School Board Reorganization Slated Tonight

Reorganization of the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees will take place today at the April meeting of the board at Carver Center beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Bill Arrington and Sam Anderson were elected to the board in the April 6 school election. They will replace current members Warren Hasse and Dorothy Stowers.

Hasse did not run for reelection to the board this year after serving for several years. Mrs. Stowers was appointed to the board in January to replace Ben Sturgeon, who resigned to move his law practice to Amarillo, and finished a distant fourth in her bid to become the first woman elected to the board.

Prior to the administration of the oath of office to the new members, the current board will consider the minutes of two past meetings and the payment of due bills, as well as take several personnel matters into consideration.

Among those are recommendations that the salary of Pampa High head basketball coach Robert McPherson be increased $2,000 per year and that Betty Chamberlain be paid $300 for her work with the girls' track team this year.

Following the personnel considerations, the board will be reorganized and other regular business will be taken up.

Included in that is the setting of a day and time for board meetings, purchase of a lot for the construction of a house by the Vocational Trades Department at PHS next year, requests for use of school facilities, workmen's compensation, appointing of a board of equalization, policy in regard to teacher re-employment recommendation lists and minimum wage requirements.

its sense of national destiny and lead the world's search for peace.

In a patriotic type speech to 4,500 members of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) at their "Continental Congress" in colorful, flag-bedecked Constitution Hall, the President recounted the wars of this century, and said the nation must meet the challenge "to provide the leadership so the next generation can be the first generation in a century that does not have a war."

The President spoke for 25 minutes, concentrating entirely on the nation's leadership in world peace efforts. He did not refer to Watergate, the House impeachment investigation or domestic politics.

"There is no other nation in the free world today, among the industrial powers that can assume the leadership," he said. "The peace of the world is in our hands."

Nixon said the great strength of the American Revolution was that it was "a continuing revolution throughout the 200-year history of our nation," and that America has a sense of great mission. The United States, he said, "stood for something more than material strength and wealth" and must continue that responsibility.

"America came into the world not just for ourselves but the contributions we could give to all of mankind," he said.

Nixon brought cheers from the beribboned delegates when he said: "At a time when so much attention is given to those who deserted America, let's give attention to those 2½ million who served America in Vietnam."

The DAR's president-general, Mrs. Donald Spicer, welcomed the President with the message that the DAR members wanted to "show you how firm our support is and how deeply we believe." The hall erupted into cheers.

Nixon sent Sparling, who lost the traditionally Republican seat to Democrat J. Bob Traxler, a wire congratulating him on putting up "a good fight."

Aides said that Nixon will "never turn away" from future opportunities to campaign for Republican candidates if he is invited.

The DAR can be considered a friendly audience for Nixon. The organization supports his stand against amnesty for Vietnam deserters and draft resisters, but is wary of his foreign policy views on detente with the Soviet Union.

The DAR passed resolutions Wednesday reaffirming opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution and called for a ban on teaching of "occult and pagan" religions in public schools.

Rep. Rodino Says Committee Means Business With Tapes

ATTACKS ADMINISTRATION — Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor in the May primary elections, addressed members of the Pampa Rotary Club yesterday. She denounced the records of Gov. Dolph Briscoe's administration and called for public business to be conducted publicly.

ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

'Sissy' Wants Openness In Government Business

Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, Democratic candidate for governor, addressed members of the Pampa Rotary Club and their guests yesterday at the Coronado Inn and said she is basing her campaign not on campaign slogans and promises which are "resurrected every two years" but on openness in state government.

She said that in her experience in state government she has seen that much of the public's business is done in secrecy and she believes that "public business should be conducted publicly."

Attacking both the present and past administrations, Ms. Farenthold said there is going to have to be a major change in public school financing and, with it, tax reform because "between 25 and 30 percent of real property in Texas (which is the basis of school financing) is not even on the tax rolls."

She also said that of eight standards set out by a national committee on education concerning the funding of public education, Texas fails to meet seven of them. Rhode Island is the only other state with such a poor track record.

She said that property tax reform in Texas is going to be a monumental task, but it must begin, Ms. Farenthold said she has been an "advocate of reform since 1968 and still it has not begun."

Referring to secrecy in government, she said she sought information from the state's Comptroller of Public Accounts, Robert Calvert, concerning 100 foreign corporations doing business in Texas with special exemptions.

After continually hounding Calvert on the subject for several months, she said, she received a letter from the comptroller's office saying that the information she sought was privileged information.

She said she checked and found out that there was an article in the state constitution, less than two lines long, which indeed did make that information privileged. That needs to be changed, she said.

Ms. Farenthold also said she has found from her experiences that "not only blacks and Mexican-Americans are not represented in Texas but most Texans are not represented."

Another issue she mentioned was the need for public utilities reform saying "even my opponent (Gov. Dolph Briscoe) is becoming aware of this."

She said the rural telephone user in the state has no recourse when dissatisfied with the service he receives and said that a telephone call from Galveston to Texarkana, Ark., costs 95 cents while a call from Galveston to Texarkana, Tex. costs $1.25.

Ms. Farenthold, from Corpus Christi, is a former member of the Texas House of Representatives, and finished second to Briscoe in the 1972 Democratic primary race for governor.

Besides her visit to Pampa yesterday, she spoke in Clarendon and in Amarillo. She continued her tour of the Panhandle today with stops in Canyon, Hereford and Tulsa.

Nancy Palmer, chairman of the Gray County Farenthold for Governor organization, introduced the candidate at the Rotary gathering.

Egypt Warns Of New War For Mid-East

United Press International Syrian and Israeli troops fought on snow-capped Mt. Hermon and the rocky battlefields below today despite Egyptian warnings the daily Golan Heights clashes could lead to a fifth Middle East war.

On the diplomatic front, Soviet experts in London said the Kremlin appeared to be trying to torpedo U.S. attempts to separate the opposing armies along the tense Golan Heights truce lines.

Syria said the latest fighting broke out across all sectors of the Golan Heights today, the 38th consecutive day of clashes on the northern front.

The Syrian command said its troops went into action before dawn after the Israelis opened fire with tanks and artillery.

In Cairo, news reports quoted War Minister Ahmed Ismail today as saying Egypt would join in the Golan Heights fighting gets worse.

"What is going on now on the Syrian front is a war of attrition," Ismail said. "If it develops into serious fighting or if the situation becomes critical, there is no doubt that we will take part in the fighting."

Syrian President Hafez Assad, back from a five-day visit to Moscow, said Wednesday night the Golan Heights fighting would continue until the Israelis pull out of the area.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said today "we mean business" in demanding tape recordings of 42 presidential conversations. A refusal to fully honor the panel's subpoena could be considered an impeachable offense, he said.

The committee, which Rodino said will begin hearing evidence in its impeachment probe about May 7, issued a subpoena last week giving the White House until April 25 to turn over taped conversations between President Nixon and various top aides in February, March and April of last year.

The White House has promised to supply a "conclusive and comprehensive" answer by early next week, but some aides have indicated that conversations dealing with national security and non-Watergate matters would be screened out.

Rodino was asked during an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show if the reported White House editing strategy was satisfactory to the committee.

"No," he replied. "This would mean that the White House would be making the final determination. This could not be a proper inquiry, a comprehensive inquiry unless we were to make the determination as to what is necessary. The committee in the last instance is the determining factor. That's the way it's going to be."

Asked what kind of message the committee was attempting to give the White House, Rodino replied:

"We have to indicate quite strongly that we mean business and that the House has given us this authority and therefore this would be a refusal not only to comply with the request of the committee but with the House of Representatives as the sole power to inquire in impeachment proceedings."

He asserted, "We have issued a subpoena. It's necessary that the White House comply because it's in the interest of answering a nagging question that is before the American people. Unless this is done, it is going to be considered by the committee as a refusal on the part of the White House and could be considered as a possible crime of impeachment."

Rodino said "the only way that the committee inquiry can be satisfied" is if it has a hand in screening out irrelevant material in the tapes.

He indicated that it may be satisfactory if he, along with Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, the panel's ranking Republican, and the committee's impeachment counsel, John Doar and Albert Jenner, be given a hand in the screening process.

Rodino would not speculate on what action the committee might take if the White House did not fully comply with the subpoena.

Some other committee members have noted however that the committee has no real power to enforce the subpoena.

The committee and the Watergate special prosecutor's office both have asked for large numbers of White House tapes and documents. The committee demanded a response by April 25—one week from today. The prosecutor's subpoena request is pending in federal court.

Charles Colson, one of the defendants in the Watergate cover-up case, also has requested access to some of the tapes.

Colson, a former presidential aide indicted March 1 in the Watergate cover-up along with seven other ex-White House and Nixon re-election officials, asked Wednesday that a subpoena be issued for certain tapes and materials before his scheduled Sept. 9 trial.

The request, made in a two-paragraph motion filed with a U.S. District Court, also asked that Colson's lawyers be allowed to inspect the materials.

The action followed by one day a request for a similar subpoena by Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski. Jaworski filed a lengthy affidavit Tuesday seeking the access to tapes and other documents involving 64 meetings and telephone conversations between Nixon and several former top aides from June 20, 1972 to June 4, 1973.

Colson's lawyer, Sidney Dickstein, said his grounds for seeking the subpoena were the same as the special prosecutor's.

In his affidavit, Jaworski said he was seeking the subpoena "solely for the purpose of preventing any postponement of the trial or delay during the conduct of the trial." Colson is presumably seeking the evidence to help prepare his defense.

Jaworski asked the court to order the White House to answer the subpoena by 10 a.m. EDT April 23.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, is expected to act on Jarowski's request when he returns from vacation May 1.

Material dealing with a number of conversations between Nixon and Colson were among those sought by Jaworski. Several of those talks occurred in January and February last year —about the time, according to former White House Counsel John W. Dean III, there were discussions at the White House concerning possible executive clemency for the original bugging conspirators.

The proposed subpoena also requests evidence involving three conversations Nixon had with Colson on June 20, 1972.

IN FEDERAL COURT

Pampan Testifies In 'Swindle' Case

OKLAHOMA CITY — Warren Fatheree of Pampa, who along with Pampan George Cree was a part owner of an unsuccessful postal franchise in New Mexico in 1969, testified in federal court here Tuesday that he did not feel he had been swindled in connection with the business deal.

The Independent Postal Systems of America and its founders, Thomas M. Murray, Orville R. Declair and Eugene F. Feronti, are charged with 15 counts of conspiracy, mail fraud and interstate transportation of securities with fraudulent intent in connection with the operations of IPS.

IPS was incorporated in Oklahoma in 1968 and Fatheree said he and Cree purchased the New Mexico franchise of the corporation in 1969 for $50,000.

Only an initial fee of $20,000 for the franchise was paid, Fatheree said, because the operations of the third class delivery service never expanded out of Albuquerque. The two Pampans also had an option to purchase an El Paso franchise from the company, an option which was never exercised.

Asked by defense attorney Stephen Jones if he felt the three founders of the company misrepresented the franchise, Fatheree replied "I'd have to say truthfully, no."

