FLOWERS SUIT CONTINUES AS HUBBY ARGUES

Chicago Man Wants Wife to Explain Why Love Is Spurned

CHICAGO, May 22.—(P)—The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la, have plenty to do with the case of Johnson vs. Johnson in which Judge Sabath today had interested himself. Judge Sabath last week issued an injunction which in effect prohibited James Barrett Johnson from sending flowers to his wife, Ruth Johnson, protesting that no man should be deprived of the privilege of sending his wife a little gift of roses, he ask that the injunction be set aside.

"I didn't realize that I had issued an injunction of this sort," the court said yesterday in granting a day's continuance in the injunction matter. "I certainly did not intend to prohibit a husband from sending flowers or candy to win her back."

"Can I go out to her house tonight and ring the bell and just talk to her?" Johnson inquired.

"No," replied the court. "You can't force love. It must be won thru kindness or heroism."

"I want Mrs. Johnson to come into court and tell me just what she doesn't like about a man who tries so hard to be good to her that he gets into difficulties. I want to talk to both of you and see if this can't be fixed."

Judge Sabath, besides being the author of a play on divorce, has heard 25,000 divorce cases and effected 1,950 reconciliations.

Creager Faction Retains Use of Original Auditorium, While Wurzbach Group Bolts

DALLAS, May 22.—(P)—The Republican state convention split when it was called to order here today and after two of the minority faction leaders were held out by policemen that group followed for a convention of its own at another hall.

It was the faction headed by R. B. Creager of Brownsville, national committeeman, demanding the selection and instruction of 26 delegates for Herbert Hoover, which retained control of the site of the original meeting, the municipal auditorium.

For Four Delegates Only

Leaders of the other group, which insisted that only four delegates at large be chosen upon the contention that 22 already had been selected at district conventions, were C. C. Littleton, chairman of the Republican state committee, for an uninstruced delegation; Harry M. Wurzbach, Texas, only Republican congressman; J. E. Egin, of San Antonio, member of the state executive committee, and Harry Beck, White leader of the Black and Tan section.

Mr. Littleton was placed under ar-

MEETING IS IN UPROAR TODAY AT BEAUMONT

Dry Platform Satisfactory to South is Only Recourse

MOODY CONTROLS THE CONVENTION

Jones Suggested, But No Action Made Toward Instruction

BEAUMONT, May 22.—(P)—Opposition to the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith of New York and pleas for religious tolerance and for strict enforcement of the prohibition law were expressed here today by W. L. Dean, temporary chairman of the Texas State Democratic convention, in his keynote address.

Without making any statements that would preclude Texas support in the event governor Smith is nominated, former senator Dean declared that he did not consider any candidate satisfactory to Texas Democracy who received his chief eastern support because he was known to be "wet as the Atlantic ocean." He also expressed disapproval of Smith because he said the New York governor was not sufficiently posted on agricultural problems and affairs.

"We are bound to support Smith if nominated," he said. "The integrity of human relations demands that we take no vows with our fingers crossed."

Jesse Jones of Houston was suggested "as a fit leader for Texas Democracy" in the conclusion of his speech, but no suggestion or request that delegates be instructed for Jones was made.

BEAUMONT, May 22.—(P)—Governor Dan Moody's "Harmony" group, pledged to a dry platform and presidential candidates to fit it, organized the state Democratic convention today when its candidate, W. L. Dean of Huntsville, who wrote the stringent Texas prohibition law, was elected temporary chairman.

Moody Takes Floor

BEAUMONT, May 22.—(P)—Governor Dan Moody seconded the state Democratic executive committee's nomination of W. L. Dean, author of the Texas liquor law, for temporary chairman of the state convention today in a speech deploring efforts of "something parading in prohibition clothes" to control the convention.

State Senator Tom Love, chief of the ultra-dry faction, was on the platform. Governor Moody referred to rumors of a Love-Klan coalition and warned the convention of the "evil consequences of a repetition of the Klan dominated convention of 1924."

He represented Mr. Dean as a prohibitionist of the "highest type."

Frank Davis of San Antonio, nominating V. A. Collins of Dallas as the ultra-dry candidate for temporary chairman, was hooted and heckled as he said that the paramount question of the convention was whether Texas Democrats "are with Governor Moody or Governor Alfred E. Smith."

