PAMPA — The new Holland Wing of Pampa's White Deer Land Museum at 116 S. Cuyler will be officially opened to the public today from 2 to 5 p.m.

A special exhibit, "Camp Cantonment, 1875: the Army Comes to Stay," will be on view at the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The opening marks the completion of a project begun last year following a bequest from the late Ruth Ann Holland of Pampa and supplemented by donations from private individuals and groups.

Holland Wing houses a meeting/reception area, additional space for displays and traveling exhibits, office and archives space, and storage and work rooms. The reception/meeting room and the exhibit hall will be available in the future for use by non-profit groups with educational purposes close to those of the White Deer Land Museum.

Attending the opening today will be two members of the 4th Cavalry Regiment (Memorial), a historic reenactment group from Amarillo. They will discuss the historic artifacts and visit with people about the history of the Army and Cavalry in the area.

PAMPA — Parts of Frost Street received primer last week and seal coat rock is expected to be applied the early part of this week, according to Crystal Roberts of the city engineering department. Lime stabilization is being applied to Harvester Street, Roberts said.

PAMPA — The Pampa High School and Middle School choral departments will present their annual fall concert Monday at 7:30 p.m. in M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Directors of the choirs are Fred Mays, Susie Wilson, Suzanne Wood and Jennifer

There will be a $1 admission fee for adults to help defray the cost of auditorium

TEHUACAN, Mexico (AP) -- Four people were shot and hacked to death and four others seriously injured in a mysterious attack in a remote Indian town in the state of Puebla, newspapers reported

La Jornada del Oriente and the government's Notimex news agency reported that the victims were involved in witchcraft and apparently angered other townsfolk in Tepenzacualco de Alcomunga.

But the daily El Sol de Mexico said local residents said the motive was a dispute over land and over the distribution of aid for students.

Black leaders still back march despite latest remarks by Farrakhan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Black leaders continued to voice support Saturday for a rally of black men here this week despite new remarks by organizer Louis Farrakhan in which he calls Jews and others "bloodsuckers" for not giving back to the African-American community.

"I don't accept hate-filled, anti-white, anti-Semitic language coming from anybody," Baltimore Mayor Kurt Schmoke said Saturday.

However, Schmoke said he still plans to attend the Million Man March on Monday "because I think it is an important event and I do think it will probably be seen as significant in the history of African Americans.'

In a television interview broadcast Friday, Farrakhan, leader of the Nation of Islam, elaborated on his previous use of the term "bloodsuckers" to describe some Jews, and added some ethnic groups to that category.

"Many of the Jews who owned the homes, the apartments in the black community, we considered them bloodsuckers because they took from our community and built their community, but they didn't offer anything back to the Television in an interview taped Oct 4.

"And when the Jews left, the Palestinian Arabs came, Koreans came, Vietnamese and other ethnic and racial groups came," Farrakhan continued. "And so unprecedented show of unity and "Parrakhan continued." this is a type, and we call them bloodsuckers.

Abraham Foxman, executive director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai b'rith, said the march has been tainted by Farrakhan's bigotry.

"Black people make money off the black community. Do they put it back, and if they do not, does he call them bloodsuckers?" Foxman said in an interview Saturday. "The man has racist, a bigot and an anti-Semite.'

He called on Rep. Donald Payne and Jesse Jackson to publicly denounce Farrakhan's latest remarks. Jackson and Payne, who is head of the Congressional Black Caucus, both-plan to attend the rally.

Asked about Farrakhan's latest comments, White House press secretary Mike McCurry said, "I think we've already made it clear that the White community," he told Reuters House objects to statements like these from Louis Farrakhan.' Washington Mayor Marion Barry continued to support the goals of the rally, said his

it's an historic event," Bain said, adding that she did not know whether Barry knew about Farrakhan's latest remarks, although they were printed in both Washington newspapers Saturday.

