Grand Jury Returns Indictments Against 7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The grand jury which has been investigating Watergate for 20 months today indicted seven of President Nixon's former top White House and campaign associates on charges of conspiring to obstruct justice.

Named were those in the top echelon of the first Nixon administration — H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, John N. Mitchell and Charles W. Colson. Haldeman was Nixon's chief of staff, Ehrlichman his domestic affairs adviser, Mitchell his attorney general and campaign manager, and Colson was his special counsel.

The ITT affair and the Ellsberg break-in—still are expected. At the same time as the long-awaited indictment was handed up by the grand jury, Leon Jaworski, the special Watergate prosecutor, stood before Sirica and handed him a "sealed report." The judge opened the brown manila envelope, read the contents and announced it would be resealed and kept in a safe place.

The contents were not disclosed, but it had been reported that the jury intended to make a separate report on its views of Nixon's possible role in Watergate.

The indictment charged that the seven defendants "unlawfully, willfully and knowingly did combine, conspire and agree together with each other to commit offenses against the United States, to wit, to obstruct justice."

They were accused among other things of using "deceit, craft, trickery and dishonest means" to interfere with the Central Intelligence Agency.

Shortly after the break-in occurred at the Democratic National Committee's headquarters at the Watergate office building, some top officials of the CIA were instructed by White House representatives to direct the FBI to temper its Watergate investigation lest it uncover secret CIA operations.

The indictment also charged the seven conspired to defraud the United States by interfering with FBI and Justice Department investigations of the case.

The seven were accused of destroying documents, papers, records and objects related to the investigation.

In addition to separate charges, against the defendants individually, each was accused of conspiracy. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

That single count alleged 45 "overt acts" on the part of the seven.

Mitchell, who went on trial today in New York City on charges of obstruction of justice in a separate case, also was indicted on five counts of making false statements, perjury and obstructing justice.

He and Nixon's former commerce secretary and chief fund-raiser, Maurice H. Stans, are being tried on charges of soliciting campaign gifts from financier Robert Vesco in exchange for government favors. They are the first former Cabinet members to go on trial since the Harding administration's "Teapot Dome" scandal.

Mitchell, former attorney general, was Nixon's law partner and managed his 1968 and 1972 presidential campaigns. His attorney insisted Mitchell "is innocent and will be vindicated by the courts."

The 50-page detailed indictment accused the defendants of having lied before the Senate Watergate committee whose televised hearings last summer dramatically placed before the nation the scope of the cover-up.

SPRING'S IN THE AIR — The weather's been rather spring-like lately, right? And with Pampa beauties like March calendar girl Tamra Wilson brightening the horizon, why wait until the March equinox to welcome springtime to the Top O' Texas? A senior at Pampa High School, Tamra enjoys touring the countryside on her 10-speed bicycle when she isn't cooking, painting, or singing with the PHS Mixed Choir. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil C. Wilson, 103 E. 27th.

WILSON LEADING Britain's Election Ends In Deadlock

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's general election ended today in a deadlock, with Harold Wilson's Labor party likely to emerge as the largest single party but with no party commanding a majority in parliament at a time of grave economic crisis.

At 3:00 p.m. (10 a.m. CDT) party standings for 635 House of Commons seats were as follows: Conservatives 294 seats, Labor 300, Liberals 11, others 14. A party needs 318 seats for a majority. 16 seats were undecided.

It was one of the most indecisive elections in British history and political commentators said that horse trading would start soon for support of an estimated 15 Liberals and 16 representatives of splinter parties who would hold the balance of power.

As Conservatives and Labor raced to a likely photo finish, Heath called a news conference at 3 p.m. and then cancelled it without explanation.

Wilson, the nearest thing to a victor in this cliffhanging contest, met with his shadow cabinet to decide what action they should take.

If Wilson did form a minority government, political commentators said, it would have to be with at least tacit support of the Liberals and some of the splinter group representatives. These included Welsh and Scottish Nationalists and assorted Northern Ireland groups.

A Conservative party spokesman said Heath has not yet made up his mind whether to tender his government's resignation to Queen Elizabeth.

He said Heath also has had no contact with Wilson or Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe and that such contact is unlikely. He said Heath has been consulting leading members of his government.

The spokesman said Heath postponed his decision because it appears that, whatever the final voting figures, Labor will be at least 16 seats short of an overall majority.

Puffing his pipe, grinning and waving to crowds of supporters, Wilson returned to his London home from Liverpool and at once called a meeting of his Labor party shadow cabinet—the men who would form the government if Labor were in power.

Handout Working Smoothly

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A second effort to hand out free food to the needy worked smoothly Thursday, giving the family of Patricia Hearst new hope that her terrorist kidnappers would break an eight-day silence.

Well, we're all hoping God knows we're hoping," said her father, Randolph A. Hearst, publisher and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, when asked if the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) would respond to the successful distribution to between 25,000 and 30,000 persons of groceries valued at more than $200,000.

Thursday's food recipients stood patiently in line on a cold, drizzly day at 10 distribution centers in the San Francisco Bay area, then came out smiling with bags of groceries in their arms. Hundreds more left without a fuss when the food ran out within a few hours.

There wasn't the demeaning spectacle that occurred Friday, Hearst said in a statement passed out to newsmen at his Hillsborough home. He referred to the brawling and confusion that marred the abortive first food distribution a week ago.

"I think, despite the frustrations and the obstacles, the food distribution today approximates what the SLA wanted, and we're going to do all we can to keep our part of the bargain," he said.

A Ludlow Kramer, Washington secretary of state and administrator of the "People In Need" program set up by Hearst, put it more bluntly: "Dammit, we've proved to the Symbionese Liberation Army that this system works."

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who had urged needy Californians to spurn the food and avoid "aiding and abetting lawlessness," said he was not surprised by the turnout because people "love something for nothing."

The SLA, which snatched the 20-year-old granddaughter of William Randolph Hearst from her Berkeley apartment at gunpoint Feb. 4, has not been heard from since Feb. 21, when a recording made two days earlier reached the young woman's family.

The kidnapers demanded that Hearst personally provide another $4 million in food within 24 hours. Hearst said he didn't have the money but the Hearst Corp. pledged to provide it after the girl's release. The SLA, which threatened to "break off negotiations" if its demands were not met, has not been heard from since.

OKAYS FORCE FUNDS County Approves Bids For Trucks

Gray County Commissioners this morning approved a bid of $7,072 for two 2-ton trucks for Precinct 4 with three used 2-ton trucks to be used for trade-ins.

The bid accepted by the commissioners' court was submitted by Ted Simmons Chevrolet in McLean.

Although that bid was somewhat higher than one of $6,664 submitted by Johnson, Inc. of Pampa, the commissioners approved the Simmons bid because that dealership is located in Precinct 4 and would be more convenient for servicing the trucks.

One other bid was submitted, one of $8,484 from Harold Barrett Ford. The balance of the cost of the trucks after trade-ins is to be paid from revenue sharing funds.

A request from the Pampa Drug Task Force for $350 to help that group defray expenses of conducting a drug abuse survey was also approved by the commissioners.

Precinct 2 Commissioner Don Hinton, who represents the court at drug task force meetings, said the drug committee hopes to have its report ready for submission to the various governmental entities in the county by the end of April.

Requests by the Teledyne Exploration Co. of Midland for a vibrosis survey and by Petty-Ray Geophysical Corp. for a seismic survey, both for county school lands in Gaines County, were approved at the meeting.

The commissioners also approved a resolution request from the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission for an area wide comprehensive water and sewer plan prepared by Merriman and Barber Consulting Engineers.

In other business, the commissioners gave the okay for the expenditure of $4,700 from revenue sharing funds for two new motors for loaders in Precincts 1 and 2 and approved the moving of the county office in McLean to a building housing most other governmental agencies in that town.

The county will pay $45 a month for the office to the city of McLean, with utilities included in the rental.

In routine business, the commissioners approved the payment of salaries and bills. There were no time deposits or transfers of funds recommended by the county auditor.

The next meeting of the commissioners' court will be March 12 at 10 a.m.

TO PICK UP PROPOSALS Kissinger Flies Back To Israel

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived back in Israel from Egypt today to pick up Israeli proposals for troop disengagement with Syria that he will take with him to Damascus.

Arriving at Ben-Gurion Airport to begin the most crucial phase of his diplomatic mission, Kissinger planned to spend about six hours conferring with Israeli leaders, with most of the talks to be held at a country club in Tel Aviv's fashionable suburb of Herzliya.

Earlier this morning, Kissinger watched the American flag rise over the U.S. Embassy in Cairo for the first time in seven years.

"We have begun what I am confident will be a lasting friendship," Kissinger said at the Cairo ceremony. "The United States will work with Egypt on the establishment of a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy responded, "We are looking forward to seeing that our relations in every field develop in the best way possible."

Herman Eilts, the German-born career diplomat who was appointed American ambassador designate to Egypt in November, handed the Spanish flag that has flown over the embassy since 1967 to Spanish ambassador Manuel Alabart. Then the Stars and Stripes was run up the embassy flagstaff.

The ceremony signaled a full-scale renewal of diplomatic ties broken off during the 1967 Middle East War.

By the time he leaves Damascus Saturday, Kissinger was expected to know whether he has succeeded in getting troop pullback talks started between Syria, one of the headline Arab states, and Israel.

Israeli press reports said Jerusalem wanted an agreement with Syria involving the withdrawal and thinning of forces in stages similar to the disengagement pact with Egypt.

The United States and Egypt announced the resumption of full ties Thursday after a meeting between Kissinger and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Relations between the two nations have improved since Kissinger helped work out an Israeli-Egyptian troop pullback accord.

Deadline Today For Filing For City Positions

Today was the deadline for filing candidacies for the two Pampa City Commission posts to be filled at the April 2 municipal election.

Up until noontime only two candidates had filed. Unless someone files before the midnight deadline, it will be a no-contest election.

The seats to be filled are those of Ward 2 commissioner Joe Curtis and Ward 4 commissioner Arthur Rohde Sr.

Both men now serving on the council have filed for re-election. Up until noontime today, neither faced any opposition.

The terms of Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, Ward 1 commissioner Ray Thompson and Ward 3 commissioner Leo Braswell do not expire until April of next year.

PHS Talent Show Set Saturday Night

Performers from Tascosa High School of Amarillo and Lefors will add to the variety of talent to be presented in Entertainment 74 at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Pampa High School Student Council and the choral department, the talent show will feature area show choirs, dancing solos, comedy and variety acts. Stage band and the PHS show choir will perform, along with the Mixed Choir and Girl's Choir.

Many of the Harvester athletes will render their interpretation of the "Polack Stomp" to the accompaniment of music by Tchaikowsky. The dance is being billed as "once in a life-time opportunity to view grace, form and athletic ability."

Other numbers will feature twarler Rhonda Dennis, singer and guitarist Vondel Simmons, dance duo Loretta White and Donnie Lee and other talented acts.

The talent act judged as the best will receive $20, with the best choir receiving $50.

Judge for the show will be Joel Shackelford, choral director of Palo Duro High School of Amarillo.

Masters of ceremonies for the performance will be seniors Phil Gage and Handy Carter and junior Brent Boynton.

Student Council's portion of the proceeds will be donated to the American Field Service for exchange students. The choir department will add its portion of the proceeds to the spring tour fund.

Cost for the talent show is $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

FFA And 4-H Livestock Show Slated Saturday

The annual Gray County Junior Livestock Show will be held Saturday at Recreation Park for Gray County Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members.

Sponsored by the Pampa Noon Lions Club, the show is a preamble to the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show and Sale which will be held Monday following weigh-ins on Sunday.

Trophies and ribbons will be presented in all classes of steers and swines, according to Agriculture Committee chairman Joe Wheeler.

Kenneth L. Holloway, Moore County Agent of Dumas, will judge the fat steers, with Bob Robinson, assistant Potter County agent of Amarillo, judging the swine.

Judging is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

T FOR TEXAS Young Texans Present Program For Heritage

By CLAY LIVELY

More than 100 people last night heard three young men, all native Texans, present a program sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association on what it means to be a Texan.

Moderating the program at M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Bill Jamison, 31, of Wimberley, an historian by profession.

While he spoke to the audience about the factors involved in being a Texan—the heritage and the continually developing culture—John Paul Batiste of Dallas and Richard Rodriguez of San Antonio illustrated that heritage and culture with songs and dramatization.

Rodriguez and Batiste, both highly talented entertainers, began the program with a 60-minute entitled "Homesick Armadillo Blues" known by aficionados as having come from "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

Other songs in the program included the old black spiritual "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," "Hurricanes Carla and Esther" by Sam Lightnin' Hopkins, Johnny

Rodriguez "Riding My Thumb to Mexico" and the Jimmie Rodgers classic "T for Texas."

Jamison discussed the humanities and the questing after identity by Texans and for that matter, all other Americans too.

The historian formerly a teacher at Southwest Texas State University of San Marcos, also spoke of how Texans are rooted in the land and how many different cultures blended to make Texas what it is today.

Following the hour-long presentation, a panel made up of Mrs. Dudley Steele Floyd Watson and Victor P. Raymond discussed Pampa, its heritage and progress.

Rodriguez, 21, an expert guitarist as well as singer, and Batiste, 28, said after the program they became involved in "T for Texas"—the name of the presentation—after being approached by Jamison with his idea about the program.

Rodriguez formerly studied under Jamison in college.

The program is being presented in 13 cities and towns across Texas and is jointly sponsored by the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities and the Moody Foundation in Houston.

Rodriguez has performed in clubs and on college campuses throughout Texas and in New Orleans and is a carpenter in San Antonio when not playing the guitar and singing.

Batiste helped pay his way through Texas College at Tyler by singing and has toured the country with church music ensembles. He lives in Dallas.

Jamison has studied at North Texas State University, the University of Kansas and the University of Birmingham, England.

For two years he toured the United States presenting programs with the National Humanities Series. He lives in Wimberley and works for the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities in Austin.

Pampa was the 11th city where the "T for Texas" program was presented. Two more cities, Kerrville and Odessa, will be visited by the three Texans with their varied program on Texas and its heritage.

Demos Facing Troubles With Convention Rule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A compromise agreement for the ground rules for the 1976 Democratic National Convention threatened to come apart today after less than a day.

Democratic state chairmen meeting this morning after an agreement was reached when National Chairman Robert Strauss had conceded was "fragile compromise attacked the plan as unworkable."

The 25 member executive committee of the Democratic National Committee had voted Thursday to bury the quota system for delegate selection that created discord at the 1972 convention and replace it with an affirmative action program to open the party to all and give presidential candidates proportional representation on all state party groups.

State chairman from some leading states demanded that ratification of the compromise be delayed until a meeting of the National Committee in September.

Strauss told the state chairmen that further delay would create more chaos and confusion.

While the compromise seemed in danger of falling apart, the National Committee turned attention to new ways to nominate a vice president.

Earl Wilson

Nowadays if you want to pass the buck, it takes at least $1.50. Taffy Tuttle doesn't believe in those health diets. "Why starve yourself to death so you can live a little longer?" "A survey," explains J. Sharpe, "is when I ask everyone in the elevator. An in-depth survey is when I go home and ask my wife." These days, claims Bill Copeland, you don't have to go for broke — it comes so you. (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 10.)

