

Watergate Unraveling Year Old This Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Exactly one year ago, during Palm Sunday weekend, the Watergate coverup cracked wide open. It was a weekend of tears, confessions and hushed conversations. The groundwork had been laid in preceding weeks. James W. McCord Jr., the security chief for the Committee to Reelect the President (CRP) and the bugging expert on the Watergate burglary team, had written Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica in March charging there had been perjury and political pressure during the original Watergate trial. Sirica reconvened the grand jury. White House Counsel John W. Dean had gone to the federal prosecutors earlier in April. Many of the news media had assigned investigative reporters full-time to Watergate. Then came Palm Sunday weekend. Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy campaign director and then a high official in the Commerce Department, went to federal prosecutors on Saturday to tell of his role in the Watergate planning. So did Herbert L. "Bart" Porter, CRP scheduling director, who said that Magruder had asked him to lie about the money that was paid to G. Gordon Liddy, CRP finance counsel and mastermind of the Watergate break-in. That afternoon, John D. Ehrlichman, White House domestic affairs adviser, called Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst. Kleindienst testified at the Senate hearings last summer that Ehrlichman told him:

"Well, it really doesn't make any difference any more... Mr. Magruder has been over here at the White House this afternoon and telling us that he has been meeting with the U.S. attorney's office and giving them testimony and evidence that would implicate people high and low in the White House and in the campaign committee." That night, Kleindienst testified, he met at his suburban home from 1-a.m. to 5 a.m. with Assistant Attorney General Henry E.

Petersen, head of the Justice Department's Criminal Division; U.S. Attorney Harold J. Titus, and the chief Watergate prosecutor, Earl J. Silbert. Kleindienst testified that he learned for the first time the whole story of the Watergate break-in and cover-up and that his closest friends and associates were involved. "I think one of the things I did that night, I wept," he said. As the night wore on, Kleindienst wrote a handwritten letter removing himself from the Watergate case and took copious notes on his wife's stationery. He said he went to bed, could not sleep, arose at 8:30 a.m., called the White House to make an appointment to see President Nixon, went to the White House worship service and reception and met the President at 1 p.m. in the Executive Office Building. Kleindienst said he told Nixon everything that he had learned. "He was dumbfounded," Kleindienst said. "He was very upset."

That night, according to Dean's later testimony at the Senate hearings, he also had a conversation with Nixon. Dean said he informed Nixon what he had told the prosecutors. He said Nixon, at one point, got out of his chair, went to a corner of the room and said almost inaudibly that it had been a mistake to discuss clemency for one of the Watergate defendants. The House Judiciary Committee now has subpoenaed the tape recordings of 41 Nixon conversations. Among them are a number of the conversations which Nixon held that Saturday and Sunday with White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Petersen and Kleindienst. Two weeks later, Nixon fired Dean and announced Kleindienst's and Ehrlichman's resignation. A year later, Titus is his acting successor. Both were taken off the Watergate case in May when Kleindienst's successor, Elliot L. Richardson, named a special prosecutor.

Defiance: Impeachable Offense?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans in Congress are ready to argue that defiance by President Nixon of the House subpoena for his tapes would not by itself justify his impeachment. For that reason, Thursday's vote by the House Judiciary Committee

3 American Naval Officers Die In Ambush

MANILA (UPI) — Three American naval officers were shot and killed in an ambush Saturday while inspecting road construction in an isolated corner of the big Subic Bay U.S. naval base, 50 miles northwest of Manila, a Navy spokesman said.

"There is no indication at this time" that Communist Hukbalahap guerrillas killed the officers, the spokesman, Lt. Cmdr. Keith Schacher, said in reply to a question. "We are conducting an investigation of this tragic incident and we certainly won't speculate on anything."

The three victims, all commissioned officers, were riding a jeep Saturday morning along a boundary road on the northeastern edge of the base when they were shot.

to serve a subpoena on Nixon may not have been as severe a defeat to him as it seemed.

"It has become commonplace for the Democrats to say that Nixon's defiance would be considered an impeachable offense, but the Republicans answer that more than that is needed."

Members of both parties agree that Congress is powerless to enforce its subpoena if Nixon refuses to yield all the tapes. "Even if the President is held in contempt of Congress, standing by itself that's not enough to impeach him," said Rep. David W. Dennis, R-Ind.

Diplomat Released

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) — An American diplomat who was shot, pistol whipped and drugged during a brief kidnapping Friday near this central Argentine city, rested in "satisfactory" condition Saturday according to a local hospital spokesman.

The diplomat, Alfred A. Laun III, 36, of Kiel, Wis. was shot in the abdomen Friday morning when he resisted guerrillas, from the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) who dragged him from his breakfast table in his home in the suburbs of Cordoba, 400 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, police said.

The U.S. Embassy said Laun, the U.S. Information Service (USIS) director in Cordoba, opened his door to a guerrilla dressed in a police uniform who demanded to see Laun's extensive ham radio equipment and his license to run it. A fight broke out when the other guerrillas arrived.

Fourteen hours later Laun was found between parked trucks at the side of a river bed in Cordoba. A plasma line was in his vein and he had drainage tubes in his nose. An ERP note detailed what surgery had already been completed.

"The country will want some positive proof of real wrongdoing by the President. A legal hassle between Congress and the President just won't do."

Democrats on the Judiciary Committee conceded as much.

"I think the White House may desire this and maybe even provoked it," Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., told reporters, as he prepared to vote for a subpoena which he felt was weeks overdue. The tapes were first requested Feb. 25.

Drinan and others—including most Republicans—felt Nixon's refusal to respond to the request left them no choice but to subpoena the tapes. They recognized, though, that the subpoena could turn the debate away from what the evidence shows Nixon did in Watergate and toward an institutional and constitutional dispute between the President and the Congress.

The committee's legal staff consider the 42 subpoenaed tapes vital. It thinks they will either uphold or refute Nixon's contentions that he knew nothing of the attempt to conceal his closest aides' involvement in Watergate.

Nixon's defiance of the subpoena would put that potential evidence out of reach.

In the prevailing Republican viewpoint, the investigation will have to produce proof of some other "high crime or misdemeanor" if Nixon is to be put on trial in the Senate with Republican votes.

Nonetheless, the one-sided vote to subpoena represented a triumph for Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who seems to draw little pleasure from the role assigned him by circumstance. Rodino was just a Newark, N.J. congressman for the decades that Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y. dominated the committee before his primary election defeat in 1972.

By yielding some ground to the Republicans, Rodino produced a nearly bipartisan 33-3 subpoena vote from a self-conscious and highly ideological and political committee of 21 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

Having convinced Republicans to vote once against their President, Rodino may make unity more possible by June 30.

Around that date, the committee must decide whether to recommend that the House impeach Nixon. Democrats see the weakness of a vote along party lines.

New School Board Members Will Be Sworn In Thursday

Bill Arrington and Sam Anderson, elected to the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees in the April 6 election, will be sworn in at an organizational meeting of the board Thursday at Carver Center.

A regular meeting of the board will also be conducted at that time with members facing a 21-item agenda.

Several items are on the agenda to be acted upon before the oath of office is administered to the new members.

Those deal with consideration of employment, resignations and salary adjustments as well as the payment of due bills and the approval of minutes of past meetings.

with the girl's track team at PHS this Spring.

Following those considerations, the board will canvass the results of the April 6 election concerning the two trustees and the seven-man school board proposal which was passed. Pampans will vote on two additional members of the board to raise the total to seven in the April 1975 school election.

After the two new members of the board have been sworn, replacing current members Warren Hasse, who did not seek reelection, and Dorothy Stowers, who was appointed earlier in the year to replace the resigned Ben Sturgeon and who was defeated in the April 6 election, new officers will be selected for the next year.

With the completion of those tasks, the members will conduct the regular April business of the board. Those items include setting a date and time for board meetings, the purchase of a lot on which a house will be constructed next year by the Vocational Trades Department at PHS, requests concerning the use of school facilities by private groups and a discussion of workmen's compensation laws.

Also, the appointment of a board of equalization, establishment of a written policy regarding teacher re-employment recommendation lists, minimum wage requirements, bid opening on band instruments, a discussion of liability insurance, a report by board member Curt Beck on the National School Boards Association annual convention and a utility ("energy") usage comparison presentation by assistant superintendent James Trusty.

The board meeting is scheduled to get underway at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at Carver Center, 321 W. Albert.

TSTI Information Center Opening Monday

Official opening of the Texas State Technical Institute Information Center in Pampa will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday. TSTI officials from Amarillo will be present at the facility at 218 N. Cuyler and a movie on TSTI's role in technical vocational education will be shown.

TSTI was authorized by the Texas Legislature to provide technical vocational skills training for Texans. Postsecondary college level technical education is available at TSTI and is considered proper education for young men and women whose interest is a blend of doing and thinking.

The concept for the facility in Pampa to provide information on technical vocational education in general and on TSTI's role in the local area in specific began several months ago with discussions between Mr. Owen Mabrey, manager of plant facilities and services, and Bobby Williams, business manager at TSTI's Amarillo campus.

Mabrey said Pampa was selected for the pilot project since it is a town where youth can attend a technical school, learn a trade, and return home to a skilled technical job, help the individual gain self-respect, fill a community need and provide an earning capability that will support a decent way of life.

According to current estimates graduates of technical schools such as TSTI can expect to carry home $100,000 more in their pay checks during their lifetime than the untrained or semi-trained worker. Mabrey said it is obvious from an inspection of the fine vocational arts facility at Pampa High School that the people of Pampa recognize the "thinking and doing" interest of the large percentage of the younger generation.

"We are most grateful to Rebecca Stien of Denver who donated the use of the building at 218 N. Cuyler."

Williams stated, "We consider it appropriate to open this facility to make information on technical training more readily available to interested people in this agro-chemical industrial area of Pampa. In addition to training technicians to satisfy a broad scope of the industrial needs we also offer specific in-house training for new or expanding industries."

Dora Ostermeier and Betty Spann of the Amarillo campus staff will operate the Pampa facility.

It is also planned to have a TSTI student available to discuss "student life at TSTI" with interested students. Mabrey and Williams will be in Pampa on Saturdays and Interiors Design student, Rhonda Taylor from Pampa, Miss TSTI for 1974, will be present on special occasions. All regular employees who work here will be on a voluntary basis in addition to their full time job in Amarillo.

The Mid-Continent campus at Amarillo is a resident school to serve all the people of the Hi-Plains area. Students live in dormitories which are divided into units of two spacious rooms with a connecting bath. The TSTI Cafeteria operates seven days a week while school is in session and five days a week during recess periods to serve employees of the adjoining industrial community. There is also housing available for married students.

In addition to the dormitories and outstanding food service at the Mid-Continent campus other facilities are provided to meet recreational and social needs. There is a fully equipped gymnasium with a well-rounded intramural program — handball, tennis courts, badminton and volleyball. The outdoor heated swimming pool is open during the summer months and one of the best in the area. The Activity Center has games — pool, table tennis or "relax in front of the color television."

Food service provides a monthly cookout for dormitory students and the LRO fully equipped rodeo arena is active with both the expert and novice roper.

Fifteen technical programs are available at the Amarillo campus. Facing today's high cost of living most students need some type of financial assistance for post high school training. Recognizing this TSTI has part-time jobs and several financial aid programs which will fit the needs of most students. Current prices for room and board at TSTI are less than $24 a week. If a student really wants to go to school, sufficient part-time jobs and financial aid are available to pay his expenses, according to Mabrey.

Iowa Representative Gross Hits Easter Junketing By Colleagues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The current congressional Easter recess is globe-hopping time for a score of lawmakers in the name of official business to such exotic places as Malaysia, Hong Kong and Paris.

It's nothing but junketing at the taxpayers' expense," according to Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, veteran critic of such travels.

Gross, a senior member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, one of the more traveled panels, has been prodded annually by his colleagues to participate in the trips. He has refused just as persistently.

There are at least three major groups traveling this week and one of them will be gone for two weeks. But information on them is hard to come by. Agencies such as the State Department and the Pentagon, which set up the trips, put a lid on the names of participants, the itinerary and the purpose for "security" reasons.

But this much was learned elsewhere:

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., pinching for Speaker Carl Albert, led a delegation of 22 House members to Hong Kong April 11 and planned to move on to Seoul, Korea and Taiwan before ending up on the sunny shores of Honolulu enroute home.

The purpose reported is part of the annual visit with legislative "counterparts," such as the Korean National Assembly. Travel was aboard an Air Force plane, but it was not known whether wives or husbands went along.

At least four House members—Reps. Richard T. Hanna, D-Calif.; Tom Gettys, D-S.C.; Ben B. Blackburn, R-Ga.; Garry Brown, R-Mich.—and one senator, Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, accepted an invitation to accompany Treasury Secretary George Shultz Monday on a trip that will wind its way to Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia for a meeting of the Asian Development Bank, which does not start until April 25. They will return April 29. All the lawmakers are members of the House and Senate banking committees, and Hanna, Gettys and Bennett have announced they will retire from Congress at the end of the year.

Ten House members and nine senators, who were not identified, left Thursday for Bucharest for the Interparliamentary Union, another counterpart group where legislators from around the world gather to exchange ideas.

Enroute to Bucharest, the group stopped in Athens, and on the return trip scheduled a stop in Paris. This group reportedly included wives.

ON VAPOR GENERATOR Local Inventor Gray Will Address API

The Panhandle Chapter API will meet Thursday at the Pampa Country Club at 6:30 p.m. Bill Gray, former Pampa and inventor of the Gray Vapor Generator, will present a program dealing with the operation and application of the Gray Vapor Generator, which, Gray claims, produces steam from the largest volume applications to the smallest part-time job more efficiently and economically than any other method of steam production.

The generator is designed to safely utilize hydrogen and oxygen as the ideal fuel for pollution free operation. The generator can also utilize hydrocarbon fuels, such as natural gas, at higher thermal efficiencies than conventional steam production methods. The generator is small in size and very flexible, and allows the operator to vary temperatures from the hot water range to 500 degrees F. and on special situations to 1200 degrees F.

The generator has unlimited applications where steam or heat is needed. One oil field application is to lower the generator down an oil well to supply heat to the producing formation to stimulate recovery.

The versatility of the Gray Vapor Generator allows the operator to satisfy reservoir needs such as steam injection, hot water flooding and nitrogen slugging with one piece of equipment. At the meeting various uses will be discussed. Several of Mr. Gray's Associates will be on hand to assist in the presentation.

Plans for the API Scholarship Handicap Golf Tournament are now complete and the date has been set for May 4 and 5 at the Huber Golf Course, Borger. The 1974 Membership Drive is also underway and membership cards are available from any of the API Officers.

A door prize will be furnished by Viscose, a division of Nalco Chemical Company.

Did Rose Mary Get Funding From Hughes?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee is poring over the bank records of President Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, in an effort to determine if she received any of the $100,000 campaign contribution from Howard Hughes, according to high committee sources.

Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal lawyer, testified before the committee that Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo told him at a White House meeting last April 30 that some of the Hughes money was given to Miss Woods. F. Donald Nixon, the President's brother, "and others" as gifts or loans.

But Rebozo, Nixon's closest friend, has testified that he kept the cash from Hughes in a safe deposit box where it was untouched for three years before it was returned.

"We're going over Rose Mary's bank records inch by inch looking for the money," one committee source said. "We're looking for anything in the records that would corroborate Kalmbach's testimony."

UP WITH PEOPLE — The cast of the travelling folk-rock musical Up With People gave the second and last performance of their current stand in Pampa last night at M.K. Brown Auditorium. Over 800 people attended the show Friday night and a near-capacity crowd

Hearsts Say Case "Far From Over"

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Still stunned by the astounding revelation that Patricia Hearst has decided to remain with her kidnappers, her family, friends and law enforcement agencies insist that the bizarre case is far from over.

In fact, it is likely that a final resolution of the 10-week-old case will come only after the 20-year-old college coed and newspaper heiress turns up—alive or dead.

In the meantime, no one is willing to predict what the next step in the sensational kidnapping will be. No one could have foreseen the strange twists which began more than two months ago, on Feb. 4, when Patricia was dragged from her apartment near the University of California campus in Berkeley by two men and a woman from the "Symbionese Liberation Army."

Since then her father, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, reacted to a series of mysteriously delivered tape recordings and letters by trying to meet a set of demands which brought the case the notoriety of being the first political kidnapping in U.S. history.

That he set up a multi-million dollar food program to feed needy people, a program which has cost $2 million so far with a promise of another $4 million if Patricia is released.

That all the SLA's communications, now five tape recordings and two letters, including several long political tracts, be printed or broadcast in full in all media.

Strangely, besides ordering publication of the communiques, the SLA has demanded nothing for itself.

No one could have predicted when, on April 2, the SLA announced that the time and place of Patricia's release would be announced in the next 72 hours, that the next day her family's hope for her quick release would be shattered by the announcement that she had chosen to become a member of the tiny terrorist sect.