In Omaha, Neb., Eddie Staton, co-founder of Mad Dads, a national anti-gang group that is sending a delegation, said he was upset by Farrakhan's state-

"I am concerned and I disassoconstantly, consistently been a ciate myself and Mad Dads from any racism or criticism of that sort," Staton said. "It is not necessary."

Schmoke, speaking to WBAL radio in Baltimore, said support for the march does not necessarily equal support for Farrakhan.

"You've got some leading Christian ministers in our community that have been involved in the planning process that would never sit down and break bread with Louis Farrakhan, but they believe this is an important symbol," he said.

Raymond Bryant, maintenance supervisor for the Miami Independent School District, holds a mousetrap. The question is whether he is certified to use it.

Catching mice could be problem for schools under new state rules

By DAVID BOWSER . . Staff Writer

MIAMI - Carson Williams fears that he may be a fugitive from the law. The Miami Independent School District employee caught a mouse and therein lies the prob-

"You can't set a trap unless you're certified," Williams said.

Raymond Bryant, maintenance supervisor for the Miami school system, acknowledges that he and Williams may not be certified for mouse catching even though they attended an Integrated Pest Management (IPM) workshop as required by the State of Texas and have taken the tests certifying that they can use certain pesticides to control insects and rodents.

Bryant said it is not cléar whether the certification, for which they applied but have not received, covers mousetraps.

Allan Dinsmore, Miami ISD superintendent, said the pair attended a workshop in Amarillo recently sponsored by the Texas Association of School Administrators to fulfill the school district's IPM require-

"Under Texas law," Dinsmore said, "all school districts must approve and maintain an official IPM policy statement.

He said that Miami ISD passed its policy last August, well before the Sept. 1 deadline required under Title 22 of the Texas Administrative Code, Sec. 595.11b. The regulations are required under action taken by the 72nd Texas Legislature.

In the past, the school district contracted with a licensed pest control business to do preventive spraying for insects and rodents. Dinsmore said a professional exterminator was brought in once a month to ensure that problems didn't start. That will apparently have to be changed.

"Now, we have to determine if we have a roach problem before we can spray." Bryant said.

He said the law says that steps can be taken to control the prob lem, if one is determined to exist when a certain threshold is reached. But the law does not state what that threshold is

"I don't know it it takes one mouse or roach or ten." Bryant said. "In the past, if we found one roach, it was a problem.

But Bryant said he was told that one is not enough. He says his understanding of the new rules is that the State of Texas is telling school districts they can live with a certain amount of roaches and

"The emphasis now is on management rather than eradication.

The basis for the approach to the problem appears to be based on concerns for endangered species. Dinsmore said.

In the past, Dinsmore said, the Miami school system did not have a pest problem because of their preventive program Now that may change, particularly it a census of pests has to be studied before action can be taken.

"One mouse is way too many in those classrooms," said Carson See MICE, Page 2

United Way introduces its 1995 Loaned Executives

As part of its 1995 fund-raising campaign, Pampa United Way is once again implementing the Loaned Executives Program as a highly effective way to enlist local businesses and their employees in support of United Way. This year's program includes eight executives, each of whom The Pampa News will introduce during the course of the campaign.

Toni M. Howard has been a driving force for Pampa United Way for the last ten of her 12 and a half years of employment at Cabot Research & Development, serving an important role in organizing her fellowemployees' participation in the fund-raising drives. This year, Toni is expanding her sphere of influence on behalf of United Way by participating in its Loaned Executive Program.

As a Loaned Executive, Toni will make appointments with several Pampa businesses to deliver presentations aimed at helping their employees understand the many ways in which United Way funds support vital agency functions and an outstanding example," Toni and Jaden.

Anti-nuclear activist, group receive Nobel Peace Prize

Peace Prize became a weapon Friday, targeted against nations that own and test nuclear arms. In a pointed signal to world leaders, the award went to British physicist Joseph Rotblat, 88, and the antinuclear group he helped found.

Rotblat, who started a campaign against nuclear weapons 40 years ago with Albert Einstein and Bertrand Russell, said that the Nobel Peace Prize is recognition of work still in progress.