NEW PRIME MINISTER NAMED

Ethiopian Troops Revolt Affects Selassie's Rule

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — Ethiopia's new prime minister expressed confidence today he could end a four-day armed forces revolt that has threatened the authority of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Prime Minister Endalkachew Mokenen said troops would remain in control of the capital and the northern city of Asmara for the time being while he formed a new government.

Army, navy and air force troops kept their tight grip on Ethiopia despite the emperor's decision to name a new prime minister and boost armed forces pay.

Even as the 46-year-old premier spoke at a news conference, several thousand students marched past his office chanting "Go to hell, go to hell." They carried placards calling for his ouster, new political parties, freedom of the press and land for the poor.

"My information is that most segments of the country—including the armed forces—are prepared to give me a chance to govern," Mokenen said.

"I don't expect love at first sight. It will take time to restore confidence. If I am given calm, I can do the job."

As for the armed forces, Mokenen said, "I'm sure it will not be too long before they go back to barracks. Their presence at the moment is required. They have to keep law and order."

Mokenen, communications minister in the previous government, said four or five ministers in the cabinet which resigned Wednesday had been taken into detention by the army "but they are well" and "their release can be expected soon."

Diplomatic sources said the 81-year-old emperor, ruler of the African kingdom for more than a half-century, seemed certain to stay in power, but his almost absolute authority has been seriously eroded.

The emperor has nothing left but his title, his throne and the love of the people," one diplomat said. "He will never be absolute again."

Battle-ready troops, armed with machine guns and rifles, seized strategic buildings in Addis Ababa Thursday and ringed the capital with road-blocks. Armored personnel carriers and helicopters took over the airport.

The frail, aging emperor, facing perhaps his stiffest crisis since Ethiopians fought invading Italians with spears in the 1930s, appeared briefly on national television Thursday night to announce salary hikes and name a new premier.

The dissident troops appeared to be in favor of accepting the emperor's concessions, but made no rush to vacate positions occupied across the country during the uprising.

The 3-foot, 2-inch Lion of Judah increased the monthly salary for privates from $40 to $54, with the top for other enlisted ranks going to $73. The new levels met demands set by the troops at the start of the rebellion.

JAMES HEATH
...ToT Judge

James Heath Named Judge At ToT Show

James (Red) Heath, head of the agriculture department at Lamar Junior College, Lamar, Colo., will judge the steers at the Top O' Texas Livestock Show, March 4 through 6.

Besides heading up the agriculture department at the junior college in Lamar, Heath operates three ranches in the area where he breeds Angus cattle.

He became the college's first agriculture instructor in 1950 after graduating from Texas Tech University.

An outstanding judge of livestock as a college student, Heath organized a stock judging team at Lamar and his team's records over the years are legendary in competition.

He received his early instruction in agriculture and stock raising on his father's farm, ranch in Texas where the two raised Herefords before turning to Angus upon moving to Colorado in 1946.

There are 104 steers — Herefords, Angus and cross-breeds — entered in this year's Top O' Texas Livestock Show. They will be judged by Heath Tuesday of next week.

Judging the hogs in the show will be Jerry Hawkins of Clarendon Junior College. That judging will also be conducted Tuesday.

Records Claimed In Streaking Fad

By United Press International

Two coeds at the University of Texas burst out of a building alongside the main mall around dusk Thursday, dashed naked across the mall, jumped over some bushes and streaked into the sunset.

One witness said the event could turn streaking into the shortest lived fad in American history.

Thursday was record-setting day in streaking—the nude public dash—that has become the latest collegiate fad. Texas, which claims three national collegiate football championships in the last 10 years, also claims two streaking titles. North Carolina also claims a pair.

Stormy Debate Takes Meeting Off Schedule

AUSTIN (UPI) — Three days of stormy debate finally produced a compromise on a new $31 million a year higher education assistance fund, and the constitutional convention has now spent two weeks on the proposed education article.

President Price Daniel Jr. concedes the long debate has thrown the convention off its 90-day schedule.

"I'd say a fair way to put it is that we're off schedule, obviously, but it's not to the point that the time cannot be made up later on," Daniel said. "In terms of days, I'd say two to three days behind or something like that."

The delegates faced more votes today on motions to include the State College Coordinating Board in the constitution and to prohibit any state aid to private education, including the tuition equalization grants for which the legislature now appropriates $6 million a year.

The convention voted 107-55 Thursday to adopt a compromise measure setting up the assistance fund for 24 state colleges which do not share in the permanent University Fund.

Rep. Ray Hutchison, R-Dallas, who earlier led the opposition to establishing the fund, swung over to the majority side when the sponsors agreed to limit the fund to $31 million a year and give the legislature control over the construction bonds which the fund will permit the colleges to utilize for expansion programs.

"It's a sound plan, it's fiscally responsible by every reasonable standard," Hutchison told the delegates.

But in a fiery opposition speech, Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, provoked a shouting match on the convention floor by referring to state college officials who were in the gallery lobbying for the assistance fund as "prostitutes."

Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, charged to the microphone and demanded Daniel strike Mattox's remarks from the record because "they impugn the integrity of the delegates."

Daniel warned the delegates "the eyes and ears of the state of Texas are on this convention," but refused to strike the remarks.

Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, asked Mattox "Do you think these college carpetbaggers are a lot better paid than their yankee predecessors 100 years ago?"

Mitchell And Stans Face Trial's Opening Monday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government begins today its effort to send two former powerful Nixon administration figures, one of them once the nation's top law enforcement officer, to jail as guilty of obstructing justice and lying under oath.

There has been nothing before the American bar of comparable political moment since the Harding administration Teapot Dome scandal half a century ago.

Kicking off the government's case in U.S. District Court was prosecutor John R. "Rusty" Wing, assistant U.S. attorney and chief of the frauds section of the U.S. attorney's office.

On trial as the first former Cabinet members indicted in 50 years were John N. Mitchell, 60, former attorney general, the Wall Street lawyer who became a top Nixon adviser, and Maurice H. Stans, 65, former commerce secretary, self-made millionaire, and presidential campaign fundraiser.

Peter Fleming Jr., for Mitchell, and Walter J. Bonner, for Stans, were the defense opening speakers scheduled for the afternoon session.

Testimony will begin Monday, Judge Lee P. Gagliardi announced.

A jury of eight men and four women—two of the men blacks—was completed Thursday on the eighth day of jury-picking and was immediately sequestered under care of U.S. marshals. The judge waited until today to swear in the jury and the six alternates—one a woman.

Their sequestration opened the way for the Watergate grand jury in Washington to return indictments that had been held up until the Mitchell-

Stans jury had been sequestered away from such news.

The jury was a cross section of citizenry in the highly urban southern New York district of federal court. A telephone installer... a bank teller... a woman apartment house superintendent... a medical insurance worker... a postal employee... a company yard man... a highway engineer... a communications supervisor... a subway conductor... a retired life insurance man... an insurance risk clerk.

The defense exercised 20 peremptory challenges and the government 6 (it was allowed 8) to throw out juror prospects and come up with the final jury of 12.

Hereford Queen To Be Here At Stock Show

Divorced Actor Misses Daughters

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Richard Anderson, who co-stars in the new adventure series, "The $6 Million Man," lives in Beverly Hills, but his three daughters live with their mother in Aspen, Colo., and that fact makes life hard for him.

Anderson is a slender, handsome, sensitive man who has been divorced about a year and is still trying to make the adjustment as best he can.

Some days it doesn't hurt as much as others.

Anderson lives alone in a three-bedroom home in Benedict Canyon, a sylvan setting with deer, coyotes, big trees and night creatures. He bought the house a dozen years ago. It was the only home his daughters knew until the divorce broke up the family.

elegantly furnished. Since becoming a single man again Anderson has tried to enliven the place with some masculine touches—like a pair of snow shoes added to the fireplace.

"I've stayed in the house because it's still the homestead to the girls," Anderson says. "It gives them a sense of having roots. When they visit me this summer everything will be as it was when they left."

A woman comes in to clean the house twice a week—the same cleaning lady he hired before the girls were born.

Does Not Date
Anderson is beginning to learn how to cook with indifferent success. He usually settles for broiling a steak and throwing a salad together. From time to time he eats at a restaurant. Usually alone.

He hasn't started dating other women. He has no explanation for this except to say he isn't ready to become emotionally involved with anyone.

Instead, Anderson devotes himself to sports activities. He plays tennis whenever he can—frequently at the Beverly Hills hotel court with a professional or at the homes of friends who have courts of their own.

He also has become a ski buff. He visited the girls in Aspen earlier this winter and skied with them. He prefers cross-country skiing to the downhill variety because it allows him to see more of the majesty of the countryside.

Works on Script
Anderson entered only one pro-am tournament, mixing celebrities and top tennis professionals. That was back in 1963 when he beat Charlton Heston for the championship. He quit while he was ahead.

The actor has two automobiles. One is a sleek Jaguar sports model, circa 1963. The other is a small imported van which he drives to work every day on various locations around Los Angeles. He keeps a bicycle attached to the van and is free to pedal around for exercise when he is not in a scene.

On weekends Anderson jumps in his car and heads for the beach to go sailing with friends, plays tennis or drives out into the country. He also enjoys movies and the theater.

At home he takes time out to sit at a typewriter in his study working at a screen play he hopes one day to complete.

Collects Posters
Not infrequently in the evening Anderson sits alone reading. His library is large and represents a wide range of books from history to biography to novels and plays.

The brightest element in his home is a spectacular collection of colorful posters from various parts of Europe. He wrote to several tourist bureaus asking if they would send him the large decorative posters. His collection includes beauties from Italy, Portugal, Spain and France.

"I've put them up since the girls were last here," he says. "When they come to visit, they'll be delighted."

FOR BEAUTIFY TEXAS COUNCIL

Mrs. Malone Named District Governor

Mrs. James F. Malone has been named district governor of the Beautify Texas Council for the 17-county area in the uppermost part of the state.

Maurice Acers of Austin, Dallas and Beaumont, the president of the Beautify Texas Council, announced the appointment at an executive committee meeting held in Austin recently.

As district governor, Mrs. Malone will be the Council's liaison with environmental and beautification organizations in Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree and Lipscomb counties.

Mrs. Malone has long been interested in beautification and environmental affairs, having served as District One director of Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. (59 county area) 1971-73, and as Pampa Garden Club president, 1970-71, during which time she directed the club in the creation of a Capsule Garden on the Pampa High School campus, supervised planting of 100 dozen cushion mums in city parks and on school campuses, assisted with elementary outdoor laboratories, organized a Junior Garden Club and helped citizen and scout groups in a city clean-up campaign.

As District One director, she directed the project of placing "People and Their Environment" in the hands of teachers for the purpose of exposing every child in the public schools to conservation environmental education.

She enlisted members of her local club as well as the

MRS. JAMES F. MALONE

an active member of First Baptist Church of Pampa.

Mrs. Malone is well known in the state for her book reviews and has four reviews scheduled in March, when she will be reviewing "Sweet Apple Gardening."

She is the wife of Dr. James F. Malone, superintendent of Pampa Schools, and has one daughter, Terri, a senior at Pampa High School. Her hobbies include gardening, gourmet cooking and entertaining. She has enjoyed having several exchange students in her home.

In 1972 she was honored with the "Gardener of Year" award for outstanding service to club and community. In 1973 she received a life membership in the Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. This was a gift bestowed upon her for service as district director of District One.

During her tenure as district director, three scholarships were awarded to Texas Tech students majoring in horticulture and park service and one to a student working with the Student Conservation Association at Sanford Recreation Area.

Mrs. Malone has lent her assistance to the Community Concert Association and Fine Arts Association of Pampa. She was speaker at West Texas State University for "Woman of the Year" and also for the high school honors program.

She will actively participate in the installation of officers of the American Association of University Women for the Fort Worth area and give a book review on May 18.

The Beautify Texas Council is statewide. A volunteer organization which serves as an educational, advisory and coordinating agency through which business and industry, government, and public and private groups may work together to improve the quality of life in Texas.

Goals of the Council are summed up by President Acers, more simply: "We want to make Texas the cleanest, most beautiful state in the nation."

Boating

NEW YORK (UPI) — From the ditty bag

—Alcott Division of AMF, Inc., has announced plans for a new 16-foot family sailboat which will be in production in June. Alcott is the originator of the Sunfish, Sailfish and other off-the-beach board boats and small sailboats. The company says the new boat "is designed to fill the sailing family's needs for a fast, comfortable, easily trailer and stable boat." The 16-footer has a 5-foot, 9-inch beam, will carry 140 square feet of sail, main and jib.

—Johnson Outboards is offering without charge a fully illustrated 16-page booklet entitled, "More Fun Per Gallon: A Guide to Fuel Conservation With An Outboard Powered Boat." Among suggestions offered in the booklet are boat pools (like car pools), water sking doubles, efficient trailering and launching practices and periodic equipment and maintenance checks as a means of providing "more fun per gallon."

—The North American Yacht Racing Union, at its annual meeting at the recent National Boat Show, named George R. Hinman as recipient of the Nathaniel G. Herreshoff Trophy "for outstanding contributions to the sport of yachting." Hinman, an intercollegiate skipper at Harvard, is now general manager of the Mariner Syndicate, one of the 12-meter groups vying for the honor of defending the America's Cup this summer.

—K Enterprises of Menlo

Park, Calif., has introduced a folding boat, the Porta-Boat, that is nine feet long and opens up to a beamy 53 inches. The manufacturer says the craft is unsinkable, weighs only 45 pounds, will hold a family of four and floats in only four inches of water. Designed along conventional dory lines, it is offered in motor and sailboat versions.

—New highly reflective materials containing millions of tiny glass beads have been developed by the 3m Company specifically for use on maritime lifesaving equipment to aid nighttime search and rescue operations at sea. Similar to material now used on reflective lifesaving plates and traffic signs, the new product will not crack, blister or break, according to the company, and can expand and contract without losing its adhesiveness when used on inflatable equipment.

—The ninth annual Unlimited Hydroplane awards banquet was held Feb. 22 at Miami's Marriott Hotel as part of the American Power Boat Association council's winter meeting there.

—The world championship for International 5.5-meter yachts, sailed recently off Sydney, Australia, was won by Norman Booth of Australia. In the deciding sixth race of the championship, the 57-year-old Booth defeated Crown Prince Harald of Norway by 2 minutes and 40 seconds. Bobby Symonette of Nassau, Bahamas, finished third, 11 seconds behind Prince Harald.

Moths Damage Forests
SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon state forestry department officials estimate that more than 400,000 acres of forest land have been damaged by a tussock moth infestation in 1972 and 1973.

The majority of the timber lands affected are in the United States Forest Service holdings, but a substantial portion of the infested area, 109,000 acres, is on private and state-owned lands.

Economy Lists
PARIS (UPI) — To meet the continuing demand, the French Government Tourist Office has reprinted lists of Paris restaurants with menus at $3 and Paris hotels offering double rooms at $25 or less for the American traveler. The lists can be obtained without charge from the French Government Tourist Office, 610 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10020.

'Yes' Performs Madison Square Garden Concert

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rock audiences are no different from others which attend musical concerts.

They want to hear familiar music.

At a February concert in Madison Square Garden, the popular Yes group spent more time performing music from a new album, "Tales of Topographic Oceans," than in reprising the big hits from "Yessongs," which was what the capacity audience came to hear.

Even though there was some boozing, the audience reacted favorably to the whole performance. Some thought the group should have included "Long Distance Runaround," second in popularity only to "Roundabout." But others indicated they enjoyed the emphasis which Yes placed on its latest Atlantic record album.

