WHEN IRISH ELVES ARE SMILING — Rhonda Dennis went strolling in Pampa's famed Irish Woods this week, and Begorra! If she didn't encounter a wee leprechaun. Though the little man refused to guide Miss Dennis to his treasure, he did wish the best of luck to her and Pampa's two other contestants in Shamrock's Miss Irish Rose-Beauty Pageant held Saturday. Rhonda, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Dennis, was sponsored by the Kappa Alpha chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Nixon, Committee Reach Impasse Over 40 Words

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and the House Judiciary Committee have reached an impasse over 40 words in a 1000-word letter asking the White House for additional information for the committee's impeachment inquiry.

Shamrock Concludes Celebration

SHAMROCK — Miss Littlefield, Penny Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walter of Littlefield, was named Miss Irish Rose 1974 here Saturday afternoon in festivities held in connection with the annual St. Patrick's Day celebration.

Miss Walter, a junior at Littlefield High School, was sponsored by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce.

First runnerup in the Miss Irish Rose competition was Miss Hollis (Okla.), Mikki Amern, the daughter of Jackie and Janie Amern. She was sponsored by Hollis High School, where she is a senior.

Second runnerup was Miss Claude, Bobbie Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Moore. A senior at Claude High School, she was sponsored by Armstrong County.

Miss Congeniality in the annual affair was Miss Allison, Cynthia Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Chandler of Allison.

Twenty-five colleens were entered in this year's Miss Irish Rose contest. Several awards were made following the parade held in the city to celebrate St. Paddy's Day.

The prize for the most novel float went to the Shamrock Rainbow Girls. Most original float was awarded to the Trinity Lutheran Church of Shamrock, first in beauty, went to Sayre (Okla.), Junior College; the judge's choice to the Trinity Lutheran Church and first in theme to Shamrock High School Student Council.

Between 250 and 275 registered at the old settler's reunion Saturday morning, Elmer Simpson, who first came to the Shamrock area in 1891, qualified as the long-time resident. J.P. Hazelwood, who came to Shamrock in 1918, was the oldest registrant at 91.

Winner of the Donegal Beard Contest was Kenneth Campbell of Shamrock. Second place went to Ralph Mote and third to Randy Pritchard, both of Shamrock.

At Friday night's banquet, which opened the annual celebration, 850 people gathered to hear guest speaker Louie Freeman and a singing group from Booker, the Booker Bank Notes.

This year marked the 23rd annual celebration in Shamrock of St. Patrick's Day.

next week to discuss what to do next.

Rodino said the 40 words should not be read alone but in context.

Doar's letter to St. Clair went on:

"Furthermore, we believe the next logical step is to have you outline for us how the White House files are indexed, how presidential papers are indexed, and how presidential conversations and memoranda are indexed.

"We are particularly interested in knowing how the files of Mr. (H.R.) Haldeman, Mr. (John D.)

Ehrlichman, Mr. (Charles W.) Colson and Mr. (John W.) Dean are indexed." Doar said, referring to four former Nixon White House aides who have been indicted in connection with the Watergate cover-up.

Particular Subjects

Doar said the committee simply subjects in the files of the four former Nixon aides, as well as files which relate to some of the impeachment allegations.

When the White House said it doesn't have an index of those files, Doar said, "We suggested a way to avoid a fishing expedition."

FROM HUGHES

Miss Woods Knew About Contribution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, has testified she had two or three conversations with Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo about Howard Hughes' $100,000 contribution, but never discussed the matter with Nixon, it was disclosed Saturday.

She said she assumed Rebozo, the Key Biscayne, Fla., banker who is one of Nixon's closest friends, kept the money untouched in a safe deposit box to be used later in an election campaign.

Miss Woods' comments were contained in a 80-page transcript of her testimony before Senate Watergate committee investigators Feb. 20 that was made available Saturday.

The committee will meet privately to question Miss Woods on Wednesday and Rebozo on Friday about the $100,000 contribution from the billionaire recluse, transmitted to Rebozo in two $50,000 installments in 1969 and 1970. Sources close to the inquiry said the committee will try to establish why Hughes made the payments and what Rebozo's understanding of it was.

Rebozo returned the $100,000 three years after the first payment, and has testified that Miss Woods was the only person at the White House with whom he had discussed the matter.

Officials Surprised At Terms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials and Western diplomats Saturday expressed surprise at the harsh and blunt terms used by President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in criticizing European allies for not coordinating economic and political policy with the United States.

The President told the Executives' Club of Chicago Friday that Europe could not expect to rely on U.S. military and nuclear protection if their governments persist in "confrontation and even hostility" with America in economic and political fields.

Official European comment was guarded but British diplomats reacted with a mixture of shock and dismay and said Nixon's remarks could have "the most serious consequences" for the Atlantic alliance.

The conservative French newspaper Le Figaro said the Chicago statement assumed "the form of an ultimatum."

Nixon said Friday, "We are not going to be faced with a situation where the nine (Common Market) countries of Europe gang up against the United States — the United States which is their guarantee for their security."

Kissinger, who leaves for Moscow next week with a possible stop in London, backed off his strong criticism of lack of European coordination in policy and questioning of the legitimacy of their governments.

TRYING TO MEET DEMANDS

Hearst Says He's Kept His Word To Kidnapers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Randolph A. Hearst said Saturday he was keeping his word to the kidnapers of his 20-year-old daughter and doing everything he can to meet their demands.

"The one thing I want above all is to get Patty home as quickly as possible," Hearst said.

Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and son of the late newspaper giant William Randolph Hearst, issued a brief written statement at his home in suburban Hillsborough.

His daughter, Patricia, was abducted from her Berkeley apartment, Feb. 4 by a terrorist group calling itself the Symbionese Liberation Army.

In his written statement, Hearst dealt with the demand of two imprisoned SLA members, Russell Little, 26, and Joseph Remiro, 27, that they be allowed to appear on nationwide television with a proposal for freeing the kidnaped girl.

He also explained why the food ransom program set up in an attempt to win his daughter's freedom had been suspended temporarily. The statement was made in response to the fifth taped communique received from the SLA by the Hearsts a week ago.

"Earlier this week I stated that I would have a detailed response to the latest communique from the SLA," Hearst said.

"My reason for not doing so to date is that this last message is more complicated than previous messages in that it deals with more objectives. As an example, the People in Need program (of food distribution) has been temporarily halted so that the next distribution will occur more fully with the SLA demands.

"I am doing all I can to facilitate the appearance of Remiro and Little in a televised news conference. I believe such an appearance can be very helpful to the release of Patricia. Unfortunately, these things take time as the people involved include lawyers, judges, district attorneys and sheriffs.

"I have not broken my word to the SLA, and I am doing everything I can to carry out their demands. The one thing I want above all is to get Patty home as quickly as possible, and I repeat, I am doing all I can to bring that about."

Remiro and Little went to court last Wednesday across the bay in Martinez seeking permission for the national television appearance. A judge is scheduled to rule on their petition Tuesday. As the two came into court in shackles, their attorney admitted theirs was a "most unique and unprecedented request."

It had been reported that the SLA intended to use Patricia as a hostage to seek the release of Russell and Little, but an attorney for one of them said this week that that was "nonsense" and that they did not wish to be exchanged for the girl.

The two are under indictment for the murder of Dr. Marcus Foster, Oakland superintendent of schools, last Nov. 6.

Walk A Mile For The Life Of A Child

The March of Dimes will conduct a Walkathon Sunday, March 24, to raise funds for the annual fight against birth defects.

Registration will start at noon at Pampa High School, with the walk beginning at 1 p.m. Sponsor sheets are available at PHS, Chamber of Commerce office and The Pampa News office.

A $25 U.S. Savings Bond donated by the First National Bank will go the person raising the most money. A similar bond will be presented to the person having the most sponsors, donated by Citizens Bank and Trust Co.

Dunlap's will donate a $15 gift certificate to the oldest walker, with Montgomery Ward providing a $15 transistor radio to the youngest walker.

The walk will cover a maximum of 15 miles. The Coca Cola Bottling Co. will furnish free drinks.

"Walk a mile for the life of a child. Get as many sponsors as you can and join in the walk. If you don't walk, you can be a sponsor." MoD officials said.

CONFRONTATION LOOMS

Two School Board Members Request Open Meeting To Air PCTA Charge

By TEX DEWEESE

A possible confrontation between representatives of the executive committee of the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association and at least two members of the Pampa School Board was in the making during the weekend as the result of controversy over the moot question of who is privileged to see teacher evaluation documents.

The matter flared into the open following receipt of a letter by school board president Bob Carmichael from Mrs. Judy Dennis, president of the PCTA, and a subsequent letter sent by Carmichael to all board members urging them to answer five questions propounded by Mrs. Dennis.

Board members Curt Beck and Paul Simmons said they would not comply with the requested notarized written answers but instead asked Carmichael to call an open meeting of the school board at which time the questions could be answered and discussed in public.

Both Simmons and Beck said they wanted to bring the matter into the open.

Simmons said he believed it to be a "politically motivated attempt at character assassination."

Simmons also stated he thought the allegation had been kept behind the scenes too long and added that it had been blown out of proportion.

Beck and Simmons said Saturday they had not yet received a reply to their request that the matter "either be dropped or the school board president call an open meeting of the board so the public would have an opportunity to hear both sides of the allegations."

When other members of the board were questioned Friday about what they intended to do concerning the PCTA executive board's request, board president Carmichael said he intended to answer it. Board member Warren Hasse said he had not had sufficient time to digest it and recently appointed board member Dorothy Stowers stated she was not ready to comment.

Carmichael in his letter to board members stated it was his personal feeling that requests in the letter signed by Mrs. Dennis "are out of line and can be met easily by the trustees."

The principal charge in the PCTA letter was, in general, that information concerning school principals' evaluation of teachers for contract renewal had been given by a board member to a citizen of the community.

It further requested that each school board member submit, a notarized statement as to whether or not he or she made any additional copies of the teacher evaluation document other than the one furnished by the school superintendent as well as whether or not anyone else had access to his or her copy.

Also requested was a list of how many copies were made and to whom they were distributed, as well as a list of any persons having access to the information. The letter asked that all copies be returned to the school superintendent.

Finally, the PCTA letter further requested that "the school board president and the superintendent present a written report to the president of the PCTA of their findings (statements received from school board members and others involved, the number of copies returned to the superintendent and any other information which might be helpful in expediting the matter)."

Board member Simmons had this further comment:

"The whole thing is, in my opinion, politically motivated from some source or other for the purpose of character assassination of a candidate for a post that shouldn't be political at all."

"The vast majority of our teachers are doing an outstanding job with dedication, but there exists a very small minority that apparently doesn't care what it does to an innocent person or persons."

"As I see it, they have forgotten that they, of their own choosing, have become public servants and are employed by and answerable to the taxpayers who pay their salaries and make possible the facilities they use."

"These same taxpaying citizens elect people to serve on the school board and expect them to run their business with honesty and integrity."

"It is my understanding teacher evaluation documents are presumed to have been distributed to outsiders over the past four years and teachers expressed concern to the superintendent several weeks before they were given to board members.

"Why, then, wasn't this information given to board members? Why were the documents not marked 'confidential' or why wasn't a note attached to them expressing the concern teachers had expressed regarding them?"

"This talk has been going on behind the scenes too long. In my opinion it is nothing more nor less than something a very few people are trying to do — a politically motivated attempt at character assassination. That's why it needs to be brought out into the open so the public has an opportunity to know what's going on."

Beck said he thought it should also be made known that information contained in an evaluation report contains nothing that has any connection with information contained in a personnel file.

"An evaluation report simply tells you whether a teacher has been recommended for contract renewal," he said.

Cool Weather Keeps Streakers Covered Up

By LARRY HOLLIS

The weather turned cold for most of the week — and so did local streakers.

Friday night a week ago, a group billing itself as "Pampa's First 13," organized a streaking activity at the Sonic Drive-In on North Hobart.

What portended a rash of streaking incidents for the city, in conjunction with the fad which has swept the nation, instead resulted in only a couple of minor incidents, one of which couldn't be confirmed.

Perhaps the cold, damp air and chilly winds put a damper on the bare enthusiasm of the new sport — if you can call it that.

Two local eat-out places took advantage of the craze to advertise specials. Col. Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken offered "Free Feathers for All Streakers." A rumor went around that a couple of young guys streaked by for their plumes, but no one at the place could confirm the incident.

The new Dairy Queen on North Hobart advised "Streak by for a Dude San" and a soft drink special, but no takers were reported. KGRO Radio Station received two groups of streakers last Saturday night, the day after the first group opened the field in Pampa. Phil Gage reported two guys streaked into the office for a short visit, and then about 30 minutes later three bared males popped in to confer with Randy Carter.

And, to the best of our reports, that was the extent of streaking for Pampa.

Rumors have abounded throughout the city for the past week, with hints of streaking escapades to occur at Caldwell's Drive-In, Coronado Shopping Center, Pampa High School and other places. But at the time this article was written, those rumors remained just that.

The craze seems to have slowed down at many of the colleges already, with the wire services reporting very few incidents. Which doesn't mean the fad has died — it's just lost some of its freshness.

The streaking cases have begun to branch out from just being a romp around a college campus.

In Hagerstown, Md., students at its junior college pledged $40 to the March of Dimes if five male students would streak. The five stripped, ran through the student union coffee shop and collected the pledges.

In New Haven, Conn., 41 males streaked through the Yale Law School Library, wearing masks, and showered students with $2 million — in play money.

And in Palo Alto, Calif., the master of ceremonies at the Cubberly High School Senior Frolics found his introductory speech interrupted by six naked girls and six naked boys streaking across the stage and out to waiting cars in the parking lot. The audience gave them a standing ovation and the show went on, according to UPI reports.

In Pampa, there was more talk than action which made many people thankful.

The News received a letter requesting a change in its reporting of last Friday's incident.

Originally, only two streakers were reported. The letter, sent by "Pampa's First 13," claims that six males were involved. According to the letter, the group ran across Hobart from a service station "at precisely 9:45 p.m." through the midst of the Sonic customers and then over the fence in back to a get-away vehicle.

The group also wanted to correct the statement that they were wearing ski masks. They were also wearing sneakers, they said.

The "13" must refer to all who helped to organize and conduct the incident.

ON COMMODITY MARKETS

Price Opposes Panel Creation

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa said Saturday that he will oppose legislation creating a commission to govern commodity markets when the measure reaches the House for consideration, probably next month.

Discussions concerning a governing commission, he said, came after "quite a few complaints were made about possible manipulation that has been driving prices up and down during the last year."

He pointed to cotton, which reached between 50-60 cents per bale, and wheat prices that jumped from $3 to more than $5 per bushel.

"A majority of producers are not familiar with commodity markets," Price said. After meeting with various commodity market representatives, Price was among six Congressmen appointed to an ad hoc committee which visited the Chicago Mercantile Exchange for a day of talks.

Then came hearings for two or three weeks before the House Agriculture Committee of which Price is a member.

The Pampa Congressman explained that 102 commodities are not under any type of government control. What few regulations that exist "had no teeth," he said. "They were poorly staffed."

The argument that a restoration of confidence in commodity market trading is needed "is a mistake," he said. He pointed out that commodity trading has grown in about 1 1/2 years from $150 billion to $400 billion.

Price said he was successful in introducing amendments which will increase the number of commodity market delivery points and allow floor brokers to trade for themselves as well as their customers.

Next step in the legislative process will be for the measure, HR 11955, to be presented to the rules committee before it can be introduced on the floor. Price said the bill will create a governing commission of 10 men appointed by the U.S. Senate and the President.

COUNTRY MUSIC

By PATRICK CARR
This column is about a young man who lived hard and died young. His name was Gram Parsons and some say he was a great country artist. You may never have heard his name before, but if you believe the old saying about country music being "the white man's blues," pick up a copy of "GP" or "Grievous Angel," the two solo albums he recorded on the Warner Brothers label, and see if you agree that Gram Parsons wrote songs as sad and true as anyone ever did.

"GP" features versions of "We'll Sweep Out The Ashes In The Morning," "Secrets of Baltimore," and several stunning Parsons compositions, including "New Soft Shoe," a song about the changing face of the South, and "A Song For You," which one critic described as being "beyond despair" and "the saddest song I ever heard."