"I see this honor not for me personally but rather for the small group of scientists who have been working for 40 years to try to save the world, often

The Nobel committee made clear that the award was also a signal to France and China to stop their atomic weapons tests, which Rotblat called "an outrage."

Rotblat, a native of Poland, helped build the world's first atomic bomb in the United States, but quit the Manhattan Project in 1944 when he overheard a U.S. general saying its real purpose was to subdue the Soviet Union – not to deter Nazi

The politically correct version

The editors of The New Testament and Psalms: An Inclusive Western insist that "political correctness" had nothing to do with

You I have to take their word for it, although the use of "inclusive in the title is a buzz to the contrary, as is the declaration in the introduction that this new updated version should "provide direction and sustenance to those who long for justice

This will come as a relief to left-handers - or should we say, people of left-handedness - who have suffered for years from insensitive discriminatory references to the "right hand of God." Never again. In this version, it's the "mighty hand," and either

You will not 'nowever be able to sitteth at the mighty hand of God the Father for the new text sets straight several centuries of gender confusion and male bias. The use of "God" is all right, since it is gender-neutral, but no more of these "he," "him" and father" references. That is as bad as all those biblical males who 'begat' offspring clearly implying superiority over mothers. Begats are begone

If you must refer to him her as other than God, "Father-Mother" is acceptable. You can practice this by memorizing the new version of the Lord's Prayer: "Our Father-Mother in heaven Jesus was an especially vexing case, and not just to Pontius Pilate. He not only was a son male-centric bias) but was of man' (heaven forbid!). Hereafter, he (she?) is "the human one." And get this straight. The human one was no one's "master" - for obviously unacceptable reasons. No kidding: this is for real.

Jesus, by the way, did not "obey" his parents. He - as it should be with all children - "heeded" them; and they certainly didn't 'discipline" him, they "guided" him. Mary, as with any wife of the day, was not "subject" to Joseph, but "committed."

If at this point you are thinking, Good Lord!, it shows how much vou need this version. Lords as a ruling class have seen their day, and for that matter the Kingdom of God now is the Dominion. The former Lord is "Most High." which at least is superior to what Father-Mother might have been called: "The One to Whom You Swear Allegiances" And ves - if you can bear the loss of poetic resonance, as in the 23rd Psalm - "God is my shepherd" and "He," of course, will not maketh you to lie down anywhere Slaves" are "people who were enslaved," the blind are "people who are blind" and - you get the idea.

If you believe that this is a dark day for biblical scholarship, vou are sensitivity-impaired. Equating darkness with evil, it furns out, has racist overtones.

Bet you can't wait for the new Old Testament

America's poor education record

Kids from poor countries like Ireland and Slovenia beat the daylights out of our kids In math. On international surveys. French kids come in second in reading ability while our kids come in sixth. Might money explain the difference? The answer is a big fat "no." We spend more money per pupil on education than any other country - $6,000 on the average while the French spend $4,600.

Paul Klebnikov wrote an article titled "What Are Condoms Made Of?" for Forbes magazine (9/11/95) in which he sought answers for France's superior performance by visiting Clarkstown High School in an affluent suburb of New York City and Lycee Jean de La Fontaine in Paris, both government-owned schools. La Fontaine classes average 35 students: Clarkstown averages 21. Clarkstown has 100 computers and a TV studio: La Fontaine has 12 computers tucked away in a back room. Clarkstown's facility is state-of-the-art: La Fontaine has peeling paint and rickety wooden desks.

Klebnikov figured peeling paint and rickety desks couldn't explain La Fontaine's superior academic performance, so he checked it out. At Clarkstown; he visited a class called Sex Respect. The topic of the day was supposed to be sexual abstinence, but in the typical "bait and switch" tactic of educationists, the teacher was talking about condoms. He informed the 15- and 16-yearolds that "within a year, you will no longer be able to call them rubbers. They're going to be made out of polyurethane. They'll be much thinner and more effective, like Saran Wrap.