Yes received several ovations, especially after "Roundabout."

Rick Wakeman's fans who feel he is one of the greatest of all the rock organists, were disappointed because he did not play a solo.

Drama Groups Attending Annual Portales Festival

Seventeen drama students from Pampa went to Portales, N.M., yesterday to participate in the 20th annual Eastern New Mexico University Drama Festival.

Under the direction of Mrs. Rochelle Lacy, the Pampa dramatists will present a 40-minute cutting from Jean-Paul Sartre's "The Flies." Freddie Ladd, sophomore, portrays Zeus and Ocie Powell, senior, Orestes in the play written by the 20th century French philosopher, novelist and dramatist.

Terri Malone plays Electra. Marquetta Wampler, Clytemnestra and a Fury. Robert Schroder, Aegisthus. Jimmie Kille, the Tutor. Becky Barrett, the Priestess and a Fury, and Kathleen Fitzgerald, first Fury.

Other Furies will be played by Brandy Pope and Graden Underwood. Assistant director and understudy for several parts is Sharon Hubbard.

Crew members are Scott Murray, lighting. Tony Scoggin, sets. Kenneth Hopson, sound. Ocie Powell, Denise Terry, Jaye Everett and Cheryl Dunn, costumes and makeup.

In all, 160 students representing 10 high schools will be performing during the two days of dramatic presentations that will conclude with a festival banquet Saturday evening.

Since 1954, when Dr. R. Lyle Hagán, dean of the School of Communicative Arts and Sciences at Eastern, first initiated the annual high school drama festival, the event has been attended by thousands of aspiring actors and actresses who not only have the chance to perform but also obtain guidance in their techniques.

The festival is distinguished from a drama contest in that participating drama groups are not judged in regard to the performances of other groups, but rather the individual high school group is critiqued on its presentation and offered assistance in improving its presentation.

Adjudicators for this week's event are J. Richard Waite, assistant professor in theatre, and Duane Ryan, associate professor in communications at the university.

Schools to be represented at the festival besides Pampa include Zuni, Sandia, Manzano, West Mesa and Rio Grande High Schools of Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Dexter, Clovis and Ector High School of Odessa.

Each of the 10 drama groups will present a one-act play of their choosing or excerpts from a three-act play.

Following the conclusion of the play presentations at noon Saturday, participating students will have the opportunity to tour the ENMU campus and to meet with university students.

The drama students will be presented awards and certificates of excellent and superior ratings at the Saturday evening banquet. The awards will include the outstanding director, actor, actress and play.

Dear Abby

Reader upset over advice from Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Altho you are well paid for giving advice to others, I feel many times your advice is immature and meaningless. A woman writes that she lost her cherished letters and photo albums in a flood, and she asked your advice on how to get over it.

Your reply was asinine! You compared her loss to the death of your own parents. Has it ever occurred to you that she, too, might have lost her mother and father, or others dear to her, but their memories had been kept alive by those precious photographs?

Sometimes I think you are absolutely without heart or feeling.

DISGUSTED IN ARCADIA

DEAR DISGUSTED: I know that I am not "absolutely without heart" because mine ached a little when I read your letter. But another reader expressed quite a different reaction to the same letter. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: How wise and timely (to me) was your reply to the lady who had lost her precious collection of pictures and letters she had saved over the years.

Several years ago, in moving, I lost many irreplaceable possessions just as that lady did, and I, too, was heartsick for a long while.

In January of 1973, my beloved daughter and adored grandsons (aged 4 and 9) were murdered in a senseless tragedy of mass murders here in Santa Cruz, Cal.

Now I know what heartbreak truly is. There is not a day or night that I do not sense my gentle ones' arms around me. I know that life will never be the same for me without them, but I keep trying to have faith.

I am blessed that my little mother, tho fragile and not well, is still alive.

Please, Dear Abby, continue to remind our readers that nothing material can be compared with our loved ones. Absolutely nothing! You may sign my name if you wish.

LILA R. FERRIS (Mrs. T.H.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 54-year-old widow. I lost my husband three years ago and live alone in a large, lovely home. My only child is married and she lives out of state.

I have been dating a widower [age 58] for about a year. He wants to marry me, but I am in no big hurry. Meanwhile, my daughter suggested that it is not "safe" for me to live alone, so I should contact the local college for a male student to share my home. He would have a bedroom to sleep and study in. No boarding or wandering around-the-home type of arrangement. No money involved. I'd give him the room in return for his giving me a feeling of security.

I told my gentleman friend about it, and he said, "No, No, No! A college student is a man... and I don't want another 'man' living there!" Then he suggested I run an ad for an older woman to live with me.

Abby, I don't think an older woman would offer any protection at all. Furthermore, I am insulted at the suggestion that anything could go on between me and a college youth.

If my friend doesn't have any more confidence in me than that I will never marry him. Or do you think I am wrong?

IOWA CITY READER

DEAR READER: I think your friend is very narrow-minded. You are wise not to rush into marriage with him. I agree. A college man would offer more protection than an older woman.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Pampa Woman Wins International Award

Altrusa International, Inc. has notified the Altrusa Club of Pampa of the selection of a Pampa woman for a Founders Fund Vocational Aid Award. Mrs. Haytchen Elizabeth Smith has been granted an award of $350 to be used toward Vocational Nursing training.

The Founders Fund Vocational Aid Award has been a part of the Altrusa program since 1953, and each Altrusa Club contributes to the fund. Individual members and public donors may also give to this fund.

Each Altrusa Club is requested to send in applications for awards for women in their area who need assistance for training or retraining to become employable; to move from a lower to a higher level job; to purchase equipment needed to become self-employed; or for personal rehabilitation necessary to be accepted for employment.

Between March 1953 and January 1972, 2,106 women of all ages have been given a total of $473,338 in Founders Fund Vocational Aid awards. Sixteen Pampa women have received awards for training from this Altrusa fund.

after which he led his remaining diamond to dummy's ace. It was his expectation that the five outstanding diamonds would be divided normally (3-2) as they figured to be; in which case six diamond tricks would be made.

When West discarded a spade on the second diamond lead, South became enroute to defeat. He won the trick with dummy's ace, and went after the heart suit; he played the ace, and followed up by leading the ten. East took his king and returned a club, entrapping South's J-9. When play had ended, the defenders had taken four club tricks and one heart.

Had South counted his tricks, he would have recognized that he needed just five diamond tricks to fulfill his contract; and that East had to be kept out of the lead to prevent the latter from returning a club through South's remaining doubleton J-9.

After capturing the opening club lead, declarer should have led a spade to the board's ace. Next would come the deuce of diamonds, with South inserting his nine - spot. As the cards were divided, the nine would have won the trick. The queen of diamonds would then be cashed, after which dummy would be

SATURDAY, MARCH 2

Your birthday today: Conversion of undeveloped resources into readily usable forms becomes a prosperous program in your daily living this year. Old limitations are overcome almost casually, once you focus your thoughts positively and receive the benefits of regular meditation. Today's natives are inventive, with good ideas of their own, apt to pursue a course of action a little different from traditional approaches, in moderation.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Private deals have to wait while you attend something a little aside from your own affairs. In the final analysis, you are better off for the delay.

By Jeane Dixon

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Keep up with the day's activity in good humor and self-assurance. You can do something constructive about your earning capacity and other mundane concerns.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Wind up recent ventures, balance accounts, settle details, mainly as a matter of clearing the ground for a fresh enterprise of greater importance coming soon.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Stay busy—if nothing else, this tends to keep you out of mischief or too much personal isolation. Avoid any excess; you shouldn't even overstate your feelings.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Questions now can be met with provisional or tentative answers, a few that are final. Brief travel is favored, along with an easy-does-it approach.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Take all the time and space you can manage for your personal interests, explore intriguing possibilities, invest in your favorite pastimes.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Think what you're doing, and see if there isn't some less strenuous way of getting results. A steady pace brings you out a long way ahead.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Anxiety over matters you cannot control is quite normal. Inspiration arises from insight, eventually. Give-and-take in practical affairs is available.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Friends' advice on commercial deals or business decisions is not to be followed exactly as given, but does stir some very useful thought.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: In reviewing your current enterprises, look for activity that can be abandoned without repercussions, any refinement you can adopt without undue effort.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Upward is the direction for your thinking. Use the existing facilities for your specialty instead of waiting for something different or theoretically better.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Silent partners, people who want to help without being brought into direct public view become a large factor in what happens today.

Fashion Forecast—Accessories Take Lead

COLLEGE STATION — Fashion forecasters are predicting a big accent on accessories.

Last season's items become today's trendsetters with a splash of the right accessories, one authority observed.

Mrs. Vivian Simmons, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said today's accessories signal versatility and meet the ever-changing scene with a fresh statement.

"Since rules for dress are passe, accessories define personality and lifestyle. Emerging guidelines help the fashion-conscious get the most for their money — especially the basic guideline of understanding oneself and then accessorizing garments to express that self," the specialist noted.

In this era of shortages, fashion-conscious consumers want what's real and basic, she continued.

"This appreciation of reality swings from real gold and silver jewelry to recycled denim, handbags.

With necklines important, look for new ways to accent them. Necklaces are gaining the most attention."

Graduated glass beads and irregular wooden beads combine delicacy and texture — "a la" several strands at the same time, the specialist said.

Multi-colored, large marble necklaces repeat versatility — paired with many different-colored garments.

"Perennial best sellers, gold and silver chains, provide the tailored look."

Scarves, on the other hand, lend soft accent to necklines on dresses and suits. Mrs. Simmons pointed out.

"Simple cotton bandana prints and paisleys reflect a conservatism that has hit the scarf market."

"One fashion look twists together two scarves of harmonizing colors and drapes them around the neckline. Let two scarf ends show, and hide the others within the folds."

Belts also change garment appearance.

"But they must suit garment color and the wearer's figure."

"Wide belts and bright colors are best on slimmer figures."

"For the more mature figure, choose a narrow belt of self fabric — or one the same color as the dress."

"The newest fashion look features narrow, braided leather belts."

UNDERSTANDING OUR ECONOMY

HOW PRICES ARE AFFECTED BY EVENTS ABROAD

Many an American housewife, without realizing it, feels the effect at the supermarket of weather problems that drastically reduce the wheat crop in Australia and Argentina.

It may be months later, but bread prices rise. Many additional foods, items of clothing and goods we need in the U.S. are affected in the same way by production problems in other countries.

It's hard for most United States consumers to relate complex national and international events to the U.S. economy, but recent developments have proved to just about everyone that our way of life makes us dependent on other countries and their goods.

from 18 countries in the telephone in a home, and the typical American automobile is likely to use parts and materials imported from 32 countries.

Even in technology-developing new products and new uses for old ones—the U.S. does not hold any position of exclusive leadership. Nearly half of the applications for U.S. patents last year came from abroad.

Heltzer notes that no nation can solve its environmental problems by itself, can be self sufficient in terms of military security or can afford to hoard the capital investment resources of the world for its own benefit.

They believe that trade barriers on the part of one country encourage others toward protectionism and help to defeat the goal of solving great world problems and building international prosperity.

In 1969, U Thant, then secretary general of the United Nations, said that he believed members of the U.N. had "perhaps ten years left to subordinate their ancient quarrels and launch a global partnership to curb the arms race, to improve the human environment, to defuse the population explosion, and to supply the required momentum to world-development efforts."

Many economists regard the United States as key in this effort, and they believe that if we are to continue our own prosperity and position of leadership, we must lead in the free exchange of goods and technology with the world.

Travelers Should Know Entry Restrictions

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor
Did you know American visitors can be jailed for up to life in Tanzania for wearing miniskirts or tight trousers, wigs or long hair?
Or that other countries in Africa and elsewhere will refuse entry to travelers whose attire or appearances does not meet their criteria?

Under a decree passed last October by Tanzania, it is illegal for women to wear hot pants, miniskirts or dresses with side, front or back slits above the knees. Women also are forbidden to wear form-fitting dresses, clothing made of see-through materials, wigs, and even certain forms of make-up.

Men are prohibited from wearing long hair, short shorts, bell-bottom slacks or snug-fitting trousers.

No Swastikas in Israel
The law applies to visitors as well as Tanzanians. And it provides for penalties ranging from caning for first offenders to terms of up to life for repeated violations.

Malawi and Uganda also have official restrictions on hippie-type clothing and hair styles. Visitors who don't meet the requirements are refused entry or are subject to detention until the violations have been corrected.

Libya and Saudi Arabia also frown on long hair on men and miniskirts or pants on women. Offenders are allowed in, however, if they get a hair cut or change clothes.

Israel adopts a more liberal view. But a visitor who comes in wearing anything with a Nazi-type swastika could find himself on the first plane out. Swastikas are banned in Israel.

Most of the West European and Scandinavian countries couldn't care less what visitors look like or wear. Nor to Japan, Hong Kong and other Asian countries.

Ban on Long Hair
An exception, however, is Singapore. Hot pants, miniskirts and beards are tolerated

"Star Dust," one of the most popular songs of the 1930's, was written by Hoagy Carmichael as an instrumental. It did not achieve popularity until Mitchell Parrish wrote lyrics for the tune.

but not long hair on men. The crackdown began in 1970 — relations with neighboring Malaysia were almost broken off at one point — and is periodically renewed.

Foreigners with long unkempt hair and hippie-type shabby dress are not welcome in Singapore, a government spokesman said recently.

Signs in tourist and other government offices proclaim "Males with long hair will be attended to last." Hair that covers the ears or forehead or extends below the shirt collar is considered too long.

Refusal to get hair trimmed to regulation appearance could mean being turned back.

However, it is not only the young traveler who may offend local mores.

Vatican Lends Raincoats
The Vatican repeatedly appeals to visitors to respect the sacred character of the Holy See by not wearing hot pants, shorts, miniskirts, midriff dresses, etc. Since last summer, it has been lending plastic hooded raincoats to help women cover up before visiting St. Peter's Basilica and other holy places.

And on the Caribbean island of Barbados, the government tourist board recently mounted a campaign to persuade tourists to wear proper clothing when visiting Bridgetown and other towns.

Posters, with cartoons of women in bikinis and paunchy men in swim trunks, urge: "Let's keep the bikinis on the beach and dress appropriately for shopping, business and church."

To which we would like to add: Amen.

Broadway

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the musical version of Anita Loos' humorous novel about a gold-digging chorus girl of the 1920s, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," opened in December, 1949, it had two things going for it.

One was a comparatively unknown blonde named Carol Channing in the role of Lorelei Lee. The other was a sturdy, vivacious, tuneful score with music by Jule Styne and lyrics by Leo Robin.

Overnight, Miss Channing was the darling of show business. The main songs gained almost instant popularity, which doesn't happen too often with the best of Broadway scores.

Well, here it is 1974, and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" is back under the alias "Lorelei," and the same two things are still going for it — Miss Channing and the songs.

This retreat is available at the Palace Theater, and it is recommended to both those who saw the original and to those who didn't.

Miss Channing, of course, has been a major star ever since she first appeared in this modern fairy tale. She still plays the wide-eyed, innocent-seeming chorus girl with the inimitable flair that has made this one of the most memorable characterizations of the modern musical theater.

The story is the same, although the libretto has been rewritten with a few new songs replacing some dropped from the original score.

The opening shows Lorelei as the widow of her button tycoon "sugar daddy" of the 1920's about 25 years later. The rest is a recall of the original story of their affair, with their adventures in Paris and Lorelei's eventual achievement of a wedding ring to go along with the scads of diamonds she had acquired from her lover along the way.

