

Another Tape From SLA Delivered To Hearst

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (UPI) — Another tape from the Symbionese Liberation Army has been delivered to the parents of kidnaped Patricia Hearst, reporters were told today at the Hearst Hillsborough home.

Reporters outside the Hearst mansion were told of the new tape by a television newsman. John Lester, who has been acting as go-between between the family and newsmen.

Lester said the tape, which did not contain the voice of the 20-year-old kidnaped girl, was received Wednesday night by Rev. Cecil Williams, who also received an earlier tape.

Lester said Williams telephoned Miss Hearst's father, newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst, and played the tape to him. Lester said it contained a demand for $4 million.

He said the tape appeared to be from "Cinque," whose voice was on the earlier tape recording with Miss Hearst and who identified himself as the "general field marshal" of the Symbionese Liberation Army, which holds Miss Hearst captive.

Receipt of the new letter was disclosed as hopes for a breakthrough were raised early today with a report of a "major announcement" by FBI director Clarence Kelly and U.S. Attorney General William Saxbe.

But later the FBI in Washington said the announcement, scheduled for 11:30 p.m. CDT, would not deal with the Hearst case.

Early today reporters found a larger than usual number of FBI agents in the San Francisco headquarters.

Meanwhile, the kidnaped girl's 20th birthday passed Wednesday with no word from her kidnapers, the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army. Hopes had been raised that some word, or possibly her release, would come on her birthday Wednesday. The FBI agent in charge of the case, Charles W. Bates, said he had a "seat of the pants feeling" Tuesday night that she would be released.

The FBI in San Francisco said there was "nothing new" in the case. An FBI spokesman said also he knew nothing about reports the family had received another tape recording.

As the kidnaping of the 20-year-old daughter of newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst moved into its 18th day, word came from Atlanta of a possible second kidnaping with political overtones.

Editor Reg Murphy of the Atlanta Constitution was reported to be "missing and apparently kidnaped." His wife said that Murphy left home about 6:30 p.m. CDT Wednesday "with a man and hasn't returned."

An Atlanta radio station then said it received a call from a man who identified himself as a "colonel" in either the American Revolutionary Army or the American Liberation Army—the station wasn't sure which—claiming credit for abducting Murphy.

Here in the plush San Francisco suburb of Hillsborough, there was no word from the grandiloquent "Symbionese Liberation Army" as to whether the $2 million free food program created by Randolph Hearst met their demands for release of the girl.

Bates said he believed the kidnaped girl was safe and would be freed unharmed, but he gave no specific reason for his optimism.

The scene outside the Hearst home was reminiscent of the hysteria surrounding the kidnaping of the son of Charles Lindbergh 40 years ago.

A San Simeon in the style of the late William Randolph Hearst, with turrets and pools and oil paintings, the childhood home of Patricia Hearst isn't.

But the news empire founder never had television cameras and microphones clustered before his front door or reporters in nests up in the tall pine trees.

If the abduction were not so grimly stark, it might almost have been a funny occasion.

Peter Cleveland, a reporter for radio station KGO, was awakened by a call from his news editor in New York.

"This is the ABC tree," he said.

The editor blew his stack demanding to know the identity of the speaker and Cleveland blandly replied: "This is an unlisted tree."

ANOTHER COLD FRONT

Rain, Snow, Winds Hit Panhandle Areas Again

Another cold front swept through the Panhandle regions Wednesday night, letting residents know that winter is still here despite the warm spells that have brightened the season.

Pampa received .14 inch of moisture from mixed rain and snow that fell during the night, another bright spot for most of the area farmers.

Gusty winds, some reaching up to 60 miles an hour in the area, accompanied the front, lingering over the area this morning. Gray clouds still covered the Pampa area at forenoon, but the skies were expected to begin clearing tonight, with some slightly warmer temperatures tomorrow.

Yesterday's high for Pampa was 63 before the front hit, with an overnight low of 32. In UPI reports:

Thunderstorms struck across the northern half of Texas today, producing near-hurricane force winds which caused scattered damage in Central and North Central Texas.

Rain was moderately heavy, with the largest accumulation occurring at Hico that was 1.4 inches. Waco received 1.20 inches and Chalk Mountain, 1.22 inches.

Most areas, including the Dallas-Fort Worth, received just under an inch. The National Weather Service said .15 inches fell at Abilene, giving some relief in a drought there.

Arlington Hit Hard
Martha Elliott, desk officer for the Arlington police department in suburban Dallas-Fort Worth, said high winds early today caused damage in the city's east and southeast sides.

"Two apartment complexes on East Park Road sustained roof damage and damage to vehicles parked nearby," she said. "They were the Sherry Park Apartments and the L'Atrium Apartments."

She said the wind turned a traffic light around at a major intersection, causing heavy traffic light around at a major intersection, causing heavy traffic congestion until an electrician could fix it during the rush hour traffic crush.

The NWS said winds in downtown Fort Worth were measured at 73 miles an hour, just two miles under hurricane force. Winds throughout Central and East Texas were in the 40-50 m.p.h. range.

Hail fell in scattered areas from the thunderstorms, but no damage was reported from it. The worst assault appeared to be at Whitney, which absorbed golfball-sized hail at about 2 a.m.

At 4:30 a.m., the DPS in Henderson said it received reports of a tornado in the Troup area, but no twister was ever seen on the ground.

Radical Army Claims Atlanta Editor Kidnap

ATLANTA (UPI) — John R. Reg Murphy, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, apparently was kidnaped Wednesday night by a political revolutionary group that then lapsed into silence without making any demands.

More than 15 hours after the abduction authorities said there had been no word from the kidnapers and that they could suggest no motive for the act, although the Constitution recently ran an editorial saying the abduction of Patricia Hearst was the work of a "fanatic and criminal group."

Murphy, 46-year-old father of two teen-age daughters, was last seen about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday when he left his home to keep an appointment with a man who claimed he wanted to discuss a news story.

At 9-15 p.m., one hour and 45 minutes after Murphy disappeared, the Constitution received a phone call from a man who identified himself as a colonel in the "Revolutionary Army." The colonel said the army had taken Murphy captive—and that the Constitution, the state's largest newspaper, would hear further from the group.

In quick succession the abductors also placed calls to television station WAGA and Murphy's wife, Virginia. The caller told WAGA, "We have Reg Murphy, editor of the Constitution, and don't bother to call the FBI. It won't help." The FBI immediately swung into action, however, and reportedly was looking for a green Ford Torino, in which they apparently believe Murphy was abducted.

William Fields, executive editor of the Constitution, said he knew nothing about the "Revolutionary Army." Civil rights groups in Atlanta also said they had never heard of such an organization.

The editorial on the Hearst kidnaping that appeared last Saturday in the Constitution said the abduction of Patricia Hearst "is almost a miniature history of the problems of our times. There is a fanatic and criminal radical group, the Symbionese Liberation Army, that apparently wants to overthrow the established order."

Fields said Murphy had not written that particular editorial, but likely approved it. Asked if he thought that this was what prompted Murphy's kidnaping, Fields replied: "Your guess is as good as mine."

Fields said, however, that Murphy was "a very active person and a very involved person, he would be in the forefront in the public's mind and the logical subject for something like this."

The Constitution, a morning newspaper, did not print anything about the Murphy abduction today, and when asked about this, Fields said the newspaper was just awaiting further word.

Asked what word he had from the kidnapers, Fields replied: "We would simply like to hear from them, to learn what they want. We would certainly do anything we could to get Reg back. We want him back as soon as possible and unharmed."

Fields was also asked whether a ransom demand would be met. "We have had no indication of what might be required," he replied. "We have not been asked to meet any ransom demand, and there has been no reason to discuss it because we have had no contact."

Fields also said that Murphy was not rich—he's a newspaper man.

Mrs. Murphy told UPI this morning that her husband had left home at 7:30 p.m. with a man "and he hasn't returned."

"He is missing under suspicious circumstances, but I don't know anything else," she said. "I'm waiting for word from him."

Neither police nor the FBI in Atlanta would comment on the case.

BY SCHOOL BOARD

Welborn Named Football Coach

By PAUL SIMS

Jack Welborn, a man with a winning reputation since he has been in the business, is the new head football coach at Pampa.

The announcement was made this morning at a special called meeting of the Pampa School Board at Carver Center. Welborn's acceptance passed unanimously and he was given a 22-month contract.

"He is a man we are very proud to have as a part of our community and school system," said athletic director Ed Lehnick following the meeting.

School Superintendent James Malone shared Lehnick's enthusiasm about the new coach, who will come to the Texas Panhandle from Shawnee, Okla.

"I think he is extremely personable. He has an obvious knowledge of football and dedication," said Malone.

Welborn, who taught psychology at Shawnee High School, coached his teams the three years he was there to records of 8-3, 10-2 and 13-0. With the perfect mark last season, his team won the state AAA championship.

Welborn's success has not occurred only in the past three years. He started coaching in the Dalhart system before going to Artesia, N.M., as an assistant. While with the New Mexico school, Welborn, 39, was involved in three state titles. He then went to Portales, N.M., and as head coach there for two seasons, he amassed a 16-4 record.

The new coach will assume duties probably in two weeks.

"We'll (Welborn, his wife Marcia, sons Brian, 9, and Joe, two months, and daughter Kellye, 6) be moving down in two weeks if we can sell the house. If we can't do it in two weeks, I'll be coming myself," Welborn said.

Impressed with the facilities and program at Pampa, Welborn is thankful for the opportunity to return to Texas.

"I think the programs here in Texas are such that give you an opportunity to really work with players," he said.

"I'm pretty familiar with this part of the country. There's fine people in this part. I don't think I'd move here if I wasn't going to like it."

Welborn's teams have been somewhat run-oriented. The past couple of seasons he has used the Wishbone offense.

"The theory behind it is great, the execution of it is difficult. It's not basically a running offense; it's a pretty versatile offense—you have to do other things besides running the option," he said.

Welborn will stress winning. "But I don't think winning is more important than the safety of any player. All coaches try to have a winning program. It takes knowledge, skill and attitudes and other aspects of the game—training habits, self-discipline, individual sacrifice," the coach said.

He added, "I hate to think any one of our players wasn't a better person for having participated."

FROM EGYPTIAN TERRITORY

Israeli Troops Leaving In Carnival Atmosphere

ON THE EAST BANK OF THE SUEZ CANAL (UPI) — In a flutter of doves and a carnival atmosphere of joy, Israel today handed over the Egyptian territory it captured in the October war.

Hundreds of Patton and Centurion tanks, artillery pieces and armored personnel carriers streamed across the Suez Canal into the Sinai over the last Israeli bridge as its forces completed the fourth stage of the disengagement agreement with Egypt and ended 129 days of occupation on the west bank.

A senior Israeli paratroop commander whose unit first crossed the waterway under fire formally turned over the evacuated area and the causeway to United Nations forces at noon (5 a.m. CDT).

One soldier held aloft a three-foot-long wooden key to give to the U.N. commander. Others in sheer exuberance swam lazily across the canal on their backs, splashing water from their mouths and laughing.

On each tank and in each truck, smiling soldiers sang and waved to newsmen as they rumbled toward home. About 125 soldiers danced and spilled champagne on each other and sang Israeli folk songs on the east end of the asphalt two-lane causeway spanning the canal opposite Dir Suwayr.

Even as they sang, the rumble of explosions could be heard in the distance as Israeli sappers destroyed Egyptian military installations before giving up the last one-third of the 560-square-mile west bank salient captured in the war.

Black and white mushroom clouds could be seen rising on the horizon. At one U.N. outpost set up at dawn, a Swedish private said, "There is much demolition in this area as you can see. They've been at it for several days now. But there's more this morning."

Many of the tanks and half tracks sported balloons and pennants. Some had signs with slogans such as "The Israeli East Africa Association" or "We're Tired of This Place—We're Going Home."

Three cages of doves flapped into the sky as the last M-60 tanks, armored personnel carriers and half-tracks rumbled over to the east bank.

Other members of the paratroop unit, stripped to their underwear and swam across the waterway. They splashed water from their mouths and laughed.

The U.N. peace-keeping team is to turn over the region abandoned today—the final one third of a 560-square-mile bulge—to Egyptian forces at 6 p.m. Egyptian, returning to the area, will also take over a glock and earth causeway built by Israel across the canal following the 17-day war. Israel previously took down four portable pontoon bridges.

Soldiers danced and spilled champagne on each other and sang Israeli folk songs. One held aloft a three-foot-long wooden key to give to the U.N. commander when the last Israeli span over the canal was formally turned over to U.N. control.

One half-track had a sign saying: "Exodus from Egypt—February 21, 1974."

United Nations peace-keeping forces were scheduled to move in at noon and take control of the abandoned region, the final one-third of a 560-square-mile bulge along the waterway's West Bank captured from Egypt.

Egyptian forces were to return to the area six hours later, taking over a rock and earth causeway built by Israel across the canal following last October's 17-day war. Israel previously took down four portable pontoon bridges.

A veteran Israeli paratrooper who led forces in smashing through Egyptian lines across the canal on Oct. 15 was to be the final soldier to cross back into the Sinai Desert.

Although no Israeli combat troops will remain on the West Bank, Israel's liaison officers with the U.N. peace team will man a field headquarters near Egypt's Fayid air base to help supervise future pullbacks.

