Council Ending Food Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council (CLC) has ended 2½ years of wage and price regulation in the food industry, but government and industry spokesmen say the action won't affect supermarket prices.

The council Monday removed wage-price controls from 2.5 million workers and 330,000 firms in the food industry nationwide.

The action allows food wholesalers and retailers to boost prices in order to increase their profit margins. Under the controls they could raise prices only to pass along increases in costs.

The controls would have been lifted soon anyway. The CLC and the remaining wage-price control program — now covering only steel and copper — go out of business April 30, unless Congress intervenes with last-minute legislation to control a few inflation-prone industries.

Lifting the food controls will have "almost no effect" on consumer food prices, Clarence G. Adams, president of the National Association of Food Chains, told UPI.

A government economist agreed. "I don't think it will produce any upward pressure on retail prices," said Dawson Ahalt, an economic adviser to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

Ahalt said he does not expect any unreasonable increase in food industry profit margins. "That industry's a pretty competitive thing. If someone jacks up his prices, his competitors will take advantage of it and bring prices down," he said.

CLC Director John T. Dunlop said competition within the industry and voluntary compliance with the government's economic stabilization program "provide reasonable assurances that decontrol will not result in inordinate rises in food prices in the months ahead attributable to food retailing and wholesaling.

Even under the controls, retail food prices have been free to rise and fall with farm costs. Retail food ceilings were dropped after a brief trial last year.

Army Coup Rules Niger

COTONOU, Dahomey (UPI) — Lt. Col. Seyni Kountie, the key military ruler of drought-stricken Niger, said today a council of army officers will be set up soon to run the country. Kountie said in a French television interview seen in this nearby capital that a "supreme organism" of officers from Niger's 2,500-man army will choose a government organization.

"We will ensure that young persons can reach posts of responsibility," he said.

Kountie, chief of staff of the army, Monday overthrew President Hamani Diori, who has been Niger's chief executive since the West African state achieved independence from France in 1960.

"All members of the former regime are in perfect health and have been assigned to their residences," Kountie said.

Referring to the drought which has hit Niger and its neighboring countries, Kountie said: "Some citizens have not been able to get one meal a day."

In Paris, the newspaper Le Monde, without quoting a source, said Diori's wife was killed and Diori and his 13-year-old son, Moussa, were slightly wounded in firing which went on for two hours before the coup succeeded at 5 a.m.

The report said several presidential guards also were killed.

Kountie said Diori was under house arrest and being well-treated.

He said the new rulers will decide whether or not to put former government leaders on trial.

FOR CIVIL SERVICE

Firing Provisions Upheld By Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A divided Supreme Court today upheld provisions for the firing of federal Civil Service employees when they make public statements which their bosses regard as harmful to the "efficiency of the service."

In its only other decision today, the court ruled that the end of a labor strike does not necessarily mean that all legal issues raised during the strike are moot and out of reach of the courts.

Five separate opinions, including two dissents, were handed down in the Civil Service case. None of the opinions can stand as the court's because none had support from at least five of the justices. But six justices agreed with each other enough to come up with a simple judgment that the Civil Service law is constitutional.

The case arose over dismissal of Wayne Kennedy, a nonprobationary employee of the Chicago branch of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Kennedy charged publicly that his boss had taken a bribe, although he presented no proof. Kennedy was dismissed under the Lloyd-LaFollette Act which provides for employee removal to improve government efficiency.

Kennedy went to court claiming that the notification provisions of the act and his chances to defend himself denied him proper legal procedures. He also said the law limited his free expression.

A three-judge federal court agreed with Kennedy, but the Supreme Court did not.

In the strike case, Justice Harry A. Blackmun, writing for a 6-3 majority, said that a New Jersey company could ask the courts to rule whether welfare benefits for strikers were illegal even though its own strike had ended.

The court did not decide the original issue of strike welfare legality, ruling only that lower courts have jurisdiction in such a case.

The case was brought by Super Tire Engineering Co. against New Jersey officials, but did not go to court until a six-week strike against the company had ended.

Blackmun said the lawsuit was still alive since the state law providing welfare benefits to strikers could easily influence contract bargaining and union strength in the future.

Blackmun also said that many labor issues could not be resolved by courts if the high court ruled otherwise. Strikes are often of short duration, he said, but should still be subject to judicial intervention.

FBI Seeking Patricia Hearst As Bank Robbery Participant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI today sought Patricia Hearst as one of four rifle-toting women who held up a San Francisco bank Monday, shot two bystanders and escaped with more than $10,000.

Authorities said the 20-year-old kidnap victim may have been forced to participate against her will.

Miss Hearst was identified in pictures taken by a hidden bank camera. Kidnaped 10 weeks ago by the Symbionese Liberation

Army, Miss Hearst, in a tape-recorded message, renounced her parents and her former life 13 days ago and said she was joining forces with her captors. She said she has changed her name to "Tania."

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Miss Hearst, a granddaughter of newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst, as a material witness in the robbery.

"She may have been acting under duress and coercion," said FBI special agent in charge Charles W. Bates, in explaining why she was sought as a material witness instead of a participant. Three other women were named as suspects, and police said five men apparently also were involved — four of them waiting outside in two get-away cars.

She May Be Charged Too Bates said if it were determined that Miss Hearst was a willing participant, she also would be charged with bank robbery.

The robbery took place shortly after the 9 a.m. opening of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco's oceanside Sunset District. The four women — all young and white, wearing dark coats and "waffle-stomper" type boots and carrying semi-automatic rifles — and a man entered the bank with militarylike precision, scooped $10,690 from cash drawers after ordering patrons and employees to lie on the floor, then fled through the front door, firing at passersby.

Two men were seriously wounded, but both were reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital. They were Peter Markoff, 59, who operates a nearby liquor store, and Eugene Brennan, 70, who lives near the scene.

A hidden camera in the bank took several dramatic photographs of the gun-wielding robbers, including one showing the woman identified as Patricia carrying a gun but with another of the robbers appearing to be holding a gun on her.

May Have Been Forced It was because of this picture, plus apparent efforts by the robbers to go out of their way to identify her as "Tania," that authorities speculated she was forced to take part.

"There's reason to believe she was not a willing partner in the kidnaping or the bank robbery," said U.S. Attorney James Browning.

The three women named in bank robbery warrants were Nancy Ling Perry, Patricia Michelle Soltysik and Camilla Catherine Hall, all believed previously to be members of the tiny SLA which claimed responsibility for the Hearst kidnaping and the slaying last November of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster.

None of the men was identified.

The bank robbery was yet another bizarre development in a case which Browning calls unprecedented.

"There's never been another case in the annals of legal history where the victim of a kidnaping has turned up in the middle of a robbery," he told newsmen.

The appearance of Miss Hearst on the film allayed fears that she might be dead, for while her voice had been heard on a tape recording as recently as 13 days ago, she had not been seen since the night of Feb. 4 when she was carried screaming from her apartment near the University of California campus in Berkeley.

Previous Ties Known All three of the suspects in Monday's bank robbery were known to have previous ties to the SLA or to one another.

WILLIAM GOOCH...asst. state librarian

State Librarian To Speak At C-C Luncheon

William D. Gooch, assistant state librarian, Austin, will address the Chamber of Commerce monthly membership luncheon next Monday in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

The program in observance of National Library Week, will be presented by the Lovett Memorial Library board and Friends of the Library.

Gooch will have as his topic, "The Public Library — An Investment in People." The speaker is a native Texan. He received his BS degree from North Texas State University and his Master of Library Science degree from Oklahoma University.

Gooch's experience includes library assignments in Fort Worth, Amarillo, Odessa and his present post as assistant state librarian in Austin. He is married and the father of two children.

Reservations for the luncheon can be made by calling the chamber office, 669-3241. The meeting is open to the public.

Farmers Group Seeking Review Of Wheat Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm spokesmen will soon seek congressional review of an administration policy that leaves wheat growers without effective income insurance when they respond to the government's appeal to increase production, a wheat association official said today.

The move was touched off by the Agriculture Department's decision last week to set the 1975 national wheat-planting allotment at 53.5 million acres, a reduction of 1.5 million acres from the 1974 level.

The allotment does not limit the number of acres farmers can plant. It does, however, put a ceiling on individual farms and the nation as a whole on the acreage eligible for full income protection under the government's "target price" support system.

Jerry Rees, Washington spokesman for the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG), which believes the allotments for both 1974 and 1975 were set too low, said in an interview the Agriculture Department's decisions leave growers who expand production carrying the entire risk if price declines.

The NAWG official said the group thinks Congress intended that taxpayers should share the risk through extending target price protection to additional acreage.

French Candidates Want To Better U.S. Relations

PARIS (UPI) — The entrance of candidates in next month's presidential election drew to a close today with all major contenders agreed on at least one point — the need for close relations with the United States.

The official registration of candidates for the May 5 election was scheduled to end tonight. If nobody wins a majority on the first ballot, the two top finishers will meet in a runoff on May 19.

Conservative candidates of the ruling Gaullist coalition as well as Socialist party leader Francois Mitterand, choice of the left, have promised to maintain good Franco-American relations if elected in the May 5 contest.

"France will seek a relaunching of the European unification effort while remaining faithful to her alliance with the United States," Jacques Chaban-Delmas, 59, one of the two leading Gaullist candidates, has said.

Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, 48, the other top Gaullist contender, said, "France must remain an equal partner of the United States while trying to enhance European unification."

Even Mitterand, 57, who has the support of a wide-ranging group of leftists including the Communists, said France belongs to the Atlantic alliance and could not change its status unless a better security arrangement were found.

The desire for good ties with the United States, however, was not expected to halt debate on America's attitude toward Western Europe.

A spokesman for Chaban-Delmas has said, "The issue of U.S. policies in Europe and France's reaction to it will be a major election topic."