Price Reports Cotton Fibers Use Growing

LUBBOCK — U.S. Representative Bob Price said Friday, "This may be the year in which cotton turns the corner in its competition with man-made fibers."

In an address to the Texas Cotton Association meeting here, Price said synthetic fibers are being hit hard by the energy shortage because synthetics fibers are made principally from natural gas and petrochemical feedstocks.

"Any decision to cut back or limit the man-made fibers will boost the demand for cotton."

But the Congressman warned cotton growers are also in for some difficulties in the form of shortages of diesel fuel and fertilizer, and new higher production costs.

"This year, producers are challenged to do the best job they know how."

The House Cotton Subcommittee member speculated, however, "the fair advantage at this time would seem to rest with producers rather than with factories."

Price noted that the 1970 Farm Act established a climate in which farmers could respond to signals which cotton buyers and the textile industry send them through the marketing system and "farmers have responded enthusiastically."

He cited the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 as another "forward step in freeing farmers from government control."

Price said the practice of "forward contracting all or part of the cotton crop increased dramatically" last year and this indicates producers "are putting greater reliance on markets and less government involvement is needed or desired."

"The proof of the success of free markets shows up clearly when we look at the record $26.1 billion net farm income producers earned last year." Price said, noting the figure was approaching double the net farm income figure of five years earlier.

"And increased net farm income goes hand-in-hand with prosperity for our rural communities and small towns," Price said.

"Grievous Angel," released after Parsons' death, is regarded as the stronger of the two albums. It features a rousing "I Can't Dance" by Tom T. Hall, a positively heart-breaking "Love Hurts" by Boudleaux Bryant, and several more of Parsons' own compositions.

It is the sort of album that will stand for years to come as an example of powerful song writing and smooth country harmonies.

Gram Parsons' family was well-to-do. They sent him to Harvard University, which was quite a distance, psychologically and physically, from Waycross, Georgia, where he was brought up. Parsons never picked cotton or recorded in Nashville, but he was an important force in country music.

He didn't like pop music as a kid, but he didn't start producing country music until he went to Harvard — and ran into a couple of radical types who were fascinated with his rural roots, and the musical heritage they represented. His Harvard buddies convinced him of the merits of country music, strangely enough. He said later that he was grateful they did.

The friendships that developed at Harvard led to the formation of the International Submarine Band. The International Submarine Band didn't last long, but it brought Parsons to the attention of a group known as the Byrds, who at the time were the nation's hottest rock act.

Parsons joined the Byrds during the height of the acid-rock-psychedelic music madness, and set right down to changing things.

The year was 1968, and the first Gram Parsons-Byrds album was called "Sweetheart of the Rodeo." It featured several of Parsons' songs and critics raved about it — although it was chock full of mournful pedal steel guitars, furious picking, and a bunch of other sounds unlike anything people had expected from the Byrds.

Kids who wouldn't know Merle Haggard from Merle Travis went out in droves and bought it, and loved it. They thought it was a whole new sound.

Pretty soon other rock groups were cutting "country" songs, wearing cowboy shirts, and referring to Merle Haggard as a poet instead of a "redneck."

Parsons, meanwhile, left the Byrds after refusing to accompany them on a tour of South Africa. He hung around honky-tonk bars in California, and appeared religiously at Los Angeles' Palomino Club on talent nights. He helped form The Flying Burrito Brothers, another country-oriented outfit, but only played on their first album, "The Gilded Palace of Sin."

He then signed a contract with Warner Brothers and in the latter part of 1972, with the help of Emmylou Harris, an Alabama beauty with a voice like velvet, a few of Elvis Presley's sidemen, fiddler Byron Berline, and steel guitarist "Sneaky Pete" Kleinow, Parsons recorded "GP."

"Grievous Angel" was produced the following year and completed shortly before his death, at 27, in Joshua Tree, California, a secluded little town where Parsons often fled in an unsuccessful attempt to escape the neon wilderness that both frightened and fascinated him.

The rest of his story is written in his music.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Investors seem to be less interested in seeking relative short-term performance from their equities," says Loeb, Rhoades & Co., "and are showing greater concern for the preservation of their capital in real terms from the twin threats of accelerating inflation and uncertain government measures." But the firm also warns that the stock market in the short run will be extremely vulnerable to economic news developments. "Though important, fundamental problems exist. U.S. equities seem relatively attractive and appear especially good value compared to foreign equities," it adds.

"A progressive return to normalcy by both interest rates and inflation during the next few years could produce a dramatic rise in stock market prices," according to Wright Investors' Service, a Bridgeport, Conn. firm.

You Don't Inherit Guilt

If a person came to know what he was supposed to be and to do, he would not thereafter blame himself for failing to become what was never intended or for failing to do what he ought not.

A perplexity of many thoughtful young people today is that they hold themselves accountable for crimes that were committed before they were born. That sense of historic responsibility is one of several promptings for new attempts to right old wrongs. For example, the modern sensitivity on the Negro question rests on the fact that individuals in times past engaged in the slave trade and held Negro slaves. Such persons happened to have had the same skin color (white) as persons now living. Some in fact were the progenitors of many in the present population. On the basis of sameness in skin color and tie of ancestry, it is supposed by some that white individuals now living have a moral obligation somehow to indemnify black individuals now living.

If that is the case, and many believe it is, perhaps it would be worthwhile to separate the truly guilty from the wholly innocent in order that suitable penalties may be applied. This division of the sheep from the goats can be accomplished, we think, through the process of elimination. One group that can be eliminated are those Caucasians who derive from ancestors who migrated to this country after the Civil War ended. Since those forebearers were not present on American soil during the slave-holding period, they could not have been at fault.

Second, we believe it would be morally agreeable to eliminate the offspring of those white Americans who, though living at the time of the Civil War, yet never held slaves and many of whom actually fought on the side of the great conflict to set slaves free. Not only were these innocent, they paid a price to undo what others had done.

So that leaves merely the descendants of slaveholders and slave traders to pay the compensatory price. Granted, that it would be difficult from a practical standpoint to ferret out the culpable individuals, yet we can try them as a class to ascertain the extent of their guilt, if nothing more. What are descendants of slaveholders and slave traders guilty of? Skin color is hardly a crime. Being born is hardly a crime. Having ancestors would not be deemed a prosecutable offense by any rational person. The accusation then narrows down to the proposition that ancestral misdeeds are transmitted in some unknown genetic process to posterity. Such a claim is fairly fanciful; it would never survive the reasonable doubt requirement of normal men.

The old prophet Ezekiel put the guilt-transfer idea to rest 2600 years ago, in these words: "The fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge. As I live, saith the Lord God, ye shall not have occasion any more to use this proverb in Israel." In short, the sons were not to be judged by the deeds of the fathers, or vice versa. Guilt was not to be imputed from individual to individual, and certainly not from generation to generation.

Paper: An Energy Mine

Paper is a highly energy-intensive product. That bit of information was called to our attention by the National Federation of Independent Business, Inc.

"Energy-intensive" means it takes a lot of juice to turn wood pulp into stationery.

From that point, the federation takes the logical next step. If the decision-makers in federal agencies truly desire to save energy, why don't they do something to reduce the tons of paper that bureaucracy consumes and causes private industry to consume?

Senator Thomas McIntyre of New Hampshire estimates that the agencies require small business to use up 10 billion sheets of paper for needlessly duplicated reports, every year. On the average 10 billion sheets are equivalent to 2,000 tons.

And that paper burden is only one tiny segment of the total imposed. Think what the feds could accomplish if they audited their paper requirements from top to bottom. They might save enough energy that the rest of us could have fuel to drive to work.

Watergate Not The Issue? Well, Don't Kid Yourself

By VIC GOLD

WASHINGTON—As George Santayana, the Scammon-Wattenberg of his day, used to tell his precinct workers: those who can't remember the lessons of past election defeats are condemned to relive them. Or relose them, it appears.

Thus, White House political strategists are bound and determined to see the bright side of those recent special congressional election debacles in Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Was Watergate the swing issue that pulled those Michigan voters away from Republican candidate Vander-dee over to Democratic candidate Vander-dum? Of course not, insists Vice President Ford.

If Watergate were the issue, that would have been bad news. But far from it. The reason the Republican candidate lost Ford's old House seat, White House strategists explain, was because Grand Rapids voters were unhappy about the administration's handling of the economy.

So runs the White House line. Well, now, that doesn't pose such a grim picture for Republican prospects this fall, does it? I can just imagine the happy scene when word reached the party's congressional caucus. The boys must have stood and cheered. Not Watergate, only the economy! How lucky can you get?

Still, how to explain that First District of Ohio election? A congressional district that went Republican by some 70 per cent only two years ago has now elected a new Democratic Congressman. Watergate must have had something to do with that, right?

Don't be an alarmist. Haven't you heard what the Republican campaign expert who surveyed the wreckage reported back to the White House? He told them that Watergate wasn't the key to Republican candidate Willis Gradison's defeat at all. No, praise the Lord, there was a religious issue involved!

It so happens that the First District of Ohio has a large Catholic constituency. The Democratic candidate was Catholic. The Republican candidate wasn't. Simple, eh? And here that hysterical press is trying to prove Watergate had something to do with it.

That lesson behind us, however, what manner of candidate do Republicans plan to run in Ohio's First District next congressional election? A defrocked priest? I mean, if the White House intends to keep its record unblemished or never having lost a race because of Watergate, there's got to be some ingenuity added to prepackaging alibis for future elections.

As for the President himself, he carries the Watergate doesn't matter thesis to its ultimate limit. At last week's news conference, Nixon's view was that "the dire predictions that are made as to what is going to happen in November because of what is happening this spring will be proved wrong."

God governs in the affairs of man; and if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid? —Benjamin Franklin, American statesman and philosopher.

"I see you involved in a landslide election..."

INSIDE LABOR

Meany Thinks Ford, Kissinger Stack Up As Pretty Good Team

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — That All-American college star isn't streaking past the powerful American labor movement. It has him in full political view. It likes what it sees. And it would like to see him President of the U.S. playing musical chairs with Nelson Rockefeller as Vice President.

Rarely has any conservative been so gently treated by labor leaders skilled at going for the jugular as is the Vice President. When Ford criticizes them, they turn the other cheek. He is called "conservative but honest... square but solid... constructive... a man we can live with."

He isn't even denounced as an enemy of the people after associating beyond Meany's pale with Labor Secretary Peter Brennan.

Jerry Ford wasn't denounced after his famous Atlantic City speech some weeks ago when he excoriated labor as extremists attempting to veto the national election. Labor's national headquarters simply asked for a copy of the speech, had to wait until Ford's staff got one from the White House where it was written by communications director Ken Clawson — and then they attributed it to a lateral pass from former presidential counselor Chuck Colson to Clawson.

It's a rare moment, for example, in contemporary political literature that AFL-CIO chief George Meany is gentle with anyone but gin players and golfers who lose to him. Yet recently he said, "I think the Michigan (congressional) election makes Jerry Ford look more and more important all the time. And frankly, I think a lot of our troubles could be approached in a much more constructive way with Jerry Ford as President of the U.S. than with Richard Nixon. At least Jerry Ford would have credibility."

"He could gather people around him that could run this country and I think Henry Kissinger would be just as good a Secretary of State as they say he is and I think he certainly has talents that he has displayed... I think he would be just as good a Secretary of State under Jerry Ford as he is under Richard Nixon."

Later, Meany asserted: "He is very conservative and personally a very nice gentleman. I like him as an individual but it is quite obvious that the labor and liberal forces... opposed Jerry Ford every time he ran."

And still later Meany averred the campaign in the Grand Rapids congressional district wasn't a referendum on Jerry Ford but on Richard Nixon.

Meany-watchers know that what Meany says, Meany means. And he doesn't say it gently frequently. And none of his words lose significance because they're said at a seemingly inconsequential moment.

Few now recall that it was in August 1970 — fully two years before the Democratic nominating convention — that Meany accused the party of being in shambles and in the hands of radicals. And then warned that it couldn't take the support of labor for granted.

To insiders, Meany's description of Jerry Ford these days indicates that labor's war with the White House would end should Ford become President. Says one of his top aides referring to the Vice President's congressional years: "Ford's labor record in our book is 109 wrong and 7 right. But what we would find in the White House is an honest man, not an ideological friend."

Jerry Ford is aware of his reputation inside labor. He has worked closely with the Sefarers' chief Paul Hall. He has spoken at AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Dept. luncheons and sailors conventions. He has been on the House Public Works Committee. During all this time, however, he has reflected his constituency — a very conservative one.

Now he's gone public. He can't even ski without a gliding flotilla of Secret Service agents and newsmen. His constituency is national. It has a center. He's gyrating towards it. He's no longer taking advice or speeches or tactical homilies from old-line White House staffers.

He has, for example, hired a new speechwriter — right out of the most intellectual of left-wing Republicanism. The new ghost is the 50-year-old Virginia-born Milton Friedman. He's been with Sen. Jack Javits. He's written for the Nation which is left of center. He's a specialist on racial and social issues. He has the traditional militant intellectual positions on Vietnam and Dick Nixon.

Obviously Jerry Ford is moving towards the center. Obviously Jerry Ford plans to do more than tell audiences it's nice being with you. Obviously Jerry Ford doesn't plan to hack away at Meany in the old John Connally and Chuck Colson tradition. Obviously, these are chapter heads, not footnotes, in the making of a President, 1976.

Policewoman Asks Time Off To Have Her Baby

By PAUL HARVEY

A Chicago policewoman is pregnant. And she wants the city's taxpayers to pay for it.

It sounds ridiculous for Angela Schreiner to demand that the Chicago police department give her time off at full pay to have a baby.

Yet from her point of view, any male officer of the department, if he breaks a leg or has appendicitis, gets time off with full pay and no loss of seniority or vacation time.

While she, unemployed and under medical care because of a pregnancy, receives nothing. So far the Chicago police department, like most companies, will not equate pregnancy with other disabilities. Yet already 5 percent of our nation's employers, fearing lawsuits, do consider pregnancy a "temporary disability."

And the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and certain lower courts agree that the pregnant employee is entitled to sick leave with full benefits.

The EEOC has decreed that an employer cannot refuse to hire a woman because she is infanticipating and cannot force her to quit before her doctor says she must. She must receive the same sick-leave payments or disability payments as any other employee who is "ill."

But EEOC guidelines are not yet "the law."

Eventually the Supreme Court will have to decide.

The most likely case to go to the Supreme Court is Gilbert vs. General Electric in Virginia.

Similarly, pensions — once considered a reward for long and faithful service given at the discretion of the employer — are now construed to be a "guaranteed right."

Where only 4.5 million Americans were covered with private pension plans in 1940, now 36 million are.

Another 14 million are covered under government-administered pension programs.

So one-fourth of our American population is eligible for pensions which younger Americans will have to pay in higher prices and higher taxes. Somebody has to pick up the check; somebody has to pay the bill.

Employment contributions to their own private pensions are declining (from 8.3 percent to 5.8 percent in the past 10 years). So the increase will be paid by consumers in higher prices. Employers pay nothing. On paper, the employer kicks in $12.7 billion a year toward the cost of his employees' pensions, but employers do not pay for pensions. They pass all such overhead on in higher prices for what they sell. Eventually, inevitably, you pay.

But only economists are anxious about it and only historians really worry. (Copyright 1974)

Rearview Mirror

By TEX DEWEESE
Editor Of The News

REGIONAL government apparently has a pretty good foothold in the Texas Panhandle.

It was interesting to note at that meeting of county judges and commissioners in Amarillo ten days ago that the subject obviously was a potato too hot to handle.

Donald Todd, the WTSU professor who is president of the Randall County Chapter of the Texas Committee for the Constitution, had asked officers of the 26-county Texas Panhandle Judges and Commissioners Association, to introduce a resolution opposing regional government and seeking an investigation by the Texas Legislature.

But nothing happened. It was not even given a chance for discussion. About all the judges and commissioners did was listen to a couple of speeches by two candidates for Congress.

Todd expressed disappointment that his request was given the brush-off. He hoped to receive better treatment at a meeting of county judges and commissioners starting today in El Paso.

