PAMPA — The investigation into the cause of a Wednesday house explosion is still on hold until the remainder of the house can be torn down, fire investigator Gary Stevens said this morning.

The fire marshal's office needs final approval from the owner of the home, insurance investigators and the Railroad Commission.

Meanwhile, Jana Hogan remains in satisfactory condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Hogan underwent surgery Thursday to repair her right knee and wrist.

Hogan's father LaWayne, a former Pampa resident, is listed as the owner of the home at 1214 N. Russell.

LEFORS — The Lefors City Council will meet today at 7 in regular session in the Lefors City Hall.

Action items on the agenda include consideration of the following:

- Allowing the fire department to have two lots
- Bid on nine lots
- Reimbursement of $100 for cemetery plots
- Passage of an employee's handbook
- And reimbursement for employee notary filing.

Items to be discussed include purchase orders and a new copier.

Mayor Deryl Boyd and City Marshal Rocky Stewart are slated to deliver reports.

Meetings are open to the public.

AUSTIN (AP) — Two tickets bought in Bedford and Baytown correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth $21 million.

The numbers drawn from a field of 50 were: 5, 13, 19, 21, 44 and 49.

There were 211 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,364.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $4 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to hear the appeal of a former Texas congressman convicted of racketeering and accepting an illegal gift while in office.

The court, without comment, left intact Albert Bustamante's federal conviction and 3 1/2-year prison sentence.

Bustamante, now 60, began serving time at a federal prison in El Paso, Texas, shortly after his 1993 conviction was upheld last February by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Vehicle rollover on I-40 leads to death of infant

McLEAN — A California juvenile probation officer was reported in good condition today in an Amarillo hospital with injuries suffered in a one-vehicle rollover Sunday which killed an infant.

One-month-old Willie Frank Robinson III, of Van Nuys, Calif., was killed Sunday afternoon after the sport utility in which he was a passenger rolled over him near McLean.

Kay Ann Duncan, 31, a juvenile probation officer from Van Nuys, Calif., was reported in good condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo today with injuries suffered in the one-vehicle rollover shortly before 3 p.m. Sunday about two miles east of McLean on Interstate 40.

Authorities said Duncan's injuries are thought to be non-capacitating.

Also injured in the crash was John Hopson, 50, a juvenile probation officer from Alta Dena, Calif. Authorities said his injuries appeared to be minor.

Department of Public Safety officials said today that Duncan was driving a 1994 green Ford Explorer east on Interstate 40 when the vehicle veered off the highway to the left onto the median. The driver steered to the right, officers said, and the truck rolled onto its left side, throwing the infant out of the vehicle.

The truck rolled over the infant and came to rest on its right side in the outside lane of the interstate, blocking traffic.

The infant was pronounced dead about 4 p.m. Sunday at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Officers said the two adults were wearing seat belts. They said the child was not.

The infant was taken to Warford Funeral Home in Amarillo pending funeral arrangements.

Train hits car on track

PANHANDLE — A car-train crash today destroyed a four-door sedan in rural Carson County.

Department of Public Safety officers said a car crossing railroad tracks near the intersection of U.S. 60 and FM 683 was hit by a train about 7:30 a.m. today.

"No one was injured," said Department of Public Safety Trooper L.D. Snider, "but the car was pretty torn up."

Authorities said a 1985 Saab four-door sedan driven by James Matthew Keith, 44, of Amarillo, was demolished when it stalled on the railroad tracks and was hit by a west-bound train.

Officers said Keith was southbound on FM 683 and was behind a school bus about 7:30 a.m. today where the farm-to-market road crosses the Santa Fe railway tracks west of Panhandle.

The bus, officers said, went across tracks and stopped at a stop sign at U.S. 60. Keith pulled up on the tracks behind the school bus, then realized a train was approaching. He tried to pull around the bus, but his car wouldn't move. Officers said another motorist tried to help Keith remove the Saab from the tracks, but they were unable to move it before the train hit it.

DPS officers said no one was in the vehicle at the time of the crash and no one was injured.

"People need to realize how dangerous it is to stop on the tracks," Snider said.

Thanksgiving entertainment

The Knights of Columbus were entertained Saturday night at their Thanksgiving Dinner by Lorelee Cooley, Storyspinner, Pampa's own professional storyteller. She had some help from Jim Lummus, one of the Knights, who held her sheet music while she sang "Get Up and Bar the Door." Cooley also told the stories "The Fisherman's Wife" and "Legend of the Bluebonnets" and recited the poems "Flanders" by John McCrae and "The Peacemaker" by Joyce Kilmer. The audience was also entertained by Cooley's work in progress, "Candles," which is a song about the different holidays in December, such as Hanukkah, Christmas and Kwanza, which use candles.

Pampa city commissioners to meet Tuesday

Pampa city commissioners are to meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday for a work session, then at 6 p.m. for their regular meeting. The work session will be held in the third floor conference room and the meeting in city commission chambers on the third floor. Both meetings are open to the public.

For consideration in the work session are:

- Revised personnel policies.
- An ordinance establishing guidelines and enforcement provisions for disabled parking.
- Update from Jack Ippel, executive director of Pampa Economic Development Corp., on activity.
- Update from Public Works Director Richard Morris on the comprehensive street repair project.

During the regular meeting, two public hearings are planned. The first will be for public input on a proposed ordinance relating to the Texas Municipal Retirement System. The proposed ordinance will allow for retirement after 20 years service rather than the current 25.

The second hearing is for citizen input relating to the proposed housing guidelines to be used for the city's disaster relief grant.

In other action items:

- The commission will hear the second and final reading of an ordinance adjusting fees and operations of M.K. Brown Auditorium.
- Carla Adams of American

Medical Transport is suggested as nominee to the Panhandle Emergency Medical Services System.

• City Secretary Phyllis Jeffers has asked the commission to confirm the appointment of Karen Barnes to the position of deputy city secretary.

• The commission will consider the purchase of three police package vehicles through the state purchasing agreement.

• Guidelines for the revolving loan fund will be considered.

• Appointments to the plumbing and mechanical board and electrical board will be considered.

An executive session is planned to discuss an appointment to the board of directors of the Gray County Appraisal District.

McLean City Council OKs roof repair bids

By CHIP CHANDLER
Staff Writer

McLEAN — McLean City Council members have voted to accept bids to repair and replace the roofs of two city-owned buildings.

The council accepted a bid from Parsley Sheet Metal and Roofing totaling $74,020 for work on the Devil's Rope Museum and city fire department during its meeting last Thursday.

Included in that bid is $57,520 to replace the roof of the fire department, a roof with wood that is "rotting away," according to city engineer Dwight Brandt. The roof will be completely replaced, Brandt said, and the work will come with a 10-year warranty.

The museum's roof will be repaired without major structural changes, according to Brandt, at a cost of $16,500. The work will come with a one-year warranty.

The project will begin in January.

Bids to repair the roofs of three other buildings were rejected.

In other discussion before the council, Brandt said survey work will begin this week for the installation of utility lines at the former Dairy Queen building on the west end of town. The council hopes to attract new businesses to town with the installation of those lines, near the intersection of Interstate 40 and Texas 273.

"If the city of McLean ever grows, it's going to grow down there," Mayor Sam Haynes said.

The council also decided to seek a grant to finance the purchase of a new water tower. No bids were received to repaint the outside of the current tower.

The tower needs repainting, the council learned earlier this year, because lead had been detected in the exterior paint.

Brandt said it would be difficult to remove the paint without contaminating the surrounding area.

In other action, the council decided to purchase a new computer to run a new billing program. They will also purchase a laser printer.

The council voted to close city hall the Friday before Christmas for a four-day holiday weekend, as well as giving $100 Christmas bonuses to full-time employees and $50 bonuses to part-time employees.

The council also voted to accept a contract from El Paso Natural Gas.

After executive session, the council voted to give Assistant City Secretary Toni Bohler a $100 a month raise.

Spectators look over the trees donated by businesses and individuals at last year's Festival of Christmas Trees and Gift Boutique.

Festival of Christmas Trees set for Dec. 1-3

Preparations are under way for the 12th annual Festival of Christmas Trees and Gift Boutique, scheduled for Dec. 1-3 at the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium and Civic Center.

Theme for this year is "Caring and Sharing" with others and the true meaning of Christmas.

The Festival of Christmas Trees and Gift Boutique will be open to the public from 6-9 p.m. Friday, Dec. 1; 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 2; and 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 3. Admission to the event is free.

Entertainment will be provided by Pampa and area youth groups throughout the hours of the three-day event.

Illuminated and decorated Christmas trees will be displayed in the auditorium foyer. After the Festival of Trees concludes, the trees donated by volunteer individuals, groups and businesses will be given to area families to enable them to better enjoy the holidays.

In the Heritage Room, the Gift Boutique will feature exhibitors from the Texas Panhandle displaying handcrafted, unique and original arts and crafts. Also in the Heritage Room will be the food booth, under the Festival Committee and volunteers. Proceeds raised from the event will be donated to the Shepherd's Helping Hands.

The Festival of Christmas Trees and Gift Boutique is a chartered, non-profit, volunteer organization. The objective is to work for the betterment of the community.

Bexar County sheriff fights privatization of jail annex

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Bexar County sheriff is fighting a plan to turn part of the county's jail system over to private management.

County commissioners approved the plan last month. However, Sheriff Ralph Lopez said he will have nothing to do with the plan and asserts that he has the Texas Constitution behind him.

"It's not going to happen while I'm here, unless some judge forces me, and I don't expect that," Lopez told the San Antonio Express-News for a story in Sunday's editions.