The candidates have been campaigning since President Georges Pompidou, successor to the late Gen. Charles de Gaulle, died April 2 of bone cancer.

HIGH OFFICIAL CLAIMS

President To Surrender Evidence For Innocence

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon will turn over "hard" evidence to the House Judiciary Committee which will prove his innocence in the Watergate cover-up, a high ranking White House official said today.

But the official, who declined to be identified, strongly indicated that Nixon will not fully comply with the subpoena for more than 40 taped conversations sought by the impeachment panel.

He also said that even if the House brings impeachment charges against Nixon, the President intends to travel to a summit meeting in Moscow the last week in June. He confidently predicted Nixon will not resign or be removed from office by impeachment.

"We're going to turn over absolutely what we think to be the hard evidence of all the totality of the President's knowledge and actions," he said. "There will be verbatim transcripts of materials directly from the tapes in extensive quantity."

Deadline Set Nixon intends to respond to the subpoena early next week when Congress winds up its Easter recess. The committee set a deadline of April 25 for the reply.

James D. St. Clair, the President's chief Watergate counsel, is in the process of making a legal assessment of the tapes to be released, and "he's very confident the hard evidentiary material" will clear Nixon, the official said.

The official conceded that the White House response might not be satisfactory to the impeachment investigators but insisted it will represent "all evidence available that deals with the President's actions."

"I believe if this matter is dealt with objectively and responsibly by all parties that I've seen nothing or heard nothing that suggests there is an impeachable offense," he said.

But he expressed concern that "emotional misconceptions" and the political climate might work against the President despite what the White House views as conclusive proof of his innocence of any wrongdoing.

On the personal side, the official said that it has been "very distressing" for Nixon to read reports of alleged involvement of his personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, and his best friend and Florida neighbor, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo. A Very Disciplined Man How has the President been able to stand the pressure of Watergate?

"I think he can stand it because he's a very disciplined man. While he may feel that he would have done things differently in hindsight, he is not guilt-ridden. He believes he is the embodiment of the presidency and has a pivotal role. He has but one task — to perform in a way on the record of his accomplishments. That's his overriding direction."

Nixon's relations with Vice-President Gerald R. Ford are "excellent," he said and they are "close, extremely warm and constructive."

The official said that foreigners do not understand "this excessive introspection" on Watergate and to them "Watergate was a second rate burglary which would not justify shaking the foundations" of the republic.

Earl Wilson

Times have changed. Nowadays when you don't pay your bill in a restaurant but put you in the kitchen, and make you push the button that starts the dishwasher... Shelby Friedman defines an inheritance: "That's a dead giveaway." A woman told her husband, "I wish you had the spunk the government has — you don't see a little debt keep them from spending!" John Markus of London, O., says he's on a very strict diet: "I'm even using artificial saccharin in my coffee." (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on page 8).

Nixon Winds Up Vacation Today

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon winds up his Easter vacation at his seaside villa here today and heads back to Washington where he has scheduled an appearance this week before the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A White House spokesman said Nixon will address the DAR's 83rd Continental Congress at Constitution Hall Thursday morning.

Wednesday evening, the President will give a dinner at the White House in honor of the ambassadors to the Organization of American States. He is expected to speak to the ambassadors of his goals for improving United States-Latin American relations in the seventies.

The Chief Executive remained out of the spotlight during his Florida stay, making only one public appearance to attend Easter Sunday church services with his family. Aides said that he has been engulfed with paperwork and has kept in touch with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on the recent Middle East flareups. But he also has taken time out for a daily swim and relaxation on the beach during the past four warm, sunny days.

On his return, to the White House, Nixon will be faced with decisions on how far he will go in answering the House Judiciary Committee's subpoena for more than 40 tapes.

White house officials indicate that the President does not intend to fully meet the request but will release verbatim transcripts and other materials he believes are relevant to permit the impeachment panel to make its judgment.

Nixon also will be conferring with his tax lawyers on ways to finance payment his $467,000 back federal tax bill. Aides said he will have to borrow some of the money.

White House officials were watching closely the election race in Michigan's 8th District today, which may throw some light on Nixon's political power in helping congressional candidates this fall. Nixon campaigned in the district last week for Republican candidate James Sparring.

'NEW DIALOGUE' Kissinger Turning To Latin America

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger turned his attention to Latin America today after proposing a six-point plan to achieve world economic growth without soaring prices of raw materials.

In an address before the U.N. General Assembly, Kissinger pledged Monday the United States would make a major effort to promote world economic development, but he warned against "the politics of pressure and threats."

He was expected to lay the groundwork in Washington today for Wednesday's Latin American-foreign ministers conference in which the United States has promised to press for a "new dialogue" in the Americas.

The conference was a sequel to this year's Mexico City foreign ministers' meeting, which led to an agreement on the need for more hemispheric talks. Kissinger scheduled a meeting this morning with Argentine Foreign Minister Alberto J. Vignes and at noon with the Brazilian Foreign Minister Antonio Azevedo da Silveira.

In his six-point plan before the United Nations, Kissinger proposed expanding the world energy supply at a fair price, stabilizing the cycles of surplus and shortages of raw materials, balancing food production with population growth, employing technology to achieve abundance and stabilizing world trade.

He warned, however, that arbitrary price hikes of raw materials would produce "global inflation followed by global recession from which no nation could escape."

In his New York hotel suite, Kissinger discussed Syrian-Israeli troop withdrawals with Moroccan Foreign Minister Ahmed Taib Benhima, diplomatic sources said.

Kissinger also met with Yugoslav Vice President Milos Mincic and India's External Affairs Minister Swaran Singh, and Turkey's Foreign Minister Turan-Gunes.

At night, Kissinger and his bride of two weeks, the former Nancy Maginnes, dined in the hotel suite of Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy and his wife.

A State Department spokesman described the meeting as a social affair, with only the two couples present.

Mitchell Admits Attempts To Intercede For Vesco

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Mitchell concedes that he interceded with the Securities and Exchange Commission on behalf of financier Robert Vesco the same day Vesco made a secret $200,000 contribution to the Nixon re-election campaign. But the former attorney general denies he did anything wrong.

Mitchell denied all charges against him Monday, even under tough cross-examination. The criminal conspiracy trial against Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans neared its final stages with Mitchell's cross-examination nearing and Stans waiting to come on stage.

The Stans testimony was to be the final major act of the federal court trial, now in its 38th day and ninth week. Stans was expected to be a lengthy witness. And there may be one or two corroborating Mitchell witnesses before him.

May Produce Witnesses Also, the prosecution may produce rebuttal witnesses after the defense rests. However, Judge Lee P. Gagliardi told attorneys he was considering holding court over the weekend.

In that case, the nine-man, three-woman jury might return a verdict early next week. The government charges the two former powerful Nixon Cabinet members with plotting to obstruct a federal investigation of Vesco in return for his secret $200,000 cash donation to the 1972 campaign of President Nixon.

Mitchell, 60, a calm and evenvoiced man in a solid gray suit and pale blue shirt, stated firmly on direct examination that he was "absolutely not guilty" of the conspiracy, nor of two additional counts of obstructing justice and six of lying under oath to the grand jury about the Vesco affair.

"When you heard about the size of the money that Vesco was planning to give, you knew that he was giving it to get your help?" Assistant U.S. Attorney John R. Wing asked on cross-examination.

"Absolutely not, Mr. Wing," Mitchell answered, his voice rising, "or the whole matter would have ended right there..."

He'd look for more. "It never occurred to you that Vesco was looking for something?"

"It never occurred to me in any form, shape, or manner... If Mr. Vesco was looking for a favor, he'd have been looking for something more than just a meeting with the chairman of the SEC."

Government testimony has been that Vesco, through lawyer Harry L. Sears, a Mitchell friend, was strongly pressuring for an audience with William Casey, then chairman of the SEC and that Mitchell got Sears an appointment with Casey the same day the $200,000 was delivered.

IN SINAI DESERT Egypt Might Open Front, Newspaper Hints Today

United Press International — An Egyptian newspaper hinted today that Egypt might open a second front in the Sinai Desert if the Israel-Syrian fighting continues.

The newspaper Al Akhbar said Egypt cannot allow Israel to return to the aggressive methods it practiced before last October's war.

The Genesis House board of directors met recently with Mrs. Nancy Petruccione, institutional licensing supervisor for Texas, who announced the licensing for Mrs. Still.

Mrs. Lois Still, Genesis House administrator, has been formally licensed under the new regulations of the State Department of Child Welfare and the Human Relations Committee of the legislature.

Mrs. Still is one of the first women in Texas to become a licensed administrator of a child care institution.

A resident of Pampa for the past 22 years, Mrs. Still has been administrator of the home since its beginning on June 6, 1971. She has had extensive training in the field of rehabilitation and attended a suicide prevention and crisis intervention seminar in Dallas.

She has also attended seminars in related fields at the University of Utah and University of Texas. She also participates in state workshops for administrators of child care institutions, on a regular basis.

Approximately 50 girls have lived in Genesis House since its formation.

Mrs. Carl Brugger, public relations chairman, announced a $1200 donation to Genesis House from the Junior Service League of Pampa, the second such donation from the association.

A report on maintenance and repairs and current needs of the house was given by Emmett Saltzman, vice president.

Also attending the meeting were board members Mrs. Fred Neslage, Mrs. Don Lane, Mrs. Don Boddy, Rev. Francis J. Hynes and Don Losher.

Evacuees Move Into Shelters From Flooding HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI) — Thousands of persons, routed from their homes by flash flooding that caused an estimated $50 million in damage, moved into emergency shelters Monday at a National Guard camp, schools, and churches.

The water is about six feet high in some of the houses, and furniture and clothes are floating all around, said Darrel Blount of Petal, Miss., who helped organize a relief shelter in the community north of Hattiesburg.