Fatheree told The News this morning postal inspectors came to Pampa to speak to him and Cree in 1972 about the operations of the company. He said his view of the business venture is that a proposed national organization of the IPSA, which was to lineup national accounts for the franchise, simply was not able to perform as it was supposed to but, as far as he knows, there was no fraud involved.

Fatheree also said he did not testify, as has been reported in other newspaper accounts, that the option agreement on the El Paso franchise was made for tax purposes.

IN WTSU SPEECH

Price Blames Congress For 'Confidence Crisis'

CANYON — Congressman Bob Price agreed here today there is a "crisis in confidence in government" today and laid much of the blame with the Congress.

Price addressed the West Texas State University student body after meeting with WTSU Young Republicans and before holding a discussion session with WTSU political science classes.

The congressman and his wife, Mary, are making a week-long tour, including a score of appearances, throughout the 13th District during the congressional Easter recess.

"You can hear a lot these days about a crisis in government," Price told the students. "That crisis is real and I have been seeing the reasons for it every day in Washington since I was elected to the Congress eight years ago."

"Watergate is certainly not the whole reason for today's crisis in confidence in government officials," Price said. "More than likely it was the 'star that broke the camel's back.' The public has been working up to this crisis for a long time."

"The people are fed up with the Congress as much as anything else. Over the years, the Congress has appropriated more federal spending than the budget allowed; told the President not to spend more than the budget ceiling, and then complained when he cut funding back to the level the Congress itself had set. If the cuts weren't made, the people would be taxed to death," Price said.

"Now the Congress is crying about losing power to the Executive Branch, when it was the Congress itself which has passed over its power in bits and pieces to the White House over the years. That sort of activity can be expected to generate a crisis in public confidence in its elected officials."

Jury To Decide Patricia's Role

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal grand jury will attempt to decide whether kidnapped Patricia Hearst was a willing member of a nine-person team that invaded a branch bank and made off with $10,960.

U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. said Wednesday that the grand jury was looking into "the voluntariness" of Miss Hearst in Monday's robbery which ended with two bystanders suffering bullet wounds.

Meanwhile in Washington, D.C., U.S. Attorney General William F. Saxbe said he felt Miss Hearst was an active participant in the holdup and was a "common criminal."

Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father and president and editor of The San Francisco Examiner, took umbrage with Saxbe's comments. The newspaperman called Saxbe's remarks "speechmaking."

"It's speculation..." Saxbe has the right to think what he thinks, and I also have the right," Hearst said. "As far as I'm concerned, it's speculation at this point."

Browning had said Miss Hearst, abducted Feb. 4 from her Berkeley apartment by the Symbionese Liberation Army, might have been coerced into participating in the holdup to convince authorities and the public she was converted to the philosophy of the revolutionary, underground organization.

But in a Wednesday statement he said, "I have consistently maintained that evidence may show all participants in that robbery were acting freely and voluntarily. After the grand jury has heard all available evidence, I will abide by their decision."

Saxbe said he concluded Miss Hearst was not a reluctant participant in the robbery. He explained he based his opinion on "the way she behaved, the number of people in the bank who observed her behavior, the testimony of witnesses and the actions in the bank."

Miss Hearst was one of four women who entered the bank. They were armed with automatic rifles. One man, identified by the FBI as Donald DeFreeze, accompanied them inside. Investigators said four men waited outside the Hibernia Bank branch in getaway cars.

Two Different Views — There were those who believed Miss Hearst was coerced into participating in the crime because rifles had been pointed at her. But the bank manager and a guard said they felt she was an active participant.

DeFreeze escaped from Soledad State Prison and was believed to be "Cinque" identified in tape recordings sent to the Hearst family as the leader of the SLA. He was named in a federal warrant in connection with the Hibernia holdup.

They were identified as William T. Harris, 29, Oakland, Calif., his wife, Emily, 27, Angela Atwood, 25, Oakland, and William L. Wolfe, 23, Oakland.

Investigators said the residence of the Harris and Miss Atwood was a known hangout for SLA members.

Stans Denies Conspiracy Plans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans testified today that "on my oath I never did anything to help Robert Vesco in any way and I never asked anyone to do anything to help Robert Vesco."

He flatly denied that he had conspired with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell to impede a federal investigation of the international financier in return for a $200,000 cash contribution by Vesco to the 1972 Nixon campaign.

He also denied lying to the grand jury that indicted the two former Nixon cabinet members.

Testifying calmly but emphatically in a soft voice as the end of the Mitchell-Stans trial neared, the former Midwestern accountant and self-made millionaire also told the jury of the critical illness of his wife, Kathleen, during much of the time covered by the indictment, detailing how he had restricted his work schedule in order to spend all weekends and all evenings except Monday and Tuesday with her in Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

Mrs. Stans contracted a rare blood disease in August, 1972, and was near death at times until mid-December.

IN ZEBRA KILLINGS

Alioto Orders Police To Question Citizens

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, calling it an "extraordinary situation," said police will stop many citizens today for questioning in a rash of random street killings.

"We are going to be stopping people in San Francisco who have a certain profile. We're going to stop a lot of people," Alioto said Wednesday after police issued composite drawings of a man suspected in the slaying of 12 persons since last November.

"This is an extraordinary situation and it calls for extreme measures," the mayor added.

All of the victims—12 dead and six wounded—have been white and their assailants have been described by witnesses as black.

"We ask the cooperation of citizens and we want to assure them that we will be mindful of their constitutional rights," Alioto said. He said police have "blanketed this town with auto patrols and walking patrols" to carry out what is known as "Operation Zebra."

Police Chief Donald Scott said that only persons who match the description in the police drawings will be stopped. The pictures depicted a black, thin-faced man in a knit cap, 20 to 30 years old and between five feet, nine inches, and six feet tall.

Alioto said it was "a police action without parallel in San Francisco history" and was necessary to end the string of apparently motiveless killings.

Class Planned To Gain Youth Ag Exemptions

The annual school to exempt 14 and 15-year-olds from the Hazardous Occupations Act in agriculture is in the planning stage. As always, the school is being held in conjunction with Roberts County.

Briscoe Studies Appropriation To Pay Bills

AUSTIN (UPI) — State utility rates are soaring and Gov. Dolph Briscoe is considering an emergency appropriation to pay the bills.

"We don't have enough money in our current budget to pay our utility bill for the current year," the executive director of the State Board of Control, Homer Foerster, said Wednesday.

The board estimates a deficit for fiscal 1974 of $10,000 to $25,000 and a deficit of $750,000 for fiscal 1975. Foerster told a subcommittee on consumer affairs he has discussed the current fiscal year deficit with Briscoe and the governor is considering an emergency appropriation.

The state is running low on funds because rates for lights, heat and water have jumped beyond expectations since last fall and ruined budget estimates.

Robert Jenkins, Foerster's assistant director for building and property services, said electricity rates have doubled, the price of natural gas for heat has more than doubled and it is expected water costs will soon double.

"We've had conservation of about 33 per cent (on electricity use)," Jenkins said. "Because of our reductions in consuming even though we've had a doubling in the price we haven't had a doubling in cost."

DISRUPTION MUST BE PROVED

Texas Court Overrules Dress Code Of School

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — In a landmark decision that could force many Texas school districts to alter or possibly eliminate their dress and grooming codes, the Texas Supreme Court has said a person's grooming habits must disrupt or distract students before they can be enforced.

The decision means districts may not be able to enforce dress and grooming codes on the basis that relaxation of such codes would cause distractions and lack of discipline.

The city of Pasadena has just such a dress code that prohibits long hair for boys and forbids girls to wear pantsuits to school. That code led to the dismissal of a 5-year-old boy from elementary school who wore long hair to hide a birth defect. A trial court ordered the child, Billy Epperson, back to school but the district's rigid dress and grooming code remains in force.

The Supreme Court's decision involved high school math teacher Gene Ball dismissed by the Kerrville Independent School District because he refused to shave a beard school officials said violated the district's grooming code.

Ball's case went to the courts and on Feb. 28, 1973, the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio said "There is evidence which would support a finding that the wearing of a beard would be disruptive to good order, discipline, decorum and effective operation of the schools."

"However, with but one exception, all of this testimony consists of the opinions of various administrators of the school district based on what they have heard at seminars and what they have read in unidentified publications." The judges said there was no direct evidence to support their claims of the troubles that could be caused by relaxing dress and grooming codes.

"At best the testimony of the administrators was merely to the effect that they feared, without detailing the facts, experience or opinions of others on which such fears were based, that the wearing of a beard by Ball would cause distraction among the students."

Stating that "as Americans we have certain inalienable rights and those rights should never be lost — even to our own government," Dr. Finney added that it was his belief citizens have the ability to do most things for themselves better than government.

The candidates said he expected to return to Pampa to continue his program of making personal contacts with people of the 13th district.

Mural Design Deadline Set For Saturday

Deadline for wall mural designs for the parking lot at 107 S. Cuyler is Saturday.

Any resident, adult or youth, may enter the mural design contest by submitting a drawing in ink or dark pencil on standard size white paper, 1/2 by 11 inches, to Mrs. Thelma Bray, 1305 Hamilton.

One wall of the parking lot will be designated for drawings pertaining to Panhandle history, and the other wall will be open to any subject.

The walls have been sandblasted and cleaned through contributions by downtown merchants in an effort to make the area on Cuyler more attractive. Other donations are being accepted to defray costs for the paint and sealers. These donations may be mailed to Mrs. Bray or to Kirk Duncan.

A committee of artists and citizens will select the winning designs, and winners will be announced by May 1. The contest is being sponsored by the Pampa Garden Club.

Demo Candidate Visits In Pampa

Dr. Louis A. Finney of Amarillo, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 13th Congressional District, was in Pampa Wednesday.

Finney is contesting Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon and Ray Ruffin of Amarillo for the nomination at the May 4 Democratic primary election.

The Amarillo physician visited with newspaper and radio representatives yesterday.

Stating that "as Americans we have certain inalienable rights and those rights should never be lost — even to our own government," Dr. Finney added that it was his belief citizens have the ability to do most things for themselves better than government.

The candidates said he expected to return to Pampa to continue his program of making personal contacts with people of the 13th district.

Town Dislikes 'Dear John' From John Deere

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The people of Orchard, Neb., population 467, didn't like the "Dear John" letter that the John Deere Co. sent to its Orchard franchise. So they've started a fight to keep the 35-year-old business alive.

Franchise owner Wayne Holliday received a letter from the huge farm implement firm last year, informing him that his franchise with the firm would terminate Oct. 31, 1974.

Holliday did $300,000 worth of business with the firm last year.

He recalled the days in 1939 when Deere representatives had camped on his grandfather's doorstep, anxious to sign up a dealership in the tiny northeast Nebraska community. "They were very much interested in a dealership in Orchard then," he said.

"But they don't seem to want us anymore." He said the company cited a trend toward bigger business as the only reason for the cancellation.