Todd also reported to the Pampa News that State Rep. Phil Cates of Pampa and State Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo had called him "irresponsible" and labeled him an "obstructionist" because of his criticism of certain proposed revisions in the Texas Constitution.

Todd added that Cates and Bynum "both appear to be unwillingly a part of efforts to further centralize government."

TODD SAYS every citizen should watch carefully the revision of the Texas Constitution. He asks this question: "Isn't it strange that outside pressure is being exerted on all of the states to revise their state constitutions under the pretext that they are antiquated?"

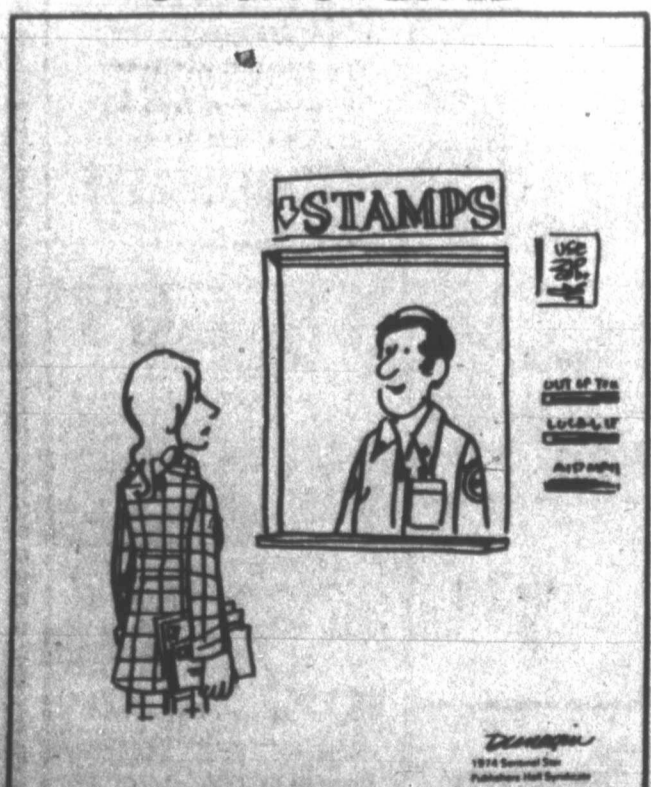

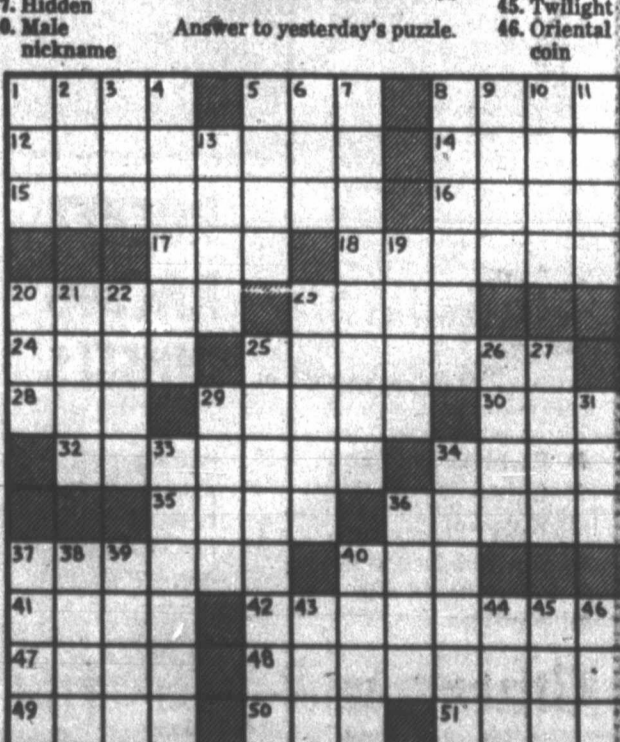

"As a matter of fact, it appears that the real reason behind revising state constitutions is to make them conform to metro or regional government and not to state government."

He states that "when you examine the proposed revision of the Texas Constitution, you will be shocked to learn that the right of the people to elect State Supreme Court Justices, Courts of Appeals Judges and other officials would be taken away."

MIDDLE-CLASS PEOPLE CAN "DROP OUT" TOO!

By J. SHUTTLEWORTH
During the last three or four years there's been a lot of publicity given to freaky, long-haired kids who "drop out of the system" and establish so-called "alternative" lifestyles for themselves.

house the Melvins constructed, for example, includes several nice "extra" features ... such as a big, open fireplace. And you know, Don and his family immediately found that this so-called "luxury" more than paid its way once they learned to spend their spare time gathering some of the wood bottles that littered the woods and side-ditches ... and that started them recycling all the discards they could find. The Melvins have now picked up and reclaimed several thousand dollars' worth of returnable bottles, antiques and serviceable items from dumps and trash piles.

increasing numbers of middle-class, salt-of-the-earth folks are doing the same thing?

Yet! Dropping out has now become a family affair. Matter of fact, it's surprising how many folks are finding ways of moving Dad, Mom, and the kids "back to the land" or to a quiet little country town where the air is still clean and the livin's still good.

And, once they're out there, it's even more surprising how many of those families are turning their backs on the old 9-to-5, setting up a little home business and settling in to a more satisfying and ecologically sound lifestyle.

A good example is the Don Melvin family in Rocky Mount, North Carolina. Don — as many of us do — spent several unhappy years cooped up with his wife and two little boys in a rented apartment in the middle of town.

During that period, he increasingly felt that his job was more of a life sentence than satisfying work, and Don began to crave his own home and his own little home business more than anything else in the world.

And one day he made the break! Don Melvin sweat and scrimped and borrowed more money than he wanted to and he bought a big lot outside the city limits where there wasn't any building code.

Then, over the next few months, he and his wife sweat and scrimped some more and they built their own home on that lot. It wasn't easy and the new house wasn't exactly huge ... but it was solid, sound and all theirs very shortly after the Melvin family moved in.

As Don says, "The total cost was just a little over $3,000 and we paid that off during the next three years by using notes at the bank. There was never a mortgage on the property and there never will be!"

Now if you think $3,000 won't buy much of a home these days — or even five or 10 years ago — you don't know how far you can stretch a buck when you're building your own. The that's freely available in their area. In other words, by building their own fireplace-heated house and making the winter wood detail a family adventure, the Melvins had gone a long way toward taking their lives into their own hands, prying themselves out of the rat race in which they had been trapped and making themselves immune to silly things like the current energy "crisis."

Next, for a lark, Don bought one of those old-fashioned parlor organs that you pedal with your feet. It cost him only $5 because it needed both rebuilding and refinishing. Well, Don didn't know much about either, but he learned ... and he did such a good job of repairing the organ that his friends and neighbors began bringing him furniture to refinish and other old organs to rebuild.

One thing led to another and, pretty soon, someone asked if Don could recane a chair. "Nope," he said, "but my wife can" ... and, although she couldn't, she checked a couple of books out of the library and learned. About that time, the two Melvin boys began to lend a hand with the various family enterprises ... and Don finally quit the job he had been trying to get away from for so long.

That major change in his life gave Don the time to take up woodcarving as a hobby and — as might be expected — folks began buying his work and he had another home business on his hands.

Now the really interesting thing about all this is that every time the Melvins' home income went up they seemed to learn to do more and more for themselves ... and their need for cash went down!

Don's family started an organic garden, for instance, and also found that they could forage a number of wild foods which they preserved by canning, freezing and sun-drying. Next, while digging sassafras one Sunday afternoon, they noticed the great number of empty pop

Remember the 1950s when prospectors with Geiger counters roamed the wilds of Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado stalking the hard to find uranium outcrops? Well, there's a uranium boom going on that makes that era of uranium barons and penny uranium mining stocks look like child's play. The difference today is that the big mining companies are dominating the play while the individual prospector has disappeared and the smaller mining companies have been absorbed by the major uranium mining companies.

Dollars make the difference. The stakes are huge because most of the surface uranium has already been mined and now shafts will have to go deep into the earth to find suitable uranium ore.

The Atomic Energy Commission estimates the uranium industry will have to invest $18-billion in exploration, mines and mills in order to meet the demand for nuclear fuel by the year 2000, just 26 years from now. The shortage of oil and natural gas has accelerated the search for other fuels to avoid a critical power shortage by the end of the 70s. The U.S. now has 43 nuclear reactors producing electricity. Plans call for 140 nuclear reactors in operation by 1980.

In order to meet the demand for fuel in 1980, 35,000 tons of yellowcake will be required annually to produce atomic-fuel for the plants. That's almost triple last year's U.S. production. 160,000 tons of yellowcake will be required annually by the year 2000.

The Atomic Energy Commission has a non-military stockpile of 38,000 tons of uranium concentrate with which it is making enriched fuel, but this stockpile will be used up by 1978 and the utility companies will then have to get their fuel supplies direct from the uranium producers.

A new group of competitors have jumped into the uranium mining field and they have lots of dollars to spend. They are the major oil companies. The country's largest producer of uranium is Kerr McGee Corp. Gulf Oil, Continental Oil, Exxon and Getty Oil are also involved to various degrees.

Uranium fuel now sells for about $7 a lb., but the price is expected to rise to $15 or $20 by the mid-1980s. There is even some talk of a $30 a lb. price by then. Spokesmen say that even with a $20 or $30 per lb. price for yellowcake, the cost of nuclear fuel will still be competitive with fossil fuels.

New Jersey, at 980 persons per square mile, has the highest population density in the Union.

Swimming — One of the best forms of physical exercise is swimming. To help you enjoy this activity, the Center has this as an activity. Each week night from 7-9:30 p.m., the swimming pool is open to anyone who enjoys swimming.

Also the pool is open on Saturday from 1-4:30 p.m. and Sunday 2-4:30 p.m. You are invited to come out and enjoy a good dip in our pool. It's indoors and heated so you can enjoy it the year round.

Swim Lessons — To help you enjoy the sport of swimming, the Center schedules swim lessons for all ages during the year. Usually a class is taught every three weeks. During the school year all classes meet after school either from 4-5 p.m. or 5-6 p.m. All sessions last for 10 meeting dates with all classes limited to not more than 25 swimmers.

Classes are taught by a very qualified Red Cross Water Safety Instructor. The Center has a resident instructor who teaches all of our classes, sometimes with the aid of other instructors. She is Ruth Carter, a very prominent instructor.

The cost of these swim lessons is $4 to non-members and are free to Youth Center members. The public is invited to participate either through the fee or a membership plan.

THE HOUSE DOCTOR

Needs Instructions For Replacing Brick Mortar

By HERMAN BAUM
Dear House Doctor:

My father has a brick home that must be 75 years old. In several places, the mortar is falling out of the joints between the bricks. He has asked me to make the necessary repairs, thus giving me credit for greater ability in this line of work than I actually have. Please offer some instructions so that I may justify the confidence of the old gentleman.

—C.C.L.

ANSWER — Far be it from me to let you down. If you follow a few simple instructions, you can do a presentable job even though you may not qualify for the brickmasons' union membership.

First, you must provide yourself with the necessary materials. There is the mortar for filling the joints. The easy way is to buy the dry ready-mix and just add water.

The hard way is to mix your own from one part Portland cement, 1/2 part hydrated lime, and 3 parts building sand. You will need a small pointing trowel, a cape chisel that fits the mortar joints, and a heavy hawk.

You will also need a hawk on which to place the mortar. You can make a hawk by attaching a handle to a foot square piece of half-inch plywood.

The shape of the mortar joints should match the original, and you will need a device for shaping these. There are special tools for this purpose, but you can improvise by making one from a steel rod or you can shape the edge with a piece of wood.

All defective mortar must be removed to a depth of not less than one inch. Use the cape chisel and hammer for this, holding the chisel at about a 45-degree angle so that it does not become wedged in the joint.

Brush out all loose mortar and dust and then prepare the mortar. It should be just stiff enough to hold its shape when piled on the hawk.

Use a fine spray from the garden hose and dampen the bricks over an area of about one square yard. This prevents the bricks drawing water from the mortar. Hold one edge of the hawk against the wall and fill vertical joints first, raking the mortar from the hawk and pressing it firmly back into the opening.

Then fill the horizontal joints in the dampened area. Allow the mortar not more than 30 minutes to set, then use whatever device you have for shaping the joints, exerting as much pressure on it as possible to compress the mortar.

As soon as you have finished this one area, use a stiff brush to remove any mortar that was smeared on the face of the bricks. This completes the work of the one area.

OUTPATIENTS' CLINIC
D.E.H. — The installation of new siding on your home does not eliminate the need for sidewall insulation, but it simplifies the job of adding the insulation.

R.L.S. — The reason ventilating openings to a crawl space should not be closed in winter is that dampness rises from the earth and this would be trapped, causing dry rot to the timbers in the area.

W.F.K. — The moss on your shake roof can be eliminated by spraying the area with a solution made by mixing 1 1/2 ounces of copper sulphate in a gallon of water. Be sure to protect shrubbery from the dripping liquid or it will kill this also.

METAL FRAME WINDOWS

Dear House Doctor:
The new house I bought last year has steel doors and aluminum frame windows with thermal glass. So much water collects on the metal that it is running down and ruining the walls. At times, thick coatings of ice form on the metal. Will storm windows help?

—E.E.H.

ANSWER — In Florida and southern California, aluminum frame windows are great, but I would never recommend them in your climate. The metal becomes almost as cold as the outside air.

Any moisture in the air inside the house will condense on this cold metal to cause the trouble you are having. Wood frame storm windows should help, but there is often a problem to install them where metal frame windows are used.

RUSTY WATER

Dear House Doctor:
Our home is 15 years old and has galvanized steel pipes. Every morning the water is rust colored. Is there anything you can do about this other than replacing the pipes?

—P.T.I.

ANSWER — The trouble may not be due to rusty pipes. Try this: Heat some water and place it in a glass for 24 hours or more. Observe whether rust appears to settle to the bottom.

If it does, you need a water conditioner. Water heater tanks frequently rust and cause this trouble. Draw off some water from the bottom of the tank to see if it is rusty.

There is a product called Aquadene which is added to the water supply by means of a special fitting installed in the supply pipe. According to the manufacturer, this will remove scale and corrosion from the pipes.

ATTIC INSULATION

Dear House Doctor:
In view of the energy shortage, I have decided to insulate my attic. I have never done work of this kind. A neighbor told me that he once saw some material that you published on this subject that made the work seem very simple. Please advise if this publication is still available.

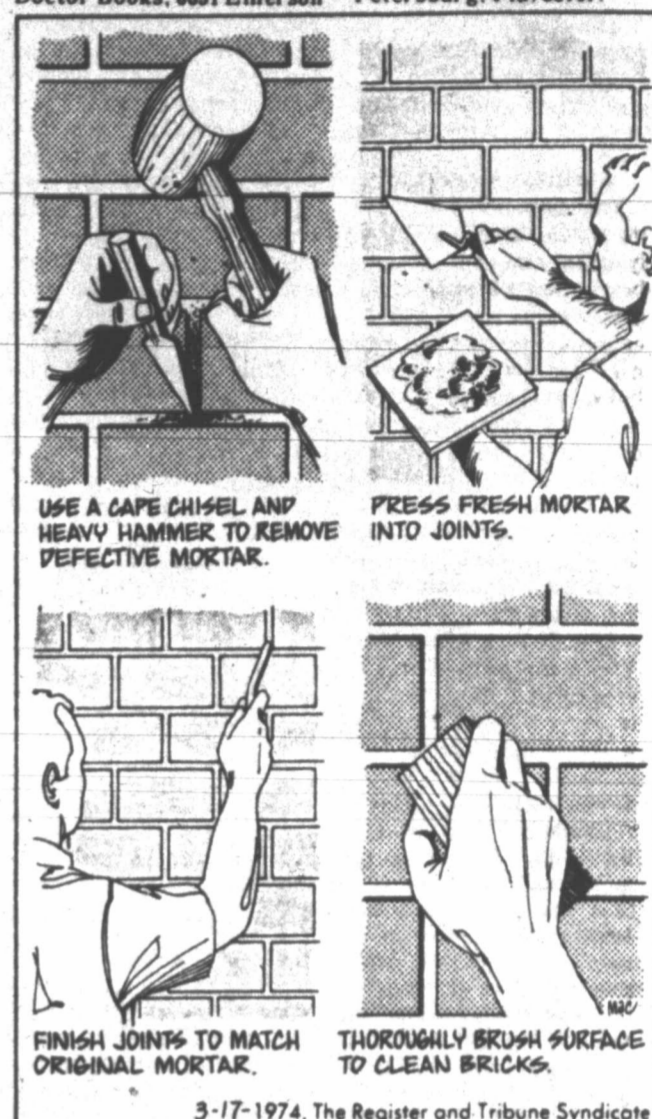

—P.K.B.

