Debate Growing On Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Constitution says a president "shall take care to see that the laws be faithfully executed."

But what if he fails to "take care"? Can he be impeached, tried by the Senate and thrown from office for such negligence?

A staff report which answers the question with a resounding "yes" appears to have driven a partisan wedge through the House Judiciary Committee as it inquires into whether grounds exist for President Nixon to be impeached.

Setting that dispute aside, the committee is seeking today to agree on leasurproof procedures for safeguarding evidence it hopes to secure from Nixon.

British Miners Upset By Pay Error Dispute

LONDON (UPI) — An error in calculating pay of 260,000 coal miners exploded today into Britain's election battle and touched off Labor party charges that Prime Minister Edward Heath had deliberately deceived the country.

"Something funny is going on," Labor party leader Harold Wilson said. "Facts are emerging which are probably going to prove that Mr. Heath has misled the country all along about the basic facts and that this dispute need never have occurred."

Conservative party officials said Heath is considering a reply.

The error was unearthed and made public late Thursday night by the government's anti-inflation pay board which is holding an inquiry into the miners' pay dispute. On Feb. 9 the miners escalated a 13-week slowdown into a national strike to back their demand for more pay.

The Pay Board said both the state-run National Coal Board and the miners' union mistakenly overestimated coal miners' pay in relation to that of other British workers.

The error, the Pay Board said, was caused by including annual vacation money when calculating the pay of coal miners but not including it when calculating the pay of other workers.

Pay Board officials said discovery of the error could mean an additional three pounds ($6.90) weekly for the miners when the board makes its recommendations on their pay claim.

A miners' union spokesman said, "We never noticed the discrepancy. On a rough estimate it would mean about an extra three pounds a week."

Heath, cheered by unanimously favorable opinion polls, marshaled his Conservative party supporters for the closing stages of the Feb. 28 election battle with an appeal for an end to industrial strife.

A Political Remedy?

The first requests for materials go out late this week or early next week. Subpoenas will follow if Nixon doesn't comply. But Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, ranking Republican on the committee, says he is unwilling to sign a subpoena which does not seek evidence of a criminal offense. To be impeachable, an act must be criminal, Hutchinson argues.

Democrats, with majority control, have the power to subpoena without Hutchinson's cooperation, but want to avoid the appearance of a partisan "fishing expedition."

Thus the staff guidelines on what constitutes an impeachable offense takes on importance. Chairman Peiter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., says the study, tracing impeachment back to its English roots in the 15th Century, shows impeachment was conceived "not as a punishment for crimes but as a constitutional remedy for gross abuses of official power or serious violations of the public trust."

Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, disagrees.

President's Duty
"I'm not in favor of impeachment outside of criminality," Latta told a reporter. "That's for the birds. I don't think the American people would stand for it."

Not all committee Republicans side with Latta and Hutchinson. Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., contends some presidential acts could be criminal but not impeachable and some could be impeachable without being prohibited by any specific statute.

The staff paper argues a president can be impeached for acts which are not necessarily illegal but which undermine the integrity of his office, disregard his constitutional duties and oath, seize undue power, abuse governmental process and in general undermine the system of government.

Can he be impeached for the illegal acts of his aides? The paper gives no clear answer, but it hints at one when referring back to the Constitution, it says: "The take care" duty emphasizes the responsibility of a president for the overall conduct of the executive branch. He must take care that the executive is so organized and operated that this duty is performed."

Girl Scouts Plan Banquet With Fathers

Pampa Girl Scouts are preparing for their annual father-daughter banquet.

In years past this event has taken place on or near Thinking Day, Feb. 22, the date Scouts and Guides send a prayer around the world asking for peace for all mankind.

This year international sisters in scouts during Girl Scout week will be remembered and fathers will participate on the different banquet dates.

The Neighborhood East banquet will be held Thursday, March 14, at 6:30 p.m. in First Christian Church. Neighborhood West scouts have set March 8, 7 p.m. in St. Vincent's gym as their banquet date.

Approximately seven troops join in the planning and production of a father-daughter banquet. The word banquet is possibly deceiving as the scouts usually bring a box dinner to share with their dads. Each troop decorates tables, and makes favors and place cards in keeping with that troop's theme which ties in with the theme of the event.

Often times each troop picks a country where there are scouts or guides and decorates in that style. Then each troop does a dance or sings a song or both from their country.

World banks are presented at this time, too.

Church Says Secret Actions Created Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has released 54 previously secret documents which he says show that national security decisions of the 1950s helped cause the current world oil crisis.

"The decisions reflected in this record were taken in secrecy, debated in secrecy and never exposed to public debate," Church said Thursday. "Yet those decisions helped seal the basic structure of international oil for 25 years. Today we are living with the consequences."

Church's Senate foreign relations subcommittee completed the first phase of an investigation into international oil operations Thursday.

He said the documents supported testimony that the Truman and Eisenhower administrations quashed Justice Department attempts to break up price-raising international oil cartels because that conflicted with the foreign policy goal of containing Communism in the Middle East.

Church quoted from an Aug. 6, 1953, National Security Council memorandum to President Eisenhower's attorney general, which said: "It will be assumed that the enforcement of the antitrust laws of the United States against the Western oil companies operating in the Near East may be deemed secondary to the national security interest."

That illustrated, Church said, that the government in the 1950s resolved "two conflicting policies in the field of international oil" by deciding in favor of security goals.

Radical Army Seeks $700,000 For Editor

ATLANTA (UPI) — Officials disclosed today that kidnaped Atlanta Constitution editor John R. "Reg" Murphy had supplied a "code word" to be used by the person designated as the intermediary in turning over the $700,000 ransom the abductors are demanding.

Murphy was kidnaped Wednesday night by a previously unknown right wing group calling itself the American Revolutionary Army.

In a tape recording received by the Constitution Murphy said the group abducted him because it felt the American news media have become too "leftist and too liberal," and they intended to do something about it.

A transcript of most of the tape was released by the Constitution Thursday night, but a 30-minute segment was withheld.

Atlanta Constitution Executive Editor William Fields said in this segment Murphy discloses the code word that is to be used when the ransom is paid.

Fields said there was nothing else of significance in the tape segment that was withheld, but would not discuss it further. Murphy said in his recorded message that his captors would relay the ransom instructions in a "random" telephone call to "somebody in the Atlanta area."

"The newspaper is ready to pay the ransom when we receive word of how and when it is to be paid," Fields said this morning in a news conference. He added, however, that no further word had been received since the tape arrived.

In explaining the $700,000 ransom demand, Murphy said: "they (the kidnapers) understand that I don't have that kind of wealth, uh, and they don't make it personally, they make it towards the corporation." The Constitution is owned by the Cox newspaper group.

Public offers of donations began flooding the Constitution, Georgia's largest morning newspaper, soon after Murphy's tape recording was broadcast on television and radio stations Thursday night.

"We took their names and said we might get back to them if some sort of program for donations is set up," said a switchboard operator.

Murphy, 40-year-old father of two teen-age daughters who was abducted after leaving home Wednesday night, said he was being treated courteously and was in no immediate danger "unless law enforcement agencies should try to find out where I am or where I am going to be transported."

Ransom Instructions

The ransom money, Murphy said, should be in five-, 10-, 20- and 50-dollar denominations, packaged in plastic bags, and it should not be new currency or have any particular sequence to the serial numbers.

"I will be asked to open the plastic bags and count them, in case there is anything afoot," Murphy said.

The editor said the American Revolutionary Army, which the FBI and local authorities said they have no knowledge of, "feels that the American news media have been too leftist and too liberal."

"They intend to do something about that," he said. "That's the cause of my abduction."

Murphy said the American Revolutionary Army contend they have representatives in the major American cities and are "determined to return the American government to the American people."

"The American Revolutionary Army tells me that they intend in the future to engage in guerrilla warfare throughout the country. They don't intend to engage in bloodshed at this time."

Murphy Urges Calm

One of the group's demands, although not tied to Murphy's release, is that all elected federal government officials resign and that "free elections be held in the future," Murphy said.

Clerk Certifies Signatures For Board Petition

The Gray County clerk's office yesterday certified 442 valid signatures on petitions seeking to have the 7-man school board proposal placed on the ballot in the April 6 school board election.

After validating the signatures, the clerk certified the totals to County Judge Don Cain. Only 378 valid signatures, representing 25 percent of the 1512 voters in the 1973 election, were necessary to have the proposal placed on the ballot. Judge Cain will certify to the school district that the required number of signatures needed to place the proposal on the ballot were presented to him and the school board will be directed to place the item on the ballot.

School Business Manager Homer Craig said this morning he had not as yet been notified by Cain that the required number of signatures had been validated.

Three petitions were checked by the clerk's office before the needed number of signatures were validated. One petition, with 21 pages filled with signatures, had 251 valid signers. One petition of four pages had 51 valid signatures and another of two pages had been signed by 40 qualified voters.

Anderson said he filed, "in the interest of continuing quality education for the Pampa Independent School District."

He and his wife, Glenda, have two children, David and Shelly.

Anderson is the third person to file for the April 6 election, where two positions will be filled, W.L. "Bill" Arrington and Mrs. Dorothy Stowers announced earlier.

Deadline for filing for the election is March 6. Candidates may file at the school business office, 119 N. Frost.

It's Fair Here, Tornadoes Hit Cities In Texas

The weather outlook for Pampa and the vicinity for the weekend calls for partly cloudy and cool tomorrow changing to sunny and warm Sunday.

The high today was expected to be around 60 with the low tonight 25. The high tomorrow should be in the 50s.

Winds are from the southwest today at 15-25 mph. Yesterday's high was 45 and the low in Pampa this morning was 23.

In UPI Reports:

A tornado ripped through three cities in Southeast Texas Thursday causing considerable damage but no injuries. Hurricane force winds blasted the Dallas-Fort Worth area and East Texas.

The tornado damaged a pizza parlor and a service station in Beaumont. Rental trailers were strewn across an interstate highway. A number of office building windows were smashed in the downtown area and a machine shop was damaged.

The tornado sliced through a lumber company in Nederland causing $9,000 in damage and skipped across to Bridge City uprooting trees and damaging two homes.

Charles Birdsong, the owner of the wrecked service station, said he was sitting at his desk when the winds hit.

"This trailer started blowing across the driveway," he said. "As I ran out to try and stop it, the wind was so tough I couldn't stop the thing so I just aimed at it at the back pole. I looked up and saw other trailers coming and the top was coming off the building."

"I saw Shakey's (pizza parlor) coming down and I said to myself it's every man for himself. I dived behind this here brick wall. Everything was going so fast I didn't know what the devil to do but get out of the way."

Sam Anderson Files Candidacy For Trustee

Sam Anderson, 1112 Charles, this morning announced his candidacy for a position on the Board of Trustees of the Pampa Independent School District.

Anderson is a life-long resident of Pampa and has been employed by Cabot Corp. for 18 years, where he is shipping supervisor.

Anderson said he filed, "in the interest of continuing quality education for the Pampa Independent School District."

He and his wife, Glenda, have two children, David and Shelly.

Anderson is the third person to file for the April 6 election, where two positions will be filled, W.L. "Bill" Arrington and Mrs. Dorothy Stowers announced earlier.

Deadline for filing for the election is March 6. Candidates may file at the school business office, 119 N. Frost.

Extension Granted Heart Fund Drive

Due to inclement weather and illness on the part of some of the workers, the Heart Fund Drive will continue through Saturday morning, according to Mrs. George Massie, chairman for Gray County.

Some of the workers who were unable to work their blocks will be out working Saturday morning.

FROM HEARST Kidnapers Seek Bigger Handout

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A food handout with stocks enough for 20,000 persons was geared to go today, but the kidnapers of Patricia Hearst said it was not enough—the girl's millionaire family must feel the pinch.

A new ultimatum gave publisher Randolph A. Hearst a save-her-life order to put up $6 million or see his daughter held hostage indefinitely for two members of the terrorist sect charged with murder.

The FBI said it was up to the father to decide whether to try to appease the Symbionese Liberation Army or give it the nod to try to rescue the 20-year-old girl.

At their suburban home in Hillsborough, the Hearsts were trying to find a way out of the dilemma brought on by the latest demands of the SLA.

FOR FEDERAL GRANT Another Review Slated For Plant's Application

Pampa's application for an $800,000 federal grant to make improvements at the city's sewage treatment plant will get another review by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission next Tuesday.

This time it will be checked by the PRPC's Environmental Committee.

What the committee will be checking is the summary and full environmental assessment report and full engineering report submitted by Merriman and Barber, consulting engineers on the project.

Following a study of the reports, the PRPC Environmental Committee will make its recommendations to the PRPC board March 27 for approval or disapproval.

Briefly, the consulting engineers' environmental assessment report includes plans to abate pollution and improve the quality of effluent discharged by the sewage treatment plant.

The effluent discharge affects an area along Red Deer Creek below the plant as well as the entire City of Pampa and a small area adjacent to the city limits.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today total cost of the improvement project currently is estimated at from $1-million to $1.25-million.

The city's estimated share of the project cost, if the $800,000 grant is approved, would be around $200,000 to $250,000, Wofford said.

Pampa has been put on warning by the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the Texas Water Control Board to bring the local plant up to state and federal standards.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today Pampa's participation would cost the city nothing.

The PRPC is asking that the local city and county law enforcement agencies endorse the concept of crime prevention and support the overall goals as developed throughout the region.

The PRPC letter to police chiefs and sheriffs sets forth that an officer would be designated as a crime prevention unit representative salaried by the PRPC and the commission would provide equipment, publications, etc., to adequately inform each community of the many problems law-enforcement agencies face.

PRPC advises that in order for the crime prevention officer to serve Pampa and Gray County a resolution will be required from the city

IN PRPC PROGRAM

City Studies Crime Prevention

By TEX DEWESE
Pampa city commissioners when they meet in regular session next Tuesday will consider a request of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission to endorse and participate in Gov. Dolph Briscoe's Crime Prevention Program.

The PRPC has notified all police and sheriff departments within the 25-county Panhandle region that it plans to submit a grant application to the Texas Criminal Justice Council to provide funds for creation of a crime prevention awareness unit.

The purpose of the unit would be to reduce the incidents of burglary, theft and robbery through public awareness.

The unit would also provide training and assistance to each law enforcement agency within the region on the agency's particularly local crime problems.

commission and county commissioners court supporting the proposed program.

It was also stated that during the second year of operation, each governing body will be asked to consider adopting minimum security-codes where applicable.

In addition to the resolution, according to PRPC officials, the Criminal Justice Council requests that the PRPC would give inservice training to at least one or more local law enforcement personnel.

