BOOTLEGGER OUT "FOR A WALK"

One Slain for Love, Another for Hate, Officers Say

CHICAGO, May 15.—(P)—A woman and a man were slain in Chicago last night, one for love, the other for hate.

Lafayette Leonard, a 26-year-old mother, was discovered dead in the basement apartment of Morris Zimm, 40 a vegetable peddler. The body was found lying in blood-soaked clothes after relatives had received phone calls from a man who said he was Zimm.

"I killed my sweetheart," said the voice. "Now I'm going to kill myself."

The girl, whose grandparents said she had been deserted by her husband several months ago, was slain by a blow upon the head. She had gone to Zimm's place after being told on the telephone that he was seriously ill.

Joseph Cavarette, 42, was the other victim of killers. He was shot to death by supposed friends who police believed desired his death in revenge for a real or fancied wrong growing from bootleg activities in which officer said Cavarette was engaged.

"Taken for Walk."

The Cavarette killing introduced a variant of the murder technique used among Chicago gangsters. Heretofore victims who were to be "put on the spot" have been "taken for a ride." Cavarette was "taken for a walk. Three or four men engaged Cavarette in conversation and induced him to walk with them. Reaching the shadow of the church of God on Milton street, the slayers drew their guns and dropped Cavarette with half a dozen bullets in his body.

crime at last is to go under the scalpel of a special grand jury.

Chief Justice Brothers of the Criminal Court yesterday decided to refer the whole series of political murders, bombings, intimidations, and kid nappings to a jury to be called together General of Illinois, will be the prosecutor, probably with the assistance of two representatives of the Chicago Bar association, which has been active in demanding a thorough investigation.

The Grand Jury will be empowered to go back as far as the 1926 elections in its inquiry into charges of terrorism and fraud. It will be asked to look into all the circumstances surrounding the bombing of Senator Deeney's and Judge Swanson's homes, as well as the slaying of "Diamond Joe" Esposito and Octavius Granady, each of whom was a candidate for ward committeeman on the Deeney ticket at the April 10, last, primary election.

State's attorney Robert E. Crowe, under whose regime the politico-crime conditions are alleged to have existed joined in the request for the special grand jury. He suggested to Judge Brothers that the prosecution be placed in the hands of Judges Swanson and Lindsey, Republican and Democratic candidates respectively for the office of State's Attorney next November. Judge Swanson won the nomination from Crowe at the primary election.

"One of these men will be the next court, and they might as well learn what they are up against now."

This suggestion brought objection from Carl R. Latham, president of the

Map of Jap-Chinese Conflict

This map shows the scene of the present fighting in China. Japanese landing parties have forced the rival Chinese armies to clear the Shantung railroad, from Asinan to Tsingtao, on the Shantung peninsula where Japanese concessionaries have many millions invested in industries. Japanese gunboats are also proceeding up to the Yangtze river from Shanghai. The southern troops, under General Chiang Kai-Shek, were pushing the northern armies back across the Yellow River when the Japanese intervened, announcing that they intended to restore

Santa Fe Engineers Inspect Kell Route

Fifteen engineers and contractors arrived here yesterday and this morning and immediately commenced an inspection tour of the new railroad right-of-way from Pampa to Cheyenne, Okla. The party was headed by W. L. Patrick.

More material arrived yesterday for the supply yard to be erected here, and indications are that work will commence out of here within a week's time.

One mile of grading has already been completed at station ten, east of here, to fulfill the Kell contract that work should commence by May 1.

LORDS AGAINST WAR

LONDON, MAY 15.—(P)—The House of Lords unanimously adopted a resolution presented today by Lord Reading that the proposals for the outlawry of war presented by the United States should have prompt and favorable consideration.

Auto Show to Be Held With October Fair

A meeting of the automobile dealers will be held May 29 at the Schneider hotel to elect officers for 1928. The dealers, salesmen and finance men met last night and discussed another automobile show and future meetings. A program committee was elected and meetings will be held every two weeks. It was decided to have an automobile show in connection with the Pampa fair October 11, 12 and 13. The used car market and sales were discussed for an hour by those present.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT IN PLANE BARELY FAILS

Man Belabors Hired Pilot With Hammer as Home Town of Sweetheart Is Nears Landing Rough but Not Fatal

PONTIAC, Mich., May 15.—(P)—The story of a battle 2,000 feet in the air between two fliers, Harry Anderson of Roseville, Mich., pilot, and Clarence Frechet of Detroit, an aerial exhibitionist, which resulted in the plane's crashing and in a remarkable escape from death by the occupants, was under investigation today.