ANSWER — We do have a bulletin on this subject. A copy is available for 15 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to The House Doctor in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Ask for Bulletin No. C-72, and please remember to place a stamp on your return envelope. If your attic is accessible, the job is very easy to accomplish.

SUNDAY, MARCH 17
Your birthday today: Little new is added to your daily living this year, but the broad support created by past initiative and continued endeavor promises sound, normal progress. Established relationships continue well; new contacts develop only very slowly. Today's natives, each endowed with his own specialty, have distinguished themselves in philosophy, profound spiritual development, making many friends and many enemies.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Your unflagging interest in everything is fine, but at intervals you must store up as well as expend energy. Rest is needed, as tomorrow will demonstrate.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Be thankful for a relatively quiet finale to the weekend. Give thought to the challenge awaiting you in the next few days and make simple plans.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: When in doubt, wait until some uncertainty arises. On a slack day such as this, it is more a matter of being and becoming than of doing anything.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Seek a mini-vacation mood. The pursuit of pleasures should be selective, leaving out strenuous or long-term activities that would continue into tomorrow.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

MONDAY, MARCH 18
Your birthday today: This coming year appears steeply uphill for the first half, with many incidents of difference in work and private affairs. Midyear ushers in smoother sailing, unexpected benefits in numerous installments. Personal relationships undergo severe testing early, are almost too easy to be true in the later months. Today's natives seem to attract hard going in youth, subsequently develop long-range foresight which pays heavily in their mature years.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Moves made in haste require massive corrections at a later date. Be alert but keep action at minimum levels until p.m. for best results.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Early conferences open more questions than ever, with answers for nothing. Afternoon finds you putting everything together at top speed.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Pray for serenity amid vexations. Do what you can with the situation immediately at hand; let the future take shape as it comes nearer.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: By the end of the day you should be able to sense something special in the pattern of obstacles that caused delays. Learn from present experience.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Consultations bring apparent answers and promises which turn out ultimately to be untenable. A grain of salt and an alternative course give you a better chance.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Let your household and family alone; turn your attention to exterior events and situations. Creative selection is your key to success now.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: The work week gets off to a dull start if things are done right. Adventure tends to have a spurious quality, headed for no productive outcome.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Time out is the simplest approach—in mood if not in actual absence. As the day advances, inspiration arrives and you can make strong progress.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Early discussions bring useful or surprising facts to your attention, but the day is done before you come to any practical application of them.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Promises are unrealistic. Go ahead with achieved resources and verified information. Decision-making comes naturally only rather late in the day.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Wishful thinking has a field day most of the time, with technical and professional advice wide of the mark. Express your feelings openly.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Sit on your money for a while longer. Sign no contracts. A late start helps; jumping the gun merely adds to the revisions which have to be made later.

Double-Ring Service Unites Miss Cindy Pulse-David Dunn

Miss Cindy Pulse became the bride of David Charles Dunn at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 16 in Central Baptist Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Pulse, 2721 Comanche, and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby R. Dunn, east of city, are parents of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY
The Rev. M.B. Smith, pastor of Highland Baptist Church, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. H.V. Wilks, organist, played traditional wedding selections and the love theme from "Romeo and Juliet." She accompanied Dennis Taylor of Amarillo, who sang "More" (theme from Mondo Cane); "We're Only Just Begun" and "Wedding Song" (There Is Love).

The church altar was decorated with two seven-branched candelabra. Two urns of white gladioli and large white daisies atop pedestals flanked the bridal couple.

THE BRIDE
The bride, given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" vowal, wore a formal length wedding gown of bridal taffeta, peau de Soie and re-embroidered Venice lace designed with a high mandarin neckline, empire waistline, long bishop sleeves, and a semi-A-line silhouette with full back. The bodice and sleeves of peau de Soie were enhanced with re-embroidered Venice lace. The skirt was complemented with matching lace, and the full back of the gown ended in a sweeping chapel length train.

Her bridal veil of imported illusion fell from a coil of Venice lace and seed pearls. The entire veil was edged in re-embroidered Venice lace. Her bouquet was white daisies and baby's breath.

For the traditional "something old" she wore two silver bracelets which had belonged to her late cousin, Mrs. Carolyn Francis, and also a white linen handkerchief, which had belonged to her maternal grandmother.

Her wedding gown represented "something new," and the veil was borrowed from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bryan Pulse, in "something blue" she wore a garter made by the bridegroom's mother, which was blue ribbon, white lace and hand-strung seed pearls. She wore two pennies in her shoe, minted in the years of hers and the bridegroom's birth years.

ATTENDANTS
Matron of honor was Mrs. Michael N. Perce, Odessa, sister of the bride. She was attired in a yellow checked seersucker floor length gown designed with puffed sleeves, empire waistline with sash and a deep ruffled skirt.

Mrs. Randy Pulse, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmatron and bridesmaids were Miss Kathy O'Neal, and Miss Cheryl Dunn, sister of the bridegroom. They wore gowns identical to the matron of honor, only in green. All bridal attendants carried a yellow daisy nosegay.

Leigh Harnly, second cousin of the bridegroom was flower girl. She wore a green gown identical to those of the other attendants, and carried a small nosegay of yellow daisies.

Ringbearer was Mark Pulse, nephew of the bride. He carried a pillow of white satin edged in deep, soft lace, made by the bridegroom's grandmother.

Billy Bob Terry, second cousin of the bride, from White Deer, and Jonetta Dunn, cousin of the bridegroom, of Lefors, lighted the candles.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was W.E. Coups, Jr., Dennis Potter, James L. Royse, and Terry Dunn, cousin of the bridegroom. Lefors, were groomsmen. Terry L. Pulse, brother of the bride, Dallas, and Michael Dunn, cousin of the bridegroom, Lefors, served as ushers.

MOTHERS
The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of navy with white dotted Swiss, styled in a semi-A-line fashion with empire waistline. The scooped neckline had a double row of white organza ruffles and the long fitted sleeves had matching trim. She wore a white orchid corsage and white accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a floor length mint green double knit semi-A-line gown with a V-neckline and wide collar and fitted sleeves. She wore a mint green orchid corsage and bone accessories.

AFFILIATIONS
The bride was a mid-semester graduate of Pampa High School, where she was a member and officer of Future Teacher's of America and PHS choir.

The bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of PHS, attended Clarendon Junior College, and is presently employed by Arthur Brothers at Celanese Chemical Co.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
A miscellaneous shower March 1 in Hospitality Room of Citizen's Bank was hosted by Mmes. Edward H. Brainard, II, G.B. Hogan, J.D. Staus, Earl O'Neal, Dave Redus, Joe Robertson, R.D. Hawkins, Ernie D. Grady, W.K. McDonald, W.A. Morgan, Melvin Watkins, H.E. Winegart and Miss G. Faye Price.

The bridesmaid's luncheon was held on the wedding day in the home of Mrs. E.H. Brainard II, at 2125 Mary Ellen. Co-hostesses for the event were Mrs. Brainard's daughters, Sally, Berklee, Amy and Sena. The honoree's table was centered with an Alexander bride doll and arrangements of daisies. The individual tables were covered in the bride's chosen colors of yellow and mint green, and all had arrangements of white and yellow daisies. Rice bags tied in yellow and mint green ribbon were made by those in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby R. Dunn, parents of the bridegroom, hosted a buffet dinner at Pioneer Natural Gas Building in the Flame Room. The centerpiece was a large arrangement of white roses, and yellow and white daisies. Each table was decorated with a smaller arrangement. All in the wedding party were in attendance.

"AT WIT'S END"

By ERMA BOMBECK

Whatever you think of 1974 so far, you have to admit it is producing a banner crop of excuses.

There's a valid excuse for every human inconvenience you can think of. Take your pick: the energy crisis, the truckers' strike, unemployment, shortage of gas, hoarding, bad weather, failing economy, pollution and bureaucracy.

Sometimes it boggles the mind to imagine what excuses they can come up with next. I checked into my favorite doctor's office—the other morning and the nurse handed me a little paper jacket with no sleeves.

"What am I supposed to do with this?" I asked. "Gift wrap a specimen?"

"Just take off your clothes and slip it on," she said.

"And then what am I supposed to do?"

"Cold," she grinned.

"C'mon," I said. "What happened to the long paper gowns you used to have?"

"Would you believe an unseasonal storm destroyed an entire forest in Oregon?"

"No."

"How about all the tall people are about the lungs?"

"How about paper shortage?" I asked.

"That was going to be my next offer," she said.

"Look," I said. "I am sick to death of these lame excuses for shoddy workmanship and shortages. Everywhere I go it's the same old record."

"Bread is high because the Russians bought all the wheat. Popcorn is unavailable because of the rains. The fish aren't biting because of the atomic bomb. The chickens aren't laying because they are anxious over the Middle East. And there is a shortage of fertilizer because... why IS there a shortage of fertilizer? And now you give me this pitiful little paper weskit that isn't large enough to spit on and cover a razor cut on a man's chin and tell me there is a paper shortage. I want a better story than that."

"Okay," she said, folding her arms and leaning against the door. "Here's one. These paper products for examinations gowns come out of Washington and are made from recycled tapes. This particular model was designed by Rosemary Woods, and consequently the entire bottom was mistakenly erased."

I clutched the paper to my chest and crouched behind the waste basket. "Why didn't you say so. Now, that's more like it!"

MRS. DAVID CHARLES DUNN
...nee Miss Cindy Pulse

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Miss Deborah O'Neal of Canyon, and Pamela James of Lefors provided traditional piano selections.

The three-tiered wedding cake served as the table centerpiece, flanked by the crystal punch bowl and silver coffee service. The bride's bouquet was placed on the serving table, which was covered with a white satin floor length cloth.

Miss Susie Abernathy of Gallup, N.M., and Miss Brenda Winters served cake, which was decorated in a springtime motif, with yellow sweet peas and roses and mint green leaves arranged amid the scrolls of white icing. Swans and yellow tulle were used between the tiers and a miniature bride and bridegroom music box topped the cake.

For the wedding trip to Oklahoma, the bride traveled in a green and white double knit jump suit by Jerrell. She wore a fur battle jacket, a present from her brother, Terry L. Pulse. She lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside three miles east of Pampa.

El Progreso Program Given On Texas Railroads

"Railroads and Depots in Texas" was discussed by Mrs. Tom Perkins when El Progreso Club met in the home of Mrs. D.V. Burton recently. Mrs. Perkins stated in her opening remarks that present conditions required a backward look although the yearbook quotation for the day was "Look not mournfully into the past—it comes not back again. Wisely, improve the present. It is Thine."
—Charlotte Cushman.

History records that the legislature granted General Sidney Sherman the right to build the very first railroad in Texas in 1850. It was known as the Buffalo Bayou and Brazoria Railroad and ran a distance of 20 miles. The line finally reached Columbus, Tex., in 1868 with the famous twelve ton "general Sherman" locomotive making the runs.

Mrs. Perkins continued by saying there were 361 miles of line in Texas by 1861. By 1880 the Texas Pacific Railroad had pushed west through Abilene and Sweetwater to Big Spring and reached the border town of El Paso in 1881.

The State of Texas gave lavish land grants to most anyone organizing a railroad company for the purchase of building rail service in Texas until the year 1882. It was during Gov. Hogg's term that the legislature authorized the formation of the Railroad Commission in 1891.

The Fort Worth and Burlington Company began building a rail line from Fort Worth to the northwest corner of the state. It was begun in 1882 and reached Texline in 1887. By 1932 there were well over 17,000 miles of railroad service in the state and this exceeded any other state in the Union.

Quoting from writings of Laura V. Hamner, Mrs. Perkins told of the founding of the town of Lipscomb by H.E. Hoover of Kiowa, Kan. because it was believed that the Santa Fe line, then being built from Kiowa to Amarillo, would pass through that point. However, the final decision favored a more southern route and proved a bonanza for two land prospectors, Patton and Gray. It was upon their land that the town of Higgins was built as the point on the new railroad from which all that area would be serviced.

Using two published works of Dr. Sheffy and materials from the White Deer Land Museum, Mrs. Perkins told of the beginnings of Pampa. She stated that the original townsite was laid out with parallels following the railroad rather than true north-south directions. The primary purpose was for a town to encourage and service settlers; therefore, the lots were more than reasonable. The Franklin Land and Cattle Company, which owned the lands, was much more interested in settlers than in making vast sums from the sale of lands. George Tynge, manager for the company, did much of the work in planning, surveying and laying out the town.

Much of Texas, and especially the Texas Panhandle, was developed because of rail service and passenger transportation. She told that one of the "social" events in Pampa in the early '20's and '30's was a trip by train to Amarillo for elegant dining in the Harvey House!

Mrs. Perkins concluded with comments on the present American passenger system Amtrak and the recent renewal of interest in obtaining such a service for this part of Texas.

Mrs. Roy McMillen, vice-president, presided for the business session with the following present: Mmes. R.I. Bray, Glen Dawkins, Charles Lanehart, Kermit Lawson, J.F. Malone, Roy McMillen, J.G. Morrison, Carlton Nance, Ralph Palmer, Tom Perkins, Glenn Radcliff, Bruce Riehart, Quentin Williams, Hugh Peoples and the hostess.

Lacy-Musick

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lacy, 2122 Mary Ellen, and Mr. and Mrs. John Willis Perry, Okla., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Lacy, to Roger Musick, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Musick of Perry. Miss Lacy is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Chisum of Pampa. The wedding is being planned for June 22 at 8 p.m. in the Zion Lutheran Church of Perry. The bride-elect was born in Pampa and graduated from Perry High School in 1973. She is presently attending Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, Okla., majoring in elementary education. Her fiancé is a 1970 graduate of PHS and will graduate from OSU in May with a bachelors degree in agronomy. He was listed on the President's Honor Roll and the Dean's Honor Roll at OSU. He is presently employed in plant-pathology at OSU.

Mrs. White Is Varietas Hostess

Mrs. Sherman White was hostess to Varietas Study Club on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Clyde Ellis, president, presided.

The afternoon's program was entitled "Texas Trails" and opened with the quotation, "It might be a road to a great dark cave with treasure and gold piled high, or a road with a mountain tied to its end, blue-humped against the sky."

Each club member answered the roll call by giving a short talk on her favorite beauty spot in Texas.

Mrs. H. Price Dosier presented the program, giving a paper prepared by Mrs. J.R. Spearman on the topic, "Where to Go, What to See." The treatise was a description of the state according to the ten official trails, giving the area of each, the geography, the climate, the beauty spots, the accomplishments, the natural resources and other pertinent facts.

The listed trails presented were: (1) the Plains Trail, which includes Pampa and is symbolized by the windmill; (2) the Rolling Prairies Trail, which includes the Abilene area;

(3) the Vibrant Gateway Trail, taking in the Fort Worth and Dallas area; (4) the Coastal East Trail, including the Houston area; (5) the Pecos Frontier Trail; (6) the Woodland Lakes Trail; (7) the Ranch Land and Hill Country Trail; (8) the Brazos Valley Trail; (9) the Towering West Trail; and (10) the Border Tropics Trail.

Present at the meeting were Miss Anna Pierce, and Mmes. W.A. Bohot, F.A. Cary, Price Dosier, Clyde Ellis, S.C. Evans, Lee Harrah, Rue Hestand, J.E. Kirchman, R.W. Lane, Otis Nace, L.B. Penick, Aubrey Sprawls, Ralph Thomas and Sherman White.