Four of the five county commissioners voted Oct. 24 to take proposals from companies interested in running the 782-bed Adult Detention Center Annex.

Under the commissioners' timetable, the private operator would take over Jan. 1, if a committee studying privatization so recommends. About 300 female inmates now are housed in the annex.

"It's a difference of belief of 'Can government do everything?' which I don't believe it can, or should you have a mix of public-private cooperation and allow government to keep doing the things it can do best?" County Judge Cyndi Krier said.

However, the sheriff said he would seek a court injunction to stop the privatization effort.

Lopez set the stage for the upcoming legal confrontation when he refused to allow four representatives of corrections companies to tour the annex Friday.

"I do not believe that detention of law violators should be turned over to a profit-making organization," Lopez said. "Why should I give up my constitutional authority and responsibility for somebody to make a profit? Let them change the constitution. Let them change the law. I took an oath of office."

Under the state constitution, the elected sheriff is responsible for county law enforcement and jail management. Lopez's office, in fact, is at the jail and across the street from the annex.

"One of the issues that is going to come up is the constitutional authority of the sheriff, and the other issue is the authority of the Commissioners Court being the gatekeeper of the taxpayers money," said Commissioner Mike Novak, who heads the privatization study committee.

Jail privatization got a boost when the Republican Party captured a majority of the seats on the Commissioners Court this year. Krier and Novak are among the GOP members.

Democrat Paul Elizondo cast the lone vote against seeking proposals, saying the commissioners needed to spend more time resolving differences with the sheriff, also a Democrat.

"Since he's the official responsible, I think we need to spend more time getting along before we go out on this thing," Elizondo said.

The county has no estimate for potential savings from privatization, but expects to have a better idea after evaluating the proposals.

Jail Administrator Chauncey Spencer said it costs the county at least $7 per day to house adult inmates.

Jail privatization has a precedent in Bexar County. Until the annex opened in a former food warehouse, the county temporarily alleviated some of its overcrowding by using the Central Texas Parole Violators Facility, operated by Wackenhut Corrections Corp. The company also houses some juvenile offenders there.

Zach Ferris, center, took third place, and Michael Eskridge earned second place. In photo at bottom, Drew Jaegle, left, earned second place among students competing in the elementary division of the tournament. Dennis Taylor, center, won first and Johnny Story captured third place. Ninety youths competed in three divisions. There were 30 students in the elementary grades one through four division; 38 students in the fifth grade division; and 22 in the middle school division. Pampa Enrichment Program. This year marked the eighth anniversary of the annual tournament. Earning top prizes in the middle school division were Jonathan Brockington, first; Brittany Lorensen, second; and Evan Miller, third.

Discovery in Alamo diary renews authenticity battle

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Researchers have found a previously unknown chapter of a controversial account of the Battle of the Alamo.

The account is contained in the memoirs of Jose Enrique de la Pena, a Mexican army officer who participated in the charge up the mission's north wall during the famous 1836 battle.

The newly discovered account, found in the archives of the University of Texas at San Antonio, appears to be dramatic record of the Mexican brigade's retreat after the Alamo battle.

According to the one-week account, soldiers were dying of starvation.

James E. Crisp, a Texas Revolution scholar at North Carolina State University who found the "Lost Week" chapter, wonders whether the passage had been undiscovered since de la Pena's death around 1841.

"Maybe this is a story that has not been read since de la Pena wrote it," Crisp said.

Some historians regard the de la Pena diary as one of the most vivid eyewitness descriptions of the Alamo battle and its aftermath.

The graphic detail of the retreat, via Matamoros, Mexico, adds more weight to his argument that the de la Pena memoir is an authentic work by a former lieutenant colonel, Crisp said.

But many historians believe the diary to be a clever forgery and comb history and its footnotes in search of evidence.

"It's still my belief that the de la Pena diary is a forgery," said Bill Groneman, a New York City arson investigator and amateur historian. His 1994 book, Defense of a Legend, first leveled the charge.

What fuels the skepticism is that two researchers, one Mexican and one American, have published the known text of the memoir, once in 1955 and again in 1975.

Both researchers had access to the original manuscripts. Neither reported encountering the account of the "Lost Week," which apparently occurred about three months after the San Antonio battle.

De la Pena's memoir condemned Mexican Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna for his blunders after the Alamo. Its most controversial statement was that Davy Crockett did not die during the battle, but was taken prisoner and later executed with others at Santa Anna's order.

NASA experiments on plants in space

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Scientists at three schools, including Rice University, are about to begin research that could design plants suitable for long-distance space travel.

The Houston school will receive a NASA grant to study gravitational biology at a Specialized Center of Research and Training on campus.

The center's mission will be twofold — to research how plants perceive and respond to gravity, and to educate high school teachers about gravitational biology so they can pass the information on to their students.

Similar centers will be established at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, N.C., and Rutgers University in Newark, N.J.

The research aspect of the project will focus on how calcium affects the ability of plants to respond to gravity.

"The focus is on calcium because it seems as though it may be the most important individual chemical in plant responses to the environment," said Eric Davies, head of N.C. State's botany department and director of the new NASA center.

AIDS claims Matt Allen, but not before age 13

DALLAS (AP) — AIDS may have killed Matthew Allen, but it didn't defeat him.

The Dallas boy who never knew life without the incurable disease accomplished his goal of living through his 13th birthday last month.

Matt died Friday from complications of AIDS, a little more than a month after he became a teenager.

"His goal was to get to his 13th birthday, and he made that," said his grandfather, the Rev. Jimmy Allen, a former San Antonio minister and past president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Matt had attended classes at Lakewood Elementary School in Dallas until last December, when the sickness he contracted just hours before his birth through his mother's blood transfusion made him unable to further his education.

Artifacts feared lost to development of Walker Ranch

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Historians contend a significant archaeological site that could include part of a famous mission has been devastated because of a real estate deal made 20 years ago.

Destruction of most archaeological sites in the Walker Ranch National Historic District, including possible traces of the missing Alamo mission ranch, has led the Texas Historical Commission to list it among the state's 10 most endangered properties.

The deal being questioned by the state historical commission allowed the San Antonio River Authority to buy 321 acres of land, but let Dallas developer Robert Folsom keep title to the artifacts and sites.

A state attorney general's office advisory opinion determined the deal violated the antiquities code and said the archaeological sites belong to the state of Texas, according to documents obtained by the San Antonio Express-News.

Plainview citizens march against drugs

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Repeated citizen marches around drug-infested neighborhoods are discouraging dealers and buyers, a City Council member says.

Eight times since October, some 50 to 120 residents have circled the sections of the city believed to be havens for drug dealers. "We don't even have a thought about stopping," said Dwain Dodson, a council member and chairman of Plainview-Hale County Crimestoppers. "We expect when the city's crime and drug statistics come out to see a definite change."

Acting on information from undercover agents, activists stop in front of houses where drugs are sold and shout anti-drug slogans at those inside. Some in the homes shout back, some try to ignore the noise and some move to neighbors' homes.

The weekly site of each march is kept secret, he said. That unnerves many dealers and their customers and probably reduces the number of drug deals, Dodson said.

"Evil prevails when good men do nothing," said Bettye Graves, one of about 60 area residents who braved 30-degree weather Saturday night to send a message to drug dealers. "People are tired of it. I am."

Samaritan Counseling names new director

AMARILLO — The board of directors of the Samaritan Pastoral Counseling Center, 2929 Duniven Circle, has named William L. Thompson as the new executive director, according to a news release.

Thompson will replace Dr. Robert Breckbill, who recently moved from the Amarillo community. Mrs. Ann McKay served as interim executive director.

During the past two years, Thompson served as program director of Quest Hospital Residential Treatment Center, Amarillo. From 1989 to 1993 he was clinical director for Buckner Children's Services, Amarillo.

Since his graduation from Alabama A&M University, Normal, Ala., in 1974 with a master of science degree in clinical child psychology, Thompson served as project director of Alcoholism Treatment Service at the Madison County Mental Health Center in Huntsville, Ala.

From 1982 to 1986 he was an instructor in the Department of Family Medicine at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, Amarillo. From 1986-1989 Thompson was the behavioral science director of the Hendrick Family Practice Residency Program in Abilene.

As a licensed and certified counselor and therapist, Thompson's professional activities include American Counseling Association, American Mental Health Counseling Association and Association for Advancement of Behavior Therapy. He served as president of the High Plains Counseling Association from 1991-92. He has also conducted workshops on local, state and regional levels.

Serving part-time as a counselor one evening a week over the past years at the Samaritan Pastoral Counseling Center, Thompson said: "I am glad to be full-time and serve as the executive director. I am indeed fortunate to be working with a dedicated Christian staff. We are here to serve the community."

Thompson's wife, Adrienne, is the clinical manager of the Case

Management/Social Services-Sports and Occupational Medicine Center, a part of High Plains Baptist Health System. They have two daughters, Ashton, a sixth grader at Bonham, and Allison, a fourth grader at Sleepy Hollow. The family are members of St. Paul United Methodist Church, Amarillo.

Since 1983, the Samaritan Pastoral Counseling Center, located on the campus of the First Christian Church at 2929 Duniven Circle, Amarillo, has provided pastoral counseling and educational services with the design to help integrate one's religious faith in the healing process along with appropriate psychotherapy. SPCC has nine satellite offices including three in Amarillo churches, Canyon, Dumas, Canadian, Pampa and Perryton.

SPCC is endorsed and supported by the area Panhandle church denominations. For more information about the services of SPCC, call (806) 353-1668 or 1-800-318-1725.

