FUGITIVE BLACK SLAYER IS LYNCHED

Reign of Crime Is Disclosed in Survey of Chicago Conditions

HUGE PROFITS MADE POSSIBLE BY GANGSTERS

Juries Are Afraid to Convict Even on Evidence

TWENTY YEARS ARE DESCRIBED

Tenure of Chiefs Is Longer Than Public Office

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—A story of two decades of "big business" that enabled certain Chicago vice and liquor lords to retire as millionaires and others to reign on unbridled, for nearly 20 years is told in the report on "organized crime" published today by the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice.

The chronicle charged the existence of a powerful union of gamblers, bootlegging, vice, and political interests that five years ago was enriching gangsters and the protectors by some $13,500,000 a year.

Not the least interesting disclosure, said Judge Andrew A. Bruce, president of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, in his preface to the report, was that the reign of power of real leaders of organized crime in the city of Chicago is longer and more secure than that of many of our college presidents—much longer than that of our public officials. Administration come and go but the overload of vice continues in power.

Capone Is Chief
Al Capone was named in the report as "chief of the ruling gang of today," and was described as having been trained with John Torrio, "now a retired millionaire." Both were connected with the late "big Jim" Colosimo, and prior to that with the five point gang of New York, the report said.

The report is made up of two chapters, one "the rule of the gang" and the other asking the question, "who killed McSwiggan?" The survey was conducted by John Landesco, a criminologist for the American Institute, and his report prepared by Judge Bruce. Eight other chapters, dealing with various phases of Chicago crime, are being prepared.

Report Not Finished
The machine gun slaying of William H. McSwiggan, assistant state's attorney of Cook county, in April, 1926, and the futile investigation that is still unfinished, were narrated in detail in the first chapter as constituting "the first direct attack by organized crime upon the government." A coroner's jury, a federal grand jury and five special county grand jury investigated but no one was ever indicted for the murder.

The theories of the killing of McSwiggan, presented by public officials to the newspaper, revealed conditions as they were in Chicago, the report said. "All the theories in some way or other involved gang war over beer. The more persistent theory was that the O'Donnell-Capone beer war was the motive—the election fraud theories also involved gang war, with the gang reaching out for beer privileges as the stakes of the election."

Juries Are Afraid
Failure of the state to convict certain gangsters, the report said, illustrated that "Even if the evidence is obtained, at whatever cost, against a gangster chief, even when there are witness brave enough to identify him in court, the prosecution fail be-

COMMENCEMENT IS BEGUN

"Fundamental Characteristics of the Christian Religion" Is Subject of Baccalaureate Sermon.

"There are many religions of beautiful creeds and doctrines, but only the Christian religion offers to the world a redemptive plan," asserted Dr. W. A. Hancock, professor at the Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, in the baccalaureate sermon at the Rex theatre yesterday. His subject was "Fundamental Characteristics of the Christian Religion."

Seniors of Central high school formed a procession and the theatre was overflowing before they had taken reserved seats. The Rev. D. W. Truhitte, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave the invocation and read from the Scriptures, and Supt. R. C. Campbell made announcement of the commencement program. Vocal solos were sung by Tom Ed Vaughan and by Mrs. L. N. McCullough.

In his thoughtful sermon, Dr. Hancock sought to describe to the graduating class the big place that Christian religion should have in the lives of those present.

"Christianity answers that age-old yearning of the human heart for knowledge," said the speaker. "In seeking avenues of wisdom, I ask you not to turn aside from the knowledge that is above all knowledge. Do not only know, but know what you know. Get that relationship with God that opens the greatest avenue to knowledge known to human life. . . . Too many people feel that they are just living by chance. There is a plan in connection with God that will bring success regardless of vocation or avocation. Do not question His providence whom to know aright is to have life eternal."

"No generation has been offered more opportunities for service, yet there never was a time when the sacred things of life were so threatened. . . . Many people of the most illustrious parentage are going into the junk heap of humanity. . . . There is no darker picture than of those who see no hope beyond this life."

"A Christian life will give you knowledge that instills poise—you will look up, and find a way out of difficulties. . . . These are days of epoch-making events one of which is the day when you shall enter the real commencement, in the presence of All Knowledge and guide your lives aright. The future hope of the political, social, and religious life of our nation rests in genuine Christian service, and one of the greatest services is giving to the world a son or daughter to bless humanity and glorify God."

The measure of a man is in keeping with his ideals. In your ambitions, be a world citizen and thereby answer the true measure of mankind, not only in respect to thinking of men; but in keeping with the divine will of God."

The Rev. W. L. Evans delivered the benediction, and the seniors formed the recession before the audience was dismissed.

SUMMER TERM TO START HERE NEXT JUNE 1

Prof. Platter Says Most Secondary Courses to Be Offered

The annual summer session of Central high school will open June 4 under the direction of Prof. Harrison Platter. Nearly all of the secondary subjects will be offered.

The department of business administration will offer elementary accounting, partnership, corporations, and manufacturing; also, short hand, typewriting, and dictation. Courses and schedules will be arranged at the high school building June 1 and 2.

Mrs. Annie Daniels and Mrs. J. L. Lester will be at the building June 1 and 2 to organize the work of the first to fifth grades, inclusive.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mrs. A. D. Fisk, Miss Velma Kennedy, and Clarence Hodges visited relatives in Borger Sunday.