In the tape, received by two FM radio stations, Patricia called her father a "liar" and said she would remain and fight with the SLA.

Accompanying the tape was a color photograph showing Patricia dressed in a uniform and carrying a submachine gun, standing in front of the SLA's seven-headed cobra symbol.

Retail Prices Remain Down On Texas Beef

AMARILLO — Retail beef prices in the past week were down for the eighth consecutive week, reports the Texas Cattle Feeders Association. Amarillo Average retail prices in Chicago were $1.35 per pound, compared to $1.36 last week, $1.50 last month and $1.54 two months ago. That's a 12 per cent drop in two months.

The price that cattle feeders received for Choice live steers was up slightly this week — $42.50 per cwt., compared to $41.00 last week — but it was down 20 per cent from the $51.00 of two months ago.

Beef features by chains were down this week, due to the Easter holiday season, but you can expect more beef features beginning next week.

Cattle feeders say there now is an oversupply of finished cattle in feedlots around the country, which is one reason for the lower prices at all levels, compared to a month ago. They say beef will be plentiful for several weeks and consumers should be able to buy it for even less than today's prices.

Price, Vice President Going To Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS — Vice President Gerald Ford will provide time, in addition to a scheduled luncheon, for "shaking hands" and a press conference during his visit to Wichita Falls April 27 in behalf of U.S. Rep. Bob Price's candidacy for re-election to the 13th Congressional District.

The Wichita Falls visit by the United States Vice President will mark his first to Texas since he assumed the duties of that high office on Dec. 6, 1973. The first man to take the vice presidential oath under the 25th constitutional amendment, he has become a significant figure in the political history of this nation, Republican leaders here have emphasized.

Rep. Price will be in Wichita Falls next Tuesday to hold a press conference at 10 a.m. at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. At that time he is expected to elaborate on the Vice President's planned visit here.

Tickets for the $50-a-plate fund-raising luncheon on April 27 at the Woman's Forum clubhouse may be obtained by calling the Wichita County Republican office at 723-5371 or at 767-6408. They may be ordered by mail at Box 607, Wichita Falls, Mrs. Allen, general arrangements chairman, said.

Vice President Ford and his long-time personal friend, Congressman Price, and their party will be taken directly from Municipal Airport here to the home of Tom Medders at 2802

Hamilton. There Medders and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Medders Jr. will host an invitation-only reception. For security reasons, invitations must be shown at the door of the Medders home, Mrs. Allen stressed.

Following a luncheon at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, the Vice President and Congressman Price will shake hands and meet informally with the citizenry and Vice President Ford will be available for autograph signing at that time also.

A press conference at 2:15 p.m., also in the Forum clubhouse, is expected to attract media representatives from a widespread area since this the Vice President's first personal appearance in this part of the nation in his present role.

The party will depart for Washington D.C. about 3 p.m.

A capacity audience is anticipated for the luncheon where Vice President and Congressman Price are expected to include in their remarks information pertinent to this section of Texas and the 13th Congressional District, sponsors have indicated.

Proceeds from the benefit luncheon in Wichita Falls will be used to finance Congressman Price's current campaign and to help pay off all his campaign debts. A portion of the funds will also go to the state and national Republican parties. Congressman Price recently commented that he

Obituaries

HERMAN SOLBERG

Funeral arrangements are pending with Duenkel Funeral Directors for Herman Rudolph Solberg, 66, who died Friday at Highland General Hospital.

Born Sept. 9, 1907 in Cottonwood, Minn., Mr. Solberg moved to Pampa four years ago from Farmington, Minn.

Survivors include two daughters, Miss Pamela Solberg, Pampa, and Mrs. Alice Mason, Hopkins, Minn.—one son, Floyd, Farmington, Minn.; three sisters, Mrs. Alice Harrison, Hutchinson, Minn.; Mrs. Gladys Siefferson and Mrs. Bernice Green, and one brother, Glenn, all of Minneapolis, Minn.; and two grandchildren.

Various Incidents Under Investigation

Pampa police are investigating the burglary of the Big Six Recreation Parlor, 100 block of W. Foster, sometime early Friday.

Stolen during the break-in were an adding machine and a number of food items. The total value of the stolen items was placed at $123.53.

J.C. Stewart, 811 E. Kingsmill, reported to police the theft of a fishing float valued at $15 and fishing tackle valued at $40 from his garage during the past week.

Officers are also investigating a hit and run incident in the 1000 block of W. Buckler.

Mrs. A.D. Fisk, 1000 W. Buckler, reported an automobile had jumped the curb at her residence and hit her fence, causing $195 damages.

Investigation is continuing in all of the above incidents.

Rita Blanca Receives Loan

The Rita Blanca Electric Cooperative, which serves rural consumers in Dallam, Hansford, Hartley, Hutchinson, Moore, Oldham, Potter, and Sherman counties, and is headquartered in Dalhart, will receive a low-interest loan of $814,000 from the Rural Electrification Administration to finance a program to improve service, Congressman Bob Price reported Saturday.

The financing will help the Cooperative provide service to some 235 additional consumers, build new distribution and transmission lines, and make system improvements including substations facilities, Price said.

President of the Cooperative is Luther Browder of Sunray. Manager is R.L. Elliott of Dalhart.

Hightower Wants Ford To Offer Explanations

WICHITA FALLS — Sen. Jack Hightower (D-Vernon) said here Saturday he knows the people of Northwest Texas will give Vice President Gerald Ford a friendly welcome when he comes to Wichita Falls April 27 "and I hope Mr. Ford uses the occasion to explain the disastrous economic and energy policies of the Nixon administration."

The Vice President will speak for Bob Price, Republican Congressman from the 13th District who is being challenged by Hightower.

"Mr. Ford is a distinguished federal official and he is always welcome anywhere in Texas," Hightower said. "I'm surprised, however, that Bob Price has asked someone from Washington to come down and help him raise campaign funds. The Vice President and the rest of the administration ought to be tending to their own knitting and trying to clean up some of the messes they've gotten us into."

For example: an inflationary rate of more than 10 percent, interest rates which have soared to the same level, the outright negligence that got us into the energy crisis, and dwindling confidence in the ability of the government in Washington to do anything right.

"Here in Texas we've seen the results of a policy that increased the supply of sheet steel to use up more energy while it decreased the supply of tubular steel with which to drill the oil and gas wells to produce badly-needed energy. We've seen the serious shortages of nearly everything the farmer needs — from baling wire to fertilizer — while food prices to the consumer have shot up faster than in any other industrial country in the free world."

"I hope the Vice President and Congressman Price will be prepared to explain the failures of leadership which allow this sort of thing to happen," Hightower said.

Sen. Hightower will campaign Monday in Chillicothe and Amarillo. He travels Tuesday to Pampa and Perryton and Wednesday to Perryton, Booker, Darrouzett, Follett, Higgins, Canadian and Vernon.

He will be back in Wichita Falls Thursday for Copper Break State Park dedication ceremonies and then wind up the week in Amarillo, Canyon and Tulsa.

Child Cries, Sister Sits, Mom Visits

A neighbor heard what she described to a Pampa police dispatcher as a "baby screaming its head off" Friday around 1:30 p.m. at a residence in the north end of town and said she did not believe there was an adult at the house.

An officer was dispatched to the scene where he found an eight- or nine-year-old girl and three smaller children by themselves.

One, a very young boy, was crying very loudly, apparently from hunger. The older girl was attempting to prepare some food for the younger children and herself, the officer reported.

After being asked where her parents were, the oldest girl said her mother had gone to a local bar to visit a friend and "will be back in a little while."

Unit Air Conditioner Installation Easy

Mother Earth News

YOU CAN GET MAXIMUM RESULTS FROM A MINI-GARDEN

By HERMAN BAUM
Dear House Doctor:

We have a unit air conditioner in our living room, but the cool air does not reach one of the bedrooms. I want to install a small unit through the wall in this room. Please give me some instructions for this work.

masonry house presents no more of a problem except for the extra labor for cutting out the concrete block.

There are two general types of unit air conditioners. One type has a removable metal frame that is permanently installed through the wall and the unit fits into this. The other type does not have the metal frame. These are usually the smaller units.

Both types require that you construct a wood frame and install this through the opening that you will cut through the wall. This frame should be the thickness of the wall, and with inside dimensions that allow a clearance of about one-eighth inch around the unit.

The illustration shows the bottom of the frame to be a shelf equal to the depth of the air conditioner.

To obtain the proper width for this shelf, you will probably have to use three fourth inch weatherproof plywood. If you are using an air conditioner which is the removable case, the bottom should be made the same width as the sides and top as the case is provided with brackets for support.

After you have made the case, the next step is to mark the wall for the opening. Punch small holes through the wall in the area selected to locate one stud.

Use the base of this stud as one side of the opening, then mark the wall and cut through the plaster or gypsum board. Cut a matching opening in the outside wall. The opening will expose one additional stud. This must be sawed off level with the top and bottom of the opening.

You are now ready to place the frame in the opening. Place it flush with the inside wall surface and nail it securely in place.

If your air conditioner has the removable case, attach this case inside the wood frame and fasten the brackets on the outside before installing the unit in the case. If the unit does not have the removable case, all you do is place it inside the wood frame.

The final operation is to attach a wood molding around the air conditioner on the room side and caulk around it on the outside.

If your home has a masonry well, first spaces around the wood frame on the outside of the house with Portland cement mortar.

OUTPATIENTS' CLINIC
Mrs. M.N.H. — Few things will stain laminated plastic counter and dresser tops, but when stains do penetrate the surface of the plastic, they cannot be removed.

M.L.C. — Aluminum and copper window screens are best cleaned by removing the screens from the window and placing them on a flat surface such as a paved driveway, then scrubbing with a kitchen cleanser and No. 0 steel wool. Kitchen steel wool pads are too soft for this job.

Mrs. A.B. — It is too late in the season to be concerned now, but next fall, install electric heating cables along the edges of the roof and in the gutters to prevent the formation of the ice dam that is causing water to leak through the roof.

MILDEW

Dear House Doctor: I am having trouble with mildew in my home. My husband says that a dehumidifier will take care of the problem, but I am not sure.

ANSWER — An electric dehumidifier will certainly help correct the trouble.

STAINED WALKWAY

Dear House Doctor: There is a concrete walkway from the drive to my front porch. This is black from mildew. How can I clean this and prevent its staining again?

ANSWER — Your walkway can be cleaned by washing with a solution of three quarts of water, one quart laundry bleach, one ounce laundry detergent, and three ounces of trisodium phosphate.

There is way to prevent the stains from returning.

LEAKING GUTTERS

Dear House Doctor:

My aluminum gutters leak at the joints. What is the best way to seal these connections?

DRY ROT

Dear House Doctor:

Please tell me what I can do to get rid of a white mold or fungus that is on the subfloor and floor joists above the crawl space of my home.

ANSWER — This fungus causes dry rot and it should be given immediate attention. The treatment is to spray all the wood in the area with a 3 percent solution of pentachlorophenol. Be sure to protect your eyes with goggles and wear a respirator.

WINDOW TROUBLES

Dear House Doctor:

We have trouble raising and lowering one window in our home. How do we make it operate more easily?

ANSWER — A lubricant

Celanese Sponsors Show On Fashions

A Celanese show colorfully depicting current U.S. fashion trends will be staged in Pampa on Tuesday, April 23.

The show, sponsored by the Pampa Plant of Celanese Chemical Co., will be at 7 o'clock that evening and will be presented at M.K. Brown Auditorium for Pampa Plant employees, members of their family, and their guests.

Serving as commentator for the show will be Miss Barbara Miller, a veteran Celanese Fibers Marketing Co. fashion expert headquartered in Dallas.

The more than 50 garments and ensembles in the show feature acetate and triacetate fibers manufactured by Celanese Fibers Co. and polyester and nylon fibers manufactured by Fiber Industries, Inc., a company owned by Celanese Corp. and Imperial Chemical Industries, Limited, of Great Britain.

The fashion show collection was carefully selected by Celanese fashion experts in New York City for special shows this year at Celanese and Fiber Industries locations across the United States.

The contemporary male, female and children's fashions accentuate designs, colors and fabric constructions currently being utilized by New York designers to dramatize the comfort, the ease of care and the colorful versatility of fibers now available to the nation's clothing industry.

Female creations in the show will be modeled by professional models from Dallas. Pampa Plant employees John Howell, Henry Spencer, John Carr and Monte Shearer will model sportswear for the active male. Easy-care playclothes for children will be modeled by Nicholette Eckhart, Daphne Keener, Shawn Watson and Jason Wilson.

Pampa Plant Industrial Relations Manager Byron Kibby notes that "Being in the chemical business automatically puts us in the fashion business since our chemicals are used in the production of Celanese fibers. That means that we must make certain that the consumer is satisfied both with the fashion and with the performance of the finished product utilizing these fibers. Fabric and fashion forecasting is a vital part of that overall effort."

Consequently, the fabrics, the colors and the designs which will be featured in the fashion show to be presented here in Pampa stress the fiber, fabric, color and design ideas which Celanese fashion experts consider to be right for the present and for the foreseeable future.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL
Executive Secretary ARC
The Red Cross board met Tuesday morning with 16 members present.

Miss Norma Briden, chapter chairman, presided. After the breakfast, a short business meeting was held. Plans for the annual meeting were completed and new members on the board were approved.

Jack Chisum, Water Safety chairman, had charge of the program. He told the board that he was conducting WS-Instructor class, with 10 members in it.

He showed a film on water safety and each member took a test on Boating, Swimming, Water Safety and Lifesaving. Each of us decided that we needed more instruction on each subject.

Congratulations to Mrs. Louise Sewell, who was selected as Woman of the Year by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority this past Sunday. Louise has given of herself to Red Cross in so many ways. By being on the Red Cross board, and by being Hospital Volunteer chairman, she has continued to help our organization.

We are so proud of you, Louise.

We are glad that John S. Skelly, fund chairman on the Red Cross board, has been selected as one of the members of the UF Budget committee for the 1974 year. We are sure that Mr. Skelly will be fair to all organizations.

Thanks to each of you for sending in your contribution to the Disaster area this week. With such a wide area affected, the Red Cross has had a hard time meeting the needs of people.

We sent in $176 to the disaster area this week and we hope that all chapters have helped as they could.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

The Money Monopoly

Back in the days when we used silver for money — that is getting harder for some of the younger generation to remember — the market price of the silver in the coin was somewhat less than the value represented on the face of the coin. Moreover, there was a necessary ratio between the several sizes of coins. For example, a dime had about one-tenth as much silver in it as a silver dollar.

The trouble started when one dollar silver certificates were issued to take the place of the heavy silver dollars. The convenience of paper was considerably greater. Five dollars in silver hanging from your side all day was enough to give you a backache whereas five dollars in silver certificates was hardly noticeable.

Moreover, there was no difference in purchasing power between the two media. A silver certificate was equivalent to its face value and could be redeemed for as much as you could buy with one as with the other, why not settle for the greater convenience?

As matters developed, substantial reasons obtained for not switching. But these were the type of reasons you can't forecast. Only the readers of history could know what was going to happen. First, of all, an alliance comprised of treasury officials and certain bankers understood that use of silver certificates doesn't require complete backing of actual silver. Not all certificate holders will wish to redeem at the same time. Therefore, only a fraction of the total face value of the certificates need be on deposit in actual silver. The principle seemed to be, so long as you could redeem your certificates at any time, why bother?

In due course, the treasury-banker combine substituted green federal reserve bank banknotes for the green silver certificates. In the market place, the two had the same purchasing power. In appearance the two bills were so nearly similar that a person would hardly notice whether he was placing banknotes or silver certificates in his billfold. The rest of the story is relatively recent.

