafford, manager; Carpenters, L. A. Stuart, manager; The Cabot Co. Wayne Sutton, manager; and Magnolia Petroleum, W. Lister, manager. The other two teams expected in are the Texas company and the Washrites.

Five games will be played each week of them on Sunday afternoon. The second game opening day will be between the Carpenters and the Roxana-Emire nines.

E. B. Guber is president of the new Industrial league. E. T. Broughton, secretary-treasurer; Lew Liebermann, business manager; and Harry Hoare, official statistician. An arbitration board of disinterested parties will be appointed to hear protests and act as an advisory board.

The unofficial opening of the baseball season was ushered in Sunday afternoon when the Carpenters and the Cabot Co., played seven innings to a 2-2 tie. The second game was a win for the Cabot Co. over Bowlers city 6-1. It was good baseball for early season and the pitchers worked nicely the entire route.

CHICAGO, May 2.—(AP)—Wheat prices turned sharply downward today after an opening advance. Showers in the Southwest led to heavy selling here that more than counterbalanced an unexpected advance at Liverpool.

Opening 1-8 to 1-2c higher. Chicago wheat soon underwent a setback 4-4-4 in some cases as compared with initial top figures. Corn sympathized with wheat weakness, starting at 1-8 off to 1-4 up and afterward showing a decided setback. Oats were relatively firm. Provisions tended to sag.

Sharkey Victory Not on Square, Rumors Declare

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Jack Delaney's 73-second knockout defeat by the Boston Sailor, Jack Sharkey, it to undergo a thorough scrutiny by the New York State athletic commission.

Rumors that the fight was not "on the level" and that Delaney had not properly trained have led the boxing fathers to start an investigation that will bring drastic action should any evidence of wrong-doing be uncovered.

Managers of the two boxers scoffed at the persistent reports that the bout was not "on the up and up."

James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, revealed that before the fighters were called into the ring at Madison Square Garden Monday night, he had instructed Lou Magnolia, the referee, to inform Sharkey and Delaney they would be thrown out of the ring if there was anything wrong with their actions.

"All I heard before the fight," said Farley, "were the same rumors that a lot of other people heard. I instructed Magnolia when he called the fighters to the center of the ring to tell them what I had heard."

"I told him to say that if there was anything wrong with their actions both would be thrown out of the ring. I haven't seen Magnolia since the fight. I assume he obeyed orders."

Joe Jacobs, manager of Delaney, said: "Delaney was at 178 pounds, his best fighting weight, and in as good condition as he has ever been. He was simply hit on the chin as any other fighter might be."

Said Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's pilot: "It seems to me that the only thing wrong with the bout was that Sharkey fought as he is capable of fighting and Delaney was knocked out. I think it is silly to say the fight was not waged on its merits. I know so far as Sharkey and myself are concerned everything was strictly on the level."

Promoter Tex Rickard said: "I failed to see anything wrong. Rather I saw Sharkey in one of his greatest exhibitions of fighting ability and ring fury."

They've been tossing attachments at me like forward passes," Grange said. "The chief difficulty with them was they were offside when the ball was snapped. The race is going on regardless of all interfering actions."

Peter Gavuzzi, the bearded Englishman, increased his lead yesterday when he walked and ran the 31.6 miles from Springfield in 3:52.24. Sefti Gonzalez of Denver kept pace with Gavuzzi, but his elapsed time is 4:25:23 as compared with Gavuzzi's 3:46:15.11
