Nixon On Campaign Trails In Michigan

BAD AXE, Mich. (UPI) — President Nixon flew to Michigan's "Thumb" area today for his first political campaign since 1972, a rural motorcade in behalf of a Republican congressional hopeful that also was a test of his own Watergate-scarred popularity.

Art Students Create 'City' From Letters

Students in Miss Sharon Fisk's art classes at Pampa Junior High School have been putting their art lessons to more use than just the usual objects and paintings that abound in art rooms at the junior high level.

Designing, building and painting over a large scale letters, the students have built a "city" in which they have visited the past couple of days.

Each of Miss Fisk's classes divided into several groups which designed and built the letters used in creating "Neon Rose," a way-out city located in her art room at PJHS.

The students have been working on the city for the past eight weeks, with over 400 hours of work going into its creation. Using luminous paint and black lights, with some electronic music in the background, the city offers quite a sight for the eyes.

The art students have been using the city Monday and Tuesday, with other classes having the opportunity to visit today and Thursday, before it is torn down for the Easter holidays.

Miss Fisk came up with the idea of building the city, but her students did most of the work and offered their own suggestions for the unit.

near Saginaw 80 miles northwest of Detroit at the start of a fast-moving visit. Some of the 11 towns on the agenda for his 4 1/2 hour visit are so small they do not even appear on state maps.

The President's bulletproof, bubbletop limousine was also flown from Washington for him to use in his tour of Michigan's 8th Congressional District to campaign for James M. Sparling Jr. who is facing Democrat Robert Traxler in a special election April 16.

The district has been a strong Republican area and Sparling is seeking to keep the seat in GOP hands. The seat was vacated when Republican James Harvey, who served since 1961, resigned to accept appointment as a U.S. district judge.

More than 5,000 persons, many of them school children on a special holiday, were among the airport welcoming crowd who turned out in sunny weather with the temperature in the 40s.

Signs attacking and supporting the President were in ample evidence. They included a 25-foot banner reading "God Love Nixon" and another reading "Nixon is the Nation's No. 1 Crook."

The welcoming committee at Tri-City Airport included Republican Gov. William G. Milliken and Sparling, but Milliken did not join Nixon in the motorcade. Instead he decided to go ahead with plans to attend a meeting in Toronto on water pollution.

In brief remarks on his arrival at Tri-City Airport, Nixon assailed what he called "the bottleneck in Congress" for not supporting his programs and called for the election of people who will work with him, such as Sparling.

Nixon mingled with members of five high school marching bands among the welcomers and after 33 minutes, boarded a helicopter and flew to Bad Axe.

Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., the minority whip, also greeted the President. Griffin has thrown his political weight behind the Sparling campaign in recent days and his staff members have been in the district helping to prepare for the presidential swing.

Nixon appeared in a jaunty mood as he boarded his plane at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., for the 90-minute flight to Michigan. He was accompanied by top aides, a speech writer, two White House physicians but not wife Pat, a usual companion. An aide said Michigan was a testing ground for Nixon and it was not necessary for the First Lady's presence.

Nixon's political foray will conspicuously avoid the two major blue collar cities of Saginaw and Bay City in the Michigan thumb area and will concentrate instead in small towns and villages where farmers have traditionally supported him.

The presidential motorcade will make a brief stop in Bad Axe and Cass City and will pass through the villages of Popple, Ivanhoe, Deford, Wilmet, Hemans, Decker, Snover, Elmer and the town of Sandusky.

Nixon's five point jump to 31 per cent in the Harris poll and his crowd appeal in Paris when he attended the funeral of French President Georges Pompidou has buoyed the White House.

White House To Provide Additional Tape Evidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says additional material requested by the House Judiciary Committee will be provided for its impeachment inquiry by the end of the month.

Peter Rodino, D-N.J., committee chairman, says it may be the end of June before there is a report.

President Nixon, through his attorney, sent word to Capitol Hill Tuesday that a review is under way of 41 additional tape recordings requested by the committee and should be completed by the end of the congressional Easter recess which runs to April 22.

At that time, the White House said it will furnish additional material, but it did not say how much, if any, of the extra information would be turned over. Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Tuesday the White House will "respond affirmatively to all requests for tapes and other material which it considers relevant."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today the time required for a member of the President's legal staff to sort through the tapes would delay any committee action. He said the average length of each tape is eight hours and it would require 336 hours of listening time to go through the tapes requested by the committee.

Rodino said the full House likely will get the committee report late in June. "We hope in the first week of May to take up the evidence concerning impeachment," Rodino said. "We may have to call other witnesses."

"I think it will be a matter of maybe a month or five weeks or so before we complete the committee work. So I hope some time in late June it will be ready to go to the House. But we are going to do it as expeditiously as we possibly can."

Scott said one of the President's lawyers has been assigned to monitor the tapes but added that he has "suggested that they assign more people to the task."

To illustrate the time-consuming chore, Scott said it took one person a full day to decipher only six minutes of one tape. He said it took that long "to find out who was saying what to whom."

Rodino's committee has asked Nixon to surrender 41 additional secret tapes and last Thursday demanded a reply no later than Tuesday.

The President has directed me to advise you that a review of the materials in question is under way," Nixon's chief lawyer, James D. St. Clair, wrote committee counsel John Doar.

"We expect that the review can be completed by the end of the Easter recess and that the additional materials furnished at that time will permit the committee to complete its inquiry promptly."

Congress is scheduled to recess for the Easter holiday this Thursday and not return until April 22.

Though Rodino's committee has specifically set forth what it wants from the White House and why, St. Clair's letter gave no indication whether Nixon intends to surrender any or all of the requested materials.

It appeared to imply, however, Nixon intends to decide for himself what to give the committee.

ON DRUG CHARGE

Court Approves Motion To Suppress Evidence

By CLAY LIVELY

A motion to suppress evidence in the felony possession of marijuana case of The State of Texas vs. Louis Darrell Males, et al. was granted yesterday in 31st District Court by Judge Grainger McElhaney.

The motion to suppress the evidence held that no probable cause to search a private residence without a search warrant was shown by the facts in the case.

Charges of possession of marijuana in the matter arose during the investigation on Jan. 30 this year of a reported shooting incident in the 800 block of E. Jordan in Pampa.

Arrested and charged at that time were Males, 23; Thomas Dale Bevel, 21; Curtis Don Peercy, 19; Karen Denise Hughes, 17, all of 811 Jordan, and Vernon Howard Paulson, 18, 1001 E. Francis.

According to the police report in the incident, 64 baggies of suspected marijuana and two small containers, a jar and a can, also containing suspected marijuana, were found during a search of the 811 Jordan residence.

A laboratory report from the Department of Public Safety in Lubbock confirmed that the substance found at the residence was in fact marijuana in excess of 850 grams.

Following the filing of the motion to suppress evidence in the case by defense attorney Rowdy Bowers, Judge McElhaney heard testimony from R.B. Nichols and H. Joe Grimes, two of the three officers involved in the arrests of the five defendants.

Bryan L. Stafford, the third officer involved in the arrests, was reportedly sick yesterday and not able to testify.

Stafford filed the report in the case and was, according to the testimony of the other two officers, the lead officer in the investigation of the alleged shooting incident.

Testimony indicated that Stafford was the first officer to enter the residence at the time the arrests were made.

No evidence was offered that those in the house consented to the search.

After hearing the testimony of Nichols and Grimes, McElhaney ruled in favor of the defense motion to suppress evidence.

He ruled that because, according to the police report, the officers were investigating an unverified report that a shot had been fired outside in the 800 block of Jordan, there was no probable cause for a warrantless search of the residence to have taken place.

District Attorney Guy Hardin told the court he had no evidence other than the actual marijuana itself to introduce in the case.

A motion for dismissal is expected to be filed in the case in the next few days, court sources said.

Hightower Visiting In Panhandle Area

State Senator Jack Hightower (D-Vernon) was in the north Panhandle area today on his stretch run for a seat in Congress from the 13th District and criticized "me-too government" as he visited Dalhart, Stratford, Gruver and Spearman.

At each stop the Democratic candidate declared that "The Panhandle and Northwest Texas need a Congressman who can get things done on his own initiative rather than waiting for the leadership of either political party to blow the starting whistle."

"A lot of Congressmen practice me-too government," Hightower said. "They are told the party line and they never have enough nerve to depart from it. The incumbent Republican Congressman from the 13th District has caught this kind of Potomac fever."

"I don't think a party line is as important as representing the interests of the people of this district wherever they lie," Hightower said.

"I believe the Congressman from this area ought to be fighting every day for a workable state and federal program to provide water for West Texas. He ought to be fighting every day for the fertilizer, fuel and other supplies the farmers and ranchers need — at reasonable prices."

Hightower campaigned Monday in Burk Burnett and Henrietta. He appeared Tuesday in Bushland, Vega, Adrian, Channing, Hartley and Tuxline. He is planning to come to Pampa next Tuesday afternoon.

ENERGY CHIEF PREDICTS Enough Gasoline Ready For Summer Vacations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy chief William E. Simon said today there will be enough gasoline available for Americans to take their normal summer trips this year.

Simon said that with rapidly improving gasoline supplies—as oil is again reaching this country from the Middle East—the situation has returned to "near normal."

"As the supplies again begin to land on this shore, we'll have a sufficiency of gasoline with the production levels that have been established certainly by the end of May," Simon said.

Simon also predicted that first quarter profits of major oil companies will be so high as to be "embarrassing" to them when compared to the first three months of 1973.

Simon was asked to comment during an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show on a statement by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that oil company profits would be "obscene."

"I don't think that I'd use that adjective," Simon said. "I would say that in the traditional way of financial reporting as compared to the first quarter of last year that they're going to be embarrassing (because) of the gasoline shortfall and the experience that the American people have had. But ... we have to sit back and take a look at how the oil company profits have measured against all other companies over a long period of time and you'll see that they fall in the middle range."

As for gasoline supplies, he said: "If the American people continue to abide by normal conservation practices, we'll be able to live in a normal fashion."

Simon said he was "encouraging the American people to take a normal summer vacation, not to postpone going to New England or down to Florida if that has been their traditional practice. There is going to be gasoline out there."

But he cautioned that it is going to cost more to go on the trips because "prices are going to be higher, especially among gasoline stations that rely on foreign imports."

Simon told the House Legal and Monetary Affairs subcommittee Tuesday that the oil embargo may have been a good thing because it crystallized concern for energy problems that had been neglected for years.

"The embargo came at precisely the right time ... at a time when the seriousness of the energy problem was a matter of debate—and it made all of us realize that it's a fact, not a question," Simon told the House legal and monetary affairs subcommittee.

"A few years earlier and we would have dismissed it as an unimportant inconvenience. A few years later and its impact would have been too large for any federal program to avoid or alleviate."

The Federal Energy Office reported Tuesday the first major shipment of Mideast oil since the lifting of the oil embargo had arrived at Norfolk, Va. It totaled 344,000 barrels.

FEO also reported that oil production in Saudi Arabia now was 8.3 million barrels a day—higher than before the embargo—and might go to 11 million daily by next year.

Golda's Party Faces Ouster In Government

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir's cabinet crisis worsened today with demands for the ouster of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan spreading beyond her Labor party and threatening to topple her government, political sources said.

Dayan has come under fire in the controversy over who is responsible for Israel's lack of preparedness for the Arab attack in the October war. There also have been calls for the resignation of Mrs. Meir's entire government.

The three factions within the Labor party planned further intensive meetings during the day in efforts to heal the rift over Dayan that has spread to Mrs. Meir's leftwing alignment partner, Mapam. Her Labor party dominates the alignment.

The national radio said Mapam leaders were demanding that Dayan resign.

"The crisis cannot be solved so long as Dayan remains defense minister," it quoted Mapam leader Ya'akov Hazan as saying.

Dayan's Rafal faction has refused to allow him to be singled out as the scapegoat and has threatened to pull out of the government coalition if he is forced to resign.

The Independent Liberal party (ILP), the junior partner in the coalition government, will be asked to support ousting Dayan from the defense ministry but keeping the government intact, the Jerusalem Post said.

The alignment, the ILP and the National Religious party (NRP), the major coalition partner, form Mrs. Meir's government. It controls 68 of the 120 seats in the Knesset, a majority so slim that a walkout by any one partner or faction within the Labor party could topple the government.

Mansfield Expects Election Plan Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield expects a vote on the bill for public financing of federal election campaigns before the Easter recess Thursday, now that the Senate has cut off debate on the measure.

The Senate voted, 64 to 30, for cloture Tuesday, one more vote than the needed two-thirds majority for ending talk about the bill. It was only the 17th time since the Senate instituted cloture 57 years ago the chamber has invoked it.

Under the rules, amendments pending prior to cloture—and there are about 80—may be called up for a vote, but not debated prior to the final vote on the whole bill.

The rules permit each member to speak on the bill for one hour—which could mean a total of 100 hours—but few are expected to exercise the privilege.

Mansfield indicated the cloture breakthrough could lead to a vote before the recess. The Senate will reconvene April 22.

An earlier attempt to invoke cloture to shut off a filibuster by opponents of the bill failed by four votes on March 27.

each eligible voter in the district in general elections. New candidates would have to collect a "threshold fund" of $10,000 in contributions of $100 or less to prove their seriousness, before becoming eligible for the public financing.