Both men were found seriously injured in the plane, which was demolished in landing on the grounds of the state hospital for the insane yesterday.

Anderson told police he was attacked by Frechet with a hammer while flying over Pontiac. Losing consciousness after repeated blows from the weapon, Anderson said he recovered after the plane had taken a sheer drop of nearly 1,800 feet, in time to right it for the rough landing that averted almost certain death for himself and Frechet.

Anderson's skull was fractured and he was painfully injured about the face, most of his teeth having been knocked out, supposedly by blows from the hammer. Frechet was less seriously injured but required hospital treatment.

Under heavy guard at a hospital, Frechet raved. From coherent parts of his talk, police pieced together the information that he is a stunt flyer and

QUAKE PROPHETS TO BE PUNISHED AFTER FAILURES

Mexicans Terrified Through Predictions of Disasters That Never Come

OAXACA CITY, Mexico.—(P)—Persons prophesying earthquakes here are to be punished if their predictions prove untrue.

Oaxaca, an earthquake center during all known time, has had several severe shakes during recent months. Minor tremors are frequent.

Local self-styled earthquake prophets have of late caused terror among the people, already panicky and with nerves on edge because of previous shocks, by predicting the destruction of Oaxaca City, if not of the entire state, at a certain day and hour. Long before the appointed time, many persons begin camping in the plazas, go out into the country or huddle in fear and misery about the streets. Many kneel and pray some become hysterical as the hour approaches. There has been no earthquake at the time fixed by any of these predictions. But the prophets have persisted. The government has now ordered the punishment of persons responsible for such false alarms.

New Pipeline to Gray to Come From Electra

HOUSTON, May 15.—(P)—The Texas Pipeline company issued a statement here Tuesday saying it is planning to increase its pipe line capacity south of Dallas to Port Arthur by 10,000 barrels daily and to lay a new line from Electra to Gray county in the Panhandle.

The latter line will be an 8-inch connecting at Electra with a six and eight inch line to Dallas. The survey for the Gray county line is being made the actual construction of the line being in abeyance until the work on the line south of Dallas is completed.

The Texas Pipeline company now has two eight-inch lines Dallas south to Humble in Harris county where a large tank is located, this tank farm is connected with the Port Arthur refinery and terminals by several lines.

The project south of Dallas provides for an 8-inch line to Corsicana making three 8-inch lines between that point and Dallas. From Corsicana the new 8-inch line will be extended to San Augustine, where it will hook up with the Texas Pipeline company's trunk line system from the Arkansas-Louisiana fields to Port Arthur, this latter line is an 8-inch with loops.

Committee Is Appointed to Make Arrangements—Bennett Says No Fancy Costumes Necessary This Year—He Takes Pampa Membership

Pampa will be represented by an appropriate float and by an official princess at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Fort Worth June 18, 19, and 20, directors of the local Chamber decided in a called session yesterday.

A committee composed of T. F. Smalling, Lynn Boyd, and J. H. Lavender was appointed to make necessary arrangements. B. Frank Bennett, vice-president of W. T. C. C., who was present, stated that no fancy costumes for the princess will be necessary this year. As the names of the princess and her city are announced fireworks will be set off and the name will appear in blazing fire-writing in colors to match her costume.

Mr. Bennett, who is here taking membership to the "regional" body, said that he wished Pampa to reach her last year's mark, which totaled 120. The 100-mark is being neared and Mr. Bennett expected to complete his work today.

Pampa will be host to the district W. T. C. C. convention in August.

STAMFORD, May 15.—Special—Two states, over three hundred miles apart will model regional commercial organizations after the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. They are the State of Arkansas and the state of Iowa.

Burt J. Thompson, chairman of the organization committee of the Iowa Farms Corporation, in process of formation, writes the West Texas organization for information to be utilized in creating a body that will have as its purpose stabilization of business and land values in Iowa. Other activities to be participated in will make it the nature of a state chamber of commerce functioning along the lines and policies of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The body is to be formed within the next ten days.

V. C. Pettie, industrial commissioner of the Arkansas Power and Light Company, asks the West Texas Commercial headquarters for advice in launching a State chamber of commerce, which, he says, leading business men and builders of Arkansas have determined to start at this time. The Arkansas State Chamber will co-operate to the fullest with similar regional organizations. Mr. Pettie states in his request for information.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has served as the model for numerous regional commercial bodies both in and out of the State. The East and South Texas Chambers of Commerce are patterned after the western organization, as is also the Oklahoma State Chamber of Commerce.

