Murphy Identifies Kidnap Suspects

MAKING CROWNS — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Klinger, 1510 Williston, put the final touches on the crowns they have made for the annual Pancake Supper at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. The crowns will be presented to the boys and girls named kings and queens at the supper to be held Tuesday from 5 to 8 p. m. at the Parish House, 727 W. Browning. (Photo by Bill Kincaid)

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta Constitution Editor Reg Murphy Saturday identified a burly building contractor as the "American Revolutionary Army" colonel who kidnaped him and collected a $700,000 ransom.

The contractor, William A. H. Williams, 33, and his 26-year-old wife, Betty, were arrested in the pre-dawn hours Saturday just five hours after Murphy was set free. The ransom money was recovered from their home in suburban Lilburn, about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Williams, a Navy veteran who received a medical discharge, was listed on the police blotter as having "suicidal tendencies." He was detained under a $1-million bond on federal charges of extorting $700,000 from the Constitution.

Mrs. Williams was held under $500,000 bond on a charge of having knowledge of a kidnaping and concealing it.

The government did not press federal kidnaping charges because it has not been established that Murphy was transporter across state lines. State kidnaping charges are expected to be filed, however.

Murphy, appearing at a news conference at the Constitution Saturday afternoon, was asked if Williams was the man who came to the door last Wednesday night and tricked him into leaving home, claiming his help was needed in arranging the distribution of 300,000 gallons of heating oil to Atlanta's needy.

"There's no doubt about that," Murphy replied.

Murphy said, however, he had not been called upon by authorities to officially identify Williams.

Murphy said he didn't know exactly how the FBI picked up the trail of the Williamses so fast. But he said when he was interviewed by FBI agents following his release at 9 p. m. Friday, "They told me what I told them clicked into place with what they already had."

FBI agent John Maurer said Saturday it was "possible" that Williams and his wife made up the entire American Revolutionary Army.

Asked about this, Murphy said, "My impression is there were more than two people, but remember I had lost my sense of sight (his abductors blindfolded him)."

Asked why he thought he was chosen as the kidnap victim, Murphy replied, "At one point, he (the colonel) said that they had debated various and sundry people." He said the names of Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson, State Sen. Leroy Johnson and Don Elliott Heald, WSB-TV vice president, were mentioned.

"You go back and tell the mayor the reason we didn't select him was that he wouldn't fit in the trunk of a car," the kidnaper said, referring to Jackson's stoutness.

Murphy said he immediately tried to make friends with the colonel: "If you are ever in a situation like this, try to make friends with your kidnaper. I spent a lot of time trying to make him feel better."

Murphy said that early in his ordeal, the colonel threatened him with violence often—to shoot him and to chloroform him in the trunk of the car. He said he was warned if he made a sound when they were at gas stations, he would be killed.

The "colonel" said he was upset that so many Jews were in high governmental offices. He mentioned (Secretary of State) Henry Kissinger, (federal energy chief) William Simon and (Defense Secretary) James Schlesinger. He said "even (John) Ehrlichman was Jewish."

Murphy said the colonel loved hearing broadcasts about the negotiating. He fancied himself as a man of great daring.

The colonel, Murphy recalled, was anxious to be questioned about his political beliefs. "The guy wanted me to continue questioning him, but I was kind of disoriented."

Terrorist Group Gives No Word

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The head of Randolph Hearst's "People in Need" free food program said Saturday it will continue regardless of the response from the Symbionese Liberation Army, which holds Hearst's daughter Patricia.

Therefore, the matter is now out of my hands."

However, the Hearst Corp. said it would provide the additional $4 million demanded, but only if the girl is returned unharmed. And Hearst executive chairman Charles G. Hearst said no other funds would be offered or committed "under any circumstances."

Meanwhile, a television news reporter said that Miss Hearst was being held by an all-woman "combat unit" of the SLA because female members are used for the sect's "dirty work."

KQED-TV reporter Marilyn Baker quoted SLA sources as saying its leaders "basically don't want women to have equal authority. They are using the women to do the dirty work."

Concert Assn. Memberships Still Available

A limited number of memberships for the Pampa Community Concert Association's 1974-75 season still are available to the public. It was announced Saturday by Curt Beck, association president.

Beck said the memberships, $12 for adults and $6 for students, will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis and may be reserved by calling any of the following Concert Board members: Mrs. Bill Arrington, 665-4143; Mrs. David Fatheree, 665-3630; or Mrs. Kirk Duncan, 665-2744.

The following attractions have been booked for the 1974-75 season:

The celebrated Soviet Georgian Dance Troupe and Polyphonic Choir on its first tour of the United States.

The George Shearing Quintet in an evening of unforgettable instrumental music.

The Buenos Aires Festival Orchestra

And the New York Ballet Ensemble in classical ballet featuring internationally acclaimed stars.

Beck said the limited number of memberships are expected to be taken quickly and urged persons wishing to attend the concerts to make reservations at once in order to avoid disappointment.

"The memberships available are limited," Beck said, "and we plan to close the roster by March 9 at the latest."

President Supports Privacy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon announced appointment Saturday of a cabinet-level White House council headed by Vice President Gerald R. Ford to propose ways to safeguard the privacy of citizens against misuse of personal information stored in computerized data banks.

In a 15-minute radio speech from his White House office, the President said the council would have four months to recommend "direct, enforceable measures" through legislation or executive action to make sure that "man remains the master and never becomes the victim of the computer."

Nixon made no reference to the Watergate break-in and bugging, or allegations of White House wiretapping and burglary operations which his administration has defended on national security grounds.

Instead, his address focused primarily on the need to protect the confidentiality of credit, tax, police and other personal information that citizens that are contained in government and private computers.

"Careers have been ruined, marriages have been wrecked and reputations built up over a lifetime have been destroyed by the misuse or abuse of data technology in both private and public hands," Nixon said.

The increasing sophistication of computer technology has "created the possibility for new abuses of the individual American citizen," Nixon said, and "a system that fails to respect its citizens' right to privacy fails to respect the citizens themselves."

He said Ford's council would concentrate on: —Examining how the federal government collects and protects information on citizens.

—Recommending procedures to permit citizens to inspect and correct information about themselves contained in public or private computers.

—Proposing regulations on use of mailing lists and ways to prevent improper alteration or disclosure of personal information.

INTRODUCES BILL

Price Seeking Increase For FHA Farm Loans

WASHINGTON — Congressman Bob Price has introduced legislation which would increase the ceilings on Farmers Home Administration, government-guaranteed, agricultural operating and ownership loans.

"Agricultural equipment, livestock, land, fertilizer, seed, feed and fuel are essential to food production and farmers are currently facing spiraling costs in all of these areas," Price said.

"Expansion of food production is of crucial importance to our nation. Farmers are more than willing to expand their operations if they can obtain the needed capital. Congress must assist the farmer, and all Americans, by making sufficient capital available."

The Price bill would increase the maximum limit on FHA ownership loans from the present $100,000 each, to a

Non-Smoker Fired After Complaining

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A young secretary who says she was fired from her $550 a month job with the State Health Department because she complained about cigar and cigarette smoke, Saturday urged lawmakers to protect state employees "who do not wish to work in smoke-polluted environments."

Nancy Kay Schaut, 23, said she complained about the smoke to her immediate superior, Jess J. Brown, director of the certification and consultation division of the health department.

"He is also a smoker and he did not realize the odors and tension caused by smoke," said Mrs. Schaut, who was sitting beside her attorney, Merrell Frazier Jr., of Austin.

The petite blonde told newsmen she then complained to Brown's superior, E. P. Tottenham, a nonsmoker.

Went to Top

"This was seen as jumping the line of authority and this was mentioned when I was fired," she said.

"I was told the reason I was being dismissed was because I had put my boss in the untenable position of either firing the gentleman who was smoking cigars, banning smoking in that area or dismissing me," she said.

Mrs. Schaut said she is not allergic to smoke, but suffers a reaction "common to nonsmokers" — irritated throat and eyes, headaches and sinus problems. She said other members of the clerical staff in her office also had complained.

Demands Explanation

Frazier said Mrs. Schaut was given alternatives Friday — submit her resignation or be fired. Frazier said he plans to ask for an explanation of the action from State Health Commissioner Dr. James E. Peavy and to ask for an investigation by the attorney general and governor.

In a separate action, the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity approved a $93,468 grant to support continuing administration and general services of the Community Action Corporation for a 3-month period, also beginning March 1.

Reservations for the Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon which will be part of the Industrial Day seminar program tomorrow in the Coronado Inn Crown and Shield Room will be taken at the chamber office up until 10 a. m. Monday, chamber officials said Saturday.

The luncheon and the morning and afternoon economic development seminars are open to the public. The only charge is for the noon luncheon.

The first seminar will run from 10 to 11:30 a. m. The speakers will be James H. Harwell and Jerry Heare of the Texas Industrial Commission. The subject for the morning session will be "Orientation to Industrial and Community Development."

The chamber membership luncheon with two T-Bone steak door prizes will be from 12 noon to 1:30 p. m. Harwell, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission, will be the luncheon speaker.

The afternoon seminar session will run from 2 to 4 p. m. Speakers in this session will be Larry Milner of the Southwestern Public Service Co., area development department, and E.H. Sheffield and Homer Tucker, industrial development consultants of the Texas Industrial Commission.

They will include in their presentation, evaluating,

Episcopal Church Plans Annual Pancake Supper

The 19th annual Pancake Supper will be held from 5 to 8 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 26 at St. Matthew's Episcopal Parish House, 727 W. Browning.

Pancake Supper chairman Ab Conway said tickets will be sold at the door and are available at the church office. Pre-school children will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Members of the Episcopal youth groups are contending for titles of King, Queen and two attendants, with the coronation and presentation of prizes for the top ticket sellers to be announced at 6:15 p. m. by the Rev. Phillip Craig, rector of St. Matthew's.

Shrove Tuesday, the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday, is the English equivalent of the French "Mardi Gras" and the Italian "Fat Tuesday."

The English custom of eating pancakes on this day arose from the economy of using up the eggs and fat which were formerly forbidden articles of diet during Lent. This Tuesday, the last day before Lent begins, is sometimes called Pancake Tuesday or Pancake Day as well as Shrove Tuesday.

The word "shrove" comes from "to shrive" or hear confessions, further explained by a translation made of the "Ecclesiastical Institutes" in 1000 A. D. by Abbot Aelfric which said that in the week before Lent everyone should confess his deeds to a confessor who shall so shrive him "as he then may hear by his deeds what he is to do (by way of penance)."

Committee chairmen for the supper are:

Procurement, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gilman, Miami; ticket sales and kitchen clean-up, Mrs. Ruth Ann Giggly, equipment, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Giggly, decoration and table arrangements, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reeve and Mrs. April Hudson; hostesses, Mrs. June Alexander; crowns, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Klinger.

Also, fry bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dings, coffee, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ellis, butter and syrup, Mrs. Agnes Webb, batter preparation, John Darby, servers and dishwashers, Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Hinton, waiters and clean-up, Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Penn, publicity, Jack Curtis, and flippers, Bill Arrington.

contest will be held Tuesday, beginning at 9 a. m. with registration. Forty teams from Area One are expected.

The Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Association has scheduled its judging at 1 p. m. Tuesday, March 5, Jack Morris of the Lake Creek Ranch at Wichita Falls will place the sale order with 47 bulls entered. Twenty-eight head are entered in the Junior Heifer Show and will be competing for the first place award, a choice heifer donated from the Paul Daur Ranch at Panhandle.

The Hereford Association's annual banquet will be Tuesday, March 5, at 7:30 p. m. in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Auditorium. The "Sharpshooters" and "That Band With Digieland" will provide the floor show following the dinner. Don Lane will be master of ceremonies.

The Junior Livestock Sale will begin at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, March 6, following a free breakfast for bidders in the Sales Building dining room.

The Registered Hereford Sale will begin at 1 p. m. the same day, with Col. Walter Britten of College Station at the auctioneer.

A number of young steers and heifers will be offered for sale to 4-H and FFA students who may be looking for animals for next year's projects.

A certain small town's been trying to boost business — it's printing brochures showing a gas station with only two cars at the gas pump. The number of available diets proves that people will go to any lengths to avoid going to any widths. Rocky Graziano says Tony Zale was his second toughest opponent: "My first toughest was my wife." It's reported, says the cynic, that half of all accidents occur at home. Apparently the rest happen in voting booths. (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 16.)

FROM 7-COUNTY AREA

ToT Stock Show Attracts Entrants

The Top O' Texas Stock Show is scheduled for March 4, 5 and 6 in Pampa with 100 steers and 300 hogs entered from a seven-county area composed of Gray, Roberts, Wheeler, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Carson and Hemphill counties.

All judging will take place on Monday, March 4, with Jerry Hawkins of Clarendon Junior College placing the swine division, and Red Heath of Lamar Junior College judging the steers.

Awards will be presented at a barbecue dinner in the sales arena on Monday evening beginning at 6:30 p. m. The Top O' Texas Rodeo Association will provide complimentary dinner tickets to all junior exhibitors and their sponsors. The general public is invited to attend the dinner and tickets may be secured at the door.

First Easement On Watershed Project Signed

The first easement of the Red Deer watershed flood control project was signed in Hemphill County Feb. 15 by Darrell Wiggins, a member of the steering committee on the Red Deer project.

Wiggins signed the easement granting access for construction, maintenance and inspection across the Wiggins Ranch, southwest of Canadian, required for Sites 18 and 19 of the flood control project.

On hand for the signing were John Morris, chairman of the Hemphill County Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors; Norman Burton, a member of the board; Hemphill County Commissioner Joe Bill Barnard and County Judge Bonnie Conyers.

Work is now progressing on obtaining easements to sites along the Red Deer in Hemphill, Roberts and Gray Counties, where the proposed flood control dams will be built.

"It looks good now for the watershed project," said John Morris, chairman of the Hemphill County Soil and Water Conservation District. "We hope for final approval on the project in the next six to eight months," Morris said, "and if we get it, construction could start in the next year and a half."

The project calls for construction of a series of small dams (6 in Gray, 10 in Roberts and 4 in Hemphill) along the 50-mile course of the Red Deer from its headwaters near Pampa to its junction with the Canadian River north of Canadian. The creek falls 1,000 feet in its 50-mile course, and causes sometimes heavy flood damage when heavy rains fall on its watershed.

The Red Deer project has been several years in the making. It has the approval and backing of soil conservationists, county commissioners and landowners in all three counties.

Curtis Named Chairman For Grover's Campaign

Joe B. Curtis, Pampa city commissioner, has been named Panhandle campaign chairman for the Grover for Governor Campaign.

Curtis will be responsible for conducting former State Sen. Hank Grover's campaign activities in the 22 counties of the Texas Panhandle.

In accepting his position as Grover's Panhandle campaign chairman, Curtis said, "I am pleased to handle Hank Grover's campaign activities in the Panhandle."

"I feel Hank Grover is the most qualified candidate the Republican party has fielded in years. Hank is a consistent conservative who has extensive state government experience, as well as excellent name identification from the '72 election. We feel he has a great chance to win the governor's seat this year."

Curtis, partner in the Curtis Well Service Co. of Pampa, was the Panhandle finance chairman for Grover's near win in the '72 gubernatorial race.

Curtis is currently making plans for Grover's Panhandle primary appearances scheduled for April 18.

A longtime Pampa Republican, Curtis has been a delegate to the Texas Republican state conventions in 1968, 1970 and 1972. Curtis was also active in the George Bush and Paul Eggers campaigns.

An active member of the American Petroleum Institute, Curtis is also the state vice president and national director of the Association of Oil Well Servicing Contractors.

A member of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, Curtis is also a member of Pampa Lodge 966 of the Masonic Klava Shrine Temple.

Curtis and his wife, Wyolene, are members of the First United Methodist Church in Pampa and reside at 1928 Grape.

Mrs. Jim Brandon of 3001 Teckla, Amarillo, will act as Panhandle Headquarters coordinator, Curtis said.

Police Hunting Missing Chair

Pampa police received a report Friday afternoon from Home Interiors, 1621 N. Hobart, that a chair being hauled to a customer was missing.

An employee of the furniture store told officers the chair, valued at $96.99, was on the truck with other pieces of furniture when the truck left the store, but was subsequently found to be missing.

It was not known yesterday whether the chair fell from the truck or was taken by someone. Investigation continues.

Ordinance On Gas Rates To Get Its First Reading

First reading of an ordinance allowing Pioneer Natural Gas Co. to adjust its Pampa rates on a monthly basis will be up for consideration at Tuesday morning's meeting of the City Commission in City Hall.

Your Horoscope

is the hands of their owners experts.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Your friends are up and at it before you even budge. You may as well leave them the field for the moment, put together something they have neglected.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Impractical new ideas are thrust upon you from all sides. Ordinary routines produce irregular, unseasonable results but are worth further efforts.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Your individual projects need well-defined protection from interference. Knowing your contacts and their personal characteristics is essential.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Regular methods, extra caution in financial considerations are indicated as most likely to succeed. Travel is to be minimized or skipped.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Mutual assistance comes slowly. The new and different add factors which may confuse everybody. A second thought puts you into a special vantage spot.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Be as independent as you like, but notice that when you get away from what is expected, you are alone in ways that do not help your cause.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Discretion is the better part of wisdom. The day is no more complex than you make it, but you are the one who has to make things happen.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: With care, an easy day. Impulsive changes are exhilarating. Things mechanical and electrical are best left.

COUNTRY MUSIC

BY PATRICK CARR

For two generations of Americans, at least, the idea of a hero was fixed according to the formula described in Mason Williams' classic ballad, "Cowboy Buckeroo."

The tall, taciturn, righteous loner who roamed the frontiers of "The Wild West" embodied all the values sufficient to conquer evil, tame the wilderness, and win the hearts of fair ladies.

Railroads, World War II, and housing developments changed all that. But the longing for a straight - talking, sweet-singing hero who could soothe ladies, talk to animals and flash an honest grin remains with us to this day.

In fact, Wes Farrell and Pierre Cosette have already spent tens of thousands of dollars looking for a singing cowboy who can tame the technological wilderness with the same aplomb Ken Maynard, Gene Autry and Roy Rogers brought to the silver screen.

A tall order, but Farrell and Cosette command a vast West Coast entertainment empire built on such dreams. Their interests range from David Cassidy and the Partridge Family through music publishing and record sales to television production.

After auditioning hundreds of hopeful candidates for the job, Farrell and Cosette have narrowed the field down to eight finalists. The winner will be selected in March before a national television audience on ABC-TV's Wide World of Entertainment.

This last round-up will take place on the stage of the John Wayne Theater at Knott's Berry

Farm, Southern California's response to America's search for a heritage.

"The Singing Cowboy" will ultimately star in his own half-hour network TV show, make records and promote himself and his ideals on the concert trail. Two writers from the Mary Tyler Moore Show have been assigned the task of preparing a suitable scenario for our hero.

All we know so far about their plan is summed up in a character description Cosette offered during an interview with writer J.R. Young:

"He's going to be a straight-ahead guy, and he's going to be weird because he's going to be so straight. People have been looking at weird guys for 15 years now, but now we're going to see somebody really weird, just because he is so straight."

What kind of a man fits that bill? Well, Cosette mentioned the names of Mac Davis, Rick Nelson and Neil Diamond — as examples of what they are not looking for.

"There are lots of singing cowboys around," Cosette said. "Put them next to a horse and they're Gene Autry — except they sing Top 40. What makes them contemporary isn't their looks. It's their repertoire. Their attitude. Change their repertoire and attitude, and it's something else again."

If that sounds vague, Wes Farrell's definition of what they're looking for surpasses it.

"Our 'Singing Cowboy' is not necessarily a cowboy singer," Farrell said. "That limits the potential marketplace. He won't relate to country music as much as music in general."

Judging from the applicants who turned out for an exhaustive round of preliminary auditions held last year, the qualities of the new "super-hero" will be as hard to define as Clara Bow's title as the 1920's "It" girl.

For several weeks, a parade of drifters, stunt men, Hollywood "cowboys" and bona fide cowpunchers ambled across various Los Angeles sound stages in all manner of garb, warbling, wailing and muttering "shucks" in accents too numerous to catalog.

The panorama resembled "The Gunfight At The O.K. Corral" merged with "The Haw," with costumes by Nudies of Hollywood and Sweet-Orr. A tall blonde from Hermosa Beach, who would have been at home riding a surf board, showed up in overalls and little else, carrying a flute.

A man from Montana staged a realistic fist fight on stage involving professional stunt men who wound up stealing the show. The "fight" was so good, no one noticed him.

A Conway Twitty lookalike, with wind-swept pompadour, rode in, and out again, on a wave of conceit that impressed no one.

