White House Provides Offer On Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House made a last minute compromise offer to the House Judiciary Committee today in an attempt to ward off a subpoena for presidential tape recordings sought in the committee's impeachment inquiry.

'PERSONAL BIAS' Defendants Seek Sirica's Removal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four Watergate defendants have asked that U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica be removed from their trial because they say he has an "unshakable personal bias" in favor of the prosecution.

"Asking that another judge be assigned to their conspiracy trial which begins Sept. 9, the four said: 'We do not mean to disparage Judge Sirica's motives or his attentiveness to his obligations. We simply point out that like all judges, he is human.'"

A joint motion was filed by lawyers for former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, former White House domestic affairs adviser John D. Ehrlichman and former White House Special Counsel Charles W. Colson. A similar motion was filed by Gordon C. Strachan, another former White House aide.

The four are among seven defendants in the Watergate cover-up case.

"Judge Sirica possesses, consciously or unconsciously, a deep-seated or unshakable personal bias in favor of the prosecution," the motion said. They cited Sirica's conduct of the original Watergate trial last year in which they said the judge "went far beyond the issue of guilt or innocence of the defendants."

In other Watergate developments: —Herbert L. "Bart"

But the offer failed to satisfy the Democratic majority on the 38-member committee and the Democrats moved to issue a subpoena for all 41 tapes sought from President Nixon.

Forty-five minutes before the committee met to discuss the subpoena issue, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, telephoned John M. Doar, chief counsel to the inquiry, offering to provide some but not all of the materials requested.

The month and a half-old committee request was in six parts—four for specific tapes of conversations between Nixon and his top aides in February and March, 1973, just before and after Nixon said he learned of the Watergate cover-up.

The fifth and sixth requests were for tapes covering five days of conversations last April.

St. Clair offered to provide the first four parts without a subpoena, but not the last two. Doar outlined St. Clair's offer to committee members, but Democrats insisted on proceeding with a subpoena for all six parts.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., said, "It's a little late to make a deal."

On a straight party-line vote, the committee voted, 21 to 17, in support of a Democratic motion to limit debate on the subpoena issue to 30 minutes. That was an indication the Democrats had the strength to force the subpoena through.

In an apparent attempt to forestall a subpoena, presidential aide Dean Burch told reporters Wednesday that the White House was willing to provide at least some of the evidence which the House committee has been seeking since Feb. 25.

—A federal judge said he would not permit defense lawyers to use the argument of national security in the trial of Ehrlichman and others charged with conspiracy in the break-in at the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said. "It's a very simple conspiracy question. It is whether there was an agreement to bust into the doctor's home (office) and whether they did it."

But he said James D. St. Clair, Nixon's impeachment lawyer, still reserved to himself the right to decide which evidence was "relevant" and which was "irrelevant" and therefore to be kept from the committee.

This went a bit beyond St. Clair's letter Tuesday, giving a noncommittal answer to the formal request for 41 tapes and saying only that an answer would be given by April 22.

Republicans Angered St. Clair's letter angered

Republicans and led to a decision by the Democrats, at a closed-door caucus, to vote for a subpoena, their misgivings notwithstanding.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, the senior Republican on the committee and usually a presidential supporter, was unusually critical. He paraphrased St. Clair's reply this way: "We're going to decide what you need and you damn well better be happy with what you get."

IN MICHIGAN

Nixon Pleased With Reception

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is pleased with the reception he got Wednesday campaigning for a congressional candidate in Michigan and may make further tests of his popularity, his chief spokesman says.

Returning from a presidential motorcade through Michigan's Eighth District — a traditionally Republican peninsula jutting into Lake Huron north of Detroit — White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler indicated Nixon might do more campaigning this year. He said Nixon was "very pleased" by the warm reception accorded by more than 20,000 who turned out along the sparsely populated 57-mile rural and small-town route.

Nixon returned to Washington Wednesday afternoon, and the White House awaited word from the House Judiciary Committee, which is deciding whether to subpoena 41 Watergate-related presidential tapes.

"We're going to turn over all materials St. Clair deems relevant," said White House aide Dean Burch on the return flight to Washington.

The Michigan trip was Nixon's first strictly political campaign since the Watergate scandal broke open a year ago. But he never mentioned the scandal or his own political troubles, sticking instead to a traditional, informal campaign style.

Asked if there would be more such trips, Ziegler smiled and said, "he'll be out."

Speaking four times in the five-hour trip on behalf of candidate James M. Sparling, Nixon heard jeers and chants of "Impeach Nixon Now," "Near Saginaw, where his plane landed, some signs read 'Resign With Honor' and 'If You Love Us—Leave Us—'

But most of the placards along the motorcade supported Nixon—"We're for you Mr President," "This is Nixon Country" and "Hang in There."

Nixon returned to Washington Wednesday afternoon, and the White House awaited word from the House Judiciary Committee, which is deciding whether to subpoena 41 Watergate-related presidential tapes.

"We're going to turn over all materials St. Clair deems relevant," said White House aide Dean Burch on the return flight to Washington.

Golda Meir Sends Letter To Announce Resignation

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir — "at the end of the road" — formally tendered her resignation to President Ephraim Katsir today in reaction to the factional infighting in her ruling Labor party.

"Mr. President," Mrs. Meir said in her letter of resignation, "in accordance with provisions of section 23 of the basic law of government and having informed the cabinet of my intentions I herewith tender my resignation from the post of prime minister."

Mrs. Meir's formal resignation followed by one day her bombshell announcement that she was stepping down. It will open a battle for her succession at a crucial time in the moves for Middle East peace between Israel and the Arabs.

Before sending her letter to Katsir, Mrs. Meir met with her cabinet to inform it officially. It met an hour late, some 90 minutes after a band of Arab guerrillas attacked the town of Kiryat Shemona near the Lebanese border, killing at least 16 persons.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who is at the center of the crisis which provoked Mrs. Meir's decision to resign and who is potentially one of the candidates to succeed her, left the cabinet meeting to fly to the scene of the Arab attack.

Twenty minutes after receiving Mrs. Meir's formal resignation, Katsir said he would begin consultations immediately with political leaders in an effort to find a replacement for her and her government to run Israel on a caretaker basis.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Israel would continue to meet its international obligations during the transitional period. Israel is engaged through Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in delicate negotiations for a troop disengagement with Syria on the Golan Heights where there has been daily fighting for a month.

"There will be no atmosphere of tentativeness," Eban said. Mrs. Meir met with Katsir after briefing the outgoing cabinet on her decision to step down.

Mrs. Meir, who declared Wednesday she had reached "the end of the road," told her cabinet ministers she is going ahead with her plans to turn over her job to someone else.

A cabinet communique following the meeting said she would remain in office until a new government is approved.

A spokesman for the prime minister said the resignation would be effective immediately.

Political sources said the resignation meant the immediate fall of her five-week-old government, but her Labor party might still manage to form a new administration without calling new elections.

Labor party leaders mentioned Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir, Justice Minister Haim Zadok, Labor Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon as likely choices to succeed Mrs. Meir on an interim basis.

Is There Gold In City Parks?

Is there gold in them thar hills of Pampa's Central Park?

William Jarrel Smith, Pampa attorney and secretary-treasurer of the M.K. Brown Foundation, was wondering about it today.

Smith reports that almost every morning as he drives down town he spots one or two men in Central Park sweeping over the ground very carefully with metal detectors.

City Manager Mack Wofford said they are not city employees.

Another source pointed out that they may be searching for silver. Silver coins, that is.

In fact, it is understood many Pampans have a hobby of metal searching and own detectors for that purpose.

City officials point out that if a gold vein is discovered in the park, the City will have first claim on the stake.

Inclined to believe the fortune hunters are looking for lost nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars, the city officials also see little hope of a gold revenue sharing bonanza from below the city-owned land.

Senators Consider Election Financing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite last-minute efforts to rewrite the bill, the Senate today headed for final passage of landmark legislation which would finance presidential and congressional elections through federal subsidies.

Eager to break away for the Easter recess, the Senate hoped to finish the bill by mid-afternoon, but a long string of amendments and increasing absenteeism could alter those plans.

Despite an 11-day filibuster — cracked Tuesday — and numerous amendments, the wide-ranging package of campaign reforms remained virtually intact.

Despite its strong support in the Senate, the bill faces deep resistance in the House and probably a veto by President Nixon.

The Senate Wednesday settled on a campaign spending ceiling of 12 cents per voter in the general election and 8 cents in the primaries. That would give a presidential candidate about $17 million in the general election and more than $10 million in the primary.

Rejected, 51-37, was a proposal by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., to increase general election spending to 14 cents per voter while leaving intact the 8 cents in the primaries.

An attempt by Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., to kill the ceiling provision was defeated 64-21.

The Senate also tabled (defeated) an attempt by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., to kill the bill. The vote was 57-31.

Under provisions of the bill, major party candidates for the White House and Congress in the general election could get a federal subsidy equal to the spending ceiling.

The candidates could choose to use federal funds exclusively, rely totally on private contributions, or take a mix of the two.

In the primaries, candidates would first have to raise a kitty — $250,000 for a White House aspirant — and the government would match that and all small contributions — $250 or less for presidential candidates — on a dollar for dollar basis. Senate and House candidates would have to put up less seed money and only contributions under $100 would be matched.

Housing Shortage Meeting Planned

A meeting to further study Pampa's housing shortage has been set for 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 17, in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

Invited to attend the meeting and hear a report from the sub-committee appointed in February are city officials, members of the Board of Realtors, home builders, representatives of lending agencies and the executive boards of the Pampa Industrial Foundation and Chamber of Commerce.

Commissioners Approve Summer Jobs Program

Gray County commissioners this morning approved a resolution regarding an agreement between the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and local units of government for the establishment of a summer manpower program under the Federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

It is a summer employment program similar to one used last year, Judge Don Cain said. The program helps find employment for underprivileged youth, students out of school for the summer and the elderly.

The program will be run in Pampa by Bill Ragsdale, local manager of the Texas Employment Commission. Types of employment include at the hospital, for the City of Pampa, Gray County, the Youth Center and others.

There is also a private sector employment provision in this year's program, Judge Cain said. The program is wholly federally funded and will not cost the county any funds.

The commissioners also canvassed the results of the April 6 Gray County School Board, Grandview-Hopkins School Board and Alameda School Board elections as required by law.

Also approved was a resolution regarding Amarillo state Senator Max Sherman serving as governor for a day, April 27.

Discussion of courthouse annex parking lot improvements was passed to the May 1 meeting of the commissioners' court.

The commissioners approved a time deposit from the county social security fund in the of $25,000 for 60 days, interest to go to the general fund.

The commissioners approved the March welfare report and the March and first quarter 1974 treasurer's report.

Twenty-nine families were helped by the county welfare department in March at a cost of $1,901. In routine business the commissioners approved the payment of due bills.

IN U.N. MEETING

Gromyko Answers Charges By China

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Soviet Union sent Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to the United Nations today to answer China's charges that Russia and America have become the world's "biggest international exploiters and oppressors."

The Soviet diplomat was scheduled to address the U.N. General Assembly at noon today following a bitter attack against the two superpowers by China.

Teng Hsiao-ping, Chinese deputy prime minister and the highest official ever sent by Peking to the United Nations, told the General Assembly Wednesday the two nations were to blame for much of the world's ills.

"The two superpowers are the biggest international exploiters and oppressors of today," he said. "They are the source of a new world war."

The Chinese attack came on the opening day of a special General Assembly session to study demands by developing nations for higher prices for their raw materials.

Hsiao-ping, although criticizing the United States, concentrated his attack on the Soviet Union, labeling Moscow a "merchant of death."

staggering profits in the twinkling of an eye," he said. American sources said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was expected to arrive in New York Sunday night and reply the next day to China's attack on the United States.

The sources said the United States was unenthusiastic about the conference, called by Algeria's President Houari Boumediene to counter the Washington world oil consumers meeting organized by President Nixon.

Although Kissinger has expressed a desire to consult several diplomats attending the session, U.S. sources said he planned to see only Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi in New York.

Several of the other 82 foreign diplomats and cabinet ministers attending the session were expected to arrange appointments with Kissinger in Washington.

Diplomatic sources said Gromyko and Kissinger would not meet at the United Nations.

KILL RESIDENTS

Arab Guerrillas Seize Israeli Apartment House

United Press International
Three Arab guerrillas seized an apartment house in the Israeli border settlement of Kiryat Shemona today and methodically killed residents one by one before blowing themselves up with explosive-laden belts they had worn for their suicide mission.

The mayor of the town near the border of Lebanon said 21 persons died in the daring raid in which the guerrillas shot women and children and threw them out of the windows. The commandos also went from door to door to shoot anyone who answered. Some hostages apparently died in the suicide blast.