Individuals would be limited to a $3,000 contribution to any single candidate, and organizations could donate only $6,000 to a candidate.

The Senate voted, 66-23, Tuesday to table an amendment proposed by Sens. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill.; Peter V. Domenici, R-N.M.; Robert Taft, Jr., R-Ohio, which would reduce the maximum public financing share of campaigns to 70 per cent in presidential elections and 62.5 per cent in congressional general elections.

Earlier the Senate voted 46-43 for an amendment by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., reducing to eight and 12 cents per voter the subsidies in primary and general elections, respectively, from the 10 and 15 cents in the original bill.

Test Slated For Sirens

Pampa's disaster warning system will be given a full-blown test at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today, with the tornado season at hand, all eight alert sirens will be tested simultaneously to determine if they are functioning properly.

Wofford said the test will consist of a 30 to 60-second level blast of all eight sirens starting promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

An inspection unit will be in each of the eight areas to check the alert alarms, the city manager said.

Wofford reminded Pampans that the blasting of the sirens is intended only as a test and is not to be construed as an actual disaster alert.

VOICE OF BUSINESS

New Left Threatens Attitudes Of Students

By ARCH BOOTH
Executive Vice President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON — The New Left seems to be acquiring one quality it has so conspicuously lacked: subtlety.

"If we expect to be listened to," they have learned, "we have to take a fresh look and build our own plan, abandoning all the old sacred texts on what is to be done."

I have on my desk a packet of material from an outfit calling itself the "Peoples Bicentennial Commission." The pamphlets and tabloid-style newspapers it contains are well designed and, for the most part, skillfully written.

The illustrations are illustrations we associate with the American Revolution. Some of the rhetoric is rhetoric of the American Revolution. And yet...

Let me give you a little of the flavor of this material. From their publication entitled "Student and Teacher Programs for a Peoples Bicentennial":

"In the end, the patriots of 1776 should teach us not only patience, but that revolutionizing individual institutions in society without a societal revolution is meaningless."

Three guesses what they have in mind by "societal revolution."

Elsewhere in the same publication, high school students are advised to issue "a Declaration of Student Independence to dramatize the oppression common to all students."

Get The Principal! Students are also given helpful "how to" hints on taking over the school newspapers, coercing the school administration and faculty, and dominating the selection of textbooks.

Put so bluntly, this outfit's program may sound ludicrous. Unfortunately, it is far from that. It is propaganda as skillful as any I've seen. So well done is the material that if one of your children brought it home from school and you just glanced at it, you would probably notice nothing wrong.

Further, the reasoning — though specious — has a

Easter Rabbits In A Decline?

CHICAGO (UPI) — In this season of the Easter Bunny, official notice has been taken of a decline of rabbits.

But shucks, you say, if there is a rabbit shortage all we have to do is wait a while, such is their reproductive ability.

This biological truth, however, is swiftly being reduced to a theory. Your typical cottontail doe can produce six to nine bunnies every few weeks — the gestation period is 30 days — but she is downright particular about where she produces them.

According to the Illinois Natural History Survey, which this week brought the rabbit decline to public attention, cottontails require "favorable habitat" to multiply in their accustomed style. And in Illinois, as everywhere else, the bulldozers have been closing in on the rabbit warrens.

In Illinois alone, according to the survey experts, there was a decline of almost 5 million acres of "favorable habitat" in one recent four-year period.

During this period, the experts said, the rabbit population dropped 69 per cent. And the trend lines in all parts of the country indicate a continued rise in bulldozing, a steady depletion of rabbits.

Surely, you say, some group will discover the plight of the cottontail and rush to protect these creatures. Don't bet on it.

The ordinary rabbit has few real friends. And practically everything is his enemy. Among predators, rabbit is a favorite food. Coyotes, according to a Nebraska study a few years ago, prefer them to chicken. And whatever his reputation for speed, dogs and cats seem to have no trouble outflanking the average cottontail.

It turns out that of all his enemies, the one most dangerous to the rabbit way of life is the farmer.

surface plausibility that will appeal to the gullible and the unsophisticated. The "rights" of school students, for example, are compared unfavorably to those of adult citizens.

The propaganda is not all aimed at students. There is a little something for everyone. Society's very real problems are cited as proof that Americans are "oppressed" by a conspiracy of the rich and the powerful.

According to leftist theory, people who work to alleviate these problems are at best fools and at worst traitors to the true cause, because the problems are an inherent part of an evil system and can be cured only by changing the system. Therefore, says the Peoples Bicentennial Commission, let's "continue" with the American Revolution.

Who Pays For It? The P.B.C. material is heavily larded with quotations from the Founding Fathers and their contemporaries, most of them carefully selected to create an impression that the old boys were really a fire-breathing bunch of egalitarian collectivists.

Ironically, the U.S. taxpayer evidently footed the bill for at least some of the research on this project.

The P.B.C. received a small ($7,210) grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, a federal agency, in the summer of 1972, for scholarly research on "the views of the non-leadership element of the American people during the period of the American Revolutionary War."

I can't really fault the National Endowment, however, for two reasons: First, I don't think its staff had any idea what the "young scholars" who received the grant planned to do with the fruits of their research. Second, $7,210 wouldn't buy much of the kind of material the P.B.C. is offering. The group is obviously well founded.

Where it comes from would be interesting to know.

The ultimate irony is that the "young scholar's" research does not go far enough back into our past to tell them what they really need to know.

Go all the way back and you learn that both the Jamestown and Plymouth colonies began as communes of a sort. It didn't work — it never has — and to save themselves they tried a genuinely radical idea: economic freedom.

That worked.

Keep an eye out for the P.B.C.'s material in your community — especially the schools. Don't make martyrs out of them by overreacting. They'd like that.

Just demand that partisan political propaganda in the schools be labeled as such, and that none of it be distributed or otherwise subsidized at public expense. Be prepared for attempts to take over, or otherwise disrupt, Bicentennial events in your community.

The P.B.C. hands out a yellow lapel button with a symbol that was used on several flags of the Revolutionary War era. The symbol is a coiled rattlesnake. It fits.

NAMED CHAIRMAN — William Jarrell Smith, left, is presented a plaque by W.L. Loving, first vice president of the Pampa Environmental Beautification Foundation, in recognition of his efforts in forming the organization. He was appointed to the chairmanship of the Foundation in honor of his service.

Beautification Foundation Honors Group's Founder

William Jarrell Smith was honored with a recognition plaque and appointment to the chairmanship of the Pampa Environmental Beautification Foundation Monday afternoon. Making the plaque presentation on behalf of the PEBF was W.L. Loving, first vice president.

The plaque was engraved with the following tribute:

Presented to William Jarrell Smith by the Pampa Environmental Beautification Foundation in recognition of his contribution and distinguished service to this organization in its efforts to make Pampa a more beautiful city. Presented this 8th day of April, 1974, by its Board of Directors.

Smith founded the PEBF as a tax-exempt foundation for the purpose of "creating a vehicle for the beautification of parks, streets, and public places in Pampa and its environs."

The Foundation was launched with funds from the M.K. Brown and Gray-Pampa Foundations. Smith is secretary-treasurer of the M.K. Brown Foundation and E.L. Green is chairman of the Gray-Pampa Foundation.

Both Foundations are contributing $10,000 toward the $15,000 required on the landscaping project at M.K. Brown Auditorium. The PEBF is contributing $1,000 to the landscaping project, and Pampa residents and organizations are asked to make contributions to complete the project.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. James Malone, president of the Pampa Garden Club, or Mrs. Thelma Bray, president of the PEBF.

Present at the Monday presentation honoring Smith were officers of the PEBF: Mrs. Bray, Loving, Kirk Duncan, Mrs. W.R. Campbell, Mrs. John Gattis, Mrs. Wallace Birkes, and Green.

Albert Criticizes Nixon's Policy On U.S. Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert Tuesday charged President Nixon with standing "idly by as stagnation engulfs the economy and millions of workers lose their jobs."

Albert told a news conference Nixon's handling of the economy has been "disastrous" for the 95 per cent of Americans who depend on their jobs and pay checks for income and security.

He said no matter what the President said about "no recession in 1974," the American people clearly feel the nation is in a recession.

"The effect of rapid price increases at a time of declining production and rising unemployment has been severe, documenting the administration's glaring failures," Albert said.

"Meanwhile, the Nixon administration stands idly by as stagnation engulfs the economy and millions of worker lose their jobs."

Albert, an Oklahoma Democrat, said his charge was not a "political salvo."

"It's not a campaign salvo," he said. "It's a report to the nation on what we in the Congress, on the Democratic side, think of the status of the economy."

Albert accused the administration of shifting $10 billion from the "pockets of the poor and middle income families to the pockets of the rich" with his economic policies.

He said Nixon, not the Democratic-controlled Congress, was to blame for the economy.

"Time and time again congressional efforts to move this country forward have been frustrated by vetoes, impoundments and dismantling of programs," he said. "Much more could be done to get this nation moving again."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sophia Loren will make her television drama debut next season in "Brief Encounter," a Noel Coward play that tells a poignant love story and was notably done by the movies years ago. It will be a Hallmark production on NBC. The film version has been seen a number of times on television over the years.

Some anniversaries: The CBS daytime serial, "As the World Turns," began its 19th year on April 2. NBC's "The Doctors" serial celebrated its 11th anniversary April 1. Original cast members still playing the roles they created for "As the World Turns" are Don Star Raymond Burr and "Ironside" will be back with NBC for their eighth season beginning in the fall. Burr is creeping up steadily on his run in the original "Perry Mason" series, in which he appeared for something like 12 years and which is still aired on many stations as a syndicated rerun. A dozen writers are turning out next season's "Ironside" scripts.

Walter Slezak, who has been living in Switzerland for several years, came back recently to appear in four episodes of ABC's daytime serial, "One Life to Live," with daughter Erica Slezak a regular member of the cast. Erica also is in the cast of the revival of Somerset Maugham's "The Circle" at the Roundabout Theater.

DEAR ABBY: As my husband and I were preparing to make a trip to Europe by air, one of my so-called dearest friends came to me and asked me if I would please get a $50,000 airplane insurance policy naming her as the beneficiary. She said she would gladly pay for the insurance. I was shocked to say the least. What do you think of such a suggestion from a supposed loving friend? I'd really like your opinion. PEACHES

DEAR PEACHES: Let me put it this way: If this "loving friend" invited me to her home for dinner, I'd wonder who she was loving, and I'd also take a food-taster along.

DEAR ABBY: It's a cinch you've never been to Alaska, otherwise you never would have told that 45-year-old woman who was hunting for you there.

There are no extra marriageable men here, plus jobs are scarce and prices are double. You should have told her not to go to Alaska unless she had a round-trip ticket and plenty of money. She's too old to be a go-go dancer. ERMA IN ANCHORAGE

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I was hospitalized for a heart condition, and upon release, my doctor told me I had to take it easy.

My son, his wife and their three very active young children are neighbors to us, and the children are here more than they are at home. They wear me out, but I can't bring myself to send them home.

My husband hired a housekeeper to help me the last few weeks, but my daughter-in-law has begun to "borrow" her, so once again I am alone with those undisciplined children.

My daughter-in-law is a good girl, and I'm sure she doesn't realize the toll the children take on me. She's also very sensitive. My son tried talking to her about letting the children spend so much time at my house unsupervised, but she ended up in tears, all upset, and the next day they were back.

How can I handle this without hurting anyone? I love them all very much. NAMELESS, OF COURSE

DEAR NAMELESS: First, tell your housekeeper that she is not to be "borrowed" by your daughter-in-law. Then tell your daughter-in-law to please quit commanding your help—that you love her and the kiddies, but you aren't up to having them over unless she is there to discipline them. Don't worry about her ending up in tears. Better that than you ending up in a box—before your time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED AND WAITING IN N.J.: The answer is YES! See a physician at once. And if you can't get an appointment immediately or can't afford one, contact your public health department and tell them what you have told me. And do not wait another day!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

THURSDAY, APRIL 11
 Your birthday today: Simplicity becomes a goal in your daily living. Unproductive activities and habits run their course, come now to choice or crisis. Regular meditation brings the guidance for making transitions to a better way of life. Relationships are tested so that you know where you stand. Today's natives are active workers of the sort who set particular goals and pursue them consistently.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Recovery from recent stress begins. Be wary of continuing impatience—the basic situation has changed a bit, give everybody a chance to respond.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Reach agreement before joint ventures are launched. If you submit a thriving enterprise, you win a point of encouragement from usually hard-to-reach people.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Pay little attention to words, a great deal to actions: Allow time for patterns to emerge. Your work should stand regardless of unsolicited opinions.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Come directly to terms. See precisely where you are in the scheme of things. Opposition, where you find it, has a real basis you need to know about.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Original ideas pop up, along with new formulations of very old ones. Social activity is clouded by momentary disension; you needn't involve yourself.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Today's incidents promise drama, crisp memories for future reference. Postpone social events where they conflict with business.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your easiest path today runs to temperament, extremes of demand. Take a more austere approach for better effects, favorable hearings at all levels.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Opportunity for greater earning power is at hand. Do not boast of your backers. Let your reputation rest on the visible result of your own work.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Expect a contrary opinion, prepare to cope with it without animosity. Powerful friends are helping you behind the scenes—don't let them down!