An old man from Missouri, on his way home from a pilgrimage to Disneyland, popped in and sang in a voice so deep that the words were unintelligible. He stared through dense spectacles, his arms pinned at his sides in a stiff pose. The audience, however, loved it. He bowed deeply and went home.

One of the auditions was held in the studios of TV station KTLA, Hollywood, owned by the original "Singing Cowboy," Gene Autry.

Autry, so the story goes, was discovered by Will Rogers while working as a telegraph clerk.

Times have changed. Discovering a hero isn't so simple a task anymore.

LOSE 10-20-30 POUNDS! Easy To Lose Lbs. Fast With New Vitamin 'E' Diet

HOLLYWOOD (Special)—New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderful benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical tests, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

E-DIET AVAILABLE

Shoppers Face Energy Saving Program Sales

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't get angry if the place seems a little chillier than usual when you visit a shopping center.

The center could be running a "heatless Tuesday" sale. To save energy.

The International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC) has supplied its more than 5,000 members nationwide "a shopping bagful" of information on how to run an energy conservation program.

The do-it-yourself kit includes a community relations project aimed at encouraging shoppers to use car pools (called "Take a Neighbor With You to a Shopping Center"), and a plan for Energy Conservation Week.

Albert Sussman, executive vice president of the ICSC, says the public education program will reach millions of shoppers in thousands of shopping centers. It will concentrate on showing consumers how to conserve energy at home, on the job and while shopping.

"Our goal is to turn the mall into a 'living laboratory' on the energy conservation theme," Sussman said.

"For one thing, we have to convince Americans to double the national average of passengers per auto. This can save 20 billion gallons of gasoline annually."

The ICSC has asked members from coast to coast to reduce power consumption by from one-fifth to one-fourth. It has provided them with a checklist of 62 tips on cutting power on malls, in stores, and in parking lots.

"We expect to make a significant contribution to the energy conservation effort by cutting power ourselves and then educating the public to its part," Sussman said.

Women's Insurance
NEW YORK (UPI) — With the advent of the working woman, life insurance has become an important part of her financial independence.

Women now own about $225 billion worth of life insurance, according to the Institute of Life Insurance, compared with about $50 billion 20 years ago.

In early 1970, 72 per cent of women who were heads of households including children carried life insurance. The Institute said.

Equal Space For Senator

John McClellan, Arkansas' conservative proponent for leftist Senator William Fulbright, is urging his colleagues in Congress to enact a law that would require newspapers to publish the replies of public figures who are attacked in printed editorials.

He said he is convinced "that further study will show that such access to politicians to the newspaper columns would not infringe, but would enlarge the use of First Amendment rights by extending their enjoyment beyond those who happen to own newspapers."

"The need for such a study," he declared, "is now even more urgent in light of court decisions in libel cases which virtually deprive public officials of the opportunity to recover damages unless they can prove malice."

"In essence," he continued, "a national right to reply law would entail the application of some form of the 'fairness doctrine' now applicable to broadcasters to the print media."

Well, Senator, we are going to attack your idea. But — so far as Freedom Newspapers is concerned — you don't need a law. We will be happy to publish your response without charge. The only conditions are that you hold your reply to a reasonable length and that you be willing to answer questions. We like to get a politician's own words in print. Statements that go by smoothly on the stump often do not look so good when frozen into type.

As to Senator McClellan's proposition, we do not see how it can square with the First Amendment which forbids Congress to make any law "respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press."

We quote the part about freedom of religion along with freedom of speech and press not because we believe them all to be the same thing, but because they are closely related. Suppose, for the sake of discussion, that a church-connected publication should assail the likes of Senator Mark Hatfield of Oregon. That is not improbable since Hatfield is a religious figure with controversial political notions. Would the McClellan statute require the church to Hatfield equal space?

From that potential, it can be judged that freedom of religion, speech and press are intertwined and that what invades one will soon invade the other. Will Senator McClellan inform readers how he will manage to keep his law from becoming a drag on the free exercise of religion?

The Senator asserts that libel decisions have been bad and, therefore, some move toward a press law is urgent. Such a statement is contradictory on its face. He is really saying that the Senate has done a poor job in the advice and consent its members give in the appointment of judges and, therefore, the same lawmakers are qualified to deal with newspapers. We suppose this is not the first time that new authority has been asked on the basis of previous incompetence.

If — as Senator McClellan asserts and we suspect — judges have gone too far one way in libel law, who is at fault — the courts or the newspapers? So why does the Senator apply the corrective to the press? Why doesn't he take on the judges?

It's your shot, Senator.

What's In A Gender?

There's a diabolical plot afoot to expunge the word "men," both in its singular and plural forms, from the language.

The U.S. Census Bureau has gone a step further by eliminating reference to gender altogether in its recently announced revision of 32 of the 41 job titles in its Occupational Classification System. Some of the changes:

Clergymen to clergy; salesmen to sales workers; foremen to blue-collar supervisors; craftsmen and kindred workers to craft and kindred workers; boatmen and canalmen to boat operators; furnacemen to furnace tenders; railroad switchmen to railroad switch operators; chambermaids to lodging quarters cleaners; airline stewardesses to flight attendants; busboys to waiters; assistants: firemen to fire-fighters; policemen to police; fishermen to fishers.

Whether or not many women will now rush out to become furnace tenders or canal boat operators remains to be seen, but that last classification suggests that there may be limits to how far the Great Gender Shift can go.

"And He saith unto them, follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."

Somehow, "fishers of people" doesn't sound the same.

Passage Of Years In Politics Sees Bygones Become Bygones

By VIC GOLD

WASHINGTON — Changing times. I wonder how Congressman Henry Reuss' ally Harry Truman among the Presidents? Specifically, whether the Wisconsin Democrat agrees with Sen. Barry Goldwater's opinion on the subject.

Let me explain. For a good many nights now I've been stumped trying to understand Goldwater's assessment of Truman as "the greatest President of the century." Yet, no matter how hard I try, it just doesn't add up.

Somehow I can't imagine Barry Goldwater, had he come to Washington in 1946 instead of 1952, rising in the Senate to defend President Truman's right to seize the steel mills. Or Goldwater defending Truman's view that the Alger Hiss investigation was a "red herring." Nor can I envision my favorite conservative leader in fierce debate against Robert Taft and other members of his party, when they argued that Truman was engaged in a no-win war policy in Korea.

Tell me, did I just imagine that "the greatest President of the century" seized the steel mills, dragged his feet on the Hiss case, etc.? No, my daytime psyche assures me, your memory of the Truman era is accurate. You just haven't come to grips with the venerable political rule that, with the passage of years, bygones become bygones.

In politics, it seems, time moves not upward or forward but simply around, like a revolving door. The Ins go Out, the Outs come In. What appears today to be a position rooted in principle turns out tomorrow to be something else.

Thus the Republican party was once the party of Robert Taft the Elder, who believed in limiting presidential power. Now Republican congressional leadership kneels toward the White House twice a day.

So, too, with the Democrats. Once champions of the doctrine of a strong presidency, liberal Democrats are now in the vanguard of a movement to place curbs on executive power. Which is where Congressman Reuss, Democrat of Wisconsin, enters the picture.

Last week Reuss introduced a constitutional amendment to inhibit the power of future Presidents. His proposal would allow both houses of Congress to vote "no confidence" in a chief executive and thereby force a new national election — though not without some difficulty.

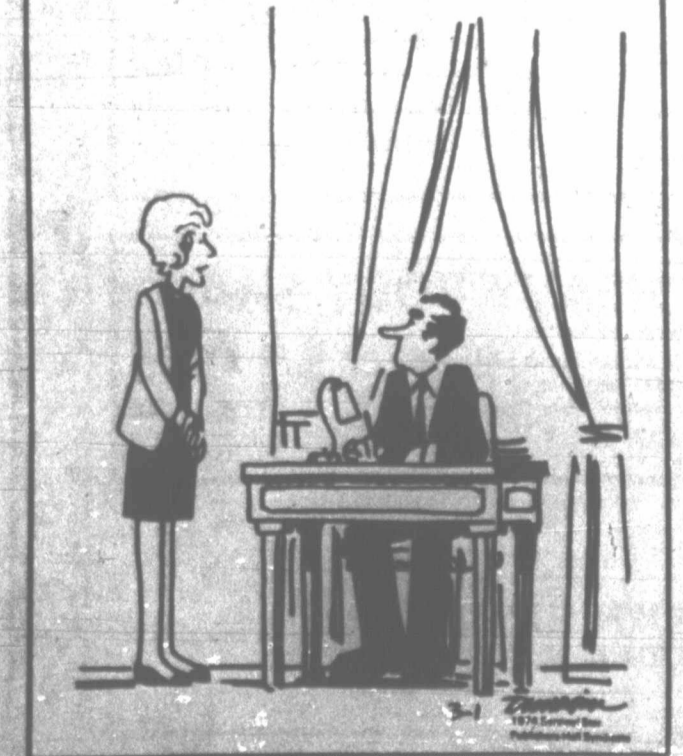

Reuss's amendment is carefully thought out, to minute detail. Upon a "no confidence" vote, a new presidential election would be held on the first Tuesday in November during the next even-numbered year. If that date should happen to be less than four months away, the new election would take place two years later. Pending the election, the Vice President would serve as acting President.

The amendment, which would move us into a quasi-parliamentary system of government, doesn't apply to President Nixon. That will at least lead to its consideration on long-range merits rather than immediate partisan interests.

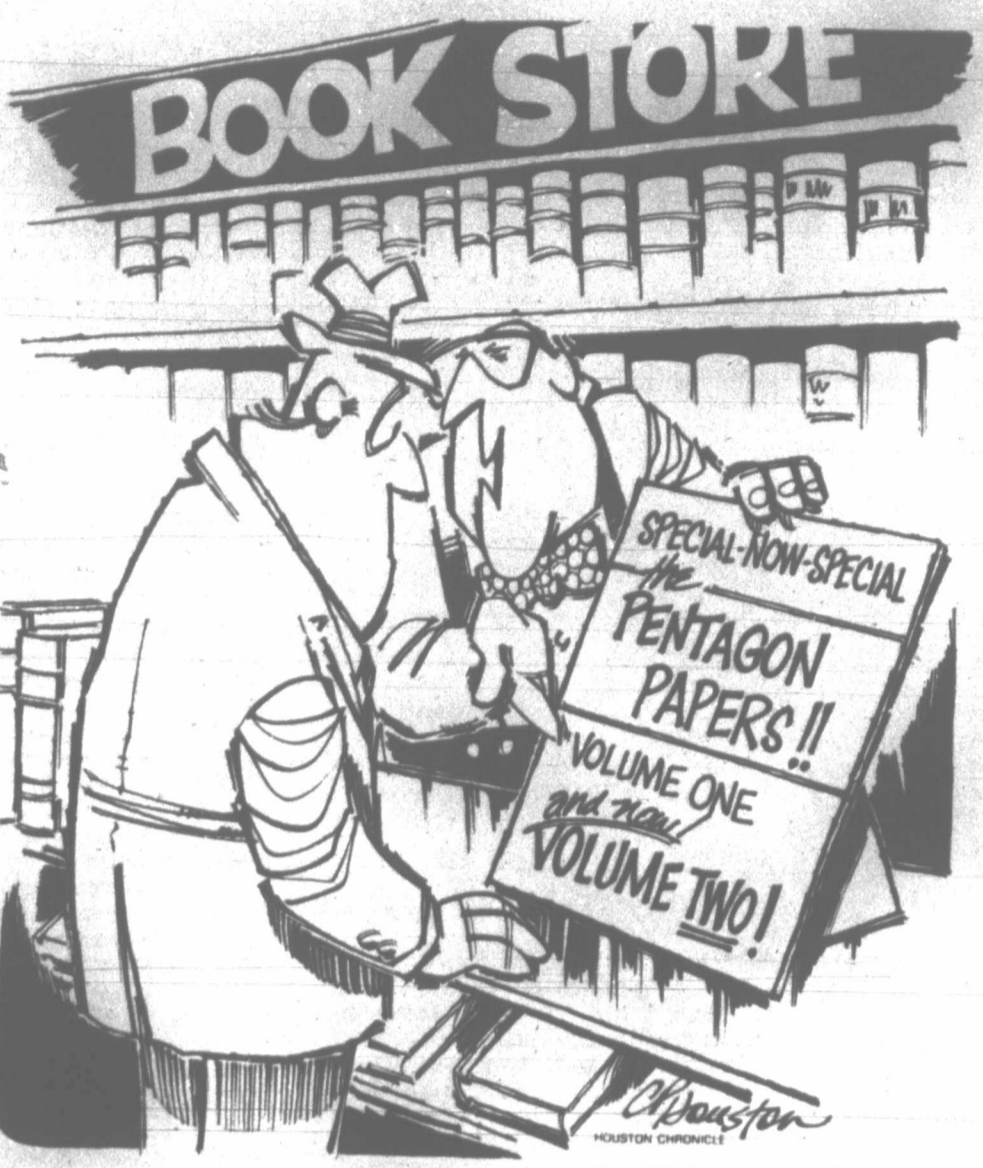

Reuss, on introducing the proposal, said he recognizes the inherent danger of "a congressional tendency to topple presidencies for trivial reasons," but he argues that his amendment deters that threat by requiring a three-fifths majority of both houses of Congress to force a new election, rather than the simple majority of the House of Representatives which could now lead to impeachment.

The entire House and one-third of the Senate would also be forced to run for reelection in the event of a "no confidence" vote, as is the case in a regular national election year. And as a final protection against upsets for "trivial reasons," the incumbent President would himself be permitted to run for reelection, thereby taking a "no confidence" vote to the ultimate court of appeal — the people.

Another 'Pro' In The Pros And Cons Of The Tape Erasure Case

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER

One reason, no doubt, why the American people failed to call for the lynching of Richard Nixon the moment they heard about the Erased Tape is that they have a healthy suspicion of so-called "scientific evidence." It begins to appear that they were right again.

You will recall that when the White House turned the tapes over to Judge Sirica, one segment — reputedly containing a Nixon-Haldeman conversation on Watergate on June 20, 1972, just three days after the arrests there — was found to be obliterated by a "buzz," fluctuating in volume and lasting 18 1/2 minutes. How the buzz had been caused nobody knew and you may be sure that, among Nixon's virulent critics, nobody cared. With a single full-throated cry, they leaped to the conclusion that Nixon or some agent of his had put it there, to jam his (hypothetically) incriminating words.

When Judge Sirica's six experts turned in their report, however, they told the Judge that the famous "buzz" was not some sort of deliberate jamming after all, but an accident which probably arose from several causes including variations in the noise on the power line, erratic functioning of the recorder, and changes in the position of the operator's hand while running the recorder. (Note, if you will, that bit about "erratic functioning of the recorder." According to the reporter in the New York Times, the panel attributed this to "a defective component in the recorder used by Miss Woods.")

But nobody was allowed to suppose for an instant that the case for Nixonian villainy was in any serious trouble. For, as one of Judge Sirica's experts put it, "Just how the buzz started is not really relevant." What mattered far more was that, probing electronically beneath the pesky buzz, the experts had found — Aha! — an actual 18 1/2 minute erasure. Moreover, the gap was, as the "Times" put it, "caused by at least five separate erasures and re-recordings, and not by a single accidental pressing of the wrong button." Since Rose Mary Woods had testified that she had indeed started the erasure process, but only once, and by accident, that left at least four erasures to be explained.

At that point, one must admit, it looked pretty bad for Mudville. Richard Ben-Veniste, the bush-league Archibald Cox who hung on as assistant special Watergate prosecutor when Cox was replaced by Leon Jaworski, moved rapidly to stress the point that this new evidence practically ruled out the possibility of an accident.

"If it were an accident, it would have to be an accident that was repeated at least five times?" Mr. Ben-Veniste asked at one point, his voice skeptical.

"Correct," replied Richard H. Bolt of Lincoln, Mass., the first of the experts to take the witness stand.

But that, my friends, was four weeks ago. Science has made enormous strides since then. Comes now Allan Bell, Jr., president of Dektor Counter-Intelligence and Security, Inc., in Springfield, Virginia. Mr. Bell was formerly a Lieutenant Colonel in Army Intelligence, and is extremely knowledgeable about electronic gadgets — having, in fact, developed a psychological stress evaluator used in lie detection.

Mr. Bell has been thinking about that "defective component" in Rose Mary Woods' recorder. According to Judge Sirica's experts, it was a "rectifier bridge," which ultimately burned out altogether. And the interesting point is that such a component, when it starts to break down, doesn't ordinarily go all at once — as you know, if you have ever had the TV repairman in to fix your set, only to have the dreaded thing work perfectly while he's there. The trouble comes and goes, gradually getting worse, until the part collapses altogether.

That, Mr. Bell suspects, is exactly what happened to Rose Mary's recorder: The power supplies by the defective rectifier bridge to "the oscillator that generates the signal that goes to the erase head" fell, on five successive occasions, below the level required to keep the erasure process in operation. Producing exactly the five successive, contiguous erasures that Messrs. Ben-Veniste and Bolt were so sure could not possibly have been produced by accident.

So science has bitten its own tail once again, and things are looking rather better for Mudville. Stay tuned.

Unseen Hazards Lurking In The Home Workshop

By PAUL HARVEY

Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley suffered unexplained inflammation of his eyes.

It was discovered that he was allergic to epoxy glues which he'd been using in his home workshop.

The epoxy on his hands was rubbed into his eyes and threatened his eyesight.

Now there is evidence that much of what we've been calling "arthritis pain" results from an allergy to paint thinners and cleaning solvents in common use in anyone's house.

If government were to eliminate every chemical to which anybody might be allergic, there would not be any chemicals left. There is nothing so harmless that somebody is not allergic to it.

What's needed, then, is a better understanding of your own individual tolerances.

Since last spring some workers at a Columbus, Ohio, factory have suffered a strange nerve disease. They lose control of arm and leg muscles, become weak, begin limping, lose the grip of their hands.

Of 950 workers in this plant which makes vinyl material, 138 are allergic to something as yet unidentified.

In garment factories, some workers are allergic to the formaldehyde used in making permanent-press fabrics.

Secretaries using duplicating machines may suffer skin inflammation if they allergic to certain solvents.

You don't have to handle these chemicals; just breathing the vapors is injurious if you are sensitive.

Editor Art Schroeder of Model Airplane News, a model builder, was hospitalized with an unexplained illness so debilitating that he was near death before his vertigo and nausea were traced to resins used in his inadequately ventilated home workshop.

Workers in furniture factories, constantly exposed to paint solvents, suffer a much higher rate of arthritis.

A Dallas man is so hyperallergic to certain disinfectants and germicides that his chronic arthritis becomes crippling after exposure.

Dr. Horace Baldwin is founder of the Allergy Foundation of America. He says 31 million Americans suffer from one or more significant allergies.

About 8.6 million Americans suffer from what's called "asthma." More than 4,000 people die each year from what's called "asthma" but likely results from an allergy.

More medical centers are developing allergy-immunology units, but Dr. Baldwin says the variables in human defense mechanisms is something about which we know pitifully little.

Some workers who have worked with paints and adhesives for many years without discomfort are allergic to more recent ingredients.

Again the list is so long and individual reaction so varied that government cannot be expected to remove from the market all offensive substances. This leaves to each individual the necessity to determine his own sensitivities and to avoid those substances which he cannot tolerate.

Rearview Mirror

By TEX DEWEESE
Editor Of The News

PAMPA HAS two elections coming up during the first week in April.

Two city commissioners will be elected in the municipal election Tuesday, April 2.

Two school board members will be elected in the school election Saturday, April 6.

As this was written it appeared there would be enough signatures to get the 7-man school board issue on the school ballot.

And, only two candidates had announced for the school board. Just one candidate had announced for the city commission.

Deadline for filing for the city commission posts (Wards 2 and 4) will be next Friday and deadline for filing for the two school board vacancies will be March 6.

Speaking of candidates for city and school posts brings up the question of whether politics is involved in seeking the job of city commissioner or school trustee.

The candidates do not say whether they are Democrats, Republicans, Communists, Socialists or have any other political affiliation. There is no party label on any of the candidates for these offices.

But there is rumor from the underground that more than likely there is plenty of politics involved whether they are so designated on the ballot or not.

This, they say, brings it down to two parties in every community. They are called Establishment and Anti-Establishment.

Determining just who the presiding officers are in the Establishment Party is not easy. The same goes for the Anti-Establishment Party. The fellows who swing the big stick in the background prefer to remain anonymous and travel incognito.

YOU DON'T hear a whole lot of talk about the city election. The school board election is an entirely different matter.

We get reports that while there are only two candidates already publicly announced, there are rumblings of others waiting in the wings until the last minute to come on stage.