Space Program Is Topic For Delta Kappa Gamma

Many complain about the cost, but few realize the benefits already derived from the space program, said Mrs. R.J. Sailor, Jr., guest speaker at a meeting of Theta Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, Saturday, in the Fellowship Hall of the United Methodist Church in White Deer.

After tracing the progress of the space program from the launching of Sputnik in October 1957, Mrs. Sailor said that more than 2,500 "spin-offs" have resulted in better standards of living in many areas.

In communication, space program experiments have resulted in international television not only for news coverage but also for such things as business transactions, airline scheduling, and even a recent transatlantic medical convention.

An observation satellite is bringing new knowledge of earth resources that is useful in agriculture, forestry, oceanography and other life sciences.

An orbiting satellite has brought about earlier and much more accurate weather forecasting.

Experiments in hydroplaning have resulted in methods of safer highway construction.

Manufacturing has benefited from new materials developed in the space program, such as malleable but stronger metals, fire resistant clothing for children, firemen's suits, insulation, and even such common household articles as teflon-coated utensils and microwave ovens.

Perhaps the greatest developments have been in the medical field, where new processes ranging from plastic foam for sickbeds, motorized wheelchairs that can be operated through eye movement by otherwise totally paralyzed persons, movies of the heart used for diagnosis, spectogram for use in speech therapy, to a substance that can be sprayed on a cardiac patient permitting constant monitoring in hospitals.

These are but a few of the more than 2,500 "spin-offs" already in use, with many more in prospect.

Mrs. Silor was introduced by Mrs. John L.B. Johnson, and after her speech, Mrs. W.H. Evans led the group in singing "A Prayer," with Mrs. J.R. Hogge accompanist.

In the business meeting presided over by the president, Mrs. John Vantine, the following officers for the next biennium were elected: president, Miss Marjorie Ewing, Panhandle; first vice-president, Mrs. Jack C. Williams, Pampa; second vice-president, Mrs. Charles Burk, Panhandle; recording secretary, Mrs. Lem Greene, White Deer; and corresponding secretary, Mrs. L.R. Copeland, Panhandle.

Hostesses were the White Deer-Skellytown members, Mmes. Lem Greene, Mary K. Diggs, Clifton Kelly, Marguerite Hudgins, B.H. McGee and W.H. Evans.

Twenty-five members were present.

Wilson Students Present Program

Woodrow Wilson PTA met recently in the school auditorium. A Patriotic program entitled "I am a Nation—The United States of America" was presented by the fourth, fifth and sixth grade students under the direction of Mrs. Edith Sayles, choir and music director. D.V. Biggers, principal narrated the program.

Rev. Ron Palemo, pastor of Christian Center Church, Pampa, gave the devotion.

Mrs. Bill King, president, conducted the business meeting. The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Bill King; Vice-President, Mrs. Bill Terry; Secretary, Mrs. Charles Rithaler; Treasurer, Mrs. Charles Harris; Historian, Mrs. Kent Flaherty; Parliamentarian, Mrs. Jim Greene; and City Council Representative, Mrs. Larry Norton. The officers were elected by acclamation.

The school holidays will be sold during the next week. Spring Conference will be in Spearman April 8 and 9. Anyone wishing to attend is asked to contact Mr. Biggers or Mrs. King.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Palermo and Mrs. Melvin Davis. Miss Cheryl Simon registered parents for the room count and Mrs. Jeannie Cone's class won and will later be given a coke party.

Amarillo Artist Paints Wildlife And Landscapes

James Ivey Edwards of Amarillo is a wildlife and landscape painter and sculptor; his love of the wild carries him on many sketching trips throughout the Rockies, Plains, and the Southwest, and he plans to be in the Pampa area today.

Margaret Taylor Dry, Art Editor of The Austin American Statesman in an article for the Statesman told: "James Edwards' paintings contain all the beauty he wants to bring to us for they are excellently done with good composition and beautiful coloring. He seems to bring the same amount of talent to landscapes and portraits that he does to his paintings of wildlife and birds. Edwards is also talented in sculpturing."

Edwards wants the viewer to see the beauty that he has seen and to do so in a way that will give the viewer a greater understanding of the subject painted.

The bulk of his work is done in watercolor or acrylic, and he has developed a process of building up the foreground for a heightened realistic effect. His work is in private collections in 32 states and six countries, including Las Pampas Galleries, Pampa.

The past four years have seen the value of his paintings double. "A Roadrunner Day" watercolor, is one of 25 paintings recently accepted by the Texas Watercolor Society for their 1973 traveling show.

Other works of the artist include "Blues" watercolor, the Tascosa Country Club in on fibreglass paper; "From Amarillo; and "Turkey Bigman Hill," acrylic relief painting, commissioned by Evening" an acrylic relief painting.

BPW Fund And Two Ratifications Give Impetus To ERA Struggle

With ratification victories in Maine and Montana this week, pro-Equal Rights Amendment forces have been given a sizeable push. Only six more states must ratify the amendment before it can become part of the U.S. Constitution, and 18 states are to consider the amendment in 1974 and 1975.

The second big push for the amendment came in monetary form. The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., a thirty-year leader in support of the amendment, announced the results of its first six months fund-raising for ratification of ERA. With $167,560 already collected and a goal of $250,000 to be met by the organization's July, 1974 convention, BPW hopes to combat the misinformation that has sparked opposition to a constitutional amendment guaranteeing women equality of rights under the law.

Jean L. McCarrey, BPW's National President, believes that ERA will be ratified this year and that BPW's fund will help to get the job done. The money will be used to develop campaign materials, to send speakers to target states, to expand the activities of ERA coalitions, and to assist with other pro-ratification efforts.

"Many of the claims that the opponents have made concerning ERA — that it will mandate the drafting of ALL women for COMBAT positions, of instance — are simply mis-informed," says Miss McCarrey. "Opponents are appealing to people's fears rather than presenting the issues clearly and rationally. Our fund will be used to bring the facts about equal rights under the law to the voters and to the legislators who represent them. This will be our campaign."

Thirty-two states have already ratified the Equal Rights Amendment, which was passed by the U.S. Congress in March, 1972. The amendment provides that sex should not be a factor in determining the legal rights of men and women. It would take effect two years after its ratification date, giving individual states time to see that their laws conform to the amendment. It applies only to governmental actions. Private relationships between men and women would not be affected.

In addition to BPW, the Equal Rights Amendment is supported by such varied groups as the AFL-CIO, Common Cause, the National Secretaries Association, both the Republican and Democratic parties, the American Bar Association, Church Women United, the Inter-collegiate Association of Women Students, the National Education Association, and many others.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

One of the great statesmen of this century was England's Winston Churchill. He was also a most enthusiastic bridge player.

During the early 1950's, while visiting in New York City, Mr. Churchill played bridge on a few occasions. Whether he was a winning bridge player, I do not know. But if one accepts his handling of today's deal as an indicator of his ability, I would say that he figured to be a winner. He was sitting in the South seat. North - South vulnerable. West deals.

North-South vulnerable. West deals.

The bidding:
 West North East South
 Pass 1♥ Pass 1♠
 Pass 2♠ Pass 4♠
 Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

To tricks one and two, West cashed the king and ace of diamonds. To trick three, he played the ace of clubs. Despite East's discouraging duce on his lead, West continued with another club (he really had no better lead). Churchill captured trick four with his king.

E. then led the three of trumps — and West made a fine play by putting up the ten-spot. But Churchill had no problem: he promptly played the board's ace. As is evident, East's singleton king was caught. After picking up West's remaining trump, Churchill claimed his contract.

The catching of East's singleton king may appear to be a stroke of luck, and, in a sense, it was. Nevertheless, it was the only correct play, for to have taken the finesse against West's hoped-for king had to be wrong.

In the play to the first three tricks, West had been revealed as the possessor of the ace and king of diamonds, plus the ace of clubs. And West had passed originally. Surely, if West had been dealt the guarded king of spades, he would have opened the bidding, for he would then have had 14 prime high-card points. Hence West's original pass pronounced, loudly and clearly, that he did not have the spade king.

Thus, to have taken the trump finesse could never have been the winning play. The only practical alternative was to put up dummy's ace, and hope that East's marked king was a singleton.

Coming back to West's play of the spade ten (rather than the deuce): This was a good attempt to mislead Churchill, for if West's play were taken at face value (either a singleton or a part of the doubleton K-10), then East could not have a singleton king. But Churchill didn't fall for West's deceptive play, for he had more faith in his own analysis.

"Home" comes from the Old English word "ham," which means village. It referred only to the locality one came from — and didn't suggest comfort, privacy or family, says Jane Fleischer, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Recent Activities Told At Jaycee-Ette Meeting

The Pampa Jaycee-Ettes recently held their regular monthly meeting in the Reddi Room of Southwestern Public Service. President, Sharen Peoples, presided over the meeting with Nelda Lancaster giving the invocation and Kerrick Horton leading the Jaycee-Ette Creed.

During the business meeting, Dottie Kimbley reported on a card party the Jaycee-Ettes gave for the Jaycees. Six couples attended the party held at Southwestern Public Service on Jan. 27. The Jaycee-Ettes presented a gift of appreciation to the Jaycees at the party.

The Jaycee-Ettes provide transportation for the newly formed visually handicapped club. On Feb. 2, Lynne McDougall picked up one of the members and took him to the meeting. After the meeting, Treca Saltzman returned him to his home.

Other activities during the month of February included a mini-convention in Amarillo which was attended by Treca.

Jaycee-Ettes also marched six blocks for the Heart Fund and picked up 28 canisters from various businesses for the March of Dimes. The club has agreed to make canisters distribution and collection for the March of Dimes an annual civic project.

Sharen and Paula Graves furnished refreshments to the Satellite School. The club voted to donate $25 to the Sue King fund. The club also voted to provide refreshments for John Duggan's campaign for Administrative National Director for the Texas Jaycees.

Milton Saltzman, State office of the Texas Jaycees, presented a program on parliamentary procedure to the club.

Treca and Kerrick attended the Jaycee District Convention in Abilene March 1, 2, and 3, when Treca entered the Feather-Year-Cap competition.

President Sharen appointed a nominating committee for the upcoming Jaycee-Ette elections. The Jaycee-Ette awards banquet will be held March 16 at Furr's Cafeteria.

At the close of the meeting, Margaret Milam spoke on interior decorating and the door prize was awarded to Kerrick.

Refreshments were served by the co-hostess Sharen and Treca. Those attending the meeting were Sharen Peoples, Treca Saltzman, Anna Mae Lancaster, Margaret Milam, Nelda Lancaster, Lynne McDougall, Dottie Kimbley and Kerrick Horton.

"Suede" is the French word for Sweden. Franch tailors were intrigued by the first soft, napped finish from Sweden that resembled leather. Thus, they named it after their northern neighbor, explains Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The Story Of Arthur

Who was King Arthur? Did he ever exist? From written evidence there is no proof that he did. Yet there is even less that he didn't. The very survival of his name and fame suggests that he was a real person. The Celtic bards recounted tales of a warrior king who, at the head of a band of mounted knights, won a series of great victories — "twelve great victories in the west" — that stemmed the tide of the Saxon invasion of the north of the British Isles in the sixth century after the fall of Roman authority.

Many sources list Arthur as a legendary king, but some give his exact parentage. The Reader's Encyclopedia states that he was the illegitimate son of the Duke of Cornwall, raised as an orphan in ignorance of his royal origin and educated by the wizard, Merlin. He made good his inheritance to kingship when he drew the sword Excalibur from the stone, and then proved to be a wise, fearless and excellent ruler who dreamt of creating a utopian state where might would only be exercised in the name of right. To this end, he gathered around him the staunchest knights of the land whose vows of honor became the creed of chivalry. But Arthur's dream was shattered through treachery and betrayal, and his death is reputed by some to have taken place at Glastonbury as a result of wounds suffered at the battle of Gamlan in Wales in 537 A.D.

Yet it is not the historical King Arthur who defeated heathen invaders that lives on so vividly as a symbol of man's noblest character. It is the legendary Arthur, created by poets centuries later out of the fragmentary memories handed down by word of mouth. As the original Celtic folklore spread, valorous Arthur's victories in battle became magnified in the telling, embroidered with supernatural detail — fairies, giants and goblins, monsters and magicians, enchanted forests and fountains, demon-haunted ruins and forbidding mountain-perched castles.

After the Norman conquest of England, these fairy tales crossed the channel and came to exercise an extraordinary fascination on the French. Wandering troubadours sang them in the stone halls of the nobles, and the heroes underwent a transformation. Arthur and his knights became patterns of the new civilized virtues under the growing influence of Christianity and the new concept of romantic love. These ideals were an immense advance over the brutal barbarism by which battles had been fought and kingdoms gained. Above all there was a new feeling and conduct toward women. Courtesy and constancy to one's lady (it was courtly rather than married love that the troubadours idealized) were virtues now indispensable for admission to Arthur's famous Round Table.

Arthur is always introduced as a daring, mischievous yet modest and lovable boy. Even after he had been acknowledged king, he continued to go in search of adventure like the humblest knight. The tragic overthrow of his kingdom, brought on by the conduct of Guenevere and Lancelot, and effected by his wrongly begotten son, Mordred, assure that Arthur remains a human being in spite of his perfection.

In the future, consumers may buy milk by the liter, rather than by the quart. A liter is slightly larger than a quart, notes Mrs. Gwendolyn Ciyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

GS Workers Attend Lubbock Workshop

An Environmental Studies Approach workshop conducted by Dean A. Rosebery of Northeast State University, Kirksville, Mo., was held in Lubbock March 7-8.

Representing Quivira Girl Scout Council at the workshop were Mrs. Jack Duke and Mrs. T.M. Whiteley, Field Directors, and Mrs. Wallace Birkes, Program Committee chairman. Objective of the workshop was to train leaders to transmit this problem solving approach in educating.

Labs were conducted in an unstructured manner and students were given problems to solve, pooling their resources to meet the assignment.

The approach assumes that each individual is a source of information and can provide experiences and resources that when presented collectively are greater than when presented by one person drawing from his resources alone, as in the lecture method approach.

The program provides an assignment kit, films, and newsletters. It is conducted by the Missouri Environmental Studies Approach at Northeast Missouri State University under the auspices of the American Geological Institute and is funded by the National Science Foundation.

Labs included studies in change, cause and effect, predator-prey relationships, and trust. Tools included using cameras and recorders in the outside environment.

A trip was made to the newly opened outdoor learning center at Maedgen Elementary School in Lubbock. The $7,000 project was completely funded by the PTA in two years and includes an amphitheatre, variety of plants and seeding beds, all labeled; animal cages; a sand bed with outdoor art work; a naturalized waterfall; and table-benches for study.

Library Notes

By MARY FATHEREE
National Library Week, April 22 through 27, will serve as the focal point for a series of exciting events to be sponsored by the Friends of the Pampa Library in co-operation with the librarian and staff of Lovett Memorial Library.

Beginning with the kickoff of the Friends' city-wide membership drive on April 21, the week will be highlighted by a coffee and book review, Tuesday, April 23, and the annual meeting of the entire Friends' membership on Monday, April 22.

Providing a fitting climax to these activities, a Book Fair will be held the following week. Proceeds from the sale will be used to provide equipment that the library urgently needs.

Hundreds of books have already been donated for the Fair, but many more are needed to make the sale a success. So don't throw away any hard-cover or paperback books you no longer want. If they are in reasonably good condition, just box them and contact Mrs. Barbara Cockrell at the library or Mrs. M. McDaniel, Friends president.

The screening and pricing committee, headed by Mrs. Joe Donaldson, will also accept magazines of enduring interest such as "National Geographic," "Antiques," "Atlantic Monthly," or any magazine pertaining to a special field of interest. You can support this Friends project by taking inventory this month and letting us know if you have books to donate for the Fair. A member of the Friends will be happy to pick them up.

While browsing in the library this week, I noticed a rack of new mysteries and some intriguing additions to the McNaughton collection of current fiction and non-fiction. These gussy March days are perfect for staying in and curling up with a good book, so why not drop by the library soon and select a few?

And if you know someone who is shut-in and would like to participate in the Friends' outreach program, let the library staff know. One of the Friends' chief goals is to make the facilities of the library available to anyone in Pampa, no matter what his situation.