Civil Defense officials said about 2,000 flood refugees from the Hattiesburg area and other parts of southern Mississippi spent Monday night at Camp Shelby, a summer training base for national guardsmen, and another 1,000 slept in shelters around the city.

Refugee centers were also set up in the Columbia and Laurel areas of Mississippi. Seven drownings have been attributed to the flooding, which sent the Bowie and Leaf rivers at Hattiesburg, the Pearl River at Columbia and dozens of creeks and streams in several counties spilling into residential areas and farm land.

Pentagon Views Nuclear Shelters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in a decade, the Pentagon has reopened studies on how to evacuate U.S. cities in a nuclear crisis, but Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., fears such a step would make nuclear war more likely.

Aspin Monday made public a set of maps drawn by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency showing 400 specific areas the Pentagon considers "prime targets" for a Soviet nuclear attack. They include 248 cities of over 50,000 population and 150 other areas of "military significance." Aspin said the agency was beginning studies on how to evacuate the areas. Agency spokesmen confirmed that the target list had been prepared at the direction of Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger.

They said pilot studies would begin this summer on whether evacuation of eight sample areas was feasible: Utica, N.Y., Dover, Del., Macon, Ga., Duluth, Minn., Oklahoma City, Colorado Springs, Colo., Tucson, Ariz., and Great Falls, Mont.

They said Schlesinger also has ordered a survey to find so-called "all effects nuclear shelters" — basements, tunnels, caves and other locations that could protect civilians from both nuclear blast and fallout.

This is the first major Pentagon foray into nuclear civil defense since President John F. Kennedy proposed a nationwide evacuation and fallout shelter system after the 1961 Berlin crisis.

It stems from Schlesinger's belief the United States might have two to three days warning of a nuclear attack as a crisis built up, and thus could evacuate target areas in a reasonably orderly way.

The Kennedy-era programs were discredited in the mid-1960s when Herman Kahn and other nuclear strategists argued that putting people in shelters might inadvertently make the Soviets believe the United States was preparing to launch a nuclear attack and hoped its own population would remain relatively unscathed from retaliation.

Aspin, a frequent critic of the Pentagon, made the same argument in an interview Monday. "If we started to evacuate our cities, they would think we were getting ready to strike and they might conclude they had better hit first," he said.

Police Find Stolen Car A 1966 Ford Ranchero, stolen from Top O' Texas Used Cars, 503 E. Atchison, Sunday night or early Monday, was found parked in the south part of town yesterday with its battery missing.

The office of the car lot was entered by forcing a window and the key to the stolen vehicle was taken, along with approximately 45 other keys.

Also taken in the break-in was $12 from a soft drink machine in the office.

James R. Smith, 518 N. Wells, reported the theft early today of his 1970 100cc Kawasaki motorcycle while it was parked in front of his residence. He told officers the key was not in the machine, so it had to have been pushed off.

Albert Lemons, 452 Pitts, reported to police the theft of two bucket seats and a gear shift knob from his 1970 Chevrolet Nova while the car was parked in the driveway of a service station at 225 W. Brown.

Investigation is continuing in all of the above incidents.

FORTELLIOTT STUDY CLUB MEETS
The Fort Elliott Study Club met with Mrs. Eula Johnson recently with eight members present. After an interesting roll call the devotional was given by Mrs. Wilber Beck. The program, "Storm Signals and Tornadoes," was presented by Mrs. Leona House, with a discussion following by those present.

Tuesday, April 16, the club will enjoy a book review given by Mrs. Vida Williams, Wheeler. The book, "Gee Whizz! I'm Old," is written by Agnes Durant Pylott. Members enjoying delicious refreshments served by the hostess were Mrs. Etherlee Dyson, Mrs. Leona House, Mrs. Wilber Beck, Mrs. Lottie Eva Denson, Mrs. Ella Johnston, Mrs. Enita Atkins and Mrs. Thelma Dunn.

ALL-PEOPLE CRUSADE IN MOBEETIE
The Rev. Lester Hathaway announced an All-People Crusade to continue through April 21 at the Community Church in Mobeetie.

Guest speakers for the crusade will be the Rev. Gene Allen, Pampa; Rev. Keith Johnson, Wheeler; and Rev. Ricky Pfeil, Amarillo.

Saturday evening was completely donated to singing as this is the regular date of the monthly Community Singing at the Church.

A welcome is extended to all.

Youth Center Wrap-Up

MEMBERSHIPS — Participation in the activities of the Center are through a membership plan or a daily fee. The most economical plan is to purchase a membership for the whole family. The cost is really fantastic with all the benefits you receive.

The limited membership plan sold to individuals or families entitles you to use of the gym, recreation hall, swimming pool and dressing rooms as well as free swim lessons.

The cost of this plan for an individual is $5 for six months or $8 a year. For a family the cost is only $12 for six months or $20 a year.

The unlimited membership plan adds to the above plan the use of the new health facility. This facility houses all the exercise machines, handball and racquetball courts and sauna.

If you are interested in lost weight and inches, the health club membership is your best plan. We have all types of machines including the bicycles, barrell rollers, vibrator belts, rowing machines, jungle pule universal machine, hips away, sit-up boards and all types of weight lifting equipment.

The unlimited plan costs only $10.50 per month for an individual or for a husband and wife the cost is only $13.87 per month after your initial sign-up. For further details come by the health club.

Women's hours are during the mornings and Tuesday and Thursday nights while men come after 11:45 a.m. till 9:30 p.m. Whatever your needs in physical fitness are, we have the equipment and know how to achieve it.

DOLPHIN SWIM CLUB — The Youth Center also has a competitive A.A.U. swim club called the Dolphins. This club is for boys and girls 6-18 years of age who know how to swim and are interested in competing with other boys and girls in their own age class.

The swim club holds workouts each weekday from 6-7 p.m. in the Center pool under the direction of coaches Ruth Steger and Malcolm Douglas. The club participates in several weekend meets during the year and also dual the other Amarillo swim clubs quite often. Come by and join today by attending one of the workouts.

SWIMMING — One of the best forms of physical exercise is swimming. To help you enjoy this activity, the Center has this as an activity. Each week night from 7-9:30 p.m. the swimming pool is open to anyone who enjoys swimming.

Also the pool is open on Saturday from 1-4:30 p.m. and Sun. 2-4:30 p.m. You are invited to come out and enjoy a good dip in our pool. It's indoors and heated so you can enjoy it the year round.

SWIM LESSONS — To help you enjoy the sport of swimming, the Center schedules swim lessons for all ages during the year. Usually a class is taught every three weeks. During the school year all classes meet after school either from 4-5 p.m. or 5-6 p.m. All sessions last for 10 meeting dates with all classes limited to not more than 25 swimmers.

Classes are taught by a very qualified Red Cross Water Safety Instructor. The Center has a resident instructor who teaches all of our classes, sometimes with the aid of other instructors. She is Ruth Carter, a very prominent instructor.

The cost of these swim lessons are $4 to non-members and are free to Youth Center members. The public is invited to participate either through the fee or a membership plan.

OLD MOBEETIE ASSOCIATION
The regular meeting of the Old Mobeetie Association convened at 5 p.m. Monday with 15 members present.

Plans are underway in this project with the latest — tearing down a house donated by Mrs. Lillian Simpson, Canadian — the lumber to be used in the rebuilding of Old Mobeetie. Volunteers are asked to help in this task and the date of Saturday, April 27, has been set aside to do the work. Men will be leaving Mobeetie at 8 a.m. to start the job and the women will be taking box lunches.

May 11, a fund-raising miscellaneous sale will be held in Pampa. Everyone is asked to bring something for this.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Galmor, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Len Myers, Mrs. Emalie London, Mrs. Sallie Harris, Mrs. Tommie Tyson, Mrs. Wilber Beck, Mrs. Claudia Quarles, Mrs. Bernice Caldwell, Lester Hathaway, Jap Bailey and A.D. Turnbow.

Business Today

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — The energy crisis appears to be killing off the "seat of his pants" salesman in American business. But highly specialized salesmen appear to be in demand.

Like the ill-fated hero of Arthur Miller's play, "Death of a Salesman," the man who "flies by the seat of his pants" relies on personality, poker and good friendships rather than business knowledge to sell.

"There still are many such salesmen around, but they won't be able to cut the mustard under the harsher conditions created by the energy shortage," says J. Porter Henry, president of Porter Henry & Co., a New York management consultant firm.

Science of Selling
Henry's firm has surveyed 498 companies to determine the impact of the prolonged energy crisis on the art or science of selling.

The most important discovery was that companies no longer are willing to depend on salesmanship as an art practiced by talented extroverts. It has to be more scientific because the salesman's job no longer is merely to sell—he must be as knowledgeable about when to limit sales as when to expand. This situation is forced on industry by a growing multiplicity of shortages of raw materials and products of all kinds.

The Henry firm found 43 per cent of the companies surveyed report severe shortages of all or most products and another 20 per cent foresee shortages in at least some of their products in the months ahead. The smaller companies expect to be hit hardest by the shortages. Only 25 per cent of the firms employing more than 100 salesmen said they were seriously concerned about shortages.

Raise Sales Forces
But the report showed many companies are increasing their specialized sales forces in spite of the shortages and very few are cutting sales staffs. Fifty-one per cent said they would raise sales forces in the next two years by anywhere from 3 to 100 per cent. Another 43 per cent said they would hold sales staffs at present level.

The greatest optimism was among insurance and financial service companies. Seventy-five per cent expected to continue expanding their sales staffs in spite of possible trouble in getting gasoline and other travel difficulties. Sixty-five per cent of the drug and health and beauty aid companies also said they would expand sales staffs.