This has come about, they say, because of that recent 3-2 school board split over renewal of the school superintendent's contract. Whether additional candidates file will be an interesting development to watch.

And School House Kitty advises that if you think the school board race won't be political, you'd better try and get hold of and read the

Establishment and Anti-Establishment manuals on "How to Get Elected to the School Board."

On the surface not much is happening. But, underneath that surface you'd be surprised at what's going on, we are told.

AND NOW, let's toss a bouquet of roses to Pampa school teachers (past and present).

This one comes from Ruthie Lee Franks Williams, a 1947 graduate of Pampa High School now residing in Andrews, Texas.

In a letter to the editor of The News she writes:

"For some time I have been considering writing this letter to you, but even yet I am not sure I can find the words to carry my message."

"I started to school in 1936 at Sam Houston Elementary School in Pampa and graduated from Pampa High in 1947."

"During those years I had the very good fortune to be led, taught, influenced and cared for by a number of very wonderful people — my teachers."

"I have been teaching for the past six and a half years, and I have come to know that, more often than not, teaching is a difficult and thankless task; therefore I want to say 'Thank you' to all of those whose work has so enriched my life and given me an educational background that stood me in good stead when I somewhat belatedly entered college myself."

"My teachers have played an extremely important role in my life, and I am so grateful to them."

"I could name them all, but the list is long and many of them are no longer active professionally. However late it may be for this expression of thanks, it comes from my heart."

"To each of you, my wonderful teachers:

"Thank you, thank you, thank you. I hope that my own work can be as meaningful as yours has been for me."

And there you have a dedicated teacher. If any of you would like to write to her, the address is: Ruth Williams, 1213 N.W. 13th St., Andrews, Texas 79714.

MYSTERY OF THE Week

How was the news of Pampa's new high school football coach leaked to an Amarillo newspaper at least 12 hours before the Pampa school board met to decide who it would be? In other words, WHO leaked it?

Reckon somebody connected with the school board doesn't like us here at The Pampa News? Aw, that couldn't be!

Installation Is Fairly Easy For Putting In New Tiles

By HERMAN BAUM
Dear House Doctor:

Our home was built about 30 years ago. It is in a rural area and I assume that tilesetters were not available, because linoleum was installed on the bathroom floor. We want to remove the linoleum and cover the floor with the small tiles having some design. Can you help me with this problem?

measure 12 inches by 12 inches, and this makes the work installation relatively easy. The linoleum must be removed and the floor sanded to take up any hardened mastic.

The best construction requires that the toilet be removed and the tiles extended beneath it. The toilet floor flange must be raised, and this is not a job for the average homeowner. As an alternative, the tiles may be cut for a fit around the toilet base.

If your floor boards have no warps and the floor is completely level, and very firm, the tiles can be attached directly to the wood floor.

Without these conditions, underlayment must be nailed to the floor first. The underlayment must be staggered so that four corners do not coincide. Leave a space of 1-32 inch between the sheets for expansion and attach to the floor with thread nails spaced six inches apart in both directions.

A special adhesive is used for attaching ceramic tiles. You will require a serrated edge trowel for applying this. Do not apply to an area greater than you can cover with tiles in 20 minutes.

Start with an area about 1 inch by 3 inches, and then go to a larger area if you find you can work faster. Lay the sheets of tile over the mastic, paper side up. Mosaic tiles do not have spacing lugs so you must leave a space between adjacent sheets equal to the spacing between the tiles on the sheets.

After three sheets of tile are in place, use a foot-long piece of a two-by-four over several thicknesses of cloth or other padding to tamp the tiles level and in firm contact with the mastic.

While still within arm's reach, soak the paper facing with warm water and peel the paper off. Allow the mastic 24 hours for setting.

Tiled grout is a powder that is mixed with water to form a soft paste. This is worked into the space between the tiles. A small window washing squeegee is a good tool for doing this. Wipe away any grout from the surface of the tiles before the grout dries.

It will be necessary to cut some tiles to fit against two walls and around the tub and toilet base. Cutting is best done with nippers, chipping off small pieces at a time, and then smoothing the edge on a coarse abrasive stone.

OUTPATIENTS' CLINIC
B.A.T. — Water stains on ceilings cannot be removed. The ceiling must be painted.

E.R.M. — There are too many things that can go wrong with a water pump for me to offer information. I suggest that you write to the manufacturer for a service manual. There will probably be a small charge for it.

R.H.A. — Cellars are almost always damp, and this promotes the growth of mildew. Installation of an electric dehumidifier should help.

W.H. — The condensation on the second floor windows is more severe than on the first floor because damp air always rises to the highest point in the house.

UNDER FLOOR INSULATION
Dear House Doctor:
My Cape Cod home has no basement. I would like to insulate the floors over the crawl space, but I am told that dampness will destroy the insulation and it will fall down. Besides, it is difficult to work in such a confined space.

ANSWER — Your last sentence is the understatement of the year. The floors over a crawl space can be insulated and the insulation will not fall down. Chicken wire is tacked between the joists, four inches down from the floor, and the insulation is placed on top of the wire, vapor barrier side up.

FLAGSTONE FLOOR
Dear House Doctor:
Is a slate floor the same as flagstone? Please explain how it is cleaned.

ANSWER — Floors sometimes called "slate" are really flagstone. The floor is thoroughly cleaned with any household cleanser. Allow it to dry, preferably for two days. A coat of floor seal is then applied and the floor wiped dry after 20 minutes. Allow 24 hours for this coat to dry, then a second coat is applied in the same manner. Floor seal is made for wood floors but it is also good for flagstone.

BROKEN CONCRETE
Dear House Doctor:
A heavy truck cracked our concrete driveway. Please tell me how it can be repaired.

ANSWER — A crack in concrete must be widened to admit patching material. Our illustration bulletin No. B-85 describes the repair of both cracks and broken concrete. A copy is available for 10 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, sent to The House Doctor in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. Please remember to place a stamp on your return envelope.

Dear House Doctor:
We recently bought an older home. We had six inches of insulation placed in the attic, but it did not solve our problem. When we sit near an outside wall, we feel very cold. Is a larger furnace needed?

ANSWER — This condition is due to the absence of insulation in the walls of the house. Even though the house may be warm, cold walls draw heat from your body and you feel a chill. If you have insulation blown into the wall, it should correct this trouble.

Astronauts Report Error

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 3 astronauts said a mechanical error as they re-entered earth's atmosphere resulted in a heart-stopping, eyeball-popping splashdown at the end of man's longest spaceflight.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue met with newsmen for the first time since their return early this month. They explained they temporarily lost guidance control of their re-entry ship seconds before splashdown in the Pacific.

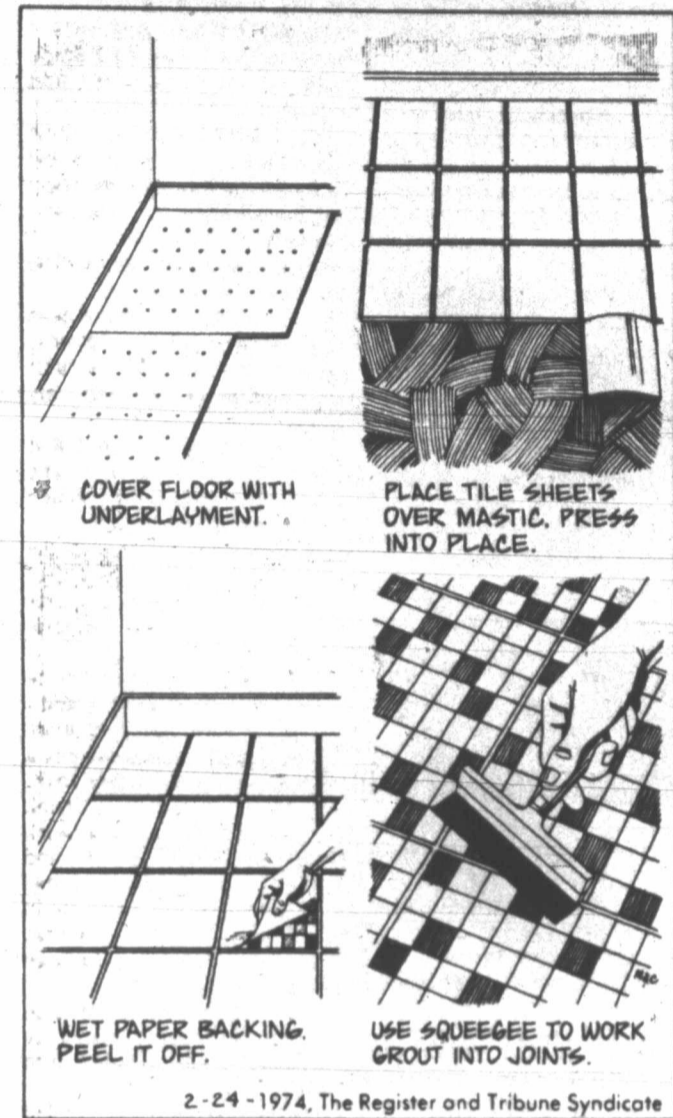

"There was a long silence," Carr said. "Our hearts fell and our eyeballs popped, but we immediately moved to the next line of defense."

"There was an instant feeling that something was amiss, but we had new trenches to fall back to."

YOU CAN GET PAID FOR TAKING A FREE VACATION!

By JOHN SHUTTLEWORTH
Let others sit at home this summer, afraid to drive to the mountains or beach because of the gasoline shortage!

If you get cracking right now you might be able to go a lot further than that (maybe even as far as Europe or Asia) unhindered in any way by the so-called energy crisis. What's more, you can even get paid for doing it!

The secret is a little-known program operated by American Youth Hostels, Inc. This non-profit service organization — which was established in 1934 — maintains a nationwide system of simple, low-cost overnight accommodations for young people (generally 15-35, although older "youngsters" are always welcome).

AYH, furthermore, belongs to the International Youth Hostel Federation and membership in the U.S. branch entitles an individual to use any hostel in the 46 other IYHF-affiliated nations.

Once officially enlisted in the ranks of happy AYHers, a young — or old! — adult can then travel alone or in small groups from one hostel to another.

The favored means of transportation seem to be shared rides, hiking, cycling, canoeing, skiing, sailing, horseback and bus. The typical hosteler carries his or her own personal gear for eating, sleeping and washing in a backpack and pays an overnight charge of only $1 to $2 for the use of bed, mattress, blankets and cooking facilities at each stop.

For yearly dues of just $5, then, an under-18 AYHer can travel throughout large sections of the civilized world on a people-to-people basis at a rock-bottom expense. American Youth Hostellers who are 18 or over can enjoy the same privileges by paying an annual membership fee of only $10.

If the above sound good to you, the next part — that "little-known program operated by AYH" which I mentioned earlier — should sound even better.

Over the years, you see, American Youth Hostels has found that a growing number of its more members prefer to pay a set fee (ranging from about $300 to $1,000 or more) and join an AYH-sponsored bicycle tour that lasts four to eight weeks.

These excursions are carefully mapped in advance on out-of-the-way and scenic routes and are led by qualified individuals who are responsible for the safety and well-being of the group.

And that's where the "paid vacation" part of the whole idea comes in... if you can set yourself up with the AYH as one of those "qualified individuals," which, actually, isn't hard to do.

If you're over 21, young in heart, a member in good standing of AYH and in good physical health, you should apply for attendance at one of the "National Leadership Training Courses" which American Youth Hostels conducts five or six times every year. These instructional programs are held in various sections of the country, cost $55, last one week and are both informal and fun.

The subjects covered by the intensive courses include the philosophy of hosting, budgeting, bicycle safety, packing, hosting customs, problem trippers, AYH policies, menu planning, public relations, bicycle repair, the history of hosting, group relationships, trip emergencies, first aid and health problems.

Once you complete one of the leadership courses, you're set. You can then head up one of the AYH tours that same year... or any year thereafter.

And what will you receive for your services? An all-expenses-paid vacation plus a modest amount of spending money.

That is, you'll be given — free of charge — all the meals, accommodations, insurance and extra group activities (concerts, plays, etc.) enjoyed by the members of your flock plus a basic allowance based on the length of the excursion plus a bonus based on the total number of trips you've led in the past.

In addition, you'll receive an allowance for the distance you must travel from home to the expedition's departure point and return.

Married couples are eligible for leadership assignments together if both individuals have completed the training course. The assistant spouse, in such a case, pays the regular price of the excursion less leadership and organization fees.

Is it worth it? Greg Siple (who supplied most of the information on which this article is based) has led two tours. One was a six-week swing through eastern Canada and the other — co-led by his wife — a one-month cycling jaunt down the Atlantic seacoast.

He says, "For the most part, life as an AYH trip leader is great. The duties are slight when compared to the month or more free vacation, opportunity to see some country at a leisurely pace, special companionship of bicycle touring and general satisfaction that you receive in return. All that and spending money too!"

If you'd like more information about AYH trips scheduled for both this and other countries, facts about the leadership program and further details on hosting in general, write to American Youth Hostels, Inc., Travel Dept., National Headquarters, 1554 1st Avenue, New York, New York 10028.

Whether you decide to try for AYH's leadership program or not, you're well advised to check out the organization's suggestions for low-cost bicycle, backpack, canoe and other excursions. A pox on the gasoline shortage!

For a concise mini-guide to AYH's leadership program and further details about the trips led by Greg Siple, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope to The Mother Earth News, in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, FEB. 24
 Your birthday today: Active and generally successful adjustment characterizes your path thru the coming year. Diverse new opportunities come to your attention all year and your choice of which to follow is crucial. Daily meditation offers much guidance. A conscious effort should be made to leave behind the ways and habits of your past. Today's natives are changeable in disposition and mood, capable students of profound subjects.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Be present in style for your normal share of the community's Sunday customs, then cut back to doing as little as your home situation permits.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Take the physical effort out of your planned Sunday regime where you can. Overdoing is all too easy, even in a round of conversation. Make no promises today.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): A walk for a breath of fresh air is always good for your health. Aside from that, leave well enough alone today when it comes to serious physical exertions.

Cancer (June 21-July 21): Be conservative; do your simple share of regular customs. Whatever you put into action now draws everyone's eye, perhaps objections as well.

Leo (July 22-Aug. 22): Bear up; By the end of the day you'll be proud of your tact and patience. The general tendency is for one and all to express contrary opinions.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are up and moving from a low point in your energy cycle, but take the trouble to look what you're doing to further your projects; don't just push.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): All your carefully made personal plans tend to get sidetracked today. If you must take yourself out of the program, do so without being unreasonable.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You have more energy available than there are sensible ways to apply it. Avoid hasty moves, needless head-on collisions over opposite viewpoints.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you can't find a few old friends to share a round or two of your favorite pastimes, invest some time in clearing out your files.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Leave business and vocation aside now, completely, and spend your time and attention on your home life, loved ones, and their welfare.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Like as not you've planned for more than can reasonably happen this Sunday. Apparently, nobody else has the time for your pet projects.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Aside from a bit of confusion, it's a generally sociable, active day with many sides of character exposed for your enjoyment and education.

Why Grow Old?
 By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
How Are You Combating The Battle of the Bulge?

This is the thirteenth in a series of 15 articles in which Josephine Lowman, author of WHY GROW OLD? and leading authority on health and beauty, tells you exactly what to do to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks. You may want to save these menus and exercises to refer back to during the eight-week period.

How is the battle of the bulge going out there? I am sure the pounds are retreating. This is the sixth week of my eight week Beauty Improvement Plan (Bip). It is a dangerous time in this course because at this point you are apt to be either overconfident or discouraged.

You may be discouraged because you have not lost as much as you wanted to by now. Do not let this disturb you! People lose at different speeds. However do let it cause you to review the past five weeks. If is a good idea to look back to see if calorie traps have been your downfall.

All of use have our individual traps, times when it is especially difficult to resist temptation. Some of the most usual ones are weekends, before bedtime eating (or overeating), often while watching TV, and social occasions. Perhaps you have other traps which are your particular hangups. Even cooking can be one.

The important thing is to recognize them and admit them. After that you are forewarned and can guard against them. What sets you off on an eating (overeating) spree? Is it when you are lonely or when you are having a jolly time with friends and a feeling of abandon creeps over you? You think, "What the heck, I can start dieting again tomorrow."

Suppose you overeat at bedtime because you rationalize that it makes you sleep better or maybe you do not even rationalize. If this time of day is your trap, it is better to have a snack you have to chew. A glass of milk or juice disappears more quickly. Have an apple. Cut it up in pieces and eat slowly, or have an orange, peel it and linger over each section. Make a habit of slow consumption and also savor the flavor of every bite. Of course, the raw vegetable sticks are excellent because they have practically no calories but require a lot of chewing.

If you are one who falls for the snacks and drinks at a cocktail party adopt a ploy from Alcoholics Anonymous. Take something harmless (in this instance something low in calories) in each hand and take the smallest sips and bites possible as you move around and get acquainted with everyone. As long as you have a glass and something to eat in your hands no one will insist on the seconds you must avoid. Arrive toward the middle of the party instead of at the beginning.

Perhaps tasting to season food while cooking is your unsuspected enemy. Those tastes add up, and even worse, one is likely to lead to another and another and another.

You may be overconfident at this point because you have lost as much or more than you expected to. Therefore, you may allow yourself to celebrate with a food binge or two. The pounds you lost can return quickly if this is your attitude. Perhaps one reward is in order but this is a hazardous viewpoint.

Some of you started Bip later than others. If so remember the things I am saying today when you arrive at the end of YOUR five weeks.

If you have missed some of this course and would like to follow it you may want my Bip Kit which gives you complete directions and an interesting wall chart on which you can plot your progress and see your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. It is not too late! If you would like to have this send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE
 By FRED KARPIN

In the 46th year of the existence of the American Contract Bridge League, a woman has finally been elected to serve as president. She is Ruth McConnell, of Columbia City, Indiana. She was elected unanimously by the Board of Directors of the A.C.B.L. for the usual one-year term.

During the past decade, Mrs. McConnell has served as a director and officer of bridge organizations in her area. She has long been active as a certified bridge teacher. She has not played much tournament bridge in recent years, but that she is a good player can be observed from her handling of today's deal. The hand came up in the 1973 Fall National Championships. Mrs. McConnell was sitting South.

After West's king of diamonds had won the opening lead, West continued with the ace of diamonds, East discarding the eight of hearts. To trick three West led the heart jack, dummy's king taking the trick.

The normal, out-of-context play of a nine-card suit headed by the ace, king, jack, and ten is to play the ace and king, hoping to fell the queen. But, in this deal, Mrs. McConnell recognized that this was not the right play, for West had been revealed as the possessor of a seven-card diamond suit.

At trick four, declarer cashed dummy's ace of spades, after which she led a low spade and finessed her jack. With the jack winning, she cashed the spade king, picking up East's queen. She then conceded a heart trick and claimed her contract.

The finesse against East's queen of trumps was the mathematically correct play. For the reason that follows. Since West had been dealt seven diamonds, six of his cards were unknown. With East having been dealt only one diamond, twelve of his cards were unknown. One of these "unknown" 18 cards was the queen of trumps.

Take these 18 unknown cards, shuffle them up, give East twelve of them and give West the remaining six cards. Who figures to have the spade queen? Mathematically, 12 times out of 18 East will have the spade queen — or, in smaller numbers, two times out of three. Thus, in playing the spade suit as she did, Mrs. McConnell made the correct percentage play.

Neither side vulnerable.
 North deals.

Hex That Work
 NEW YORK (UPI) — A dermatologist says in removing warts afflicting children, "the remarkable thing is... you can actually hex them off."

Dr. Walter B. Shelley, chairman of dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, reported in "Family Health," a magazine, that he has "a dermatologist friend whose biggest therapeutic aid in the case of warts is a very ordinary shiny bracelet. She tells a youngster to wear it if the wart is gone. Believe it or not, it works. The wart disappears in a few weeks."

Vick-Futch

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Vick, 1206 S. Finley, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Brenda Jean to Jackie Don Futch, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Futch, 1101 Seneca. A May 18 wedding in the First United Methodist Church of Pampa is being planned. The bride-elect is a 1972 graduate of Pampa High School and is a sophomore at West Texas State University majoring in secretarial studies. The prospective bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of PHS and is a junior at WTSU majoring in accounting.

Table Setting Explained To El Progresso Members

El Progresso Club met recently in the home of Mrs. J.D. Malone. Mrs. O.K. Gaylor called the meeting to order with Mrs. Glen Dawkins, leading the members in the Womens Collect. Mrs. Charles Lanehart called the roll, and read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved.

After the business session, Mrs. Roy McMillan, program chairman, presented Mrs. Glen Dawkins and Mrs. Max Presnell, who brought the program on "Table Settings. As Home Accents." Mrs. Dawkins stated, "There's nothing more pleasing to the eye than an attractive table, than what otherwise might be a plain meal." She gave the history of China, and the process of making it.

