Mahan Takes Bareback Bronc Lead For Rodeo

By LARRY HOLLIS
Larry Mahan of Dallas, took the lead in the bareback bronc riding event during the opening performance of the 27th annual Top o' Texas Rodeo last night. Mahan, who received a score of 68 in the event to jump into the lead, is currently ranked first for all-around cowboy and eighth for bareback bronc riding in Rodeo Cowboys Association season standings. Second in the bareback event was Jerry Coble of Rock Island, Tex., with 61 points. Alan Witcher of Amarillo ranked third with 54. The Brahma bull riding event saw only four of 11 riders remain on the bull long enough to gain a score. Tim Fay of Dumas took the lead with 63 points. Second was John Goodel of Klamath Falls, Ore., with 60. Close behind at 59 was Rawleigh McCollough of Big Spring. Scores for the saddle bronc riding event were close, with a three-way tie for third place on the opening night of the RCA sanctioned rodeo. David Merrill of Cleburn led with 67, with Bob Wilfong nearly closing the gap with his 66. The third place cowboys were only another point behind, all with 65. They were Buzz Cooper of Rawls, George Anderson of Midland and Randy Oliver of Cleburn.

The scoring spread was wider for the calf roping activity, with Mike Goad of Briscoe taking the lead with 11.5 seconds. Dwayne Eaton of Lamar, Colo., gained second with 13.7, over two seconds off Goad's score. Third spot went to C.E. Burton of Countyline, Okla., with 14.3 seconds. The competition was also close in the girls barrel racing. Ardith Bruce of Fountain, Colo., is in the lead with a time of 17.7 seconds. Tied for second with 18.1 are Linda Sultermier of Melrose, N.M., and Dixie Weaton of Mounds, Okla. Mary Spurgeon was close behind with 18.2 to take third. Bob Walker of Ennis took the steer wrestling lead with a fine time of 5.9 seconds. Duane Newton of Smithville was second with 7.3, with Paul Hughes of Oly Springs, Colo., third with 9.4. Leather and Lace Riding Club took first in the opening night of the Pony Express ride against Wheeler Riding Club. The action is interspersed with entertainment provided by Frank Strout and his working border collies and by Judy Strout and Jambalaya, a trained Brahma bull. The action continues today with the second performance beginning at 8 p.m. Dancing is provided nightly in the National Guard Armory with music by Ronnie Dean and the Southern Belles.

FOR BEEF

Price Seeking Freeze Reliefs

In another attempt to relieve pressures caused by and to avert the probability of further serious difficulties due to retention of the present price freeze on beef, Congressman Bob Price of Pampa today requested President Nixon to reconsider his previous decision with regard to the beef industry. In earlier attempts, Price has held meetings with and contacted Dr. John Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, the President, concerned members of Congress and members of the beef industry. The text of the telegram signed by Price and 63 other members of Congress urging the President to take quick, responsible action in this regard follows: "Mr. President, as members of Congress whose Congressional districts are seriously affected by your continued freeze on beef, we are urging that you immediately remove the beef industry freeze before the entire sector is irreparably damaged. "Plants are closing, employees are being laid off by the thousands, beef shortages are developing everywhere, beef is disappearing from retail outlets, the cattle grain futures market is chaotic, black markets are developing, larger quantities of meat are being exported to Canada and then resold in the United States, and small meat processors all over the country are being destroyed. "The consumer is left with an artificially high price for beef substitutes such as pork and poultry. What good is it to pay a lower price for beef when there is no beef to buy? "In the past week, beef industry leaders and a large number of concerned members of Congress have met with Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers Herbert Stein, and Director of the Cost of Living Council John Dunlop, seeking relief from this arbitrary freeze. We've presented the facts and figures showing an unstable and dangerously emotional situation which can only lead to serious consequences for all concerned. "There is a crisis, Mr. President. A serious one. You can alleviate the situation by immediately lifting the beef price ceiling. To wait until Sept. 12 will bring about a disaster in the beef industry never before experienced in this country."

New Documents Reopen ITT Antitrust Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the midst of Watergate, Senate investigators have stumbled across White House documents suggesting that President Nixon had a direct, active role in the controversial settlement of the antitrust troubles of ITT. The documents, unexpectedly acquired by the Senate Watergate committee and made public during its nationally televised hearings Wednesday, also indicated the White House knew that John N. Mitchell had a major hand in the case while attorney general, although he later denied any involvement under oath. "We were in luck," beamed chief counsel Samuel Dash in explaining to reporters how the evidence had fallen into the committee's hands the night before. "We get things as fresh as milk in the morning." The surfacing of the documents signalled re-opening by the committee of investigations into the celebrated 1971 case in which the government dropped its antitrust opposition to an International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. merger after a subsidiary, the Sheraton Corp. of America, offered $400,000 to help underwrite the 1972 Republican National Convention. Both the Nixon administration and ITT denied there was any connection between the settlement, the largest corporate merger in American history, and the pledge toward the GOP convention. ITT reiterated its position late Wednesday, insisting the pledge was made to local officials in San Diego, the site first selected for the GOP convention, and had "absolutely no connection" with ITT's antitrust troubles. The convention was subsequently moved to Miami Beach, in part due to the ITT controversy. The evidence uncovered by the Watergate Committee consisted of a three-page memo dated March 30, 1972, from presidential adviser Charles Colson to then White House Chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and an unsigned two-page attachment detailing potential "problem" arising from the ITT case. The attached material mentioned several other memos that "could be embarrassing"—including one of May 5, 1971, from Nixon adviser John D. Ehrlichman to Mitchell "alluding to discussions between the President and the AG (attorney general) as to the 'agreed-upon ends' in the resolution of the ITT case." Also mentioned is a memo to Haldeman with a copy to Mitchell dated June 30, 1971, which was prior to the settlement, "setting forth the $400,000 arrangement with ITT."

"This memo put the AG on constructive notice at least of the ITT commitment at that time and before the settlement, facts which he has denied under oath," the document warns. "We don't know if we have recovered all the copies." It was not clear from the description who wrote the June, 1971, memo. The ITT case was the major issue in the Senate confirmation hearings on Richard G. Kleindienst to succeed Mitchell as attorney general. Mitchell testified there he knew nothing of the ITT offer prior to the settlement. Dash said the Watergate committee would investigate the ITT situation as part of its probe into the financial aspects of the 1972 presidential campaign, beginning this fall. He said the new material was brought to the committee by a secretary, whom he didn't identify, but who was responding to a very general subpoena for documents.

Skylab Mission May Be Ended

HOUSTON (UPI) — Flight controllers today considered ending the second Skylab mission because of a failure in two steering control rockets aboard the Apollo ferry ship that took the crew to the earth-orbiting space station six days ago. They said Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma could be ordered to attempt a splashdown Friday near Hawaii. A definite decision would be made within a few hours, they said. Glynn S. Lunney, manager of the Apollo Spacecraft Program Office, said a rescue mission could be launched within five weeks if the crew is not ordered home. "If we did not have a rescue capability, we would be moving in the direction of getting the spacecraft as rapidly as we could," Lunney said.

Milton Windler expressed optimism. The space men said Wednesday was the best day of their flight so far and they had enjoyed their food for the first time since a bout with space sickness. Windler said the space pilots were still a little behind in getting the 100-ton lab ready for research, but will take most of Friday to run experiments and prepare for the spacewalk. They were supposed to have the day off but volunteered to work. Lousma will be testing Skylab's Earth resources experiment instruments in preparation for a long picture-taking sweep from Seattle, Wash., to the Gulf of Mexico on Friday. The special Earth-viewing cameras are designed to tell researchers facts about the Earth and how man is changing it—information that can't be gleaned from the ground.

Accident Kills Perryton Man

T.F. Matthews, 51-year-old Perryton resident and terminal manager for an Oklahoma drilling company, was killed Wednesday afternoon when the winch line of a truck he was unloading broke and struck him in the head. The accident occurred about eight miles north of Reydon, Okla., where Bill Hodges Trucking Co., which Matthews worked for, was setting up a drilling rig. A spokesman for the Hodges company said Matthews was helping unload a truck when the winch line broke and the tail chain flew free and hit him in the head. Dr. Rush Snyder of Canadian pronounced Matthews dead at the scene. Born in Gainesville, Matthews had lived in Perryton about 12 years. Survivors include his wife, Norma Jean; a son Robert, Perryton; a daughter in Anchorage, Alaska; several brothers and sisters, and his mother. Funeral services are pending with Boxwell Brothers Funeral Directors in Perryton.