Senior Class Night Program Includes Many Numbers By Talented Members of the Graduating Group.

Tonight at Central high school the seniors of '28 will have an evening devoted to themselves, and many of their number will appear for the last time on the stage of the local auditorium as students, except to be awarded their diplomas tomorrow evening.

Senior class night of this commencement season promises an unusual program to be given entirely by the talented group. The following program has been arranged for this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Salutatorian, Opal Johns.
Piano solo, Ruth Noel.
Class history, Harvey Anderson.
Class poem, Lillie McMillan.
Vocal duet, Lucille Mooney and Martha Bradford.
Reading, Mildred Fahy.
Class prophecy, Marjorie Jewel.
Violin solo, Sammie Henton.
Valedictorian, Susie Bell Smaling.
French harp duet, Thomas Clayton and Floyd Coffin.
Reading, Lottie Schafer.
Whistling solo, Lois Hutchins.
Guitar, Thomas Clayton.
Class will, Angela Baller.

Four Arrests Made After Local Burglary

One youth is being held over for the grand jury and three delinquent boys will appear in county court this week on charges of burglary. The four youths, only one of them over 17 years old, are alleged to have broken into the Rex Barbershop on West Foster Friday night and to have stolen $7.50 in cash and a quantity of hair tonic.

Boy May Identify Slayers of Father

LUPKIN, May 21.—(AP)—John Laing Jr., 8, whose father was killed and whose mother and brother, Robert, 2, were badly beaten here last Thursday night, today was to be taken to the jail here in an effort to identify two men held in connection with the attack.

John today had recovered sufficiently from his injuries to talk coherently. He told officers that two men held up his father, demanded his money and were given $5. They threatened Mrs. Laing with death if she made any outcry, John said. Mrs. Laing regained consciousness this morning and recognized her son, but could not recall any of the events on the night of the attack.

The circles of the Baptist W. M. U. will meet in general meeting at the church Wednesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

When Kell Railroad Was Begun

Wheat Field Awaiting the Plow

Grade is Quickly Thrown Up

A field of luxuriant wheat was broken April 28 by C. H. McClelland, contractor, as the first work on the new Kell railroad from Pampa to Cheyenne, Okla. The start of the project, pictured above, was on the Moorehead ranch, ten miles east of here. A large camp is established there for the mile-contract, and other camps are being designated by the Santa Fe, which expects to take over the project.

FOR OUR SCHOOLS Gulf Well Will Be Plugged Soon

(An Editorial)
If you do not believe Central high school needs an auditorium, try to get a seat at the commencement exercises, or even at the Senior class program tonight. There is not room for the pupils and other visitors. Hearing is poor.

Moreover, the fire hazard when the small high school auditorium is packed to capacity is such as to make a fireman shudder. State inspectors would not allow such use of the room if they knew the facts.

The auditorium space could easily be cut up into four large classrooms, at an estimated cost of $2,000. The cost of a good four-room separate building would be $20,000. Thus there would be a saving of $18,000 in class room space. The auditorium-gymnasium, which WOULD HAVE A THOUSAND USES, will not cost over $25,000.

Pampa must vote for the school bonds Thursday.

Mrs. Raymond Harrah will be hostess to the Duplicate Luncheon club Thursday afternoon.

CENTER MOB TAKES A NEGRO FROM OFFICERS

Action Follows Chase—Jailer Slugged and Locked Up

HANGING HELD AT COURTHOUSE

Victim Killed John Wheeler at Canton May 12

CENTER, Shelby County, May 21.—"Buddy Evans, negro, was lynched here about 7:30 this morning by a mob that took him away from two officers. He was hanged from the same limb of an oak tree in the courthouse yard where another negro was lynched about five years ago for an attack on a white woman. Evans had been charged with murder in a fatal attack on John Wheeler at Canton on May 12.

Evans was arrested April 14 at San Augustine for the Wheeler slaying and charged with murder. A speedy trial was promised. He then was brought to Center and placed in the jail for safe-keeping.

Saturday, at 5:30 p. m., the jailer went to the negro's cell with his evening meal. Evans knocked down the jailer with a piece of pipe he had torn from the plumbing in the cell, took the jailer's keys and pistol and locked the jailer in the cell. His escape was not discovered until about daylight Sunday.

Poses immediately started in pursuit of the negro, but did not find him until shortly before daybreak Monday. He was discovered by Oren Wheeler, son of the man Evans was charged with having slain. The negro fired at Wheeler who returned the fire, wounding the negro in the leg.

Evans was then put on a truck and taken to Timponson where his wound was dressed.

Sheriff H. H. Burns and constable Barto Giles of Timponson took charge of the negro and started back to Center with him. When they arrived at Center they were overpowered by a mob of between 200 and 300 white men, who took the negro and with him to a ceremony hanged him from the limb of an oak tree in the courtyard.

No complaints have been made.

Saunders Suit Goes Into Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The right of J. M. Saunders and others as owners of land in Gray county, Texas to cancel an oil and gas lease made with the Empire Gas & Fuel company, of Maine will be reviewed by the Supreme Court, the court announced today.