Mrs. Presnell talked on new ways to set the table, using color in linens, colored glass, and adding centerpieces, to make the table clever and dramatic.

She concluded by saying, "daring tables take effort, but this is the age of new think, and color, and there's really no set-way to set your table any more. You can do your own thing.

Table settings, showing various ways to set your table, were displayed, compliments of Pampa Hdw., and Las Pampas Galleries.

Mrs. Glenn Radcliff will be hostess for the club on Feb. 26. Present were Meses. Richard Bray, J.F. Curtis, Glen Dawkins, O.K. Gaylor, Charles Lanehart, Kermit Lawson, J.F. Malone, Roy McMillan, J.G. Morrison, Carlton Nance, Max Presnell, Glen Radcliff, Quentin Williams and Hugh Peoples.

The next meeting of this group will be March 13.

King-Farber

The engagement of Miss Kathryn Ann King of Amarillo, and Larry Gene Farber, is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Turner King of Lake Tanglewood. Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Farber, 1213 E. Foster, are parents of the prospective bridegroom. The wedding is being planned for April 6 in Paramount Christian Church. The bride-elect is a junior nursing major at West Texas State University and is a member of Chi Omega social sorority. Her fiance recently returned from Fort Carson, Colo., where he was stationed with the U.S. Army. He is presently attending WTSU.

Fine Arts Association Will Sponsor 'Camelot' April 6

"Camelot," the Lerner and Loewe musical comedy hit is scheduled for Saturday, April 6 at 8 p.m. in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium. The production gave one New York critic an opportunity to prove his mettle shortly after the show's Broadway premier. Due to a series of mishaps to the show's director, librettist and others, "Camelot" opened not quite to the satisfaction of its creators, who were striving to top their previous, epoch-making success, "My Fair Lady."

The New York reviews assured "Camelot" a healthy boxoffice response, but rehearsals and repairs continued nevertheless. John Chapman, the New York Daily News critic, expressed his enthusiasm for the show in his column, and at the same time sent Mr. Lerner a suggestion for a different ending. It was an improvement that the authors gratefully accepted and incorporated into the show. Chapman was delighted to receive several pairs of the hard-to-get tickets as reward for his effort.

Naturally, it's the revised and amended version which ran for over two years on Broadway that will be staged by John Raitt Productions in Pampa, starring John Raitt as King Arthur with Jolene Fodor as Queen Guenevere amidst all the dazzling delights of the Fabled Round Table.
Tickets for the musical, sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, are priced at $7.50 for adults and $4 for students. Mrs. E.H. Brainard, 11, 2125 Mary Ellen, is ticket chairman.

'AT WIT'S END'
By ERMA BOMBECK

You know the trouble with some women? They have no imagination. A neighbor was telling me the other day that her little boy, Jody, wanted to bring a bull snake home from his vacation.
"What did you tell him?" I asked.
"I couldn't think of a reason why he couldn't," she said, helplessly shrugging her shoulders.
"Are you kidding?" I shrieked. "A few years ago, my son captured a small slimy specimen in a Coke bottle and I could think of ten reasons for leaving him behind. (The snake, not the boy.)"
1. Snakes do not know their own minds. They may jump up and down and think they want to leave their Mommys and Daddys for a fun trip, but after two days away from home, it's spit-up time.
2. You would get bored with one another. After all, what can a snake do? Can he chase a ball after you throw it? Can he walk to the shopping center with you on a leash? Can he walk into a crowded room and keep it that way?
3. Snakes are a minority group. Face it. Do you want him to feel the pains of discrimination? Wouldn't it break your heart to have his admission refused at Bible School? Or to leave him outside in a Mason jar while you were inside with friends?
4. Snakes are difficult to paper train.
5. Snakes adhere to a diet of living things. What happens when he runs out of mice and begins to eye our meter reader?
6. How would we know if he got a headache?
7. How would you explain it to him if someone accidentally hit him with a rake?
8. You would be forcing on him a monk's existence. How do you know he doesn't want to date and eventually have a family?
"Did he buy it?" asked my neighbor bright-eyed. "I mean did he realize that there were inherent differences between a boy and a snake?"
"Not until I hit him with reasons nine and 10."
"Which were?"
9. If you put that snake in the car with your mother, she will have a heart attack and drop dead.
10. Ask yourself, do you want to be a motherless boy roaming through life with a sex-starved, militant, maladjusted snake in a Coke bottle?
"He chose you instead of the snake, right?" she asked.
"No, but he's still thinking about it," I said.

Cole-Tefertiller

Miss Candy Cole and Russell H. Tefertiller will wed May 25 in the First Christian Church of Pampa. Making the announcement are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Cole, south of Pampa. The bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Tefertiller of Arnett, Okla. The bride-elect is a graduate of Pampa High School and attended West Texas State University and Tarleton State University at Stephenville. She is presently employed by Security Federal of Pampa. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Arnett High School and of Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, Okla. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, and is presently employed by Farm Bureau Insurance Company in Arnett.

The Founders Day program was given by Mrs. Paul Howard, speaking on PTA Pioneers.
The following names were submitted and elected for the following year: Mrs. Rowdy Bowers, president; Mrs. David Livingston, vice-president; Mrs. H.R. Green, secretary; Mrs. A.N. Green, treasurer; Mrs. Cecil Baggerman, historian; and Mrs. Bethel Ammerman, parliamentarian.
Room count was won by Mrs. Vivian Craig, and the door prize donated by Mrs. David Livingston was won by Sandra Reeves. Refreshments were served following the meeting.
The executive committee met prior to the general session to discuss plans for the teachers banquet which will be March 14, in the school cafeteria.

Farrar-Florer

Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Farrar, 1717 Coffee, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Tommy D. Florer of Amarillo. The bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mrs. W.H. Miller of Borger, and George Florer, Borger. Nuptial vows will be exchanged April 12 in the First United Methodist Church Chapel in Pampa. The bride-elect is a 1972 graduate of Pampa High School and attended Amarillo College. She is presently employed by CIT Financial Services in Amarillo. The prospective bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of Borger High School and is presently employed by Bechtel Corporation in Amarillo.

Club Presented Review Of Book

Mrs. Laura Kilgore, 1537 Coffee, was hostess recently for members of the Goodwill Home Demonstration Club.

Club members were reminded to bake pies and work at the annual livestock food sale, March 5.

The President, Mrs. Mary Johnson, presided. She announced the program for April 4, 9:30 a.m. in the Reddi Room, Southwestern Public Service will be presented by Mrs. Mildred Prince on the radar range.

Roll call was answered with members giving, "one goal I have in life."

The door prize was won by Mrs. Lee Jackson.

Mrs. Rufe Jordan presented a book review, "Gee Whiz, I'm Old" by Agnes Plyant. In concluding the review, she gave an overall tune-up tonic prescription in three parts: first, keep physically well; second, concentrate on inner loveliness; and third, preserve the part of you made in the image of God.

Church News

FIRST BAPTIST WOMEN
Mrs. Alfred Cross, chairman, was in charge of the meeting when the Mission Study Group of First Baptist Church met Wednesday, Feb. 20, at 9:30 a.m., in the home of Miss Claudia Everly, 722 E. Browning.

The "Call to Prayer" was given by Mrs. Hugh Peeples and Mrs. G.E. Groninger led the opening prayer.

Mrs. Cross announced to the group that Baptist Women have a new Mission Action chairman, Mrs. Raymond Neef. Mrs. Neef has assigned the February mission action project to be assisting the Woody Northcutt family who serve as missionaries in South Dakota.

Mrs. Cross announced that the Week of Prayer for home missions will be March 3-10. These prayer meetings and studies will be in the homes every day except Wednesday. On Wednesday, the group will meet at the church. She also reminded members of the upcoming revival to be March 10-17.

April 9 is the date for the annual banquet to honor all Pampa graduating seniors. This event is sponsored by Baptist Women and all members in the church are urged to assist in decorating preparations.

Mrs. George Warren continued the mission study by teaching from the book, "Another Hand On Mine," by Dr. Carl Becker.

Arts Association Will Sponsor Humanities Program In Pampa

Pampa has been chosen by the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities to have one of their programs funded by the Moody Foundation of Galveston. The Moody Humanities Project, sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, is an exciting new departure for the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

This fall and winter a group of Texas professors are touring Texas, presenting a series of free programs about the humanities. They are bringing the humanities out of the classroom and presenting them in a way that has a broad appeal, using the performing arts as a way of exploring the humanities.

During their week in a community, the members of the touring group appear individually before small audiences at schools, churches, clubs and private homes. One evening during their visit, they jointly present a program about Texas that will be open to the public. The evening presentation involves a panel of three local residents in an opportunity for the audience to participate in discussion.

Bill Jamison, director of the Humanities Division of the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities, will bring this program to Pampa Feb. 26, 27, and 28, and will be assisted by John Paul Batiste and Richard Rodriguez. On the evening of Feb. 28, there will be a program, "T for Texas" presented at the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Heritage Room at 8 p.m. This will be open to the public - admission free, an evening of song, dramatization, and just plain talk. Featuring Jamison, Batiste, Rodriguez and a panel of local residents, Victor P. Raymond, Mrs. Dudley Steele, and Floyd Watson.

Bill Jamison is an historian by profession who taught for three years at Southwest Texas State University. Jamison also toured the country for two years presenting similar programs with the National Humanities Series based in Princeton, N.J. John Paul Batiste, a black poet, songwriter, and playwright from Dallas, is quite well known throughout the state, and Richard Rodriguez, a Spanish American guitarist, performs also on the programs. He is a singer and songwriter.

The program offers a variety of musical and dramatized excerpts of Texas Heritage.

By its conclusion, the program will have been presented in Del Rio, Freeport, Harlingen, Kingsville, Lufkin, Paris, Port Lavaca, San Marcos, Snyder, as well as Pampa.

Perils of Teaching
NEW YORK (UPI) — Teaching has its perils, says Frank Ward, graduate student at the University of Rochester Department of Psychology.

He offers some tongue-in-cheek advice to novice college instructors. The first problem he tackled: the situation involving a student throwing up during the teacher's first lecture.

Ward's RX: "The show must go on. Ignore minor classroom interruptions and unsolicited comments on lecture quality."

TV Viewers Can Save Energy

COLLEGE STATION — Television viewers "tuned into" the facts can turn their sets into energy savers, one authority reported this week.

Amount of energy a television set consumes depends on type and use, Janice K. Garrett, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, continued. "A tube-operated, black- and - white set expands more electricity than a solid - state model."

"A color set uses even more." Despite higher initial costs, solid - state sets save energy and money in the long run, the specialist said.

"Choosing a black - and - white set instead of color also saves money — and energy. However, advantages of watching programs in color often outweigh these savings."

A model with an "instant-on" feature draws power constantly — however, even though it uses more energy, it prolongs life of the set.

To save energy with "instant on" sets, Miss Garrett advised owners to unplug these sets only when they won't be used for several days — such as when the family goes on vacation or weekend trips.

"Another waste involves unwatched television sets.

"Turning any set off will save energy, but only if it's left off awhile. So, don't turn it off for only 30-minutes or so.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend.

Household Hints
 By United Press International
 Quiet operation is one of the most desirable features in a dishwasher.

Most top models of dishwashers have more sound-shielding than most basic models.

Portable top opening dishwashers require the smallest overage storage space, the least space when being loaded or unloaded since this is done from the top, and require bending for access to bottom of dishwasher.

When buying a dishwasher look for racks that pull all the way out so that back sections are easily accessible.

A nice feature of a dishwasher is a plate-warming cycle. A built-in dishwasher generally is the most convenient type to use. Once installed, it operates without further connecting and disconnecting.

A built-in dishwasher is the quietest type. Surrounding cabinets help muffle sound of the water action.

Portable, front opening models of dishwashers are the same over-all size as a built-in, except for the addition of the top. Many are designed to be converted to built-ins if the family moves or the kitchen is remodeled.

Fuel Use Cut
 TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The Air Force at this large base reports it has cut aircraft fuel consumption by 28 per cent as a result of the energy crisis.

Las Pampas DAR Chapter Hosts Eighth Annual Tea

Las Pampas Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held their eighth annual Colonial Tea recently in the Parish Hall of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church with Mrs. John Spearman serving as general chairman.

Mrs. J.B. White, regent, recognized members of other chapters present and greeted other guests. Mrs. P.R. Britton, vice - regent, led in giving the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mrs. Walter C. Whitley, chairman of the Good Citizens committee, introduced the award winners and their parents. DAR Good Citizens are chosen by a committee of their respective high schools for their qualities of dependability, leadership, service and patriotism. Those girls chosen were Sharon Britten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Britten of Groom; Cherylan Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holmes of McLean; Delores Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Patterson of Wheeler; Ann Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vincent of Letors; Nancy Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmer of Pampa; and Shelia Smith, daughter of Mrs. Jane Cook Smith and Leo Smith of Clarendon.

Mrs. Whitley asked each mother to pin her daughter and to present the award certificates.

Miss Mellie B. Richey, program chairman, introduced John Woickowski, head of the Pampa High School choral department. He directed a group of his singers who call themselves "New Intervals." They sang patriotic selections such as the theme song of the Johnny Mann Singers of television fame, "Stand Up and Cheer" and "This is My Country." Miss Betty Coutts accompanied the group on the piano.

Members of the high school drama group, with Miss Terry Malone acting as director for Mrs. Calvin Lacy, gave several short skits after demonstrating how the costumes were made after much research into the type of garments worn in 1700, 1800, and 1900. Readings from "Spoon River Anthology" were also given by one of the group.

SPAGHETTI
3 Cups Chopped Celery
2 Cups Chopped Onion
1 Chopped Green Pepper
1 Minced Garlic Bud
1 Can Tomatoes
Salt, Chili Powder, Red and Black Pepper to taste.
2 Pounds Ground Beef
1 Box Spaghetti (Large)
1 1/2 Cups Grated Sharp
Cheese
Grated Parmesan Sharp
Cheese for the table to sprinkle on top of each serving.

Saute the celery, onion, green pepper in small amount of cooking oil until tender (we use a large iron skillet). Do this over low heat. Add the minced garlic. Remove this mixture from the skillet to a bowl. Now place the ground beef in the skillet. Stir constantly and let cook until the meat is greyish in color. Add the first mixture and the tomatoes to the meat. Add seasoning to taste. It is best if seasoned highly. This is a "taste-as-you-go" recipe. If necessary, add a little water. Let the mixture cook on very low heat from 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Use a tight fitting top during this period.

Cook the spaghetti as directed on the box. Drain and run cool water over it in a colander. Add it to the meat and vegetable mixture after the latter has cooked the 1 1/2 hours. Mix well. Add more water if necessary. It may now be placed in the refrigerator until you are ready to heat and serve it.

The grated sharp cheese is added to the hot mixture just before serving. Stir in well until the cheese is melted.

FIRST BAPTIST WOMEN
The Hazel Snyder Current Mission Group met Wednesday, Feb. 20, at 9:30 a.m., in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Box, 2230 Navajo Road.

Mrs. Box led the "Call to Prayer."
The mission study about current mission work being done in West Virginia was taught by Mrs. James Poole.

The group discussed the February mission action project which is to help the Woody Northcutt family who are missionaries in South Dakota.

The next meeting of this group will be March 20. The meeting place will be announced.
Members attending were: Mmes. DeWynne Barrett, Melvin Earls, Poole and Box.

"FRIENDS" HOST REVIEW — Mrs. David Holt, right, reviewed Helen Hayes' autobiography, "On Reflection," at an informal coffee recently at Lovett Memorial Library. The Friends of the Pampa Library, hosted the event, which was the first in a series of programs to be offered. Mrs. Jack Ward, left, introduced the speaker, and Miss Elsie Cunningham was refreshment chairman. Not pictured is Mrs. Homer Johnson, chairman of the cultural and recreational committee.

Beaumont Will Host African Violet Convention In March

BEAUMONT, Tex. — African violet growers from Texas, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina will be gathering in Beaumont at the Ramada Inn March 27-30 for the Dixie African Violet Culture Club of Port Arthur.

Convention workshops will deal with hybridizing and gesneriads. Dr. J.B. Jung of Pineville, La., will conduct one of the workshops on hybridizing.

Several hundred entries of African violets and other gesneriads are expected at the annual show, which will highlight the three-day party. Show winners will receive their awards at a dinner on March 29. Horticulture and design entries may be made by both Dixie members and non-members according to Mrs. Henry J. Hebert of Nederland, convention chairman.

Election and installation of officers, will bring the convention to a close. Jerry Brown of Baton Rouge, La., is the current president. The installation rites will be conducted by Mrs. Henry P. Poole of Port Arthur, editor of The African Violet Magazine, an international membership magazine, which is distributed to more than 13,500 members of the African Violet Society of America, Inc.

Mrs. J.A. Dawson, Rt. 1, Box 375E, Orange, Tex., 77630 is convention registration chairman.

Invitations have gone out to all violet growers in the Southern states to attend the Dixie convention where African violets of all sizes and colors will be on array, a Violet Boutique will be held and a program has been arranged for all violet growers.

Purple Martins Is Topic For Pampa Retired Teachers

The Pampa Retired Teachers Association met in the Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Co., Monday, Feb. 18 with B.R. Nuckols, president, presiding.

Miss Pearl Spagh, leader for the day, introduced Terry Haralson, who showed a film on the habits of the purple martins.

"We are on the edge of a flyaway of these birds, that winter in Brazil but come north to nest and hatch their young. They feed on flying insects and have an enormous appetite; each one can devour 2,000 mosquitoes per day," the speaker told.

Some towns, people where there is much moisture, are building many bird houses to encourage these birds to nest there, he said.

Mr. Haralson and his friends are encouraged having some purple martins return to Pampa each spring to occupy their bird houses.

The nominating committee presented the following group of officers who were elected to serve next year: President, Mrs. Hazel Poole; first Vice President, Miss Florence Jones; Secretary, Mrs. Teresa Reed; Treasurer, Mrs. Hazel Parker; and Parliamentarian, Mrs. McHenry Lane.

L.B. Penick gave the "Dash O'Spice" which was interesting quips about George Washington.

Hostesses served 46 members coffee and cookies from a Washington birthday decorated table.

Dear Abby

Four-letter words bother boy's parent

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: I am extremely upset about the kind of books my son's English teacher assigns him to read. He's in the 11th grade.

These books contain some filthy four-letter words. My son doesn't want me to go to the school and complain. He says the whole class has to read them.

I think it's terrible to shove vulgarity down the throats of young people. If I heard my teen-age son using such language as he is being forced to read, he would get five knuckles in the mouth.

Am I wrong to be upset by this? I am 47 and never have read such filth.

I try to teach my children to keep their language and thoughts clean, and I send them to school and their teachers force trash down their throats. Your opinion, please.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: I, too, am offended by four-letter words. (It's a holdover from my early training—call it a "hangup.") But let's be fair. Not all writing that contains four-letter words is "trash." Some are judged to be classics by many highly-respected literary critics.

Relax, mother. I doubt that your son will be corrupted by an English assignment.

DEAR ABBY: Here's my problem: I have very short and stubby thumbs, and they are ugly and I am ashamed of them. Do you think they could be operated on to be made narrower?

I don't have any money, but would be willing to let a surgeon work on me as an experiment, and I would take my chances with the results. I am on welfare.

UGLY THUMBS

DEAR UGLY: Thumb a ride to your nearest medical school, and ask if they are interested in your proposition. But don't get your hopes up.

DEAR ABBY: For our first wedding anniversary, I surprised my husband with a beautiful gold wedding band, identical to the one he gave me.

He didn't have to tell me he didn't want to wear it, I could tell by his expression. He left it in the box. I foolishly insisted that he try it on, to see if it fit and then he told me that he thought a man who wore a wedding ring might as well wear a ring thru his nose.

What do you think, Abby? I know it's dangerous for a man who works around machinery to wear a wedding ring at work, but my husband works in an office.

HURT IN ALABAMA

DEAR HURT: A man who wears a wedding ring obviously doesn't mind announcing to the world that he's married, but it doesn't necessarily follow that the married man who wears no ring is reluctant to admit it. Don't make an issue of it. He's entitled to his opinion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAVING MY DOUBTS": Don't marry any man whose ability to make rational decisions is questionable. I think his children are trying to line up a baby-sitter for his second childhood.

Fashionettes

By United Press International
A man who gets about town in New York—only with the elegant set—is happy to report: Black velvet for evening is back in a big way. So are ruffles, and bows and everything so very correct. "It is," says he, "very romantic and nice."