Ferguson For Berry

Former Governor James E. Ferguson of the Smith group, moved to substitute both the Dean and Collins nominations by nominating E. A. Berry of Houston, but the move was repudiated

TEXAS STORMS KILL FOUR PEOPLE--DAMAGE IS HEAVY

Lightning Displays Unusually Severe, and Hail Stones Beat Child to Death

LAREDO, May 22.—(P)—Four dead, many injured, and property damage amounting to many thousands of dollars is the estimated toll of severe wind and electrical storms in widely separated sections of the state.

Borne on a 70-mile gale, hail stones of large dimensions yesterday beat Valentin Villalobos, 14, to death and seriously injured his mother as they worked in a carrot field near here. G. A. Brewer, foreman of the farm, was injured.

Sebastian Salinas and Ronald Rodriguez, cowboys, were killed when a house was blown down ten miles south of Laredo.

Harvey Huz, 35, was instantly killed when struck by lightning at his home near Cameron. Mrs. E. E. Glat of winnboro was struck by lightning while hanging clothes on a line and was seriously injured.

A tornado struck near Ferris, Ellis county, and destroyed the home of Marion Thomas, but the family escaped into a cellar.

The greatest loss probably is in the vicinity of Laredo where early cotton and late onion crops are reported damaged extensively by hail. The Laredo country club was partly wrecked, automobile tops were cut to shreds, and cattle, chickens, and goats were killed or badly injured by the huge stones.

The storm swooped suddenly out of the Southwest, and while it passed almost as quickly as it came, the sudden deluge of hail caught many persons unawares and unable to find shelter immediately. Some of the injured were brought to hospitals here and others were taken to private homes. Because of the latter disposition, accurate check on the number of injured was impossible.

CITY MANAGER RETURNS

City Manager F. M. Gwin returned he attended the graduation of his daughter Maxine from the Cross Plains high school. He was accompanied by Mrs. Gwin and daughter, who will occupy a home on North Somerville street and state that they are going to like Pampa.

Seniors Clever in Last Program at Central High

Seniors of Central high were entertainers last night, when the auditorium in the main building was found much too small to accommodate those who wished to attend.

After announcements had been made by Principal R. B. Fisher, Miss Lottie Schafer acted as chairman for the class.

Opal Johns, salutatorian, spoke the sincere welcome of her class, then Ruth Noel played much applauded piano solos.

Harvey Anderson read from The Harvester the class history, calling especial attention to the growth of the new Pampa. Lillie McMillan read a clever class poem of her own composition. Vocal solos were given by Martha Bradford and Lucille Mooney. Mildred Fahy contributed readings.

Marjorie Jewell well used opportunity for merry thrusts in reading the class prophecy from a crystal. Sammie Henton followed with a violin solo.

Susie Bell Smalling, Valedictorian, spoke feelingly in appreciation of her school teachers, and classmates. A French harp duet by Thomas Clayton and Floyd Coffin proved highly interesting, and an encore was enthusiastically demanded. Miss Schafer gave a reading, and Lula Hutchins favored with her popular whistling solos, accompanied at the piano by Joe Strother. Thomas Clayton, one of the most popular members of the class, distributed gifts of doubtful worth but cutting appropriateness. The program was concluded when Angela Ballew conferred certain of the classes characteristics upon the juniors.

Horrible Deaths May Yet Follow in Gas Disaster

GENEVA, May 22.—(P)—It was stated today in League of Nations circles that the interallied military commission had authorized three German firms to manufacture phosgene for industrial purposes.

HAMBURG, Germany, May 22.—(P)—The cloud of phosgene, one of the deadliest of war gases, which hung over Hamburg and claimed 11 lives had been dissipated, but its menace still lingered today.

More than 200 persons were in hospitals. Authorities believed many of these might die since the gas sometimes does not have fatal effects until a week after it is inhaled. A content of only a half a gram to a cubic meter of air is sufficient to cause death.

Milk Is Antidote

All available milk in the city was requisitioned to serve as antidotes. Phosgene poisoning causes a virulent inflammation of the lungs and, in cases where consciousness is retained, death comes after horrible suffering.

Cattle lay dead in the fields, chickens and ducks in the farm-yards, and dogs and cats in the city streets—mute evidence of the terrible death which crept through the sleeping city. Trees, grass and growing crops shriveled as the silent menace spread.