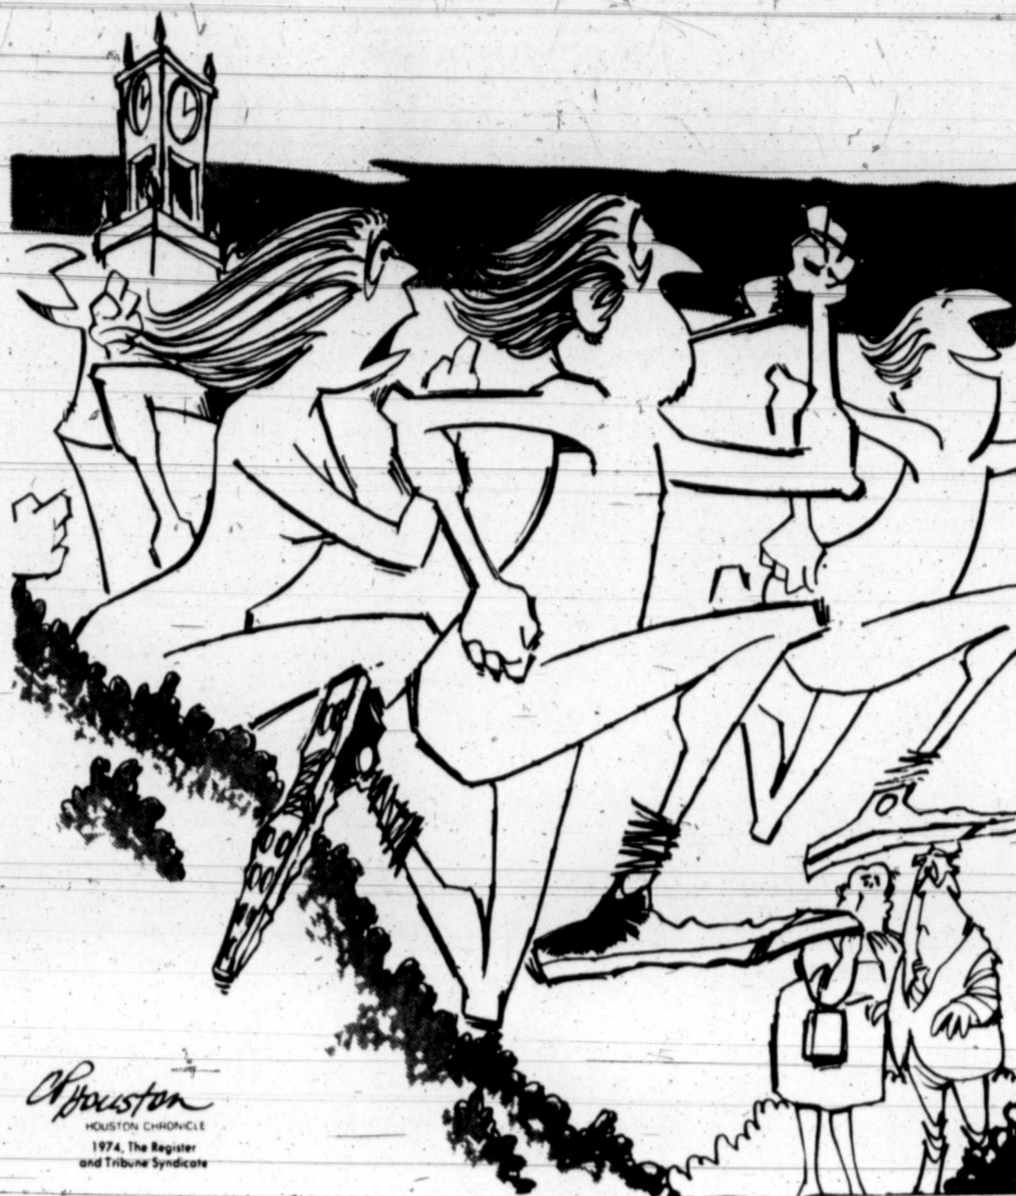

In June of 1967, Congress completed action on S1352. This measure effectively withdrew silver backing from any of the green paper. It provided that silver certificate holders should have one year to redeem them and that no more silver certificates would be issued. President Johnson signed the bill into law on June 24, 1967.

The sequence of events has led to two dilemmas, one monetary and the other constitutional. Article I, Section 10, of the Constitution provides that no state shall "make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debt." By withdrawing the last vestige of metallic backing from paper purchasing media, Congress legally deprived the states of any constitutional means for either collecting or paying financial obligations. The monetary puzzle is that the paper denominations are so out of kilter with the metallic market that one silver dollar will buy about five paper dollars. Three silver dimes are cheap at the rate of one paper dollar. In fact, the U.S. penny — a copper that never was intended to represent one-hundredth of a dollar, but serve merely as a convenience token for making change — is going out of style. The value of the copper in terms of the federal reserve bank banknote now is so high that the government no longer can afford to stamp them out. It must turn to cheaper metal.

This brief recital dramatizes a salient point in the science of misgovernment: namely, latterday American politicians can't make a profit even when they run the mint.

There is a principle hidden here if we will but learn and apply it. Competition in a free market insures that consumers as users of commodities have various choices. If they don't like what one purveyor offers, they can always go to another. This competition and the necessity to operate profitably, tend to keep businessmen honest. Money is a commodity. When it is controlled by government, its users, the people, have no choice. Competition is outlawed.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Leftists Trying To Scuttle Internal Security Committee

By ROBERT ALLEN
WASHINGTON — Leftist forces in and out of Congress are aggressively waging a covert campaign to scuttle the House Internal Security Committee — whose official function is to investigate and expose subversive, revolutionary, radical and other extremist elements.

Speakeading this high-powered is Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., radical priest, militant dove and amnesty advocate, and public clamor for the impeachment of President Nixon — despite being a member of the Judiciary Committee which is supposed to be objectively considering the matter.

Drinan also openly admits he became a member of the Internal Security Committee for the express purpose of destroying it.

Vigorously supporting this attack are a number of activist organizations — foremost among them the American Civil Liberties Union, Common Cause, Americans for Democratic Action, Students for a Democratic Society, Communist Party.

The machinations against the Security Committee are two-pronged:

- (1) To strangle it by withholding operating funds.
- (2) Shifting its functions to another House committee on the ground of "economy" and "efficiency."

Of the two assaults, the second is turning out to be the most threatening.

This is a scheme by the Special Committee on Committees to abolish the Internal Security Committee and transfer its extensive investigating powers to the Government Operations Committee.

The proposal is one of a number of explosively controversial "committee restructurings" recommended by the Committee on Committees, and which will be considered by the full House after the Easter holidays — in what is certain to be one of the stormiest battles of the session.

Chairman of the Committee on Committees is Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., who has long agitated "reorganization" of the House, and is no supporter of the Security Committee.

Outcome of this phase of the double-barreled drive to get rid of the Security Committee is uncertain.

In a large measure it depends on what happens to other hotly disputed plans of the Bolling committee — such as sharply curtailing the jurisdiction and authority of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, headed by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

The veteran legislator has openly declared war on the Bolling committee, and a furious melee is imminent.

Encouraging Start
In the first round of the Security Committee's grim fight for survival, it emerged the victor against an all-out attempt to strangle it by outright cutting off of its annual $475,000 budget.

Noisily working hand-in-glove with Drinan, mastermind of the assault, were a number of leading militants — prominent among them Reps. Don Edwards, D-Calif., another Judiciary committeeman who, like Drinan, is already on record as demanding President Nixon's impeachment; Michael Harrington, D-Mass., an inveterate dove, amnesty clamor and denouncer of the military; Philip Burton, D-Calif., canny leftist with secret Speakership aspirations.

While their strident attempt to cut off the Security Committee's purse strings is an old story, added significance attached to it this time because of the Bolling committee's scheme to scuttle the Security Committee by indirectness.

The Drinan clique made that crafty scheme their main argument.

"Never before," thundered Drinan after belaboring the Security Committee with shopworn ideological charges, "has the transfer of this committee been recommended by another House committee. The Security Committee is an anachronism. It is a hangover from the era of the cold war. We should defund this committee which is no longer justified."

The committee is presently holding hearings on terrorism for the purpose of providing useful recommendations for the executive branch to act on. The committee has also begun an exhaustive branch in the field of domestic intelligence, and this study promises to be one of the most significant undertakings of the committee.

Rep. Zion, Internal Security committeeman, pointedly attributed much of the attack on the panel to Communists.

"I am continually amazed," he told a tensely listening House, "at the efforts put forth by the Communist Party, USA, in its feverish attempts to abolish our committee. This effort is only one ingredient of the party's campaign to render ineffective all governmental anti-subversive agencies, both legislative and executive."

Rearview Mirror

By TEX DEWEESE
Editor Of The News

THINGS HAVE been unusually quiet in the wake of Pampa's recent school election. Lull before the storm?

Many have asked what happened and why the election was so one-sided? Why did the two winning candidates and the 7-man school board issue carry so overwhelmingly?

One suspects the three school board members who voted favorably on that 3-2 contract renewal probably could come up with the answer to both questions — now that the election is over. One is still on the board, one didn't seek re-election and voters used the ballot box to remove the third.

And that's what happened.

Now that the election is history — what next? Well, the school board still has a fire to put out. It's a blaze that flared up again at the April 6 election. Apparently voters let it be known they want some kind of a change. The two candidates who very clearly stated their cases were elected. The 7-man board issue, approved almost 5 to 1, was the result of what voters thought was happening with only a 5-man board.

There is no intention here of going into the merits of the reasons for voters reaching the decisions they did when they cast their ballots.

Public schools are a branch of the government. The system calls for the rule of the majority according to the whims of the greatest number.

The make-up of the Pampa school board, when the two new members are sworn in next Thursday, will represent the majority of the citizens who bothered to vote April 6. That was the day the smoldering fire was fanned.

It would seem voters were putting out the word they expect the board to get out the extinguishers before the fire spreads and there is any more smoke damage.

BEFORE leaving the election aftermath, let's have a word about something the retiring school board member said over the radio in one of those pre-election plugs.

Defending executive sessions of the school board, he said in substance that representatives of the news media should serve in public office. That would enable the newsmen, he claimed, to learn why it becomes necessary to discuss the public's business behind closed doors.

Well, in the first place — news media representatives, if they are sincere about serving the public, have no business holding public office. If you are one of 'em — how are you going to jump 'em out if and when they need jumping out? How could you retain an unbiased viewpoint in the public interest?

Putting news media representatives in public office is like having Bonnie and Clyde host open house at the bank.

THERE WAS a charge made during one of those radio talks that "the newspaper is against public schools" — period.

When Freedom Newspapers first ventured to suggest that schools were susceptible to certain frailties, the reaction in some circles was no less than if we had suggested it would be a good idea to pull down the American flag and run up the hammer and sickle.

Today, however, it is a bit more fashionable to be critical of many facets of the public school apparatus. Even its most ardent supporters are discovering the ingredients are sweet, but the product is a little sour.

Just to make it clear — Freedom Newspapers' quarrel is not with the teacher, the principal, the history professor, the school board members or the fellow who changes tires on the school bus — all of whom play an integral part in the educational process.

The contention simply is that the state cannot educate anybody unless the word educate is equated with training in certain mechanical skills to the exclusion of any consideration of morals and ethics.

Private industry would do a better job in the field of education, just as private churches do a better job than state-controlled ones, and just as privately-owned chemical and machinery plants, radio and TV stations, bra factories and feedlots produce more and better products through competition than their government-owned and operated counterparts in such statist countries as, say, Russia.

Socialism does not teach its own destruction. After all, how do you explain to a youngster that government owes him an education, but not a good home, a full stomach and complete medical care?

TO SAY Freedom Newspapers advocate closing public schools tomorrow is ridiculous. The need to veer away from socialism should come about over the long haul. The need for change exists.

That's what local voters decided — that the need for change existed.

CONSTRUCTIVE EDUCATION

Three years ago in the state of Arizona, concerned parents, state legislators and the state governor decided that the time had come to do something effective about the dominance of their schools by left-side teachers who could find nothing good to say about our country or its personal enterprise system.

So the state legislature adopted a law requiring every Arizona student to take a one-semester course in the "essentials and benefits" of the personal enterprise system. State Superintendent of Education Weldon P. Shofstall prepared some excellent study materials, clearly showing the superiority of the free market and personal enterprise over socialism.

Howls of protest came from socialistically-minded educators, but Arizona Gov. Jack Williams "stuck to his guns." The course and study materials on the free market system were retained.

The Governor then appointed to the Arizona State Board of Education men and women committed to restoring sound basic education in the schools, holding public office. If you are one of 'em — how are you going to jump 'em out if and when they need jumping out? How could you retain an unbiased viewpoint in the public interest?

Putting news media representatives in public office is like having Bonnie and Clyde host open house at the bank.

Now that the election is history — what next? Well, the school board still has a fire to put out. It's a blaze that flared up again at the April 6 election. Apparently voters let it be known they want some kind of a change. The two candidates who very clearly stated their cases were elected. The 7-man board issue, approved almost 5 to 1, was the result of what voters thought was happening with only a 5-man board.

There is no intention here of going into the merits of the reasons for voters reaching the decisions they did when they cast their ballots.

Public schools are a branch of the government. The system calls for the rule of the majority according to the whims of the greatest number.

The make-up of the Pampa school board, when the two new members are sworn in next Thursday, will represent the majority of the citizens who bothered to vote April 6. That was the day the smoldering fire was fanned.

It would seem voters were putting out the word they expect the board to get out the extinguishers before the fire spreads and there is any more smoke damage.

BEFORE leaving the election aftermath, let's have a word about something the retiring school board member said over the radio in one of those pre-election plugs.

Defending executive sessions of the school board, he said in substance that representatives of the news media should serve in public office. That would enable the newsmen, he claimed, to learn why it becomes necessary to discuss the public's business behind closed doors.

Well, in the first place — news media representatives, if they are sincere about serving the public, have no business

OUTRIDER

Using Bankers As Policemen

By GARRY WILLS

The very name of the 1970 Bank Secrecy Act is a bluff. It should be called the Bank Violation of Secrecy Act. It provides that banks keep elaborate records for the sole convenience of law enforcers, b) in case some of the records should be useful in pursuing alleged crimes, c) in which case the banks must turn over specific information to law enforcement agencies, without informing the depositor against whom the charges are being investigated.

Banks are required, that is, to snoop on their own customers for the government, to pay their own funds not only for law enforcement agencies, but for what may well be a violation of their customers' rights (last week's Supreme Court decision refused to rule on this issue, while forcing the banks to continue their activity).

The tasks of law enforcement are legislated, their agencies formed and funded by taxpayers. If Congress wants that banks to engage in FBI activities, it should pay the costs of extensive record compilation out of government money. As it is, the banks are being coerced to unpleasant, expensive, and perhaps unconstitutional.

As often happens with a bad bill, its faults emerge more readily from the defenses made of it than from attacks. If one wants to see the flaw in the Bank Secrecy Act, the place to look is not toward Justice Douglas's attack on it in his dissenting opinion, but toward Justice Rehnquist's opinion for the majority. Mr. Rehnquist wrote that the Court could not decide on the violation of privacy issue, since no actual defendant who privacy was involved at the moment had brought suit. The banks could not speak for the constitutional rights of a third party (the depositor).

But even the possibility of constitutional deprivation should be a presumption against coercing ordinary citizens to undertake new tasks of law enforcement. If a law were passed that said employees had to report to the government on the comings and goings of their employers, a man who protested that it was repugnant as well as inconvenient to become an informer, and that he was being forced to violate his own view of his employer's rights, would not get far with this Court's majority.

The six judges would tell him, in effect: "Who are you to care about the rights of others? If your employer has rights that are being infringed upon, let him come in and claim them himself. Meanwhile, you just keep doing what Big Brother tells you to."

To which free men should reply that it is the task of government to respect the scruples of its citizenry, even if the rulers have few scruples of their own. Before a citizen can be commanded to act as an informer, it is the prior task of government to prove that the command is constitutional, that the task is not only necessary, and committed to the proper people for implementation, but that it does not involve official illegality, a kind of law enforcement that itself breaks the law. Only when all of these things have been fully established can the government properly insist on a duty for parts of the citizenry to engage in police work at their own expense.

The Supreme Court's hairsplitting last Monday did not establish these essentials in their interdependence. But, worse than that, it did not recognize that the law should be suspended until or unless these prerequisites are fulfilled.

We'll look into it further. My secretary found the file, but I still don't know what to do.

Growth In Hobbies Is 20th Century Program

The Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met Tuesday, April 9 in the Pampa Club at Coronado Inn with Mrs. E.A. Myatt, hostess.

The meeting was called to order and refreshments of strawberry shortcake and coffee were served.

The President, Mrs. C.E. Steel, called the meeting to order, with Mrs. Luther Robinson leading the Club Pledge and secretary, Mrs. Tom Wilkinson reading the minutes of the previous meeting. Treasurer, Mrs. R.W. Stowers, gave a financial report.

Miss Elsie Cunningham, Federation Counselor, gave a report on the recent TFWC District Convention held in Borger April 2 and 3, and Mrs. Stowers reported on the banquet awards and Mrs. Steel reported on the awards luncheon and style show.

The Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Frank Kelley with Mrs. Larry Cross, president, presiding over the business meeting. Mrs. M. McDaniel led the club members in the reading of the Club Collect. Mrs. Homer D. Johnson, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting.

Mrs. Larry Cross reported the club received several awards at the District Meeting in Borger last week. Awards received were: Second place for the 1973-74 Yearbook; second place, Crewer; first place, Class No. 3 in Poet Laureate; second place, Projects, Public Education; second place, Public Education; first place, Programs, Public Education; first place, Emerging Woman - Public Affairs; and first place, Outstanding Club Program.

Mrs. Glen Larsen gave the program for the day "The Outdoor Woman." Mrs. Larsen stated that big changes are in view for the outdoor woman. There was a time when the woman devoted her outdoor time to gardening, family sports, and work around the home in general. This has changed and is now changing faster.