The Israelis have until March 5 to pull back into the Sinai Desert to a new defense line 13 miles east of the canal under terms of the 40-day disengagement agreement with Egypt. In return, the Egyptians were to cut back their forces along the canal's east bank and pull all surface-to-air missiles out of the Sinai.

Dayan called for new elections after failing in a bid to have Mrs. Meir bring the rightwing Likud bloc into the new government.

The defense minister said, meanwhile, the pullbacks on the Suez front had resulted in demobilization of half the Israeli reserve forces called up for the last war.

Golda Meir Out To Pick Cabinet

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir set out today to pick cabinet members in Israel's first minority government, calling on a balking Defense Minister Moshe Dayan to join the shaky coalition.

Dayan said Mrs. Meir lacked the necessary parliamentary strength to set up a coalition "with a political direction." He called instead for new elections and vowed to boycott a minority government.

Mrs. Meir announced plans Wednesday night for the minority coalition just 45 minutes short of the expiration of a six-week deadline following Israel's Dec. 31 national elections.

Political sources said the new coalition, although three votes short of a majority in the Knesset (parliament), appeared strong enough to negotiate a Middle East peace settlement with the support of fringe parties.

FBI Investigates Possible Alterations Of Documents

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The FBI is investigating the possible alteration of White House documents, which reportedly had material cut out for the special Watergate prosecutor, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

The FBI was asked to investigate by the special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, the Times said.

It could not be learned precisely how many documents have been tampered with or the areas of Jaworski's overall Watergate inquiry to which they relate," the newspaper said in a report from its Washington bureau.

The Times said the FBI investigation "was thwarted for a time by White House officials who refused to provide the agency with some of the logs it wanted to examine." An administration official was quoted as saying that has changed, and "the FBI now has been given all the logs it wants to see."

The logs indicate who had access to the documents that were apparently tampered with.

DPS Supplying Briscoe With Gasoline News

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Department of Public Safety is supplying Gov. Dolph Briscoe with weekly reports on the availability of gasoline in Texas.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the DPS, revealed Wednesday his department will survey how long gas stations are open daily, what days they are open and the length of lines at service stations and compile all this information into a report that will be submitted to the governor each Friday.

The governor has already received one such report and he used it to announce earlier this week there is no problem buying gasoline in Texas.

That statement by the governor was ridiculed Wednesday by Sen. Raul L. Longoria, D-Edinburg, who said gasoline problems in the Lower Rio Grande Valley are becoming acute.

Solzhentyn May Settle For A Home In Norway

ZURICH (UPI) — Alexander I. Solzhentyn has received a visa from Norway, and according to his lawyer plans to settle there.

A spokesman for the Norwegian foreign ministry said today in Oslo: "Solzhentyn applied for a three-month tourist visa and was granted it last Tuesday. We don't know when he will arrive but we expect him shortly."

The dissident Soviet author's Swiss lawyer, Fritz Heeb, said, "Solzhentyn has always planned to settle in Norway but has not yet decided when to leave."

"Mr. Solzhentyn is very welcome to visit Norway and live there if he wishes," a Norwegian embassy official in the Swiss capital of Bern said.

He said Solzhentyn would be recognized as a political refugee, and, although able to write what he pleases, he would not be permitted to engage in public political activities.

The Norwegian newspaper Verdens Gang said Solzhentyn would arrive in about ten days.

"It is unbelievable to me that at the very time that we are trying to get an appointment with the governor's office regarding the shortage of fuel in the Valley, the governor's office is making statements that there is no 'critical situation' in Texas," Longoria said in a prepared statement.

"Not only are tourists unable to come to the Valley as there is no gas available for their return trip home, but every Valley citizen is experiencing extreme difficulty in obtaining gasoline for private use."

"I hope that this fuel shortage will be taken seriously and we can work together to end this shortage and protect all the citizens of the state from this inconvenience."

The report on which Briscoe based his statements earlier this week did say the Rio Grande Valley seemed to be the area where gasoline is the most difficult to buy in the state. But the report said, on the whole, there are no long waiting lines at Texas gas stations.

The report said when lines do occur, it is usually on Fridays and Saturdays.

"Nearly everyone has been able to find gasoline for necessary driving requirements, but there has been considerable inconvenience in locating stations that were open at certain times during the week," Speir said in his report to the governor.

Officials Claim Foreign Gasoline Faces Allocation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Energy Office served notice on states today that any gasoline brought into the United States from foreign suppliers is subject to allocation controls.

To ease its gasoline shortage, Connecticut purchased gasoline overseas and other states also were considering the same action.

In response to Connecticut's action, an FEO spokesman said, "All gasoline is subject to allocation by the Federal Energy Office." New suppliers, including state and local governments or private individuals, must notify the agency of new gasoline supplies, he said.

Heath Predicts Victory

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath, buoyed by newly released polls, went into the final week of campaigning for Britain's national elections today, proclaiming confidence he would win another five years in office.

Three polls just released showed the Conservatives leading Harold Wilson's opposition Labourites by small margins with the little Liberal party making inroads against both.

On Britain's troubled labor front, all three trainmen unions agreed Wednesday to take a pay dispute with the state-run British Railways Board to an independent arbitration tribunal.

The 29,000 locomotive engineers staged an overtime ban that disrupted rail services for nine weeks, but called off the job action Feb. 11 until after the elections.

"We are winning," Heath told voters repeatedly Wednesday during a tour of Lancashire industrial towns.

At a rally in Manchester, he called on 2,000 supporters to "give us your strength and we will finish the job," echoing Winston Churchill's World War II message to Franklin Roosevelt: "Give us the tools and we will finish the job."

Former Prime Minister Wilson, also campaigning in the country's industrial heartland, told Labor supporters at Preston:

"This single word 'prices' now takes in all the issues facing Britain today. This election is about prices. The price of not voting Labor next week is too high. We cannot afford another Tory (Conservative) government."

Three new polls showed the Conservatives leading with margins of 6 per cent, 5.6 per cent and 5 per cent.

But the third-ranking Liberal party appeared to be making unexpectedly strong advances. One poll gave it 16 per cent of the total, another 14 per cent and still another 21 per cent, compared with an average of 14 to 17 per cent a week ago.

Heath called the Feb. 28 election after Britain's 200,000 coal miners staged a national strike Feb. 10, escalating a 13-week slowdown that had depleted energy supplies.

The alterations appear to have been hurriedly, clumsily done, the Times said.

By United Press International

allocation by the Federal Energy Office." New suppliers, including state and local governments or private individuals, must notify the agency of new gasoline supplies, he said.

Supplies are subject to disposition by the Energy Office under its allocation program, the spokesman said, but the FEO would consider each case on its own merit.

If imported gasoline did not exceed the government mandated quota system, which is 100 per cent of 1972 demand, a state could be allowed to keep the gasoline.

Energy Chief William E. Simon met today with members of the National Governors Conference's Executive Committee to try to work out problems on gasoline shortages which Simon has conceded are critical in parts of some states. At least two states have gone to court to challenge the FEO's gasoline allocation program.

A spokesman for Simon said he was asking the governors to be patient and cooperative.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford expressed optimism Wednesday that he thought the country was almost over the "hump of the temporary energy crisis" and the United States would be in much better shape once the Arab oil embargo is lifted.

En route to Cincinnati, Ford told newsmen that on the basis of a luncheon with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and two Arab ambassadors he was hopeful the oil embargo would be lifted soon. He did not elaborate.

Ford also said that President Nixon told him during a two-hour meeting Wednesday morning that there was little chance now of gasoline rationing.

Simon, Budget Director Roy Ash and Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar were to meet all day with seven governors, including Maryland's Marvin Mandel, who sued Simon Wednesday. All but Mandel are on the Governor's Conference steering panel.

U.S. District Judge Dorsey Watkins of Baltimore Wednesday ordered Simon to court to defend Federal Energy Office (FEO) gasoline allocations, and Federal Judge William C. Frey in Tucson, Ariz., ruled against Simon's ban on priority gasoline sales to regular customers.

Representatives of service station dealers in Washington demanded that the FEO allow them to raise prices lest there arise a "serious situation," including the possibility of a nationwide "pumpout" that could leave filling stations dry.

While governors and gas dealers denounced Simon's policies, the emergency energy bill was delayed at least a week and possibly doomed by a House committee's refusal to expedite the measure passed by the Senate Tuesday. The Senate version includes a rollback of crude oil prices and presidential authority to impose rationing.

Mandel, former chairman of the Governors Conference, fired the first shot Wednesday in an apparent state revolt against the allocation system when he sued Simon and 25 oil companies.

Mandel said Tuesday's release of 2 per cent more fuel to the state was at less than it needs.

Port Trinidad, Louise, Buda, Glen Rose and Big Wells fields at 80 per cent.

Exxon Corp., USA, told the commission Wednesday it will ask for 233,000 barrels of crude a day less for March than it requested for February. Exxon said the federal fuel allocation program was the reason for its reduced demand.

Exxon's reduced demand accounts for almost all of the reduction in demand for Texas crude oil between February and March. The major companies asked for 3,833,758 barrels a day of Texas crude for March, a drop of 278,240 barrels from February's demands.

Chevron asked for 2,800 barrels a day less. Gulf wanted 3,000 less and Sun 1,200. Amoco asked for 5,000 barrels a day more than it received in February.

Exxon, as usual, asked for more Texas crude than any of the other majors—599,000 barrels daily. The other demands in order of quantity were: Amoco 350,000, Mobil 345,000, Shell 325,000, Texaco 223,000, Sun 193,000, Gulf 190,000, Atlantic Richfield 170,000, Cities Service 118,000, Phillips 115,000, Union of California 99,000, Chevron 77,000, Continental 38,000 Diamond Shamrock 35,000 and Crown Central 21,600.

Oil Field Gets Approval Of Maximum Production

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A Texas oil field operating at 70 per cent of its potential has been authorized to begin producing at capacity levels to help meet the nation's oil demands.

The Tom O'Connor field has been producing under a 70 per cent allowable since April, 1972, when the Texas Railroad Commission first authorized 100 per cent production statewide.

But the commission authorized Wednesday the field, located near Refugio, to join most of the other oilfields in the state operating at capacity.

Now the only fields operating below 100 per cent are the Kelly Snyder and East Texas fields at 86 per cent, and the Dexter.

Battery Jumper Cables Often Used Incorrectly

COLLEGE STATION — Winter means "dead" car batteries and the time for jumper cables. And each year injuries result when these handy gadgets are used incorrectly, says Wayne Keese, agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The negative plate of a wet cell battery gives off small quantities of hydrogen gas even when the cells are not being charged," explains the engineer. "During charging, more hydrogen gas is produced. Many explosions have occurred when a burning cigarette, glowing pipe or spark from a jumper cable ignited the hydrogen. Such an explosion scatters sulphuric acid and can cause severe injuries."

To avoid explosion hazards when using jumper cables, Keese suggests following these steps:

1. Turn off the ignition and all

2. Make sure both batteries are of the same voltage.
3. Shift both cars into neutral or park and set the parking brake.
4. Remove the caps from both batteries and make sure their fluid level is at the full mark.
5. Place a piece of cloth over the uncappered filler holes to keep the acid electrolyte from splashing out.
6. Attach one end of one jumper cable to the positive (+) terminal of the booster battery and the other end of the same cable to the positive terminal of the discharged battery. Twist the clamps slightly to insure good metal-to-metal contact.
7. Attach one end of the second cable to the booster battery's negative (-) terminal. Attach the other end to some good grounding point on the engine block at least a foot from the battery.

8. Some cars may have positive grounds. This is indicated by the positive rather than the negative battery cable being grounded to the car body. If the car with the disabled battery has a positive ground, reverse the cable connecting procedure. Connect the negative terminals first. Then use the positive cable as the ground.
9. Engage the starter of the car with the disabled battery. If it fails to start immediately, start the other car to avoid excessive discharge of the booster battery. The discharged battery will not charge unless the jumper cables are correctly attached.
10. After the car with the discharged battery is running normally, remove the cable connection at the engine block first, then the other end of the same cable from the booster battery.
11. Remove the second cable by disconnecting the booster battery first.
12. Use care when disconnecting the cables to avoid contact with the car's fan, fan belt and other moving parts.
13. Replace the battery caps and throw away the cover cloth since they may have corrosive acid on them.
14. Should acid splash onto an individual's skin or into the eyes, flush the affected area immediately with water. In case of eye contact, call a doctor.

VOICE OF BUSINESS

Congress Could Gain Pay Raise By Inaction

By ARCH BOOTH
Executive Vice President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON — Congress is about to get a big pay raise, by not voting not to get one. If that confuses you, it's supposed to.

Congressmen are traditionally reluctant to vote themselves pay increases, because such votes tend to be resented by constituents who cannot do the same for themselves. So the ingenious legislators thought of a way to avoid this unpleasant responsibility, yet still get the raises: They established a federal commission, in 1967, to recommend salary increases.

This commission makes its recommendations once every four years, and whatever increases it recommends go into effect automatically unless Congress votes AGAINST the increase within 30 days.

In other words, as things now stand, a congressman does not have to go on record as voting for his own pay raise. He can simply sit on his hands and let it happen.

Rumor has it that the commission is about to recommend a 7.5 percent pay raise for EACH of the next three years. That would take the pay of a senator or representative from $42,500 now to $52,726 by 1976.