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There's much to do and little time for the doing, high rewards for good work. Caution with appliances, anything mechanical is indicated.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't get involved in speculative schemes provided by associates as matters of special privilege. Seek new personal and professional contacts where you can find them.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Financial improvement is feasible today. Family and individual projects tend to compete with career; little is achieved by interrupting serious work.

Miami Couple Repeat Vows

MIAMI — The marriage of Mrs. Miles O'Loughlin of Miami and John Morris of White Deer was solemnized Sunday, March 31, at 6 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Miami. The Rev. Tommy Ewing of Miami and the Rev. Marvin Roark of White Deer officiated for the double ceremony. Mrs. Max Faulkner, organist, played wedding selections and accompanied Bob Burgoon as he sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with a 15-branched candelabrum holding white tapers, flanked by two basket arrangements of mixed spring flowers. Pink bows and greenery marked the church pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her son, Miles O'Loughlin, III, of Austin, wore a formal length gown of turquoise chiffon, styled with a natural waistline, jewel neckline, tucked bodice and long tapered sleeves. She wore a turquoise halo hat, and carried a bridal nosegay of pink sweetheart roses. She also wore a diamond cluster pendant, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Tara Morris of Houston, granddaughter of the bridegroom, served as junior bridesmaid. She wore a pink dotted swiss floor length gown, styled with a round neckline and natural waistline. She carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses.

Blake Morris of Houston, grandson of the bridegroom, served as best man. Kipp Lester of Pampa, grandson of the bridegroom, lighted the altar candles and Kurt Lester of Pampa, grandson of the bridegroom, and Dennis O'Loughlin of Austin, grandson of the bride, served as ringbearers.

Ushers were Terry Morris of Houston and Allen Morris of Austin, both sons of the bridegroom; Thomas Lester of Pampa, son-in-law of the bridegroom; and Thomas O'Loughlin of Miami, nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Miles O'Loughlin, III, of Austin, daughter-in-law of the bride, presided at the guest register.

The wedding reception was held in Fellowship hall of the church. The serving table was centered with an arrangement of mixed spring flowers and candles. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink roses and musical staffs, flanked by four heart shaped cakes, and topped with a pair of white love birds.

Mrs. Thomas Lester of Pampa, daughter of the bridegroom, served the cake and Mrs. Terry Morris of Houston, daughter-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Jamie Dale of Fritch, assisted at the punch bowl.

The bride has a M.A. degree from West Texas State University, and is a music instructor in the Miami school system.

The bridegroom has a M.A. degree from North Texas State University. He is a retired school administrator and presently serving as a Commissioner of Carson County.

They will reside in White Deer.

Out-of-town guests attending were: Messrs. and Mmes.: Elton Vance, B.A. Williams, J.R. McMurtry, Richard Mills, Marvin Milikien, Neal Dale and Jamie, Sam Lester, Felix W. Ryals, Sam Mills, Alfred Bell, Fred Richmond, Albert Thomas, W.C. Powers, R.T. Laurie, Jack Meeker, Thomas H. Lester, Kipp and Kurt, Terry Morris, Blake and Tara, Rev. and Mrs. M.L. Roark, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morris, and Rick Youngberg.

Pre-School Children Target For Immunizations

COLLEGE STATION — A probability of epidemics increases as fewer pre-school children are immunized against preventable communicable diseases, one authority warns.

"In Texas, vaccines have reduced cases of communicable diseases, but the proportion of adequately immunized pre-schoolers is declining — causing great concern," Dr. Barbara A. Sears noted.

The health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, cited figures from a recent American Medical Association report.

"In 1964, the U.S. Immunization Survey revealed that 88 per cent of pre-school children, ages one to four, had received three or more doses of polio vaccine.

"By 1972, the figure dropped to 63 per cent — the lowest in 15 years."

Far too many parents — including those in higher income brackets — wait until their children start school to "get their shots," she continued.

"If all children — including pre-schoolers — received complete immunizations, diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella (German measles), tetanus and pertussis (whooping cough) could be virtually eliminated."

Texas school children, Dr. Sears pointed out, have excellent protection against these diseases — largely because of mandatory school immunization law.

"Since the U.S. has been relatively free from preventable communicable diseases for the last decade. Despite heavy balloting, no player was elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame in 1971. No player achieved the necessary 75 per cent of the vote.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In duplicate bridge, where everybody plays the identical deals, when one arrives at an inferior game contract on his own power, and goes down, he invariably gets a poor score. The reason is that a few of the other pairs will usually fulfill the same game contract, either by brilliance or by a defender's mistake. And a few others will stay at a part score contract on the same cards, thus obtaining a plus score instead of a minus score.

And so when one voluntarily arrives at a game contract that seems doomed to defeat, he goes all out to make the contract even if he runs the risk of being slaughtered if his plan of attack fails. Such was the case in today's deal.

North-South vulnerable. South deals.

 ♦ K 10 9 7

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1♥ Pass 1♣ Pass
 1NT Pass 3NT Pass
 Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♣.

South's rebid of one notrump was a poor choice. He should have bid two diamonds. Had he done so, he probably would have arrived at the superior contract of four hearts.

When the dummy came into view, South saw that he would be defeated if the opponents could diagnose the exact set-up correctly. His only legitimate chance of fulfilling his contract was if either opponent possessed the doubleton Q-J of spades. In this situation, five spade tricks would be made. But South knew that the possibility of this precise distribution existing was very slim.

So he grasped at his sole hope. He won the opening club lead with the board's ace and promptly led the diamond jack. When East played low, South put up his king. When the king won the trick, South had his contract (for a poor score as it turned out, since most of the other North-South pairs reached a four-heart contract making at least 10 tricks).

Had East put up the diamond ace at trick two, and returned a club, declarer would have gone down two tricks. But how could East have known the true situation? And if West had the diamond ace, South would have gone down three tricks, losing five clubs and two diamonds. But declarer really had no option except to live dangerously.

TOPS TX-149 Holds Officer Installation

The installation of officers for TOPS TX-149 was held recently in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Company. The impressive ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Elmer Williams.

Officers installed were the leader, Mrs. Archie Chisum; co-leader, Mrs. Leon Brown; secretary, Mrs. Floyd George; weight recorder, Mrs. W.F. Gaines; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Richard Bichsel; and reporter, Mrs. Vern Wyatt.

Division winner honored for the year were Mrs. Floyd George, in Division 4, for most pounds lost in that division, and also the member losing the most pounds for the year. Honored in Division 3 was Mrs. W.F. Gaines. Also honored, for long standing in TOPS, were Mrs. Robert Rick and Mrs. Wayne Brown. These are members who have reached their weight goals and maintained it by keeping off pounds sensibly. This is the goal all members strive to attain.

Mrs. Leon Brown was recognized for losing the most pounds for the week. Secret pals were revealed with a gift exchange.

Easter Eggs

COLLEGE STATION — Easter eggs come as brightly decorated shells with lots of nutrients inside, one expert noted this week.

Dr. David B. Mellor, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, emphasized the nutrition and value of eggs.

"Even at today's prices, they offer one of the best protein food buys." Turning to decorations, the specialist said that few people across the nation decorate eggs as elaborately as some cultures.

"Most simply tint hard-cooked eggs — which are best for decorating — with food coloring and add a few stick-on decorations." Dr. Mellor suggested the following method to hard-cook eggs.

"Cover a pan of water and bring to a boil. While waiting for it to boil, place eggs in lukewarm water — to warm them and help prevent cracked shells. Transfer eggs carefully from lukewarm water to the boiling water. Reduce heat immediately. Cook eggs for 18-20 minutes."

Higher temperatures or longer cooking time may cause egg white (albumen) to lose its tender texture and become rubbery, he explained.

"When cooking time is up, remove eggs from simmering water. Place under cold running water (60 degrees F. or less) until cool."

"Minimized cooking time, combined with immediate cooling after cooking prevents an unattractive green ring from forming around the yolk. "Although harmless, this discoloration results when iron in the egg white reacts with sulfur in the yolk — forming iron sulfide."

Besides yolk discoloration, some people have problems peeling eggs. "The main reason for this stems from the rapid movement of today's eggs to market."

"The fresher an egg, the more tightly its shell clings to the egg white."

To peel an egg, the specialist suggested first to crackle the shell. "To do this, tap it to crack the shell. Then roll the egg on a board — or in your hands — to break its shell into many tiny pieces."

Also, peel an egg from the large end, he advised.

"To aid in shell removal, consider placing the egg under running water while peeling it."

The fashion message from Lady Madonna is keyed to "easy." Some samples: —The easy dresses. Loose tent shapes, with self belts or fitted at the new waistline.

—The easy tops. Soft smocks with self-belts or adjustable tie backs. Sleeves are wider. The easy pants. Softer shapes with elasticized waists, and new drawstring pants. Evening pajama sets with soft, wrap or kimono tops.

Fabrics are soft and include gauzy Indian cloth; light, softly printed voiles; sensual, jersey knits; delicately textured crepes in nostalgic prints.

Guaranteed Troublemaker

Of all the ideas dreamed up by men, the concept of common, or communal, or collective, or public ownership of property is, by far, the most pernicious and disruptive of social peace and tranquility and destructive of economic prosperity.

Nor is it difficult to understand why.

In the first place, the collective, regardless of what one may call it, does not really exist; it is an abstraction. An abstraction cannot own anything. Ownership is a reality limited to real life people.

In the second place, ownership of any one thing by more than one person is an utter impossibility. Ownership without control of that owned is not ownership at all. And when two or more individuals claim title to the same item of property, neither of them exert control; although both, of a certainty, will try. Herein lies the root of social conflict. One can observe it at work in its simplest form in the bickering of two children over a "commonly owned" toy. For it is only human nature to want to control the use of that which is owned. If the concept of "common property" will not work with respect to two children within the love and fraternity of a family, how can it be expected to work when the number of "owners" is increased to thousands and millions? Plainly it can't. The more "owners," the greater the certainty of conflict grows.

Here lies, also, the root of poverty. Observe:

Paper: An Energy Mine

Paper is a highly energy-intensive product.

That bit of information was called to our attention by the National Federation of Independent Business, Inc.

Energy-intensive means it takes a lot of juice to turn wood pulp into stationery.

From that point, the federation takes the logical next step. If the decision-makers in federal agencies truly desire to save energy, why don't they do something to reduce the tons of paper that bureaucracy consumes and causes private industry to consume?

Senator Thomas McIntyre of New Hampshire estimates that the agencies require small business to use up 10 billion sheets of paper for needlessly duplicated reports, every year. On the average—10 billion sheets are equivalent to 200,000 tons.

And that paper burden is only one tiny segment of the total imposed.

Think what the feds could accomplish if they audited their paper requirements from top to bottom. They might save enough energy that the rest of us could have fuel to drive to work, or even for an occasional restful spin in the country.

OUTRIDER

Presidential Tentativeness

By GARRY WILLS

At one of his recent press conferences, the President said an astonishing thing. This: "For the first time, on March 21, he (John Deane) told me that payments had been made to defendants for the purpose of keeping them quiet." This was not, then, a case of something that "would be" wrong. It was something that had occurred, and was wrong — was, in fact, criminal.

A man on the President's staff was telling the President of the United States that members of that same staff had been engaged in criminal activities. What did the President do? He is a civil officer pledged by oath to uphold the law. Did he pick up the phone and tell his Attorney General to apprehend and punish those responsible for the crime? Did he even ask who was responsible? Did he fire anyone? Did he threaten to fire anyone? Apparently not. He tells us he considered the options "on a tentative basis."

Very tentative, no doubt. So tentative that he admits various people could come away with various interpretations of what was intended in that conversation. But those who heard him had no doubt what was intended. The President not only did not get action taken against the crime he had discussed; the crime was, instead, repeated within twelve hours. How can that be? The President says he still does not know that. "I have no information as to when a payment was made." He was not only tentative in his talk, but incurious as to its result — even now, a year later, he has "no information" on a subject of consuming interest to everyone in the nation but, apparently, him.

Mr. Nixon "directed that Mr. Haldeman, Ehrlichman, and Mr. Dean and Mitchell, who was then in New York, meet in Washington that evening if possible." The words suggest haste, concern, and urgency — but what was the aim of this meeting? To find the criminals, to punish the crime? No. It was, in that odd repeated White House phrase, to "find what would be the best way to get the whole story out." What "story"? The President was now aware, he tells us, that hush money had been paid. The White House did not volunteer that information, rapidly, slowly, or at all. It did not report the crime to proper authorities. On the contrary, it casually allowed, if it did not actively direct, a repetition of the crime.

Apparently none of those who were urgently told to assemble "misunderstood" Mr. Nixon in the sense which, he claims, any fair-minded person would now find in his conversation. "Getting the story out," obviously meant, to those who assembled after the conversation, making up a story that would be plausible while covering over the facts. That is the interpretation the Grand Jury has taken in its indictment of those who are accused of the cover-up. Yet Mr. Nixon is asking us to believe not only that the Grand Jury misunderstood him, but that his own intimates and highest officers also misunderstood, and that he did not bother to correct them, or even to know enough to realize they were in need of correction.