In spite of shortages, most companies intend to have their sales forces devote more time than ever to cultivating new customers, the Henry study indicated. More than half the companies said salesmen will have to spend more time on dealer education.

This means showing dealers how to cope with shortages and help their customers cope with them as well as the traditional dealer training designed to increase sales.

The University of Maryland elevated its journalism department to college status in 1972.

BATTIN' AROUND

Present Energy Crisis Not New

By C.R. BATTEN
The present energy crisis is not really new, for man has been concerned about adequate supplies of energy ever since he discovered how to use fire.

One writer has said that the industrial revolution was caused by a shortage of wood in the early 17th century. Men created a new technology so they could use coal as a source of energy.

In the New World, before the American Revolution, there were complaints of scarcities and high fuelwood prices. As one writer put it, "although the cultivation and protection of trees was vigorously advocated, the conservationists had little success beyond their literary efforts."

Perhaps this was the beginning of the movement that has culminated in the environmental age of the '70s.

But when Ben Franklin noticed the rising price of fuelwood in his home town in 1744, he invented the Franklin stove. The open fireplace, which lost 80 per cent of the flame's heat up the chimney, was replaced by a fire enclosed in an iron stove with a controlled air supply. In those days at relatively free markets, no severe shortage developed.

Eventually, "the literary efforts of the conservationists" began to take effect, and coming shortages were virtually assured. For 132 years after Franklin invented his stove, the U.S. Congress appropriated $2,000 for the appointment of a forestry agent by the Commissioner of Agriculture.

Dr. Franklin B. Hough was assigned the job of "ascertaining the annual amount of consumption, importation, and exportation of timber and other forest products; the probable supply for future wants; the means best adapted to the preservation and renewal of forests; the influence of forests on climate; and the measures that have been successfully applied in foreign countries or that may be deemed applicable in this country for the preservation and restoration or planting of forests."

Now, with 94,000,000 acres of productive timberland, under its care, the Forest Service is still working on

Paralytic Charged With Assault

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A 24-year-old paralytic who pleaded with police to kill him was held under aggravated assault and resisting arrest charges today after a weekend incident in which he reportedly shot at officers from his second-floor window.

A police spokesman said James Hebert Brown fired at one of 20 police units responding to a report of gunfire in a residential section of the city.

Brown was captured a half hour after the original call, when police tossed four tear gas canisters into the house. Brown rolled his wheel chair onto the second-floor balcony and dropped two guns, police said.

Officers said Brown's father, Richard Brown, had slept through the incident until the tear gas was thrown.

"He was resurrected then," said patrolman T. L. Zeno. "He put his hat on and was ready to go."

Lt. James M. Howely III, who led four officers up a rear staircase to talk Brown into surrendering before the tear gas was thrown, said the paralyzed man pleaded with police to "shoot me, kill me."

Farmers Finally Doing Okay

For 40 years America has looked at its farmers as chronic victims of tough luck who needed federal subsidies to keep the wolf from the door. That image doesn't fit anymore. A 45 percent increase in farm income last year — more than half of it coming from higher food prices in our supermarkets — has made the farmer one of the "fat cats" of the American economy.

The farmers are reminding us — and quite properly — that the costs of seed, feed, fertilizer, and equipment have increased sharply, too. Nevertheless, net farm income — after paying expenses — hit $25 billion last year, up from $15.2 billion only two years earlier. Equally significant, the value of farm land has increased about 50 percent since 1967, and the net worth of a typical farm family today is twice the average of all U.S. families.

The new economics of farming, stemming from a surge in worldwide demand for agricultural products, has brought government agricultural policy to a turning point that should be as welcome to farmers as to taxpayers.

With direct price supports for farm products now phased out, the new "target price" program enacted by Congress last year will send the taxpayers to the farmer's rescue only if market prices for their products fall below a level their expenses.

There is no reason for that to happen if the doors remain open for international trade and America's farm surpluses continue to find brisk demand overseas. The main problem for the government now is to assure that our grain reserves remain large enough to insure against food shortages here at home.

The federal budget for the coming year carries only $461 million for direct payments to farmers — down sharply from the $4 billion in subsidies paid in 1973. It is questionable whether even that new figure is really necessary. The $175 million earmarked to compensate farmers whose crop yields are cut drastically by drought or flood is a case in point. With their new prosperity more farmers should be able to carry that burden themselves through premiums to the Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

Congress has always been sensitive enough to the "farm vote" to protect the farmer's income and to underwrite water and conservation projects, as well as the scientific research and other programs which have helped make the American farmer the most productive in the world. The stability and progress of our agricultural industry are as important as ever — even more so considering what our farm products can earn in much needed foreign exchange. However, the vote of the consumer and taxpayer mindful of the new prosperity on the farm is one that Congress now will find it hard to ignore.

The Agriculture Department's big bureaucracy and the big budgets that support it are becoming an anomaly when their aim is to "assist" an industry which now shows an ability to do quite well on its own. Congress this year should take a hard look at all federally financed programs to aid the farmer. How much help does he really need?

ALL THAT GLITTERS

GOP On Watergate Scaffold?

By Vic GOLD WASHINGTON — I was talking about Robert LaFollette, Sr., the other noon. The occasion was the regular luncheon session of the Washington Pundits & Second-Guessers, Local 237, and the topic moving around the table was what Republican congressional candidates should do this fall when their Democratic opponents put them on the Watergate scaffold.

Under particular discussion was that option taken by Republican candidate James Sparling, who called on President Nixon to appear (but not campaign) on his behalf in Michigan's 8th District. Was Sparling's invitation a stroke of political genius or klutzmanship? A majority of experts assembled came down on the side of the latter. Yet, as happens in arguments of this kind, it's unlikely that the matter will be finally resolved — no matter how Sparling fares in his special congressional election this Tuesday.

Political punditry, you see, is a house with one front door and a dozen rear escape hatches. Thus, even if Sparling confounds the pollsters by winning the election, there will be instant reminders from the experts that the 8th District has been voting Republicans into Congress for 40 years: a fact which mad the Nixon visit superfluous at best. On the other hand, if the Democratic candidate wins, the same pundits will point to the result as yet another electoral nail in the impeachment coffin.

Nevertheless, for his part, Sparling could reasonably argue, even from the political grave, that he had nothing to lose by inviting the President into the district. After all, according to the most optimistic estimate made prior to the visit, the Republican trailed his Democratic opponent by 7 percentage points.

Sparling frankly concedes his play was born of desperation. His reasoning: since Watergate was the problem, why not bring in the focal point of the voters' disenchantment and have it all out in the open? To be sure, other Michigan Republicans reasoned otherwise. Their counsel was that Sparling stick to local issues and pretend the Watergate misery doesn't exist (Richard Who?).

So goes the discordance of Republican party affairs this sixth year of the New Nixon Majority. Think about it. An obscure congressional candidate brings the President of the United States into his district the eve of an election and is criticized for lack of political judgment!

For my dues, I reserve the ultimate Pundits & Second-Guessers' right to find weakness on all sides of the argument. No, Sparling shouldn't have invited Nixon to try to salvage his campaign, for reasons forthcoming. But Sparling's Michigan critics are themselves living in a Pundits & Second-Guessers' — which is to say, fools' — paradise if they truly believe any Republican candidate can slough off political reality. Watergate must be faced up to — but by the candidate speaking for himself.

Which is what led me to Robert LaFollette, Sr., that other noon. I was crystal-balling what might happen if Republican candidates so inclined resist the temptation to turn to Washington for an answer to their Watergate campaign problem. What the James Sparlings don't need, it seems to me, is help from the national capital cancer ward.

Instead, what the party has to have in order to survive is a kind of grass roots declaration of independence — by its candidates. For in the final analysis, it won't be Nixon, Ford, Percy or the traveling Washington speakers bureau that wins local elections. It's what the candidates, on their own, have to offer.

Enter LaFollette. In 1912, at odds with his national party for what he considered its failure to keep the public trust, the old Wisconsin progressive had this to say: "I shall remain in the Republican party at this time. I shall continue to denounce its representatives when they betray public interest. I shall refuse to be bound by its action whenever it fails in its duty to the country, and I shall do all in my power to restore it to the high place in the service and confidence and affection of the American people, which it held when it was the party of Abraham Lincoln."

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

"IT'S OUR CIVIC DUTY TO PLANT TREES. HOW ELSE WILL FUTURE GENERATIONS KNOW WHERE TO BUILD PARKING LOTS?"

INSIDE LABOR

Convicted Unionists On Job

By VICTOR RIESEL NEW YORK — Rarely is the $65,000-a-year Socialist chief executive officer of the Chicago-based Amalgamated Meat Cutters, Patrick Gorman, at a loss for an opinion. On anything. Or advice. To anyone. In fusillades of statements Gorman has told Pope Paul, President Nixon and host of others just what to do and say in certain circumstances.

But when Gorman had the chance to move against corrupt officials inside his own powerful national union, he went mute. And inactive. Regional officials convicted of heavy shakedowns and accused by the Justice Department of threatening "physical violence and property damage" to those employers who would not take orders still hold office.

These are four leaders of the New York Furriers Joint Council, a section of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

Further, an international vice president of Gorman's union, Irving Stern, and two others, accused of "using racketeering methods to collect $135,000 in payoffs from supermarket officials in exchange for labor peace" — still hold all the offices they did before a grand jury indicted them March 25.

The best that can be said for the left-wing "intellectual" Stern and his men in Local Union 342, Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Retail Food Stores Employees, is that the law says they are innocent until proven guilty.

That is a standard Pat Gorman and his national union have refused to apply to Richard Nixon, whom they have hounded.

Gorman's union and all of its highest national leaders have demanded Dick Nixon's resignation. This they have not demanded of the four convicted Furriers Joint Council officials who will be sentenced April 17. Further, on May 6, they and three other officials of the furriers union are scheduled to stand trial on charges of threatening to beat the hell out of owners of 80 small shops — as well as of the plants themselves.