Klebnikov visited another class called Humankind, a replacement for an old civics class, where kids discussed an assigned three-page article about the Mafia and had split into six groups to draw pictures illustrating the point of the article.

In France's La Fontaine, it was a different story. When Mme. Thomazeau entered her seventh grade French class, the class stood briskly to greet her. After saying, "Please be seated," she grilled the class on a medieval fable: "How is the text organized? Where does the introduction end? Where is the moral?" She wasn't into self-esteem. When the class was slow in answering, she thundered: "Half a year and you haven't learned anything." "Speak up! State your argument," as she glowered through her spectacles at one student who finally raised her hand, "Don't paraphrase the text. Synthesize!"

At Clarkstown's Global Studies class, the teacher talked about U.S. support of dictator Ferdinand Marcos and Imelda Marcos' shoes. In an advanced. placement American History class, one student said that society needs more values. The teacher replied, "It's not that simple. In a free society, it's very difficult to say: This is right, and this is not:" That's what educationists might call "values clarification." I call it undermining traditional values.

In a typical French school, there's lots of homework, emphasis on fact and formal logic, a right and wrong answer for almost everything and a teacher lecturing to a class. The French system is less interested in making excuses for children and more concerned with making demands upon them. In American schools, it's lazy thinking, dumb-downed standards, self-expression and feeling good about oneself. Americans 50 years or older would recognize today's typical French as the kind of school they attended.

As a result of parental apathy and a predatory education establishment, we Americans have been taken to the cleaners. What I find incomprehensible is how we look to a gouging education establishment for solutions to our education problems in face of the fact that it, assisted by the U.S. Department of Education, has delivered one educational disaster after another.

Limited resources, limited wealth

The text for our surviving-the-20th century sermon this week, brothers and sisters, comes from the Book of Axioms.

In Chapter 1, Verse 1, we read: "Unlimited economic growth is impossible.

exchange it, it is worthless.

The key to understanding why this is so is to know the difference between money and wealth. Paper money is unlimited, but wealth is not. Imagine, for example, that you find yourself on a deserted island. You have only a suitcase containing $5 million in U.S. currency. Right away, you would discover what money is and what money isn't. Money is a medium of exchange. Money is not wealth. And, when there is nobody with whom to exchange the money, it is worthless. If there is nothing for which you can

What you need on that island are food, potable water, shelter and tools - not a suitcase full of paper with ink on it.

Real wealth are those things food, shelter, tools, skills, clothing and land - real things that can be used to sustain life. And, unlike money, the only way to create real wealth is to apply human energy to natural resources, or in the case of skills and knowledge, to apply human energy to memorizing, understanding and practice.

energy applied to natural resources. My skill in marks, the same 1 ounce of gold required 87 trilmanipulating the keys is a result of first memorizing lion marks. In 1967, an American could acquire a make it easier for people to own real property.

their locations and then spending hours at practice. But natural resources are limited. We live on a planet which is a closed system. Except for meteorites, there is nothing on this planet that wasn't already here a million years ago. We can shape, manipulate, recycle and transform natural matter but we cannot create it. In another part of the Book of Axioms we find, "Nothing can be created

Thus, at any given time, there is a finite store of wealth that can only be increased slowly by applying human energy to natural resources. On the other hand, the amount of money - either currency, bank credits or other pieces of paper denominated in currency - can be increased rapidly and without limit. But since what these pieces of paper can be exchanged for (real wealth) remains relatively static, the more the volume of the paper stuff is increased, the lower its exchange value. For example, in 1919, Germans could acquire 1 ounce of gold in exchange for 170 marks. By 1923, This computer I work on is a product of human as their government printed more and more gallon of gasoline for about 15 cents; today, the gallon requires $1.35. Americans are being victimized by the same process that occurred in Germany only at a slower rate - so far.

And now to the point: Because natural resources are looted, real wealth is limited, and therefore unlimited real economic growth - the creation of new wealth - is impossible.