He hears about a crime; calls an urgent meeting of those in the best position to prevent the crime from happening again; and the crime immediately happens again — yet Mr. Nixon, whatever the urgency of the meeting he had called, does not know or, even now, care that the crime reoccurred. This sequence of events is not tentative, dubious, or open to equal and opposite interpretations. It is clear that the urgency was never felt toward protecting the Constitution, but toward saving the President's skin. He expects us to be decisively exculpatory while he is only tentatively law-abiding. Why?

You save a billion here, a billion there, and the first thing you know, it mounts up.

U.S. Chamber of Commerce

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

"O.K. — I'm going to take this rope off, and I just hope you've learned your lesson."

INSIDE LABOR

World Terrorist Conspiracy

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — When first I visited an Argentine labor headquarters, not too long ago, I was asked to wait for the president. He'd be in shortly. I took a chair by the window. In he came. First thing the Buenos Aires union chief did was to grab my arm. Then he pushed me into a chair with its back to the wall. No sense, said he, making yourself a target.

Those were the days when the revolutionaries contented themselves with an occasional rifle shot. Or with threatening to burn down the huge paint shop of a Cordoba auto plant. When I got there the "grievance" was settled.

Since then, as Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has just warned, the revolution has become an international conspiracy.

At least 120 political kidnappings have occurred since Jan. 1, 1973, in the Argentine alone. Almost $30 million has been paid in ransom. Many others have been "executed" by hit-and-run people's revolutionary armies — gun squads — killed on the streets have been an executive of a zipper plant and, on March 22, the retired head of the construction workers union.

There is no genesis. These "armies" just spring up. They splinter, sliver, fraction and use automatic weapons where once the ideologists used texts and dialectics.

Bill Saxbe, whatever else he says, undoubtedly referred to a special volume when he spoke of American neo-revolutionists "taking this right out of some Maoist doctrinal textbooks on how to operate in terrorism and other forms of civil disturbance." And the text of which he spoke is the grim work of a "field marshal" of Eldridge Cleaver's Harlem — based "Black Liberation Army."

This volume was written by Don Cox, a brutal "henchman" of the intellectualized, articulate Cleaver who doesn't bother with blood on the streets. Cox is a fugitive from two murder warrants — one in Maryland, and another issued in San Francisco. He is an admitted killer. He boasts of being part of an execution squad which barged into a San Francisco police station some years ago, shooting all the time.

He relishes the moment when he and his companions fired five or six shots into an officer who died later.

This volume is "On Organizing Urban Guerrilla Units." Originally it was published in Algeria. Later it was republished in Harlem — "Babylon" — to Cleaver now in self-exile somewhere in Europe. He split from the Bobby Seale Black Panther faction. And he glories in the new revolution. So does Field Marshal Don Cox, whereabouts unknown. It all got pretty bloody for the police (black and white) in several cities for a while, should anyone care to ask.

This manual was issued in 1970. It was first exposed by the House Committee on Internal Security. Few headed. Few generally do. There have been other manuals written by urban guerrillas for apprentice revolutionists. Few public leaders took them seriously. Few generally do. Perhaps now that Atty. Gen. Saxbe, using FBI information, has warned of new kidnappings, especially of government officials, the citizenry soon will believe this isn't the children's hour.

It's raw terrorism. Some of it's garden variety criminalism, no doubt. But it's overwhelmingly a new revolutionism, self-financed.

It trains frogmen in Australia, bushmen in Ethiopia, hijackers in Middle East hills, and dynamiters in London. There have been international "congresses" of terrorism's theoreticians. There is a constant flow of confidential material for regional and national "congresses" to study.

It takes sophistication and an intimate knowledge of revolutionists from Lenin to Cleaver and incumbent "field marshals." That knowledge is in at least one central office — the headquarters of the 40-man House Internal Security Committee staff.

Its warnings and those of its chairman, Rep. Richard Ichord, have been scoffed at in the past. Now there are forces in the Congress which are attempting to wipe out the committee, throw its vast files into some attic, disperse its knowledgeable. Why? Why should Missouri's Congressman Richard Bolling (Kansas City), who is chairman of the Select Committee on Committees of the House, move to put the internal security work under the House Committee on Government Operations? The latter group just couldn't handle the operation. It is overworked. Its staff is tiny and split over a series of subcommittees.

If Congressman Bolling doesn't believe this neo-revolutionism is a bloody game, let him look at the Argentine box score. It's all there in big red letters.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Congress Bareknuckles Over Control Of Canal

By ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The chips are now unequivocally down for an angry and bruising melee over the administration's avowed intent to give up control and operation of the Panama Canal.

Powerful bipartisan forces in the Senate and House have forcefully served notice on President Nixon and Secretary Kissinger that they will wage last-ditch fights against that. There can be no mistaking the seriousness and determination of these clearly stated warnings.

Adding further fuel are the President's intensifying impeachment difficulties.

Pressing the proclaimed plan to relinquish sovereignty over the Panama Canal might well further acerbate that already supercharged factor — which has crystallized such vehement and powerful bipartisan opposition in both branches of Congress.

With all that is transpiring, it is bluntly obvious the administration can't win a head-on confrontation over this volatile issue. It's virtually doomed to defeat if it tries.

In fact, the administration is already licked in the Senate where 33 Senators are publicly on record as flatly against surrendering control over the canal. That is approximately one-third of the Senate and only one vote short of the number required to reject a treaty.

Any agreement reached with the Panama government would have to be submitted to the Senate for ratification. Thus, the Senate will have the last word — and it's very evident what it will be: a decisive and vehement no.

More Trouble

The outlook in the House is equally foreboding.

House leaders are aggressively contending their chamber must have a voice in any settlement involving the canal and are serving notice they are prepared to back up that demand by shutting off appropriations.

This tough stand was conveyed directly to the President in a personal letter from Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa.

Appropriations subcommittee chairman and leader of the bipartisan forces opposed to any tampering with U.S. control over the strategic waterway.

"Congress will not appropriate huge funds," Flood wrote the President, "for a canal project in an area that the U.S. does not control."

Underscoring that explicit declaration, Flood added, "Operation of the canal under two flags in a land of endemic revolution can only result in endless conflicts and recriminations."

Three impressive "realities" are cited by Flood as "evidence" Congress will not approve "surrender of U.S. sovereignty" over the canal:

(1) The 382 to 12 vote in the House, February 1960, rejecting the "formal display of the Panama flag in the Canal Zone."

(2) On March 15, 1973, in a vote of more than 12,000, after a national television debate, 86 percent opposed giving up U.S. control over the canal.

(3) In recent months members of Congress have been flooded with correspondence from all over the country and abroad, including Panamanians, overwhelmingly opposing "any surrender of the Canal, especially attempts at piecemeal liquidation."

While throwing down the gauntlet on giving up the Canal, Flood advised the President there are "two practical ways to help Panama," as follows:

"One is to build a bridge over the Atlantic end of the Canal, comparable to that over the Pacific end; the other to assist Panama to plan and relocate its free zone from Colon to an area in the Republic of Panama east of the Canal Zone where there is space for indefinite expansion."

So far, Flood has gotten no response on these suggestions from either the President or Secretary of State Kissinger.

That widely fanfared "commitment" to the Panama Republic to negotiate a new canal treaty favorable to that country may not be so firm after all.

Secretary Kissinger definitely backed down on that under sharp Senate grilling.

This significant unreported disavowal occurred at a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee at which Kissinger testified on the administration's controversial foreign trade bill. Sen. Harry Byrd, Ind.-Va., put him on the spot regarding Kissinger's trip to Panama to sign an "agreement in principle" on the future of the Canal.

Weicker Reveals Exhibits On Politics In Federal Agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Top White House officials tried to use federal agencies ranging from the Internal Revenue Service to the parole board for political purposes, documents made public by Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr., R-Conn., showed.

Weicker made public a thick stack of exhibits he presented Monday to members of three Senate subcommittees holding joint hearings on government wiretapping.

Most were copies of once secret White House memos.

"Bringing to the light of day those words and deeds guarantees far more than legislation (would) that never again will Americans commit or submit to matters that repudiate the origins of our national greatness," Weicker said in presenting the documents.

Weicker's exhibits were internal Revenue Service; "Millhouse;" Brookings (Institute); Goldberg; (Billy) Graham, (John) Wayne — IRS Activity; Newsday; Military Spying; Department of Commerce; Parole Board and Justice Department; Department of Defense; and White House Activities.

The Internal Revenue Service Exhibit carried a July 24, 1969 internal memorandum on the formation of the IRS Activist Organizations Committee, which was disbanded last August at the time of the Watergate hearings.

"What we will attempt to do is to gather intelligence data on the organizations in which we are interested and to use a Strike Force concept whereby all Compliance divisions and all other Service functions will participate in a joint effort in our common objective," the IRS memo by D. O. Virdin said.

An Aug. 14, 1970 memo from White House aide Tom Charles Huston asked for an IRS progress report on the review of "operations of Ideological Organizations."

Commented Weicker: "They lumped ideological together with activist and militant."

In the exhibit on the satirical movie "Millhouse: A White Comedy," Jack Caulfield recommends to John W. Dean, III in a White House memo: "Release of (producer Emile) de Antonio's F.B.I. derogatory background to friendly media" and "Discreet IRS audits of New Yorker Films, Inc."

The documents on the Brookings Institute indicate that Dean, then President Nixon's lawyer, considered tax audits and "turning the spigot off" of government contracts and $500,000 in federal grants. Weicker said the Institute was "A Democratic think-tank sometimes called a government-in-exile."

The Ford Foundation, which largely funds the institute, also came under Dean's scrutiny, the exhibit indicates.

The "Goldberg" file merely indicates that one Providence, R.I. donated $3,659.16 to Jewish charities in 1968, prompting Caulfield to observe to Dean in an Oct. 6, 1971 memo "it postures an extremely heavy involvement in Jewish organizational activity...the Attorney General should be discreetly made aware in this regard."

The tax exhibit indicates White House interest in audits being run on Evangelist Billy Graham and actor John Wayne, both friends of President Nixon.

"Can we do anything to help?" Dean asks in an Oct. 1, 1971 memo originally directed to aide Larry Higby, whose name was lined out.

The Wayne complaint when viewed in the attached context does not appear to be strong enough to pursue, Caulfield concludes in an Oct. 6, 1971, memo to Dean.

The "attached context" refers to tax audits on "some individuals in the entertainment industry who were politically active during prior elections... (and) whose economic condition is similar to that of John Wayne."

Audited were Richard Boone, Sammy Davis Jr., Jerry Lewis, Peter Lawford, Fred MacMurray, Lucille Ball, Ronald Reagan, and Frank Sinatra. The Newsday exhibit indicates that Caulfield and Dean in September and October, 1971, contemplated the threat of an antitrust suit against the Los Angeles Times to head off an anticipated series in Long Island's Newsday, adverse to the administration. The Los Angeles Times owns Newsday.

The military spying file related to the Army's 66th Military Intelligence Group probe of the expatriate American civilian "Concerned Americans in Berlin" organization which grew out of a (Sen. George) McGovern for President unit.

The Department of Commerce exhibit indicated that White House advance information on the financial collapse of a Maine beet sugar enterprise, which had received $13 million in federal loans, allegedly acquired with the help of Sen. Edmund Muskie.

The Parole Board exhibit features a transcript of a taped 1971 conversation between White House aide Chuck Colson and George Smathers, former Democratic senator from Florida.

Colson tells Dean in a covering memo "The attached is much too hot for me to handle... I do think, however, in view of Smathers' decision to support the President next year that we had better attend to this and not let it slip."

What Smathers proposed, according to the purported transcript, on Dec. 30, 1971, was that the President order the immediate release of Calvin Kovens, convicted of misuse of Teamster funds. Kovens' parole had been ordered, but he was to serve four more months, and he had suffered a heart attack.

Smathers said this would give the President and those who are going to help him in this area, a very strong basis of going to the Jewish community" for support.

"I'm sure the President can do it and I'm sure, actually (Parole Board) Chairman George Reed would probably approve of it," Smathers is quoted.

The Department of Defense exhibit contains a June 16, 1972, White House memo from Dean to H.R. Haldeman on "McGovern War Record" stating in part, "You should also be aware that there is nothing in McGovern's file which directly substantiates the allegation about his cowardice."

Most of the material in the three exhibits on White House Activities came to light earlier in relation to the Watergate investigations. A Caulfield plan for "a penetration... if required" of the resource-demographic oriented Potomac Associates; and a daily log on "president's requests" to counteritemized adverse media presentations; and a list of investigations undertaken for the White House by Anthony Ulasewicz, the ubiquitous former New York City police detecti-

NEW YORK (UPI) — It is no secret that stars of Broadway musicals which are made into movies like to recreate their roles on the screen.

Sometimes their hopes are realized. Rex Harrison took his fine Henry Higgins characterization from Broadway to Hollywood and Yul Brunner played the king in both stage and movie versions of "The King and I."

These are only two instances of the star making the transition. There are many others.

Sometimes, though, Hollywood has different thoughts about casting a movie adapted from a Broadway show. For instance, Julie Andrews, who won critical rave reviews for her stage role as Eliza Doolittle in "My Fair Lady," lost her bid for the movie part to Audrey Hepburn who was better known to filmgoers.