I don't want to say whether $52,726 is "too much" or "not enough" to pay a member of Congress. I don't know. It's probably not enough for the good ones and too much for the bad ones.

But three aspects of this process do bother me:

1. Under the federal wage-price control regulations — duly authorized by Congress — raises are not supposed to exceed 5.5 percent a year. The government has often bent that standard for unions which claimed they were entitled to more to "catch up" for earlier years in which they got no raise at all. And Congress hasn't had a raise since 1969. But should Congress set an example of bending the rules to its own benefit?

2. If the members of Congress believe they have a good case for a raise, they should have the guts to vote for it and then justify their vote to their constituents. This business of hiding behind a federal commission is sheer cowardice. To their credit, some congressmen feel this way, too, and have been speaking out against the "automatic" pay raise procedure. Better find out which side your congressman are on before criticizing them for something they may be trying to rectify.

3. While it's true Congress hasn't had a raise since 1969, the members have kept up with inflation over the years. Since 1954, the cost of living has increased a little over 69 percent. During the same period, congressional pay has gone up 3.4-fold, or 340 percent, from $12,500 to $42,500.

If we eliminate the effect of a big raise which boosted pay

Gas Company Forms District In Hemphill Cty.

WHEELER — Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. has formed a new gas pipeline district in Hemphill County, western terminal of its new major transmission line across Oklahoma to the Anadarko Basin.

Donald E. Rose, of Marshall, Tex., has been appointed to the position of foreman of the new Buffalo Wallow District, according to John E. Taylor, Shreveport, La., senior vice president for gas transmission. Rose already has assumed his duties in the district, which is part of the utility's Oklahoma-Kansas pipeline division.

A headquarters building for pipeline, compressor station and other personnel is now being constructed on a 40-acre site 15 miles northeast of Wheeler.

The new transmission line, placed into service in late 1973, stretches from Hemphill County eastward to Wilburton, Okla. The first phase cost approximately $72 million.

Rose joined Arkla Gas at Pittsburg, Tex., in 1953, and later moved to pipeline district offices at Marshall in 1955. He recently has worked as an inspector during construction of the Anadarko line.

BATTIN' AROUND Courts' Reasoning Frightening

By C.R. BATTEN
The reasoning behind some of the decisions coming out of our courts these days is not only amazing — it is frightening.

California law allows a credit of up to $125 on the state income tax for parents whose children are attending private schools. The purpose of the law is to ease the burden of those who are paying taxes for the support of the public schools, and are also paying to educate their children in private schools.

The U.S. District Court in San Francisco recently declared that law unconstitutional on the grounds that it violates the First Amendment prohibition against laws "respecting an establishment of religion." The court ruled that the tax credit produces an "impermissible result — state sponsorship of religious activity."

It seems that most of the private schools in the state are supported and operated by religious institutions. The children are receiving religious instruction.

Therefore — goes the reasoning of the court — allowing parents to deduct up to $125 from their state taxes, and to use that money to pay the tuition for their children in any private school is the same as the state contributing directly to a religious institution.

There is only one way that I can see that any person could possibly arrive at that conclusion. That is to accept the premise that the income any person earns is the property of the state. Since it is the property of the state, then the state has the privilege of deciding how it is to be spent.

With this kind of reasoning, it is only one simple step to conclude that, since an individual's income is the property of the state, deductions from gross income for contributions to a church is also contributing state money to the support of religion, and therefore to be forbidden.

If, on the other hand, we consider that an individual's income is his own to spend as he sees fit for the best interests of himself and his family, then the $125 tax credit is an attempt to rectify the injustice of forcing him to pay support to public schools that cannot give his children the kind of education he believes they should have. The state really has nothing to say at all as to where he puts that little extra bit of his spending money it allows him to keep.

In Boulder, Colo., last summer, Congressman Henry Gonzales of Texas was prevented from speaking at the University of Colorado by demonstrators who objected to the Congressman's vote on some specific issues, claiming that he is a turncoat and does not represent the Spanish-speaking people of his state.

According to a United Press International report, Boulder County Judge Martin I. Steinberg recently dismissed the charges against two men who were arrested for their part in the demonstration. Steinberg declared that the Colorado law that prohibits demonstrators from disrupting lawful meetings violates the rights of free speech guaranteed by the First Amendment of the Constitution.

DPS Taking Applications On State Trooper Posts

Applications for openings in posts of state trooper are now being accepted by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Applicants selected as cadets will enter 18 weeks of training at the DPS Law Enforcement Academy at Austin in a class tentatively scheduled to begin June 11, according to Major C.W. Bell, DPS Regional Commander at Lubbock.

Applicants must be between 20 and 35, of good moral character, excellent physical condition and height of not less than 68 inches and not more than 76 inches. Weight should not be less than two pounds nor more than 3 1/2 pounds per inch of height and vision of no worse than 20-40 correctable to 20-20. The applicant must also be a citizen of the United States.

Education qualifications are a minimum of 45 semester hours of college.

Each applicant will undergo a physical examination and a character investigation prior to the start of the recruit school in Austin.

Applications are available at any DPS station or office. They should be submitted to the nearest DPS office where a competitive examination is given each Tuesday and Wednesday of the week.

Cadets will be commissioned as probationary Trooper I at a salary of $743 monthly. The salary increases to $768 per month after six months' service. After a year probationary troops are promoted to Trooper I at a salary of $820 per month.

Stretch Your Food Dollar By Using Vegetables Wisely

With almost everything either in short supply or higher priced, Americans are finding ways to get more from the resources they use.

This type of thinking can easily be applied to the task of feeding one's family a well-balanced diet, says Rita Ruff, USDA extension home economist based in Milwaukee, Wis. Food budgets can often be stretched either by substituting one kind of food for another or by using food products more efficiently, she says.

"In the wake of rising food prices, many consumers are taking a close look at vegetable products to supplement the vitamins, minerals, and particularly, protein from meat and meat products," says Miss Ruff. "And with careful menu planning, they can indeed utilize vegetable nutrients as an alternative or supplement to meat."

"When we refer to protein in the human diet, Miss Ruff continues, we are talking about amino acids, which are required to build, maintain and repair healthy tissues and to meet other body needs. These amino acids are contained in protein. Many of the proteins in meat and animal products contain all the amino acids the human body requires, so menu planning with these products is relatively simple.

"However," she notes, "other proteins contain only some of the essential amino acids. Vegetables usually contain these 'incomplete' forms of protein."

"It is indeed possible to combine several vegetable products in one meal which bring together all the necessary amino acids that meat normally contains," she points out, "by applying adequate knowledge and some discretion. Combining vegetables with at least one animal product such as fish, eggs, cheese, or milk makes the task easier. Extension offices throughout the country can offer guidance in selecting vegetables."

Different kinds of vegetables also vary in the type of vitamins and other nutrients they contain, Miss Ruff adds. Again, some knowledge is essential in order for the consumer to choose the right combination of vegetable products for a balanced meal.

Besides actually replacing meat products with vegetables, consumers can stretch their food dollar by using vegetables more wisely, Miss Ruff adds. One easy step to increase efficiency in the kitchen is simply to handle and prepare vegetables properly. This prevents loss of vitamins and nutrients which often occurs before the food reaches the table.

Also, the home economist says, a family menu planner needs to know where vitamins and nutrients are concentrated within the vegetable, for example whether they are found mainly within the stems or the leaves of a given item. This will provide guidance for trimming and serving the vegetable so that nutrients are retained.

One of the simplest — but often neglected — ways to encourage a family, particularly children, to eat more vegetables is to serve them in ways attractive to both the eye and the palate, Miss Ruff concludes. Developing a special knowledge of your family's taste and investing a little time to learn different and tempting recipes will enable the consumer to get more of the benefits from the vegetables she serves and to serve them more often.

Grooming influences how people react to you — your level of confidence and self-esteem, success in school, and fulfillment from business and social relationships. Good grooming habits tell others that you care about them and yourself, says Mrs. Becky Culp, clothing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Going Meatless? ...Try Seafood Or Eggs

Meatless meals are a challenge to even the best of cooks. It's not easy to make a pound of flounder, a can of tuna, or 4 eggs into meals that will serve 6.

There are a couple of things to remember in creating attractive and tasty money-saving meals. First, accept the fact that if you're saving money, you'll probably spend more time in preparing the dish. A little more chopping, another seasoning or two ... things you'll need to do for these recipes.

Then remember to use low-cost ingredients that stretch the end product, such as rice. At about 3 to 4 cents per serving (half-cup), rice is truly economical. And when added to or served with many dishes, rice can stretch those meals to serve more people. Rice also makes the dish more satisfying without adding too many calories (there are only 82 calories in each half cup of cooked rice). It contains some protein and vitamins, too, so it is a good budget food with nutrition built in.

Shown here is Fish Creole with Rice. It's a pound of flounder cooked in a well seasoned tomato sauce. When

Consumer Market Report

COLLEGE STATION — Uncertain weather conditions along with transportation problems are hampering food marketing predictions, one observer said this week.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, termed estimates this week "most difficult," but she made some anyway.

The specialist advised consumers to check beef roasts, "a few of the more desirable steaks" and ground beef.

"Beef values most often include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, beef liver and ground beef," she added. Pork values include fresh and smoked picnics, quarter loins cut into chops, and Boston butt roasts. Some brands of bacon are a bit lower in price.

At poultry counters, Mrs. Clyatt forecast scattered features on fryer chickens.

"Also, check frozen food cases for turkey and turkey parts, which are featured in some markets. Turkey and chicken pies offer good choices, too."

Turning to vegetables and fruits in their "low-price and high-quality" period for the year, the specialist listed carrots, broccoli and cauliflower, oranges and grapefruit.

"Cooking greens, bulk turnips, celery and rutabagas offer good values. Head lettuce is now at attractive levels, but prices on dry onions and potatoes are a bit higher."

Prices on apples, bananas and pears are about the same. CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Consider "quantity" meal purchasing with care.

Dear Abby

4 in an apartment 1 too many for Joan

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 25-year-old guy who came to New York with a buddy. We teamed up with another guy, and the three of us share a two-bedroom apartment. It's a great location for all of us, and we split the rent.

My buddy (the one I came to New York with) invited his girl friend from back home to come to New York and stay at his pad. She's still here and plans to stay indefinitely. (She and my buddy share one bedroom, and the other guy and I share one.)

I recently met Joan, who's the nicest gal I've ever known. She asked me where I lived, and I told her I lived with two other guys. Then I mentioned this girl who's staying with my buddy. Joan blew her stack and said she didn't like the idea of a girl living in the same apartment with me even though I have nothing to do with her. I'm serious about Joan. She's a very classy gal, but she insists that either that girl should move, or I should. What do you think?
MR. CLEAN

DEAR MR. CLEAN: If anybody should move, it should be your buddy who invited his girl friend to bunk with him. That's not the deal you made originally. Joan's objections are valid, so if the shaker-uppers won't budge, you'd be wise to move. It's easier to find another pad than another classy gal.

DEAR ABBY: Please reassure the wife who lamented that she had been smashing in bed, but short elsewhere during 27 years of marriage:

1. A lady's enthusiasm has everything to do with a man's virility [rhymes with ability];
2. Love and sex are not synonymous, but they can be mighty close kin;
3. Anybody can learn to cook, and I'll bet Whatshisname whistles while he fixes breakfast every morning.

OLD HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: And I'll bet you're right!

DEAR ABBY: My own tendency to be late was cured when someone said that tardiness is the subtlest form of self-love and conceit—counting your time and convenience more important than another's.

Perhaps that is why the tardiness of my inlaws rankles me so. They are consistently late, a half hour to an hour and a half, even for a dinner when others are involved.

Don't suggest that I give them an earlier arrival time. One family member did this, and when it was discovered, retaliation set in. How would you handle this? [Short of excluding these members from family gatherings.]

OFFENDED AND BAFFLED

DEAR G AND B: Don't sweat it. Invite them only on those occasions when their late arrival will not inconvenience YOU!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DOING IT MY WAY": You'll never get away with it. The sins we do two by two, we pay for one by one.

Picture Your Baby Now For Lasting Enjoyment

NEW YORK (ED)—Babies never cease to amaze us with expressions of joy, discomfort, and bewilderment as they learn and develop in a strange new environment. Capturing your baby's "once-in-a-lifetime expressions" with pictures can bring much enjoyment in later years.

Your baby changes so rapidly from day to day that a picture opportunity occurs only once, so you must be ready when the baby is. This means the camera should be loaded with film and a supply of magicubes should be handy.

The Kodak pocket Instamatic 10 camera, which allows you to just aim and shoot, is ideal for catching those special moments. Because of its small size, it can be stored almost anywhere such as baby's play area, his bedroom or even in an apron pocket.