A woman about town in New York the other day reported seeing more men wearing hats. It may mean that the men's hat industry, on the dormant side for so many seasons, may come to life.

"I saw," said the woman "four men walking four abreast and they looked peculiar. Then I figured out why they looked peculiar. Each had on a hat!" Then she looked around and saw other men with hats.

It's probably official that the sloppy, anything goes era of fashions for women is on the way out, but definitely. Girl watchers report legs showing again in offices, on buses, in the subways of New York. The pantsuit, in other words, is not in the front place as the working girl's uniform anymore.

What sets fashionable female apart from a non-fashionable one these days: gloves, dresses or skirts and not pants, and, would you believe—hats.

Watch for fingernails painted in stripes—racing stripes. Sample: purple nail with white stripe down the middle.

Perils of Teaching
NEW YORK (UPI)—Teaching has its perils, says Frank Ward, graduate student at the University of Rochester Department of Psychology.

He offers some tongue-in-cheek advice to novice college instructors. The first problem he tackled: the situation involving a student throwing up during the teacher's first lecture.

Ward's R.X.: "The show must go on. Ignore minor classroom interruptions and unsolicited comments on lecture quality."

Castleberry-Poston Vows Said In Double-Ring Ceremony

Nuptial vows were solemnized Saturday, Feb. 23 at 7 p.m. in Central Baptist Church of Pampa by Mary Fay Castleberry and Carl O'Deal Poston.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Florine Castleberry, 730 Murphy, and Mrs. Hazel L. Poston, 710 N. Banks, is the mother of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY
Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Ted Savage, pastor. Linda Reed, organist and vocalist sang "The Twelfth of Never," "More," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The background for the ceremony was a prayer bench flanked by large basket arrangements of red and white carnations.

THE BRIDE
The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Dewain Jackson of Wheeler, and her mother. She was attired in a formal gown of white lace over bridal taffeta. The fitted bodice was styled with a high neckline, and long, fitted lace sleeves that ended in ruffles. The floor-length skirt swept to a chapel train. The bodice yoke, neckline and sleeves of the gown were highlighted by tiny sea pearls.

Her two-tiered shoulder-length veil of illusion, sprinkled with seed pearls, fell from a coil of lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with red flowers.

ATTENDANTS

Maid of honor was Rhonda Bradsher and Danita Willingham was bridesmaid. They wore matching gowns of red chiffon trimmed with white lace. Each wore a garden hat with white trim and carried bouquets of red and white carnations.

Glen Jameson served as best man and groomsman was Larry Jackson. Steve Jackson and Dan Jackson were ushers.

MRS. CARL O'DEAL POSTON
...nee Miss Mary Fay Castleberry

RECEPTION

The reception was held at the church. The serving table, centered with two tall red candles and red accessories, was covered with a white satin cloth.

The three-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with red roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Linda Moore assisted at the punch bowl and Mrs. Ann Jackson served cake.

Patricia Castleberry registered guests.

For the wedding trip to Old Mexico, the bride wore a red dress and lifted the red corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will reside at 1301 Duncan.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a graduate of Pampa High School and the bridegroom is employed by Jameson Construction Company of Pampa.

Caulk, Weatherstrip To Reduce Bills

COLLEGE STATION—Even a well-insulated house can lose heat, one authority warns.

"From 15-30 per cent of a home's heating (or cooling) bills are due to air leaking in or out," Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted.

Weatherstripping and caulking in problem areas can reduce this waste, the specialist said.

By applying these products himself, a homeowner also cuts expenses.

Weatherstripping goes on doors and windows. It's sold by the foot or in kits with enough weatherstripping and fasteners for one door or window.

"Caulking compound, on the other hand, is applied at joints where different materials meet—such as brick and siding. Also, around doors and window frames."

Miss Bradshaw advised consumers to carefully compare caulking compounds in order to select the right one for the job.

"Many different caulks are available; however, all types come in handy tubes for application with caulk guns."

"For more information or help in selecting products, consult a reputable dealer."

"For best results, caulk and weatherstrip until a light mist forms on windows during cold weather. This creates the most comfortable living conditions."

Surprise Party Honors Dormans

Mr. and Mrs. B.F. Dorman, 2207 Lynn, were honored with a surprise party on their 20th wedding anniversary, Thursday, Feb. 14 in their home.

Arrangements were made by their son, Randy, assisted by Mrs. Vernon Stowers, Bill Winborn and Bob Brandon.

Decorations were carried out in the Valentine motif, including the entertaining rooms and serving table appointments.

The honorees, married Feb. 14, 1948 in Amarillo, were presented a silver chip and dip tray by friends and a floral arrangement of carnations by their son.

The serving table was centered with a red and white heart shaped Valentine arrangement made by Mrs. Bill Winborn. Adding to the theme was a two-tiered cake topped with two white love birds.

Refreshments of cake, punch, coffee, nuts and mints were served to Messrs. and Meses. Max Hickey, Bob Roberts, Ted Everhart, G.B. Hogan, Lee Ziegelgruber, Fred Symonds, Coyle Winborne, Vernon Stowers, R.N. Brandon, Bill Winborn and Sidney Jackson.

Residing in Pampa since 1966, Dorman is manager of Shook Tire Company.

Monte Hall celebrated his 10th year on the air with his game show. "Let's Make a Deal."

Dalton-Matthews Vows Are Repeated Saturday

Miss Jayne Kaye Dalton became the bride of Ricky Dale Matthews, Saturday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the South Lee United Methodist Church of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mrs. Dean Dalton of Oklahoma City is the mother of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Matthews, Oklahoma City, are the parents of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. John Deller officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Gary Hopper, organist and flute soloist, accompanied Richard Hudson as he sang, "A Time for Us," "Colour My World," "If," and "Heather."

The church was decorated with an arch flanked by spiral candelabra and baskets of large yellow mums, spider mums, deep blue pom poms and roses.

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her uncle, Theodore Bright, Milpitas, Calif., the bride wore a formal gown of silk peau de soie and Alencon lace, styled with a fitted bodice, bib front, stand-up wedding ring collar, and long lace sleeves terminating in ruffles that extended over her hands. The floor-length skirt, enhanced by matching lace, swept into a chapel train.

Her three-tiered imported mantilla of pure silk English lace fell from a bandeau of lace, and seed pearls and was attached to a cathedral capelet. She carried a bridal bouquet of 30 yellow roses and tiny blue star flowers.

ATTENDANTS

Conchita Sue Hudson was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Tony Smith of Canyon, and Debbie Mears and Hazel Dodrill, both of Oklahoma City. They wore identical formal fitted gowns of royal blue crushed velvet with yellow trim. The gowns were fashioned with stand-up collars, long sleeves gathered into a band with full length sleeves. They carried bouquets of yellow rosebuds, yellow snow crystals, baby mums and star flowers with maize ribbon streamers. Each wore a headpiece of fresh yellow and blue flowers.

Shancy Bringage was flowergirl and Richard Sean Hudson was ringbearer. Janice Schuler and Mark Wilson lighted the candles. Miss Schuler was dressed identically to the bride attendants.

Don Cassell, Houston, was best man, and Ike Doreill, Lindsey Schuler and Howard Blair, all of Oklahoma City, were groomsmen. Ushering were David Schuler, Mark Wilson and Virgil Blair, all of Oklahoma City.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the reception hall of the church. The serving table was covered with a dark blue cloth and a lighted fountain served as the centerpiece. Silver appointments completed the table setting.

The wedding cake, trimmed in yellow roses, was served by Janice McCluskey. Ann Washington registered wedding guests and Sue Grassman, Diana Grassman and Darlene Wooten assisted with the serving.

The couple plan to reside in Oklahoma City.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a graduate of Grant High School and of Oklahoma School of Banking and Business. She is presently employed at Freeman & Freeman Law Firm in Oklahoma City.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Capitol High School and attended Trinidad State College where he majored in gunsmithing.

Mrs. McMurtry Reviews Biblical Story For Club

The Twentieth Century Culture Club met Tuesday, Feb. 12, in the home of Mrs. James A. Poole, 1707 Evergreen, with Mrs. Milo Carlson, co-hostess. Mrs. Ross Buzzard, president, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. J.M. Stallings asked Mrs. Rufe Jordan to introduce the speaker for the day, her daughter, Mrs. Wayne McMurtry of Silvertown.

Mrs. McMurtry reviewed the novel by Marjorie Holmes, "Two From Galilee," which is a love story of Mary and Joseph, a story which has been called the "Romeo and Juliet of the New Testament."

Mrs. McMurtry began by saying that the author's inspiration for this story came to her one Christmas Eve as she sat in a darkened church, enjoying the greens, carols, and the beauty of the night, when suddenly she became aware of the smell of hay in the manger and thought in wonder that this experience actually happened to real people in a real place, with real smells and sounds and sights. And so she left the church that night determined to tell the story of two real people whose lives were touched by God and who were chosen by Him to provide an earthly home for His Son. She was determined to reveal the human aspect of the Holy Family without departing from a Scriptural base.

The purpose of this novel, in the author's words, is to "breathe some life" into the participants of this great drama.

Mrs. McMurtry reviewed the story, beginning when Mary was age 13, carefully unfolding the story of the family backgrounds of Mary and Joseph, and of a young love that matures and deepens through the years until the Holy Child is born.

Members present besides Mrs. Poole, Carlson, Buzzard, Stallings and Jordan were Mrs. A.E. Berry, Fred Brook, R.L. Cooke, J.R. Donaldson, M.K. Griffith, E.W. Hogan, Wyatt Lemons, Myron A. Marx, Jr., B.R. Nunn, Doyle Osborne, E.E. Shelhamer, N.D. Steele, Paul Turner, L.J. Zachry, and honorary member Mrs. G.L. Craddock. The speaker, Mrs. McMurtry, was the only guest present.

Mock Trial Held By Forum Members

A mock trial was held recently for members of the Twentieth Century Forum Study Club in the Juvenile Court of Gray County with County Judge Don Cain sitting as Juvenile Judge.

The purpose of the mock trial was to acquaint the members with the process of juvenile hearings in this county. The facts were taken from an actual case, and the following members of Forum participated: Mrs. Robert Finney acted as the defendant. Mrs. John Warner acted as guardian ad litem for the juvenile, and Mrs. M. McDaniel, David Holt, Larry Cross, Ellis Locke, Holt Barber, Aubrey Steele, served as jurors. County Attorney, John Warner, as prosecutor, called George Wallace, Pampa

Assistant Chief of Police, to testify that the defendant had been arrested and charged with possession of dangerous drugs. Warner pointed out that this is a felony and the defendant should be found guilty and declared a juvenile delinquent.

Robert Finney, acting as defense attorney, presented witnesses and testimony asking that the defendant be found not guilty. Due to the time allotment, the jury did not make a decision, however, both Warner and Finney explained what the procedure would be if the youth were found guilty, or if the youth were found not guilty. A short business session was held at the home of Mrs. Richard Van Kluyve. Those present were Mrs. Joe Franklin, Homer D. Johnson,

Frank Kelley, McHenry Lane, Richard Van Kluyve, as well as the above mentioned.

High Blood Pressure: "The Silent Disease"

NEW YORK (ED) — Nearly 23 million Americans are afflicted by high blood pressure—a disease that can cripple or kill at anytime. Only half of these victims are aware that affects people only under stress is absolutely untrue. No particular person is automatically going to have the disease. The calm, cool and collected individual could easily be a victim.

There's only one reliable way to determine whether you are suffering from high blood pressure. Consult your doctor and have your blood pressure checked. High blood pressure is simple to detect and it can be controlled.

The only way to control "the silent disease" is by having check-ups regularly. Remember, your good health begins with you. Z

The health club houses all the health exercise equipment such as the beauty bars, barrell rollers, vibrator belts, bicycles, sit-up boards, aerow machine, rowing machine, leg and thigh curl machine, leg press machine, barbells, dumbbells, multi - press machine, jungle pulley machine, sun lamp, two handball and racquetball courts, dressing room, showers, facial machine and sauna.

The health club membership is called our unlimited membership. It is always available to individuals and to husbands and wives in a combination membership.

An individual membership for six months is only $85 total which may be paid out on an installment plan for $15.50 the first month and $10.50 each of the other five months.

The husband-wife combination plan calls for $90 for six months. On the installment plan this would be $23.87 for the first month and $13.87 each of the other five months.

We have a one-visit tryout plan without any obligation, if you would like to try us out.

Regular youth center memberships for use of the gym, swimming pool and recreation hall is still available. The cost is only $5 for six months for an individual and $12 for a family. Yearly rates are $8 and $20 respectively.

Yogi Class
A new class that started Feb. 22 offers beginners yogi. This class meets on Friday nights from 7-8 p.m. in the TV Room under the direction of Mrs. April Lawrence of Canyon. A Youth Center membership is required.

An additional fee charged by Mrs. Lawrence is $35 for couples and $25 for singles. To participate, come to the Youth Center on Friday night.

Swim Lessons
Parents, remember that the Youth Center teaches a year round program of swim lessons because of the indoor heated pool. Lessons are usually scheduled every three weeks.

All classes meet after school on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There are no Tuesday classes. Two lessons are given from 4-5 p.m. and 5-6 p.m. Classes that are periodically offered are polywogs, beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates and swimmers. Junior and senior lifesaving is taught on a seasonal basis.

Instruction is through the American Red Cross program with a qualified water safety instructor teaching each class. Our resident instructor, Ruth Carter, teaches most of the Youth Center's classes. Enrollment is open to all the public. Lessons are free to Center members and $4 for non-members.

Furr's Cafeterias Reporting Record Net Income & Sales

LUBBOCK — Furr's Cafeterias, Inc. had record high net income and sales during 1973, and the company's board of directors has voted to increase the cash dividend on common stock, Don Furr, president, announced.

Net income increased to $1.96 million, or 83 cents per share, a gain of 21 percent over the prior year. Sales climbed 26 percent to $38.6 million. Investment tax credits amounted to 6 cents per share compared with 11 cents per share for 1972.

"The fourth quarter of the year was very encouraging and mild weather contributed to a healthy increase in business at our cafeterias," said Furr. "Also, prices of raw ingredients were more stable."

During the fourth quarter ended December 29, 1973, net income of $615,788, or 27 cents per share, was 32 percent higher on a sales increase of 26 percent to $10.2 million when compared with the comparable quarter of 1972. Investment tax credit was 3 cents per share versus 5 cents in the same quarter of last year.

Furr's opened seven cafeterias in 1973, including one during the fourth quarter in Garland, Texas, at the northern city limits of Dallas. In January a new unit was opened in Houston. The Company currently operates 52 cafeterias and two pie shops in six Southwestern states.

Six additional cafeterias are under construction and a total of nine are expected to be completed during 1974.

Salmon Protected SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — In 1952, California enacted its first law to protect salmon. It called for the removal of obstacles which would block salmon from swimming upstream to spawn.

New housing construction usually leads the economy and it also signals a turn in the business cycle. Housing starts peaked out in the first quarter of 1973 at an annual rate of 2.4 million. While the economy continued to grow through the fourth quarter of 1973, housing starts had plummeted one-third by the end of the fourth quarter.

In the past, interest rates have been the key. Rising short-term interest rates attracts savers who withdraw funds from savings and loan accounts and invest those funds in the short-term money markets. This is called "disintermediation," a massive shifting of funds from one major type of savings institution to another part of the money market.

Since the savings and loan associations are limited by regulation as to the maximum interest rate they can pay, they are unable to compete effectively with other forms of short-term investment.

The result is a loss of savings funds from the savings and loan associations who then have to cut back on their lending activities to new house buyers. This slows down new house construction because the builder can't afford to tie up his resources in a batch of unsold houses.

It is now obvious that interest rates are on the way down and in a hurry. The prime rate, which was 10 percent a month ago, could hit 6 percent by late summer. This will have a direct effect on the interest rates savings and loan associations and insurance companies charge on their home mortgage loans and real estate loans.

So, by being patient, the prospective new house buyer will get the lowest interest rate on his mortgage in about eight months from now.

What has kept a lot of houses from becoming homes is not only high interest rates but higher prices for houses and the higher cost of owning a house. Prices, as every potential house buyer knows, not only have gone up — they've gone through the roof.

The average price of a new house fell 11.5 percent in 1969 and 1970. But from 1971 to the end of 1973 the average price of a new house rose 48.7 percent or about 33 percent more than the Consumer Price Index.

The cost of owning a house has also risen drastically. A major factor in the increased cost of home-owning has been rising property taxes. Although the tax increases have moderated in recent years, other costs have kept moving up.

The biggest worries now are the cost of gas and electricity and the gasoline used for commuting. These costs will keep rising over the next several years until some kind of balance between the supply of fuel and the cost of fuel can be reached.

Meanwhile, more of the construction cost of a house will go to improved insulation and energy saving devices. And that will give you a hint of what type of stocks to buy now if you want to benefit from the next big push in new house construction.

The stock market anticipates housing recovers well in advance. If the forecast of a turnaround in housing by mid-1974 is correct, expenditures for residential construction will begin to pick up in 1975.

This means that building company stocks and building materials company stocks will begin to make their moves between now and the end of 1974.

Presbycusis And Hyperacusis

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is presbycusis and just what is the best treatment?

—Mrs. M.J.Q.
Dear Doctor: I have severe hyperacusis which became so bad I had to stop work — I was operating an automatic typewriter. My condition seems to become worse when I'm close up to a loud sound and my ears ring. I also have a hearing loss. My doctor prescribed nicotinic acid which helps the ringing. Where can I turn for further treatment?

—Ms. A.T.L.
Presbycusis is a gradual loss of hearing, and in the strict sense of the term, the loss is about the same in both ears, and is related to the aging process. One of the common causes is otosclerosis. That is, one of the tiny bones which carry sound vibrations becomes fused to the next one, and the bones cannot vibrate freely. Surgery for this is highly effective these days. Impacted wax in the ear canal, or plugging of the Eustachian tubes, are other common causes and these, particularly the first, will respond to treatment. Hyperacusis is the opposite condition. The hearing is abnormally acute and can come pretty close to being painful if there are loud noises.

A defect in one of the tiny muscles of the inner ear usually is a factor, but there may be other ear problems present. I can offer only one bit of advice: have the condition evaluated by an otologist (ear specialist). The condition sometimes is followed later by a loss of hearing.

I dare say it is possible for one's attitude to have some bearing at times. At least I have known of people who got used to a loss of hearing, then had it restored by some such surgery as a stapedectomy, and then complained of things like "the roaring noise of a bed sheet."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 65 and his doctor has diagnosed his disease as hardening of the arteries, or atherosclerosis. He does not seem to feel this is really his condition. He has a roaring sound in his head and ears and this causes him to be unable to sleep. Do you agree with this diagnosis?

—Mrs. J.H.
I see no reason not to agree with it, and do not see why your son disagrees with it. I dare say that his doctor has detected signs in addition to the roaring noise, however.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it safe to eat soup, cold, right out of the can? Or does it have to be brought to a boil like it says on the can?

—R.P.B.
Safe if the you like cold soup, but most soups are tastier when hot, and a good many canned soups are easier to eat when thinned with water or milk. But there are, you'll notice, some soups quite commonly eaten cold, such as jellied consommé.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a few dark, thick hairs growing around each of my nipples. Would plucking them cause cancer of the breast? Would plucking hair from a mole cause it to be cancerous?

—C.W.
No to both questions — but I

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Henry Is 'Something Incredible'

By EARL WILSON
CHICAGO — Henry Fonda is doing something incredible here at the Civic Theater.

For 106 minutes, one hour and three-quarters, Fonda, alone and unassisted, lives over the troubled and dramatic life of lawyer Clarence Darrow... and get a standing ovation every night.

Despite the non-resemblance of Henry Fonda to the colorful, controversial lawyer who performed theatrically in courtrooms in the Scopes Monkey Trial and in the Loeb-Leopold case, Fonda slowly but certainly becomes Darrow in the two-act, one-man show or monologue. Before your eyes he reaches the climax of Darrow's life, slowing down into old age.

I shall not review his show as it comes to Broadway soon, but I found Fonda's recreation of Darrow (who died in 1938) so fascinating that I am compelled to report it. After paying my $8.50 for a second-row seat, I settled back to watch Fonda, my favorite actor, slumped out and shuffle into an old-fashioned lawyer's office with a roll-top desk (to immediate applause). And I felt, "No, no, he doesn't look like Darrow" (whom I had interviewed maybe 40 years ago).

"But he's beginning to look like him!" I said 10 minutes later. "It's the way he holds his galluses, it's his slight paunchiness," I thought. And his shoes were old and flapping and his suit looked slept-in and one strand of uncombed hair dropped over one eye.

