Nixon Granted Delay For Tapes Subpoena

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has been given more time, at his request, to respond to a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for tape recordings and other materials relating to 42 of his Watergate-related conversations, a White House spokesman said today.

He said the deadline for the subpoena had now been moved back to next Tuesday. The deadline originally had been Thursday of this week.

House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona also said that the five-day extension had been granted. The committee chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said, "It would be a reasonable request," but said he would not have to get full committee approval before granting it.

Rhodes said he understood the White House had encountered difficulties in transcribing the tapes. "I understand they are of very poor quality," Rhodes said.

White House officials said the President intends to deliver a "sufficient, comprehensive and complete" response to the subpoena.

The President was under new public pressure from Vice President Gerald R. Ford to give the committee what it wants.

"I hope and trust in the next 48 to 72 hours the White House will cooperate with the House Judiciary Committee," Ford told the American Newspaper Publishers Association convention in New York Monday. "I hope the White House will follow that pattern. I've told him (Nixon) I should do anything reasonable to clear things up."

But even as the President prepared his reply to the impeachment panel's first demand, it was disclosed Monday that the committee has sent the White House a second request for still more information.

42 Tapes Subpoenaed Committee sources have indicated this may deal with contributions from milk cooperatives and the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

Officials said Monday Nixon was still reviewing several options on the "content and form" of his response to that request.

Pan Am Jet Crashes In Jungles Of Indonesia

DENPASAR, Bali (UPI) — An Indonesian army search unit hacked its way through mountain jungles to the site of a Pan American World Airways jetliner crash just before dark tonight and said there were no survivors among the 107 persons aboard.

Two Balinese villagers had reached the scattered and smoldering wreckage earlier in the evening, but the government upheld official announcement of the death toll until arrival of the paratroopers flown to the mountain from Jakarta.

The paratroopers were reported hacking a helipad out of the jungle to help bring out the bodies.

The Boeing 707 crashed between two mountain peaks Monday on the approach to the Denpasar airport on this Indonesian resort island shortly after the pilot radioed he had the runway in sight, 37 miles away. Witnesses said they saw flames as the plane hit a mountainside a few hundred feet from the peak.

The plane with 26 Americans aboard had left Hong Kong for Los Angeles with intermediate stops in Denpasar, Sydney and Honolulu. There were 96 passengers aboard, 17 of them American, and a crew of 11, of which nine were American, air line officials said.

It was the fourth crash of a Pan American Boeing 707 in the last nine months and the third crash in the South Pacific. There was no explanation for the South Pacific crashes—the airports in most cases have modern facilities and in this crash the pilot said he could see the airport before communication ceased.

One of the Americans aboard the plane was identified as Hilton Hotel executive Maurice Reymond of New York City.

Search and Rescue Coordination Headquarters in Bali said search parties earlier in the day sighted scattered pieces of wreckage about 4,783 feet up the slope of jungled Mt. Meseche, 300 feet from the summit. The plane would have had to pass between Mt. Meseche and nearby Mt. Tingatinga before approaching the airport.

Airport officials in Bali said they lost contact with the Pan Am plane at 10:25 p.m. They said the pilot was reporting an overhead position and was turning outbound away from the Denpasar airport—37 flying miles away—when contact was broken abruptly.

Bali airport officials said they could detect nothing unusual before radio contact with the plane was lost.

A helicopter flew over the area late in the afternoon, but the pilot reported he was hampered by low clouds and did not land, rescue headquarters said.

Police said the jetliner apparently struck Mt. Meseche about 339 feet below the summit. The plane would have had to pass between Mt. Meseche and the nearby Mt. Tingatinga before approaching the airport at Denpasar, Bali's main city.

Librarian Urges Support For Continuing Education

By TEX DEWESE
William D. Gooch, assistant state librarian from Austin, came to Pampa yesterday and kicked off the Texas Panhandle observance of National Library Week.

Describing the public library as a community investment and a vital force for continuing education, Gooch appealed to Pampans for continued support of Lovett Memorial Library.

He spoke at the April membership luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, joined yesterday by the Lovett Memorial Library board and Friends of the Library, an organization conducting a membership drive this week.

"Education is a continuing process," Gooch said, "and your library serves that purpose from youth through old age."

"Your library is a source of knowledge and the heart and center of continuing education."

"It is the one place anyone can go and, regardless of race, creed or color, get the same service as anyone else."

Gooch said the public library must have adequate financial backing of the community.

He described the Texas Panhandle Library System as being outstanding in Texas and praised the collective cooperation of libraries throughout the area.

Amarillo is the hub of the system, he stated, and Pampa's Lovett Memorial Library has access to any book in the cooperating libraries.

"If a book is not available in the Pampa library and cannot be found in the Amarillo library or in one of the other cooperating libraries of the system, the material in the state library at Austin is available," Gooch said.

The assistant state librarian concluded his remarks by offering the help of the State Library to the Pampa library in any way possible.

Among dignitaries at the head table at the chamber luncheon were Barbara Cockrell, Lovett Memorial librarian; Ben Guill, newly appointed member of the library board; Mrs. R.C. Parker, McLean librarian; Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, City Manager Mack Wofford, Melvin Kunkel, Mrs. E.L. Green, president of the library board; Mrs. M. McDaniel, president of Friends of the Library, and County Judge Don Cain.

Gooch was introduced by Kay Fancher, president of the Pampa Industrial Foundation. Fancher also gave a brief history of the local library and introduced other members of the 6-member library staff.

Fancher said the library, which now has a $90,000 annual budget, first started as the Pampa Public Library and was supported by a group of persons who paid a fee of 25 cents a month. The library was open from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday afternoons and the librarian received a salary of 50 cents a day.

Now the library is supported by the city and county, the Gray Pampa Foundation and the Cabot

Corp. in a modern building donated in 1955 by the Lovett Estate.

The library, Fancher stated, had 2,000 new borrowers last year and its inventory of books has been doubled in the past ten years.

Other local activities scheduled for National Library Week included a book review at 9:30 a.m. today by Mrs. James Malone and the continued membership drive of the Friends of the Library.

The week will be concluded with a Book Fair at the library next Saturday in the library's main conference room. It will feature a sale of surplus books and magazines. The proceeds will be used to buy essential library equipment.

FOR GRANT Drug Task Force Okays Application

By CLAY LIVELY
Members of the Pampa Drug Task Force last night approved a resolution supporting an application by the Pampa Independent School District for a federally funded grant designed to help local education agencies deal with drug abuse and related problems.

Target date for the committee to have its report on drug abuse in Pampa and the area completed is about the middle of May, chairman Reed Echols said.

Millon Saltzman, representing the Pampa Jaycees, addressed the members of the task force concerning a booklet published by the national organization of the Jaycees entitled "Jaycees Present Drug Education."

Saltzman said he and the local Jaycees were seeking the endorsement of the task force for the book, which is aimed primarily at parents and educators.

The greatest response, Bond said, with 67 or 85 questionnaires filled out and turned in. Travis School teachers showed the least response with only five of 25 questionnaires returned.

The committee also heard law enforcement subcommittee chairman Bill Arrington and Sue Reddell, representing the subcommittee on dynamics in the community, give reports on the progress of their committees.

Arrington said all questionnaires distributed to law enforcement officers in the area have not been returned but the officers have generally responded well.

Mrs. Reddell said questionnaires distributed to parents and physicians in the community have been coming in to the committee fairly regularly.

The committee was also informed that a booklet containing cross-references of all resources available in Pampa for people needing help — not just in drug abuse cases — was being prepared by the Amarillo Mental Health-Retardation facility.

Following the group meeting, the committee split up into the various subcommittees. The next regular meeting of the task force will be May 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Pampa High School Area Vocational Building.

CITY SETS HEARING ON MOBILE HOMES

A public hearing on a recommendation of the City Planning and Zoning Commission for expansion of mobile home zoning in Pampa has been set before the City Commission at 9:30 a.m. May 28.

The action was taken at today's meeting of the city governmental body in City Hall.

The area considered for expansion is in the south portion of the city, bounded on the north by Crawford, on the east by Clark, on the south by McCullough and on the west by Barrett Sts.

The contemplated action is brought about by Pampa's housing shortage and the need for more space for mobile home units.