And Gorman has not been any more merciful with some of President Nixon's Cabinet. On April 9, 1973, Gorman charged Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz with disgraceful action demanded that Mr. and Nixon remove Butz "from public office."

Why the double standard? Is not conviction of charges of shakedowns a "disgrace"? Why should not men convicted of extorting from employers be removed from public office? Or is a union someone's private domain?

There are those who resent Pat Gorman's preachments over the years. Being "a nice guy," doesn't imbue him with the right to tear or sneer at those who don't share the Socialist philosophies. Nor does it give him the right to remain silent.

This is quite a philosophical union. Irving Stern, for example, always was one with a swift dialectical jab from the left. Well, Stern wasn't exactly part of the lumpen proletariat. He is in fact a 52,000-a-year triple title holder in the national union, the region and the local. And that doesn't include considerable expenses.

Obviously there's a double morality in this fashionable set of labor officials who commuted between their find suburban homes and the seething inner city to lead some 14,000 Local 342 members — and to speak for "the people" in the city's highest labor councils.

The Justice Department's anti-organized crime strike force, during a 16-month probe headed by Bill Aronwald and the Manhattan district attorney's office, concluded that Stern felt $800 a week just wasn't enough to live on.

Stern and his brother officers are accused of demanding money from the big super markets.

But even this is a lesser crime than maneuvering the field so that the meat prices increased for the poor of the region's vast tristate megalopolis — for whom Gorman and colleagues bleed so loudly.

And what of the muck dug up in the corrupt field in the past? What of dead gangsters such as "Little Augie Pisano" (Anthony Carfano)? He was an associate — before being executed by the mob itself — of the late Frankie Costello, of Meyer Lansky, of Albert (the Executioner) Anastasia, of the late don of dons Michele (Mike) Miranda and others such as Johnny Dio.

What influence did Little Augie and his crown have in the whole retail field? What terror did they spread? Pat Gorman should look into this. The probes are still on. There will be other indictments, I believe.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

About The Crumb-Bums

By PAUL HARVEY You know who those characters are: you went to school with them! They were sullen, obnoxious crumb-bums then, and they still are.

Some of them and their impromptu organizations are trying to represent their languid lifestyle as some kind of new "youth culture." That's hogwash. I'll tell you what they are:

You remember those insolent indigents from school. They were the ones who never handed in a homework assignment, who shot off their dirty mouths at teachers, threatened scholars, usually were draped over some girl who was a proper reflection of their values.

They lived in the houses where the weeds grew tall in the front yard. But however rundown the house, it always sprouted a high-rise TV antenna.

They left school as soon as they could drop out, and we thought we wouldn't be bothered with them again. But here they are messing up as ever, and you are still carrying their load.

Their shoplifting adds 10 percent to the price of everything you buy; their skipping out on six months' rent raises rents for the rest of us; their uninsured accidents increase insurance rates for everybody. And they're the ones who go AWOL and leave their covey of kids for you to feed.

And let's not try to imagine that they're all one color; they're not. They're not even all one sex. And they're not all from broken homes. And they're not all poor.

All these and other assorted reasons are given as fraudulent excuses for behaving like animals and living like parasites.

You wonder sometimes why the law so seldom catches up with them, why the statute of limitations always seems to run out on them more quickly than for a Spiro Agnew. This reflects a perversion of evenhanded justice by some maudlin reformers who think it's nothing more than being poor which turns good people bad, though by every measure there is more badness in the richest cities.

So decent Americans hide behind shuttered windows at night, avoid high-crime areas even by day, buy kidnap insurance — and government tries to bandage the cancer by allowing the victims of crime to deduct their losses from their taxes.

You and I know these renegade rotters who condone the "establishment" and thumb their noses at the Flag and take what they want, knowing some shyster on the payroll of some organization for the underprivileged will loophole them out so they can resume robbing, raping and generally raising hell. The degeneration of a whole generation began with your mismatched schoolmates.

It might help our schools, our courts and ourselves if we just stopped dignifying the sulkers with exculpatory labels like "youth culture" and "disadvantaged" and Symbionese Liberation Army — and reverted to calling alley rats what they are.

Potomac Fever

The endorsements of GOP candidates by Nixon and Ford have the same effect that Bobby Riggs has on women's lib.

Senator Jackson fought for unrestricted emigration of Soviet Jews. He wanted an exodus, not expulsion.

Nixon said America is not sick. That's like saying a heart attack is a state of mind.

Now that the impeachment panel decided criminal acts were not the only cause for removing Nixon, he may renounce his monarchy.

OUTRIDER

Baseball And Relics

By GARRY WILLS It seems a little silly, I guess, for people to bid huge sums of money for the particular baseball with which Hank Aaron broke the Babe Ruth record. After all, the ball is the same in its make-up as any of the others in the stadium bag that day.

Its mini-second of contact with the Aaron bat did not make it a substantially different ball. The bat, by the way, had longer contact with Aaron's hands, along with the brief contact it had with the ball — why isn't it the hotter item of the two? And Hank Aaron's hand will brush a glossy photo longer, in autographing it, than it did the bat during that historic swing.

But all this talk is literal-minded, and does not understand true bliss. I saw true bliss last week, and know at last what it is. It is to be twelve years old and to have a ticket to the season's opening game. It is to wake up to rainy skies, and fear the game will be called off — or, worse, to have the game to go on but be kept home because Twelve-Year-Old has a bad cold and his mother does not want him out in a drizzle.

It is to go to the stadium and watch one's team almost lose, but then win. And it is to watch the stadium's opening homer — the only one in the game — head right toward you; watch the ball bounce under the seat in front of you, and then grab it.

I had to interview this young man, who could not believe in his own luck. I suggested he write down the date on the ball, and he gave me a look of condescending incredulity — as if he could ever forget what it was and what it meant.

What made it so special, I asked? "Just think of the odds against it — all those thousands of people here, and it came to me. I almost didn't get to come. I almost had a different ticket. What if it had rained? What if the boy in front of me had gone for it instead of ducking? Besides, Jim Palmer touched this ball just before it got hit." (Here the only sad part of the story must come out — that this was an enemy homer. Willie Horton had hit it off Twelve-Year-Old's beloved Orioles.)

This young man was eager to rush off home for a quick twirl through all three local stations, to see if the camera would show him catching the ball. I know that none did, since Twelve-Year-Old is my son. But he was undiscouraged: Each of the three times he saw that little ball take off on the screen, he held up the Real Thing — which had not been out of his grasp — and said, "This is the ball you are watching on the screen."

It put him in tangible, holdable touch with one high moment of drama. The whole machinery of both teams had worked for years to bring off the right pitch, the right swing, the studied intermeshing of skills. Men had raised money, bought talent, raised the stadium, done publicity, assembled cameras, called in reporters, hired an umpire, to consecrate this moment of contest. Now, by a chance, he was part of this whole process. It reached out to him and left evidence that he held of the whole process. Other balls will be used again, like the stadium, the bat, the players, the whole apparatus. History grinds on, but moments remain. And that ball is fixed entirely in that moment, consecrated to its memory.

We are talking, of course, about relics. They defy time. They say one moment, one person, one touch has not died away in the blur, wear, and attrition of mere temporal succession. They last, sacred to themselves, outside the ordinary barter of our days. (Just try to buy that Horton home run ball for the going price of any of its fellows, turned out on the manufacturing line.)

At each moment of history, men touch into holiness the material currency of their dealings with each other, sanctifying inert things to the purpose of their users, humanizing the world in a gradual benign act of appropriation. The sacred thing, you see, cannot be priced, be bought or sold, in conventional terms. Twelve-Year-Old understands all that instinctively. Later, I suppose, he will learn better — and be the less for it.

Hope Versus Security

An enterprise society does not have the same guaranty that a socialist society offers. In an enterprise society, you have no assurance at all that your best efforts will not leave you poor. In a socialist society, you have every assurance that your best efforts can never make you rich. One has hope without security. The other has security without hope. The crucial question, of course, is what you would be secure in.

Dear Abby

A childless marriage— Who bears burden?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for six years, and I definitely have made up my mind that I do not want any children. My husband says if that's the way I feel about it, it's all right with him.

The problem is that I want him to have a vasectomy—an operation which will make him sterile. (My brother-in-law had one, and he says it is a breeze.) My husband says he doesn't want that kind of operation, and he thinks it's up to me to either take the necessary precautions or have an operation to make me sterile.

I would like your opinion. NO CHILDREN THANKS

DEAR NO: Since it was your decision to have no children, I think it's up to you to take the precautions instead of insisting that your husband subject himself to a vasectomy. Be realistic. If you were to divorce your husband (or die) and he were to marry again, he and his next mate might want children. As for a vasectomy being a "breeze," one man's breeze is another man's gale.

DEAR ABBY: I am so heartsick this morning after getting very little sleep last night.

My sister-in-law informed me yesterday that my husband (her brother) plays golf just to get away from me!

I was so crushed I couldn't find the words to answer her. I've been married for 35 years and always thought I had a good marriage—and now this. Please tell me how to handle it. MRS. M.

DEAR MRS. M.: Is there a possibility that she was joking? If not, she clearly meant to hurt you, and the only way to deal with someone who intentionally hurts you is from a distance, and as infrequently as possible.

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating this nice young man exclusively for seven months. He didn't ask me to go steady. I just don't care to go with anyone else. He doesn't go with anyone else either, so I guess you'd say we are going steady.

My problem is my mother. She has told me that she doesn't want me to date him anymore. Just like that! The reason: He's too short! (He's exactly my height—5 foot 6.)