COED BURNED IN HALL FIRE

Election Violence Back to 1926 Will Be Scrutinized

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 15.—(P)—

One girl is dead, another is paralyzed and near death, and four others seriously injured as a result of a fire which swept Woodlawn hall, Writtenberg college girls' dormitory of frame and brick construction early today.

Hilda Sipes, 20, of Shelby, was found dead by firemen, in an upstairs hall. Helen McClain of Troy, is in a hospital where physicians said her chances for recovery are slim. Miss McClain awoke to find the hallway filled with flames. Her only other avenue of escape was the porch roof outside her window. She stepped onto the roof it was burning underneath and began to give way under her. She then leaped to the ground. Doctors said they believed her spine injured. She is paralyzed.

The injured, all hurt in escaping from the burning building, are: Alice Olde, Detroit, cuts, burns and bruises about wrists and hands. Mary Legengood, Reading, Pa., broken rib suffered in jump from window.

The Gulf Production company's No. 2-B Holmes in section 107, block 3 four miles south of here on the edge of the Wilcox pool, is swabbing steadily at 80 barrels an hour. The oil is about 43 gravity.

The well was brought in late Friday and Saturday for an initial flow of 2,000 barrels a day, after being deepened to 3,200 feet. There is no gas to flow the well and it is being swabbed.

An increase in oil was picked up at 3,160 feet and the well shot. The shot bridged the hole and shut off 4,000,000 feet of gas which has failed to come back. It is thought that by swabbing the gas will be brought back and the well flow natural.

LAUNCHES ONE OF GREAT FEATS OF ENGINEERING

Expense Will Be About $325,000,000, It Is Estimated

COST IS BORNE BY GOVERNMENT

Farm Relief and Tax Reduction Are Yet Pending

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(P)—President Coolidge today signed the Mississippi river flood control bill.

By affixing his signature to the measure, Mr. Coolidge placed upon the statute books an act which embarks the federal government upon the tremendous task of curbing the flood waters of the Mississippi—probably one of the greatest engineering undertakings ever attempted in history.

The same stroke of the president's pen also completed the first of what are regarded as the three major problems up to the present congress. The other two, farm relief and tax reduction, still are pending in legislative form at the capitol.

The new flood control law was framed jointly by Senator Jones, chairman of the Senate committee and chairman Reid of the House flood control committee and calls for the expenditure by the federal treasury of $325,000,000.

The engineering plan for the work proposes the strengthening of the levees along the Mississippi river and the building of three floodways and a spillway as outlets to carry off from the main stream the excess flood waters into the Gulf of Mexico.

Upon the federal government is placed the entire expense of the flood control work with the exception of the furnishing of the levee foundations on the main river to be borne by the Mississippi valley states.

But this cost to the states is estimated only at about $500,000.

Holmes Test Is Making 60 Barrels of Oil an Hour

ship went over on its nose.

Attaches at the asylum filled in the narrative, the plane approached Pontiac cruising leisurely at an altitude of about 2,000 feet, suddenly it began to spiral about. This continued for about a minute, then it banked at an angle of about 45 degrees and began a dizzy plunge earthward nose down. When within 200 feet of the ground, the ship righted itself and after attaining an even keel, made as if to land. When it touched land however, the underpinning crumpled throwing the machine over several times.

Anderson was found unconscious, strapped in the pilot's seat. Frechet badly dazed, still clutched in his hand the handle of a broken hammer.

Anderson, who told police he was not previously acquainted with Frechet, said the man appeared to be normal when he made arrangements for the flight. When they arrived over Pontiac, however, the pilot said, the passenger grabbed a hammer and began to belabor him over the head.

"It was awful," Anderson told Sheriff Harvey Tessler, "the first blow at me barely grazed my head. I tried to grapple with him and at the same time keep my machine from pitching. One of the blows made everything go black. Then I remember coming to. I saw we were heading in a nose dive. I jerked the controls and tried to right the plane. Just as I was swinging out of the dive, I felt the wheels of the undercarriage touch the ground for some distance and then the ORGANIC UNION of Methodist, Presbyterian, and Congregational churches was recommended with surprising unanimity at the recent session of the northern branch of the Methodist body.

In the near future the Presbyterian conference at Tulsa will entertain a motion to take similar action.

Whether the unity achieved in Canada can at this time succeed in the United States is doubtful, but that the goal will be reached within a decade appears virtually certain.

