Ford Claims End To Oil Embargo

Cabot" luncheon in Coronado Inn. Charpie is pictured on the right as he addressed the luncheon audience and told of his frustration with Washington bureaucracy.

Sources Claim No Basis For Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford said today he had been told that the Arab oil producing countries had agreed to lift their embargo against the United States. The White House adopted a wait-and-see attitude. Ford said it was his understanding that announcement would be made in a day or two. He made the statement in an interview on the CBS-TV Morning News Program. His press secretary said later that Ford was relying on news reports for his remarks. Oil ministers of most of the oil producing leaders met in Tripoli Wednesday and recessed their conference until Sunday in Vienna without formal announcement. Arab sources said today they had agreed to a two-month trial removal of the embargo, subject to a final decision in Vienna.

Some later date, a day or two from now. There had been reports prior to the Tripoli meeting that oil ministers already had agreed to drop the embargo, but would not announce it from the Libyan capital out of deference to Libya's opposition. When Arab oil again becomes available to the United States, the gasoline shortages that caused long lines and short tempers in much of the country will be eased, officials said. But they cautioned that some shortages would continue even when full imports resume. The oil industry estimated that a resumption of the flow from the Arab wells—provided that production cuts imposed prior to the embargo also were removed—would be fully felt in about two months. Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged that oil companies would continue to manipulate supplies to pressure the government to yield to its demands. In an interview with UPI, Nader said "long gas lines, and then no lines, will be used like a yo-yo" by the industry to try to get "higher prices, weaker pollution controls and offshore drilling leases." Energy Chief William E. Simon said shortages would be much less acute with the return of Arab oil, and said this would worsen his chronic problem of trying to convince Americans that some shortages would remain, and that they should conserve fuel. AFL-CIO chief George Meany Wednesday said that in January, 1974, oil companies shipped overseas six times as much gasoline as they did in January, 1973. The Federal Energy Office told UPI its figures showed the United States exported 600 barrels of gasoline a day in January, 1973, but the figure jumped to 4,000 barrels a day in January of 1974. According to an FEO official, the increase could have been the result of oil firms attempting to sell the gasoline at higher prices overseas before an FEO export ceiling went into effect at the end of January. According to Nader, the oil industry "has now learned the formula to get what it wants," and the gasoline lines will shorten drastically. But if the industry is later blocked in its drive for higher prices, "the lines may come up as continual reminders to the people" of what happens when the industry is thwarted, Nader said.

Overcast Skies Continue Over Panhandle Area

The overcast skies which prevailed over Pampa and the immediate area surrounding Wednesday continued this morning, despite early predictions of sunshine. While Pampa remained under gray skies all day yesterday, people who travelled Wednesday reported brilliant sunshine all afternoon from Skellytown west.

There was a variance of only six degrees in Pampa's temperature for the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today. The high Wednesday was 45 degrees and the low this morning was 39. Forecasts called for a high today in the mid-70s, but shortly before noon the thermometer had reached only 41 degrees. Tomorrow's high should be in the mid-60s with the low tonight near 30. Winds south-southwesterly today at 12-22 mph and gusty; diminishing tonight.

In UPI reports: Scattered thunderstorms fell along the Rio Grande in Texas from Del Rio to Laredo today and promised to spread into other sections of the state. Actually, nearly all of the state had predictions of showers and thunderstorms through Friday. Most of the state also was due cooler weather, beginning tonight in the Panhandle. Overnight lows in the 30s were predicted in the Panhandle.

Two cold fronts brought colder temperatures to the north central United States today, producing snow, rain and high winds. Stockmens advisories were in effect for the Dakotas and portions of Wyoming and Montana. Except for some cold in New York and New England, the eastern half of the country was clear, while fair weather was the rule for Oklahoma and northern Texas.

Clouds covered most of the northwestern quarter of the country, and rain continued in western Oregon. In some portions of the West Coast, almost an inch of rain fell.

Charpie Urges Union Resistance

By TEX DEWESE
Robert A. Charpie, president of Cabot Corp., speaking at a joint meeting of the Pampa Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce in Coronado Inn Wednesday afternoon, appealed to Cabot Machinery Division employees to resist an attempt now being made to unionize the Pampa operation.

Company back over most of the past ten to 15 years. "But," Charpie said, "I am confident that with continued hard work by all members of the Machinery Division we can look forward to the time when it will take its place among the other successful businesses of Cabot Corporation. "When the job is done I am also confident it will justify our past very difficult decisions to stick with this Division while it was having its problems."

At this point in his talk, Charpie said: "There is now, however, a cloud on the horizon which could adversely affect the future course of events at the Machinery Division. A petition for union representation has been filed Tuesday by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers local union, 527 W. Brown."

This, Raymond said, will be followed by a Labor Relations board hearing and the subsequent setting of an election date. The Machinery Division at Cabot employs approximately 700 persons. Charpie told his listeners yesterday he had just come from a short visit at the Machinery Division and "I can tell you like what I see and hear out there."

The Boston-based president of Cabot said problems at the Machinery Division had held the Division into the position it enjoys today. Then the Cabot Corp. president made his appeal "to the employees, their families, and all of Pampa to keep the union out."

He added: "We are going to work very hard to achieve that objective. I am hopeful that our employees who get so much credit for the progress to date will see to it that their future success and the future of the Machinery Division in Pampa is not jeopardized by having a union. I am hopeful that now, as in the past, they will keep the union out of the Machinery Division."

Charpie did not bring up the labor difficulties until near the end of his 35-minute talk. He opened his address by stating he was pleased to come to Pampa to talk about Cabot and stated that "Pampa is a very important place to Cabot."

Stating that Pampa was the second largest city in the number of Cabot employees, he added that Pampa also was the only place in the company's worldwide operation that produces for all three Cabot businesses—chemical, energy and engineered products.

"We are now set up in Pampa so we can grow in the future," Charpie said. "We now have the courage to experiment and take risks to create new business opportunities."

Charpie spoke of Cabot's worldwide activities. He said he was optimistic about the Arabs and the oil embargo being lifted. He said he, himself, has a scheduled meeting with Arab leaders next week in Algeria. Charpie declared regulatory machinery of the federal government was falling far short of coping with problems arising from the energy crisis and current political turmoil.

He added that he and other Cabot officials were frustrated with governmental agencies the company is forced to work with. The Cabot Corp. president was introduced by E.L. Green Jr., former Cabot executive in Pampa.

At the conclusion of his talk, Charpie was presented a Top O' Texan award by Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, who told him "Cabot has been an excellent corporate citizen of Pampa and we are looking forward to continued pleasant association."

Yesterday's joint meeting was presided over by Rex McAnelly, who is president of both the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce. Seated at the head table with Charpie were local Cabot officials including Boyd Taylor, manager of the Oil and Gas Division; Victor Raymond, manager of the Machinery Division; O.M. Prigmore, manager of the Carbon Black Division; and Al Smith, manager of the Engineering Division. Many other Cabot employees were in the luncheon audience.

Judge To Decide On TV Proposal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A judge will decide Monday whether two accused Symbionese Liberation Army assassins may appear on nationwide television to deliver a proposal for the release of kidnapped Patricia Hearst.

Judge Sam W. Hall said at a Contra Costa County Superior Court hearing in Martinez Wednesday that the main issue was whether the appearance would jeopardize the suspects' right to a fair trial.

Joseph Remiro, 27, and Russell Little, 26, were accused of assault charges as a result of a January shootout with Concord policemen who had stopped their van. In Oakland, the pair were charged with the Nov. 6 slaying of Oakland School Superintendent Marcus A. Foster.

John Bain, attorney for Little, said the appearance would consist of a statement five to 10 minutes in length about the conditions of their confinement and "suggestions about the possible release of Miss Hearst."

William Gagen, Remiro's lawyer, said of the release proposal: "It is not a plan for place, time and date (for Miss Hearst's freedom)." And, he added, those who expect it to be "will be very disappointed."

Miss Hearst, 20, daughter of San Francisco Examiner Editor and President Randolph A. Hearst, was kidnapped by the SLA from her apartment near the Berkeley campus of the University of California on Feb. 4.

If Hall approves the TV appearance, the defense lawyers will then have to appear in Alameda County Superior Court in Oakland to get permission there.

The Martinez judge said there were "some outside pressures existing I cannot allow those outside pressures to get into this case and influence my decision."

In a weekend communique the terrorist group said the program was inadequate and should be improved. It also demanded Remiro's and Little's TV appearance.

PPROA Holds Annual Meeting

AMARILLO — Following registration and a director's meeting Wednesday, the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association's 44th annual meeting continued today, highlighted by the annual statewide meeting of the Texas Railroad Commission at the Civic Center Auditorium.

After the conclusion of the Railroad Commission meeting, members of the association met for a luncheon at the Hilton Inn. Jim C. Langdon, chairman, Texas Railroad Commission, and Duke Ligon, assistant administrator of the Federal Energy Office, addressed the noon gathering.

The business session of the association began at 2 p.m. with Robert E. Vinson, assistant general counsel for the Independent Petroleum Association of America addressing the PPROA membership.

The annual banquet begins at 7:30 p.m. today, preceded by a cocktail hour at 6 o'clock. George Mitchell, chairman, Mitchell Energy and Development Corp. of Houston, and president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, will speak.

Jack M. Allen of Perryton, president of the PPROA, will preside at the banquet.

School Election Absentee Voting Begins Monday

Absentee balloting in Pampa's April 6 school election will start Monday at the school district business office, 119 Frost, across from City Hall.

Five candidates are in the race for two seats to be filled on the school board. They will appear on the ballot in the following order: Don Carpenter, Dorothy Stowers, Sam Anderson, Calvin Lacy and Bill Arrington.

Also on the school ballot will be the proposition to increase the number of school board members from five to seven.

Absentee balloting in Pampa's city election April 2 also will start Monday at the City Secretary's office in City Hall.

Two city commissioners are to be elected. Joe Curtis is seeking re-election in Ward 2 and Arthur Rohde is up for re-election in Ward 4. Neither has an opponent on the municipal ballot.

SUBPOENA KILLED Executive, Judicial Showdown Averted

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A state court subpoena for President Nixon has been killed, averting for the third time in the history of the United States such a showdown between the powers of the executive and the judiciary.

The subpoena died Wednesday as local charges of burglary and conspiracy against John Ehrlichman and two other former White House aides were withdrawn, so Ehrlichman and G. Gordon Liddy can be prosecuted in federal court on charges stemming from the same incident, the Ellsberg burglary.

In an unusual action, lawyers for Ehrlichman and Liddy protested the dismissal of charges against their clients. They argued that it would be better for the defendants to stand trial here, in superior court, than in federal court in Washington, D.C., "a forum in which the rules are more favorable to the prosecution," and Watergate publicity has been greater.

IN ELLSBERG CASE Burglary Team Suspects Present 'Innocent' Pleas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three members of the Watergate burglary team pleaded innocent today to conspiracy charges growing out of the 1971 break-in of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

A fourth man indicted in the case, Felipe de Diego, 45, of Miami, also pleaded innocent, and his lawyer, Henry B. Rothblatt, told reporters that he might subpoena President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger as witnesses at his client's trial.

G. Gordon Liddy, 43, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., a lawyer for President Nixon's re-election organization at the time of the Watergate break-in, was among the three who pleaded innocent to the burglary of the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, psychiatrist for the Pentagon Papers figure. Also pleading innocent were two of the five men who were arrested inside the Democratic national headquarters offices on the morning of June 17, 1972—Bernard L. Barker, 56, and Eugenio Martinez, 56, both of Miami.

Liddy was convicted early last year after the original Watergate seven trials. Barker and Martinez pleaded guilty. Rothblatt would not elaborate on his remarks about subpoenaing Nixon. He said merely, "If necessary we would subpoena the President." He replied affirmatively when asked about Kissinger.

Barker, Martinez and de Diego have been free on personal bond since being indicted.

assassinating American or foreign political leaders. An amendment was added, 49-43, providing that the "mitigating" factors should be liberally interpreted and the "aggravating" circumstances proved beyond a reasonable doubt.

At the same time, the House approved a bill providing the death penalty for hijackers with the same safeguards that are included in the Senate bill. The Senate bill would apply only to crimes committed in Federal jurisdiction.

PASSES LEGISLATION Senate Approves Death Penalty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In response to a Supreme Court ruling, the Senate has voted to restore the death penalty for treason, espionage, and certain crimes involving killing.

Passage of the legislation, which was sent to the House for action, could lead to the first executions in the United States since 1967.

In 1972, the Supreme Court ruled that capital punishment was unconstitutional because of the uneven way it was imposed and invited Congress to establish standards.

After two days of debate, the Senate Wednesday passed the bill 54-33 despite a last-minute plea from Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, who said "we're going to take a step into the past with this measure."

"Man cannot make the world a better place to live by returning brutality for brutality," he added. The bill provides the death penalty for treason, espionage and a set of specific crimes—where death occurs—such as murder, hijacking, and kidnapping.