HELMS CLAIMS

CIA Requested To Pay Salaries For Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard C. Helms, former director of the CIA, testified today that 10 days after the Watergate break-in John W. Dean III asked the CIA to pay bail for the suspects and put them on the agency payroll while they served their jail terms. Banging his hand against the table for emphasis, Helms told the Senate Watergate committee the proposal was rejected out of hand by Gen. Vernon Walters, deputy CIA director. He said Dean, then White House counsel, had called Walters to the White House on June 27, 1972 to propose that the CIA "pay the salaries of these individuals while they served their jail sentences."

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, said Walters told Dean, "He could not conceivably imagine that a thing like that would remain secret for a long time" and that the agency would have to explain the use of its money for those purposes to the chairman of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees. Helms said he told Walters to be firm against White House pressures—even though he was a former military man and a presidential appointee. Helms said the CIA was approached first with suggestions that the bugging was somehow related to its operations and later with the request to provide bail, money and support for the men arrested. "It was quite clear that feelers were being put out (A) to find out if there was any agency involvement and (B) to seek the agency's assistance in some way not identified," Helms said. He said he told Walters that CIA at the time of the break-in. According to Helms, Martinez had been on a $100-a-month retainer to report to the CIA whether Cuban exiles who arrived in Florida were "worth interviewing." Helms said the CIA relationship with Martinez was not connected with the Watergate, but he said that Martinez was taken off the CIA payroll "as soon as it was ascertained he was involved" in the Watergate burglary.

BY ATTORNEY

Inouye Defended Against Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., today defended Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, as "one of the most gallant of all Americans in the history of this republic." Ervin's remarks at the beginning of today's nationally televised Senate Watergate hearings came in response to John J. Wilson, H.R. Haldeman's attorney, who described Inouye Wednesday as "that little Jap."

Ervin, the committee chairman, and Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., both came to Inouye's defense. Ervin noted that Inouye had lost his right arm fighting with the U.S. Army in Italy during World War II, and said, "I don't know a finer American." "He showed his devotion to our country by fighting under his flag, not only for the liberty of our country but the liberty of the free world. And he's proved himself in the latter days as one of the most dedicated Americans this country has ever known... who's proved himself one of the most gallant of all Americans in the history of this republic."

Said Baker: "... There's no man I think is more loyal and dedicated to his country. I don't know of anyone on this committee who's made a greater contribution to its country than Senator Inouye." Baker blamed the "tension-filled" atmosphere of the hearings, and said it was a "mark of Senator Inouye's greatness" that Inouye would not let the remark interfere with committee matters. Inouye said he wanted to thank Baker and Ervin for their kind words, then said something in Hawaiian which he said translated "Thank you very much, and I love you both."

Courtesy Pays Off

Courtesy always pays off. C.H. Wilkins of Wichita Falls was in Pampa last week for the Tri-State Senior Golf Tournament. When he and his wife were in downtown Pampa on a shopping trip they found an overtime parking ticket when they returned to their automobile. But, it was one of Pampa's courtesy tickets for out-of-town visitors. There was no penalty. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins were impressed. They wrote a note on the back of the ticket and dropped it in one of the city's overtime parking receptacles provided for city residents. The note stated in part: "Sorry we parked overtime. Thanks for your courtesy and to the City and Chamber of Commerce and your gracious stores. "We were here for the Tri-State Golf Tournament and look forward to coming back next year. Thanks also for the use of Hobart Street Park for our trailer."

Senate Gives Okay To New CIA Head

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William E. Colby, who promised to keep the CIA out of domestic spy operations and open its activities more fully to congressional scrutiny, has won Senate approval to head the agency. The Senate voted 83 to 13 in favor of Colby's nomination Wednesday, brushing aside questions raised about the veteran agent's past. It was the second time a career man from the CIA's plans and operations division—the so-called "dirty tricks" department—had risen through the ranks to become director of central intelligence. Until his promotion to the top job, Colby was the number three man in the CIA in charge of plans and operations. He replaces James R. Schlesinger, named this spring as secretary of defense, at the helm of the nation's foreign intelligence collecting apparatus. During debate over his nomination, Colby was praised by some senators as a paragon of professionalism and denounced by others as a "symbol of the illegal use of power."

A SCENE from "The Comedy of Errors" now playing at the Odessa Shakespeare Globe Theatre during the fifth annual Odessa Summer Shakespeare Festival. Theatre goers enjoy professional talent in air conditioned comfort in this most exact replica of Shakespeare's original London Globe. The intimacy of the theatre combined with casual, come-as-you-are dress makes Odessa's "Shirtsleeve Shakespeare" tops in family entertainment. Showing alternately with "Comedy," Tuesday through Sunday until Aug. 26 are Shakespeare's "The Tempest" and Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac."

"Shirtsleeve Shakespeare" Notes Fifth Annual Shakespeare Festival

ODESSA — "Shirtsleeve Shakespeare" — that sounds like the note of informality at the fifth annual Odessa Summer Shakespeare Festival, being staged through Aug. 26 in the Odessa Shakespeare Globe Theatre.

If a Shakespeare festival in Odessa — the oilfield service and supply capital of the world — is hard to believe, then consider the incongruity of the most exact replica of Shakespeare's London Globe Theatre, poised majestically amid the mesquite and cacti in this Permian Basin city.

But there it stands — "a jewel," called by one critic — visited by thousands of persons each year who come to tour the theatre or to see the festival. The festival this season only Shakespeare Festival in the Southwest. The intimacy of this octagonal-shaped theatre with its thrust stage, three-tiered seating, British red upholstered seats and carpet, and air conditioning, combined with the young, enthusiastic professional talent from California, New York and Canada, make this a truly unique Texas attraction.

With the aisles and ramps used for exits and entrances to the stage, actor and audience almost touch, and with such innovations as having all the men check their coats, as they used to check their guns in Western sagas, a relaxed and friendly mood is struck from the beginning.

features "The Tempest" and "The Comedy of Errors" by Shakespeare and "Cyrano de Bergerac" by Rostand, playing alternately Tuesday through Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon.

Elizabethan music and dances are performed on the "Green" before the show opens and during intermission. English shrubs, flowers and trees, surround the theatre which is encompassed in a high wall.

Reservations may be made by writing to the Odessa Shakespeare Globe Theatre, 2308 Shakespeare Road, Odessa, Tex. 79761. Single admissions are $3 for adults and $1.50 for students.

Senate Slashes Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rejecting two attempts at major cuts in U.S. troop strength abroad, the House late Tuesday passed and sent to the Senate a Pentagon weapons procurement bill. It was slashed more than $1.5 billion below the amount requested by the administration.

The final vote on the $20.4 billion measure was 387 to 37.

During almost 11 hours of sometimes heated debate, hawks successfully beat off 10 amendments designed to reduce overseas troop levels and trim or cancel funds for specific weapons systems.

But House doves, fresh from their victory in the Cambodia bombing issue, put together a coalition of fiscal conservatives and political liberals to force a $950 million across-the-board weapons spending cut. It was left up to the Pentagon to propose where specific reductions might be made to achieve this cut.

This single big reduction, proposed by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., held the weapons and research bill to its level in last year's budget plus 4.5 percent to offset the effect of inflation. Aspin said there was no reason for weapons spending to increase in peacetime.

Coupled with a $623.3 million cut made earlier by the House Armed Services Committee and approved by the full House, the weapons bill was more than $1.5 billion below the $22 billion requested by the administration.

Overcoming cancer

Job, insurance problems face cancer victors

By John Henry Jones

Ray Disinger began having trouble with his throat in the winter of 1963. At first, it was just hoarseness.

"I did a lot of talking in my business and I had been smoking 12 to 14 cigars a day for years," said Disinger who was a Los Angeles automobile dealer.