There may be worse (more socially serious) forms of prejudice in the U.S. today, but there is no sharper example of discrimination than that which operates against girls and women in competitive sports.

No matter what her age, education, race or talent, the female's right to play is severely restricted. The billion dollars a year that America spends on athletic programs have been overwhelmingly lavished on the male half of the population, she told.

Probably no more than 1 percent of all college and university athletic funds is spent on women. In junior and senior high schools, girls get perhaps 5 percent of the funds and facilities. In community recreation programs, the figure may be as high as 20 percent, she continued.

The U.S. Education Amendments of 1972 included a labeled Title IX. Title IX forbids sex discrimination in any institution using federal funds, which includes the majority of schools in the country.

Given the climate of the times, the re-examination of the female role and the apparent willingness of courts to back demands for better athletic opportunities for girls, it appears that many of the policies of the past are likely to change. This will not only affect the athletic system but society as well. Women who have had the experience of performing before others: of learning to win and to lose, of cooperating in team efforts, will be far less fearful of running for office, better able to take public positions on issues in face of opposition, she said.

Jockey Mary Bacon has accepted the 1973 Most Courageous Athletic award at Philadelphia Sportswriters banquet, the second woman to receive such. Mary has ridden six winners and three second-place horses since the first of the year to gain top 10 in national jockey standings. Mary Bacon, 24 years old, slim, 101 pounds, petite, long blonde hair, deep brown eyes brings to mind all those male sentiments that enrage the Libbers.

She says, "Well, I've been stabbed, shot at, kidnapped, trampled, a horse has fallen on me, been on the critical list three times, but I figure I'm like a cat — and that leaves me with four lives still to go. Most people just think I'm nuts, I don't really think I'm a courageous woman or anything like that. I'm just doing something I love." Even though she has had many close calls, she still loves her work. In fact, her love is so great she today rides in all the biggies, Aqueduct, Belmont, Churchill Downs and Santa Anita.

In 1940 there were only three tournaments for women, five professional women players, and a total prize money of about $500 for women in golf. Today lady golfers win small fortunes in tournament sponsored by large corporations and receive abundant television exposure and publicity.

Kathryne Whitworth, 1973 top money winner of $82,864, is sometimes called the Jack Nicklaus of the women's tour. Judy Rankin, the second biggest winner with $72,989 is the only married girl in the top five. Sandra Palmer, third top winner in 1973 with $55,439, is compact built and an excellent all-around athlete.

Betty Burfeindt, the fourth big money winner in 1973 with $51,030 was Irish, redheaded, and a temper-match. Carol Mann, the 6 ft. 3-inch golfer, earned $47,734. She lives alone in Baltimore. She has gained fame and fortune and been allowed to travel, all of which she set out to do.

Billie Jean Moffitt King, is a celebrity today — her face is on magazines, on television talk shows and guest appearances on others. Behind the 30-year-old easy-going exterior are remarkable qualities — iron will, competitive drive, a set of hair trigger reflexes that combined, make her the best woman's tennis player with Bobby Riggs, the 55-year-old former tennis champion. The $100,000 winner was publicized as a battle of the sexes between "the Libber and the Lobber."

Maria Van Trapp, "The Real Maria" of the Sound of Music (from which she received no money) will long be remembered for her skiing. She not only is known for her skiing but is a musician, mother, homemaker, lecturer, world traveler and writer.

At 45 years of age, she asked for only one thing for her birthday — a complete outfit for skiing and got it. The next morning the 9-year-old Johannes invited Maria to go skiing with him. He helped her put on the equipment, and hobbled to the slopes. She says she felt on top of the world. "How I wanted to avoid that 12-foot tree. But suddenly it bent under me between my two skis when I hit it with all my weight. The tree went up, and I sat straddling it, with my legs dangling down on either side. Johannes was standing underneath doubled with laughter. "I yelled for help. He shook his mother from the tree like a ripe plum. Never, would I learn to ski with a member of the family."

Needless-to-say, she did not end there for two weeks after her 64th birthday she came down Lullaby Lane on Mt. Mansfield, the big mountain. Age made no difference.

Members responding to roll call were: Mmes. Holt Barber, Larry Cross, Robert Finney, David Holt, Homer Johnson, Frank Kelley, McHenry Lane, Ellis Locke, M. McDaniel, Aubrey Steele, Jack Ward, John Warner, John Young and Richard VanKluyve.

HOMEMAKERS CLUB
Skellytown Homemakers Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ina Horst, with the president, Mrs. Gertrude Huckins, presiding.

The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer in unison. The hostess gift was won by Mrs. Bob Heaton and the game gift by Mrs. Gertrude Huckins. One member, Mrs. Margaret Fox, was reported ill and a patient in the Groom Memorial Hospital.

The Easter motif was carried out in the table decorations, favors were ceramic Easter eggs in a small straw basket.

The next meeting will be April 16 in the home of Mrs. Miles Pearston.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mmes. Myrtle Gould, Juanita Porter, Gertrude Huckins, Floyd McCoy, Eula Berry, John Simmons, Pauline White, Miles Pearston and Ethel Hunt.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

SUNDAY, APRIL 14
Your birthday today: This year your birth is associated with the miracle of Easter—something of this quality will go with you through the complexities and crosscurrents of coming general and personal change. Relationships must be redefined by experiences shared. Today's natives are each of his own kind; but all share a capacity for spiritual dedication, the willingness to serve beyond material goals.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Not until the holiday is almost over will you absorb its full meaning. Go your way in good faith and cheer—and it is mostly good despite surprises.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Return courtesy extended. Making the rounds gives you the latest news and a chance to observe for yourself the changes taking place in your neighborhood.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Busy as the day is, it's mainly a preface to the benefits and happy features of your coming week. Meditation opens many private doors.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: This Easter is a turning point in your life. And you're on your way up! Old conditions now move off dead center. Pray for guidance.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Letting well enough alone is difficult in the excitement of the holiday. You do it by reflection on what your real interests involve.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Accept the flickering luck of the critical time with inner serenity. Everything turns out for the better in small steps upward. Seek spiritual growth.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Go along with the majority. Younger people should strive for a mood of cooperative teamwork, older ones for gentle persuasion.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: The drift of events leaves you in a favored position, augers well for the lively week ahead. There's much to do, much more that you can't reach just yet.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Your spontaneous response to current influences leaves nobody in doubt as to your character and preferences. Those who remain friends know you well.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Give others plenty of time to make their own response to strong stimuli.

Watch what you say; remember, you too may change your mind, seek new goals.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Don't spoil this special Sunday with material concerns or business. Travel or communication to distant points falls short of expectations.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Revelation comes in many subtle forms for those willing to receive it. Let life flow about you, forgive yourself and others for human traits and peculiarities.

MONDAY, APRIL 15

Your birthday today: Finds you on the threshold of sweeping changes related to the history of our times.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Old answers no longer work, as this year's questions are entirely different from those of the past. After an early shake-up, relationships turn about and thrive in new patterns. Business requires concentration and definite actions at frequent intervals. Today's natives are fond of expansive theories. The men are thrifty; the women lively, intuitive, and good-humored.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Useful agreements are feasible, particularly in experimental or pilot projects. Get a second opinion on any technical questions or major purchase.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Defend your claims consistently at very-moderate intensity. Partnership resources require attention, may increase with a little additional initiative.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Communication becomes more fluent, relates to distant places and people—leave the line open for incoming news.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Your personal prosperity builds readily in the general cooperation. Trial and error methods need close scrutiny, are likely to produce unusual results.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Place the accent on teamwork, round-table discussions. You can't have everything exactly how you want it, but much of it should come your way now.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Doing your best with already established ventures is more important than drifting off into diversionary experiments, no matter how intriguing.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Prime information that is needed is within your reach. Concerns of the younger set clamor for attention now. Pursue sentimental projects.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: In business, outstanding negotiations should be brought to conclusion, and a deal made. At home, family problems come to easy handling.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Theory invites notice, but must be checked out for practical purposes. Fresh contacts promise an interesting outcome somewhat different from expectations.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Now you should have just about everything going for you. Don't get absent-minded, however, and neglect the convenience and comfort of others.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Seek the finest technical advice possible if you are in a dilemma. Close relatives may be able to open a way for you where other connections failed.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Let old matters work themselves out in their own fashion. Put your quiet labors into adjusting financial arrangements for the long pull.

Double Wedding Ceremony Unites Couples

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL JAMES LEDFORD
...nee Miss Pamela Gayle Callan

MR. AND MRS. RONALD CHARLES SMITH
...nee Miss Kathryn Lynn Dawson

Callan-Ledford Exchange Vows In Double-Ring Rites

The First Presbyterian Church of Pampa was the setting Friday, April 12, 7 p.m. for the exchange of nuptial vows by Miss Pamela Gayle Callan and Pfc. Michael James Ledford.

The double-wedding also united in marriage Miss Kathryn Lynn Dawson and Spec-4 Ronald Charles Smith.

The bride is the daughter of Harold D. Callan, 1540 Hamilton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Ledford of Skellytown.

THE CEREMONY
The Rev. Claude Cone, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Dorothy Brinson, organist, accompanied Miss Linda Reed and Miss Maria Savage as they sang "Pieces of April," and the "Wedding Song."

The church was decorated with a rainbow candelabrum holding white tapers entwined with greenery, flanked by basket arrangements of white gladioli in Grecian urn columns.

THE BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal floor-length gown of mira mist and re-embroidered Cluny lace over bridal taffeta designed with a high neckline, rounded collar, high natural waistline, long tapered sleeves, and bell skirt with full back. The bodice and sleeves were enhanced by matching lace, and lace appliques enhanced the neckline and bodice and skirt. The full back of the gown ended in a sweeping chapel-length train.

Her veil of imported illusion fell from a bandeau and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and green carnations with touches of blue and yellow.

The bride carried out the traditional something old, new, borrowed and blue and birth date pennies in her shoe.

ATTENDANTS
Linda Callan served her sister as maid of honor wearing a soft green crepe floor-length gown and a headpiece of green ribbon streamers of flowers and love knots attached to a floral coif.

Ringbearer was Wendell Ledford, Skellytown, brother of the bridegroom, and lighting the candles were Amy White of Pampa and Christy Dawson of Amarillo. Miss White and Miss Dawson wore floor-length crepe gowns of soft yellow and pink.

Pfc. Tony Thompson served as best man and seating guests were E-2 Billy Forkner and PFC. Clay Lock, all of Fort Sill, Okla.

MOTHERS
The bridegroom's mother was attired in a floor-length gown of pale blue styled with long sheer sleeves, empire waistline and white accessories.

Mrs. Virginia Pettie, life-long friend of the family, stood-in as the bride's mother. Both wore pastel carnation corsages.

RECEPTION
A reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were provided by Miss Linda Reed at the piano.

Both bridal bouquets and attendants flowers decorated the serving table which was covered with a white cloth and centered with two candelabra.

Two wedding cakes were placed on either end of the serving table.

Pam's cake was three-tiered with one Roman pillar separating each tier, which was decorated with clusters of spring flowers and pale yellow roses cascading the front of each tier. The cake was topped with one satin wedding bell and two white doves holding a symbolic wedding ring.

White mints, topped with miniature pastel rosebuds, were served.

The separate round punch

table held crystal and silver appointments.

Miss Patti Ledford, sister of the bridegroom, assisted at the punch service and Teresa Page, cousin of the bride, served cake. Kay Page, cousin of the bride, assisted at the guest register.

For the wedding trip to Amarillo, the bride wore a red, high waisted pant suit with white polka dotted trim and accessories and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Lawton, Okla., following the bride's graduation from Pampa High School in May. She is presently employed at King's Row Barber Shop.

The bridegroom attended White Deer High School, where he was a member of the track team. He is presently stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., with the U.S. Army.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
A miscellaneous shower was held March 25 in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank-hosted by Mmes. J.D. White, James W. White, Billy Davis, Carroll Pettit and Ray Forkner.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Guests from out-of-town attending the event were the bridegroom's sister, Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Williams of Booker; Mr. and Mrs. Jim L. Price of Amarillo, cousins of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry F. Swink, Gruber; Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Williams of Wheeler; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carpenter, Borger; Mr. and Mrs. A.R. Proctor, Wellsville, Kan.; and Mr. and Mrs. D.R. Forkner of Lawton, Okla.

Miss Kathryn Lynn Dawson and Spec-4 Ronald Charles Smith were united in marriage Friday, April 12 at 7 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Pampa.

The double-wedding also united in marriage Miss Pamela Gayle Callan and Pfc. Michael James Ledford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. White of Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn F. Dawson of San Antonio. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Smith of Phoenix, Ariz.

THE CEREMONY
The Rev. Claude Cone, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before a background setting of rainbow candelabrum holding white tapers, entwined with greenery. Basket arrangements of white gladioli in Grecian urn columns, completed the setting.

Mrs. Dorothy Brinson, organist, accompanied Miss Linda Reed and Miss Maria Savage as they sang "Twelfth of Never," and "We've Only Just Begun."

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Lynn F. Dawson, with the "her mother and I," avowed, wore a formal floor-length gown of Angelmist peau de Soie and re-embroidered Venice lace designed with a high rounded neckline, empire waist, long Bishop sleeves and bell skirt. Inserts of matching lace enhanced the neckline, sleeves and bodice, and inserts of lace and ribbon appliques complemented the waistline.

Her veil of imported illusion fell from a coif, and she carried a cascade of blue and yellow carnations with touches of pink and green, atop a white bride's Bible.

She carried out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue and wore birth date pennies in her shoe.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Cindy Dawson, cousin of the bride, Amarillo, was maid of honor. She was attired in a soft blue crepe floor-length gown and wore a bandeau of matching blue ribbon streamers of flowers and love knots. She carried a nosegay of pastel carnations.

Jamie White, brother of the bride, was ringbearer and candlelighters were Amy White, sister of the bride and Christy Dawson, cousin of the bride, Amarillo.

Miss White and Miss Dawson wore floor-length crepe gowns of soft yellow and pink.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother wore an aqua crepe floor-length gown with matching jacket and accessories and her step-mother wore a camel; semi-fitted A-line dress with jeweled neckline and bone accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a light pink pastel street-length dress with matching accessories. All wore pastel carnation corsages.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor with musical selections by Miss Linda Reed at the piano.

Both bridal bouquets and attendants flowers decorated the serving table which was covered with a white cloth and centered with two candelabra.

Kathryn's cake was three-tiered with classic Grecian columns separating each tier and decorated with clusters of spring flowers and pale pink roses cascading the front of each tier. The cake was topped with two white satin wedding bells and two white doves holding a symbolic wedding ring.

White mints, topped with miniature pastel rosebuds, were served. The separate round punch table held crystal and silver appointments.

Sharon Roberts served the cake and Dianne Haines assisted at the punch bowl. Mrs. Letha Horton registered wedding guests. All reside in Pampa.

The bride wore a white pant suit with blue and pink floral design and white accessories for the wedding trip to Amarillo. Her flowers were lifted from the bridal bouquet.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride will graduate in May from Pampa High School. She is employed part-time as a librarian at Lamar elementary school.

The bridegroom attended school in Phoenix, Ariz., and is presently serving with the U.S. Army at Fort Sill, Okla., where the couple will make their home following graduation.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower March 23 in the home of Mrs. Charlie Prescott. Other hostesses were Mmes. Bill Mackey, Faye Watson, Margaret Gardner, Buck Riddle, Durward Dunlap, Sam Hanks, David Campbell and Misses Cindy and Melissa Mackey.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests attending the event were grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Clay-Dawson of Canyon and her step-grandmother, Mrs. Mary Clay of Quail; Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Dawson of Amarillo; and various friends and relatives of the family.

PAMPA CIVIC BALLET — Members of the Pampa Civic Ballet, under the direction of Jeanne Willingham, will present "The Dance of the Hours," by Ponchielli, April 19 and 20 at Amarillo Little Theatre. Haynes-Bruce

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Haynes, 620 N. Dwight, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Teresa, to Wayne Bruce. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace L. Bruce, 1200 Williston. Nuptial vows will be exchanged June 7 in Lamar Full Gospel Assembly Church. The bride-elect and bridegroom-to-be will graduate this spring from Pampa High School. Miss Haynes is presently employed with Citizens Bank and Trust Co., and her fiance is employed at Bruce and Son Van and Storage Co.

Mrs. Cornutt Gives Talk On Diversified Education

Education of a child begins in the attitudes and background of its parents even before its birth, stated Mrs. Dona Cornutt, guest speaker at a meeting of the Theta Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, Saturday, in the Heritage Room of the First National Bank, Panhandle.

Early choice of a career is helpful, she continued, and pilot programs in career education are now being introduced in kindergartens. This does not mean that the child will select a career at that time, or even before he leaves high school, but he will have been given an opportunity to pursue interests that may lead to a career.