The death sentence could not be imposed if "mitigating" factors exist—such as the accused being under 18, or a person taking a minor part in a crime, acting under extreme duress, or not being able to foresee that death could result.

If the "mitigating" circumstances are absent, the death penalty is mandatory if specific "aggravating" circumstances exist. These include previous convictions, murdering a policeman or a prison guard, killing for hire, or assassinating American or foreign political leaders. An amendment was added, 49-43, providing that the "mitigating" factors should be liberally interpreted and the "aggravating" circumstances proved beyond a reasonable doubt.

Film Crew Plane Crashes, Kills 35

BISHOP, Calif. (UPI) — A chartered airliner carrying a film crew from the ABC-TV series "Primal Man" crashed into a mountain ridge in a remote area of a national forest Wednesday night and exploded in a ball of fire, killing all 35 aboard.

The U.S. Forest Service said a helicopter that landed at the site minutes after the crash reported no survivors. Among the dead were six actors, including Janos Prohaska, who once played a comic bear character on the old Andy Williams television series, and Dennis Azzarella, the "Primal Man" series director. Wolper Productions said.

The twin engine Convair, chartered from Sierra Pacific Airlines, slammed into the snow-spotted Poleta Ridge of the White Mountains in Inyo National Forest not more than five minutes after taking off from Bishop, the Forest Service said.

The plane blossomed in flames that were clearly visible from Bishop, more than eight miles away. The crash occurred at about the 7,000 foot level in a roadless region of sagebrush-covered ridges and deep valleys about 75 miles southeast of Yosemite National Park, said Forest Service spokesman Ed Waldapel.

David L. Wolper, president of Wolper Productions, confirmed in Los Angeles that the plane was carrying 31 members of a film crew from his studio on a flight to Burbank, in the Los Angeles region. The Federal Aviation Administration said the airliner carried a crew of four.

The crew had been in the Mammoth Lakes area, filming the third of a series "Primal Man: Struggle for Survival." The series

IN MITCHELL, STANS TRIAL

Government Gets More Support

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government was drawing bolstering evidence in its Mitchell-Stans case today from an articulate business executive who testified that financier Robert L. Vesco said a heavy cash contribution to the 1972 Nixon campaign was "a lot cheaper than legal fees" to cure his business woes.

Nixon Sets Series Of Appearances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, seeking more public exposure outside of Washington, flies to Chicago late today for an overnight stay and a nationally televised luncheon appearance Friday before a large gathering of business executives.

After returning briefly to the White House he will go to Nashville, Tenn., Saturday night to dedicate the new "Grand Ole Opry" Center, sharing the platform with Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace.

Tuesday he will fly to Houston, Tex., for an evening appearance before the National Association of Broadcasters convention. Both in Chicago and Houston, Nixon will have hour-long question-and-answer sessions which will be broadcast live on nationwide television.

Both Nixon and his aides believe he gets better treatment in forums outside Washington. His travels coincide with the confrontation shaping up between the White House and the House Judiciary Committee over access to presidential tapes and documents for the impeachment inquiry. He appears to be losing ground with key Republicans on that issue.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, the committee's ranking Republican and one of Nixon's strongest supporters of the panel, have all expressed the view that the committee's request must be met.

Price Testifies In Beef Probe
WASHINGTON — The American consumer is being forced to pay high retail prices and the country's beef producers are going broke, U.S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa testified here Wednesday.

Price gave testimony before the Senate Agricultural Subcommittee, which is investigating beef prices. "My real concern today is that unless something is done immediately, the cattle feeders will go bankrupt and will not be able to continue feeding cattle," Price, a fourth-generation rancher and cattle feeder, said.

Price called the $20 billion beef industry one of the great examples of pioneer free enterprise. He called on the federal government to end controls on food stuffs.

"Not only will the present low prices of fat cattle break those who are feeding the cattle, but they will also shake banks and other companies that have been loaning large amounts of money to develop and keep the cattle industry in business."

He said the cattle feeding industry and "the future meat and food supply of the nation as well" are in jeopardy. Price added that last year's freeze on beef prices, recent increases in beef imports, the high cost of grain, feed and fertilizer, and the complex psychology of supply and demand have all served to discourage the production of beef.

He said he wondered why consumer prices have remained high when the cost of beef cattle has dropped so drastically. He called for promotion of beef sales, the moving of surpluses, both in the feedlot and in the cold storage areas, and he asked the Department of Defense to modify beef purchase specifications and to move up purchase dates.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Diabetes is a scare word for many people — conjuring up thoughts of coma, early death or a lifetime regimen of shots and measuring your diet.

There's no use denying that diabetes is a serious disease. It does rank among the top 10 causes of death in Texas, reports the State Health Department. And, it is one of the three leading causes of blindness.

But today the greatest fear from diabetes should be in having the disease and not knowing you have it. Once it is out in the open, you can receive treatment.

The Health Department went looking for diabetes recently in two South Texas counties — and found it. Special free clinics were held in the offices of private physicians and Health Department clinics in Starr and Hidalgo Counties. Television messages urged people to avail themselves of these tests.

In the two counties, 835 persons hearing the messages responded for the simple tests. Of these, 136 had positive high blood sugar.

In addition to the 835, another 440 persons received diabetes blood tests at regular Health Department clinics. In the six weeks following the short campaign, another 269 persons were screened at clinics or by private physicians.

Control of diabetes today is so effective that most people who have it need not be seriously impaired. Diabetics are found in athletes, businessmen, housewives, factory workers, politicians, farmers, growing children.

And all can lead worthwhile, productive lives. Their lives are being prolonged dramatically — as long as they take the extra care necessary to keep diabetes from taking its rapid toll if unchecked.

Just what is diabetes? Medical authorities don't know exactly what causes it, and they can't cure it. But they can help a person live with it.

They know that the diabetic's pancreas produces either no insulin or not enough to utilize properly the sugars and starches he eats. This in turn interferes with the body's handling of fats and protein. Sugar build-up in the body can lead to serious consequences — poor circulation, heart disease, blindness, infection, kidney failure, high blood pressure, stroke.

Some of the overt symptoms may be loss of weight, excessive thirst, tiredness, frequent urination, excessive appetite.

Diabetes can cause an accumulation of problems before the victim becomes aware of them.

That's one reason public health officials and private physicians urge everyone to be sure of their own conditions. A blood or urine test can give you the answer.

There are certain high risk factors which make a person more likely to get diabetes. It's these high risk individuals who need the test most of all. Heredity is one of the risk factors, if there is a history of diabetes in your family.

But ask yourself these other questions: Are you 45 or older? Are you overweight — obese? Have you had any babies that weighed over nine pounds at birth?

Every "yes" answer increases your chance of having diabetes, and it should compel you to have a checkup to be sure. Even if you aren't a person at high risk, don't you want to know for sure that you aren't one of the two million hidden diabetics in this country?

Your State Health Department urges you to take this step toward good health — now and in the future.

Meeting Slated For Panhandle Odyssey 2000

Frank Norris, Jr. director of the Wyoming Travel Commission, will be the speaker at the third annual Panhandle Odyssey 2000. To be held on Friday, March 22, at the Villa Inn Convention Center, Odessa 200 is a joint venture of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, Board of City Development and the Board of Convention and Visitors Activities.

Designed to bring Amarillo and area leaders together, the event will include a reception, banquet, program and dance, all of which are open by reservation to those interested in fostering unity and growth within the Panhandle.

Tickets for the evening's activities will be $7.50 per person including food and refreshments for the entire evening. Admittance will be limited to the first 1,000 persons making reservations.

Festivities will begin with the reception at 6:30, and the banquet will start at 7:30. The program will consist of selections by the Bel Canto Chorus (Amarillo High School choral group invited to the Summer Music Festival in Vienna), and brief remarks by Norris.

Dick Morton and his orchestra will provide music for dancing until midnight.

The theme of Panhandle Odyssey 2000 was developed in 1972 by its planners who stress that the Panhandle as a unit is journeying toward greater growth and prosperity during the remaining years of this century.

The Philippine Population Commission, established in 1969, hopes to cut the current 3.5 per cent annual population growth rate of the Philippines, one of the highest in the world, to 2.5 per cent by 1975.

In Latin, the raccoon is the "lotor." The word means the washer, which accurately describes the fastidious raccoon. It washes each piece of food over and over until it seems no flavor could remain.

Boating

By JACK WOLISTON NEW YORK (UPI) — Recreational boating faces an uncertain future because of the fuel shortage, but in 1973 it enjoyed the most successful year in its history.

A statistical report shows that 47,175,000 persons participated in the sport last year — up 1,175,000 from 1972 — and spent $4,245,000,000 for marine services and equipment, $345,000,000 more than in the previous year.

The report is one of the few bright spots in a gloomy picture brought on by the fuel shortages. The Federal Energy Office has promised boaters equal treatment with motorists, but fuel is hard to find in many areas, even for the automobile.

Except for sailboats, most of which require no more power than the wind, boat sales slumped in the final quarter of 1973, according to industry sources. Related sales also fell off. Otherwise, the 1973 picture might have been even brighter.

As it was, the number of recreational boats on all U.S. waters jumped from an estimated 9,210,000 in 1972 to 9,435,000, the number of outboard motors in use was up by 110,000, and the number of boat trailers on the nation's highways jumped from 3,790,000 to 3,820,000.

The statistical report, prepared jointly by the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers and the Marketing Department of Marex, also showed a modest increase in the number of marinas, boat yards and yacht clubs — from 5,990 to 5,930 — the first time an increase has been reported in that category in five years.

The report gave the following breakdown on the more than 9 million boats in use in 1973, pointing out that all figures were estimates: —745,000 inboard motor boats, including auxiliary powered sailboats and boats documented by the Coast Guard. Up 45,000 from 1972. —5,530,000 outboard boats. Up 110,000. —740,000 sailboats without inboard power. Up 50,000.

The Politics Of A Crisis--Who's Running For What?

By WILLIAM CLAYTON WASHINGTON (UPI) — The energy crisis was a tailor-made political football.

It affected everyone. It was difficult to understand and there was great controversy over whether it was real or contrived. It was ideally suited to inflammatory rhetoric. It had clear-cut party line divisions. There was foreign intrigue involved.

It was such a perfect political issue, particularly in an election year, that the partisan debate often obscured the fine points of the crisis.

Heroes and Villains
The losers in the plethora of talk and scarcity of facts were the American consumers. They found it hard to distinguish between the heroes and the villains as the words and speeches and explanations became as long and aggravating as the service stations lines.

The current energy crisis requires a commitment similar to the Manhattan and Apollo projects," said Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif. "But Congress is only playing politics with it."

"In trying to paint himself the hero of the energy crisis, Sen. (Henry M.) Jackson wants to be the author of all energy legislation and concentrate all matters in the Senate Interior Committee, which he controls."

Many have said that Jackson, the Democrat from Washington, is using his forceful stand on the energy crisis as a springboard to his party's presidential nomination in 1976.

A Big National Issue
Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., told the Senate that Jackson was trying, in the emergency energy bill that President Nixon has since vetoed, to give people "the best of all possible worlds."

"I guess if I were running for president of the United States, I would say the same thing," Hansen said.

But Jackson maintains that he was working on energy legislation and issues long before he could be said to have presidential ambitions.

"Look, I have been interested and active in the whole subject of energy since I was a young congressman," is the way Jackson answers the critics who say he is exploiting a national emergency for personal political gain.

His aides say he is, indeed, "scouting out" the chances of a run for president, and that the energy crisis is, indeed, a big national issue.

But they contend the two are not necessarily related as a cause and effect of Jackson's concern.

And Jackson has some ammunition to back his stand that he is not a late-comer to the energy problem.

Many Cattlemen May Be Forced From Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many cattlemen may be forced out of business unless supermarkets slash beef prices to help clear out a temporary surplus and the government helps with a series of emergency action, a cattle industry spokesman said today.

Wray Finney, a Ft. Cobb, Okla., rancher and first vice president of the American National Cattleman's Association (ANCA), told a Senate agriculture subcommittee that cattle feeders have been selling their stock for slaughter at less than production cost ever since last September. Losses to producers since then have reached about $1 billion, he said.

"A year ago, cattle feeders were making a profit. Today, they are sustaining the largest losses in history and many have been, or are on the verge of being, forced to go out of business or cut back sharply on their operations," Finney told the hearing.

With the cost of adding weight to beef steers now up to 51 cents a pound compared to 27 cents 18 months ago, and with costs likely to go to 55 cents by summer, Finney added, cattle feeders probably will not reach a break-even point until summer, if then.

Three years ago he sponsored a Senate committee study of U.S. fuels and energy policy, and later warned President Nixon that the nation was growing dangerously dependent on Arab oil — a supply he said could be interrupted by war in the Middle East or by a Soviet alignment with Arab nations. Both those eventualities have occurred.

And he is fully aware that he has been lucky in that the issues he is best known for—the energy crisis and the whole Mideast situation—are popular ones across the nation.