I'm not a child. I'm 29 years old, but I live at home with my parents; I'd move out, but they need the money I pay for my room and board.

This fellow is an outstanding person, Abby. He's an assistant professor, and although he doesn't make much now, he has a promising future. Besides, he is good to me, and I care for him. I'd appreciate your opinion.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO: Your mother is short—on common sense. Tell her that her objections to the young man are not valid, and that you measure a man from his eyebrows up.

CONFIDENTIAL TO T. P. C.: Urge him to put his affairs in order. He may LIVE.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17

Your birthday today: Every move made this year opens the way for another—you can parlay a minor improvement into a major program. In this great career-building year, be sure you don't neglect your soul; meditation and prayer are essential. Relationships generally pose no problem all year. Today's natives are of no distinct type, each individual one of his own sort, characteristically patient and industrious.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: The small thoughtful things you do quietly now will make the differences later, so keep at them, leaving nothing out of your work and play.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Make deals and sales while the price is right. Friends relieve the pressure somewhat, may be instrumental in pointing to lucrative new ventures.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: This is one day when you don't have to depend on other people. Any sort of try-out, rehearsal, or testing program turns out rather successful.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: It's not a good time for explaining your methods. Review what you've done lately, let nearly all of it stand without correction. Inner strength comes into use.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Problems of older people need more professional guidance than you can offer. Call in help, being sure of terms before taking on further obligation.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Check facts and figures on financial and business arrangements. For perspective, Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Success requires your personal touch. Onlookers are inspired to be helpful once you've got things started. Health of older people may cause anxiety.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: In the process of creating something of permanent value, an old nuisance can be cleared off for keeps. Self-improvement highlights your day.

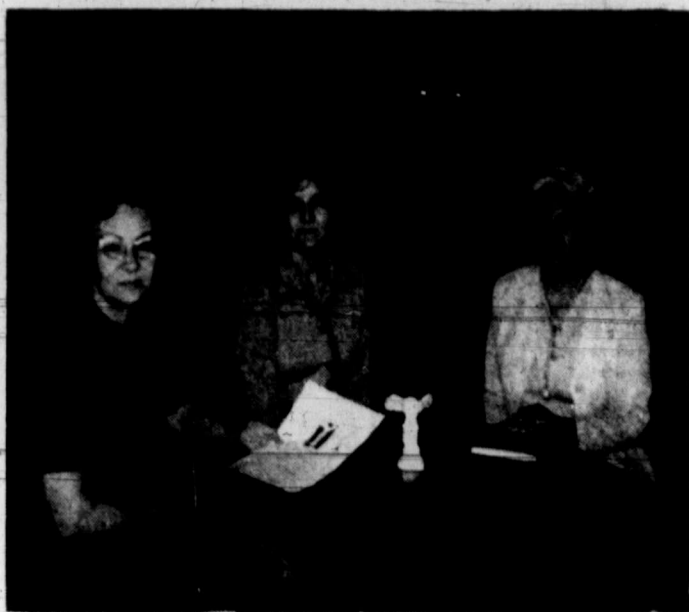

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The quality of home and property bothers you now. Much can be done to improve matters by putting new tools or appliances into use.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your richest reward will come about through bringing your ventures forward on your own steam, on resources obtained without further obligation or contingency.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Personal effort is essential, acts as a magnet for positive reactions. Your reserves come forth readily and are best applied in conservative, time-tested methods.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Make intelligent use of the institutions of society. Where you've earned something, step right up and claim it. Family affairs seem to follow an easier path.

Jaycee-Ettes Tell March Club Projects

The Pampa Jaycee-Ettes held their regular monthly meeting March 28 at Southwestern Public Service. President, Sharen Peoples, presided and gave the invocation. Lynne McDougall led the Jaycee-Ette Creed.

During the month of March, the club participated in many projects. Kerrick Horton reported that she contacted the Rho Eta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi for help with transportation for the visually handicapped club for the month of March.

Margaret Milam stated that all cancer packets for the house-to-house drive and business and industry drive had been completed. The club helped the cancer crusade chairmen on this project.

Also during the month of March, the club held a check point in Central Park for the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon with Treicia Saltzman, chairman. Refreshments were prepared by Treicia for the Satellite School and Sharen, Margaret and Kerrick delivered them and visited with the students.

The Jaycee-Ettes aided their Jaycees with a membership party and cook-out held in the home of Benny and Kerrick Horton.

Treicia and Sharen attended Perryton's installation banquet March 23 and Treicia reported the events of the banquet to the club members who were unable to attend. Margaret Margaret and Kerrick were presented with their gals patch and Treicia and Nelda were presented with their advisors patch. Margaret and Kerrick were also presented with an outstanding year-long project chairman certificate.

Just prior to the close of the meeting, the new officers were elected for the 1974-75 term and Treicia presented the club with an officers orientation. Lynne and Kerrick served refreshments and the door prize was won by Paula.

Those attending the March meeting were Sharen Peoples, Treicia Saltzman, Margaret Milam, Lynne McDougall, Paula Graves, Kerrick Horton and guest, Melanie Roberts.

BPW Members Complete Development Plan Course

The personal development committee of the Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club has completed an eight week individual development plan, course one, prepared for presentation by the National Federation of B&PW Clubs, Inc.

This course was to provide members with a continuing plan for individual development; an orientation and indepth understanding of B&PW and its objectives; develop leadership; train members for more effective communication and self expression; provide members an opportunity to assess their individual potential through group evaluation; give training in planning programs, parliamentary procedures, protocol and etiquette for meetings; raise the level of member motivation; and develop teamwork and good morale.

Each week members would serve in a different capacity, such as chairman of the evening, program chairman, secretary, timekeeper, invocation, pledge of allegiance and collect.

Each member was given an assigned topic for a five minute presentation. Then each member gave a 2 minute extemporaneous speech each week.

A traveling award of Nike was presented to the best speaker of the evening. A scroll of achievement, bearing the individual's name was presented to the best extemporaneous speaker each evening, and to the member carrying out the best duty assignment. At the final meeting, the group evaluated through a speak off, the outstanding speaker to whom the trophy was awarded permanently.

Mrs. Mildred Wilkie received the Nike award for the most outstanding speaker, and Mrs. Helen Sprinkle received a Scroll of Achievement for the greatest degree of overall improvement during the course.

Certificates were Ethel Anderson, Dovie Breeze, Florette Burns, Faye Eaton, Marge Ludeman, Clara Lee Rhoades, Helen Sprinkle, and Mildred Wilkie. Virginia McDonald presented a certificate by the group for coordinator.

The traveling award was won by Marge Ludeman the first two weeks of the course, followed by Mildred Wilkie, Faye Eaton, Mildred Wilkie, Ethel Anderson, and the final meeting by Mildred Wilkie.

Take A Walk Into Spring

COLLEGE STATION — Spring '74 will see ladylike shoes return to the fashion scene — and platform looks decline in importance, forecasters say.

New shoes feature a single sole and slimmer, higher heels — ranging from two- and a-half to three inches," Marilyn Brown, consumer education — clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, explained.

Termed "needles" or "shafts," higher heels receive most attention when combined with open-toed, pumps and sandals fronts. Toes, whether open or closed, are gracefully rounded, the specialist noted.

"Rich, classic dress shoes feature halter slings, snappy sandals and slimmer-toed pumps." Spectators also will enjoy renewed popularity in both silhouetted and pump styling, she said.

"This styling reflects the 'hanel influence,' as do the darker color treatments in toes and heels. Striking color combinations — ivory and deep tone patents, brown with hunter green, and sandpiper beige with white — create fashion excitement for spring, she continued.

"Metallic accents, such as gold bandings on heels or chains outlining sandals straps, remain popular for dress shoes." "Mid-levels — especially in reptile prints and soft glove leathers — offer a fashionable alternative to the new, higher heels," Miss Brown said.

The specialist cited spectator pumps with stack, mid-height heels as "an important look for skirts or pants."

"Some spring lines feature stacked heels and toes accented with metallics for day wear."

"In these, gold, silver, gun-metal and bronze offset white or ivory. Geared to the younger set, these fashions flaunt a broader toe."

Espadrilles, on the other hand, reflect current interest in handcrafts, she added.

"For example, vamps of woven leather, bright embossing or needlepoint join with wedge heels. Slight platform soles, outlined with woven rope, provide an effective contrast for bright pastel leathers."

"This year's jeans shoe is an espadrille in denim or bandana fabric with rope trim and crepe sole."

Overall, spring finds shoes softer, slimmer and more graceful. Comfort and individual tastes are stressed along with fashion for today's woman, the specialist concluded.

BAPTIST STUDY GROUP

Mrs. H. D. Moran, chairman, was in charge of the meeting when the Vada Waldron Bible Study Group met Wednesday, April 10, at 9:30 a.m., in the home of Mrs. G. E. Groninger, 2101 Chestnut.

The "Call to Prayer" was given by Mrs. Carl Smith and Mrs. Orval Batson led the opening prayer.

Mrs. Moran informed the group of the April mission action project. This is to assist financially for an EEG test for a Pampa child. This test will be made at the Kilgore Children's Pavilion in Amarillo. She also encouraged the ladies to help with banquet preparations for Pampa seniors.

The Bible lesson was taught by Mrs. Ed Schneider. She asked each person to give personal testimony as to what Mark 4:18 and 19 means to her. Mrs. Schneider then closed the meeting with prayer.

The group welcomed Baptist Women president, Mrs. Jack White, as a guest.

Members attending were Mmes. Ed Railsback, H.C. Cross, W.B. Franklin, A.B. Cross, H.B. Taylor, Sr., Batson, Smith, Schneider, Moran and Groninger.

Mrs. Wilkie will hostess the next meeting of this group in her home at 523 Sloan, on May 8.