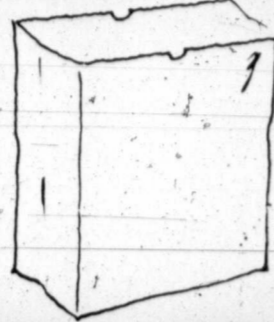

"The people who are really up in arms about this are the local farmers," Holliday said, adding that State Sen. Ernest A. Chambers of Omaha has joined them in writing protest letters to the firm.

Chambers wrote in a letter to John Deere Board Chairman William A. Hewitt and Ellwood F. Curtis, company president: "People who give loyalty and devote years of their lives in creating success and a good name for John Deere are deserving of something better from John Deere than a 'Dear John' letter.... Execution of this threat (to cancel) would be an act of corporate irresponsibility whose ominous implications will send shock waves of concern rippling through this agricultural state.

Don't call 'the other woman'—get help

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which I have discussed with my married daughter, and she said I should write to you.

After many years of marriage, my husband has been seeing another woman. She's a young school teacher he met at church. [Her father is a minister.] The worst part of it is, I know he really does love her, but I'm afraid of what people would think if I let him go to her.

I admit that our marital relations have never been enjoyable for me, but I have done my duty and given him three children who are grown and married now.

I work full time, which my husband never liked, but it has provided us with lots of extras we wouldn't have been able to get as soon as we did.

Should I call this young woman and tell her I know the truth and she'd better stop seeing my husband or else? Should I call her father and tell him about it? Or should I keep quiet and hope they get tired of each other before too many people know about it?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Don't call the young woman. And don't call her father. You and your husband should get some counseling and level with each other.

If you don't let him go to her [knowing that he really loves her] because you are afraid of what people would think, that's a poor reason. Add that to your feeling that you've done your "duty" and given him three children, and the picture becomes even more clear. You seem to be a reasonable woman. Counseling is the only answer.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been arguing over a question that we would like you to settle for us.

I say it is bad manners to yawn in company, but if you can't help yourself, you should do it with your mouth closed.

My husband says he only yawns when he can't hold it back, and he can't yawn with his mouth closed.

Please give us your opinion. Thanks. MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: Yawning with one's mouth closed isn't easy. However it can be done, but a squelched yawn offers very little satisfaction.

The ideal solution would be to go ahead and yawn, but cover your mouth with your hand. And apologize for it afterwards.

DEAR ABBY: In trying to decide what to give my son and his bride for a wedding gift, I have come to the conclusion that the best gift I could give them would be the treatment at a "stop smoking" clinic.

The treatment costs $350 per person, so I feel that it would be a generous gift, considering my relatively low income. My son has been warned by his doctor that he should stop smoking, and he has indicated that he would like to. However, there wouldn't be much point in giving him the treatment unless his bride takes it, too.

Under the circumstances, would it be proper for me to offer such a gift or would I be considered meddling?

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR CONCERNED: I don't agree that there wouldn't be much point in giving your son the treatment unless his bride agreed to take it, too. However, unless you know for certain that they both want the treatment and would welcome it as a wedding gift from you, it might not be appreciated.

Pollution fight cost NEW YORK (UPI) — Bringing existing facilities up to present pollution-control standards could cost American business $22.3 billion, or 3.5 times what it is planning to spend this year, according to McGraw-Hill's 6th Annual Survey of Pollution Control Expenditures.

"This year's total investment of pollution abatement will represent 5.9 per cent, or $6.2 billion, of all capital spending—up from 5.1 per cent in 1972," reports Douglas Greenwald, McGraw-Hill's chief economist. "Total outlays in the anti-pollution area are expected to remain near the 6 per cent mark into 1976."

MR. AND MRS. JERRY WITHERS
...nee Miss Teresa Ann Cloyd

Cloyd-Withers Vows Exchanged

Nuptial vows were solemnized recently in Lefors for Miss Teresa Ann Cloyd and Jerry Glenn Withers.

Mrs. Margie Prestidge of Lefors, officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest B. Cloyd, 808 N. Dwight, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Withers, Jr. of Lefors.

The bride wore a white street-length dress of dotted Swiss, styled with leg-o-mutton sleeves of white lace with insets of pink roses. She carried a nosegay of white carnations with pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The couple will make their home at 411 Hill, Pampa.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Pampa High School and graduated from Pampa College of Hairdressing in 1972. She is presently employed by Michelle's Beauty Salon.

The bridegroom attended Lefors High School where he was active in football, basketball and track. He is presently employed at Land & Marine.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

The words "expert play" are often misapplied, but such is not the case in today's deal. South's play of his slam contract was truly expert. The hand came up in a rubber-bridge game.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

North deals.

NORTH
♠ A 7
♥ A K 10 8 4 2
♦ 7 5 4

SOUTH

♣ A K 6

The bidding:
North Pass 2♠ Pass
3♥ Pass 3♠ Pass
1♠ Pass 6NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

South's final bid of six notrump, rather than six spades, is difficult to understand, considering that North was known to have the spade ace, and, in addition, North had raised spades. Actually, six spades was there for the taking, with only one trump trick being lost.

West's opening diamond lead was captured by South's king, after which the queen of hearts was cashed. Now came the key play: South led his three of spades and inserted dummy's seven after West had followed suit with the six.

After winning the trick with his nine-spot, East returned the diamond queen to South's ace. A spade was then led to dummy's ace, and on the ace and king of hearts South discarded his minor-suit losers. A club lead to South's ace then enabled declarer to cash all of his spades, plus the king of clubs. Thus his only loser was a spade trick.

Had South's initial spade lead (at trick three) been taken by the board's ace, the slam contract would have been defeated. In this case dummy's ace and king of hearts would have been cashed next. South discarding thereon his minor-suit losers.

Spades would then have been played. South losing the fourth spade lead to East's jack. East would now have cashed his established jack of hearts, for the setting trick. The success of declarer's contract necessitated his playing the hand as he did: giving away a spade trick BEFORE cashing the board's ace and king of hearts.

As he played the hand, declarer deliberately gave up his chance of making all 13 tricks. Mathematically speaking, he was a favorite not to lose a trick, since the five outstanding spades figured to be divided 3-2. And if the latter distribution existed, then South would make six spade tricks by cashing the ace, king, and queen of spades. But he wasn't going to jeopardize his slam contract for an insignificant overtrick.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

FRIDAY, APRIL 19

Your birthday today: Opens a long campaign to get up and out of present limitations. You are impatient for better things and willing to do something extra to get them, against strong competition and cross-currents of changing times. The balance tips in the final quarter and you're well on your way. Relationships sustain the stress if you make a dedicated effort. Today's natives have a flair for drama and perennial expectations of unique personal "luck."

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Control your temper long enough to see the humor of the situation, but don't expect much sympathy. Family affairs are of more concern than career.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Be wary of getting involved in discussions of finances. Survey your household, see where you want to make future changes; get into the planning stage now.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Any comment you make now tends to be taken much more harshly than is intended—and it's probable that you do have some blunt criticism to offer.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Avoid complex confidential deals. Keep to basic requirements in the prevailing difficult situation, making no exact promise of early perfection.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: In material affairs you'll do better going it alone on a strictly conventional path, no hit-and-miss experiments or gambling. Older people pose some strain.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Charity and many other qualities begin at home. Cater to health and happiness of your own people in preference to business. Top persistence to tact.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Machinery must be used with extra care. Everybody is off in fifty different directions, so ready cooperation is rare. Begin to make adjustments this evening.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Your own drive runs stronger than your associates can cope with. The temptation to speculate should be quashed—you could wind up very short more rapidly than you imagine.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Flights of fancy generate extreme discussion. There is no simple way to settle anything until rather late in the day—no rush would help.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Continue along the same lines you've described. Where others insist on changes, you have to let them off the hook as gracefully as you can.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Spending gets out of hand all too easily for what should be routine weekend supplies. Others point out shortages; perhaps they exaggerate.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Let people make their own decisions. In proposing nothing beyond the necessary you diminish the chances of bickering over what is to be done.

JANE LONG CLUB

The Jane Long Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday, April 9, in the Courthouse Annex. Mrs. Rusty Williams called the meeting to order. New officers were elected, and Mrs. Glenn Knight was reelected president; Mrs. O.B. COKE PARTY — Pampa Panhellenic members are sponsoring a casual coke party Sunday, April 21 at 2 p.m., at 2101 Christine, for all college-bound senior girls. Preparations are being made by local members from left, Mrs. Robert Williams, Jr., Mrs. Bill D. West, and Mrs. David McDaniel. ## Energy Crisis Could Renew Family Togetherness

COLLEGE STATION — "How" the energy crisis will change family life concerns authorities more than the question, "Will it?" one expert said this week.

She's Dorothy Taylor, specialist in family life education, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Some authorities predict the crisis may help strengthen family relations, ties and understanding," she observed.

"Usually a family gets its goals from national standards — and its values and activities from relatives, the church, school or other organizations. In turn, the family adapts these for itself.

"Because the energy crisis is making families more homebound, the time is ripe for a renewal of family togetherness."

"For example, now families can choose activities that interest them earlier but were set aside when life became so busy," she said.

"This is a prime time to revitalize family-centered recreation."

Because of less frequent, or shorter-spurred travel, families will stay home more, and they'll look for recreation with other family members rather than outsiders, she noted.

Table games — including chess, checkers and cards — exemplify some forms of family recreation.

"Stimulating sports like touch football, badminton and folk dancing offer additional possibilities."

"Some family members prefer to spend leisure time doing volunteer work — teaching and sharing skills and ideas with 4-H clubs or other youth groups."

"Still others' interests lie in studies. Such people study together to broaden their horizons through home study courses, craft classes or simply exploring their interests."

Sharing in reading, writing, home repairs and gardening also will experience renewed interest, the specialist predicted.

"Indeed, we can expect changes within families as a result of the energy crisis."

"But through choosing a course of action for its new leisure and family togetherness, a family can avoid making this a time of extreme boredom," she concluded.

Gets rights HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Paramount Pictures has acquired the worldwide distribution rights to "Here, There, Be Dragons," produced by Gregory Peck.

Party Will Honor College-Bound Girls

All college-bound senior girls are invited to a casual coke party Sunday, April 21, at 2 p.m. at 2101 Christine.

Pampa Panhellenic, a group of local women who belong to national college sororities, is planning the party.

The program, "Keys To College," is designed to answer some of the questions college-bound girls may have about sorority life.

Each girl will be asked to fill out a card for the master file, which will include her scholastic average, rank in class, activities and honors. It will be very helpful, if each girl will bring eight billfold-size pictures of herself which will be placed in the file.

Pantsuits or short outfits are appropriate for the casual event.

Influenza trucks NEW YORK (UPI) — The truck industry is having a steadily growing influence on the American family's daily existence, says Jack F. Whitaker, president of Whitaker Cable Corp., automotive parts maker.