Three hundred and fifty families driven from their homes in terror by death's silent approach were permitted to return when the authorities were convinced that the gas had been dissipated by wind and rain. They returned apprehensively. They shuddered as they reflected upon their close escape from death and upon the sufferings which might be inflicted upon a defenseless people by gas bomb dropped from airplanes in time of war.

Total Dead in Mine Disaster Is Standing at 82

MATHER, Pa., May 22.—(P)—The ill-fated Mather mine, scene of a disastrous explosion, continued to give up its dead this afternoon. The known death toll reached 82, and mine experts said the prospects were that all other missing men, numbering 115, would be added to the list of dead.

MATHER, Pa., May 22.—(P)—One man was found alive by rescuers exploring the blast-wrecked interior of the mine of the Mather Collieries company here in whit nearly 200 men were killed or entombed Saturday. The man was found in butt 14 and nearby were the bodies of five miners.

Air Found Good

The living worker was located by Bruce Diehl, member of the safety crew, who said the air in the vicinity of butt 14 was in good condition. Rescue workers said they hoped to find other men alive. The miner found this morning was John Krubik.

Supported by two men, a distance of about 50 feet. He appeared in good physical condition, despite his nearly sixty hours entombment.

He said he recognized Diehl, a former boss in the mine, and called to him as Diehl entered butt 14. Asked what he said, Krubik replied:

"If you don't come quick I'll die. Somebody is choking me."

Krubik said his helper left the butt following the explosion and was suffocated in the main heading.

Fourteen Diggers Survive

Bodies recovered thus far total 59. While one miner died in a hospital, fourteen diggers, including Krubik, are known to have survived the catastrophe. The fate of 137 miners still hung in the balance.

A series of fires which raged in the mine yesterday and hampered rescue operations, were checked for the time being. Because of the presence of gas in the shaft and the ever-increasing danger of another explosion, the entries were rock-dusted to prevent such an occurrence.

Naval Flier Killed Taking Off From the U. S. S. Langley

HONOLULU, May 22.—(P)—The death of Lieut. William Reddington, naval flier attached to the U. S. S. Langley, was announced here late last night.

The announcement said Reddington was killed yesterday when his plane went into a nose dive after taking off from the deck of the Langley. A radio operator in the plane was able to get clear and was saved. No trace of the body had been found late last night. Lieutenant Reddington was a resident of Coronado, California. He was a native of Indiana and was 27 years old.

DENOMINATIONS ARE HAVING lively sessions over half a dozen issues.

As denominations they have only their particular places in American life, but as sections of American thought and determining factors in national action they have a large part to play.

The Southern Baptists have come out most strongly on political issues they believe too closely allied with the things for which they stand to remain silent. Whatever one's political belief, he may watch this movement with interest, because out of such groups in the South will come the strongest support of a third party movement if such is launched. While the issue of church and state is being raised by those who opposed the resolution passed by the Baptists, the right of the churchmen to express themselves on any moral phase of politics will hardly be challenged. Further than this, however, the church is apt to defeat its own purpose.

School problems are bothering the churches, and it is increasingly evident that the church cannot hope to keep pace with the needs of public education. State schools are provided for the bulk of population, while the church schools have more specific fields. The Baptist education board, while in eight years incurred debts amounting to more than $300,000, was abolished with the explanation that the action grew out of "lack of interest in education generally, accumulation of debts, and the controversy between fundamentalists and modernists. The day is passing when the smaller cities are willing to support colleges for denominations, and consolidations are to the best interest of all.

A strong declaration against compulsory military training in the schools of the United States was adopted by the general conference of the Methodist church at Kansas City. This is a subject upon which there is the widest disagreement. Compulsion is un-American, and yet Army and Navy officials say that out of the R. O. T. C. units come most of the officers to be depended upon in case of conflict. They see the plan as the minimum training essential to the safety of the nation. Unfortunately, many of these military gentlemen use the most absurd tactics in impressing this need, one of which is to charge their opponents with bolshevism.