Mayor Abraham Aloni put the death toll at three guerrillas, two Israeli soldiers, eight adult civilians and eight children. A statement by a Palestinian guerrilla group in Beirut said the guerrillas had hoped to force Israel to release 100 Palestinian commandos from Israeli jails but destroyed themselves when Israeli paratroops landed by helicopter on the roof of the three-story apartment house.

The raid came at the height of an Israeli political crisis in which Prime Minister Golda Meir and her cabinet resigned. Despite the seriousness of the political crisis Defense Minister Moshe Dayan left an emergency cabinet meeting to fly to Kiryat Shemona.

Whether other guerrillas were involved in the operation was not known but both Israeli and guerrilla sources said three men aged between 20 and 30 years and firing machineguns and bazookas seized the apartment building in a raid just after dawn. Military correspondents reported earlier there were three guerrilla groups including some who gave fire support. The army did not deny these reports but said as far as the army was concerned only three men were involved.

A guerrilla spokesman in Beirut said the raid was carried out by the "Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine - General Command" (PFLP-GC), a maverick guerrilla faction.

"The three-man suicide unit that carried out the operation killed themselves by detonating explosive belts they were wearing," the guerrilla spokesman said. "In the process, some of the hostages also died."

Speaking shortly after an Israeli announcement that the guerrilla group had been wiped out, the spokesman said: "It is absurd for the Israelis to say they liquidated the unit. How could they have shelled a building which was full of Israeli hostages?"

IN TESTIMONY

Mitchell Denies Investigation Fix

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell testified Wednesday that he did not try to fix a government investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco in return for a campaign contribution.

Mitchell, who along with former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans is charged with conspiracy and perjury in connection with Vesco's $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign, forcefully denied trying to tamper with the investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

Testifying at his trial in U.S. District Court, Mitchell said his only connection with the Vesco case was a telephone call to SEC Chairman William Casey to arrange a meeting with Harry Sears, a go-between for Vesco and former New Jersey state senator.

"Did you at any time ask Casey to do anything but what you just described?" Mitchell's defense attorney, Peter Fleming, asked.

"No, not at any time," Mitchell answered. "Did you feel you were impeding the SEC investigation?"

"On the contrary," Mitchell said, "I thought I might further it." The SEC inquiry eventually resulted in a civil suit accusing Vesco of looting Investors Overseas Services, a mutual fund empire Vesco had wrested control of from Bernard Cornfeld, of $224 million.

Mitchell contradicted the testimony of former White House counsel John W. Dean, who said the quashing or delaying of SEC subpoenas against Vesco and some of his employees was discussed in a New York meeting in late November, 1972.

"I have no recollection whatsoever of such a discussion," Mitchell said. Mitchell also denied knowing Nixon's nephew, F. Donald Nixon Jr., Dean had characterized Mitchell as one of the nephew's "keepers."

Mitchell said he had met Vesco, who "reminded me of my older brother," only once briefly and never talked to him by telephone. Sears was indicted along with Mitchell and Stans, but has become a prosecution witness. Vesco, also indicted, fled the country and is in Costa Rica.

"Did you in your three years in the cabinet receive one red cent from anyone in connection with anything except your salary?" Fleming asked. Mitchell replied "No, sir."

Porter Gains Sentence For Lying To FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert L. "Bart" Porter Jr., described by his lawyer as "the first victim" of Watergate, was sentenced today to 30 days in jail for lying to the FBI about the bugging scandal.

"I am absolutely positive in my heart—all the way down to my toes—that I will never get into trouble again," Porter said, just before Judge William B. Bryant sentenced him.

The boyish-looking Porter, 35, testified at Senate Watergate hearings last summer that he lied about what he knew of Watergate for fear other Nixon campaign officials would accuse him of not being a team player if he didn't.

Porter was scheduling director for President Nixon's campaign organization. He was the 11th person sentenced in connection with Watergate.

Bryant told Porter he "just can't forget" that Porter lied on three different occasions to federal investigators and sentenced him to a minimum of five months and a maximum of 15 months in prison. But he ordered that Porter only serve 30 days on the sentence and be placed on unsupervised probation for one year following his release.

Porter's wife, Carol, clutching hands of friends in the second row of the courtroom, slumped in her seat with tears streaming down her face when the sentence was announced.

Porter's lawyer, Charles Murray, told the judge his client was a man of "honesty, integrity, idealism and devotion to the truth and the right."

Murray said Porter was betrayed by friends in the election campaign who asked him to lie without telling him why.

"He knew nothing of the Watergate break-in," Murray said. "He knew nothing of the so-called cover-up. In fact, he was its first victim."

Porter waived indictment and pleaded guilty Jan. 28 to a single count of making "false, fictitious and fraudulent statements" to the FBI about the bugging scandal. The charge is similar to perjury.

Better Business Letters Clinic Planned By C-C

How to make business letters clear, concise, convincing, and courteous — how to give them the human touch — how to emphasize the reader's interests — these are a few of the points to be covered by W.H. Butterfield during the Business Letter Clinic set for Pampa on Thursday, April 18. Scheduled to run from 7 to 10 p.m., the clinic will be conducted in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Gas Company. It is being sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The $10 registration fee includes a set of 15 letter-improvement charts that cover the fundamentals of good business correspondence.

A widely-known authority on letter writing, Butterfield has written 16 books and some 200 magazine articles on this subject. He is also author of the section on "Letter Writing" in the World Book Encyclopedia, and formerly edited the Better Letters Service of the International Consumer Credit Association.

His letter writing programs have been conducted for business and professional groups in almost 400 cities. In reviewing one of his books, Printers' Ink magazine called him "the most expert of the authorities."

The Business Letter Clinic shows how to make even routine letters build good will, how to avoid trite phrases, how to write clearly and concisely, and how to use effective selling psychology by mail. Actual letters are analyzed to show why some "click" and others fail.

Registration for the Business Letter Clinic can be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 669-3241 or filling out the coupon above. The program is open to all who are interested in improving their letters.

Appeals Court Studies Records On Mutscher

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Court officials say it could take the Court of Criminal Appeals several weeks just to read the voluminous record on the convictions of former House Speaker Gus F. Mutscher Jr. and two associates, and a month or longer to rule on whether to order a new trial.

The five-man court and three appeals commissioners spent nearly two hours Wednesday listening to defense lawyers' arguments for reversal of the five-year probated sentences given Mutscher, former Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and administrative aide S. Rush McGinty.

The judges met immediately after the hearing to assign one of the nation's oldest tree farms is at Perkinston Junior College in Stone County, Miss., where the first pine seedling nursery was begun in 1885.

AT TIC SEMINAR Leaders Discuss Views For Attracting Industries

James Hunt of Sonora, one of three rural commissioners for the Texas Industrial Commission, was in town yesterday to hear Pampa and area community leaders give their views on how the commission can better help attract industry to this area of Texas.

Hunt, along with TIC officials Homer Tucker and Frank Alagna, addressed the gathering on how the Texas Industrial Commission is going about attracting industry to Texas and then elicited suggestions on how they might be able to better do so.

(See picture, Page 1.) Larry Milner, a professional industrial developer from Amarillo, suggested that the state agency work for a program for industrial revenue bonds, a statute requirement that a certain amount of the funds used for industrial research be earmarked for rural areas, the development of better state and federal co-ordination in industrial development and the possibility of co-operative advertising programs designed to attract industry.

Other problem areas brought up in the discussion were the need for more people in communities to understand the necessity for bringing industry into a community, housing shortages (a state-wide problem, according to Tucker), lack of a suitable work force in most communities, and problems with environmentalists.

Representatives from industry and chambers of commerce from Pampa, Canadian, Borger, Memphis, McLean, Amarillo and other towns in the Panhandle were at the meeting.

Hunt was appointed to the TIC following the passing of legislation in the last session of the Texas Legislature creating three new positions on the commission. All three of those commissioners are to come from rural areas.

Appointed at the same time as Hunt were Bill Porter of Terrell and James Bond of Navasota.

All three commissioners are spending the first two weeks of April doing to various rural areas in the state to, in Hunt's words, "get an idea of what people think the Texas Industrial Commission can do in their areas."

Hunt and the other two TIC officials were in Plainview yesterday morning and traveled to Weatherford following the meeting in Pampa.

Anderson Connects Connally To Dairymen's Contributions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Jack Anderson said Wednesday Watergate prosecutors were investigating the possibility milk producers gave former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally a $10,000 bribe.

Anderson, in his nationally syndicated column, said FBI investigators have evidence Connally pocketed the money from the Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) but returned it when contributions from the dairymen came under investigation.

The Washington Post quoted government investigators as saying the bribery allegations were speculative and "iffy."

Connally was quoted by the Post as describing the material in the Anderson column as "preposterous."

Anderson said an AMPI official, Robert Lilly, passed the $10,000 to Jake Jacobsen, a lawyer for the milk group and a friend of Connally's, as a campaign contribution to be used for Republican candidates.

Connally received the money, according to Anderson, but later tried to return it when Watergate prosecutors and others began investigating campaign contributions from the milk producers.

Anderson said Connally returned the money in $100 bills but later changed it to smaller bills when he thought the larger ones could be traced.

Connally has acknowledged he was offered the money by Jacobsen for distribution to congressional candidates of his choosing but said he turned it down.

Jacobsen has pleaded innocent to charges he lied to a grand jury about handling of the money.

Watergate prosecutors have been investigating the relationship between $427,000 contributed to President Nixon's reelection campaign by the milk producers and an administration decision to order higher milk supports. Nixon has denied the two matters were connected.

Schoolmasters Meeting Criticism In China

By CHARLES R. SMITH
UPI Senior Editor
HONG KONG (UPI) — It's "pity the poor schoolmaster" in China these days and the celebrated case of little Miss Huang Shuai, who is all of 12 years old, tells the story as well as any.

Miss Huang didn't care for the way her 5th grade teacher was doing things and wrote a long letter of complaint that was published prominently by the Communist party newspaper, People's Daily.

One who read the letter, and took strenuous objection to little Miss Huang's views, was no less than a political commissar in the army, Wang Ya-cho.

And in an argument that captured the attention of the country, Wang can only be judged to have come out the loser.

The significance of all this is, of course, the nationwide political campaign going on in China, centered around criticism of the ancient sage Confucius.

The public argument between the commissar and Miss Huang developed when People's Daily published the girl's letter in which she criticized one of her teachers in the Chungkuan Village Primary School. People's Daily at the same time praised her for "daring" to "open fire at the pernicious influence of the revisionist line in education."

Some analysts specializing in Chinese affairs suspect that Miss Huang had a ghost writer, possibly from the People's Daily, for this and other letters published in the debate that went on for two months.

Her first letter said relations with her teacher "became strained" when she gave "revolutionary suggestions" to the teacher.

"The teacher criticized me for 'harming the prestige of the teacher' and 'maliciously attacking the teacher,'" the letter said. "I thought that the teacher was suppressing democracy."

For this she suffered, the child wrote. "The teacher's main task during lessons was to incite my classmates against me...my classmates have recently constantly jeered and mocked at me, and vociferously attacked me on all sides."

As a result, she complained, "for many days I have lost my appetite for food and cried aloud in my sleep at night. However, I have not been subjugated, and have repeatedly raised suggestions."

"What wrong have I done? Are we children of the Mao Tse-tung era to be made to act like slaves under the 'schoolmaster's absolute authority' created by the old educational system?"

All this was too much for Wang, serving as a political commissar in a regiment of the Chinese army's production and construction corps in Inner Mongolia.

In a long letter that got hardly any of the attention given Miss Huang's outpourings, he advised the child to "think seriously" about her "erroneous" attitude. He said "naughty children" such as she "have spoiled important matters" and created an "awful mess" in the field of education.

"Huang Shuai, my suggestions to you are not only directed at your personal ways of doing things, looking at things and talking about them. At present, teachers in many schools have become timorous, punctilious, well-mannered men, while the students are in the habit of putting up wall posters" (criticizing their teachers), Wang wrote. "They (the students) call this 'going against the tide' and want to be trail blazers in the revolution in education. In fact, this is not a very good tide."

Miss Huang's reply to this putdown in a long letter published in full in the People's Daily along with an editor's note saying that some people found her action "distasteful" and had come out with criticism.

"Comrade Wang Ya-cho is one of them," the editor's note said. "Huang Shuai has written a letter in reply, refuting his erroneous views one by one in a convincing and forceful way. Her letter is worth reading."

In China, when the People's Daily says something is worth reading, it is because what the party organ says comes close to being the law of the land.

"You," Miss Huang said in reply to Wang's criticism, "have said that those with the spirit of going against the tide alone are not qualified to win the support of the masses.

Accent on Health

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health
J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Veneral disease isn't the silent epidemic it once was, but it still is an epidemic — particularly among the state's young people.