There have been reports that Angela Lansbury was keenly disappointed because she was not chosen to recreate her title role in the movie version of "Mame," which made her a Broadway personality. Instead, the part went to Lucille Ball.

Everybody loves Lucy, so Hollywood didn't make the same mistake in casting as it did with "My Fair Lady." Lucy, indeed, is a fine Mame and her showmanship is what is to be expected. The sound track of "Mame" (Warner Bros. W 2773) is a must for collectors of show albums.

Angela Lansbury has been enjoying great popularity in London with her portrayal of Rose in the British production of "Gypsy" (RCA LBL 1-5004). She has met a formidable challenge in taking on the role that Ethel Merman fashioned on Broadway more than a decade ago.

Zan Charisse makes an excellent Louise (Gypsy Rose Lee) and her version of "Let Me Entertain You" is as vibrant as the one in the original show.

Jerry Vale has chosen the theme from the smash movie "Papillon" as the title of his latest album, "Free as the Wind" (Columbia KC 32829).

Vale is always a dependable singer and this album is no exception with almost a dozen songs. Among them are "All That Love Went to Waste," "For the Peace of all Mankind," "If I Could Write A Song."

One of the earliest Broadway classics was Sigmund Romberg's "The Student Prince." It contained several fine songs that later became modern classics, among them "Serenade," "Drinking Song" and "Deep in My Heart, Dear."

Several years ago Goddard-Leiberson of Columbia Records brought together a leading Metropolitan soprano, Dorothy Kirsten, and the favorite tenor at the New York City Opera, Robert Hounseville, for a unique "Student Prince" performance that was issued on Columbia's Masterworks Label. It is being reissued on Columbia's economy label (Odyssey Y 32367), a real bargain.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

TIA Offers Varied Symptoms

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had what is called a T.I.A. The doctor called it a transient (something) attack. It was explained to be something to do with the blood vessels in the brain and the flow of blood. I'd like more information.

—Mrs. I.G.M.
T.I.A. stands for "transient ischemic attack," or a brief interruption of the flow of blood to the brain or some part of it. (Ischemia means a deficient flow of blood to an area.)

The symptoms may be such things as a temporary disturbance in vision, brief unconsciousness, weakness of a limb, or a disturbance in speech.

The explanation is a disturbed blood flow in one of the small arteries in the brain due to hardening of the arteries. Or, alternatively, there may be a partial obstruction in the carotid artery in the neck, which is the artery carrying blood to the brain.

The location of the trouble can be determined by carotid angiography—that is, a special material is injected into the carotid artery, and then X-rays of the neck and skull show the distribution of blood flow. If the T.I.A. episodes are recurrent, it may be a harbinger of a stroke. From 20 to 70 percent of such patients do ultimately have strokes, perhaps under stress or tension.

Management of the condition varies. In some cases the use of anticoagulants to "thin" the blood—to retard its clotting ability—is in order. If the principal problem is in the carotid artery, surgery may be required to remove or to bypass the obstruction.

Excess weight should be shed, and if blood pressure is elevated, steps should be taken to bring it down.

In any case, a T.I.A. is a warning sign and should be investigated thoroughly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know about these white pimple-like things under my eyes, what causes them, and if there is anything I could do about them. They don't seem to go away and I don't believe they are whiteheads.

—D.M.
You haven't given me much to go on, but one common possibility is that they are deposits of cholesterol. My advice: see a dermatologist about removing them. There is no way I know to prevent them, and they are nothing for you to monkey with on your own hook, especially since they are near the eyes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My friend's husband had a hernia operation some time ago. She says he has performed sexually only once since the operation. She says his doctor told him he thinks it is more mind over matter. Would such an operation cause loss of sexual ability?

—Mrs. J.S.
There is no reason for the operation to do so—unless the patient THINKS so! In my opinion the doctor gave the correct answer.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Aggie Jokes—Put-Down Humor

By EARL WILSON
DALLAS—In Texas, they have "Aggie Jokes," which are about Texas Agricultural and Mechanical University students—but which are also greatly appreciated by the targets of the jokes. In fact, the Aggies are believed to be the chief distributors of the Aggie gags.

It is put-down humor. I agree with the editors and publishers of the latest volume that it should be encouraged.

The new book of "Aggie Jokes" ($1, Gigem Press, Dallas) is dedicated "to Harold the Aggie who was such a slow reader that he belonged to the Page of the Month Club."

It carried the definition of "a galloping gourmet: an Aggie running after a garbage truck." "Did you hear about the Aggie scientist who developed an artificial appendix?" "There was an Aggie who was asked if he preferred red or white wine with dinner. 'It doesn't make any difference to me,' he said. 'I'm color-blind.'"

"There was an Aggie who thought High Cholesterol was a religious holiday."

"An Aggie was asked, 'Where was Joan of Arc burned?' and he replied, 'All over her body.'"

"A panhandler said to an Aggie, 'Would you give me 50 cents for a sandwich?' The Aggie said, 'I don't know. Let me see the sandwich.'"

The humor doesn't appear to have become dirty and the principals of the Gigem Press are three Dallas advertising executives, graduates of Georgia Tech, the University of Missouri and TCU "who wish to remain anonymous."

One more. An Aggie went into a bait shop and asked the price of worms. "All you want for $1," the clerk told him. The Aggie said, "O.K., I'll take $2 worth."

Under Twenty

DEAR ASTRID

By ASTRID CARSON
Dear Astrid: My girlfriend is a tease. We get to kissing and messing around and then she turns off. She's driving me crazy and says she's afraid. We've even had some terrific fights over the way she is.

We've been going together for more than two years and I don't know what to do. I don't want to lose her because we love each other.

Frustrated: There's an old expression that it takes two to tango. Responsibility isn't in the hands of one person in your relationship, it belongs to both of you.

If you both get carried along too far when you are together, the fault is as much yours as it is hers to don't label her as a "tease." If you love and respect her, you should assume your share of the responsibility or decide you want to find another girl.

I'm sure the situation is no easier for her than it is for you. You've both got to decide what your relationship is all about, what your sense of values and morals are and proceed from there.

Dear Astrid: I started going with my boyfriend last July. We really got to know each other and we really had fun together. After a while he just stopped calling me and we didn't go out for two months. I was really racking my brain trying to think why this should happen.

All of a sudden he called up again and asked me out. Since then it has been on again, off again, and now when he would be going out he is with BOYS. (Am I asking too much for him to take me out once a week? What is wrong with this relationship?)

Dear Confused: You are a lucky girl to have two boys that you like interested in you. You also seem to be too young or too immature to decide which one it is going to be.

If you aren't all tied up with your present boyfriend, it may be wise for you to try dating both of them to learn something about the dating game. If the situation is that you cannot have both, the only thing you can do is to make your decision on which one is most appealing to you.

In your relationship, however, be honest first with yourself and then with the two boys. Without honesty you will be courting a great deal of trouble that you can really avoid.

"Are you sure these are mushrooms?"

Women Find Slow Progress In Jobs

By BILL HOBBY
Lieutenant Governor
AUSTIN — Although most people seem to give lip service to the need for increasing job opportunities for women, actual progress has been depressingly slow.

Recent studies by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and the President's Council of Economic Advisors emphasize the fact that progress toward job equality has been sadly small.

Women still make less than men holding the same jobs. They are the first to be fired and the last to be promoted.

A few years ago, we could say the problem was lack of awareness. We no longer have that excuse.

Today, almost 40 percent of all workers are women, compared with 31 percent in 1953. Most of them are working for a very important reason — necessity. Almost two-thirds of all working women are single, divorced, widowed, or have husbands earning less than $7,000 a year.

Women's earnings are actually falling behind those of men. In 1956, the average full-time female worker earned 63.3 percent as much as the average man. In 1971, that figure was down to 59.5 percent.

Women have had little success in breaking into the high-status professions. In 1970, they made up 28 percent of college faculties, about the same proportion as four decades earlier. In that same year, 32 percent were classified as clerical, and 14 percent as blue collar workers with semi-skilled jobs.

Women also are the most vulnerable to unemployment. In August of last year, the unemployment rate for women was 48 percent higher than that of men. The major unemployment problem of women is the refusal of many employers to consider them for other than a traditional "woman's" job.

These nationwide statistics are paralleled by the situation in Texas. A 1972 study of employment in State government shows just how far we have to go.

The median salary for the white male state employee was $8,582, compared with $5,537 for the white female.

Even when women have a say in hiring practices — through the electoral process — they still come out on the short end. Of 18,309 elected officials in Texas, only 1,174 (or 6.4 percent) are women. Not surprisingly, the greatest numbers of women serve as county clerk (59.9 percent) and county treasurer (65.7 percent).

One of 24 Texans in the U.S. House of Representatives is a woman. Five of 150 members of the Texas House of Representatives are women. One of the 31 state senators is a woman. There are no women in the top 10 statewide offices.

Part of the problem in electing women to office lies in the failure of a significant number of women to decide to seek public office.

There is much that society, government, and employers can do to improve the career outlook for women. But there is still a great deal women can do for themselves.

Women in Texas must be willing to commit themselves actively to working for equality in all aspects of our society.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Marsha wonders if the typical June-December romance is based on true love. Or other selfish motives. And she asks why some girls seem turned off by young suitors of their own age but are attracted to men much older.

CASE A-603: Marsha D., aged 18, wonders why some girls prefer to marry much older men.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "didn't Bing Crosby thus pick as his second wife a woman young enough to be his daughter?"

"And I have seen several cases where the college girls married men who were 45 to 50."

"Is it just because they crave the money or fame of such older men?"

"Or do some young women have an instinctive craving for a much older mate?"

JUNE-DECEMBER

The marriage of a coed to a man old enough to be her father is often described as a June-December romance.

Bing Crosby was 53 when he married young Kathryn Lang, and as far as I have heard, they are very happy.

But Bing was youthful in his outlook and activities, while Kathryn was more mature than many girls of her age.

And Bing is a smart psychologist who "leans" upon his wife for help, advice and cooperation, thus making her feel important.

Many a young couple break up because the husband doesn't lean upon his wife enough and make her feel a vital partner in his business or professional success.

Some girls, too, have an ingrained fondness for older men. Why?

Well, most girls have their first romance with a man 25 to 30 years their senior — their daddy!

So if such a little girl is the apple of her father's eye, and receives his love and affection all during childhood, she may subconsciously be "conditioned" to love an older man when she becomes a high school or college coed.

Such girls often find their male classmates unduly juvenile and immature.

The same "conditioning" often occurs when a girl like Marsha becomes a secretary, nurse or dental assistant to an older man.

His more mature judgments and executive power resurrect some of her earlier devotion to her daddy.

Moreover, the older employer relies on his assistant and this makes her feel important.

If he happens to invite her to dinner or the theater, his more diplomatic ardor may contrast vividly with the impetuous love of a boy on a motorcycle, who may be her own age.

Older men, too, have usually acquired more understanding of female psychology.

So they can employ the erotic philosophy of Roman Seneca, whose advice to a young fellow on how to win a girl was:

"Go to the archer. See how he handles the bow. With one hand he pushes it away but with the other, he pulls it back to him."

In modern parlance, that means "Keep 'em guessing!"

Older men thus are likely to be more adroit in their love making. "A young man," said a recent divorcee, "stresses quantity, so he will kiss me many times."

An older and experienced man kisses fewer times but prolongs the kiss and embrace till a girl begins to respond to his physical magnetism.

In this age of inflation, many girls also realize that if they wish to marry and have children, they'll need a man with a good income if they are to stay at home with their kiddies.

And this often requires that a man have a 10-year head start in the business or professional world.

So send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Republic Bldg., 10000, Indiana 47602. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of the booklets.)

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®

...it tells you how

If the fuel shortage has hit anyone hard, it has really socked the poor souls who bought a brand-new, 8-cylinder automobile just before the Great Gasoline Drought swept across the land. Such folks saw rising prices at the pumps (when petrol was available) take the joy out of their new purchase on the one hand... while, on the other, plunging big-car values put the resale of their white elephants almost out of the question. Maybe you got caught in that very bind yourself.

Well be of good cheer! Joe Lawyer, a mechanic at the Jim Clark Chrysler-Plymouth agency in Topeka, Kansas, can tell you how to alter your big gas-guzzler so that it'll go at least a fantastic 43% farther on every gallon of fuel it burns.

What Joe does, you see, is modify a V-8 engine so that it runs on only four cylinders. In his words, "I rework the carburetor, adjust the automatic transmission, take the exhaust valves out of the four cylinders that are not to be used and block their intake lifters."

Result? The altered engine will still "outrun" a Slant-6 powerplant. It also operates "as smooth or smoother" than an unmodified V-8... and a 10-part before-and-after test conducted on a Plymouth Fury showed that its gas mileage jumped from 13 mpg to as high as 20.6 mpg! "The only thing we lose," says Joe Lawyer, "is the ability to make jackrabbit starts."

It should be pointed out, of course, that this rather major modification does void the warranty on a new car... but the Environmental Protection Agency has reportedly already given its blessing to Joe's method of "cutting a V-8 engine in half."

CANCER IS NOT CATCHING

Research Experts Give Information On Disease

Can you "catch" cancer?