The city also would be asked to appoint a liaison officer from within the police department to be present when the PRPC crime prevention officer makes the presentation to the community.

Goals of the crime prevention unit would include:

1. Reduction of the number of property crimes by at least 15 percent during the first year.

2. Substantially increase efforts to involve citizens and interest citizens in reporting crime and identifying suspected offenders.

3. To make citizens generally aware, especially in the rural community, of their own security.

4. To interest citizens in being able to readily identify property belonging to them by marking property with social security numbers, driver's license numbers, etc.

A sample resolution has been given to city and county officials for consideration by their respective government bodies.

City Manager Wofford said the resolution will be presented to city commissioners next Tuesday.

County commissioners are expected to consider a similar resolution when they meet March 1.

CONFLICTING TESTIMONY Senate Studying Spying Incidents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Ehrlichman ordered both Adm. Robert O. Welander and Yeoman Charles Radford put through brutal interrogation and lie detector tests during the 1971 White House investigation of military spying, and ultimately asked Welander to admit he was responsible, according to Senate testimony.

Source Claims Dayan Refuses Post In Cabinet

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has made a "final" decision not to join Prime Minister Golda Meir's new government, a defense ministry source said today.

Dayan will support the next government but he will not take the job of defense minister because "he doesn't believe that in the present emergency situation that the country faces that there should be a minority government," the source said.

"His decision not to take the job of defense minister is final," the source reported.

Mrs. Meir met with Dayan today in an attempt to change his mind, but "nothing came out of it," according to the source.

Dayan, under fire over Israel's handling of the 1973 Middle East War, has threatened to resign and push for new elections because of Labor's refusal to bring the right wing Likud bloc into the government.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres, a colleague of Dayan's in the Rafi faction of the Labor alignment, also will not join the next cabinet, political sources said.

According to these sources, Mrs. Meir will administer the duties of the defense and transport ministers when she forms the next cabinet, a temporary move in efforts to get Dayan and Peres to rejoin.

The newspaper Maariv said Mrs. Meir would ask Dayan to hold talks with U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger when he visits here next week to seek Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement, but that Dayan would refuse to do so.

Mrs. Meir hopes to have the National Religious party rejoin her coalition, avoiding a minority government, but party Secretary Zvi Bernstein said today it would not compromise on the issue of defining who is a Jew.

"This is not too much of a sacrifice for the alignment to make if it wants to have a stable government," Bernstein said.

Officials of Mrs. Meir's Labor party met until late Thursday night with religious party leaders in an abortive attempt to put together a coalition with a majority of the 120-seat Knesset (parliament), political sources said.

C-C Luncheon Slated Monday

Reservations for the Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon scheduled for next Monday at Coronado Inn are now being taken at the chamber office and will be accepted until 10 a.m. Monday, according to chamber officials.

Two door prizes, consisting of T-Bone steaks, compliments of Moody Farms and Southwestern Public Service Co., will go to two lucky winners at the Monday meeting.

Jim Harwell of Austin, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission, will be the luncheon speaker, as one of the highlights of industrial day in Pampa.

Two Charged With Robbery

Two suspects were charged and warrants issued for their arrests recently in connection with the robbery by firearms of the Quick Stop Grocery, 915 W. Wilks, Dec. 8, 1973.

Sidney Charles Swink, 20, and Edgar Wayne Belcher, 22, were named in the warrants.

One was arrested by officers in Dallas and the other was picked up in Denison. Both are being transported back to Pampa to face the charges.

Milk Decision Evidence Debated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee and the Nixon administration are engaged in another legal contest over whether the committee can get access to documents involving the administration's 1971 milk price support decision.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader successfully subpoenaed a list of documents and tape recordings last year in his suit to roll back the support increase on grounds it was politically influenced.

The committee's staff filed a motion with U.S. District Court earlier this month for permission to file a brief as amicus curiae (friend of the court), seeking 30 documents and tapes that Nader obtained.

In a seven-page brief that it already has prepared, the committee staff said it needs the materials in order to complete its investigation and report by May 28.

The Justice Department opposes the committee motion on grounds that it would violate a protective order that U.S. District Court Judge William B. Jones issued Dec. 21, prohibiting all lawyers in the case from disclosing evidence except in court proceedings.

Both Hughes and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said they want Ehrlichman called as a witness. Hughes in an interview with UPI and the Chicago Tribune, said he also wants the full records of both the White House and Pentagon investigations, including the lie detector results, put before the committee.

But Stennis, speaking to newsmen after the two men had been interrogated for a total of almost 15 hours, said he now wants to assess their testimony before the committee decides what to do next.

Wolander said the interrogation and lie detector tests came after he discovered that only he and Radford had access to all three of a set of memoranda on the India-Pakistan that appeared in the Anderson column Dec. 13 and 14, 1971.

Wolander said he went immediately to Haig and was referred to Ehrlichman and his assistant, David Young, who launched an investigation.

Youths Reject Plea Of Guilty

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two youths charged in the mass murders of 27 teen-age boys turned down a prosecutor's deal to plead guilty in exchange for life sentences, an assistant district attorney said Thursday.

Donald Lambright said Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Owen Brooks, 19, rejected the deal on advice of their attorneys.

Henley is accused of six murders and Brooks four murders in a string of sex-torture killings that took place between 1970 and 1973. The two led authorities to the graves of the victims at three Texas locations but claimed Dean Corll, 33, was the mastermind of the sadistic murder ring. Henley shot Corll Aug. 8 at a paint-spraying party.

Will Gray, one of Henley's Court-appointed attorneys, said he was willing to negotiate for a lesser sentence for his client, since the maximum punishment the youth faces is life imprisonment.

"They really haven't offered anything," Gray said. With good behavior and other actions, Henley and Brooks, if convicted, could be paroled in 20 years or less.

The revised Texas Penal Code permits the death penalty only in the murder of a peace officer or fireman, murder committed in the course of kidnapping, rape, or burglary, robbery or arson, and murder committed for hire or during a prison escape.

Lambright said prosecutors could obtain the death penalty against Henley and Brooks "if they could prove that these killings occurred during a robbery or kidnapping."

Lambright said the plea bargain was offered two months ago by District Attorney Carl S. Vance, who will prosecute the case this summer in San Antonio.

Las Pampas Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 2, in the Flame Room, Pioneer Gas Building.

David H. Doran, and Deputy Special Prosecutor Henry L. Ruth, has been investigating whether the increase in the price support was linked to milk producers' contributions of $437,000 to Nixon's re-election effort.

The first indictment in the investigation came Thursday. A Watergate grand jury charged Jake Jacobsen, former legislative counsel for President Lyndon B. Johnson, with one count of lying about the milk producers' efforts to get a price-support increase from the Nixon administration.

Jacobsen, a lawyer for the Associated Milk Producers Inc., allegedly solicited $10,000 from AMPI within two months after the administration reversed itself March 25, 1971—two days following the Nixon meeting—and increased the price support to 85 per cent of parity.

The indictment said Jacobsen solicited the money "on the representation that such money was to be paid to a public official for his assistance in connection with the price support decision."

The indictment said Jacobsen lied Jan. 25 in saying he did not touch the $10,000 from the time he put it into a safe deposit box until he looked at it with an FBI agent Nov. 27.

Fancher Named President Of Tourist Group

Kay Fancher, assistant manager of the Panhandle Insurance Agency in Pampa, was elected president of the Panhandle Playground Association for the new fiscal year at a meeting of the organization yesterday in Amarillo.

Don Hileman, manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Approximately 20 towns in the Texas Panhandle are associated in the organization designed to promote tourist business in the Panhandle area.

The association's program of work consists of brochures, maps, place mats, highway signs, regional displays and travel shows to be shown in 25 cities throughout the United States, and stories through the various news media.

Representing Pampa at the meeting were Fancher, E.O. Wedgeworth and Harris Brinson of the local chamber of commerce.

School Board Deadline Near

With less than two weeks remaining before the deadline for filing, only three people have announced their candidacy for election to the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees.

W.L. "Bill" Arrington, Sam Anderson and Mrs. Dorothy Slowers have both filed. Warren Hasse, whose term expires this spring, has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election.

Deadline for filing is March 8. The school board election will be April 6.

Three Killed In Hijack Attempt

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Three persons including a Delta Airlines copilot were killed today when a man attempted to hijack a plane at the Baltimore-Washington International Airport. The hijacker also was among the dead, killed in a blaze of police gunfire.

The third victim was a security guard.

The plane's pilot, also shot by the unidentified hijacker, was in critical condition at the shock trauma unit of the University of Maryland Hospital in Baltimore where he was undergoing emergency surgery.

IN MITCHELL TRIAL Jurors Selection Getting Underway

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Nixon's former top law enforcement officer and chief cabinet business spokesman sat side by side all alone in the well of the courtroom before an empty bench Thursday afternoon poring over documents.

It was a wearying, draggy session. For spectators, it was a study in the backs of two heads. For a few prospective jurors in the box waiting to be interrogated, it was a view of two left profiles, solemn and intent upon the papers on the table at which the defendants sat.

The two seldom moved or turned from their work. Once, former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, the Wall Street lawyer who became Nixon's campaign director, walked over and chatted with a young woman behind the rail sketching juror faces for television.

Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans were in the jury-selection phase of their criminal trial, and the judge had deserted his bench and the attorneys their tables to quiz prospective jurors one by one in private chambers.

Adjournment Thursday ended three days of jury picking in which 15 persons were qualified as prospective jurors. Judge Lee P. Gagliardi of U.S. District Court has fixed the number of qualified prospects needed at 52.

When that quota is met, the attorneys for both sides will begin dismissing the prospects preemptively one by one with challenges for which no reason need be given. When all the challenges allowed each side are exhausted the final jury of 12 plus 6 alternates will remain.

With some luck, this may come late next week. At that time, the trial may be moved from the ninth floor of the federal courthouse into the building's biggest courtroom, on the first floor. There, in a landmark nine-month trial in 1949, the U.S. Communist politburo was convicted of conspiring to set up its party as a group that teaches and advocates the violent overthrow of the government.

Consumer Index Surging Upward

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With soaring food and fuel prices providing most of the push, consumer prices surged nearly 1 per cent in January, even faster than the sharp runup of several previous months, the Labor Department disclosed today.

The first-of-the-year jump in the Consumer Price Index meant that Americans were paying 9.4 per cent more for goods and services at retail than they were in January, 1973.

That represented the biggest 12-month rise in the cost of living since 1951.

Eighty per cent of the usually large January rise was caused by higher prices for food and energy. Supermarket food rose 1.6 per cent from December, gasoline and motor oil prices jumped 6 per cent, and fuel oil costs went up nearly 13 per cent.

Retail prices rose in January by 0.9 per cent without adjustments for seasonal factors, and by 1 per cent, with such adjustments.

The increase was the biggest monthly rise since August when prices surged after lifting of a short-term freeze.

The only price declines in the January report were for clothing and used cars.

The consumer price report followed disclosure a week ago that wholesale prices, also led by leaping food and fuel prices, spurted in January by 3.5 per cent, indicating that more increases would be filtering down directly to consumers in weeks and months ahead.

Army Helicopter From Ft. Meade after Midnight Sunday, Chopper Pilot To Face Study By Psychiatrists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army helicopter from Ft. Meade after midnight Sunday, buzzed cars on Maryland highways during the flight into Washington and then crashed on the White House lawn as Secret Service agents fired buckshot at the thin-skinned craft.

A man identifying himself only as a member of the Executive Protective Service told the Star News, "it was a complete fiasco. It was a complete surprise to everyone. The first we knew of the helicopter's being stolen, and possibly dangerous, was after it had left the White House" the first time.

The assault charges relate to the three police helicopter crewmen prosecutors say Preston charged with his helicopter in mid-flight during the week-end escapade.

Preston, 20, remains under psychiatric observation at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Preston stole an unarmed

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
-NEW YORK (UPI) - The help-wanted sign is out for more women in management.

"There's room at the top, but climbing up there calls for women in business and industry to get out of their specialization rut and for men to assess women's abilities in a new light."

Time Needed To Figure Out Income Returns

(This is the second in a series of five articles on 1973 Federal Income Tax returns.)

By BURKE HAYMES

President
Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants

"Many persons who have successfully managed to finish high school or obtain a loan from a bank or sell a house or take out a driver's license consider themselves unable to unravel the mysteries of Federal Income Tax Form 1040. For most, this belief is probably unfounded.

"The secret is not to let yourself be cowed by the rows of numbered entries on the 1040. Take them one at a time and they are not so threatening.

"The person setting out to square his annual account with Internal Revenue Service should first get his income records together - W-2 withholding reports from each employer he has worked for during the year, plus information from banks, brokers, etc., on interest and dividend income the taxpayer has received.

"If you are going to itemize deductions (and if you are not you may be able to use Form 1040A - the short form) you will need cancelled checks, receipts and other evidence of deductible expenses: taxes and interest paid, medical and dental costs, charitable contributions and unreimbursed business expenses.

"Next, you'll need the applicable tax forms - the 1040 plus the Schedules for submitting various categories of lists. The IRS usually sends taxpayers the same documents they used the previous year, but if you need new ones this year you can pick them up at almost any bank or post office, or you can write to the nearest IRS office.

"One government document that's indispensable is the Instruction Booklet for Form 1040. Among other things it tells you what documents you will have to submit, and how to fill them out.

"Now, with all the needed papers on hand, simply start at the top of page one, with your name and address, occupation, etc. If you are stopped by a question, consult the instruction booklet which lists 21 steps to be taken, in order, and augments the guidance included in the forms and schedules themselves.

"If your financial affairs are too complex to permit you to handle Form 1040 on your own, that fact will soon become apparent.

"Persons likely to require professional help in filing their tax returns, in most cases, are those whose affairs are complicated by factors such as: large capital gains or losses; the selling of a home during the year; a large jump in income over previous years that may suggest income averaging; self-employment, with several sources of income; a drastic change in dependency relationships during the year, as through divorce.

"But for most people such complications are rare. Millions of us obtain all or most of our incomes in the form of wages, salaries or commissions. Our incomes and expenses are not drastically different from those we had last year. Our family relationships have not changed.

"For the millions in this category - people with at least a high school education - there's no reason in the world to be afraid of Form 1040.

Two women, who have left behind the specialization syndrome, examine the problems of women moving ahead. They report that, in working with many companies who want to find more women managers, "again and again we find that women tend to get trapped within a narrow, specialized hierarchy... we've begun to see that specialization represents not just a skill but a psychological investment.