It is important to understand this because some politicians and some people with a superstitious belief in the myth of the free market will tell you otherwise. They will also deceive you by creating paper and convincing you that the paper is ple, used to say in the 1980s we could grow our way out of the deficit. As you will note, it did not work. That's because you can create debt a heck of lot faster than you can create wealth. Debt requires no labor but the stroke of a pen.

Some neoconservative Republicans, for exam-

You can acquire debt in a matter of seconds by signing a credit card slip - but think of how many hours you have to work to pay that debt.

The goals Americans who do not wish to be victimized should be pursuing are: (1) a stable medium of exchange; (2) ways to prevent a few from acquiring all the real wealth with borrowed paper, thus dooming the majority to poverty; (3) ways to return control of the government to the people; and (4) ways to

he most curious state in the Union

R. Emmett Tyrrell Jr.

I write from enemy territory. "Clinton-Gore" bumper stickers appear on scores of automobiles, and - unlike other parts of the country - they are not there as a practical joke perpetrated by pranksters. The cars' owners actually believe in the National Salvation promised by those 1992 relics. Even in Arkansas, the Clinton magic seems to have been revealed for the voodoo that it is, but around Little Rock, there are still these bumper stickers. Polls suggest that in 1996 Bill Clinton might not even win his own state, but there remain Clinton faithful, and so I watch my step.

I quietly slip into the office of Lt. Gov. Mike Huckabee, and under cover of darkness, I visit the legendary editorial page editor of the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, Paul Greenberg. While visiting with them and with others here, I am reminded that of all the states of the union, Arkansas is one of the most curious. It has produced America's most curious president. That is increasingly apparent to members of the press who follow his soap-opera presidency and are not rendered gibbering idiots by him because A) they feel sorry for him or B) they think he is just like them, a conventional liberal miracle worker. Neither perception is warranted.

But Arkansas is curious. So pervasive is the corruption of its politics and the one-party domination of its political machine that it has been frequently likened to a Third World country. When in 1993 Huckabee became only the fourth Republican to be elected to statewide office since Reconstruction, he entered the State Capitol Building only to discover that the Democrats had paneled over the doors to his office. Henceforth, there was not going to be office space for the lieu-tenant governor. When he would enter elevators vators. He was snubbed in the hallway. Yet the common citizens of Arkansas are among the friendliest and most law-abiding of any citizenry in the country. Their matutinal "howdies" to perfect strangers are tonic to the spirit of a tired traveler. It is difficult to dislike Arkansas. But the disconnect between its corrupt politics and its genial people is curious.

So, too, is the state's reputation for being a province of hicks. Its educational system is, for a fact, abysmal. (Remember the Clintons' -1992 boasts about their wondrous educational reform? That the press did not expose that boast for the nonsensical puffery that it was is but another indication of how badly the 1992 campaign was reported.) Yet if the state's citizenry is so provincial and ignorant, how does one explain that its state paper, the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, is the best newspaper of its kind in the nation? Exquisitely edited, it abounds with national and international news along with plenty of information about Arkansas. The vokels buy it and read it! Can they really be yokels? Of course one of the reasons for the papers quality is the presence of Greenberg. In all the editorial sancta sanctora of the republic, I know of no other editorial page editor equaling his combination of learning, intelligence and the manifold qualities of the gentleman. Born in Shreveport, La., and educated at Columbia, he has held forth at either the Pine Bluff Commercial or the Democrat-Gazette for more than three decades. He calls him-find yourself with the rare independent mind that in the building, others would step out of the ele-self an "ideological misfit." While at Columbia, he governs Paul Greenberg.

resisted the Kennedy perfume and voted for Nixon. Whittaker Chambers' book Witness changed his life. In the American intelligentsia's civil war over Chambers and Alger Hiss, Greenberg stood with the small but resolute band Among his felthat recognized Hiss as a liar. low eggheads, he had committed an egregious act of heresy. With an amused shrug, Greenberg went on. This is one of his great strengths - the world amuses him.