This suit, taken successfully from the Gray county district court to federal courts at Amarillo, Fort Worth, and New Orleans on appeal is in charge of C. C. Cook, local attorney.

er the field like a comet and then returned, gently gliding to the ground. There was a moment of calm and suspense until the vast crowd realized just what had happened. Then a roar like the breaking of a great dam and the flood swept everything before it. Iron fences, soldiers, police and everything else went down as the crowd poured over the field and swirled about the Spirit of Saint Louis like a whirlpool. I could see from the balcony of the Administration Building, where I stood, that a mad struggle was going on about the little ship. Then a young man broke from the jam and held aloft an aviator's helmet and ran wildly toward where we were, followed by a frenzied crowd, who mistook him for the escaped "Lindy." This young man, I have just recently learned, was a young Frenchman by the name of J. C. D'Arbetze, a well known Paris haberdasher, who was on the field as a commissary of the Aero Club of France and was the first to get to Lindbergh's plane and open the door and relieve him of his helmet. He then turned and fled, and outdistancing his pursuers delivered to me "Lindy's" helmet.

The crowd thought that this young man was Lindbergh and that was a fortunate circumstance, for it relieved the pressure about the plane and enabled him to be rescued by three French aviators, Major Weiss and Pilots Delage and Dutroyat. Upon receiving the helmet I stepped on the balcony and, as the searchlight was turned on me, waved it to the shouting multitude, whose excitement was unbounded. Such a sea of joyous, excited faces I have never before witnessed.

The moment of diversion about the plane I believe saved the life of the young aviator. The three French aviators dashed in and carried him away so quickly that he perhaps escaped being crushed by the too enthusiastic populace, and he was whisked away to a place of safety to await the passing of the storm.

There was soon a hue and cry of "What has become of Lindbergh?" For, lo, he had disappeared as suddenly as he had arrived. The excitement after a bit began to abate and the crowd rushed aimlessly about in a vain search.

PLAINS PRESS NOTES—The Herald at Panhandle reports that Prof. George P. Grout, director of Carson county's dairy program, has been elected president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Opening up of a vast territory to railroad service is outlined by the Plainview Herald, which says that twelve previously inland towns will be served by the Fort Worth and Denver and the Quanah, Acme, and Pacific extensions.

The Panhandle newspapers "played up" the recent rains in enthusiastic fashion, and reports range from 4 to 9 inches of precipitation.

The Slaton Slatonite is answering an opportunity and providing a service by publishing semi-weekly. One of the interesting features is a Santa Fe column, giving news of the railroad people.

F. O. Masten and Joe Baumgardner have been chosen as the "master farmers" of Collingsworth county, says the Wellington Leader.

"An election for the purpose of authorizing the issuance of bonds in the sum of $100,000 was ordered by the Plainview Independent School district trustees Tuesday after a petition of property owners, duly signed, was presented," says the Plainview News.

The Canadian Record notes with regret the passing of David Moffat Hargrave, 75, one of the well known pioneer cattlemen of that section. He had lived in Hemphill county nearly 50 years.

"Alanreed seems to be getting pretty well lined up for a boom, but in order to start the ball rolling we must have some new additions to the town, among them a new hotel," says the Herald.

"Pampa has just passed a city ordinance creating a segregated district for negroes and forbidding negroes to own or rent property in the white district, and a similar restriction against white people owning or renting in the negro district," notes the McLean News.

A project to improve dairy stock in Ochiltree county involves the obtaining of a carload of 38 high grade jerseys from a Kansas herd. The stock was selected by County Agent G. R. Sheets, and the proposition was financed by six Perryton business men.

"A principle is something people die for and die to keep from following too rigidly."

An airport convention, to which every city would provide a booster plane, would be a good idea, but first it is important to have the airports officially designated. Otherwise, how would the planes know where to go safely on their tour to follow?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, N.E.A. Service Writer

WASHINGTON—There are many stubborn critics who refuse to admit that Herbert Hoover has the Republican nomination dangling from his girdle and the best bet one can get on it here is even money.

But Herbert's hand is loaded with so many trumps that the chances of the opposition lie chiefly in somewhat desperate measures.

He might miserably misplay his hand—and then again, the boys who now look like losers may steal his cards or upset the table. Heaven knows they will do either or both if they can.

On the face of things, it ought to be about over. Hoover has far more delegates than any competitor, so many that the field is united in an attempt to gang him.

He is the only candidate who has aroused any particular sentiment in the politically powerful east, along with the border states, the south and the far west.

Ambitious Boys on Boxing Program at Athletic Club

Two fast welterweight exponents of the mitts will feature the main event at the Pampa Athletic club tonight and two lightweights will be the semi-final boys. Sergt. Sam Riley, the fighting Irishman from here, will tangle with Jimmie Owens, welterweight champion of Oklahoma, in ten rounds.

The Pampa boy is fresh from two wins over Floyd Barnes, the sensational Kansas battler. He is in the best of condition to meet Owens, who won his title from Speedy Sparks before the latter went lame. Riley put up a fight every time he is in the ring and he is out to make it three in a row and take the crown from Owens.

Rusty Cahill of Pampa and Jacl Osborne of Wichita will be the semi-finalist, and are both here springing to go. Cahill will give Osborne weight, but the Pampa boy is in better condition than ever before and has been going good. He recently kayed Leo Rivers and won a decision over Billie Springfield. Osborne is a friend of Jimmie Carter's, but unlike Carter he fights in the air.