Man charged in mother/daughter disappearance

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — An Odessa man has been charged with killing a mother and daughter who disappeared from their Huntsville-area home nearly two years ago and have never been found, the Walker County sheriff said Sunday.

Raymond Cobb, 19, was arrested in Odessa Saturday night and returned to Huntsville on Sunday. He was being held on two counts of capital murder in Walker County Jail after Justice of the Peace John Pasket denied bond.

Meanwhile, sheriff's authorities hope to locate the remains of Margaret Owings and baby daughter Kori on Monday, Sheriff Dale Myers said.

"We are currently conducting a search this afternoon and tomorrow we'll start again for the remains of the lady and her baby. We think they are within a mile from the residence from which they disappeared," he said.

Myers said the case began Dec. 27, 1993, when Lindsey Owings returned to his farm home on U.S. 75, about five miles north of Huntsville, and found it had been burglarized. He first thought his wife Margaret, 22 at the time, and Kori, 16 months, were out, but later reported them missing.

Cobb, who lived across the road from the Owings in 1993, was questioned numerous times, Myers said. He confessed to burglarizing the home and was charged about a year ago, although that case had never gone to trial.

However, he denied responsibility for the two disappearances. "He's always been a suspect since right after the case began," Myers said.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveyng commandment.

Let's not forget where duty lies

"Patriots" are those who love, support and defend their country. Two hundred and nineteen years ago, a new country was born when the Continental Congress approved an historic document titled "The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America." It (later becoming famous as the Declaration of Independence) was signed by 56 patriots representing 2.5 million Americans living in 13 states.

In their giant step toward assuring life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for their new nation's citizens, the 56 signers of the Declaration paid a frightful price - nine died of wounds or war hardships, five were captured and subjected to brutal treatment, one was driven from his wife's deathbed and lost his children. The homes of 12 were burned to the ground and 17 lost everything they owned. Wives, sons and daughters of others were killed, jailed or mistreated. All but two were offered immunity, freedom, their property and lives of loved ones if they would break their pledge. Not one signer defected.

In our current bastion of freedom and comfort, more than 250 million Americans are eternally grateful not only to these patriots, but to the others who followed.

In remembrance of Veterans Day celebrated this past Saturday, we all should realize that we are at a crucial point in our history that demands that we do an honest self-analysis and look forward. We are struggling with a horrendous national debt, the problems of alcohol and drug addiction, insidious political propaganda ignorance and plain laziness. We pay taxes to a huge federal government that tells us how to manage our economic and social lives. As patriots, we should tell this government to get off our backs and permit us to use fully our individual initiative and energy.

We should, in the deepest of sincerity, echo the substance of the Declaration's last major paragraph: "And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor."

Moving quickly into the 21st century, as American patriots can we do any less?

Viewpoints

Pandering to the media elite

Republican presidential candidates are often accused by journalists of pandering to the religious right and its "harsh" positions on social issues like homosexuality. But pandering is a perfect word to describe the national media's treatment of the National Lesbian and Gay Journalists Association, which held their annual convention in Washington recently.

We are supposed to believe that an association of journalists would not have an ideological agenda because its members insist they are objective. George Stephanopoulos can tell you otherwise. He drew boos from the supposedly objective crowd for suggesting President Bill Clinton couldn't support legally recognized gay marriage.

There's nothing objective about a group whose agenda is far left of Clinton's. At the convention, gay reporters were invited not only to "sample some of the joys of gay Washington" but to see panels like "On the Trail of the Radical Right," which instructed "how to keep up with anti-gay ballot initiatives, attempts to take over school boards and ban books, and efforts to smear gays and lesbians." The panel included the "top-notch right-watcher" Chip Berlet of a firm called Political Research Associates, who warns of wacky conspiracies like the homophobia caused by "Trilateralist belt-tightening policies."

Part of the NLGJA agenda is domestic-partner benefits for gay couples, now provided by The New York Times, Time Warner and Capital Cities/ABC. In a story earlier this year in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Sherry Boschert, who heads a gay employees' group at Capital Cities/ABC, tells of working with the NLGJA to publish an eight-page analysis called "Domestic Partner Benefits: At What Cost?" The paper suggests: "Expect fewer than 1 percent of employees to sign up, or 2.5 percent if you include all domestic partners," meaning unmarried heterosexual couples. (Memo to Kinsey: Even gay journalists now admit that gays don't account for 10 percent of the population.)

This is a radical-chic cause, so the very elite of the liberal media came to pay their respects to this far-left fraction of the population. "Print and broadcast pros" came to tell "how they'll handle gay issues in 1996 election coverage." Panelists included moderator Cokie Roberts of ABC, NPR Vice President for News Bill Buzenberg, CBS News Political Executive Producer Barbara Cochran, Washington Post Executive Editor Len Downie, CNN Washington Bureau Chief Bill Headline and NBC Washington Bureau Chief Tim Russert. For their 1993 convention in New York, NLGJA drew network anchors Dan Rather, Tom Brokaw, Robert MacNeil and Judy Woodruff. A 1992 reception honoring Democratic politicians at the Democratic convention in New York drew Los Angeles Times Editor Shelby Coffey, New York Times Publisher Arthur Sulzberger and CNN President Tom Johnson.

Once again this year, gay journalists were actively recruited solely on the basis of their "lifestyle" - by CBS, CNN, NBC, National Public Radio, The New York Times, The Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, Knight-Ridder and Gannett. More regional newspapers also scouted out gay talent: the Atlanta Journal and Constitution, the Detroit Free Press, the Houston Chronicle, the Philadelphia Inquirer, and Portland's Oregonian. The Army Times was also recruiting - to help cover gays in the military, I suppose.

In 1927, the Holland Tunnel opened to the public, providing access between New York City and New Jersey beneath the Hudson River.
In 1937, NBC formed the first full-sized symphony orchestra exclusively for radio broadcasting.
In 1940, the Walt Disney animated movie "Fantasia" had its world premiere in New York.
In 1942, the minimum draft age was lowered from 21 to 18.
In 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down laws calling for racial segregation on public buses.
In 1969, in a speech in Des Moines, Iowa, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew accused network television news departments of bias and distortion, and urged viewers to lodge complaints.

In 1974, Karen Silkwood, a technician and union activist at the Kerr-McGee Cimarron plutonium plant near Crescent, Okla., was killed in a car crash.
In 1982, the Vietnam Veterans Memorial was dedicated in Washington following three days of ceremonies and marches.
Ten years ago: About 23,000 residents of Armero, Colombia, died when a gigantic mudslide, triggered by the Nevado del Ruiz volcano, buried the city.
Five years ago: Secretary of State James A. Baker III told reporters in Hamilton, Bermuda, the Persian Gulf crisis threatened world recession and the loss of American jobs. Members of Congress demanded a larger role in U.S. Gulf policy following President Bush's decision to send more U.S. troops to the region.

One year ago: A heavily armed gunman traded fire with San Francisco police, hitting two police officers, a paramedic and another person before being killed. President Clinton, visiting the Philippines, sought to assure world leaders that his party's severe losses in midterm elections wouldn't undercut his foreign policy. Sweden voted to join the European Union.

'Z' pattern is sensational politics

President Clinton phoned me the other day to chat - for almost an hour - about my new book, Values Matter Most, which he has been reading and skimming. He praised it and its theme, and discussed the current political situation. I was thrilled, but somewhat surprised by the praise because the book is sometimes quite critical of Clinton.

Roughly, this is the theme of the book: Economics is no longer the No. 1 political issue. Values are; social issues are. Democratic liberalism linked the national party to softness on these non-economic issues, leading to defeats. A political "Z" pattern then unfolded. In 1992, Clinton valiantly pulled the party of the left toward the center, stressing social issues, calling for "personal responsibility" and "no more something for nothing."

But once elected, Clinton and a liberal Democratic Congress reverted toward the liberal left. The Republicans exploited this turn in 1994 and are now legislating toward the center right. Clinton is re-reverting - trying to recapture the New Democrat flag. Left, right, left, right - the zigzag politics of Zorro.

Clinton's 1993-94 zig to the left, I explain in the book, deeply disillusioned me and Democrats of my stripe. Clinton understands. I report what he said about the book not just because I could fondle such words forever. The president said it was the "most honest criticism of the administration." At another point in the conversation he said that it "hit on substance and helped him gain perspective ... that it was "honest, open, not mean-spirited ... the kind of book any president would appreciate." He also noted several times that there are some things in the book he doesn't agree with, and there are some things about which we would probably never agree.

Clinton told me he had recently been thinking through the current political situation and had come up with a phrase to describe it: "Values matter most." Accordingly, he had been somewhat astonished when he received a set of page proofs of a book with that very title.

He says that in 1993 and 1994 he was too interested in the "legislative scorecard rather than in philosophy." He was "so anxious to fix the economy" that he "changed philosophically and missed the boat." He "lost the language" that had shaped him as a New Democrat concentrating on values. He behaved "like a prime minister, not a president." After the 1994 election, he realized he had created "a cardboard cut-out of himself."

I said that I had not been pleased with his welfare bill, which I thought was soft and weak. He agreed, saying, "I wasn't pleased with it either." He said he should have introduced a welfare bill as soon as he saw that his health care program was in trouble. He agreed with my analysis in the book that his education plan, "Goals 2000," started out as a fine piece of work, but didn't end up that way. (We differed about the crime bill). He said he had "let Democrats down" by not drumming home his message about values.