Some schools in which there is R. O. T. C. training allow physical training of other kinds in answer to strenuous objections, but in most cases the compulsion is airtight. It does appear that to graft this training upon certain state institutions is a poor plan, and that a more voluntary plan nearer the regular service could be devised. The day is not distant when rigid compulsion will not be countenanced in public education, whether military training or calculus.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Thanks to the Senate and the Federal Trade Commission, parents are now adequately warned against efforts of the so-called "power trust" to teach boys and girls in public schools and colleges to bow down and worship the $21,000,000,000 public utilities industry.

The commission's investigation has disclosed what is probably the most gigantic program in history to fill the pupils full of propaganda. This propaganda it is disclosed seeks to imbue the younger generation with the idea that utilities should be permitted to charge high rates for electricity and other services.

The same interests that have been lobbying before Congress to keep the American people from utilizing one or two great power sites have been spending money to subsidize college professors and to secure the use of text books setting forth their own selfish point of view.

Ironically enough, the money used for this great program of lobbying and propaganda against lower rates and against municipally owned utilities has come from the people who pay electric light, gas and telephone bills. Public service information commissions in 36 or 38 states have been doing the work.

Thus correspondence of the Pennsylvania committee discussed the need of "proper alternative text books" and the need of persuading school heads to urge revision. The public utilities, now largely organized in huge combinations, naturally oppose text books which speak favorably of municipally owned utilities—these in many cases having shown the possibilities of lower rates.

In Illinois, where Samuel Insull, the utilities king, gave a great wad of money to the senatorial campaign of a public utilities commissioner and caused a national scandal, three-fourths of the public schools were treated with the propaganda, including 635 high schools.

The object, as Bernard J. Mullaney, Insull's right-hand man, pointed out, was to "fix the truth about utilities in young people's minds before incorrect notions become fixed there." Thousands of pamphlets were distributed and score of propaganda speakers sent into the schools. The Illinois campaign was so successful that it was carried into Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Texas, California and New York.

Sam Riley Loses Head, Fouling in Third Round

Sergeant Sam Riley went haywire in the third round of his scheduled ten-round bout with Jimmy Owens at the Pampa Athletic club last night and fouled the Comar boy before the referee stopped the fight. Riley was infighting his way to victory when the incident happened.

The opening round was a tame affair, with both boys fighting cautiously, looking for openings. Round two saw more action, with Riley on the offensive, but the Oklahoma champion countering. The Irishman was forcing the visitor to the ropes repeatedly with hooks to the jaw and infighting.

The third opened with both boys flugging and hoping for a knockout. Riley seemed to have the better of the fight when he started punching low and continued to do so although warned by the referee. The fight ended with both hitting low. Apparently Riley lost his head in the heat of action, since there was no reason for his hitting low. He was leading the fight at the time.

Rusty Cahill, the pride of Pampa, gave Osborne of Wichita about ten pounds and beat him in the second round with a straight right to the jaw. The outsider had at least six inches in height and several inches in reach, but was not match for Cahill who used his head and slipped in the sleep punch in the second round.

Although beaten by a slight margin, Young Kid Granite won the admiration of Pampa fight fans by staying the full six rounds with the veteran Frankie Farrell. This was the first professional fight Young Granite has ever had, and he showed a world of speed and stamina to stay six rounds with the fighting Farrell.

The bout was one of the best on the card, but will have nothing on the battle next Monday between Jack Morrison and Frankie Farrell and give Granite a boy his weight and he will show that he is a brother of the fighting Kid Granite.

Black Cloud Goldie, the Pampa negro, boxed his way to a victory over Giles Fletcher of Tulsa, who has twice fought draws with Speedy Moore, the champion. Goldie carried the fight most of the way, bating the visiting negro to the punch and landing telling blows to the head and body.

The McTigue family entertained for a preliminary with stunts, bridging, and a three-round boxing exhibition between Jerry and Larry. These children are regular little boxers and wade in like regulars.

Jack Arnold of Dallas, former featherweight champion of the ring and will be matched with someone in his class within the next two weeks.

In a statement to the News after the fight Sam Riley stated that his blows were unintentional and that he also was fouled. He is willing to meet Owens again winner take all in case of a foul. His seconds were sending him in to rush the fight, which he is not used to doing, and in the excitement he apparently lost his head.