Young Granite and Frankie Farrell will stage a six-round preliminary Granite wants to win his first fight here like his brother did, while Farrell wants to get back on the card again.

Black Cloud Goldie and Giles Fletcher will provide a six-round special. These two colored boys are fighting for the right to meet Speedy Moore the colored champion.

Bremen Must Be Shipped by Steamer

PICTOU, N. S., May 21.—(AP)—Hope of taking the German trans-Atlantic plane Bremen to New York under its own power was abandoned today. The plane was badly damaged yesterday in an attempted take-off from the Labrador mainland near Greenly Island.

Fred Melchor, Junkers pilot was to have flown the Bremen on the last lap of the trip to its original destination, but word that the flight had been abandoned and the Bremen would have to be shipped out by steamer.

Melchor's message was addressed to Major-General James E. Fechet, chief of the United States army air forces in charge of the two army amphibians which brought Melchor from the United States, dropped him by parachute near the Bremen, and were to accompany him to New York.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—This looks like a diplomatic duck on the water. Governor Al Smith went down the harbor to meet his daughter, Mrs. John A. Warner, returning from abroad. The lady was asked whether Mussolini had said anything to her about her father's chances for president. The governor interrupted: "An Italian the president of the United States is a long word to say."

American Living in England Is Victor in Golf Preliminary

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 21.—(AP)—America scored her first victory in the British golf championship today when Douglas Grant, a native of California living in England, defeated James D. Dewar of Edinburgh, three and two.

Another American Paul Azbill, however, was eliminated soon after, being defeated by J. T. Bookless of England, one up. Azbill live in England but was entered from the Essex country club of New Jersey.

McLarnin Bout Is Uncertain as Fog Appears Today

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—A murky fog that appeared to give way grudgingly to the sun and an overcast sky this morning gave uncertain promise for the lightweight championship fight tonight between Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin. Already three postponements on account of bad weather, Tex Rickard, promoter, was hoping early today that another postponement would wash out a contest tonight.

Featherweight Hopes to Convince That He Is a Champ

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute, Ind., "Terror," tonight hopes to convince the world of fistiana he is the real Bantamweight champion when he clashes with Joe Lucas, Detroit featherweight, in a ten-round bout.

The National Boxing association, which supervises professional boxing in 28 states, last week declared it would no longer recognize Taylor as champion because he has not risked his title during the past two years. Taylor and his manager, Eddie Long, have they have tried without success to get a bonafide title match for a year and a half.

Arkansas Girl At Last Defeated

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 21.—(AP) Ariel Vilas, 13, who defeated her own mother and several of the most prominent players in the state to maintain her lead in the Arkansas Women's golf tournament, was eliminated yesterday. Miss Clare Woodridge, the victor, is a veteran tournament player. She outdrove her small opponent.

Woman Breaks Endurance Swim Record Readily

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—What man has done, man can do—with the probability that woman can do it better.

Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston of Mattoon, Ill., was taken from the pool of the Lincoln Park west hotel early today after being in the water 46 hours, 10 minutes 15 4-5 seconds. The time beats by 17 hours and 50 minutes the best previous endurance record for women, made Saturday by Miss Nylk Austin of San Bernardino, Cal.

It beats by four hours and 10 minutes the best previous record of man held in Germany by Otto Kemmerich.

Mrs. Huddleston, a 30-year-old mother, is no novice to the water. She formerly held the world's endurance swimming record for women, besides being the only woman to finish the Catalina channel race.

Mrs. Huddleston, who weighs 240 pounds, was not put on the scales when taken from the tank, but the 12 swimming coaches of Chicago athletic associations who acted as officials during the endurance attempt estimated that she had lost 20 or more pounds. When she finished the Catalina channel swim, she came out of the water 18 pounds lighter.

REIGH COUNT'S OWNER GREETED WITH A BAND

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—It is said with every vestige of verity that almost all the 800 inhabitants of Cary, Ill., had Reigh Count "on the nose" in the Kentucky derby Saturday; a not unlikely situation, since Cary is Reigh count's home town.

Mayor Ralph Powers acted as the one who took the wagers to Louisville and laid them on Reigh Count to win. John D. Hertz, husband of the derby winner's owner, found a brass band to greet him on his return yesterday. The band is keeping tuned up for the return of the mayor and the bankroll.

Star Baseball Player Arrested as Fugitive

Phoenix, Ariz., May 21.—(AP)—Lester Fisher, Allas Roy Coonin, star second baseman for the Phoenix baseball club of the Arizona state league, was arrested here last night as a fugitive from the Oklahoma state prison.

Fisher, according to information received by the Phoenix police from Oklahoma authorities, escaped from the prison three years ago while serving a sentence for an automobile theft.

Arm Creaking

Jack Quinn is so old that he's sensitive about his age. The record books say he is forty-two but he has been pitching for twenty-five years and some say he must be more than 45. Connie Mack doesn't care how old he is delivering winning ball for the Athletics, because the aged veteran is still in it, having turned in two early season shutouts. The players say he throws with his head, but even at that they can't hit him.