Clinton has said before that he had been portrayed in an unfavorable way. Now he is apparently saying that much of that portrayal was accurate and was his own fault. Moving on, he intends to recapture that New Democrat ideology.

How? He said he thought that the Democrats in Congress had done more moving to the center in 1993-94 than is generally acknowledged, citing, for example, the fact that the Congressional Black Caucus had supported the crime bill. He noted that the percentage of federal employees in the work force today is the lowest since 1933.

He thinks the recent Senate vote on welfare, with three-quarters of the Democrats voting in favor of a very tough bill, demonstrates that the Democratic move to the center is intensifying now. He is hopeful that the House-Senate conference will present him with a welfare bill that is tough, but not harsh, and that he can sign it. He hopes he and the Democrats will be able to compromise with the Republicans on an "honorable budget." That, and more, he believes will show his true colors and show that he, and the Democrats are now, really, New Democrats.

The "Z" is stunning politics. It will surely alienate the Democratic left. It will likely raise fresh credibility problems about the president. It's the right path for the country. And while it will be difficult in any event, it's the only way Clinton can win.

Citizens are fed up with trash television

Former Education Secretary William Bennett's frontal assault on trash-talk television ticked off - surprise - the trash-talk hosts. These see themselves as prospective victims of a Puritan backlash.

Sally Jessy Raphael was particularly exasperated. "It's a real elitist view," she said, "for a guy like this to stand up and say, 'I don't think 4.5 million people should watch this.'" Geraldo Rivera, unwilling to tout his endeavor as Masterpiece Theater for the blue collars, nevertheless allowed he didn't need the help or advice of outsiders like Bennett and the two co-leaders of his highly publicized endeavor, Connecticut Sen. Joe Lieberman and civil-rights activist C. Delore Tucker.

The purpose of the endeavor: cleaning up daytime TV through pressure on networks and sponsors. If enough viewers complain - so Bennett & Co. reason - sponsors may withdraw their support or the network, to head off such a prospect, will decree kinder, cleaner programming. No more "Women Who Use Men for Sex," "Woman's Fiance Lives a Secret Life" or "Love Triangles" (a selection from the Nov. 2 line-up).

The same clean-up crew worked with impressive effect to chasten gargantuan Time Warner, one of whose subsidiaries distributed "gangsta rap" videos and CDs that were filthy mouthed, raging with malice toward policemen and contempt for women. Time Warner, rather than stick up for debasement, sold its stake in the label.

What have a best-selling author, a politician and a battler for civil rights got against the television networks' right to sell lust and degradation and against our freedom to choose such commodities?

Let's put the question another way. What are the consequences of television's pandering to the baser human instincts? They can't be nice consequences. One I can think of is the implantation of a thought: Hey! There's a lot of fun stuff going on out there, and I'm missing out. As the "fun" stuff consists of adultery, illegitimacy, incest and the like, the last thing we need is more dabblers. There are enough expert practitioners as it is.

Moreover, if we are what we eat, so we also are what we enjoy. Squalor can make us squalid. It's like living at the base of a trash heap. After a while, you think that's how the world is.

The argument against that proposition comes from those who insist that in life, everything is just about equal. One man's squalor is another one's turn-on. Which may be true, but it doesn't render squalor and degradation the moral equivalents of love and honor and beauty. One problem here is that modern society is afraid to make such a bald declaration. Say that one thing - particularly one "lifestyle" - is better, righter or truer than another and you get in trouble fast. You are backward. You are repressive. You probably want to support Bennett and Lieberman and Tucker.

As a matter of fact, I do, and we all should. Not with the expectation that their battle against one spectrum of programming in one (albeit highly influential) medium is going to prove pivotal in the culture wars. But you have to start somewhere. Bless their hearts, Bennett, Lieberman and Tucker are starting on high ground.

Are they also engaging in that most un-20th century pastime, censorship? Censorship is what governments practice. Official suppression of free speech - if you call "Love Triangles" speech - isn't the issue here. Marketplace action is: Pick up the phone, write a letter, complain, urge, picket, boycott. No one in his right mind could gainsay that this, too, is free speech - in at least as exalted a form as that practiced by Sally Jessy Raphael.

Yes, certainly, the Bennett-Lieberman-Tucker objective is to inhibit what might be called viewing choice. Fine - provided the choice in question degrades, debases, incites. Maybe Sally Jessy can show us why "Transvestites Who Marry Their First Cousins" is essential entertainment. It's her American right to do so. And wouldn't it be fun watching her try?

Plan to utilize railway lines meets opposition

DALLAS (AP) — Efforts to revive unused railways as public recreation trails may be sidetracked as landowners and conservationists disagree over whether the access plans infringe on property rights.

As projects in several parts of Texas gain speed, public and private interests are clashing.

Supporters of the trails say the public should have access to the land and that public interests outweigh private concerns. But some landowners and officials attack rail trails as an invasion of privacy.

"We're against them from the standpoint of how they abrogate individual rights," said Lewis Dodd, a spokesman for the Hill Country Heritage Association, a nonprofit property rights advocacy group based in Fredericksburg.

"They are wanting to take people from the urban areas and give them the niceties of the country," he said. "And a lot of that is invasive."

It's been 12 years since Congress passed legislation to preserve railroad corridors and three years after federal money became available to help develop rail trails.

The movement "is gaining momentum and support" in Texas, said Steve Emmett-Mattox, community affairs coordinator for the nonprofit Rails-to-Trails Conservancy in Washington, D.C. "More and more, people are seeing possible uses for old rail lines."

The state has five public pathways including almost 79 miles. Also, planning is under way on nine funded projects, and 15 other railways have caught the attention of trail supporters.

A group of East Texas residents including Delia Meese had promises of a federal grant to help build a 19-mile asphalt trail from Jacksonville to near Tyler.

The state, which administers the program, pulled the funding after local officials and the East Texas Landowners for Private Ownership raised concerns about property rights, privacy and security.

"People who live next door to a trail want to tell you what you can do" with the land, said Kathryn Nichols, project manager of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's greenways program, "when, in fact, trails have economic benefits and can increase property values."

"The people who are ranting about rail trails are the same ones who think zoning is a taking of property," she said.

Japanese prison system makes few concessions to jailed foreigners

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — It has all the usual features of a Japanese jail, from the high walls and drab concrete buildings to the smell of disinfectant wafting through its halls. But Yokosuka Prison is special.

Flapping in the breeze next to Japan's rising-sun banner is the American flag. On one corner of the grounds is a ward set aside for what is probably the largest community of jailed American GIs anywhere outside the United States. The community is likely to grow.

The treatment of U.S. military personnel who break Japanese laws has become the focus of a national debate in Japan. Support for the U.S.-Japan security alliance has been sapped since a murder in May and the rape of a 12-year-old girl in September.

American servicemen stand accused of both crimes, which were committed on the southern Japan island of Okinawa where more than 26,000 U.S. troops are based.

A Marine pleaded guilty in an Okinawa court to the May killing, and a sailor from Texas has confessed to the rape. Two more Marines are also accused in the rape, but say only that they helped plot the attack and abduct the girl.

If convicted, all would be sent here. Yokosuka Prison, about 50 miles south of Tokyo, is the only facility in Japan where U.S. military personnel found guilty of breaking Japanese laws are sent.

According to Warden Keiichi Hatakeyama, 19 U.S. servicemen and one military dependent are currently serving sentences here. When they complete their sentences, they are sent back to the United States, where the servicemen will get dishonorable discharges.

In all, there are about 45,000 U.S. troops based in Japan. In South Korea, where about 30,000 U.S. troops are stationed, 14 GIs are in prison. Germany, which is host to nearly 77,000 U.S. troops, has eight jailed GIs.

U.S. military officials said that as of Sept. 25, the American servicemen imprisoned in Japan included two convicted of murder, two of robbery-murder, 12 of robbery-assault, two of robbery-rape, one of robbery and one of firearms law violations.

Man suspected of slaying, mutilating wife, trial begins

EL PASO (AP) — Passing quietly and unseen along El Paso's streets, James Patrick Bradley spent a long February weekend committing acts that would eventually put an entire city on edge, authorities allege.

Two days after shooting his wife on Feb. 15, police say, the disabled former trucker began leaving chopped pieces of her mutilated body across El Paso.

Soon it seemed everyone was anxiously captivated by news reports chronicling the gruesome crime and the police's hunt for what some speculated might be a serial killer.

"I think the imagery of pieces being found everywhere was somewhat unsettling," said police spokesman Sgt. Bill Pfeil. The tension would not abate until after the Presidents' Day weekend ended and James Bradley was in jail, charged with killing his 33-year-old artist wife, Suzy Gae Hahn Bradley.

Now the case is coming back into the public eye as James Bradley, who has been jailed since his Feb. 21 arrest, goes on trial for murder.

A jury pool of about 150 had been scheduled to be assembled today before state District Judge David Guaderrama to begin what is expected to be a week-long trial.

District Attorney Jaime Esparza, who is prosecuting the case, has declined to talk about the trial or any evidence that may be brought forward.

But a signed confession given by Bradley following his arrest — and later contested by defense attorneys — is almost certain to be introduced.

Bradley's lawyers said they are unconcerned.

"I believe it works in our favor," attorney Louis Lopez said last week, declining to elaborate. "I think we would have been hurt if the judge would have kept it out."

Bradley, who has pleaded innocent, told police in the confession that he shot his wife six times with a .22-caliber rifle following a fight at the couple's home during which she hit him in the head with a flashlight.

The confession says Bradley then chopped her up with an ax.