There will be many who would retain the spirit of competition between the denominations, but an equal or greater number who see in this rivalry nothing essential to the "press on" spirit of Paul.

Decay of theological definitions is another danger engendered in the minds of some opponents of union. In the North particularly, however, these hair-splitting distinctions have largely disappeared.

The ultimate effect of union in creating a giant denomination should not be overlooked. In union there is strength, but mere size is not always an indication of integral strength.

Disagreement as to which is "it" has too long led to the ridiculous.

A New Center

Every city which grows out of a class competing with nearby cities of similar size faces a danger. That danger of unusual prosperity, stretches its municipal self and claims to be the center and circumference of its universe.

Whatever its claim as the commercial center about which sectional activities revolve, its right to claim credit directly for assets located near neighboring towns is doubtful.

Pampa has felt the injustice of this attitude on the part of certain influences in Amarillo, and the latter city will not soon hear the last of this grievance.

Pampa should now look to her own utterances in this regard, for she is becoming the North Plains center of a similar process of centralization and leadership.

Let us exercise care lest our own boasts be interpreted

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—One of the most remarkable things about politics is that in all its essentials it continues to be the same old game.

The fundamentals never change. From the very outset, patronage has been driving incentive for politicians; power, control and material benefit the motive force of the political backers; sectional and class divisions the battle lines of struggle, and ambition and vanity nearly always the inspiration of candidates for office.

For proof of that, your correspondent has just "interviewed" the late Senator Thomas H. Benton of Missouri. Benton was one of the big boys of his time. He led Andrew Jackson's administration forces in the Senate and fought off Henry Clay, Daniel Webster and John Calhoun, among others.

The interview was obtained from the huge volumes in which Benton, about 1860, published a ponderous account of his life and times.

"Political conventions quickly degenerated and became obnoxious," says Benton (on page 49). "Persons attended as delegates who had no constituency. Delegates attended upon equivocal appointments. Double sets of delegates sometimes came from the state, and either were admitted or repulsed, as suited the views of the majority.

Proxies were invented. Many delegates attended with the sole view of establishing a claim to office, and voted accordingly.

"The two-thirds rule was invented to enable the minority to control the majority; and the whole proceeding became anomalous and irresponsible, and subservive of the will of the people, leaving them no more control over the nomination than the subjects of kings have over the birth of the child which is born to rule over them.

"This is the mode of making presidents, practiced by both parties now. It is the virtual election. And thus the election has passed—not only from the people to whom the practice under the constitution gave it—and has gone to an anomalous, irresponsible body, unknown to law or constitution, unknown to the early ages of your government, and of which a large proportion of its interlopers attending it, have no other view either in attending or in promoting the nomination of a particular man, than to get one elected who will enable them to eat out of the public crib—who will give them a key to the public crib.

"The evil is destructive to the rights and sovereignty of the people, and to the purity of elections." In different languages the complaints against the convention today are those of Benton. For a hundred years, deadlocks and dark horses have beaten the most popular convention candidates. In both parties, politicians are now conspiring to do it once more. If they don't succeed, they'll try it again in 1932.

Teachers College Students Revel in Study of Birds

CANYON, May 15.—Birds and bird study are familiar subjects to the young people of the West Texas State Teachers college, who are preparing to teach in the elementary grades of the region's public schools. The large classes in education make one field trip each quarter in order that they may learn something of the birds that are to be seen here at different seasons of the year.

Smaller sections of the classes made more frequent trips. Miss Anna I. Ribbets and Miss Ruth Lowes, both well informed nature enthusiasts accompany the students, and the trips embrace both serious endeavor and outing. The groups leave the college shortly after noon and return before six or go late in the afternoon, carry lunches, and see the birds at the time they are feeding and singing their evening songs.

Students Know Many Birds

The large classes have identified as many as thirty different birds on a single trip and Miss Ribbets says that fifty different birds have been identified during the year.

Canyon is in a transition zone, and many birds spend a short time here and then spend the remainder of the year either north or south of this region. The abundance of sunshine and the shelter which is offered by the breaks of the canyons make this an attractive winter home for many hardy birds such as robins, towhees, many species of sparrows, wrens and others. In the spring, the trees contain great numbers of warblers, and other birds.

Nature Study By-Products

Birds are not the only subject of interest on these field trips. The instructors have found that the students soon become intelligently interested in clouds, in stars, in stones and in flowers and the bird study leads to geology, astronomy, and botany, those subjects vitalized because the interest has been developed out of doors where the real things are found.