Mrs. Cornutt, coordinator of the Diversified Education program in Pampa High School, then explained how the work training program develops a sense of responsibility. This program, she said, does not just place a student in a job, but teaches him "reading, writing, and arithmetic," along with speaking and other skills in communication.

Each Friday, for example, her DE students discuss current events, because students must keep up in a rapidly changing world. Students in each of the vocational programs are graded strictly not only upon their work, but upon their class participation and their attitude.

Stress is placed upon the basic academic subjects as well as the job training, but social activities are encouraged through the various clubs such as DECA, VICA, FFA, and others. These clubs offer exceptional training in parliamentary procedure and group participation.

Using illustrative slides, Mrs. Cornutt discussed briefly the different phases of the vocational program: cooperative agriculture, distributive education, home economics, cooperative education, industrial coop training, vocational office education, vocational office education laboratory, metal trades, cosmetology, building trades, auto mechanics, useful homemaking education, and production agriculture.

Since the introduction of the adult basic education program in 1973, 75 persons have completed requirements for high school diplomas, and approximately 100 persons per semester have taken courses.

Mrs. Cornutt concluded by telling the story of one of her pupils who wanted to get a job, but was not able to, because he was not in Diversified Education. He enrolled in the program, became an officer in the local club, attended a conference where he won honors, then was elected Outstanding DE Student in Texas and state president.

He has traveled more than 13,000 miles in Texas and spoken to more than 20,000 students. He is now planning to attend the national convention in Chicago, where he will be a candidate for National president.

"Because," said Mrs. Cornutt, "he has a desire to work."

Mrs. John Vantine presided at the business meeting preceding the program. Mrs. Douglas Smith led the group in singing, and Miss Mary Dean Dozier introduced the speaker.

Hostesses were Miss Mary Ewing and Mmes. Calvin Murray, Elmer Padgett, Ralph Randel, and J.R. Hogge.

Twenty-two members and one guest were present.

Farber-Hauson

The engagement of Judy Kay Farber to James Robert Hauson is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Farber, 1213 E. Foster. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hauson, 105 S. Wells. An April 20 wedding is being planned. The bride-elect is a student at Pampa High School and her fiance attended PHS. He is presently employed at Cabot Corp.

Winegeart-Wilson

Nuptial vows will be solemnized July 27 in Highland Baptist Church for Miss Cheryl Ann Winegeart and Joe Edward Wilson, Jr. Making the announcement are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Winegeart, 613 N. Sumner. Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Wilson, Sr., are parents of the bridegroom-to-be. Miss Winegeart will be a 1974 graduate of Pampa High School and her fiance is a 1972 graduate of PHS. He is presently employed at Arthur Brothers, Inc. of Celanese Chemical Co.

Civic Ballet Members Will Perform In Amarillo

"A Spring Happening," Amarillo Dance Theatre's Spring performance will be staged April 19 and 20 at Amarillo Little Theatre. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Performing with the Amarillo Dance Theatre will be Amanda Bennett of Jackson. Miss Bennett will dance the "Bluebird Variation" from "Sleeping Beauty" with Russell Dunn, Artist in Residence of Amarillo Dance Theatre.

Special guests performing on the program will be the Pampa Civic Ballet. Under the artistic direction of Jeanne Willingham, they will present "The Dance of the Hours" by Ponchielli. The Pampa group includes:

Rita Parsley, Lou Ann Robertson, Penny Wieser, Lisa McAndrew, Angela Day, Anita Day, Kim Chittenden, Margaret Wilks, Teddy Fallon, and Rae Lynn Stone.

"Three in Time," a modern jazz, "The Ballet Class" and "Spun Lites," classical ballet numbers, will be performed by the Amarillo Dance Theatre. Artistic Director of Amarillo Dance Theatre is Elaine Fields. Russell Dunn and Vicki McLean are choreographers in residence.

Tickets for both performances may be obtained by calling the Beaux Arts Dance Studio in Pampa or ALT-Box Office, 355-9991 or may be purchased at the door. All seats are reserved. Adults $2.50 Students $1.25.

Jones-Brown

Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Crocker, Jr., of Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Jones of Midland announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathy Lynne to Gary Scott Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. T.R. Brown of Odessa. The wedding will be solemnized in First Baptist Church of Odessa, July 13 at 2 p.m. The bride-elect is a 1970 graduate of Pampa High School. She attended Odessa Junior College, West Texas State University and is presently attending the University of Texas at the Permian Basin where she will graduate in May with a bachelor of arts degree. The prospective bridegroom graduated from Odessa High School in 1971 and from OJC in 1973 with a degree in electronics. He is presently employed with KMID-TV in Odessa while also attending UT.

Council of Clubs Changes By-Laws

The Council of Clubs met in City Hall April 4 for their regular business meeting. President, Marion Stroup, presided and Clara Lee Rhodes gave the invocation. The pledge allegiance was given by the group. The new by-laws for the council were approved. One of the changes that was approved was clubs in the community (or organizations) could rent the club rooms for $5 if the kitchen was not used and if the kitchen and dishes were used the rent would be $10 instead of $12.50.

Another change in the by-laws was that there would only be three officers, President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer. The meetings would be held five times a year instead of the nine meetings, and would be held September, November, January, and March and May. The group voted to not have the Presidents Tea in May. The auditing committee was Clara Lee Rhodes, and Wanda Goff and the nominating committee for the new officers was Katharine Sullins, Altrusa; Mrs. Lee-Harrah, ALA and Libby Shotwell, American Red Cross. Installation and election of new officers would be at the May 2 meeting.

Her fiance is a 1969 graduate of Hereford High School and is a student at WTSU, majoring in fiance.

History of the American Flag is Topic For DAR's

At a recent meeting of Las Pampas Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution which was held in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co., Mrs. Quentin Williams, chaplain, in keeping with the Easter season chose for the devotional the spring song from the Song of Solomon. "For lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone. The flowers appear on the earth, the time of singing has come."

Mrs. J.B. White, regent, led in the pledge to the Flag and the Americans Creed and presided over the meeting. She announced that Mrs. John Spearman and Mrs. L.A. Barns would accompany her to Washington, D.C. for the annual meeting of Continental Congress of the National Society DAR which will be held in Constitution Hall April 15-20. Mrs. Spearman and Mrs. Barns were elected delegates to the Congress.

The State Conference of the DAR was held recently in Austin and was attended by Mrs. Thelma Hopkins and Mrs. Toby Cunningham, delegates from this chapter. Mrs. Cunningham was named a page and among her many duties was the presentation of the flag. Mrs. Hopkins reported that the Conference was well attended and Mrs. F. Hastings Pannill, State regent, presided. Among the many out of State dignitaries who attended was Mrs. Donald Spicer, President General of the National Society DAR. Mrs.

Spicer was the Banquet speaker on the closing night. Guest speaking, Mrs. Glynda Martin of Miami was introduced by Mrs. Hopkins. Mrs. Martin gave the "History of the American Flag." She told the group that the colonists felt the need of a flag which would be a symbol of colonial unity. Several flags were designed—early flags reflected the Old World origin of the colonists.

In the English colonies many flags were adaptations of the British Union Jack with the 13 red, white and blue stripes. The first use of these colors as a symbol of unity occurred in New England in 1737. Political figures, at this time, were opposed to separation from England and hope for a reconciliation with the Mother country. The Continental Congress, in the latter part of 1775, appointed a committee to devise one. After much controversy, on June 14, 1777, Congress resolved that "The flag of the United States shall be 13 alternate red and white, with a union of 13 stars of white on a blue field."

She mentioned that historical research has failed to establish a factual foundation for the traditional story that Betsy Ross made the first American flag. Congress failed to make any rule for the arrangement of the stars and the most usual arrangement was the circle of 13 stars. As new states joined the union they demanded representation in the stars and stripes of the flag. In 1795 Congress voted to increase to 15 the number of stars and stripes.

"This, she said was the flag that Frances Scott Key knew when he wrote the "Star Spangled Banner" during the bombardment of Ft. Mchenry on the morning of Sept. 14, 1814.

Finally, legislation enacted in 1818 re-established the number of stripes at 13 and laid down the policy. "That on the admission of every new state into the union, one star be added to the union of the flag."

Concluding, Mrs. Martin told the flag of today has the 13 alternating stripes of red and white with a rectangular blue field or canton containing 55 pointed stars. Because of its stars and stripes and of its colors, it is frequently called "The Star Spangled Banner, The Stars and Stripes and The Red, White and Blue."

Another popular, patriotic designation is Old Glory. Mrs. White, using the DAR ritual, welcomed Mrs. C.W. Huckaby and Mrs. Alma Seitz as new members.

LUGGAGE
Luggage should be durable, attractive and easy to clean. Other features worth considering include suds-spongeable interiors and exteriors, removable accessory bags, cushioned handles and metal studs or molded feet to keep luggage off the ground, says Mrs. Becky Culp, clothing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

AFRICAN VIOLET SOCIETY

Using an Easter theme in table decorations, the Pampa African Violet Society met recently for a dinner session at Furr's Cafeteria.

Mrs. Norman Walberg, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Glenn Radcliff. Her program topic was "Water: A Unique and Mysterious Substance."

She told, because water is abundant and cheap, it is taken for granted. Water covers three quarters of the earth's entire surface. The total runoff of all streams in the United States averages 1,200 billion gallons per day. At the present time, only 27 percent of this amount is used, she continued.

What few people realize is that in the U.S. there is almost 20 times as much water in the ground as there is water on the surface.

Water is nature's greatest gift to all growing things, we should conserve what God has given us, she concluded.

Members present were Mmes. Holly Gray, Lee Moore, Evan Jones, Dan Glaxner, Norman Walberg, and two guests, Mrs. Robert Coff and Mrs. Glenn Radcliff.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Evan Jones.

WORTHWHILE CLUB

The Worthwhile and Jane Long Home Demonstration Clubs met April 5 at 2 p.m. at Southwestern Public Service, Reddi Room, with Mrs. Mildred Prince giving demonstrations on cooking. She prepared eight different kinds of dishes.

Twelve Worthwhile members and one visitor attended the reception and coffee recently at the Courthouse Annex for the new County Extension Agent, Mrs. Elaine Houston.

Varietas Club Members Exhibit Types Of Bells

Mrs. J.E. Kirchman was hostess to Varietas Study Club on Tuesday afternoon. The club president, Mrs. Clyde Ellis, presided. Plans were made for a club sale and for the annual spring luncheon.

The program topic was "Music" with the sub-title, "Music has charms to soothe the savage beast, to soften rocks, and to bend the knotted oak." Roll call was held, and each member exhibited one or more bells, telling the story of her exhibit, the country from which it came, its legend, and its use. Many types of bells from many countries were shown; among them were temple bells, school bells, wind bells, cow bells, dinner bells, and others.

"I Hear Music" was the title of the program which was presented by Mrs. W.H. Burden. The speaker confined her discussion to the music of bells, presenting the history, the stories, and the meanings of various types of bells.

She said, "Bells usually mean happiness and are therefore pleasurable to us. Each bell has its own story. More than 50 billion pieces of information were radioed back to earth by Mariner 9, the first spacecraft to orbit Mars."

Don't hurt hostess, avoid other guest

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Here are the facts: A lady was invited to a dinner party. While being greeted by her hostess, she saw a guest whom she had good reason to dislike intensely. She turned around and left immediately.

We (her friends) are divided in our opinions. Some of us think she should have stayed and ignored the guest she disliked. Others say she was justified in leaving.

What would you have done if you had been in that situation?

DIVIDED

DEAR DIVIDED: Offhand, out of consideration for my hostess I'd probably have stayed and avoided the guest I disliked. But what I would have done cannot be used as a fair criterion. For that I would have to have walked for at least two miles in that lady's moccasins.

DEAR ABBY: Please help settle a dispute between my husband and me. We've been married a year, and until last week everything was fine and dandy. Last Saturday night we were invited to a party at some friends' house. I bought myself a new dress for the occasion. It had a plunging neckline, and as I am sort of bosomy, it was a little revealing.

I thought it looked good. However when I put it on, my husband refused to take me to the party unless I changed to something more conservative. Well, I refused, so we ended up staying home.

I think my husband is wrong in dictating what I should wear. I am young and pretty and enjoy admiring looks from other men. Is this so wrong, Abby? I could understand my husband's objections if I were too fat or old to wear a dress like that.

He said he wanted to protect me from unwanted advances, and secondly, he wanted me all to himself; he doesn't want other men to see that much of me. What do you think of this?

MAD AT MY HUSBAND

DEAR MAD: Some husbands do not object if their wives wear revealing clothes, in which case, fine. But since your husband does—don't!

DEAR ABBY: We are members of a small junior college baseball team who are going through the same problem thousands of high schools and colleges are going through each year. The coach insists upon our getting our hair cut off at the ears and at the top of our collars. This is his first year as a baseball coach, and he expects us to sacrifice our hair for baseball, although this college offers no scholarships, and the team agrees that they would give 100 per cent at all times. We can't see how the length of our hair can make a difference in how we play.

In order for our college to play baseball we must have at least 15 guys out, and when a coach makes such stiff demands, it causes some guys to quit. This in turn hurts the school's chances for a winning team.

What's your opinion, Abby?

Brown-Parker Vows
Are Repeated Friday

Miss Brenda Lee Brown became the bride of Michael Bradford Parker Friday April 12 at 8 p.m. in the McLean First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Brown of McLean and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Parker of McLean.

THE CEREMONY
The Rev. Herman W. Bell, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an arch of yellow candles, decorated with greenery, flanked by a branched candelabra entwined with greenery. The prayer bench and two basket arrangements of yellow gladioli, yellow pompons, salal and huckleberry greenery completed the setting.

Organist, JoAnn Miller, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Gay Simpson as she sang the "Twelfth of Never," and the "Wedding Prayer."

THE BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I," avowal, the bride wore a formal-length wedding gown of mira mist and re-embroidered Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with a high neckline, empire waistline, long Camelot sleeves, and semi A-line silhouette with full back. Inserts of Chantilly lace, enhanced with tiny seed pearls, complemented the neckline, bodice, sleeves and skirt of the gown. The full back of the attire ended in a sweeping chapel-length train.

Her veil of imported illusion, with a border of matching lace, fell from a lace-coif, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and pompons.

The bride presented her mother with a long stemmed red rose before the ceremony, and presented her bridegroom's mother a red rose following the nuptial vows.

ATTENDANTS
Matron of honor was Mrs. Martha Back, sister of the bride, Amarillo, and Michele Parker, sister of the bridegroom, McLean, was bridesmaid. They wore floor-length gowns of yellow peau de soie styled with empire waistlines and long sheer sleeves gathered at the wrists. Each carried a yellow rose. Attendants wore yellow garden-hats with matching ribbon streamers.

Stephen Pringle was ringbearer and Melissa Pringle, both cousins of the bride, was flowergirl.

R.C. Parker, served his son as best man and Bryan Parker was groomsman.

MRS. MICHAEL BRADFORD PARKER
Miss Brenda Lee Brown

Serving as ushers were Reginald Davis of Amarillo and Ken Parker, brother of the bridegroom, McLean.

All male attendants wore black tuxedos with yellow ruffled shirts. The bridegroom wore a white jacket with black lapels, white ruffled shirt and black trousers.

MOTHERS
The bride's mother wore a floor-length dress of lime green polyester double knit with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a floor-length dress of blue floral double knit with silver accessories. Both wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

RECEPTION
Fellowship Hall of the church was the scene for the reception immediately following the exchange of vows. A white lace cloth covered the serving table which was centered with a floral arrangement of yellow and white daisies, leather leaf greenery, baby's breath and candles.

The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with satin bells, was served by Karen Hunt of Canyon. Assisting at the punch bowl were Loyce Parker and Laura Morris, both of McLean. Rosemary Robinson, Amarillo, registered wedding guests.

The bridegroom's table held a floral arrangement of yellow pompons and greenery and was centered with an anniversary candle. Chocolate cake and coffee were served from this table.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a two-piece blue knit suit and white accessories and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

They plan to reside in Amarillo.

AFFILIATIONS
The bride is a 1972 graduate of McLean High School and attended Clarendon Jr. College. She is presently employed by Western National Life of Amarillo.

The bridegroom is a 1969 graduate of MHS, attended CJC and West Texas State University. He is presently employed by the Amarillo Police Department as a police officer.

PRE-NUPITAL EVENTS
The bride was honored recently with a miscellaneous shower hosted by friends in McLean.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Fellowship Hall of the church.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS
Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim LaFayors and son of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Sameul Robinson and daughter of Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dwyer of Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Derrell Gibson, Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Porter of Amarillo.

Miss Mama Tells Of Cyprus Island

The Altrusa Club of Pampa met in the Coronado Inn at noon April 8.

Mrs. Dick Sullins, president, called for reports from the committee chairmen and announced that all new officers and committee chairmen are invited to attend the leadership training Seminar in Odessa May 4.