There he was, challenging William Jennings Bryan on the Bible, addressing the jury on the murder of Bobby Franks, orating philosophically to the jury on every case, never once losing one of more than 100 clients to the death penalty. Fonda's wife Shirley Adams explained his transformation (into Darrow) to me.

"Henry literally slept in those clothes," she said. "He wore those shoes forever to get them to look old. That little lock of hair that falls down in front of his face is the only thing they added. Except," she interjected, "that he's totally padded to look heavier and so his clothes will look baggy. And," his wife said, "there's the way that he juts out his jaw."

That's what I had noticed. By maneuvering his chin and his jowls and his jaw he became Darrow. "Of course," Mrs. Fonda said, "they used all the photographs they could find. Henry's had more fan mail than any time since I came into his life — 11 years ago — people saying, 'You ARE Clarence Darrow!'"

"He locks himself up to learn 95 pages of dialogue in two weeks. He goes into his study from 8 to 10:30 with Ray McGrath, his script supervisor on the TV show, and he cues him. He has total concentration."

"Henry," as Darrow, gradually grows older," I said. "Yes, his shoulders stoop, his walk is slower, there's less thrust in his jaw and his eyes look older, I think," she said. "He's just a great actor."

"At the third bow, at the end of Henry Fonda as Clarence Darrow," a monumental show, Fonda's eyes looked wet.

"I was so moved by his mood that I hesitated to go backstage," I said. "I was afraid he would be too emotional to want to see anybody."

"He'd have felt that you didn't like him, he'd have been hurt if you hadn't."

By LIBBY SHOTWELL
Executive Secretary ARC
Thanks to Earl Farley, Red Cross Multimedia First Aid Instructor who completed Multimedia First Aid Class last week at Pampa High School for the Adult Education group.

Those receiving their certificates were Mary Barton, Helen Churchman, J.W. Franks, Larry W. Gilbreath, Shirley Maynard, Wayne Maynard, Wayne Moxon, Robert E. Stubbs, Richard E. Sutton, W.D. Utzman and Ben White. All of these persons are eligible to become Multimedia F.A. Instructors if they complete that course.

Word has been received that there will be an Advanced FA Class held in Borger at the First Presbyterian Church with Charles Scott, FIA trainer, teaching the class on Feb. 25-28, at 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. if you have taken the Updated Standard Class, you are eligible to take this course. Another advanced class will be taught in Perryton March 26, 27, and 28 at 7 p.m. Venita Ruth Carter, WSI, assisted by Gayla Thomas, WSI, have completed an Advanced Beginner Swimming and Swimmer Class at the Youth Center Pool with the following receiving their certificates: Shelly Chase, Chris, Kevin and Calin O'Neal, Cleve Deason and Raymond Hill. Donna Riddle and Mark Alexander completed their Swimmer Class.

All of these boys and girls are eligible to wear their patches on their bathing suits. They can purchase their patches at the Red Cross Office for 25 cents.

Patrolman Randall Nichols, our new First Aid Instructor, is carrying a mobile unit in his car from the Gray County Chapter of the ARC.

Mrs. Oran D. Carter and John Skelly attended a disaster workshop in Amarillo Feb. 20. Jack Carsten, disaster representative from Fort Worth, was the speaker. Representatives from Childers, Hereford, Perryton, Amarillo and Pampa were present for this meeting.

The group learned the guidelines and procedures of the American Red Cross during a disaster. Since the tornado season is almost upon us, we feel that it is good for as many as possible to know about disaster.

Most chapters look to Greater Amarillo chapter to assist us in disasters and Carsten said that after notifying North West Texas Division — Fort (Fort Worth), the needed assistance from the National Organization would be sent to help us. Food stamps for disaster families furnished by the government and emergency needs would be given priority for families in need.

Skelly is looking for Volunteers who could be training to work in disaster. Anyone interested in this work should call the Red Cross office at 689-7121.

Postal Service Reveals 'Skylab Project' Stamp

Design of a stamp to commemorate the Skylab Project was announced Saturday by the U.S. Postal Service.

The 10-cent stamp will be issued May 14 at Houston. Skylab IV splashed down Feb. 8, after completing a record-breaking 84 days in orbit. The fourth and final Skylab orbited the Earth 1,214 times with a crew of three, collecting information destined to increase man's knowledge of his planet.

The stamp will be issued on the first anniversary of the Skylab I launch on May 14, 1973. That event thrust the United States into a new phase of the space age. Depicted on the stamp is the dramatic two-man space walk required to free a jammed solar panel during the Skylab II mission. The horizontal stamp was designed by Robert T. McCall of

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
Water, Inc., the West Texas organization dedicated to finding an import source to water for West Texas, held its annual meeting in Lubbock Feb. 16. John R. Spearman of Gray County and Felix W. Ryals of Carson County are directors of the organization. Gene Hanks of Pampa also attended.

Speakers for the morning session included General James M. Rose, Director of the Division of Planning Coordination, Office of the Governor; Senator H. J. Blanchard, Vice-Chairman of the West Texas Water Resources Study Council; Wayne Wyatt, Chief of the Ground Water Data Branch of the Texas Water Development Board; Dr. James Osborn, Assistant Dean of Agriculture, Texas Tech University; John C. White, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture; John C. Ball, Chief of the Planning Branch of the U.S. Corps of Engineers, Fort Worth District; and James Bradley, Regional Administrator, Bureau of Reclamation. The noon luncheon was addressed by Harvey Davis, Executive Director of the Texas Soil and Water Conservation Board.

The afternoon session of Water, Inc. was a Panel Discussion with Harvey Davis as moderator and the three West Texas Water District Managers, J. W. Buchanan, Frank Rayner and Felix W. Ryals as the panelists.

Today we are carrying a portion of the address by John C. Ball, Chief of the Planning Branch of the Fort Worth District Corps of Engineers.

Where Now?
"It gives me pleasure to be able to talk with the people of West Texas today. For I have felt from our first associations that you are a hardy breed who have not only supported yourselves, but you have been a major contributor to the welfare of the state and nation. The pioneer spirit which made Texas the great state it is, is alive and doing well in this part of the country. The entire nation should be grateful for your example.

"In view of the recommendations contained in the recent report by the National Water Commission, the new principles and standards for planning water and related land resources" as developed by the Water Resources Council, and the new 6 percent discount rate, the general theme of this meeting is to devise answers to the question, 'Where do we go from here?'

"Today, I would like to discuss what we in the Corps of Engineers believe will be the probable effect of certain recent events on our water resource development process. Specifically I want to discuss the impacts of the following items on our future project development: The new 'Principles and Standards,' the new 6 percent discount rate, environmental demands, energy resource demands, and the probable effect of the recommendations contained in the recent report by the National Water Commission.

"Due to the newly established principles and standards for water resource development in the Nation, there is a 'new look' in the approach of the Corps of Engineers to water projects. The new concepts could have a very significant impact on projects currently being studied and on authorized projects for which construction funds have not been allocated by the Congress. In the recent past, when talking about Corps of Engineers Water Development Projects, we used such terms as 'Flood Control,' 'Navigation,' 'Water Supply,' 'Recreation' and we talked about the Federal Government's leading role in water resource development. Currently, our vocabulary has expanded to include such words as 'Ecology,' 'Environmental Impact,' 'Flood Plain Management,' 'Urban Studies,' 'Waste Water Management Studies,' 'Cost-Sharing,' 'User Fees,' and, of course, 'Principles and Standards.' The new principles and standards were recently published in the Federal Register and exemplify the new trends which is toward less financial and policy-making involvement by the Federal Government and more participation by the states and local interests."

BARROW WINNER — Clint Coutts, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Coutts, Star Rt. 4, exhibited the second place Light Weight Poland China barrow recently at the Junior Market Barrow Show of the San Antonio Livestock Exposition. The barrow was shown by Coutt's brother Joe. Both do 4-H work under the supervision of Richard Guggisberg, Gray County Extension Agent.

Alfalfa Cuber Is Making Contribution To Hereford Area Livestock Feeding

By JUSTIN SCHARFF
This is the story of a man and his machine. The man is B.G. (Billy Gene) Cotten. This machine is an alfalfa cuber.

During the past few years the man and his machine have made an important contribution to the history of livestock feeding in and around Hereford. Feeding a family today, everyone admits, is a big problem. But Billy Gene Cotten has a bigger one — feeding approximately 50,000 head of cattle, none of which are his own.

B.G. Cotten's alfalfa cubing business is one of the largest and most successful of its kind in the Texas Panhandle. But that's only part of the story — the balance deals with Cotten's contribution to the feed lot operators near Hereford and the alfalfa growers in the surrounding area.

It's just a little over four years since Cotten was the owner-manager of a fishing resort in Oklahoma. A visiting cousin from Lovington, N.M., told him of his successful business venture: growing and shipping alfalfa cubes several hundred miles to Hereford, an area where Cotten had previously farmed and where, during recent years, feedlots have grown with jet-like speed. Cotten figured, and quite correctly, that transportation savings of up to eleven dollars per ton could be effected by growing and cubing alfalfa in the Hereford area — practically next door to the feedlots. That decision put Billy Gene Cotten in the alfalfa cubing business.

You get some idea of Cotten's overnight success from the following: he is currently operating four cubers representing an investment of $150,000; his annual sales approximate $750,000; his customers insist on paying him every two weeks (he's never had a delinquent account); a typical order is a season's contract for 10,000 tons; he's negotiating for the purchase of four additional cubers.

Cotten's future seems assured by company policy: "we like to feel that we're in partnership with both the feedlot owners and the growers. Our landed cost at the feedlots is actually from five to ten dollars less per ton than for imported cubes."

Cotten splits this differential between the feedlot owners and the alfalfa growers, the former buying Cotten's cubes at several dollars less than the imports and the farmers receiving more for their alfalfa than growers elsewhere.

Like other businessmen, Cotten has his share of headaches. "Our big worry," he says, "is maintaining quality traits in our cubes."

The traits Cotten refers to are basically agronomic which means they can be bred into a variety by his breeder. Cotten cautions farmers who grow alfalfa for cubing to "plant only those varieties possessing these traits."

Extreme leafiness is number one on Cotten's list. "A lack of leaves," he states, "is the worst offender in building quality cubes."

"Alfalfa leaves not only contain the protein demanded by feedlot operators," says Cotten, "but also produce a waxy substance that helps the leaves stick together. Fine stems contribute to quality; coarse stems lower it."

"Sparse foliage," Cotten continued, "induces ragged edges. These tend to crumble, encouraging moisture penetration which leads to mold, mildew and rotting."

"On the other hand, hard-surfaced, quality cubes can be stored up to a year and a half and even if rained upon suffer little damage.

"Alfalfa grown for cubing," Cotten explained, "should have a high degree of resistance to both insects and disease. Greenbugs are a real menace in this area. They reduce yield and quality and spraying them is costly."

Locating quality cubes is another problem. Accordingly, Cotten assists growers in producing top quality alfalfa and also recommends what he believes is the best cubing variety.

Billy Gene Cotten practices what he preaches. Currently he's growing several hundred acres of WL-306 which he considers "the top cubing variety for the Panhandle."

"For a number of years," Cotten relates, "we ran into serious problems with the older alfalfas due to lack of leaves, an excess of coarse stems and susceptibility to insects, mainly greenbugs. With this variety we don't have any of these problems. It's resistant to greenbugs, yet adjacent fields planted to older varieties are full of these pests."

"The average annual yield for common varieties," Cotten explained, "has been from 5 to 7 tons per acre. This year many of our growers who planted WL-306 will produce ten tons or more per acre which is almost double the local average. And it possesses all the necessary quality traits."

It seems that no matter how fast Billy Gene Cotten increases his cubing capacity it won't be fast enough. Says Robert Devin, assistant county agent for Deaf Smith County, "it would take an estimated 200,000 acres of alfalfa to meet the current demand posed by the feed lots in this county."

Thus, Billy Gene Cotten's future seems assured — as long as he maintains quality and increases production.

HONORS RECIPIENTS — John D. McCarroll, right, of Pampa, and Ronald L. Liedtke of Gainesville received honors this month during the American Dairy Science Association Southern Section meeting in Memphis, Tenn. McCarroll won 1st place in a technical paper presentation contest and Liedtke was elected president of the student division of the ADSA. Both are students at Texas A&M University.

Farm Parity at 94 Per Cent... Eight at or Above Parity... Texas Cattle Numbers Increase Again... Value Up, Too.

Farm Parity is inching again toward 100 per cent. The latest parity ratio from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service is now set at 94. In December, it was 89 per cent. Parity has been at 100 per cent during one brief period last year, the first time in almost 20 years.

So even though parity is going up, agriculture producers have a long way to go before reaching financial equality with the rest of the economy.

In Texas during December, eight commodities out of more than 200 which are produced in the state, were at or above parity. The all farm products index of prices received by Texas farmers as of January 15 was 10 per cent above the previous month and 50 per cent above a year earlier.

Only one category of livestock was above parity. That was sheep at $19.50 per hundredweight, or $6.20 above parity. Hogs at $38.90 were $1.40 under parity. Beef cattle at $45.60 were $1.90 under parity. Calves at $53.00 were $8.60 under parity. Lambs at $38.30 were $9.20 below parity.

Wheat at $5.19 per bushel was $1.50 above parity. Corn at $2.74 per bushel was 29 cents above parity. Oats $1.49 per bushel was 30 cents above parity. Grain Sorghum at $4.15 was two cents under parity.

Cotton at 58 cents per pound was eight cents under parity. Mohair at $2 per pound was 67 cents over parity. Wool at 90 cents per pound was 32 cents under parity.

Eggs at 66.2 cents per dozen were slightly above parity.

TEXAS cattle and calf numbers as of January 1 totaled 16,250,000 head. This is eight per cent above the previous level of 15,100,000.

Beef cow numbers at 6,470,000 is up four per cent from last year. Milk cow numbers at 350,000 is down three per cent.

The number of cattle on feed for January 1 was 2,205,000, down two per cent from last year's level.

Total inventory value of all cattle and calves on Texas farms and ranches as of January 1 totaled $4.6 billion; this is 31 per cent higher than a year ago.

The 1973 calf crop in Texas is estimated at 5,900,000 head, 10 per cent above the previous level.

Nationwide, the number of cattle and calves is up five per cent from a year earlier. It's the highest on record and is the seventh year of consecutive increase.

The 1973 calf crop nationwide is estimated at a record high of 49,000,000, up three per cent from a year ago.

Texas, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma rank in that order in the size of the 1973 calf crop among the 50 states. These four states accounted for more than a fourth of the total calves born in the nation.

"RECEIPTS of all livestock at auction markets inspected by the Texas Animal Health Commission totaled 9,400,000 head in 1973, compared to 9,100,000 head a year earlier.

Cattle and calf receipts were seven per cent above 1972. Sheep and lamb receipts were down eight per cent. Hogs were down 17 per cent. Goats were down 16 per cent from 1972 levels.

The 1973 outshipments of Texas cattle and calves shipped to other states totaled 3,700,000 head, down 10 per cent from the 1972 annual number.

Sheep and lamb outshipments totaled 602,000 head. This is up 23 per cent from a year earlier.

Grain Report Shocking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., believes an unpublished government report shows U.S. firms apparently did not reap excess profits from the 1972 Russian grain deal, but also shows they made "shocking profits" from related sales.

Melcher said he had obtained a copy of a General Accounting Office (GAO) investigation of the June 1972 sale of an estimated 500 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union and it showed the companies "probably did not make excessive margins on the Russian wheat itself."

"But there were unusual profits on non-Russian sales thanks to the Department of Agriculture subsidies to main-

4-H ACTIVITY
Don Morrison, chairman of the District 1 (22 Panhandle Counties) Adult Leaders Association, headed a delegation over the Panhandle that attended groundbreaking ceremonies for the State 4-H Center at Brownwood on Friday, Feb. 22.

We are very happy to have Don as the chairman of this organization. We are also proud of the fact that Don represents a County (Gray) that was number one in meeting its financial commitment to the State 4-H Center Building Program.

Some three years ago Gray County exceeded their goal by selling over $2,800 worth of candy for this project. Last spring and summer, Gray County contributed $5,400 to the State 4-H Center Fund.

Primarily this money was raised by wheat farmers through the donations of wheat. However, without solicitation, several local businessmen and individuals made contributions. This exceeded Gray County's goal of $4,500 by some $900.

Today Gray County is the only one in the 22 Panhandle Counties to have made their commitment to the State 4-H Center, and also one of the few in the State. So, you see, Gray County has something to crow about. Where else can you find better or more generous people!

GARDENING
We are having lots of calls about how to get rid of bermuda and other permanent grasses in the backyard. Apparently a lot of people are planning on a garden this summer. It is a very difficult thing to get rid of bermuda grass the same year you raise the garden.

Most people are chemical conscious. They are looking for a chemical so selective you can kill everything except more you are trying to grow. Unfortunately, most of our chemicals are not that selective. 2,4-D will kill most broadleaf plants but have little effect on grass.

Most chemicals that will kill grass also kill broadleaf or most garden plants. I have recommended spraying kerosene or diesel fuel in the past for killing out unwanted grasses. I've even used it to edge a lawn. This wouldn't be too popular an idea now with the fuel shortage.

Jack Mitchell, who lives at 2125 N. Faulkner, has an excellent idea that will work. He bought some inexpensive black plastic sheets and placed it over that area of his lawn he wanted to turn into a garden. He placed weights and a few spades of dirt to hold the plastic down. When Jack took the plastic off last fall, he said the roots were all dead.

If you use his idea be sure to use black plastic. Plants must have sunlight to live. A person might kill his grass out in less than one full season but I would think it would be better to leave the plastic on for one full growing season.

Blue grass, buffalo, and many of the other grasses can be plowed and a garden made the first year.

Recent figures indicate that three million American families took up gardening for the first time in 1973. The reason for the gardening boom is a matter of economics with many families. A very small garden plot can mean a $200 to $300 savings to an average American family.

Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist, Extension Service, says, "And no one can deny the improved flavor and freshness of a home grown vegetable, plus they are available when you want them."

Other factors pointed out by Cotner — "Gardening can also play an important role in the current energy crisis. Less trips to the supermarket. Gardening is a good form of recreation. Keeps the kids busy with a hoe instead of burning up gas on the drag. Gardening provides good, wholesome exercise in the outdoors."

I have always admired a person that gets out and jogs for their health, but I often think this human energy could be re-directed to more constructive tasks — like bending over and cutting off and turning on an outlet in an irrigation pipe after you had spanned a 5-foot strip of mud (one foot on dry ground, the other on the irrigation pipe). Excellent exercise to a constructive use.

Back to gardening — Cotner says, a 20 foot by 20 garden spot can produce plenty of vegetables for a family of four.

The energy crunch might be a blessing in disguise.

Americans have become too inter-dependent. One of five any well-thought-out plans if a disaster should strike. A garden would help to shake off some of this dependence on others.

Why did I get off one this... the wife was after me last week to plow the garden?

Fabric Fire Pact
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The textile industry has put flame retardancy research and development high on its list of priorities, but the consumer has the final responsibility for fires, according to the Textile Industry Product Safety Committee.

Laundrying flame retardant clothing in soap and non-phosphate detergents can create a film on fabric reducing the flame resistant characteristic, the Committee says. Flame retardant properties can be restored, however, by washing the garment in a phosphate detergent or a heavy-duty, citrate-based liquid laundry detergent, it adds.

If you make good grades at school

You're the one we want (especially if you plan to go to college)

We've noticed it. Our best carriers all seem to be above-average students. Perhaps it's because in the daily management of their routes, they apply the lessons they learn in the classroom. Like arithmetic in making change and in keeping a record of their profits. Or, maybe it's because newspaper route management is just one of those things a good student can do well. In any case, if your grades are A's and B's and you plan to go to college, we want to hear from you. We can show you how to build a savings account that can be a help when you get there. Why not get started today... by calling us. There may be a route available in your neighborhood.

Pan Am's Bruce King May Get Scoring Title

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI) — Skinny Bruce "Sky" King, a 6-2, 163-pound guard, has an outside chance at the National Collegiate Basketball scoring championship when Pan American University closes out its season Monday night against Georgia State.

King ranks No. 2 nationally with a 30.6 scoring average behind Larry Fogle of Capisus who is averaging 34.3 points. For King to take the title, he would have to equal Pan American's all-time high of 55 points — which he set earlier this season — and Fogle would have to fall to a 17.8 average in his final four games.

Another Pan American senior, Carlos "Tree" McCullough, also has a possible chance at the national rebounding championship in NCAA college basketball. The 6-7 McCullough is No. 2 in rebounding with a 16.3 average. He would have to break his court record of 27 rebounds and hope that Marvin Barnes of Providence, R.I., who is averaging 17.3 rebounds, decreased his output in his team's final games.