"One hundred thirty-five and a half", said Jim Farley, N. Y. boxing commissioner (center), as Lightweight Champion Sammy Mandell weighed in for his bout with Challenger Jimmy McLarnin. That's half a pound over weight. But McLarnin (right) agreed for Mandell to take 15 minutes to work off the excess half pound and he succeeded, thereby saving himself a $2500 forfeit. Mandell Praises "Gamest Man I Have Ever Faced"

NEW YORK, May 22.—(P)—The lightweight division still boasts the same old ruler, clean-cut handsome Sammy Mandell—but if ever they award titles for raw courage in the prize ring, Irish Jimmy McLarnin must be crowned king of them all.

For fifteen rounds under glaring lights above a ring pitched in the center of the polo grounds, the black haired shiek from Rockford, Ill., slashed and tore last night at the body and chin of the McLarnin kid.

Lefts that shot out with the sting and drive of a whip-lash cut about Jimmy's face. Short right chops closed his left eye, lefts smothered the other eye, and punches from every direction brought a stream of blood from his nose.

But there was one point Mandell, the master, could not touch. No matter how that dashing ring general poured his batteries into Jimmy's head, crashed his hands to the body, and ripped the Irishman's head back with uppercuts, he never could reach Jimmy's heart.

There was not a dissenting voice in the disapproving crowd of less than 25,000 that gathered in the big National League ball park for the most important battle in the past five years three times postponed because of bad weather, when Joe Humphries announced that Mandell still was champion after fifteen rounds of furious battling.

But neither was there a spectator who did not stand and cheer the lion-hearted effort of the slugging Celt to lift that crown when McLarnin, a fistic sensation after he knocked out Sid Terris in a punch, dragged his tired body from the ring.

For every one of those fifteen rounds, McLarnin, hoping always to land the smash that stowed away the ghost of the Ghetto, piled into the champion—and into a storm of punches that battered his features almost beyond recognition. It was the attack of a youngster who didn't know what fear meant, a kid with a fighting heart that couldn't be slackened the

Andy Payne, Claremore, Okla., youth found his lead over John Salo of Passaic, N. J., cut to little more than sixteen hours before the trip to Liberty began. Salo covered the distance in 12 hours, 12 minutes, nine seconds, bringing his elapsed time for 3230.3 miles from Los Angeles to 557-11:38.

CHAPTER VII "COME in," Virginia called. She expected to see one of the servants enter. Instead, it was her host who opened the door and stepped inside. "Aren't you coming down to lunch?" he asked pleasantly. "Not if you don't mind," Virginia answered wearily.

At three, then? Mr. Dean asked. "Oh, sooner," Virginia urged. Had Virginia been observing his face she might have wondered that he showed so much displeasure over so small a matter. "You know, Virginia," he said, and somehow managed to speak agreeably, "I'm sure I could help you solve your problems if only you would trust me."

Specialists Busy in Telephone Plant as Installing Proceeds

The busiest place in town is the new telephone exchange, where 14 men, each a specialist in his work, are rushing the installation of the network of wires and forms. The work is in charge of G. W. Wortham, Southwestern Electric company specialist.

A mass of little wires, bolts and nuts, instruments, and delicate machines have been received and placed in a general store in the building and as each part is needed the store keeper hands it out. The preparatory work will soon be completed and laying of cable commenced.

A clerk has been employed to check all material and a janitor follows the workmen cleaning up all waste material. Everything is done systematically, as the least slip in the work would mean extra labor and trouble.

Bill Ball of Wink spent Sunday in Pampa visiting friends.

West Texas Oil Areas Again Are in Steady Decline

TULSA OKLA, May 22.—(AP)—With the West Texas fields again leading in the downward slide, the estimated daily average production of light and heavy gravity oils in the United States decreased 17,293 barrels during the week ending May 19, the Oil and Gas Journal will say today. The decrease in light crude production was 18,825 barrels.

The Hendricks area of the West Texas fields again was the biggest loser of the week, the production dropping from 153,026 barrels for the week ending May 12, to 135,645 barrels last week. West Texas total decline during the week was 19,367 barrels.

Greater Seminole production declined 4,850 barrels during the week, but this loss was partly offset by slight gains in other Oklahoma areas.

The total production for Oklahoma during the week ending May 19 was 610,245 barrels, as against 613,050 for the previous period.

California lost step with other sections of the country in decline production for the Pacific Coast state increasing, 151 barrels during the week. Increases were registered in both light and heavy crude production.