More is being heard about VD in Texas, but more — much more — needs to be said about the causes and the cures for syphilis and gonorrhea, says the Texas State Department of Health.

Last year in Texas, 64,210 cases of gonorrhea and 5,354 cases of syphilis were reported.

Gonorrhea increased by about 12 to 15 percent, but in the 10 through 14-year-old age group the increase was a startling 26 percent. And, the age group from 15 through 29 reported 85 percent of all VD cases in the state.

Nationwide, gonorrhea has become the number one reported communicable disease, and syphilis — once thought to be under control — is continuing to present a serious problem.

Public health officials estimate that more than two million Americans were affected last year by veneral disease — more than half of the victims under 25 years of age.

The Texas State Department of Health and local health departments are using a four-pronged attack against VD. Emphasis is being placed on: epidemiology (or case tracing); gonorrhea screening by various health agencies; closer cooperation with laboratories and private physicians; and education; or public awareness.

April is being observed as "VD Awareness Month," and education ranks high among priorities in combating veneral disease. Everyone needs to understand how VD is spread, what the symptoms are and what can be done about it.

Even today, despite the advances being made in bringing out the true facts on VD, there still is a "hush-hush" attitude about veneral disease.

Syphilis and gonorrhea are serious health problems. Syphilis can attack any part of the body, including the heart and brain. If a victim remains untreated, syphilis can cause insanity, crippling, blindness, heart damage and death.

A pregnant woman with syphilis can pass it on to her unborn baby, causing it to be born sick, deformed or dead. Gonorrhea can cause sterility, heart damage, arthritis and blindness.

Health authorities emphasize that gonorrhea and syphilis are spread by germs passed from one person to another during intimate contact. Knowing the signs of VD — and reacting to them by seeking treatment — is very important.

The first sign of syphilis — a sore called a chancre — usually appears where the germ enters the body, usually from 10 to 90 days after contact. The painless sore may go away, but the disease doesn't.

A rash, sore throat or falling hair may appear from two to six weeks after the sore disappears. Again, if the disease isn't treated, the symptoms may disappear and the disease will lie hidden, striking some vital organ such as the heart, brain or spinal cord in later years.

While gonorrhea isn't considered as lethal as syphilis, it is more widespread and harder to control. The incubation stage is shorter, and first signs of infection usually appear within three to five days.

Infected persons may experience a burning sensation while urinating, have a discharge from the sex organ or have abdominal pain. Males normally are acutely aware of these symptoms, but in women the symptoms may not appear or be ignored.

The national Center for Disease Control estimates that in the United States there are 800,000 women who have gonorrhea and don't know it. Those who have VD and don't know it are called asymptomatic carriers.

An important thing about VD is that it is contagious, serious and curable, say Dr. M.S. Dickerson, chief, Bureau of Communicable Disease Service for the State Health Department.

Dr. Dickerson says any person with symptoms of VD should visit a doctor or public health center immediately and request an examination. In Texas, all VD cases are handled confidentially. Minors may be examined and treated without notifying their parents.

The veneral disease message is being spread throughout the state during VD Awareness Month but, says Dr. Dickerson, the battle against this health threat is a continuous one: 12 months out of the year.

Hey! Doesn't hubby have rights?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You're the best in your field, but every now and then even you make a mistake. Example: Woman engaged to man who wants to buy a farm. She refuses to live on farm. He gives in. They live 28 years in city.

Now, with retirement approaching, he wants to buy a modest 12 acres, where he can (presumably) raise a little garden, plant a few fruit trees, and perhaps keep a few chickens. He wants to spend his latter years in healthy, happy, productive activity; a most commendable and wholesome idea certainly.

The wife had her way for 28 years. Yet you tell her, "Don't give an inch or you'll wind up with 12 acres!" Doesn't the husband have any rights? I say he should buy his little retirement plot and move on it, and if she doesn't want to go along—good riddance!

DON BUCK: GIRARD, KAS.

DEAR DON: When you put it that way, I'll have to admit you make a lot of sense, so after thinking it over, I surrender, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest [and envy] the letter from the woman whose husband wanted to share her with his friends. I should be so lucky!

Twelve years ago I married a man who was so effectively taught in his childhood that sex was dirty, that after 12 years of marriage he still thinks sex is sinful.

Need I tell you what kind of a bed partner he has been? I have had a lot of time to think about it, and if I had to choose between promiscuity and abstinence, believe me, I'd choose promiscuity. DOING WITHOUT IN GAINESVILLE

DEAR DOING: I don't "envy" you, either. But remember, "promiscuity" is no pass to paradise—if you can believe my mail. And I do.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is almost perfect. We've been married for three years and get along fine, but there is one problem. When we are with people Norton is very quiet. I am over making up excuses for him, like, "Oh, Norton is tired tonight," or, "Norton isn't feeling very well."

When he and I are alone together he is fine, but when we're in company, he clams up. People keep asking me if he's mad.

Have you any suggestions for him? Or for me?

NORTON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Norton that silence is sometimes mistaken for unfriendliness, so to please try to be more sociable. But don't nag him about it. He's probably shy, and too much pushing on your part will make him even more self-conscious.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HEARTBROKEN PARENTS: From your letter I would say that you did your best. Now, quit punishing yourselves. Some parents "train up a child in the way he should go," and out of sheer spite and rebellion, the child deliberately departs from it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

BERMUDA: Sunny Answer To The Energy Crisis

NEW YORK (ED)—There are many ways to deal with the energy crisis in terms of surviving the cold winter. Curling up by the fire and counting the days until summer. Buying a fur coat. Stocking up on cans of soup to serve steaming hot. But perhaps one of the most enjoyable is following the sun.

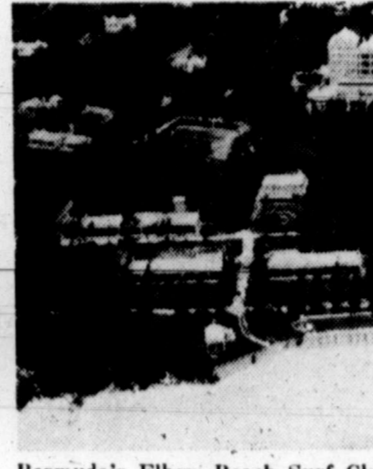

There was a time when season rates made excursions to sunshine islands prohibitively expensive. The colder it was here, and the warmer it was there, the higher the hotel rates. But now the concept of package tours has changed all that. Special plans make it possible to vacation in the sun during the winter without spending a fortune.

Some hotels have special packages that cater to a particular interest such as golf or tennis. Others have plans that are designed for a specific group such as honeymooners. A third type of package rate is based on length of stay.

Bermuda's Elbow Beach Surf Club offers a bit of Britain in a tropical setting. This hotel combines the best of both worlds. Special package rates allow for inexpensive vacations.

In addition, The Heavenly Honeymoon Holiday package pampers newlyweds with complimentary cover charges for the hotel's night club, an invitation to a champagne party, an appointment at the hotel's beauty salon, honeymoon souvenirs and a gift voucher. Accommodations are in air-conditioned rooms and both Rendezvous Plans are reasonably priced.

Bermuda's Elbow Beach Surf Club offers a bit of Britain in a tropical setting. This hotel combines the best of both worlds. Special package rates allow for inexpensive vacations.

Although the fuel supply is dwindling up north, the sunshine is limitless in Bermuda. It is the ideal winter retreat complete with pink sands, turquoise water and easy lifestyle. But more important during the era of the devalued dollar it's great to be able to choose economical package rates to suit every vacationer's personality and pocketbook.

Bicycling and motorcycling are great ways to explore the Bermudian landscape and historic sightseeing spots.

There's so much to do at the Elbow Beach: golf, tennis, water sports, nightlife and shopping attract visitors.

Guests at The Elbow Beach Surf Club in Bermuda can take advantage of the Bermuda Commuter Holiday package which includes free tennis, complimentary beach equipment, and an invitation to a rum swizzle party. (a mixer to help guests get acquainted). Besides a full breakfast and 4 course dinner, a traditional English tea is served in the afternoon.

VFW Auxiliary Installs Officers

Ladies Auxiliary to Pampa Post No. 1657, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States met Tuesday, April 2, in VFW Hall for a business meeting and election of officers with Mrs. Bill Leonard, president, presiding. Mrs. Joe Ing, chaplain, offered the opening prayer and Mrs. Chester Williams gave the Charge of the Patriotic Instructor, followed by the Pledge to the Flag.

Mrs. Vernon Stuckey, secretary, read General Orders No. 4 from the Department secretary regarding election of officers and chairman reports mailed to be completed for years work.

April 20 was designated as Lite-A-Bike Safety program through the Southern Conference. Each auxiliary is asked to participate.

Department Cancer chairman mailed tickets on a $50 bill to be given away at the State Convention at El Paso, June 19-23. The proceeds go to the State VFW Auxiliary Cancer Aid and Research Fund.

Mona Parvin, senior vice president of Perryton, mailed tickets to be sold on a six quart electric ice cream freezer to be given at the District No. 9 meeting in Amarillo in May. This is the Fund Raising project by the district to pay official delegates to the state convention and expenses due the district president.

An invitation was received from the Lubbock VFW Post and Auxiliary to participate in a Loyalty Day parade, May 1, in Lubbock. To enter a patriotic float or ride in the parade with banner from local organization.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, APRIL 12
Your birthday today: From a fast early enterprise your year sets into a deliberately paced survival-improvement campaign. Character is built and confirmed in the coherent effort achieved now. Do not neglect spiritual concerns as you get on with material successes. It is better to concentrate on special interests, avoid sidelines and scattering of energy. Relationships are diverse, require tact, common sense. Today's natives are hopeful, generally philosophic.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Long-standing issues come to sudden decisions or terminations. Some older people are very helpful, some quite the reverse. Stick with schedules.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Nothing goes smoothly. Now is the time for a definite break with unproductive past connections and ventures. Compromises only tend to collapse.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: It's a variable day of contrasts and no formal logic quite meets your needs. Meditation provides an opening for welcome intuition.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Finances improve with steady effort. Anything mechanical requires special care, perhaps maintenance—if it isn't in perfect order leave it unused.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Others share your tendency to be set in your ways. Today provides excellent opportunity for learning to take differences into account in a fair manner.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Endless rounds of discussion ranging from gentle to harsh arise over almost anything or nothing. Family issues open and must be worked out.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Minding your own business brings greater rewards and saves you a great deal of needless bother. Today's influences can be redirected into creative progress.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Family or group resources are more easily mobilized for major promotions now in the planning states. Not a good day, however, for making anything final.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Concerns of relatives deserve higher priority now—be gracious and graceful. Express your feelings towards those you love with action as well as words.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Most of the week's enterprises cannot be properly completed. Realize your limitations; do what you can within reason; plan for later stages of work.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: There's much to share, plenty to learn. Avoid getting into speculative financial moves, especially the sure things suggested by good friends.

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)— An economic study published here predicts a four per cent increase in capital investments this year over 1973 by Argentina's manufacturing industry. The study by the Foundation for Latin American Economic Investigations also predicted an increase of 22 per cent in investment in durable goods by the manufacturing sector.

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (UPI)— When it comes to the Civil War, some southerners have neither forgotten nor forgiven. An example of lingering feelings is found in Stone Mountain State Park where the skunk house in a wildlife exhibit is named "Gen. Sherman's Mansion."

Today's deal serves as a good example of why it is impossible to present any over-all principle as to when to draw trumps at once, and when not to. It is appreciated, of course, that whenever trumps are not drawn, declarer is always running the risk that something "unforeseen" might happen—specifically that he might find a sure winner being trumped. But it is never a matter of a risk in the abstract; it is usually a matter of one risk pitted against another—the matter of a lesser risk as compared to a greater risk.

Most players would probably take the trump finesse, having been taught to draw trumps as quickly as possible. A minority would lean towards the club finesse instead, for even if the trump finesse were successful, there would be no assurance of avoiding the loss of a trump trick, whereas if the club finesse worked, declarer would make his game—going trick.

Lower Hemlines Fashionable Look For Winter

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)—The fashionable look next winter, if Italian ready-to-wear designers have their way, will take skirts to midcalf.

With a few notable exceptions, among them Valentino, most of the top Italian designers went along with the lower hemlines that swept the Paris collections for this summer. Few, however, went as far as the ankle-length street dress.

Designers showing their lines under the crystal chandeliers of the Hall of Mirrors in Florence's Renaissance Pitti Palace last week were unanimous on one subject—costs.

After last year's big price rises because of junks and labor, there was a big effort to hold the line on prices and in some cases costs dictated styles.

Fendi, the Roman furriers, won the only ovation of the three-day Florence shows with a collection of squirrel, why squirrel? Because opossum, beaver and other furs that used to be the backbone of boutique collections were too expensive for boutique price tags this year.