Pampa Netters Get By Hereford In Dual Meet

HEREFORD — Pampa's tennis team, behind seven wins by the boys team, defeated Hereford, 14-6, Saturday afternoon here.

"The boys played pretty well. They won all but two of their matches. And the top three girls — Martha (Plunk), Cindy (Burns) and JoAnn (McCauley) — played good matches," said tennis coach Alton Setliff.

AFTER 3 ROUNDS

Aaron, 2 Others Knotted In Gleason

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Masters champion Tommy Aaron and two "hungry" young Southerners who never have won a major tournament, tied for the third round lead at six-under-par 210

Saturday in the $200,000 Jackie Gleason Invitational Golf Classic. Roy Pace, a 32-year-old Texan firing the best golf of the day, first posted a five-under-par 67 for his 210, then was followed by Aaron with a 68 and Leonard Thompson, a husky North Carolinian who carded a 68.

Three other players tied for fourth place with 211s. They were Buddy Allin and Chi Chi Rodriguez, with third round 70s, and Hale Irwin with a 69.

Kermit Zarley, the second round leader, slipped to a one-over-par 73 to head a group of five tied at 212, two strokes off the pace. The others included defending champion Lee Trevino, who scrambled to an even par 72, Jim Wiechers with a 68, and Tom Jenkins and Miller Barber, both with 70s.

The sentimental favorite of the huge gallery, 61-year-old Sam Snead, bogeyed the 17th hole when he landed two traps. He finished with a 73-213 which tied him with a half-dozen others. At the end of the day, 23 golfers were within a four-shot range of the first prize of $52,000 in this, the richest 72-hole tournament in the U.S.

At one time Saturday, there were eight shotmakers tied for the lead, indicating a mad scramble over the 7,128-yard Inverrary course Sunday for the title.

Pace, a native of Longview, Tex., has won only the 1971 satellite Magnolia tournament for his biggest paycheck to date of $7,000 even though he is in his 10th year on the tour.

"I have started off playing well this year, and today everything seemed to fall in place," the slender pro said.

He did not have to sink a putt longer than 10 feet to pick up five birdies in his round which included 13 pars and, surprisingly, no bogeys.

Aaron, who hasn't been close to victory since winning the 1973 Masters, appeared to be celebrating his 37th birthday which was Friday. He sank putts of 15 and 20 feet to collect two of his four birdies and played flawless golf until the final three holes when he scrambled to make his pars.

The 27-year-old Thompson has never won a tournament even though he collected more than $93,000 on the tour last year. He is now in his fourth year.

Thompson played erratically Saturday, collecting a double bogey six on the fourth hole and two bogeys on the back nine to go along with seven birdies.

The television audience could see the husky Southerner muttering to himself as he made his shots on the incoming

Pampa Captures At Plainview

PLAINVIEW — Pampa, paced by Noel Hansen in the 800, Steve Mathis in the 440 and its mile relay team, finished sixth in the nine-team Plainview Invitational Track Meet, the Harvesters' first competition of the season, Saturday at Wayland Bowl.

Lubbock Monterey won the meet, dethroning defending champion Hereford. Monterey finished with 96 points to beat second place Amarillo High (79) by 17. The Plainmen won the long jump, high jump, 440 and mile, and placed second in the shot put and mile.

Borger finished third with 57 points, followed by Lubbock Coronado with 55, Canyon with 52 and Pampa with 49. Coronado took second place last year.

Hansen gave the Harvesters their only first place, winning the 800 with 2:03.3. Roy Prado of Lubbock High won second with 2:03.4 and Mark Johnson of Monterey finished third with 2:04.7. The 800 was one of the closest events in the meet.

Mathis finished second in the 440 with a time of 52.8. Lane McNamara of Monterey won the event with 52.7 and Ron Ford of Amarillo took third with 53.7.

Pampa's mile-relay team of Rick Leverich, Hansen, Mathis and Howie Lewis captured second with 3:39.7, behind Lubbock with 3:38.2. The Harvesters finished ahead of Monterey which had 3:39.9.

The Harvesters' next meet will be Pampa's Top O' Texas Invitational Saturday.

Canyon Takes State 3A Title

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Robena Johnson hit 15 of 23 shots Saturday to pace Canyon to a 65-41 rout of Conroe for the Girls 3A state basketball championship.

The 24 point margin was the largest in a 3A finals game. Alisha Nelson had 19 points for Canyon, while Amy Edwards was top scorer for Conroe with 17 followed by Jackie Scott with 16.

In 2A finals, Slaton's tenacious defense kept a tight grip on Comanche to beat the Maidens 51-45.

The Tigarettes, who led throughout the contest, blazed to a 29-23 halftime lead. Slaton increased its lead to 35-25 with two minutes remaining in the third quarter.

However, the Maidens fought back to drop Slaton's lead to 37-33 at the end of three quarters.

Jan Davis led Slaton with 24 points and Linda Andrews led Comanche with 19.

The Grandview Zebras raced to an 8-0 opening quarter lead, which they never relinquished, as they dumper Shiner 52-34 for the conference A championship title.

An aggressive Shiner defense limited Grandview to a 21-20 halftime lead. Sarah Williams, who had averaged 37 points a game for the Zebras before the title game, was limited to only seven points in the first half.

Newcombe Gains Finals

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — John Newcombe, the top seed, rolled with ease into the finals of the $50,000 World Championship Tennis tournament here Saturday with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Brian Fairlie of New Zealand.

In the other semifinal second-seeded Russian Alex Metreveli faced fifth-seeded Stan Smith in an evening match.

Fairlie, unseeded, threw his chunky body into an all-out attack in the first set, holding his service the first three times and at love in the first and third. He reached his highwater mark by breaking Newcombe in the sixth game with a fine forehand passing shot as the 29-year-old Newcombe was caught flatfooted at the net.

Newcombe, who has yet to drop a set in this tournament or in his other WCT event in St. Petersburg two weeks ago, promptly broke back as an over-eager Fairlie made two grievous volleying errors at the net. Newcombe then held service and then smashed Fairlie, breaking him in the ninth game at love. The Australian then served out the set. Newcombe finished off Fairlie in the second set, getting the only break he needed in the seventh game. He had Fairlie at 15-40 and then was wide with a forehand. He dropped his racket and shouted "Oh, oh, it was just too easy," then followed with a great backhand shot which led to the necessary break.

Newcombe, the Forest Hills champion who also spearheaded the Australians' 5-0 rout of the U.S. Davis Cup team in Cleveland in November and December, seemed headed for the showdown match with Smith, who has been playing erratically but was still slightly favored over Metreveli.

Terrell Leads Mustangs Past Texas Christian

DALLAS (UPI) — Ira Terrell led a Southern Methodist surge at the opening of the second half Saturday that carried the Mustangs to a 96-60 win over Texas Christian and kept them in the midst of the Southwest Conference race.

It was the sixth straight win for SMU and boosted its league record to 8-4. It was the 10th conference loss for the Horned Frogs against only two wins.

TCU battled the Mustangs evenly in the opening half on the inside work of Wayne Wayman and the Horned Frogs managed a 36-36 halftime deadlock.

Poolville Wins Girls Basketball State B Title

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Poolville Monarchs overcame a five point deficit late in the third quarter Saturday to defeat the Klondike Cougars 60-54 for the Conference B Girls Basketball Championship title.

Poolville squeezed out a 33-32 halftime lead behind the shooting of Norma Jo Stevens, who topped her teammates with 34 points.

Women, Men Can Take Off Pounds At YC

Pampa men and women interested in physical fitness and improving health can work out any or all of five days a week during their lunch hour.

The Pampa Youth and Community Center, 1006 W. Harvester, is open, according to director George Smith, weekdays from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., an ideal situation for business men and women interested in taking off pounds instead of eating lunch.

The Center has seven areas of participation for those interested — volleyball, basketball, trampolines, pool, ping pong, jogging and general exercise. Smith is also awaiting suggestions concerning other areas of fitness.

Tulsa Drops North Texas

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Willie Biles scored 26 points Saturday afternoon to lead Tulsa to an 87-75 victory over North Texas State and claim the individual scoring lead in the Missouri Valley Conference.

The 26 points, also good for game honors, gave Biles 250 points in MoVal action this season for a 21.6 per game average. Going into the contest, Biles was trailing North Texas Bobby Iverson by .04 point per game. Iverson was held to 16 points Saturday, inuding a dismal two-point first halfshowing.

The Hurricane took an early 10-2 lead and added to it throughout the game, reaching a 23-point bulge midway through the second half. Tulsa is now 16-8 for the season and 6-6 in conference play. North Texas State, led Saturday by Stan Blackman with 22 points, is 12-12 overall and 3-7 in the Valley.

That's it for now, look for you next week.

Staubach Expects Best Years To Come, Hoping Landry Seeing It That Way Too

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Staubach expects to see eye-to-eye with Tom Landry on one major point this fall. He thinks he's finally established himself as the Dallas Cowboys' No. 1 quarterback. No ifs, ands or buts about it. Even though the Cowboys were beaten in the NFC title game by the Vikings ("I've replayed that loss in my mind a hundred times"), Staubach thinks Landry has no other choice but to hand him the No. 1 job this summer. Staubach feels he's proved he deserves the job on a full-time basis. Last year was the first time he held the job on from start to finish and he was No. 1 in the NFL passing stats. Staubach also was No. 1 in passing when in 1971 when he won the job from Craig Morton in mid-season. In 1972, he was injured in the exhibition season and sat out most of the year. He thinks his best years are still to come. "A quarterback's best years are from 32 to 37. I don't think I've played my best years yet. I'm just 32 and I'm still maturing. I'm still getting the experience." However, Landry picks the quarterback, not Staubach. And Staubach hasn't always seen eye-to-eye in the past with Landry on his methods. When he worked himself into shape late in the 1972 season after injuring his shoulder before it started, he was stunned by Landry's reaction. Just before he came off the bench to lead the Cowboys to the dramatic playoff triumph over San Francisco, he told Dallas writer Steve Perkins, "Landry never said a word to me, not a 'glad your back' or anything. Sure, I've got to take care of the physical side of it so I worked hard. But what about mentally. Let me tell you, it hurt mentally." Now that's he No. 1 again. Staubach is cautious about repeating those sentiments. "When you're not playing it's difficult. Pro football is a tough racket and when you're not playing, you're not valuable. The coaches have a job to do and they're concerned with the guys who can play. I'm not saying it's right but that's the way it is. Landry doesn't make you feel at ease in that kind of situation. He might do a better PR job with his players." But Staubach, who's never been a controversial player and likes to guard his image, is quick to make sure it doesn't sound as if he's rapping Landry. "Landry is a great coach, he's probably underrated as a coach. Results are what counts and you can't knock the results he's gotten," Staubach adds.

her down to Dallas and since my wife's a nurse, she cared for her. She died just before our last regular season game." Dallas went on to win its first playoff game before being beaten by the Vikings in the NFC title game—with Bobby Bryant picking off a Staubach pass in the second half and returning it for a touchdown to wrap up the contest. "I was shocked. I've never had an important interception run back for a touchdown. It never happened in college and it happened in the pros only when we were way ahead," Staubach said. "Bryant didn't have any deep help but he just hung there. He was keying me." Staubach notes it's the second straight year he's been the loser in the NFC title game after leading the Cowboys to victory in Super Bowl V. "I can't afford another loss of I'll get tabbed," he said. Staubach figures things will be different in 1974. "We're capable of having the best offense we've ever had. But you've got to prove it on the field. Pro football is a thinking man's game and I still do a lot of dumb things. I've got to be automatic out there. Sometimes, I'm thinking too much." Staubach wants to think less and win more this season.

AAU Marred With Pullouts, Arguing, Injuries, Bad News

NEW YORK (UPI) — Defections, injuries, controversy — the 80th AAU Indoor Track and Field Championships had all of those — and not much more — Friday night as the Soviet Union will find out next week. Oh yes, little Mary Decker, the 15-year old pony-tailed whirlwind, gave the crowd plenty to cheer about with her hard-fought 800 win over Canada's Abby Hoffman. And the foreigners who did bother to show up — notably New Zealanders John Walker and Dick Taylor — didn't disappoint. But the real story was seemingly an unending series of embarrassments that have plagued the AAU all week long. First there was the pullout of world record breaking miler Filbert Bayi and Tony Waldrop. Then there was the dispute with the Pacific Coast Track Club over travel expenses which cost the championships the services of world record holders Dwight Stones in the high jump, George Woods in the shot put and woman miler Francie Larrieu. Once the meet got underway, the controversy continued when, because of a failure to supply enough sand for the long jump-triple jump pit, a pile of dirt, usually saved for the rodeo, had to be imported and wouldn't you know it, that resulted almost immediately in ankle injuries to the defending champions — Randy Williams in the long jump and John Craft in the triple jump. So, instead of providing an

So, instead of providing an sager, competitive team to go up against the Russians in Moscow next weekend, the AAU found itself left with a lot of dissidents and an equally unwanted amount of bad news. Said Herb Washington, who won the 60-yard dash in his customary fashion for the short sprints: "I'm not going to Russia. Year in and year out, we lay out the red carpet for them over here and still they're guilty of bad manners and adverse conditions. I don't need those problems." Rick Wohlhuter, who won the 1,000 yard run after his Russian rival Yevgeniy Arzhanov pulled out in a huff after having to run the heats, also said he would not be going to Moscow. "I'm employed with a health insurance company," said Wohlhuter, who outkicked Jamaican Byron Dye in 2:06.8. "and this is a time of year when a lot of people are getting sick." Happily for the AAU, Miss Decker, who brought the crowd to its feet for one of the few times all night when she held off a late bid by Miss Hoffman, will be among the U.S. contingent going to Russia. "Yes, I'll be going," she said.

'74-75 STARTERS UNDECIDED

Harvester Cagers To Begin Spring Workouts Tomorrow

The Pampa Harvester basketball team, which now is made up of last season's juniors and sophomores, begins its off-season program Monday afternoon. "We'll work out for an hour a day, mostly on fundamentals and getting our B-team kids accustomed to playing with the kids on the varsity. I don't even know who the first starter will be (for next year), we start building our ball club now," said Harvester coach Robert McPherson. "We'll have a good ball club. No one expected us to be that good last season. This club (last season's team) did an outstanding job. "We had a lot of question marks prior to the season but we won't have that many question marks this season," said McPherson. Pampa finished 23-8 last season, falling to Borger in the district finale for both teams. 63-57, Tuesday. "Any time you go 23-8, it is one of your better teams," said McPherson, comparing the Harvesters to other teams he has coached. "They had a real fine season. The kids played as well as they possibly could have played. They had a super attitude. Every Harvester we had gave us a good effort; it was one of the hardest working bunches we've had here," said McPherson. "We played good early (against Borger), but we started losing our composure in the second quarter. Howie (Lewis) had a great ball game and Ray Powell had a real fine ball game."

Staubach, who was in town recently to promote his Aurora football game, also would like to call his own plays but he doesn't knock Landry for taking over the play-calling chores late last season. Staubach found it difficult to concentrate because of a family tragedy. "We learned my mother had terminal cancer in July. I played the whole season knowing she was suffering. I tried to concentrate but I found my mind wandering. I didn't have fire in my eye at practice but on the game days, I'd really psyche myself up and I played every game for her. She had a strong faith and was more worried about us. We brought

Parks And Wildlife News

By J.D. PEER
If studies were conducted to determine the effect of the sunlight intensity and duration on humans, it is certain there would be a connection with fishing, boating and swimming activities. With longer days and warmer weather, the Texas Parks and Wildlife offices scattered across Texas are receiving an increasing number of phone calls from people wanting to know where to go fishing, how to register a new boat or what are the lake regulations on J.B. Thomas or Meredith. Even in the Panhandle and the South Plains, where water is sometimes hard to find, it is not surprising to learn that the sale and operation of boats is a major business. Normally, the first person a prospective boat buyer contacts is the boat dealer. It is soon apparent that there is more to selecting a watercraft than was first thought. Most boaters want a multipurpose craft. This would include: fishing, skiing, camping or just cruising. Sometimes, only a fishing craft is sought and even in this class of boat a new buyer is overwhelmed. Some tips on buying a new or used boat would include: reading all the material pertaining to the class of boat you want, going to a reputable boat dealer and listening to what he has to say and checking around your neighborhood — a friend might want a bigger boat and would consider selling his boat to you for a good price. After you have decided on that boat you always wanted, what happens then. There are certain laws a buyer, as well as a seller, must follow. First, the seller must execute a bill of sale and give to the purchaser. Then, the seller must prepare a notice of sale and mail this notice to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department within 15 days from date of sale.

Boat dealers are exempt from the 15-day notice to Austin. Now, the seller has completed his requirements, and the buyer is required to complete a transfer of ownership application and mail this application, bill of sale from seller, and a fee of $1 to the Austin office within 15 days from date of purchase. This transfer application can also be used as a bill of sale. Transfer forms may be obtained at any Texas Parks and Wildlife office. There are many details that the new owner should check, and a very handy pamphlet put out by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is "A Digest of the Texas Water Safety Act." This pamphlet covers all facets of the boating requirements. When you come into a district office, there is certain information the secretary will need to register your boat. This includes: length of the boat, make, type of propulsion of your new boat, the hull material and the hull identification number. While you are in the Texas Parks and Wildlife office, why not pick up your free copy of the "Texas Skipper's Course." This is a home study course going into detail about safe boating and requirements. For further information about boats, boating, or fishing, call the Texas Parks and Wildlife office or contact the game warden in your area. The Amarillo District Office is located at 3802 S. Bowie. The Lubbock District Office is at 4821 Avenue Q. In Abilene, stop by the district office at 279 N. Willis.

Bank, Borger Win Games In ToT Tourney

Citizen's Bank and Borger Blue will advance to the semifinals of the annual Top O' Texas Basketball Tournament, which is being held at the Pampa Youth and Community Center. Citizen's Bank belted Celanese, 86-58, Thursday as James Griffin poured in 24 points. Keith Samples matched that total for the losers who later played in the consolation bracket Thursday. Borger Blue downed the Pampa X's in the first round, 82-72, behind Charles Ray's 16 points. Jim Best scored 28 for the losers. In other games Thursday, Pampa Rotary stopped Celanese in consolation, 60-37, and Pampa X's beat First Baptist, 54-47. Herbert Wilson scored 28 to lead Pampa Rotary, while Bobby Weese tallied 12 for Celanese. High for Pampa X's was Rick Beasley with 14 points and Mike Brannham had 13 for the Baptists. Semifinals will be played Monday. First National Bank and Citizen's Bank will square off at 7 p.m. and Borger Blue and Spearman will meet at 8:30 p.m. Consolation finals will be played at 8 p.m. Wednesday as Pampa Rotary and Pampa X's tangle.

QUEEN CANDIDATE — Ann Vincent, Lefors senior, has been nominated for Queen in the High School Queen Contest, a highlight of the Golden Spread All-Star Girls basketball game, in which she will play. The 5-3 Miss Vincent averaged approximately 13 points a game last season for Lefors.

New York Wants 1980 Summer Olympic Rights

NEW YORK (UPI) — The day was supposed to belong to Lord Killanin, a bluff, pipe-smoking Irish nobleman, but the City of Los Angeles stole his thunder Friday with the announcement it would challenge Moscow for the right to host the 1980 Summer Olympic Games. Killanin was paying his first official visit to New York since succeeding Chicago's Avery Brundage as President of the International Olympic Committee at the conclusion of the 1972 Munich Games. The news was broken by Philip O. Krumm, President of the United States Olympic Committee, who interrupted an address by Killanin to make the announcement. At the same time Krumm announced Lake Placid, N.Y., the only resort in the North America with a bobsled run, would bid against Vancouver, Canada, and Chamonix, France, for the Winter Games of 1980. Signed bids must reach the IOC's headquarters at Lausanne, Switzerland, by March 31. The vote will take place at the Congress in Vienna, Austria, later this year after each city has presented its case and satisfied members it has the ability to carry out the job. Los Angeles, the 1932 host, and Moscow were defeated by Montreal for the 76 Summer Games when the vote was held in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, four years ago. Moscow staged a successful World University Games last summer and has all the necessary stadia already built.

Area HS Girls Competing For Queen Honors

AMARILLO — The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce is accepting nominations for the High School Queen Contest, a highlight of the fourth annual Golden Spread All-Star Girls basketball game March 16 in the Amarillo Civic Center. The high school game is held in conjunction with the annual National Women's Invitational Tournament (NWIT) March 14-16 at the Civic Center. Eight of the best women's college teams in the country will participate in that tournament. High school girls interested in the queen contest need to be seniors and members of their schools' basketball teams. Contestants will be judged on the basis of a picture and biographical information submitted. The queen and her court will be presented during halftime of the high school all-star game. Also, the 10 finalists will appear on Royce Bodford's Farm and Home Show March 9 on KGNC-TV.