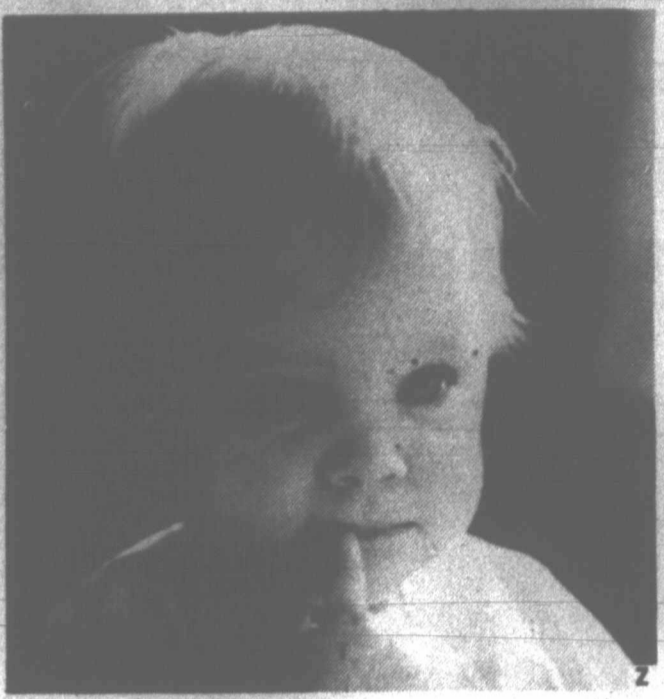

Some simple suggestions from Kodak experts should help you get good satisfying shots. It is important that you hold your camera steady to avoid blurry pictures. The most unique facial expression can be lost if the camera changes position while you are shooting.

Although there is no right or wrong time to take a picture, if you want your baby at his best, just after nap time—when he is rested and alert—presents a perfect opportunity. Bathing and feeding are also excellent occasions for a series of shots.

Try not to become so concerned with getting the shot that you forget about the background. If you're planning a mealtime picture, for example, the high chair should be placed in front of a plain wall, rather than a cluttered counter. If the baby and the action cannot be moved, an angle change might help in eliminating a distracting background.

Candid shots are often funny and reflect the baby's mood at a particular moment. But posed pictures are just as precious when you look back in later years. If you plan to pose the baby, remember that the infant is not going to cooperate automatically just because you want to take his picture. A toy to distract him when signs of crankiness begin to show might help to hold his attention while you get the shot.

Shooting at the baby's level—even if it means getting down on the floor—is important. You don't want to cut off any part of his face, taking away from the total effect of the expression. One last tip is to stay as close as the camera allows to capture every change of expression. Being in close range will also cut down on a distracting background.

The beautiful innocence of infancy is captured in this close-up shot. Notice that the background is free from anything that might interfere with the effect of the baby's expression.

A baby doesn't remain a baby for very long, so every picture-taking opportunity is important if you want to look back on those cherished moments of infancy for years to come.

This shot, taken after nap time, portrays an alert, wide-eyed little fellow ready to take advantage of his waking hours.

The inclusion of a sibling adds a new dimension to the picture. Use your imagination and write captions for unique shots like this one.

This face is truly an example of a "once-in-a-lifetime" expression. If you keep your camera handy, you can add something as delightful to your picture collection.

South West North East

P Ann P Ann

Opening lead: Two of ♠.

South's two heart bid was marginal, at best. He made the call because he couldn't stand either clubs or diamonds, North's bid suits.

Mrs. Hawes opened the spade deuce, and Mrs. Truscott's king was taken by South's ace. Declarer now led a trump and jessed dummy's queen. Upon winning with her king, Mrs. Truscott returned a spade, dummy ruffing. The trump ace then picked up the two outstanding pieces.

Next came the ace and king of diamonds, felling East's queen. The diamond jack was then cashed. South discarding thereon his ten of spades (he still retained the four-spot). On this trick Mrs. Truscott tossed away her queen of clubs! Now came a fourth diamond lead, declarer ruffing. The board's fifth diamond had just become the only diamond left in the deck. Declarer then led a club and Mrs. Hawes promptly took her ace and cashed the spade queen. Holding declarer to his 10-trick contract earned the partners an excellent score, for at many tables an overtrick (or two) was made.

Why did Mrs. Truscott jettison the club queen at the first opportunity? Well, she knew that declarer had started with six trumps (West's jack had fallen on the second trump lead); four spades (West had led the deuce originally, as her fourth - highest); and two diamonds (declarer had ruffed the fourth diamond lead). Hence, declarer had, at most, one club (if he had five spades, he would have had no clubs).

Since Mrs. Hawes couldn't know declarer's hand (East might have had five spades, in which case declarer would have had two clubs), the discard of the club queen stated: "Declarer has only one club. Take your ace when South leads a club."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dizon

FRIDAY, FEB. 22

Your Birthday today:
Opens a year of frequent exchange of old for new, usually before you feel completely ready. Many of you will enter new vocations this year, or adopt new ways of doing your accustomed work. Relationships are tested, must redevelop into stronger ties if they are to endure. Intuition arises to guide you, if you have the faith to follow it. Today's natives are fond of pleasure, can make a smooth approach to almost any question.

Aries [March 21 - April 19]: Even people close to you may mislead you with their confused information. Do your own sorting out, your own researches into confidential matters.

Taurus [April 20 - May 20]: Make distinctions between the social and the financial; avoid little schemes your friends cook up. Neighborly visiting provides rewarding moments.

Gemini [May 21 - June 20]: Details pile up and have to be carefully noted as you take care of them. People tend to hear only what they want to hear—make records along the way.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: New questions open for investigation before you're done with the old ones. Negotiations of any sort should be held tentative until next week.

Leo [July 23 - Aug. 22]: Helpful agreements begin but then become knotty, difficult to complete. Give yourself time to see all the fine points. Your money seems determined to escape.

Virgo [Aug. 23 - Sept. 22]: Do the best you can with the rush of closing out the work week, wasting no time with side issues, starting no new projects. Pace your efforts to avoid fatigue.

Libra [Sept. 23 - Oct. 22]: Impractical ideas abound, with everybody all set to put them to use. You get a chance to use your special skills in coping with the passing scene.

Scorpio [Oct. 23 - Nov. 21]: Investing is out for the day; even simple payments should be well receipted. Ventures requiring imagination thrive, diverge into fresh directions.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22 - Dec. 21]: It's a great day for family festivals. Somewhere on the lively scene a general discussion of what to do in the near future takes place.

Capricorn [Dec. 22 - Jan. 19]: Decisions come up abruptly and have to be made. Make no promises now as even tentative estimates are apt to be taken as statements of fact.

Aquarius [Jan. 20 - Feb. 18]: It's a mixed sort of day with far too many things to take care of, too brief a time to attend to them all fully. Make priorities early.

Pisces [Feb. 19 - March 20]: Clear off belated correspondence, using caution in referring to business transactions. You are into unfamiliar conditions. Make no snap judgments.

Colorful, Exciting Haiti Offers Pleasant Tours

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor
PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Haiti has to be one of the most colorful and exciting countries in the Caribbean. It is a land of exotic beauty—of green-mantled mountains, crystal-clear waterfalls and primeval jungles. It is a land of contrasts, of the old and the new, of want and wealth. It is also a land of a proud people. For Haiti was the first Negro republic in the New World, with former slaves winning independence in the early 1800s by defeating the armies of Napoleon's France.

Then there's its unique heritage, a blending of African, French and West Indian cultures and traditions. As the late President Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier once put it: "Haitians are Africans by race, Americans by geography and French by language." Haiti was a popular port-of-call for years but tourism dropped to virtually nothing in the 1960s because of troubles during Papa Doc's regime. But the picture changed after his death in 1971 and the disbandment of his dreaded secret police known as the Tonton Macoutes.

Since Jean Claude (Baby Doc) Duvalier succeeded his father in the Presidential Palace, many of the old fears faded away. As a result, American and other tourists have been coming back by plane and ship—more than 172,000 in the first nine months of 1973 for a new record, according to official reports. I visited Haiti with other American travel writers in conjunction with a series of inaugurations by Eastern Air Lines to 13 new island destinations in the Caribbean. In addition to Haiti, they include Jamaica, St. Thomas, Trinidad-Tobago, Guadeloupe, Martinique, Dominican Republic, St. Maarten, Aruba, Curacao, Antigua, Barbados and St. Lucia.

Taxpayers May Find A Surprise

(This is the first in a series of five articles on 1973 Federal Income Tax returns.)
By BURKE HAYMES
President
Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants
Taxpayers will find that the biggest surprise in the tax returns this year is the fact that they are easier to fill out. Less detailed information is required on both medical expenses and contributions to charity. Doctor, dentist and hospital payments can now be lumped and the total given without itemization. The same is true of cash contributions for which receipts or cancelled checks can be produced if the IRS requests them.

There are several top-rated hotels in Port-au-Prince, including the storied Grand Hotel Olofsson, owned by American Al Seitz. But most of the resorts catering to tourists are located in Petitionville, about 1,500 feet up in the cool hills. All have pools and can help make arrangements for the use of golf, tennis and other sport facilities as well as the beach.

It was my second trip to Haiti—my first was in 1965 for the opening of the Duvalier International Airport. Then I was shaken by the grinding poverty of the people and the atmosphere of tension. This time, Haitians in the

In previous years, taxpayers were required to supply detailed information to be used by Uncle Sam in assigning revenue sharing funds to local communities. This has now been boiled down to a space for one's county of residence. It is no longer necessary to use a separate form to allocate a dollar of one's tax payment (two dollars in the case of joint returns) to an election campaign fund to be drawn by all political parties in the future presidential races. Now it's just a matter of checking a box on Form 1040.

Large Library
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The new $3 million general library at the University of Missouri-Kansas City can seat 1,200 persons.

A second box can be checked if the taxpayer failed to allocate a dollar to the election fund last year but wishes to do so retroactively. Last year, taxpayers with income from dividends or interest over $200 had to itemize it on a separate Schedule B. Now Schedule B has been eliminated. Total amounts received from dividends and interest are entered on page 1 of Form 1040.

Elimination of Schedule B also makes it possible for persons with interest or dividend income over $200 to use the short form, 1040A, if they wish. Generally, Form 1040A has been simplified, too—along the lines of the changes in the long form. The improvements in the tax form mean that now, more than ever, taxpayers who had no complicated financial transactions during the year should be able to prepare their own tax returns.

The Veterans Administration is offering tips for recipients of veterans' benefits in preparing their federal income tax returns. Officials noted that, in general, veterans' benefits are exempt from taxation, and need not be reported as income. Interest on government life insurance dividends left on deposit or credit with VA is an exception. Since this interest is considered income, it must be reported, officials explained. Dividends and proceeds from government life insurance policies are exempt from

Car Pool Drivers Need To Check On Insurance

By MICHAEL J. CONLON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The energy crisis is driving an increasing number of Americans into car pools. If you're one of them, now might be a good time to check your insurance policy. Both riders and drivers of car pools can face tricky legal situations. In some cases the car pool organizer's liability or injury insurance might even be invalid in the event of an accident.

new household hazard—the falling toilet seat. The victims, commission officials add, are most often four-year-old boys. Every year, they say, hospital reports come in telling of such accidents. The problem is not with the seat itself but with decorative seat covers which take up so much room behind and at the hinge of the seat that they can cause it to totter and trap the unwary toddler.

United States must be made entirely in Mexico, under new government rules which went into effect Feb. 1. It can still be bottled in this country but the booze itself has to be Mexican. The Mexicans, meanwhile, have agreed to treat bourbon as a product that comes only from the United States.

Helping America Understand

In 1820, at the age of 15, Maria Beckett opened a school in Washington, D.C. for girls of her race. Then, in 1831, she turned the school over to a former student and joined the Sisters of Providence in Baltimore, which was a teaching order for black nuns.

While at Tuskegee Institute, George Washington Carver extracted wonderful things from the Alabama soil. His work with the peanut and sweet potato yielded unheard of products such as ink, cooking oil, peanut butter, rope and other commodities beneficial to man.

Prince Hall, a free Negro, veteran of the Revolutionary War and founder of the Negro Masonic order, spoke out for equal education in Boston in 1788. When the Government of Massachusetts offered black children only segregated classrooms, Prince Hall established a school for black children in his own home.

Science Today

By AL ROSSITER Jr.
UPI Science Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major improvements in the treatment of cancer have been made during the past decade and doctors are now beginning to focus attention on the problems of those who have been cured.

The overall cancer cure rate is now approaching 50 per cent, although it drops to one third when the 95 per cent success rate for skin cancer is discounted.

"But even though a third of patients with cancer are cured, the treatment leaves in its wake a series of new problems for the patient, his family and society," said Dr. C. Gordon Zubrod, director of cancer treatment at the National Cancer Institute.

He said at a recent symposium on the subject at George town University Medical School that the population of cured cancer patients is likely to increase greatly in the next few years and he said much can be done to improve their quality of life.

"Emotional Stress"

"Probably the most severe problem of cured cancer patients is in the psychological sphere," Zubrod said. "It does not take much imagination to recognize that the cured patient has many reasons for emotional stress—the original treatment, the years of wondering if he is in the one-third that will be cured, the residual cosmetic and functional deficiencies, the high cost of medical care, the fear that he will be left with the inability to retain his job, in some instances sterility, and so on."

He said children have extra problems, partly because the family structure can be rocked by the illness and partly because of difficulties involved with the child's return to school and social activities. He said the child who has had leukemia often is avoided by his peers and sometimes by school officials because they fear the disease is contagious.

"Clearly a massive educational effort is in order to have the community understand there are cured cancer patients and just because they've had leukemia or Hodgkin's Disease does not mean they're going to infect other people," Zubrod said.

Executive Alcoholic Problem

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor
NEW CANAAN, Conn. (UPI) — Identifying the executive alcoholic is the same as identifying any alcoholic employee.