No Buttons
 Laura Aponte of Rome did away with buttons and kept her knitwear slim-to-save on labor and materials costs. One happy result was a woven-in border on her cardigan jackets.

But almost everyone else indulged in enough material for bias-cut skirts. They looked newest and nicest at mid-calf covering the top of bulky boots, low-heeled or with medium stacked heels.

In what might have been a delayed reaction to the energy crisis, the designers offered extra warmth in the form of long, fringed scarves and deep silk or woolen shawls, also fringed.

The Squirrel Look
 Fendi showed those able to afford it how to really keep warm by piling on two and three layers of fur. The Fendi squirrel, trimmed with narrow bands of hare and dyed wonderful shades of clay, terracotta, earth or mud brown, rock, sand and copper ore, lacked the usual canvas linen interlining.

They were so light that a cape or pyramid jacket could go over a belted coat and a weskit without making the wearer look like the abominable snowman.

More in line with a boutiquesopper's budget, Fendi matched fur coats to their blousy trenchcoat in-rainproof tan poplin. They could be worn separately or together like a fur-lined raincoat.

Valentino, showing separately in his Roman palazzo, kept his hemlines at about two inches below the knee, slimmed down his pant legs and revived the blouse. His blouses were very full with a yoke in the back and sometimes worn over the skirt, belted with a matching fringed scarf.

Black Velvet
 For evening he showed a black velvet suit, the narrow skirt buttoned-up the front with rhinestones, the long quilted cardigan jacket trimmed with rhinestones. A black velvet trenchcoat went over matching pants and silk blouse with a rhinestone belt.

Younger looking and just as stylish was a silk dress by Charade of Genoa. The bias-cut, ankle-length short-sleeved print of black flowers scattered on a beige background was worn over a long-sleeved black bodystocking and with lowheeled bulky black boots. The effect was vaguely reminiscent of a Russian peasant outfit.

Then there were those individualists who have found a formula that works and stick to it.

Roberta di Camerino of Venice specializes in trompe l'oeil prints on simple dresses of wool jersey, velvet or synthetics and plasticized cotton raincoats and umbrellas. This season it's what she calls the "blazer look."

She did an outfit of raincoat, bias-cut skirt and blazer, umbrella and stockings all in the same pattern of green chain links on brilliant red. A long dress was printed to look like a blazer over a plaid skirt.

Center of Style

Mendola of Rome has been making daytime and long evening dresses in uncrushable jerseys and silk with full skirts and simple long-sleeved shirt tops for years. Suddenly they are in the center of style.

They come in silk or, at less than a third of the price, in a new light banion with almost the exact feel of silk. This season there is a cheerful new pattern of a cat peering through a Rousseau jungle and also new chenille knit battlejackets or long cardigan coats.

But the man who practically started it all, Count Emilio Pucci, seems to have taken himself out of the running this season.

Few spiders live more than two years, and males, who die soon after mating, rarely survive a year.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Let The Real Criminal Stand

One of the very interesting ways that politicians subtract from individual liberty is to impose a penalty without specifying a crime.

A close-at-hand example is the U.S. Senate vote Monday to bar release of eastern presidential returns until after polls close in the West.

The amendment states: "Whoever makes public any information with respect to the number of votes cast for any candidate for election to the office of the presidential and vice presidential elector in the general election held for the appointment of presidential electors prior to midnight eastern standard time on the day on which such election is held shall be fined not more than $5,000, imprisoned for not more than a year, or both."

Obviously, the bill flies in the face of the First Amendment. That amendment bars Congress from making any law "abridging the freedom of speech." But here are Senators trying to tell you what you cannot say on election day.

But there is something more basic to the Senators' wrong thinking than a mere abuse of the Constitution. This is that they are specifying penalties while omitting to specify a crime.

What moral wrong has any person committed if at 6 p.m. on election day he says that candidate Smith carried New York State by 100,000 votes?

If the Senators can point that out, then they have some basis for declaring a penalty. If the Senators can say "that the divulger of election returns has thereby committed theft, fraud, deceit or corruption, then there is some logic to attaching a penalty."

But obviously a premature release of election information in itself is none of these. So the result is, a person can be sent to jail for merely speaking the truth — that is, if the bill is adopted and becomes law.

We have read other examples of similar Congressional enactments in which Congress forbade behavior without determining any crime. We can't think of anything more arbitrary, more subject to abuse than for a group of politicians to punish people for non-crimes. The proposal to punish people for exercising free speech shows how far the politicians are willing to go. Their willingness to steal the liberty of others, to violate the Constitutional agreement, to defraud the inhabitants of the land under the color of law — THESE are the real crime. The actual criminals have thus revealed themselves.

To Those Who Produce

Blessed are the producers for they are the ones who make distribution of wealth possible.

Money itself cannot be consumed, only what money can buy — a product, a trip, a service, whatever, resulting in constant distribution and redistribution of wealth. So, whenever anyone says, "Thou shalt not work," he is saying, "Thou shalt not share in the distribution of wealth."

Anyone who lies supinely and produces nothing has no bait to catch wealth. Except for "volunteered" charity, only by the interposing of force — unions, government agencies, criminal gangs — do non-producers share in the distribution of wealth.

There are many criers and schemers for re-distribution of wealth. This amounts to nothing more than demands from the Forcers to plunder and steal wealth for those who do not produce.

Blessed are the producers.

OUTRIDER

President And His Tax Returns

By GARRY WILLS

So Nixon is going to cough up nearly half a million dollars in back taxes, and the White House statement tells us this was fine and noble of him, not to fight the adverse finding by both the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation and the IRS itself. His case, we are told — by his people, is "compelling" — though he will not let it compel us. He is giving up the defense "open to an ordinary taxpayer," out of extraordinary shooting pains of late — discovered complacence.

Leave aside that he had already promised to abide by the decision of one of these groups — who can expect a Nixon to keep his word? Leave aside that the findings of the Joint Committee and the IRS were roughly equal, and that he would not ignore the latter with flouting the former — to which he had appealed in the first place. Leave aside that he should have paid the sum, in increments, at four earlier times. Nixon does not live by the rule of lesser mortals. We are to congratulate him for forking over when caught.

Well, come to think of it, there is something extraordinary in his quick promise to respond to this one demand. On tapes, on papers, or subordinates' testimony, he has usually sworn not to be responsive all the way up to the jailhouse doors, when he finally, reluctantly, minimally, did what he told us he would not do.

The tax matter seems different — but only seems. He has never said he would fight that down to the wire. Indeed, he volunteered his returns to Congress, before any prosecutor (special or plain old) came knocking at the door. Why is that? For one thing, he could not claim "executive privilege" for his tax secrets. So far as we know, the Russians are not tending or relaxing their missile-mashing thumb over the size of Citizen Nixon's tax returns. The "confidentiality" a president supposedly needs for deciding great matters of state does not extend to the masked ball the President thru for his daughter at the taxpayers' expense.

But logic has as little hold on Mr. Nixon as consistency does. In those terms, we might be tempted to write off his non-writing-off of the past — due dough to a sudden and unexplicable generosity. Maybe he was momentarily crazed into rectitude.

But Nixon rarely non-Nixonizes; and there is a reader explanation at hand. Half a million, quickly forked over, forestalls three even grimmer prospects — first, of three-quarters of a million dollars, payable if any civil fraud were discovered; then, the threat of a worse penalty for criminal fraud; and finally, a more probable impeachment if such frauds were proved. Remember that all his earlier reluctance has as its aid, the stalling or stultifying of further investigation. In this case, a prior readiness achieved the same object. If he pays, he will be arguing, this closes the books on the tax part of his record. If he contested the findings, he would invite further scrutiny — the last thing he wants just now. After all, his only argument against fraud is an appeal to his own ignorance. He was too busy or too befuddled or too dumb to know what errors his tax lawyers were making. That is not an excuse available to the rest of us; and it is humiliating enough in itself for a man who is supposed to be able to keep track of a country, if not a world. Still, humiliation is one thing; and impeachment quite another — he will take the former, if necessary to escape the latter.

The President may be busy, or befuddled, or — at the extreme redoubt — plain dumb. But he would rather be President than bright. That is why he is forking over. Other men helped him buy the presidency, in two races, by donating over a hundred times that half a million dollars. The least Nixon can do to keep the office is put up a sum equal to that which several corporations gladly paid when he was campaigning. How much is the presidency worth? At half a million, it's a bargain.

INSIDE LABOR

World-Wide Boycott Coming?

By VICTOR RIESEL WASHINGTON — Charismatic, tieless, restless Cesar Chavez has only one table grape-gathering contract left. But in the field he has a powerful majority of two — almost all of the church and now all of George Meany.

There have been some off-the-record meetings with men of the pulpit and men of labor power, and sooner than later there will be a globe-sweeping multinational boycott of Western table grapes and lettuce growers who refuse to switch their allegiance and contracts from the massive Teamsters brotherhood to the tiny United Farm Workers.

At this moment the odds that the rest of the American labor movement will call for such a boycott are 100 to 1. That is, if Cesar calms down and ceases harassing some California distillers who make wines from grapes.

"When we get rolling on this, it won't be a piece-of-paper boycott," said an intimate colleague of Meany's, privy to what has been developing in the eighth-floor inner sanctum of the AFL-CIO's veteran president. "It will be the same sort of operation as in Farah and during the original table grapes fight of the late '60s."

The war against the Teamsters will be fought on the sidewalks and waterfronts of the world's big cities — and not on the hot roads and field of produce ranch domain.

There will be pickets in Coachella soon, of course. But the sites of conflict will be in front of supermarkets and inside them. Not a physical struggle. Not the crazies, the hippies, the overenthusiastic collegiates and the dedicated nuns and priests moving at will. But a centralized, coordinated "federated" strike directed by Meany's skilled strategist, the Seafarers' Paul Hall and the knowledgeable retail clerks' leaders. The contest will develop from the inside out. It may not really matter for a while that some 35,000 new Teamsters members are harvesting in the Coachellas of the West.

It will not matter that Chavez has but a few thousand members in his legions. What will matter is the impact of "the boycott," not Cesar's "huelga" (the strike), on the reputation of a label. For this will be a product boycott. Look at what happened to the Texas-based Farah pants manufacturing company when "the movement" rallied to the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (men's garments) directed by the ACWA's "young" leaders, Jack Sheinkman and Murray Finley. They are the new breed. The former, who is secretary-treasurer, is in his late 40s and the latter, the president, just past 50. The Farah boycott, steamed by Meany, raged in over 60 cities. And it rolled on to Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Japan, Britain and Belgium. The movement put a full-time organizer into Scandinavia, one of Farah's best markets. And towards the end the firm was about to close its Belgium plant. The boycott's foreign operation was channeled through the International Textile Garment and Leather Workers Federation, headquartered in Brussels but with affiliates on every continent.

Reportedly, during the 20-month strike and boycott, the firm's annual sales dropped from $170 million to a projected $100 million in 1974.

That was a tough one for any industrialist to take. And it's far more than a matter of pickets, production and distribution. A corrosion seeps into the public image of the label. Slowly the public, without knowing really why, reacts to the "movement's" triphammer propaganda attacks. Slowly purchasing is polarized. Somehow the impressions spring through of good on one side, evil on the other.

Slowly, the movement's boycott becomes a worldwide cause — celebre. This developed during the traumatic table grapes boycott some years back. The movement pounded everything from the Pentagon to London's posh stores. Salespeople refused to sell. Dockworkers refused to unload.

Then it hits back home — in the produce valleys. Danger of all this, of course, is that the public doesn't always swing back to the product and thousands of jobs as well as profits are lost.

But in the grape and lettuce fields, Cesar Chavez and his small union can go on forever — if they have some money as well as the movement.

For a while Chavez got the money. Millions of dollars. Then his people misbehaved. Reports streamed into Meany's headquarters that the hyperthyroid pickets were invading stores, roughing up people and urging illegal secondary boycotts of whole supermarkets, shopping centers and food chains.

In Canada, the UFW hit the Dominion Stores, a chain of supermarkets. With Canadian workers behind him, Chavez ordered picketing until the chain took all the boycotted table grapes and lettuce off all their shelves. Hundreds demonstrated against the "whole" store. And, in Salinas, Calif., when a judge ordered Chavez to end mass picketing against California liquor stores selling Gallo wine (made by AFL-CIO distillers) which the UFW nonetheless was boycotting, Chavez called this "outrageous" and ordered intensified picketing. All this angered Meany and his Executive Council colleagues. And word went out there would be no boycott. No more money. One leader said, "It was like a new toy to those Chavez people."

Then came more conferences. And Cesar promised to bring his people in line and go only for a product, not storewide boycotts. Cesar was told that when he delivered discipline, there would be delivered to him the new boycott — round the world, Farah-style. Watch for it. (All Rights Reserved)

Can You Believe This?!