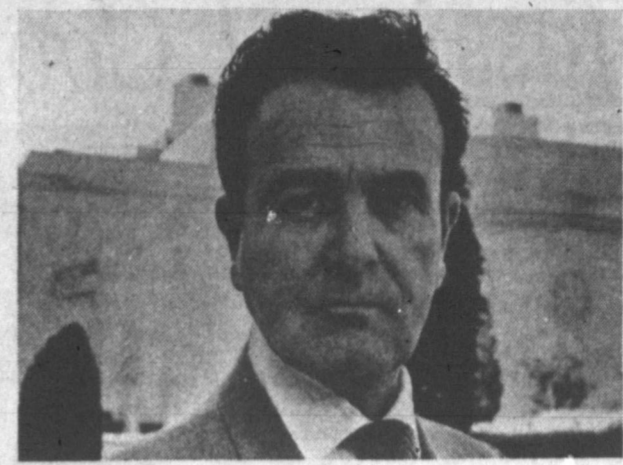

"Then my voice began disappearing for three or four hours at a time and I became really alarmed."

Disinger's physician referred him to the Medical Center at U.C.L.A. "It took them a couple of minutes to discover I had cancer of the larynx," he recalls.

Two days later Disinger had surgery. It saved his life but cost him his only trained means of livelihood — his voice.

"After the diagnosis and surgery, I had to sell my business. The insurability of a cancer patient was just about zero then. It still is. To be in business for myself, I needed credit. And to get credit, I needed life and health insurance. All my insurance was cancelled when I had my surgery. They just returned my checks," he said.

John Henry Jones is a science writer with the American Cancer Society.

LEARNING TO TALK AGAIN was the first, but not the last, hurdle Ray Disinger had to face after his larynx was removed.

But he launched a determined program for what was to be his most difficult selling assignment — himself.

First he began to learn esophageal speech in Los Angeles. This is the method by which a laryngectomee (a person whose voice box has been surgically removed) reproduces speech by breathing through a neck opening called a stoma.

Under the guidance of Dr. James C. Shanks, a speech pathology professor at the University of Indiana, whom he met at an International Association of Laryngectomees meeting, Disinger became conversationally fluent.

But there were more obstacles.

"When I applied for jobs,"

Disinger says, "I was turned down flat as soon as the company's medical director saw the opening in my neck."

Finally, after four years of trying, a small electronics firm hired Disinger in 1968 to write management systems. From there he went to the Pacific Telephone Company as a communications consultant improving their line of equipment for handicapped persons.

Disinger, now 52, has also organized a "self-help" program for Pacific Telephone, in which he counsels groups of disabled people on overcoming their handicaps.

"While in a few isolated instances understanding is increasing," according to Disinger, "insurability and employment are still the major problems facing all cancer patients."

Disinger, who is one of the 1,500,000 people who have been cured of cancer, credits the American Cancer Society's seven warning signals with saving a lot of lives.

"If you have any of the signals, especially the one about hoarseness or cough, have it checked out thoroughly," he urges.

Texas Highway Commission Approves $10.9 Million Construction Project

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Highway Commission Wednesday approved plans for a $10.9 million construction project to complete Interstate 45 through the downtown Dallas area.

The 1.1 mile project will extend from south of Lamar Street to south of Grand Avenue. Original plans called for construction of that section to be elevated along the entire route. But Dallas citizens persuaded the Highway Commission to have the facility built at ground level.

The only elevated areas will be at the intersections at Lamar and Pennsylvania streets.

Science Today

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONOLULU (UPI) — Japanese and American scientists are trying to solve the physiological obstacles to man's living and working on the ocean floor.

The binational, five-year project may help pave the way to undersea farming, ocean-floor mining and biological research at great depths.

Dr. Suk Ki Hong, head of the four-man United States contingent and chairman of physiology at the University of Hawaii School of Medicine, noted in his presentation that the goal of the project is to solve three major problems pointed up by previous independent French, American and British sea efforts.

The joint U.S.-Japan effort will try to learn why there is excessive loss of body water by divers remaining underwater for long periods and how this affects circulation and performance.

Four Dives Planned The teams will also attempt to prevent the body weight loss of slightly more than one-half pound per day established during previous extended dives and determine the impact of the rapid loss of body heat resulting from the oxygen-helium mixture divers breathe.

Deep diving requires divers to breathe the oxygen and helium mixture, rather than the normal mixture of oxygen and nitrogen in the earth's atmosphere, because under extreme pressure the oxygen-nitrogen combination becomes toxic. But divers have found that the oxygen-helium mixture also leads to problems.

Native Pampan Is Professional Cook

By BOBBYE COMBS
Members of the First Christian Church and many other Pampa residents, will recognize Mrs. John Zuerker (Madge), 311 N. Wynne, as our cook of the week today. She has prepared a number of meals through the years, held at that church, of which she and her family are members.

Mrs. Zuerker is a native of Pampa and attended Pampa schools. She was married to John B. Zuerker in 1938, and they are the parents of four children, Jack, Vernal, Utah; Jill Henry, Dallas; Jan, a student at Texas Tech during regular session; and Joe is a 1973 graduate of Pampa High School.

Other family members include four grandsons, one granddaughter and her mother. Mrs. Zuerker's "best hobby" is her family and she enjoys cooking, sewing and some needlework.

She has served in many ways for her church, teaching Sunday school in the kindergarten and elementary department, where she is presently serving as superintendent. She also serves on the board and the educational committee, belongs to the Ross Group of the CWF and has served as co-chairman of the kitchen committee for the annual church bazaar, held in November for the past five years. She also belongs to a sewing club.

The listed recipes are favorites of hers and I'm sure our readers will add them to their favorite collections.

MRS. JOHN ZUERKER

BEEF-POTATO BAKE

1 envelope dried onion soup mix
1 pound ground beef
1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
4 cups thinly sliced peeled potatoes
1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes (optional)
1/2 pound Cheddar cheese, grated (1 cup)
paprika (optional)
Stir soup mix well and add 3 tablespoons to beef, milk, crumbs and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Mix lightly but thoroughly and spread evenly in shallow 2-quart baking dish. Mix remaining soup, salt, and parsley. Sprinkle on diced potato which you have arranged evenly over meat mixture. Cover and bake in 350 over for 1 hour. Uncover, sprinkle with cheese and paprika and bake 15 minutes longer. Serves 6.

MELT-AWAYS

Melt 1/2 cup butter, or 1/4 lb. oleo
1 sq. (1 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate
Blend:
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg, beaten
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 cup flake coconut
1/2 cup chopped pecans
Add this to butter mixture and press into pan 9x9x12 or 10x10x2. Refrigerate above for at least 15 minutes.
Beat until smooth:
1/2 cup butter or oleo, creamed well
2 tablespoons instant vanilla pudding mix powder
3 tablespoons milk
2 cups powdered sugar
Spread this on first mixture and chill 15 minutes. Now top with 4 squares (4 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate, melted. Spread over top and cut in 20 minutes. Keep in refrigerator. Set out before serving for 5 minutes or longer.

SEAFOAM DIVINITY

3 cups sugar
1/2 cup white Karo
two-thirds cup water
2 egg whites
one-eighth teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup nuts
Boil sugar, water, syrup together until it forms a very firm ball when dropped in water.
Beat egg whites and salt at speed 12 for 3 minutes in large mixing bowl.
Pour syrup slowly into egg whites while beating at speed 9; continue beating until mixture passes the glossy stage. Add nuts and vanilla, continue beating until mixture forms peaks when beater is raised. Drop by teaspoon on waxed paper.

BRILLED CHICKEN SALAD

Marinate 2 cups diced, cooked chicken, and 1 1/2 cups diced celery in 1/4 cup French dressing for 1 hour. Stir carefully several times in this hour. Season with seasoned pepper and salt.

Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise and one-third cup sour cream; add to chicken-celery mixture, and chill. About 15 minutes before serving, add 1/4 cup toasted, slivered almonds and place all in large shallow broilerproof dish, or 4 individual ones. Mix together 2 cups finely crushed potato chips and 1 cup grated cheddar cheese. Cover top of salad completely with this mixture. Put under broiler till cheese melts. (the salad will not get hot). Serves 4.