"I didn't start working on issues that would be timed to coincide with a presidential campaign," he told a recent interviewer. "It didn't happen that way. I'm just not that smart."

Aside from the issue of presidential ambition, the energy problems often have split along ideological lines. The emergency energy bill's provision for price controls was "a classic issue for the argument between the traditional free market ideas of Republicans and the government controls ideas of Democrats," a House staff member said recently.

The Democrats, he said, "see it as an example of where price controls would work—higher price has not brought an increased supply."

Some Democrats backing the energy bill accused

Nixon of partisan politics by appealing to Congress for energy powers without submitting specific legislation.

Promising Too Much
On the other hand, presidential liaison men with the conference committee that worked on the bill contended Democrats were promising too much, as a political ploy to the American people, without getting to the real issues.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said during debate on the energy bill, "Congress has rarely looked so foolish in the eyes of the public as it has on this bill."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., put into the Congressional Record a letter from a trucker that he said seemed to epitomize the grassroots political feeling on energy.

The trucker, J.P. Van Hartesveldt, said, "Everyone has to go out and inject a little self-government into their lives. We have to find out exactly how things are run, because to deal with the future they are going to have to run much more efficiently. And that future is just around the corner."

He added, "I'm asking everyone...go complain to someone. That sounds pretty negative, but there happens to be a very concrete political reality to deal with—this is an election year and a lot of complaints will get a lot of fast action."

Quick Response
When Nixon first issued his energy message asking for emergency powers, the Democratic response was quick and heavy. Speaker Carl Albert said Nixon had been trying to blame "Congress — especially Congress" for the shortages.

"The President has tried to place the blame for the energy shortages we are experiencing almost everywhere except where the greatest share of responsibility for scarcities really belongs — at the doorstep of the Nixon administration," Albert said.

Albert said Nixon was trying to "rewrite history to suit" his own political advantage.

A Republican staff member on the House side said the Senate energy debate was characterized mostly by the "individual ambitions" of some senators.

When violence hit the nation's highways and independent truckers went on strike in February, it was a Democratic Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania who played the big role in getting the negotiations off dead center.

Shapp, taking matters into his own hands, descended on Washington to mediate the dispute. He got a cool reception from the White House, which he said seemed anxious to place roadblocks in his efforts to get the rigs rolling again.

Knight in Armor
Shapp complained he could get no response when he asked Nixon for help. The strike finally ended, and although government bargainers had taken part, it was Shapp who came out looking like a knight in shining armor who had raced into the leadership breach.

And the bickering hasn't been confined to executive and legislative, Democrat and Republican.

Energy Chief William Simon has maintained the energy crisis is real, not contrived by the major oil firms to maximize profits. He says America's energy problems are not going to melt away, for this is a nation of "energy wastrels."

Simon is reported to have ambitions for the job of Treasury Secretary, which George Shultz is going to vacate within the next couple of months.

Meantime, budget director Roy Ash says the scarcities in energy supplies are temporary and the worst will soon be over.

Ash is reported to have designs on Shultz' job as well.

Simon suggests that Ash keep his "cotton-picking hands" out of the energy crisis.

Ash is imperturbed. So there is no unanimity, even within the administration.

Foreign intrigue spices the domestic political wrangling. The energy problem is by no means confined to the United States, and the world watches closely what Nixon and Henry Kissinger decide about foreign oil policy.

The energy crisis has imposed tremendous strains on the North Atlantic alliance, threatening to disrupt 25 years of close cooperation between the United States and its European allies.

The Europeans, far more dependent on Middle East oil and to protect themselves in an uncertain situation, made deals with the Arabs without U.S. approval.

The United States felt the major oil-consuming countries should shun bilateral agreements which would tend to drive prices higher.

When Britain, France and other nations made relatively small barter agreements with Arab producers, the price of crude oil was driven up to $16 a barrel at one stage when the Europeans were bidding against each other.

However, the price subsequently softened somewhat and Kissinger believed he had managed to create a common consumers' approach to the problem.

Bob Tucker Troubled By Clothes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Tucker of the New York Giants is 6-foot-4 and weighs 225 pounds and naturally he has a lot of trouble getting clothes that fit. But since a lot of his teammates run about the same size they solve some of their problems by swapping outfits in the locker room.

"He might leave the house one day wearing a navy blue Cardin blazer and return home wearing a brown and white plaid sports coat," his beautiful wife Lorraine said the other night over a dinner of steak, lobster and lamb chops. "Sometimes it's hard to recognize him."

Tucker, 28, considered by many to be the best tight end in football, isn't particularly big as players go these days. Ed (Too Tall) Jones, drafted by the Dallas Cowboys from Tennessee State, runs 6-foot-7 and weighs 295 pounds, for instance. But Tucker does have troubles.

In the off season he sells insurance for the New York firm of Walsh and Walsh, Inc. — "everything but life insurance" — and travels the country as a goodwill ambassador for Eastman Kodak, which manufactures polyester fibers and helps him with his clothing problems.

"The trouble is they will say there is a black tie banquet in Dallas or somewhere and 'don't worry about bringing a tux, we'll supply it.' So you get there and they bring out a tux and maybe you can get into the jacket but you stand there with the pants bunched around your waist with safety pins and extra belts and the legs four or five inches above the ankles, hoping they won't see it when you're speaking behind the rostrum."

That is because Tucker, being an athlete, is tapered. He wears a 46 long jacket but his waist is only 35 inches and when manufacturers make a 46 long suit they make the pants with 42 inch waists. The alteration problems are horrible to contemplate.

"Since it is so hard to buy a suit my wardrobe runs to about three or four sports jackets or blazers to each suit," Tucker said. "That's one of the reasons you see so many athletes wearing sports jackets all he time. It's not that they don't like suits — they're just almost too much trouble."

"I have a lot of trouble with shirts, too. I wear a 17 1/2 neck but the sleeves are 37 inches. So if I can't find the right size I might wear a shorter one and sit there with the uncomfortable feeling that my cuffs are halfway up to my elbow. That's especially true when they outfit you in a tuxedo."

Trouble With Shoes
It is probably the long arms that help Tucker catch passes. In his rookie year with the Giants in 1970 he caught 46 for 571 yards and five touchdowns and was close to being the rookie of the year. In 1971 he was the first tight end in National Football League history to take the receiving title, catching 59 for 791 yards and four TDs. He won all NFL honors in 1972 with 55 passes for 784 yards and the Giants did not have what is considered a good year. That is, they won two games.

Tucker has to be well-dressed in business and he was the other night. He was wearing a navy Cardin blazer, blue, tan and white checked slacks, black Gucci shoes, a plain blue shirt which he pointed out was made of Kodak fibers, and a striped paisley tie.

Business Today

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) —

One of the most difficult shortages to solve in the world today is that of cement. The problem is so tough that cement companies are diversifying into other businesses because they see no prospect of producing more cement rapidly.

Despite this, the world is crying for cement and new uses for it are being discovered all the time.

Since the industry was hit hard by over capacity as recently as the mid-1960s, the present situation seems somewhat strange. According to President John R. Kringle of Lone Star Industries, Inc., a cement company that already has diversified, the situation is both strange and unique.

It's unique because, for practical purposes, there can be no such thing as a national cement market. Cement simply is too heavy to ship long distances unless imports are essential and at present the import supply has dried up. "So," said Kringle, "each plant is an island of supply in a relatively small pond of demand." There are 60 regional cement producing markets in the United States alone.

Ironically, in some of these markets cement is plentiful while overall the supply is scarce. But cement companies can't set prices and mold the market on a national basis like other manufacturers can because of the freight barrier.

In recent years another problem has hit the industry. Cement is a dirty, dusty product. People don't like having cement mills built in their communities.

It takes three years and costs $55 million to put a new cement mill into operation. "At today's average price of $22.50 a ton the mill would return about 9 per cent on a discounted cash flow basis without debt leverage," Kringle said. "Obviously that's not an attractive investment in today's capital market."

In the face of this somewhat grim prospect, Lone Star has, in connection with a French firm, created a cement company in the southeastern states called Citadel that is expanding output.

Aged natural or processed cheese blends better and is less likely to become stringy than natural cheese that has not been aged sufficiently.

IN INDIAN AFFAIRS

Pastor Urges Church Involvement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For 13 years, Dr. Paul Boe was a church bureaucrat toiling in the national office of the 2.3 million member American Lutheran Church. Wounded Knee changed all that.

Now Boe, 59, divides his time between attending the trial of Indian activists who occupied the South Dakota hamlet of Wounded Knee for 71 days, and pleading on the church lecture circuit for more involvement by the nation's churches in Indian problems.

"I'm not going around as the great white fixer," Boe said in an interview, "but I can use the Wounded Knee event to draw attention to Indian problems."

For Boe, Wounded Knee—where he spent 10 days as a confidante of the occupying Indians—was something like the Apostle Paul's conversion experience on the road to Damascus.

"It was a profound and moving thing for me," Boe said. "It changed my life in so many ways that I'll never be the same."

Brush With Jail
"At Wounded Knee, I had an opportunity to be with a group of people who were willing to die—not eager to die, but willing to die—so that their aims might be achieved."

"You can't go away from that without being changed, without being profoundly changed."

Boe's 10 days at Wounded Knee and his refusal to tell a grand jury what he had seen there, transformed a genial, moderate man into a militant on the Indian issue.

He concedes it was his own brush with jail and the raising of the issue of "clergy confidentiality" that has given him his platform across the country. The issue arose because of the nature of Boe's stay in Wounded Knee. He has been associated with the American Indian Movement (AIM) for five years and helped channel church money into AIM programs.

Refused to Testify
In the spring of 1973, leaders of AIM "invited me to come to Wounded Knee on the second day of the occupation to see for myself."

One AIM leader said "the church has been with us all these years" and that it was important for it to be present at Wounded Knee.

After the occupation, Boe was subpoenaed to testify before a federal grand jury. He refused on the grounds that what he saw and heard at Wounded Knee was privileged.

Boe was cited for contempt and ordered jailed for the duration of the grand jury's deliberations, but an appeals court overturned the citation but left the legal issue of confidentiality unresolved.

He concedes his involvement with AIM at Wounded Knee "made the church realize that it can be involved in controversial issues without threatening its survival."

Church Stance
"I'm quite encouraged about the stance of the church," he said. "The strong endorsement of the church bureaucracy concerning the rightness of my being in Wounded Knee is encouraging. The bureaucracy of the church has usually been quite timid about facing controversy."

"People have become more thoughtful about the issue," Boe said. "People are beginning to take a harder look at the systems of society."

It is the "systems," Boe says, that Wounded Knee was all about — the treaty system, where promises continue to be "bent and broken"; the tribal government system, which he likened to "a high school student council where you elect leaders who have no power"; and the system of justice where Indians "are picked up and jailed for things for which we would be given a polite warning."

Boe said Indians perceive the church as one of the most oppressive systems in society, as "the handmaiden of the government."

"The church ought to be involved in changing the systems that hurt people," he said. "But very little is being done to bring about change in those systems as they affect Indians—mostly, I think, because the aggressive tactics of the Indians."

Hightower Hits Wide Shortage Of Bailing Wire

AUSTIN — Sen. Jack Hightower (D-Vernon) said here "it is appalling that while the U.S. is facing a bailing wire shortage for 1974, we cannot get countries like Japan that has bought most of our cotton crop to send us wire in return."

Hightower, Democratic candidate for 13th District Congressman, also warned farmers and ranchers to place wire orders early so that distributors can gauge area needs in advance.

While the foreign industrial boom has kept a lid on wire imports, the low priority nature of bailing wire and domestic price controls have made the prospect for increased wire production pretty slight, Hightower said.

"This situation could have been eased by adjusting Phase IV price controls to make bailing wire a more profitable item for steel companies to produce. The shortage should have been remedied when a wire shortage occurred last year."

"The fact that Phase IV price controls have made domestic wire production unprofitable points to their inherent weaknesses."

"This is another example of a shortage caused by ineffective attempts to control prices. The fertilizer shortage and last year's beef shortage are cases in point."

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) —

There's no time like the present for innovations in the marketplace.

Some honest-to-goodness changes could help us consumers keep our personal thermostats lowered instead of wasting energy on poor packaging, poor service, poor quality, even as prices push higher and higher.

Against this setting of economic, energy and environmental crises, what better way to cool us customers than with a crash program of product and service improvement. Otherwise, that consumer rebellion will deepen.

It sends my own temperature soaring to see one supermarket patronize repricing an item already on the shelves, upward two to three times; that is profit on top of profit from what the item cost the market originally and is outright robbery.

Almost as irksome are the housekeeping habits of so many markets.

Why, for instance, must shelves be restocked, with the aisles filled with boxes at peak shopping hours? Wiggling a cart through them is like broken field running—at snail's pace. Empty carts and carts in disarray detract also. And there must be some way to speed up things at the checkout counter.

As long as we've brought up packaging, I've noted some improvements since I first started an annual "why don't they" gripe column a few years back.