There is impaired job function. As central nervous system impairment or depression deepens judgment, attitude, performance go blotto.

Dr. Luther A. Cloud, who sketched those characteristics of the alcoholic, is senior associate medical director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. He participated in a Silver Hill Foundation seminar on the executive alcoholic.

At the New Canaan, Conn. meeting of corporate medical directors and others in frontlines of the battle against alcoholism, Dr. Cloud said the best modus operandi for detection of the executive alcoholic is an informed and suspicious supervisor.

Blow the Whistle

However, there is a tendency to give more protection and show more leniency to the executive alcoholic than lower echelon workers, he noted.

Blowing the whistle on the alcoholic is best done through job discipline — be the alcoholic a rank and file worker or an executive.

"An attitude that there is nothing wrong with the use of alcohol in business is an attitude we should examine," Dr. Cloud said.

"We should weigh the use of alcohol in business."

Included in such use are the three martini lunch, the cocktail party, breakfasts with bloody Marys and screwdrivers.

Where the executive alcoholic is concerned, Dr. Cloud said it's a matter of the higher you rise the farther you can fall.

"There have been poor business judgments," he said, "even on mergers. The cost of the alcoholic executive or one in government, with perhaps his hand on the red button... is impossible to calculate."

Get Tough

At whatever level the worker, Dr. Cloud said it helps to have someone at a higher level say — either you get into this program (for alcoholics) or else you're fired.

Dr. Cloud said there are three times to watch for problems with drink on the executive front. He cited them:

- Inability to achieve a higher level. The time of promotion might, for example, turn a person to drink.
- At times of mergers. Demotions, in fact, may be the order for many executives who held high places in the old companies.
- At times of great stress outside the office. Marriage, divorce, death.

"At any of these three times, the dormant alcoholic may come into bloom," Dr. Cloud said.

What about bosses or workers who ignore alcoholism. Either in their employees or in their supervisors? Bad.

"All too often we see the problem and are good people and are trapped by our goodness into doing nothing."

"It may be a peer or a boss and we avoid confrontation. But confront we must. Confrontation is not pleasant but it is necessary."

Alcohol Gains
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The Department of Finance estimated the per capita consumption of hard liquor in California in 1973 at 3.76 gallons per adult — up from 3.70 in 1972.

Finance experts forecast only a "moderate" increase in this figure in 1974 due to the energy crisis.

WITH NO CURE IN SIGHT

Hawaii Has Housing Shortage

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD
HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii's housing shortage, like the common cold, seems to have no cure.

Neither government housing agencies nor private industry has solved the problem which grows worse every year. The population is soaring and the need for housing is enormous, but Hawaii has the lowest home ownership ratio of any state.

The newly arrived resident from the United States mainland who lived in a spacious $30,000 home goes into shock when he finds that the same amount in the Aloha State will buy a tiny dwelling on a small piece of land in rural Oahu.

Mayor Frank Fasi put the problem in perspective by saying, "When developers on Oahu call $48,000 units 'low-cost housing,' we are in real trouble."

"Crisis" is the word many lawmakers and residents use in describing the shortage and astronomical costs.

William Sewell, the past president of the Home Builders Association of Hawaii and a contractor, told just how gloomy the situation is and predicted it won't be getting any better in the near future.

"Hawaii has the lowest home ownership ratio of any state," he said. "Sixty-two per cent of the residents rent and only 38 per cent own condominiums or houses," Sewell said. "On the mainland it's the other way around."

"The lowest priced home on the market is $48,000. The average resale price in 1973 was $85,000. For that the buyer got an older home with four bedrooms, two bathrooms, outdated fixtures on a 7,000-square-foot lot."

Land costs are sky high and keep climbing.

A lot that cost $30,000 three years ago goes for $60,000 today. Much of the land is leasehold and the homeowner pays a fee knowing that eventually he will have to renegotiate when the lease expires and the cost will go up.

Sewell explained that because there is so little flat land left, the cost of constructing homes is heightened by building on hilly, rugged terrain. Dynamite is needed, Sewell said, and the cost is increased by sewage considerations and modifications warding off Hawaii's flash floods, such as unusually large storm drains and overhangs.

Although single walled construction was the pattern for many years, builders are now turning toward double walled construction in a California ranch style. Homes are usually wood and sometimes stucco on a concrete foundation.

Hawaii's warm climate makes heating units and cellars unnecessary and lowered windows take advantage of the trade winds and eliminate the need for air-conditioning.

Skylines Change

Families desperate for housing are turning to condominiums, and Hawaii's once unblemished skyline is now a panorama of highrises. A small two-bedroom condominium can be bought in the $40,000 range while below the studios are available.

The shortage for low and middle-income groups runs from 30,000 to 60,000 units. Although Hawaii has what is considered one of the best state housing acts in the country, the crunch doesn't ease up.

The $190 million omnibus housing act passed by the 1970 legislature and administered by the Hawaii Housing Authority aims at giving the state agency money and muscle. The agency can offer interim loans to house builders, go into joint ventures with them, arrange for short or long term financing and even act as a developer of housing project on its own.

But the HHA's efforts haven't even started to fill the need. The chief reasons are the cost of land, the lack of staff to process applications and the agency's inability to get more private companies to go into joint ventures with it.

FOR AREA ARTISTS

Centennial Group To Have Contest

The Texas Panhandle Centennial Committee announces a contest for area artists interested in designing the commemorative medal to be used in the upcoming Bi-Centennial celebration.

Two sides of the commemorative medal will be designed. The first side will bear the general, Panhandle Centennial Commemorative design, to appear on all medals.

The second side will be decorated with artwork appropriate to each participating community and-of county and will appear on the medals used for the celebrations in the various participating communities.

Cultural aspects such as cattle, windmills, oil wells etc., can also be included.

Subject matter for the community - county designs should agree with suggested Panhandle Centennial Commemorative subjects. (A list of subjects is available at the office of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and will be mailed upon request.)

Artists submitting designs for the Panhandle Commemorative should mail those entries to: the Texas Panhandle Centennial Committee, Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, 301 Polk, Amarillo, Tex. 79101.

Prizes for the over-all Panhandle Centennial side will be $100, or two sets of artists proofs, and will be paid by the Panhandle Centennial Committee.

The prizes for the various community - county design winners will be paid by the local Centennial committees.

Finished commemorative medals will be approximately 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Artistic designs are to fit entirely within an 8-inch to 12-inch circle, allowing for border - edge inscription.

Entries are to be submitted in black and white, pen and ink.

Designs for the Panhandle commemorative should convey a geographic panorama of the Texas Panhandle, such as the High Plains and the Caprock.

Designs for the community - county competitions should be mailed to the local Bi-Centennial Committees, in care of the Chambers of Commerce.

Texas Panhandle Centennial Committee personnel include Jim Thomas, chairman, Amarillo; Mrs. Norma Selvidge, vice chairman, Clarendon; Jerry Sinise, heritage chairman, Amarillo; Margaret Harper, festival chairman, Canyon; Jo Ella Randall, horizons chairman, Panhandle.

Members-at-large are Clotilde (Mrs. Fred) Thompson, Pampa; Lou Cooley, Borger; Bill Lance, Perryton - Spearman; and Vance Swinburn, Tulia.

Selection of members - at-large for Dalhart and Hereford will be made in the near future.

University Sets Summer Project Of Oral History

AMARILLO — The West Texas State University history department is planning a summer project of oral history for the Panhandle region, financed by a $3,000 grant.

According to Dr. Frederick Rathjen, associate professor of history, the project will cover all aspects of the early Panhandle settler's life.

"We're interested in any phase of Panhandle history which includes everything that everybody has done, including the most humble people. We regard people who did commonplace things as well as important people," Dr. Rathjen said.

The history professor says he wants to contact people who had personal and thorough knowledge of some phase of Panhandle history.

"We want to try to figure out a way to isolate and interview in the greatest number of knowledgeable people," Dr. Rathjen added.

The $3,000 grant comes from the Texas College and University Bicentennial Committee.

"Final details of the project have not yet been fully completed," Dr. Rathjen said.

Taped interviews of the pioneers will probably be conducted by some WT students and faculty members. Afterwards, they will be transcribed. The final product, according to the project head, will be placed in the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum (Canyon) permanently. "They will be primarily for student and graduate research purposes and any other interested person," the doctor said.

"Anything you do to preserve the history of a region is a success," Dr. Rathjen commented, "but we want to be the greatest success we possibly can be."

Groups Formed

Construction firms make more money with less trouble by building private housing. The HHA has held a construction firm's profit down to an average 7 or 7 1/2 per cent, and a company often can make 10 to 20 per cent on $60,000 and $70,000 homes.

Frustrated citizens have formed several groups which offer solutions, but there's little action.

The People's Housing Coalition, a lobby for low-cost housing, suggests that any new development be compelled to allocate a percentage of homes for low and moderate income families and that the tax system should be geared to deter short term speculation.

Balding Beer Drinker Finds Aristotlean School In Hill Country

By FRANK GRIFFIS
FLORENCE, Tex. (UPI) — William Cox, balding graybeard who looks as if he had swallowed a pair of basketballs whole, resembled anyone but Aristotle as he wiped a blob of white beer foam from his lumberjack mustache.

In his green flannel shirt and worn bluejeans, the barefoot Cox was the picture of country funk — a mountianman or a buffalo hunter straight from the Old West. But to the nine men and one woman who live with him in the six-room white frame house in the rugged Texas Hill

Country, he's a spaceage Aristotle — a teacher, philosopher, provider, protector and father. Four years ago Cox, 35, who holds a B. S. in zoology and has worked toward a Ph. D. in cellular physics, began coaching a few young people who were having trouble, scholastically and psychologically. As his efforts expanded and his following grew, Cox moved from his small hut on Lake Travis to a 264-acre ranch 60 miles north of Austin. "Lyceum II exists entirely on donations. We have no tuition or fees," Cox said, shifting his bare feet in a ragged chair. "It's a system of education based on Aristotle's Lyceum — a combination reading program and discussion." Cox develops individual reading lists for each student who is assigned a study partner. Although the commune is based on the Catholic religion, no Bible study is required, although Cox says it is an important part of the overall program. "We have big evening group discussions which are unstructured in the sense we don't try to limit them to what the topic is but to wherever the discussion will take them," Cox said. Across the room with its paneled walls, gun racks and cheap prints, sat Cox' second-in-command. Steve Kuhns, 21, of El Paso, the son of a retired U. S. Army colonel, couldn't have looked more at home. The goateed young man, in his multi-patched bluejeans, wire-rimmed glasses and battered straw hat bristling with feathers looked almost as rustic as the living room furniture. John Howard Payne wrote "Home, Sweet Home" in 1823.

How To Create A Crisis

We are indebted to the Americanism Educational League for publishing a bit of information titled "How to Create An Energy Crisis."

With regard to coal, ban the use of coal with sulfur content. This sharply restricts the supply. Sharply restrict strip mining for cosmetic reasons.

restricted, that leaves only petroleum. First, grossly increase automotive consumption of gasoline by requiring drastic reductions in engine efficiency because of pollution-related modifications.

Legal Theft Doesn't Pay

There is some suggestion that robbery doesn't pay even when performed with a law instead of a gun.

Also in the face of the shortage, Congress is being pushed to lift FCC regulations and will probably do so because working men understand the connection between energy and jobs.

To be sure that all of the above is misunderstood by the general public, bring a law suit which charges all the largest energy companies with being non-competitive and therefore causing the energy shortage.

ALL THAT GLITTERS Early Bird Candidates Should Campaign On Their Own Time

WASHINGTON — Reasserting his White House aspirations, Sen. Charles Percy last week issued a bizarre terpsichorean challenge to his rivals for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination.

former New York governor, who resigned last month to head up his 1976 campaign front, the euphemistically named Commission on Critical Choices for America.

Perhaps, as Percy argues, the American people have reason to be cynical about politics these days. But when it comes to public opinion about presidential candidature, he mistakes the cause.

INSIDE LABOR Canadian Unions Begin Cutting Affiliations With U.S. Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL. NEW YORK — When most Americans think "north" they think romantically of the Klondike, the Gold Rush, Charlie Chaplin, Jack London and nature's gift to the filling station — the Prudhoe Bay petroleum which soon will come gurgling through the Alaskan pipeline.

Canadians always were threatening to pull their 215 locals and 52,000 members out of the international and launch their own Canadian National Union.

Or, said Tonelli, the Canadians could agree to part as friends. They did. He and L.H. Lorrain, executive vice president and Canadian paperworkers director, said jointly:

It's unfortunate so few think of Canada. There, an almost fanatical anti-U.S. nationalism is sweeping from the Atlantic Maritime provinces to the Pacific. And since there is no Canadian oil pipeline east of Toronto, Canada must buy fuel for its eastern provinces from the Middle East and Venezuela.

And all this time as demands and threats continued, they drew more money from the international headquarters here in New York (which represents 300,000 workers) than the Canadians paid it in per capita dues.

It will be reflected during the week of May 13 when the Canadian Labor Congress holds its biennial national convention in Vancouver. There will be calls for disaffiliation from American unions. There will be resolutions attacking the U.S. position on the Middle East, on Southeast Asia, on capitalism, on many world issues in contradiction to American labor.