According to the American Cancer Society research experts, cancer is absolutely not catching — but this is one of the questions in many people's minds about this disease. Here are some others:

Q. Can you have cancer without being aware of it?

A. Yes. Until a cancer has grown or invaded neighboring tissues, symptoms may not appear. But there are seven Warning Signals, and local ACS volunteers are telling the people about them as part of this April's educational and fund-raising Crusade.

Q. Can one's attitude towards cancer influence the course of the disease?

A. Yes, but only in this special way: the person who notices a Warning Signal, the person who delays before checking with a physician — the one "afraid" to have an annual checkup including cancer tests, can hurt himself. Why? Cancer is most curable when detected early.

Q. Are any countries free of cancer?

A. No. Cancer knows no boundaries, national or racial. However, some groups are more or less likely to get certain forms.

Q. You mean there is more than one form of cancer?

A. Yes. Over 100. Q. What are the most common cancers among men?

A. Lung cancer, skin cancer, prostate and cancer of the digestive organs.

Q. And women?

A. Breast cancer, cancer of the reproductive organs such as uterine cancer; skin cancer and colon-rectal cancer.

Q. They say that breast cancer is the cancer women fear the most — how can a woman protect herself?

A. If a woman practices monthly breast self-examination and checks with a physician if she finds anything unusual such as a lump or thickening, she gives herself the chance of finding breast cancer early when it is most curable.

Q. But are all breast lumps cancerous?

A. Absolutely not! Most are found to indicate a perfectly harmless condition but only a physician can make that diagnosis so a woman must see one right away.

Q. What's the 1974 theme of the American Cancer Society?

A. "We want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime." No question about that!

Cape Disappointment at the mouth of the Columbia River in Washington, has nearly 200 days of fog a year.

SMITH ON NIXON

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Former U.S. Senator Margaret Chase Smith last week said impeachment proceedings should be brought against President Nixon, but she believes the evidence now available would lead to acquittal.

At noon, Tuesday, Price will address the Vernon Rotary Club, International, in the Wilbarger Auditorium. He will conduct a discussion with youth on the Vernon Junior College campus from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Price will visit Crowell for a public town hall meeting beginning at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Old Community Center. He will then return to Vernon for a public town hall meeting with residents

Price Sets Series For District Visits

U.S. Rep. Bob Price plans a series of visits throughout the 13th District of Texas during the Congressional Easter Recess. Price plans appearances in Amarillo, Claude, Borger, Wichita Falls, Vernon, Crowell, Quanah, Childress, Wellington, Shamrock, Canyon, Panhandle and Dalhart.

Price will begin the week with a luncheon address to the Amarillo Kiwanis Club meeting in the YMCA building Monday, April 15. He will then go to Claude to conduct the first in a series of non-partisan, open-to-the-public town hall meetings, which will begin at 2:30 p.m. at the LA Restaurant.

Price conducts such meetings as often as he can in the many communities throughout the area in a continuing effort to keep abreast of the views of local citizens and he looks forward to open discussions with those members of the public who attend. Another town hall meeting will be conducted Monday beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Heritage Room of the Opportunity Center in Borger.

Tuesday, April 16, Price will be in Wichita Falls for a morning meeting with local chairmen and volunteer workers helping to prepare for the April 27 luncheon visit by Vice President Gerald R. Ford.

At noon, Tuesday, Price will address the Vernon Rotary Club, International, in the Wilbarger Auditorium. He will conduct a discussion with youth on the Vernon Junior College campus from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Price will visit Crowell for a public town hall meeting beginning at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Old Community Center. He will then return to Vernon for a public town hall meeting with residents there, set to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Wilbarger Auditorium.

Wednesday, April 17, Price will begin the day with a public Dutch treat breakfast in the Red Room of Dutch's Cafe in Quanah. He will meet with Childress residents in a public town hall meeting in the Hospitality Room of the REA Building from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

A similar meeting is scheduled for Wellington in the Heritage Room of the Wellington State Bank at 2 p.m. Price will conclude the day in Shamrock with a fourth public meeting at 8:30 p.m. in the Shamrock Community Library.

Price will be in Canyon Thursday, April 18, to address the student body of West Texas State University at 9:30 a.m.; then will meet with political science classes at 11 a.m.

The congressman will conduct another town hall meeting in Panhandle beginning at 3 p.m. Thursday for the Heritage Room of the First National Bank. He will be in Dalhart for a similar public meeting in the Dalhart Municipal Building to begin at 7:30 that evening.

Friday, April 19, Price will return to Amarillo to address the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce at a noon luncheon at the Holiday Inn on Interstate 40.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

I'm awfully glad I didn't miss Hank Aaron's record-breaking "shot" on the tube Monday night, and I would have given most anything if I could have been in Atlanta to be a part of the festivities which surrounded the event.

Too bad Bowie Kuhn, baseball's bespectacled monarch, did not feel the same way.

Kuhn's sins Monday night included not attending the game, not calling Henry during the game to offer congratulations (even the President took a few minutes of his pressing schedule to talk to Aaron during the contest) and putting a cocktail party in Cleveland before the greatest single baseball achievement in years.

Tony Kubek, an NBC broadcaster and ex-baseball great, called the Kuhn incident "a shame."

Aaron's home run resulted in instant fame to two other players — Al Downing of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who served the fast ball which seconds later ended up going over the fence in left-centerfield in Atlanta Stadium, and Tom House, who caught the ball on the fly in Brave bullpen.

Downing, who walked Aaron on five pitches in the second inning, threw a low fastball to the 40-year-old slugger which Aaron let by for ball one. The low pitch caused the crowd of 55,000-plus to loudly boo the Dodger pitcher.

Downing's next pitch was down the middle of the plate and Aaron put it in the leftfield bullpen.

"I was trying to get it (the pitch) down and didn't," said Downing. "He hit it like good hitters do."

"When he first hit it, I didn't think it would be gone but it kept carrying."

House, who ran to Aaron with the ball immediately after snaring it, will receive a Magnavox television set for getting the ball. Besides that, he has achieved something many players never do — personal satisfaction.

House might not ever make it big as a pitcher but at least he can know he played a part in one of baseball's greatest days.

For that, he's done a heckuva lot more than Bowie.

Texas Sports Briefs

GEORGETOWN (UPI) — Buzzy Pol powered a two run homer in the fourth inning Tuesday to lead Southwestern to a 5-2 Big State conference victory over Houston Tiltonson.

Teammates Lonnie Kiel and Frank Rodriguez went 2 for 4 as Southwestern boosted its overall record to 25-16, including 6-0 in the conference. Houston Tiltonson is 12-4 overall and 3-2 in the conference.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas worked mainly on its passing attack Tuesday as the Razorbacks began the third week of spring football drills.

Coach Frank Broyles said he was pleased with progress so far and happy with the team's scrimmage last Saturday. Broyles said a review of the scrimmage films showed "a lot of improvement, particularly Richard LaFargue and Lee King."

LaFargue is a 6-4, 225-pound sophomore center. King is a 6-2, 240-pound junior tackle.

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Texas A&M has added three more running backs to the Aggies' list of football recruits. A total of 27 former prep stars have now signed letters of intent.

The newest recruits are David Craig, 5-11, 190 pounds, Hampton, Va.; Danny Arlith, 5-11, 190, Houston's St. Thomas, and David Perry, 6-1, 200 pounds, from Houston Lee.

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist kept its hopes alive for a repeat in the Southwest Conference tennis championships with a 7-0 shutout of Texas A&M Tuesday.

With George Hardie leading the way, the Mustangs boosted their record to 26-9.

Hardie defeated Bill Wright, 6-4, 3-6, 7-6, in the premier singles match while teammate Tim Vann downed Bill Hoover, 7-7, 7-5. Other SMU wins were posted in the singles by Joe Edles, David Bohrnstedt, and Richard Walthall.

Hardie and Vann teamed to take the doubles from Bill Hoover and Dan Courson, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

EL PASO (UPI) — University of Texas-El Paso and Lamar University split a doubleheader Tuesday with the visitors taking the first game, 13-10 and the Miners the second 12-10.

Lamar's Mark Shumbera led an 11-hit barrage in the first game with a grand slam homer in the second inning. El Paso centerfielder Joe Pennies banged out a single in the nightcap to drive in the go ahead runs.

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist banged out 15 hits Tuesday for a 13-5 nonconference victory over University of Texas-Arlington.

Ron Riddlehuber powered a two-run homer for the Mustangs as John Sagehorn and Mark Hammond each collected four hits.

The Mustangs are 12-20 overall going into a weekend series with Baylor. UTA is now 17-21 overall for the season.

The first-recognized world heavyweight boxing champion was John L. Sullivan who held the title from 1882 until he was beaten by Gentleman Jim Corbett in 1892.

Flyers Put Out Flames In Stanley Cup Play, 4-1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Orest Kinderchuck didn't play like a rookie with a kidney ailment in the Philadelphia Flyers' 4-1 victory over the Atlanta Flames Tuesday night in the quarterfinals of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Flyers and Flames got a 24-hour jump on the remaining six teams in contention for the Stanley Cup. Quarterfinal series beginning tonight find Toronto at Boston, the New York Rangers at Montreal and Los Angeles at Chicago.

"He had a tough year," said Flyers coach Fred Shero after Kinderchuck rammed home two goals in the third period to put Philadelphia one up in the best-of-seven series. "He was to have had an operation for a kidney ailment, but he didn't and he only got strong last week."

Kinderchuck, 1971-72 player of the year in the Western League who also led the league in fights, was deprived of a three-goal hat trick late in the final period on a spectacular save by Atlanta goalie Phil Myre.

Gary Dornhoefer scored the first Flyer goal in the opening period and Tom Blandon made it 2-0 in the second stanza.

Atlanta was trailing 3-0 when defenseman Bob Murray put the Flames on the scoreboard with an unassisted goal at 9:29 of the third period. Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent, who deflected Murray's shot into the Flyers' net, turned back 31 other shots.

"A lot of our players never played in the Stanley Cup before and it showed," said Atlanta General Manager Cliff Fletcher. "They didn't play as aggressively as they can, but they'll improve and we'll be here Thursday."

It was the first Stanley Cup appearance for Atlanta, while Philadelphia was playing in its fifth playoff.

"We played a very good game," said Shero. "We moved the puck well and played disciplined hockey. We were in their zone all night."

Yanks Staging Comeback

You've got to go back to 1945 — even before the Casey Stengel 10-pennant era — to find a faster New York Yankee getaway than this season.

The Yankees, whom most observers relegated to also-ran status in the American League East, Tuesday reeled off their fourth straight victory of the young 1974 season, a 3-0 blanking of the Detroit Tigers, and now stand alone as the only unbeaten team in the circuit.

Elsewhere, Minnesota downed Chicago 3-1. Texas belted California for the unbeaten ranks 10-2 and Oakland bested Kansas City 6-4 while snow forced postponement of the Milwaukee-Cleveland and Baltimore-Boston games.

In National League games, Houston defeated San Diego 9-5, Los Angeles whipped Atlanta 9-2, Chicago blanked Philadelphia 2-0, Cincinnati topped San Francisco 6-3 and St. Louis-New York, Montreal-Pittsburgh were postponed due to inclement weather.

In their first encounter with ex-manager Ralph

Houk, the streaking (pardon the expression) Yankees touched starter Mickey Lolich for two runs in the first and coasted home behind the combined eight-hit pitching of Steve Kline and Sparky Lyle. Kline, apparently recovered from the elbow miseries that plagued him last season, picked up the win.

Rangers 10, Angels 2
The Angels, only other unbeaten team in the AL going into Tuesday's action, saw their ace Nolan Ryan bombed for seven runs in one inning pitched — including Jeff Burroughs' grand slam homer in the second as Texas raced off to a 10-2 win. Ryan, who walked five in the brief appearance, has now issued 15 passes in nine innings of work. Jim Bibby was the winner for the Rangers.

A's 6, Royals 4
With the Angels' loss, Oakland climbed into its familiar spot atop the AL West with its win over Kansas City. Joe Rudi's two run double — his third of the game — came with the bases loaded in the seventh to snap a 4-4 tie and give the A's the winning runs.

Twins 3, White Sox 1
Bill Campbell put down a bases-loaded rally in the top of the ninth as Minnesota handed the winless White Sox their third straight defeat.

Hamburger King Pulls A Finley, Padres Still Lose To Astros, 9-5

United Press International
It took a while but in Ray Kroc, the National League may finally have come up with its answer to Charles O. Finley.

Kroc, the McDonald Hamburger king who bought the San Diego Padres earlier this spring, pulled a Finley-like move Tuesday night when he blasted his winless troops over the public address system during the eighth inning of their 9-5 loss to the Houston Astros.

After Cesar Cedeno's third hit of the game drove in two runs to give the Astros a 9-2 lead in the top of the seventh, Kroc got on the public address system and shouted: "I've never seen such stupid ballplaying in my life." Just prior to Kroc's surprise remark, a streaker dashed across the field, prompting the new owner to shout: "Send him to jail."

Larry Dierker, who pitched seven strong innings after appearing in only 27 all last season, gained the victory for the Astros, while Cedeno had four runs batted in. As for Kroc, quite likely Marvin Miller will be heard from before this incident is forgotten. Move over Charlie.