Karpin On Bridge

By FRED KARPIN

Generally speaking, when one is playing a notrump contract, he attacks in his longest suit, hoping in time to develop winners out of the low cards in this suit. But, on occasion, it is incorrect to attack in one's longest suit. Today's deal serves as a case in point.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

NORTH

♣ J1095

The bidding:
North East South West
2♠ Pass 2NT Pass
3♣ Pass 3NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

North's game-forcing two diamond opening bid was an overbid, although in all fairness to him it is difficult to find a better alternative bid. And south's decision to rebid three notrump (rather than to support diamonds) was an unfortunate choice, since either a five-diamond or a four-spade contract would have been fulfilled.

Against South's three notrump contract, East put up the heart king on West's opening lead. When the king was permitted to win the trick, East returned a heart, which was taken by South's ace.

Hoping that the four outstanding diamonds were divided 2-2 (which would give him five diamond tricks), declarer next cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds.

When West discarded a club on the second diamond lead, it was revealed that East had a sure diamond winner, and that the three notrump contract had just become unmakeable. Declarer next elected to lead a third diamond. When play had ended, the defenders had made four heart tricks and one diamond.

It was incorrect for declarer to have attacked the diamond suit. When four of a suit are outstanding (as they were in diamonds), the mathematicians tell us that they will be divided 2-2 only 40 percent of the time. And as we all know without being mathematicians, a straight-forward finesse offers a 50 percent chance of success.

Therefore, at trick three, South should have led a club out of his hand, and finessed dummy's queen. With the queen winning, declarer would now have his game going trick.

Admittedly, if the club finesse had lost, declarer might have gone down an extra trick, which would have been the case if the adversely-held hearts had been divided 6-3 instead of 5-4. But, as a principle of sound play, one should not let the possible loss of an extra trick influence him into adopting an inferior line of play.

Wright Showing Signs Of Comeback

United Press International
Clyde Wright's downfall last season may turn out to be a windfall for the Milwaukee Brewers.

Wright, a 31-year-old left-hander who won 22 games for California in 1970, slumped to a dismal 11-19 record last year with the Angels and was put on the trading block this past winter where he was promptly picked up by the Brewers for catcher Ellie Rodriguez.

It was a deal the Brewers couldn't refuse and one they're hoping will make them contenders in the American League East Division this year.

So far, in two starts as a Brewer, Wright has justified his new club's faith in him. He boosted his record to 2-0 Monday night when he four-hit the Baltimore Orioles in a 6-1 triumph.

It was His Turn
"You've got to learn and I have learned that on certain days the good hitters are going to send you to the well. But tonight it was my turn. I had good everything. Good speed, good command," said Wright, who pitched hitless ball over the last seven innings.

The Brewers made Wright's task easier by getting him five runs in the second inning off Mike Cuellar. Four singles plus a walk and a throwing error by Cuellar accounted for the runs.

In other American League games, Detroit edged Boston, 1-0, California whipped Minnesota, 8-1, and Oakland nipped Chicago, 4-3, in 13 innings.

Philadelphia beat St. Louis, 3-2, Atlanta blanked San Diego, 6-0, and Houston topped San Francisco, 3-1, in the only National League action.

Tigers 1, Red Sox 0: Norm Cash's first homer of the year and the three-hit pitching of Joe Coleman enabled the Tigers to beat the Red Sox on Patriot's Day in Boston. Cash's homer came in the fifth inning and was one of only three hits the Tigers collected off Reggie Cleveland, who was making his debut with the Red Sox.

Angels 8, Twins 1: Bill Singer tossed a five-hitter and Joe Lahoud batted in two runs with a homer and a single to spark the Angels over the Twins. Singer struck out seven in notching his second win. The Twins committed five errors in the game.

Gene Tenace singled home John Donaldson with two out in the 13th to give the A's their victory. Donaldson, a late inning replacement at third for Sal Bando, opened the inning with a checked swing single and moved to second one out later on an infield out.

Tenace then singled. Ray Fosse had a two-run homer for the A's while Dick Allen had a solo blast for Chicago, which has now lost seven of its eight games.

Four Veterans Get Indy Cars

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Four veteran drivers, among them former winners A.J. Foyt and Gordon Johncock, were assured of cars today in the million-dollar Indianapolis "500," with the number of entries at 44.

The entry list may not be complete until Wednesday or Thursday, officials indicated.

Harvesters Visit Sandies As Loop Play Resumes

AMARILLO — District 3-AAAA baseball warfare resumes today and for the Harvesters, it resumes against one of the two teams tied with Pampa for the top spot in the league standings.

Pampa travels to Amarillo High for a 4 p.m. contest after an 11-day layoff for district teams. The Harvesters and Sandies are deadlocked with Caprock, all with 3-1 district records.

Both Pampa and Amarillo have been labeled the "surprise" teams in the district, since neither was expected to be a serious threat for the crown prior to the season's start.

The Sandies will counter deadly bats against one of Pampa's two mound-aces — sophomore David Edwards (4-0 with a 1.03 earned-run average) or junior Dennis Edmondson (3-1 with a 1.60 ERA). The Harvester pitchers rank 1-2 in the league in ERA.

Amarillo has been getting good hitting out of second baseman Marty Hamrock, who owns a nifty .420 batting average, and rightfielder Jesse Parrish (.392). Other Sandies batting over .300 are pitcher-third baseman Chip Biggers (.345), leftfielder Scott Woolrey (.320) and shortstop Mitch Gentry (.333).

Gentry has hit safely in eight of his last nine games, including four games in a row.

Either Biggers or Mark

Parsons will hurl today against Pampa.

Pampa's most consistent hitting has been coming from second baseman Rick Bigam (.452) and shortstop Toddy Black (.300).

Other Harvesters who will start today are centerfielder Rick Smith, rightfielder Robby Harris, leftfielder Tyler Drinnon, catcher Bobby Hendricks, first baseman Roy Morris, third baseman Mike Adair and either Edwards or Edmondson on the mound.

Ronnie White's Pampa team is 12-4, best of district teams, for the season.

One reason for the fine overall record is Pampa's defense, which is allowing an average of less than two errors per outing.

Boston Marathon Has New Record

BOSTON (UPI) — Mastery of the Boston Marathon has returned to Europe with a machine-like performance by a young Irish runner who could figure prominently in international track.

Neil Cusack, a slim, brown-haired Limerick native who attends East Tennessee State College, took a commanding lead Monday early in the 26-mile 385-yard race, and maintained it with the aid of a slight tail wind and despite a brutal stretch of pavement known as Heartbreak Hill to win in the near-record time of 2:13.39.

It was the third-fastest time ever recorded in the 87-year history of the international event, three minutes and nine seconds off the record set by England's Ron Hill in 1970. The only other runner to better Cusack's time was Eamon O'Reilly, an American, who finished second to Hill in 1970.

Heartbreak Hill, a stretch of terror to hundreds of good runners, was too much for Cusack's only serious rival, Tom Fleming of the New York Athletic Club, who finished second in 2:14.25.

He Just Wanted to Win
"I never even thought of time, strategy or anything like that. All I wanted to do was win the race," Cusack said after he crossed the finish line at the Prudential Building in the city's Back Bay section.

Cusack said prior to the race he wanted only to run well enough to qualify for the European championships later this summer.

"I've had a lot of indoor races, but I didn't know if I had enough training," he said.

Fleming, who was among the early leaders, began closing the gap as the two runners entered Heartbreak Hill, the portion of the

Chicago Holds 3-1 Lead In Series With Kings

United Press International
The Chicago Black Hawks can put an end to the Stanley Cup plans of the upstart Los Angeles Kings tonight, but for the Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers it's a brand new ball game.

After failing in its attempt to complete a four-game sweep of the Kings, Chicago returns home tonight with a comfortable 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven quarter-final series. The Hawks, who used rookie Tony Veisor in goal in Sunday night's loss, will go back to Tony Esposito for the fifth game.

Esposito has shut out Los Angeles four times in nine games this season.

The Montreal-New York series is deadlocked at two games each following the Rangers' comeback 6-4 triumph Sunday afternoon, and the fifth game will be played at Montreal tonight. The two other quarter-final series were completed

Sunday. The East Division champion Boston Bruins wiped out the Toronto Maple Leafs in four games and the Philadelphia Flyers, who won the West title, turned in a similar sweep against the Atlanta Flames.

In the semifinals, Boston will meet the winner of the Chicago-Los Angeles series and Philadelphia opposes the Montreal-New York survivor.

If the Black Hawks win tonight, they will begin their series against the Bruins at Boston Thursday night.

There was some dispute among the Rangers and Canadiens about the value of home ice for their series.

"We know we have to win one in Montreal," said Ted Irvine of the Rangers. "But we won the first game there and we're confident we can do it again. If we can play our style of hockey and stay relaxed, we can do it."

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP Houston, Atlanta, Phils Get Wins

United Press International
Reports that Larry Dierker's baseball career was at an end appear to have been a bit premature.

Dierker, who at the age of 22 won 20 games for the Houston Astros, won his second game of the season Monday night with a masterful three-hitter as the Astros downed the San Francisco Giants, 3-1. Dierker walked only three and struck out eight in pitching his first complete game in two seasons.

Dierker, who seemed destined for greatness when he signed his first major league contract at 17, pitched only 27 innings last season. He appeared in only 14 games and compiled a 1-1 record after spending most of the season on the disabled list suffering from a variety of arm ailments.

Dierker's problems weren't only physical. In addition to undergoing surgery for repair of a tendon in his pitching hand, he went through the trauma of a staggering divorce settlement as well as being involved in an accidental death in Florida prior to last season.

Cowboys To Play On Nation-wide TV 4 Times In Season

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys, who will play their first two 1974 regular season games on the road, will be involved in one Monday night, two Saturday and a Thanksgiving Day exposure on national television.