"They equate their own security and value to the company with their particular specialist skills, and they fear the risks involved in giving up those skills to learn a new job - even at a higher level.

"Men sort of feel that women are more competent, more productive in a specialized field. Women find that's where they find their security, their recognition. They reinforce each other's assumptions."

Upgrading Women Managers

The two who have written "Women in Management: What Needs to be Done?" are Drs. Margaret Henning and Anne Jardim. Both have served on the faculty of the Harvard Business School and have done extensive consulting work with corporations in the area of educating and upgrading women managers.

Their dual writing appears in the current issue of Context, DuPont's house publication.

The two say they're not talking about the five per cent who are the "stars" and will plow through anything. "We're referring to the average, competent woman... who could be successful at the middle management level in the same way that the average competent man is."

"When men look at women in management, they tend to see the best of the women as the average. When they look at men, they do not look at them in same way.

"For the average woman to make it, she is expected to be as much like a man as she can. Yet, to bring out her real skills and abilities, she can hardly afford to spend the time it takes to be like a man.

"A woman manager has to have the most incredible sources of energy. She not only has to manage the job, she has to summon up enough energy to be superior in the job just to be called average."

She also has to deal with the conflict of other women around her who are "still caught in the specialist bind and who still feel they have been successful and are doing quite well for a woman."

Hex That Wart

NEW YORK (UPI) - A dermatologist says in removing warts afflicting children, "the remarkable thing is... you can actually hex them off."

Dr. Walter B. Shelley, chairman of dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, reported in "Family Health," a magazine, that he has "a dermatologist friend whose biggest therapeutic aid in the case of warts is a very ordinary shiny bracelet. She tells a youngster to wear it until the wart is gone. Believe it or not, it works. The wart disappears in a few weeks."

Appliances Strain Family Budget

AUSTIN - Major appliances for the home can be major strains on the family budget when replacement time rolls around.

Since many consumers now are even more cost-conscious than in past years, it pays to know what to look for in order to get the best appliance value for your money and your needs.

Attorneys in my Consumer Protection Division say that alert, informed consumers who comparison shop for both goods and financing before buying, and who read and understand the contract and warranty before signing, are less likely to have problems later with unsatisfactory products or service.

They advise consumers to try the following before purchasing a major appliance:

1. Study the appliance type in general. Learn what it can and can't do, and read about new features that may have been introduced since you last purchased a similar item.
2. Analyze your family's requirements. Decide what features you need in a particular appliance and which ones you'd probably seldom use.
3. Shop around. Examine several brands of appliances and what each offers and read the literature available on various models in each line.
4. Purchase the brand and model you've chosen from an established, reputable dealer.
5. Pay cash if possible, or make a large down payment. This will enable you to save finance charges.
6. Consider getting a bank savings and loan company, or credit union loan, if you can't pay cash. You may be able to get a lower interest rate than an appliance or department store can offer.

7. Read and understand every part of the contract and make sure there are no blank spaces before you sign.

8. Be sure also that you understand the terms of the warranty on the appliance.

9. After the purchase, care for your new appliance according to the owner's manual. With proper maintenance, a major appliance should keep performing well for many years.

Most major appliances are in the kitchen or the utility area. The range is a good example of one such appliance where many recent developments have resulted in a profusion of special features.

Ranges can now be gas or electric, freestanding units or cooktops and wall ovens. Cooktops can be traditional burner types or heat-resistant smooth glass ones.

Ovens may have one of two kinds of self-cleaning capabilities. They can be pyrolytic ones, which remove soil at high temperatures over 500 degrees, or catalytic ones, which remove soil at regular cooking temperatures.

Other features you may encounter in ranges are automatic timers, thermostatically controlled cooktops or burners, infra-red broilers, oven rotisseries, warming trays, griddles, microwave ovens, and automatic food probes that turn off the oven or hold food warm when it reaches a preset temperature.

So you can see that an accurate analysis of your family's food preferences and living habits is necessary to help you decide if such features are desirable.

Perhaps you can get by nicely without many of the extras on more expensive models, thereby saving money. Then again, if you need those features and don't have them, you may expend far more time and effort to make do with a range that is under-equipped for your needs.

If you have difficulties after a sale with a product, a contract, or a warranty, first try to iron out the problem with the management of the store where you bought the item. Most likely, every effort will be made to come to a mutually satisfactory agreement.

If you cannot resolve the difficulty, however, then get in touch with attorneys in the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your district or county attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau for information or assistance.

Education Today

By CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) -

Seemingly unaffected politically by the dramatic political events of 1973, this year's college freshmen still consider themselves "liberals" by a two-to-one margin over "conservatives," according to a national survey.

But for the first time in the eight-year survey, those preferring a "middle-of-the-road" political position account for more than one half of the new freshman crop. The study is conducted jointly by UCLA and the American Council on Education as part of long-range research on how students are affected by their years in college.

Based on questioning of 189,733 students entering 360 colleges, and projected nationally, 14.5 per cent of this year's freshmen classify themselves as "conservative" or "far right" (compared with 16.6 per cent last year); 34.8 per cent say they are "liberal" or "far left" (compared with 35.4 per cent), and 50.7 per cent chose a "middle-of-the-road" label.

Student Freedom

They also support more strongly than any previous class the idea of student freedom and independence, despite the relative calm today even on campuses where the battles of student freedom were fought. For example, fewer than one in three - 30.8 per cent compared with 32.5 per cent last year and 56.4 per cent in 1968 - believe that student publications should be cleared by college officials.

These other characteristics and attitudes of the class of 1977 were reported:

-Concern for women's rights to job equality has heightened while interest in rearing families has decreased. Although only 30.4 per cent of the freshmen agreed that "activities of married women are best confined to the home and family," compared with 47.8 per cent three years ago, among women the highest rate of agreement with that statement was found in those entering predominantly black colleges.

-Ambitions of freshmen for later graduate and professional studies showed a marked increase after reaching a low point in 1971 in the face of a tightening job market.

Seminary In Exile Opens On St. Louis University

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) - The Seminary in Exile, an assembly of former Concordia Seminary students and faculty members, started operations Wednesday in a red brick building on the campus of St. Louis University.

The seminary they left behind, Concordia, once the nation's largest Lutheran Seminary, was still in operation but it has been decimated by a doctrinal dispute over interpretation of the Bible.

Concordia once had 700 students and now has 17. It once had 48 faculty members, and now has a handful, some on leave. The Seminary in Exile has virtually all of those who either were suspended from or dropped out of Concordia.

St. Louis University is a Catholic institution, which along with Eden Theological Seminary of the United Church of Christ has offered to lend space for classes of the Seminary in Exile. Weak attempts at reconciliation within the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod were continuing but apparently the theological split is too great for unity.

Those who remain at Concordia and in the Missouri Synod favor literal interpretation of the Bible. Those who have left believe that the Bible may not be historically accurate on some points.

Students attending the Seminary in Exile moved across the St. Louis University Campus Wednesday with maps in their hands to find their new school building. Attendance figures were not available, but more than 400 were at the traditional noontime worship service.

A statement released by St. Louis University and Eden said that the lending of classroom space "in no way involves a judgment about the internal affairs of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod or the controversies which are at present taking place with the synod."

Black and White television broadcasting was introduced in Australia in 1966 and color TV is due to commence in 1975.

Dear Abby

Nutty brother in law is hung up on sex

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and my problem is my over-sexed brother in law. I babysit for their 2-year-old child. My sister would wring his neck if she knew how fresh he gets with me and every other female who comes within 2 feet of him. (He's even propositioned my mother—and she's 60!)

My sister and this lecher are building a new home now and he tells everybody that he and my sister and their little daughter bathe together! My sis is seven months pregnant now, and this over-sexed dude says he is looking for a king-sized bathtub so they can ALL bathe together after the new baby comes. He says there is nothing wrong with nudity or sex, and anyone who says there is is evil-minded.

Tell me, Abby, is he nuts, or am I evil-minded?

SISSIE

DEAR SISSIE: There is nothing wrong with nudity or sex under the proper circumstances, but any man who'd proposition his mother in law is nuts.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your item concerning the women who are interested in obtaining false fannies: I would like to make a contribution.

BABE IN OMAHA

DEAR BABE: After me!

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow woman planning a tour with a friend. I'll be sharing a room with her which will create a problem because I snore. I know I snore loudly because those who have heard me say it is most annoying.

I'm told I sleep with my mouth open, so that must be the reason. My friend doesn't know about my snoring, and I hesitate to tell her before attempting to remedy it. Any suggestions?

SNORING PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: First see a nose and throat doctor. Often a minor surgical correction will solve the snoring problem. Some have solved the open-mouth problem by applying adhesive tape over the mouth, or using a chin strap. If all else fails, buy your roommate some ear plugs.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS A NEW SECRETARY": I agree. A new broom sweeps clean. But next time try to get one that doesn't come with an old witch attached to it.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Consumer Market Report

COLLEGE STATION — Citrus continues to highlight most fruit counters this week, according to one source.

"Grapefruit and oranges of several varieties are well worth considering," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Consumer Marketing Information Specialist with The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reported.

Strawberries are a bit more plentiful with prices generally moderate, while other fruit choices include apples, bananas and pears, the specialist said.

"Economical vegetables are cabbage, carrots, rutabagas, bulk turnips, cooking greens and celery. Prices on potatoes and dry onions are higher."

Turning to meat counters, Mrs. Clyatt noted a good supply of fryer chickens with corresponding attractive prices.

"Egg prices are higher than a year ago with Grade A, large-size eggs offering the best combination of quality and economy."

"Beef prices are slightly higher than a year ago, but most markets feature various cuts as specials, so study ads and meat counters for family preferences."

"Best beef values generally are chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and roasts, ground beef, beef and calf liver."

She listed pork values as picnics, ham portions, end-cut loin roasts and chops, pork liver, shoulder roasts and steaks.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Crisp cabbage is plentiful almost year 'round.

Regardless of color and shape, look for heads that are solid, firm and heavy for their size. Leaves should be fresh, crisp, firmly attached to the stem and free from insect injury or bruises.

Also, buy "enriched" or "whole grain" bread and bakery goods—they cost no more. Be sure pasta products are marked "enriched," too.

beauty memo for black women

NEW YORK (ED)—Today's woman is proud of her sex. She's putting her mark on every corner of our society and setting the pace with each accomplishment she makes. The black woman, perhaps, has made the greatest progress in this social revolution because she understands that to achieve her goals, the consciousness she feels on the inside must reflect how she looks on the outside. She's hip to her own special beauty and the particular care she needs.

What suits the black woman today is a far cry from what she used yesterday. No more harsh chemicals, or the brush, brush approach.

For a great appearance you have to start at the roots, then create the hair-do that best suits you. The essentials? Clean hair, a good cut and the right kind of conditioners, such as the Sulfur-8 Line hair care products designed exclusively to meet the beauty needs of the black woman. When it comes to style, "Afros" and corn row braiding are "in" but not everyone looks good in them. The best hair style is the one that flatters the facial contours as well as the head and the body. The popular bouffant cut might be just the right style for you. It falls asymmetrically in layers and after an initial brushing needs only a finger-comb through to keep in place. A "right-on" assessment of your own beauty features is the most important step to finding out what look's best suited for you. So don't be afraid to face the mirror, examine each feature then step back to get the total picture. Finding the answer to your specific beauty needs is the whole idea.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Two Men Commend Virtues Of Good Diet And Exercise

Today I am going to bring you two letters which I think many of my readers will find entertaining and helpful. They are from two of the men who read my column. The male sex is interested in many of the subjects I write about. The first letter concerns weight loss.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: This is a first. I know well that girls and women write to you about their figure problems, but did you ever have a fellow write you? No? Well, now you have."

"I was 22 when I got married. I have now been married 12 years and have three children. After marriage I let myself go. I finally weighed 155-159 pounds and am only five feet and six and half inches tall. My measurements were heavy so this past year I watched my calories and exercises vigorously. Here are my before and after results:

Before	After
Height	5'6"
Weight	118
Chest	34"
Waist	26"

If you must use credit, arrange for monthly payments which suit your budget. If your monthly payments on the appliance and on all other credit will be greater than 20 per cent of take-home pay, you have over-extended yourself. The monthly mortgage isn't figured in that amount.

Hips 41"
"Now, I thought, if a woman can accomplish this — why can't a man? Why not try it? What have I to lose? So I did, am proud of it and I feel fine — great! I'll bet you this is a first — no?"

"Please don't answer me personally, but I would really love to hear your comment through your Why Grow Old column."

First, congratulations! I agree! Why should a man carry around burdensome pounds which endanger his health and lessen his enjoyment of life any more than a woman should?"

No, your letter was not a first. I have received many letters from men although the bulk of them are from women. However, I was just as delighted to read yours. It always makes me glad when I learn that I have helped someone reach a difficult but rewarding goal.

Here is the second letter: "Dear Mrs. Lowman: In today's paper I noticed, in your column, an article about preventing snoring. I sincerely hope you will not consider me presumptuous or facetious in offering you my solution, as you are a professional and I am definitely an amateur. However, I cured my snoring, so my wife told me, simply as follows:

"I took a large size handkerchief and folded it one time, from corner - to - corner (like the old-fashioned mother folded her baby's diapers). Then I put the middle of the handkerchief under my nose and over my mouth. I tied the two corners at the back of my head, covering my mouth and deadening the sound of my breathing.

"This not only deadens the sound of my breathing through my mouth, but the knot at the back of my neck causes me to sleep on my side. As soon as they let their lower jaw drop down, causing their mouth to open, thus providing an excellent opening through which we breathe and exhale. However, this causes the tongue and/or tonsils to vibrate in the mouth, creating a disturbing sound to other sleepers.

"This information may or may not be of value to you, but I thought I would submit it for what it may be worth."

This is an interesting idea — thanks to this reader for writing. My guess is that thousands of snorers will be trying this out. Women aren't the only ones who need an exercise program. Josephine Lowman's leaflet, "Short Routine for Men," details a program for the men. For your copy, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

As we all know, aces presumably were born to capture kings and queens. Thus, logically, as a defender one seldom underleads aces against suit contracts, lest declarer win the trick with perhaps a singleton king in his own hand or dummy. Then, when the ace is led, it gets trumped.

But, as with all principles, there are exceptions. At times, the underlead of an ace can be the only winning play. In today's deal, we have this exception (underleading an ace) not once, but twice: The hand came up in the Mens Pairs Championship of 1973.

No Time Set
SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon, according to a report by the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures, is one of just eight states whose legislatures are not allowed by law to meet annually.