In other action today:

Tuesday, May 28, was set as a date to receive bids on the rental or lease of 550 acres of City property known as Reeves Auxiliary Landing Field, three or four miles south of Hwy. 70. The acreage currently is under lease to W.C. Epperson of Pampa.

Commissioners dropped six abandoned buildings from a list of 19 designated for removal when it was reported action was being taken to repair them. The six deleted from the list are 745 E. Albert, 717 and 719 Brunow, 904 Scott, 619 S. Barnes and 733 Denver. Public hearings on the other 13 buildings were continued until May 14.

Contract for seal-coating city streets this summer was awarded to W.G. James, low bidder, for $74,300.

Rohde Resigns Commissioner Position Today

Arthur J. Rohde, Ward 4 city commissioner, who was re-elected to that post April 2, resigned today.

In a letter to Mayor R.D. Wilkerson and other commissioners, Rohde said he was resigning at the close of today's city commission meeting "due to an unforeseen personal situation."

Rohde went on to say: "My association with the city manager, the mayor, city commission and all employees has been enjoyable and the privilege of serving the people of Pampa has been a pleasure."

Rohde stated he regretted any inconvenience his resignation may cause and added he wanted the resignation to become effective at the close of today's meeting.

Action on the resignation is scheduled to be taken at the next meeting of the commission May 13.

City Manager Mack Wofford said decision on the probable calling of a special election to fill Rohde's unexpired term is expected to be made at that time.

Rohde was re-elected April 2 without opposition on the ballot. His term would have run until the first week in April of 1976.

Delegation Chooses Golda's Successor

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A five-member delegation today informed President Ephraim Katzir of the selection by the ruling Labor alignment of Yitzhak Rabin, a war hero turned politician, to succeed outgoing Prime Minister Golda Meir.

A member of the delegation said Katzir is expected to ask Rabin, 52, to try to form a new government within the next several days, possibly Friday after the Independence Day holiday.

If he succeeds, Rabin will be Israel's first native-born prime minister.

But threats by Mrs. Meir's old-coalition partners not to join a Rabin-led government gave rise to prospects of a new general election.

Rabin, chief of staff in the 1967 war and former ambassador to Washington, is labor minister in Mrs. Meir's current caretaker government.

Katzir met with the delegation for two hours. The Labor party nominated Rabin for the prime ministership at a meeting Monday.

"I am realistic and optimistic" about Rabin's ability to form a new government, said the Labor party's general secretary, Aharon Yadin.

Rabin will be given 21 days in accordance with the constitution to try to form a new government but Katzir can extend the deadline another 21 days if Rabin should run into difficulties.

Yadin ruled out any prospect of forming a national unity government with the opposition right-wing bloc.

A war hero turned politician, Rabin was born in Jerusalem. The previous four heads of government were born in Europe.

HUD Starting Housing Survey

A survey of Pampa's housing shortage and needs to alleviate it was begun today by the Lubbock office of the federal department of Housing and Urban Development.

Andrew Hogan, HUD field representative, arrived in Pampa this morning to conduct the survey which may take three or four days, according to Harris Brinson, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The survey is the result of a meeting held last week at which Don Earney, director of the HUD regional office, offered assistance in solving the city's housing shortage.

Earney stated at that meeting that HUD could make a loan for a mobile home park of at least 100 units.

He added that following the survey, HUD would determine whether the federal agency would approve a loan for Pampa.

The survey which began this morning will be conducted not only on the need for a mobile home subdivision but for single family homes and apartment buildings.

Task force member D.W. Bond moved that the committee table the request for endorsement until the work of the task force is completed and its report made.

District Attorney Guy Hardin was scheduled to address the committee but was unable to attend because he was out of the county.

Hardin told The News this morning he was in Wheeler County yesterday and did not get back until 10:30 p.m.

He said he simply did not remember the meeting and expressed regret that he had not called the committee to tell them he was not available. Hardin has been rescheduled to speak at the May 13 meeting of the committee.

D.W. Bond, subcommittee on education chairman, reported to the committee on questionnaires given to system teachers.

The Chamber of Commerce's Fire Prevention and Safety Committee has announced plans for its annual Clean-Up, Paint-Up and Fix-Up campaign to get citizens interested in improving the appearances of their homes and businesses.

The city will be divided into different zones throughout the town, with each zone being scheduled for coordinated actions during a week.

The zones will be organized along the same lines as the city voting wards. Dates for the zone clean-ups are Zone 1 - May 1, 2, 3, 6 and 7; Zone 2 - May 8, 9, 10, 13 and 14; Zone 3 - May 15, 16, 17, 20 and 21; and Zone 4 - May 22, 23, 24, 28 and 29.

The committee is encouraging citizens to direct their efforts towards a general clean-up of their residences and businesses, including the yards, garages, attics and so on. The project is being conducted in cooperation with the city.

The annual campaign is held to supplement and complement various other clean-up and beautification activities that are held during the year.

The city will be putting a special clean-up crew into action during May to give extra help for the project. The crew will pick up any article placed in the alley during the time scheduled for each zone.

Jiggs Cooke, superintendent of Public Works, said the city would pick up anything - limbs, junk, rocks, debris, etc. - that can fit into the trucks, as long as the articles are placed in the alley during the clean-up dates for the zones.

In addition to the efforts being directed by the Chamber committee, various organizations and clubs are being asked to develop clean-up projects on their own to clean up areas of town, including parks, vacant lots, unoccupied houses, etc. Organizations developing such projects are asked to contact the Chamber office to coordinate activities and to avoid duplication of projects.

In conjunction with the clean-up project, a special week has been planned in cooperation with local veterinarians to obtain vaccinations of cats and dogs. More information will be released later on the week, May 4-11.

Police Studying Store Burglary

Pampa police are investigating the burglary of the Texas Furniture Co., 210 N. Cuyler, early today. A patrolling officer observed a window on the northeast corner of the building broken out at 1:28 a.m.

Back-up units were called to the scene and a search of the building was conducted with no one being found inside.

All office spaces in the store had been ransacked with desk drawers being emptied onto the floor.

Owner Charles Cook was called to the furniture store and told officers the only things apparently missing were a calculator, a transistor radio and an oil company credit card.

An attempted break-in over the weekend at Ward's Minit Mart, 2100 N. Hobart, is also being investigated by city police.

A bar had apparently been used in an attempt to pry open the back door of the store, reports said. Although a padlock had been broken off and a hasp removed, a 2x12 board used as a safety bar on the inside of the door prevented entry.

In addition to having his biography published in the book, Rasmussen will also compete for one of 10 scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers. He will also be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers" later in the year.

Rasmussen, ranked second in the Junior Class, hopes to pursue a medical career.

FOR ACCUSED MURDERER

Judge Rejects Moving Trial

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) - State District Judge Preston Dial believes within a city as large as San Antonio there are enough persons from which to pick 12 who will fairly sit in judgment of accused mass murderer Elmer Wayne Henley.

But, if it turns out he's wrong, Judge Dial says he will entertain a motion to move the trial of the 17-year-old Henley to a third Texas city.

"We will attempt to select a jury and if we are not able, then I will consider a change of venue," Dial said Monday during a pretrial hearing in which he denied a motion by defense attorney Will Gray to move the trial a second time.

"If I didn't think we could pick (an impartial jury), I wouldn't try," Dial said. "I believe in a community of 700,000 we could find 12 who could try the case."

"He lives here and I don't," Gray said taking exception to Dial's ruling, a procedure used to build a case for appeal. "We'll have to examine all 700,000. I guess."

"I don't see any problem," District Attorney Carol Vance said. "If we have a problem here, we have a problem anywhere in Texas."

Henley is charged with six of 27 torture-murders allegedly committed by Henley, David Owen Brooks, 19, and Dean A. Corll, 33.

Books

United Press International
Waiting Out a War, by Lucinda Franks.
 (Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, $6.95)
 The subject of exile, amnesty or punishment for the 30,000 to 50,000 draft resisters and armed forces deserters is among the touchiest problems facing the American people. To many sympathetic to them, they are heroes following the dictates of their consciences. To others they are little better than traitors, and at the very least owe a debt to their country and to their countrymen who served in Vietnam.