The Cowboys will meet the Houston Oilers, Cleveland Browns and Oakland Raiders of the American Conference — all three games packed into the final month of the season — and the Atlanta Falcons, Minnesota Vikings and San Francisco Fortyniners outside their Eastern Division of the National Conference.

The Washington Redskins will provide the Cowboys with their Turkey Day opposition in one of their seven home games.

The schedule:
Sept. 15 — at Atlanta
Sept. 23 — at Philadelphia (Mon.)
Sept. 29 — New York Giants

Oct. 6 — Minnesota
Oct. 13 — at St. Louis
Oct. 20 — Philadelphia
Oct. 27 — at New York Giants
Nov. 3 — St. Louis
Nov. 10 — San Francisco
Nov. 17 — at Washington
Nov. 24 — at Houston
Nov. 28 — Washington (Thanksgiving)

Dec. 7 — Cleveland (Sat.)
Dec. 14 — at Oakland (Sat.)

Angels' Chalk-- 'I'm Confident'

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The California Angels think they've got themselves a shortstop.

Dave Chalk believes so, too.

"It's a challenge," said the 23-year-old rookie from the University of Texas, "but I'm confident I can do the job."

The Angels' No. 1 selection in the June, 1972, free agent draft was handed the team's shortstop job during the spring by manager Bobby Vinkles.

It's obvious it's his position — unless he proves unable to handle it.

Although he hit only .161 in California's first nine games, his fielding was brilliant. He teamed with second baseman Denny Doyle for four double plays against the Chicago White Sox Sunday.

"Our defense could win us between 30 and 35 games this season," smiled Vinkles.

"I'm not going to worry about statistics," Chalk replied when asked about his batting average. "I'm just going to go out and do my best. Nobody could ask for more."

Chalk hit .232 in 24 games when he was called up from Salt Lake City by California late last year.

In college, Chalk was a third baseman. In the Angels' farm system — at Shreveport, El Paso and Salt Lake City — in 1972 and '73, he played short, third and second.

"I'd have to say shortstop is the toughest of the three," he said. "If you knock down the ball at second or third, you still have time to throw out the runner. You don't get the man unless you field the ball cleanly at shortstop."

Milwaukee Picked Over Chicago Bulls

United Press International
The old Army game of hurry up and wait may have worn down the finely honed edge of the Milwaukee Bucks, who would love nothing better than to realize an expansion club dream of revenge against the New York Knicks.

While the Bucks are favored to beat the Chicago Bulls tonight in the start of the best-of-seven Western Conference finals, the Knicks' chances of making the little series for the third straight season was being steamrollered by the Boston Celtics in the NBA Eastern Conference playoffs.

The Bucks are the most rested players among the four contenders after disposing of Los Angeles in five games. But while they gathered about TV sets to watch the outcome of the Chicago-Detroit series, the Bulls were retaining the sharp touch with constant competition in the seven-game victory over the Pistons.

The Bucks last played on April 7. They again call on Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to wear down the Bulls front line and block the lane against penetrating Chicago guards.

"Chicago gets most of its scoring from forwards Chet Walker and Bob Love. But we also have to stop Norm Van Lier from penetrating," reminds Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello.

The Bulls are short on good pivots and this facet alone could prove Chicago's undoing.

The Knicks come off an horrendous 113-88 beating by Boston in their opening game last Sunday, but the Celtics are wary of such laughs. Last season, Boston won the first game in a walkaway and then suffered a similar humiliation in the second game.

"I'd like to throw that first game out the window," moaned Bill Bradley, who made only 2 of 11 field goal tries.

Science Today

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. President Lee A. Iacocca would like to think the $1.8 billion, No. 2 automaker has spent to convert to small car production has changed some thinking about the auto industry. It doesn't appear to have changed anything.

Ford, General Motors and Chrysler have invested more than $4 billion in the last four years in the switchover to more economical cars. They still haven't finished and probably won't as long as the fuel crisis continues.

By the time 1975 models begin rolling off assembly lines in late August, the industry will have the capacity to build 5.2 million small cars a year, compared with just 3.4 million small cars last September, when the energy crisis became a national issue.

Iacocca used the occasion of the reopening of an assembly plant in suburban Detroit in February to lash out at critics of the industry.

"I hope the massive changeover will put to rest the tired old cliché that Detroit is too rigid to change and is dead in the water, that we build only what we want to build, and worst of all, that only a new federal law will persuade us to build what people want," Iacocca said.

"We are in the midst of the greatest industrial conversion in history, at least in peacetime," he said. "We are doing it because of the pressures and incentives of the free market place."

Within days of that statement at the Wayne, Mich., assembly plant that now builds compact Mavericks instead of standard-size cars, there were new calls for the government to break up the auto industry to gain more competition. But the major criticism of the industry at the week-long hearings of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee was not against Ford, but against its biggest competitor — General Motors Corp.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the subcommittee and sponsor of the proposed Industrial Reorganization Act, says that with less dominance of the industry by one, two or three companies, there might be a substantially greater variety of products available to consumers.

"We have been told that when a few companies have 90 per cent or more of the industry's sales, there is little price competition, little innovation, and all interests are poorly served," Hart said before the latest round of hearings began in late February.

And the company that accounts for more than 50 per cent of all auto industry sales is GM, the world's largest automaker, which Bradford Snell, author of a study recommending breakup of the "Big Three," said controls the industry.

In another round of the hearings 16 years ago, George Romney, then president of American Motors Corp., complained about General Motors, Ford and Chrysler perpetuating a "big car mentality" through the strength of their advertising budgets.

Radcliff Electric—Best In Equipment Service

Modern technology has brought many advancements to mankind by providing various types of electric and motorized equipment for use.

But even with all the great labor-saving devices, equipment will still break down and need repairs.

When trouble comes to your magnetos, take them to Radcliff Electric Co., 519 S. Cuyler, for prompt and efficient repair service.

Along with repairing magnetos, Radcliff's also repairs and installs electronic ignition systems. And they also offer complete diesel injection service, specializing in Rossmaster, Robert Bosch and American Bosch diesel pumps.

Radcliff's also services any pump for John Deere, International, Case and Minneapolis Moline tractors.

Their small engine repair service also extends to centrifugal water pumps and chain saws. A complete line of Homelite chain saws are in stock at the firm.

The household head who plans to save a little money by mowing the lawn himself can get awfully frustrated when he finds that his Acme Super-Duper Rotary doesn't click.

The frustration can be short-lived, however, if he will stick the mower in his car trunk and bring it down to Radcliff Electric Co., where lawn mower repair service is unequaled anywhere in the Top O' Texas area.

"Truly dramatic new progress in medicine now waits on some basic innovation in molecular science, some breakthrough in our understanding of disease mechanisms, some new therapeutic concept, or some new tool," he told a recent science writers' seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

The FDA has been criticized in recent years for imposing stiff safety restrictions on the sale and use of new drugs. Critics say it has created a drug lag.

Schmidt said the criticisms are similar—that because of too much law or too much FDA interference,

For Best Repairs Anywhere Take Your Auto To Ford's

Ford's Body Shop has acquired an outstanding reputation over the years for quality workmanship in the repair of caved-in doors, crushed fenders and misplaced bumpers on automobiles.

Coyle Ford, owner and operator of the shop, has been in the repair business since 1934. Ford's Body Shop has been in Pampa since 1944 and after 29 years of experience the workers are still maintaining their reputation for putting out the best quality car repairs.

Several expert repairmen are on hand at the shop ready to get your automobile back on the road as quickly as possible.

Coyle Ford invites you to come by the shop any time to look over their facilities, which includes the latest and best of equipment, and their materials used in repair work, including a new frame machine, used for repairing bent or damaged frames on all trucks and cars.

Satisfaction is guaranteed to suit the customer's taste on all work done in the shop.

For the best body work in Pampa, the place to take your damaged automobile is Ford's Body Shop at 111 N. Frost.

Dollar Becoming More Ineffectual

AUSTIN (UPI)—The index of business activity in Texas rose by 5 per cent to an all-time high in February, but the dollar volume of bank debits—up by 33 per cent—is proof of how ineffectual the dollar is becoming, a University of Texas researcher says.

Robert H. Ryan, editor of the Texas Business Review, said in terms of actual volume Texas business was 10 per cent more active in January and February than in the first two months of 1973.

But further evidence of the effect of inflation was provided by employment and earnings statistics from the Texas Employment Commission. From 1973 to 1974, weekly earnings of the average manufacturing worker rose by 11 per cent, almost the same increase as that in consumer prices.

To achieve the earnings, the manufacturing employee worked 4 per cent longer hours—resulting in an overall decline in the buying power of Texas factory workers per hour actually worked.

Ryan said figures supplied by department stores showed an 8 per cent higher dollar volume this February than last, indicating increasing reluctance among workers to spend their hard-earned dollars.

"It is fair to conclude that department stores are not selling significantly more goods than they did a year ago," he said.

Energy costs have also had a telling effect on the price indexes. But the relatively low cost of fuels in the Southwest has helped restrain inflation slightly in Dallas and Houston.

During February both cities had the lowest gasoline prices among the 23 U.S. metropolitan areas sampled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Household gas and electric services have also remained relatively economical in Texas, Ryan said.

Beefs Against Show Business

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Complaints were never more popular than they are today. Ralph Nader started it, then along came "The Great Complainer," Ralph Charell, with a big-selling book... and it started me thinking about some beefs I have against certain conditions in show business.

Taste Sometimes Psychological

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My teenage son came up with a good question. If everyone's taste buds are alike, why don't they like or dislike the same foods, dispelling the fact of the mind?

Some children are conditioned by comments that parents make about liking this, disliking that. Taste buds help set the flavor basically, but whether you like the flavor is psychological.