Hikes over hills and up canyons in search of birds have shown the need of fine personal health, and have awakened an interest in proper food and clothing.

Miss Anna I. Ribbets, of the primary education department is especially delighted because the teacher-in-training ask to accompany the little children on their nature trips, and find them of great interest.

Trips of this kind will be continued throughout the summer season, and a study of the nesting habits of birds will be added to the efforts to identify the feathered friends that are found in this region.

"Old Tom" Tibbles Dies to End Career of Unusual Events

OMAHA, Neb., May 15.—(P)—Preacher, fighter, writer and once candidate for vice-presidency, "Old Tom" Tibbles is dead.

A six-year-old runaway from his home in Washington county, Ohio, in 1864, Thos. Henry Tibbles was picked up by an immigrant train en route to Kansas. Hardly was he in his teens until he became an ardent member of the anti-slavery party. Before he was 16 he was sentenced to be hanged as an abolitionist, and escaped under a rain of bullets from his captors.

Later, in the civil war, Tibbles actually was hanged by members of the band of the famous raider Quantrill. He was left swinging from a tree from which he was cut down by a friend arriving at the climax of the hanging.

At 16 Tibbles was a friend and fellow fighter with John Brown. During the civil war he was a scout and played a big part in the guerrilla warfare in Missouri and Kansas.

Then came more sedate days. The war ended, Tibbles made a lecture tour, earning enough to finish his education. Then he was ordained as a Methodist minister, becoming one of the pioneer circuit riders of the middle border.

Settling here, Tibbles became editor of the Omaha World-Herald. In 1904 he was the Populists' candidate for vice-president of the United States. Tibbles ended his connection with the World-Herald several years ago to devote his time to study and writing.

When his first wife died, Tibbles was re-married to the famous "bright eyes," beautiful Indian princess of the Ponca tribe. The couple made an extensive lecture tour, attracting wide spread attention.

"Bright Eyes" was immortalized by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow as "Minnehaha" in "Hiawatha." When "Bright Eyes" died, Tibbles married a third time.

Surviving Tibbles, who died last night, are his widow and two daughters, Mrs. May Barris, New York and Mrs. Edda Bates of Brooklyn.

TECH STUDENTS ELECT

The following were chosen for the year book, La Ventana: Wilburn Edmon of Plainview, editor; Guy Carter of Grady, N. M., business manager. For the weekly newspaper, the Treador, Otis Koen of Lubbock was chosen editor and Jack Camp of Pecos was selected as business manager.

A. Gordon, of the Gordon Bros., left yesterday on a business trip to Kansas City.

Wife of American Is Mistreated by Nicaraguan Band

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 15.—(P)—The east coast of Nicaragua was incensed today over the savage treatment the wife of an American named Miller suffered at the hands of rebels.

Seeking revenge because of information given by Miller to the Marine forces, the Guerrillas swept upon his plantation on the Coco river near the east coast. Miller was absent. In their fury, the rebels assaulted Mrs. Miller. They carried off everything of value. What they could not take they destroyed. It was not known here whether the victim of the atrocity was also an American.

Rebels appeared first at Sang Sang on the Coco river in the middle of April. They began to pillage villages generally. From the store of Abraham Martinez they stripped all the merchandise and took $500 and from the store of Jose Lieset, a Cuban, they took merchandise valued at more than $2,000. They also robbed the Cuban of his cattle and a gasoline boat. Smaller merchants were also raided, the rebels seizing their boats, supplies and everything of value.

On learning that American Marines were planning a drive up the Coco river to cut them off from supplies, the rebels confiscated all the river craft. For some time, the insurgents

C. of C. Managers to Have Session in Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, May 15.—(Special)—Texas Commercial Executive's association convention and conference school which will be held in Corpus Christi May 17, 18, 19, have all been completed, according to Ralph Bradford, manager of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce, who will act as host secretary.

A large number of reservations have been received from secretaries representing every section of Texas and Lee Simmons, manager of the Sherman Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the attendance committee, said the attendance would be greater than that of any previous Texas Commercial Executive's Association.

The program for the conclave has been carefully arranged. It will consist of three days discussion of vital phases of Chamber of Commerce work by men in the professions who are regarded as best qualified to speak on their respective subjects. The Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce has prepared an elaborate program of entertainment features for the three days on the program.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED
CHIRI, model, is madly in love with NATHANIEL DANN, a young artist.
DANN, however, is in love with and engaged to VIRGINIA BREWSTER, daughter of a wealthy broker.
The story opens as VIRGINIA and NATHANIEL are sitting at dinner in his studio to announce their engagement.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER I-A

CHIRI came in late, with two fascinated young males and a pale, indifferent poet. "Dance with me, Niel," she begged when someone began talking with Virginia.