MEXICAN BREAD

(Sopapillas)
1 cup flour, sifted
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons Crisco
1 teaspoon baking powder
4 to 5 tablespoons water
Cut fat into dry ingredients, which have been sifted together. Add just enough water to form into a ball. Roll 1/8 inch thick and cut into rectangles — as large as you wish. Fry in very hot oil. When you drop these rectangles in the fat, it will sink to the bottom of pan; then come to the top. When it rises to top, it should be ready to flip over onto the other side. Continue flipping so it will puff evenly. Sometimes this is only necessary one time. If they do not puff, it is probably because the fat is not the right temperature and likely not hot enough. This makes 10 or 12 medium-size sopapillas. You may dust with powdered sugar or not. Serve with honey.

Dear Abby

Portrait isn't proper enough to 'suit' her

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a very embarrassing problem. I am a 20-year-old college junior at a large university. For a while I dated what seemed to be a nice guy I'll call Bill. He attends the same "U," and is an art major.

Bill took some harmless photographs of me on the beach in my two-piece bathing suit last summer. After that I sort of broke off with Bill and started seeing another fellow.

I recently learned thru friends that Bill is painting a nude portrait of me, using as a model the picture he took of me in the bathing suit. Of course, he's using his imagination, but I don't like the idea. He's planning to use this "nude" portrait of me in an art exhibit. I do have a great body, but I don't want half the world seeing me naked, in addition to which I don't want people to think that I am the kind of girl who would pose for a picture like that. It could destroy my reputation.

Is there anything I can do to stop him?

NO NUDE MODEL

DEAR NO NUDE: Since it's your "great body" BILL wants to immortalize on canvas, ask him to please use somebody else's face. If he refuses, ask him to please leave the suit on, or you will see a lawyer about bringing another kind of "suit" into the picture.

DEAR ABBY: This girl I like knows hand sign-language. Big deal! She is always using it in front of me to talk to her friends. I never know what she's saying, except that she points to me, so I know she's "talking" about me.

I have asked her to please refrain from doing this, but she just laughs it off and continues.

This drives me up a wall. How can I get her to stop?

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: Why don't you learn a little hand sign-language, and surprise her by "telling" her what you think of her?

DEAR ABBY: My husband has worked at the same office for many years. He seldom took me to any of their social functions.

Two months ago we were invited to a small party—about 20 people. My husband asked if I would mind if we picked up one of the girls from his office. I said it was all right with me.

At the party there were many friendly gestures between my husband and this girl, but the clincher came when a man from the office who did not know me, asked my husband if he had brought Sally.

My name is not Sally. My husband looked embarrassed and the girl from the office, who of course was Sally, gave the man who asked the question a reprimanding look.

I have lost a lot of trust in my husband. What do you say about this?

DUMB DORA

DEAR DORA: There were at least three people at the party far "dumber" than you.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, AUGUST 3

Your birthday today: Education is the keyword for the coming year. Every incident will have its lesson. Relationships are lively but need your sincere concern openly expressed. Because of deeper concentration on what they really want, today's natives frequently prosper where others fail.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: There's element of surprise in most of the day's incidents. Nearly everybody is making up for lost time. Social activity thrives.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Impulse leads to innovations in whatever you're doing. Concentrate on here-and-now issues. Today's events have a humorous quality.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Early choices should be selective—you'll be busy all day. Young people and their exploits fill the news.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Make the most of favorable circumstances. Work to make your advantages permanent.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Breaks in routines are to be expected. Wait to see what is best for the long term. Young people are full of pep, mischief.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Things done and said long ago return to provide more consequences. Conditions are more favorable than they seem.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Despite your tense excitement, follow a definite course of action. You have much to celebrate this evening!

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Your turn is coming next. Good humor makes all the difference, so stay with it despite abrupt turns of circumstances.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Hit the high spots of your work. Your world is exciting, with many things to do to hold your place.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Normal drift patterns bring all factors together for a productive impact. Share a positive, cheerful mold.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Personal projects meet with generally successful results, despite flaws in a hasty move made under pressure.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Review your position and possessions; see that your establishment is in order, everything working well.

Opening lead—♥10

By Oswald & James Jacoby

A B Y and Z who used to sit West, East, North and South in the auction bridge columns were back at the club again.

Z, sitting in his familiar South position opened one no-trump and Y promptly raised him to six. (Point count is easy for these old-timers since Milton Work used it for no-trump bidding in auction bridge.)

A was on lead as usual and made his safest possible lead, the 10 of hearts.

One look at the dummy and Z saw that he needed two spade tricks. It looked like a good idea to try one spade lead immediately, so at trick two Z led his deuce of spades.

A played the queen and Z won the trick with dummy's ace. B, sitting East, played the three-spot.

Four rounds of clubs came next and produced a heart discard from West and two diamond discards from East.

Three diamond leads followed, with West throwing another heart. Three heart leads then caused East to let the four of spades go and the time for decision had been reached.

Z led a spade, called for dummy's nine and made his slam.

As he remarked later on, A was too good a player to split equals on the first spade lead. His queen play had to be an attempt to cause Z to go wrong.

New Officers Installed By Pampa Rebekah Lodge

The Rebekah Lodge NO. 355 met in regular session recently in the 100F Hall, with the following officers presiding:

Noble Grand, Mrs. John Simmons; Vice-Grand, Mrs. John Holt, Jr.; Secretary, Mrs. Robert Heaton; Financial Secretary, Mrs. Verson Alexander; Treasurer, Mrs. Eunice Maddox; Warden, Mrs. Gladys Mayo; Conductor, Mrs. Homer McNeil; Chaplain, Mrs. Brady Davis; Past Noble Grand, Mrs. Tom Beard; Inside Guardian, Mrs. J.W. Crisler; and Outside Guardian, Mrs. Robert Hollis.

Other honorary officers present were Mes. Roy Kretzmeier, Mrs. Therman Stapleton, Mrs. J.W.

Brummett, Eula Berry, Myrtle Gould, Hazel Callan and M.C. Bennett.

General business of the lodge was conducted and officers of the lodge turned their chairs over to Mrs. Anna Lee Ford, district deputy and her installing staff.

The following officers were installed: Noble Grand, Mrs. John Holt, Jr.; Vice-Grand, Mrs. M.C. Bennett; Inside Guardian, Mrs. J.H. Reeves; Outside Guardian, Mrs. Jess Hatcher. Other honorary officers installed were Supporters to Noble Grand, Mrs. Therman Stapleton and Mrs. J.W. Brummett; Supporters to Vice-Grand, Mrs.

E.N. Franklin and Mrs. J.W. Crisler; Past Noble Grand Supporters, Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier and Mrs. Paul Rittenhouse, Chaplain Supporters, Mrs. Eula Berry and Mrs. Clyde Gray; right alter baer, Mrs. Harold Thornhill and Mrs. Gladys Mayo, left alter baer and musician Mrs. George Campbell.

Other officers serving a year term are recording secretary, Mrs. Thelma Batson; Financial Secretary, Mrs. Verson Alexander; Treasurer, Mrs. Eunice Maddox and team captain, Mrs. Homer McNeil.

Mrs. John Holt, Jr., presented the installing staff with a gift of appreciation.

1. Put the mixture into a crock or glass container which will hold at least 12 cups. (A gallon jar will hold 16 cups.) The original mixture needs room to expand.

One cup each of the following well-drained fruits:
Pineapple Tidbits
Peach halves, quartered
Pear halves, quartered
Apricot halves (no pits)
¾ cup Maraschino cherries, well-drained

2. Sprinkle 1 package dry yeast over the fruit.

3. Add 4 cups sugar.

4. Stir with a wooden spoon until blended. Cover container with cheesecloth and set in a warm place. Each day for 10 days stir with a wooden spoon. (Sample it; it gets better every day.) It should be ready to eat at the end of ten days.

To replace after eating a cup, add 1 cup of sugar to 1 cup of well-drained fruit and place in a dark, warm place for four to five days.

After ten days of fermenting, the brandied fruit can be put into pint jars and sealed for storage in the refrigerator for starters when you need them later. With this start, it is necessary for the mixture to be in a warm place for at least four days before adding fruit and sugar; then add only 1 cup sugar and 1 cup fruit at four to five-day intervals.