Dickey to Become Assistant Coach at Sherman Hi

Verde Dickey, for the last two seasons coach of the Pampa high school football and basketball teams, has accepted a position as assistant coach of the Sherman high school. Mr. Dickey will be coaching under Mr. W. Bradshaw, one of the ablest coaches in the Southwest. Bradshaw is a graduate of Baylor University with years' coaching experience. He is All-Southwestern quarterback in 1927.

The retiring Pampa coach is a graduate of Austin college and Sherman high school. During the last two years the Pampa football team have had marked success. In 1926 it won only fifteen men out for training. The team went a long way in the race a last year they went to the district finals, only to be defeated by Canyon.

For spring training this year, the coach leaves out for practice and to coach leaves for his successor, Ed Mitchell, of Slaton, the makings of a champion team. In the last two years the Pampa football team has lost two games.

The Sherman team to which Mr. Dickey goes entered the state semifinals in class A football, being eliminated by Waco for the 1927 championship.

Insurance Companies Say That Home is the Most Dangerous Place - That is Where Most Disabling Accidents Happen.

By RENE BACHE
"HANK goodness, I'm home safe at last." Unpinning her hat, the lady tells a tale of dangers narrowly escaped—a truck that tried to run her down, a banana-peel that nearly broke her neck, a fleeing bootlegger who came within an ace of knocking her flat. "The streets are no longer safe in these days," she says.

In truth, however, where accidents are concerned, there is much less safety in a six-room flat than on the crowded thoroughfares of a city. Figures prove it. The accident insurance companies declare that home is the most dangerous place in the world. Their carefully tabulated data show that twenty-six per cent of all disabling mishaps occur at home.

The most dangerous place in the home is the bathroom. It is the tub that is responsible for most bathroom accidents. The porcelain tub is a delightful improvement on the old-time tin-lined tub, but it is unsafe. It is slippery, and nothing is safer than to lose one's balance in getting into or out of it. One insurance company, in listing $3,500 claims adjusted in a twelve-month period, refers ninety-eight of them to bathtub accidents.

Downed in The Tub
A particular peril of the bathroom is the wandering cask of soap. A person steps on it, and there is instantaneous catastrophe. If the floor or the walls be tiled, the mishap may be serious.

Occasionally people are badly scalded in bathtubs, but they are more likely to drown. It is easy to drown in the tub if one happens to faint, or is overtaken by a "stroke".

Electricity in the bathroom is a frequent killer. One way to invite death is to see an electric massage instrument in the tub. Few people realize that the current flows so innocently through the household wires is of lethal strength. If a person touches with his hand the metal of a tube fixture while his body is in contact with the bathtub, he may receive a fatal shock.

One's bedroom is by no means a safe place. The above-mentioned insurance company in 1926 paid 44 claims to persons who suffered injury in getting into or out of bed. It pays to be careful in such climbing performances.

It is even possible to suffer a fatal accident while lying in bed. Now and then it happens that a hot-water bottle bursts, with consequent scalds which may be dangerous.

The folding bed that shuts up and imprisons the occupant is no mere joke. Accidents of that kind are not very infrequent, and sometimes they cause broken legs or fractured arms. Occasionally somebody is smothered to death in that way.

A Peril Of The Night
To be lost in one's own bedroom at night is an experience most people have had more than once. It is a really dangerous situation. Sense of direction being lost, the room has become for the moment unfamiliar territory. In the dark, one may tumble over a chair and get badly hurt. Usually in such a case one has been suddenly roused, perhaps by an alarm, and is not fully awake. He may walk into the edge of an open door, or even wander unaware out of the room, and tumble down stairs.

One of the perils a man incurs in his bedroom is accidental putting on the well-known pants. To do so, he stands first on one foot and then on the other, with some uncertainty of balance. He may perform the operation thousands of times with perfect success, yet on an occasion lose his equilibrium and have a dangerous fall. A small night light in the bedroom is a good thing, preventive of accidents. It is always a mistake to grope in the dark anywhere in the house. People often do that when they might easily make a light, and very unfortunate are the consequences in frequent instances. An easy thing to do in such circumstances is to stoop and give one's nose a frightful smash on a table-edge.