The majority of the other major areas of the country had little change with slight decreases being registered in most instances.

Air Mail Pilot Crashes in Fog and Is Killed

RICHMOND, Va., May 22.—(AP)—A north-bound mail plane on the route connecting the East with the South crashed out of a fog laden sky here early today and killed its pilot, E. J. Morrissey, 35, of Aurora, Ill.

The plane, bound from Richmond for Washington and Philadelphia left the Byrd airport here at 1:30 a. m., and shortly afterward was a mass of wreckage just off the Seven Pines golf course near Sandston.

H. A. Elliott, manager here for Pinnacle Aviation, Inc., contractors for the mail route, said Morrissey apparently became lost in the fog while seeking to land on the golf course. In the pilot's hand was clasped a flashlight.

Several residents of Sandston, waked by the roar of the motor above their roofs, rushed out and saw the plane's lights spiral dizzily toward earth.

The crash brought the first fatality on the New York-Atlanta-New Orleans air mail route, opened May 1.

Morrissey, married, was the father of three children.

Masonic Temple Is Proposed Here

Pampa will probably have a large Masonic temple in the near future. A lot of 50 feet by 150 feet long has been purchased by the local lodge from the Panhandle Lumber company. The location is on North Cuyler street, one lot north of the lumber company site.

Until a charter is received from the Grand lodge of Texas, no definite plans for the building can be made, but a building 50 by 120 is suggested, or it may be longer.

Horrible Deaths--

people advocated that the storage of deadly gases near urban communities be prohibited. They demanded the providing of an adequate supply of gas masks, accessible for public use at any time.

The exact cause in the Free Port section of the city when a tank containing eight cubic meters (282 cubic feet) burst. The lid was forced off and a section of the corrugated iron roofing was torn off the building. Experts thought that an unduly warm atmosphere caused the deadly gas to burst the container since phosphene vaporizes at a relatively low temperature.

The Shrine club dance and meeting will be held at the Pla-Mor auditorium tonight commencing at 9 o'clock. Instead of Thursday at announced in the Pampa Daily News, yesterday there will be an all-star boxing card at the auditorium Thursday night the usual meeting night of the club.

Livestock Not So Well Nourished Now As Last Year

AUSTIN, May 22.—Livestock conditions in Texas during April were poorer than April of last year, according to Bernard Nicholas, assistant in charge of index numbers in the Bureau of Business research of the University of Texas.

"Rains have brought temporary relief, and the warmer weather has stimulated the growth of plants," he said. "The spring movement of animals to northern pastures is well under way, and range trading is slowing up. Losses so far have been light, but the young animals in some cases are not growing as rapidly as usual because of the scarcity of green feeds and cold weather."

In regard to stock reports during April, Nicholas stated: "Practically all goats have been clipped, and sheep shearing is more than half completed. Wool for the most part is of excellent quality. Prices continue to advance, some of the best staple recently selling for 44 cents a pound. Mohair has been quoted at more than 80 cents a pound."

"Poultry prices have advanced. Butter is lower, but the market is firm. The egg market is about the same as last month's, but large quantities are going into cold storage."

"Cattle shipments have decreased 12 per cent below those of last year. Car receipts increased 19 per cent and hogs 3 per cent. Sheep shipments run about the same. Prices of cattle and calves declined slightly, while hog lambs and sheep advanced."

Vital Statistics in Duenkel's Charge

Charles Duenkel has been appointed registrar of vital statistics for the north district of Gray county to replace C. O. Busby, who has had temporary charge of that office for the last nine months. The appointment was made by State Health Officer J. C. Anderson.

The new registrar is with the G. C. Malone company, and all births and deaths must be filed with him. A special request being made to the physicians of the city is that births be registered within five days after birth.

The state health officer states that it is important because in future days a birth certificate may be needed for passports, inheritance of property, government compensations, and many other vital reasons and it is a duty placed upon doctors.

Death certificates will be registered by the undertaker in charge.

Democrats--

by John Boyle of San Antonio, Central Texas Smith leader.

"Jim Ferguson has no authority to nominate Berry for the Smith group," Boyle shouted. He then seconded Governor Moody's nomination of Dean.