Nathaniel, overflowing with good will, was about to comply with her request when his butler, hired for the occasion, came to tell him he was wanted on the telephone. He turned to speak to Virginia, but the man put up a warning finger and Nathaniel noticed then that his face was grave and his manner one of suppressed excitement. He asked Chiri to excuse him and withdrew with the butler.

"There is trouble at the Brewster home, sir," the man said when they were out of earshot of Virginia. "Mr. Brewster's man is on the wire. He said not to let Miss Virginia know until he had talked with you. It's her father, sir."

Something like a cold finger seemed to reach into Nathaniel's heart and coil round it for an instant. Nathaniel knew it was fear. His mind, sensitive and psychic, had leaped to a dozen alarming conjectures and settled to the conviction of tragedy. Though not a skeptic, yet he knew that life allowed no perfect bliss, and his recent happiness had been so great as really to concern him about the inevitable rift.

But Virginia! Why must it touch her? He paused for a moment at the door of the small room adjoining his studio, which he used as a bedroom, and glanced back at the girl whose joys and sorrows must henceforth be his joys and sorrows. No forbidding seemed to trouble her now. She was smiling, being gracious to his friends. Nathaniel was proud of her, of her calm beauty and poise. He took up the ear-telephone reluctantly. There was bad news for Virginia and he must carry it to her.

"Hello, Dann speaking." His voice brought a rush of information uttered in a frightened whisper that barely carried to him. Nathaniel made out the fact that Virginia's father was dead.

"Have you called a physician?" he shouted.

"I'll get one at once, sir," came back faintly in reply and Nathaniel heard a click that told him the connection had been broken.

He stepped to the door, uncertain of the best thing to do. He might beckon her . . . but she was not looking his way. Then he saw her dancing. A slight tremor shook him and left his flesh cold. Dancing! Laughing, too, and he could see the grin shadow of the reaper over the gay crowd, dimming the joy, mocking ambition and hope.

Would he have to go and take Virginia from her partner's arms? He drew upon the courage that must never fail her, took a step forward and was halted by a touch on his arm.

"Niel. What is it?"

"Chiri! Go and tell those musicians to stop playing."

It was like Chiri, so unbalanced in her way with men, and yet so understanding and quick to grasp the essential elements of any situation, to move off swiftly and without comment to do as Nathaniel bade her.

As the music came to an unmelodious end Nathaniel reached Virginia's side.

"Please excuse her, Lionel," he said to the man she had been dancing with; "there's been something happening at her home and we'll have to go at once. Will you tell the others?"

"Tell me, Niel, what has happened . . . my father . . ."

"I don't know . . . for certain. We'll go at once."

He was leading Virginia toward the door now, where he saw Chiri standing with Virginia's blue and silver wrap.

In the car Virginia made him tell her of the message from Pounds, her father's valet. One moaning, protesting "no" burst from her lips when Nathaniel said the essential elements of any situation, to move off swiftly and without comment to do as Nathaniel bade her.

Virginia accepted his words in stricken silence. The drive home was a nightmare of tortured uncertainty.

A man, evidently a physician, lifted his head and looked solemnly at Virginia and Nathaniel when they entered her father's library. That one look answered Virginia's question. The father she loved, the parent who had been both mother and father to her since the time, two years after her birth, when he had looked upon her face for the first time, was dead. Until then his grief at losing her mother had driven him to far corners of the earth, fighting his unnatural reluctance to look upon the child that had cost him the life of the only woman he ever had loved.

and with the first grip of her chub by little fingers around his own, which trembled, and her first friendly smile, he experienced a poignant regret for the two lost years.

Virginia had grown up nurtured and protected by a great love. With no brothers and sisters to share it, there was developed between father and daughter a companionship that narrowly missed being a complex in the life of both.

Richard Brewster had made not the slightest objection to Virginia's choice of a husband. He returned the liking that Nathaniel felt for him, and while many of his friends regarded the prospective groom as beneath Virginia's station in life, Mr. Brewster only smiled tolerantly at their veiled comments. He knew that most of them had missed the indescribable happiness of a great love and he believed that Virginia would know it with Nathaniel Dann.