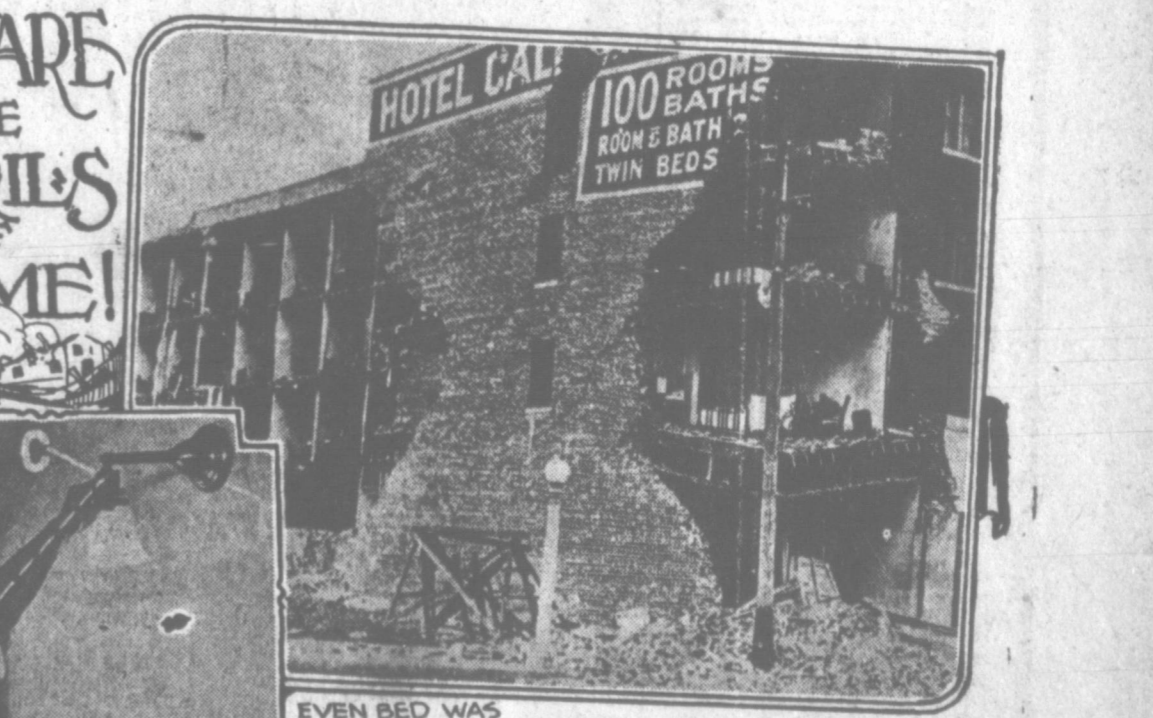

The head of the family gets up in the night to heat milk for the baby's bottle, and the first thing he does is to trip over the rocking chair. If not thereby disabled, he may grope for the paragon, and perhaps come near getting hold of a bottle of poison instead. Of what use is it to label bottles "poison" with a skull and crossbones, if folk will hunt for emergency remedies in the dark? Not Looking For Danger

The upturned edge of a rug may fall on the stairs is a favorite trick of the thoughtless housemaid. Engaged in scrubbing, she is summoned to the front door, and temporarily abandons pail and brush. A member of the family presently comes down the stairs, steps into the pail, and is thrown headlong. It is an easy way to break one's neck.

It is surprising how many people poke their incautious heads into dumbwaiter shafts, and are nearly decapitated by the moving dumbwaiter. Few housewives in these days use kerosene to light the fire, but the gas range has its own hazards, and the gas heater claims a gruesome mortality record. Even the family sewing machine may put a painful puncture through a fingernail and finger.

Mishaps To Fingers
Nearly thirty per cent of all disabling mishaps are accidents to fingers. It takes only one damaged finger to disable a person. A knife-cut or a blow with a hammer may suffice. Many injuries to fingers are incurred in the kitchen, which, next to the bathroom, is the most dangerous place in the home.

The most deadly danger, however, is the family pistol, kept for defense against burglars. Almost never does it serve that purpose. When fired, it shoots some member of the family. To hide it safely from a child is practically impossible. It is that most deadly of all weapons, the "gun that is not loaded," which never misses or fails to kill.

The average person has one chance in eight of suffering a disabling accident in the course of a twelvemonth. Of all the many hazards to be encountered, sixteen per cent are found in the streets. But, in spite of traffic and other dangers, the streets are much safer than the home, which registers twenty-six per cent of all serious mishaps.

Man Confesses to Bishop Murder in Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 21.—(AP)—Glyde Short, confined in the Minnesota State penitentiary on a sentence for robbery, has made a confession that he and a companion murdered Luther Bishop, Oklahoma detective, at his home here December 5, 1926.

A letter telling the confession, was received today by J. Berry King, assistant attorney general, from J. J. Sullivan, warden of the prison at Stillwater, Minn.

Short, the warden said, was under sentence of 40 years for robbery in Clay County, Minnesota. He made a confession late last week, stating that his partner in the crime had been killed in a pistol battle with officers in Texas. He refused to name the alleged accomplice, the letter said.

"We will investigate this confession carefully," King said. "I do not put much stock in the confession, however, for we have had so much of this sort of thing since Bishop's mysterious murder."

Bishop's widow was acquitted of the murder here last year.

The Rev. Tom W. Hrabham returned yesterday from Cisco and Santa Anna, where he held the funeral and attended the burial of Sherman Gerbert, prominent oil man.

Miss Gene Gann of El Paso was the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. F. Martin Saturday and Sunday.

Estranged Wife Tries to Stop Flowers of Erstwhile Husband

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—Saying it with flowers became more than a habit with James Barrett Johnson. It got to be an obsession. So Mrs. Johnson got to be an obsession. So Mrs. Johnson to say it with flowers in the courtship days. It was a pretty sentiment that he continued to talk with bloom after they had been married. But when she persisted in sending flowers after she had sued for divorce, Mrs. Johnson decided something ought to be done about it.

Johnson, is inclined to believe that the constitution guarantees to men the inalienable right to send flowers to their wives, if they have a mind to.

New Players in Brunk Company Now

Fred G. Brunk's comedians will open a week's engagement here tonight on their lot on West Foster avenue. The opening play will be that great comedy, "Laff that off," which has had a successful run in all the leading theatres in the north. A new tent, scenery, orchestra, and cast will be among the attractions this season. The play tomorrow night will be a drama "Come Along Mary."