Whitaker said products delivered by trucks include 82 per cent of all clothing; 72 per cent of meat, poultry and small game products; 70 per cent of dairy products; 98 per cent of fish and seafood and 68 per cent of pharmaceutical goods.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

A publisher's editorial representative will be in Amarillo in May. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication by Cowden Press, Inc., well-known New York publishing firm. All subjects will be considered including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, drama, religion, philosophy, etc.

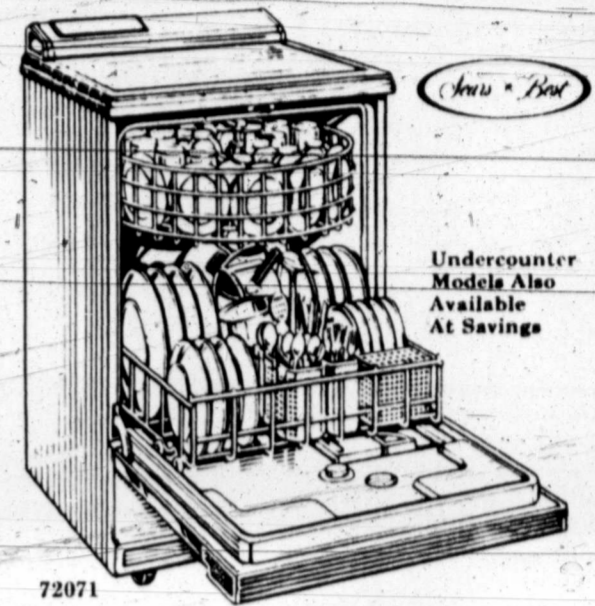

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment and kindly mention your phone number. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to the representative (address below) for a free reading and evaluation. He will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Cure For Bureaucracy

With the consent of Congress, the bureaucracy has served notice that it will not stop until every enterprise and individual is under its heel.

The notice came in the form of an 18-page packet of proposed rules that requires one appointed bureaucrat, the air pollution control officer, to dictate to everyone else.

Technically, county supervisors are supposed to sanction the regulations, but — even if they don't — the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will.

Under the rules, any agency or business subject to them is guilty of a misdemeanor if it refuses to submit plans for compliance.

As many will recall, the federal EPA tried something similar to this just a few months ago. Under the so-called Clean Air Act, some environmental group out in California went to U.S. District Court in Los Angeles and got a mandate for the EPA to employ the powers that Congress had theoretically handed to it. These powers imposed a fee on the existence of privately owned parking spaces.

Such an outcry arose that the bureaucrats decided that their phoney court mandate wasn't as mandatory as they thought it was. Their apparent strategy is to wear the public out by attacking the target from a slightly different angle. They know that busy merchants are physically able only to spend so many hours a week on civic folders, whereas bureaucrats have little responsibility for anything except civic folders.

In short, the bureaucracy stands to gain by attrition what it could not gain by frontal assault.

The odds are certainly in the bureaucracy's favor in this unequal contest. Private persons are virtually helpless when a substantial segment of their own government turns, like a maddened elephant, upon them. It will require cool thinking and a little courage to get past this difficult situation.

Occasionally, we are asked what an individual can do or ought to do in instances of this kind. So we have had plenty of stimulus to think the matter through.

First, we believe that the individuals in the bureaucracy ought not to be blamed. While it seems from the outside that those on the inside ought to be able to do something to deflect the onrushing regimentation from its course, our investigations show that the bureaucracy controls the bureaucrats as thoroughly as it controls the public, if not more so. Individuals within the apparatus have little latitude for decision.

Second, we believe it is a waste of time to blame the bureaucracy. That is no more beneficial than ascribing our woes to any other inanimate object. Though it is comprised of humans, the bureaucracy is not itself human. It is an organizational thing. The very character of government is to degenerate over a period of years into misgovernment. It would be

"I keep getting this creepy feeling that we're an idea whose time has come."

INSIDE LABOR Nixon Angered By 'Hard Hats'

By VICTOR RIESEL
WASHINGTON — It was Dick Nixon's personal decision to hit the hustings — in the North, in the state which labor claims for itself, in Michigan which has the most intense concentration of angry striking steel workers, embittered construction unionists, a powerful, politically integrated, unified auto union - AFL-CIO vote - getting machine right in its own ball park.

He wanted to prove that he needed to go south for friendly audiences — and that he would not "hole up" in the White House.

The labor movement — including the national hard hat leaders — has been following its chief George Meany in making him the target of labor's toughest product boycott. He wanted to prove it isn't working.

When he's with an intimate or two in or out of his Oval Office, he's bitter over the silent treatment given him by the hard hat chiefs to whom he virtually turned over the all-powerful U.S. Labor Department.

He's angry over their boycotting him during their huge 18th National Legislative Conference early in April. Last year they cheered him. This year they refused to invite him or his Secretary of Labor, Pete Brennan. The 3,500 delegates to the Building and Construction Trades Dept. conference in the Washington Hilton mocked him, laughed derisively when Meany referred to Dick Nixon's posing with a yo-yo during a trip and howled at references to his economic policies.

Then they cheered a long line of powerful Democrats who mocked him too — Sen. Scoop Jackson, Speaker Carl Albert, Senate Labor Committee chairman Sen. Peter Williams and House Labor Committee chief Carl Perkins.

The President was irked by what he sees as ingratitude over his appointment of one of their own, Pete Brennan, former president of the New York Building and Construction Trades Council as Labor Secretary. Today there are four assistant secretaries of labor right from labor's own executive suites — and two special presidential counselors.

These are Don Rodgers, formerly an Operating Engineers international representative; Bill Usery, mediator chief as well as special White House advisor, formerly of the Cape Canaveral machinists "lodge." The assistant secretaries of Labor are Bernie DeLury, formerly of the lathers; John Slender, a former boiler maker international vice president; Paul Fasser of the steelworkers; Al Weiss, one of the most respected labor economists who has just come over from the Teamsters.

In addition six of the ten powerful Labor Dept.

regional directors are from the "movement."

Labor couldn't ask for more. And it's more than it got from any other President.

Yet the movement, all but the seafarers' leader Paul Hall, has followed its leader, Meany. So complete is its boycott of the White House that its only high level liaison with the administration, now that Treasury Secretary George Shultz is leaving after his Australian-Asian trip, is 45-year-old Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger. That's a long way around.

Meany has even said he probably would not again serve on a new Cost of Living Council Labor Management Advisory Committee. Which most likely means most of labor will boycott it.

All this has angered Pete Brennan, the butt of Meany's Bob Hope-type jibes, mockery and criticism. During that legislative conference one morning Brennan scrambled for his scrambled eggs as he made the rounds of construction unionists' breakfasts. He never did eat. He sounded off at the Ohio and New York gatherings.

There were some 400 officials at the New York morning function. There he put it on the line.

"Pete Brennan hasn't changed," he said. "I'm no different from the day I went in (as Secretary) despite the attack (by Meany). I have a pretty thick skin and I'm content to take a lot of abuse and I'm not going to hit back publicly because the only sufferer will be the labor movement. I think more of it than to hurt it. I won't be chased out. I am still a building-tradesman and painter and when I'm finished in Washington I will go back to be a labor leader or a painter."

Then he spoke of the high level staffing of the Department-by-labor-men.

It is this sort of subdued anger which also moved Dick Nixon. There were other factors, of course. But I do believe not as motivating. So Dick Nixon decided on his make-or-break Trumanesque foray — into the North "in general" and into labor's home state, Michigan, specifically. Lots of insiders are awaiting the returns for lots of reasons.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS Amnesty Alternative

By PAUL HARVEY
Amnesty is more an emotional than a legal question.

It's easy to say that Americans who don't like the American way of doing things should be allowed to get out — but should have to stay out.

It's easy to say that our prodigal sons should be welcomed home because there have been many other instances in U.S. history when they were — following the Uncivil War, the War of 1812.

Two years after World War II, 1,500 draft evaders were pardoned. Now it's been a year and a half since we backed out of Indochina and thousands of Americans are still unwelcome home, some of them after as long as 10 years in self-exile. If it were put to a vote how would you vote?

In a Harris Survey Americans were asked, "Should we allow the draft evaders to come home?"

A year ago Americans said no, 49 percent to 43 percent. This year they say yes, 45 percent to 43 percent.

Most of those surveyed still insist that the prodigals should be required to perform some form of "national service." But opposition to unconditional amnesty has declined by 11 points. This is measurable the traditional American willingness to forgive.

Congress is not going to do anything about it this year. Despite the erosion of opposition to amnesty, it remains far too sensitive an issue for most campaigners. President Nixon remains firmly and, I believe, unalterably opposed to blanket amnesty.

I expect that by the next presidential election one or both party platforms may provide for conditional amnesty. If it's a close race, one or both candidates for the Presidency may embellish that offer.

Since neither this Congress nor this President is going to recommend amnesty and since even conditional amnesty appears years away, there is another option.

Come home and face the music. Most all draft evaders who return to the United States to stand trial are receiving very light, if any, sentences.

Only one-third of those prosecuted in federal court are convicted and three-fourths of those convicted are placed on probation.

It is a calculated gamble; it's up to each individual judge in each individual case. But stateside parents can talk to the U.S. attorney in the home district and get a pretty good idea of what local judges are doing about penalties.

INSIDE WASHINGTON Congressman Triggers Much-Needed Crackdown

By ROBERT ALLEN
WASHINGTON — Two brash young members of the House Judiciary Committee's huge impeachment staff got a surprise lesson in decorum they will painfully remember for a long time to come.

It was administered by Rep. Wayne Hays, chairman of the House Administration Committee, which has jurisdiction over the chamber's facilities and properties; in effect, he is the "housekeeper of the House." A 26-year congressional veteran, the dapper Ohio Democrat is renowned among colleagues for his thorough and scrupulous management. His instantaneous barbed wit and unabashed outspokenness.

When Hays takes the House floor to say his piece, there are no challengers. Tangling with his razor-sharp tongue is like tangling with a buzzsaw.

Unfortunately for the two young Judiciary staffers, they didn't know who Hays was when they flippantly encountered him in an elevator of an annex while he was en route to inspect a computer. Following is what happened:

When the elevator door opened, Hays, seeing the two staffers with papers under their arms, stepped back so they could get off. But they didn't move. Instead, they nonchalantly looked him over and continued to drink "pop."

After a few moments, Hays got on, pushed a button for his floor, and then asked, "Where are you going?"

"What's it to you?" snapped one of them.

"What are you doing on this elevator," he demanded Hays, "just riding up and down?"

"That's right, buddy," was the lippy retort, "just riding up and down; what's it to you?"

"Who do you work for?" demanded Hays.

"For the Judiciary Committee. We're members of the impeachment investigation staff."

"Well, that's very interesting, indeed," Hays icily told them, "because your committee is slated to come before my committee in a week or so to ask for another million dollars."

After a long silence, one of the staffers asked in a barely audible voice, "Who are you, sir?"

"I am Congressman Wayne Hays, chairman of the House Administration Committee."

"We are terribly sorry," apologized the staffer. "We didn't know who you were."