ROCK MUSIC

United Press International
Would You Believe Dept.: Captain Beefheart and his Magic Band opened recently at the Whiskey in Los Angeles and all of the biggies showed up. The good Captain is a very popular fellow among rock 'n roll folks and he has a new album.

The place was so jammed that the manager ordered the doorman to let nobody—but nobody—else in. So when John Lennon and Paul McCartney arrived—together, in the same limousine—he dutifully asked them to move on.

It was the first time Lennon and McCartney had been seen together in public since the Beatles' breakup.

No report on where they went instead.

Watching the annual Oscar presentations can be fun, if you've got plenty of beer and enough folks around to keep the wisecracks coming. But one part of the show isn't even worthy of sarcasm: the music.

This does not mean that good songs are not written for movies—and that brings us to Alan Price.

Alan's most recent achievement of note was a movie sound track—the music for an unusual comedy called "O Lucky Man." Alan appears in the film, performing the songs and filling the role, as one observer put it, of "an ancient Greek chorus, an omniscient outsider, observing and commenting on the action and supplying the film's philosophy."

Born and raised in the industrial towns of northeast England, Alan joined with Eric Burdon in the 60's to form The Animals. Their first—and biggest—hit was "The House of the Rising Sun," a tune Bob Dylan said proved "folk songs" could successfully be turned into rock.

Alan left The Animals in 1965, went through some heavy head trips, formed a new band, went through the whole cycle again and finally was picked by film director Lindsay Anderson for "O Lucky Man."

Alan's music, both in the sound track album and on his new LP, "Between Today and Yesterday" (Warners BS-2783), clearly shows his influences, ranging from English music hall and church music to Ray Charles and, most recently, the wry humor of Randy Newman.

What results is basically theatrical music.

The tunes on side one (of "Today and Yesterday") are going to be the basis for a musical which I'm writing," Alan says. "I wanted to expose some of the songs—and they were written with a view to theatrical arrangements."

"It'll be basically autobiographical, covering a long period from about 1940 to 1960. It's the story of a rock star, ending at the peak of his popularity."

On stage, Alan isn't a P.T. Barnum brand of showman—the songs are the "star." He plays a nicely textured electric piano with minimum fuss and has a mellow, rather limited voice that makes him sing through his nose on the high parts. The cumulative effect, though, is good, and "Rising Sun" is still part of his act.

Lesser talents trying to do what he does could get tangled-up in the difference between style and substance, resulting in a kind of tinhorn nightclub act. Hopefully, not many will even try.

But trend-setter or not, Alan Price is too talented to avoid being successful. And no matter where he goes from here, the movies, the theater and his audiences are bound to come out winners.

Lucinda Franks met many of these young men on assignment in Sweden for UPI, for whom she then worked as a London-based correspondent. In "Waiting Out a War" she has followed the life of one of these, Pvt. John Picciano, from birth and boyhood in a working class family in Lodi, N.J., through to his present exile in Sweden.

While Ms. Franks is generally sympathetic to the exiles, she doesn't try to make Picciano a hero, intellectually or otherwise. She tells it as she could learn it from him, his friends and associates—the story of a not very well educated or motivated young man who found he just could not survive in the Army. Whether it was the indignity of the recruit's life or the nightmare reality of being trained to kill that drove Picciano to desert, the reader must decide.

It is not the author's purpose to write the definitive history of the draft evaders and deserters, but rather through telling the story of one quite ordinary young man to present a picture of the typical deserter, his problems, what his exile has meant to him, how it has hurt him and in some ways benefited the man he has grown into.

The book, which the author expanded from a series she wrote for UPI (with Peter Freiberger), has value for anyone who wants to understand America's exiles.

Joan Hanauer (UPI)

Campus in Crisis, by Buell Gallagher. (Harper and Row, $8.95) Dr. Gallagher, former president of the City College of New York, has delved into a history and analysis of higher education in America, trying to understand the upsets of the 1960s generation and the apparent apathy of the current college crop. Dr. Gallagher has a scholar's mind: a sharp intellect and a compassionate understanding, all of which add up to a book of considerable importance to those interested in education, in the young and in America.

Final Analysis, by Lois Gould. (Random House $5.95) The analysis here is psycho, and Miss Gould unwinds a witty tale of an analyst with problems of his own, and his affair with a former patient who gives the lowdown on her romance to her consciousness-raising group. The author of "Such Good Friends" writes with flair and fun about a pair of lovers who aren't so much star-crossed as just profoundly mixed-up.

Out of the Zenith, by Sir Bernard Lovell. (Harper and Row, $12.50) Scientific equipment in the Space Age seems to become antiquated almost as soon as it's operational. So it is especially notable that the prototypic 250-foot reflector radio telescope at Jodrell Bank operated on an almost around-the-clock basis for 13 years, tracking space shots and probing record distances into the universe. Sir Bernard Lovell follows up his earlier "The Story of Jodrell Bank" with an account of the telescope's successes, until its renovation in 1970.

The Fan Club, by Irving Wallace. (Simon and Schuster, $9.95) Even Irving Wallace, who is a formidable storyteller, can't make this one believable. The plot involves a scheme for four men to kidnap a Marilyn Monroe-type movie queen. Their object isn't even ransom—just old fashioned rape. At one point the narrator calls the kidnapers by job-descriptive names. One is The Insurance Man, another The Mechanic, and the like. But the guy who fixes your car is more complex and interesting than Wallace's Mechanic.

The highest point in Alabama is atop Cheaha Mountain, 2,407 feet above sea level.

Texans Plan Celebration For 'San Jacinto Battle'

By BILL HOBBY
 Lieutenant Governor
AUSTIN — Saturday, April 27, we will celebrate the 138th anniversary of the Battle of San Jacinto, the final fight in Texas' war of independence.

By the spring of 1836, Texas forces had taken a gallant but stunning defeat at the Alamo. The republic's ranks were reduced further by the massacre at Goliad.

These victories lead the Mexican general, Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, to believe that the war was essentially won. Convinced that he needed only to conduct a mopping-up operation, Santa Anna divided his army into five columns, one of which he commanded in pursuit of General Sam Houston.

Houston did the only thing he could — retreat. He fell back, waiting for the superior Mexican force to make a mistake. On the marshy plains at San Jacinto, Houston allowed himself to be "trapped." The terrain was not conducive to retreat for either force.

It is apparent that Santa Anna had grown contemptuous of the Texas general. Feeling there was no hurry in finishing off the rag-tag rebel army, he camped about three-fourths of a mile from Houston's position and planned to attack the next day.

On preparation for the next day's fighting, the Mexican army devoted that afternoon to siesta in the humid April air. It was a fatal mistake.

At three in the afternoon, Houston formed his men — 60 horsemen on the right of a single line of infantrymen which spread a thousand yards. Their flanks were protected by the deep, black bayous.

Only a few of the men could hear Houston give the order to attack, but all say him draw his sword as he sat his huge white stallion, Saracen.

Tired, dirty, bearded, hungry and angry, the ragged Texas army advanced. Col. Sidney Sherman is credited with being the first to raise the cry: "Remember the Alamo. Remember Goliad."

The battle lasted less than 20 minutes. Santa Anna's proud army of 1,370 suffered terrible casualties, while Houston's 910 men emerged almost unscathed.

We are indebted to a distinguished historian, the late Andrew Forest Muir of Rice University, for an account of the dialogue which passed between victor and the vanquished after the battle.

Santa Anna's praise was lavish. In part, he said: "Twenty-four times have I fought, and 24 times have I conquered the most distinguished generals that Spain and Mexico could produce. But on San Jacinto's plains, sir, I found myself unable to contend with undisciplined Texans, led on by such wisdom and valor. So brave a people is worthy of independence."

The victory at San Jacinto proved again the sturdiness of liberty and lent strength to those who cherished freedom.

I hope all Texans will pause to pay homage to these brave men this San Jacinto Day.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I've sold my house at a profit and am buying a mobile home. Can I postpone the tax on the gain from the sale of my house?

A. In general, you can defer the tax on all of the profit if within one year before or one year after the sale you buy and occupy another residence (in your case a mobile home) whose cost equals or exceeds the "adjusted sales price" of the old residence.