It was, and is, to use that horrible description, "a fun show." What else, with Miss Channing in charge? It also is a lavish, handsome production that is well cast and smartly directed.

The cast of the musical "Gigi" at the Uris Theater has a new member in the important role of Aunt Alicia, who helps school the teen-ager heroine of the title in the way to become an upperclass courtesan.

She is Arlene Francis, stage veteran and television personality of long standing. Miss Francis replaced Agnes Moorehead, who had to leave because of illness. Miss Francis continues as a panel member of television's "What's My Line" program.

Business Today

By EDWARD S. LECHTIZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — Buses are big business for the smallest of the nation's automakers.

"They could be the sleeping giant in the transportation industry," says Cruse Moss, president of AM General, an American Motors subsidiary.

Spurred by the energy crisis, many Americans are checking public transportation available to them. They find most alternatives unattractive.

Right now, about 6,500 of the 45,000 buses in use in the United States are more than 12 years old, about as old as they can get and still provide reasonable service. That's hardly an inducement to get Americans out of their cherished automobiles.

"Comfort and Convenience"
"Millions of car-owning Americans who will use the transit buses now being built and those designed for the years beyond have become accustomed to high standards of riding comfort," Moss says.

"We must therefore engineer vehicles that provide the comfort and convenience people expect."

AM General is the newest entry into the transit bus field that has been divided among General Motors Corp. and the Flexible Division of Rohr Corp. When AM General decided to enter the business in 1971, about 2,000 buses were being built annually.

Moss estimates that between now and 1990, more than $5.5 billion will be invested in buses by urban transit authorities, with 75,000 units needed during an 18-year period to expand service and as replacements.

AM General began full production in early February at its Mishawaka, Ind., plant purchased from North American Rockwell in 1969 and first used to produce military vehicle chassis. It turns out five buses a day and will double that with a total of 500 workers by early summer.

Push Red Interiors
Work is well under way on the first of 620 buses for Washington, D.C., under a $24 million contract and the company has contracts for 60 buses for Nashville, Tenn., and 106 more for New Orleans.

Buses being delivered to Washington have push red interiors with carpeting on the floor, sides and ceiling to absorb noise. The seats are a soft cloth which one AM General executive admitted might not be vandal-resistant.

"That's the type of interior the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority wanted since they're hoping to attract people to ride because of the comfort," he said. "I don't know what it will look like after it gets into service."

The side windows offer about 25 per cent more visibility than the GMC buses on the market though the general appearance follows GMC coaches.

Vehicles Restricted
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Vehicles now are barred entirely from historic Jackson Square and Bourbon Street in the French Quarter is open to pedestrians only between 7 p.m. and 3 a.m.

Battery-powered carts decorated like Mardi Gras floats, taxis, horse-drawn carriages and buses help tourists move around in the Quarter before the 7 p.m. curfew.

Valuable Prisons
HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Prisons are big business in Texas, primarily due to the 101,000 acres of land owned by the Texas Department of Corrections.

All of the land, buildings and equipment are valued at some $63 million.

Streaking--A New College Fad

By DOUGLAS STANGLIN
A fidgety freshman at Southern Methodist University slipped out of his bluejeans near the school's main tree-lined boulevard, and made a wild naked dash across the grassy campus onto a waiting motorcycle.

He was not identified. "You don't have time to look at their face, too," one coed said.

The latest fad, called "streaking," has reached epidemic proportions on Texas campuses.

At Baylor, students with their dates lingered at curfew last week near one girl's dorm when a daring freshman, clad in only a ski mask and tennis shoes, sprinted two blocks down an adjoining sidewalk, romped along the side of the building, then cut through the dorm's main lobby with a dorm mother in hot pursuit.

"At first it just started like a joke," one SMU freshman stalker said. "Now it seems everybody wants to get into it. It's sort of a fad, an ego trip. Something totally crazy that appeals to people—running around nude."

One group of stalkers have printed T-shirts labelling them "Streaking Thunderbolts."

At Texas Tech earlier this week, 25 male students, wearing ski masks, tennis shoes and ties, ran from the boy's dorms 200 yards to the girls dorm and back, while Lubbock television crews shot footage and girls shouted their phone numbers from the balcony.

At Texas A&M last week, six male students dashed through a main quadrangle between the girl's and boy's dorms, ran along an adjoining street and into a waiting car.

A half dozen nighttime nudists at the University of Texas, covered with enthusiasm, sprinted around Jester Center in the buff.

"I imagine a lot of people have a fantasy of running around with no clothes on, they identify with running around nude," one SMU stalker said. "Once the act starts, it gives them a vehicle to release that fantasy."

"It's a fun thing to do," said another freshman on the streak circuit. "Nobody would believe we'd do it. Once you start streaking you don't think about being nude. It's fun, though. One time some guys were running behind us kind of cheering us on. I guess it's kind of an ego trip."

The streaking trend, which has spread across the nation, apparently draws much of its impetus from crowds of female students who gape at the roving band of stalkers.

"You wouldn't believe how many girls run outside to see these guys running nude," one SMU coed said. "It's hysterical."

At SMU, some sororities felt left out, since their houses are a half mile from the main streaking zone.

The sororities called us up and asked how come we always run in the freshman girls squad, why those girls get all the action," one veteran SMU stalker said. "They said they want us to run in front of their sororities, but asked us to give an advance warning. They said they'd have rest stations along the way."

One Baylor girl said she had received a "streak alert" and was watching from her window as one intrepid stalker hurried down the sidewalk.

"I have a window with a good view," she said.

"Most people think it's hilarious," she said. "In fact, for once Baylor is up with other schools in the country. The thing we're proudest of is that we're not late getting in on this."

Campus officials don't seem overly alarmed about the rash of nudity. At Texas A&M, however, the dean of men threatened to expel a half dozen stalkers who startled onlookers with their nude review.

"We don't consider it a major problem at all," said B. Caffee, chief of security at SMU.

He said there were 10 or 12 stalkers out of a school enrollment of 10,300. Others have put the figure at nearer 60.

Caffee said the biggest problem with streaking is onlookers. One streaker drew an estimated crowd of 600.

"When large groups gather and individuals on campus are quite active, there may be and have been some instances of safety problems—motorcycle running through a group of pedestrians," he said. "We try to keep the possibility of injury at a minimum, the university is very concerned about that."

Although Caffee said he has spotted more female than male stalkers, freshmen boys seem to be carrying the streaking banner.

"There have been two girls who ran with six or seven guys, but outside of that, that's the only coed streaking," said one SMU runner.

At Texas Tech, students have collected a $600 reward for the first female who will make a dash in the raw, however, they have had no takers.

No other schools contacted reported any female streaking. The streaking fad, however, while not exactly dying has sobered some ex-runners.

"It's turned into an ego thing," said one disillusioned streaker who has decided to hang up his tennis shoes. "All of the sudden they got huge crowds, and now they want to expose themselves. I can't identify with that. A joke is one thing, but enjoying it is another thing."

Another SMU freshman decided the risk was not worth the run.

"I'll never do it again," he said. "I heard it's a felony and that scares me."

A Dallas area district attorney, however, said the new Texas penal Code "only pertains to indecent exposure that offends someone. If you are with a bunch of nudists and not offending anyone, I guess it's okay."

He said the fine is $200 as a misdemeanor.

Recently an unlucky streaker was trapped in a dorm lobby, handcuffed and thrown a pair of sweatpants.

He said a $27.50 fine to University Park for disorderly conduct.

But, any discouraging words seem only to inspire new and more ambitious escapades of nudism.

Two weeks ago, at noon, two stalkers donned their masks, slipped off everything else and jogged naked across the middle of the SMU quadrangle while 2,500 students were between classes.

"Everybody just stopped, they just stared," said one witness. "I've never seen a crowd that large so completely amazed. And the guys ran up into a car and drove away."

Murphy Gives Praise To Hearsts

ATLANTA (UPI) — Editor Reg Murphy, victimized by kidnapers a week ago, said in his column in the Atlanta Constitution Thursday that "I find pain in my heart" for the family of kidnaped Patricia Hearst and praised their handling of the situation.

Murphy said he had searched his mind very carefully for some way he could help the Hearsts, "and the more I have thought about it, the more it is clear that the parents have acted in the most responsible possible manner to the demands of the daughter's kidnapers."

"They (the family) are authentic heroes who have been almost stoic in their calm compliance with demands."

Murphy, who was held by a kidnaper who said he was with the "American Revolutionary Army" until his newspaper paid a $700,000 ransom, was critical of the conduct of some Californians who took the offer of free food the Hearsts were forced to make by the Symbionese Liberation Army, the kidnapers.

"I had hoped with all my soul that the people would shun the distribution," he said. "How could anybody sit down to a meal obtained from the parents of the Hearst victim is beyond me."

He said recent expressions of public opinion he has received indicate "that the vast majority of Americans think the terror tactics are outrageous and will alienate the public."

"Moreover, it seems to many of them that Mr. and Mrs. Hearst have suffered so much" that the ordeal "can not have any political effect."

Murphy said publisher Randolph Hearst and his wife are "worthy of the praise of the nation for bearing up so well under extreme mental pressures."

"So I find pain in my heart for them, but no practical suggestions to make. It seems to me that they already have attempted to do things which few other families could have undertaken, and I respect them for their efforts to find reasonable solutions to unreasonable demands."

He said there is no doubt that the family has tried to live up to the demands "in a way that can be judged only as admirable."

Murphy, who was blindfolded almost all the time during his 49-hour ordeal and forced at times to ride in the trunk of a car or in the back seat covered by a blanket, praised Hearst's daughter.

"Patty Hearst seems to have kept her composure in making the tapes which the Symbionese Liberation Army has sent to her parents," he said.

"In doing so, she obviously has fought a very difficult mental battle with herself."

Winters in the southern part of Louisiana are too mild for lilacs to flourish.

SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD

... with a business of his own!

We'd like for you to meet the Executive Officer of a thriving business... the boy who delivers your daily newspaper.

As the owner and operator of his newspaper route, this Junior Independent Merchant must solve problems and shoulder responsibilities, just like all other businessmen.

He buys his product, your newspaper, at wholesale and then retails it to his customers. He must make daily deliveries, do his own accounting, billing, and even struggle with a collection problem here and there.

He is discovering, through actual experience, the rewards for promptness, dependability, self-reliance and initiative.

One of the rewards is his profit, the difference between the wholesale and retail prices of the paper. His route means money for a savings account for college, a new bicycle, a week in camp, many things.

But he is earning even greater rewards. As he learns about sales and salesmanship, he is equipping himself for the future. From boys who learned the principles of business as newspaperboys have come presidents, governors, mayors, industrialists and professional men... those who determine the quality of our civilization in their generation.

It's his world to conquer... and he's off to a good start.

If you have a son that you think might be interested in a newspaper route, why not write or phone us.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Lola would have rated a blue ribbon on her culinary art. But she failed in "boudoir cheesecake!" So her husband's affection was waning fast. Then she recruited 13 other plump wives, and set a "Dieting Deadline" for Easter Sunday. Notice what happened!

CASE 2-565: Lola G., aged 33, is the plump wife whose husband was losing his ardor for her.

"Dr. Crane," she exclaimed, "you can see I am regaining my slender bridal figure!"

"And my husband's affection for me has been restored, thus serving as a tonic to my ego, too."

"Since a number of other wives at our church were also worried about their increasing poundage and reduced attention from their husbands, we organized a 'Dieting Deadline.'"

"There were 14 of us 'Waddling Walrus' wives. In that first 10 days on your dehydration diet, we shed a total of 144 pounds."

"Then we shifted to the less drastic plan where we were entitled to 1,200 calories per day, with no fluid restrictions."

"On that schedule, we averaged about 1 1/2 pounds weight loss per week, so the next 8 weeks we had slimmed down about 12 pounds apiece."

"By Easter Sunday, we 14 women had actually lost a total of 312 pounds. Wasn't that marvelous?"

"Our pastor's wife had been one of the 14 and we agreed to donate $2.50 per pound to the church on Easter for each pound we had lost."

"It was a happy surprise to our clergyman when he saw his sylphlike wife in her new Easter finery."

"And also realized that the church budget had gained an additional $780."

"And that $780 didn't make us pinch our household budgets a penny, for we save more than that amount on our grocery bills by dieting."

SERVE CHEESECAKE

These 14 church women not only saved more than $780 on dining room viands. But they may have preserved their marriages, too, for Cupid usually shuns fat women.

By regaining more nearly their bridal weight, these wives thus fitted more excitingly into their husbands' wish for boudoir cheesecake!

Wives, it isn't your dining room roast beef and other savory victuals that prevent divorce!

No, it's your boudoir cheesecake!

For such cheesecake is what designing sirens offer your husbands to wean them away from you kitchen slaves.

Why, the paramours may not even be able to perk coffee or fry eggs!

Yet you grieving wives, whose husbands are straying, may rate the blue ribbons at County Fairs for your culinary art.

Wake up, therefore, and learn why your marriages go sour!

Divorce starts in the bedroom; not the dining room! And your mates have much more hunger for erotic calories than you do.

Just because you are content with a mild indulgence in eroticism, doesn't mean that your mate is equally satisfied.

For your feminine hunger for dining room calories also is much less than is your husband's.

You wives universally realize that fact, so you urge him to take second helpings of your culinary art.

But boudoir cheesecake is what sirens employ to break up your happy homes.

Get wise, therefore, and insure your permanent marital happiness by sending for my booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

It will show you one of the main ingredients in the recipe for boudoir cheesecake!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Mellett, Indiana 47558. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents in cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Low Longevity

CARACAS (UPI) — Census Director Pedro Venegas says that the 1971 census revealed that 56 per cent of the population of Venezuela was under 20 years of age and just three per cent over 65.

He said the average age of the 11,519,582 inhabitants was 21 years.

Former Assistant DA Supports Tough Punishment

By ASHLEY P. CHESHIRE

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—Ward Casey, former assistant district attorney at Waco, has taken his preference for tough punishment to a new job and now argues the fate of felons in the fourth largest county in Texas.

In two years at Waco the round-faced young man with the easy smile obtained the longest murder sentences in McLennan County history—5,000 years. He did it three times.

Now he has a small but modern office, well up in the gray stone Tarrant County Criminal Courts Building. It is a long way from teaching grades eight through 12 at Sabine Pass to Criminal District Court No. 1 and Casey knows how he got there.

"We have an adversary system of justice and if you're going to be a trial lawyer, you try to win and you try to win big," he says. "If you're going to hire somebody, you hire somebody who will win big."

His biggest wins, the ones "you can put in a resume," involved Willie Lee Stokes, Eddie Ray Harris and Charles Wayne Anderson. In each case he instructed the jury he would be asking for a sentence roughly 70 times the average lifespan of man.

Stokes killed an 8-year-old girl he picked up at a neighborhood drive-in. His case came up several weeks after a Dallas prosecutor had convinced a jury to sentence the kidnapers of Dallas Morning News publisher Joe M. Dealey's daughter-in-law to 5,000 years in prison.

"The whole colored community was real mad," Casey said. "We figured if you could get 5,000 years for a person who just kidnaped, we ought to be able to get it too."

"It doesn't make any difference about parole, he is still eligible in nine and a half years, but the people on parole and pardons boards have to look at this and if they see something unusual, they might think the jury intended for him to stay in jail."