And don't forget that the Talking Books service for the sightless and Braille materials are available through your library, too.

Nutrition saves is the theme of National Nutrition Week (March 3-9). Good nutrition can save consumers money at food stores and keep them healthy, says Mrs. Karen Walker, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Klein-Rogers

Miss Pamela Sue Klein and William James Rogers, both of Canyon, have set June 1 as their wedding date. Nuptial vows will be solemnized in the Pampa First Christian Church. Her father, Chester A. Klein, 1136 Sirroco, is making the announcement. She is also the daughter of the late Mrs. Odessa Klein, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Fuller of Willinwood, Kan., and the late Mr. W. C. Rogers, are parents of the prospective bridegroom. The bride-elect is a 1971 graduate of Pampa High School and is a junior medical technology major at West Texas State University. She is a member of Tri Beta Biological Society and Alpha Chi National Honorary Society. Her fiance is a 1967 graduate of Ellinwood High School and is presently a senior biology major at WTSU. He is a member of Tri Beta Biological Society, Alpha Chi National Honorary Society and Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Speaker, Bill Hyatt, Gives Program For Rho Eta Chapter

Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi recently met in the Reddi Room of the Southwestern Public Service Co. for their semi-monthly business meeting. The meeting opened with a program by guest speaker Bill Hyatt. He showed slides of various states' soil conservation programs.

Pat Rich presided over the business meeting. Ann Davenport, a transferee from Epsilon Tau in Franklin, La., was welcomed as a new member.

Bobbie Manning reported that the test for Ritual of Jewels would be given March 19. Betty Fuller announced plans for a "famous pairs" party to be held in March for the spring rush.

project. Each member will prepare an item of food for another member, who in turn will put a monetary donation into the "pig." The pig will travel until all members have made a contribution.

Pat Rich presented Linda Aftergut with the traditional Bet Sigma Phi queen pin. Linda presented the chapter with a box of chocolates in appreciation for the honors bestowed on her as chapter sweetheart.

The second program for the evening was given by Kathy Hall and Carol Clark entitled "Obsolete or Precious?" Various antiques were displayed and information was given on how to identify antiques.

Hostesses for the evening were Jenny Dorman and Vicki Hayes who used a Valentine motif for the refreshment table.

Members attending were: Mmes. Bob Fuller, Fred Green, Ron Hayes, Myron Aftergut, Ron Hurst, Gary Clark, Jack Eddins, John Grooters, Tommy Hill, Richard Houseman, Georgia Mack, Jay Manning, Richard Morris, Willie Rich, Herman Vinson, Steve Hall and Misses Jan Clark and Debbie Labenske.

Two motion pictures in which Roger Moore stars as "The Saint," the character he played for so long in the video series of that title, has been placed with CBS by the Independent Television Corporation for future broadcasts. One is "Vendetta for the Saint," the other is "The Fiction Makers." Both are regular theater films now in general world-wide release and not expanded episodes of the television series. The broadcasts will be their first showings in the United States.

JANE LONG HD CLUB
The Jane Long Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday, March 12, in the Court House Annex, with Mrs. O. B. Elkins, hostess. The meeting was opened with club prayer. The program was given by Mrs. Larry Holmes on sugar molded Easter eggs. Members present were Mmes. Rusty Williams, Willard Taylor, Bill Gillis, Paul Graham, Jerry Reagan, Glen Knight, O. B. Elkins and Mrs. Larry Holmes. Visitors were Phyllis Hodges, Nena Arrendondo and Linda Huckaby.

She loves him—but is he playing her for a fool?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I don't have any actual proof, but I think my husband is cheating on me.

First he came home smelling of real strong perfume with lipstick on his collar. [He said his boss' wife came in and hugged him "hello," but that was all.]

Another time when he took off his shirt, I noticed several long scratches on his back. He swore he didn't know how he got them, but Abby, they were too deep and long for him not to know. [I think some lady did it with her fingernails.]

Also, he's come home with hickies [love bites] all over his neck, and when I asked where he got them he said it must be "hives" from eating strawberries. [Where could he get strawberries now?]

I've quit calling him at work because the guys down there always say: "He just stepped out for a minute," then I hear them laugh.

We've been married for two years and he would like a child, but I'm not sure he'd make a good father. He says he loves me. Should I believe him, or do you think he's playing me for a fool?
DUM DUM

DEAR DUM: If circumstantial evidence could hang a guy, yours has all the rope he needs. First let him prove he can be a good husband before you make him a father.

DEAR ABBY: Should a family alter their lifestyle each time the husband's parents come to visit?

We are in our early thirties, and my husband has been smoking and drinking [moderately] since his college days, but his parents still don't know it.

When they come, everything of which they disapprove is hidden. This includes coffee, soft drinks, candy, and, believe it or not, sugar, cough syrup, and aspirin. We even keep our friends away if they are Catholic, Jewish, or black.

My husband's parents live 250 miles from us and visit about three times a year, and when I know they're coming I feel like a hypocrite hiding things, and substituting honey for sugar, and ditching some of our good friends.

My husband says that life is too short to cause family disharmony when it can be easily avoided, but I think all this pretense is setting a bad example for our children.

What do you think?
WONDERING IN N.C.

DEAR WONDERING: You shouldn't flaunt the contrast in your lifestyles [smoking and drinking, for example], but neither should you alter yours in order to deceive your in-laws. If they don't adjust a little to your way of living, they may stay away a lot. And from your description of them, you and your children might be better off.

DEAR ABBY: Who said: "No public man can be just a little crooked"?
JACK K.

DEAR JACK: Herbert Hoover. [But it sounds more like something United States Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas would have said.]

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. Mc N.: True, "a little learning is a dangerous thing" — but it still beats total ignorance.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69788, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Decorating A Nursery

COLLEGE STATION — A nursery offers almost unlimited decorating possibilities — in all forms of fantasy and imagination. one authority notes.

She's Anna Marie Gottschalk, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

"But don't let decorating originality overpower important features like safety, comfort and convenience.

"In a nursery, space should be flexible — and decorating comparatively temporary and inexpensive. Changes are necessary as the infant grows," she pointed out.

"For convenience, locate it near the parents' room."

The specialist advised selecting furnishings for design simplicity and cleaning ease.

"Avoid those with lead paint and sharp corners.

"Essentials include a crib and storage chest. Also consider a comfortable chair, dressing table or bathinette, hamper or other furnishings. Always arrange them with convenience in mind."

Turning to storage, Miss Gottschalk recommended adult-sized, flexible, built-in storage spaces.

"In general, simplicity is the key to a serviceable, well-designed nursery," she said.

"Create a quiet, light, cheerful atmosphere. Choose bright decorating colors — with few patterns. "If possible, let natural sunlight fill the room — or provide plenty of artificial light."

Good ventilation of fresh air — without drafts — is a "must," along with temperature and humidity control, the specialist added.

"In addition, ceiling, floor and wall materials should be easy to clean, sound absorbent and warm to the touch."

The California Highway Patrol estimated that 38,000 truck drivers were arrested in the state for speeding in 1973, a 24 per cent increase over 1972.

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Farm parity as of February 15 is 95. That's up one point from January and is up 13 points from a year ago. Agriculture is five points away from being on an even financial par with the rest of the economy.

Only one category of livestock—sheep—is at or above parity. Wheat, corn, oats, rice, and grain sorghum are above effective parity levels. Cotton is still a big exception. Parity is 67.58 cents per pound, but the average price as of February 15 was 54 cents.

Hogs at $38.40 average are almost $2 under parity. Beef cattle at $43.80 are $4.70 under parity. Calves at $51.30 average are $8.30 below parity. Lambs at $39.20 are about $2 under parity. Sheep at $21.50 are $8 above parity.

Eggs average 63.9 cents per dozen, which is three cents a dozen under parity.

Wool averaged 85 cents per pound compared with $1.84 parity.

Wheat as of February 15 averaged $5.29; parity is $3.74. Grain sorghum averaged $4.63 while parity is $4.23.

Rice at $16.70 compared with parity at $11.10 per hundred pounds. Hay prices as of February 15 averaged $41.50 per ton which is $1 higher than a month ago.

The all farm products index of prices received by Texas farmers is one per cent below the previous month but 40 per cent above a year ago.

The livestock and livestock products index is down three per cent from last month but is seven per cent above February 15 of 1973.

WILL YOU get enough fuel to produce and harvest this year's crops? It depends on what you do. The first thing you should do (if you haven't already done so) is to tell your distributor how much fuel you will need this year to plant and harvest your crops.

If you have trouble during the season getting sufficient fuel, you should contact your county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office. ASCS county office has been designated as the agency for farmers to contact regarding their fuel problems for 1974. ASCS offices are to have the latest information relating to energy supplies and are to be in a position to provide you with the answers you'll need.

Agriculture does have a priority for 1974 for fuel, but it's up to you to first tell your distributor how much you will need, and you will also be required to practice fuel conservation measures.

The Texas Department of Agriculture has a booklet available for you giving you information on how to conserve energy. You can get a copy by writing Texas Department of Agriculture, Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

A 13 PER CENT increase in turkey poult hatching is noted for Texas during the recent week. Eggs placed in incubators at 483,000 are the highest reported so far this season. This set is 21 per cent above 1973 and 18 per cent more than a week ago.

Nationwide, an increase of 12 per cent is reported in hatchings. The set of eggs was two per cent above the previous week.

BROILER hatchings also show an increase. Texas hatcheries placed 3,712,000 broiler chicks, which compared to a year ago is eight per cent more. The total hatch was up six per cent from a week ago.

In the 21 leading broiler producing states, a nine per cent increase is reported. Eggs placed in incubators, which is up two per cent from 1973, is only slightly above the previous week.

The experimental predator control program for 44 Texas counties is now in operation. County agents are responsible for setting up training schools in approved counties.

To be eligible to participate in the program, your county must be approved; then you must attend a training school relating to use of the M-44 sodium cyanide spring ejection device.

Counties in Texas eligible for the program are Cottle, King, Dickens, Borden, Scurry, Mitchell, Taylor, Callahan, Midland, Glasscock, Sterling, Coleman, Crane, Upton, Jeff Davis, Pecos, Presidio, Kinney, Uvalde, Medina, Bexar, McCulloch, San Saba, Mills, Stephens, Erath, Brown, Comanche, Hamilton, Bosque, Coryell, Lampasas, Bell, McLennan, Burnet, Williamson, Hood, Milam, Jim Wells, Nueces, Kleberg, Kenedy, Brooks, and Willacy.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is responsible for the program on a state level. Other agencies cooperating include the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station, and The Texas Rodent and Predator Control Service as well as the Extension Service. The project is in cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency.

Producers who participate in the experiment must keep records of all results with the M-44. Violation of the regulations can result in loss of eligibility for a county. The program will continue through June, 1975.

Further details may be obtained from the Texas Department of Agriculture or your county agent.

CATTLE feeding in Texas has shown a resumption of increasing numbers, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. In Texas, there were 2,340,000 cattle and calves on feed for slaughter markets as of February 1. This is six per cent above a year ago and six per cent above the number on feed a month ago.

Placements into Texas feedlots during January totaled 467,000 head which is a gain of 44 per cent above January of 1973 and 69 per cent more than the previous month.

However, marketings of fat cattle during January totaled 332,000 head, which is six per cent below a year ago.

Nationwide, the number of cattle on feed in the seven major cattle feeding states—Texas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas—totalled 9,632,000 head. This is a three per cent increase from a month ago but four per cent less than those on feed a year ago at this time.

SALES for all kinds of livestock at Texas auctions compared to a year ago and a month ago are higher. Cattle and calves marketed through auctions during January were 54 per cent above a year ago and 17 per cent above a month ago.

Sheep sales were 37 per cent above a year ago and 90 per cent above a month ago. Goats sold during January were 25 per cent above both last year and last month.

Hogs sold during January were seven per cent above a year ago and 31 per cent above last month.

JANUARY hatchings of egg-type chickens and broiler chickens are well above totals of a year ago. Egg-type hatchings are up 31 per cent and broiler chicks hatched showed a 10 per cent increase over a year ago.

The heavy breed poultry hatch for January is 18 per cent higher than a year ago.

Egg production in Texas during January was one per cent above a year ago but four per cent below December.

Several cattle people have called asking for a ration to hold cattle on that are coming off wheat and that are to go on grass later.

Here is a suggested ration for cattle weighing from 400 to 500 pounds running on dry native grass. If you have plenty of good hay, cattle placed in a small trap would do equally well, maybe even better. The ration on a ton basis: salt, 150 pounds; cotton seed meal, 300 pounds; cotton seed hulls, 400 pounds; ground milo, 1,050 pounds; and molasses, 100 pounds. Total 2,000 pounds.

A 400-pound calf would consume approximately six and two-thirds pounds daily of this ration. Cost of this ration is $103 per ton. This would cost close to 35-cents per head per day. I wouldn't count on more than a one-pound daily gain if I had good grass. This means it will cost you close to $16 per head to get the cattle from wheat pasture to grass. Pretty expensive but about the best way I can figure out to span a 45-day period between wheat pasture and grass.

Back to the ration — 400-pound calves will tolerate about ¼ pound of salt daily. The daily consumption would be as follows: ¼ pound salt, 1 pound cotton seed meal, 1-3 pounds cotton seed hulls, 3½ pounds ground milo, 1-3 pound of molasses. This would be a total daily consumption of 6-2-3 pounds. Larger cattle would eat a slightly higher amount.

Several have called... this is my best recommendation.

Since graze-out wheat on government farm programs is a thing of the past, I believe you will see a trend back to a silage program. A few acres of ensilage would go a long way towards helping span the many gaps we have in a stocker operation in the Panhandle. It takes expensive equipment and a lot of time and labor any way you look at it with an ensilage program. To my knowledge we have only one operator that uses ensilage. This is Johnny Johnson in the Grandview Community. He is most successful. He uses ensilage on a stocker steer program to span gaps. He never finishes anything. We need to have a field day at Johnny's and let him explain his program. Johnny plants a lot of hay grazer crops and wheat pasture. When the hay grazer gets too short, he will increase the ensilage ration. Lots of work, but it does work. The nice thing about ensilage is the fact cattle can't overeat. No problems here. A great deal more risk is always run on switching cattle from pasture to a concentrated feed. Then back to pasture for a spell.

CATTLE OUTLOOK
I've had a number of people ask me to cut loose on the cattle situation. My track record was in excellent shape before the boycotts, freezes, truck strikes, but we sure got shot out of the saddle since last fall. Even so, if time permits, we are gonna take another pot shot at the outlook.

Since my track record is shot full of holes anyhow, I'm going to stick my neck out again. I will lack a few predictions on this, just to be controversial, so I'll get my hand called.

Finished cattle broke slightly over 20 cents a pound in 1973. Before 1974 rolls off the calendar, you will see fat cattle going out to span a 45-day period between wheat pasture and grass.

The only reason they won't hit 60 will be consumer resistance. However, with the severe shortage of finished feedlot cattle, before 1974 is gone, it could cause a panic buying situation similar to the mid-summer situation created by the price freeze. Packing houses that in the past wouldn't kill anything but 1,000 to 1,200-pound steers will be buying grass fat cattle weighing considerably less. A lot of cattle will be slaughtered that are warmed up 60 to 90 days. USDA will lower grade standards (my opinion only). In short, the American consumer has not yet paid for the big economic sin of tinkering with supply and demand (price freeze). Many 10-year feeders have quit the feedlot — permanently. The pools are closing. The road was nicer going up hill than coming down. Many of the boys have been separated from the men. You have probably seen the bottom of the 1974 cattle prices in spite of all those projections you read in the magazines when the land-grant colleges met back last November.

The bankers are nervous. Everyone is stepping on their lower lip.

In spite of $52 gain cost, the place to find that $10,000 you lost in pen number 22 is in the same pen.

If this projection doesn't work out by mid-summer my address will be Australia.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
To West Texas, who have led the effort to secure a supplemental water supply. Gov. Dolph Briscoe comes through loud and clear. In every address the Governor has made since he first started his gubernatorial race two years ago, he has never wavered in his promise to help not only West Texas but all of Texas in solving the nagging "water short" problem.