If the purchase price of the mobile home is less than the adjusted sales price of your house (basically, this is the amount you realize on the sale less fixing-up expenses), all or part of the gain may be taxed. The gain taxed in the year of sale is the gain realized on the sale of your old home or the excess of the adjusted sales price of the old residence over the purchase price of the new residence, whichever is less.

For example, if your basis in the house is $15,000, you sell it for $20,000 and buy a mobile home for $10,000, you are taxed on a gain of $5,000. This is so because the entire gain on the sale ($5,000) is less than the difference between the adjusted sales price ($20,000) of the old residence and purchase price of the new one ($10,000). If you purchase a mobile home for $16,000, you would be taxed on $4,000, because this difference between the adjusted sales price ($20,000) of the house and purchase price of the mobile home ($16,000) is less than the total gain ($5,000).

Q. I filed my return in February, but now I've found out that I overlooked a deduction. What should I do?

A. You can file Form 1040X to amend your previously filed return. On this form, you recompute the portion that has changed from your original return and send it, along with any necessary related information to the address shown in the 1040X instructions. Form 1040X is available at any IRS office.

Q. I should receive a refund when I file my return for 1973.

Can I still check off a dollar of my tax to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund?

A. Yes. Without increasing your tax liability or decreasing your refund, you may earmark $1 ($2 on a joint return). If you neglected to "check off" on your 1972 return, you can still do so on your 1973 return.

Q. Aren't there some deductions that can be claimed even though the taxpayer chooses the standard deduction and doesn't itemize?

A. Yes. On your tax form these deductions are called "adjustments to income." They include employee business expenses, such as business travel expenses, moving expenses, payments by self-employed individuals to a retirement plan and the sick pay exclusion. Credits against your income tax may also be claimed without itemizing your deductions. For example, many taxpayers are eligible to claim the retirement income credit or the credit for contributions to political candidates.

Children Require Supervision To Enjoy Recreational Areas

Exploring the outdoors at Lake Meredith Recreation Area can be fun for children and young people. But it can be dangerous and even fatal.

Young children should have continuous adult supervision. An adult cannot prevent accidents when a child is beyond protective reach or out of sight. Lake Meredith's only fatality of 1973 occurred when a child waded into a hole, and her parents were unable to help her.

Older children enjoy exploring the wide open shores of Lake Meredith. They should be encouraged to use the "buddy" system. Two heads are safer than one — if one of those heads has common sense in it. Adults should know where the children are going and when they expect to return.

Children should be taught that if they cannot find their way back to their family, they should stay in one spot and wait for someone to find them. Yelling periodically can help attract attention and wearing bright clothing can make children easier to spot.

A visit to Lake Meredith is an adventure into a new and exciting world for any child. People may be strangers to this land of natural plants and wild animals. Children should be taught to respect unfamiliar plants and animals as well as enjoy them.

We're all ignorant on certain subjects

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is concerning the lady who was irate because so few had responded to the R.S.V.P. on her party invitation. I resent your statement that such people are either ignorant or negligent.

I am a university professor with a Ph.D., have traveled extensively in about 20 countries, have attended socials with ambassadors and other notables, so I don't consider myself an ignorant person. Yet, until you printed it in your column, I never was sure of the meaning of R.S.V.P.

As a professor, I have learned that many college students don't know which way the earth rotates, or the difference in time between New York and Denver, so is it realistic to expect them to know the meaning of R.S.V.P.? Or do I have my priorities reversed?

I suggest that if the lady would substitute "Please let us know whether or not you are coming" for "R.S.V.P." on the invitation, she would have much better response.

UNDERSTANDING IN COLORADO

DEAR UNDERSTANDING: Ignorance is simply the absence of knowledge, which is no crime. We are all ignorant only on different subjects. No offense intended.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently had a breast removed following cancer surgery. Please don't misunderstand me, I am glad to be alive and thank God it was discovered in time, but there is another problem: My doctor told me that in my case plastic surgery to recreate a natural-looking breast is possible. I was thrilled until I learned that my insurance company takes the view that since the loss of a breast doesn't impair bodily function and is not the result of an accidental injury, it is considered cosmetic surgery.

Although a natural-looking artificial breast isn't essential to my physical well-being, it would do worlds for my morale. Or am I just vain? And don't you think this should be covered by insurance?

MRS. F.

DEAR MRS. F.: To quote Dr. Eugene W. Worton, a member of The California Society of Plastic Surgeons, and a consultant of mine: "If a woman has a breast removed because of cancer and wants reconstruction so that she can wear a bathing suit or a low-cut dress, that is hardly cosmetic in the sense of a woman having a face-lift or a nose operation. This woman has a deformity she acquired as a result of cancer and she wants to return to normal. She is not asking to be the centerfold of Playboy."

I agree with Dr. Worton.

DEAR ABBY: I sew most of my own clothes and am pleased with most of the things I have made. I attend sewing classes, so the word got around that I make my own clothing. I am annoyed by people who, every time they see me in something new, ask: "Did you make that?"

I think it's as rude a question to ask as: "How much did you pay for that dress?"

How should I handle this situation without being rude? Please don't tell me I should be proud that I can sew because I could also be proud to wear an expensive ready-made dress, but I don't want to wear the price tag.

LOVES TO SEW

DEAR LOVES: You can't prevent people from questioning you, but you can change your attitude. The ability to make something that resembles an expensive ready-made creation is far more deserving of praise than having the money to buy it. Handmade things are more valuable though less costly when made by your own hands, so don't resent the opportunities to sew a little.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 24

Your birthday today: Early experiments open a broad front on which you are kept busy all year converting your energies and materials into lasting working tools and capital for further investment. For the very young, it is an intense learning period when long-term habits are set. Relationships need sincere concern, cannot be taken for granted. Today's natives are usually sensitive to fine details. Many of them have become famous under assumed names.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Concentrate on what you can do where you are instead of extending yourself on needless or hurried travel. Home life includes a minor mystery.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Speculation encounters such conditions that even those who win are unable to use their gains. Family funds can be snarled up by just two added words of comment.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Great changes of plans and schedules aren't needed; it's more a matter of patience and waiting to see recent developments in the proper light.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]:

Even in working alone, extra factors enter into what you're doing. Time and energy are wasted in complications of faulty communications.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: The social whirl becomes costly when you follow whims. You will be glad that you kept your story simple when you see some of the chaos caused by careless explanations.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Being firm is one thing; being fair is something else—combine both for best results. Work obligations and deadlines promise to become urgent.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Your personal charm is strong and you can have almost anything within reason—if you know what you want and can reach those who should hear about it.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: A great day for discovery of little-known assets, but not for immediate application. Progress can be made by pursuing existing methods, plus hard work.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You are the last one to realize the reasons for resistance to your plans, as you are apt to be the main cause, in manner or behavior.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Business should go well [at least better than for most other people] with the peak yet to come. Additional responsibilities are almost certain.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: What may seem to you straightforward and clear is more than likely arbitrary and complex to most other people. Sort things out a little at a time.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Household and family concerns spread out and get in the way of business enterprises. Set priorities and strive to stay with them, whatever happens.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

With the passage of time, it has been demonstrated that the presumed infallibility of our bridge experts is a myth. Admittedly, they commit fewer blunders than do the masses of bridge players, but, at times, they are quite capable of committing enormous "goofs." Today's deal is a case in point. East-West vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass
4♦ Pass 4♥ Pass
4♠ Pass 4NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.
North's four diamond bid was an artificial call, announcing the possession of a singleton diamond and four or more cards in responder's first bid suit (clubs). When South subsequently bid four notrump, North misinterpreted the bid, feeling that the call was a general slam try. So he elected to pass. Actually,

South intended his four notrump bid to be interpreted as Blackwood, presuming that hearts (or, by inference, clubs) had been the tacitly agreed-upon trump suit.

As is obvious, after West had opened the diamond king, the defenders had it in their power to take the first six diamond tricks. But there's many a slip between the cup and the lip.

On the diamond king lead, East signaled encouragement by playing the nine. West now went into a huddle with himself for about a minute. He finally concluded that East had the Q-9-x of diamonds, and that South had the J-x-x. And if such were the case, then the cashing of the diamond ace at trick two would "block" the suit; that is, the third diamond lead would be taken by East's queen, and West could never again regain the lead to cash his three remaining diamonds.