Back in the waning days of his administration, former President Lyndon Johnson — having spent the nation close to bankruptcy — dispatched emissaries around the world to beg for money.

Little Thailand, which has received nearly $2 BILLION in U.S. foreign aid since the colossal international giveaway program began, was literally rolling in money, having waxed fat from Uncle Sap's mindless generosity. The Thais promptly agreed to loan this country $100 million and Johnson's grateful treasury officials made special arrangements to pay them 6% interest. That loan was paid off last July, when due. It cost you, the American taxpayer, $27 MILLION in interest on your money that was given away.

The unanswered question is on what date will the taxpayers of this country start a revolt against this sort of madness.

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE

Case Against Nixon Becoming Bit Wobbly

By WILLIAM RUSHER

To anyone trained in the law and sufficiently far from Ground Zero to be reasonably objective, the year-long effort to find some basis for the impeachment of President Nixon has borne an unmistakable resemblance to the Theatre of the Absurd. Innuendoes, dark suspicions, flights of fancy — just about anything, it seemed, would do. Of hard evidence, however, there has been next to none.

As long as the battle was waged largely at cocktail parties, evidence may not have mattered. But, as presidential counsel St. Clair settles into his job and the Democratic bravos on the House Judiciary Committee finally start getting down to theirs, the acute shortage of that commodity is becoming glaringly apparent.

Who can have forgotten the halcyon days of June and July 1973, when the wobble of Sam Ervin's eyebrows was interpreted by a fascinated nation as implying that his committee was about to expose wrongdoing in the Oval office itself? Bella Abzug, that Phyllis Diller of liberalism, didn't even wait for the end-of-the-hearings.

She introduced an impeachment resolution then and there. But the other day in Cleveland, Mistah Sam finally admitted in public that his Watergate committee had found no evidence to justify the impeachment of Richard Nixon. (Did you even see that story, by the way? No New York paper carried it on page one; neither the "Times" nor the "Post" carried it at all. As William Randolph Hearst subsequently wrote, "I must cast my vote for impeachment of the news media.")

But, as I say, we are finally getting down to the nitty-gritty; for anyone interested in following the game from here on in offer the following more or less lawyerly observations.

First, you can forget 99 per cent of all the issues, allegations and whatnot that have been proposed in the last twelve months as bases for the impeachment of Richard Nixon. Most of them, as legal propositions, never amounted to a hill of beans anyway; as for the rest, Nixon may conceivably be guilty of one or more specific acts of wrongdoing, but if so the proof is spectacularly lacking.

So, despite all the hullabaloo, my guess is that Nixon is still very likely to serve out the term to which he was elected.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®

...it tells you how

Cooks who've mastered the art of baking their own whole wheat bread soon want to graduate to waffles, biscuits, cupcakes and other recipes that call for whole-wheat flour. Sooner or later, that takes them hunting for the secret of do-it-yourself graham crackers... and here's the recipe recommended by San Francisco Examiner Food Editor Helen Crevelli Brown:

Stir together two cups of whole-wheat flour, one cup enriched white flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon baking soda and one-fourth teaspoon of salt.

Then cream together (until fluffy) one-half cup of shortening, one cup of packed light-brown sugar and one-half cup of granulated sugar. Add one teaspoon of vanilla extract and then blend in the flour mixture and one-half cup of milk (a little of one, then a little of the other and stir well after each addition).

Chill the dough overnight, divide it into quarters and roll each portion out on a floured surface until it forms a rectangle one-eighth-inch thick. Trim the dough into a five-by-fifteen-inch rectangle and trim that, in turn, into six rectangles measuring two and a half by five inches. Mark a line down the center of each piece of dough with a fork... and score a pattern of holes on the squares with the fork's prongs.

Bake the crackers on greased baking sheets in a preheated 350-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes, or until they're crisp and their edges are browned. The recipe makes about two dozen double crackers.

Selective Service Announces 'Registration By Mail'

AUSTIN — Col. Melvin N. Glantz, the state director of Selective Service for Texas, has announced the use of "registration by mail" in Texas. Although inductions have ended, young men are still required by Federal Law to register with Selective Service at age 18. Failure to register makes the young man liable for an extreme penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 fine. Recent reorganizations within the Selective Service System have left considerably fewer local board offices open in Texas. As a result, many registrants live a considerable distance from the nearest registration place. To make the requirement of registration more convenient for those men who are a great distance from a Selective Service Registrar, the forms for "registration by mail" will be used.

many people think it no longer necessary for young men to register, but the law still requires each young man to register within 30 days before or after his 18th birthday. Glantz urged young men to keep their records clean by timely registration with Selective Service, and added, "if a young man has reached age 18 and has not yet registered, he should do so as soon as possible." To receive the new registration by mail form, young men should write to the nearest Selective Service System Area Office or to State Headquarters Selective Service System in Austin, Texas. Young men may register by personally appearing before the following

YOUTH POLL SHOWS Neat Look Gaining Over Sloppy Look

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "neat look" is gaining ground against the "sloppy look" in the dressing habits of America's high school and college students, according to the findings of a Rand Youth Poll just released.

"Dressing down" for comfort and to be in the swing of things still grabs the majority but, the poll found, a surprising 52 per cent of the young people questioned "now agree that (whether they actually do it or not) dressing better makes them look, act and feel better."

The same question in 1967 brought only a 25 per cent affirmative response, said Lester Rand, president of the Youth Poll. Last year, 42 per cent went along with the idea that dressing presentably had its advantages.

Rand said the poll was conducted recently among 5,035 "scientifically selected and representative" high school and college students from all geographical sections of the country.

Permissiveness Blamed The poll also asked the young people what they thought were the main reasons for the misunderstandings and problems that have focused so much attention on youth in recent years.

Too much permissiveness and a lack of guidance and leadership was the reason given by 50 per cent of those polled. "Adults set a poor example" came in second, with 47 per cent.

Other reasons given, in descending order, included: "poor appearance";

"adults cannot understand problems young people face today"; "prevalence of drugs-crime"; "constant threat of war and destruction"; "feeling nobody cares about us"; "boredom."

Family Unity Lacking Asked possible solutions to overcome these misunderstandings and complaints; 54 per cent of the young people polled recommended more "family togetherness." Other suggestions included: "more free and better recreational facilities"; "don't give kids so much money and things"; "greater job opportunities for young people"; "firm crackdown on drug distributors"; "more understanding and sympathetic teachers"; "more inspirational national leadership."

Commenting on the findings Rand, who has been conducting his Youth Poll for 21 years, said today's young people "are keen observers. They look around them and see their rudderless friends doing pretty much what they like minus the leadership they know they require."

Lack of family unity is an important factor among such young people who do complain of being "rudderless." Rand said, noting that "young people have told us so many times over the years that when they are adults and have families they will strive to achieve closer unity and togetherness at home. They believe this could solve many other problems."

Dear Consumer

Privacy And Credit

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education & Welfare

Each year, over 100 million credit reports are issued on consumers and, as a result, an estimated 1.3 million Americans are denied charge accounts, loans, check cashing privileges, insurance and sometimes employment.

Hardly anyone will dispute the need for credit reports: They are important to banks, merchants and credit card companies that must determine the financial reliability of their customers.

But to be effective, credit reports must give accurate, up-to-date and relevant facts. Sometimes, unfortunately, the information in these reports is not accurate or current. As a result many consumers can't get credit or insurance. Some have even lost their jobs.

To protect consumers, President Nixon in 1970 signed into law the Fair Credit Reporting Act. But major problems still exist for the consumer. President Nixon explained in a radio speech Feb. 23: "What was once a minor problem affecting only a small number of people has now become a national problem that could potentially affect every American with a charge account, a service or personnel record, a credit card... a mortgage or an appliance or automobile bought on time."

Because of this growing problem, the President established the new Domestic Council Committee on the Right of Privacy. This cabinet-level committee is examining not only the problem of consumer credit but also how government and business collect, store and use personal information.

In addition, the committee is working with government agencies and Congress on new regulations and legislation to insure that all information collected by both government and business is subject to adequate safeguards. Specifically, the committee is examining:

- How the Federal Government collects information on people and how that information is protected.
- Procedures that would permit citizens to inspect and correct information held by public or private organizations.
- Regulations of the use and dissemination of mailing lists.
- Ways that the government and business can safeguard personal information against improper change or disclosure.

As a member of this important committee, I intend to make sure that the consumer's voice is heard.

If you think your privacy rights have been violated and can send me a detailed case history of your problem, I shall be glad to submit your case to the committee for review. Address your case history to me at the White House, Washington, D.C. 20506.

If you have specific complaints about being denied credit or insurance on the basis of inaccurate information in a credit report, you may want to contact the Division of Special Statutes, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580.

The Confederate States of America were formed Feb. 4, 1861.

Report Shows Texas Crime Rate Increased 3.1 Percent Last Year

AUSTIN — Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today that the Texas crime rate last year rose by 3.1 percent. Speir said 492,654 major criminal offenses were committed during 1973 for a rate per 100,000 population of 4,177.2. In 1972, there were 472,011 major offenses for a rate of 4,051.9.

In urban areas of Texas there were an estimated 449,097 major offenses as compared to 422,677 a year before. The urban crime rate rose by 4.9 percent, but in rural sections of the state, the crime rate was down 12.7 percent from the figure noted in 1972. Rural offenses totaled 43,557 contrasted to 49,334 the previous. The largest increase in crime was in the robbery category, up 17.1 percent over 1972. Murders and homicides were down by 2.1 percent. In other types of criminal activity, these rate increases were noted by the DPS: rape, 1.5 percent; burglary, 2.8 percent; aggravated assault, 1.1 percent; theft, 2.9 percent; and auto theft, 2.4 percent. Speir said that if the major crimes in Texas during 1973 had been evenly distributed as to frequency, there would have been one such offense every minute of the every day. The Department of Public Safety's 1973 crime report, in analysis of offenses by population density, noted that the crime rate rose faster, generally, in cities of less than 100,000 population than in the largest metropolitan centers. These figures were listed: Cities over 100,000 population, rate up 2.9 percent. Cities between 50,000 and 100,000 population, rate up 9.9 percent. Cities between 25,000 and 50,000 population, rate up 11.0 percent. Cities between 10,000 and 25,000 population, rate up 12.0 percent. Cities between 5,000 and 10,000 population, rate up 1.3 percent. Cities between 2,500 and 5,000 population, rate up 11.2 percent. Counties with over 50 rural population per square mile noted a 42.9 percent decrease in the crime rate last year, and crime was down 21.1 percent in those counties with from 35 to 50 rural population per square mile. Speir said population estimates compiled by the Census Bureau and obtained through the FBI were used in calculating crime rates in the 1973 DPS report. That statewide crime clearance rate for 1973 was 26 percent — the same figure as was noted in 1972. The DPS said the highest clearance rates were associated with crimes against persons with 88 percent of the murders, 70 percent of the aggravated assaults and 61 percent of the rapes cleared by police agencies. California claims to have more mobile homes than any other state.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Earl Misses The Gate-Crasher

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — I miss Morris Lieberman, the indefatigable gate-crasher. Miracle Morris, a retail furniture salesman from Queens, attended $25,000 worth of events in 30 years by pretending he was invited. He has retired to West Palm Beach and he wince at the term "gate-crashing." Morris simply attended without being asked, and what's so wrong about that? Maybe he forgot to invite him. Maybe the computer made a mistake. I missed him at Polly Bergen's UNICEF soiree at Orsini's, at O'Neal's Baloon party for the "Dance of Death" and at the Spindletop surprise party for Michael Moriarty. He used to swing through those parties like Leonard Bernstein arriving at the Russian Tea Room for a cup of — well, what else? I could look up at Adlai Stevenson, Eleanor Roosevelt, the Duke of Windsor, arriving at a tribute dinner. And there would be Morris striding along chatting intimately as though he was the reception chairman — and only I knew he wasn't invited, and I wouldn't rat on him. He might carry a camera, asking a VIP to pose for him, and he flashed some ridiculous press card, but his technique was to chat with a VIP who, not knowing who he was, would be careful. "Then the security won't hound you," Morris said. Amazingly, he worked his way into pictures with Harry Truman, John F. Kennedy, Jackie Onassis, John Wayne, even Joe Franklin. I couldn't get into Truman Capote's famous exclusive party invited. He got in, uninvited. Why did he go into semi-retirement? I suspect he is going to try to trick past the doorman at the Heavenly Velvet Rope, and if he fails, it will be the first time he has failed. The only difficulty, as I see it, is that a card from the "media" won't be as respected. There at the Main entrance as it used to be due to certain outspoken critics. Burt Reynolds won't be a host on the Tony Awards after all. Producer Alexander Cohen feels he'd be overexposed due to having performed similarly on the Oscars. Besides, Burt's very busy finishing a movie in Nashville... Carroll O'Connor and Ethel Merman will play the Guber-Gross circuit for 6 weeks... Sammy Davis wanted to change his April 23 date at the Uris Theater but as 2500 reservations had already been made, he will stay with the original date (possible $250,000 for 12 days). THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Veteran comedian Don Tannen of the cruises just died. A very funny and humble man... Marilyn Chambers stays on at the Riverboat till April 13, which'll make 6 weeks... "Jumpers," the Fred Brisson-Roger Stevens smash success at the Kennedy Center in Wash'n, which has a redhead gal bare on a chandelier, or trapeze, or something, will open here April 22 — streak for tickets... Polly Bergen said Freddie Fields is helping her find a New York apartment... Henry Fonda will take "Clarence Darrow" to Honolulu in August. The Michel Legrand-Hal David musical, "Brainchild," folded in Philadelphia, a 650G washout... Producer Jimmy Nederlander said at "My Fat Friend" he may give the Uris Theater a name change to The Gershwin... Phyllis Diller was handed flowers during her act at the Bachelors III in Ft. Lauderdale — by a streaker who dashed onstage. There's some Oscar backlash. A major film exec's still steaming because the director accepting an award didn't mention his name... It'll be Marcia Rodd opposite Robert Preston in the B-way musical "Mack and Mabel"... The cash album of "Over Here!" marks the first time the Andrews Sisters have recorded together in 20 years, and the first time without their late sister LaVerne. Anne Baxter said at The India Rm. restaurant she's already made her funeral plans, far in advance; she wants music by Bach, champagne for the mourners, and burial under an apple tree. Show Biz Quiz: What romantic silent film star was originally named Appolonia Chalupek? Ans. to yesterday's: The tune "Step to the Rear (And Let a Winner Lead the Way)" was from "How Now, Dow Jones."