The others are Alabama, Maine, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Texas and Washington. If these states face emergencies in nonregular session years, special sessions of the lawmaking bodies must be called.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

SATURDAY, FEB. 23

Your birthday today: Introduces a mixed year of variable conditions requiring skill in both old and new ways of doing things. Some experiments of this year turn out to be foundations for possible whole systems supporting your success. In the process, you make a personal transition toward broader philosophy. Relationships are uphill, cannot be ignored or treated lackadaisically. Today's natives have rather good powers of concentration, can present themselves well.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Pick up the odds and ends of duty left over from the work week. Continuing concerns over the welfare of long-time friends, older people is indicated.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Expenses rise to some extent despite all budgeting. The news from your distant connections is really encouraging, altho still incomplete.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Make this as easy a day as you can, assigning yourself no special project or heavy activity. Simply breaking up the monotony in time well invested.

Cancer [June 21-July

22]: If you do not want to say "no" to a borrower, be out of reach. Home and family affairs gain mightily from your enthusiasm and attentions today.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Accept the blessing of a peaceful day rather than go stirring crosscurrents. Review your domestic scene, prepared for minor changes from previous arrangements.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Spend the day thinking thru your situation and what you want to do about it. Let people go their ways while you seek privacy for your theorizing.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Serious cooperation with close associates brings high rewards. Stay out of reach of petty criticisms from those on the fringes of your social circle.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: This odd day is divided between concern over material prosperity and pursuit of romantic or sentimental adventures. Retire early for extra rest.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Those who care about you tend to offer comments and suggestions. You have many extra chores to do merely to maintain the course you've set for yourself.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Relax, stretch out to enjoy life this rather calm Saturday. Sentiment, responses from the heart are strong, not to be taken lightly.

Business Today

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Sometimes a small company can succeed where a big company has failed because it is willing to turn the clock back to an earlier era and work harder.

W. & G. Instruments, Inc., of East Hanover, N.J., is an example. The firm was founded in 1966 to market a line of sophisticated telecommunications instruments made by a German firm, Wandell & Goltermann.

International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. had been handling the German line for some years but had pushed sales up only to $400,000 a year and never had succeeded in tapping the biggest potential American customer, the Bell Telephone System. ITT's failure with the line surprised the Germans because telecommunications was the original business of the huge conglomerate.

Brewster Jameson, a Harvard graduate, and Donald E. Foreman, educated at Purdue and Bradley, who were in ITT's instrument division, thought they knew the reasons for the failure. They resigned, formed W. & G. Instruments and took over the Wandell & Goltermann line. In the first year they pushed sales to $1 million.

"Go For Broke!" They then went after the Bell System's business. At that time, Bell made instruments of the type W. & G. wanted to sell.

Only on rare occasions would they turn to an outside supplier and then only to American firms.

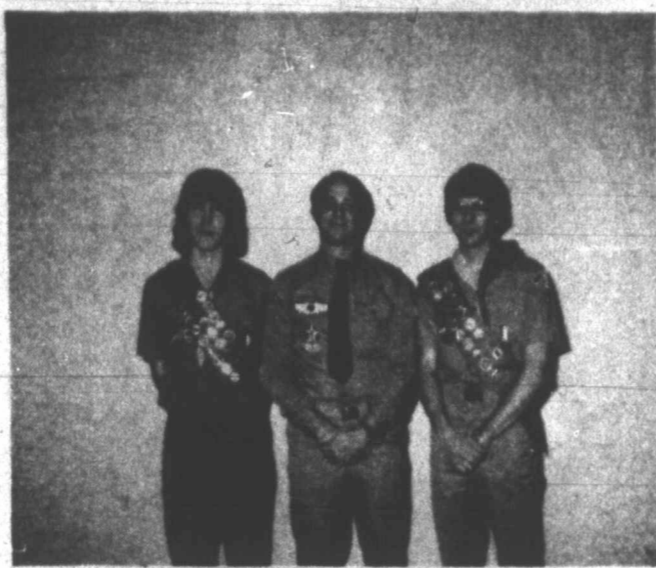

Towards the end of their first year Jameson and Foreman persuaded Bell to use a Wandell & Goltermann test set in Bell's new 3,600-channel L4 carrier system. Since then Bell has bought hundreds of these German-made sets.

"We realized from the start that if we were going to sell this line we would have to turn the clock back and adopt a marketing and servicing policy the multibillion dollar conglomerates say they no longer can afford," says Jameson.

Jameson said he and Foreman decided they would have to "go for broke" and "never count today's costs." Jameson says that was the philosophy of American business firms years ago but seldom applied today. "We decided we would always stand ready to spend our last cent in support of what we sold if that was necessary," Jameson said.

Australia Beckons
LONDON (UPI) — Crisis conditions in the British economy have led to a boom in emigration to Australia.

Visiting Australian Immigration Minister Albert Grassby said requests for information on emigration jumped 50 per cent since November. A local travel agency said its sales of one-way tickets to Australia and New Zealand soared 300 per cent.

MoD REPORTS

Baby Rubella Infections Show Drastic Decline

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — The number of babies infected in the womb with rubella (German measles) fell drastically in 1973, reports Dr. Virginia Aggar, senior vice president for medical affairs of The National Foundation - March of Dimes.

According to the Center for Disease Control, reported cases of congenital rubella in 1973 fell 77 per cent below the average number for the years 1966 to 1969.

"This downward trend, which began with licensing of a rubella vaccine in 1969, shows the effect of preventive health measures when given widespread use," Dr. Aggar notes. "March of Dimes chapters around the country worked closely with state and local health departments in immunization drives to prevent spread of the virus to pregnant women."

Children from one to 12 are priority vaccination targets because they are principal transmitters of the virus. Rubella is a mild childhood disease, but if a woman becomes infected early in pregnancy, there is risk of severe birth defects and sometimes death to her unborn child.

Despite the drop in cases of congenital rubella, there were regional outbreaks of rubella last year among adolescents and college students in Colorado, Massachusetts, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oregon, Tennessee and Virginia.

Dr. Aggar attributes this to the fact that many of these young people were too old for vaccination in earlier immunization drives.

"However, the decline in reported cases of congenital rubella," says Dr. Aggar, "indicates that the vaccination program has decreased the risk that a rubella-susceptible pregnant woman will be infected and that her baby will be born with the birth defect of congenital rubella. This risk will be decreased even further if all children under age 12 are vaccinated."

Still unvaccinated by the end of 1973, were about 11 million children aged one to 12 — or 23 per cent of the target population.

Teen-Agers Opinionated On Sex Roles

NEW YORK (UPI) — Masculine. Feminine. The much-taken-for-granted words mean different things to different people.

Teen-agers have strong opinions on the subject — some of which surface in the sound-filmstrip "Masculine - Feminine" recorded for Co-Ed magazine.

The filmstrip is designed to provide a takeoff point for group discussion in the classroom — centering on sex stereotyping. In simplest terms "genuine sex stereotyping holds that boys are strong and brave and smart in math. It holds that girls are weak and need to be protected. It also holds girls are dumb in math."

Parents may find it interesting to know how teen-agers feel about individual identities. An indication of how teen-agers feel about this is shown by the following excerpts. To wit:

—GIRL: "When I feel protected, I feel very feminine. Like just an arm around me or something like that."

—BOY: "I don't think there's any real basis for it, any truth to it, but I think, that in all males in America there's something that our society puts in that says: 'Men are better than women.' And there's no real way you can get out of it because you're born with it."

—GIRL: "I happen to think it's beautiful if a boy cries. I really think it's nice."

—BOY: "So I guess I'm brought up that way where a man does the same work as the women. My father washes dishes. My father cleans out the oven and my father washes floors and so it's kind of half and half."

—GIRL: "My mother makes more than my father, so she always says, anytime they get into an argument or something, 'Well, I'm bringing in over half the income.' It's really funny."

—BOY: "The worst times I've ever been with girls are, you know, when there's truth going on. When everything's based on lies."

—GIRL: "It's changing on the outside but, I think inside like — I don't know — like there are some things that are really old-fashioned."

—BOY: "When I first met this girl, she said, 'Lee, you gotta act straight.' I said 'All right' and I act straight. And after that I was straight, you know. And me and her got to know each other much better than we did before, and ever since that time me and her have been together."

Included with the filmstrip are an illustrated transcript.

discussion questions for units, role-playing suggestions and projects for longer study. "Masculine-Feminine" can be ordered from Scholastic Book Services, 904 Sylvan Avenue, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632. The price is $15.

Helping America Understand

During the Revolutionary War, James Derham learned much about the art of healing from his master. After the war he eventually earned enough money to buy his freedom. And within several years he had a thriving medical practice in New Orleans.

On March 5th, 1770, an escaped slave and leader of the Boston Patriots encouraged his companions to strike the British Redcoats. Crispus Attucks became the first to lose his life in the cause of freedom. A monument in Boston pays tribute to this Afro-American.

Phyllis Wheatley was brought to this country as a young slave and was taught to read and write by the family of her master. She grew up to become one of the foremost poets on the American literary scene.

Washington: 'Wise And Great'

The Monday Holiday Bill notwithstanding, today is the traditional date for observance of George Washington's birthday anniversary.

So we honor him on this Feb. 22 as has been the custom for so many years past.

Treacherous in private friendship and a hypocrite in public life" was the verdict of one eminent American.

Thomas Paine, pamphleteer and patriot, was delivering what he probably sincerely believed to be final judgment on George Washington.

That the first chief executive was the target of scathing attack in his own time is a fact of American history rarely forgotten by all but historians. But fact nonetheless. Political hatchmen of any time would be hard put to match the abuse heaped upon this least political of presidents.

Washington himself, writing in the last year of his presidency to Thomas Jefferson, complained that the partisan press referred to him in "such exaggerated and indecent terms as could scarcely be applied to a Nero, a notorious defaulter, or even a common pickpocket."

Yet the Washington reputation not only survived, it has grown through the years. While the debunking school of historians has been industriously cutting down to size other greats of America's early years, recognition of Washington's indispensable contributions to the fledgling nation has become clearer, respect greater.

Why? He certainly lacked the intellectual brilliance of Jefferson, the political and economic genius of Hamilton. He was not a great speaker or writer, nor one to fire men with his words. He would be considered dull, unimaginative today. Why should this sober, even stuffy, country gentleman be revered as have few other presidents?

It is simply that because without Washington there would have been no country, no subsequent presidents.

At the end of the Revolution, whatever discipline and unity had been forged by the war utterly collapsed. Political confusion, economic chaos, armed rebellion followed victory.

Washington, the military hero enjoying the gratitude of his countrymen, knew he had far more to lose than to gain by entering the political arena.

Yet no idea moved him so deeply as national unity. And by accepting the challenge, with the calmness that inevitably followed, he more than anyone else, maintained unity during the crucial early years, doing so by sheer force of person and character.

horseman of his age, and the most graceful figure that could be seen on horseback.

On the whole, his character was, in its mass, perfect, in nothing bad, in few points indifferent, and it may truly be said, that never did nature and fortune combine more perfectly to make a man great, and to place him in the same constellation with whatever worthies have merited from man an everlasting remembrance. For his was the singular destiny and merit, of leading the armies of his country successfully through an arduous war, for the establishment of its independence; of conducting its councils through the birth of a government, new in its forms and principles, until it had settled down into a quiet and orderly train, and of scrupulously obeying the laws through the whole of his career, civil and military, of which the history of the world furnished no other example.

Washington, the military hero enjoying the gratitude of his countrymen, knew he had far more to lose than to gain by entering the political arena.

Yet no idea moved him so deeply as national unity. And by accepting the challenge, with the calmness that inevitably followed, he more than anyone else, maintained unity during the crucial early years, doing so by sheer force of person and character.

Washington, the military hero enjoying the gratitude of his countrymen, knew he had far more to lose than to gain by entering the political arena.

George Washington

By THOMAS JEFFERSON
(Jefferson wrote the following characterization of Washington when Jefferson was past 70 years old and Washington had been dead nearly 104 years.)

His mind was great and powerful, without being of the very first order; and as far as he saw, no judgment was ever sounder. It was slow in operation, being little aided by invention or imagination, but sure of conclusion.

He was incapable of fear, never of personal dangers with the calmest unconcern.

His integrity was most pure, his justice the most inflexible I have ever known.

His temper was naturally high toned; but reflection and resolution had obtained a firm and habitual ascendancy over it. If ever, however, it broke its bonds, he was most tremendous in his wrath.

His person, you know, was fine; his stature exactly what one would wish, his deportment easy, erect and noble; the best

ALL THAT GLITTERS

Okay, Forget Watergate! But What About The Other Things?

By VIC GOLD
WASHINGTON — Listen to David Eisenhower telling us about his father - in - law one day last week. "In the last month or so, his spirits have really climbed," said David. The reason, the Nation's No. 1 Son - in - Law explained, was a shift in the country's attention, away from Watergate and onto the energy crisis.

Of course, that's one way of looking at it. Every cloud has its silver lining. One man's meat is another man's poison. If you can keep your head while, all about you, others are losing theirs — well, you must have an in with the executioner.

One by one, aides to David's father - in - law have been hauled away on the tumbrels. (Loyalty, what crimes are committed in thy name!) But as we move toward the first anniversary of the April 1973 McCord - Magruder revelations to the Sirica grand jury, prospects of impeachment - resignation diminish. Or so it seems.

All right then, since we're going to have Nixon to kick around the Oval Office three more years, let's give the only President we've got every benefit of the doubt. In unison now: one year of W----- is enough (let the name not pass from lip or typewriter!).

But what about that e---y crisis? And what about those other shortages? Food, steel, newsprint and the like?

Take a minor item. Metal hangers. A few weeks ago my wife told me to collect the hangers in our closet so they could be returned to the cleaner. Why? There's a shortage. Well, it's hardly a shortage. Well, it does bring back World War II memories. We used to have neighborhood metal hanger collections back then, remember? Though it was easy to understand in those days. There was a war on.

What most Americans can't come to terms with in 1974, however, is the idea that the strongest, most affluent industrial society in the world has suddenly shown frayed cuffs. Returns my metal hangers? Okay, but why? Because there's a detente on?

How long ago was it that we were being told Nixon's Detente would bring us a generation of prosperity - without - war? And Nixonomics — Phases I through IV — could control inflation without disrupting our free market?

W----- aside then, David's father - in - law still has a lot to explain. Unprecedented peacetime shortages, rumors of shortages, and other bits of Middle American graffiti, 1974, such as:

Two Korean brothers in my neighborhoods invested their life savings in our great American dream — owning a business. They bought a gasoline station, worked their tails off in the best Puritan ethic — and are currently about to go under. For what it's worth, their attention — and that of thousands of small proprietors like them — has been successfully diverted from W-----.