Police later said the couple had a stormy history and records show he had trouble dating back to his first marriage. Bradley's first wife, Cassandra, complained as early as 1981 that Bradley had beaten and threatened to kill her.

On Feb. 17, authorities found the first severed pieces in east El Paso. Some had been stuffed in boxes or spray painted different colors, possibly to destroy trace evidence.

By Nov. 20, police had found the entire body, but they were still unable to identify the victim.

Desperate to solve the case quickly, they released pictures of the woman's head in the hopes that someone would recognize her. Within 12 hours after television news shows aired the photos, James Bradley was in jail.

St. Ann's Nursing Home ranks high in customer satisfaction

PANHANDLE — In a national survey of more than 150 nursing homes, St. Ann's Nursing Home, located in Panhandle, was among the best in customer satisfaction.

Residents and family members were asked to rate each nursing home on comfort and cleanliness, the nursing staff, the care and services available and the food service.

St. Ann's ranked in the top 10% on two of four key measures of satisfaction (Comfort & Cleanliness and Food Service) and ranked #11 out of 159 on the Composite Quality Scale. The Survey was conducted by Parkside Associates, Inc., of Park Ridge, IL, a healthcare survey and research company.

"We are pleased to have ranked so high in this national research project," said Charlie Willison, administrator, at St. Ann's, "it is great for our staff to see their hard work and dedication reflected in such high customer satisfaction."

According to Wilson, St. Ann's does not plan to rest on its laurels. "We plan on continuously improving our home by enhancing our tried and true methods of care with new and innovative approaches."

St. Ann's Nursing Home is a non profit corporation, affiliated with the Catholic Diocese of Amarillo, and continues to benefit from its close association with the sisters of neighboring Sancta Maria Convent. Currently St. Ann's is licensed for 52 beds and in early 1996 plans to increase capacity to 56 beds.

For more information on the national survey, contact Jerry H. Seibert, president, Parkside Associates, Inc., Park Ridge, IL 60068, (708)698-9866.

Man wounded when showing off gun, gets arrested

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A man showing his girlfriend the sawed-off shotgun in his pants accidentally shot himself in the genitals, police said.

Police called to the scene found Kevin Hall lying on a street corner clutching his groin. His pants, which had a large hole, were still smoking.

Hall, 18, told police he had been hit in a drive-by shooting, but his girlfriend said he had been showing her the gun when it went off.

Hall was treated at a hospital Friday for a cut to his penis and powder burns on the inside of his thigh. Police then arrested him on several charges, including possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

The gun was found in some nearby bushes, police said.

Hall also was arrested on suspicion of reckless endangerment and illegal discharge of a firearm. He was being held in lieu of $100,000 bond pending arraignment today.

Report: KKR eyeing Aetna property-casualty

NEW YORK (AP) — Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. is preparing an offer for Aetna Life & Casualty Co.'s property-casualty operations that could top $4 billion, The Wall Street Journal reported today.

In a second bid that could make the leveraged buyout specialist an industry leader, discussions also were under way for the acquisition of various property-casualty units owned by Xerox Corp., a deal that could be worth as much as $2 billion, the Journal said, citing sources familiar with the negotiations.

KKR and the two companies declined comment.

Successful completion of the bids would make KKR — whose investment capital comes from large institutions such as pension funds — a leading seller of property-casualty policies to businesses nationwide.

Generally, the industry is struggling with soft prices, expensive overhead costs and pollution-claims exposure, and KKR is among the financial investors trying to buy undervalued properties and discipline them with tight financial controls.

Aetna reportedly also is interested in a proposal from CNA Financial Corp. of Chicago. Another interested buyer is Liberty Mutual Insurance Cos., based in Boston, the Journal reported.

'Suicide machine' used in recent death

DETROIT (AP) — The latest person to die in Dr. Jack Kevorkian's presence used the "suicide machine" in addition to inhaling carbon monoxide, his attorney said.

Kevorkian has acknowledged attending 26 deaths since 1990, and in two of the first three, Kevorkian supplied an apparatus that allowed patients to inject a sedative and a heart-stopping chemical into their own veins.

Until Wednesday's death of cancer patient Patricia Cashman, however, most people who died in Kevorkian's presence had breathed carbon monoxide.

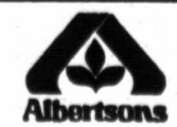

Kevorkian stopped supplying the so-called suicide machine in 1991 after Michigan authorities lifted his medical license, blocking his access to sedatives.

Kevorkian was able to supply the machine again this time because Cashman had saved up a quantity of the pain-killer Seconal, attorney Geoffrey Fieger said.

Cashman, a 58-year-old woman from San Marcos, Calif., who suffered from breast cancer, flipped a switch to allow the flow of Seconal into her veins, followed by the heart-stopping drug potassium chloride, Fieger said. She then pulled a clip to release carbon monoxide as a backup, he said.

"This was a pure suicide," Fieger said. "This woman injected the drugs knowingly. She turned on the machine herself."

Jeff Kramer, left, Hoechst Celanese Pampa Plant's United Way fund raising chair, presents Katrina Bigham and Chuck White of the Pampa United Way with a check for $102,226. The employees raised $50,113 and Hoechst Celanese matched the funds, along with $2,000 from Hoechst Celanese retirees. Kramer said this is the highest ever donated by Hoechst Celanese in Pampa.

Shoplifter Not Read Her Rights Should Have Heard Riot Act

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Upset Mother," whose daughter was arrested for shoplifting. Since her daughter was not read her rights, she asked if they should fight the arrest in court. Before she wastes her money on a lawyer and court costs, let me answer a few of her questions.

The person who originally detained the girl probably was an employee of the store, not a police officer. Because security personnel (often called "loss prevention" or "asset protection" employees) are private citizens, they are not required to read suspects their rights. After security personnel have processed the paperwork required by the employer, the police would then be called. It is the police who in most cases issue a citation and give the offender a court date. Miranda rights are read to a suspect when he or she is going to be taken to a police station or a juvenile detention center to be processed.

I have been a loss prevention officer for more than five years. I am a guard and I do not wear a uniform, but I watch cameras and walk the floor looking for shoplifters.

It was nice to see a parent concerned about her daughter's rights, but in this case, the daughter should take whatever punishment the court deems appropriate.

Please do not use my name since I work undercover; just sign me...
LOSS PREVENTION OFFICER

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR OFFICER: Thank you for explaining why the young shoplifter may not have been read her rights. Read on for a letter from a reader who criticizes the girl's mother for failing to teach her daughter the virtues of honesty:

DEAR ABBY: I was amazed by your reply to "Upset Mother," who seemed to be more concerned with her daughter's rights than the fact that this "normally good" girl committed a blatant theft and was caught in the act.

You advised the mother to consult a lawyer to determine if her little girl's rights were violated. Surely you jest. The rights of society were violated by a girl whose obviously indulgent parent views the crime as a prank that could be corrected with an apology, a long lecture and a month's grounding.

"Upset Mother" should be hauled into court for failing to instill basic values in her daughter. If the girl had been properly taught when she was a preteen, the theft may not have occurred in the first place.

HOPE BRYSON, LOS ANGELES

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter from "Santa Monica Reader," whose mind went blank when he was about to introduce an acquaintance (this has happened to all of us):

Here's a lighthearted trick my late husband, Gene, often used: Speaking directly to the person whose name he could not remember, with a straight face he'd say, "I remember your name, but can't think of your face" — at which time the forgotten one would blurt out his name, then laugh.

It worked every time, and no one felt insulted or embarrassed.

Horoscope

Your Birthday

Tuesday, Nov. 14, 1995

You may only have to expend minimal effort to gain substantial returns in the year ahead. However, you must not become indifferent and think good fortune will follow you indefinitely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Ambitions can be achieved today, but they won't be handed to you on a silver platter. You might have to earn your laurels the hard way. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) When making decisions today, consider both the long-range and immediate effects. Before committing yourself, make sure to think the situation through.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today a shrewd manipulator might try to make you feel obligated to him or her. You are not, so don't fall for this person's ploys.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A bargaining arrangement could fall flat today if you're expecting to get more than you're prepared to give. Without proper parity, the deal won't work.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make sure to properly acknowledge friends who do you favors today. If you fail to show gratitude, your friends might not be around when you need them later.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even though you might find good fortune today, don't push your luck beyond sensible limits. If you do, you might lose as much as you gain.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Wishful thinking might override common sense today and induce you to make an unwise commercial decision. Do not ignore your instincts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If good intentions were graded today, you'd walk away with high marks. However, acting on these constructive thoughts might not come as easily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your material interests will continue to remain in favorable condition, but today you might be tempted to spend more than you can afford.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today, try to distinguish between being abrasive and assertive. If you cross this fine line, quarrels might ensue.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Opportunities that usually come easily for you might not be properly utilized today. Remain cognizant of all developments or you will kick yourself later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not become disheartened by slow progress in a new endeavor. Your failure could suddenly change into success.

Defending champs surprise Cowboys

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING (AP) — Nothing has changed in the NFL. The Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers are still quite capable of defending themselves.

Ask the Dallas Cowboys, who have lost three consecutive games to the 49ers, including last January's NFC title game, if the 49ers are still potent despite injuries and free agent losses.

"This team is still intimidated by the red shirts and gold helmets," said Dallas defensive end Charles Haley. "What's different? They find Jerry Rice, throw to Jerry, then Jerry catches. And Jerry runs."

Rice ran Dallas out of Texas Stadium on the second play of the game Sunday as the 49ers beat the Cowboys 38-20 in a game reminiscent of the NFC championship meeting last January.