In our column last week, we carried the first portion of his recent address to the Texas Water Conservation Association. Today we are carrying the remaining portion that outlines his water program.

"Because these new trends at the federal level have caused delays and a condition of uncertainty in the funding of water projects, there are many

Committee Formed

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Associated Milk Producers has formed a special committee to see whether it can recover "property or funds" improperly used in the last five years, the board of directors said Thursday.

The dairy cooperative, largest in the nation, already is trying to get back from the Committee to Re-elect the President a $100,000 donation AMPI admitted was made from corporate funds to the Nixon campaign in 1969 in violation of the law.

instances of unacceptably high increases in capital costs for project construction. That is why, even where a substantial federal interest is involved, our state may often times be better off to proceed on projects for which there is a demonstrable and immediate need without waiting to secure federal financial support.

"It was the realization of these factors which cause me to create, by Executive Order, a Water Resource Conservation and Development Task Force on November 21, 1973.

"This Task Force, drawn from full-time professionals here in Texas, was created to serve in a personal advisory capacity to me to help develop a water program for Texas which will assure us that we can meet our long range needs.

"Most, if not all, of the members of this Task Force are also members of this association, and I am grateful for the assistance and cooperation we have received.

"But that is not all Texas is doing to increase our potential in the field of water resource conservation and management. The Lt. Gov., in response to a Senate Resolution passed in the last regular session of the Legislature, has appointed four Regional Citizens Councils on Water Resources.

our Task Force has worked closely with Lt. Gov. Hobby and his staff in order to assure a concerted effort at solving our long range problems. We are planning a joint meeting of the Task Force and the Regional Councils in the near future. We hope many of you will attend this meeting, and you will be receiving information concerning it in the near future. The implications of this concerted effort are clear. Texas recognizes the job which lies ahead, and we are assembling the tools which will be needed to complete it.

"We must identify our goals and objectives, recognizing that water development projects are not an end in themselves. In a few instances, there have been poorly conceived projects which resulted in long range adverse impacts, either upon the local economy or upon the environment. But let me make it clear that I do not take the view that water resource development and environmental quality are incompatible. On the contrary, I believe that a properly conceived and well planned water resource development program is essential to environmental quality. It is essential to the economic well being of our state. And it is essential to the proper and effective protection of our natural resources.

"While Texas is not at this moment in a state of critical water shortage, our experience with the energy crisis should teach us that our responsibility lies in preventing shortages, not learning to live with them.

"We know that the irrigated agricultural economy of the High Plains is supported by a groundwater resource which is being depleted. We know that major metropolitan areas such as Dallas and San Antonio will require additional water supplies in the foreseeable future.

"And we know that the vast metropolitan complex of Houston supports its municipal and industrial requirements from groundwater sources and is faced with very serious problems of land surface subsidence that affect the lives and well being of many of the citizens of that area."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Facial Hair Solution Is Needed

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: The problem of facial hair is driving me up the wall. I have tried numerous depilatories, at least eight kinds, the wax method, bleaching, and even tweezing (which is, to say the least, impossible, especially with a touch of arthritis in the hands). Electrolysis is out of the question because of the amount of hair involved and the cost. One more complaint: with depilatories the hair for the most part remains but the skin comes off. Please, is there any solution within reason? Why, oh, why, if they can land a human on the moon, can't someone, anyone, invent something to help us poor bearded ladies?

—Mrs. E.J. Please don't think I'm being facetious when I say that a pretty reliable method has been invented. You didn't mention trying it, but I think you'll find it meets your needs. You are, obviously, more skin-sensitive than most, although you are not alone in encountering irritation from depilatories. But I think your answer is shaving. If those arthritic hands make shaving with a blade difficult, then your choice would be an electric razor. No danger of cutting yourself, and even tender skins usually take kindly to such a method of shaving. Of course, hairs grow out again, but as soon as a bit of stubble appears, you can take it off in a matter of a few minutes. Even spend three or four minutes every morning if need be. There are long-standing myths that shaving makes the hairs grow faster and heavier, but they are not true. Except for such arguments which are without validity, there's no reason why the ladies shouldn't use razors as needed. In fact, there are ladies' models of the electric razors available.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 65 and my doctor has put me on Premarin, which is a hormone. I have heard that hormones, when given as medicine, cause hair to grow on the face. Is this true? No, not true. The point you are missing is that there are two main kinds of hormones, male and female. You are receiving the latter. Female hormones don't cause hair growth.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My complexion was forever breaking out. A dermatologist prescribed tetracycline twice a day. In almost no time I saw a big improvement. The prescription ran out and I stopped and in a week my face was broken out. I went back for another prescription and today my complexion is fine. Friends with advice like that you don't need. "Cancer of the gums" is ridiculous, and taking vitamin E for such a purpose is one more example of the outrageous claims being made for it. What you do need to do is see a dentist and find out whether pyorrhea or some other dental disease is causing you to lose teeth. More teeth are lost from such gum diseases than from tooth decay.

I have been on this medication for a year and am afraid to stop. I wonder if there is any danger or side effects from taking this antibiotic so long? —J.A.F. That's one of the standard treatments for acne. The drug is used in quite small doses, and my advice is that you let your doctor worry about side effects. He knows what he is doing. Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Box 1498, Elgin, Illinois 60120, for a copy of his helpful booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT Shirley Back In Show Business

By EARL WILSON NEW YORK — Disappointed by some of the "mediocre talents" and "seventh-best" that she met in politics, Shirley MacLaine is back mingling with the top talents in show business. "I'm back laughing, singing, dancing and having a good time," the pretty spark plug of the young people's drive for Sen. McGovern says. "I'll stay in it till I get my fill of having a good time. I'd rather get a leg ache now than a headache, and when I want a headache, I'll go back into politics."

picture ideas — "but the creative minds are intimidated about what to say about women. And you can't tell anybody your ideas, they'll steal them." Politics kept elbowing its way into our conversation over dinner at Sardi's. The California Democrats have been trying for years to get her to run for office. "They want to make me into their Shirley Temple," she said, waving the idea away. She confessed doubts about Teddy Kennedy's value as a candidate. "I was wrong not to do my part for Humphrey..." "No, I was for Stevenson..."

Shirley had come from editing "I've been cutting" 45 hours of tape of her visit to China with eight "average American women" down to 90 minutes for a TV special. She is also rehearsing a nightclub act for the Las Vegas Grand for July 11. "There are plane loads of people coming from all over the country... a lot of Nixon turn-around... maybe Sen. McGovern could come out and make up some of his losses," she said, trying to be light about it. "I gave up two years of making movies. I wouldn't take back a minute of it. But I'm trained for musical comedy and I like the idea of not playing the part of somebody, but just being me... that's what the Las Vegas show will be. Maybe it's not right, but I'm used to making my own mistakes and it's really nice when you hit it now and then."

She kept her promise to herself to write another book about her experiences and surely she'll deal with the "mediocrities." "The 7th-best" — not the second-best, "the 7th-best." Shirley went more or less nude in pictures (with Jack Lemmon and Kenneth Mars) when it wasn't yet commonplace. "I hope Jack Lemmon wins an Oscar this year — I'd like to hear him use the speech he has tried out on me in previous years." The nudity and sex of films doesn't disturb her. "If we had more sex and nudity, we'd have less crime and violence." She was sipping a soft drink. "I'm oh an athlete's diet."

Her trip to China with the average American women is a big landmark. "It was my delegation. I paid for the trip. There were no visa troubles. The Chinese asked for just regular women — peasants and farmers." Here were some American women who'd never been in California arriving in Peking. One woman had never eaten Chinese food. "She didn't know many Jews," Shirley smiled. "She lived a couple of weeks on cucumbers." "Well, how was the Chinese food in China?" "Not exquisite — it's good... it's functional... it's fuel. The Lotus Eaters, Pearl's," she said, naming a couple of New York restaurants, "are better." "I'll bet," I said, willing to live dangerously. "They don't have fortune cookies in China." "Oh, yes, they do," she insisted. "They have fortune cookies." "I don't believe you." "Oh, yes. I found one that I opened and read. It said, 'Help. I am a prisoner in Watergate.'"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP... Marty Allen, who'll be appearing at the Flamboyant in San Juan, will make a gov't film there boasting tourism on the island... Ron Leibman of "Super Cops," who moved out to LA a few months ago, moved back to NY: "I'm no escapist — this is where it's at..." Diane Hull, co-star of Cine Artists' film "Bobby and Rose," is up for the sequel, too. Larry Kert said at Spindletop he'll be in the Alan Jay Lerner show starring Dan Dailey... Eartha Kitt'll bring her musical revue to Lincoln Center May 12 (produced by Jack Jordan)... Singer Wilson Pickett'll get more than 100Gs for a two-week Japanese tour. Eddy Arnold'll do two concerts with the New Orleans Symphony... Carrol O'Connor's mother, Mrs. Eloise O'Connor, said at Joe's Pier 52 her son'll make a film here soon: "He loves New York — he left his heart in New York."

'Horns Sweep Twinbill

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Jim Gideon threw a four-hit shutout to bring Texas a 5-0 win over Texas Tech in the opening game of a twin bill Saturday and the Longhorns powered three home runs in the nightcap en route to a 16-1 decision.

The two wins boosted the Longhorns' season record to 24-2 and are now 7-2 in league play. Tech, which had upset Texas in a single game Friday, is 2-4 in conference action.

Rangers Stop Yankees

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Jim Bibby and Steve Hargan blanked the New York Yankees' B team on one hit over the last six innings Saturday to give the Texas Rangers an 8-5 victory.

Bibby, who struggled through the first three innings while yielding five runs on seven hits and two walks, retired the last seven batters he faced and Hargan allowed three walks and a two-out single in the ninth to Terry Whitfield in his four innings.

The Rangers, down 5-1 after three innings, took advantage of five walks by reliever Lowell Palmer to forge a 5-5 tie in the fourth. They went ahead in the sixth on singles by Don Pruitt and Tommy Cruz and Don Castle's sacrifice fly.

Favored North Carolina Loses To Purdue, 82-71

NEW YORK (UPI) — Purdue upset eighth-ranked and pretournament favorite North Carolina, 82-71, in the second game of an afternoon doubleheader opening first round play in the National Invitation Tournament Saturday.

In the opening game, Maryland Eastern Shore brought its own version of "streaking" to Madison Square Garden, using a blistering run and gun attack to defeat the Manhattan Jaspers, 84-81.

Purdue's tough defensive effort undoubtedly had something to do with the Tar Heels' poor performance, but North Carolina's shooting was atrocious and its ball-handling even worse. They committed an unheard of 33 turnovers.

Pampa fourth with 90. Junior Noel Hansen walked away with the 800-yard dash ribbon with a time of 2:01.1. His closest threat came from a Berger runner who clocked a 2:04 flat.

Returning District 3-AAA 440 champion Steve Mathis won his event with a 52.8.

Howie Lewis, all-district performer in football and basketball and one of the finest all-around athletes to attend Pampa High in years, won the 330-yard intermediate hurdles with a time of 40.9.

Lewis beat Berger's Glen Gray, who is the returning 3-AAA champion hurdler, by two-tenths of a second.

Pampa's mile relay quartet of Chuck Quarles, Hansen, Lewis and Mathis won with a 3:32.6 clocking. Second place Berger had a 3:35.9 time for the mile.

David Caldwell captured both the 100-yard dash and shot put and ran on the sprint-relay team, which also finished first, to lead Pampa Junior High to the team championship in the Pampa Ninth Grade Invitational Track Meet Saturday at Randy Matson Track.

Pampa racked up 80 and one-sixth points to edge Bonham of Amarillo, which had 74. Other teams in the meet were Amarillo Mann, 53 1/2; Caprock, 57 and two-thirds; Perryton, 55; Amarillo-Houston, 50 1/2; Amarillo Pannin, 30; Amarillo Bowie, 27 and one-sixth; Canyon, 16; Amarillo Crockett, 14; Amarillo Austin, 12 and one-sixth; Amarillo Travis, 11; and Dumas, 2.

Pampa's 440-yard relay team of Brian Bailey, Caldwell, Eddie Brown and Rick Moore won first place with 47.2, which nipped Mann by two-tenths of a second.

Caldwell ran 10.6 in the 100, another close race, in second place was Perryton with 10.7.

Don Hughes of Pampa won first in the discus with 148-11 1/2. Caldwell captured a first-place ribbon with 55-7 1/2 in the shot put.

In the high jump, Pampa's Phil George won with 5-4, and was closely followed by Hughes with 5-5. Pampa's eighth- and ninth-grade track teams will compete in the Dumas Relays Saturday.

North Carolina State routed Pittsburgh 100-73 in the Eastern Regional at Raleigh, N.C., while UCLA, seeking its eighth straight NCAA title and 10th in the last 11 years, whipped San Francisco 83-60 in the West Regional at Tucson, Ariz.

"We don't have any real threats in the field events and in the sprints, but I was pleased with the kids — they did real well," Dunnam said.

Pampa's tracksters will next compete Saturday at the Berger Invitations.

UCLA, NCS Going To Meet Rematch

By United Press International
North Carolina State and UCLA, the nation's top two ranked college basketball teams, advanced Saturday to a rematch in the NCAA semifinals next week at Greensboro, N.C., where they will be joined by Marquette and Kansas.

N.C. State, despite a scare when All-America David Thompson missed three-quarters of action because of a head injury, and UCLA captured their respective regional finals in easy fashion to assure their second meeting of the season in next Saturday's second semifinal game while Marquette and Kansas found the going much tougher.

North Carolina State routed Pittsburgh 100-73 in the Eastern Regional at Raleigh, N.C., while UCLA, seeking its eighth straight NCAA title and 10th in the last 11 years, whipped San Francisco 83-60 in the West Regional at Tucson, Ariz.

AN AREA OFTEN overlooked by adults is physical fitness and that is why many people are not as healthy as doctors say they should be. However, physical fitness is not overlooked in Pampa schools, as young people are required to have either some form of physical education or an accepted substitute. Pampa Places 2nd At Sunray

By PAUL SIMS
SUNRAY — The Caprock Longhorns captured four first places and showed amazing balance by placing in the top three in 13 different events to win the sixth annual Bobcat Relays by 83 1/2 points over second-place Pampa Friday here.

Caprock amassed 158 team points compared to Pampa's 72 1/2. The Harvesters made their best showing this year with the second-place finish.

Other schools in Division I were (in order of finish) Canyon, 70 1/2; Woodward, Okla., 69; Borger, 63; Guymon, Okla., 22; Clovis, N.M., 15; Tucumcari, N.M., 10; Perryton, 6, and Caprock junior varsity, 2.

Sunray won Division II with 140 points, outscoring Stratford, 67; Boise City, Okla., 67; Dalhart, 39; Gruver, 31; Texhoma, Okla., 26; Spearman, 22; Laverne, Okla., 14; Texline, Okla., 10; Channing, 8.

Sunray junior varsity, 4, and Booker, Okla., 3.

In the Sunray Girls Invitational track meet, held in conjunction with the Bobcat Relays, Canyon won the high school, eighth-grade and seventh-grade divisions.

Pampa did not compete in the girls meet.

Of all the team winners Friday in Sunray, it was the Longhorns who were most impressive, winning the discus, 100-yard dash, 200-yard dash and mile run and then gaining points in every event they entered.

Two Longhorns — Larry Sims in the mile and Rod Skelton in the discus set new meet records. Sims ran a 4:43.1, eclipsing the old mark, which was set by Caprock's Joe Bostic in 1971, by nine-tenths of a second. Skelton threw the discus 151-7, which bettered the old mark of 142-6, set by Pampa's Lewis Davis in 1970.

In the mile relay, Pampa's Chuck Quarles, Noel Hansen, Howie Lewis and Steve Mathis won with 3:30.1; their best time in a meet this year.

Woodward, Okla., came in second in the relay with 3:34.5.

Borger's hopes for second place all but vanished when sprinter Craig Prewitt, who is among the state's fastest in the 100, pulled a leg muscle in the preliminaries.

Harvesters In 4th Place In 3-AAAA Golf Action

AMARILLO — Pampa moved ahead of Amarillo Caprock and is now in fourth place after firing a 334, third best for the day, in the fourth round of district play Friday at the par-72

Amarillo Public Golf Course.