"That's pretty obvious," replied Hays sternly. "And it's also obvious that you men are rude and discourteous. I am not only a member of Congress, but I am also a taxpayer, and one of the reasons we have to pay so much taxes is because we have so many arrogant jerks like you around here drawing big salaries. On the basis of your outrageous conduct, you don't belong on that committee or any other congressional committee."

With that, Hays stalked off and went to the office of John Doar, chief counsel of the impeachment inquiry. A policeman at first wouldn't admit Hays, demanding if he had an appointment, to which he replied:

"You tell Mr. Doar that Wayne Hays wants to see him, and right away."

Doar appeared forthwith, and was emphatically told, "From what I understand, you have some 70 lawyers on your staff, and what I want to know is why the hell you don't put one of them to supervising your overblown staff. You've got pipsqueaks running around who apparently have nothing else to do but ride elevators, drink pop and be insolent and impertinent. I think it's about time that some of the surplus people around here either be put to work or out to pasture without pay."

Profusely apologizing, Doar promised to "fully take care of the matter without delay" — and it's a good bet he will, because Hays will check up to make sure he does, or else!

Tax chief Alexander admitted the first Nixon tax audit was not thorough. That's like saying the Hindenberg Zeppelin lost a little altitude.

Ramsey Clark testified that Edgar Hoover wanted to wiretap Abba Eban. Probably wanted the latest gossip on Golda Meir.

Cost of Living chief Dunlop said his agency didn't know how to control inflation. That's like Dean Martin admitting he needs drinking lessons.

Since we have a surplus of inflation, perhaps Commerce Secretary Dent can negotiate a new export deal with Russia.

ALL THAT GLITTERS Three Cheers For Vitriol!

By VIC GOLD
Vitriol, n., from LL, vitreolum ... virulence of feeling or speech.

WASHINGTON — After six months on the job of columnist opinion-spewing three times a week, a stock-taking is in order — and I have a confession to make. Especially since that national weekly news magazine — you know, the one that's heavier on vitriol than substance — recently described my offerings over the past half-year as, I quote, "heavier on vitriol than substance."

Did I hear someone say it takes a vitriolic to know one? True, all too true. I confess, those Time editors are right. Not absolutely right, but nevertheless substantially accurate about the "virulence of feeling" that goes into these columns.

In fact, reading over the 80 or so pieces written since this series began, I've found enough "virulence of feeling" if bottled, to launch a minor Balkan war — were minor Balkan wars still fashionable.

Take the inventory then. During the past six months this space has sprayed vitriol, at one time or another, regarding such disparate people and subjects as (in order of virulence): Richard Nixon's tax returns, Ted Kennedy, federal judges in general, Nelson Rockefeller, TV violence, Howard Baker, mandatory seat belts, Harry Truman, credit cards, James St. Clair, Sex Week, Scoop Jackson, Kohoutek's fizzle and William Simon.

To the last-named I owe an apology, which clears out the semi-annual books in that department. Two months ago this space laid on the energy czar, vitriol gushing, because of what I then viewed as his incompetent handling of the energy crisis — or as Simon's boss prefers, "problem." I was premature, which is to say, wrong. Simon may indeed, as charged, look like that old efficiency expert, Robert McNamara. But unlike McNamara, he shows signs of efficiency in action as well as reputation.

So much for the vitriolic columns, or have I, Don Rickles-like, forgotten anybody I've offended? I mean, other than our all-time favorite virulee.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The detection of silicone in the livers of artificial heart valve patients may warn of a malfunction before it proves fatal, according to a Johns Hopkins University doctor.

Dr. R. L. Ridolfi, speaking at the annual meeting of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists here, said he had discovered little bits of silicone in the livers of patients who had died as a result of a malfunctioning heart valve.

The foreign substance was believed to have come from the little silicone ball that pops back and forth in some types of artificial valves.

In recent years the balls of artificial valves have been made of metal instead of silicone, so Ridolfi says the problem may not occur with newer models.

But he noted that at least 50,000 aortic position valves with the silicone ball have been distributed in the United States.

"How many are actually popping back and forth inside patients is not clear," he said, "but it's certainly in the thousands."

The pathologist said some patients who have died may have been saved if a tissue sample of their liver had been examined for silicone particles.

If the particles were found, Ridolfi said, the clinician would know that he was dealing with a variance in the ball of the artificial valve and could plan to take steps to replace it.

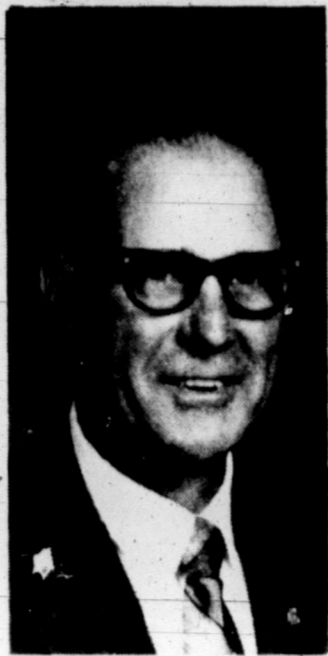

Ridolfi said it would not be advisable to take liver samples from every patient who has a long-standing artificial valve. But he believes it would be worthwhile to do this on any individual in whom variation in the valve ball was a possible reason for trouble.

The discovery of foreign material in the livers and spleens of some artificial valve patients has been reported before, but the Johns Hopkins studies were designed to find a specific way of diagnosing malfunctioning valves before they cause serious trouble.

"What we did," Dr. Ridolfi said, "was to take autopsy specimens from 38 patients with artificial heart valves that had been in place for at least three months." Three of the patients had variations from normal in the silicone ball.

It was in these three instances that Dr. Ridolfi found the foreign material in the liver.

Two of these patients had died as a result of the ball having become jammed. Today, Ridolfi says, these patients' lives might have been saved by taking a sample of liver tissue and examining it for silicone.

Business Today

By ROZLISTON
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — "I'm part of America," says Betty Jane Hilton. "I'm a little business."

The willowy blonde in her mid-forties is president and owner of Sanitized Sales Co. of America, Inc. The company markets chemicals which inhibit bacterial growth and stop the spread of fungi and mold. Although its sales are only in seven figures, the "Sanitized Treated" label appears in every American home—protecting clothes, mattresses, paint and even swimming pools from bacteria and eventual deterioration.

An orphan who started to work at 13 as a window trimmer in a Michigan department store, Mrs. Hilton joined Sanitized 17 years ago and became president in 1963. But illness has tarnished the fairy tale.

"I bought the company in 1973 for selfish reasons," she told UPI. "To stay well." In the last six years she has spent a total of 12 months in the hospital for five cancer operations and a brain hemorrhage. Despite her health record, Mrs. Hilton's performance as president of Sanitized convinced banks to loan her money—without co-signers.

"I managed to buy the business without making my husband financially liable," she says. She is married to Billie Hilton, a men's wear manufacturer and president of the Browning Fifth Avenue store.

Mrs. Hilton admits she was hesitant about buying the company because of her health, "but I couldn't let 16 years go down the drain." Illness also was partially responsible for her decision to work for Sanitized, the U.S. arm of an international sales organization.

Bored with the charity and card-playing route, Mrs. Hilton had lost a child and undergone an operation to remove one kidney. "Honey, women in my family have never worked," said her husband when confronted with the alternative of adopting four children or living with a working wife. But he opted for her chance to join the Sanitized sales force on a six-month trial admits the one-time model.

Within months Mrs. Hilton had sold cotton mattress manufacturers on Sanitized their products to prevent mildew and captured the Sears Roebuck account. She moved rapidly up the corporate ladder to vice president and then president in 1963, only six years after signing on. "I would have preferred to have children and run the local P.T.A.," admits the one-time model. "But my husband is very proud of me."

Flywheels Solution To Energy Crisis?

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University scientists are considering as a proposed solution to the energy shortage—the flywheel, an invention thousands of years old.

The versatile flywheel design presented to the Stanford Energy Seminar was introduced by Dr. Richard F. Post a professor at the University of California-Davis, and his son Stephen.

The Posts said large flywheels similar to the one they designed could be used to store power in electrically run cars and trucks. Larger flywheels, they said, could possibly be used to store large amounts of energy produced by electric utilities, helping them to meet peak hour loads.

They explained the new flywheels work as the ancient potter's kickwheel, except that power comes from an electric motor-generator instead of an artist's foot.

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The market decline seems to be due as much to a lack of buying than any increase in selling and whatever selling there has been also seems to be diminishing since volume has been trending downward during the four weeks of the decline," says E. "Many stocks are beginning to hold above previous lows," it adds.

which has been established shows no signs yet of ending," according to Merkin & Co. The firm says the weakness of the transportation and utility averages, negative odd-lot figures, and the vulnerability of stocks which have risen from their December lows could depress the list in the next few weeks. "A major buying opportunity appears to be shaping up for sometime in May," it adds, "and accumulation of funds is recommended."

Rewarding
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tom Naud, creator of a new daytime television series called "The Girl In My Life," said it is designed to reward those women who somewhere along life's way did something nice for someone without expecting a reward.

Scientist Predicts Cancer Viruses Discovery

WASHINGTON — This year will see the discovery of at least one and maybe two human cancer viruses, according to Dr. Sol Spiegelman of the Institute of Cancer Research, Columbia University. Such "discoveries" have come before, of course, often accompanied by lavish publicity and cries of "breakthrough." Invariably, the viruses involved have later turned out to be not what they seemed — only this news has remained interred in the small print of scientific journals.

Will the new discoveries, if and when they come, have a better fate? The chances are they will. The past two or three years have seen remarkable progress in understanding the likely role of viruses in human cancer. And cancer researchers won't want their fingers burned again by premature announcements. The big problem they have is proving that any virus they find in a human cancer is truly human in origin and that it really caused the cancer. It might, for instance, be a mouse virus that just happens to like living in human cancer cells. The obvious experiment is to take the suspicious virus, inject it into a human, and see if it causes cancer. Equally obvious is the impossibility of doing such an experiment. So cancer researchers have to be more subtle. They have to understand how the virus might work in causing cancer, and then look for tell-tale signs of its presence in cancer cells. It is here that the progress has been made in the last few years. It used to be thought that viruses cause cancer in the same way they cause, say, polio or influenza. Today, the prevailing opinion is that those viruses that cause cancer do so inadvertently — "by mistake" almost — while hiding out inside the cells of their hosts.

Cancer viruses could have as their main goal a quiet life amid the genes of the cells they invade. Masquerading as, say, human genes, the virus genes could "live" as long as their host. Only when something goes wrong might the virus lead its host cell astray, and turn it into a malignant renegade — a cancer cell.

The herpes simplex virus that causes cold sores (fever blisters) on the face and which can also infect the genitals may be such a virus.

Certainly the virus can persist for many years: cold sores can recur even after long infection-free intervals. And a lot of evidence links herpes infection with a higher-than-average rate of cervical cancer in women. Dr. Albert Sabin, of polio vaccine fame, has lately turned his attention to herpes viruses. Using the principle of searching not for the virus itself but for molecules that it makes, Dr. Sabin claims to have found evidence for a herpes virus involvement in 14 different human cancers. Between them, these cancer types account for 25 per cent of all U.S. cancer deaths.