"We still have the Cowboys' number," said tight end Brent Jones. "We're still alive and kicking."

The 49ers, who had lost their last two games, moved into a tie with St. Louis and Atlanta for the leadership in the NFC West with a 6-4 record. Dallas dropped to 8-2.

Rice caught five passes for 161 yards through the dazed Dallas secondary. The 49ers came up with a game plan that evaded Deion Sanders and had Rice being watched by linebackers.

Second-string quarterback Elvis Grbac and wide receiver Rice killed Dallas on the game's second play with an 81-yard touchdown pass. Merton Hanks returned a fumble 36 yards for a touchdown 13 seconds later and the rout was on.

San Francisco paralyzed Dallas much as it did in the NFC championship when the 49ers built a 21-0 lead in the first 6:25 of the game. The 49ers went on to win 38-28 and eventually defeat San Diego in the Super Bowl.

"It was like the same game," said Sanders. "But I was on the opposite team then. My hats off to Jerry. He's the best receiver ever to play the game."

Rice, the NFL's career leader in receiving, slipped open behind linebacker Darrin Smith for a slant pass over the middle from Grbac and went 81 yards. Rice confused the Cowboys by lining up in the slot.

"Part of the game plan was to get me one-on-one with the linebacker, and they bit on it," Rice said. "I knew it was time for me to do what I do. I have a lot of respect for Deion."

Rice had been involved in a pregame exchange of words with the Cowboys' $35 million cornerback, Sanders. Rice had complained that Sanders took credit for the Super Bowl win. Sanders said Rice was "ignorant."

"We moved Jerry around a lot so we could get him away from Deion," Grbac said. "They were running around and looked confused."

"Deion said there was no camaraderie on this team. It was wrong for him to say that. We showed it today."

San Francisco played without Steve Young for the fifth consecutive game. The Cowboys only had Troy Aikman for about seven minutes.

Aikman was injured on a first-quarter sack by Dana Stubblefield. Aikman fell heavily on his left knee and will have an MRI exam today. Doctors said the quarterback has a bad bruise.

Wade Wilson subbed and threw two interceptions before he left with a cut chin late in the fourth period.

Grbac completed 20 of 30 for 305 yards and two touchdowns and scored once himself.

"This was a damn important game for our team," said San Francisco coach George Seftor. "We wanted to do everything we could to win this game."

Young said Grbac was terrific. "White hot pressure on somebody is a way to force some pretty good stuff," Young said.

Michael Irvin failed in his quest to set an NFL record with an eighth consecutive 100-yard receiving game, being held to just four receptions for 37 yards. He got small consolation with an 8-yard touchdown pass from Jason Garrett.

"They are a better football team than us," Irvin said. "I can't tell the future, just what happened today. They're a better team than us. Period. They came out and beat our butts."

Dallas coach Barry Switzer said "I don't understand why things happen the way they do. It looked like the same game as last year at the beginning."

Switzer's boss, owner Jerry Jones, said "This was terribly disappointing. We certainly didn't expect this. We just got our fannies kicked."

FOOTBALL

PAMPA — Pampa and Borger meet at 2 p.m. Saturday in Bulldog Stadium for the District 1-4A championship. Both teams are tied for the district lead at 5-0 going into the final week of the regular season.

Two Pampa-area teams, the Miami Warriors and Canadian Wildcats, are involved in the bi-district playoffs this week.

On Thursday, starting at 7:30 p.m., Miami (9-1) meets Amherst (10-0) in Silvertown, in a six-man playoff tilt.

Canadian (7-1-1) goes against Stratford (6-3) in a Class 2A playoff game at 7:30 Friday night in Perryton.

WHITE DEER — Sunray shut out White Deer, 60-0, Friday night.

White Deer's season ended at 1-9 overall, 1-4 in District 1-1A. Sunray, the district's No. 2 seed, is 8-2 for the season and 4-1 in the district standings.

SOCCER

PAMPA — The 1995 Pampa Soccer Association Fall Awards Ceremony will be held Thursday, beginning at 7 p.m. in M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Players should wear their team jerseys to the awards presentation. Fund-raiser prizes will be distributed and the remaining team pictures will be handed out.

For more information about the soccer awards, call 669-1273.

AUTO RACING

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Nothing could spoil the day for Jeff Gordon.

Not the overwhelming dominance of Dale Earnhardt in the season-ending NAPA 500, nor the mysterious handling problem that made his Chevrolet Monte Carlo feel like it was traversing an icy surface throughout most of Sunday's race at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

As tough to accept as that combination might have been at another time, it meant very little on this day to the 24-year-old Gordon, who clinched his first Winston Cup championship despite finishing 32nd in the 42-car field.

"It's been a spectacular year," Gordon said. "Our goals were not quite this high. Last year, we were eighth, and realistically we thought top five this year. We wanted to win more than the two races we won last year and more than the one pole we won each of our first two years."

"What we accomplished is just unbelievable. It's impossible to put it into words."

What the Hendrick Motorsports team accomplished, under the direction of crew chief Ray Evernham, was to become the most consistent outfit in Winston Cup racing.

Gordon finished the season with series-leading totals of eight poles and seven wins, led 29 of the 31 races — including Sunday's — and finished in the top 10 23 times.

Gordon was unbeatable, even with Earnhardt, working hard to win his third straight season title and to break the overall mark of seven championships he shares with Richard Petty, chopping a 305-point lead to 34 in the last five races.

"Earnhardt is incredible," Gordon said. "The way that guy drove the last five or 10 races, he was very aggressive and he did what he needed to do. But we put together a total package, a total season, and it was impossible to bring us down."

Earnhardt, 44, put together a near perfect finale to a solid year, overrunning the field as he led 268 of the 328 laps on Atlanta's 1.522-mile oval.

The victory matched Cale Yarborough's record of seven Atlanta victories and gave Earnhardt five wins for the season and 68 in his career.

Harvester cagers tip off at McDonald's Classic

PAMPA — The Pampa Harvesters' basketball team will match up against two familiar foes when the season tips off next weekend at the McDonald's Classic in Levelland.

The Harvesters meet Midland Lee on Friday and then follow up with Abilene High on Saturday. Pampa beat Midland Lee, 75-55, and Abilene High, 82-59, last year. All the games will be played in the Texan Dome on the South Plains College campus.

Other high schools and also colleges compete in the annual McDonald's Classic.

"It's just a great opportunity to be a part of this again. We'll be playing in a nice area and it will be a fun time for our team," said Pampa head coach Robert Hale.

Pampa's 1-2 scoring punch of guard Rayford Young and forward Coy Laury return for their senior seasons. Young, named the most valuable player in District 1-4A, averaged 22 points per game for the Harvesters last season. Laury averaged 18.9 points and led the team in rebouncing. Forward Jason Weatherbee, another senior and a parttime starter, also returns.

When the football season ends, guard J.J. Mathis, inside player Devin Lemons and guard Jimmy Reed will be on the hardwood to give the Harvesters additional strength.

Many of the players were on the junior varsity roster a year ago.

"We've got players with their first experience at the varsity level and they're a little apprehensive," Hale said. "They're trying hard and learning things in our scrimmages which they can apply in the games."

The Harvesters scrimmaged over the weekend at the Panhandle High gym against Plainview and Panhandle.

Pampa's first home game is scheduled for Nov. 28 against Palo Duro. The District 1-4A opener is Jan. 2 at Randall. The Harvesters under Hale will be going for their eighth district title in a row.

Pampa Schedule

Nov.

17-18 — McDonald's Classic at Levelland (South Plains College); 21 — Palo Duro, 7:30 away; Nov. 24-25 — Fantasy of Lights Tournament (at Wichita Falls); 28 — Palo Duro, 7:30 home.

Pampa's Thomas joins all-time list

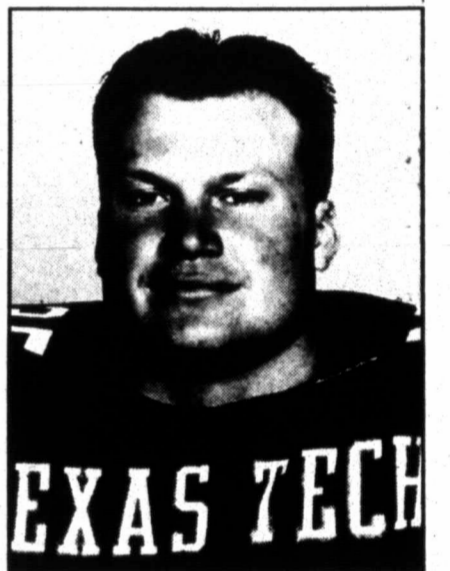

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech linebacker Zach Thomas of Pampa has been selected to the Texas Panhandle's All-Time Southwest Conference Football Team by the Amarillo Globe-News newspaper.

Thomas, the first three-year captain in Tech history, is one of 15 semifinalists for the Dick Butkus Award, which goes to the nation's top linebacker. As a freshman, Thomas started the last two games at middle linebacker for the Red Raiders, and he's been there ever since.

Thomas had won one honor after another the past three years. He was selected first-team All America by the American Football Coaches Association, UPI and American Football Quarterly in 1994, and second-team All American by Associated Press and Football News; 1994 Southwest Conference defensive player of the year and unanimous All-SWC on eight teams in 1994. He set an all-time bowl record with seven tackles for losses in the 1992 Sun Bowl.

This season, Thomas was named defensive player of the week by Sports Illustrated and Sporting News after Texas Tech beat Texas A & M last month.