Mrs. Carl Taylor will be hostess to the Aes High Bridge club Friday afternoon.

Rail Hearing Is Opened at Lubbock

LUBBOCK, May 21.—(AP)—Hundreds of citizens of the northern portion of the South Plains were gathered here today to present their second claim for additional connections as officials of the Santa Fe and Fort Worth & Denver opened their argument for and against the proposed 63-mile extension of the Santa Fe from Hale Center to Farmerton before Examiner H. C. Davis of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Among visitors who were to aid the Santa Fe in presenting its claim for the railroad were a number of hardy pioneers of Lamb and Castro counties who have depended solely upon freighting in the past for their supplies.

Olton, the largest point which would be served by the new extension, was here almost en masse, while delegations from Plainview, Hale Center, Farmerton, Abernathy and other points were in evidence.

The proposed extension is being contested by the Fort Worth & Denver on the ground that it virtually parallels their new line through Plainview to Dimmitt. They allege that there is not sufficient tonnage in the territory to justify both lines.

When A Girl Loves by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED NATHANIEL DANN, struggling artist, is in love with the beautiful VIRGINIA BREWSTER, his daughter and heiress of a Wall Street business. But MELBA model, CHIRI, is jealous of VIRGINIA and tells him that he will spoil his career if he marries a wealthy girl who cannot appreciate his art. He says that love will overcome obstacles and they are making happy plans until her father dies suddenly of heart failure and VIRGINIA is presented with grief.

one who needed to marry for money could manage to lure him away from me." She paused and laughed. "But such a person would find her path strewn with many difficulties," she added and laughed again, a laugh that bewildered Virginia because of its mirthlessness. "Why, Clarissa, you talk as though you weren't sure of him."

CHAPTER VI CLARISSA had introduced her fiancée to Virginia and turned to address a casual greeting to Nathaniel. Then she turned back to Virginia to explain that she had brought Russell with her against his will. She realized in an instant, however, that such an explanation would partake of the nature of an anticlimax in view of the fact that he seemed to have lost his reluctance. He was quite frankly putting himself on pleasant terms with Virginia.

"You know, Virginia, I'm dead in love with Russell." greeted the housekeeper; "can't we have a shaker of cocktails while we wait for Miss Brewster?" "I'm sorry, miss; there's no one left to prepare them."

At the door he said goodby to Virginia and promised to be at his telephone if she wanted him. "I think I'll get to work and see if I can't bring our castle in Spain a little nearer," he told her, forcing himself to a cheerfulness that he was far from feeling. He looked behind her at the Deans' front door and it seemed to him a barrier that hid rancor between them, mocking his plans.

Excellent Methods Of Supervision Are Used in Central Ward

Mrs. G. C. Malone presented Mrs. J. L. Lester's first grade room in the Central Ward building with two pictures "The Lone Wolf," and "Old Iron Sides" and it is the desire of this room to thank Mrs. Malone for her kindness. All the ward schools have accomplished much during this past year through the co-operation of the mothers and teachers.

The lower grades of the Central ward were taught this year with Mrs. J. L. Lester as supervisor of the first and second grades, and Mrs. Annie Daniels as supervisor of the third and fourth. A system of supervision has been perfected that is used in the larger schools, and has proved very successful. Using a six-week basis, lesson plans are made for the entire period with each teacher receiving the assignment, and in that way keeping the classes together.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church will meet with Mrs. E. W. Lane next Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for the Voice Lesson and a business session. Mrs. Fred Cary, who attended the Annus Conference of the Missionary Society at Seymour, will give a report of this meeting. It is important that all members be present.

Following is the program: Hymn, "Jesus Calls Us." Business reports of officers and committees.

Candidate for President Drowns in Heroic Feat

BEND, ORE., May 21.—(P)—Frank T. Johns of Portland, Ore., Socialist-Labor party candidate for president in 1928 was drowned here yesterday in a vain attempt to save a boy from a similar fate.

The youth, Jack Rhodes, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rhodes of Bend, was fishing from a bridge over the Deschutes river when he lost his balance and fell into the stream. Johns, who was on his way to address a political meeting, saw the boy being swept down-stream and plunged after him.

Johns reached the boy 25 yards from shore and managed to tow him to within ten feet of the bank. There the rescuer became exhausted. He made a desperate attempt to push the boy ashore and in the effort, both went down.

It was said that Johns was to have been a candidate for the presidency again this year on the Socialist-Labor ticket. He had lived in Portland about nine years and was a member of the Carpenter's union there. He has been active in politics for several years.

Local People Are Badly Hurt When Car Is Demolished

A letter was received here this morning from Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Cecil, who are on their way to Portland, Ore., on a vacation, explaining a telegram stating that they had been in an accident. Their automobile was completely demolished and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil cut and bruised.

They were driving near San Jose, Calif., last Monday night when a seven passenger Buick sedan swerved from behind a string of cars and crashed into the Pampa car head-on. The injured people were rushed to a hospital, where Mrs. Cecil had nine stitches taken in her face, and other bad cuts and bruises were treated. It took seven stitches to close a cut in Mr. Cecil's face.

The driver of the other car lost an arm above the elbow and was otherwise injured. Mr. Cecil states that he was offered $10 for his car. The couple expected to leave yesterday to continue their trip to Portland.