Isn't there something you should be saving for?

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.
Alan's data should shock every literate American: His 3 buddies died recently in flames. But thousands of innocent children are killed in their sleep because of this same nuisance habit. And billions are lost in property damage, plus charred forests!

CASE X-576: Alan B., aged 39, is a Chicago Fireman.
"Dr. Crane," he began, "we just lost 3 of our good men at a recent fire."
"It started about 2 A.M. in a large Loop cafeteria."
"The blazing roof caved in on our buddies and we couldn't get them out in time to save their lives."
"The cause of the fire is undetermined."
"But we firemen know that these undetermined causes are usually a result of smokers."
"For tobacco addicts will smoke in bed; then fall asleep with a live cigarette burning in their hand."
"It drops to the sheet and soon the bed is in flames."
"Or such people will smoke while viewing TV as they sit in an upholstered chair."
"But they also drift off into dreamland, letting their cigarette, pipe or cigar drop live ashes on the arm of the chair."
"Many times we get to the building in time to stop the flames before much damage has been done to the furniture."
"But the smokers, or their families, may be dead as a result of smoke inhalation."
"It has become the fad to ascribe a lot of fires to defective wiring."
"But we find that is largely a polite camouflage to protect the smokers and the tobacco industry as a whole."
"One of my cousins thus worked in a coal mine that had a fatal explosion at one of its lower levels."
"My cousin told me that a couple of the miners on his shift would light a cigarette when the foreman wasn't around, although posted signs vetoed all smoking."
"And the mine owner was then accused of not maintaining proper safeguards in that mine, though the deaths of the miners were a result of smoking by those nitwit cigarette addicts."

"Dr. Crane, forest fires, hotel fires, and thousands of burning homes are a direct result of smokers who flip a live cigar or cigarette butt into a wastebasket or into dry leaves in a forest, or even down an elevator shaft in a hotel or office building."
"So please warn your readers of the terrific loss not only of human lives but also of billions of dollars in property damage and charred forests!"

FIRE POLLUTION

Fire is the most serious type of pollution nowadays.
For it destroys forests, thus causing erosion of soil and a resulting desert type of terrain.
But forests also are major chemical factories that keep pouring fresh oxygen into the air.
One acre of young forest annually is said to produce enough oxygen to sustain 18 of us human beings for 12 months!
For green plants (trees as well as grass) consume carbon dioxide and release fresh oxygen into the air.
In one recent year, I noted that forest fires had destroyed enough acreage in North America to equal the entire area of the State of Iowa!
If smokers (and drunken drivers) killed only themselves, you might figure that was just retribution.
But they also destroy their families and thousands of other innocent people every year!
So send for my booklet "How to Break the Tobacco and Liquor Habits," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Supplies Bldg., Melrose, Indiana 47028. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

CATERPILLAR APPEAL

LONDON (UPI) — The House of Lords is to consider the case of the hawkmoth caterpillar found in a can of peas bought by Mrs. Winifred Voss at her local supermarket in Dorchester.
Smedley Ltd., was fined $82 last year and the local appeals court dismissed its appeal. On July 30, the high court gave the company leave to appeal to the House of Lords that it had taken all reasonable care to avoid such incidents.

Private-Grant Foundations Officer--Progressing Women's Career

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is an area of careers for women of which little is heard, about which much is being done, and where even greater progress still is urged.
The Career: Executive post in the nation's estimated 26,000 private-grant foundations which last year gave away $2.2 billion for various causes.

"We figure that almost 30 per cent of various foundation officers are women," said Dr. Robert F. Goheen, the former president of Princeton University who since last October has been chairman and chief executive officer of the Council on Foundations.
"The figure is rather higher than I'd expected," he said.

Now, as head of the nonprofit Council on Foundations, Inc. his role is to improve the operations of its membership including the opening of more doors to women and minority groups.
In an interview, Dr. Goheen conceded many problems in so doing—"There is no organized placement service in the foundation field."

Tragedy or Comedy?

We suspect the Senate Watergate Hearings have just about lost their box office appeal as they approach the recess date, mainly because the show seems to be getting nowhere and the comedy seemed to be playing out.

After all, how long can you laugh at the same routine?

Laughter seemed to bother Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut. He gave a stern lecture to former New York policeman Anthony Ulasewicz because the bagman's explanation of the payoff deliveries was made in a humorous fashion. Sen. Weicker said he doesn't think it is a laughing matter.

We disagree. The criminal acts in question are not funny, but the manner in which the "investigation" is being conducted is a riot.

What could have been more laughable than Sen. Sam Ervin falling for the hoax telephone call? He announced to the national TV audience that Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz had telephoned him saying that President Nixon would release the tapes of conversations made at the White House.

Ervin didn't double check. It would seem he should have been curious about Shultz making the call — why would the Treasury secretary make such a call? Something of that nature more properly would have come from Presidential Counsel Leonard Garment.

But Ervin fell for it and within minutes had to reveal that he was a victim of a hoax.

Now if Sen. Weicker didn't think that was funny, he has no sense of humor.

This, of course, is the weak spot of politicians, they just can't stand being laughed at. But the comedy routine they are making of the investigation is going to have the whole country in stitches before they wind it up.

We suspect that nothing conclusive as to placing the blame on efforts to obstruct justice will come from the hearings that has not previously been reported by independent investigation by the news media. We will be left with the decision of choosing which witness we shall believe, which is precisely the position we were in before the hearings began.

We do not discount the hearings completely, however, because the thoughtful taxpayer can observe "live from Washington" just how powerful the political machinery of this country has become. But the lesson is valuable only if the taxpayer recognizes that political party labels have nothing to do with the use of such power.

We have learned that President Nixon made tape recording of telephone conversations and meetings in his various offices. But we also have learned that President Johnson and President Kennedy did the same things.

We think it is unfortunate that the important issue in the Watergate affair has apparently been lost because people seem to accept the fact that both political parties engage in espionage and therefore why should we be so concerned?

The fact that the Republicans broke into the Democrat headquarters seems to mean little to the American people. Who knew about the plans in advance is of little consequence except that we now have gnawing suspicions that some people may have been lying to us.

But what is more important is that some people in positions of great political power engaged in activity to obstruct justice, and this should be the principal thrust of the investigation. If we are to be a nation of law, then the law must be enforced, and political power should not be able to circumvent that enforcement.

The senators conducting the so-called investigation are guilty of using the televised hearings as a forum for promoting and furthering their own careers. We have seen little evidence of penetrating questioning, and the most boring part of the whole matter is that senators have been asking the same questions over and over of the same witness. It has become obvious that when the TV camera swings for a close-up of a particular senator, he puts on his most serious face, pours over his notes and, in his most resonant tones says: Now you said you had a meeting on March 22 with John Mitchell and John Dean, is that correct?

Three senators previously may have asked the same question and the answer was always the same, but senator number four was not to be denied his moments before a national television audience.

Now, senators, to the best of our recollection, we haven't watched anything that funny since Abbott and Costello's "Who's On First" routine.

And for a good closing act that would bring down the house — why don't they let Martha testify?

When asked what had sustained him through his ordeal in the Enemy prison camp, Army Major Floyd Thompson (longest-held prisoner of the Vietnam War) replied: "God, country, and the love of a good woman."

Politics Do Get Bit On Dirty Side

By PAUL HARVEY

Sen. Charles Percy says in all his years of public life he has never seen any political chicanery to compare with Watergate.

Sen. Charles Percy of Chicago said that? Oh, come now! What I am about to say is going to be construed as a defense of President Nixon. I can't help that.

I've criticized this Administration altogether as freely as I have praised it; nonetheless, any effort to keep Watergate in perspective is certain to be construed by some as an effort to justify wrongdoing.

My home-base city is Chicago. Election after election I've watched machine politicians play the game the way the city's electorate expects — tilt the voting machines; vote wins for four bits and dead people for free; lose enough ballot boxes to reverse a defeat — so that the pomposity and sanctimony of some politicians in this present instance makes me sick!

Two wrongs won't make Watergate right. Ten wrongs or ten thousand wrongs won't. But a recitation of some recent history might remind the instant saints in our midst that in love, war and politics some fight dirty.