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT

Today's Best Laugh: Playwright Neil Simon was asked how he forces himself to sit down and start work. "First," he said, "you send your wife out shopping in an expensive store... Wish I'd Said That: Remember the good old days when little girls wanted to play house and not third base? Remembered Quote: "Happiness is like jam. It's hard to spread even a little of it around without getting some on yourself." — Phil Wise. Earl's Pearls: People who grumble about taxes have one consolation — they don't have to pay on what they think they're going to. George Jessel, who's famous as a eulogist, spoke at a testimonial dinner, and Milton Berle cracked. "That's the first time I ever heard George talk without first saying a few words to the widow." That's earl, brgher. All Rights Reserved.

Danger In Using Bubble Bath?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you say something about the danger of using bubble bath when bathing young children? My two-year-old granddaughter developed a urinary tract infection, and the first question the doctor asked my daughter was if she had been using bubble bath for the little girl's baths. She said yes, and the doctor seemed surprised she was not aware of the danger for little children, especially girls. The preparation was a widely advertised one. — Mrs. I.F. The possibility has been discussed more than once in this column, but evidently your daughter didn't see it. It's not a case of condemning bubble baths altogether. There is, however, something for parents to be aware of. Some ingredients in some bubble baths can be irritating to the delicate membranes of a youngster's external genitalia, and the irritation may, in certain circumstances, invite infection. With a particular child and a particular product there may be no irritation; or it may be obvious immediately, in which case don't use it any more; or it may develop afterward, in which case you can suspect that rinsing was inadequate. So if genital or urinary irritation appears, and you are using bubble bath, that's a reasonable warning to stop. Anyway, bubble bath adds nothing to the cleansing powers of the bath water. The risk is greater in little girls because the urethra is shorter (the urethra being the duct leading from the bladder). Dear Dr. Thosteson: I want to find out more about spastic colitis. What causes it and is there any help? — J.P. Exact cause usually is not clear, but it's bound up with nervous tension and a variety of other elements — overuse of laxatives over a long period, often sensitivity to some food or other. Or several foods. Is there any help? Yes, but you should be warned that it usually takes a good deal of time and careful attention to such few rules as your doctor is doubtless going to give you. It's not a very simple ailment, for an explanation of it I refer you to my booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Send 25 cents and a long-stamped self-addressed envelope to me in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, for the booklet. Dear Dr. Thosteson: What effect does pregnancy have on a woman who has multiple sclerosis? I am 21 and aside from the M.S. am in very good health. — Mrs. D.B. Nobody can give you a positive prediction because the effect is so variable. In an established case of M.S., the neurological symptoms can get worse in pregnancy.

in other cases there may be a remission — the symptoms lessen or even temporarily disappear. (For whatever reason, some cases of M.S. appear first during a pregnancy.) Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that a crack in a person's tongue is an indication of lack of vitamin B. Is this true? What foods are a good source of vitamin B? — M.M.P. That may be one cause of such cracking, but the deficiency has to be extreme and seldom if ever appears in a person eating a reasonably balanced diet. B vitamins occur in cereals, nuts, many vegetables and meats. Hence it is more likely that some irritative factor, rather than lack of vitamin B, is causing the trouble — irritation from dental material, excessive smoking, or an allergic reaction to something. Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How To Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader-mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright 1974, Fibeld Enterprises, Inc.

How do Israeli students, both male and female, feel about their imminent entry into the Army? Why and how do Israeli girls serve in the army? What problems do American youth feel they face as they begin their adult life? These and scores of other questions will be the subject of discussion between exchange students from Israel to the United States and from the United States to Israel. Sixty Israeli high school students are in the United States and 30 American high school students have arrived in Israel. Each will serve as a representative of his country and culture in high schools they will attend and homes in which they will live. The students will also give talks to youth groups and have been assigned to a family that will host them during their stay. The exchange is sponsored by the American Zionist Youth Foundation, the Israeli Foreign Ministry, the Youth department of Jerusalem and the New York Board of Education. (Distributed by Columbia Features, Inc.)

in preparation for the exchange, both groups had meetings to prepare them for their role as representatives of their country and to learn how to cope with the culture and way of life in their host country. The goal of the exchange is to broaden the communications and to increase mutual understanding between young people in the United States and in Israel. Americans will learn what it is like to live on a kibbutz while Israeli students will, among other things, experience New York, more populous than their entire country. The exchange is sponsored by the American Zionist Youth Foundation, the Israeli Foreign Ministry, the Youth department of Jerusalem and the New York Board of Education. Park Service Gives Fire Hazard Warning At Lake

The National Park Service has issued a fire hazard warning for Lake Meredith Recreation Area. Visitors are asked to take extra care with campfires, cigarettes and matches this spring. Dry vegetation is not the only problem according to Chief Ranger Larry Nielson. "Our Panhandle winds can spread a small fire into a big one or kindle a major brush fire from something as small as a cigarette," he said. Park Service crews have fought three brush fires in an eight-day period. Two of these fires have been in Rosita Flats, a very popular area for motorcycles and dune buggies, east of the Dumas-Amarillo highway. Chief Ranger Nielson listed the precautions for fire prevention: 1) Build campfires only in established fireplaces. 2) Keep fires small and attended at all times. 3) Drown fires or smother with dirt until embers are cool enough to touch. Charcoal should be thoroughly drowned. 4) Break matches after use and crush cigarettes in an ashtray. A pop-top makes a windproof ash tray. Remember that the wind can start a fire from something you didn't finish properly. "Smokey the Bear's fire rules apply to the High Plains as much as any forest," Nielson added. Tropical storm Agnes in the summer of 1972 washed enough sediment down the Susquehanna River to create 500 acres of newborn islands near the upper reaches of Chesapeake Bay.

It Sims To Me...

The new World Football League has shown it means business, and now no NFL team is safe as far as losing top-quality personnel is concerned.

When players like Larry Conka, Paul Warfield and Calvin Hill sign contracts with WFL teams, no NFL coach can say, "It could never happen to me."

Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys never said that; if he did, it would have been a lie now that Hill will play his 1975 season for the Hawaii Hawaiians and Craig Morton will go to the Houston Texans.

"They (the World Football teams) are making a lot of headlines," Landry told the News in a phone interview Wednesday. "I really don't have a lot of comments on the WFL."

Landry does, though, see something fishy about the new league. "Based on the economics of professional football, you can't pay those kind of salaries and be a success. Maybe they've got something else in mind."

Conka, Warfield and Jim Kick, all players for the Miami Dolphins, signed for $1,000,000 (to be divided between the three) a year with Toronto, Hill signed for what was said to be a "substantial" sum and Hank Stram, Kansas City head coach, was offered a $2,000,000, 10-year pact, with Houston.

"They do have the money," said Landry, "but whether our (the NFL's) players are naive, I don't know."

The Cowboy head coach was not surprised when Hill, his prize running back, signed with the Hawaii team. "I knew they were talking to him."

"We're always disappointed to lose any of our players but it's their decision to make," so now Landry must find someone to take Hill's place, even though the big running back will play out his option with the Cowboys. Bob Newhouse, says Landry, will probably be the one to fill Calvin's shoes.

Will the new league be a success like the old American Football League turned out to be? "It's too early to tell," said Landry. What about another merger in the future?

"They (the WFL) are a far cry from that position. So the Dallas coach does not anticipate a three-conference league will ever be a reality. But still the question of success for the WFL remains just that, a question. Only time will tell, says Landry."

As far as losing Landry to the WFL is concerned, Dallas fans don't have to worry, even if he was offered, like Hill, a substantial sum. "No, I wouldn't go," he said.

MASTERS STARTS TODAY

Nicklaus, Miller Favored

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Relaxed and confident Jack Nicklaus, winner of more major titles than any other golfer, past or present, was the favorite today at the start of the Masters, but the odds maker thinks Johnny Miller's chances are almost as good.

Nicklaus, who already has four Masters among his 14 major championships, was to tee off at 1:35 p.m. EDT as a 31 favorite while Miller, winner of four tournaments the first three months of this year, was scheduled out an hour earlier as a 4-1 choice.

Although he insists he has had no specific goals since winning the PGA last August and thereby eclipsing Bobby Jones' previous record for most major victories, the 34-year-old Nicklaus admitted he liked being in the favorite's role.

"I'm just dreading the day I'm not the favorite," said Nicklaus, also the only man to win more than $2 million playing golf.

"Although I don't have any specific goals for this year, I'd like to be in position to win all four major tournaments. To do that, I have to win the first one."

The Masters annually is the first leg of the so-called "Grand Slam" which also includes the U.S. and British Opens and the PGA championship. Nicklaus has won all four at least twice, but never more than two the same year.

"I enjoyed the pressure that built up when I won the first two in 1972," said Nicklaus. I would enjoy that again."

That was the year Nicklaus won the Masters and U.S. Open but had his drive for the "Grand Slam" ended by a second-place finish to Lee Trevino in the British Open.

Small Crowd Watches Hank Go 0-4, Braves 4-0

United Press International Those "fans" the Atlanta Braves were so concerned about a few days ago now don't seem that concerned about the Atlanta Braves.

Hank Aaron returned to the lineup Wednesday night for his first action since hitting his record 715th homer on Monday night.

Only 6,426 fans showed up to see Aaron go 0-4 for the Braves, but he did hit one drive to the warning track in left field.

Oh yes, the Braves lost 4-0 to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Asked if he was disappointed by the small turnout, Aaron said, "no."

Then he added, "if we start winning some games, I think they'll come out."

But Eddie Mathews, the manager of the Braves who was in the middle of all the controversy about whether or not Aaron should be held out in Cincinnati so he could hit the homer before the home "fans," wasn't in any mood to talk about the crowd after the game.

"I didn't even look at the (bleep) crowd," Mathews snapped after the game. "I've got more to do than worry about the (bleep) crowd. I'm tired of that (bleep) question."

Attendance has become a real problem for the Braves, who only drew 800,655 fans last season. Only the San Diego Padres, who were supposed to be moving last season, drew fewer fans in the National League with a 611,816 attendance.

The Braves had figured their 11-game home stand at the start of the season would be a real bonanza with Aaron shooting for his record homer. But Hank did it so fast, getting No. 714 in the opener at Cincinnati and No. 715 in the home opener Monday night that it was only worth one good home crowd on Monday night.

Of course, winning would help the Braves but the team is off to a 2-4 start and the future isn't too bright.

Atlanta got just four hits off Tommy John and the first two guys who got hits, Ralph Garr and Dusty Baker, were trapped off first base by John and were thrown out at second. John went eight innings and Mike Marshall finished up for the Dodgers, who have won five of their six games this season.

In the other games, San Francisco edged Cincinnati 4-3, Chicago topped Philadelphia 7-6, Montreal outlasted Pittsburgh 12-8 in 13 innings, the New York Mets nipped St. Louis 3-2 and Houston downed San Diego 9-1.

In the American League, Minnesota downed Chicago 6-5, Milwaukee beat Cleveland 6-4, Kansas City topped Oakland 4-1 and California edged Texas 4-3. The Baltimore at Boston game was snowed out.