Another minor item involves Mr. Kurtz, the cleaner who needs those metal hangers returned. A frugal man, Kurtz has always set his winter home thermostat at what we're now told is a comfortable 68 degrees. But along came his oil supplier with an arbitrary percentage reduction in all customers' home oil, based on previous years' purchases. So now the Kurtz family is forgetting W----- by living in an uncomfortable 82-degree household.

Now, while the campuses may be calmed, the highways and supermarkets are in ferment. The American economy is suffering disruptions which, if not yet intolerable, are the next worst thing in a free society: inexplicable.

If David's father - in - law finds these circumstances spiritually bracing, he could be in for a rude awakening. As far as the country is concerned, one year of the e---y crisis is enough! Another such year and the country's attention may indeed be completely diverted from W-----. But the man charged with running the show might wish it hadn't been.

Teachers Union Charged With Using Reverse Discrimination

By VICTOR RIESEL

NEW YORK — Angered by what it believes to be reverse discrimination, the B'nai B'rith's prestigious Anti - Defamation League (ADL) is charging the powerful teachers union known as the National Education Assn. (NEA) with reprehensible racism.

The League, among whose leaders are some of the nation's leading jurists, professionals and intellectuals, strenuously objects to the union's new constitution and bylaws on the ground that the NEA gives special preference to blacks, Chicanos, other Spanish-speaking minorities, Asian-Americans and Indians.

The ADL protests this on the theory that the insistence on inclusion of fixed minority representation on all NEA committees, in all its executive positions and on its staff is "unlawful, undemocratic and racist."

And that the NEA, which is the country's biggest teachers union with 1.2 million members, some of whom are in the AFL-CIO, is using methods which are "reprehensible and retrogressive in the extreme."

The League has protested to the NEA itself. There has been no reply. So the ADL will go into court as a complainant under the 1964 Civil Rights Act to force the union to revise its constitution which actually fixes black and other minority representation at 20 percent.

The Anti - Defamation League will also take its case before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

"Of course we will take this into federal court," says the ADL's top legal counsel, Arnold Forster. "We will not permit this to happen."

Specifically the League's leaders have been aroused by such clauses in the NEA constitution as Article 3, Representative Assembly, Sec. 6, Committees, which says: "There shall be a minimum of 20 percent ethnic - minority representation on each committee" and in Article 4, Executive Officers, Sec. 4, Ethnic Minority Guarantee: "If after 12 years no member of an ethnic - minority group has served as President, nominations at the subsequent Representative Assembly shall be restricted to members of such groups." Which means that a black or other member of a minority must be elected president every 12 years regardless of who is in the field that year.

And Article 6, Executive Committee, Sec. 1, Composition, Part B: "Members from ethnic minorities shall comprise at least 20 percent of the Executive Committee ... Candidates for these (minority) positions shall be nominated by the ethnic - minority delegates at the Representative Assembly." Which means that only blacks, et al., now have the right to nominate other blacks and minority delegates — thus denying the vast white majority of their rights to nominate ethnic candidates.

This is considered not only unlawful but reprehensible. The League charges the NEA's "constitution and bylaws deny members the right and responsibility to select the best qualified leadership and staff personnel without regard to ethnic or racial background."

Thus, says the League's own Civil Rights Executive Committee, the powerful teachers union "has codified, stratified and perpetuated discrimination, and, at the same time, has violated Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act which explicitly forbids such practices."

In effect, the League, it seems to me, is saying that the rights of the vast majority have been curtailed by the NEA's own racial quota system.

For example, there is in the new Bylaw Section 10, Executive Director and Staff, Part C: "The Association shall, as vacancies arise, employ at all levels of service at least the same ratio of any ethnic minority as is that ethnic minority to the total population of the U.S."

Nation Seems To Be In An Epidemic Of Failure

By PAUL HARVEY
You are physically healthier because science has been researching your sicknesses.

But the No. 1 sickness has been getting no attention until now.

Our No. 1 sickness is failure. And at long last, at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, they are seeking the cause and cure for that.

Failure is epidemic. Products fail. Government administrators fail. Fuel is scarce, the mail is late and the railroads are bankrupt.

There is an epidemic of failure. Bankruptcies in business, dropouts from school, decaying churches, fractured marriages.

Much of government is preoccupied with trying to remedy failure with patches on patches. Most of our institutions and much of our national budget goes to remedy failure: prisons, courts, welfare.

Now at MIT they're seeking the cause and, hopefully, a cure.

Scholars and students in sociology, architecture, engineering, medicine, urban planning, theology and law gather weekly to dissect the anatomy of failure.

A Harvard law professor, Harold Berman, is most concerned about the failure of our legal systems. Journalist Edwin Diamond wants most to know why so many magazines and newspapers fail.

Carroll Wilson has researched the failure of our nation's international relations;

And Section 8 says: "Each (state and local) affiliate shall apply the one - man - one - vote principle for representation on its governing bodies except that the affiliate shall guarantee ethnic - minority representation at least proportionate to its ethnic - minority membership."

Replying as a band of public-minded citizens, the League's leaders say that the ADL "will take steps to challenge the legality of provisions in the NEA rules which mandate ethnic quotas and preferential treatment for certain minorities in the selection of officers and lay leadership and in NEA staff employment."

Thus the issue finally is confronted on an ethical plane. The Anti - Defamation League, whose reputation cannot be impeached, clearly is saying that it is just as wrong to discriminate in favor of blacks and other minorities as it is to discriminate against them. There will spring from this protest a sharp national dialogue. The debate in and out of the courts will swing on the principles it will thrust into the open sensitive issue which has long needed discussion in the market place. And the outcome will set a national precedent.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Looks Like Congress Is Going To Grab Pay Hike

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON — It is only ten days now before that hefty congressional pay increase automatically goes into effect — and nothing has happened so far to stop it.

And from all inside indications, it's very doubtful anything will derail it before the March 6 deadline.

A number of legislators have denounced the $10,300 salary increase (spread over three years) and, as the law requires, some resolutions have been introduced to reject it.

The rub is getting them acted on in time.

That's going to take some doing because there are formidable obstacles in the way.

Foremost among them are Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., and Rep. Thaddeus Dulski, D-N.Y., chairmen of the two Civil Service committees that have jurisdiction over this legislation — and who are openly for the pay grab.

They make no bones about that, or their reluctance to block it. If they have their way, the raise is in the bag.

Neither McGee nor Dulski has lifted a finger to consider the opposing resolutions. Dulski's committee has a regular meeting scheduled later this week, but he has evinced no intention of taking up the pay question.

Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, a ranking committee member and leading castigator of the pay grab, is trying to force bringing up the issue — but with no success so far. He is demanding a special committee meeting for that purpose, but has been unable to get enough petition signers.

Licking Their Chops
Another weighty backstage factor is that top Democratic leaders are very much for the increase.

It is highly significant that Speaker Carl Albert, Okla., and Senate floor leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., have said nothing against the hike, while House floor leader Thomas O'Neill, Mass., has heartily acclaimed it. Says O'Neill, "The only thing wrong with it is that it isn't enough; it should be more."

Assistant Senate Republican leader Robert Griffin, Mich., was only slightly less effusive: "The increase will accomplish nothing more than keep pace with the approximate rise in the cost of living which has already been experienced and which most economists anticipate will go still higher."

Crux of what happens between now and March 6 rests with the House.

Even if a direct vote can somehow be maneuvered in the Senate, the raise is virtually certain to be approved there. Only a third of the Senators are up for election this year, and there is no question a majority favor the $10,300 boost.

Significantly indicative of that was the Senate's approval last fall, in a matter of minutes and without a murmur of dissent, of a proposal by Sen. McGee to ram through the pay grab then instead of waiting until 1974 — an election year.

Rep. Gross and a handful of others were able to kill this wily scheme in the House.

That's a highly favorable portent on what would likely happen in the House if a vote can be brought about there on a rejecting resolution. All House seats are up for election this year — and that makes a big difference.

That's why more than a score of dissenting resolutions are piled up in Rep. Dulski's committee, and why hardly a day goes by that one or more Congressmen don't issue a blast against the raise.

Latest to do so are Reps. Robert Bauman, R-Md., Joseph Gaydos, D-Pa., Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., David Satterfield, D-Va., Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., Victor Veysey, R-Calif., Joe Waggoner, D-La., Charles Wilson, D-Tex., Louis Wyman, R-N.H., C.W. (Bill) Young, R-Fla., Sidney Yates, D-Ill.

More Loos
Wholly unmentioned in the discreetly muted controversy over the $10,300 pay grab is that, juicy as it is, it is only a relatively small part of what a member of Congress gets.

Actually, a legislator's total "take" runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

These numerous and lucrative fringe benefits and perquisites are carefully glossed over in the discussions of the pay hike, but they are very real and mouth - watering.

That's why no one who serves in Congress even a few terms leaves there impoverished. And the longer they stay the better off they are.

Following are the reasons why: —Liberal retirement benefits after five years' service — $5,312.50 annually. Top pension: $34,000 a year after 32 years' service.

—$45,000 life insurance policy at special rates, plus widows' benefits equal to one year's salary (presently $42,500).

—Staff allowance: for Senators, based on state population, maximum $586,160; for Congressmen, $165,168.

—Stationary allowance: Senators up to $5,000; Congressmen $4,250. This money can be pocketed legally if reported as income on tax returns.

—Rent-free offices — one in Washington and as many as three in home states and districts. These offices are handsomely furnished and elaborately equipped with latest machines and devices.

"IS THERE SUCH THING AS A WINDFALL LOSS?"

Dying Sect Of 'Shakers' Noting Group's Founding

NEW YORK (UPI) — An illiterate, penniless cook named Ann Lee landed here from England 200 years ago — an

Rev. Hager To Deliver Final Sermon

Rev. Martin Hager will deliver his final sermon Sunday at the 10:45 a.m. worship service at the First Presbyterian Church, 525 North Gray. Beginning March 1 Rev. Hager will be the Senior Minister of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Houston. He came to Pampa in July 1967. Rev. Hager has chosen for the title of his sermon "Thank God For You." Scripture readings will be from the Old and New Testaments. Assisting in the pulpit will be Elder Ray Kuhn. The Sacrament of Holy Communion will be observed during the morning worship service. The pastor will serve and be assisted by elders. Also the Sacrament of Baptism will be administered during the service.

The Chancel Choir under the direction of Mrs. Carol Mackey will present the morning anthem. Jerry Whitten, organist, will present the prelude, offertory and postlude selections. The church invites Rev. and Mrs. Hager's many friends in the community to attend the service of worship this Sunday.

Events for the coming week: This Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m. there will be a covered dish supper in Fellowship Hall. The program will be of western music sponsored by the Moody Foundation in Galveston. Bill Jamison and Richard Rodriguez will provide the entertainment.

event that is being celebrated in 1974 with publications, exhibitions, and scholarly conferences.

Ann nearly starved in New York for 18 months, then moved with a few equally undistinguished disciples to a wilderness tract near Albany, N.Y. It was there she established the first Shaker community and the only Communist experiment that ever worked, thus guaranteeing herself a place in history books.

Shakerism, so called for a shaking dance performed during worship, did not develop as a preconceived Communist plan. But only by withdrawing from the world in celibate communities where everyone worked according to his abilities and shared equally in property and goods could the sect hope to escape contamination by sinning non-believers.

The Shakers were divided into families ranging from 50 to 100 members and a community usually was formed of several families. The sexes lived separately and even ate at separate tables but were otherwise united by bonds of brotherly and sisterly love. All members were equal and authority was placed in the benevolent hands of both elders and eldersesses.

Mother Ann, as she was known, fancied herself the female manifestation of Christ and preached His imminent second coming. Despite its exotic character, Shakerism was the most enduring of the Utopian religious adventures that sought perfection outside the mainstream of American life, just as some communes do today.

Twelve Survive
Twelve Shakers, all women, still survive, the youngest in her 40s, the others in their 70s and

80s. Four live in Canterbury, N.H., and eight at Sabbath Day Lake, Maine. After the death of the last Shaker brother in the 1950s, the central Shaker ministry in Canterbury decided to exclude new members from the two remaining communities.

The sect, thus barred from recruiting converts, is doomed — a fate that Sister Miriam Wall, 78, of Canterbury, does not view with any particular regret. Canterbury has become a tourist attraction, and she spends much of her time preparing educational programs for visitors.

"We never give up hope," she said recently. "Young people especially are coming back. We had 8,000 visitors last year, many of them college students. They see that while our physical aspects are dying, our ideas will never die. This religion will repeat itself. God in His own time will replenish us."

The most popular Shaker attraction is the $2.5 million restoration of the Hancock Shaker Village near Pittsfield, Mass., with its architecturally renowned round stone cattle barn. Some 45,000 persons paid to visit Hancock during its June-November season last year, keeping Mrs. Lawrence K. Miller, president of the restoration corporation, and her staff of 36 hopping.

Aimed at Perfection
"Most people are attracted to the Shakers at first through admiration of their simple, beautifully designed furniture," Mrs. Miller said on a visit to Manhattan to preside over a Shaker herb garden at the Winter Antiques Show.

"The Shakers tried for perfection in everything they did as an expression of worship. Their furniture has never been in such demand by collectors as it is now. A selection of our Hancock furnishings currently is on tour in Europe."

A visit to Hancock or the other Shaker restorations, South Union and Pleasant Hill, both in Kentucky, gives an insight into the Shaker world that goes far beyond furniture that heralded "modern" design. These were almost self-sustaining communities, buying little from the "world's people," as the Shakers called outsiders.

But sell they did. They pioneered the marketing of packaged agricultural seeds and even had customers in Europe. Their medicinal herbs were preferred by doctors for decades. They sold chairs in 10 sizes, cattle, brooms, hats, cloaks, rakes, sieves, cider, flannel, maple syrup and rose water.

Shaker inventions included the wooden clothespin, brimstone match, circular saw, rotary harrow, large-scale washing machines, metal pen nib, threshing machines, and an apple parer. They produced improved strains of fruit, advocated greater use of vegetables, popularized whole grain flour, and devised recipes that are still enjoyed throughout the land.

Early Opposition
"There was much opposition to the Shakers in the early days," Mrs. Lawrence recalled. "They took in all children brought to them — the sick and the orphans — and increased their membership that way. When relatives wanted the children back there was ill-feeling and lawsuits. But eventually the Shakers came to be highly respected. Farmers especially admired them and learned from them."