Just below the social surface. But now its visibility is clear (though virtually no one this side of the border has paid it much heed) on one front — strategic labor movement. There, the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) is a militant, left wing Socialist federation, allied with an increasingly strong political party, increasingly eager to challenge the government in the style of British miners, increasingly developing new labor weapons, such as the rotating, hit-and-run strike and crippling of vital services.

Union chiefs have in recent years paralyzed the railroads, the airlines, the post offices, vital mines, key docks and newspaper and paper production so crucial to the U.S.

Diabetic can lead an active, normal life. It is likely to be absent less than the nondiabetic. Diabetes research is at this moment on the brink of several major breakthroughs. Within two months I hope to report on one highly encouraging one.

Hundreds of thousands of these strikers are members of "international" unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO — a fact considerably obnoxious to the CLC leaders.

There are some 800,000 Canadians in unions with such affiliations (AFL-CIO). There are others in the independent auto workers, teamsters and miners international unions.

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE With All Tax Returns Be Published Eventually?

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER. By and large I have favored the increasing pressure in recent years for public disclosure (in general terms) of the income sources of the politicians who run, or aspire to run, our lives.

At the same time, the "Times" could call on the key officials, editors and news analysts of the Washington "Post," "Time," "Newsweek," the Columbia Broadcasting System, the National Broadcasting Company and the American Broadcasting Company, and all others in the media who exercise a critical influence on American opinion and taste, to disclose this same information.

H. L. Hunt Writes

KILLERS AT LARGE. From time to time, this column reviews crime rate statistics accumulated by police departments and the FBI. They seem to grow worse. It has been pointed out, however, that statistics don't bleed. What is heartbreaking are the individual stories of wanton slaying that seem to come out of our cities and towns each day.

Recently it occurred to the New York "Times" to ask all six senators and sixty congressmen from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut to send along to it not only a statement of their net worth but a copy of their latest federal income tax return.

It is a devilishly clever trick, for any public official who declines to comply can count on being spotlighted and pilloried for his refusal. "What has he got to hide?" will be the insistent question, and don't kid yourself that it won't hurt. He may have nothing whatever to hide; he may only be refusing in an effort to keep this infection from spreading — as otherwise it will certainly spread — in direct contravention of the growing emphasis in recent years on "the right to privacy."

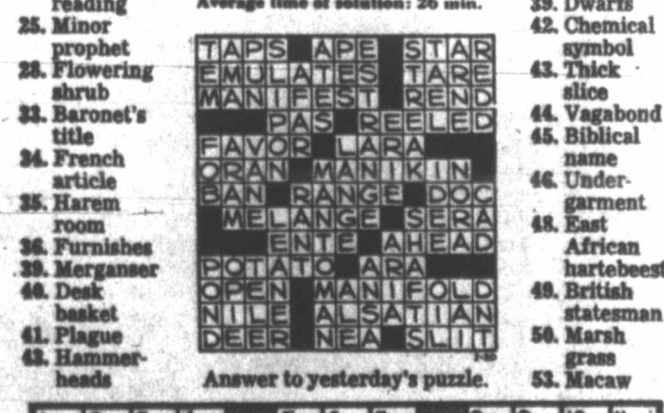

It is difficult to understand the base animal instincts of the perpetrators of these crimes. It is not difficult to understand the problems of the police as they try to prevent these outrages. The ranks of the police of the nation have not swelled in proportion to that of the criminal population. Far too many loopholes are found in the law to protect the criminal and the rights of the victims are ignored.

Under the circumstances, the "Times" can demonstrate its good faith in this matter by publishing a statement of the net worth and copies of the latest income tax returns of Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, Harding Bancroft, Sidney Gruson, James Reston, John B. Oakes, A.H. Raskin, A.M. Rosenthal, Seymour Topping, Max Frankel, Jack Rosenthal, Charlotte Curtis, Clifton Daniel, Tom Wicker, as well as those of any others who determine its editorial and reportorial

Many citizen groups are now actively engaged in giving the law enforcement people help in the war on crime. Crime commissions and committees support the police as do associations of merchants and other businessmen. There is also law - Aid, an unofficial program launched by this column several years ago. Its mission is to lend assistance to police officers through commendations and the providing of information to help solve crimes. It is urged that all citizens who are interested in the internal security of the Republic participate in Law - Aid and other worthwhile public groups dedicated to the support of officers. If we fail to stamp out crime, the nation is in dire straits.

Classical records

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Over the past several months, there have been such a number of generally fine opera recordings released that it is difficult to know where to begin. One good place is with Verdi.

Coincidentally with the first performance of Verdi's "I Vespri Siciliani" at the Metropolitan Opera comes an RCA recording of it with the same conductor (ARL 4-0370), which puts the opera in the current catalogue for the first time.

James Levine conducts both the Met and RCA recorded performances and baritone Sherrill Milnes sings the same role of Monforte in both. The rest of the RCA cast is also star — soprano Martina Arroyo, tenor Placido Domingo and bass Ruggero Raimondo. The orchestra is the New Philharmonia.

This is an excellent all round version of an almost forgotten opera, which nevertheless contains some rousing Verdi music and displays some significance in his musical development.

A much better known (and better) Verdi opera is "La Forza del Destino" of which there are several versions already currently available on records. Now one of the classic recordings of it has just returned to the current catalogue as a re-issue on the Seraphim label—Angel's 1954 recording by Maria Callas and a superb La Scala cast including a young Richard Tucker and Nicola Rossi-Lemeni under the direction of the late Tullio Serafin (IC-6088).

The early 1950's were vintage Callas years. While the recording is mono, it is good mono sound, and its return is highly welcome.

Along with Verdi, Mozart also has two recent releases. One is a re-release of the Metropolitan Opera's 1952 recording of "Così fan tutte" in English by Columbia (Y3-32670), and the other is a new "Magic Flute" issued by Angel (SCL-3007).

"Così fan tutte" was one of the more successful English-language versions produced by the Met. The names and voices of the cast are hauntingly familiar — Eleanor Steber, Blanche Thebom, Roberta Peters, Richard Tucker, Frank Guarrera and Lorenzo Alvari. Fritz Stiedry was the conductor.

There were already several good "Magic Flutes" on records but the new Angel version is nevertheless worthy. Wolfgang Sawallisch conducts the orchestra and chorus of the Bavarian State Opera with a star cast including Anneliese Rothenberger, Brigitte Fassbaender, Olivera Miljakovic, Edda Moser, Peter Schreier, Walter Berry, Kurt Moll and Theo Adam.

Other opera must get even shorter mention because of space:

Leontyne Price sings a beautiful new "Tosca" (Puccini) for RCA with Placido Domingo and Sherrill Milnes (ARL 2-0185). Zubin Mehta is the conductor with the New Philharmonia Orchestra.

There is a London release of Mascagni's Cavalleria Rusticana with Renata Tebaldi, Jussi Bjoerling, Ettore Bastanini and the Maggio Musicale under Albert Erede (OSA 12101).

On the lighter side from Vienna, Columbia has issued the Met's 1950 English-language "Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss with Lily Pons, Ljuba Welitsch, Martha Lipton, Tucker again, Charles Kullman and John Brownlee (Y3-32666).

Applications Needed On School Transfer

AUSTIN — Parents who wish to transfer children from their home school district to another area for the 1974-75 scholastic year should make necessary application to the district by May 1, 1974. Leon R. Graham, Texas Education Agency assistant commissioner for administration, announced.

The May 1 deadline for requests will enable school districts to file summary reports with the Texas Education Agency by May 15, Graham points out.

These reports will be reviewed by the Agency to make sure none of the transfer requests violate U.S. District Court Order 5281 issued by Judge William Wayne Justice in Tyler on April 2, 1971.

Under this order, any transfer of students from one school district to another must not change the racial or ethnic balance in either the home or receiving district by more than one percent.

If the balance is altered by more than one percent, the transfers will be denied, Graham adds.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Horace raises a legal problem that infuriates millions of honest citizens. Why should the property owner in today's case be held in $75,000 bail for shooting the invading criminal, while the latter was required to furnish only $1,500 (2%) as much?

CASE Z-558: Horace B., aged 19, is a college sophomore.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am taking pre-law courses, for I expect to enter Law School."

"But I am confused about the differential way our courts are treating home owners versus criminal intruders."

"For example, you may have noticed the recent Chicago case where thieves were breaking into a garage."

"The owner resolved to sleep in the loft of the family garage to see if he couldn't apprehend the culprits next time."

"On about the 8th night, he woke up to hear them, apparently trying to loot his garage."

"The time was about 2 A.M., and two couples were reported as involved."

"He finally shot as they fled and found that he had killed a young woman about 20 and wounded another married girl, aged 18."

"The men got away, but one of them was a repeater criminal, who may have instigated the robbery."

"But what puzzles me is the fact that the owner, who shot the culprits, was arraigned with a bail of $75,000, while the girl he shot in the arm, was only booked with a bail of $1,500."

"Yet she was one of the guilty parties, while the owner of the bike was defending his own private property!"

"How can the courts justify such playing footsie with criminals, yet penalizing honest property owners who try to protect their hard earned possessions?"

COURT CAVILLING
Maybe it is high time modern Applied Psychology became an ally of the courts!

extension of his own personality.

If you thus mutilate or destroy a person's nose or hand or eye, that is deemed a very serious offense and is called mayhem.

But if you likewise damage his auto or steal his bicycle, that would thus be termed at least a cousin of mayhem, as per Dr. James!

Furthermore, if you worked for 8 months and saved all your pay to buy a $4,000 automobile, that auto then represents half a year of your lifespan!

Anybody who thus steals or destroys that auto, has figuratively killed you six months ahead of time, via destroying half a year of your productive life!

The American public is murmuring angrily, not just at the Watergate bungling lawyers, but also at what they consider the miscarriage of justice in our courts by coddling criminals and penalizing honest defenders of property.

And it isn't the faithful policemen who are at fault, for they find that when they risk their lives in defense of us citizens, the criminals they arrest are often turned loose with a figurative slap on the wrist or are paroled to commit additional rapes, thefts and arson.

One ranking police official recently told me that policemen are thus discouraged at this wanton coddling of law breakers.

"We endanger our lives to apprehend the guilty, only to see them laugh at us as they stroll out of the courtroom, paroled or freed on technicalities!"

Can't Kiss Without 'Cracking'

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Mine is a rather unusual problem. I would imagine. Unfortunately any doctor I ask about it just smiles and says not to worry about it, but it is a real nuisance to me.

My right jaw cracks! I cannot eat without its cracking. Or kiss my fiancé without cracking. Or yawn without cracking.

It is not a quiet little sound but one which, believe me, can be heard at the next table. I would appreciate any serious suggestions.

—M.W.
I won't "just smile." I'll give you a serious suggestion. For one thing, you are probably too young for arthritic changes of the jaw joint, and anyway there would be other signs.

But a very common cause of jaw-cracking is malocclusion—the teeth don't come together quite right. This can cause the jaw joints to dislocate slightly, or the two joints to close differently.

A dentist can correct malocclusion. And may peace and quite attend your kissing.

I have not the least intention of encouraging teenagers to engage in sexual intercourse.

because a certain number of them will get in trouble. But better they should understand birth control methods, and their good and bad points, than not know the facts.

The booklet, by the way, is not primarily intended for young people, but birth control is something (I think) everyone should understand by the time of adulthood.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a brain wave test taken two weeks after a convulsion show brain damage? My 2-year-old grandson had a high fever and a convulsion, and someone told me the test has to be taken immediately after the convulsion to be of any use.

—Mrs. M.S.
No, that's not correct. An EEG (brain wave test) taken during or immediately after a convulsion could show abnormal (and incorrect) results because of the brain activity at that time.

Unless there has been brain damage, a test taken two weeks (or longer) afterward would be normal.

In any event, convulsions due to high fever are not unusual in infants, and in most cases there is no particular risk of brain damage. If, however, convulsions persist as the child gets older, studies should be repeated to determine a cause other than high fever.

Not to Mrs. R.H.: No, exercise would not prevent you from getting pregnant. Have your doctor search for some other factor.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's newly revised booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to him, Dr. George C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson is happy to receive readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, he regrets he cannot answer letters individually.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

'First Lady' Is Canasta Player

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — New York City's new First Lady, Mrs. Mary Beame, wife of Mayor Abe Beame, is a tireless canasta player, and she revealed over a canasta game that the Beames will move into Gracie Mansion from Belle Harbor (and Brooklyn) Monday, Feb. 25 or Tuesday, Feb. 26.

It will be a blow to the bridge and backgammon addicts that canasta is the favorite diversion of Mrs. Beame. When the Mayor goes to a basketball or hockey game, Mrs. Beame plays canasta with the girls. As a clever reporter, I have bugged these canasta games and will keep coming up with hot exclusives like this.

The girls play for nominal sums. And the games last long. Once when I was going to Chicago, I said goodbye to the B.W. as she was starting a canasta game with kinfolks.

Arriving there, I phoned her the cheery news I was alive. "We're still playing the first game," she gaily replied. "I haven't got up from the table since you left."

Josephine Baker from St. Louis, the toast of Europe, told a chic black-tie dancing crowd at Raffles that she's going to bring back continental, fashionable glamour to N.Y. "I'm going to stay here singing as long as they want me," declared "Miss Bakair." For the pooh crowd she sang not only "La Vie En Rose" type songs but also "Darling Je Vous Aime Beaucoup," originated by Hildegarde from Milwaukee, but written by Anna Sosenko of Camden, N.J. and W. 62nd St., the antiquarian.