But there still are enough peevish things to keep me going. One spice manufacturer, for instance, marks the top of its plastic container "pour," "sift" and "spoon." The "spoon" halfmoon slit is a great idea, if it were only large enough for a teaspoon to enter, let alone lift out a tablespoon of, say, dry mustard. A reader calls for more convenient openings on cocoa cans for similar reasons, so the entire contents can be used.

CPCA Stockholders Planning Annual Meeting

CANADIAN - J.M. Davis, vice president and secretary of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, will be the featured speaker at the 40th annual stockholders meeting of the Canadian Production Credit Association in Canadian on Saturday, March 23. The meeting, which is expected to attract more than six hundred Canadian PCA stockholders and guests from the six-county northeast Panhandle area served by the Association, will be held at the recently remodeled Canadian City Hall, beginning at 10:00 a.m. In addition to the annual business, in which reports will be heard and three directors elected, there will be a special barbecue luncheon served by Dyer's Bar-B-Q of Pampa. Davis, who will address the annual meeting, is a native of Houston and received his B.A. degree in business administration from Rice University in 1962. Hugh F. Parsell of Canadian will make the annual report of the board of directors of the Canadian Association; and Larry E. Albin, president and general manager of the association, will present the management report. Directors whose terms are expiring this year are James D. Skaggs, Pampa, L.F. Etheredge, Canadian, and Lloyd R. Buzzard, Spearman. Hold-over directors are Wallace N. Hamker, Booker; Hugh F. Parsell, C.B. Henderson, Wheeler. The Canadian PCA served Hemphill, Lipscomb, Wheeler, Ochiltree, Gray and Roberts Counties with offices in Canadian, Pampa, Perryton and Wheeler.

Fritch Fortress Ramp Closed

The Fritch Fortress launching ramp at Lake Meredith Recreation Area has been closed this week for silt removal. Park Superintendent William Dyer announced the ramp will be closed through Friday while dredging operations are in progress. The parking area and adjacent bank fishing access will not be affected by the three day closure of the ramp. The ramp will be reopened late Friday afternoon. Erosion and wind action on the lake have caused excessive deposits of silt in the Fritch Fortress ramp area. Silt deposits presently affecting other areas, such as Bates Canyon ramp, will be alleviated when the water level in the lake rises. The first U.S. Mint was founded in 1792 in Philadelphia.

'Mr. Your Job' should learn power of praise

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: After living with "Mr. Your Job" for 20 years, I have had it.

I used to love to cook but it's no fun anymore, because no matter how hard I try, my husband never says it was good. If I ask him if he enjoyed the meal, he says: "Yes, but why should I say anything? That's your job."

I made draperies and curtains for the whole house, and even slip-covered the furniture myself, and he never said one word. When I asked him if he thought the house looked nice, he said: "Sure, but that's your job."

Funny how if he washes the car or mows the lawn and I don't rave about what a wonderful job he's done, he pouts for a week.

Please print this, Abby. Maybe "Mr. Your Job" will see it, and take the hint.

DEAR "MRS. YOUR JOB": Too bad "Mr. Your Job" hasn't learned the power of praise. Most people need only to know they're appreciated to keep them whistling while they work.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle a family disagreement? We've decided to abide by your decision.

We have two children, ages 10 and 12. I require them to write thank-you notes for all the gifts they receive for Christmas, their birthdays, or for any other occasion.

My husband says they are too young to be required to write such notes. What do you think?

OHIO MOM

DEAR MOM: A big fat vote for you! As soon as children can print they should be taught to write thank-you notes for gifts. The habits they form when they are very young (and this is a good one) will carry over into their adult lives. This goes for boys as well as girls. For some strange reason boys are more inclined to neglect this important courtesy. Stick to your guns, Mom.

DEAR ABBY: I like the way you tell people who have to live with something they can't change to accept it. [In my son's case, it was being the shortest one in his class, and it really helped him.]

Along that line, I am reminded of this story: A friend of mine lost a thumb and his forefinger in an accident—a very awkward handicap for a man who is in business and has to shake hands several times a day. My friend adjusted to this defect beautifully. I once asked him how he did it. He replied, "Everybody has a defect. It just happens that mine shows."

BOSTON READER

DEAR READER: Beautiful!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BROWNIE": I think you should take all those letters and file them under "Y" for "yesterday." And if you find yourself reading them (which you admit depresses you immensely), throw out the file! He is gone, and it is over.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L. A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Council of Clubs Receives New Member

The Pampa Council of Clubs met recently in the City Club Room, City Hall. Mrs. Marian Stroup, president, presided at the meeting and asked each member to introduce herself and tell what club she was from.

Mrs. Frank Shotwell, calendar chairman, introduced Vickie Moore from Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi who applied for membership in the Council of Clubs. This club would meet the first and third Mondays of each month. All clubs voted to admit this new club.

Mrs. C.C. Rhodes read the changes recommended by the By-laws committee to the group for discussion.

Member clubs will vote on these changes next month. Those present were Helen Knowl, B&P Club; Mrs. Joe Z. Weaver, Red Cross; Mrs. Lee Harrah, American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. L.B. Penick, Delta Kappa Gamma; Mrs. Vickie Moore, Upsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi; Libby Shotwell, Red Cross; Molly Butts, American Legion Auxiliary; Marie Boyd, Welfare Index; Marian Stroup, Altross; and Virginia McDonald, B&P Club.

Mrs. Janice Carter and Cora Lee Robertson gave the Council meeting report. The District I THDA meeting will be at the First Christian Church in Borger, April 18. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. Reservations need to be made before April 6. No meal tickets will be sold at the door. Prices are $2.85 for the meal and 35 cents for registration. Pampa voting delegates include Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. E.O. Smith, with Mrs. Betty King, alternate.

Feusse-Hildenbrand Say Nuptial Vows In Houston

The marriage of Miss Marilyn Joyce Feusse and Jesse Brice Hildenbrand, both of Houston, was solemnized recently in St. Matthew Lutheran Church of Houston.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Feusse of Houston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Hildenbrand of Pampa.

THE CEREMONY
Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. A.F. Droegemuller, pastor. Bonney Karger, organist, played traditional wedding selections, and the processional and recessional were "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring," Vocalist, Betty Gasaway and John Feusse sang, "The Lord's Prayer," "The 23rd Psalm," and "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee."

THE BRIDE
Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in her mother's wedding gown. The formal length gown of bridal satin featured a fitted bodice, low rounded neckline and fitted sleeves ending with a lace ruffle at the wrists. The floor-length skirt was enhanced by a gathered effect at the hemline and complemented by tiny seed pearls and a Cathedral train. Lace and tiny seed pearls also highlighted the bodice of the gown.

Her long veil of illusion with floral appliques, was edged in lace and fell from a lace bandeau. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, red roses, holly and fern. The bridal veil was made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Strasse of Houston.

ATTENDANTS
Rebecca Dane of Houston was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Ann Brock, Houston, Naomi

Smith, Irving, Myra Irby Port Arthur and Barbara Kahn, Houston. They wore formal length red velvet gowns with puffed sleeves and white shoes and carried nosegays of red and white carnations, holly and fern. Christopher Roos was ringbearer and John Roos and Earnie Roos, both of Houston, lighted the candles. Randall Hildenbrand, Dallas, served as best man and groomsmen were John Feusse, Robert Thompson, Mike Baum and Stanley Matcek, all of Houston.

Ushering were Russell Feusse and Rod Gobar, both of Houston.

RECEPTION
Following the ceremony, a reception was held in parish hall of the church. The serving table was centered with a rice bag tree and held the bridal and bridal attendants bouquets and four candelabra.

The bride's cake was three-tiered with lemon filling and the bridegroom's cake was of a double-ring style. Sherry Zischang served the bridegroom's cake and Cindy Balvek and Margie Bench served the bridal cake.

Assisting at the punch bowl and coffee service were Susan Hoppe and Dianne Graham, Melinda Clayton registered wedding guests. For the wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the bride wore a blue pantsuit and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Houston.

AFFILIATIONS
The bride will graduate from Texas Woman's University in May with a BS degree in nursing. She is studying in the TWU branch in the Texas Medical Center in Houston.

The bridegroom is a 1970 graduate of Texas A&M and is presently employed as an electrical engineer with Texas Pipeline Co. in Houston.

PRE-NUPRIAL EVENTS
The bride and Mrs. Elda Kieschnick hosted a bridesmaids luncheon on the day of the wedding.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS
Attending the event from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Abe Hildenbrand, Randall Hildenbrand, Mrs. Pauline Hildenbrand and Mr. and Mrs. David Yauck.

'AT WIT'S END'

By ERMA BOMBECK

For the last nine months, a book called "How To Be Your Own Best Friend" has led the list of best sellers.

"Terrific," she said. "I have purposely ignored the book because the last time I tried to be a friend to myself I took me to lunch, gained three pounds and have been suspicious of me ever since."

My resistance to thinking highly of myself goes back to my childhood when I was taught to take a chicken back and pass the rest on, hold the door open until the entire city filed in-out, always vote for my opponent for row monitor, and run to the end of every line. How could I have respect for a loser like that?

Ironically, my best friend, Mayva, talked me into reading the book. "You are always putting yourself down," she said, "and you've got a lot going for you."

"If I had any more going for me, I'd tell my life story in an Aysad."

"There you go again," she said, "making fun of yourself. Just read the book. You'll see on the jacket that Berry Berenson and Nora Ephron loved it."

"No kidding," I gasped, snatching it from her hand.

I sat there holding the book for a full hour trying to figure out who Berry Berenson and Nora Ephron were. Then I began to read.

The next morning when Mayva popped in she said, "You wanta go to Revco? They've got a sale on vitamins."

"I am in command of my own destiny, Mayva. No one tells me what to do anymore. I'm my own woman."

"You have never appreciated my potential, have you, Mayva? I think it would surprise you to know that I have talents worth dwelling on."

"Yes, but do you have a tank full of gas?"

"There's a child in me."

"My God..."

"Not THAT kind of child. Let me finish. There's a child in me that is like being born again. I am opening my eyes to my own wonderfulness. From here on in, I am going to listen to my own voice."

"What are you trying to say?" asked Mayva.

"I am too good for you, Mayva," I said. "Now that I have complete confidence in myself I have replaced you with me as my own best friend."

Mayva turned to leave and then asked, "Then why aren't you happy?"

"Because I'm dull and I'm stuck with me."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, MARCH 15
Your birthday today: Is the beginning of a campaign to improve the quality of your daily living. Relationships are subject to wide fluctuation and cannot be taken for granted now. Experimentation in work methods or perhaps experience in warning new ways leads you to reevaluate your career goals, change directions. Today's natives generally are smooth talkers, acutely aware of the ways of the world. Laziness is their most frequent temptation.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: An avalanche of energy, demands for results, but there's little available opportunity or elbow room for getting much done. Studious friends are helpful.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Depend on your own judgment; most of your friends are off on a tangent. Short cuts applied to your work pay off readily, and you learn valued skills.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: There's no delegation of either authority or responsibility open to you now—you do it yourself, in healthy self-interest. Check your facts and figures as you go.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Decide what is reasonable to undertake as you have only a limited amount of energy to scatter. Thinking things thru will save on both material resources and intangibles.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Postpone serious financial maneuvers, concentrate on enjoying life as it is. Time at your favorite hobbies and pastimes is time well spent today.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: You again meet up with stress. All you need is an earnest interest in something a little aside from what has been your deeply ingrained set of habits.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Travel requires close timing, regulation of speed, greater caution than usual. Nobody seems quite as congenial as you'd like—you're a bit cool, too.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: A time for sitting tight, avoiding needless risks. Meanwhile, there is much that can be done in self-improvement, plotting of future enterprises.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Your personal program turns out a little more complex than can be easily achieved. Widen communication, seek expert advice on puzzling situations.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: A philosophic approach works best, as it removes you far enough to give perspective. You have something extra to consider in your planning, so be alert.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: As personal contacts encounter crosscurrents and obstacles, settle down to mental pursuits, budgets, correspondence. Sly away from financial ventures of friends.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Your resources increase, largely by your own productive efforts. Collective facilities are helpful, but individuals less so than ordinarily expected.

Experiences Affect Development

COLLEGE STATION - Day-to-day experiences influence a child's physical, emotional, social and mental development, one authority noted this week.

She's Jane Fleischer, specialist in family life education with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"All experiences from birth affect and determine what a person will become - and parents play a large role in these experiences."

"Each person is unique - and must be himself. He needs to feel good - confident and able - about himself. Children grow strongest, happiest and healthiest this way," she said.

"Wise parents grow and learn with their children. They learn to relax and let a child be himself - to grow in his own way, time and fashion."

However, parents - and other adults - should keep in mind the following facts concerning individual growth and development, the specialist continued.

-No two children are alike - each differs in growth rate and pattern.

-Although uneven, growth is continuous and follows an orderly sequence or pattern.