Miss Anastasia Mama, American Field Service Student, now living with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Davis, told about her home on the Island of Cyprus. She lives in Farmagusta, a tourist town with a population of 55,000.

Miss Mama said students in her homeland do not choose their school subjects. They are told what to study. Uniforms are worn by all the students, and high school students are not given chances to work during the school year. There is no drug problem in her country, she told. 30 members and six guests were present.

Farrar-Florer Exchange Vows In Double-Ring Rites

Nuptial vows were solemnized at 7 p.m. Friday April 12 by Miss Janet Farrar and Tommy Dean Florer in the First United Methodist Church Chapel of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Farrar, 1717 Coffee St. are parents of the bride and George Melvin Florer and Mrs. W. H. Miller of Borger are parents of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY
The double-ring ceremony was read by Dr. Lloyd V. Hamilton, pastor. Mrs. Peggy Stephens, organist, played the traditional wedding march and accompanied Miss Donna Patterson as she sang "More," "The Twelfth of Never," and "We've Only Just Begun."

The church was decorated with a large arrangement of gladioli and daisies accented with blue ribbon, flanked by a seven-branched candelabrum entwined with lemon leaves. Blue ribbon bows marked the pews.

THE BRIDE
Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza and re-embroidered lace designed with a fitted empire bodice, long, full sheer sleeves caught at the wrists by deep cuffs of lace and a sheer yoke and Victorian neckline.

A lace medalion accented with pearls, enhanced the front neckline and waistline of the attire. Lace traced a pattern over each side front of the skirt which fell to a lace and flounced hemline.

She wore a matching lace chapel-length veil, which fell from a Juliet cap, and carried a bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid.

The bride presented her mother with a red rose prior to the service and presented the bridegroom's mother a red rose when leaving the church.

The bride carried out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue and placed a penny in her shoe.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Teresa Huston, maid of honor, Pampa, and Mrs. Barbara Meserve, Denver, Colo., bridesmaid, wore floor-length gowns of blue dotted Swiss and carried a spring bouquet of colored flowers.

Terry Florer was best man and Toby Florer was groomsmen. Ushering were Larry Farrar and Edgil Maxwell. All male attendants reside in Amarillo.

MOTHERS
The mother of the bride wore a pink floor-length gown and the bridegroom's mother wore a blue floor-length gown. Both wore orchid corsages.

RECEPTION
The reception was held in the parlor of the church immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was centered with a white carnation arrangement which was accented with blue ribbon.

The four-tiered white cake was trimmed in blue and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Terry Ellis of Pampa served cake and Mrs. Pete Pettit of Pampa assisted at the punchbowl. Registering guests was Mrs. Larry Farrar of Amarillo.

For the wedding trip to Galveston, the bride wore a blue and white plaid jacket and matching long skirt and lifted the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Amarillo.

AFFILIATIONS
The bride is a graduate of Pampa High School and attended Amarillo College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Borger High School and is presently employed for Bechtel Corporation in Amarillo.

PRE-NUPITAL EVENTS
A miscellaneous show recently honored the bride, and was hosted by Mmes. W. P. McKendree, Jay Lickey, George Jones, Bob Morris and Tommie Kelley. A rehearsal dinner was Doty of Borger; and Mrs. Peggy Kenney of Amarillo.

Preceptor Will Make State Project Donation

Members of the Preceptor Chi of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Mrs. Ray Jordan for their 15 meeting and guest night.

A report was made on the recent garage sale which the chapter had.

The members voted to make a donation to the Beta Sigma Phi state project "Dollars for Dani." This project was adopted by the Texas Beta Sigma Phi's and is financial assistance for a Lubbock, Tex., Beta Sigma Phi member.

The program for the evening was handwriting analysis. A guest speaker, who was scheduled for the evening, was unable to make it to the meeting. The members participated in a group discussion, led by Mrs. John Plaster, regarding various handwriting characteristics, how these characteristics reveals a person's personality, and how experiences also affect the handwriting of an individual.

Members attending were Mmes. Tom Beard, Ralph Esson, Joe Fischer, Gerry Grayson, Henry Gruben, Ray Jordan, Cletus Mitchell, John Plaster, Donald Stafford, James Trusty, and Jack Vaughn.

Members welcomed one guest for the evening, Mrs. Charles Jeffries, a member of the Xi Theta Iota Chapter,

MRS. STEVE EDWARD CLARK
...nee Miss Starlene Wallingsford

The marriage of Miss Starlene Wallingsford and Steve Edward Clark was solemnized at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 12 in Bethel Baptist Church of Plainview.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlen Wallingsford of Plainview, are parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark, 2132 Coffee, are parents of the bridegroom.

THE CEREMONY

Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Gene Joplin, pastor. Miss Sondra Atkins, organist, provided traditional wedding selections and accompanied vocalists Barbara Comer and Dorothy Roy, both of Plainview.

Basket arrangements of mixed spring flowers and an arched candelabra formed the altar setting. A kneeling bench and garlands of greenery and a unity candle completed the setting.

As the bride approached the altar, the bridegroom sang, "Love Me Tender."

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of lace over bridal satin styled with an empire waistline, oval neckline and long puffed sleeves. The gown was highlighted with rows of lace and tiny seed pearls.

Satin bows complemented the waistline and her veil of silk illusion which was attached to a pearl encrusted crown of matching lace and seed pearls. She carried a white carnation bridal bouquet with blue carnations and baby's breath.

ATTENDANTS

Sharon Mull, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Jackie Wallingsford, sister of the bride, and Shelda Sisk, cousin of the bride. They wore identical princess styled gowns of blue dotted Swiss fashioned with long puffed sleeves and high stand-up collars. Mrs. Mull carried a blue and white nosegay with blue streamers and the bridesmaids carried long stemmed carnation with white streamers. They wore blue net headpieces attached to a crown.

Paul Sadler was ringbearer and flower girl was Tabatha Vick, cousin of the bride. Candlelighters were Chip Strain and Marvin Green, cousin of the bride, all of Plainview.

Stockton Heading Masters At Nine Under

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Huiking-Dave Stockton, profiting from his father's long-distance telephone tip, sailed in with a two-under par 70 Saturday for a one-stroke lead after 54 holes in the prestigious 38th Masters golf tournament.

Stockton, in at nine-under par 207, was one stroke ahead of Jim Colbert and South African Gary Player, who had a 66 and was forced to putt out on the 18th hole after a spectator fainted near him.

Player built his round on five straight birdies for a blazing 31 on the back nine, but called his round "the worst I've played out of three — and that's the truth."

The field played in 76-degree temperatures after morning showers ended, offering partly cloudy skies for afternoon play. The forecast called for a 30 per cent chance for more rain during Sunday's final round.

Stockton, a 32-year-old pro from Westlake Village, Calif., blitzed the field early in the third round when he scored an eagle 3 on the 355-yard, par 3 second, then birdied the par 4 third. The eagle came when he holed a 60-yard wedge shot.

At one point, his lead was four shots, but he took a bogey on the 11th, then birdied the par 5 13th to go two shots ahead of Player.

But the 1970 PGA champion bogeyed the 15th, shaving his lead to one again, before paring the last three holes.

Stockton spent about 10 minutes on the telephone with his father, Gail, after Saturday's 66. He told him to work on keeping his head still and making a correct turn.

In at seven-under 209 were Bobby Nichols and Phil Rodgers, who had 68s.

Pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus posted an even-par 72 and will enter the final round five shots behind Stockton.

Colbert, who had a 69, blew a chance to tie for the lead when he missed a five-foot putt on the 17th after scoring birdies on Nos. 13, 15 and 16.

The first-round leader, who had a 67 Thursday, managed to par the 18th, however, and equal Player at eight-under 208.

Player began his surge on the 155-yard, par 3 12th, where he slapped a seven-iron one foot from the hole and tapped in the putt.

He blasted out of a trap on No. 13 and holed a 15-foot putt, sank a seven-footer on the 14th, edged within 20 feet and knocked in the putt on No. 15 and polished off the streak with a six-foot birdie putt on the 16th.

Still, Player called it the worst round of the three he has played here.

"I never felt so depressed

as last night when I left the golf course," he said. "I've never played better for 36 holes. But today I holed some putts."

Player said the 18th was "kind of a scary last hole." A spectator fainted near him as he was lining up a 25-foot approach putt.

"He was breathing real hard, I don't know if he had a heart attack or not," said Player. "But it was a funny feeling with that guy laying there."

Player two-putted for his par, however, equalling the 66 Stockton posted in the third round.

Tom Weiskopf, with a 70, and Hale Irwin, at even par 72, were locked at 210.

Frank Beard was alone at five-under 211 after a 72.

And Hubert Green, who started the day only one shot behind Stockton, suffered a 74 and fell back to 212 with Nicklaus.

Arnold Palmer had a 70 Saturday and was 10 shots off the pace with four others, including Ray Floyd and Billy Casper.

In at seven-under 209 were Bobby Nichols and Phil Rodgers, who had 68s.

Pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus posted an even-par 72 and will enter the final round five shots behind Stockton.

Colbert, who had a 69, blew a chance to tie for the lead when he missed a five-foot putt on the 17th after scoring birdies on Nos. 13, 15 and 16.

The first-round leader, who had a 67 Thursday, managed to par the 18th, however, and equal Player at eight-under 208.

Player began his surge on the 155-yard, par 3 12th, where he slapped a seven-iron one foot from the hole and tapped in the putt.

He blasted out of a trap on No. 13 and holed a 15-foot putt, sank a seven-footer on the 14th, edged within 20 feet and knocked in the putt on No. 15 and polished off the streak with a six-foot birdie putt on the 16th.

Still, Player called it the worst round of the three he has played here.

"I never felt so depressed

as last night when I left the golf course," he said. "I've never played better for 36 holes. But today I holed some putts."

Player said the 18th was "kind of a scary last hole." A spectator fainted near him as he was lining up a 25-foot approach putt.

Al Clips Hair, Record

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — World record outdoor shotputter Al Feuerbach of Long Beach, Calif., cut his long, sandy-colored hair, but unlike the Biblical Samson, he believes it made him stronger instead of weaker.

Feuerbach, six-foot, 250 pounds, Saturday broke his own 69-8 1/2 Texas Relays and Memorial Stadium shot put record set in 1973 with a 70-foot, 1 1/4-inch toss.

And Feuerbach credits his recent intense mental and physical conditioning program for the record mark.

"I cut my hair shorter," he said, running his huge hand through his mod-length curly hair, "because it was part of my new discipline."

"It's some type of psychological thing," Feuerbach said his hair had grown so long that it was hampering his throws.

"I mean I was going out to throw and getting hair in my hands," he said. "Right now I'm rebuilding my discipline and confidence."

The main reason he began the intensive program is Pacific Coast Track Club teammate George Woods, the world indoor shot put record holder, who scratched on all three of his preliminary attempts at the relays Saturday and was dropped from the competition.

Feuerbach said he actually wished Woods had not fouled out because he felt the competition would have helped his throws.

"Going into this meet he was considered the best shot putter in the world," Feuerbach said, "and he's still the man to beat."

ABA To Hold Pro Cage Draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Basketball Association, failing in its attempts to bring about a merger with the National Basketball Association, has started an undeclared war.

The ABA announced Friday that next Wednesday it will hold a five-round draft of NBA players, which will assign the rights of 50 senior-circuit stars — an average of three players from each NBA team. The setup is similar to the recently held World Football League draft, with "rights" to each player assigned should he play out his option.

When contacted at his Los Angeles office, Sam Schulman, owner of the NBA Seattle SuperSonics, was not surprised at the ABA's decision.

"I suspected that this would happen," Schulman said. "I think it's ingenious. I'm surprised that they didn't do sooner."

Hannum Goes Further

Alex Hannum, coach, general manager and president of the ABA's Denver Rockets, went further than Schulman, saying that he had predicted the necessity of the ABA's plan.

"I told you so," he said. "All along I've said if the American Basketball Association wants to be a strong viable league it would have to build the league on its own. I've always contended the league can't just wait around for the NBA to make its decisions."

But the rival owners took opposing viewpoints on the likely effectiveness of the draft.

"I don't think the ABA is in as good a position as the WFL," said Schulman. "I have to question the ability of anyone to go much higher than the salaries we are paying now. Our salaries are considerably higher than in professional football."

McPhillips, Neal Have Fastest Birds In ToT Competition

R. W. McPhillips and Clyde Neal won the top five places in the "B" race and had the five fastest birds in either the "A" or "B" race Saturday in the Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club Hereford to Pampa race.

McPhillips, in the "B" competition, had the two fastest birds, both Dark Check Checks, which turned in times of 17:46.54 and 17:34.04 yards per minute.

Those times were faster than any turned in by the birds in the "A" race, which was won by Gordon Miller, who had a Blue Check Check finish with a 16:39.93 yards per minute. Jim Cantrell placed second and third in the "A" race.

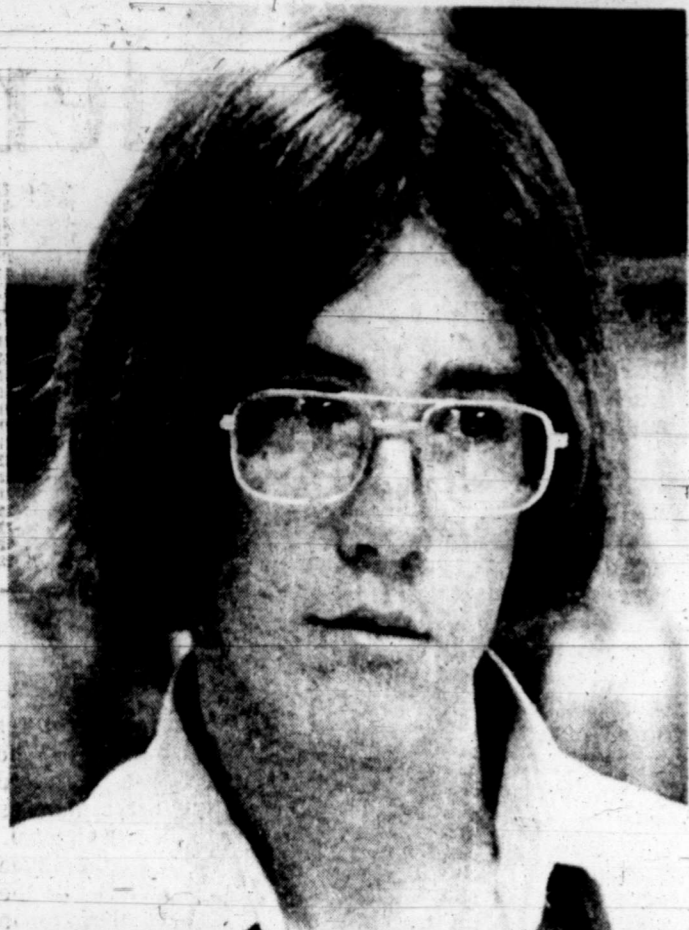

Neal won third and fourth in the "B" competition, while McPhillips captured fifth.

The next ToT race is scheduled for next Saturday from Clovis, N.M., to Pampa.

'Stanley Cup Hockey Has Come To Atlanta'

HARVESTER OF THE WEEK — Second baseman Rick Bigham, who went one-for-two at the plate and scored a run in Pampa's last game (a 2-0 win over Palo Duro April 5), was named Harvester of the Week Thursday at the Pampa Noon Lions Club.

ATLANTA (UPI) — There was blood on the ice. Fights were going on all across the rink. Fans were on their feet screaming and throwing debris. Policemen were rushing to rinkside.

And a visiting television announcer calmly told the folks back home:

"Stanley Cup hockey has come to Atlanta."

Philadelphia beat the Flames, 4-1, Friday night, taking a commanding 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

"It's going to be tough now," said Atlanta Coach Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion. "If we had won tonight—well, you never know. Maybe we could have done something. But now..."

Fred Shero of Philadelphia agreed. "It would be very hard for them to come back and win four straight," he said. "Even if they were a better club than us, I don't think they could win four straight. Unless we completely forget everything we've learned."

Fans Won't Forget
Win or lose, it was the brawl in the second period which fans in Atlanta won't forget.

The score was 2-1 for Philadelphia when Atlanta's Noel Price and the Flyers' Dave Schultz started showing. Linesmen moved in to break up this action but behind them Atlanta's Curt Bennett and Bobby Clark of Philadelphia got into a scrap, with Bennett getting the edge.

Optimist Club To Sponsor Umpire Clinic

An umpire clinic for anyone interested in learning Little League and Babe Ruth baseball rules will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday at the Pampa Optimist Club. Gene Bynum and Harley Knutson will conduct the clinic, which is open to all those interested in umpiring, coaching and playing. Parents are also urged to attend.