Expos 12, Pirates 8. Rookie Jim Cox double snapped an 8-8 tie in the 13th inning and started a four-run rally that lifted Montreal past Pittsburgh. The Pirates have now lost three straight. Pittsburgh had scored two in the ninth to send the game into extra innings after Montreal scored three in the top of the ninth.

Arthur, son of Mrs. Margaret Arthur of 1105 Varnon, played center for the University of Houston Cougars and graduated from Houston in 1970. He has coached the Hereford B-team for the past two seasons.

Royals Stymie Oakland To Move Closer To 1st

United Press International Kansas City's bid to overtake the Oakland A's in the American League West this season after falling six games short last year will largely depend on the right arm of 25-year-old Steve Busby and the muscles of John Mayberry.

Busby, beaten three times in four outings against the A's last year, showed he may be on the right road to helping the Royals improve their second place finish as he held the A's to six hits en route to a 4-1 victory Wednesday night.

Mayberry, a 6-foot-3, 220-pound slugger who led the Royals with 26 homers last season, gave Busby all the help he needed in the first inning when he cracked a 430-foot shot with a man on for his first homer of the year.

"I had to do something 'cause they kicked me around pretty good last year," Busby said. "I had to change my thinking, mix up my pitches more."

Busby, now 2-0 after finishing 16-15 last year, had a one hitter going and had retired 11 men in succession before Ray Fosse singled and took second on a wild pitch in the sixth. Bill North walked and Bert Campaneris singled home Fosse.

Ken Holman, 21-13 last year, took his second loss in as many starts.

Busby also received offensive help from Fred Patek, who gave the Royals a 3-0 lead with a solo homer in the fifth. The Royals added their fourth run in the eighth on Amos Otis' triple and Fran Healy's double.

In other AL games, Milwaukee downed Cleveland 6-4, Minnesota edged Chicago 6-5 and California beat Texas 4-3. Baltimore at Boston was postponed by a spring snowstorm.

In National League action, New York clipped St. Louis 3-2, Chicago edged Philadelphia 7-6, San Francisco nipped Cincinnati 4-3, Montreal whipped Pittsburgh 12-8 in 13 innings, Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 4-0 and Houston beat San Diego 9-1.

Brewers 6, Indians 4. Veteran Don Money blasted his first major league grand slam home run in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Brewers their victory over Cleveland and hand the Indians their fourth straight loss.

Twins 6, White Sox 5. Five walks, Jerry Terrell's double and Tony Oliva's sacrifice fly gave Minnesota a fourrun seventh inning in its victory over the White Sox.

With one out in the seventh, Terrell doubled to drive in Jim Holt, who was walked by starter Stan Bahnsen. Terry Forster relieved and walked Rod Carew and Larry Hise with the bases loaded to score two runs. Cy Acosta replaced Forster and gave up a sacrifice fly to Oliva to score Sergio Ferrer. Hise accounted for the other two runs with RBI singles in the fourth and sixth.

Dick Allen slammed a two-run homer in the fifth and Carlos May collected four straight singles to pace the White Sox attack.

Angels 4, Rangers 3. Richie Scheinblum scored

Rave Reviews CHICAGO (UPI) — The famed double play combination of Tinker to Evers to Chance actually completed only 54 twin-killings in the four seasons they played together with the Chicago Cubs (1906-09).

Hot Rookie LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Chuck Knox, rookie head coach of the Los Angeles Rams, is the first coach to lead the team into the playoffs since 1970 when the National Football League was broken up into six divisions.

the tie-breaking run from first base on Ellie Rodriguez' single and a fielding error by leftfielder Alex Johnson with one out in the ninth inning gave California its win over Texas. With one out, Scheinblum singled and Rodriguez then lashed a single to left. Johnson let the ball fall in front of him and skip by for a two-base error.

Left-hander Frank Tanana made the distance to collect his first win. The 20-year old southpaw gave up nine hits and struck out six.

GARDEN CITY IST

PJH Places Third In Liberal Relays

LIBERAL, Kan. — Pampa Junior High's ninth-grade track team captured four first places, two seconds and a third and finished in third place in the Liberal Relays Wednesday afternoon here.

Only five points separated the first three places. Garden City, Kan., won the meet with 47 1/2 points; and was followed by Liberal West with 46 1/2 and Pampa with 42 1/2. No other teams were close to the top three finishers.

The meet was held under Kansas rules instead of Texas' UIL rules. As a result, according to Pampa coach Harold Moore, his team's overall performance was hurt since it was not used to the rules.

The high school shot put and discus was used as were high school hurdles. There was no 440-yard relay, one of Pampa's better events. Also, no boy was allowed to run two 440's in the meet (not on the mile relay and then in the open quarter, for example).

Finally, only two boys from the same school could enter the same event and boys were permitted to enter only four events (five events are allowed under UIL rules).

David Caldwell ran an impressive 10.3 to capture the 100-yard dash. He also ran second leg on the 880 relay team, which won first place with 1:39.5. Members of that team were Brian Bailey, Caldwell, Eddie Brown and Ricky Moore.

In the 880-yard run, Ricky Van Hooser captured first with 2:14.5. In the discus, Matt Hudson won a first-place medal with a 112-7 toss.

Caldwell took second in the 220 with 24.0 and Benny Fallon long jumped 19-8 1/2 to take Pampa's other second place.

Winning third was Hudson in the shot put with 42-5. Pampa will host the North Zone (district) Meet April 20.

'Happy Days' Star Enjoys Average Student Activity

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ronny Howard, the star of the new "Happy Days" series, is the selfsame young man who played little Opie for eight years on the old "Andy Griffith Show."

Howard has shortened his name to Ron. At age 22 he thinks it has more dignity, even though he plays a 17-year-old high school kid in the new ABC-TV series.

In real life Ron is a part time student at USC, majoring in theater arts. He graduated from public high school two years ago with a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0. He also lettered in varsity basketball.

Ron lives at home with his family in Burbank, along with younger brother Clint who plays one of the young buckeroos in "The Cowboys."

Ron's room is sloppy, comfortable chamber which looks more like a laboratory than sleeping quarters. It is crowded with cameras and film equipment. There is an editing table in one corner with reels and splicing material. Clothes are tossed hither and yon, along with scripts and textbooks.

Has Short Haircut
He drives a Volkswagen to work and school, usually dressed in tennis sneakers, flares and a T-shirt. Because he wore a crewcut as a basketball player he is accustomed to the short haircut he must wear for the show.

Ron has breakfast at home, then reports to Paramount Studios at 7:15 for work. Production generally runs on until 7 o'clock in the evening, after which he stops for a bite to eat before returning home. He's addicted to cheeseburgers, french fries and malts.

Some day soon Ron plans to find an apartment equidistant from his parents' home, Paramount and USC. But there is a possibility he will locate near UCLA, 15 miles on the other side of town.

The reason for this is a pretty young co-ed who is majoring in psychology. She and Ron have been steady dating for the better part of two years. She isn't interested in acting.

Coaches Sports
When Ron does depart he will be leaving a cat, three dogs, a colony of hamsters and tanks of tropical fish behind. Most of the menagerie belongs to brother Clint, an ardent animal fancier.

Ron has been a working actor since he was six years old. He's accustomed to seeing reruns of "The Andy Griffith Show" and isn't fazed by seeing himself as a child.

"Once in a while I get critical of myself in those shows, he says, "then I realize it isn't right to criticize an 8-year-old kid actor."

He is still a sports buff and spends much of his free time on weekends coaching basketball and baseball in the Burbank Park Recreation League for youngsters from toddlers to age 14.

"I've never regretted being a working child," he says. "It has allowed me to pay for my own education even though my parents can afford it. I've managed to meet some of the most interesting people in the world and to travel."

Ron was never isolated from other children. When he wasn't working his parents enrolled him in public schools. His classmates were unimpressed with his acting status.

Investing Versus Giving

Give a man a handout today — and tomorrow he'll probably be back for another. Create a job for a man today — and tomorrow he will pay his own way, his family's way, a part of the cost of his government, and may be able himself to help the needy.

A job calls forth initiative and bolsters self-respect. A handout diminishes both. The person who invests in an enterprise that provides jobs performs a humanitarian act. To the Biblical counsel that it is more blessed to give than to receive, therefore, might be added the advice that it is more blessed to invest than to give.

Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI) — The theater already has launched its program for participation in the U.S. Bicentennial of 1976.

It comes as no surprise that the prime mover is Broadway producer Alexander H. Cohen, who is a theatrical version of perpetual motion. He seems to be in action even when he isn't doing anything, which is seldom.

Cohen has conceived of a U.S. Bicentennial World Theater Festival and quite properly, will be its executive producer.

The Festival is scheduled to begin in March, 1976, continuing through the year. It will bring to the United States many of the world's foremost theater companies for brief, subsidized engagements, first in New York and then in other cities.

Cohen sees this as a $5 million project, a non-profit, tax-exempt operation that will be financed by corporate and individual patrons. To get the project off the ground, the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration has provided a $76,500 grant from non-appropriated funds that has been matched by private donations.

Cultural Kinship
The World Theater Festival will be the theater's major contribution to the Bicentennial," Cohen said. "Of all the arts, the theater is the most suited to make a strong statement of cultural kinship. The language of the stage is universal; the union of actor and audience can strike a spark of human recognition that pierces all barriers, including language."

Some of the foreign groups that may be expected to participate, since they already have expressed interest, are the National Theater of Great Britain, England's Royal Shakespeare Company, the Comedie Francaise, the Vienna Burgtheater, the Nationaltheatret of Oslo, Norway, the Teatro Stabile of Genoa, Israel's Habimah Theater, the Cameri Theater of Tel Aviv, the Greek Art Theater of Athens, Berlin's Schiller Theater, Japan's Kabuki Theater, the Yugoslav Drama Theater of Belgrade, Milan's Piccolo Teatro and Narodni Divadlo, the National Theater of Prague.

Cohen envisages an exchange program during the Bicentennial period, with leading American theater groups, under World Theater Festival auspices, paying visits to foreign countries. These regional companies also would show their wares in various American cities that would never get a chance to see them under normal conditions.

The World Theater Festival has a board of advisers as long as an O'Neill play that ranges from A for New York Mayor Abe Beame to Z for actor Zero Mostel.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, April 11, the 101st day of 1974 with 264 to follow.

The moon is between full and the last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Saturn and Mars.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries. American statesman and orator Edward Everett was born April 11, 1794.

Also on this day in history:

In 1947 Jackie Robinson became the first Negro in major league baseball when he played for the Brooklyn Dodgers against the New York Yankees in an exhibition game.

In 1966, Guam-based B52s bombed Vietnam for the first time.

In 1968, President Lyndon Johnson ordered 24,500 military reservists called up, half of them for duty in Vietnam.

In 1970, the Apollo 13 spacecraft headed for the third U.S. landing on the moon. The attempt was aborted when a faulty oxygen tank exploded. The astronauts returned to Earth safely.

A thought for the day: Gen. Douglas MacArthur: "There is no substitute for victory."

BONN (UPI) — By June 1975 all West German motorists must wear their safety belts or face heavy fines. Transport Minister Lauritz Lauritzen said he had figures to prove that a belted driver has a 600 per cent better chance of surviving an accident that a driver not wearing a safety belt.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Robby Benson, 18, has been signed by Francis Ford Coppola to play Al Pacino's son in Paramount's "The Godfather, Part II."

WORRY CLINIC

George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Jimmy faces a crisis that may send him into crime and later prison. Or he may be salvaged by some wise home tutoring via the "Flash Card" method. So analyze all problem kiddies with care. Jimmy became an "A" pupil within 6 months!

CASE A-604: Jimmy D., aged 9, is a problem child. "Dr. Crane," his frantic mother began, "Jimmy's teacher says he is a behavior problem at school."

"And his grades are so low, she feels he should be required to take this school year all over."

"Jimmy is restless and always getting into some kind of mischief."

"Is he a hyperkinetic child?"

"And what can be done to make him a good student?"

"For his father and I both finished college, yet Jimmy will not even be able to complete high school if he continues like he is now."

USE PSYCHOLOGY
Briefly, Jimmy's problem involved need for eye glasses, plus use of the "Flash Card" technique outlined in the booklet below.

For many energetic youngsters who feel they are the class "dummy," may then compensate by trying to get "Oh" and "Ah" reactions from their classmates by naughty behavior.

Often, too, it helps to make such a youngster a "Monitor" or classroom "Policeman," who supervises the others.

Parents also need to use the following psychological steps in such cases:

(1) Check the child's vision, hearing and general health level.

For many youngsters are so near-sighted they can't read the blackboard from far back where they sit in the classroom.

Others have difficulty hearing clearly (though they may react to general sounds) but not detect the precise distinctions of clear speech.