Thomas joins another Pampa, Randall Clay — a running back who played for Texas in the

ZACH THOMAS

1940's — on the all-time SWC team. Others named to the all-time team so far are Don Rives of Wheeler (Texas Tech), Denton Fox of Claude (Texas Tech), Phil Tucker of Tulia (Texas Tech), Keith Flowers of Perryton (Texas Christian University), Danny Abbott of Amarillo Tascosa (Texas), Stanley Mauldin of Amarillo High (Texas), William Thomas of Amarillo Palo Duro (Texas A & M) and Billy Hobbs of Amarillo Tascosa (Texas A & M). Future players will be selected until Dec. 3, the day after the final SWC game.

Canadian plays Stratford in 2A football playoffs

WELLINGTON — Canadian will play Stratford at 7:30 Friday night in Perryton in the first round of the football playoffs.

The Wildcats earned District 2-2A's No. 1 seed by beating Wellington, 34-6, last Friday night.

In that game, Jyarid Jaco scored twice for the Wildcats, one on a 1-yard run and another on a 21-yard pass from Kevin Zenor.

Zenor opened Canadian's scoring with a 1-yard run in the first quarter. Tomas Ruiz followed with a 31-yard TD run as the Wildcats led, 14-0, at the end of the first quarter.

Daniel Hilton scored Canadian's final TD when he broke loose on a 95-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter.

Canadian finished the regular season with a 7-1-1 record. The Wildcats and Panhandle ended up tied for the district title with 4-0-1 records.

Saints slip by Colts, 17-14

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jim Harbaugh ruined what would have been a first-and-goal for the Indianapolis Colts from the Saints' 1 by throwing the ball past the line of scrimmage, and Cary Blanchard's try for a game-tying 41-yard field goal was wide left with 13 seconds left Sunday, leaving New Orleans with a 17-14 victory over Indianapolis.

The Saints (4-6) won for the fourth time in five games following an 0-5 start. But they nearly wasted their lead on the Colts' final drive.

Harbaugh, who didn't start because of a pulled groin muscle, was surprisingly mobile, scrambling to throw a touchdown and then running 9 yards to keep the Colts final drive going.

He helped move Indianapolis (5-5) to the Saints' 19 with 1:11 remaining when cornerback Eric Allen was penalized for pass interference against Sean Dawkins.

After an incomplete pass and run for no gain by Roosevelt Potts, Harbaugh escaped the pressure of Renaldo Turnbull and threw an 18-yarder to Brian Stablein, who was tackled on the 1. But Harbaugh stepped just a little ahead of the line of scrimmage, and the penalty negated the completion and moved the ball back to the 23.

Blanchard's field goal attempt was way wide to the left.

Eagles roll past Broncos, 31-13

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles delivered a knockout punch to John Elway and the Denver Broncos couldn't get off the ground.

Rodney Peete ran for a touchdown and threw another, and Ricky Watters had two short touchdown runs as the Eagles beat the Broncos 31-13 Sunday night after Elway missed most of the game's final three quarters with a concussion.

Pampa High girls open 1995-96 basketball season at Spearman

PAMPA — Seven letter winners, including three starters, return to the Pampa Lady Harvesters' basketball team this season.

Returning starters are 5-10 senior Jane Brown, 5-10 junior Jennifer Jones and 5-7 sophomore Tasha Wilson. Letter winners back include Kristi Carpenter, Candice Nachtigall, Erin Alexander and Jamey Wells, a sophomore, who missed last season due to a knee injury. Promising newcomers include Chandra Nachtigall, Yvette Brown and Tina Dwight.

The Lady Harvesters open the season Friday night at Spearman with the game beginning at 7:30.

"Practice has been going real good," said PHS head coach Mike Jones. "The girls are working really hard. We had a scrimmage last Tuesday and the girls learned a lot about themselves."

Jones expects Spearman to be a tough opening opponent.

"Spearman always seems to have a good team. They beat us in a close game last year," Jones said.

Pampa's first home game is Nov. 28 against Palo Duro, starting at 6 p.m.

Southern Cal clinches Rose Bowl trip

By The Associated Press

At least one of the Rose Bowl teams is set. Now for the stretch run between Ohio State and Northwestern.

Southern Cal clinched its 28th trip to the Rose Bowl with a 28-10 victory over Oregon State on Saturday. That left Ohio State and Northwestern to battle it out for the other spot.

Right now, the second-ranked Buckeyes have the inside track after a 41-3 victory over Illinois gave them a 10-0 record. Fifth-ranked Northwestern, whose only loss this season was to Miami of Ohio, kept pace with a 31-20 win over Iowa.

The Buckeyes, who played in the Kickoff Classic in August, have two games left on their schedule: Indiana and Michigan. Northwestern, the surprise team of the country this season with a 9-1 record, has one game remaining, with Purdue.

If they both win their remaining games, they will finish with identical 8-0 records in the Big Ten. But Ohio State will go the Rose Bowl based on overall record.

Eddie George, the Buckeyes' star running back, made a big pitch for the Heisman Trophy with a 314-yard rushing day.

"We've got two games left, two big games," he said. "I'm not really concerned about the Heisman. I'm more concerned about the Rose Bowl and how we're going to finish the year."

(8-2) hurt themselves with five turnovers. Nebraska has won 23 in a row overall and has beaten Kansas 27 straight.

No. 2 Ohio St. 41, Illinois 3

George broke Keith Byars' Ohio State record of 274 yards on a 13-yard touchdown run midway through the third quarter. Byars' big day also came against Illinois, that in 1984, the last season in which Ohio State qualified for the Rose Bowl.

George now has 1,592 yards with two regular-season and one bowl game remaining. At his current pace, he would have 1,910 yards through the regular season. No back with 2,000 yards in the regular season has ever failed to win the Heisman.

No. 3 Florida 63, S. Carolina 7

Danny Wuerffel threw five touchdowns passes and Florida earned its fourth straight trip to the Southeastern Conference title game. Wuerffel, rested last week by coach Steve Spurrier, had 304 yards passing in the first half.

No. 5 Northwestern 31, Iowa 20

With Darrell Autry getting 100 rushing yards for the 11th straight time, Northwestern raised its record to the best in 92 years. The Wildcats hadn't done as well since 1903, when they went 9-2-3, beating such opponents as Division High School and Chicago Dental.

down passes as the Wildcats (9-1) scored on seven of their first eight possessions. With a victory over Colorado next Saturday, Kansas State would win 10 games for the first time.

Miller improved his season total to 22 touchdown passes, breaking the Big Eight conference record of 20 by Vince Ferragamo set in 1976. Miller finished 14-for-17 for 209 yards.

Troy Davis, the nation's leading rusher, carried 41 times for 183 yards to run his season total to 1,830 for host Iowa State (3-7).

No. 9 Colorado 21, Missouri 0

John Hessler passed for two touchdowns, extending his school record, and ran for another score as the Buffaloes (8-2) handed the visiting Tigers (2-8) their sixth straight loss. It also was Colorado's 11th victory in a row over Missouri.

No. 10 Texas 52, Houston 20

James Brown threw four touchdowns passes and ran for a score as the Longhorns (7-1-1) rallied for 35 straight second-half points.

No. 11 USC 28, Oregon St. 10

Delon Washington rushed for a career-high 158 yards and two touchdowns as the Trojans clinched their first trip to the Rose Bowl in six seasons.

No. 12 Michigan 5, Purdue 0

A muddy field, freezing temperatures and wind gusting to 50 mph limited Michigan (8-2) to Remy Hamilton's 25-yard field goal and Clarence Thompson's safety in the lowest-scoring game at Michigan Stadium since the Wolverines tied Northwestern 0-0 in 1938.

Tiki Barber ran for 116 yards and backup Kevin Brooks for 103 as the Cavaliers (8-3) overcame a poor start and clinched a share of the ACC title with their fourth straight victory over the Terrapins.

No. 14 Arkansas 24, SW Louisiana 13

Del Delco returned an interception 62 yards for a touchdown, his defensive teammates set up two other scores and Madre Hill established a school rushing record of 1,298 yards for the Razorbacks (8-2).

Palestinians take control of West Bank town

JENIN, West Bank (AP) — Thousands of Palestinians lined the streets of this West Bank city today — dancing, singing and firing shots in the air to welcome 200 police who moved in after Israeli troops pulled out before dawn.

Israeli and Palestinian officials shook hands at a gas station on the outskirts of Jenin to mark the formal transfer of power in Jenin, the first West Bank town to come under Palestinian self-rule under the Israel-PLO agreement signed in September by Yasser Arafat and the late Yitzhak Rabin.

Palestinians cheered, whistled and shouted "God is great!" when a convoy of 14 jeeps and armored vehicles drove out of the fenced compound from which Israel ruled the city during 28 years of military occupation.

The moment the Israelis left, some 200 uniformed Palestinian police officers rushed into the building, with hundreds of Jenin residents trying to push in behind them. PLO officers quickly raised a Palestinian flag.

Rebel Serbs agree to return land to Zagreb rule

ERDUT, Croatia (AP) — Resolving a dispute that threatened to derail Balkan peace talks, rebel Serbs have agreed to return the state of their territorial holdings in Croatia to government authority.

The agreement, signed Sunday in this eastern Croatian town, was finalized in Dayton, Ohio, where Croatian President Franjo Tudjman and Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic are meeting on an overall peace plan for the former Yugoslavia.

The 14-point plan, finalized on Sunday, provides for a one-to-two year transition period monitored by international forces before Zagreb assumes full control.

U.S. Ambassador to Croatia Peter Galbraith, one of two lead negotiators on resolving the fate of the territory, known as eastern Slavonia, called the agreement "historic."