In other National League games, Los Angeles whipped Atlanta 9-2, Chicago blanked Philadelphia 2-0, Cincinnati topped San Francisco 6-3 and St. Louis-New York, Montreal-Pittsburgh were postponed due to inclement weather.

In the American League, Minnesota downed Chicago 3-1. New York blanked Detroit 3-0, Texas bombed California 10-2, Oakland topped Kansas City 6-4 and Milwaukee-Cleveland and Baltimore-Boston were snowed out.

Reds 6, Giants 3
Joe Morgan's run-scoring single in the sixth and Tony Perez' third homer of the season enabled the Reds to knock the Giants from the unbeaten ranks. Jack Billingham, with relief help from Pedro Borbon, was the winner. Pete Rose, Dan Driessen and Merly Rettenmund all had three hits for the Reds.

Cubs 2, Phillies 0
Bill Bonham scattered four hits to pick up his shutout as the Cubs celebrated their home opener. Bonham was treated to both his runs in the first inning as the Cubs bunched three walks, two Phillie errors and Rick Monday's double.

Calvin Signs Pact With WFL Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) — Calvin Hill has signed a contract to play for the new World Football League but first he hopes to help the Dallas Cowboys win the Super Bowl.

Hill, a Cowboy running back, Tuesday signed a three-year contract with the Hawaiians which will begin in 1975 after he plays out his option year this season with Dallas.

Hill said he would do "everything in my power to help Dallas win the Super Bowl this year."

The five-year NFL veteran said he believed that his plans to play in the WFL wouldn't hamper his work for the Cowboys this season.

"I think we have a great chance of winning the Super Bowl," he said. "I plan to do everything I can to help the Cowboys do just that."

Although contract terms were not made public, a WFL spokesman said the money was "substantial."

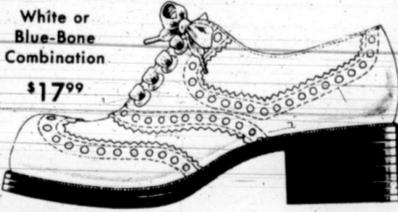

Hill said that playing for the Hawaiians would be "like being in on the ground floor."

Little League Tryouts Are Today-Friday

Little League baseball tryouts, which are open for boys, ages 9-12 on Aug. 1, began Tuesday and will be held at 5:30 p.m. today through Friday.

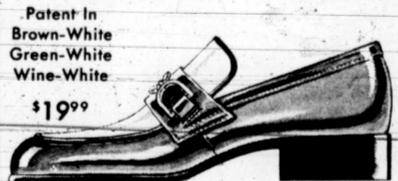

Boys must make two of the tryouts to be eligible for Little League, 10 and 13-year olds need to report today and Friday.

IN PLAYER BIDDING Landry Claims League 'Can't Go Overboard'

DALLAS (UPI) — Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys says the National Football League won't "go overboard" in bidding for players lured to the new World Football League by big salaries.

Landry lost his star running back, Calvin Hill, to the WFL.

"Sure, we'll compete as long as we economically can," Landry said. "But players get paid well here within limits of our operation and organization. We can't go overboard for one player."

Hill, the Cowboys' only 1,000-yard rusher, said he signed with the WFL Hawaii franchise. Backup Cowboy quarterback Craig Morton was involved in contract talks with the new league's Houston franchise.

"We'll all be losing players to the WFL because of the front money they're putting up," Landry said Tuesday. "But that doesn't mean their league will survive. We will. The NFL is a good solid group, which is successful, and that won't change."

Hill will play out his option with Dallas this season and Landry was unsure how his role would affect the team.

The Detroit Pistons are only one defeat away from elimination in the National Basketball Association playoffs but coach Ray Scott is still the picture of confidence.

"I think the better team will win in the end," said Scott after the Pistons lost to the Chicago Bulls 98-94

Tuesday night to fall behind 1-2 in the best-of-seven series. "I think we can win two games in a row. I'm confident we can win and the players are confident."

Like the Bulls, the Boston Celtics took a 3-2 lead in their playoff against Buffalo by beating the Braves 100-97 while the defending playoff champion New York

Knicks need only a victory tonight over Capital to eliminate the Bulls in six games.

The Bulls opened up a 25-point lead in their nationally televised struggle before Detroit roared back in the final quarter to make things close at the end.

Bulls Coach Dick Motta said he was not surprised at the Pistons' comeback because, "I felt it would be a close game. They're a great team and you know they're going to bust out. They're going to explode."

Norm's 18-footer
The Bulls shot nearly 60 per cent from the field in the first half for a 57-40 lead as the Pistons hit at a 35.9 clip. But in the second half, the Bulls turned cold and the Pistons connected on 23 of 42 field goal attempts to whittle the margin to two points with 51 seconds to play.

Jenkins To Hurl For Rangers Tonight

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Ferguson Jenkins, who pitched a one-hitter in his American League debut, gets his second start of the season tonight when the Texas Rangers hurler opposes Frank Tanana and the California Angels.

Jenkins beat the Oakland A's in his first start for Texas since being acquired from the Chicago Cubs. Tanana is 0-0.

Texas slugger Jeff Burroughs spoiled the Angel home opener by hitting a grand slam homer to highlight a nine-run second inning Tuesday night. The Rangers won 10-2 and routed California ace Nolan Ryan.

"Burroughs was the guy who really hurt us," Angels Manager Bobby Winkles said. "With one swing, he doubled the score on us. It was only 4-0 when he came up and if he had only hit the ball on the ground we might have stayed close."

The opening night crowd of 25,241 watched the wild-throwing Ryan, who set a major league strikeout record last year, allow the first seven Texas batters to reach base safely in the second inning. Ryan loaded the bases on walks before Joe Lovitto delivered a two-run double.

Ryan, 1-1, ran his season total to 15 walks in nine innings.

"I still feel like I'm pitching in spring training," Ryan said. "I'm having trouble keeping the ball down. I may try to slow my rhythm down and take something off my fastball."

"Tonight was nothing more than batting practice."

While Texas Manager Billy Martin had warned his batters would resort to more bunting as part of a counteroffensive to offset Ryan's fastball, it wasn't needed.

Record-Holding Vaulteur To Compete In Relays

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — At dusk on a spring day two years ago, blond Kjell Isaksson soared 18 feet 1 inch to set a new world pole vault record in the final event of the Texas Relays.

Isaksson, now vaulting for the Beverly Hills Striders and making a comeback from an injury that sidelined him much of the last season, returns to the scene of his record vault this weekend for the 47th annual Texas Relays.

He heads a list of seven vaulters competing in the open division. That list also includes former Rice University star and NCAA champion Dave Roberts, now with the Texas Striders, and Bob Richards Jr., son of the former Olympian and world record holder in the event.

The first event of the relays, the grueling decathlon, was scheduled for today, with defending champion U.S. Olympian Jeff Bennett favored to repeat.

Five decathlon events — the 100 meters, long jump, shot put, high jump, and 400 meters — were scheduled today. The remaining five — the 110 meter hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and 1,500 meters — will be Thursday afternoon.

Preliminaries in other track and field events in the high school, college, university and open divisions get underway Friday morning, with "als Friday night and Saturday.

More than 2,500 athletes from over 200 schools are entered in the meet, which will be at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium.

Black Swimmer Among Top Entrants In Meet

DALLAS (UPI) — Frederick Evans, the only black to compete in the National A.A.U. Short Course Swimming Championships in a quarter century, doesn't really expect to win his specialty today. He's realistic.

But, his coach, Elizabeth Stafford, wouldn't be shocked or amazed if he did well in the 100-yard breaststroke.

"His start and his turns are the best I've seen in this country," she said. "I think Fred has the ability to be a world record holder, but it is up to him to prove me."

Evans, who is a graduating senior at St. John's College High School in Washington, D.C., admits to an exceptional leg spring, but points out his best time in the event is 1:01.4 and that ranks 63rd among the 81 entries competing in today's prelims and finals.

Morton Signs WFL Contract

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dallas Cowboy quarterback Craig Morton, apparently tired of warming the bench behind No. 1 signal caller Roger Staubach, Tuesday night signed with the Houston Texans of the World Football League, radio station KPRC reported.

The station said Texans' President Steve Arnold of Memphis, Tenn., signed Morton after obtaining negotiating waivers from the Birmingham, Ala., franchise.

Arnold called a news conference for 3 p.m. Wednesday in which the station said the announcement would become official.

Morton was in Houston but unavailable for comment.

There also were reports the Texans offered coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs a $2 million 10-year contract. The station said, however, Arnold would "neither confirm or deny" the report.

Bromberg Is Talented Cult Hero

DALLAS (UPI) — If it weren't for a childhood case of the measles and a guy up in Scarsdale, David Bromberg might be a doctor or a lawyer today.

Instead Bromberg is the most talented cult hero in popular music.

Cult heroes should not be confused with pop idols. Pop idols may or may not be talented, but they have a huge following who flock to their concerts and storm the stores to buy their records. The Rolling Stones and Grand Funk are pop idols.

Cult heroes are always talented and have a small, fanatical following which continuously demands excellence from the artist. David Bromberg and Boz Scaggs are cult heroes.

There is nothing to prevent a cult hero from becoming a pop idol. Bob Dylan made the transformation. So did Adolph Hitler.

David Bromberg has put out three extremely high quality albums of his own and has a fourth ready to be released that he says is the best one yet. He is constantly in demand as a backup musician and in this capacity has appeared on over 70 albums.

Bromberg plays a guitar, dobro, fiddle, mandolin and flute. He is best known as a guitar player although the fiddle, which he picked up only 14 months ago, appears to be his favorite. He was unable to rearrange his tour schedule to remain in Dallas during a weekend so he could play at a weekly Saturday meeting of fiddlers in nearby Garland.

On stage he plays with abandon. During one set he went through four strings on an acoustic guitar, finally forsaking the instrument in mid-song, picking up the fiddle and going into an impromptu head-down with another fiddler in his band. "I demand this of musicians I play with," he said. "We never rehearse much, never have a set show. The numbers I play just come to me. I start it off and I expect the band to pickup whatever I start. Where they like me to try and trick them — start something I think they don't know. But that's the way a musician should be able to react. I learned that way."

Bromberg, born 28 years ago in Philadelphia, began playing around with musical instruments when he was 8 years old.

"My older brother was playing the guitar at this time so I didn't take that up. I didn't want to butt in on his act. But then I got the measles and I was laid up with nothing to do. I was 13 at the time and bored. So I taught myself how to play the guitar."

"Now I came from a respected middle class family. I was supposed to be a doctor or a lawyer or something. A professional man. Music or a career in show business was just for the degenerates. So I compromised and enrolled at Columbia University to become a musicologist."

"To pay my way through school I taught the guitar. Well there was this one guy I signed up as a student in Scarsdale, just north of New York City, and he turned out to be a first class pervert. So I said if this is where a college education is leading me I want no part of it."

Then followed almost three years of a meager, hand-to-mouth existence in New York's Greenwich Village where Bromberg played in all the small clubs, learned his trade and became known as one of the top musicians in the city.

Rosalie Sorrels was signed to appear at Britain's Isle of Wight Music Festival in 1969 and said she would only make the trip if Bromberg was signed as her accompanist. Bromberg went and got a solo spot during the festival. He sang "Mr. Bojangles," and Columbia Records, which was taping the festival, signed Bromberg to a contract.

Bromberg's albums have not sold extremely well although his latest, "Wanted Dead or Alive," is among the nation's top 150 sellers, according to Billboard. His second album, "Demon in Disguise," was on Billboard's charts for two weeks at No. 198 and 199. But Columbia, a company in the middle of dropping a number of its artists, just renewed Bromberg's contract.

On the second album Bromberg included the definitive version of "Bojangles," a song he learned from its author, Jerry Jeff Walker, at the time it was being written.

"Jerry Jeff was working for a rock and roll band called Circus Maximus in New York — this was in 1967 — and he wanted to do more country music. So we used to go to a friend's apartment after his shows and play country music together for hours. We did Bojangles a number of times.

Trevino Hopes To Sell Miniature Golf Games

DALLAS (UPI) — Manuel G. Trevino, who borrows a set of clubs to play golf, has invented a miniature golf game he hopes will make him rich.

If all goes as planned, he may have his own set of golf clubs by this time next year.

Trevino has worked three years and spent $10,000 perfecting a golf game like nothing else on the market anywhere.

He said the game is played under actual fairway conditions using miniature golf clubs 5 1/2 inches tall and a tiny ball measuring three-eighths inch in diameter.

This week he sold distribution rights of the Club House Golf game to the Japanese firm Felix International for $380,000.

Edward K. Yoshida, executive vice president of Felix, bought rights to sell 25-thousand of the games in Japan where there are 14 million golf enthusiasts and only about 500 golf courses on the island.

"I feel we will make our name as famous as Lee's," Trevino said, speaking of world famous golfer Lee Trevino, who is no relation. Manuel said he once shook hands with the great golfer from El Paso, Tex.

But the road to fame never is an easy one.

"My family has done without a lot because we wanted to shoot for the moon," said Trevino, who resigned three weeks ago from his job as art director of a Dallas sign company to run his own business, Club House, Inc.

"I don't even own a set of golf clubs. The ones I play with now are borrowed. But I think I will soon be able to afford a set of clubs," he said.