His great fear and dread had been that she might love the wrong kind of man. But that fear had vanished when she told him she wanted to marry Nathaniel Dann. After that he had but one worry—a worry, however, so consuming that it had shortened his life.

For years he had carried a secret burden, unknown to his world, except for a few persons who did not talk of what they knew.

The marks of his mental suffering showed plainly upon his features now, and Nathaniel thought, as he stood helplessly watching Virginia when she rushed forward and threw herself frantically upon the lifeless body, that he had never seen a face so altered.

For a while no one dared touch her, so piteous were her efforts to reclaim her father from death. Then the doctor's hands fell firmly upon her shoulders and he nodded to Nathaniel.

Nathaniel half led, half carried her into the drawing room, where she lay on the sofa shaking with heartbreaking sobs. He tried to talk to her but she seemed not to hear him.

It caught him unprepared with an evasion when she drew herself up suddenly and cried, "Niel, did you notice the awful expression on his face?"

Before he could stop himself Nathaniel had said yes.

"Do you . . . suppose someone did something to him?"

"Certainly not," he replied earnestly; "didn't you hear what Dr. Meyerling said? It was his heart, Virginia. He couldn't have suffered much; the end came quickly."

"I can't help thinking that something terrible happened to him," she persisted. "Oh, Niel, think of it . . . he might have been calling me . . . and I was dancing and having a good time."

"Virginia, you must not talk like that. Your father wouldn't like it."

"I can't help it. It's so ghastly to think of his going like that while we were so happy."

"Virginia, please. Here, Doctor, thank heaven you came in. Miss Brewster needs looking after."

"Send in the housekeeper," Dr. Meyerling directed Nathaniel. "We'll get this young lady to bed."

"I've given her an opiate," he told Nathaniel later.

Nathaniel looked at him oddly, then spoke as though he were somewhat ashamed of his words. "Was it altogether a . . . natural death, Doctor?" he asked.

BY MISS LEORA HAY

There's not a joy the world can give like that it takes away. When the glow of earthly thought declines in feeling's dull decay; 'Tis not on youth's smooth cheek that the tender bloom of fear is gone, but the blush alone, which fades so fast, ere youth itself be past.

Oh, could I feel as I have felt—or be what I have been. Or weep as I could once have wept o'er many a vanished scene:

As springs in desert found seem sweet, all bristled though they be, So 'midst the withered waste of life those tears would flow to me!

—George Gordon Byron; from Stanzas for Music.

Family Menus

BY SISTER MARY
BRREAKFAST—Shredded fresh pineapple, breakfast spinach and bacon, bran and raisin muffins, milk coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked orange cabbage beet and egg salad, new gelatine with sliced bananas, milk tea.

DINNER—Hot veal loaf, creamed potatoes, buttered string beans, carrot and romaine salad, almond ice cream, sponge cake, milk, coffee.

Very often a tomato or celery sauce adds much to a hot meat loaf. Many men seem to think meat loaves rather dry and tasteless but the sauce will correct this fault. A quick oven when the loaf is put in as well as thick coating of crumbs over the surface of the loaf tends to keep the loaf moist and tasty.

Almond ice cream is deliciously simple and unusual.
One cup blanched and shredded almonds, 2 cups double cream, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 cups milk, 1-8 teaspoon salt.

Spread almonds on a shallow pan and brown in a slow oven. Put through fine knife of food chopper. Heat cream in double boiler over hot water. Add sugar, gradually stirring constantly. Heat over hot water until sugar is melted. Add milk, nuts, and salt. Remove from heat and cool. Turn into mold, pack in six parts ice to one part salt and let stand four hours. Scrape sides of mold of freezer with a spatula several times while freezing to prevent sugar from setting to the bottom of the freezer.

Two Aged Women Found Beaten to Death in Beds

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15.—(AP)—The bodies of two aged women, beaten to death as they lay in bed, were discovered today at their cottage home on Maple street. A trunk had been pried open and officers advanced the theory that robbery had been the motive. The dead are Mrs. Belle Holmes 79, and Miss Kate Satterwhite, 72.

Dr. Roy L. Carter, coroner, said the condition of the bodies indicated the two women were slain Sunday night. Neighbors saw them last on Sunday evening when they attended church services at a nearby chapel. Post-mortem examinations will be conducted. The two women lived by themselves.

The bodies were discovered by Clarence B. Stephens, a nephew about 47 years old. He was questioned by police but not taken into custody.