(2) Bolster your child's classroom weak spots in the curriculum.

Maybe he is good at reading, yet rates a low grade in arithmetic.

That's especially true of youngsters whose parents move frequently.

For a child may be able to read comic books and "Classics, Illustrated" on trains, planes or buses, but not meanwhile gain drill on multiplication tables.

Thus, he may leave one school when the teacher is just starting 3 x 1, 3 x 2, etc.

But when he arrives at the new school, that teacher may be working on 6 x 1, 6 x 2, etc.

So the youngster may always be weak in mathematics, having lost the drill on 4 x 1, 4 x 2, as well as 5 x 1, etc.

So be sure to use the "Flash Card" strategy in the booklet below!

Mrs. Crane and I even had to employ it a few times to bolster weak spots in our 5 Crane children's Chicago grammar schooling.

But don't make home drill a tiresome affair, so vary the games and stop at 10 or 15 minutes.

(3) Help your child get acquainted quickly with those of his own age, especially if you move into a new neighborhood or new school district.

This modern stress on busying children into distant schools is bad!

It actually produces more race prejudice and hampers good teaching.

Children need to grow up with their neighborhood buddies, if they are to enjoy a feeling of security.

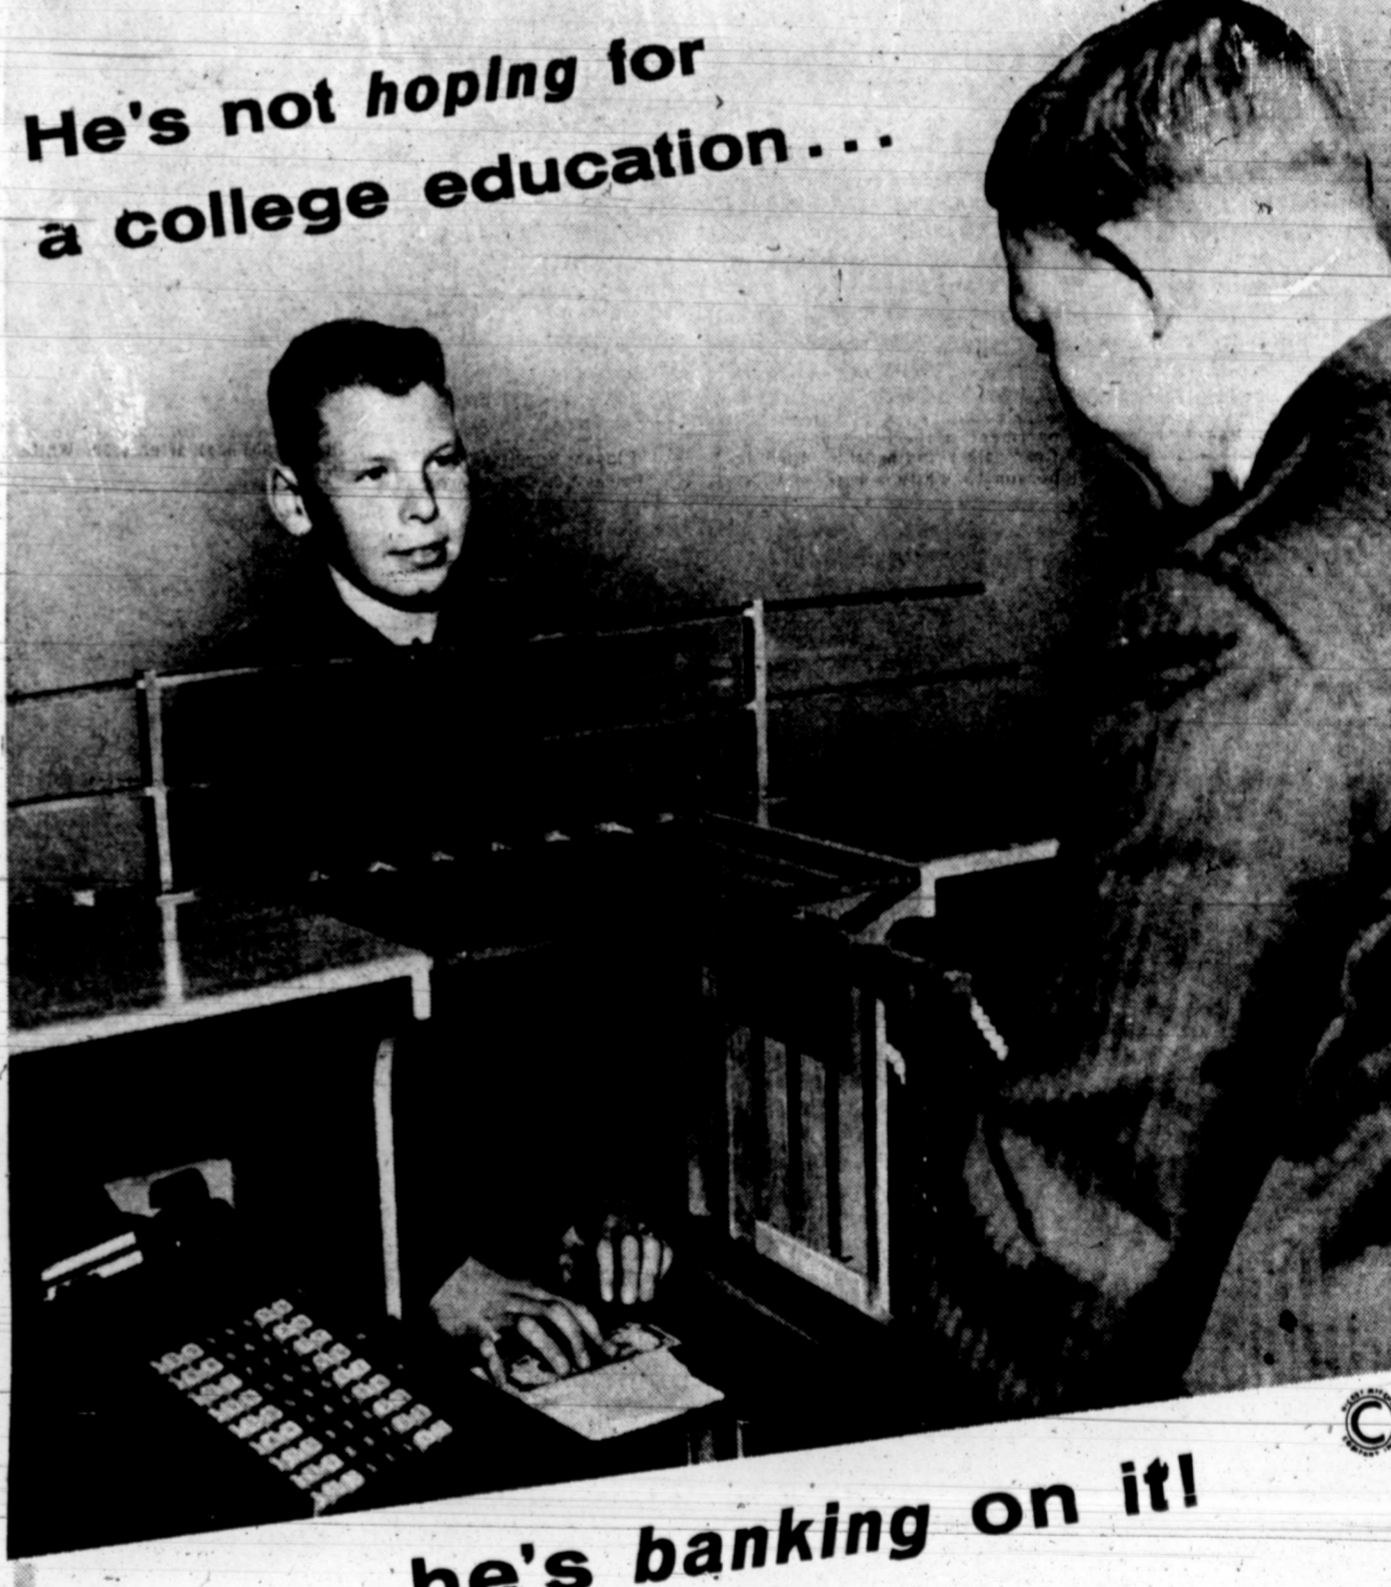

(4) Encourage youngsters to read the comic page to you adults, telling them you'll do the dishes if they'll read aloud to daddy and mother.

Alas, most newspaper comics depend on wisecracking and adult plots above the comprehension of kiddies, for few good child comics are in modern newspapers.

Children prefer narrative, suspenseful comics that portray action, and that have continuing plots!

So send for my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hughes Bldg., Mettlet, Indiana 4700. Enclose a leg stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

He's not hoping for a college education... he's banking on it!

Most newspaperboys are banking part of their savings for higher education.

Even if you can easily afford to send your boy to college, you might consider this—the boy who works and saves for part of his education is the boy who will get the most out of college.

He'll appreciate Pop and the checks from home more if he's already had a taste of earning money by working himself.

And while his route profits are important, this is only one of a number of reasons why so many of today's successful men encourage their boys to get the benefit of Newspaper Route experience—including service, salesmanship, collections and record keeping.

African Drought Still Threatens Peasants

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The focus of the worst drought in Africa's recorded history has shifted to southern Ethiopia where hundreds of thousands of peasants are threatened with starvation and death, according to relief workers.

Ethiopia was just beginning to come to grips with a devastating famine in the north when the dimensions of the new catastrophe in the south began to filter back to the central government here.

A report by the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) said as many as 100,000 persons died in the northern provinces of Tigray and Wallo last year. Some officials said this figure was conservative.

The new crisis threatens to dwarf even this.

The government has estimated 200,000 persons in the south face starvation this spring. West European and American relief workers in the area said the total could reach 500,000.

The Norwegian Church Relief Organization reported recently that "the situation in the south is serious with many people starving, living on roots, the seed for the new growing season having been eaten, and cattle dying."

Because of the failure of the long rains a year ago and below average rainfall during the short rains in October, crops failed across the country, and there has been no water or grass for the cattle and oxen that have been dying in even greater numbers than humans.

One relief survey showed in six villages in Gamu Gofa province only 15 of 397 families had any grain early this year.

The Norwegian organization reported that in another village near the Kenyan border, 62 persons—more than half the population—had been found dead recently.

Such statistics conjure up a repeat of last year's horrific northern situation where one relief worker counted 179 bodies lining a road outside the town of Dessie.

The stricken southern area is a series of massive plateaus isolated from each other and the rest of the country by deep impenetrable valleys.

A third of the country's 26 million people live more than 20 miles from the nearest road. This is especially true in the south.

The dimensions of the crisis began to reach Addis Ababa only when peasants from the interior journeyed from their remote stockades on foot to the nearest towns in search of food. Their oxen had died, and some of the peasants had auctioned off their goats, then their seed grain and finally their land for as little as $2.50.

It has been virtually impossible to reach some settlements, perched precariously at the tips of sheer, brick red plateaus which stretch for mile after mile to the horizon. Food must be trucked in by small but sturdy trucks.

Relief agencies estimate a quarter of a million tons of imported grain will be needed in the next few months to feed the starving. Less than half this figure has been committed.

Much of the land in a country where 85 per cent of the population works in agriculture may never recover.

A government report entitled "The Drought Problem in Ethiopia" said: "Throughout Tigre and good parts of Wallo (provinces) and elsewhere, the ecological balance has been seriously disturbed."

It suggested a large resettlement program because even with modern technological methods "it would still not be possible for all the rural population to be gainfully employed in these regions."

Gov. Briscoe Surprised At Utility Rate Increases

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who said he was surprised at some utility rate increases that had come to his attention, Wednesday urged the Senate subcommittee on consumer affairs to investigate increases in intrastate long distance telephone calls.

The subcommittee scheduled a day-long hearing on consumer problems with utility companies and on the possible need for a state utilities regulation commission.

Charles Purnell, Briscoe's executive assistant, read a short statement for the governor in which Briscoe encouraged the five-member subcommittee to thoroughly explore the utility situation. Briscoe was in South Texas on a campaign tour.

Briscoe said many Texans have questioned existing utility regulations and whether they needed to be revised.

"I do not favor regulation merely for the sake of regulation because this costs the taxpayer money," Briscoe said. "But from the information I have been furnished it would appear that there may be a need for regulation of intrastate long distance calls, and regulation in cities and rural areas where no regulation exists."

Briscoe said his office was prepared to cooperate with the subcommittee. Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland, chairman of the subcommittee, said the legislature has not accepted its responsibility regarding utility regulations and that the committee intended to look into all aspects of the utility problems.

Clower said the subcommittee also planned to hold several more public hearings all over the state to get citizen input into the problem.

The subcommittee heard testimony from witnesses in the areas of utility regulatory laws, present regulations, problems in rural and metropolitan areas and issues in utility regulation.