-Each phase or stage of development has certain characteristics common to that particular stage of growth.

-As an infant develops a new power or capacity, he also develops an impulse to use that new power. "For example, after learning to walk, 12-16 month old babies usually walk all over the place," Miss Fleischer added.

-Children - at all ages and stages - behave the way they do for a reason.

Heredity and environment also affect a child's development and behavior.

"For instance, a person's adult height depends on race, sex and family characteristics - as well as how he's cared for, what he eats and whether he's happy or not," the specialist concluded.

Peanut Butter 'N Jelly Cookies
FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

A New Twist For An Old Favorite

What's better than cookies? More cookies! Especially if they are Peanut Butter 'N Jelly cookies.

The peanut butter and jelly sandwich, the all-time favorite of tots 'n teens (adults like it too!), was the inspiration for these crunchin' good cookies. And just like the sandwich, these tasty treats will be gobbled up in no time. Make plenty!

These simply super tasting Peanut Butter 'N Jelly cookies are chock-full of peanuts and peanut butter and you know what that means — protein. Besides being a good source of vegetable protein, peanuts and peanut butter are exceptionally high in niacin and other important B vitamins. They also are rich in minerals like potassium and phosphorus. No doubt about it. Peanut Butter 'N Jelly cookies are plenty nutritious.

The dough for this peanutty cookie is easy to prepare and lends itself to endless variations. For the chocolate lovers, add semi-sweet chocolate pieces to it. For teas and special occasions like bridal or baby showers, you'll want to try the Crescent-shaped or raisin-filled variety. Refrigerating the basic dough means you'll never be caught short in the cookie department. Just pull out the chilled dough, slice and bake.

Plan to bake a batch of Peanut Butter 'N Jelly cookies today, but don't expect them to last long. Everyone including the neighbor down the street will be dipping into the cookie jar. And for once you won't have to be concerned about the kids eating too many because you'll know that these peanut-packed cookies provide many of the nutrients needed daily to maintain good health.

PEANUT BUTTER 'N JELLY COOKIES

1/2 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped peanuts
Strawberry, currant or grape jelly
Sugar

In a mixing bowl cream together peanut butter and butter. Beat in sugars until blended, then eggs and vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt, and add to peanut butter mixture. Stir in peanuts. Divide dough into four parts. Pat each part into a 12 x 2 1/2 inch rectangle on two baking sheets. Make an indentation or groove down the center of each rectangle. Fill each groove with about 2 tablespoons jelly. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven about 15 minutes. Cool and cut each rectangle on a diagonal into 8 bars. Sprinkle with sugar. Makes about 32 bars.

VARIATIONS:
Crescent Cookies: Follow basic recipe. Shape dough into crescents using about 2 teaspoons dough per cookie. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven about 12 minutes. Roll warm crescents in powdered sugar. Makes about 5 1/2 dozen cookies.

Refrigerator Cookies: Follow basic recipe. Shape dough into 2 rolls 1 1/2 inches in diameter and wrap and chill. Remove dough from refrigerator and cut into slices 1/4 inch thick. Place on baking sheets and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven about 10 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

Peanut Chocolate Drops: Follow basic recipe. Stir 1 bag (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces into cookie dough. Drop dough by tablespoons onto a lightly buttered cookie sheet and bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven about 13 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

Peanut Raisin Cookies: In saucepan combine 1 cup seedless raisins, 1/2 cup water, 1 teaspoon shredded orange peel and one-third cup sugar and heat to simmering, while stirring constantly. Continue to simmer 7-8 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. Shape cookie dough into 1-inch balls. Make an indentation in center of each and spoon in raisin filling. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven 10-12 minutes.

Plan Landscape, For Value, Beauty

COLLEGE STATION — A properly landscaped yard can increase the beauty and value of a home.

"Several concepts should be kept in mind when planning a year, such as family desires, simplicity, unity, textural contrasts and ultimate plant size," points out Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

He suggests preparing a plan and drawing in the house, property lines and other permanent features. Then, consult each family member and list his needs. Thus areas for outdoor living, gardening and other interests can be assigned to meet the needs of the entire family.

"Simplicity is variety without confusion. Use trees, shrubs, bricks and fences for specific needs to improve the over-all look and utility of the yard," advises the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Unity can be achieved with a proper balance of simplicity, contrast and scale. The temptation to add plants bought on sale or sent by friends is often less if the yard appears complete without them, believes Welch.

Contrasts with plants and structures can add interest. Try large-leaved plants like bananas or cannas to contrast with ferns, or use a fine-textured stucco wall around a yard with coarse-looking flagstone steps.

Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank, had resources of more than $40 billion at the end of 1972.

Cleaning Indoor Plants

COLLEGE STATION — Without Mother Nature's cleansing rainfall, indoor plants need help to keep leaf surfaces dust-free, one authority points out.

"To keep houseplants looking their best, carefully clean them once or twice a month," advises Dr. William C. Welch.

The landscape horticulturist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted that a wet sponge or soft cloth — rinsed frequently in clean water — offers a dependable method for cleaning smooth-leaved plants.

"If leaves are extremely soiled, use a solution of mild soap and water.

"Those with man small leaves may require a gentle water spray outdoors — with plenty of water.

"Either way, water should be at or near room temperature — cold water can cause leaf blemishes," he explained.

For St. Patrick's Day Feast

17th Century Elixir Ideal

'Tis said that on St. Patrick's Day there are but three kinds of people: The Irish, people who claim to be Irish and people who wish they were Irish.

The feast day of the French monk who became Patron Saint of Ireland has become an international holiday with shamrocks galore and green the universal color of the day.

The unusual history of Green Chartreuse makes it a great conversation piece and the elixir, itself, makes a superb before dinner drink to toast St. Patrick and is an ideal flavoring for a "Paddy's Green Parfait."

In 1605, Carthusian monks received a cryptic formula for the elixir from an associate of the King. The parchment, the work of a 16th century alchemist, was inscribed with a long list of herbs and was so complex that 132 years elapsed before one of the monastic brothers, a pharmacist, devoted himself to the gathering of the herbs and the unlocking of the secrets of Green Chartreuse.

The monks still make Green Chartreuse and the secret is still shared by only a few in the order's hierarchy in spite of centuries of persecution and industrial espionage attempting to duplicate the elixir.

When buying frozen strawberries, select hard-frozen packages. Avoid stained packages — they've probably defrosted some time during marketing, notes Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In 1970, a typical supermarket carried 138 "snack" food items — for a total sales nationwide of $1.3 billion, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Ciyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For St. Patrick's Day we recommend a "Snake Chaser" before dinner and a "Green Parfait" for dessert.

SNAKE CHASER
1 1/2 ounces of Green Chartreuse
4 ounces of Pineapple Juice
Juice of 1/4 fresh lime
Serve over ice
Garnish with lime rind

PADDY'S GREEN PARFAIT
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 and one-third cups orange juice
3 ounces Green Chartreuse

2 cups (1 pint) Heavy Cream to which one tablespoon of green food coloring and 1 tablespoon of sugar has been added. Whip cream to stiff peaks.

Soften gelatin in one-third cup of Orange Juice. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Mix gelatin into remaining orange juice, add Chartreuse and chill until slightly thickened. Fold in 1/4 of the green whipped cream. Fill parfait glasses two-thirds full. Chill until firm.

Just before serving, top parfait glasses with green whipped cream. Can be garnished with shamrock. Makes 8 parfaits.

The family can represent a learning process — by taking in and sending out knowledge. Then, children become not only a goal of our socializing influence, but part of an adult's growing and learning process, says Jane Fleischer, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For a long time now, we've been telling you about the many advantages of getting your "suckers" off to a good start with ACCO Medicated Creep Feed. And now it's your turn to sound-off.

Tell us in 25 words or less why you use ACCO Creep Feed.

If your entry is judged one of the five best, you'll win one of five Brower Model 30CW Big Stall Creep Feeders stocked with 1,000 pounds of nutritionally balanced ACCO Medicated Creep Feed. That's a $300 value.

This big, roomy Brower unit has a 26 bushel capacity that will feed 30 calves for a full week. It's constructed of rust-resistant steel and rigid, heavy gauge angle iron to assure years of trouble-free service. And it's big enough for four large calves to eat at one time.

Of course, when it comes to creep feed, there's none better than ACCO. Because ACCO Medicated Creep Feed is nutritionally balanced specifically for livestock here in the southwest.

ACCO Creep Feed is formulated with just the right amounts of vitamins, minerals, proteins and aureomycin to promote maximum growth for less cost per pound.

And ACCO gets results. ACCO's Creep Feeding Program will produce up to 150 pounds more weight per calf at weaning time. So what are you waiting for? Get busy pushing those pens and pencils. There's nothing to buy, and you may enter as often as you like. Rules and entry blanks are available at your ACCO dealer.

Contest ends midnight, April 30, 1974. Winners will be notified by May 15, 1974.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Psychiatrists, psychologists, sociologists and anthropologists have analyzed streaking with little or no success.

So now let us see what an immortal bard makes of it. Specifically, let's interview that famed authority on kinetic nudity, William Shakespeare.

Q. Mr. Shakespeare, how do you feel about streaking?

A. "Ye gods, it doth amaze me. 'Twas strange, 'twas passing strange. There is nothing left remarkable beneath the visiting moon. And men have lost their reason."

Q. You apparently regard it as something more serious than a college prank.

A. "There is something in this more than natural. In the gross and scope of my opinion, this bodes some strange eruption in our state."

Q. It is reported that students prepare for streaking by smoking marijuana. Is that true?

A. "A little pot and soon hot."

Q. Why has streaking become so popular?

A. "New customs, though they be never so ridiculous, nay, let 'em be unmanly, yet are follow'd."

Q. I understand you have attended a couple of streak-ins. What were they like?

A. "Mirthful comic shows. I would not have given it for a wilderness of monkeys. O brave new world that has such people in't!"

Q. Were the streakers completely nude?

A. "Like a naked new-born babe. Like a puff'd and reckless libertine. There's but a shirt and a half in all my company. O shame! where is thy blush?"

Q. Most streaking is done by male students around girls' dormitories. How do the girls react?

A. "Clean starved for a look."

Q. Sometimes the girls join in. What happens then?

A. "It adds a precious seeing to the eye. A woman is a dish for the gods."

Q. Wowee! The coeds you saw must have been real beauties.

A. "I have seen better faces in my time."

Q. Do you mean to say you were looking at their faces?

A. "Let me take you a button-hole lower."

Q. What advice would you give to streakers?

A. "Make haste; the better foot before. Not stepping o'er the bounds of modesty. Have more than thou showest."

Q. And what advice would you give spectators?

A. "Let every eye negotiate for itself."

Q. Would you consider streaking yourself?

A. "My dismal scene I needs must act alone."

Dear Consumer

Food's More Than Something To Gulp

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Are your hands quicker than your eyes? Do you grab a can or box of food off the grocer's shelf without giving your eyes time to read the label? Or just barely give your eyes time to read the price?

This week when you do your grocery shopping, slow down. Take time to read labels. I think you'll find some interesting information has been added to the labels of many foods.

If you have been reading labels recently, you know I'm referring to the new nutrition labeling that some food companies are using. By 1975, more foods will have nutrition labeling either because of some regulations of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) or—I'm pleased to say—consumer demand.

Why should you take time to read the nutrition labels? I personally read them:

- To find out how many calories are in each serving of the food;
- To compare the nutrition content of different kinds of food, to find better nutrition for my food dollar;
- To aid me in planning nutritionally balanced meals;
- To identify foods that are high in certain nutrients that I need or should avoid.

The labels don't tell you everything you need to know about food. For one thing, there is a limited amount of space on boxes and can or jar wrappers. Also, a supermarket is not a library where you pull "books" off the shelf to do your homework about nutrition.

You can do your homework at home—or at your public library—by finding and reading books and magazine articles about nutrition. But so much has been written about nutrition, it is easy to get confused. The Federal Government has two basic booklets about nutrition available free: Food Is More Than Just Something To Eat and The New Look in Food Labels. Send your request for either one (or both) to Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Tube watchers may be interested in a 10-part series about nutrition that will be broadcast by some NBC-affiliated television stations, starting this spring. Check local TV schedules for the program called "Nutrition for Today," or call or write the NBC station in your area for its schedule of this series.

GCOE Faces Federal Help

DALLAS — Gray Company Enterprise (GCOE) could receive federal research funds to develop a non-polluting Hydrogen Fuel System.

GCOE, a Dallas-based company made up of young Texans, has recently developed a steam-producing generator fueled by oxygen and hydrogen, two of the earth's most plentiful substances.

The Gray Vapor Generator is a compact, efficient device which produces non-polluting steam useful in many applications, including oil recovery and process steam. The generator also can control industry pollution and even power a turbine engine.

Rep. Alan Steelman, Dallas, said GCOE could be eligible for funds from a proposed bill known as the Federal Non-Nuclear Research and Development Act of 1974. The act would establish a national program for the research and development of non-nuclear energy sources, including the study of a hydrogen-based economy.