Stephens told the officers that his mother, Mrs. Ella Stephens, a sister of the two slain women, had been ill for some time and that it had been his custom to call by the home of his aunts each morning and drive Mrs. Holmes to his house to attend her. On Monday morning, he said, he had found the door locked and had thought that his two aunts had gone to church. This morning, however, when he again was unable to gain admittance he became suspicious and broke into the house.

Oil Production in U. S. Reverses for the Current Week

TULSA, Okla., May 15.—(P)—With the productive West Texas fields setting the pace in reverse during the week ending May 12—just as they had set the pace in advance for several previous weeks—total daily average production of oil in the United States decreased 108,856 barrels during the seven-day period, the Oil and Gas Journal will say today. The decrease in light gravity oil production was 99,520 barrels, with the remainder of the decrease in heavy oil.

The West Texas production dropped from 406,318 barrels for the week ending May 5 to 305,435 barrels last week.

Oklahoma production also decreased during the week from 617,400 barrels to 613,050 barrels. This put it in third place for the week, as California production was estimated at 619,750 barrels. Total production of Texas in first place was approximately 695,900 barrels.

Seminole production decreased from 280,825 barrels to 278,805 barrels. All other major fields in the state had decreases of a few hundred barrels each.

The only large increase of the week was in the gulf coast fields, where daily average production increased 8,550 barrels of heavy crude, Arkansas heavy also increased about 1,000 barrels.

Editor to Jail

Because a Spanish editor printed this picture of Senorita Castellanos, fiancée of Dictator Primo de Rivera of Spain, the dictator, deeming the picture unjust to the lady's ankles, caused the editor's arrest, fined him $200 and suspended for three days publication of his journal. Well here's the picture (we haven't heard from Primo yet).

Siler Faulkner and son, Siler, Jr., returned Monday from Cordill, Okla., where they spent the week end with relatives.

There is little resemblance between the modern pilgrimage and the trip of the first Pilgrims to America. Gin and brandy were a part of the Mayflower's cargo and beer was the daily "washer down" of the "bacon, hard tack, salt beef, smoked herring and cheese" which was the fare of the marines en route to the land of plenty, but all alcoholic beverages have been tabooed by the congregational pilgrimage, in deference to the American prohibition laws and their own temperance ideas. Moreover, excellent cooks will provide viands beyond the skill of the pilgrim mother, with her simple "frying pan and kettle heated over a fire on a box of sand."

Bathrooms, wireless, phonographs, music and dancing, will be other features enjoyed aboard the "Celtic" which were missed by the early Pilgrims.

The modern pilgrimage was organized by the Rev. A. G. Sleep, secretary of the Colonial Missionary society, and a native of Plymouth, England, from which the Mayflower sailed 300 years ago. It was his association with the Port of the Pilgrim Fathers which sug-

Three Women Pastors Lead 1,200 British Pilgrims To Boston

Twelve hundred British Congregationalists are coming to visit places made historic by the Pilgrim Fathers and leading the pilgrimage, which leaves Liverpool for Boston June 2, are the Rev. Dorothy Wilson (left), the Rev. Mary Collins (upper right) and the Rev. Edith E. Pickles.

LIVERPOOL, England (P)—Three ordained women pastors, pioneers among women recruits to the ministry in England, are among the leaders of 1,200 modern pilgrims who soon will visit the New World.

The group, made up of members of the British Congregational church, will sail from Liverpool on June 2 in the White Star liner "Celtic", to follow the track of the Mayflower and visit places associated with the Pilgrim-Fathers.

The women leaders are the Rev. Mary Collins, pastor of the North Bow church in East London; the Rev. Edith Pickles, who has succeeded her husband as pastor of the Stanley Congregational church in Liverpool, and the Rev. Dorothy Wilson, who is assistant pastor of Carr's Lane church, Birmingham, one of the best known non-conformist churches in England.

gested the modern pilgrimage. His fellow organizer is the Rev. S. W. Berry, secretary of the Congregationalist Union and formerly pastor of the Carr's Lane church.

The party will land in Boston on June 11. At Plymouth, Mass., a service of re-dedication to the ideals of the Pilgrim Fathers will take place on the famous Plymouth Rock.

American Congregationalists will meet to welcome the visitors in Boston and in New York when distinguished Americans will address the audience.

It is expected that President Coolidge, who is a Congregationalist, will receive the party during their visit to the United States.

Charles H. Sharp, local building contractor, returned last night from an extended visit in Kansas City and Emporia, a.k.n. where he visited with relatives.