Governor Moody leaped up and gesticulated to the crowd when Boyle denounced Ferguson. The audience cheered.

"Jim Ferguson has no right to name Mr. Berry for the Smith group" Boyle shouted after Ferguson's brief speech made concluded. Boyle then seconded the dean nomination as agreed upon by the Moody "Harmony" Democrats. In "Prohibition Clothes"

In seconding the Dean nomination, Governor Moody charged that an attempt is being made to control the convention by "something parading in prohibition clothes." A few feet away sat the veteran political ring master, Tom Love of Dallas, champion of the ultra-dry constitutional Democrats, who have claimed a majority of the delegates.

Governor Moody recalled the Klan controlled Waco convention of 1924 and warned the session here against the "evil consequences" of a repetition of those conditions. He was cheered vociferously.

George Purl of Dallas, lieutenant of the Love faction, charged that there is a coalition between the Harmony Democrats the Smith supporters.

Ferguson made only a brief speech, but was given good attention and was not heckled. He declared Smith already nominated.

Boyle shouted that he did not want to see the convention controlled by "either Tom Love or Jim Ferguson."

"Cheers and Jeers"

Governor Moody leaped up and waved to the crowd when Boyle declared his repudiation of Ferguson's nomination of Berry.

Dwight Lewellyn of Dallas made an impassioned speech seconding the Collins nomination but most of it was lost in mingled jeers and cheers which Chairman D. W. Wilcox was powerless to stop.

Mrs. J. K. Bloodworth of Galveston seconded the Dean nomination, as did Myron Blalock of Marshall and Mrs. J. D. Senior of Dallas.

Mrs. Josephine Collins of Dallas, official of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, seconded the Collins nomination.

The hall was cool and the crowd seemed in exuberant spirits. Noise was rampant.

Republican--

rest and jailed on a charge of defacing public property. He made bond quickly and joining the corridor convention, was made permanent chairman.

Then speakers were heard, among them "Goose-neck Bull" McDonald, negro political leader. He condemned the tactics of Creager and Nolte and asserted that there was "no question but what the Littleton-Wurzbach faction will be seated at the Republican national convention."

Elgin then made his way to the platform and addressed Littleton as temporary chairman, instead of Eugene Nolte, of Dallas who had been named as temporary chairman by the chairman of the executive committee.

Police Are Summoned
Creager took the platform and roared a statement that "you are not going to take this convention away from us."

Mr. Creager summoned the police. When Elgin and Littleton were seized upon by the officers ad led out, Beck leaped up with a demand that the minority not given in "to this high-handed action."

"Follow me to another convention," he demanded, and there was an exodus of the minority men.

They halted in the corridor outside the auditorium, however, without proceeding to another hall and, within a few feet of the other convention, being one of their own.

That convention recessed after "Goose-neck Bill" had spoken, to meet again at 2 p. m. at Oddfellows' Hall.

After the split, the Republicans who retained the civic auditorium formally organized their convention with the election of Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls as permanent chairman. Mr. Withington was named secretary, and C. W. Beck of Hill county was chosen sergeant-at-arms.

Hopkins Is Keynote
G. C. Hopkins of Dallas, collector of internal revenue, was the keynote speaker. He praised Dallas as a Republican community and said that four years ago Dallas gave G. C. Butte, Republican candidate for governor, a majority.

If Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York is nominated for the presidency, Hopkins said, Dallas and Dallas county would go Republican.

He called the splitting of the convention a "grand stand play" by those who walked out, and called those who remained the "regulars."

He work of the convention then was given under way, with the delegates asserting their intention to elect 26 delegates to the national convention at Kansas City.

Bullington in an address said that the 26 delegates the city auditorium convention would nominate would be recognized at Kansas City.

Hoover Is Praised
He praised Hoover as "servant of the people, of the United States and of the world." He termed Hoover "the greatest humanitarian since Jesus Christ." Hoover would be nominated by the Republicans, Smith by the Democrats and Hoover would be the next president, said Mr. Bullington.

Creager called the disruption of the convention a "slight unpleasantness" and proceeded to exonerate Littleton and Wurzbach.

He accused Texas' Republican congressman of standing in the way for an uninstructed delegation and in Washington of telling Hoover he favored him.

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Creager was endorsed for the Republican vice-presidential nomination by a unanimous, rising vote.