Miss Bakair was wearing some sequin confetti, or glitter-dust, on her eyelids, and in her lower areas, not a hell of a lot. What a valentine for heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry's wife! While she was buying a gown to wear to the press conference to announce the fight between her husband and Muhammad Ali, the fight was called off by Muhammad. I asked several experts about it and they said she was allowed to keep the gown, and, anyway, just try to get it back from her!

The Washington "experts" who so fearlessly forecast that President Nixon would resign by Feb. 22 have slightly changed their calculations. They had thought he would quit giving "ill health" as the reason but now that the President's passed his physical, they are saying there'll be another explanation—but they still think the "date" won't be much later than March 15. (Why not make it April 15—Tax Time?)

Under Twenty

Paul Bullock is a small electrical contractor.

"I learned my trade," he says, "as an apprentice to my father who was in the business. I have two electricians and one apprentice—helper working for me and we keep busy, often six days a week. Our work is equally divided between new construction and repairs or new installations in older homes."

Paul is one of almost 200,000 construction electricians in the country, a figure that is expected to grow very rapidly during the next decade. The expansion is expected mainly because of the anticipated large expansion of the construction industry as well as greater requirements for electric outlets, switches and wiring in homes and businesses.

Construction electricians lay out, assemble, install and test electrical fixtures, apparatus and wiring. Electrical systems provide heat, light, power, air conditioning and refrigeration in residences, office buildings, factories, hospitals, schools and other structures.

Most construction electricians work for electrical contractors like Paul Bullock while many are self-employed. Others work for business establishments or the government. Hourly wage rates are among the highest in the skilled building trades. Seasonal work affects electricians less than most construction workers, hence their annual income is high.

If you are interested in a career as a construction electrician it is recommended that you complete a 4-year apprenticeship program. An extensive program exists for applicants generally between the ages of 18 and 24. A high school education is required and courses in mathematics and physics are helpful.

Applicants are usually required to take tests to qualify for apprenticeship. The rate of pay during the apprenticeship period is good and increases. They are usually given every six months until the apprentice becomes a journeyman electrician.

Many construction electricians after they have gained experience go into business for themselves. As they expand their businesses, they may employ other workers and become contractors. In most large urban areas a master electrician license is required to work in the electrical contracting business.

Information about apprenticeship training may be obtained from: National Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee for the Electrical Industry, 1730 Rhode Island Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Women's Christian Temperance Union has undertaken a campaign to conserve energy by curtailing the production of demon rum.

Officials of the organization point out that substantial amounts of electricity, gas and other fuels are consumed in the distillation process.

I'm not disputing their premise, but in all fairness it should be noted that not all the energy used in making booze is wasted.

For one thing, the brandy that provides combustibles for crepes suzette and other flaming desserts helps heat the room in which they are served.

More than one family, running out of conventional fuel during a cold spell, has spent the evening huddled around a baked Alaska.

Threat Of Crisis
Even if the WCTU proposal gets nowhere, I have been told by industry sources that grain shortages, transportation difficulties and other problems could cause some disruptions in liquor production and distribution.

If they are correct, the government should start preparing for it now and not wait for a crisis to develop as in the case of gasoline.

The onset of the gas shortage forced many service stations to sharply curtail their business hours. That undoubtedly caused motorists some inconvenience but nothing compared to the hardships that would occur if bars only opened from 7 to 9 a.m.

The drinking habits of most Americans who imbibe are geared to the cocktail hour, which customarily doesn't begin until the afternoon. In some cases, 12:15 p.m.

Force them to switch their drinking to the breakfast hour and you've got trouble right here in River City.

Amenities Vanish
Imagine the scene at the local tavern. Long lines outside the swinging doors. A sign in the window that says: "Limit—3 ounces hard stuff; 10 ounces beer."

Traditional taproom amenities disappear. No bowls of salted peanuts. No swizzle sticks. As the customers file by, he merely hands them a shot in a jigger.

This situation, as we know from experience with the gas shortage, is going to foster a practice called "topping out."

Unsure where his next drink is coming from, a person who finds an open bar will stop in for a quickie whether he needs it or not.

Today's Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I've had this one big hang-up all my life.

I don't like guns. That goes for all guns. Rifles, shotguns, hand guns, you name, I don't like them.

My big trouble, or so they tell me, is that I'm a city boy, not a country boy, and that's why it's difficult for me to understand the necessity for people owning guns.

Self-protection is one of the reasons, I'm told. A man has a right to protect his home and family, hasn't he?

And what about hunting, which provides so much sport for millions throughout the land?

Queen Of Weapons
Sport. Now there's something I can understand, can't I, particularly being in the line I'm in? Did I have any idea at all what a rifle means to an owner?

"A rifle, or any gun for that matter, is a very fundamental possession," a man from Kentucky explained to me.

"Go back to the days of the Crusades when fine weapons were invented. You remember the Excalibur of King Arthur, the sword he was so proud of, don't you? Well, in much the same way, we're proud of our rifles. A rifle is considered the queen of all weapons."

To me a rifle is a gun, and when I think about guns and all the people getting killed by them, the first thing that runs through my mind is the so-called Saturday Night Special.

These cheap, pot metal Saturday Night Specials are popping up every place in the country and they're responsible for the deaths of people not only in the big cities like Atlanta, San Francisco and New York, but also in the smaller ones like Columbus, Ohio, Providence, R.I., and Omaha, Neb.

Some people still keep trying to sell me on the idea not all guns are bad. They say I have this blind spot about them, this prejudice.

Visits NRA
Okay then, where do I go to get un-prejudiced?

Funny I should ask, they say because there's a place right here in Washington where I can find out all about the constructive side of guns.

The place is called the National Rifle Association of America (NRA), and if you want to know any conceivable thing about firearms, this is the place to go.

I paid these people a visit and never was treated better anywhere in the world.

The first thing I noticed was a sign on the front of the building which said:

"The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Safety Program
Inside, the NRA's executive vice president, Maxwell Evans Rich, a friendly, distinguished looking man who is a retired Army general and reminded me vaguely of the late Douglas MacArthur, told me he was from a little town outside Salt Lake City and one of the first things he was exposed to growing up was a bee-bee gun and then a single shot .22 caliber rifle.

"You've got anywhere from 17 to 20 million people in the United States who take out a hunting license each year," he said. "To deprive them of this would be unfair. It's their hobby, their sport and source of food to some extent."

"They talk about us being the 'powerful gun lobby,'" he went on. "It disturbs me because of the things we do and don't get the recognition. We started a Hunter Safety Program in 1972 and about seven million have gone through the course. We also work with the fish and game commissions throughout the U.S. in the conservation of wildlife."

What about those Saturday Night Specials though, the guns that are so easy to get everywhere and are causing so much terror and tragedy all over America, I asked the general.

Defends Present Law
He frowned a bit. "It annoys us that Saturday Night Specials are equated with our rifles," he said. "You say 'Saturday Night Specials.' It's catchy. People wave the phrase and say 'let's get rid of it.' How do you define a Saturday Night Special? A cheap gun? Every gun that costs less than $25 is a Saturday Night Special and everyone above that is not?"

"Nobody can really define a Saturday Night Special. I remember when I was testifying before a subcommittee here once, Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), held up an Italian gun and said 'are you for this, yes or no?' I said I don't know, it is so I can't say."

"The National Rifle Association feels we have ample gun laws now if they could simply be enforced. There's the key to the problem right there. By law, a hardened criminal, a convicted felon, cannot carry a gun."

Hm-m-m. Next time one of those guys pulls one on me, I have to remember to tell him that.

Chicago Signs 3
Chicago Fire has signed up at least three players for this year's maiden World Football League season by topping offers from National Football League teams.

Leo Hayden of the St. Louis Cardinals, Glenn Robinson a third round draft choice of the Baltimore Colts, and Mark Kellar, national collegiate rushing champion from Northern Illinois University, said Fire owner Tom Origer made them offers they couldn't refuse.

They were among 18 players signed by the WFL Chicago franchise Wednesday. Ten of the 18 had either been signed or selected as draftees by NFL clubs.

Hayden, a former Ohio State star tailback who was the Minnesota Vikings' first choice in the 1970 draft and who played two years with St. Louis, said his contract calls for "better pay" than he ever got with the Cardinals, excluding bonuses or playoff shares.

Robinson, the Colts' third NFL draft pick, said Origer's offer was "much better than Baltimore's."

Kellar, picked sixth by Minnesota, said the Vikings "turned me off" on two counts.

"First, they told me they picked me because all the better running backs had been taken," he said, "and then their offer didn't even approach what I got from the Chicago Fire," he said.

Also signing on as Firemen were Jeff Stancell, running back once with the Atlanta Falcons; linebacker Keith Best, formerly of the Kansas City Chiefs, quarterback Johnny Walton, once with the Los Angeles Rams; wide receiver Bruce Jankowski, a former Chief, and Todd Snyder, a former Falcon.

In other games, Penn State rolled past West Virginia 63-63, St. Bonaventure eased by Canisius 85-82, Seton Hall downed Fordham 72-64, Boston College crushed Dartmouth 94-62, LaSalle blasted Villanova 104-66, Virginia beat Clemson 81-68.

Sidney Wicks and Geoff Petrie both scored 26 points for the visiting Trail Blazers, who dropped their fifth game in a row.

Wolfpack Licks Duke
By United Press International
Being No. 1 in the nation apparently agrees with David Thompson and the North Carolina State Wolfpack.

The Pack, playing its first game since taking over the No. 1 slot from UCLA this week, crushed Duke 113-87 Wednesday night behind an awesome 40-point performance by Thompson.

Thompson, a 6-foot-4 junior, hit 19 points in the first half and exploded for 21 more in the second as N.C. State boosted its record to 21-1. Tom Burlinson, the 7-4, center, added 17 points.

Duke Coach Neil McGeachy was awestruck afterward.

"State's the best team we've played and (David) Thompson may be the best player in the nation," said McGeachy, whose club has also lost to second-ranked Notre Dame.

"David was particularly quick and sharp and seemed to be motivated," said Wolfpack Coach Norman Sloan. "We're playing better all the time and the No. 1 ranking may have motivated us."

Thompson hit 16 of his 24 shots, was 8-for-10 from the foul line and pulled down 14 rebounds.

In other games involving ranked clubs, North Carolina (4) ripped Miami of Ohio 83-69, Maryland (6) bombed Duquesne 98-72, Pittsburgh (8) downed Temple 56-49 and South Carolina (16) overpowered Virginia Tech 83-71.

Bobby Jones had a career-high 29 points to lead North Carolina past Miami, the Tar Heels' 19th win in 22 games, and Len Elmore had 26 points and 17 rebounds and John Lucas hit 27 points as Maryland beat Duquesne.

Billy Knight and Lew Hill scored 12 points each as Pitt overcame slowdown tactics to beat Temple and run its winning streak to 22 games while Brian Winters hit 20 of his 21 points in the first half to lead South Carolina past Virginia Tech and into solid contention for an NCAA at-large bid.

Elsewhere, Lloyd Batts had 21 points as Cincinnati, also looking for a post-season berth, downed Xavier 68-56 and Syracuse raced past Niagara 80-60 to run its record to 17-6.

Dark Named Oakland Manager

OAKLAND (PI) — It's been an agonizing 2 1/2 years for Alvin Dark, a time to sit back and reflect and hopefully collect himself.

"I think I am a better man today than I ever was," said the 52-year-old Dark Wednesday, minutes after Charlie Finley had introduced him at a news conference as the new manager (12th in 14 years) of the World Champion Oakland A's.

Dark, who has known both the joys and agonies of big league baseball in a career that spans nearly 30 years, was finding it hard to pick the right words, standing up there in the glare of television cameras and countless microphones.

"Obviously, I've had my personal problems," he went on as Finley, who can be very charming when he chooses, put a fatherly arm around the man he fired as manager seven years ago. "But I've gotten myself straightened out and I believe I can be a better manager than I ever was."

Dark, a religious man, divorced his first wife four years ago and then remarried. He had other personal problems as well but held up while working on the front half of a five-year contract as manager and general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

But 2 1/2 years ago, the Indians, going nowhere, fired Dark and he went home to Miami. He's been trying to get a big league job ever since, not because he needed money, but just to be in the game.

When Finley and Dick Williams, who led the A's to World Championships the last two years, became embroiled in a cross-country argument over whether Williams would serve out his remaining two years with Oakland or sign with the Yankees, Dark called Finley and asked to be considered for Williams' job.

"Even though we had our differences in 1967 (the year Finley fired Dark while the A's were based in Kansas City) we always were friendly and cordial to one another," Finley said by way of explanation.

Neither Finley nor Dark cared much to talk about what happened in 1967 when Charlie fired Alvin over a player dispute during a flight. Reportedly, Dark stuck up for his players and that angered Finley, since he thought his manager's first allegiance was to the man who makes out his paycheck.

"I'm not going to comment on what happened seven years ago," Finley bristled, "and I'm sure Mr. Dark doesn't care to either. What both of us are interested in now is the present and the future. I think I hired a great baseball strategist and I'm sure he'll take us all the way this year."