Meanwhile, Dr. Sol Spiegelman has been using very different methods to tackle the same basic task — searching within cancer cells for signs of virus molecules.

His concern is with another class of viruses which use a molecule called RNA as the material of their genes (as opposed to DNA used by herpes viruses, man and all other organisms). Some of these RNA viruses cause cancer in animals. Using these RNA molecules from animal cancer viruses as templates, Spiegelman has made molecular "probes" to search for similar RNA molecules in human cancer cells.

His results are remarkable. Cells from leukemia patients, for instance, contain RNA molecules closely related to those in RNA animal cancer viruses. Of course, neither Sabin nor Spiegelman can yet prove beyond doubt that viruses cause human cancers. But the techniques they are evolving are those which will be needed for proof — maybe later this year.

And their work also points to the way cancer prevention and therapy might gain from an understanding of the role of viruses in human cancer.

On the one hand is the real but still very distant possibility of a vaccine against certain human cancers. On the other is the hope that the sort of tell-tale signs of viruses that both Sabin and Spiegelman detect might be useful in monitoring the success of a particular therapy. (One in a continuing series of reports on science and technology, produced and distributed by the Science Information Service, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Washington, D.C.)

Apples Zabaglione

An Easy But Exotic Dessert

Zabaglione, as its name clearly shows, is of Italian origin, and a very famous dessert. Actually it is a rich, sherry flavored soft custard, served warm thick and foamy at the close of a heart Italian dinner. We discovered that it makes a delightful sauce when poured over chilled canned apple pie filling (+). Its flavor has a true affinity for the mellow sweet and spicy apple mixture and the combination results in a truly unusual, exotic dessert, one that is quick and easy to make, yet sophisticated and most unusual.

It is not yet time for summer apples and it will be weeks before the scent of apple blossoms and their fragile beauty herald the forthcoming crop of later varieties. Apples that have been held in controlled-atmosphere storage are at low ebb. So it is fortunate indeed that we can find processed apple products in cans and jars on supermarket shelves to lend variety to springtime menus. Canned apple pie filling is one of the most delightful of these products, and it can be used in many ways besides filling a pie. To prove it, try Apple Zabaglione soon. (+) Not to be confused with canned pie sliced apples.

APPLES ZABAGLIONE
1 can (1 lb.-5 oz.) apple pie filling
1 recipe Zabaglione
Chill apple pie filling. Fill dessert dishes. Top with Zabaglione. Serve any extra Zabaglione separately.

ZABAGLIONE
4 egg yolks
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons sweet sherry
2 tablespoons water
Combine all ingredients in top of double boiler; cook over hot water, over low heat, beating with rotary beater until thickened. (about 3 minutes) Do not let water boil. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

Note: This recipe for Zabaglione may be doubled, if desired. Save the egg whites to use in making a white cake, angel food or snow pudding.

Gravy With Beef

AUSTIN — A product labeled "beef with gravy" is not the same thing as one marked "gravy with beef." The former must contain at least 50 percent cooked beef, the latter only 35 percent.

According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, all meat and poultry products bearing the mark of federal inspection have been checked to make sure they meet U.S. Department of Agriculture standards. Percentages of meat and poultry vary greatly according to what the item is called.

Chili con carne, for example, must contain at least 40 percent meat, but chili con carne with beans needs no more than 25 percent to pass muster.

Knowing USDA standards can help homemakers plan menus, not to mention compare prices and products. White said, "A product with 35 percent beef may be cheaper, but is it as nutritious as one with 50 percent?"

The following list of popular items shows minimum percentages of meat or poultry for federal approval.

Beans with frankfurters in sauce, 20 percent frankfurters; beef and pasta in tomato sauce, 17 1/2 percent beef; beef burgundy, 50 percent beef and enough wine to characterize the sauce; breakfast sausage, no more than 50 percent fat; brown and serve sausage, no more than 35 percent fat and 10 percent added water.

Burritos, 15 percent meat; crackling corn bread, 10 percent cracklings; deviled ham, no more than 35 percent fat; frozen dinners with meat, 25 percent meat or meat food product (cooked basis) figured on total meal minus appetizer, bread and dessert; enchilada with meat, 15 percent meat; pizza with sausage, 12 percent sausage (cooked basis) or 10 percent dry sausage such as pepperoni; tamale pie, 20 percent meat; tamales, 25 percent meat; tamales with sauce or gravy, 20 percent meat; poultry a la Kiev, breast meat stuffed with butter and chives; poultry a la King, 20 percent poultry meat; poultry ravioli, 2 percent meat.

Household Hints

United Press International
Spring fix-up and clean-up time is a good time to review safe ladder climbing rules — before you start climbing. The practices setting the scene for accidents, according to the American Ladder Institute: unbalanced climbing and/or over-reaching. Each causes a shift that could land you in the hospital — or worse.

Having the right ladder for the job at hand is a key to safe climbing. For guidance in selection of the proper ladder for the right job check with the clerk in your local hardware store.

Extension ladders should not be used outside in high winds. Too much chance the wind will upset balance.

Never use metal ladders when working close to electrical circuits, or with power tools. Too much danger of electrocuting yourself.

When climbing an extension ladder — or descending — maintain a firm grip at all times and step on the center of the rungs. Use both hands, and climb hand-over-hand, grasping the steps or rungs. Never grasp the side rails for climbing purposes.

In climbing a step ladder, never go above the second step from the top. Never stand on the top of the ladder, or on the pail shelf.

UCLA Researcher Finds '2nd Hardest' Substance

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A UCLA researcher announced Wednesday that he had developed the second hardest material in the world, after diamonds.

The discovery is "easily the most startling material development in recent years," a UCLA spokesman said of the work by Prof. Rointan F. Bunshah, an engineering researcher.

The material is called titanium carbide, and it can be produced at one-thousandth the cost of producing commercial grades of synthetic diamonds, for such uses as power drills, turbine blades, jet engines, heavy industrial cutters and other machinery uses, the UCLA announcement said.

The regents of the university have taken the patent on the vapor deposition process by which the material is formed.

Co-stars
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dennis Weaver and Estelle Parsons will star in "Terror On The Beach," a 90-minute drama for television's Movie of the Week for CBS.

Carter Spends Half A Year Near Wife's Parents

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Terry Carter, who co-stars with Dennis Weaver in "McCloud," was among the first black newscasters in the United States but decided acting was more fulfilling than chasing down the news.

If Carter sounds articulate in his role of Det. Sgt. Joe Broadhurst, it is not purely his acting ability.

He speaks fluent Spanish, Italian, French and passable German.

The Italian is vital because Carter is married to an Italian-born woman. He and Anna have been married 10 years and have two bilingual children, Miguel, 5, and Melinda, 3.

Owas Tiffany Lamp
The fuel crisis and oil shortage have nothing to do with it, but Terry is studying Arabic with a Moroccan importer based in Hollywood.

For the past five years the Carters have tried to live six months of every year in Hollywood and six months in Rome to be near Anna's parents.

They own a modest Spanish house in Santa Monica, not too far from the beach. It is decorated with antiques, some modern furniture and plenty of comfortable chairs.

Anna is most proud of an 1820 Hepplewhite dresser in the bedroom and a Dutch provincial rocker that dates back more than a hundred years. They also own a genuine tiffany lamp that goes back some 80 years.

Whiz With Moussaka
Their other home is an apartment in Rome, a 3-bedroom condominium with a terrace and a beautiful view of the city.

Anna has carefully furnished their second home with Italian antiques, many of which are more than 200 years old.

Anna was a swimming champion in Italy and is an avid tennis player. Both Terry and his wife enjoy taking their offspring to the beach in Hollywood. They try to play tennis together too. In addition to sports, Terry is a chess freak and fine amateur photographer.

Terry must watch his diet because, according to him, Anna is one of the great cooks in the northern hemisphere.

Not only does she have a way with her native Italian dishes, she is a whiz with Greek moussaka. Friends vie for dinner invitations to the Carter household in Rome and in Hollywood.

Actually, the family has two sets of friends. One in each city. The children speak Italian in Rome and English in Hollywood. Curiously, they also are members of a small Hollywood community in Italy and a somewhat larger group of Italians in California.

They count among their close friends Terry's co-star, Dennis Weaver and his family. They visit one another's homes for dinner which is unusual among most television series performers.

Terry, who came within a cat's whisker of becoming an attorney, is an accomplished piano player. His musical tastes run from Afro-Latin music to classical guitar. He hankers to take up the cello in what little free time he has.

When the NBC-TV series is shooting Terry often works from 7 a.m. until 7 in the evening. It isn't unusual for him to be out on location until midnight. There is no set schedule, but each episode of "McCloud" requires about three weeks of production.

Poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born in Portland while Maine was still a part of Massachusetts.

El Bolson Offers Vacation Spot For Backpackers

EL BOLSON, Argentina (UPI) — El Bolson, or "the large pocket," isn't large but it is a pocket—a tiny rose-flecked valley protected by mountains on two sides and hills on the other.

The wild and cultivated roses, and redwine-colored Mosceta flowers, line the streets and dominate the gardens of the community, most of the blossoms at least partially covered by the dust churned up by the unpaved roads.

A lovely trip is a four-hour journey by bus or car over the mountain roads —not paved—that wind their way through the foothills and lake district south of Bariloche, Argentina's showplace all-season resort area.

The Bariloche-Bolson-Esquel bus (the regular scheduled bus—don't take the tourist service which covers the same route but at double the cost) will let passengers out at any place they choose along the way, and backpackers will have trouble choosing the most ideal, from five minutes out of Bariloche until the roses announce Bolson.

Trail for Backpackers
A walk of one mile off the road puts one literally out of sight of civilization. Even in the most popular lake areas, campers can usually find a place to be totally by themselves.

There is also regular light plane transportation from Bariloche, and ample—but expensive—car rental facilities there.

In the geometric center of Bolson—population 4,000—is the tourist office. If he's there—he's German-born but has spent years in Argentina—Sigfriedo Janett, the information director, can point out the best places for fishing, hiking and in the winter, skiing.

His favorite line for backpackers seeking a good trail is "close your eyes, spin around a few times and take off in the direction you stop." It is not bad advice.

Three Hotels
A pleasant afternoon walk is up to Lago Escondido (Hidden Lake)—every third community in Argentina seems to have its own Lago Escondido—a small lagoon surrounded by a farm and woods.

The path is clearly marked and there is only one steep hill.

A two-day trip would be to the isolated Lago de Tres Colores (Three Colored Lake) which, like its sister lakes, is pure but actually of various colors because of its depth. For the more intrepid there are countless mountain trails between El Bolson and Chile.

There are three hotels in town but the best is the immaculate quiet "Residencia" run by Maria Steiner, a mid-60s woman who does all her own cooking over several wood-burning iron stoves.