At the peak of the Shaker movement, between 1825 and 1860, there were 18 Shaker communities in seven states and 6,000 members. Overemphasis on commerce, cooling of the nation's religious revival, difficulty in obtaining new members, and poor leadership eventually forced the sale of all but two communities. These have a total of more than 5,000 acres, and the surviving Shakers' total worth is put at something like $2 million.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Bible Church of Pampa

HAPPINESS IS — The Bible speaks of happiness in terms of joy, peace and contentment. Such happiness is, I'm confident, one of the most desired goals in life, if not the most desired goal. Yet this coveted goal eludes the vast majority for at least two basic reasons: (1) Either the way to attain the goal is not known by the individual or (2) He does not care to pay the price. First of all, the road to happiness is not hidden from us. Jesus in John 15:11 pointed us to this road to happiness by saying, "These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full." John agrees that the Word of God is the true road to happiness when he says in I John 1:4: "And these things write unto you, that your joy may be full."

But the Word of God just on the printed page that we carry around between two black covers, even though we might cherish it, will not bring this coveted happiness. It must get inside of us if the goal is to be reached. Paul told the Corinthians that God designed our inward man to be renewed day by day, II Cor. 4:16. He explained the how of such daily renewal when he told the Colossians it was to be renewed in knowledge of God, Col. 3:10, and of course the Bible is the only source of such knowledge.

With the road to such happiness so clearly marked out one may well marvel that more of us are not possessors of such a spiritual windfall. It is the second reason that probably hinders us most: the fact that we do not care to pay the price. Anything worth while has its price. The classic example, of course, is the death of Christ on the cross for man's eternal salvation. In that case Christ paid sin's price in full and salvation becomes ours as a free gift when we receive it. John 1:12 makes it clear that I receive salvation by believing that when Christ died, He died for me, the individual, as a person.

But when it comes to having the abundant life for which the cross laid the foundation (John 10:10) and of which happiness is a major part, there is a very practical sense a price to pay for it on our part. How many will pay the price of so arranging their lives that time every day is available for feeding their souls on the Word of God? How many will pay the price in terms of their priorities so that attendance at a church and Sunday School which teaches God's Word as God intends is more than just on a convenience basis? How many will do the same with regard to the mid-week service which is designed to refresh the weary soul between the oasis of Sunday's?

True happiness is not having things or knowing certain people, but is the believer's — through fellowship with Jesus Christ daily in His Word.

Did You Know This About OUR RELIGIONS?

By Dr. Carlyle Adams

Siberian Reindeer Brought To Alaska By Missionary

Domesticated reindeer were first introduced into Alaska by a Christian missionary, Sheldon Jackson. Born into a family prominent in New York State politics, he chose the life of a wandering evangelist in the western part of the United States. Eventually he went to Alaska, shortly after it was purchased from Russia.

Endeavor Societies throughout the world and they are distributed in 76 nations and 83 different Christian organizations or denominations. In the eastern hemisphere these countries include Europe, Africa, India, Pakistan and the Middle East.

Question: What is the "blue denim" Bible?
—Columbus, Ohio
Answer: It is one edition of "Today's English Version" of the Bible, translated by a committee of scholars sponsored by the United Bible Society and the American Bible Society.

The blue denim edition is issued in paperback with a front cover which looks like the material of which blue jeans are manufactured. It is especially popular with young people who like that style of dress. The same translation is also published in other forms.

Question: Of the major world religions, which is the largest?
If it is Christian, how are Christians divided as to separate groups?
—St. Louis, Mo.
Answer: The first Christian Endeavor Society was organized by the late Francis E. Clark in 1881 at Portland, Me., where he was a minister. The idea spread very rapidly not only in the United States but also in Canada and in Europe. Within 14 years after its founding it had become an international movement and the world's Christian Endeavor Union was organized in Boston in 1895.

Today the world headquarters are at 23 Learnington Rd., Ryton-on-Dunsmore, Coventry CV8 3 FS, England. In the United States, the headquarters at 1221 East Broad St., Columbus, Ohio 43216.

The next world convention of the Christian Endeavor Union will be at Essen, Germany, July 24-28 this year. There are about two million members of Christian Endeavor Societies throughout the world and they are distributed in 76 nations and 83 different Christian organizations or denominations. In the eastern hemisphere these countries include Europe, Africa, India, Pakistan and the Middle East.

Question: Of the major world religions, which is the largest?
If it is Christian, how are Christians divided as to separate groups?
—Albany, N.Y.
Answer: Of the seven major religions of the world, Christianity has the largest number of adherents, comprising about a billion. Of that number 575 million are Roman Catholics, 224 million are Protestant or Anglican, and 142 million are Eastern Orthodox.

Treatments For Hemangioma

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My baby has a hemangioma on her lip and chin. It bled profusely at first, but the doctor burned it three times with dry ice. It was very red at first but is white now and smaller. I would like some information about this.

—Mrs. J.A.

A hemangioma or "birth mark" is an unusual formation of tiny blood vessels which, in this case, accounts for the bleeding. (Not all of them bleed, however.)

Generally speaking, there are two types of hemangioma. One type can enlarge at first but then gradually becomes smaller and often disappears entirely. The other type does not show any change in size.

The dry ice treatment has stopped the bleeding in this case, and the mark is fading. Hence nothing more need be done — most marks of this type disappear by the time the child is 4 or 5.

If a hemangioma is of the type that will not disappear spontaneously, there are various ways of removing it (plastic surgery, radiation, dry ice, etc.) which your doctor can discuss with you if it is necessary. If the mark will disappear by itself, so much the better.

Since such marks often are around the face, parents naturally are quite concerned. They deserve a good deal of reassurance that in many cases no treatment is necessary. They also should be told when a hemangioma obviously is not going to vanish automatically, so plans can be made for removal while the child is still young.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that a person with high blood pressure should not eat cheese when taking medication. Is this correct?

—Mrs. E.A.N.

When stated flatly like that, no, it is not correct.

With some medications, eating certain types of cheese causes a sudden rise in blood pressure — which, of course, is precisely what you don't want to happen.

However, there are few such medications and, as you might easily suspect, physicians avoid using them for patients with high blood pressure. There are, after all, plenty of others which do not involve that problem.

The cheeses which have that characteristic are the "cured" ones, with a high concentration of amino acids and tyramine. Cheddar is the one in particular to avoid under those circumstances.

Some other items need to be avoided with those particular medications, such as chicken liver, pickled herring, chocolate, beer and wines of the sherry and chianti type.

However this does not apply to the average "American" cheese or cottage cheese.

So there's the story — but I wouldn't brood about it, because the medications that can be troublesome just aren't often prescribed. Or, if for some unusual reason, one of them is, then the doctor will give specific instructions as to what to avoid.

For practical purposes, the answer is, no, there is no reason for a person to avoid all cheese just because of being on blood pressure medication.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has an infected ingrown hair on his stomach.

Every time he pulls it out with tweezers another one takes its place. Would this be a sign of cancer? What can be done to make it stop?

—E.S.

No, it's not a sign of cancer. But pulling out the hair does not destroy the root. I would say that electrolysis would be the obvious answer.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson, Box 1406, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of the booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT
A Touch Of The Irish On B'way

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — It's getting to be Irish time on Broadway.

A lot of fine Irish brogues were lilting through the Alvin Theater when a brilliant Irish play, "The Freedom of the City," opened, written by outspoken Irish playwright Brian Friel. To say that an Irish playwright is outspoken is a redundancy.

There was celebrating at an Irish named restaurant, Gallagher's, where one dined on Mulligan Stew. Around the bend on Broadway near 50th St., Zero Mostel is previewing James Joyce's classic, "Ulysses in Nighttown." Zero portraying an Irish Jew.

As I am Scotch-Irish, I felt safe in asking Brian Friel what he thought of the upcoming St. Patrick's Day celebrations.

"I'm against that element of vulgarity or insincerity," he replied. "It's absurd to dye your beer or your beard green and to paint a green line down 5th Avenue."

Lighting cigarettes, looking very grave, he said he resented the image the Irish have — "the gift of gab, the drinking... they're all distortions, they're labels," he said. "Brendan Behan probably was not a drinker but hiding behind a label to avoid people he didn't want to see."

"Eugene O'Neill, our famous playwright, what do you think of him?"

"Kind of repetitive, slightly ponderous, he and Arthur Miller are very good but have a kind of an American earnestness, a kind of solemnity that you don't find in European writers. A man can be serious without being too solemn."

I asked what then was really Irish to an Irishman. Corned beef and cabbage?

"Corned beef and cabbage," he repeated. "Well, I have heard of it, but I would hardly call it our national dish."

"What then would you call your national dish?" I said. I was thinking of "spuds" or something about that brilliant.

"I suppose smoked salmon," he replied, which I thought was a surprising answer until I remembered that apple pie is the American national dish — but when did YOU have any apple pie?

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Jane Powell transformed "Irene" into a nostalgic MGM musical and gets a standing ovation when she sweeps downstage in her Alice Blue Gown (Debbie got them, too)...

My item about lacking of standing ovations roused fans to say Lionel Hampton got 'em at Rainbow Grill, Lou Rawls at Jimmy's, Stan Getz at the Half Note... Ethel Merman gave personal rave notices to Alice Faye when she saw "Good News" in Washington. They're still debating whether to bring the show to NY and face the critics or stay on tour and make money.

Great confusion about availability of tickets to Frank Sinatra Carnegie Hall benefit April 8 but Jerry Weintraub says six are available at $10 to $15 for Nassau Coliseum appearances April 9 & 10 — while they last, and don't blame me if they're gone... Elvis Presley turned down $4 million for two nights in Japan. He's going on a 23-day tour, mostly of the South.

Show Biz Quiz: What actresses played the lead in the three film versions of "Of Human Bondage"? Ans to yesterday's: Deborah Kerr's been Oscar-nominated six times without winning.

There'll be a lot of comment about Irish-born actress Fionnuala Flanagan, who has a nude scene in "Ulysses in Nighttown"... Despite the bust-up reports, Sonny & Cher'll headline together at Harrah's Tahoe next month.

Alan King kidding the TV Academy about having to import Tony Randall and Jack Klugman from H'wood shows to give them a NY award, also said: "The busiest guy at ABC is the one who changes the executives' names on the doors"... Harry Hershfield left the hospital but has a nurse restraining him from public speaking.

Vikki Carr, whose scholarship foundation is currently helping 48 university students, finally will get to college herself — to get an honorary degree in Austin, Tex... Paul Warfield, one of the Miami Dolphin stars, said at Joe's Pier 52 he's working for a master's degree in broadcasting at Kent State, and will start writing his thesis "after next year's Super Bowl." Now, THAT'S confidence!

Under Twenty

By NANCY WILTON
Learning to use a typewriter is much easier than you may think and mastering the skill can pay many dividends in your future. Even if you don't aspire to a job which requires typing skills there will be many, many times in the course of a year when being able to type will be highly useful.

In your school work, for example, there are times when a typewritten paper is neater, easier to read for your teacher and will earn you a better grade. Unless your handwriting is exceptional (and few are that lucky or talented) the typewriter can help you.

There was a time when typewritten personal letters were not considered polite. The result was often much shorter, poorly written letters. Today the typewriter is perfectly acceptable for correspondence and more often than not is preferred by those to whom you write.

Most high schools offer a typing course. Even if you aren't pursuing a commercial career you can usually enroll in the class. It is worth fitting typing into your curriculum and you can earn credits for it.

If you are out of school you will find that many adult evening schools offer typing either for free or for a small fee.

There is in almost every city a commercial school where you can enroll in a typing class. In addition, you can learn from a book on typewriting. You may find this more difficult than learning in a class, but instructions and exercises are well spelled out so that you can learn from the book. It is helpful if you have a friend who can type to help you learn.

There are, as you see, a number of ways, most of them easy to find, you can learn to type. It only requires a desire to learn, some type of instruction and practice at a typewriter.

This added skill can be a real asset as you start your work career. In most starting jobs typing is helpful. Even later on in a career there will be times when typing a memo can save you time and effort.

In your everyday personal life there are now and will be in the future countless times when typing is much more desirable than handwriting. Many people who cannot type have to resort to asking someone else to help them with these chores.

Make your plans to learn how to type.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — I ran into Preston Golding at a party the other evening and I almost said "How's your wife?"

Then I remembered that Golding and the woman he is living with aren't married. This brings up a problem.

What is the proper way to refer to single people of the opposite sex who move in with each other?

A few years ago there weren't enough unmarried couples settling up housekeeping for Emily Post to bother with.

But now the practice is widespread enough to require a whole new chapter in the book of etiquette.

Somehow the terminology previously used in liaisons of this sort no longer seem appropriate.

Seeking Right Word

I would have felt a little foolish going up to Golding and saying: "How's your mistress?" That might be acceptable in Paris but it sounds much too quaint, melodramatic and sophisticated for the Washington suburbs.

"How's your girl friend?" doesn't do it either. "Girl friend" is far too casual for the relationship involved here.

On the other hand, I didn't feel I knew Golding quite well enough to ask "How's the woman you've been living with?"

So I ended up asking "How's your roommate?"

Judging from the look he gave me, that also failed to capture the essence of their arrangement.

The nomenclature on the male side of these in-house affairs also is a bit awkward.

New Term Needed

"Lover?" It's difficult to think of Preston Golding as a lover in the classical, Don Juanish sense of the word.

"Paramour" has a distinctly foreign ring to it, conjuring up visions of Italian balcony hanky-panky. As for "boy friend," see "girl friend" above.

Other terms that spring to mind — sweetheart, beau, steady, suitor, swain, sugar daddy, etc. — must be rejected as ambiguous or hopelessly old-fashioned.

What is needed is a new title or two along the line of the "Ms." invented by women's liberation leaders.

Although "Ms." has its uses, you wouldn't ask a bachelor "How's the Ms.?"

Until someone comes along with a better suggestion, perhaps unmarried couples who are living together could be identified as "pad partners."

Which could be abbreviated as "Ppf." for females and "Ppm." for males.

This may not be the perfect solution to the problem. But at least it answers the question of how to address their Christmas cards.

AAU Track Meet Goes Off Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The much-maligned AAU indoor track and field championships, dimmed by defections of its glamor performers, will go on just the same tonight with the spotlight shifted to the 1,000 yards.

What had been earlier billed as probably the top indoor meet of the season has been reduced to something much less with the pull-out of world record setter Filbert Bayi and Tony Waldrop in the mile plus the prestigious Pacific Coast Club which includes among its members world record holders George Wood's in the shot put and high jumper Dwight Stones.

Bayi, who broke Jim Ryun's 1,500-meter mark with a 3:22.1

clocking at the Commonwealth Games earlier this month, was expected in the U.S. last week but was reportedly still in his native Tanzania, unable to get a visa.