As President, J.F.K. told a Chicago audience, "I rode into the White House on Mayor Daley's coat-tails," which indeed he did.

With the electoral votes of Illinois, Mr. Nixon would have been elected President decisively in 1960.

Yes, there was a postelection fuss over "ballot boxes dumped into Lake Michigan," but there was no indictment of anybody, certainly not Dick Daley, and not the slightest implication by the news media to connect John Kennedy with the skulduggery.

And in Texas, also decisive in defeating Mr. Nixon in 1960, there was subsequently exposed corrupt election machinery such as jamming voting machines in Republican precincts and misread ballots.

In Angelina County, Tex., there were only 86 voters who voted. Yet, guess what? The official tally for Angelina County was 24 for Nixon and 148 for Kennedy! In other words, 86 voters voted 172 votes.

However, when the New York Herald Tribune prepared 12 articles proving vote fraud, that paper was dissuaded from publishing that evidence by Richard Nixon, who said, "Our nation cannot afford to be torn by the agony of a constitutional crisis."

More distressing to me than politicians spying on one another is the difficulty we've had in finding a nonpartisan someone of incontrovertible integrity to conduct the investigation.

An idealist might imagine that our law schools and our law courts would provide an inexhaustible supply of invariably just jurists. Yet, look at the trouble we've had finding even one man we can all trust.

That has to be sadder by far than the much publicized law violations.

Yet it does help us understand why Scripture says that when the Master Fisher of men calls the final roll there won't be many keepers.

BRUCE BLOSSAT Puerto Rico eyes industrial future

By Bruce Blossat

SAN JUAN P.R. (NEA) — Puerto Rico, caught in a slight economic downturn and saddled with at least 12 per cent unemployment, is nevertheless plunging ahead with vigorous plans for growth as if it were kind of a miniature Japan.

It already has over a billion worth of petro-chemical plants on which it hopes to found a host of labor-intensive satellite industries producing varied byproducts in demand in the huge mainland American market.

Now it wants a great deep-water port capable of taking today's oil tankers of 200,000 tons and more, around which it expects even larger refineries and petro-chemical works would be established.

Led by serious, quietly driving 36-year-old Gov.

Rafael Hernandez Colon and a veteran economic developer, Teodoro Moscoso, the island's unique commonwealth government is trying to lure not just more U.S. industry (some 120 of the top American manufacturers already have plants in Puerto Rico), but to draw in the ambitious Japanese, to pull in some European firms, and to interest its island neighbor, the Dominican Republic, in becoming a vast supplier of foodstuffs for its swelling 2.8 million population.

The periodic visitor (this is my sixth trip to assess the island's development over the past 15 years) is inevitably keenly impressed with the optimism, unflagging yet always hard-headedly realistic, which marks its leadership.

Puerto Rican leaders understand fully that their economic fate is closely tied to conditions in mainland America. The mainland is the key source of their development capital and the great outlet for their products. Trouble there is trouble here. Though they are 1,600 miles from Washington and the gloom of Watergate, they naturally fret over the uncertainties and the doubts it stirs.

Still, Puerto Rico keeps constantly in mind that it is mainland America's fourth biggest market. And, while the first flush of its stunning tourist boom is long gone and the giddy days of the first hopeful industrial invasion have given way to harder long-range planning, the spirit of advance stays high.

Puerto Rico has opened a development office in Tokyo. A leading Japanese electronics manufacturer today has plants here employing 600 people and is expected soon to lift that total beyond 1,000.

Off its experience in building its initial complex of petro-chemical plants, Moscoso says in an interview that the islanders think they have the technical know-how to get seriously into shipbuilding (a field wherein Japan today has 50 per cent of the world's business). It is estimated some 11,000 persons are sufficiently trained to make a suitable shipyard work force.

Moscoso and others well understand that Puerto Rico, for all its "showplace" gains of the past, can't stay on an upward course simply by luring industries which invest great sums in plant but need relatively few workers. The island's unemployed are restless, and as is seen everywhere in the world, they are drifting into the cities to complicate already swamping urban problems.

So key element is moving the petro-chemical industry past its basic stage and into the "satellite" phase calling for plants making plastic products, synthetic fibers, etc. That's where the vital jobs are.

Puerto Rico's tourism lost its bloom when its flashy, cost-ridden hotels took on an image of a combination Miami Beach and Las Vegas. But here, too, bright new ideas are afoot.

Don't Abuse Any Laxatives

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have an occasional flareup with my diverticulosis. Would you please explain this condition to me. I'm on a low residue diet, and am told to take a laxative every day. Is it necessary to have a daily elimination? Every bottle or can warns one that prolonged use of laxatives may result in dependency. Are laxatives the only way?

Dear Reader — Diverticula are small herniated pockets along the intestine. Often they are along the left colon. These little side pockets literally are herniations of the inner lining of the colon into pocket-like formations. In many people they cause no symptoms, in others they become inflamed and produce symptoms similar to appendicitis, or they may even bleed. I have discussed this problem before.

Many authorities feel that diverticula are associated with poor function of the bowel, specifically spastic colon and constipation-type problems. Dr. Denis Burkitt feels that the lack of bulk in the American diet is the reason this problem is so common in our society. It's not very common in societies that have a great deal of cereal fiber in their diet. His studies, and others, have resulted in a change in thinking by most doctors about what kind of diet a person should have, to prevent or manage a problem of diverticulosis. Other than acute inflammatory problems, which are a special problem, most of these individuals are better off if they have a diet which contains an appreciable amount of bulk. This is just the opposite of the low residue diet that you've mentioned.

The colon contracts in a rhythmic fashion to move the food residue along. If there's not much residue in the colon, it overcontracts and goes into spasm. This starts off the chain of events that leads to spastic colon, constipation, and related problems. By using something to provide sufficient bulk, such as the natural cereal fiber that should occur in eating whole cereals or unrefined cereals, this problem is avoided. The diverticula are an outgrowth of prolonged poor bowel function.

Obviously, a chemical laxative is certainly not the answer to this problem. Bulk expander type laxatives are useful in a number of conditions and do not have the same harmful effects. Chemical laxatives propel food through the small intestine too rapidly and end up disturbing the function of the colon. Most specialists in gastroenterology would not recommend a laxative regularly for a person who has diverticula. Quite the contrary, they would recommend a bowel training program directed toward prevention of spastic colon, constipation and related problems. This is achieved by changing the diet at a suitable time to one that contains a satisfactory amount of bulk and establishing regular bowel habits. One might need to use a bulk expander or, at interims, a small tap water enema in the process of training the bowel.

In a nutshell, I do not agree with the type of program you're on if it is being provided to you for a treatment of diverticulosis.

Percy Has Financial Backing As Well As Popular Support

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Sen. Charles Percy has a well-heeled start as an already avowed presidential aspirant.

Running for reelection last year, the Illinois liberal Republican demonstrated impressive financial backing — as well as wide voter support in defeating a Mayor Daley-endorsed Democratic Congressman by a 1,146,988 majority.

Through a number of campaign committees, Percy collected more than $645,000 and spent $597,000.

Contributors included bankers, businessmen, labor organizations — and notably Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, multi-millionaire board chairman of Chesapeake & Ohio RR, and long-time friend of top Kremlin leaders with whom he has exchanged expensive gifts.

Another financial supporter ($3,000) was Roger Stevens, wealthy executive director of the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, huge marble structure on the Potomac in which the government so far has put some $60 million in public funds — and is now spending more than $2 million a year for upkeep.

Percy's various campaign committees and their financial totals are as follows:

- Citizens for Percy, $440,096;
- Businessmen for Percy, $2,338;
- Percy for Senator, $1,893;
- Executives for Percy, 28,807;
- Lawyers for Percy, 7,240.

Sen. C.H. Percy, 4,628;

Re-elect Percy, 4,080;

Chicagoans for Percy, 3,498, and C.H. Percy Testimonial Dinner, 2,500.

Who They Are

Biggest single contribution to Sen. Percy's campaign for a second term was $24,000 from the Republican Senatorial Committee, Washington. This money is listed under the Citizens for Percy Committee.