The Hotel Steiner is the centerpiece of a 16-acre farm which supplies guests with all their cheese, milk, meat, chicken, eggs, bread and apples. From the latter,

Mrs. Steiner makes a strudel which she says tastes "even better than in the old country because all the ingredients come from right here on the farm."

Worthwhile Sidetrip
Almost as an advertisement for the cleanliness of the hotel, all Mrs. Steiner's guests leave through and pick up their room keys inside the kitchen.

An interesting afternoon excursion is a visit to a self-supporting German religious colony that farms a ranch on the slopes of the mountains to the east and welcomes travelers.

Pampa Daily News Police Find Dead Man Isn't Really That Dead

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Police have discovered a man who was thought to have been buried five years ago isn't dead.

The man thought to be interred showed up in Portland, Ore., this week trying to claim veteran's benefits for hospitalization.

Detective Dale Bithell said Tuesday that he was asked by the county coroner in Blackfoot, Idaho, to help identify a man buried in a Salt Lake City cemetery in 1969 under the name of "Modcardo I. Rodriguez."

Rodriguez supposedly was killed in Blackfoot while trying to steal a sheepdog from an Idaho sheepherder. He supposedly was shot in the face with a high-powered rifle and later identified by his estranged wife and son.

His family requested he be buried in Salt Lake City. This week, however, Rodriguez showed up at an Oregon veteran's hospital, unaware that he had been declared dead five years ago. Fingerprints established him as the real Modcardo Rodriguez.

Bea Rejects Feud With Lucy

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Bea Arthur wishes people would quit trying to get her into a feud with Lucille Ball.

"What was it like working with Lucille Ball and Angela Lansbury in 'Mame'?" a reporter asked at a TV Academy luncheon in her honor at Pub Theatrical.

"I'm not going to say a lot of things I guess people want me to say," Bea said. "It was lovely working with Angela and it was lovely and trying working with Lucy."

"How trying was it?" screamed a reporter (who turned out to be me).

"You don't get to be head of a studio if you're not a very strong person," Bea said. "She didn't want to leave it hanging there. Later she elaborated.

"Why can't people be nice to people?" Bea asked. "Lucille is a very determined lady. She wanted me for the movie. She kept saying, 'I'll go to Bill Paley.' She said, 'I won't do it without Bea.' She wants to work with professionals. We came on the set one day and she said, 'Where's your nail polish?'"

"I said, 'I don't think my character would wear nail polish.'"

"She said, 'Sure, they all wore nail polish.' She thinks I goofed in not wearing nail polish but she had enough respect for me to let my not wear nail polish.

"One day I grabbed her and I said, 'I want to say what a joy it is to work with you.' Later she said, 'I was so flattered I forgot to say I feel the same about working with you.'"

Bea Arthur added, "I'm very upset at the press attacking her about her age. What's wrong with being 62 and admitting it?"

"Lucy is like a mother hen. She feels responsible for everything, the costumes, the set, the script. Whereas with Angela in the beginning, she was not yet the big star and it was different. Lucille," she said, "and I felt she spoke with genuine admiration, 'is a heavyweight.'"

Surgery Causing Dizzy Spells?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My recent diagnosis of fainting spells, after sugar tolerance and other tests, was hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar.

About 15 years ago I had a subtotal gastrectomy (one-third of the stomach remaining). Will this aggravate my problem?

I am 64 and still enjoy part-time work and driving but these spells and weakness are annoying and dangerous.

Hence I am sure that my booklet, "Help for Hypoglycemia (Low Blood Sugar)" will be helpful to you, and help you understand the way the problem develops and how to combat it. The booklet is available by mail — send 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

occurs when no joint disease is involved. Nothing for you to be alarmed about.

What causes "balance" trouble? What can be done to correct or overcome it? Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea. Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write him, Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 25 cents in coin and long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I get dizzy, leaving my arms and upper body as though they had "gone to sleep." This happens only when I look up, as when I reach up into a cabinet and look up. Then all of a sudden I feel faint and dizzy.

As far as I know I am otherwise in good health. I am 49.

—Mrs. J.C.

This is the sort of thing that can happen if, when you bend your head back, you may compress the arteries in the neck, which could cause dizziness.

Since you know it happens to you: guard against tilting your head back. Stand on a footstool to reach upper cabinets. If you stand on a chair or a ladder, remember not to tip your head back lest you fall.

That probably is all that you can do or needs to be done about it, but I would report it to your doctor next time you see him.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes crepitus of the joints, especially hips, knees and ankles? It is not painful. I am 28.

—M.L.R.

Crepitus is a sort of grinding of various joints and a lot more common than you probably think. Just bony structures rubbing together. It may accompany certain joint disorders such as osteoarthritis, but also

Under Twenty

By LINDA BISHOP
The future of the Armed Services may well depend on the views of 74,000 of America's junior and senior high school students.

In a survey conducted by Scholastic magazines twelve percent of the students said they planned to join the armed forces at least for a short period when they graduate from high school. Another thirty-five percent said they will consider joining the armed forces but fifty-three percent said they do not plan to do so.

When the question was asked two years ago of senior high school students, 43 percent said they would volunteer for two years, 18 percent were not sure and 39 percent said no.

On the question of the draft, the students were asked if their country had the right to ask them to serve a period of time (one or two years) in some government sponsored service, such as military or Peace Corps-type service.

Thirty-eight percent answered that they feel their country does have the right. Sixty-two percent feel their country does not. Fifty-three percent think a voluntary system is better than a military draft. Twenty percent feel the draft would be better.

On questions regarding the energy crisis the survey seemed to show that their own personal desires were paramount.

They were asked how they felt about the possibility of closing schools for a month in winter and keeping them open a month in the summer to save fuel. An overwhelming seventy-seven percent are opposed. Fifteen percent didn't care either way and only eight percent were in favor.

Asked about cutting off television transmission by 10:30 at night forty-one percent said, "Absolutely not, let them look for economies elsewhere." Ten percent said, "Sure, let them cut it off earlier as far as we're concerned." Forty-nine percent said, "Why not, it doesn't matter that much."

Forty-nine percent do not want to lower air pollution standards to help cope with the energy crisis. Thirty-seven percent feels we should lower the standards but only on a temporary basis.

Changing situations change attitudes rapidly among young people. How have the changes in the military situation and in the energy crisis changed yours? Why not check out how you feel about these key questions?

Quarterly Wage Reports For Workers Due Soon

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by April 30, according to Howard L. Weatherly, social security Branch manager in Pampa.

People who pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3-month calendar quarter must send a report of the wages, along with the social security contribution, to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter," Weatherly said.

Quarters are January-February-March, April-May-June, July-August-September, and October-November-December. Wage reports and social security contributions for the first quarter of 1974 are due by April 30.

People who employ household workers may file the wage report on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service Office — "Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security)."

The 1974 social security contribution for a household employe is 5.85 percent of covered wages, and the employer pays a matching amount. "Some household employers may prefer to pay the full 11.7 percent contribution," Weatherly said, "and this is also acceptable."

Social security contributions help build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for workers and their families. People who employ household workers can get a free copy of the leaflet, "Social Security and Your Household Employee," at Pampa Social Security office at 1541-N. Hobart Weatherly said.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

The Pampa-area tracksters who are going to regional meets in either Lubbock or Odessa Friday should be strongest in field events, judging from district and yearly performance.

Area qualifiers going to Lubbock will be from Pampa (District 3-AAAA), White Deer and Canadian (1-A), Wheeler and McLean (2-A), and Lefors, Miami and Groom (2-B). Perryton of District 1-AAA will be represented by its qualifiers in Odessa, host of AAA and AA regional qualifiers.

(The Pampa area is considered by this writer as those towns, including Pampa, where The Pampa Daily News is circulated.)

Perryton's only field event qualifier is high jumper Russ Reagan, who cleared six-feet to place second in the district meet and earn a career best (he had previously done 5-10). 1-A will be well represented in the high jump since state-ranked Buddy Cummins of White Deer captured second place in the loop meet to qualify and Canadian's Ricky Wheeler won first place. Both cleared 6-0 but Wheeler did it one more time than Cummins.

Cummins, however, will be favored to win the event in Lubbock and probably in Austin (site of the state meet May 10-11) because he has gone 6-6, which makes him the top-ranked Class A high jumper in Texas.

Wheeler's best is a 6-2 leap. Four area long jumpers should represent their respective districts well. Lefors' Robert Gifford, who won in the district meet with 19-6, and teammate Barney Sawyer, who came in second with 19-5, can both do 20-plus feet, which is good in Class B.

Canadian's Kem Carr placed second in qualifying in 1-A with a 21-1 leap while McLean's Skeet Lowery had his best ever, an impressive 21-0 jump, in the 2-A meet.

In the pole vault, Randy Klein of Lefors and Stan Britten of Groom, who finished 1-2 respectively in district, will represent 2-B at Lubbock. Klein captured top honors with 10-0 and Britten went 9-6 in district. Scott Campbell of Canadian, the only other area vaulter going to Lubbock, did 11-6 in district and had gone 12-3 in an earlier meet.

Both White Deer and Lefors will send two tracksters in both the shot put and discus. Donnie Thurman of White Deer, obviously psyched up because of the chance to qualify, threw the shot 59-0 and the discus 137-8, both lifetime bests. The Bucks also qualified John Keeton who got second with tosses of 51-2 and 126-0.

Larry Wallis of Lefors won the shot put in district with a 48-7 throw and finished second to teammate Carl Cady in the discus with 123-4. Cady won the discus with 124-2 and was runner-up in the shot with 44-8.

McLean's Wesley Brown qualified in his district's meet with a second-place 119-foot discus throw.

All field events will have finals only and will start at 9 a.m. Friday at both Lubbock and Odessa. Running event preliminaries start at 12:30 p.m. Friday. Finals in the running events start Saturday afternoon.

STANLEY CUP SEMIS Rangers Can Oust Canadiens Tonight

United Press International

The New York Rangers, given up for dead by their fans just a few days ago, can eliminate the defending Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens tonight while Boston is host to Chicago in the opener of their semifinal round.

The Rangers, who have gone 34 years since last winning the cup, appeared to be out of the running again last Sunday afternoon when they were down in games 2-1, and were trailing Montreal, 3-1, in the fourth contest. But they rallied for a 6-4 victory in the nationally televised contest, then won 3-2, in an overtime thriller at Montreal Tuesday night.

This gave New York a 3-2 advantage in games and a chance to move into the semifinals against Philadelphia with just one more victory over the Canadiens. New York will have the home ice advantage tonight but if the Canadiens win, the series will shift back to Montreal for the seventh game Saturday night.

Boston and Chicago, meanwhile, had fairly easy passage into the semis. The Bruins wiped out Toronto in four games in their opening set and the Black Hawks disposed of Los Angeles in five. The Flyers also enjoyed a four-game sweep against Atlanta.

Boston, after sitting around since Sunday, is happy about returning to action tonight.

"If we had to wait around until maybe Sunday, it wouldn't have been so good," said the Bruins' Ken Hodge. "After a while you worry about losing momentum."