Waldrop, the North Carolina senior who last week raced to a world indoor mile record of 3:55, was a late scratch because of a conflict with his own Atlantic Coast Conference championships on Saturday.

That left the mile field in the hands of New Zealander John Walker, runnerup to Bayi in the Commonwealth Games who also bettered Ryun's record.

With the mile stripped of its customary "star quality" performers (Marly Liquori and new pro Dave Wottle also weren't entered), the 1,000 yards with world 880 record holder Rick Wohlhuter of the Chicago Track Club and his Russian antagonist Yevnyy Arzhanov, looms as the feature event.

Along with Wohlhuter and Arzhanov, the 1,000 also features Jamaican Byron Dye (currently enjoying his finest indoor season ever), defender Marcel Phillippe and Mark Winzenreid, whose world record of 2:05.1 for the event could very well be erased.

Longhorns Move Into Tie For Lead In SWC

By United Press International — For the second time this season Texas has climbed into a tie for the Southwest Conference lead, but, just like before, the task of staying there will be difficult — beginning Saturday night.

The Longhorns, tied with Texas Tech at 83, will defend their newly won share of the league lead against Texas A&M (6-5) Saturday night in the highlight game on the conference schedule.

Texas Tech at 83, will defend their newly won share of the league lead against Texas A&M (6-5) Saturday night in the highlight game on the conference schedule.

— to SMU and TCU, a team Texas had beaten by 51 points the first time they met.

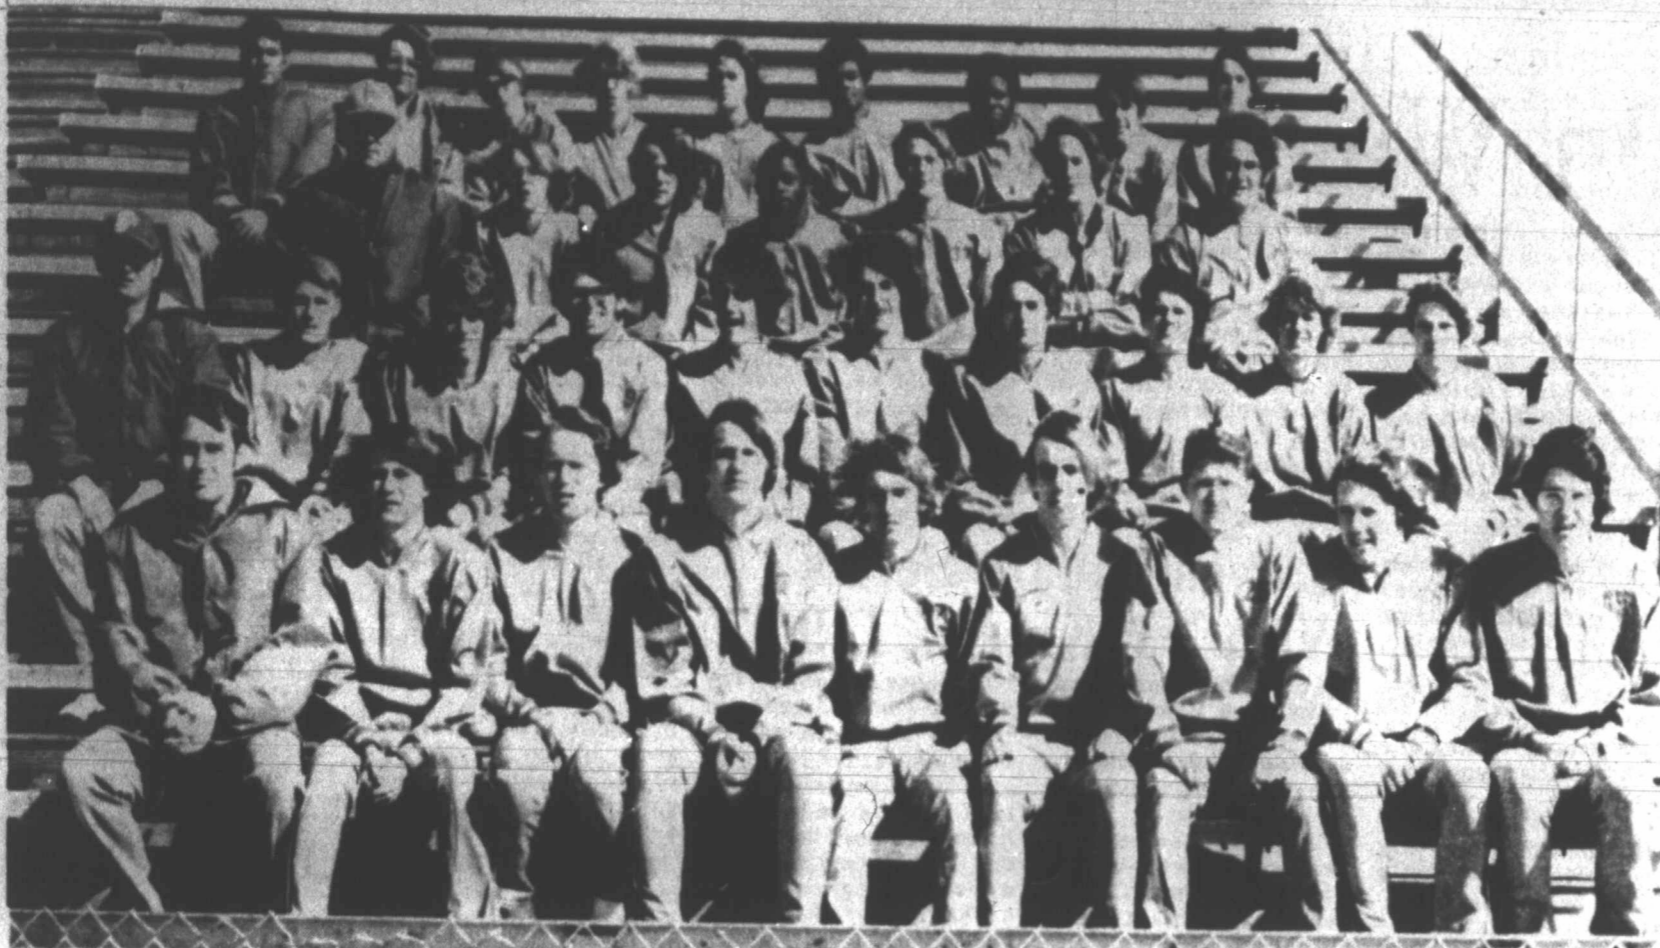

"We have a much tougher schedule ahead than Texas Tech," said Longhorn coach Leon Black. "We have two games on the road (Texas must visit Baylor as well as Texas A&M), and they only have one (a trip to TCU)."

SMU has relatively easy foes in TCU and Rice before meeting

Texas Tech on the final Saturday of the season in Lubbock.

"But we won't have a chance at anything if we don't play well against TCU," said SMU Coach Bob Prewitt. "We can't do anything about any other games. The only thing we have anything to do with is the game in which we are playing."

"We are just going to worry about our own problems. We have enough of those."

Littler Gets 1-Shot Lead In Gleason Golf Classic

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Veteran Gene Littler went out today to determine if he really has regained his putting touch, and 149 other golf professionals tee off to chase him in the second round of the $200,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic.

Littler reported his putter really woke up for the first time this year in Thursday's first stab at the $52,000 first prize. The 43-year-old Californian fashioned an opening five-under-par 67 for a one-stroke lead over comparative unknown Tom Jenkins of Houston, Tex., playing only his second year on the tour.

Four sharpshooters knotted for third with 69s over the 7,128-yard East course, which was swept by hot wind gusts of more than 20 miles an hour most of the day. They were Kermit Zarley, Lee Elder, Bruce Crampton and Jim Wiechers.

Defending champion Lee Trevino goes into the second round with a two-under-70 which ties him with Larry Ziegler. Trevino wasn't happy with his opening bid to repeat in this tournament.

"I'm not putting well at all," said the Merry Mexican.

Other favorites were having their troubles too on the greens of watery Inverrary. They included Jack Nicklaus, who reported "I was missing the six footers" to take a 74. U.S. Open champ Johnny Miller, fighting a flu bug for a 73, and Tom Weiskopf, who skied to a 40-37-77.

Last year's Masters champion, Tommy Aaron, and recent Bob Hope Classic winner Hubert Green put themselves in fair position with 71s which tied them with a half dozen others. In all, only 17 of the 150 starters finished under par of 72.

Collecting seven birdies with consistent putts of 12 to 18 feet, Littler said "this is the best I've putted all year."

Zarley, another tour veteran but seldom a winner, said he was using a new driver he picked up at a nearby repair shop and also sticking with a new grip he began this year, the interlocking grip.

Zarley's drives with his new Nicklaus driver and his iron shots were superb but his putting failed him on several five-foot attempts.

But it was left up to husky Wiechers, a seven-year pro out of California, to turn in the day's most spectacular hole. Big Jim scored an eagle-3 on the 578-yard eighth hole, the longest on the course. His second shot landed in a sandtrap alongside the cup and he blasted the ball into the cup about 40 feet away with his third stroke.

Dunbar Might Go To Pros

HOUSTON (UPI) — University of Houston junior Louis Dunbar says a $1 million priced pro contract topped by a possible NCAA championship contender will bring him back to play for the Cougars next season.

The 6-foot-9 forward, drafted by the Indiana Pacers of the ABA, had said he might apply for a "hardship case" and pass up his senior eligibility.

"If we get the people we're going after to go with the people we have coming back, we should be right up there,"

Dunbar said Thursday. "I believe it would mean a bigger contract then, too."

Dunbar led the Cougars in scoring with 22 points per game going into Thursday night's contest with Houston Baptist in which he scored 32 points, his best performance of the season. During one 90-second stretch of the game, which Houston won 101-86, Dunbar alone outscored Houston Baptist 8-0.

He also picked off 12 rebounds, the department he says he needs to improve the most.

George In Houston Today To Testify

HOUSTON (UPI) — George Foreman, spending more time trying to rid himself of a divorce suit than training for his heavyweight boxing title defense, will return to town today to testify about his financial worth, according to an attorney for his ex-wife.

Foreman unexpectedly flew to the San Francisco area Thursday afternoon. There were many reasons given for the flight as attorneys arguing the contested property settlement.

"Apparently the attorneys who went to (to California) to get bank records could not obtain them," attorney Huey O'Toole said Thursday. "And Mrs. Foreman told me George went out there to get them himself. I was led to believe that everyone is coming back Friday."

Foreman is scheduled to defend his championship against Ken Norton March 26 in Caracas, Venezuela, but he has been training temporarily in Houston. Foreman said the inconvenience was not affecting his training.

Trainer Dick Sadler, glad to see Foreman back in California for whatever reason, said the champion will work better there.

The Brazilian bushy-tailed anteater's tongue is 18 inches long.

"We will contend (with Norton) wherever we have to go to train," he said Thursday. "but there is no reason to set up another camp two or three thousand miles from your camp."

Foreman and wife, Adrienne Ray, have decided on visitation rights to their one child.

Foreman's attorneys contend he is penniless. The lawyers for Mrs. Foreman are trying to prove otherwise with the aid of check, fight contracts and other financial records.

Domestic Relations Court Judge Wells Stewart will resume testimony when all the records are brought to Houston.

Foreman's attorney said the champion would have to eventually return to Houston.

"We've got to finish the case and there's no way to finish it without him."

Whitfield Signs With WFL Washington-Baltimore Entry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A. D. Whitfield, former running back with the Washington Redskins, Thursday signed a contract with the Washington-Baltimore entry in the World Football League.

The 31-year-old Whitfield, who was out of football last season, also saw service in the Canadian Football League and the Denver Broncos after playing from 1966 through 1969 with the Redskins.

Ex Harvesters Marlar, McGuire To Compete In Valley Track Meet

CANYON — West Texas State University, led by its strong field event entries, competes Friday at Des Moines, Iowa, in the annual Missouri Valley Conference Indoor Track Championships.

While West Texas has strong entries in a few events, Drake, the defending champion, is again ranked as the pre-meet favorite. North Texas State and Wichita State also have strong teams.

Carl Brown, senior from Van Vleet, will make a bid to complete a domination of the two hurdle events which he started as a freshman. Brown has won both the 50-yard high hurdles and the 50-yard intermediate hurdles for each of the last three years.

Brown's MVC record in the 50-yard high is 6.1 seconds and his conference record in the intermediates is 6.0. He has matched the high hurdle time this season and his best in the intermediates this season is 6.1.

One of Brown's competitors will be teammate Terry Penn, a freshman from Odessa. He has a 6.2 clocking the 50-yard high and a 6.1 time in the intermediates.

Rick McGuire, besides Brown and Penn, West Texas State's most consistent runner this season has been Pampa freshman Rick McGuire. He has a 32.7 time in the 300-yard dash and is unbeaten in two starts at that event. Paducah freshman Alvis Wright also has a 32.7 time in the 300, but has not beaten McGuire in that event. Wright has a 6.1 time in the 60-yard dash.

Leading coach Bob Kitchens' field event crew are his weight men and his vaulters. Dennis Briggs has a 54-1 effort in the shot put, which is good for a WTSU indoor record.

Marvin Self has thrown 52-4.

while Charlie Haddad has a 50-7 effort and Mike Delaney's best is 47-8.

Junior college transfer Mike Walker from Seminole has vaulted 15-3 for a new school indoor record. He and Odessa freshman Tommy Humphries had set the school mark with tied 15-1 efforts, but the new mark was established last week. Max Moss has cleared 14-0 and Pete Moody 13-6.

Hereford junior George Fuller has long-jumped 22-11 1/4 for a new school indoor mark and has a 43-11 triple jump. Gary Six has high jumped 6-6 and Penn has a 6-5 best effort.

Larry Marlar, Freshman quarter-miler Larry Marlar (from Pampa) has the best time of 51.4. Steve Nieman, freshman from Hereford, has run 1:16 in the 600. Dave Karila, another of Kitchens' fine freshmen, has a 1:58.2 best in the 800. Larry Lane set the school 1,000-yard run mark earlier this year with 2:16.2.

The Buffalo mile relay relay team of Wayne Cure, McGuire, Nieman and Marlar ran 3:25.1 last week in a dual meet with Oklahoma State.

Opinions Disagree On Washington Baseball

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Look, if they're going to bring in another loser, like most of those Washington baseball teams we used to have, tell them not to bother," says one localite.

The man in his 50's, holds a good position with a communications outfit and knows his baseball.