Dogs Win 8th Straight Conference Indoor Title

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Lansing Homan won three events to pace Drake to its eighth straight team title in the Missouri Valley Conference indoor track meet Friday night. Drake won six of the 16 events to compile 87 points to 61 for runnerup North Texas State and 56 for third place Wichita State. West Texas State was fourth with 40 points, followed by Bradley with 10 and Louisville 2. These were the only MVC teams entered in the one-day meet. Holman defended his 440-yard title by winning the event in 51.0 seconds. He also won the 300-yard sprint in 32.4 and the 50-yard dash in 5.4. West Texas State's Carl Brown successfully defended his titles in the 50-yard high hurdles and the 50-yard intermediate hurdles. He won the highs in a meet record-tying time of 6.1, and the intermediates in a record-breaking 5.9. The old record for the intermediates was 6.0. Other event winners for Drake were Larry Mendenhall with a 1:58.1 in the 800-yard run, Steve Cady with a leap of 23-6 1/4 in the long jump, and Chris Van Aulen with a 6-6 effort in the high jump. Cady also won the meet's long jump in 1973 and 1972.

Jordan Given Athlete Award

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboy linebacker Lee Roy Jordan was honored by the Texas Sportswriters Association Friday as professional athlete of the year in Texas. Also receiving awards were Texas Longhorn fullback Roosevelt Leaks, amateur athlete of the year; North Texas football coach Hayden Fry, college fall coach of the year; Longhorn track coach Cleburne Price, college spring coach of the year; Sam Houston basketball coach Archie Porter, college winter coach of the year; and Houston Aeros coach Bill Dinnen, pro coach of the year. Heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman was named southwesterner of the year and Minnesota Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton was given the Field Scovell award.

Now Is Time To Take Precautions Against Tornado Season

1973 was the "Year of the Tornado." A record high number of 1107 of the deadly twisters scourged the U.S. landscape last year.

Will 1974 be similar? It's too early to say, but it's time to take precautions.

On this note, the National Weather Service today launched "Skywarn '74," its annual campaign to prevent loss of life from tornadoes. Each year, the Weather Service — a component of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration — launches "Skywarn" before the peak of the tornado season to encourage community leaders to prepare for the violent whirlwinds. Among recommendations are to fill out ranks of volunteer storm spotters and to remind people of ways to shield themselves against tornadoes. Because tornadoes are so erratic and sudden in onset, the best way to deal with them is preparedness — a well-rehearsed plan for quick action when a tornado has been reported bearing down. "There is no question that such plans save lives," says Weather Service Director George P. Cressman. For proof of this he points to a persistent drop in the average number of tornado fatalities reported annually during the past three decades, compared to the steady rise in U.S. population and the long-range increase in tornadoes reported. A few statistics tell the story:

In the decade of the 1940's, an average of 179 persons died in tornadoes each year. In the 1950's, when the present tornado forecasting and reporting system was established, the annual average dropped to 141 fatalities, and, in the sixties, as the preparedness program spread, to 94 fatalities. During this same 30-year period, U.S. population grew by more than 50 percent — from 130 million to 200 million. The annual average number of tornadoes reported rose from 155 in the forties, to 479 in the fifties, to 661 in the sixties. Part of the latter rise is due to a better system of reporting, of course, but part also is surely due to increased exposure of people to tornadoes — in places where before there was no one to see them.

The trend is continuing into the seventies. In 1970 there were 652 tornadoes and 72 tornado deaths; in 1971, 800 tornadoes and 156 deaths; in 1972, 741 tornadoes and 27 deaths; and in 1973, 1107 tornadoes and 87 deaths.

If the trend of the seventies continues, the average for the decade will be somewhere around 1,000 tornadoes a year accompanied by fewer than 90 tornado fatalities.

A lot depends on whether the nation as a whole keeps its guard up. A quick look at what happened last year should supply all the incentive needed. Wrote Allen Pearson, Director of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center, and his Deputy Fred Ostby, in a year-end review:

"The 1973 tornado season can only be described by the liberal use of superlatives. It had the most, lasted the longest, involved more states and produced more super tornadoes than any year since tornado records began.

"In addition to the record of 1107 tornadoes for the nation as a whole, there were 11 states which also had record numbers — Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Kentucky, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio and Tennessee. Only four states reported no tornadoes at all — Alaska, Rhode Island, Utah and Washington.

"The increase in North Carolina was particularly dramatic. In the past 50 years North Carolina had never reported more than 7 tornadoes in any one month. In May it had 32. And then there was Indiana — it had 30 tornadoes in the month of June, alone, and 48 for the year, compared to a long-term average of 22.

"While admittedly the reporting networks are superior to those of years past, the total of 94 tornadoes reported from May 26 to 28 equaled the number of tornadoes reported during the ENTIRE YEAR of 1931.

"It was also a year with scores of long-lived tornadoes, the most notable being the twister that left a track 158 miles long from north-central Kansas into Nebraska on Sept. 25, and the 135-mile-long track in central Alabama May 27. These two storms were among the most violent on record.

"Total property damage from tornadoes during 1973 amounted to more than half a billion dollars.

"Whether or not a trend of more and bigger tornadoes is developing no one can say, but last year's widespread outbreaks underscore the fact that almost no one in the U.S. should feel 'It can't happen here.'"

Most tornadoes occur in the South or in the broad, flat basin of the Mississippi and its tributaries, but no state is immune. Peak months, nationwide, are April, May and June, but tornadoes can occur at any time of the year.

Southern states are hardest hit in winter and early spring; northern states in spring and summer. A typical time of occurrence is a warm, sultry afternoon between 4 and 6 p.m., but tornadoes have occurred at all hours of day and night.

Tornadoes frequently travel southwest to northeast. Statistically, they average about 10 minutes on the ground, leaving a path an eighth of a mile wide by two to five miles long. Forward speed averages about 30 miles an hour. Windspeeds in the funnel have been estimated at up to 300 miles an hour, although they usually are considerably less than that.

In open country, if there is not time to find suitable shelter, lie face down in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine, and protect your head with your arms.

"The Battle of the Wabash," a popular song in 1811, was written to the tune of "To Anacreon in Heaven," the same melody which became "The Star Spangled Banner."

Houses literally explode. Then the wind scatters the debris like shrapnel.

Weather Service officials point out that despite radar, satellites, and other sophisticated instruments, forecasters must depend on a vast number of volunteer observers to make the "Skywarn" alerting system work. The human eye is still the only reliable means of detecting tornadoes.

The alerting system has two phases: a tornado watch to tell you that atmospheric conditions are ripe for tornadoes to form, and a tornado warning, to tell you that a tornado actually has been spotted or indicated by radar.

Most sightings of the ominous: funnel-shaped clouds are made by volunteer spotters, who pass the word to official warning centers. This vital work is performed by thousands of public-spirited citizens organized into spotter networks. One aspect of "Skywarn" is to recruit and train more spotters where needed.

The Weather Service urges officials in schools, hospitals, factories, and large apartment complexes to develop special preparedness plans. A booklet telling how to set up an effective program is available to community and other leaders.

Send requests to the Public Affairs Office, National Weather Service, 8060 23rd Street, Silver Spring, Md. 20910. Ask for "Tornado Preparedness Planning" and identify the position you hold.

Here are some tornado safety rules which could spell the difference between life and death to anyone — anywhere.

TORNADO SAFETY RULES
WHEN A TORNADO APPROACHES, IMMEDIATE ACTION MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE!

A tornado watch means weather conditions are ripe for tornadoes to develop. Stay tuned to radio or television and listen for weather bulletins, even if the sky overhead is blue.

A storm may appear suddenly. Occasionally scan the horizon for the approach of dark, threatening clouds. There may not be time for an official tornado warning.

Stay alert for the abrupt onset of violent wind, rain, hail or a funnel-shaped cloud. Listen for a sudden increase in wind noise. When in doubt, take cover. Tornadoes are often obscured by rain or dust. Some occur at night.

A tornado warning means a tornado actually has been sighted or indicated by radar. If the twister is nearby, seek inside shelter immediately, preferably in a storm cellar, underground excavation, or steel-framed or concrete-reinforced building. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS!

In office buildings, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor, or to a designated shelter area.

In factories, workers should move quickly to the section of the plant offering greatest protection, in accordance with advance plans.

In homes, the basement offers the greatest safety. Seek shelter under heavy furniture if possible. In homes without basements, take cover in the center part of the house on the lowest floor, in a small room such as a closet or bathroom, or under sturdy furniture. Keep some windows open, but stay away from them!

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to destructive winds. Proper tie-downs to prevent overturning will minimize damage. A warden should be appointed in mobile-home parks to scan the skies and listen to radio and television for warnings.

There should be a designated community shelter where residents can assemble during a tornado warning. If there is no such shelter, do not stay in a mobile home when a tornado is approaching. Seek refuge in a sturdy building or as a last resort, in a ditch, culvert or ravine.

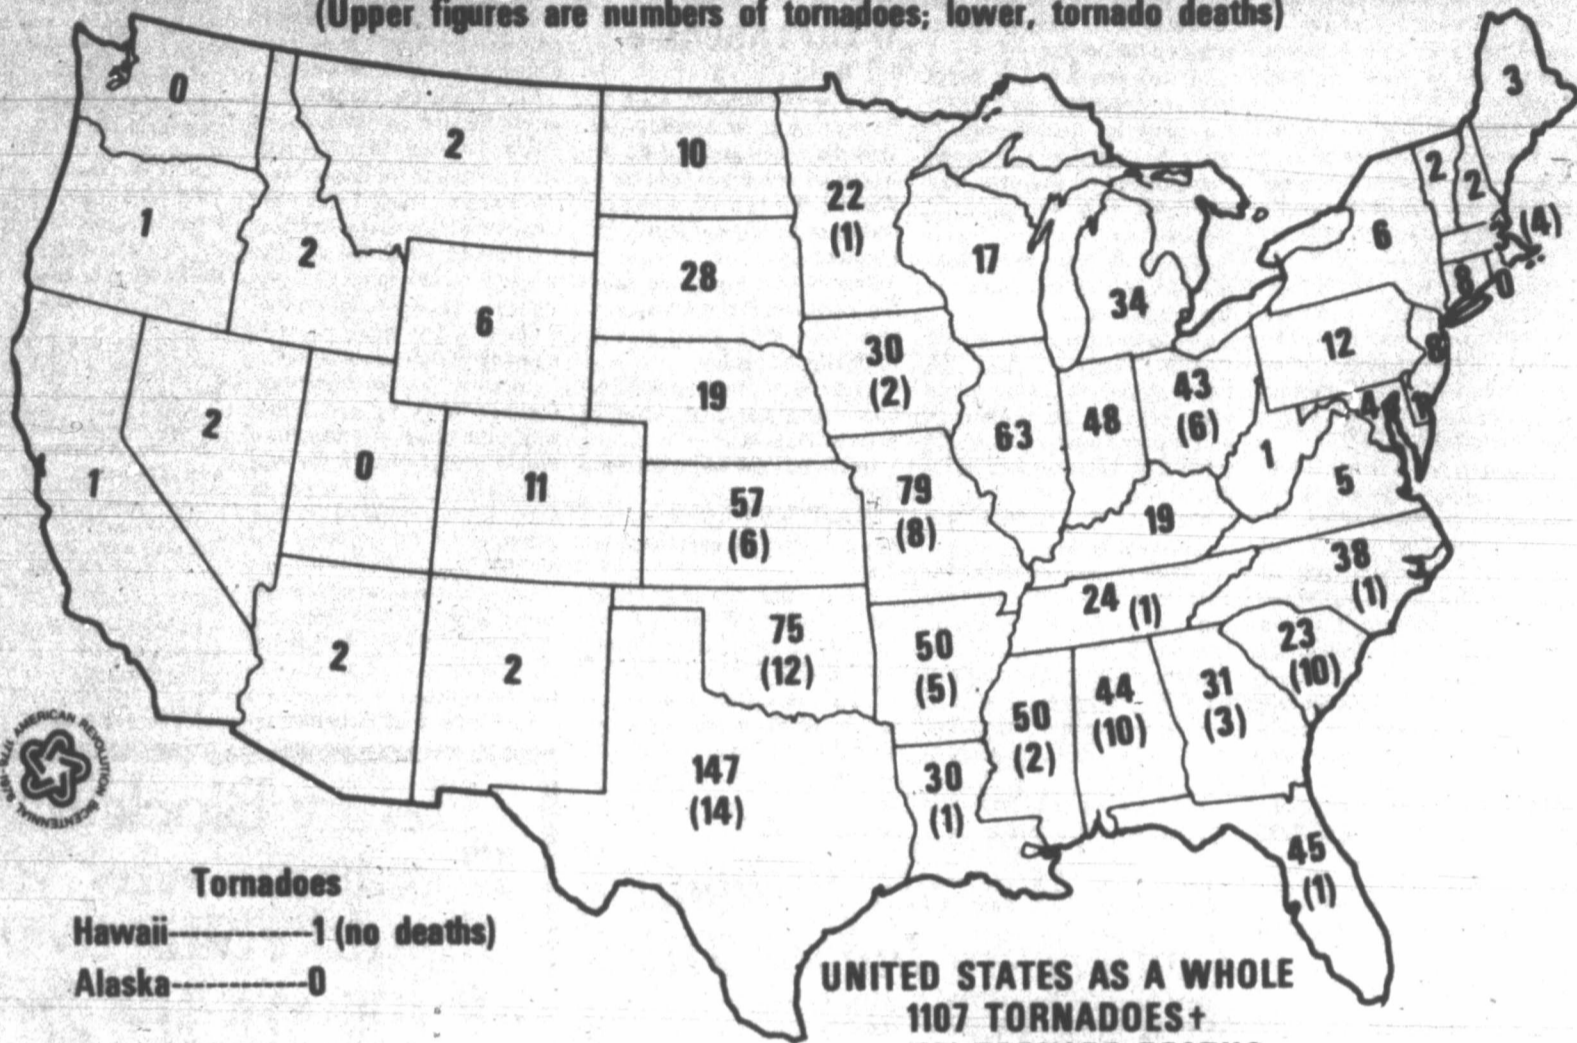

In schools, wherever possible, follow advance plans to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums or other structures with wide free-span roofs. If a building is not of reinforced construction, go quickly to a nearby reinforced building, or to a ravine or open ditch and lie flat.

In open country, if there is not time to find suitable shelter, lie face down in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine, and protect your head with your arms.

"The Battle of the Wabash," a popular song in 1811, was written to the tune of "To Anacreon in Heaven," the same melody which became "The Star Spangled Banner."

1107 TORNADOES IN 1973 — A NEW ALL-TIME RECORD*

(Upper figures are numbers of tornadoes; lower, tornado deaths)

*Previous high for tornadoes was 929, set in 1967; high for tornado deaths, 794, was set in 1925. Figures for 1973 are preliminary, and may change slightly when the final tally is made.

†State-by-state totals add to 1111 tornadoes, because four tornadoes crossed state borders.

Movie Office Set Up
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — For movie producers considering making New York State the backdrop for their next pictures, the State Commerce Department has set up an office to coordinate such projects.

The Division of Public Information in the department helps commercial film makers identify and make use of appropriate filming locations, including such areas as parklands, forest preserves and historic sites.

Variety of Pasta
ROME (UPI) — Italian pasta comes in more than 120 shapes and sizes, each with its own name, and Italians want things to stay that way. A pasta maker's spokesman said a market survey a few years ago showed housewives were overwhelmingly against a suggestion to reduce the variety of pasta to six or eight types. "Everyone chooses sizes as if it were a vital matter," he said.

Holiday Declared
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Argentine government has declared the third Wednesday of December the Cinema Exhibition Workers Day, to be celebrated annually. All movie theaters will be closed for one day while projectionists and other theater employes take a paid holiday.

WORRY CLINIC

John Cadle adopted the same hobby as did Grandma Moses! Which is doubly surprising, since he runs a 1,000-acre farm. His donated painting for a rural church is so realistic that parishioners imagine their baptismal pool is fed by a mountain brook!

CASE Z-560: John Cadle, aged about 60, is a remarkable farmer.

We dined together at Sunday dinner after I had spoken from a Methodist pulpit in Rossville, Illinois.

Our former neighbors, Earl and Helen Bush, who lived just a block from our home here in Chicago, had retired to Rossville, so they arranged for me to speak there.

Afterwards, they had the dinner party, following which they took us out to the rural Antioch Church of Christ.

It is located in a country grove, with no village or houses near, except for the parsonage.

Since this church baptizes by immersion, it had a glassed-in pool directly behind the center of the pulpit.

But John Cadle had made a truly beautiful painting of snow-capped mountains behind the baptismal pool.

Tumbling down those mountains came a bubbling brook, which appeared to pour directly into the baptismal pool.

The effect was so realistic that people in the pews would have thought it was an actual stream.

John Cadle had spent half a day painting this unique backdrop.

For he is not only a consummate artist but a swift one, too.

Later, we drove over to his ancestral home in the middle of a 1,000-acre prairie farm.

At the gate, he has another pastoral painting, half as large as a billboard.

On the barn, is also an excellent rural scene, even larger.

And in the house he has oil paintings galore, for he is especially skillful in depicting animals and rural scenes.

"Dr. Crane," he added, "instead of canvas, I use the back side of plywood, which gives much the same effect."

John Cadle adopted oil painting just as a hobby.

His teacher is Nature itself, for he tries to make his scenes so realistic that they startle the viewer by their verisimilitude.

Here in Chicago a number of my medical friends have also adopted painting as their hobby.

Indeed, painting and sculpturing are favorite pastimes for surgeons, both medical and dental.

"Dr. Crane, why is that?" many have asked me. Maybe it is a revulsion from realism to idealism.

For when doctors have spent their entire week dealing with diseased organs or teeth, mutilated auto wreck victims and venereal patients, perhaps the pendulum swings to the other extreme.

Descartes said that God implants a few "Divine Sparks" in every baby's brain at the time of birth.

And those "Sparks" make intelligent people crave music and art, poetry and religious idealism, purity and true love.

That's why puzzled, tearful coeds wonder why their campus boy friends desert them (after they've lived together illicitly); to wed other girls who resolutely have stood for ethical principles and a wedding ceremony!

Inherent in the normal human soul is a desire for beauty and goodness.

God must prefer it, too, else why would he have surrounded us with colorful flowers and foliage, blue skies, green grass and the songs of birds?

Even the lovers of nature, such as Grand Canyon, are a thing of beauty and not a geological twin for our ugly city dumps!

So encourage your children to develop a hunger for things that are beautiful, good and true, as St. Paul urged.

"Start by sending for the booklet 'How to Stimulate Bible Reading,' enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Melrose, Indiana 47520. Enclose long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of the booklets.)

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Argus Research Corp. foresees a resumption of economic growth in the world's industrialized nations by 1975 even if petroleum prices remain at their current record levels.

"The world economy is now in the midst of an economic slowdown, part of which was caused by the sudden shift in oil prices," Argus said in its latest report. "But the weaknesses in production and employment will be limited."

"Most major industrial countries will be growing again — briskly in some cases — by the final quarter of 1974 or the first quarter of 1975, in spite of high oil prices," it said.

Even if the oil embargo is lifted soon and petroleum prices decline significantly, Blyth Eastman Dillon and Co. believes that "a mild and short-lived recession lies ahead with growth of real GNP about 1 percent in 1974 and profits down about 5 percent."

The company's investment researchers believe however, that high backlogs of demand building in key sectors of the economy will trigger a strong recovery once the embargo itself is lifted.

Townsend-Greenpan & Co. said price controls on petroleum products in the United States are partly responsible for shortages in this country because higher prices for oil are available elsewhere.

"Oil is being diverted from the United States to Western Europe and Japan," the company said in a recent investment research newsletter.

"U.S. oil prices are still well below world levels despite the slippage in foreign prices in recent weeks," it said.

The Wright Bankers' Service investment newsletter predicts that "the next major move by the stock market will be a further price recovery."

"We continue to advise a fully invested position in high quality common stocks, most of which are now obviously severely undervalued," it said.

LOSE A POUND A DAY AND MORE

Vitamin "E" + "C" Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

LOS ANGELES (Special)—New scientific discoveries have now produced a Vitamin E Plus "C" diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, soups, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

Full Potency vitamin "E" Plus "C" tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wondrous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin "E" Plus "C" Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical tests, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin "E" Plus "C."

"E" + "C" DIET AVAILABLE To get a copy of this highly successful diet and "E" Plus "C" Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 30 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to "Diet '300," N.Kings Rd., Los Angeles, CA 90048 money-back guarantee if not satisfied. In Calif. add 5% tax.