The four other largest contributions also were funneled through this Committee — Senators for 72, New York, $10,000; Impact Organization, Chicago, $10,000; Senator Charles Percy, Washington, D.C., $10,000; Seymour Graham, Marpack Inc., Chicago, $7,500.

Other prominent contributors through this Committee were: John D. Rockefeller, N.Y., $2,500; Laurence Rockefeller, N.Y., $1,000; Fowler McCormick, Chicago, $1,000; Edgar Bronfman, head Seagram Distilleries, N.Y., $1,000.

Also United Auto Workers V-Cap., Chicago, $3,200; Real Estate Political Education Committee, Chicago, $2,000; Retail Clerks Active Ballot Club, Chicago, $1,000; Johnson & Johnson Good Government Fund, New Brunswick, N.J., $1,000; Legislators for 72, New York, $1,000; Business Industrial Political Action Committee, Washington, $2,500; Santa Fe Employees Good Government Fund, Chicago, $1,000.

Under Businessmen for Percy, the following are listed as contributors:

James Linen, of Time, Inc., $1,000; Political Awareness Fund, Los Angeles, $1,000; Action Committee for Rural Electrification, Washington, $1,000; United Auto Workers Committee on Political Education, Detroit, $1,000; Political Action Committee, Arlington, Va., $3,000; David Rockefeller, Chase Manhattan Bank, N.Y., $1,000; Norton Simon, head of Hunt Foods and Industries foundation and other funds, leading art patron, $3,800.

During a recent radio interview, Percy was asked if a well-known sportsman had contributed $25,000. "I don't know," replied Percy. "The reports have been filed; they are all public knowledge, and I would have to look it up to see who it was and how much was contributed."

That Exploratory Committee set up by Percy early this year to take soundings on his presidential prospects is another demonstration of his financial potency in politics.

So far, the committee has taken in $23,000, and spent $17,000.

This expenditure went to a "political consulting firm" in Washington. Heading the committee is Thomas Houser, Chicago attorney and long-time political ally of Percy, who has managed several of his campaigns.

The 53-year-old Illinois liberal Republican has no illusions about his chances of getting any help from President Nixon. He is acutely aware of the latter's widely reported comment that Percy "will never be President as long as I have anything to say about it."

Privately, the Illinoisian feels this disapproval may be an asset. It's not deterring him from continuing to oppose administration's stands — which include persistent opposition to Vietnam policies, voting against Supreme Court appointees, the anti-ballistic missile and supersonic transport, and co-sponsoring the appointment of a special Watergate prosecutor.

Percy also is indicating intention to vote to override the President's veto of a number of big spending and other measures passed by Congress. It is Percy's belief that "ability to win" will largely determine who the 1976 GOP presidential candidate will be — regardless of whether he is in the good graces of the President or not.

In Percy's far-from-modest opinion, he has amply demonstrated "ability to win."

Unlike a number of congressional colleagues, Percy, a multi-millionaire, has never made a public disclosure of his personal holdings. Instead, after repeated press efforts to obtain that, he announced he had placed all his assets in a blind trust.

As sure as God is good, so surely there is no such thing as necessary evil. — Robert Southey, English poet.

The Almanac

Today is Thursday, August 2, the 214th day of 1973 with 151 to follow. The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo. American playwright Marion Crawford was born August 2, 1854. On this day in history:

In 1858, the first street letter boxes for mail collection were installed in Boston and New York.

In 1934, Adolf Hitler proclaimed himself as Germany's absolute dictator upon the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

In 1968, a major earthquake rocked Manila, principal city of the Philippines, killing 307 persons.

In 1971, America's Apollo 15 astronauts blasted off the moon, ending man's second visit on the lunar surface.

A thought for the day: French writer Francois Rabelais said: "So much is a man worth as he esteems himself."

Business Today

By WILLIAM J. STANFIELD LOS ANGELES (UPI) — China's store is open for business, and a California millionaire who spent three weeks there thinks the trade opportunities for American businessmen are limitless.

Furthermore, Harold Willens predicts China will become a world economic power within 10 years and thereby achieve political influence "infinitely greater" than believed by many economic and political experts.

Willens, a 58-year-old self-made millionaire through real estate investments and ownership of a service company, toured China with his wife and daughter as the result of a social introduction to the Chinese ambassador to the United Nations several months ago in Washington.

They visited manufacturing plants, met with officials of the China National Textiles Import and Export Corporation and had considerable freedom to travel.

While in China, Willens saw numerous shipments of wearing apparel addressed to North Vietnam, North Korea and a number of African countries.

"They struck me as very meticulous and skilled work people, both men and women," he said. "They are meticulous, more energetic and they work with more dedication and more zeal than any one that I've seen. And they do it for a very low wage (roughly $15 to $20 a month)."

How would an American businessman initiate trade discussions with the Chinese?

"I would suggest he write to the Textiles Import and Export Corporation in Peking. There is no question that they would reply civilly and probably refer one to the proper corporation."

Willens said he went to China believing a "myriad of myths" about trade possibilities and found most of them false.

"I had assumed that an American businessman would have to take his wares to the semi-annual Canton Fair and that they would prefer to deal only with big companies."

"But that was not so. My impression is that they would like as many suppliers as possible and would prefer to deal with many small and medium-sized companies," Willens said.

He put on terrycloth wrap-around shorts to give the visitors a tour.

"People think of a nudist resort as something different, but there's absolutely nothing done here that isn't done at any other campsite — except that our people have the privilege of wearing clothes or not wearing clothes," said Ken McDowell, 40, owner and manager of Chez NoUs Nudist Ranch in north Texas.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Despite recent gains," according to Standard & Poor's Corp., "most stocks are still at levels that make ample allowance for uncertainties. Investors, sensing this, are adopting a more positive attitude that should carry the market higher, subject to periodic corrections," the firm says.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute believes a "more aggressive investment stance can now be taken." But, the firm says, "we'd stick to the scores of tried and true issues that are selling at historically low price-earnings ratios."

The recent gains in the market, according to James Dines & Co., have marked a technical rally. For the market to show a real rally, the Dow Jones industrial average will have to push past the 960 level, and a big battle between the bulls and the bears over this "should take place...by Labor Day," the firm says.

FINDS GOLD ZONE DALLAS (UPI) — Alaska Petroleum and Mining Co., Inc., of Dallas has announced initial results in conjunction with its Alaska mineral program. Initial results indicate a mineralized zone consisting of an average one-quarter ounce of gold per ton in a 70-foot thick zone.

Union Leaders Moving Toward Settlement

CHICAGO (UPI) — AFL-CIO leaders apparently are moving toward what they hope will be a peaceful settlement of the bitter jurisdictional battle in California farm fields between the Teamsters Union and the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers headed by Cesar Chavez.

Chavez met for nearly three hours Tuesday with AFL-CIO President George Meany and other officials of the labor federation to discuss the inroads on his union by the giant Teamsters Union, which is not an AFL-CIO member.

growers earlier in the day as part of the struggle against the Teamsters that has been marred in recent days by picket line violence.

The outcome of the meeting wasn't disclosed pending release of a Meany statement at the summer meeting now in progress in suburban Oak Brook of the AFL-CIO Executive Council. But the upper hand apparently now held by the Teamsters may have put Meany into a conciliatory mood.

The Teamsters have been signing contracts with California growers as soon as the growers' contracts with Chavez' union have expired.

Beef Suppliers Close

By United Press International Major wholesale beef suppliers in New York City followed a national trend and closed for the day Wednesday because of a shortage of beef. Elsewhere thousands of meat packers were out of work as the shortage spread across the country.

Panic buyers hoarded meat in home freezers, meat distributors reported they were sold out by Tuesday, butchers turned away customers—and even the White House was turned down by its beef supplier.

The thing that really impresses me about nudism is the children have a good time and aren't ashamed of their bodies," said Al's plump wife Jane, 29. "There's no getting out behind the barn for curiosity's sake."

No Quick Glance "But there's no way, I think, you can look at a couple and say, 'Hey, they'd make good nudists,'" she said.

Gene, 37, and Charlotte, 32, members of the Church of Christ, usually visit several nudist camps during their vacations. Both of them are very overweight, and their bodies showed bright patches of white where they had forsaken nude weekends to stay indoors.