The bill soon will be introduced in the House of Representatives, said Steelman, who helped author the legislation.

In addition to hydrogen energy, the bill will provide funds for the development of such power sources as windmills, ocean thermal inversion, geothermal and even the use of garbage and waste material for power.

BATTIN' AROUND

Government Control Threatening Land

By C. R. BATTEN
There can be no doubt about it: There is a national movement afoot to transfer all the productive land in the United States into some form of government ownership or control.

If you are one who believes that centralized control of natural resources and the means of production is desirable, then you will not object.

But I am convinced that the vast majority do not agree with you, and would object strongly if they knew to what extent resources are being taken over by central authority. There is plenty of evidence to show that central control reduces the welfare and satisfactions of the consumers.

There are several major thrusts in the movement to take control of the land. One is model legislation that has been introduced in some state legislatures that would convert the Soil and Water Conservation Districts first authorized during the 1930s to land use planning agencies.

Much of the resistance to land use planning regulations has come from rural landowners. Rural landowners are the members, taxpayers and governing bodies of the Soil and Water Conservation Districts (in some states already renamed "Resource Conservation Districts").

The proposed legislation would use them as the vehicle for reaching the central planner's goals of controlling every acre of rural lands.

Another major thrust toward government control of land resources is the establishment of "local environmental conservation commissions" being pushed by the Environmental Protection Agency. There are more than 1300 such commissions in seven northeastern states.

At a meeting in New York state last summer, plans were made to create a national association of environmental conservation commissions, to "facilitate the spread of local conservation commissions to States outside the Northeast; help engender Federal, State, and private support for commission operations; and assist them in carrying out their responsibilities by offering clearinghouse and informational services."

One of the workshops at the meeting concerned regulatory procedures; natural resource inventories for "environmental planning"; training programs for commission members; and land trusts and other devices of acquiring land.

What this all boils down to is another organization supported by taxpayers to promote more organizations supported by taxpayers to control the property of the taxpayers. The local commissions would control all actions affecting the environment within their jurisdictions. They, too would become land use planning agencies.

A third thrust to take over land is federal land use legislation in Congress. It would order the states to establish controls over privately-owned lands within federal guidelines.

As this is being written, the major bill that appeared to be headed for passage has been bottled up by the House Rules Committee. But there are other bills.

The central planners are persistent; and they have the cooperation of many who don't agree with their proposals, but who work with them in order to "get a bill we can live with." Each time the cooperators "get a bill they can live with," the authoritarians are one more step towards their ultimate goal of complete control.

It will be argued that these thrusts toward land use control are not taken to acquire government ownership of land, but simply to make sure that all property owners act "in the public interest." But the authoritarians are one more step towards their ultimate goal of complete control.

What is the public interest? and who is to decide? Is any action that forces some to use their property for the benefit of others actually in the public interest? As attorney and columnist Bernard H. Siegan recently wrote, "...in our society there is no greater public interest than the right of the individual to be secure against the state."

Gold Gala

DAWSON CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — Discovery Day celebrations, commemorating the discovery of gold in the Klondike 76 years ago, will take place Aug. 16-18 in Dawson City.

Events will include a parade, horticulture and handicraft display, sports events, raft races on the Klondike River, gambling at Diamond Tooth Gertie's. The prize at a lottery drawing will be a poke of gold.

When an apartment-hunter starts scanning ads and asking around for leads, his first consideration may be location. If he doesn't have his own transportation, he will probably want to live near a bus route — or within walking distance of work.

Big Tomato Crop
SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California farmers produced 4.8 million tons of processing tomatoes in 1973, just under the record tonnage of 4.9 million set in 1968. The 1973 crop was valued at $199 million, compared to the 1968 record of $203 million.

California produces 80 percent of the tomatoes for processing in the nation. Processing tomatoes are those used for juice, canned paste, puree and sauces.

OREGON GOVERNOR SAYS When In Trouble, Do Something, Anything

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — When faced with a problem, Oregon's Gov. Tom McCall says the best policy "is to do something," almost anything.

In the process of doing things, McCall has attracted a degree of national attention unusual for the governor of a small state tucked away in the shadow of California.

Republican McCall, 60, has even managed to turn his lame duck administration into a slightly serious campaign for the U.S. presidency as the candidate of a "third force."

Most recently, McCall's doings have put Oregon on a voluntary but fairly effective gas purchase plan that has been adopted by several other states and which is seen by federal energy officials as a means of averting coupon-type national gas rationing.

McCall put Oregon in the forefront of the energy conservation effort last fall by first asking, then ordering, businesses to turn off their advertising lights. He was on shaky legal ground but reasoned he could not "stand around waiting for all the answers" while Oregon's industry closed down for lack of power.

The advertising lights used only a small amount of electricity, but McCall's ban gave a psychological boost to the average citizen who was asked to turn off lights in his home, turn down the thermostat and drive at 55 miles per hour. Oregonians saw that McCall was doing something and they responded with an impressive conservation effort.

In 1970, violence threatened as antiwar factions planned demonstrations during the national American Legion convention in Portland. Rather than risk street confrontations, McCall gambled his re-election chances and opened a nearby state park for the young demonstrators. The Woodstock-style gathering released much of the pressure and the antiwar demonstrations were reduced to tolerable dimensions.

In recent years Oregon has come up with several major innovations. Not all the ideas came from McCall, but they were clearly helped along by him and the "Oregon attitude" he so diligently cultivates.

In this category are laws banning nonreturnable beverage containers, setting aside highway funds for bicycle trails, minimizing the penalty for marijuana possession, opening state and local government meetings to the public protecting reporters from being forced to reveal confidential sources of information.

The dominant theme of McCall's two-term administration "has been environmental protection. His recurring nightmare has been that Oregon would suffer the scourge of uncontrolled development that struck California.

That fear led McCall to issue an out-of-state residents.

At first he said it would be tolerable for people to visit Oregon if they just would not stay. Later he said even tourism, a major Oregon industry, was threatening the state's well being.

McCall has not fared well in his efforts to revise the state's tax system. In 1969 he proposed a sales tax. "The voters buried me in a thundering avalanche," he recalls.

In 1973 McCall offered a plan for school financing at the state level but the voters rejected that, too. McCall was deeply disappointed and says he "was ready to quit."

Still Popular
But Oregonians held no

grudge against their still popular governor. Many took time to write him and say they were sorry they had to vote against the complex plan.

A minor misfire occurred last month when the governor, again trying to lead the charge on the energy front, ordered a German-built Audi to replace his gas-guzzling American limousine.

It was difficult enough for McCall to fold his six-foot-five-inch frame into the small import, but the howl from domestic auto dealers did not help. McCall decided the Audi, even with its good gas mileage, would not be an adequate traveling office and it has not been seen since.

McCall began his career as a newspaper reporter. He later switched to radio news and then became a television commentator. He still regards the job of the news reporter "as one of the most delicate tasks in the civilized world."

"Reporters deal not with things, but with human feelings, so they can hardly rejoice in a discovery that a man is corrupt," McCall said recently. "They should rejoice only in knowing that, by their efforts, they are insuring—or at least trying to insure—the right of the public to know what is going on."

Wide Open Administration
That attitude has resulted in a wide-open administration in which even the governor's daily staff meetings are open to reporters.

A "no comment" response to reporters' questions is a rarity for McCall. Even before Watergate, he endangered his relations with the White House by openly criticizing the tactics of Vice President Spiro Agnew and the domestic policies of President Nixon.

For all his devotion to Oregon, McCall was born in Massachusetts. "Being an Oregonian is a state of mind, not an accident of birth," he says.

McCall was raised on an eastern Oregon ranch, but his speech is that of a Bay Stater. His maternal grandfather, Thomas Lawson, was a New England financier who amassed and lost a fortune and who wrote a history of the Republican party.

Labels Unimportant
His other grandfather, Samuel McCall, was a three-term Massachusetts governor who later served as a representative in Congress for 20 years.

THC Approves More Seal Coat Work

The Texas Highway Commission last week approved seal coat work on 150 miles of Panhandle highways and farm to market roads.

The work will repair winter damage as well as protect the pavement and provide a better traveling surface.

Estimated cost of the work is $727,000.

In Gray County, the work involves Texas 152, from U.S. 60 to 1 mile east of FM 748, a distance of 13.2 miles.

The work also includes the following projects: Armstrong County: F.M. 1151, from FM 2250 to Texas 207, 12.1 miles, and from the Randall County line to FM 2250, 2.7 miles.

Carson County: FM 1342, from the Potter County line to FM 293, 12.4 miles; also FM 2373, from Interstate Highway 40 to U.S. 60, 4.4 miles.

Dallam County: U.S. 87, from Dalhart to .9 of a mile north of FM 1879, 17.8 miles.

Deaf Smith County: Spur 211, from U.S. 385 to U.S. 60, 1.2 miles; also FM 1068, from FM 1412 to U.S. 385, 23.3 miles.

Hansford County: Texas 207, from the Oklahoma state line to Texas 15, 19 miles.

Hemphill County: Texas 305, from the Lipscomb County line to U.S. 60, 3.2 miles; also FM 2388, from 6th Street in Canadian eastward 5.2 miles.

Hutchinson County: RM 1319, from RM 687 to the Moore County line, 6.6 miles; also FM 1526, from Texas 207 eastward 3.1 miles.

Moore County: RM 1319, from the Hutchinson County line to RM 1913, 1.0 of a mile.

Potter County: FM 1342, from Texas 136 to the Carson County line, 3 of a mile.

Randall County: FM 285, from U.S. 87 to the Armstrong County line, 11.2 miles.

Sherman County: FM 1573, from U.S. 287 to FM 119, 10.9 miles.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "While the market cannot yet be considered weak technically since breadth figures and volume indications are still quite favorable, it is also not as strong as it was two or three weeks ago just before the recent rally got started," says E.F. Hutton & Co. Inc. The firm says the market is not ready to support another sizeable advance in the near term. "Unless we have some very bad news," it adds, "the market is not too vulnerable to a substantial setback at this juncture."

The market is likely to experience a third and possibly very large fall before it reaches a primary low," according to Wiesenberger Services, Inc. The firm expects the Dow Jones Industrial Average to drop to about the 700 mark and the Standard & Poor's 500 Stocks Composite to the 82 mark, representing capital losses as high as 20 per cent from the March 5 levels of both indicators. "Recent short-term strength, which apparently was engendered by indications that the Arab oil boycott would soon terminate, will expire once the ending of the boycott takes place," it adds.

Producer Greg Garrison has signed Nashville's recording stars Lynn Anderson, Ray Stevens and Charlie Rich to starring roles in NBC-TV's new musical series "Music Country USA."

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In the adolescent days of contract bridge, bidding was uniformly poor. The reason was that there was no sound system of bidding to serve as a guide. And so our nation of bridge players frequently arrived at interior contracts. The winners were those who learned to extricate themselves by superior play.

In today's deal we had an example of "bad bidding, excellent play." Our South declarer was the goat who became a hero. Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.
 Had South stopped to bid five notrump over North's five-spade response, he would have discovered that his partnership was lacking a king. He would then probably have stopped at six notrump. But, in this case, there would have been no story to tell.

West's opening heart lead was won by South's king, after which dummy's ace and queen of trumps were cashed. Then came the ace of hearts, and this was followed by the ruffing of a third heart lead.

A diamond to dummy's king was led next, and then South's ace and queen of diamonds were cashed. South now began the running of his remaining three trumps. This was the position prior to the lead of South's last trump: dummy had the eight of hearts and the A-10 of spades; West possessed the jack of hearts and the K-8 of spades. South had a trump and the Q-5 of spades.

When South now led his remaining trump, West found himself in an untenable position. He couldn't discard the heart jack, for if he did, dummy's eight would become a winner. And so he was forced to toss away the spade eight, thereby unguarding the king. On this trick, the board's eight

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Tom's case should make an interesting debate topic! Is it "rude and vicious" for a deceitful communist to be exposed in a public debate with an American physician? The Bible even warns against wolves in sheep's clothing. Was the preacher or the doctor the wolf?

CASE Z-576: Tom T., aged 29, was a Florida clergyman back in September, 1961.

His constant belittling of our American government and "free enterprise" system, irked a medical friend of mine.

"Reverend," this physician protested at a church banquet, "I've heard you attack this Republic once too often."

"And your very vocabulary includes the typical communist 'line' which I often encountered when I attended some communist speeches while at Harvard."

When the clergyman tried to pooh-pooh this accusation, the doctor went on:

"You are spouting their propaganda verbatim, so I challenge you to show us your billfold!"

"For I'll wager you $10 that you are a communist and are carrying a communist card in your bill fold."

SPIKE THEIR GUNS — Well, the clergyman was on the spot.

For the eyes of various parishioners around the table were all focussed on him.

Reluctantly, the preacher finally admitted he was a card carrying communist.

The reason I have repeated these paragraphs from my column of September 27, 1961, is to take a poll of you interested readers.