And so it came to pass that at trick two West led a low diamond to East's presumed queen. A third diamond led by East (hypothetically) would then pick up South's jack, and the defenders would make six diamond tricks.

At the conclusion of trick two West was an unhappy man. South captured the trick with the queen; and, thanks to the 2-2 division of the four outstanding clubs, he ended up making 12 tricks.

When the deal was replayed, South arrived at the more normal four-heart contract. Twelve tricks were made with no stress, no strain, and no aggravation.

BENNY HORTON, owner of Warner-Horton Janitor Supply, 112 N. Somerville, takes a telephone order from one of his many customers, who include people ranging from housewives to business owners. Many people are under the misconception that Warner-Horton carries only products sold in bulk. But Horton says he also has separate items for use in the home.

Warner-Horton Supply Has All Cleaning Needs

Benny Horton says: Many people are not aware of the cleaning products that are available today to make their cleaning chores easier. It is surprising to learn how many housewives still clean their kitchen floor by getting down on their hands and knees with ammonia and steel wool to get the old wax finish off. There are several products available designed specifically to remove old wax and acrylic floor finishes. One very good wax stripper is "Stripper No. 4." It is a concentrated liquid usually diluted six ounces to one gallon of water for normal buildings. The stripper can be applied with a sponge mop, wet rags or electric scrubber. After the floor has been covered and allowed to soak for a few minutes, a scrub brush or floor machine is used to loosen the tough buildup. When the floor has been thoroughly cleaned of old wax, a wet sponge mop is used to remove the residue. After the old wax is removed, the floor is rinsed with clean water and allowed to dry. It is now ready for a new coat of wax or finish. One of the best floor finishes available is "Spectra." It is a hard, self-polishing, durable floor finish that gives superior service in heavy traffic areas where a good shine is desirable with little maintenance. For all your cleaning and janitorial needs, go to Warner-Horton Janitor Supply located at 112 N. Somerville, where you will be offered the most effective brands of cleaners and supplies. Horton, the owner, offers you numerous essential cleaning supplies and equipment. One special feature about Warner-Horton is that it offers household supplies as well as janitorial supplies. Paper products range from paper towels to paper cups. Light bulbs, trash cans, fatigue mats for hard surface floors, and other floor mats are necessities in every household. Door mats and carpets are also available in different kinds of materials for both porch and inside the house. Spray-can fire extinguishers for boat or car, chalk board cleaners, and mark removers are available to the thrifty home-maker who shops at Warner-Horton Industrial floor cleaning machines are handy as are polishers and buffers. For effective shopping, go to Warner-Horton, then tell all your friends about the friendly attitude and excellent service you received.

OF IKE'S RULING Supreme Court Agrees To Consider Illegality

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to consider whether President Dwight D. Eisenhower acted illegally in directing that a convicted murderer never be eligible for parole. The case involves Maurice Schick, who as an Army sergeant in 1954 was found guilty of killing an officer's daughter in Japan. While stationed in Japan, Schick was court-martialed for the murder of Susan Rothschild, 8, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Jack United Press International Gunfire rattles through Duval County these days, the more visible aspects of shifting alliances and power politics that threaten the reign of 72-year-old George B. Parr — the "Duke of Duval."

"It looks like the whole thing may blow up down there again," said Texas Ranger Capt. John Wood of San Antonio.

Earlier this month, five shots were fired at the home of former Rep. Oscar Carrillo where 25 persons celebrated the triumph of Carrillo-backed candidates during the school board election.

The potshots underscore tensions growing out of an apparent split between Carrillo, member of a politically powerful family, and Parr, who has reportedly aligned with multi-millionaire rancher-banker Clinton Manges. The division behind the "Cactus Curtain" dominated for decades by

NEW YORK (UPI) — Common stocks are the best hedge against inflation, according to W.E. Hutton & Co. "For the time being, at least, they are a better hedge against inflation than commodities, real estate, objects of art, coins, silver or even gold," the firm says. The only place in the economy where real deflation has occurred is in common stocks, it added.

Despite the sharp retrenchment in seasonally adjusted housing starts in March, the broader indicators point to a continued recovery in homebuilding, says Townsend-Greenspan & Co. It cites the rise in permits as evidence April housing starts will post a gain. "It is, however, as yet unclear to what extent slowed savings flows into savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks will inhibit the recovery in the housing sector," the firm adds.

A sustained stock market rally is unlikely until the inexorable rise of interest rates to unprecedented heights is halted by an easier monetary policy, says Wright Investors' Service, a Bridgeport, Conn., firm. The high interest rates of short-term money market instruments are influencing institutional investors to add to their already substantial "cash equivalent" reserves, the firm notes. "A good portion of these reserves will eventually be invested in common stock," it adds, but advises a cautious stance over the next six to eight weeks "until the current market weakness has run its course."

The Almanac

United Press International Today is Tuesday, April 23, the 113th day of 1974 with 252 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

English dramatist and poet William Shakespeare was born April 23, 1564.

On this day in history: In 1898, the U.S. government asked for 125,000 volunteers to fight against Spain in Cuba.

In 1917, almost every performer stepped forward at a mass rally in New York City when asked to volunteer to entertain the troops overseas in World War I.

In 1941, thousands attending an "America First" rally in New York City heard Charles Lindbergh say "It is obvious that England is losing the war." The noted aviator opposed American entry into World War II.

In 1965, more than 200 U.S. planes struck North Vietnam in one of the heaviest raids of the war.

A thought for the day: Roman poet Horace said, "The brief span of life forbids us to cherish long hope."

'Duke Of Duval' Rule Marred

Parr, already has manifested itself in one city election and the school board election, and is becoming a factor in the current campaign in state Senate District 21 between Carrillo of Benavides and incumbent Sen. John Traeger of Seguin.

Both are seeking the Democratic nomination.

Carrillo, who asked the FBI and Texas Rangers to investigate the shooting incident, has charged that threats have been made and "pressure" put on Duval County employes and school teachers to vote for Traeger.

Jobs Threatened "They've been threatened with their jobs if they don't vote for John Traeger," Carrillo said.

He further charges that Oscar Wyatt of Corpus Christi, head of Coastal States Gas Producing Co., had joined Parr and Manges to form a new political "clique" in South Texas.

"I feel that any appointment in Bexar County or any other county in the 21st District has to be approved by them," he said.

"I am about the only member of my family that ever had a disagreement with Mr. Parr," Carrillo said. He said the two men had backed different candidates in statewide elections in the past.

Against Turnover "I feel he (Parr) is turning things over to millionaire Clinton Manges," Carrillo said. "I don't agree with that. That is why I broke with Mr. Parr."

However, it was Judge O. P. Carrillo earlier this month who appointed Parr as one of three men who broke a tie between Octavio Saenz, the Parr candidate, and Armando L. Garza, the Carrillo candidate, for mayor of Benavides. Each man received 150 votes, but a recount by Parr, sheriff Raul Serna and B. O. Goldthorne, president of Parr's San Diego State Bank, changed the totals to 374 for Saenz and 347 for Garza.

Saenz is charged in San Antonio with lying to a grand jury that indicted Parr for income tax evasion last year.

Traeger said he received only 96 votes in Duval County in the last legislative race when Parr backed Carrillo.

"The last time we had, I suppose, just about every organized opposition there was in the entire district," Traeger said. "We just had people on our side and that's what it takes to win. In this case, my opponent has become involved in a very sharp division down in Duval County. As a result, because of the violent split they've had in Duval County, we feel we'll pick up at least 50 per cent of the Duval County vote."

Duval County Judge Archer Parr, a nephew of George B. Parr, told UPI last week the split came because Carrillo told George Parr he would not run for the Senate this time, then changed his mind after Parr already decided to back Traeger.

However, D. Carrillo

Chapa, father of the Carrillo brothers, was granted immunity from prosecution by the government this year for his testimony in its cases against the Parrs.

George Parr is scheduled for sentencing at Corpus Christi on May 3 for his March 19 conviction of evading more than $129,000 in income taxes. Archer Parr goes on trial in San Antonio next Tuesday on charges he lied to the federal grand jury that indicted his uncle.