Trevino said he hopes to sell 500,000 of the games the first year, beginning with delivery of the games to Japan in August. He is working on opening up markets in the United States at New York, Chicago and Dallas and in other small, crowded nations like Japan that are cramped for recreation space. He also is seeking markets in Australia and Canada.

The 35-year-old artist, member of the Spanish minority, said he has had to prove all along that he had a good product.

Trevino said he went to the Dallas Chamber of Commerce last year to make arrangements for marketing the game in the U.S.

He said a chamber official told him: "Young man, it will be a miracle if you get an order for a thousand."

Trevino said he has applied for a Small Business Administration loan to set up a plant operation in Dallas employing 30 persons from minority groups.

He said the demand for games in Japan alone could go as high as 300,000 and may equal that in the United States.

Boating

By JACK WOLISTON
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coast Guard soon will have authority to eliminate one of its biggest headaches — unsafe voyages by private individuals that usually wind up costing the government millions of dollars in search and rescue operations.

Beginning April 17, a Coast Guard district commander will have the authority to terminate an intended voyage if he determines that the vessel is unsuited to make the voyage.

In a preamble to the regulation published recently, the Coast Guard notes that on the average there usually are about four manifestly unsafe voyages attempted each year, such as a canoe trip across the Atlantic, or a rubber raft voyage to Japan from California.

As a result, search and rescue teams spend a "disproportionately large commitment" of resources—money and manpower—in tracking and rescuing the participants when the missions abort, the Coast Guard said.

It pointed out that there was no plan to investigate every potential transoceanic voyage, but only those that have the earmarks of disaster.

The decision to terminate a proposed voyage will be up to the Coast Guard district commander, who may designate a specific craft as being "unsafe for a specific voyage on a specific body of water." He cannot re-delegate this authority but must make the determination himself.

Robert N. Bavier Jr., Darien, Conn., who will skipper the new aluminum America's Cup contender Courageous this summer, has named Halsey Herreshoff as his navigator and John Sutphen as tactician.

Herreshoff, a yacht designer, is a grandson of Nathaniel Greene Herreshoff who designed five America's Cup defenders between 1893 and 1920. Sutphen has sailed to numerous victories on the ocean racing circuit with his yacht Scorpion.

NSBA Votes To Support Equal Rights For Women

HOUSTON (UPI) — The National School Boards Association has adopted a resolution supporting equal rights for women and called for local and state education boards to guarantee them.

The resolution originally was drafted to support the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, but it was changed Monday on a motion by a Peoria, Ill., woman who said the association could be "buying a pig in a poke."

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cleaver asked that references to the Equal Rights Amendment be deleted from the resolution since the language was not specific enough.

"This amendment has raised many questions with people who have studied it carefully in such areas as law and Social Security," she said. "Some states are now in the process of reconsidering the ratification and until those questions are resolved, I for one, feel this assembly would be buying a pig in a poke."

A North Carolina educator told the association she believes the lopsided number of male-principals in American schools tends to impress on young people that women are inferior to men especially in the area of school discipline.

In addition, Dr. Charlene T. Dale, a junior high school principal in Charlotte, said the situation has a negative psychological affect on female students.

"You as board members should realize that boys and girls in your schools are not receiving equal educations if the principal is always a man," Dale said. "The boys start reaching for greater achievement while the girls conclude leadership positions are reserved for men."

She also cautioned the board members to stop confusing brain-and-brawn in hiring school administrators. She said discipline problems could be handled just as well by a human understanding as by a strong man.

Brawn seems automatically to get to the top of the educational hierarchy while brains go unnoticed if they happen to reside in the body of a woman," she said.

Dale's contentions were supported by a report submitted to the association which said women are left out of most school policy-making positions.

The Commission on the Role of Women in Educational Governance said that a survey of school boards found that women are not able to prove their capabilities due to the barriers against women becoming board members.

"The most important barrier to women seeking school board office is an attitude volunteered by both men and women polled that a woman is needed on a school board, but it would be undesirable for the board to have too many women or more women than men."

The commission, composed of two men and two women, recommended that the NSBA work to correct the imbalance on the grounds women constitute a major pool of talented individuals which have only begun to be tapped for school board services.

BOY MAKES TRIP PAY
CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — When Steve Verzi, 15, got home after stowing away aboard a Pan American Airways 747 flight to London last month, his father said the $380 he had to pay for the return flight would be "a lot of allowances."

It hasn't worked out that way, however. Steve has revealed that he sold an exclusive story about the flight to a London newspaper for $200, and a television station paid him $100 for his story and promised to send another $100 soon.

As for the cost of the original flight, he said he has agreed with Pan Am that the firm will not demand payment if he does not reveal how he got away with it.

The "Penny Dreadful" of 1850 was the early comic Valentine.

WHY LIST WITH US?

We are not in the "listing race" we only seek a workable number of listings that can be serviced EFFICIENTLY.

By controlling the number of our listings we are able to advertise your home on an almost daily basis.

We have an experienced and hard working staff that has over 70 years of combined real estate experience in selling Pampa properties.

We always have and always will put emphasis on PERSONALIZED service.

We are members of the Multiple Listing Service.

Let us relieve you of the many problems and legal difficulties that can arise in selling a home. There will be no cost to you if we do not make a sale to which you agree.

Woman Arranges Black Adoptions

By MARY TOBIN
NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Jane Edwards modestly says she guesses she was "blessed with a great deal of energy." She needs it.

Executive director of Spence-Chapin Adoption Service since 1967, Mrs. Edwards oversees and approves every case in the files of one of the country's largest adoption agencies.

Then there are meetings with government agencies, boards of directors, professional groups and work with the Community Council of New York and the Child Welfare League, who cooperated with her in pioneering the Indian Adoption Project in our southwestern states.

The accomplishment that gives this attractive, dynamic black woman the most satisfaction however, is the Harlem-Dowling Children's Service, established by her in 1969 through Spence-Chapin to serve New York's black Harlem community.

"Spence-Chapin has always accepted a great number of black babies," Mrs. Edwards said. "But the more I got into this thing, the more I became convinced that we were only making a dent in the problem; large numbers of healthy black babies were being left in hospitals to await homes or shelters and their unwed mothers were going without counseling or care."

Unwanted "White" Agency
Through friends in the black community, Mrs. Edwards interviewed young pregnant women and found they were reluctant to come "downtown to the white man's agency."

"They would say to me 'how do you know how I feel, how can you understand my problems?'" Mrs. Edwards said. "Well I did understand their problems, and I was ashamed that I was unable to reach them. I investigated and found that although there are Catholic agencies, Jewish agencies and white Protestant agencies, all of whom care for black babies, there was no agency devoted solely to them."

Mrs. Edwards envisioned that the only way to reach these neglected mothers and babies was to come to them. With the approval of the Spence-Chapin board of directors under its president Mrs. Alice Hall Dowling, Mrs. Edwards went into Harlem and Bedford-Stuyvesant to begin spadework for her project.

"We had to convince black leaders that this was truly a black project for their community," Mrs. Edwards said. "They have become very cynical about white agencies coming in with lots of money and schemes that bring very little concrete benefit to them. We told them, that although initial funding would come from Spence-Chapin and from Foundations, the agency would become an independent community center as soon as possible." (Harlem-Dowling will become completely independent by the end of 1974).

One of the problems confronting counselors at Harlem-Dowling is drugs. A large percentage of the unwed mothers who come to the center are drug addicts. "If a mother is trying to rehabilitate herself and wants to keep her baby, we try to help her do so," Mrs. Edwards said.

"We keep the baby at the home or in foster care indefinitely. There are cases where the mother is only 13 or 14 years old and wants to finish school or take training to enable her to support her child. We help counsel her through all of this."

To help drug addicted mothers, the clinic employs two para-professionals who are former drug addicts and who do counseling.

Now that Harlem-Dowling is on its own under its competent black director, Joseph P. Smith, Mrs. Edwards has undertaken the establishment of an early childhood development school, for children with organic or emotional problems that can cause developmental lags and learning disabilities. The school will operate under Spence-Chapin and will be for children from 2 to 6 years.

Big Job
"You know, as the need decreases in one area of social service, another pressing need comes up," Mrs. Edwards said, referring to a decrease in the number of illegitimate babies born. "People active in child mental health say that early intervention with the many children born with disabilities is essential. We plan to work with parents as well as children, and suit the program to each child's individual needs."

A big job?

Social Security Q And A

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly, Branch Manager, Social Security Administration, 1541 N. Hobart, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

By HOWARD WEATHERLY
Q. What is the amount of the Supplemental Security Income payment?

A. The basic SSI amount is $140 a month for an individual and $210 a month for a couple. But the monthly payment can be as little as $1. The payments will vary according to the amount of other income a person receives.

Q. Will the SSI payment be added to the social security check?

A. No. Since social security and Supplemental Security are two separate and distinct programs, separate payments must be made. A person who qualifies for both SSI and social security will receive two monthly checks.

Q. Will social security taxes be used to pay Supplemental Security Income checks?

A. No. Social security taxes will not be used to pay SSI benefits. This payment will be financed out of general revenues.

Q. Will social security trust fund money be used to administer the SSI program?

A. No. The cost of SSI benefits and of administering the program will be paid from general revenues.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jet age travelers will be able to find emergency treatment for illness or injury at a new medical clinic opened at San Francisco International Airport. The clinic also makes full medical services available to more than 25,000 airport employees, including preventive health care in a computerized physical checkup center.

BATTIN' AROUND

Public Loses Confidence In Activities Of Business

By C.R. BATTEN
Business is under attack. Public opinion pollsters have noted that the general public has less confidence in business than ever before.

The attack has been building up for a long time, even before Ralph Nader discovered that there is profit to be made from attacking big business.

Men being the natural born imitators that they are, other "consumer interest" groups sprang up to join the cause — pitting consumers against business. Then someone discovered that Earth is a space-ship, and the age of the environmental activist dawned.

Politicians, few of whom were ever noted for their defense of business, jumped onto the bandwagon and joined the attack.

Then came the price freeze of 1971; we wondered in 1972 why it was impossible to purchase some lumber and plywood items, and why the prices of those we could buy were sky high; and in 1973 we considered why we were suddenly faced with a shortage and rising costs of all kinds of energy.

On top of all that came charges of involvement of ITT and the CIA in the internal intrigue of the Chilean government, the political haymaking at Watergate, admissions of illegal contributions of big companies to political campaigns, and charges of attempts by business to influence governmental decisions.

While these shenanigans of industry and government may seem far from the individual consumer, he doesn't like what is going on closer to home any better. He sees prices and his taxes going upward faster and faster. He waits in line at the gas pump; he is buying more hamburger and less steak; spending more money than ever before, and getting less for it. He senses that somehow his problems at home are caused by the fun and games at Watergate.

The beleaguered petroleum industry is taking the brunt of the attack now. Big contributions to political coffers, it is said, have made it possible for it to influence government policies that favored the oil companies by creating shortages and allowing higher prices for higher profits.

The long-time allegations that business is taking the government to seek special favors at the expense of the consumer is being confirmed in the minds of many consumers. It is no coincidence that at the same time, the public confidence in government has also fallen to an all-time low.

Perhaps business and industry have earned the public's mistrust. Perhaps the consumer movement is a response to a long history of efforts by some segments of business to gain restrictive markets and special competitive advantages through government controls, not to mention direct subsidies.

The current efforts of consumer organizations are to end what they see as excessive influence of business in government, and to force business to be more responsible to the people.

In essence, each group seeks superiority in political power — each believing it is but defending itself from the other, though each is dependent on the other.

All this seems to suggest a couple of things. For the consumers: government's misguided intervention in business affairs that got things into this mess.

So, what evidence is there that more intervention, which we seem to be asking for, will get us out? Why shouldn't we ask for government to quit interfering in business affairs, so that business must survive solely from the goods and services it provides to those people who patronize it voluntarily?

Americans today spend a smaller percentage of their take-home pay on food than ever before.

Dear Consumer

It's No 'Fish Tale'

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Do you remember the "mercury scare" we had several years ago?

Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announced that tests showed that swordfish contained too much mercury. So much that FDA said swordfish was unsafe to eat and stopped sales of swordfish.

That was in 1971. Consumers have asked recently if swordfish is still on the "unsafe" list.

Yes, I'm afraid it is. FDA tells me they still recommend not eating swordfish. By their standard, swordfish is still dangerously contaminated with mercury.

This is why you seldom see swordfish in supermarkets or fish markets. If you do occasionally find swordfish for sale, it has been caught locally. FDA has no authority over food that is processed and sold within a state; that's the responsibility of a state agency.

FDA continues to test fish regularly. Any fish containing more mercury than the acceptable level is removed from the market.

Mercury residues in food have become a problem in the recent years of industrial pollution. Mercury is used in many industrial processes, such as paper making. When industrial waste is dumped into streams and rivers, it flows into the oceans and contaminates plants and the fish that eat those plants.

Seafood is just one of the foods that FDA tests to assure consumers of wholesomeness. It checks food samples for many possible contaminants, not just mercury.

Even if you like seafood as much as I do, you should not risk eating swordfish until FDA says it is once again safe to eat. After all, there are other fish—safe fish—in the sea.