For the editor of a prominent paper in Illinois cancelled my "Worry Clinic" as a consequence, saying in his letter to me:

"We encourage honest controversy. We don't expect our columnists to agree with us, and they don't in many of their columns."

"We publish both sides of issues in our letters from our readers. For we don't pretend to know all the answers."

"But this comment about 'show me your billfold' goes beyond controversy."

"It encourages persecution of non-conformists. It is rude and vicious."

Which brings up some vital psychological issues, such as:

(1) Is it rude and vicious to expose declared enemies of this American Republic, for communists vow to destroy it?

(2) Do you readers think this clergyman is the only one in America who has been using his pulpit to undermine our "Free Enterprise" system?

(3) Is it really beyond the realm of controversy for a newspaper to print an actual occurrence here in an American city where a prominent physician defended our Republic in open debate, with an enemy thereof?

(4) Is it "honest controversy" to let a wolf in sheep's clothing contaminate the minds of parishioners against their own country, yet malign a patriot who exposes such an enemy?

You readers be the judge of these vital psychological issues, for if patriots don't stand up in open debate, whether at a church dinner table or a political platform, then what is to prevent the insidious crumbling of our famous Republic?

Termites can finally cause collapse of the finest looking frame house.

Our U. S. Supreme Court acknowledges the right of communists to free speech in this country, even when disguised under clerical robes and in our leading pulpits.

So why deny similar free speech to an openly avowed patriot?

Volunteer Army Over The Hump, Recruiter Says

By MICHAEL WESTER
LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — The Army's No. 1 recruiter in the Southwest says the all-volunteer Army has made it.

"It's been a tough six months since the Army went all volunteer, but I think we're over the hump," Col. Gerald Childress said. "Things are beginning to look up for the future."

Childress is commander of the Fourth Army Recruiting District made up of nine states in the Southwest and headquartered at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, Tex.

Childress said the biggest problem for the Army during its first six months on a volunteer basis has been changing attitudes of people who serve their nation under the old standards.

"It's just hard to get across the new ways in today's Army," he said. "But the challenge is so great that it's just fun to be a part of it."

The prime recruit for today's Army is the high school graduate, he said.

"Of course, this is not the only type of young man or woman that we are looking for today," Childress said. "We get some good people from both college and high school drop outs."

He said, however, once a person has completed a college degree and is ready for the business world, seldom does he want to delay that career while he serves in the Army.

"Many students just about to enter college — and some who have already spent a term in college — just don't know yet what they want to do," Childress said.

"Through the Army they are able to grow up for two years and still be working toward college credit. Also, when they get out of the Army, they can use their GI

Bill to help them complete their education."

Another recruiting enticement the Army has developed is the two-year plan, allowing an individual to pick his career or his place of service. It has a written guarantee the enlisted person will get what he is promised.

"Even the pay is on a competing basis now," Childress said. "The Army has finally gotten away from the old bottom scale plan, and can now offer competing wages — considering that board, room and clothing is also paid for by the government."

Childress said the two major problems which Army recruiters are fighting to overcome are the old ideas of what it was like during World War II and the Korean and Vietnam wars.

"These were all bad times for everyone — especially the fellow who was wading in the mud and fighting for both his country and his life," Childress said. "But it's certainly a program all young people should consider when planning their own future during present peace times."

Childress, 43, was born in Clintwood, Va., and graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute with a bachelor of science degree in 1952. He received a commission as a second lieutenant in the Army through the Reserve Officer Training Corps program, and completed his artillery basic course at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

His initial assignment was as a battery officer with the 633rd Anti-aircraft Artillery Battalion in Europe. He was promoted to first lieutenant and also served as battalion motor transport officer with the 49th Anti-aircraft Artillery Battalion.

Now Is Good Time To Buy Home Despite Inflation, High Interests

AUSTIN — Inflation, recessed economy, bear market, high interest rates. Can this be the best time to buy a home?

Surprisingly, most experts say yes. Waiting for interest rates to come down probably will cost you more in the long run as labor, building materials, and real estate continue to become more expensive.

The price of homes is expected to head steadily upward as the present housing shortage grows more serious.

Congress has estimated that 26 million additional housing units will be needed nationally by 1980. Efforts to meet this goal are lagging.

And housing will have to be provided for 100 million more Americans over the next 30 years — in addition to replacing approximately half of all existing residences.

Statistics like these leave little doubt that the time to buy a home is now — as soon as you can afford it. Real estate authorities indicate that a home generally is an excellent long-range investment, even with today's rising costs. The purchase of a home also is the largest investment most people ever make, so it's wise to buy carefully.

Prudent purchasing begins with becoming well informed on home buying before you enter a real estate transaction. Preparations should include consideration of all factors affecting your investment, and of steps to safeguard your financial interest from possible land title problems.

The Texas Land Title Association recommends that thought be given the following points as you contemplate home ownership.

When you engage in a real estate transaction, make sure your interests as a buyer are well represented.

As you consider the purchase of a particular home, check its location for nearness to facilities that are important to you — such as shopping, schools, public transportation, etc.

Also, look around the neighborhood for signs of healthy growth — or deterioration. And check at city hall and/or courthouse regarding the outlook for the area in terms of planning and zoning.

Investigate financing that's available and obtain the latest information — whether you are obtaining a conventional, FHA, or VA loan. Calculate the impact secondary financing will have on your budget if this type of assistance is needed.

Find out about closing costs you will need to pay for items including services to protect purchaser and lender. Review the amount you will need for down payment, and for monthly outlays to cover principal, interest, taxes, utilities, hazard insurance, and maintenance.

Ask about an up-to-date land title search of separately located public records for possible defects that could threaten the security of your real estate investment. Examples are unpaid taxes and special assessments, unsatisfied mortgages, and pending lawsuits.

There are many other possibilities. Any defects of record that exist should be brought to your attention so they can be cleared up before your purchase is completed.

Look into obtaining owner's title insurance, which offers financial protection from loss due to defects in the title as insured, including those hidden defects even the most thorough search won't reveal.

Some examples of these hidden hazards are forged deed that transfers no title, a claim by a missing heir, mistakes in the records, and others.

For a one-time premium, owner's title insurance pays for defending against an attack on a title as insured and pays claims proved to be valid. Remember that lender's title insurance, sometimes called mortgagee's policies, required in many transactions, is protection for the lender only.

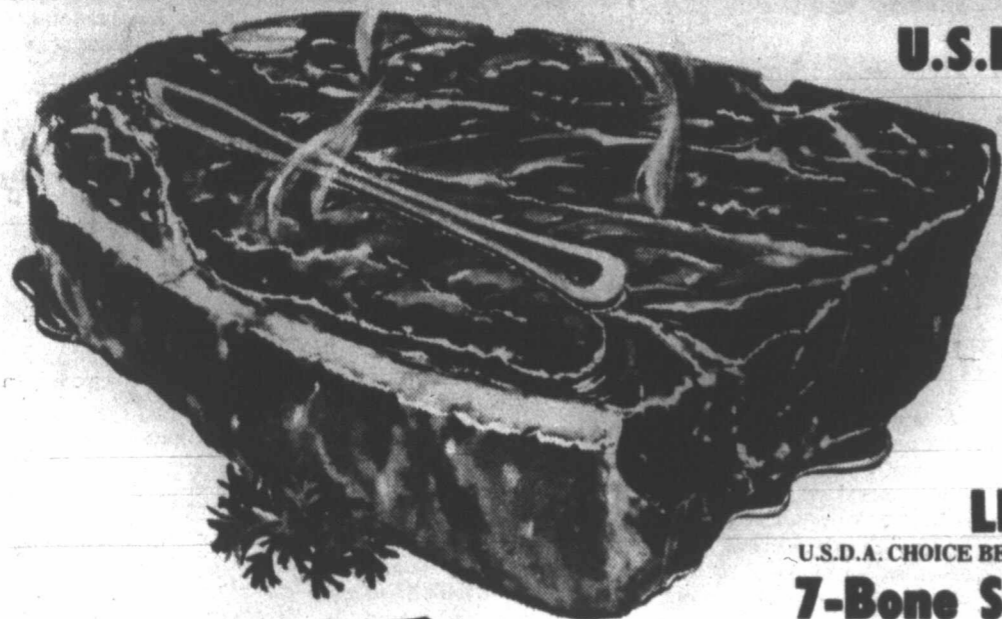

If desired, you simultaneously can obtain owner's title insurance to safeguard you, the buyer — usually for a small additional premium.

Becoming well informed on home buying — before you enter a real estate deal — will help you in making important decisions and in protecting your interests. As a result, chances will improve for your enjoyment of home ownership with peace of mind.

For free literature on things you need to know in buying a home, write to the Texas Land Title Association, 220 West 7th Street, Austin, Tex. 78701.

A Lesson In 'Streaking'

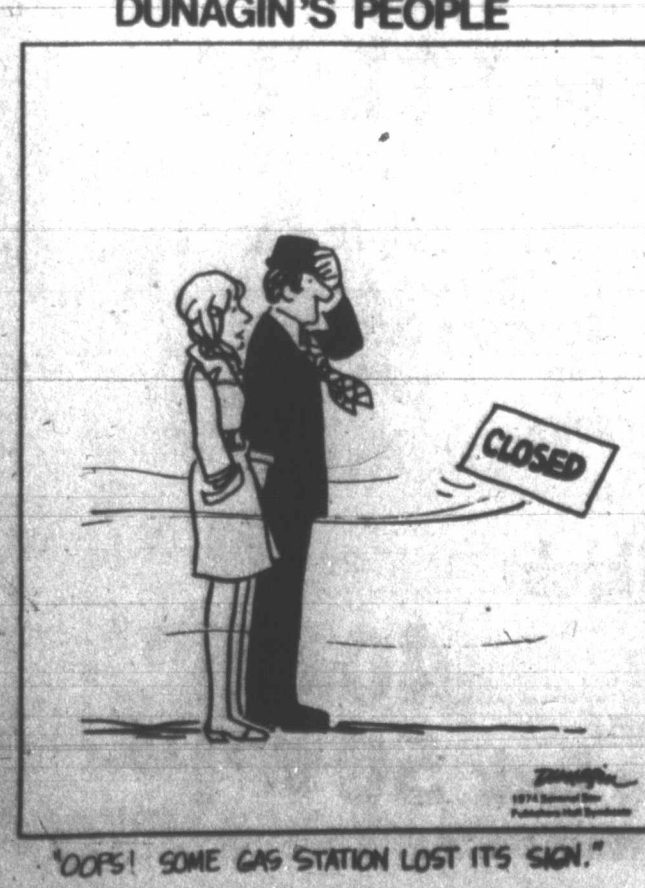

'Streaking,' in case you haven't already heard, is the practice, apparently in the process of sweeping across the nation, of dashing into and out of public view naked as a peeled grape. Thus far, the peeler seem to be limited to the college crowd with males and females vying to outdo the other. And reactions, as could have been predicted with mathematical certainty, are running the full gamut from 'outrageous and shocking' to 'beautiful and delightful'.

INSIDE WASHINGTON Pay-Grab Killed Because Of Fear Of Voter Anger

By ROBERT S. ALLEN WASHINGTON — It's a good thing the Senate killed that congressional pay-grab, because the House wouldn't have done it; it would not have had a chance to vote on it. House Democratic leaders had secretly decided to block that — so if the question had depended on House action, the hectic pay raise would have been allowed to go automatically into effect by the March 9 deadline.

Both Track Teams Going To Sunray

SUNRAY — The Pampa Harvester track team returns here Friday for the conclusion of the rain-delayed Bobcat Relays while Pampa's girls track team will be among those entered in the Sunray Invitational Girls Track Meet, also Friday.

The girls' meet will precede the Bobcat Relays, which do not start until 5 p.m., although two preliminaries will be held earlier in the afternoon.

Pampa's girls competed in the Perryton Girls Invitational Saturday and placed last in the five-team field. One bright spot for Betty Chamberlain's Harvesters was sprinter Cindy Young, who placed second in the 100 with 11.9 seconds. The time puts Miss Young in fourth place in the area standings behind Melanie Yane of Gruver, 11.7 and Cherry Sheppard, Borger, and JoAnn Coker of Springlake. Earth, both 11.8.

Debbie Gray placed fourth in both the shot put and discus last week, and Peggy Tyrrell won fourth in the 100.

In the boys' competition at Sunray last week, rain and hail forced the postponement of the finals and the preliminaries in the 220-yard dash and 330 intermediate hurdles until Friday.

The 220 prelims will be held at 1:15 p.m. and the hurdles at 1:45 p.m. The field events will also start at 1:15 p.m.

Pampa Coach Scott Dunnam will take his entire team to Sunray, although some did not qualify and will not compete.

"Only a very few didn't qualify. We'll work out with everyone there (at Sunray)," said Dunnam, whose Harvesters will compete along with the girls track team and Pampa golf

Marquette, Vanderbilt Vie Tonight

By United Press International
Al McGuire, in addition to trying to lead Marquette to the NCAA basketball championship, is faced with a "problem" not bothering any of the other 15 coaches still harboring visions of the tournament title.