Marines Close in on Rebels, Hoping to Revenge Deaths

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 21.—(AP)—Marine flyers swept low over the dense forests of northern Nicaragua today as Marine patrols converged upon Paso Real from three directions determined to find the rebel band which killed two Marines near there. Aviators returning here said that Corporal William L. Williamson, home address unknown, was killed in the clash. Captain Robert S. Hunter, who commanded the Marines in the fighting, was shot through the head and the chest, dying later. Private Max M. Dubois of Livonia, N. Y., was slightly wounded.

The patrol was isolated for a long time after the clash and camped in an almost unexplored region across the Cua river, 45 miles northeast of Jinotega. One relief column under Major Keller E. Rockey, which was sent out from Quilall, finally reached the isolated men and the reinforced detachment was expected to return to Quilall, an arduous journey of three or four days. Meantime the other patrols were pushing their search for the rebels. Henry Thu' is a business visitor in Panhandle today.

Carson Loftus at Credit Convention

Carson Loftus, secretary of the Pampa Business Men's association, left yesterday afternoon to attend the state convention of the Retail Merchant's association.

WICHITA FALLS, May 21.—(AP)—Some 200 or 250 delegates to the state convention of the Retail Merchant's association of Texas, the Associated Retail Men of Texas, and the Texas Retail Credit bureaus had arrived at the time of the opening session here Monday.

Delegations represented the entire state, with those from San Benito most in evidence, as that city is bidding for the 1929 convention.

Earl Looney of Brownwood, president of the Association, presided at the morning session.

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—Out in the wideopen spaces, a man with a fish-pole means the man is going fishing for fish. Out in the Lawndale district, Chicago, it means something else.

Two police met Joseph Novak yesterday. He had a fish-pole, a line and hooks. He had no bait, which interested the policemen.

"You were going—" said an officer to Novak. "Fishing," came the answer. "For fish?" pursued the policeman. "I was going fishing," said Novak.

Some Strange Fish The suspicious policeman searched him and found several articles which bore evidences of once having belonged to other persons.

Then, as they later told the lieutenant at the station house, Novak explained. "I fish twice a week. There are many bungalows in Lawndale having clothes closets with outside windows. By opening the windows one can fish around. Often a pair of trousers, an overcoat, or some such thing will a-fix itself to the hook. For several years the fishing has been good. About $15,000 would approximate the value of the catch." He was held.

arrangements had been made by the Aeronautical Committee to take him in charge on arrival, for this was in no sense a government expedition—but the Committee was not there.

I immediately took him by the hand and said: "My boy, come with me; I am going to take you home and look after you." His face lighted up and he said: "Are you? Then I will be ready in a few minutes, as soon as I fix the windows of my ship, for these Frenchmen will not know how to do it." Before I could restrain him and whilst my son and daughter-in-law were telephoning to the Embassy in order to make ready to receive him, he dashed out.

As he did not immediately return I realized that he was again lost. He evidently was unable to make known to the men who went with him, who did not speak English, his intention to return to us. They only heard the word "Embassy" and started, immediately for the Embassy.

As soon as I realized the situation I had my son and my daughter-in-law Mrs. Vincent Astor and Mrs. Clarence Hay, of our party, start for the Embassy. I, together with the officer from the Elms, went to the hangar where the ship had been taken in search of him, but did not find him. I realized that he must have proceeded to the Embassy, and so I drove there at once. Fortunately Mr. Harlan Miller a secretary of the Embassy and my private secretary, had not been able to reach the field on account of the traffic jam and had returned to the Embassy, where he arrived simultaneously with Lindbergh and the French officers, and he took them in charge.

I arrived soon after the newspapermen, who had learned of his whereabouts in the meantime, were gathered at the Embassy. By that time Lindbergh had had an opportunity to get something to eat, take a bath and was dressing in pajamas and slippers wreathed in smiles, and was the happiest youth I have seen in many a day. I am of the impression that he will always look back upon the precise moment as one of the best moments of his life.

I told him that the newspapermen were all downstairs eager to write the story of his arrival. He said he would willingly receive them, and they all came up to the modest recital of the thrilling story of his great adventure. His conquest of his Paris and his triumphal progress to Belgium and England and his return to America all the world now knows.

As conscious as we were of the fame that had come so suddenly to this daring youth, I believe that none of us foresaw the wave of universal homage that was to sweep over the world. Not until the next morning, when I saw the newspapers, did I begin to realize the magnitude of this event. Then the thought came to me of the significance of it all, also of my act of taking him to the Embassy, which really placed the United States Government behind him. From that moment on it was my earnest endeavor and of all my staff that there should be nothing to cause regret for this action, or to mar the lad's perfect accomplishment.

Too much has been made of my part in Lindbergh's success after his arrival. Of course, the fact that the prestige of the United States government is behind any man is a factor of tremendous importance. But I would like all to know that Lindbergh's feat would have been little more than a great athletic feat had he not been precisely what he is. And it is a satisfaction to know that after one year of adventure by the whole world and of constant endeavor—a real continuation of his European flight—this young man goes on winning respect and esteem not only by his prowess as an aviator but, above all, by the force of his fine character. He still remains, after the lapse of a year, a gallant flyer and an admirable example of American idealism, character and conduct.