Chapa Also Witness The government also has listed Carrillo Chapa as a witness in the perjury trial.

Reports of a Manges-Parr alliance had circulated since late last year, but Oscar Carrillo was the first to put them into words for the record.

Manges, 50, owns 100,000 acres of ranchland in Starr, Duval, Maverick and Dimmitt counties, and has connections from the tip of Texas, where his attorney is Democratic chairman Jack Skaggs of Harlingen, to San Antonio, where Bexar County commissioner Tom Stohandske was active in acquiring more than $5 million worth of stock for Manges in the Groos National Bank.

Manges has also purchased stock in the banks at Rio Grande City and Alice in Parr territory.

Besides his rise to multi-millionaire status, Manges told UPI there was nothing else about him interesting enough for an interview. So he declined one.

Washington Window Commentary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Sen. Barry Goldwater put a "dime store New Deal" label on President Eisenhower's 1957 budget,

It's Now Easier To Qualify For GI Home Loan

The Veterans Administration reminds married home-minded veterans that it is now easier to qualify for GI home loans.

Jack Coker, VA Regional Office director, noted that VA not accords full recognition to incomes and expenses of both veteran and spouse in determining ability to repay loan obligations.

Coker said VA is required by law to determine if contemplated terms of repayment bear a proper relation to the veteran's anticipated income and expenses before approving the loan.

"But while the spouse's income has always been considered," Coker explained, "local rules sometimes had the effect of discounting the spouse's income. Now, however, no such local rules are imposed, and the spouse's income is given full consideration."

VA guarantees 60 percent of GI home loans (maximum $12,500) private lenders make to servicemen, veterans and eligible spouses of World War II, Korean and post-Korean Conflicts and the Vietnam Era.

his reputation as both a party warrior and the fastest critic in the West was launched.

Goldwater's angry remark — which, it is said, he never forgot — comes immediately to mind in light of the deadly silence which President Nixon's record $304.4 billion budget for the 1975 fiscal year has received from Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Goldwater's 1957 characterization of what, by comparison, was a far smaller budget burned the White House but earned Goldwater private kudos from his colleagues who thought as he did but didn't want to risk offending the administration.

Party Loyalty Today, that attitude of "party loyalty first and foremost" on fiscal matters, if not on impeachment, is still strong in Republican ranks in Congress, particularly among so-called fiscal conservatives.

Goldwater and a handful of other conservatives have made known their disdain for the record spending requests. But from the vast majority of GOP members, there has been only silence. "The battle of the budget is over," the American Conservative Union (ACU) said last month in mourning the big budget rise. "The budget won. President Nixon has unconditionally surrendered."

The Watergate

beleagured Nixon, the ACU concluded, "has taken a dive in the fight for fiscal responsibility."

Solicit Opinions Incensed that so few congressional conservatives have spoken out against the Nixon budget, ACU compiled statements from anyone they could find in Congress who had criticized the increased spending requests. In many cases the political organization had to solicit opinions. Only 35 members responded.

"I cannot live with the budget my President has presented to the Congress," Goldwater said in a Senate speech that received much less attention than his 1957 statement.

"If I felt like's budget was a 'dime store New Deal' you can imagine what I think of the budget recently sent to Capitol Hill. ... It is a political mistake with the gravest kind of overtones for the welfare of my country."

He has played an important part in rounding out a solid Harvester infield, which also consists of first baseman Roy Morris, shortstop Toddy Black, third baseman Mike Adair and catchers Bobby Hendricks and Ron Willett. TODAY

Pampa Visits Tascosa Rebels

AMARILLO — Pampa, after being tagged with its third district loss in a 17-10 game against Caprock last Friday, needs a win today to stay alive in the 3-AAAA race as the Harvesters play the Tascosa Rebels at 4 p.m. here.

Pampa is 3-3 in district play while Tascosa is 4-2 and one game behind the leaders. Caprock and Amarillo High. The two first place teams also play today. A loss for Pampa today will nearly eliminate the Harvesters since only three games remain after today's clash.

Pampa defeated Tascosa, 3-2, at Pampa the first time the teams played this season. The Harvesters' David Edwards pitched and went the distance, yielding only two hits while walking two and striking out nine.

Tascosa's left-handed sophomore ace, Larry House, also pitched well in the game, giving up just six hits while striking out 17. House, 2-5 for the season, will probably start again today. He is second in the district behind Amarillo High's Mark Parsons in strikeouts with 66 (Parsons has 77). House has a 2.88 earned-run average in 58 innings.

Dennis Edmondson will probably get the nod for Ronnie White's Harvesters. Edmondson leads the league in ERA with a 1.96 mark, giving up only 12 earned runs in 43 innings. The Pampa hurler owns a 3-2 season record with the two losses coming in district play.

Tascosa has the 3-AAAA batting leader in leftfielder Blake Box, who sports a .448 mark in 29 at bats. House is hitting .381, going 16 for 42.

Pampa's leading hitter is second baseman Rick Bigham, averaging .380 (19 for 50). Two Harvesters, Toddy Black and Rick Smith, are among the leaders in runs batted in with 19 and 12 respectively to rank second and 11th.

Cesar, Yastremski Shine As Houston, BoSox Win

It looks like the giant question marks which hung over the heads of Carl Yastremski and Cesar Cedeno can be removed.

Exclamation points are more appropriate because both the Boston Red Sox and Houston Astros stars are off to super starts which make their respective teams look like powerful contenders for division titles—if not pennants.

Yastremski, the veteran slugger who hasn't had a really good season since 1970, is batting .360, has hit six homers and driven in 16 runs for the Red Sox.

Cedeno, the young star whose career was threatened last winter when he became involved in a shooting incident, is batting .373, has hit four homers and knocked in 23 runs for the Astros.

Both are among the most talented players in the game but started the season as big "ifs." Experts wondered whether Yastremski could ever recover his form of a few seasons ago and whether Cedeno could shake off the effects of his traumatic experience.

The answer to both questions appears to be in the affirmative.

Yastremski hit two homers and drove in three runs Monday to lead the Red Sox to a 4-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals while Cedeno drove in five runs with two homers as the Astros defeated the Atlanta Braves, 7-0.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Tommy Harper and Yastremski sandwiched around a double by Doug Griffin. Yaz then homered in both the sixth and eighth innings to account for the other runs.

Rick Wise allowed five hits and the Royals' run in

SWEEP SERIES

Oscar, Kareem Pace Bucks To Playoff Win Over Bulls

CHICAGO (UPI)—Old pro Oscar Robertson won the credit today for putting the Milwaukee Bucks back on the track toward a possible second National Basketball Association championship.

Though outshone by center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had 38 points and 24 rebounds, Robertson was named by Bucks Coach Larry Costello as the player who turned the game around after the Chicago Bulls held a 52-48 advantage at the half.

Robertson, scoreless in the first half, netted 10 points in the third period when the Bucks came from behind to take charge, and another six in the last period when Milwaukee simply rolled away from its rival for a 115-99 victory.

The win, and a four-game sweep of the best of seven Western Conference Championship series against the Bulls, put the Bucks into the championship round against the winner of the Boston-

Midland Edges San Antonio, 5-4

United Press International Bill Bright hit a solo home run in the top of the ninth Monday night to give Midland a 5-4 Texas League victory over San Antonio.

Mike Hannah pitched one-hit relief in 2-2-3 innings for the victory and Dennis Kenney was the loser in relief. Bright also had a double and single for Midland.

Rain Monday washed out the Shreveport at Alexandria and Victoria at Arkansas games.

New York series for the second time in the last four years.

"It was miraculous we were only down four at the half," Costello said. "But I knew if Oscar did anything, it would have to mean we were playing better. We got Oscar involved a little bit more by calling some plays for him and he got the open shot and made it. Oscar came through in super fashion."

Chicago coach Dick Motta, his team beaten for the eighth time in nine playoff rounds, agreed with Costello.

"It was too much Milwaukee," he said. "They played great, all of them."

The Bulls had the lead 12 times during the game and the score was tied 14 times. But Bob Dandridge hit a 25-footer with 3:31 left in the third period to put the Bucks in front by one point and they never trailed or were tied thereafter.