The linesmen piled in again, breaking up this fight but then Bill Flett decided he would teach Bennett to keep away from Clarke, the Philadelphia team leader. Bennett eluded the linesmen and swarmed all over Flett, pounding the big Flyer in a completely one-sided match that ended with Flett sprawled face-down on the ice and Bennett sitting atop him slugging away.

After that there were main events fights between Butch Deadmarsh of Atlanta and Schultz and Bob Kelly of Philadelphia against Pat Quinn of Atlanta. At one point there were at least 10 fights and or shoving matches going on simultaneously.

Flett, Schultz and Bennett were kicked out of the game. Referee Dave Newell doled out 108 minutes in penalties, which is not a Stanley Cup record but pretty good for a first try in the South.

Play Is Resumed
Play was resumed but 16 seconds later bedlam broke out again. Rick MacLeish, the scoring star of the series, stole the puck at mid-ice and skated in alone

Calvin, Others To Be Scrutinized

DALLAS (UPI) — Calvin Hill and the goodly number of other National Football League players who have climbed on board the World Football League's money wagon will become the most scrutinized members of the sports world late this summer.

They will be watched just like Ulysses S. Grant might have been if he had told Abraham Lincoln he was going to play out his option and go to work for that new league being formed in the South.

Grant's troops might have thought twice when he yelled, "Charge, men. The enemy is ours."

One Dallas Cowboys official, sympathizing with Hill's upcoming pressure-packed year with the club, put it this way last week when Hill announced he had signed a contract with the NFL's Honolulu franchise. "Can you imagine what he will be going through during training camp? He will have to work twice as hard just to convince people he is working as hard as he used to."

Hill, for one, sees no problem.

Dallas coach Tom Landry does not care to speculate at the moment.

"I see no problem with a dual role at all," said Hill. "When you step onto the football field you forget about all the things that surround you."

"I'd like to play in the Super Bowl and have a good season. That would make my NFL career complete."

Landry did not want to be drawn too deeply into a conversation concerning what might happen next season, since he felt it was simply too early to tell what might happen.

"If I say something now and things change," he said. "You will come up during training camp and say 'hey, I thought you said...'"

"I just cannot speculate what will happen. We have never experienced a lame duck situation before."

Rodrigo To File Suit

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboy linebacker Rodrigo Barnes has filed a $25,000 damage suit against author Giles Tippette. Barnes says Tippette's book, "Saturday's Children," holds him up to ridicule.

The book retells some experiences of the Rice University football squad and alleges Barnes received illegal loans from Rice officials and extra game tickets to sell to alumni at high prices.

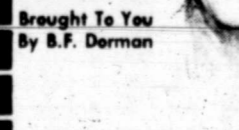

A Southwest Conference investigation resulted in no action being taken against Rice.

Barnes, now a linebacker with the Dallas Cowboys, said Friday he suffered "humiliation, public hatred, contempt, ridicule and disgrace" because of the book.

Tippette said from his Kerrville, Tex., home that he will respond to the suit.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT Bronx Boys 'Sneaky Producers'

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Two boys from the Bronx came into the Stage-Delicatessen at 9 o'clock on a Saturday morning — one of the boys was Mike Merrick, 44, the other boy was Don Gregory, 39, both were Hollywoodians now... and their friends are accusing them of becoming Broadway producers in a very sneaky manner.

"Sneaky" asked Mike Merrick, who was born in Czechoslovakia, got to be a Broadway press agent, then a manager of Harry Belafonte.

"You know what I mean by sneaky?" one of his friends said. "You lasso the best actor in the business, Henry Fonda, into doing 'Clarence Darrow' in a one-man show! That way you don't have any problems of conflict in the cast, or any billing problems. All you have in the cast is Henry Fonda."

"All we have to do is keep our cast happy," nodded Don Gregory, a former agent, who happens also to be manager of Red Buttons and producer of the TV Celebrity Bowling show on TV. His real name is Ginsberg and he used to run Phase 2 and other coffee houses in the Village.

"We got acquainted because Don had once been Harry Belafonte's agent," explained Mike Merrick (real name Moskowitz). "We wanted to branch out with a one-man show."

After getting rights to Irving Stone's "Clarence Darrow" and a script, they considered what stars might be available.

"Let's go straight to our first choice," Merrick said, so he and Don sent a script to Henry Fonda.

"He called us a week later," Merrick said, "and he said, 'fellows, I read your script, and I'm going to say something my agent won't like — you've got me.'"

"So you had a star and that was all there was to it?"

"No," Merrick said. "We had to get rid of a director. The rehearsals didn't go well."

"We had a problem. How are you going to pull off a speech to an empty chair? We had an expression, we wanted to 'people the stage with characters' with just one man up there... Fonda."

"Fonda wasn't sure we should change directors. He said, 'Well, I don't think it's his fault...' But we got John Houseman and in two days the play turned around."

"Thank God we listened to us," Gregory said.

"Fonda is such a wonderful actor. He's a private guy... for seven weeks he didn't like one certain line in the play. Finally in Philadelphia he told us. We said, 'What's the line? You want it out?' he said, 'Well, yeah...'

The line, actually said by Clarence Darrow, was that his friends considered him a pessimist: "They say I'm only happy at a funeral, and then when the dear departed has committed suicide." He felt that the laugh coming at the time wasn't right. So we took it out."

Fonda looks upon the Clarence Darrow vehicle as an annuity that he can play for the rest of his life when he isn't making movies.

He says, "Work is work," and he feels actors should work. He's never played London. He might take Clarence Darrow to London where they're extremely interested in jurisprudence. He might take Darrow on the American college circuit too.

And playwrights are wondering if the new Merrick and Gregory producing team would be interested in them.

The new team doesn't have any costume problem with Fonda who's required to look rumpled.

"We couldn't find any suits at Western Costume that were quite right," Merrick said. "So we got our tailor to make three new 'old' suits. So far Hank has only worn one of them. He doesn't even hang it up. He rolls it up and throws it on a shelf."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP...

Mickey Rooney is going to Israel to make a movie, "Rachel's Man," with Rita Tushingham... Women's Lib note: After all these years as an all-male outfit, Los Chavales de Espana added a gal to the act at the Chateau Madrid... Carroll O'Connor will film scenes for "Law & Order" at the Blue Print restaurant on Park Av... Singer Denise Lor, of the old Gary Moore show, introduced her son Denis Martin in his singing debut at Mr. Kelly's in Chicago.

A fan sitting near Melina Mercouri at Joe's Pier 52 asked — not for an autograph — but for the bones from Melina's fish dish, "for my cat"... Mary Tyler Moore and her husband Grant Tinker, reconciled, are buying a home in Bel-Air... Gregory Peck's looking at a script of a B'way show, "A Clean Bill"... Bobby Vinton opens at the Waldorf's Empire Rm. April 16. (Bobby was a teen-age bandleader on Merv Griffin's old "Saturday Prom" show; his trumpet player was Doc Severidson.)

I'D RATHER BELIGHT

Today's Best Laugh: A man complained about his wife's loud voice: "When she talks to her plants, they cover their petals with their leaves."

Wish I'd Said That: Someone described the international situation: "It's as shifty as an armful of coat hangers."

Remembered Quote: "The only time a fisherman tells the truth is when he calls another fisherman a liar."

Earl's Pearls: Alec Guinness was once approached by a playwright who said enthusiastically, "My play was tailored just for you." "Really?" said Guinness coldly. "No one came to take my measurements."

Carol Channing, speaking at a luncheon, was followed to the podium by Lido Iacocca, president of the Ford Motor Co. "I'm not surprised at having to follow an act like Carol Channing," he said. "It's been that kind of a year."

That's earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Vagus Nerve Causes Palpitations

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 69 and my doctor tells me my occasional heart palpitations are caused by the vagus nerve. What is this and how does it cause palpitations? Since I switched from coffee and I only drank one cup a day to tea, my heart seems to behave better.

—R.L.K.

Dear Doctor: Please write something about the vagus nerve and how it sometimes causes palpitations.

—B.D.

The vagus is a highly specialized nerve originating in the mid-brain and extending down to the lungs, heart and intestinal tract.

It has a variety of functions, among them control of heart beat: flow of intestinal secretions, and muscle tone of stomach and intestine. In other words, it deals with organs over which we have little or no voluntary control.

(Severing a branch of the vagus nerve sometimes is done to reduce the motility (motion or activity) of stomach and duodenum for patients with ulcers that are aggravated by too constant activity.)

At any rate, stimulation of the vagus nerve slows the heart rate (but can do the opposite for some other organs). And slowing the heart rate may, under some circumstances, result in heart palpitation.

Next step: what can stimulate the vagus nerve? A variety of things, including even deep breathing. And vomiting.

In a healthy person drugs and factors such as tobacco, coffee, tea, alcohol and various other medications can do so. Likewise certain drugs can block the control of the vagus nerve over the heart, permitting a rapid heart beat.

It's a rather complicated situation, isn't it?

Since caffeine (in coffee, tea or cola drinks) can affect the vagus, it is a fairly common element in casual attacks of palpitations.

Some folks are more sensitive to this than others, so it's entirely possible for as little as a single cup of coffee to have such an effect on some individuals. For others, even a lot of coffee won't do it. It's one more instance of no two people being alike.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could there be varicose veins in the arms, too? I know about legs. I have pain in my left arm that goes up to the armpit and chest. Is it dangerous?

—F.M.K.

Veins in the arm (and hand) can become fairly large and dilated but are not "varicose" in the sense of varicose veins in the legs in which the blood becomes relatively stagnant and the valves in the veins are damaged. Thus I suspect the pain in your arm is due to something else.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any danger in handling pictures or books that have been in a home where someone had meningitis and carried these around with her?

—Miss W.

No danger, since the germs do not survive in a dry condition. I presume the patient is well now and hence not a source of more germs.

Shingles on the other hand, is inflammation of a nerve track caused by a virus infection. It doesn't come and go as do hives. The pain, and breaking out in the area, comes and stays until the infection leaves — which can be quite a time.

Hives may itch but don't hurt. Shingles is painful.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to him in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The election reform bill that came up in the Senate this week is somewhat misdirected.

It seeks to end the "fat cat" system of campaign financing by making public funds available to candidates.

This is a roundabout approach to a problem that could be excised with surgical neatness.

From the recent series of disclosures of illegal or suspicious contributions to President Nixon and certain Democratic office-seekers, a clear pattern has emerged.

In virtually every instance the beneficiary has professed that he was personally unaware he was the recipient of such largesse.

Implied, where not actually stated, in these disclaimers is the assurance that had the candidate only known he was being subsidized in this fashion, he would have scotched it forthwith.

Thus the remedy for campaign funding abuses is simple. All Congress need do is pass legislation to make it unlawful to donate money to a political candidate without telling him about it.

To make sure I am on the right track in proposing this solution, I checked it out with Sam Undertable, a noted authority on political economics.

"You've got the handle on it," Undertable told me. "Secret contributions must be stopped."

I said, "Are you saying the public has a right to know where the candidates get their money?"

"Who's talking about the public? I'm saying the candidates have a right to know where their money is coming from. Donors who go around slipping money to candidates without their knowledge are the biggest headache politicians have."

"Every office-seeker lives in fear that some well-heeled contributor will enrich his campaign while he is looking the other way."

I said, "Why don't contributors want candidates to know about their donations?"

"In most cases, the contributors are trying to avoid giving the candidate the impression they are seeking favors. The average big contributor is only trying to help a candidate get elected and wouldn't dream of asking anything in return. But if the candidate finds out about the contribution, he may feel obliged anyhow."

Undertable's explanation strengthened my conviction regarding political reform. Force the donors to reveal themselves unto the donees and campaign funding abuses will be stamped out overnight.

Or at least by early next week.

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — A brass registration plate thought to have come from the red plane of World War II German fighter ace Baron von Richtofen has been withdrawn from exhibit by the Australian War Museum. It appears it was one of several "genuine" registration plates actually manufactured in Melbourne long after the war.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
The National Water Resources Congress meets in Washington, D.C. each year during March or April. The national organization is the result of a number of sectional water organizations being combined in the best interest of all. The National Water Resources Congress has become important enough to warrant the naming of delegates to the congress by the governors of all 50 states.

In 1973 and 1974 the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District has had a delegate named by Gov. Dolph Briscoe. The 1974 Water Resources Congress has outlined its objectives.

Water is indispensable to all life. Without it, our planet would perish, bereft of all living things. Though water is eternal, having nourished the earth since the beginning of time, it is also finite. We can create more of it, nor can we diminish that which exists. We can only learn to use wisely what we have, and the obligation to do so becomes more critical with each passing year, as more and more people inhabit the earth. No responsibility upon mankind is more important than that of controlling and conserving and utilizing this essential resource. It is a responsibility which must exert an unchallenged priority at all echelons of government, and at all levels of commercial and industrial activity. It is an obligation that supercedes all others - an obligation that is common to us all.

In order to meet the challenge of the future we must wisely manage and utilize our Natural Resources so that those who come after us may enjoy an increasing quality of life. In this framework, then, the Water Resources Congress dedicates itself to attainment of the wisest use of our most precious resource after the air we breathe - water - and the land to which it relates.

We set forth clearly that these objectives cannot be met without a commonality of effort to develop and implement a viable national water resource plan. The actual survival, and certainly the continued well-being, of our nation and its people is dependent on such a plan. It should be self-evident that such an overpowering need requires a defined national water policy, calling for the full participation of the national government to provide the leadership and institutional structure for participation by the many other concerned entities of government. Such responsibility to meet national objectives must continue to carry with it financial participation on part of the national government.

In today's complex environmental patterns, almost any action, good or bad, on one phase of resources has some effect on others. This widening effect of isolated efforts is sobering to the planner, the legislator, and fundamentally, to the citizen. The latter may not be aware of the multiactions being taken, nor of the ultimate results to him personally. Hence, the posture of W.R.C. is one of comprehensive thinking and, to the greatest degree feasible, wise recommendations and intelligent support of a total national effort. We urge that a significant portion of any federal funds appropriated for the acceleration of public works be expended on authorized, permanent capital investment programs in water resources and river development in the United States.

All aspects of water and related land development and management are essential and inseparable elements of the environment, and provide the foundation to support and sustain a stable, expanding economy through: Assuring sufficient water for municipal, industrial, agricultural, power, recreation and fish and wildlife requirements. Maintenance of adequate water quality to serve any water need in any desired location. A transportation network embracing all forms of transport. An optimum of flood protection. Facilities for growing recreational needs. Accelerated soil conservation, reforestation and expanded multiple use opportunities. Conservation and management of underground water.

WHEAT PRICES AND BREAD PRICES
Back in January the head of the Miller's Association made a statement that gained national attention when he stated, "If an export ban was not placed on wheat, a loaf of bread would go to $1.00 per loaf."

I checked about this time and found out that a one-lb. loaf of bread was bringing forty-five cents. Wheat was bringing about five dollars. In this case there was eight and one-third cents of wheat in a loaf of bread. Today wheat is selling for three dollars and fifty-eight cents. Based on today's price of a bushel of what a one-lb. loaf of bread has a fraction under six cents worth of wheat or two and one-third cents less wheat than in January. Today a one-lb. loaf of bread hasn't gone down two cents a loaf - it went the other direction - it is fifty-one cents while wheat has dropped off to selling for less than 72 percent of its January price - the price of a loaf of bread is now selling for one hundred and thirteen percent of its January price.

I realize there is a time lag in pricing a loaf of bread when wheat goes up or down. I hope I'm wrong but I'll betcha you will not see bread go back down to forty-five cents. You sure won't see it drop to forty-three cents - to offset the lower price of wheat.

Why doesn't someone put this gentleman on the spot with these figures today.

NEW TOMATO VARIETY
A new variety of tomato called Summertime has been developed by Dr. A.L. Harrison of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. This new variety is resistant to several of the common diseases of tomatoes. It also has the ability to set fruit in spring and summer when most varieties are slow to retain their fruit. I have ordered a small quantity of seed.

Bill Stafford, who has a small greenhouse east of Pampa on the Wheeler highway, has agreed to germinate the seed for us. This might just be the tomato for the Panhandle. We will know more by this fall.

I was real impressed with the large array of plants that Bill and Bessie Stafford had in their greenhouse. They started this as a hobby but now have a flourishing business. We learned all this when we were delivering them four bags of that good Kiwanis fertilizer. We might mention the fact the stock of Kiwanis fertilizer is getting smaller every day. So I'd advise you to get in touch with any Kiwanian including this writer. They will deliver to your home. The cost is a very nominal $5 for a fifty lb. bag. Farmers are having a most difficult time finding fertilizer.

It was almost an impossible task to obtain the 1,000 bags of fertilizer the Kiwanis Club ordered.

By ELAINE HOUSTON
County Extension Agent
The disease is the nation's number 2 killer, second only to heart disease. No one is sure what causes it. The dreaded killer strikes in many different forms, settling somewhere in the body virtually unnoticed.