Monsanto Open Starts Today

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Wanted: A financial angel to keep this Gulf Coast Navy town on the PGA tour.

The Monsanto Open, which began its annual four-day run today, is losing its sponsor after this year. The huge synthetic fiber company feels it hasn't been getting its money's worth backing this $150,000 golf tournament.

A Monsanto spokesman explained: "We don't have the sort of products that the golf fan can buy at the store. There are products, tires for example, that we are involved in, but the firms that market those products have shown no interest in helping us promote a golf tournament."

The tournament is expected to be held next year, possibly under its former title of "Pensacola Open." But Monsanto, which has picked up a large share of the tab for the past six years, will make only a token donation.

R. G. Martin Jr., president of the Pensacola Sports Association which runs the tournament with Monsanto's financial aid, said his organization can hold the event without major Monsanto aid in 1975, but added that a new sponsor must be found if the tournament is to continue here after that.

Tour commissioner Deane Beman has indicated that such a sponsor may be available. But Beman pointed out that a change in playing dates may be necessary. The date here has long been a problem. For many years, the tournament was held in March and the weather seldom cooperated. The change to mid-April put this tournament right in the middle of the Masters and

Tomjanovich Might Go Over To ABA

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Rockets of the NBA believe star forward Rudy Tomjanovich is happy and unlikely to jump to the American Basketball Association.

The Utah Stars picked Tomjanovich in the fourth round of their special NBA draft Wednesday. Rocket General Manager Ray Patterson expected Tomjanovich would be chosen.

"But he has a very fair contract and I have no reason to believe he is not happy," Patterson said.

Tomjanovich last season completed the first year of a six-year contract with an option year.

CENTERFIELDER RICK SMITH, one of the best base stealers in the district and Pampa's leadoff batter, will be in action at 4 p.m. Friday at Pampa's Optimist Park as Pampa hosts the Caprock Longhorns in an important 3-AAAA contest. Caprock and Amarillo High are tied for the top spot in the district standings while Pampa is a game back.

NEW YORK (UPI) — From the ditty bag: —Wally Stenhouse, Chicago insurance executive, is the current leader in the second World Ocean Racing Championship sponsored by Yachting magazine. Ted Turner, Atlanta, is running second, and James French Baldwin, Locust Valley, N. Y., holds the third spot. The three-year event, which will end in January, 1975, involves ocean races all over the world. Contestants must complete seven races from a total of 22 listed events.

—Billy Seibold Jr., and Cees Van der Velden, a Dutch businessman, alternated driving efforts to win the recent 12th annual Parker Enduro over a 13-mile course in the Colorado River at Parker, Ariz. The pair averaged a record 92.85 m.p.h. in completing 50 laps in the seven hours allotted time. Their 16-foot Molinari hull was powered by a Mercury Twister II-X outboard. The Parker, usually a nine-hour event, was shortened to seven in deference to the fuel shortage. Tim and Geoff Briggs, Lake Forest, Ill., with an Evinrude powered Scotti hull, finished second, and Art Kennedy, St. Louis, in a Scotti powered by a Johnson unlimited, was third.

—The Cruising Club of America has awarded its Blue Water Medal for outstanding performance in cruising and for meritorious seamanship to Miles Smeeton of Cochrane, Alberta. In the period from 1955 to 1970, Smeeton and his wife Beryl cruised to almost every area of the globe in their 45-foot ketch Tzu Hang. They were twice dismasted attempting to round Cape Horn and had to make port under jury rig. —Hatteras Yachts is broadening its product line with introduction of two new models — a 31-foot Express Cruiser and a 31-foot Sport Cruiser. Previously Hatteras yachts have been available only in larger sizes ranging from 36 to 70 feet. The new 31-footers were designed by noted ocean racer Jim Wynne and industrial designer Fred Hudson.

—Named Best Boat Club for 1973 in an annual contest sponsored by the Outboard Boating Club of America was the 150-member Fifth Street Yacht Club of Racine, Wis. The club was cited for its community service, social activities, facilities development, boating safety education, legislative activities and ecology efforts.

—Art "Snapper" Norris, Detroit Red Wings vice president who has recorded three victories so far in the young 1973-74 offshore power boat racing season, is one of the top favorites in the Sam Griffith Memorial Race to be run May 4 off the Florida coast.

—Frenchman Jean-Claude Simon is reported to have invested $1 million in an expansion program being carried out by Cary Marique, Miami Beach builder of high-performance and fishing boats. A marine marketing expert, the 46-year-old Simon has been a frequent contestant on the offshore powerboat circuit.

—More than 40.2 million Americans go camping each year.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — More of everything you always wanted to know about streaking but were too astonished at the time to ask.

Q. Why is dashing about in the nude called streaking?
A. Streaking takes its name from Sir Hilary Streak of Coventry, England.

In the year 1067, Sir Hilary ran naked through the Coventry market place as a protest against high taxes. Unfortunately, he picked a cold day and the freezing weather caused his body to turn blue.

Thereafter, the term "blue Streak" became synonymous with high speed.

Incidentally, when Streak made his dash through the market place, all the people closed their eyes demurely. But his run was witnessed by a duck. Someone then killed the duck, cooked it in soy sauce and ate it for supper. This was the origin of a dish that came to be known as "peeking duck."

Q. If streaking, or Streaking, began in England, how did it reach America?

A. It was brought here by the Pilgrims. The first recorded instance came when John Alden approached Priscilla Mullens and invited her to run naked through Plymouth Colony with Capt. Miles Standish.

Priscilla replied: "Why don't you streak for yourself, John?"

Q. Why has streaking become so popular all of a sudden?
A. Streaking as we know it is an outgrowth of the jogging craze that began a few years ago.

Not infrequently, joggers forget to put on their sweat suits when they set out on their jaunts and have to sprint back home in the nude.

Were it not for the accelerated pace, nobody would notice them.

Q. Has the streaking had been taken up by children yet?
A. Yes. Little kids run around without any clothing on a television program called "Sesame Streak."

Q. Has streaking caught on in the Middle East?
A. Yes. Someone has even written a song about it. The song is called "The Streak of Araby."

Q. Some psychologists say streaking has "Freudian connotations." What do they mean by that?
A. The reference is to Sigmund Freud, an Austrian psychiatrist who became "the father of psychoanalysis." Which never would have happened if contraceptive pills had been available.

Freud explained almost everything in terms of sex. Up to and including high school algebra. If he were alive today, he undoubtedly would have viewed streaking as a symbol of sexual impotence brought about by failure to make the varsity track team.

Liv Isn't Used To Being A Star

NEW YORK (UPI) — You don't really expect a Norwegian actress to tell you she loves apple pie. And especially during the course of a mid-day feast of lamb curry at New York's elegant Pierre Hotel.

But there are a number of unexpected things about Liv Ullmann, including that she doesn't appear altogether comfortable in her fairly new role of international star. She also drops other surprising tidbits, such as that she once was nearly abducted by a strange man in London with obviously evil designs upon her person, and that she believes in ESP — extra sensory perception.

Of all the Scandinavian actresses labeled through the years as natural successors to Greta Garbo or Ingrid Bergman, only Miss Ullmann really hits the mark. Besides her brilliant and touching performances with good friend Max Von Sydow in the Jan Troell masterpieces "The Emigrants" and "The New Land," Liv helped turn Ingmar Bergman's "Cries And Whispers" into a worldwide runaway success. She survived her Hollywood baptism in "Lost Horizon" and proved her eyes demurely. But his run was witnessed by a duck. Someone then killed the duck, cooked it in soy sauce and ate it for supper. This was the origin of a dish that came to be known as "peeking duck."

sense of comedy in "Forty Carats."
In later stages she has gone from the Old West (playing Gene Hackman's mail-order wife in "Andy's Bride") to the Old World (as Sweden's 17th Century Queen Christina who gave up her throne and moved to Rome).

Astonished At Success
Liv admitted she has been astonished at the commercial success of "Cries And Whispers," the latest of several films she has made with Bergman. She continues to work with the Swedish director despite the end of their five-year love affair.

"We never thought that picture would be such a success," she said. "You know it was made on a very small budget. Nobody was paid. We were all producers. We didn't expect anything and then it became such a hit."

"Of all Ingmar's pictures, this is the public success. I don't understand it because it's really a difficult picture. I think. But then, it goes directly to the emotions. I think that's what people need now. They need to be moved one way or another."

"All the big film companies had turned it down. Not one wanted it. When it suddenly caught on, Ingmar was very surprised."

"No Calorie" Pie
Liv, having finished her lamb curry, said she would have only a cup of coffee, then changed her mind and asked for a slice of apple pie. "With all the calories out, please," she said, winking at the waiter.

The subject turned to astrology, fortune-telling, that sort of thing.

"A man in Hollywood read my hand and said I would have a boring year in 1974," she said.

Isn't that silly?
"Well I do think some of those things are true. I think the moon and sun reflect something on us when we are born. They don't give you your character, but they affect the possibilities maybe."

Near Abduction
"I believe in ESP. Sometimes. When I was 17 and in London studying drama a girl friend and I were coming out of a department store on our way to our rooms at the YWCA. Suddenly this car stopped, big limousine, and the driver asked if we wanted a ride.

"Well we thought, why not? As soon as we got in the doors locked and a glass went up between us and the driver in the front seat. We couldn't get out and we were terrified."

"The driver could see this, I suppose, and he rolled down the window and asked how old we were. I said 14. Then he drove us to the YWCA and let us go."

"Then I had a telephone call from my mother in Oslo. She wanted to know what had happened at 2 p.m. on Wednesday. She had felt somehow that I was in great danger. And that was exactly when the man picked us up."

"Of course it was years before I told her that story. Anyway it certainly stopped me from accepting rides from strangers."

A Mind-Reader
Liv said during her life with Bergman, who is the father of her seven-year-old daughter Linn, she discovered she sometimes could read his mind.

"It was a game we played. He'd concentrate on an object in the room. A vase or something. And I would guess what it was. I could do it with him."

Life Has Changed
Does she find life has changed since stardom set in?
"Maybe a little," she said. "Not among my colleagues, because they're really marvelous, and not in a big way. But I have been criticized. People comment on things I do in a different way."

"Before, they were always very nice. All the time, maybe because I played only very sympathetic roles. Now I have to eat things up, which sometimes I think is a little unfair — things I'm quoted as saying but I haven't said."

"One difference I suppose is that I'm more recognized. Nobody ever recognized me as an actress except when I was acting, and I have more of that now. It's difficult to be private."

She gave a little sigh. But she smiled, too.

The Almanac

United Press International
Today is Thursday, April 18, the 108th day of 1974 with 257 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

Famed symphony conductor Leopold Stokowski was born April 18, 1882.

On this day in history:
In 1775, American patriot Paul Revere began his famed ride through the Massachusetts countryside calling out "...The British are coming!"

In 1906, the San Francisco earthquake began. When it was over three days later, almost 500 persons were dead and more than a quarter of a million left homeless.