Harris "killed his granddaddy and his great aunt. He hacked them to death with a butcher knife for no apparent motive and then he came up with an insanity plea."

Anderson was separated from his wife.

"One night he goes and gets a shotgun and a knife and puts them in this hunting bag. I called it his 'handy-dandy murder kit,' and he splattered his wife all over the wall with the shotgun and when his little boy took off running across the backyard trying to get away, he shot and wounded him," Casey said.

Anderson, by then Harris' cellmate, pleaded insanity too.

"That psychology is sort of contagious in the jail," Casey said. "If it works for one, they all want to try it and we kind of wanted to break it up."

"A sentence like that helps to get pleas of guilty out of the jail too. It sort of shakes them up. It gets around real quick."

"They know if the state offered him 20 years and he turned it down and he walked out. They say 'They're up here offering me 10 years but they don't know I might walk too.'"

"But if the state offers him 20 years and he turns it down and loses, they say 'They offered him 20 and they offered me 10. Maybe I'd better take it.'"

The reasons for going to jail Casey says, are punishment, rehabilitation and keeping the criminal out of circulation. A short sentence and rehabilitation might help Ward Casey can deal. He is a young, first offenders, he says.

but "after a while when they've been to the lick log a few times it is necessary to keep him away from other people, from burglarizing, raping and killing."

Prison sentences are dealt in the marketplace of justice and Ward Casey can deal. He is a man who believes just about everyone in the jail is guilty whether he has been tried yet or not.

"They are most all guilty. The trouble is can you prove it," he says. "Since the polygraph tests can't be used against them in court, they almost all take them."

The Texas Legislature has outlawed prison sentences longer than 99 years. It has reinstated a limited death penalty but no one has been formally executed by the State of Texas since 1964.

Casey thinks long sentences are good in a time when the murder does not mean the chair.

THEA Holds Convention At San Antonio

COLLEGE STATION — More than 400 Texas home economists are meeting in San Antonio for the 56th annual meeting of the Texas Home Economics Association today and Saturday.

Among them will be some 150 home economists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, as well as home economists in business, colleges and universities, elementary and secondary education.

Also home economists in homemaking, research, health, welfare, adult education and home economics students will attend.

One highlight of the meeting will be the naming of a Home Economist of the Year, according to Dr. Mattie Bea Medford, vice president and program chairman.

Other activities will include professional section meetings and subject-matter meetings, keynote addresses and luncheons.

During one general session, members will participate in a "mini-Lake Placid Conference" to assist in determining goals and objectives of the American Home Economics Association. The Lake Placid Conference, held last year in New York State, initiated the national goal-setting process, Dr. Medford said.

Keynote speakers include Texas Attorney General John Hill and Mrs. Amy Freeman Lee, lecturer. Mrs. Lee's topic will be "The Challenge of Choice."

During a breakfast for the Extension section of the association, Dr. William J. Fastine, Extension economist-marketing-food distribution specialist, will outline "Projections in Food Marketing."

Besides hosting the Texas meeting this year, San Antonio also will be the site of next year's national meeting when the American Home Economics Association convenes in June, a spokesman for the group said.

Should NOW Become NOP?

We can understand the desire of members of the "fairer sex" to be treated as individuals, which they certainly are, rather than as mere "sex symbols" or members of an inferior order of the human race; although, we must confess, resentment of the former becomes a little difficult to understand in view of some of the attention-pointing clothing being worn, or not worn, today.

We can identify, too, with those of the female gender who insist that, when employed in the market place, they should be paid on the basis of their competence and productivity, rather than on the basis of sex. (We would go even further and point out that males, likewise, should be paid according to the same standard, rather than in accordance with government dictated wage rates.)

If that were all the various feminist movements were intent on achieving which, in simple justice, should be theirs, we would be in their corner cheering them on. But, on closer examination, the plot begins to thicken, leading one to the conclusion that there is an organized effort to eliminate all distinction between the sexes, even to the purging of all words denoting sex from the language. (Which, of course, is futile and in defiance of nature. Men and women are different. They always will be. They were created that way.)

But, even here, there is a curious lack of consistency; an unwillingness to abide by the same rules which they demand of others.

For example, at the present time there is a campaign going on to force newspapers to discontinue separate male and female help wanted ads; the claim being that such ads discriminate unfairly against the female of the species.

But, wonders of wonders, what organization do we find heading up this drive against "male chauvinism"? Why, and wouldn't you know it, none other than the National Organization of Women, of "NOW," as they call themselves.

Now really, ladies, isn't that just a little off-key? If you really expect to be taken seriously, shouldn't that title be changed to something like the National Organization of Persons, or "NOP"? In the interest of fairness to the male of the species, we think it should and, herewith, offer that suggestion.

Why, who knows, maybe even the League of Women Voters will enter into the spirit of it all and do something about their own slightly chauvinist title.

"A man should always consider how much he has more than he wants, and how much more unhappy he might be than he really is."

Joseph Addison

An Address To Leftists

Oh freedom-loving leftist thinkers of the West. Oh, leftist laborites. Oh, progressive American, German, and French students! For you, all this counts for little. For you my book amounts to nothing. You will understand it all when they bellow at you: "You are under arrest, and you yourselves trudge off to your archipelago."

Those words are not our words. Those are the words of Alexander Solzhenitsyn. The Russian author of "Gulag Archipelago 1918-1956," had read them to Western newsmen, 24 hours before he was arrested by Soviet authorities. The term "archipelago" refers to the spots of political prisons scattered across the vast eastern map of the Soviet Union. Having been a political prisoner for 10 years and gifted with literary genius, Solzhenitsyn was peculiarly equipped to relate the story of the archipelago's human inhabitants.

The significance of "Gulag Archipelago 1918-1956" screams from the title. Freedom-loving leftist thinkers of the West, progressive Americans of the news media — who are yet sympathetic to Solzhenitsyn's personal plight — describe the book itself as an indictment of Stalinism. That description is as clear a revelation of progressive moral bankruptcy as Solzhenitsyn's book of the socialist system. The numerals "1956" do indeed refer to Stalinism — that is, the revelation of the Criminality of Stalinism made by Khrushchev in 1956. But the numerals "1918" pre-date the Stalin regime. They are an attack upon the deity of Socialism, the mind and soul that once inhabited the revered body of V.I. Ulyanov whose unresurrected remains look upward from a glass box in Moscow's Red Square. The archipelago of labor and terror may have been Stalin's favorite instrument, but, as seen by Solzhenitsyn, it was Lenin's creation. The date 1918 was Lenin's date.

The one-man assault upon the very foundation and inherent character of socialism can not be tolerated by socialists. In the USSR, the socialist response is to incarcerate the body of the author. In the U.S.A. the socialist endeavor is to incarcerate the book by referring to it as merely anti-Stalinist. If that were the case, Solzhenitsyn would be at least as acceptable as other members of the anti-Stalinist faction in the Soviet Union. The crime for which Moscow police dragged the author from his wife's apartment was his showing that human liberty and dignity were not compatible with the Leninist system from its inception.

Leftist thinking "lovers of liberty" dare not seriously consider that message: For them, it would be an apostasy — an abandonment of life's meaning, a fate worse than trudging off to their own archipelago.

Can It Be True Nixon's Best Friends Are Press Critics?

By GARRY WILLS

President Nixon, they even say, will survive. They even say that attacks on him are his last best hope. That may be true. Perhaps we critics are inadvertently doing our best to save him. His model, all along, has been Mark Twain's Senator Dilworthy. As shrewd a customer as you could wish not to meet.

When Nixon delivered his mawkish acceptance speech at the 1968 Republican convention, some people were brazen enough to doubt that it was a masterpiece. I ran to Nixon's defense by showing how closely it was modeled on Senator

Dilworthy's great address in Mark Twain's novel, "The Gilded Age." You remember? "Let me tell you about a poor little Sunday school scholar I once knew. He lived in the far West; and his parents were poor."

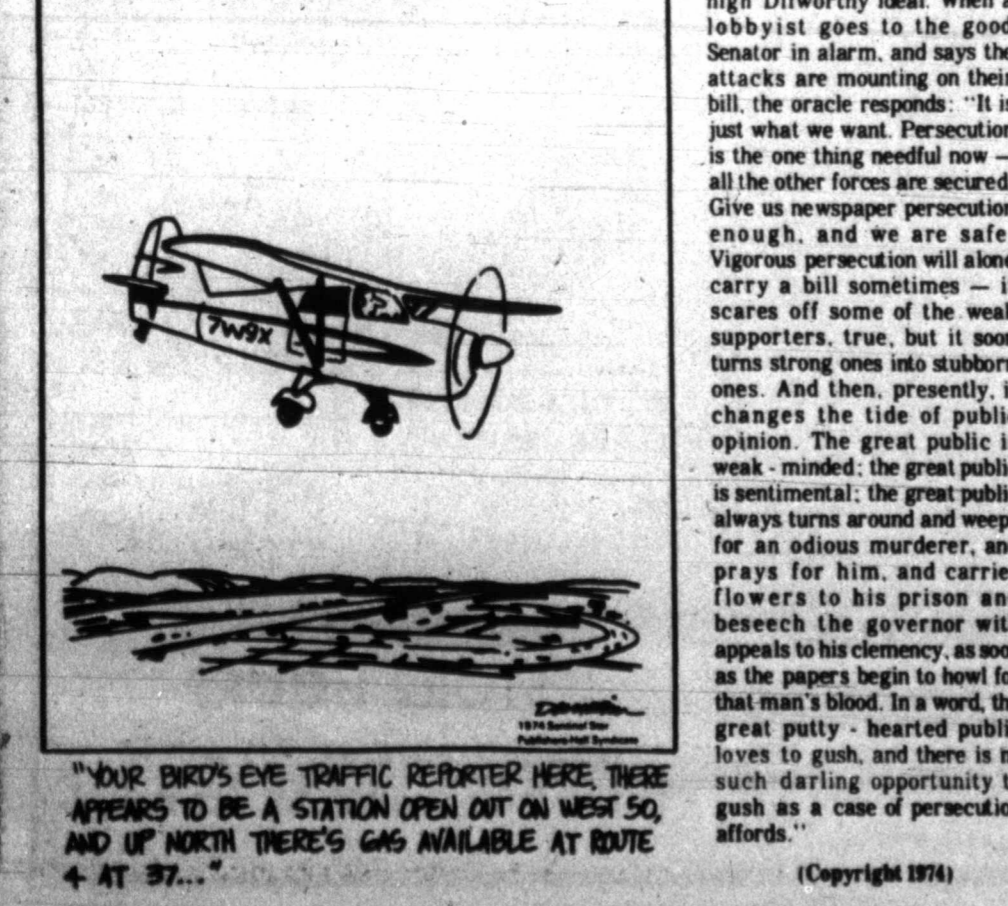

Nixon was already a Dilworthian back in 1968. He solidified his claim on that title in 1972, with his own investigation of the Watergate affair, conducted by John Dean. The script was straight from "The Gilded Age," which set out the rules for this kind of game: "All the witnesses on one side swear that the accused took money or stock or something for his vote. Then the accused stands up and testifies he may have done so, but he was receiving and handling a good deal of money at the time and he doesn't remember the particular circumstance — at least with sufficient distinctness to enable him to grasp it tangibly. So of course the thing is not proven."

And now comes the Nixon's defiance of all the qualified bodies seeking for evidence from the White House. Nixon's White House was handling a good deal of money at the time, and doesn't very tangibly remember — or want others to remember — the particular circumstance.

But he is just following the high Dilworthian ideal. When a lobbyist goes to the good Senator in alarm, and says the attacks are mounting on their bill, the oracle responds: "It is just what we want. Persecution is the one thing needful now — all the other forces are secured. Give us newspaper persecution enough, and we are safe. Vigorous persecution will alone carry a bill sometimes — it scares off some of the weak supporters, true, but it soon turns strong ones into stubborn ones. And then, presently, it changes the tide of public opinion. The great public is weak-minded; the great public is sentimental; the great public always turns around and weeps for an odious murderer, and beseech the governor with appeals to his clemency, as soon as the papers begin to howl for that man's blood. In a word, the great putty-hearted public loves to gush, and there is no such darling opportunity to gush as a case of persecution affords."

Fuel Crunch Doom And Gloom Forecasters Run In Circles

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — Dick Nixon last week hardly appeared like a chap prepping to break his four-year White House lease. His political scouts on the Hill have been reporting the pro-impeachment forces have but 180 House votes. And that's hardly enough. And he had little time to think of resignation — though, as one of his aides put it, he's been hit with everything except the charge that he put the White House in his wife's name.

He spent a good part of one day conferring with a cross-section of ethnic leaders from around the nation. That afternoon he entertained them in the image of the days he built his new majority. On Thursday he held a long Cabinet session — after which Labor Secretary Brennan discussed the construction of a nuclear power plant network to ease the energy shortage.

On Friday he met with one of the best braintrusts any President ever has put together. And out of this session came some startling news: there's a shortage of the doom which the suppliers of gloom have been predicting.

Namely — the fuel crunch just hasn't whipped up any serious unemployment despite the forecasts that there would be six or seven, even eight or ten, million jobless by this time.

There is an oversupply of hysteria. There are long lines, sometimes violent, at filling stations. But the latest, most exact count of those who claim to have been thrown out of work by the energy shortage comes to some 178,700 breadeaters. And that's out of a total of 85 million in the work force.

Of the jobless, some 100,000 are in the auto production and allied fields, in mobile home manufacturing and in some resort sectors. This leaves about 80,000 energy-related jobless spread across all other industries.

A check with the Teamsters, the construction labor leaders, steel workers, rubber unions, right on down, or up, the line shows heavy and steady employment. This will no doubt chagrin some semi-skilled intellectuals. But these are the facts.

And it should be noted that when an unfortunately jobless worker applies for unemployment compensation, he (or she) is questioned on the cause of his misfortune. Invariably the word is that his unemployment is "energy connected." This will be a special category when weeks of compensation are extended or special manpower programs are whipped into shape. So it's natural that the jobless will seek "in" on the new programs.

Further, most of the jobless are in what the Labor Department calls Region 5 — Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Incidentally this includes the Grand Rapids (Mich.) area in which is Vice President's Jerry Ford's old Congressional district. Thus Region 5 accounts for over two-thirds of what now is called "energy related layoffs."

Offsetting this somewhat are American Motors Corp. plans for doubling some shifts and hiring about 1,500 new auto workers to speed out the small cars which are the seal mark of this company. And as soon as the big-three car makers are regeared tens of thousands of United Auto Workers will be recalled.

It's not generally known but the dis-employed auto workers receive something called Supplemental Unemployment Benefit (SUB) if they have any seniority at all. This means the corporations pay them a private unemployment insurance which is added to the state's compensation.

Fact is that such workers pay little taxes and take home comparatively few dollars less than they would if they were working. It's all in the union contracts.

Pete Brennan has set up a special auto industry task force to help the auto workers. And the special new state unemployment compensation will be spread area-wide aid those in other fields affected by the auto layoffs.

Brennan expects soon to call an auto industry labor-management government summit conference to ease hardships in the entire area and industry.

This isn't a happy day for the jobless. But neither is it the industrial Armageddon which was sending the agitated soothsayers to the bomb shelters.

"We've gotten through the crunch part of the winter," says one of the Labor Department's most erudite and respected Cabinet level officials. "Industry has come up with fine energy conservation techniques. They've developed methods of using less fuel. There's hardly been the kind of crunch which was prophesied. So the energy related joblessness is 6 to 7 per cent of the nation's total unemployment and is a falling rate. And we will be responsive to the people out of work."