Mason, Debolt Lead In SWC Golf Tourney

HOUSTON (UPI)—Jim Mason of Texas and Mark Debolt of SMU started even par today in the final 27 holes of the Southwest Conference golf championship at Bear Creek Golf World.

Their round of 108 Monday led by two strokes over Keith Ferguson of Houston and Randy Simmons of Texas. Monte Shauer of A&M was at 111 and Bobby Brow of Houston was at 113.

Texas led the 54-hole championship tournament by six strokes with a 450 team total. Houston was next at 456, Tech at 461, SMU 464, A&M 465, Rice 481, TCU 487, Baylor 488 and Arkansas 504.

UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lee Elder can now play in the Masters.

Big deal! Somehow I come away with the feeling this whole thing was never a matter of life or death with him. For some reason, I keep thinking it didn't really matter that much to him whether or not he ever became the first black golfer to be invited to the Masters.

What do I base my opinion on? On Lee Elder himself. I remember speaking with him about the Masters and he told me it wasn't that important to him whether he ever played there or not. The way he said it struck me as if he meant it.

My reaction is that Lee Elder was much more excited about his sudden-death playoff with Jack Nicklaus in the American Golf Classic six years ago, even though he lost it, than he will be over the Masters' invitation when it comes.

What'll He do Anyway? What's he going to do, run around, show it to his friends and say, look, this is my invitation to the Masters!

Every touring golfer lives for the day he wins his first big tournament.

Lee Elder, on the four six years now, finally did that in Pensacola, Fla., Sunday. He won the Monsanto Open by beating Britain's young, improving Peter Oosterhuis on the fourth playoff hole and along with the $30,045 first prize and satisfaction the victory brought Elder, there also was an obvious measure of relief.

"I'm happy it's over with," he said.

Those are the same words Hank Aaron used two weeks ago although there certainly is no intention here of comparing their individual accomplishments because they are not even in the same class.

He Got Tired of It True, Elder was under some pressure because members of the media frequently asked him how he felt about playing in the Masters. He was asked so often, like Aaron, he grew tired of hearing the same question. Lately, Elder wasn't asked so much. Jim Dent, a younger black player on the tour, was asked more frequently and he was growing as weary over the question as Elder.

Actually, Lee Elder wasn't sure how he felt about the Masters after Sunday's win in the Monsanto.

He answered both ways, as he has before. At one point he said he'd have to wait and see what he'd do when he received the Masters' invitation, then, reversed his field.

"I'll definitely accept the invitation to the Masters," he said. "No doubt about it. It's a place I've wanted to play for a long time. Now that it's come about, I'm happy about it. I'm looking forward to going there next year."

If nothing else, Lee Elder's win at Pensacola made a whole lot of people feel better.

For one, it made Cliff Roberts, the autocratic head man of the Masters feel better because he has been saying for years that a black man would be eligible to play if he qualifies and now he can prove it.

CBS Feels Better For two, it made CBS feel better.

The network couldn't help but have some corporate qualms about televising a major event in which the historical absence of any blacks annually pops up as an embarrassing topic of conversation.

For three, Elder's accomplishment makes all the black leaders in the community feel much better. Another major breakthrough.

The fact is Lee Elder's participation in the Masters isn't really going to change things that much there.

The fact is Lee Elder is not the Jackie Robinson of golf either.

Moving a BILLION of anything is a big job

A new Santa Fe record: Moving a BILLION bushels of grain in 20 months

Big moves are not unusual on the Santa Fe. Citrus, potato, coal, sulphur and various manufactured products move by the trainloads. But grain tops them all, especially wheat.

This year marks the one hundredth anniversary of Turkey Red Wheat in the United States. Through the efforts of the Santa Fe back in 1874, the Mennonites emigrated from Russia and brought with them a few sacks of their wheat. It thrived in the Midwest and parts of the Southwest to develop that area into the breadbasket of the world.

The past twenty months have been the most strenuous period in Santa Fe's one hundred year history of moving grain. A billion bushels have been handled since the heavy movement associated with the sale of grain for export, and the bumper harvests began in July, 1972. Within this period of time, Santa Fe has moved over 350,000 carloads of grain.

While moving grain is a top job, Santa Fe is busy with an equally important project of moving fertilizer to nurture the new wheat crop; for the success of this year's harvest will offset concerns about a wheat shortage.

Keeping ready for big moves is not easy. The Santa Fe freight fleet of 78,000 cars includes 16,000 covered hoppers, 12,000 of them jumbo 100-ton cars, which are ideal for moving grains, potato and other bulk commodities. Big moves also require modern diesel power, automated yards and skillful people to get the job done. All of this is now at work as Santa Fe continues at a record pace moving billions of the many things needed and used every day by the people of our nation.

THE ATCHISON, TOPEKA AND SANTA FE RAILWAY
A SANTA FE INDUSTRIES COMPANY

The BILLIONTH BUSHEL of grain was moved on March 20, 1974, and car 312567 at the FAR-MAR CO elevator, Hutchinson, Kansas, broke the banner symbolizing this event.

To give recognition to the movement of the BILLIONTH BUSHEL of grain over the Santa Fe in a twenty-month period, Miss Kansas Wheat joined me at Hutchinson, Kansas, March 20, 1974.

When this record grain movement started in mid-1972, many predicted the rail industry would not be able to handle the job. Despite no advance warning and severe problems of port congestion that hampered the handling of cars with export wheat, Santa Fe and many other railroads have set records of moving grain while keeping other traffic rolling.

This great transportation job was accomplished by skillful, dedicated Santa Fe people, and through the wonderful cooperation of all shippers.

Grain continues to move in a big way and a bumper crop is expected at harvest time. That is why we are now hard at work planning ways to apply Santa Fe facilities and resources to move increasing volumes of traffic this year without serious car shortages.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH
Bad Circulation Causes Gangrene

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My grandmother, 67, had her leg amputated six months ago. The doctors said gangrene was the cause. Now it has traveled into the other leg, centered in the heel.

Can you explain gangrene, which is so rarely discussed any more? How fast it travels, how dangerous it is? After removal of the leg they found she was a diabetic.

—Mrs. J.W.

Gangrene doesn't "spread" or "travel" in the sense of from one leg to the other, as an infection may. Gangrene, you see, is the death of tissues in some particular area because of complete obstruction of blood flow to that area. It can occur in patients with diabetes because of a severe degree of hardening of the arteries. Circulation is obstructed and without a flow of blood the flesh simply dies. That's gangrene.

The fact that it has started in her other leg is simply an indication that circulation was being shut off in that leg, too.

It is expectable for gangrene in such cases to appear at the extremities— toes, foot or lower leg, but it is reasonably certain the circulation is being shut off to more tissue that just the toe (or heel) or whichever area dies soonest.

With no way to restore circulation there is no choice but to remove the tissues that are deprived of blood.

Gangrene is dangerous on two counts. First, infection is frequently present or will soon develop in the dead tissues; second, toxemia develops from the presence of the dead tissue which the body is unable to dispose of.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send your booklet on "Cataracts and Glaucoma," for which I enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents. Do you think there is a cure for glaucoma?

—E.M.

Your question is not as easy to answer as you may think, but I'll put it this way: glaucoma, when found and treated in time, usually can be prevented from causing blindness.

However, such a patient should remain on guard, and have periodic eye pressure checks to make sure that the trouble does not begin to reassert itself.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it dangerous to take a bath right after a heavy meal, even if it is with warm water?

—L.

No. That's entirely different than going swimming after a heavy meal and perhaps having a cramp.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently made the following statement in a discussion with friends:

If a person were to weigh on a scale at 150 pounds and immediately ate a meal weighing three pounds and then instantly weighed again, the weight would still be 150 pounds.

I maintain that food is suspended in the stomach until absorbed by the body before it has any effect on one's weight. If I am correct, please verify, if not I shall stand corrected.

—D.H.W.

Sorry, but you will have to retract on that. Food (or anything else) does not escape the pull of gravity just because it is inside something else. Such as a stomach.

So the immediate weight gain would be three pounds. Eventually some of it would be discarded as waste matter. Since the vast majority of meals contain water, the process of losing some of it through perspiration and breathing would be continuous.