Reform-minded businessman leads presidential race

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — A power failure darkened Guatemala City and most of the nation early today as a reform-minded businessman claimed victory in the third presidential election since 30 years of military rule ended in 1985.

Incomplete figures from Sunday's balloting showed a turnout of only about 40 percent, disappointing government officials who had campaigned hard for a larger show of support for this Central American country's 10-year-old experiment in democratic elections.

Unless businessman Alvaro Arzu garners an absolute majority — 51 percent of Sunday's vote — he will face the second-place finisher in a Jan. 7 runoff. The winner takes office Jan. 14 for four years.

With 246 of the country's 6,348 precincts counted, Arzu and his National Advanced Party had 36,727 votes, or 61.35 percent, followed by Alfonso Portillo of the Guatemalan Republican Front with 10,337 votes, or 17.27 percent. Both are conservatives.

Rapper's trial: Life imitates art

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In "Murder Was the Case," Snoop Doggy Dogg raps about a man caught up in bloody street violence that plagues the inner cities.

Now as he and a former bodyguard stand trial in a drive-by shooting, the song has taken on a startling similarity to real life.

Prosecutors contend that the defendants sought out and killed Philip Woldemariam, a 20-year-old Ethiopian immigrant, after an earlier dispute.

Defense attorneys hope to convince the jury that self-defense — not murder — was the case this time.

The rapper, whose real name is Calvin Broadus, and co-defendant McKinley Lee, have pleaded innocent in the Aug. 25, 1993, shooting. Charges were dismissed against another man, Sean Abrams.

Jury selection resumes today.

Even with the murder case hanging over Snoop, the 24-year-old from Long Beach, Calif., has enjoyed phenomenal success. His 1993 debut album "Doggystyle" made history by hitting No. 1 slot in the first week. The Murder Was the Case album, featuring Broadus and other rappers, has sold over 2 million since its release in the wake of the shooting.

Snoop was arrested just hours after the 1993 MTV Video Music Awards show.

Baker gains state award

Beverly Morse, left, and Barbara Nichols, teachers at Baker Elementary School in Pampa, display the award they accepted on behalf of the school during a ceremony in October in Corpus Christi. The award is for creating an environment that accelerates the learning of children. During the 1994-95 school year, 70 percent of the Title I students passed both reading and math sections of the TAAS test, and, in 1993-94, 65 percent of the Title I students passed the test.

U.S. personnel die in Saudi blasts

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Two explosions, possibly from car bombs, destroyed a building housing American and Saudi military personnel today, killing six people and wounding about 60. Four of the dead were Americans.

The blasts set off a fire that engulfed the three-story building, sending out huge plumes of smoke that could be seen across the city. Windows in nearby buildings were blown out.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility, and it was not known if Americans or Saudis were the targets.

Saudi society is insular and tightly controlled by the government, and dissent is rare. It was the first known attack against the U.S. military in Saudi Arabia since the 1991 Gulf War, when Iraq fired Scud missiles into the kingdom. One missile hit a U.S. barracks, killing more than 20 Americans.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Riyadh said a car bomb in the parking lot outside the training facility was believed to have caused the 11:30 a.m. blasts.

The White House said six people died — four Americans, a Filipino and one whose identity was unknown. It said its earlier report that five Americans had been killed was incorrect.

Most of the wounded were not badly hurt, the state-run Saudi news agency said, quoting the Saudi Interior Ministry.

Vice President Al Gore, interviewed on Cable News Network, said U.S. officials have no indication of a motive. "We are awaiting further information about exactly what happened and who is responsible," Gore said. "It's a terrible tragedy."

The United States and Saudi Arabia have close military ties, and American military personnel work in the kingdom. The building destroyed today was leased by the United States and used by American military personnel who help train the Saudi National Guard.

Some Muslim fundamentalists oppose the presence of American and other non-Muslim forces in the kingdom, home to Islam's holiest shrines.

Kenneth Bacon, a Defense Department spokesman in Washington, said the preliminary report indicated two explosions, a large one and a smaller one, happened in the parking lot outside the building about five minutes apart.

He did not know if a car bomb was involved. Sources, speaking only on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press that a bomb was believed to have been in a Chevrolet Caprice Classic.

Bacon said the building houses the program office of the Saudi National Guard, although the United States leases space in it. Most of the Americans who work there are contract personnel. He did not know how many Americans work there.

Retiring soon? Check with Social Security

If you are approaching age 62 and are thinking of retiring next year, you should contact Social Security now to discuss your plans.

In some cases, your choice of retirement month could mean additional benefits for you and your family. Because the computation varies based on your earnings for the year and the month in which you file, it is a good idea to check with a Social Security representative before making your decision, according to Joe Deschaine, branch manager of the Pampa Social Security Administration office.

Because Social Security rules permit people to work and receive retirement benefits at the same time, it could be to your advantage to have your benefits begin in January even if you do not plan to retire until later in the year. This would allow you to apply earnings in excess of the annual limit to those months and possibly avoid a reduction in monthly benefits for the rest of the year, Deschaine said.

For your application to be effective in January 1996, you should file for benefits any time before Jan. 31, 1996.

In 1996, beneficiaries under 65 can earn up to $8,280 with no reduction in Social Security benefits; and beneficiaries aged 65-69 can earn up to $11,520 with no reduction in Social Security benefits. The amount a person can earn and still receive benefits increases each year with increases in average wages.

Of course, if you are 70 or older, your benefits will not be reduced no matter how much you earn, Deschaine said.

For additional information or to make an appointment to discuss your retirement plans, call any Social Security office or toll-free number 1-800-772-1213. The Pampa office is located at 123 S. Gillespie, telephone 669-1010. Office hours are 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

White House lawyer exposed for gathering information on judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — In another instance of aides aggressively gathering sensitive information on Whitewater, a White House lawyer early in the affair obtained confidential documents about a Little Rock judge who had accused President Clinton of wrongdoing.

The White House hastily returned the documents when the Justice Department vigorously objected and opened a criminal investigation into what White House advisers did with the information, according to FBI and Justice Department documents reviewed by The Associated Press.

For five or six days in mid-November 1993, then-Associate White House Counsel Neil Eggleston had a report that outlined a series of defaulted federally backed loans made by indicted ex-judge David Hale, who was emerging as a central figure in Whitewater.

At the time, Hale was alleging publicly that he had been pressured in 1986 by Clinton, then the Arkansas governor, to make an improper $300,000 loan to the Clintons' Whitewater partners. The loan, guaranteed by the Small Business Administration, is one of the focal points of Whitewater prosecutor Kenneth Starr's investigation.

According to internal FBI and Justice Department documents, the SBA's top attorneys gave the confidential material to the White House on Nov. 16 or Nov. 17, 1993, without telling anyone at the law enforcement agencies.

When told of the transfer a day or two after it occurred, the Justice Department told Eggleston he must return the documents to the SBA. When he returned the material, Eggleston said he had copied the report detailing Hale's various loans but insisted he had "shredded" the copy when the Justice Department demanded the documents be sent back.

Eggleston told an SBA attorney that "he did not want to do anything inappropriate," according to a memo written by John Arterbury, deputy chief of the Justice Department's fraud section. "He had sought the documents because he wanted to track what was going on between the SBA and the Hill and did not want to be surprised by leaks from the Hill."

Three people familiar with the matter, including a White House source, said Sunday that Eggleston obtained the documents after being told by his boss, counsel Bernard Nussbaum, to look into the fact that the SBA was about to turn over material on Hale's company to Congress. All three sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

"This is a classic case of no harm, no foul play," White House spokesman Mark Fabiani said Sunday. "The Department of Justice investigation of the SBA matter was pursued vigorously and successfully and the documents, which had already been turned over to Congress, were returned as soon as the Justice Department objections were made known."

DPS offers safe driving tips for travelers at Thanksgiving

The Texas Department of Public Safety Troopers are reminding Texas motorists to be careful during the Thanksgiving holiday.

"Last year in Texas, we experienced a rise in Interstate and U.S. Highway fatalities. We even experienced more pedestrian fatalities," said Trooper L.B. Snider, DPS information specialist in Amarillo.

Most pedestrian accidents happen during the late hours of the night. Pedestrians should be more aware of vehicular traffic, be sure to cross at intersections of cross walks, and when entering into the traffic side of the car, be sure that it is clear from oncoming traffic, Snider said.

Traffic accidents were mainly caused by human error. Since many drivers are not complying with the speed limit law, speeding was the number one factor, he said. As in years past, the Texas Department of Public Safety is asking all Texas motorists to voluntarily comply with all Texas traffic laws.

Not wearing seat belts is the second cause of most deaths on Texas roads, Snider said.

"Wearing seat belts will increase your chances of surviving an automobile accident," he said. "If drivers and passengers would only take five seconds to buckle-up, this could help save a life or prevent serious injuries. Many drivers and passengers are being ejected from their vehicles, because they were not using seat belts. So, please buckle-up and live a lot."

Intoxicated drivers are now facing the new ALR law. The Department of Public Safety hopes this law will keep the public from drinking and driving. Driving while intoxicated drivers will also be one of the top priorities this Thanksgiving holiday.

"You, as a motorist, preparing for the Thanksgiving holiday, remember, to use good common sense and drive carefully," Snider said. "Other drivers might not be as careful. Buckle up, look out for all traffic, especially pedestrians, obey speed limit laws, look out for the drink driver, don't drink and drive yourself, and you will have a safe and happy Thanksgiving holiday."