Millions are having aggravating difficulties getting gas to go to work. But there is work everywhere. Even the owner-operated truck drivers are highballing it.

Question Box

QUESTION: Is it any wonder that we are in deep trouble in this country with the officials of the great corporations appointed to commissions which were set up to regulate the very business from which they operate, such as fuel oil, gas, communications, shipping and insurance? Shouldn't we kick all business people off government positions with regulatory power over their own type of business?

ANSWER: We would suggest instead that the politicians get out of the business of attempting to regulate human activities as the only way to get impersonal government.

Theoretically, when a governmental regulatory agency is created, people who are specialists and have more than the average amount of knowledge of the activity to be regulated are chosen to the boards and commissions. Whether it is advisable to have oilmen, gas producers, communications, shipping and insurance people regulating their own types of business probably will never be settled between people of opposing views.

It would seem only natural that a man who is engaged in a business would have a great deal more knowledge and ability to regulate the activity than someone with no knowledge or training. But he likewise would be inclined to see the point of view of other producers in the field and his findings might not find favor with those seeking stricter regulations.

If one were to carry out the suggestion of the questioner, it would seem that nearly every regulatory agency of government would have to be stripped of its specialists. That would mean no radio or television people on the Federal Communications Commission; no labor union people in the Department of Labor; no business people in the Commerce Department; no consumers in the Department of Consumer Affairs; no bankers in the finance departments.

All in all it would look as if government would be run entirely by a bunch of uninformed bureaucrats. On the state level, there could be no lawyers regulating the licensing of lawyers; no doctors controlling their own members; no barbers, beauticians, plumbers, builders, or other groups in charge of licensing their own businesses.

Perhaps that would be a good idea. Things would be pretty chaotic. But we think it would be far better to get the government out of all business of regulating the affairs of its people and go back to the basic idea of protecting lives and property and leave the rest to the people to handle their own affairs through that marvelous medium — the marketplace. And let the bureaucrats go back to doing something productive.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Federal Judges Speak Out For More Money

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Federal judges have their eyes hungrily glued on those fat pay raises pending in Congress for them. They are baldly lobbying for them — and making no bones about it.

Members of Congress are being barraged with letters from federal judges vigorously urging enactment of the juicy pay hikes, under which they would get the following:

Supreme Court — chief justice raised to $87,200; associate justices $64,500. Circuit court judges increased to $45,700 this year; $49,100 next year; $52,800 the year following. District judges boosted to $43,000 this year; $46,200 next year; $49,700 in 1976.

Graphically illustrative of the type of judicial propaganda that legislators are getting is a letter on the official stationery of District Judge Marvin Frankel of New York and signed by 23 other federal judges.

In defense of the pending pay hikes, they propound three main arguments:

(1) Federal judges have had no increase in five years; (2) they could make a lot more in private practice; (3) they are barred from earning extra income.

Among the signers of this judicial round-robin are the following:

Lobbying Spies

The lobbying jurists bear down strong on the contention they could make a lot more money in private practice — carefully not mentioning the highly pertinent fact that their federal pay is for life even after they retire.

In other words, after they leave the bench they continue to draw full-pay as long as they live — in effect, a lifetime pension to which they don't contribute a cent.

Federal judges can retire at 65 after 15 years' service; at 70 after 10 years' service.

None of this is mentioned in the lobbying letter. Instead they argue:

"Anyone who deserves to be on the bench could earn at least three or four times his current salary in private practice. While it is not suggested that judicial salaries should be comparable, the modest adjustment now proposed (still leaving us below the earnings of junior partners in law firms) seems minimal. Federal judges have had no increase in five years."

Stressing further that point, the 24 federal judges note pointedly that they cannot do any moonlighting for outside income — as is widely and lucratively practiced by members of Congress.

"We suggest," the jurists maintain, "that those opposing these increases do not adequately appreciate the problem as it affects judges of the federal courts. Their freedom to earn extra money, as it should be, sharply circumscribed. So there is no justification whatever for withholding the long overdue adjustment."

Salaries of judges have been frozen at 1969 levels while most federal employees have enjoyed cost-of-living increases almost annually with the result that their current compensation is approximately 30 percent above 1969 rates."

That's their piteous story — and they're sticking to it.

H. L. Hunt Writes

SOVIET RUSSIA'S CRIMES CONTINUE

At the very time when our income-makers and many others who should know better have concluded that Soviet Russia is "mellowing" and is no longer the greatest threat to humanity of our day, voices are coming out of Russia itself to remind us that Soviet crimes continue.

The greatest of these voices is that of the world-famous writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn, who describes his own country as "the steady permanent violence by a state which had succeeded in taking over all legal forms in codifying its violent laws and in clothing its judges in judicial gowns." Of those in the West who pretend these crimes do not exist, Solzhenitsyn says: "We do not err because truth is difficult to see. It is visible at a glance. We err because this is more comfortable."

Now another highly regarded Russian writer, Vladimir Maximov, has called attention to the continued plight of one of Russia's most persecuted minorities, the Crimean Tartars.

These people were deported from their ancestral homeland during World War II and subjected to the most brutal and degrading treatment. When they were not killed, they were enslaved and are still not allowed to return to their homes. Three special articles in the Soviet criminal code, adopted in 1966, were directed against the Crimean Tartars and any who might attempt to speak out in their defense. One who did so, Major General Petr Grogorenko in 1968, was immediately incarcerated in a mental hospital.

These people continue to be exiled and oppressed. They could tell any Western intellectual how Soviet crimes continue.

Did You Know This About OUR RELIGIONS?

By Dr. Carlyle Adams

A Spirit Of Love In People Is Basis Of Christian Unity

Holiness is the real goal of the Christian ecumenical movement, according to Archbishop Iakovos, primate of the Greek Orthodox Church in the western hemisphere. While he participated in the traditional Week of Prayer for Christian Unity late in January, the archbishop says real unity among Christians cannot be achieved by decrees, deliberations of church councils or joint worship services unless people seek to commit their lives to God in the spirit of love for each other.

Question: Did the Volunteers of America begin as an outgrowth or branch of the Salvation Army? — Roanoke, Va.

Answer: Ballington Booth, a son of the founder of the Salvation Army, and his wife, Maude, founded the Volunteers of America in 1896. They had been officers of the Salvation Army. The Volunteers adopted a military organization, similar to the parent organization.

Over the years the chief emphasis of the Volunteers has been ministry to prisons and other correctional institutions. More recently they have extended their services to include working with the aging and rehabilitating persons who have been physically, intellectually and morally handicapped.

There are 650 local units in the U.S. with national headquarters at 340 West 85th Street, New York, N.Y. 10024.

Question: Is the Ethical Culture Society recognized as a church with ordained ministers who can administer sacraments? — Berea, Ohio

Answer: The Ethical Culture Movement is a federation of local societies devoted to the ideals of the worth of the individual, high moral standards of life, with great freedom of thought. The societies are organized as churches with leaders who are ordained. They do not have sacraments, but the leaders officiate at marriages, funerals and in the leadership of Sunday meetings. They also maintain schools at the elementary and secondary level.

Question: How many children from Roman Catholic families are attending public schools in Philadelphia? — Harrisburg, Pa.

Answer: We do not have the exact figure, but Father Raymond J. Teller, director of the Confraternity for Christian Doctrine in the Philadelphia Archdiocese says the number is more than 100,000. In the elementary schools there are more than 68,275 Catholic pupils and nearly 35,000 in the public high schools.

Question: Where in the Bible does one find the words, "Here am I; send me"? — Spokane, Wash.

Answer: In Isaiah 6:8, the response of Isaiah to the Divine call as he heard it in the Temple in Jerusalem.

Mormons Change Name Of North Texas Stake

Because of unusual world growth and to better reflect their geographical location, the name of Texas North Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints with headquarters in Lubbock has been changed.

The new name of the stake, effective immediately, is Lubbock Texas Stake.

Announcement of the new name change was made by the president of the stake, President Darol D. Alfred, following approval from the First Presidency of the Church with headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Lubbock Texas Stake is one of 630 ecclesiastical units of the Mormon Church throughout the world. A stake is an administrative and supervisory unit, generally of five or more local congregations — wards and branches. There are presently 14 such wards and branches in the Lubbock Texas Stake.

They are Amarillo Ward, Borger Ward, Lubbock 1 Ward, Lubbock 3 Ward, Pampa Ward, Brownfield Branch, Canyon Branch, Childress Branch, Dumas Branch, Hereford

Branch, Lubbock 2 Branch, Littlefield Sunday School, Perryton Branch, and Plainview Branch.

Mormon stakes are found in 46 states and the District of Columbia in the United States and in 23 other countries.

In areas of less concentrated Mormon population, members residing in 73 countries are organized in districts and branches of the 107 world-wide missions of the church.

Total membership of the church is 3.3 million. The annual increase is about seven percent.

Under the new naming system adopted by the church, existing stakes and all new stakes in the future will be designated more appropriately with the name of the city and state, province or country in which its headquarters are located. Two examples of this are: Texas West Stake becomes the Odessa Texas Stake, and the Texas East Stake becomes the Longview Texas Stake.

Bishop of the Pampa Ward is L.B. Voyles, south of the city. The chapel is located at 731 Sloan.

Doctrinal Differences Cause Six Resignations

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Six ministers of Herbert W. Armstrong's Worldwide Church of God have resigned from the nationwide sect, accusing the church of squandering money and being inflexible on doctrinal issues, the Los Angeles Times has reported.

Some of the ministers said they were disenchanted by the "profoundly immoral activities" of Armstrong's son, Garner Ted Armstrong, the nationally-known radio and television evangelist, the Times said.

The six ministers, who presided over various congregations throughout the nation, have prepared a statement to be mailed to the church this week, the Times reported. The ministers involved were Al Carruzzo of Pasadena, formerly a director of the church's ministers in the western United States; Barry Chase of Mesquite, Tex.; John Mitchell and Bill Sutton of Shreveport, La.; Tom Fish of St. Louis and Bob Jenness of Big Sandy, Tex.

Mitchell, writing a newsletter to his congregation last month, said he acquired "previously hidden" information last August about the younger Armstrong's sexual activities, the newspaper said.

This information related mainly to the past profoundly immoral activities of Garner Ted Armstrong, the newspaper quoted the newsletter as saying.

Also involved in the dispute were the alleged dogmatic inflexibility of the church and charges that collected money had been spent lavishly, the Times said.

"I would not address myself to the charges, either to confirm or deny," Garner Ted Armstrong told the Times. "For them belatedly to use me as a whipping boy is not only unscriptural, but also unethical."

DALLAS (UPI)— Bob Jenness of Big Sandy, one of six pastors who have quit the Worldwide Church of God in a huff over its leaders and administration, declined today to comment directly on an accusation of sexual impropriety.

Garner Ted Armstrong is not qualified for the office he holds, Jenness said.

One of the charges of the six ministers was that Herbert W. Armstrong, 81, founder of the church, concealed for years the alleged adultery of his son, Garner Ted Armstrong, 44, a nationally known radio and television preacher-commentator.

A second Texas pastor of a Worldwide Church of God church who resigned as Barry Chase of Mesquite, a Dallas suburb.

"High ranking officials are given excessively high salaries and their lifestyles are lavish, much too lavish," Jenness said.

He said that the church demands that members pledge 20 percent of their income every year, plus an additional 10 percent every third year. He said the money goes to Pasadena, Calif., headquarters of the church, and that local churches do not get their fair share back.

Hobart Baptist Holds Revival

The Hobart Baptist Church, 1100 W. Crawford, is having a revival over the weekend beginning tonight and continuing through Sunday.

Brother John Hansard of Dallas will be preaching at the revival. He is a former minister of music at the Barrett Baptist Church here and has held that post at other churches. He has also served in many positions in the church as a layman.

Brother Hansard is currently finishing seminary work at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in preparing for the ministry. While attending the seminary he pastored the Eastland St. Baptist Church in Ft. Worth.

The revival services begin at 7:30 p.m. today and Saturday. Sunday school is at 9:45 a.m. with services following at 11 o'clock.

Pentecostals Set Services

The United Pentecostal Church, 608 Naida, is studying 1st and 2nd Corinthians this quarter in a series called "The Saints Way." This week's lesson title is "The Church, the Body of Christ."

Sunday school begins at 10 a.m. followed by the morning worship service at 11 o'clock. Sunday night service begins at 7:30. Midweek services are Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. H.M. Veach and the congregation cordially invite all interested persons for the services.

Paul Crow Assumes Presidency

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)— Dr. Paul A. Crow Jr., noted Protestant ecumenical leader, has assumed the presidency of the Council on Christian Unity of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

He succeeds the late Dr. George Beazley, a pioneer of interdenominational cooperation in America.

Dr. Crow, 42, has served since 1968 as general secretary of the Consultation on Church Union, a forum in which nine Protestant denominations are discussing a possible merger.

Inner Cities Avoided PHILADELPHIA (UPI)— How you gonna keep 'em down in the city?

That's the question being asked by leaders of the Lutheran Church in America in the wake of a report showing a sharp decline in the number of young pastors seeking appointments to inner city ministries.

During the 1960's inner city assignments were much sought after by graduating seminarians. In recent years, however, Lutheran officials say, "few students about to be ordained request such calls."

Lot to Learn NOTRE DAME, Ind. (UPI)— Catholic bishops studying modern techniques of communications at a seminar here were advised to take a lesson from Madison Avenue.

"If the television industry can motivate people more effectively with cat food commercials than we can with the Sermon on the Mount, then it stands to reason we have a lot to learn from them," said the Rev. Richard A. Blake, S. J., associate editor of America magazine.

Campus Ministry DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)— Mrs. Ebba Johnson, ordained here in January, is the first woman Lutheran pastor in the southwestern part of the United States.

A native of Sweden who received her theological education at the University of Uppsala, the 29-year-old Mrs. Johnson will conduct a campus ministry at the University of California at Davis. Her husband is an assistant professor of English there.

Children Protected PITTSBURGH (UPI)— A random survey of 750 children by the Allegheny County Health Department here shows that two-year-olds in the county are better protected against major childhood diseases than tots in other parts of the country.

The survey of children selected from 1971 birth records shows 84 per cent have received the required dosage of oral polio vaccine, compared to 83 per cent nationally.

THE SIN OF LYING

The word, LIE, comes from the Greek, PSEUDOS, which is defined to mean a "falsehood, lie." The term is taken stands by metonymy for an idol. Also it is used with reference to the practice of falsehood. Another way the term is used is to denote one "speaking falsely."

However, the word usually carries the meaning of one "deceiving by lies." For example, Jesus said, "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake." (Matt. 5:11) The word, FALSELY, comes from the Greek, PSEUDOMENOI, which means, "lying." Those who are endeavoring to live holy and righteously in this life will be opposed to lying men when they say all manner of evil against them. Of course, one can see the "lie" is used so as to deceive others.

In contrast with lying by ungodly men, the disciple of Christ should always speak the truth. He knows the value of truth and will speak the truth without fear of what men will do to him. The apostle Paul wrote, "And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness. Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbour: for we are members one of another." (Eph. 4:24-25)

Of sins committed by man, one which affect more people is the sin of lying. When man lies, he has set out to "deceive." The lie is not merely a passing of untrue statements — for all of us at times will say things which may not be true — but, the lie is framed with the intent to deceive others. One is passing misinformation in all innocence when the other is deliberately passing false information so as to deceive.