"What's the point in getting another baseball team in here and then having to wait around 30 years for it to win?" he asks.

"People in this city will only support a winner now, or at least teams which have a chance to win like the Redskins and Bullets. The truth of the matter is I don't think anybody here in Washington misses having a major league baseball team anymore."

A much younger bell captain at one of the larger hotels disagrees completely.

"I miss a baseball team here and I know a lotta other people who do, too," he says.

Opinion Divided
What I hope is that we get a National League team, no matter which one. I've seen all the players in the American League, but I've only read about those in the National. I'd like to see 'em."

The girl who runs the newsstand is more interested in football. She's a Redskins fan, naturally.

"It does seem rather sad though that the nation's capital should be without a baseball team," she reflects.

The "man-in-the-street" here, and some of the women also for that matter, are somewhat divided on the question of how they feel about the return of major league baseball to this city.

Some are eager to see a team come back; others already have grown accustomed to being without one after two seasons, and still others are completely indifferent.

Rep. Bernard Sisk (D-Calif.), and Joseph Danzansky, head of a thriving food chain, are two men who are not indifferent.

Moreover, Sisk is sure Washington will have another baseball club fairly soon.

"I'm as certain as I'm sitting here that we'll have baseball back in Washington," said Sisk in his office. "I think the commitments we have, from the type people we have, assure that eventually. As to when it will come to pass, now that's the 864 question."

Sisk is part of a four-man committee to bring baseball back to Washington. The other three on the committee are Rep. Frank Horton (R-N.Y.); Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.), and Rep. Joseph Broyhill (R-Va.).

Upon pressing him for a date when a team might return here, Sisk said:

"I'd say 1975 would be the earliest possible chance. I'm quite hopeful we will have a team here by next year."

Why?
"Well, let me put it this way," he said.

Get A Commitment
"One morning, boom, we wake up without a baseball team. I must admit I was a little hot under the collar but after working with some of the people in baseball — people like Bowie Kuhn, John Galbreath, Chub Feeney and Joe Cronin when he was still president — they gave us the commitment they did, I believe they mean to live up to it, and I'm going to see they do."

"Both leagues have discussed a franchise here," Sisk went on. "I'm certain baseball eventually will expand. New Orleans has a stadium that's nearly ready. Toronto, according to the reports I get, has the funds. Seattle is ready to return and I even hear Buffalo is interested. The point is that with Washington, New Orleans, Toronto and Seattle being in the healthy positions they are, expansion becomes a strong possibility in the foreseeable future. Putting expansion aside though, I'm still hopeful of someone seeing the benefits that could be achieved by having a team in Washington."

Joe Danzansky saw those benefits two years ago and again last year. He even had a signed contract in his pocket from San Diego Padres' owner Arnold Smith that would have moved the Padres to Washington this season.

But then came that 11th hour word from one National League official, whom Sisk won't name, to the rest of his colleagues in the league.

"Gentlemen, I've got another buyer."

That was when Washington lost its "new" team.

"Of all the men I've ever known in my life, Joseph Danzansky certainly is the most patient and the most understanding," says Sisk.

Braves Square Series With NY Knicks, 119-97
By United Press International
That Bob McAdoo-Ernie DiGregorio scoring punch has Buffalo drunk with visions of a high finish in the coming NBA playoffs.

The Braves evened their season series with the Knicks at 4-4 Thursday night by walloping New York, 119-97, in a game played at Toronto, a city forecast as one of the franchises in the next NBA expansion.

McAdoo, the league's leading scorer, pumped in 29 points and Ernie D., a top candidate to succeed McAdoo as NBA rookie of the year, scored 22 against the Knicks.

If the Knicks and Braves finish 2-3 percentage-wise in the Eastern Conference, they'll meet in the first round of the playoffs.

A crowd of 13,396, largest attendance for any of the Braves' "home" games in Toronto this season, watched Buffalo hit 62 per cent of its shots in the first half to take a 67-38 intermission lead. The Knicks outscored the Braves, 50-52, in the second half, but it was wasted energy.

Walt Frazier, the Knicks' leading scorer, paced New York with 17 points.

Dave DeBusschere of the Knicks made his first appearance in seven games and left midway through the third period when he reinjured a bruised heel. He scored two points.

"I don't think Dave's absence made much difference," said sub guard Henry Bibby. "Everything they threw up went in. We didn't play good defense. We showed too many weaknesses."

Track Season Starts Saturday For Harvesters

Pampa High's track team will be among eight schools involved in the Plainview Invitational Track Meet, which will be the first competition for the Harvesters this season.

Amarillo, Plainview, Pampa, Borger, Canyon, Hereford and Lubbock High and Monterey will compete in the meet, which Hereford won last year. The Whitefaces edged Coronado of Lubbock, 100-99. Pampa made the trip to Plainview last year but returned before competition started due to a muddy track.

Better weather is expected this year. Competition will be at Wayland Bowl and will begin at 10 a.m. with preliminaries and field events.

The Pampa track team is Tommy Doggett, Bruce Ferris, Joe Graves, Rick Hayes, David Hampton, Noel Hansen, Larry Harris, Clinton Henry, Aaron Hill, Craig Hill, David Kitchens, Barry Lemmons, Frankie Lemmons, Rick Leverich.

TV In Review

By RICK DUBROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — What effects do political television commercials have on voters?

Two Syracuse University professors, Thomas Patterson and Robert McClure, have tackled the question, and their conclusions are contained in a study published by the Citizens' Research Foundation, Princeton, N.J.

In a summary of the study, the foundation notes: "Voter research prior to the introduction of television into American politics revealed that low interest voters ignored most efforts at political persuasion. Advocates of TV ads argue that they help overcome the apathy of these voters. The authors found that TV ads do indeed have a substantial impact on low interest voters."

"The authors suggest the explanation for this may be that low interest voters are especially susceptible to the influence of TV commercials compared to high interest voters, who are likely to rely on other sources of political information, such as newspapers and radio and TV news broadcasts."

TV Ads' Effect
Contrary to the claims of critics, moderately interested voters are affected by TV political ads even more than less interested voters.

In its summary of the study, the foundation adds:

"Based on their findings for the (1972) presidential campaign, the authors reason that in campaigns for other offices, television advertising should have even greater impact and should influence high interest voters the most, due to the lack of political coverage from other information sources."

"In addition, they argue that in any campaign, TV commercials should have greater impact in primary than general elections, for the same reason."

Patterson and McClure "monitored the television exposure of over 600 voters during the 1972 presidential campaign," according to the foundation's summary. "They analyzed the impact of three TV spots sponsored by Democrats for Nixon which attacked George McGovern's stands on issues and his leadership qualities."

Key Info Source
Among the results of this survey in the study—"Political Advertising: Voter Reaction to Televised Political Commercials"—were these, says the summary:

—Political commercials "appear to be more effective when they communicate issue, rather than image, information."

—They "are an important source of information for certain voters."

—They "usually move undecided voters and vote switchers in the direction of their basic predispositions, which may or may not benefit the candidate sponsoring the commercial."

This information should mesmerize candidates for dogcatcher, Congress and other high posts.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Rev. Mark found himself in need of a new wife. So he telephoned me to see if our SMF could locate a congenial girl that matched him on the 10 basic factors important for happy marriage. Note what happened! Tell all your eligible friends, too!

CASE Z-559: Rev. Mark, aged 37, is a California pastor.

"Dr. Crane," he telephoned, "I am one of the 3,000 volunteer clergymen who help interview applicants for the Scientific Marriage Foundation."

"But now I am in need of its services, myself."

"For after 15 years of happy marriage to a wonderful wife, I lost her six months ago, due to cancer."

"We have 3 wonderful children, all in grammar school and I have a 60-year-old lady who now keeps house for us."

"But the children need a new mother, who is younger and thus more in tune with their current problems."

"And I am bereft without my wife, for she was worth at least 50% to my success in the ministry."

"In my large church, which keeps me busy 7 days per week, there are probably 20 splendid young women who'd make me an excellent new wife."

"They are 30 to 35 years of age and include teachers, nurses and a couple of airplane hostesses."

"But I must show no personal romantic interest in any one of them, lest I offend the other 19, and thus cause friction."

"However, I haven't the time to go elsewhere in search of romance."

"So could you please introduce me to a congenial girl who would make me a splendid wife and mother to my 3 children?"

"I don't want a girl who smokes or drinks and prefer one who has some musical talent so she could play the piano at church events, if our pianists aren't present."

"And, of course, I certainly have no objection to a good looking young woman!"

COMPUTER CUPID

The Scientific Marriage Foundation is a charitable interfaith organization, with Dr. Peale, Bishop Kennedy of California, Rabbi Silver of Connecticut, Monsignor Ward of Indiana, and other outstanding church leaders on the Board.

It employs an IBM computer, matching applicants on 10 basic factors, so they have little to quarrel about after their marriage, except trivial items such as burnt toast, etc.

We keep all information confidential and "privileged," like the relationship of doctor to patient or clergyman to parishioner.

Thus, we don't release the names or pictures of any of our applicants, even to some of the splendid national magazines that have wanted to help us by running special feature stories about the SMF.

DeWitt Wallace, publisher of READER'S DIGEST, thus urged us originally not to indulge in advertising, lest it make us look akin to the "Lonely Hearts" and current advertising organizations that operate "Dating Service" at $495, per year's enrollment.

Our Board voted to charge a nominal fee of only $50, to cover permanent registration.

And of some 10,000 happily married folks, plus hundreds of formerly half-orphaned kiddies who are now bubbling over with joy at being back in a normal 2-parent home, we have far less than a 1% divorce rate in 18 years' operation of SMF.

So we soon introduced Rev. Mark to a high school music teacher, aged 29, beautiful and with a true fondness for children.

She was even of his very same religious denomination and living only 50 miles from his California city.

Within 8 months, they were happily married and the 3 kiddies are now delighted with their new mother, too.

So send for the "SMF Marriage Questionnaire," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and give it to any eligible person wanting to marry.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Stephen King, Dallas, Indiana 47526. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Today is Friday, Feb. 23, the 53rd day of 1974 with 312 to follow.

The moon is new.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.

Lord Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts of Britain, was born Feb. 22, 1857.

On this day in history:

In 1819, Florida was ceded to the United States in a treaty with Spain.

In 1879, Franklin Woolworth opened his first "five-cent" store in Utica, N.Y. Sales for the first week averaged $2.50 a day.

In 1972, President Nixon met with Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung within hours after his arrival in Peking for an unprecedented visit to mainland China.

In 1973, Israeli fighter planes shot down a civilian Libyan airliner, killing 106 of the 113 persons aboard.

A thought for the day: American novelist Ernest Hemingway said, "The world is a fine place and worth fighting for."

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "For the present, the key to the market's direction is in the hands of the Arabs, and rallies must be considered suspect unless backed by tangible evidence of a policy change," says Standard & Poor's Corp. It urges investors to adopt a "go-slow policy" until near-term developments in the oil crisis are clearly positive.

Cyclical stocks are emerging as the new leaders in a two-tier market with the glamors trailing far behind, according to Provident National Bank of Philadelphia. Since the stock market is a discounting mechanism in relation to business and economic cycles, the bank says "cyclical stocks should continue to be the market leaders and their upside potential from current levels is significant."

Last week's quiet but persistent market climb was characterized by "a very light and timid rally with a potential for dynamics that can be likened to a bear trap baited with a carcass of bad news—Watergate, inflation, energy crisis,

EPA Funds Studies Of Water Chlorination

DENTON — The United States has been using chlorine to treat sewage and to purify water since World War II, mostly because the chemical has been available.

But now the question is being asked: Is chlorination the best method of treatment in municipal waste treatment plants and is it in any degree toxic?

The Environmental Protection Agency is funding projects to study chlorination and other methods used in treating sewage because a readily available supply of chlorine is no longer taken for granted and because environment-conscious Americans are looking at the subtle as well as at the obvious dangers of various substances to the total environment.

The EPA has granted the North Texas State University Institute for Environmental Studies $44,957 for the first year of a three-year project to isolate and identify new chlorinated organic compounds produced in the chlorination of sewage.

The organic compounds which survive waste treatment procedures may be culprits that become harmful, to a greater or lesser degree, down the ecological chain, and the NTSU researchers will attempt to determine this.

Dr. William Glaze, director of the NTSU Institute for Environmental Studies, was named project director. He, two doctoral students, a post-doctoral fellow and several technicians have begun work on the gathering of data.

"Chlorination has been the disinfectant of choice in water treatment plants and sewage treatment plants," Dr. Glaze explained.

"It became available after World War II in large quantities because it was used as a poisonous gas. Now its use has become a matter of habit. It is part of the Establishment. Engineers design those kinds of plants and operators are comfortable with that kind of design," he said.

"We're not putting chlorine down," Dr. Glaze said. "Its effects have been very beneficial in improving the health standard. There would be various diseases present that have been wiped out, like typhoid and others that are carried through the water systems."

"But now we are getting more elegant in our view of the environment and we're looking at effects more subtle than gross effects like typhoid, subtle effects that may occur over generations, like mutations and abnormalities," he said.

The NTSU researcher said there has been no evidence to indicate that chlorine is dangerous or anything to be feared at present.

"However, recent evidence shows chlorination has certain disadvantages associated with it, and chlorine is becoming scarce, so even if it turns out to be safe or the best one to use from the health point of view, it still may be difficult to get in the future," he said.

The EPA is funding a number of projects throughout the nation, Dr. Glaze said, and is doing research in its own laboratories to re-evaluate the use of chlorine. Besides other chemical research similar to the NTSU research, other scientists are also studying the effects the use of chlorine has on marine life and fresh water wild life as well as the effects of other types of disinfectants such as ozone, peroxides and ultraviolet radiation.

"We're looking at what new chlorinated organic compounds are formed and in what quantities they are found so that toxicologists can then determine whether or not these compounds are dangerous at the levels to which they are produced."

"For example, some of the compounds already have been shown to be mildly toxic to fish. What we're not sure of is the long-term effects on higher animals including man," he said. The researcher said the NTSU project will take samples from water treatment plants in the Dallas-Fort Worth-Denton area and in San Antonio.

He said the EPA is expected to put together the data that is being gathered in the various projects throughout the country and "in a few years" issue a statement of EPA policy regarding the use of chlorine.

"Since the EPA funds at least a part of all water treatment facilities, they will have a lot to say about what is used (as a disinfectant for water and sewage in the country)," Dr. Glaze said.

The NTSU research is projected for three years at a total of $170,000, he said, and is renewable a year at a time.

The first winegrowers in California were Spanish missionaries, according to the Wine Institute.