The Harvesters now have a score of 1,305 with two rounds remaining. The Tascosa Rebels are still in first place with 1,251 after shooting a 333 Friday.

Borger carded the best team score Friday with 330. Other scores Friday were Amarillo High, 335; Amarillo "B," 336; Caprock, 342; Tascosa "B," 344; Pampa "B," 361; Borger "B," 364; Palo Duro, 370; Caprock "B," 396; and Palo Duro "B," 412.

After Tascosa in the overall competition are Amarillo High, 1,288; Borger, 1,272; Pampa, 1,305; Caprock, 1,311; Amarillo "B," 1,319; Tascosa "B," 344; Borger "B," 1,411; Palo Duro, 1,455; Pampa "B," 1,455; Caprock "B," 1,507; and Palo Duro "B," 1,638.

Before Friday's play, Deck Woldt's Pampa team was two shots behind Caprock.

Dan Bentley of Tascosa, who shot an 80 for the day, is medalist so far with 303. Donnie Loerwald of Caprock is runnerup with 308.

The six district teams and their junior varsities play Friday in the fifth round at Southwest Golf Course in Amarillo.

Blue Jays Fly By Louisville Cardinals

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Gene Harmon and Doug Brookins led a rally late in the first half Saturday and then sent the Creighton Blue Jays romping to an 80-71 decision over Louisville in the consolation game of the Midwest regional basketball tournament.

In the title game host Oral Roberts, awash in controversy over a drunken driving charge against coach Ken Trickey, met Kansas for the right to advance to the NCAA semifinals next weekend.

Louisville, champion of the Missouri Valley Conference and a three-point loser to Oral Roberts Thursday night, held a 38-33 lead with 38 seconds remaining in the opening half.

But Harmon dropped in a jumper and, with 13 seconds remaining, Tom Anderson scored on a three-point play and the Blue Jays had knotted the score at intermission.

In the second half Harmon and Brookins got hot to open a 10-point lead with 12 minutes remaining and the closest Louisville could come after that was 1:16 to play when the Cardinals Wesley Cox hit two free throws to narrow the deficit to seven points.

Harmon scored 22 points for the Blue Jays and Brookins contributed 19, followed by Ted Wuebben with 14.

Junior Bridgeman and Allen Murphy scored 13 each for the Cardinals, who finished the season with a 20-7 record.

Creighton, which fell to Kansas, 55-54, on Thursday night, wound up its campaign with a 23-7 mark.

SMU AD Announces Some Shifts

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist athletic director Dick Davis announced Saturday a reorganization of the school's athletic department with new assignments for associate athletic director Jim Brock and assistant athletic director Louie Mann.

Brock and Mann had held high positions under former athletic director Dave Smith, who was stripped of his duties late last year following a pay-off scandal involving the Mustang football team.

Smith, however, was retained as football coach and now works under a one-year contract.

Brock had been in charge of all sports other than football at SMU, and Davis said Brock would now be responsible for scheduling of the school's sporting events as well as serving as Davis' liaison in all sports other than football.

Brock will also be placed in charge of the sports public relations and promotions department.

Mann will be in charge of business and financial aspects of the department, including ticket sales, concessions, physical facilities and travel arrangements.

COACH ARRESTED Oral Roberts Falls In NCAA Regional

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Junior guard Tom Smith, who started a Kansas rally that tied the game at the end of regulation, broke free for a layup with eight seconds left Saturday for the bucket that clinched a 93-90 win over Oral Roberts and moved the Jayhawks into the NCAA semifinals.

The Big Eight champion Jayhawks broke in front by 15 points early in the finals of the Midwest Regional, but Oral Roberts — with coach Ken Trickey on the bench despite a run-in with police early Friday — outplayed Kansas until the final moments.

Kansas made up a seven-point deficit by scoring the final seven points of regulation on a free throw by Roger Morningstar and Dale Greenlee and a layup by Norman Cook.

That put the game into overtime at 81-81 and in the frantic extra period the Jayhawks owned a mere one-point lead after Titan Sam McCants hit a bucket with 33 seconds remaining.

But Kansas, which will move into the championship round of the NCAA playoffs next Saturday in Greensboro, N.C. with a 23-5 record, stalled away the final moments until Smith, who scored only five points all day, made his bucket.

Oral Roberts, enjoying a home court advantage in jammed Mabee Center, wound up its season with a 23-6 mark. Trickey, who had announced at mid-season he would leave the school at the completion of the schedule, was arrested early Friday and charged with drunken driving.

On Friday he had said he would not coach his team in the Midwest finals, but school founder, evangelist Oral Roberts, said he felt Trickey would be vindicated of the charges and asked him to go ahead and coach the team.

Kansas jumped in front by a 20-5 count early in the game, but McCants, who led all scorers with 24 points, ignited a Titan rush that reduced the deficit to only a point at the half, 45-44.

CCA Holds Semis Today In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Indiana slowed it down to hold off Tennessee, but Bradley had to hustle to keep down the Kansas State Wildcats Friday night as the field narrowed to four in the Commissioners' Collegiate Association tournament.

Indiana's 73-71 win over the Hoosiers earned the Hoosiers a berth in today's semifinals while Bradley's Braves must take on the Trojans of Southern California.

The Hoosiers led Tennessee most of the first half but the Vols tied it at 65-65 with less than seven minutes left in the game. With 4:21 to go, Tennessee's seven-foot center Len Kosmalski fouled out and the Hoosiers went to a stall to hold onto the victory.

"I'm not very selfish," Hoosier Coach Bobby Knight said after the game. "I'd just as soon win by three and play like hell and lose by four. I think too many ball games are lost when coaches get greedy. We would have been content to hold the ball for the rest of the game with the slim lead we had."

A stall was a luxury that Bradley could not afford. Once up by 16 in the first half, the Braves lost their touch from the field in the second half and saw their lead shrink to only one. But they held off the Wildcats' big men, Carl Gerlach and Larry Williams, and came through with a 68-64 victory.

Kansas State's four starting seniors had narrowly missed with a third straight Big Eight championship and Coach Jack Hartman said his team was a little down coming into the game against Bradley.

Bradley Coach Joe Stowell said his Braves, hustlers all year in their Missouri Valley Conference, played with their usual intensity and emotion until they ran out of gas.

"In 23 years of coaching," Stowell said, "I've never had a team that tried harder."

Buffaloes Starting Workouts Friday

CANYON — West Texas State University's Buffaloes, still smarting from a disappointing 1973 season, open football spring drills Friday.

The Buffaloes suffered through a 2-9 season last fall, but that team was made up of many sophomores who are now stronger and have gained more maturity.

As West Texas State has 30 school days to get in 20 practice sessions of spring drills, the practice schedule will be kept flexible. The Buffaloes will workout from March 22 until the school takes its spring break April 6.

The spring break will not be over until April 16, and at that time the Buffalo coaching staff will continue the drills until the allotted 20 dates are completed. The final date for the spring game has not been set.

The regular Buffalo coaching staff will be joined by John LaGrone, one of the better players to come out of Panhandle High school football.

Hannum Critical Of Spur Coach

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Tom Nissalke said Friday Denver Rockets coach Alex Hannum let "emotions overrule reality" when he accused the San Antonio coach of teaching his players to use "dirty, cheap-shot tactics."

Hannum made his complaint after the Spurs beat Denver in an American Basketball Association game Wednesday.

"As long as Tom Nissalke continues to teach that dirty, cheap-shot kind of basketball, he will never win any place. I want to be quoted on that," Hannum said.

"Alex has been very upset because the season has not been going the way he had hoped," Nissalke said Friday.

PHS Girls In 7th Place

AMARILLO — "There isn't much to say, the girls just had a bad day," said golf coach Tommy Lindsey after his girls team had posted a 433, good enough for seventh place in the first round of district golf Friday at Ross Rogers Golf Course here.

Meanwhile, Amarillo Tascosa's girls, behind

Patty Loehr's 87 and Donna Avery's 93, carded a 368, which puts the Rebels in front by 19 shots over second place Amarillo High (387). Other scores Friday were Amarillo "B," 393; Palo Duro, 404; Borger, 419; Borger "B," 432; Pampa; Tascosa "B," 449; Caprock, 472; Palo Duro "B," 484 and Pampa "B," no score.

Medalist so far is Flota Barnett of Borger with 66. She is followed by Tascosa's Miss Loehr and Amarillo's Kim Snook with 87s, Tascosa's Miss Avery with 93 and Pampa's Debbie Thompson with 95.

"Her score (Debbie's) could have been even better," said Lindsey. Miss Thompson shot 47-48 for her total.

Other Pampa scores were Gail Simon, 49-54 — 103; Serena Shearer, 58-60 — 118; Linda Howard, 69-57 — 126 and Paula Simpson, 63-54 — 117.

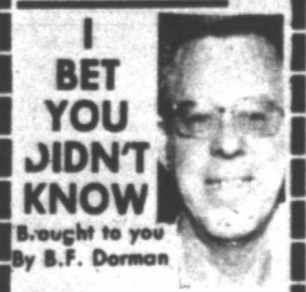

Pampa's B-team did not have a team score because Gisele Hudson became ill during play, which gave Pampa only three B-teams — Geraldyn Hills, Sharon White and Jeffie Suttle. A team needs a four-girl score to compete.

Miss Hills carded 54-50 — 104, followed by Miss White with 64-62 — 126 and Miss Suttle with 69-63 — 132. There are three district rounds left. Friday, 3-AAAA teams will compete in Borger. April 5, the round is scheduled for Pampa Country Club and on April 19, it is set for one of the Amarillo courses. Borger will host a tournament March 29.

Coaches Needed For Cage Teams

Youth Center director George Smith says he still needs men and women to coach fifth- and sixth-grade girls basketball teams, which will begin play in April. Twenty coaches are needed by April 1. Interested persons can contact Smith at the Youth Center, 1005 W. Harvester.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
Brought to you by B.F. Dorman

Do you know when the first NCAA championship basketball tournament was held, and who won it? ... First one was staged 35 years ago, in 1939, and the first school to win it was the University of Oregon.

Here's an oddity that happened in the NCAA championship basketball tournament — and what are the chances of it ever occurring again ... EACH of the teams that finished first, second and third in the NCAA tournament of 1939 ALL had names starting with the SAME letter: "O"! ... Oregon finished first that year, Ohio State second and Oklahoma third ... That's never happened in the more than 30 years since then ... Do you think it will ever happen again?

Oddly enough, a "substitute" team once won the NCAA championship basketball tournament ... In 1944, just before the tournament was to start, Arkansas withdrew because two of its stars were in an accident ... NCAA officials frantically looked for a team to replace Arkansas ... Finally Utah consented to substitute even though Utah had finished only third in their conference and had already lost in the national invitation tournament and were eliminated there ... But Utah surprised everybody by then winning the NCAA tournament!

I bet you didn't know there's a safety belt of steel inside the MICHELIN tire ... It carries a warranty of 40,000 miles of tread wear (many owners get more).

McLean Junior Makes All-State Team Along With 4 Others From District 2-A

By PAUL SIMS
McLEAN — Sheri McLean, "as good as most boy basketball players," says her coach, was named to the Amarillo Globe-News all-state Class A team, it was announced today.

Miss Haynes, a 5-7 junior at McLean, was one of five girls making either the first or second Class A teams from District 2-A, probably the toughest loop (Class A) in the state.

Team mate Lynda Martin, a 6-1 senior, was named to the second team along with Bonnie Clary of Valley and Deena Lowrance of Claude. On the first team with Miss Haynes was Mary Brunson of Valley. All those players are from 2-A.

Besides Misses Haynes and Brunson, Becky Morgan and Sarah Williams of Grandview, Ginger Gabbert of Boyd and Barbara Sulak of Rogers made the first team.

Sheri, who is comparable to the best high school girl players in the state, A or otherwise, averaged 40 points and 13 rebounds a game for the Tigers, who finished 20-6 for the season.

McLean ended up third in district, behind Valley and Claude. The Tigerettes might have won the championship if Miss Haynes had not stretched knee ligaments and missed the final six district games.

The McLean forward has "great natural talent," says Valley coach George Scott. "Her quickness is one of the things that makes her tremendous and she's a real fine jumper," adds Scott.

"We didn't do anything special against Sheri; we just put Bonnie Clary on her. She did a good job for us."

Valley beat McLean, 52-50, on Valley's home court. In McLean, Miss Haynes sustained the knee injury which kept her out in the final three quarters as Valley annihilated the hosts.

Miss Haynes, who is in McLean's hospital today for stomach cramps, might need an operation to repair the ligaments, although her coach Joel Nelson says the doctor doesn't think an operation will be necessary.

We would like to commend our local law enforcement agencies in our article this week. It seems to us that the Police and Sheriff's department are doing a fine job. Mostly in the area of drug violation. Just this last week they arrested some youths for possession of drugs on the parking lot here at the lanes.

We would like to co-operate in any way to help deter the gathering of such undesirable people on our premises. Also we would appreciate being told of such activity going on and observed by our patrons. Your co-operation is also needed if we are to make our bowling establishment a better place to come to.

Our aim in this community is to have a place for you to bring your family and have fun and not be subjected to people you wouldn't want your family around where you could see such people that would offend you.

We are going to try our best to keep our place enjoyable and help the law officials as we previously stated in doing something about the environment the undesirable people are trying to make for Harvester Lanes. Again, your help would also be greatly appreciated. Thanks!

Parks And Wildlife News

By J.D. PEER
Since the early days of Texas when nearly everyone carried a pistol, the laws have changed with the times and the demands for use of this firearm are still prevalent.

There are many popular misconceptions about pistols and whether it is legal to carry them.

First, let's define a pistol as a short firearm or handgun capable of being aimed and fired from one hand and designed for purposes of offense, defense, target shooting and hunting.

Section 46.02 of the Texas Penal Code makes it unlawful for a person to intentionally, knowingly or recklessly carry on or about his person a handgun.

Gun owners may bear arms on their own premises or on premises under their control, while traveling and when engaging in lawful hunting or fishing or other lawful sporting activities.

For a person to qualify as a "traveler," the following guidelines must be considered:

(1) A traveler generally is one who travels across a county line.

(2) A traveler must be on the most direct route from origination to destination without deviating.

(3) Momentary stopping before, during or after a trip will not cause one to lose a traveler's status, but such status can be lost by unreasonable delays.

(4) Distance traveled may determine whether one is a traveler, but distance must be considered along with mode of travel.

The pistol is considered "on or about a person" while the individual is occupying a vehicle transporting a pistol.

Three Houston Players Make All-Tournament
AUSTIN (UPI) — Conference AAAAA boys basketball champion Houston Kashmere Gardens landed three players on the seven-man conference AAAAA all-tournament team. University Interscholastic League officials announced Friday.

Karl Godine, 6-3 junior, who had 40 points and 23 rebounds for the conference AAAAA champions, was joined on the all-tournament squad by teammates Craig Riggs, 6-0 senior and Jarvis Williams, 6-5 junior.

Charles McMillian, 6-3 senior from conference AAAAA runner-up Dallas South Oak Cliff, was a unanimous choice by sportswriters for the all-tournament squad. McMillian was the leading AAAAA scorer in the tournament with 61 points.

Also named to the conference AAAAA team were San Antonio Jefferson's 6-2 senior Mike Jones, South Oak Cliff's Larry Harris, 6-2 senior, and Denton's Randy Alexander, 5-3 senior.

LaPoynier's 6-2 junior center Larry Cumby was the only repeater on either the conference AAAAA or B all-tournament teams. Ozell Hambrick joined teammate Cumby on the all-tourney squad along with Huck-abay's Rex and Randy Spain and Gary Campos and Hedley's Tony Rieken.

Sirica To Make Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John J. Sirica hopes to decide Monday whether to turn over a grand jury sealed report and other Watergate materials to House impeachment investigators, a spokesman said.

The chief U.S. district judge authorized a statement which said he "is still working on his opinion and hopes to be able to file it some time Monday."

The grand jury report and a briefcase of other materials were submitted to Sirica on March 1 when seven former top aides to President Nixon were indicted on a series of Watergate cover-up charges.

The report was said to deal with President Nixon's handling of the Watergate case.