The first sin was committed as the result of man listening to a lie by the "father of such," Satan. The devil deceived by the instrument of the lie. As Paul wrote, "...the woman being deceived was in the transgression." (1 Tim. 2:14)

Of all sins, the LIE has resulted in more heartache and sorrow, affected more people and has led to more sin than any other transgression. Nations have been drawn into armed conflict because someone lied. Homes have been broken because the husband or the wife became unfaithful and lied to their spouse. Churches have been split and others have been led into apostasy because someone used the weapon of the devil — the LIE. The inspired apostle wrote, "And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie." (II Thes. 2:11) The LIE, a sin against God, against our fellowman and against oneself, is as ungodly as any sin committed by man.

To the Colossians, the apostle Paul wrote: "But now ye also put off all these: anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communications out of your mouth. Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; and have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him." Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering, forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye. And above all these things put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body and be ye thankful." (Col. 3:8-16)

JUDGE PARKER

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH
He Keeps Having Croup Attacks

BY G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My little boy is 2 years old and keeps having attacks of croup. He was in the hospital twice with it last winter and now he has been in again. The doctor says he likely will have it until he is about 7.

How does croup start? Is it because his lungs are not strong enough? If so, could it be the fault of the mother when she was carrying the baby? I have never been sick and can't understand how my son is having this trouble.

—Mrs. G.T.

First of all, what it isn't. Croup isn't a sign of weakness of the lungs, and it hasn't anything to do with anything that happened to you while carrying him.

Now, what it is: Croup is obstruction of the larynx — a form of laryngitis. While laryngitis may result in hoarseness in an adult, with a small child the air passages are so small to begin with that it doesn't take much to shut off the air supply.

Diphtheria used to be a common cause of croup; widespread immunization against that horrible infection has made diphtheritic croup rare. Heaven be praised.

Today a form of flu virus or a hard cold is the more likely cause. Muscular spasm results in narrowing the breathing passages, plus whatever interference there may be from swelling and mucus.

Why some children are "croup babies" and others are not is something we can't answer, any more than we can explain why attacks of croup tend to come on at night.

The age span usually is from about age 2 years to 4 — but sometimes longer. Sheer physical growth, larger air passages, is the reason it passes.

A child known to be prone to croup has to be watched closely for any signs that the airway is completely obstructed, and in severe cases the child should be hospitalized — as you have done.

For home care, a quarter-teaspoon of syrup of ipecac helps. It makes the child vomit and clears the respiratory tract. Probably your doctor has already suggested keeping some on hand. Humidification, with either hot or cold steam, also is very important, so keep a vaporizer handy.

But if these remedies do not help, and if the child's breathing becomes labored, and particularly if his color gets dusky, notify the doctor without delay and get the child to the hospital because croup is a potentially dangerous condition.

There's another form of croup, with recurring attacks: croup due to allergy. Probably not involved in your case, but someone else may benefit from a word or two. Allergy can, of course, cause swelling and irritation of the airways in some individuals.

If croup is from allergic attacks, there usually are other signs of allergy — constantly running nose, hives, rash, family history of allergies. These attacks can come on suddenly without a fever or signs of a cold. A liquid form of an antihistamine is effective in such cases.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Cafe Biz Up At Miami Beach

By EARL WILSON

MIAMI and MIAMI BEACH and NY — Show Business moved down here where the temp is in the 80s.

The big spenders' big move is to exercise their clout to get a down-front table for Sammy Davis' show at Irving Cowan's Diplomat out at Hollywood-by-the-Sea. It's not so hard to get a reservation. Just slip the maitre d' five gallons of gasoline and you're in.

Out comes lovely Gloria De Haven, youthful and shapely and in good voice... and a young man at my table is panting as he gasps. "I thought Gloria De Haven was an old lady!" She is a big hit.

Sammy springs out in a white jacket with much gold jewelry. "Hi, my name is Johnny Cash," he announces.

"I'm Sammy Davis," he confesses. "Eliminates a lot of chitchat later. Fellow says, 'I don't know who the cat is. May' They all look alike to me.' Sammy kids the Miami scene, with New York visitors getting a sun tan.

"I put a lot of oil on my body and I lay back in the sun — and I love to watch the effect on them when I get up with my sun tan. I just do it to bug the goven."

Sammy probably does his greatest act here with those personal touches. He invites the fans to photograph him but warns them that unless they're careful, their picture is "going to look like just half a Tootsie Roll." Once when he pauses to light a cigarette with a lighter, a huge flame leaps out.

"There went the other one!" he says. He then decides to sing "I Only Have Eye For You." When Sammy sings some oldies, he notes that "to young people this may be nostalgic but to me it was just the other day."

Miami Beach has never been so jammed, they told me. For the first time I say Ann Margaret in a "concert" at the Fontainebleau, watching her beauty slide and glide through a fantastic show so fast that I was breathless just observing. I don't know how she can work so hard. Comedian Marty Brill warmed up the audience first.

Marty spoke of non-working relatives in a modern family: the "breadwinner" had been on WPA, relief, unemployment, welfare... "Where else could he retire from poverty?" The routine was a hit with the Florida visitors who were paying a couple hundred a day for their winter holiday.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Has Burgess Meredith been fired as director of the Zero Motel show "Ulysses in Nighttown"? Don't be silly, Milly. Producer Alex Cohen has brought in celebrated English director John Dexter as a "second eye," the opening's been postponed from March 5 for a few days, but B.M. remains as director... The Andrews Sisters' fans are turning out in droves outside the Shubert Theater, giving 4th St. the flavor of the old Paramount theater. "Over There," says "Patty, will prove 'we were in World War II, not World War I'... Enzo Sturzi hired a medical student to car-sit at gas stations for his 11 cars including two Rolls, a Stuz Blackhawk and a Bentley.

Composer Harry Rubby's death was a shock: such a gentle soul, so obsessed in his middle years with baseball. He wanted desperately to get into a game: "I am a great batter. I hit several line drives to the catcher," he said. Grochu Marx, his hero, participated in jokes on Harry.

Once he was placed in a lineup at 2nd base, and when the left fielder dropped a ball, Harry was benched. He screamed, rightfully, until police pulled him off the field. Then he realized it was a joke. He wrote "Who's Sorry Now" and "A Kiss to Build a Dream On" — but what he really wanted to do was hit a single into left field.

Sing at Ricky's Bar: "No Energy Richs, Come in and Get Gassed"... Comedian Alan Drake: "I had a nightmare. I dreamed Nixon resigned — and became my agent."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: Lewis B. Frumke defined a stock tip: "Irresistible information, guaranteed to be wrong."

EARL'S PEARLS: Jackie Forrest admits she has no sense of direction: "I get lost going up an elevator."

A travel agent described the lovely, sometimes topless girls of Tahiti, and a customer asked, "What's the best time to go there?" "Any time," said the agent, "between 21 and 45."

Under Twenty

By J. MICHAEL SPARR

American jazz for many, many years has been an exported culture to the rest of the world via records, movies and through highly successful overseas concerts by top United States bands.

The jazz roots that have been planted have caused the growth of jazz combos virtually the world over. Among the best of these is Sweden's Arne Domnerus and his Jazz Group.

At a recent reception jazz buffs and some of America's top musicians turned out to hear Arne and his group play. They were introduced by the great Dizzy Gillespie who said, "When we play abroad, particularly in Sweden, we are accorded the greatest consideration and attention. I know that we will do the same for Arne's fine group from Sweden."

The several hundred guests at the reception did listen and were treated to a fine variation of American jazz. Arne's group plays the traditional rather than the progressive jazz and here and there the listener detects the folk music of Sweden bent into the jazz form.

Arne, who has been into jazz since the 40's, has made a number of albums in Sweden and some have found their way to this country and are collector's items among many jazz buffs.

Arne has surrounded himself with the best jazz talent in his country. He plays the saxophone and clarinet with Bengt Hallberg on piano, George Riedel on bass, Egil Johansen on drums, Rune Gustafsson on guitar, Rosse Broberg on the trumpet and Claes Rosendahl on tenor sax and flute.

Dizzy Gillespie says that any of these talents could be great side men with almost any American group. If imitation is flattery, then America has indeed been flattered by the Arne Domnerus group and their American jazz with a Swedish accent.

BIG GEORGE!

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate hearings on auto safety have produced the startling revelation that when a large car and a small car are involved in an accident, the small car is more vulnerable to damage.

In shock value, this finding ranks with a scientific study financed some years ago by the Agriculture Dept.

By dint of carefully controlled experiments, agricultural researchers discovered that the farther an egg falls when it is dropped, the more likely it is to break.

If your nervous system can withstand yet another stunner, permit me to introduce you to the works of Dr. Boris McCopus, an anatomical safety expert.

His studies have established that when a big guy and a little guy are involved in an altercation, the little guy is more apt to get hurt.

McCopus, who is willing to testify before the Senate Commerce Committee when the auto safety hearings end, accumulated his data by setting up a movie camera across the street from a bar and grill that caters to belligerent drunks.

By filming dozens of altercations in front of the tavern, he demonstrated that little guys were flattened 77.4 per cent more frequently than big guys with whom they came to blows.

Subsequent examination of hospital emergency room records showed that little guys also sustained 84.9 per cent of the black eyes, fat lips and bloody noses.

"There's no doubt about it — small bodies are relatively unsafe," McCopus told me in an interview outside the hearing room.

He said he was prepared to recommend that Congress fix six feet and 180 pounds as the minimum standards for anatomical safety.

I pointed out to McCopus that small bodies are reputed to have a number of advantages that make them particularly desirable at the present time.

In their favor is statistical evidence indicating that small guys consume less food, take up less space in elevators and other crowded places and can fall into a lake without causing it to overflow.

I also noted that big guys have a number of obvious disadvantages.

"Many Americans are switching over to smaller bodies," I said, citing the heavy demand for diet and exercise books.

McCopus agreed that small bodies may be better suited for modern urban environments.

Jack Ewing Tied In Citrus Tourney

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Ewing thought a fever might knock him out of play and Arnold Palmer ran into a triple bogey headache on the first hole.

But Ewing, a 29-year-old Californian, got his first hole-in-one Thursday in the $150,000 Citrus Open to card a 67 and go into today's second round tied for the lead.

And Palmer, who got "madder 'n hell," fought back from an opening disaster with a pair of eagles, picking up eight strokes on par in just 13 holes, to finish on a stroke behind the leaders and serve notice he can still mount a charge.

"I missed the cut here last year and it looked like I was going to do it again — on the first hole," said the bespectacled Palmer, who hasn't won a PGA tournament since the Bob Hope 13 months ago.

Ewing, one of three who hit holes-in-one on the 6,929-yard layout at Rio Pinar Country Club Thursday, said, "I didn't think I'd ever get one but today I finally made it. It hit about 15 feet short of the cup, took one good bounce, hit the pin, and hung on the lip before it finally dropped in."

The 6-foot-2, 200-pounder, who had a fever of 100 degrees the night before, scored four other birdies against a lone bogey.

Jerry Heard, the 1972 Citrus winner, also posted a five-under-par 67 with five birdies and no bogeys, and Dick Crawford joined the leaders with six birdies and one bogey.

Posting 68s along with Palmer were Leonard Thompson, who won his first tournament last week in the Gleason Inverrary, Andy North and Jim Colbert.

Tied at 69 were Phil Rodgers, Charles Sifford, Bruce Cramp-ton, Ben Kern and Tom Watson.

Curtis Sifford and Jim Simons also hit aces. Sifford got his with a three iron on the 209-yard par three 16th hole and Simons used a four iron to find the cup on the 191-yard par three 4th hole.

It was the first time three aces had been recorded in a single PGA round since the Monsanto Open in Pensacola last year.

Palmer's troubles started when he hooked his drive into some woods. He then hit a tree, found a ditch, buried the ball in the mud and took a drop, before getting onto the green on the 562-yard par five hole. He got eagles on the 500-yard par, five 10th and the 510-yard, par five 15th hole.

Welborn -- 'This Is Kinda The Ultimate'

SHAWNEE, Okla. — John Welborn, who resigned recently as head football coach here to take the same position in Pampa, told Shawnee News-Star sports editor Roy Angel he isn't taking the Texas Panhandle job for the increase in salary and the improved facilities in Pampa over those in Shawnee's program.

"It was not just the money or facilities that attracted me to Pampa. It's the attitude toward a football and sports program. This (Pampa) is kinda the ultimate," Welborn told Angel.

Welborn, who in three years has coached Shawnee to a 31-5 mark and the Oklahoma state AAA championship, will come to Pampa in about a week for Spring training for next season's Harvesters football team which begins April 29.

The Shawnee coach also told Angel, "It was an opportunity I felt I should take at this time. There's a tendency to get complacent if you stay in one place too long and also this kind of opportunity doesn't come along often."

Texas probably plays the best high school football in the nation. There's more pressure to win, but I don't know if I would want a job with no pressure to win, or where nobody cared enough about winning or losing.

"But it wasn't an easy decision because I don't know that I ever enjoyed living in a place more than Shawnee," added Welborn.

Welborn, who has coached Shawnee to its current 17-game winning streak, is not a stranger to the Texas Panhandle. The 38-year-old mentor began his career as a junior high coach in 1959 in Dalhart. He became the offensive back coach for the varsity the following year.

In 1961, Welborn went to Artesia, N.M., to become an assistant to L.G. Henderson, who worked with Welborn there for eight years. At Artesia, Henderson and staff saw their teams with three state titles.

Welborn took the head coaching job at Portales, N.M., in 1969 and in two years, his teams put together back-to-back 8-2 records.

The Oklahoma native went to Shawnee in 1971 and his Wolves went 10-2 that year, only the third time in Shawnee history a team has won 10 games. Altus stopped Shawnee in the state semifinals that season.

Also in 1971, Welborn was named District 3-AAA Coach of the Year.

The Wolves went 8-3 in 1972, 13-0 in '73, whipping Miami, Okla., in the state championship game.

In 15 years, Welborn teams have amassed an impressive 125-35-8 record. As a head coach, Welborn owns a 47-9 mark.

Baseballers Begin 1974 Season Today

ALTUS, Okla. — Pampa's baseball team, under new coach Ronnie White and assistant Gary Newcomb, opens its 1974 season at 4 p.m. today against the Altus, Okla., Bulldogs here.

The Harvesters will play three games against Altus in the series, including a doubleheader which starts tomorrow at 1 p.m.

White, who has been assistant baseball coach at University of Texas at El Paso the past two years, will be coaching in his first high school game ever today.

The new Pampa coach breaks his top players down as follows (last season's batting averages in parentheses):

Pitcher — Roy Morris, a junior letterman, bats and throws right handed. Morris will start against Altus today.

Pitcher — Dennis Edmondson, also a junior letterman, will pitch the second Saturday game.

Pitcher — Gary Davis, a senior right hander (all of Pampa's pitchers are), will also play in the outfield this season. He will start Saturday's 1 p.m. contest.

First base — Terry Moore (278) is a left-handed senior letterman. "He's a good hitter but his defense needs polish," said White.

Second base — Ricky Bigham (286), a right hander, made second team all-district last

Some Of Best Coming To Top O' Texas Meet

By PAUL SIMS

Some of the best high school athletes in the Panhandle will be on hand Saturday for the annual Top O' Texas Invitational Track Meet to be held at Randy Matson Track. And because of the caliber of the competition, several meet records, including four set last year, will be in jeopardy.