"We're too thin," quipped the outgoing Warrior coach after his team whipped Ohio University 85-59 last Saturday to advance to tonight's Midwest Regional encounter against Vanderbilt at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

"We have to station a lifeguard in the showers to watch that none go down the drain."

Despite his club's lack of heft, the oddsmakers have tabbed fifth ranked Marquette (23-4) a 3 1/2 point choice to beat Southeastern Conference champion and seventh ranked Vanderbilt (23-3) and advance to Saturday's regional final against the winner of the Notre Dame-Michigan contest.

Notre Dame, ranked third, carries a 25-2 record against the 12th ranked Wolverines (21-4) who earned a tournament berth by beating Indiana 75-67 Monday night in a playoff between the Big Ten co-champions. The Irish are favored by eight.

The Midwest, with three of its teams ranked in the final JPI Top Ten, figures to be the most competitive of the four regionals, all of which feature doubleheaders tonight, but the other three are definitely not lacking for

OVER ASTROS Aaron Homers In Atlanta Win

By United Press International
Lest you be reminded, spring really is here. Hank Aaron has hit his first home run.

And yet, while Hank was clouting his first homer of the spring against the Houston Astros in West Palm Beach, Fla., Wednesday, hundreds of miles away some publicity-seeking businessmen were already beginning a bidding war for the 715th home run ball he will soon hit out when the baseball season begins for real.

First there was James W. Pry, II, an attorney from Bucyrus, Ohio, who offered $10,000 for Aaron's 715th—a hike of $5,000 from the bid a pair of Greensboro, Ga. businessmen, Carey Williams Jr. and Tom Guthrie had originally offered for the ball. But not to be outbid, Williams and Guthrie upped their offer to $11,111 — and that's where auction stands for the present.

"We want to keep the ball in Georgia because few Georgians would get a chance to see it in Cooperstown," N.Y. explained Guthrie. Williams added that the two had already had offers of up to $8,000 for the ball. "We might just make a syndicate out of this thing," he said.

Meanwhile, Aaron, in only his second at-bat of the Grapefruit Season, teed off on Astros' right-hander James Rodney Richard with a two-run homer over the leftfield fence. Darrell Evans also homered for the Braves, who flexed their muscles for 27 hits in the game.

"I'm more relaxed out there playing than I am off the field. I'm quite as badly as the skeptics claimed when they dealt away regulars Lou Piniella and Ed Kirkpatrick for some pitching help over to be Witness youngsters Jim Wohlford and Al Cowens: Wohlford banged out four hits in five at-bats in the Royals' 20-hit, 12-1 rout of the Texas Rangers while Cowens collected two hits and a pair of RBIs. So far this spring, in their bid to beat out veterans Vida Pinson and Hal McRae of the Royals' two best outfield berths, Cowens, Player of the Year in the Southern League last year, is 5-for-15 with five RBI while Wohlford is hitting at a .538 clip (7-for-13) with three RBI.

Other spring training scores: St. Louis 6 Los Angeles 4; Boston 7 Minnesota 2; Montreal 4 New York Mets 3.

PHS Going To Lubbock
LUBBOCK — Forty-five schools and 557 entries, including those from the Pampa team, will be here Friday and Saturday for the annual Lubbock Invitational Tennis Tournament, one of the biggest net tournaments in the state and the biggest in Lubbock history.

Tascosa of Amarillo, Borger and Pampa will represent District 3-AAAA in the event, which drew 495 people a year ago.

There will be three divisions — A, B and C. Pampa and other AAAA teams will compete in the A division, AAAA "B" teams and AAA teams in the B division and AA and others in the C division.

Florida Tourney To Begin Today
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A field of 144 golfers tees off today for the 10th annual Greater Jacksonville Open golf tournament amid predictions for cloudy skies and an unFlorida-like cold weather front.

Early favorites in the field included Texan Ben Crenshaw, Tom Weiskopf, Brian "Buddy" Allin and defending champion Jim Colbert.

The pros joined sponsors and patrons of the 10th annual Greater Jacksonville Open for a pro-am warmup Wednesday to the main event over the 7,088-yard, par-72 Deerwood Country Club course.

"We've got a different offense than most everybody else here," Messbarger said. "Everybody moves in our offense. You can't key on anybody. And we stopped 'em dead inside, too."

There was no question Wednesday night. The Rattlers from San Antonio applied a 12-4 haymaker in the last 4:50 of the first half, taking a 42-32 lead at intermission they never relinquished.

St. Mary's (Tex.), the 16th-seeded team, applied the crusher 71-55.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Auctioneer Has A Voice Problem

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am an auctioneer with a voice problem. I have trouble with phlegm coming in my throat all the time. It does not seem to matter what I eat, but from the time I get up in the morning it continues all day.

When I auction before the microphone it is very annoying to customers. My career is on the line. I hope you can help me.

I talked to several doctors about this but they have no suggestions.

-L.A.P.
Several possibilities, but the first is smoking. If you smoke, stop. There probably is no other answer for that.

Next comes physical changes from long and harsh use of the voice, and singers and loud orators are known to have such problems.

You say you have "talked to several doctors" but you make no mention of having a throat examination (You'd be wise to see a specialist.)

The vocal cords should be checked specifically for such things as thickening of the cords, leukoplakia (white, film-like spots), or formation of nodules. Whichever the basic cause may be, the excess of phlegm means irritation from some source. I doubt that what you eat has any effect; milk, ice cream and very sweet foods can cause mucus, but only for a very short time after eating.

crippling, but it still deserves attention to keep it from being too painful and to avoid excessive stiffening of the joints.

Menopausal arthritis appears to be a particular type of arthritis, and while you cannot expect it to go away after menopause, you should be able to keep it from bothering you too much. I'd suggest that you send 35 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother, 79, was on an extended visit in California and became ill while there. My sister-in-law took her to a doctor and her blood pressure was very high.

She told the doctor she was taking medication for her blood pressure at home in the form of shots once a month and tablets orally.

My mother claims the doctor told her there was no such thing as shots and medication for high blood pressure. Is that true?
-Mrs. W.G.

Some misunderstanding, I would guess. Certainly medications are used for blood pressure control, but seldom in the form of injections except in the case of sudden crises. Tablets, yes.

Note to Mrs. J.N.M.: No, penicillin and vitamin B-12 will NOT make arthritis "act up."

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys - Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to him, Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT Art Celebrity Becoming Richer

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK - Twisting his curled-up waxed mustache between delicate fingers and swinging his cane majestically, Salvador Dali, the foremost celebrity in the art world, is now becoming its richest.

Future generations will confuse him with Pablo Picasso because Dali, full of stunts, gets enormous publicity, whereas Picasso, being dead, doesn't paste up a lot of clippings.

Dali has a new exhibit at the Knoedler Galleries (using live models) and the other night was star guest at the Colony at a 38th birthday party for decorator Angelo Donaghia with Clovis Ruffin as host.

Spotting his mustache through the dancing mob, I pursued Dali, to present Cindy Adams who wished to get him to help judge Miss Universe in Manila in July.

"I already asked you and you said you never fly," Cindy said.

"Si, si, I never fly." Dali rubbed his mustache ... "Why don't you ever fly?" I asked ... "Afraid of corpsing," Dali replied ... The double rr sound threw me ... "Afraid of what?" I asked ... "Don't you speak English?" he said ... "Afraid of corpsing!"

I then asked Dali if he is the most successful artist in the world commercially.

"Ees my opinion!" And with his mustache held high, he moved on, one of the few men among us whom history will remember.

There was a lot of same-sex dancing (guys with guys, etc.) at that party but I thought beautiful blonde singer Janice Harper was the most provocative. She danced with a doctor who kept pulling out the back of her blouse to cool her off. "Learned it in Arkansas where it gets very hot," he said.

Marilyn Chambers, the Ivory Snow Girl who became a porno queen, brought her non-porno act to the Riverboat. I give her an A-plus for courage. Most of the girls were out to knife her for her figure.

She can sure shake and wiggle, and sings almost as well as other Instant Singers. But I was entranced that Marilyn, a Westport, Conn. product, is managed by Linda Lovelace's ex-husband Chuck Traynor.

"Are you married to him?" I asked Marilyn who replied, "Not yet." How could one man have conquered the two superstars in their field? "By telephone, I just called her," said Traynor, busily laying out some of her skimpy costumes in her dressing room. Broadway manager Lou Perry who once managed Martin & Lewis started Marilyn Chambers in this non-porno enterprise which he believes will make her rich in Las Vegas.

The Beautiful People keep tipping me off to new details of the Charles Revson split with his wife, Lyn, with huge settlement sums mentioned, also here and there a glamorous young name is dropped. The rumor that Lyn might get $25 million is considered preposterous. Revson and Mrs. Revson are discreetly quiet - but their friends aren't.

While Hugh Shannon was at the piano at the Colony Tent Room, Joey Adams said that Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor and even Georgie Jessel wouldn't be able to get jobs today ... the audiences have changed so much, the young people wouldn't go to see them. Outside of Vegas and Miami Beach, they'd die, claimed Joey.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Cher Bono's getting hefty bids from cafes around the country for her first appearance as a single ... Dick Cavett, master of ceremonies at a dinner for Goddard Lieberson, told the audience, "Congratulations on being among the few people left in the country who can still afford $100 a plate for an occasion like this."

Show Biz Quiz: Who won the first Oscars? Ans. to yesterday's: Actresses who starred in "Dolly" on B'way were Carol Channing, Ginger Rogers, Martha Raye, Betty Grable, Pearl Bailey, Phyllis Diller and Ethel Merman.

Fuel crisis note: The Landmark Tavern offers free transportation (via horse and buggy) to the theater district ... Evel Knievel dined at Spindletop, and sent drinks to the kitchen staff. (No, he didn't leave by motorcycle) ... Cyd Charisse's niece Zan Charisse will marry aly' Jerome Landau. (She'll be on B'way in Angela Lansbury's "Gypsy" company).

Jack Nicholson, an Oscar nominee for "Last Detail," says he's rooting for young Randy Quaid, another nominee: "I'll be happier if the kid wins than if I win" ... Lynn Redgrave's becoming Americanized in a hurry - she took her kids to watch a "Sesame St." taping ... Composer Bob Merrill will do the score for a B'way musical version of "Of Human Bondage" (to be called "Mildred") ... Sal Mineo said he'll star in a show, "Sugar & Spice" (written by Groucho Marx's son Arthur).

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: John Markus writes that he's been having trouble getting fuel: "The local station has two types of gas - regular and irregular."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A man at Sid Allen's described his wife as "an absolute jewel." "And you know what a jewel is - a damned expensive ornament."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Advice, like medicine, is easy to give, and often hard to take."

-Art White

Under Twenty

By TOM WILLIAMS
Advertising, a comparatively large, dynamic and often rewarding field, holds an attraction for many young people looking for their career choice. Whether you tend towards art, copywriting, management or any other of the many areas in advertising, you should know that in the next ten years a slow growth in the number of people employed is expected.

There are now approximately 150,000 men and women employed in positions requiring considerable knowledge of advertising. In the next decade most of the openings will result from the need to replace those who retire, die or leave the field for other reasons.

Advertising executives say, however, that opportunities, particularly in advertising agencies, will be favorable for those who are highly qualified in their specialized areas.

Of those presently employed, approximately one-third work for advertising agencies and more than half of these agency employees are employed in New York City, Chicago and metropolitan areas.

There are, however, many independent agencies in other cities and many agencies operate branch offices outside the major centers as well as overseas.

Those not working for agencies work for manufacturing companies, stores and other organizations or for printers, engravers, art studios, product and package designers and others who provide services to advertisers and their advertising agencies.

Most employers prefer college graduates having a liberal arts training or majors in advertising, marketing, journalism or business administration. There is, however, no typical educational background for success in advertising.

Many successful people in advertising started in other fields and shifted to advertising. Others gained entry through an informal "apprentice" program working in or near advertising and developing useful talents for the field.

According to limited information, starting salaries for beginners in advertising ranged from $6,500 to $8,000 a year in 1970. Salaries of experienced workers vary by the size of the firm.

Small agencies paid approximately $11,000 a year while larger agencies with big billings averaged $26,000 a year. The type of job within an agency also affects the salary, with highly creative employees commanding the largest salaries.

Advertising is a satisfying career for persons who enjoy variety, excitement, pressure, and a constant challenge to their creative ability. They must, however, be able to meet strong competition and can then have the satisfaction of seeing the results of their work in print, on television or hearing it on the radio.

If you feel ready for the competition, additional information can be obtained from the American Advertising Foundation, 1225 Connecticut Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20036; American Association of Advertising Agencies, 200 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

A list of schools providing training in advertising can be obtained from Advertising Education Publications, 3429 Fifty-Fifth Street, Lubbock, Tex. 79413.