Finley was asked if he would meddle into Dark's work and he bristled again. "For a team to be successful," said the A's owner, "the manager and the general manager have to work together."

Track To Start Saturday

Pampa and Amarillo High will be 3-AAAA representatives in Saturday's Plainview Invitational Track meet at Wayland Bowl, which will open the Harvesters' 1974 season.

Better weather is expected for the one-day meet than last year when cold air and a muddy track forced the Harvesters to return home before competition started. Herford won last year's meet, edging Lubbock Coronado, 106-99.

Amarillo, Plainview, Pampa, Borger, Canyon, Herford and

Lubbock High and Monterey will compete in Plainview's meet, which starts with the field events at 10 a.m. There will also be a junior varsity division.

According to Pampa coach Scott Dunnam, his team will be a contender in district this season along with Palo Duro and Borger. "We don't really have any sprinters, but we should be strong in the hurdles and the mile relay. Noel Hanson is strong in the half mile and we should be pretty strong in the mile with David Putnam."

One thing going against Pampa is inexperience. Only Steve Mathis (400, sprint- and mile-relay teams), Hanson and Putnam saw considerable varsity competition last season. And only Mathis went to last year's state meet. That was the sprint-relay team.

"We'll be competitive. Palo Duro will be strong with pretty good speed and they've got a good pole vaulter. Tascosa's got good field event boys and Borger will be a contender. Borger has Glenn Gray and some others. He'll run high and intermediate hurdles and the mile relay," said Dunnam.

Running sprints for the Harvesters this season will be senior Robert Yeager and juniors Rick Leverich and Chuck Quarles. Of the three, Leverich is fastest right now and is expected to run 16.5's.

Mathis, whom Dunnam anticipates will run 49.5 this season, will be the top open quarter man with Willis Price number two. Juniors Noel Hanson and Deannie Lewis will compete in the half mile. Hanson is capable of running a 1:57. Putnam, senior Richard Hayes and junior Larry Harris will run the mile.

Hurdlers, intermediate and high, will be senior John Thomas and juniors Mike Taylor and Howie Lewis. Yeager, who jumped 22-7 as a sophomore, will compete in the long jump. High jumpers are Lewis and Price, a junior, and Gary Thrasher will pole vault. Thrasher has vaulted 11-0 this year in practice.

Three juniors — Dane Rasmussen, David Hampton and Joe Graves — will throw the shot and discuss with Graves holding the edge in both events. "Graves is working extremely hard," said Dunnam.

The sprint-relay team, in order of who will run, is made up of Quarles, Mathis, Yeager and Leverich. The mile-relay team is either Quarles or Leverich, Hanson, H. Lewis and Mathis.

Thirty-two boys are listed on the track roster.

Houston Teams May Get Game

MONROE, La. (UPI) — One of the four owners of the new Houston franchise in the World Football League sees the day his team will play the National Football League's Houston Oilers.

Dr. Ralph Simpson, who with Alton Howard, Pete Mangum and Wayne Spruill of Monroe paid $750,000 for the franchise, said Wednesday he thinks "there will eventually be games between the Houston Oilers of the NFL and the Houston franchise of the WFL and probably also with the New Orleans Saints."

"I don't think we will play in the next year or two, but it will come."

Simpson said he and his three companions will eventually give up majority interest in the team.

"We have very influential people in Houston who will be associated with us in this venture and I'm not at liberty at this time to divulge their identities," he said.

"They are interested and at the proper time the management of the program will be passed along to the Houston people. We will divest ourselves of our 100 per cent majority ownership and get it in the hands of the people working with the program locally."

Chicago Signs 3 In New League

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Fire has signed up at least three players for this year's maiden World Football League season by topping offers from National Football League teams.

Leo Hayden of the St. Louis Cardinals, Glenn Robinson a third round draft choice of the Baltimore Colts, and Mark Kellar, national collegiate rushing champion from Northern Illinois University, said Fire owner Tom Origer made them offers they couldn't refuse.

They were among 18 players signed by the WFL Chicago franchise Wednesday. Ten of the 18 had either been signed or selected as draftees by NFL clubs.

Hayden, a former Ohio State star tailback who was the Minnesota Vikings' first choice in the 1970 draft and who played two years with St. Louis, said his contract calls for "better pay" than he ever got with the Cardinals, excluding bonuses or playoff shares.

Robinson, the Colts' third NFL draft pick, said Origer's offer was "much better than Baltimore's."

Kellar, picked sixth by Minnesota, said the Vikings "turned me off" on two counts.

"First, they told me they picked me because all the better running backs had been taken," he said, "and then their offer didn't even approach what I got from the Chicago Fire," he said.

Also signing on as Firemen were Jeff Stancell, running back once with the Atlanta Falcons; linebacker Keith Best, formerly of the Kansas City Chiefs, quarterback Johnny Walton, once with the Los Angeles Rams; wide receiver Bruce Jankowski, a former Chief, and Todd Snyder, a former Falcon.

In other games, Penn State rolled past West Virginia 63-63, St. Bonaventure eased by Canisius 85-82, Seton Hall downed Fordham 72-64, Boston College crushed Dartmouth 94-62, LaSalle blasted Villanova 104-66, Virginia beat Clemson 81-68.

NEW YORK (UPI) — By the end of this year hundreds of thousands of American workers may have group legal insurance... different packages to employers. The cheapest, which would pay only defense fees and costs up to certain limits in both civil and criminal cases...

All the plans allow the covered worker to choose his own lawyer who may work for the prescribed insurance fee or accept that as part of his fee according to circumstances.

Some maximum allowances proposed are—divorce $400, contested adoption or commitment proceeding $500, real estate transaction $150, bankruptcy proceeding $350...

Excluded from the plan are suits against the employer or the union. Legal protection the worker may have under his automobile or homeowner insurance policies must be exhausted before the prepaid legal insurance coverage applies.

Tax Deductible

But last year Congress amended the Taft-Hartley labor relations act to make prepaid group legal insurance a proper field for bargaining between employers and unions. This makes the contribution of an employer to such a plan tax deductible...

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The non-commercial television network has some intriguing programming coming up in the near future.

On Sunday, it will present an hour about "The Phenomenon of 16-year-old Indian Mystic Guri Maharaj Ji and his Daring American Cult Following."

In an announcement of the broadcast, entitled "The Lord of the Universe," the network says: "Last November, while reportedly portentous astrological configurations formed in the heavens, thousands of followers of Saiguru Maharaj Ji gathered in the Houston Astrodome to stage and partake in a three-day festival called 'Millennium '73' billed as 'the most significant event in the history of humanity.'"

"The Lord of the Universe" is a videotape report of that event and... examination of one of the most curious phenomena in the history of modern man's search for spiritual communion.

Rosenberg Program
On Monday, the non-commercial network—the Public Broadcasting Service—offers a 90-minute examination of the famous Rosenberg atomic espionage case, a subject recently treated in teleplay form by ABC-TV.

Monday's PBS broadcast about the case is entitled "The Unquiet Death of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg..." and the network says: "A number of persons directly involved... speak out publicly for the first time on the program."

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were executed on June 19, 1953, after being found guilty three years earlier of passing atomic secrets to the Soviet Union... "Twenty-three attempts at appeal of the Rosenbergs' death sentence failed, as did a final plea for presidential clemency."

Bernstein's "Mass"
Next Wednesday, Leonard Bernstein's "Mass" will have its television premiere on PBS' "Theater in America" series.

A PBS announcement about "Mass" notes that "it officially launched the opening of Washington D.C.'s John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in September of 1971," and, regarding the video presentation, adds: "Taped live during the last Summer's premiere European performance at the Vienna Konzerthaus, this production of the work, conceived by the director of the Yale University Symphony, John Mauceri, features more than 200 undergraduate and graduate students from the New Haven campus."

Added to this cast of singers, dancers, symphony players, brass players and rock guitar players are a Viennese adult mixed choir of 80... and a boys choir of 25.

"In the principal role of the celebrant is Mr. Bernstein's own choice, 22-year-old Michael Hume, a recent graduate of Georgetown University."

Tonight, PBS offers "King Lear," with James Earl Jones starring in a production performed by Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival Company.

And on April 8, "Much Ado About Nothing," also a production of the New York Shakespeare Festival Organization, and previously broadcast on CBS-TV, will be rerun on the non-commercial network.

Insurance Protects Most People

NEW YORK — Nearly 182 million Americans — some 9 out of every 10 persons in the civilian resident population — are protected by one or more forms of private health insurance, reports the newly-released Source Book of Health Insurance Data.

The 76-page book also includes information on medical care costs, illness and hospital utilization, Medicare and Medicaid. Source Book data were compiled from reports of insurance companies, Blue Cross - Blue Shield and other plans, government agencies, and hospital and medical associations.

The Institute, maintained by the nation's insurance companies as a central source of information for the public on health insurance, gave the following information in the book: —Some 800 million persons were protected at the end of 1972 by major medical insurance issued by insurance companies. This insurance, which covers all kinds of care prescribed by a physician both in and out of hospitals, provided maximum benefits ranging up to $50,000 and more.

—Some 73 million workers have some form of loss of income protection that helps pay their salary when they cannot work because of illness or injury. —Private health insurers paid out $21 billion in benefits during 1972, three times the amount paid in 1962.

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Any average taxpayer faced with the increasing bite from his income must think at one time or another about establishing himself as a foundation and receiving increased tax benefits.

The extremely wealthy do set up foundations, do reap tax benefits, and they do also serve society through the foundations they finance.

But how well and what are the relative costs as well as the benefits of their activities? One new critique of the big foundations says one of their chief functions now appears to be transfer of funds to sustain reputable nonprofit organizations.

Friday's advance "has placed the market in a good position to do better this week even though the long weekend has passed and no tangible news has been forthcoming on the oil embargo," says E. F. Hutton & Co. The Friday performance also broke the market's recent pattern of ending the week on a "soft note," the firm continues.

The market already has discounted the nationalization of oil interests, the oil embargo, rising unemployment, a possible recession and the Watergate revelations as the first step toward establishing the base for a new bull market.

These are some of the conclusions reached by Maxwell S. Stewart, secretary of the Public Affairs Committee, a nonprofit educational organization headquartered in New York.

Stewart is author of "The Big Foundations," a committee publication. His summary in turn is based on a Twentieth Century Fund Study by Waldemar A. Nielsen, which focused on 33 grant-making foundations, each with assets of $100 million or more.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The stock market may be poised for an explosive rally," says Reynolds Securities Inc., mainly because of the sharply declining prime interest rate. "A falling prime rate has heralded a sharply rising stock market frequently in the past," the firm continues. In addition, the country's favorable balance of payments in 1973 and the recent move to abolish controls over the outflow of capital could ignite a rally that may carry the Dow Jones Industrial Average above 900, it says.

Stewart does not find this surprising. He says that since most of the governing boards of trustees of foundations consist of members of the business elite with close ties to corporate interests, they are often "ridden with conflicts of interest incompatible with... devotion to philanthropic purposes and public interest."

Certain foundations certainly measure up, however. Stewart mentions the Ford Foundation in particular in the area of race relations. The foundation, he says, "over a period of about 20 years has committed some $250 million to projects directly related to the rights and needs of black people."

One new critique of the big foundations says one of their chief functions now appears to be transfer of funds to sustain reputable nonprofit organizations. While of value, this function alone cannot justify the cost to society in terms, for example, of administrative costs and the cost of government supervision.

"There are costs as well as benefits in the operation of any institution and there are alternatives to philanthropy," it continues. "One alternative would be to broaden the base of private giving by granting additional incentives to the average taxpayer, such as limited direct deduction from his tax bill, not merely from his taxable income."

"This might greatly increase the flow of charitable funds to nonprofit organizations." Stewart is author of "The Big Foundations," a committee publication. His summary in turn is based on a Twentieth Century Fund Study by Waldemar A. Nielsen, which focused on 33 grant-making foundations, each with assets of $100 million or more.

Dear Consumer

By Virginia Knauer

Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Whatever your income bracket, you probably won't find it easy to send your youngsters to college. Even if you cannot qualify for government financial aid—which I discussed in a previous column—there are many other places where you can look for help. For instance—

● The college itself. All schools offer some scholarships, grants, loans and part-time jobs. Often, a school puts together a package for a student, combining all those kinds of aid.

How can you get such help? Write to a college's financial aid officer, requesting information about and applications for financial aid.

Here's another possibility to consider: More and more schools are offering three-year degree programs, which allow students to save one year's room, board and other expenses.

● Private organizations. Business firms, labor unions, foundations, professional societies, national organizations and local groups offer thousands of scholarships and grants. Many of these are earmarked for people in particular fields of study such as law, engineering, library science and music.

● Commercial loans. Many banks make educational loans for college tuition and so do some credit unions. You will find that these loans are more expensive than the ones backed by Federal funds, but they do help somewhat to ease the squeeze on the family budget. Help is also available

Larry Linville Is Square Character

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Larry Linville is every bit as square as Maj. Frank Burns, the humorless fathead he portrays in the "M-A-S-H" television series, but that is the only common characteristic the two share.

Major Burns, although married to a girl back in the states, has a passionate crush on Hoolips Hoolihan in the series. Linville, on the other hand, is a devoted husband to his wife of 12 years, actress Kate Geer. She is the daughter of actor Will Geer, the garrulous grandfather in "The Waltons" series. Until "M-A-S-H" came along