"People in general just don't idea that runaway inflation here is impossible.

The only thing to prevent its happening is firm, decisive action by those with the authority to take such action.

Over the past five years," says Homer, "there have been many official programs to fight inflation and all have been administered on a compromise basis and, therefore, all have failed."

He recalls the vogue, a few decades ago, for the "scientific faith healing" of Emile Coue, who had half the country going around saying, "Every day, in every way, I'm getting better and better."

An optimistic frame of mind, he admits, "sometimes does help the natural curative processes" — but he wryly suggests that you try the Coue formula: "the next time you fall off a ladder or ride with a full position into a bear market."

We have been trying to deal with inflation and other economic problems with a form of Couesim, Homer thinks. "Calamities have been hailed as triumphs. Disastrous economic defeats have been labeled glorious victories."

All indications are that, by the time this column sees print, Washington will have announced a plan — if not Phase Four, perhaps Phase Three and a Half — to combat inflation.

Its effectiveness will have to be judged against Homer's warning against another round of palliatives. "Inflation today is not a theory, a statistic, a warning, a minor irritant. It is real and it is intense. The day of compromise and Couesim is behind us."

Homer puts his faith, ultimately, in the country and its people. We'll be spared South American inflation or worse, he thinks, because "I believe American common sense will prevent it in time." That time, certainly, is now.

"We have arrived at that point," he says, "where a vigorous democracy finally wakes up to its problems and often acts courageously and effectively."

If Sidney Homer is right, and he usually has been, the best way to protect yourself against ruinous inflation — the only way — is to quit muttering about it, and start telling the people we've elected to office that we want action, not more of M. Coue's brand of faith healing.

Common sense or South American-style inflation?

By CARLTON SMITH

Inflation is today's big worry. Uppermost in the minds of most Americans, if the pollsters are right, are worries about where we're going from here, and questions about what each of us can do, individually, to protect ourselves.

You could have had your worries cranked up another few notches if you'd been present at a recent conference in Dallas, to hear Sidney Homer on the subject of inflation, controls and devaluation.

Homer is regarded as one of the wisest heads on Wall Street. He recently retired from active management, as a partner, of Salomon Brothers, the investment banking firm.

Salomon Brothers handles somewhat less money during the year than the U.S. Treasury, but has a more impressive record — in recent times, at least — of doing the right things with it. It occupies its eminent position in the world of finance because people like Sidney Homer have been more right, more often, than the economists you generally see quoted in the newspapers.

Usually speaking from Washington.

It is well to have an appreciation of Mr. Homer's credentials, because you aren't going to want to believe what he said at the conference. Historically, inflations around the world can be catalogued as five kinds, by size, he said.

Following nominal inflation, and then moderate — 2 to 4 per cent — come: "No. 3, the large inflations, say 5 to 10 per cent; No. 4, the so-called South American inflations of, say, 11 per cent and up; and No. 5, the total inflations of close to 100 per cent such as occurred in Germany, Russia and France after World War I."

"We now seem to be in the large inflation category and our inflation rate is rising. Unless our fight against inflation achieves top priority, I can see no assurance that a South American rate of inflation."

This was said, you might bear in mind, four days before we all learned that wholesale prices had been rising at the rate of 24 per cent a year.

While Homer doesn't want to be quoted as saying that he firmly expects such a calamity as South American-style inflation here, he says that he does "not go along with the idea that runaway inflation here is impossible."

The only thing to prevent its happening is firm, decisive action by those with the authority to take such action.

Over the past five years," says Homer, "there have been many official programs to fight inflation and all have been administered on a compromise basis and, therefore, all have failed."

"We own the horizon"

An old lady still inspires passion

By Rosette Hargrove

Paris — (NEA) — Once she was the tallest structure in the world, 1,000 feet high and visible from 30 miles away. Today she is fast being dwarfed by the skyscrapers which have mushroomed around Paris during the last 10 years.

Still, three million people a year — tourists, school children and Frenchmen from the provinces — visit the Eiffel Tower, now as ever the pride of Paris.

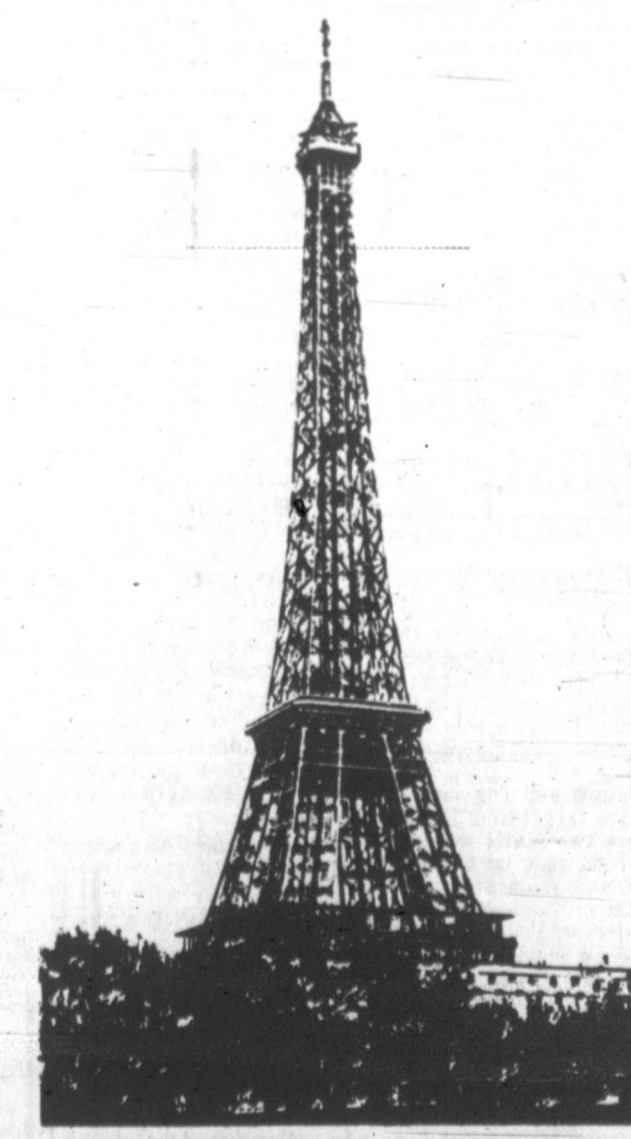

More than 400 people man the "old lady," as they call her, year in and year out, helping visitors ascend, descend, survey, photograph and marvel, and supplying them with food and drink, postcards, paperweights and other souvenirs.

The most important of the tower's vital functions rests in the hands of 63 black-uniformed men with T.E. (Tour Eiffel) embroidered on their collars. They are in charge of her four elevators. At 10:30 each morning, their chief, a former soldier from Corsica with a Napoleonic air, blows a shrill blast on his whistle and assigns the day's duties. Many of the employees are old pensioners whose job is to pick up discarded tickets and paper wrappings outside the steps and elevators.

The first platform of the tower is crowded with souvenir shops, snack bars and stands which are leased from the City of Paris, owner of the Eiffel Tower since 1890.

Two sisters, Madeleine Bredford and Yvonne Venneny, are in charge of all the souvenir shops which bring in about three million francs a year. They employ 50 people, including saleswomen and men who tend the telescopes.

"We never feel hemmed in," commented Madame Bre-ford, "rather do we feel as though we own the horizon."

The second platform is occupied by Madame Struck who has been there since 1936 and who, with her son Charles, operates the photo stands.

"We photograph couples in front of the giant panorama of Paris and the tower. Others come up here to buy the humorous pictures and postcards which are celebrated all over the world. This year we have seen an incredible number of Japanese.

French television and radio crews occupy space on the third platform, which also boasts a small snack bar, souvenir shop and photographer. Only half the visitors ascend to the third and last stop.

Before air pollution, you could pick out landmarks 50 miles away with the help of telescopes. Now, the best time to view the panorama below is about an hour before sunset.

The French radio and television contingent includes two teams of technicians who are on duty from 10:30 every morning to midnight. Occasionally they have spent all night in their eyrie to cover such major events as general elections or the first manned voyage to the moon. In the summer, they can get to their roosts via elevator.