Some of the food would be used up in the form of energy. Excess calories would be stored as fat.

But immediately after eating the meal, its weight would register on the scales. Have you never heard of athletes, trying to reach a certain poundage for a weighing in gorging on bananas and drinking water just before the weighing? They do that to gain temporary weight.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this cruel and painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, for a copy of his booklet, "Gout - The Modern Way To Stop It." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT
Sammy Cahn--'Talk Of Town'

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — The Talk of the Town, to steal an exclusive phrase from Ed Sullivan, is balding, spectacled 60-year-old lyricist Sammy Cahn who confesses that he grew up in a one-syllable New York neighborhood and got to writing five syllable song titles (such as "Call Me Irresponsible").

His "Words and Music" show at the Golden, starring mostly his songs and memories of writing them, is enjoying the raves of the critics. I may have been alone in noting that he looked like — and sang a good bit like — Groucho Marx.

Sammy is famous for "demonstrating" his songs to singers he wanted to sing them. Supposedly the demonstrations were horrible. We found them, on stage, quite charming, funny and delightful; and if he didn't sing to good — well, he did as well as some of the singers he got to sing them.

Sammy, the tag-along of the stars, got standing ovations, celebrations at Sardi's and now he'll get offers from Las Vegas from hotels that will want to hire him (and Kelly Garrett, Jon Peck, Shirley Lemmon and musical director Richard Leonard). They'll want HIM to star in the big rooms where he used to appeal to the big stars to sing his songs. He may just have sung and acted himself out of work.

Aristotle Onassis, Jackie O., Johnny Meyer and others joined Frank Sinatra at Jilly's for a nightcap. And just to prove that there are some names around N.Y., the Duchess of Windsor, looking erect, springy and "divine," in the words of Laura Johnson, lunched at Caravelle with Zizi Guest and others.

Harry Hershfield ("Mr. New York") has returned to Beth Israel Hospital. Maureen Stapleton gets the Straw Hat Best Actress award at Pub Theatrical May 16. Bobbi Shaw, who was one of my co-stars in the unforgettable "Beach Blanket Bingo," co-stars with David Carradine in "You and Me" and has also written a children's book about Cletis, a lion who lost his roar. The new hot English rock group Mott the Hoople will play the Uris Theater May 7-11.

as Best Supporting Actress, and never won? Ans. to yesterday's Tony-winning shows that became Oscar-winning films included "Sound of Music," "My Fair Lady," "Man For All Seasons."

Paul Anka will produce an album of Mike Douglas vocals (with some tunes written by Paul). Gil Cates' NBC-TV production of Arthur Miller's "After the Fall" was extended from a 90-minute show to a 2 1/2 hr. special for next season (with Faye Dunaway, Christopher Plummer). Duke Ellington's still at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, but he's well enough to work at a small electric piano in his room.

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT
Today's Best Laugh: There are two kinds of people, the haves and the have-nots. Or, to put it another way, wives and husbands.

Wish I'd Said That: Someone described vodka as "the stuff that's odorless, colorless and tasteless — and, too, much leaves you senseless."

Remembered Quote: "The ideal husband is one who can understand every word his wife isn't saying."

Earl's Pearls: Diet for weeks and nobody notices, go off it for a day and everybody notices.

Henry Kissinger's marriage probably won't affect his foreign policies, figures Joe Ponte, but it'll certainly change his domestic affairs.

That's earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

Broadway

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Producer Stuart Ostrow can look back now and smile—and count the money—but in 1972 he didn't know whether he was coming or going as he tried to get the "Pippin" musical rolling.

For several months, he thought he and the show were snake bit. But by the end of 1973, this unusual musical, set in medieval France, of all places, had earned a net profit of one million dollars. Before the profit-taking began, the $500,000 production cost had been paid off. There are 30 investors.

This is not a particularly new type of story about Broadway shows. There have been many examples over the years of productions, especially musicals, that have emerged from behind various eight-balls to achieve success. But Ostrow and "Pippin" faced a few new obstacles.

First, Ostrow mortgaged
his home to get "starter" money before seeking investors. That's been done before.

Makes Boston Deal
The National Theater in Washington, D. C., on Ostrow's record, agreed to play "Pippin" during the tryout weeks before Broadway. But Ostrow was having trouble raising money, and the National canceled out. That was unusual.

Next, the Kennedy Center in Washington agreed to guarantee an engagement for "Pippin," which still didn't have all of the money it needed. But the Center got into a contract hassle with the musicians' union and canceled.

Ostrow then made a deal to open the show in Boston's Shubert Theater. But Kennedy Center suddenly settled with the musicians, recaptured "Pippin" with a guarantee for the run and,
moreover, invested a badly needed $100,000 in the production.

This proved to be a good idea. The Center more than made back its guarantee because "Pippin" was a smash hit in Washington, and, of course, the Center
had been making a profit ever since as an investor. A commercial show helping to support a public foundation.

No Stars
The powerful Shubert organization finally came up with more backing to insure the New York presentation at the Imperial Theater (a Shubert house, by the way).

There were a couple of other factors that made things difficult for
"Pippin." It had no stars, which was an important reason why it was difficult to raise money.

And Stephen Schwartz,
the lyricist-composer and a proven talent, and director Bob Fosse, a real old hand at Broadway musicals, had some irreconcilable artistic differences. Schwartz felt the show had been distorted in the staging and walked away.

The critics hailed
"Pippin" as a director's triumph, and Fosse won all the directing awards in sight.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Edward Moore's example shows how your subconscious mind can help solve your problems during sleep. He was a confidant of Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, founder of the Kellogg Sanitarium. Dr. Kellogg invented cornflakes in a dream! See below.

CASE A-614: Edward F.
Moore is a brilliant U. of Michigan engineering graduate who now is a successful Wall Street investor.

"Dr. Crane," he said as he was visiting at our home recently, "one of my most interesting deals came to me in a dream."

"For several years I have been trying to purchase the key block of stock in a certain company, but the dealer—stockholder refused to sell."

"The solution came to me in a dream and it solved my former impasse."

"As we discussed the fact that often our subconscious mind will evolve a solution to a perplexing puzzle, he added:

"Did you know that cornflakes were also invented as a result of a dream?"

"When I shook my head,
he continued:

"Dr. John Harvey
Kellogg was a great food researcher and also owner of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium in Michigan."

"In his work with cereals, Dr. Kellogg wondered how he could utilize corn, to supplement the popular demand for oatmeal, as well as puffed wheat and puffed rice."

"That night he drifted off into slumber, apparently with this puzzle on his mind.
And in his sleep, the idea came to him. It startled him into wakefulness."

"So Dr. Kellogg got right out of bed and hastened down to his kitchen."

"He shelled some ordinary yellow corn and placed it in a bowl of water, to soak till morning."

"Then he returned to bed and fell asleep."

"Next morning, he rushed downstairs, to find that the corn had softened while in the water."

"So he laid the grains on a bread board; took a rolling pin and then ironed them flat."

"Next, he placed them in the oven to toast."

"When they were a crisp
golden brown, he took them out and poured the corn flakes into a bowl."

"They proved to be delicious, and that's how cornflakes were originated."

"But Dr. Kellogg wasn't concerned with manufacturing problems, so he turned the business over to his younger brother."

"The company zoomed and was estimated to have reached $50 million in value by the time Dr. Kellogg's sanitarium burned down."

"When Dr. Kellogg then asked this brother to lend him $1 million to rebuild the sanitarium, his brother refused."

"And I understand that's why Dr. Kellogg never spoke to his younger brother till he died."

"Dr. Kellogg told me this story himself, so I got it direct from the inventor of the original cornflakes."

"Apropos of dreams,
many students have found that if they go to sleep perplexed by an unsolved math problem, the solution may pop into their minds during sleep."

"Which means their subconscious has polarized various bits of relevant information around the enigma till the correct solution suddenly appears."

"That 'polarization' also is helpful in your waking state!"

"So when you have a theme or public speech due tomorrow or next week, at least pick a topic NOW, so your subconscious will be culling relevant ideas in advance."

"Send for my booklet
'Public Platform Strategy,' enclosing a long stamped, return envelope—plus 25 cents."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Metairie, Louisiana 70002. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)