Schools entered in the meet are Pampa, Amarillo, Tascosa, Dumas, Plainview, Borger, Hereford and Perryton. Top contenders include Pampa, Borger and Tascosa.

Top individual contenders include Noel Hansen and Steve Mathis of Pampa, James Harris, Dale Varner and Wesley High of Hereford, Blaine Bildeback of Tascosa and Glenn Gray, Craig Prewitt and Terry Hindman of Borger.

Hansen came in first in the 800 last weekend in the Plainview Invitational with a 2:03.3. Mathis finished second in the 440 with 52.8 and anchors the mile relay team, which came in second in Plainview with 3:39.7. Lubbock High won the event with 3:38.2. Pampa members of the relay team are Quarles, Hansen, Howie Lewis and Mathis.

Harris, whose Whitefaces came in last at Plainview (Pampa finished sixth in a nine-team field), placed second in the long jump with 22.44. The Top O' Texas meet record is 21.84, set by George Fuller, also of Hereford in 1971.

Varner won the shot put in the Plainview meet with a toss of 51.5. High placed third in both the high and intermediate hurdles with 14.8 and 42.3 respectively. The Pampa record in the high hurdles is also 14.8 as Otis Taylor of Wichita Falls and Mark Brewer of Amarillo High both ran it in 1971.

Bildeback and his Tascosa teammates have not competed this year. However, a year ago Bildeback set the pole vault record in Pampa with a 12-6 vault.

Gray came in second in the high hurdles in Plainview with 14.7 and second in the intermediates with 41.7. The Borger team placed a strong third in the meet.

Hindman placed third in the long jump with 21.7 and second in the 100 with 10.1.

Records set last year in the Top O' Texas were 9.8 in the 100 by Pampa's Richard McCampbell, 150-4 1/2 in the discus by Plainview's Ken Cummings and 12-6 by Bildeback in the pole vault.

Girls' Golf Meet Starts Here Today

Limited to nine holes because of the construction of a sprinkler system on the front nine, The Pampa High School Girls Invitational Golf Tournament got underway at approximately 10 a.m. today at Pampa Country Club with a shotgun start.

Teams which entered the tournament were Pampa, Borger, Amarillo High, Tascosa, Caprock, Palo Duro, Dalhart and Brownfield. Tascosa is the defending champion. Brownfield placed second and Pampa third a year ago.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three teams, along with medals to individuals on those teams. Medalist and runner-up medals will also be awarded.

Pampa's girls' golf team is coached by Tom Lindsey.

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — Ion Tiriac of Romania reached the quarterfinals of the Green Group world championship tennis tournament Thursday with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 victory over Juan Gisbert of Spain.

Pampa Linksters Play In 2nd 3-AAAA Round

AMARILLO — Pampa High School's golf team, 25 shots behind Tascosa going into today's round, competed in the second round of district play today at Southwest Golf Club here.

Pampa shot a 324 last week to finish behind Tascosa, 299. Amarillo High, 309 and Borger, 316. The Harvesters are ahead of Caprock, 329; Amarillo B-team, 335; Tascosa "B," 339; Palo Duro, 355; Pampa "B," 361; Caprock "B," 368 and Palo Duro "B," 414.

There will be six rounds of district competition. The third round, originally scheduled for March 8 at Pampa Country Club, has been reset for the same date at Huber Country Club in Borger. The reason for the change is the construction of a sprinkler system at the Pampa course.

Four Harvesters — Wiley McIntire, Randy Watson, Scott White and Mickey Lowe — shot 81's in the first round, which was played at Amarillo Public Golf Course.

Joel Hickey shot an 87, which was dropped since only the four top scores are used.

Pampa's B-team individual scores were Randy Watson and Danny Kohler, each with 87; Mark Polk, 93; Tim Neslage, 94 and Bruce Hungerford, 96 (dropped).

Lefors Among Competitors

GRUVER — Lefors will be among 13 teams and one of the favorites in the annual Gruver Relays, which begin with the preliminaries at 10 a.m. Saturday here.

Spearmen, Canadian and Lefors will be the top teams in the meet, which will also involve Oklahoma teams Boise City, Texhoma and Hooker, and Texas Panhandle teams Booker, Stinnett, Phillips, Darouzett, Panhandle, Gruver and Sunray junior varsity.

CHOICE LOTS for your own future home site - built it EXACTLY as you want it in an area you prefer to live and play. There is plenty of money for people to use who have practiced their credit in the past.

Some Good Older Homes
AT REDUCED PRICES for people on limited budgets, both 2 and 3 Bedrooms. One is a top condition duplex to provide you with income while you occupy the other side. It has 2 full baths, 2-car garage, fenced back yard with fruit and berries that will be delightfully tasty in a very few weeks. Offered at $8,000 by owner but she just might bargain with you; make her an offer! MLS 453.

WE HAVE two or three others from $3,000 to $4,000 in good liveable condition. Ask us for details on MLS 468, 438, and 391.

A WHOPPER - a big 4-room, 3-story for only $9,750 reduced price from original $18,000. It does need considerable work to put it in top condition. If you have the time - here is your project. MLS 338.

Short of Gasoline?
ACROSS THE STREET from discount center and other stores, we have an older good condition 3 Bedroom home, or 2 and a den priced at $10,000 but the man is driving 200 miles a day round trip to his work. Make him a sensible offer - he does want to sell soon. MLS 483.

All Play and No Work?
OR IS IT THE OTHER WAY AROUND? We can sell you a downtown 3-story brick building and a recreation business operating profitably for just $18,000. The widow into whose hands it fell just might carry two-thirds of it if you are a bit short of cash. Out-of-the-weather place to work and earn a good yield on your investment. MLS 632C.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—
From a network viewpoint, television has probably never had a more perfect weekly program combination than CBS-TV's regular Saturday night lineup.

The CBS-TV series on that night are, in order: "All in the Family," "Mash" and The Mary Tyler Moore, Bob Newhart and Carol Burnett shows. Not only are all these series highly successful in the ratings, but they have also won critical acclaim. They have pulled off a genuine hat trick for television—earning huge popularity and the attention of intelligent, selective viewers.

Each of the five shows has belly-laugh appeal in the traditional sense. And yet each one also projects a definite contemporary flavor, reasonably sophisticated for mass-oriented video entries.

CBS-TV's Saturday night lineup carries the network in the ratings. And the coast-to-coast popularity of the lineup is helping CBS-TV to retain its traditional lead in the statistical network competition.

Relaxation Wanted
Furthermore, network executives work constantly to create a lineup of hit comedy series. For successful light entertainment is the backbone of commercial video organizations.

You can analyze television forever, and you will still arrive at the fact that good light entertainment is what most viewers want most of the time.

want to ease off from the... to laugh more than anything else, especially as international and domestic crises pile in on top of their personal concerns.

And the fact that one network, CBS-TV, on one night, Saturdays, has five consecutive series of the kind that video executives dream about is a sort of broadcasting miracle.

There is another kind of television miracle in this program lineup: The remarkable chemistry among the performers in each of the five series.

Habits Changing?
Few things are more elusive in show business than the achievement of genuine chemistry among performers. It is tough enough to get in one show, let alone five—and five consecutive shows, at that.

Yet, "All in the Family" has Carroll O'Connor, Jean Stapleton, Rob Reiner and Sally Struthers. "Mash" has Alan Alda, McLean Stevenson, Wayne Rogers and a number of others who work together exceptionally well.

Miss Moore's series has, in addition to its star, a fine ensemble that includes Ed Asner, Valerie Harper, Ted Knight and Cloris Leachman. Newhart's show also has a solid troupe that includes Suzanne Pleshette and Peter Bonerz. And Miss Burnett's series is bolstered by such regular performers as Harvey Korman, Vickie Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner.

Saturday nights have long been a time for Americans to go out on the town. But CBS-TV's amazingly successful five-series lineup—and the energy crisis—may be changing some national habits.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, March 1, the 60th day of 1974 with 306 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.

British actor David Niven was born March 1, 1910.

On this day in history:

In 1781, the American colonies adopted the Articles of Confederation, paving the way for a Federal Union.

In 1803, Ohio became the 17th state of the Union.

In 1932, famed flyer Charles Lindbergh's 20-month-old son was kidnaped. The boy's body was found on May 12, and in 1936, Bruno Hauptmann was electrocuted for the kidnap-murder.

In 1954, five congressmen were wounded when Puerto Rican nationalists began firing from the gallery of the U.S. House of Representatives.

A thought for the day: American writer Henry Thoreau said, "It is characteristic of wisdom not to do desperate things."

1040 U.S. Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. What advice can the IRS give me about choosing a tax preparer to fill out my return?

A. The IRS offers the following advice to taxpayers seeking assistance from commercial income tax preparers; avoid the preparer who "guarantees" refunds, wants a percentage of the refund, or supposedly knows all the angles; avoid the preparer who advises the overstatement of deductions, the claiming of fictitious dependents or the omitting of income; do not allow your refund check to be mailed to the preparer; never sign a blank return; and do not sign a tax return prepared in pencil because it can be changed later. Taxpayers should insist that the tax preparer sign the return he prepares and enter his tax identifying number and address in the spaces provided. Finally, be sure to keep a copy of your return.

Q. Are there any changes in the social security tax for 1974?

A. Yes. Although the tax rate remains 5.85 percent for both employers and employees, the maximum amount of wages subject to social security tax has been increased to $13,200 for wages paid in 1974. This means the most any one employer should withhold from your 1974 pay is $772.20 in social security tax—up from $631.80 last year.

Q. I had two jobs last year, and more than the maximum amount of social security tax was withheld from my pay. Can I claim the excess?

A. Yes. If you worked for two or more employers during 1973 and more than $631.80 in social security tax was withheld from your pay, you are entitled to claim the excess social security

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Businessmen and investors around the world are now in the grips of an inflationary fever," says Argus Research Corp. With new highs being recorded daily by commodities, the possibility of a flight from currency is raised throughout the Western world. It continues. But barring new random disturbances, world economic monetary policies indicate the inflation rate will be contained during the second half of 1974 and the beginning of 1975, the firm says. "And for the United States that means dropping back to a trendline inflation rate of five to six percent," it adds.

"The keystone of the American free enterprise system, competitive access to capital at reasonable rates, has been critically weakened by the Federal Reserve Board's persistent five-year effort to 'control' inflation by restricting the money supply," according to Wright Investors' Service, a Bridgeport, Conn. firm. It says today's "real" gross national product needs only 7 per cent more dollars to finance it than a year ago. The Fed has ignored this fact, the firm argues, "in the face of an accelerating decline in employment and consumer purchasing power."

Money market investors foresee a plunge in interest rates despite the Federal Reserve's unwillingness to loosen the reins on credit, according to Continental Bank of Chicago. "Market reactions to even minor Federal Reserve shifts to ease credit conditions will be large, and probably even greater than the Fed would like to see," the bank continues. Recent Fed moves to increase the money supply do not suggest a change in policy, the bank adds, "but adherence to a long-term goal of a 5 to 6 per cent growth rate."

tax as a credit against your income tax. For details, see your tax form instructions. However, if you worked for only one employer during 1973 and more than the maximum amount of social security tax was withheld, you may not claim the excess as a tax credit. Your employer should adjust this over-collection with you.

Q. I received a state income tax refund in 1973. Do I have to report this as income on my 1973 Federal income tax return?

A. If you did not deduct state income taxes on your 1972 Federal income tax return, you do not have to report this state income tax refund on your 1973 Federal return. If you did deduct state income taxes on your 1972 Federal return, you must include the state tax refund as you derived a tax benefit from the prior deduction.

Of course, a taxpayer who itemizes and paid a balance due in 1973 on his 1972 state income tax return should add this amount to his 1973 state income tax withheld to determine his deduction for Federal tax purposes.

YOU CAN MAKE IT HAPPEN

Every day of the year, Catholic Relief Services "makes it happen" for millions of poor people the world over by sponsoring more than 1,000 development projects in some 50 countries. These projects run the gamut from simple well-digging to technical vocational training courses. But in each case, the goal of CRS is to give the underprivileged citizenry of the developing nations an opportunity to better themselves — to attain economic viability and human dignity.

Your club or organization can be a part of this vital endeavor by supporting the American Catholic Overseas Aid Fund which each year supplies the basic funding for the global assistance work of CRS. Your group can "make it happen" for a poverty-stricken family overseas. All you have to do is sponsor a "happening"—a fund-raising project in your local area. Here are just a few activities for your consideration—a cake or cookie

Q. Are political contributions tax deductible?

A. Yes. If you itemize deductions, political contributions are deductible up to $50 ($100, if you are married and filing a joint return). Instead of a deduction for political contributions, you may claim a credit against your income tax of up to $12.50 ($25, if married, filing jointly).

Q. I earned $95 in interest from a savings and loan association and $150 in dividends from some stock. Do I have to pay tax on this money?

A. Interest income is taxable in full. Thus, the $95 in interest would have to be reported. The first hundred dollars of dividends is not taxed unless the corporation paying the dividends indicates that they are not ordinary dividends. Thus, in most cases you would only have to report $50 of your dividends.

Q. What are the rules for deducting travel expenses?

A. In order for travel expenses to be deductible, they must be reasonable and necessary and incurred while away from home in pursuit of a trade or business. Business travel expenses are deductible, even if you do not itemize your deductions.

For more information, see IRS Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses." It's available free from your IRS office.

sale, a car-wash, a film showing, a fashion parade, a rummage sale, a card party, a sewing sale or an "antique" auction. Or, maybe you favor your own original "happening"—the possibilities are endless. Another thing, don't get that feeling that the proceeds from your organization's fund raiser would be so small as not to matter. Here are a few specific examples of what your group's contributions will do—for only $23.50 CRS can supply mason's materials to help a youngster overseas learn a trade—a mere $7.50 enables CRS to send another willing worker—to help poor farmers in the Third World, CRS can purchase a dozen rakes at a cost of $42.00 or $36.00 buys an equal number of spades. Every dollar is important—every penny used to the best advantage.

Have a "happening" now, send the proceeds to: ACOAF, Empire State Building, New York, N.Y. 10001. Join the greatest happening of all—helping others.

Scientists Excited By Probe's Evidence Of Venus

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—
The first analysis of pictures returned by Mariner 10 three weeks ago shows Venus has an atmosphere that rotates 60 times faster than the surface except for one peculiar mass of gas that always seems to face the sun.

To further intrigue excited scientists, the thick, hot gases around earth's sister planet seem to have an organized movement, with strange bright spirals twisting out from the equator to the poles. "We're finding things we didn't expect," said Dr. Bruce Murray, chief of photographic experiments for the space agency mission, in making the first report of the scientific results of the space probe.

Mariner 10, equipped with two telescopic television eyes, was the first spacecraft to photograph Venus from within a few thousand miles. It is now en route to a rendezvous with Mercury on March 29.

Murray told a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that the space probe also discovered temperature variations in the depth of the atmosphere which may indicate it is layered.

But he said the most exciting finding is that the Venusian atmosphere contains some dye or other phenomena which shows in ultraviolet light how the atmosphere behaves and its makeup.

"It turns out that it is rotating around the planet once every four days even though the surface rotates much slower. This had been predicted but we confirmed it," he said, adding that the planet itself rotates once every 242 days. "It rotates relatively uniformly, especially around the equator. As one gets near the poles, it rotates even faster."

The word "daisy" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon and means "day's eye."