It is no respecter of age or sex. In a period of weeks, months, or years it grows, destroying body cells by the thousands until at last, life itself gives way to death.

The disease is cancer. The story you have just read is true, some of the time. Only a short decade ago there hardly was an exception. Cancer raged uncontrolled, could not even be slowed.

Now, cancer in its many different forms is being studied like no other disease in the history of mankind. Research increasingly is coming up with answers, and people stricken with cancer are being treated successfully, and living longer than expectations of only a few years ago.

These and other conclusions, will be presented by medical doctors and others at a special one-day seminar May 1 at the Hilton Inn in Amarillo.

The event is being sponsored by the Family Living Youth Task Force of the Panhandle Economic Program in cooperation with the Potter County Unit of the American Cancer Society. PEP is a voluntary organization sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and is composed of citizens interested in the economic and social growth of the Panhandle.

Widespread interest in the seminar already has boosted expected attendance to over 700.

Such questions to be considered include, "What is cancer?" "What hope does research offer in the immediate future?" and "How can cancer be treated now?"

Noted experts in the field of cancer research and treatment will be featured speakers, among them, H.J. Sannan, M.D., vice president for medical affairs, western area of the American Cancer Society. Sannan is based at Denver, Colorado.

A.B. Goldston, M.D., Amarillo surgeon and director at-large for ACS, will moderate a panel on "Cancer Diagnosis and Treatment."

The panel includes an oral surgeon, a radiologist, a hematologist, oncologist, and a general surgeon.

Another series of speakers addressing the topic, "Prevention Through Education," include a urologist, a member of the Ostomy Club in Amarillo, a speech teacher who also is a farmer, and an ACS official.

William A. Anthony, M.D., district medical director of ACS District 15, will speak on the cancer problem and the ACS. Anthony is a urologist.

Jim Shelton, president of the Potter County Unit of ACS, will discuss the role of county volunteer units in the fight against cancer. Both a slide presentation and a film also will be part of the program.

Medical professionals appearing on the program, in addition to Drs. Anthony, Goldston, and Sannan, include Dr. Paige Carruth, area educational chairman of ACS-Texas division; Taylor Gillespie of the Ostomy Club; Herrick Simon, speech teacher for ACS, district 15; Mrs. Lee Jenkins, district coordinator of the "Reach to Recovery" program of ACS; Don T. Curtis, D.D.S., oral surgeon from Amarillo; Donald Kuxhausen, M.D., radiologist at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo; and Bill Hayes, M.D., general surgeon from Amarillo.

Presiding over the one-day session will be Edd McLeroy, chairman of the Family Living Youth Task Force of PEP.

Anyone interested in learning about cancer is invited.

Advance registrations and a $3 fee are required only of persons attending the lunch at the Hilton Inn. Deadline, April 23, and forms are available at the County Extension office.

The public is invited to attend. The meeting starts at 9:30 a.m. and will adjourn at 4 p.m.

Price Protection Set For Farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Farmers will be eligible for full government price protection on only 53.5 million acres of wheat in 1975 compared with the 55 million protected acres this year, the Agriculture Department says.

Department officials said they trimmed the national wheat allotment by 1.5 million acres for next year because sales of the crop are expected to dip slightly in the 1975-76 marketing season, and because per-acre wheat yields are expected to rise.

The allotment does not limit the number of acres farmers can plant. Wheat acreage this year, for example, is expected to be nearly 71 million acres. The allotment does, however, limit the number of acres on which the government guarantees farmers their returns will not slide below a "target" support level of $2.05 per bushel for both 1974 and 1975.

Under current farm law, if market prices average below the target the government pays farmers the difference between market and target prices on production from allotment acres. Some grower groups, fearing market prices might soften next year, had been seeking an increase in the number of price-protected allotment acres.

Wheat prices at present are far above the support rate and have been ranging above $4 a bushel after pushing to record peaks of around $6 earlier this year. But a record-breaking 1974 crop is now nearing the start of the harvest season and it is expected to provide enough to meet all needs with a 300 million bushel surplus to begin rebuilding reserves.

Waman Serious After Scalping

By Zoo Lion
IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) - The claws of a 300-pound lion "completely scalped" a 73-year-old woman at a wild animal compound this week, but today the woman was slightly improved although still in serious condition.

Doctors at Saddleback Community Hospital, near the Lion Country Safari compound, said they spent 10 hours Thursday grafting skin from the woman's thigh to her head.

Mrs. Thelma Samsoie was attacked by the lion Wednesday when she and friends drove through the compound on an afternoon outing.

The lion sauntered close to Mrs. Samsoie's car, and in her panic the woman cranked her window down instead of up. The beast stuck his paw inside, mauled her and nearly dragged her out of the car before a park ranger sped to the scene.

Doctors said there was a 90 per cent chance of saving Mrs. Samsoie's right eye.

Wheat Crop In U.S. Now In Good Shape?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The 1974 U.S. wheat crop which administration officials predict will set a new record and help ease a worldwide pinch on grain supply was in good condition in most areas as of April 1, the Agriculture Department says.

Agriculture Department experts have "projected" a potential total 1974 wheat crop of 2.1 billion bushels up some 400 million bushels from last year. If the big harvest is realized, officials believe it will more than meet total domestic and export demand in the year starting July 1, and will leave some surplus to begin rebuilding the nation's shrunken reserves.

The department's crop reporting board, in a monthly crop report issued here Wednesday, made no new specific estimate of the wheat harvest which will begin in May in Texas. But it said the crop "generally made good growth during March, reflecting above normal temperatures early in the month and good moisture conditions."

The major exception was in Southwest Oklahoma and Northwest Texas where moisture has been short all season," the report said.

Overall, the report said that as of April 1 the crop was considered to be in good condition in most areas with adequate moisture and very little damage from late March freezing temperatures. Development of the crop was reported "near normal" and harvest was expected to start on about the usual dates, the crop board said.

In Kansas, the nation's leading wheat state, the condition of the crop improved during March with the help of widespread rains, the board added.

Earlier this year, bakers had been clamoring for government controls on wheat exports and voicing fears that unless exports were restricted, supplies might run out before the 1974 crop was harvested and bread might go to $1 a loaf. Recently, however, wheat prices have declined.

Fewer Pigs... More Chickens Coming... Predator Control Program Is Again... New Market News Service for San Antonio Area

TEXAS' PIG crop for December to March totaled 338,000 head which was 10 per cent below the pig crop for the same time last year, an apparent trend in the hog population. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimated that there were 970,000 head of hog and pigs on Texas farms March 1, 1974. That is eight per cent fewer than were estimated a year earlier. And it is estimated that hog producers intend to farrow 47,000 sows from March to May and 50,000 from June to August, decreases of two and 11 per cent for the same periods last year.

EGG-TYPE CHICKS, broiler and turkey poult production, on the other hand, showed increases, but egg production in February was down from the same time a year ago. 1,731,000 egg-type chicks were hatched in the State in February, a 14 per cent increase from a year ago and a 12 per cent increase over January. The 14,680,000 broiler chicks hatched in February were six per cent above February, 1973 and seven per cent above January. Texas' turkey poult hatched in February totaled 1,025,000, a 14 per cent increase over a year ago and a 15 per cent increase over the previous month. In addition, slaughter of chickens in January was six per cent for the same month last year and slaughter of turkeys for the same month increased 38 per cent over the same month in 1973. February, 1974 egg production totaled 182 million, a decrease of one per cent from a year ago and seven per cent below January, 1974. The number of layer hens on hand was about the same as last year but two per cent more than for January.

IN THE 21 leading broiler-producing states-of which Texas is one-there were 63,690,000 chicks placed during the week ending March 23, an increase of three per cent over the same week last year, and eggs placed in incubators totaled 77,332,000, a one per cent decline from a year ago.

THE TEXAS Department of Agriculture has opened a market news office in San Antonio's Produce Terminal Market in cooperation with the Federal government. The teletype service will send reports on the South Texas produce over the nation to news wire services, government agencies and many large produce houses. A 24-hour market information telephone service will be in operation soon. The service will give South Texas producers and buyers complete market news on produce of the area. The new service is in addition to the present system at the San Antonio Livestock Exchange.

THE PREDATOR CONTROL-program involving use of the M-44 sodium cyanide capsules on an experimental basis in 44 counties of Central and West Texas is beginning again. A training program in the use of the M-44 device was scheduled several weeks ago, but a court restraining order caused the Texas Department of Agriculture to cancel the classes. The restraining order was lifted March 29, and new training classes in the 44 county area are being rescheduled, and will be announced soon.

From Water Shortage Farmers And Ranchers Hoping For A Relief

Home Gardens Good Practice

Reducing food bills is just one good reason for having a home garden, according to a local soil conservationist.

"Many young people, and adults too, have never had the satisfying educational experience of cultivating the soil," Rodney Hyatt, soil conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service said.

"Children are pretty sick these days of being told that they are living in a pre-packaged, quick-frozen world - even if it is true. A small garden can teach a lot about soil - plant relationships, soil and water conservation, and an appreciation for the productiveness of the earth," Hyatt continued.

"This is a good enough reason for having a home garden."

Another thing you hear a lot about these days is "quality of life," Hyatt said. "And it is my view that the superb flavor of your own fresh wilted lettuce salad, corn on the cob, and homegrown tomatoes improve your quality of life. This is another good reason for having a home garden."

"When you put in your garden, don't forget the need for soil and water conservation," Hyatt said. "Contact your local Soil Conservation office and obtain two little leaflets that will give you some good suggestions on home garden conservation. If you have questions on garden pests, varieties, or diseases, you should contact your University Extension Service office."

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

Just before the first session of one of my classes, I walked over to say hello to a lady who had taken bridge lessons from me about four years earlier. I asked her how her game was coming along. She answered: "I haven't played bridge — or any card game — since our last session."

At the end of the session, I asked: "Well, how was your comeback?" "I learned something today," she said. "I need new glasses."

Whether new glasses would have helped our South declarer in today's deal, I do not know, but he sure had a blind spot in his play. The hand came up in a rubber-bridge game.

had become a winner — but unfortunately it was unreachably. And so declarer ended up with the same eight tricks with which he had started.

As was stated, declarer had a blind spot, or perhaps he simply failed to see that two spade tricks were there for the taking. Upon winning the opening club lead, all declarer had to do was to cash the spade ace, and follow up by leading the queen of spades.

West would win this trick with the king, and, let us say, return a heart. The board's king would capture this trick, and another spade would be led to South's ten. West taking his jack. Dummy's nine of spades would now be the highest-ranking spade left in the deck, with dummy's ace of heart serving as an entry to cash it.

As declarer played the hand, he was unlucky in the East figured to have a spade honor. But why gamble when a guarantee exists?

Boy Scouts Earn Recognitions

Seventeen young men, members of Boy Scout Troop 404, received a total of 130 Progress Recognitions at a Special Court of Honor recently at the First Christian Church.

Rob Williams, second-class scout, presided as Boy Leader to fulfill a requirement for the Communication Merit Badge.

A total of 73 merit badges was awarded the scouts, consisting of 22 different ones, seven being from the required list for Eagle Scout.

Special recognition was given to Troops 404, 414, 416, 420 from Pampa and Troop 581 from White Deer. These troops participated in a week of back-packing hikes in the Pecos Wilderness Area, near Pecos, N.M., during July and August last year. One hundred fourteen scouts and 18 adult leaders made the trip, 13 scouts and one adult leader being from a troop in Pecos.

The group hiked in excess of 80 miles in seven days, earning three special awards, including the 50-miler, Historical Trails, and Santa Fe Trail awards. While earning the 50-miler, the group hiked 28 miles with back-packs, camping two nights at Pecos Baldy Lake, elevation 11,000 ft. Rain, sleet, freezing temperatures, and trail foods made this hike an unforgettable scouting experience.

The remaining 22 miles were shorter hikes from two to seven miles, conducted for nature study.

The Historical Trails award was earned by hiking seven miles on the Historical Santa Fe Trail, including a guided tour by the Pecos Ranger District through the Pecos Monument, observing the evacuation and restoration of an Indian Mission and other Indian ruins. An overnight camp on the trail completed this award.

The Santa Fe Trail Award was earned by hiking 26 continuous miles over the Santa Fe Trail from Pecos to Santa Fe, observing preserved wagon wheel ruts and the Glorieta Battle Grounds. Heat, cold, rain and many blistered feet made this another unforgettable scouting experience.

Scoutmaster Wesley Webb, Troop 581 from White Deer, Mrs. Webb and son were recognized as guests and they showed home movies of the Pecos Trip.

Scoutmaster Harold Lawley, Larry Lawley, assistant scoutmaster, and Mark Topper, committeeman from Troop 404, presented engraved leather patches of the 50-miler and Historical Trails awards to 14 scouts, who participated on the trip.

Scouts elected to the new troop leader's council were given their oath of office, and warrants were presented to each, including the senior patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, three patrol leaders, scribe, quartermaster, and bugler.

The following Progress Awards were presented, with special honor to both the scouts and their parents by participating in a double pinning ceremony.

Tenderfoot — Rob Williams, Scott Grayson, Stephen Smith, Danny Buzzard and Wesley Rapstein. Second Class Scout — Rob Williams; First Class Scout — Billy Morris and Scott Martin; Star Scout — Stan Williams, and Life Scout — Stan Williams.

Additional troop committee members, Dick Hendricks, Bob Wood, Glenn Knight, Bill Arend, and Ann Williams were recognized. Ann Williams was awarded the title of "Most Often Pinned Mother" of Troop 404.

Boys completing the fifth grade, or who are 11 years old or older may join the Boy Scouts. Any interested in joining Troop 404 can contact Harold Lawley, phone 669-3593 or go to the regular troop meeting at the Church of Christ, Alcock and Dwight, any Tuesday night at 7:00.

Scouts elected to the new troop leader's council were given their oath of office, and warrants were presented to each, including the senior patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, three patrol leaders, scribe, quartermaster, and bugler.

Cabot Schafer Plant Receives Safety Honor

The Cabot Corp. Schafer Plant in Skellytown has received a first place safety award from the Texas Safety Association for exceptional safety performance during 1973.

The Schafer Plant completed 1973 without any personal injuries that resulted in lost time or one that required an individual to receive medical attention.

The award to the Schafer Plant was in recognition of its excellent safety performance and for having one of the best safety records in Texas.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Jesus used "Horse Sense" regarding church ritual, as when he warned against "straining at gnats but swallowing camels." He shocked the slavish worshippers of the Sabbath by saying, "The Sabbath was made for man; not man, for the Sabbath."

CASE A-606: Amos T., aged 70, is a retired clergyman who asked me to address a vesper service of Catholic and Protestant churches.

"But one Protestant clergyman wouldn't join us," he added.

"Why would any church thus refuse to cooperate in a laudable moral affair like our Centennial Vesper Service?"

"Some American churches even veto having an American flag in the sanctuary and oppose uniformed members, like Boy Scouts. Why?"

"If they read their Bible accurately, they'll find much of their church ritual not even mentioned therein."

"And much of the Bible is difficult to accept as the eternal word of God, isn't it?"

BIBLE HITLERS

Most churchmen admit the Bible is the inspired word of God.

But many of the prophets, perhaps accidentally, may have inserted some of their own opinions while revealing God's own messages.

For example, was it God or Moses who enunciated the famous Ten Commandments?

God, of course!

But what about the edict that Moses pronounced against pork or hog meat?

Abraham, born almost 600 years before Moses, was the close friend of Jehovah.

Yet God never warned Abraham, Isaac or Jacob against eating hog meat.

And for over 400 years in Egypt, the Hebrews apparently joined the Egyptians in feasting on pork.

Could wise Moses have witnessed an Egyptian roast pig banquet, followed by many sick and dying diners who had eaten the meat course?

Not knowing our modern medical facts about an occasional infected hog, where trichinosis may afflict human diners if the pork isn't well cooked, maybe Moses interviewed the banqueters observations into the many laws he stated in Leviticus!

And to doubly prove that God must not have shared Moses' veto of unclean beasts, you may recall that Peter (Acts 10:15) was scolded for refusing to eat pork when a voice from Heaven said:

"What God hath cleansed, call not thou common (unclean)."

Some prophets also couldn't resist slipping in a compliment for themselves, much like a reporter's by-line, for note how St. John called himself "that disciple whom Jesus loved." (John 21:7)

He also patted himself on the back, as it were, when he and Peter were told of Christ's Resurrection, for note (John 20:4):

"So they ran both together; and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre."

Peter also inserted his own name in the dictated Gospel of Mark, when he said (Mark 16:7):

"... tell his disciples and Peter."

I mention these by-lines, not in a critical sense, but merely to show the human nature of the prophets and even of Christ's own Apostles who were not averse to inserting their own personal comments.

Baptism, too, has long been a controversial topic, yet Jesus told one of the two thieves crucified beside him that:

"Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

Yet that thief had never been baptized!