Working among journalists who have through the decades become ever more conformist, Greenberg has remained independent. He relishes small southern towns, though my spies tell me that on his recent trip to Paris he was perfectly comfortable. He follows painting (the American Edward Hopper), serious music (Mozart over Beethoven!!), political philosophy and baseball -"It's not violent and holds generations together." Greenberg is skeptical of technology. He finds popular culture a "Roman spectacle," meaning it strikes him as evidence of "an empire in decline, a dissolute empire."Over the years, he has been "pro-American" and "anti-Communist."

Greenberg's great love is newspapers. Over dinner, we discuss all manner of phenomena, but by coffee, he has to shove off for the paper to give tomorrow's one last look. I do not get a chance to ask him if he shares Huckabee's sense that the average Arkansan is in rebellion and about to throw the Democratic machine out. Maybe it is best I leave that subject untouched. He is critical of Boy Clinton but doubts he is the scoundrel of historic proportions I hold him to be. It would be very unseemly for two American journalists to disagree in public. It never happens, unless you

International Credit Union Day is Thursday, Oct. 19, and more than 93 million credit union members around the world will be celebrating the credit union tradition of bringing people together to achieve a brighter financial future.

Ten local credit unions representing the Top 0' Texas Chapter of Credit Unions will meet to celebrate and with good reason. This small group represents a combined financial asset base of $47.6 million and provides friendly personal financial services to a total of 11,942 members in Pampa, Lefors, Skellytown, Perryton and Childress.

Not everyone knows that credit unions are unique financial institutions. They are not-for-profit and are democratically controlled by the membership. Earnings are returned to members in the form of low-cost loans and top-notch savings rates. Credit unions take pride in being non-biased sources of consumer information and financial advice. In addition to their cooperative philosophy is a tradition of social responsibility. The Top 0' Texas Chapter voted to donate $500 to Clarendon College to assist with the building project. They believe that by helping their community thrive, their members also

Thanks for school support

To the editor:

We would like to thank everyone who came to the Lamar Elementary Open House. It is so important that parents be involved in their child's education. Open House was a wonderful success, thanks to all of the parental support.

The second and third graders did a wonderful job on their program, "Everybody Smiles in the Same Language." We look forward to seeing the Lamar parents and friends throughout this school year. The faculty and staff at Lamar are truly excited by the parental support. Let's continue to work together to make this a successful year for our children.

Thanks for your support, Lamar Faculty and Staff

Dr. Victor B. Cline, psychotherapist specializing in family/marital counseling and sexual addiction, states, "As a clinical psychologist, I have treated approximately 300 sex addicts, sex offenders or other individuals (96 percent) males with sexual illnesses. This includes many types of unwanted compulsive sexual acting out, plus such things as child molestation, exhibitionism, voyeurism, sadomasochism, fetishism and rape. With only several exceptions, pornography has been a major or minor contributor in the acquisition of their deviation or sexual addiction. However, in my clinical experience, the major consequence of pornography is not the probability or possibility or committing a serious sex crime, but rather its disturbance of the fragile bonds of intimate family and marital relationships." Even those of us that do not see pornographic films/books will eventually be affected by them because they are polluting the world in which we are raising our children.

Pornography, according to Webster NUU Dictionary, is 1. Originally a description of prostitutes; 2. Writings, pictures, etc., intended to arouse sexual desire; 3. The production of such writings, pictures, etc. There is no doubt that Showgirls fits this description.

No censorship has taken place in Pampa. The pastors as leaders and spokesmen for their people have made a statement that pornography and all that it produces is not wanted in this community. The citizens/parents of Pampa need to be thankful for these pastors and back them up by asking all local businesses that sell pornographic magazines and videos to make a socially responsible decision to remove them from their stores.

'Media award winners'

To the editor:

My name is Mike Sublett and I am one of the ministers who encouraged concerned citizens to take a strong stand against the movie Showgirls.

My dealings with the media during that week opened my eyes greatly. Before the event I was suspicious of everyone in the media. To be honest, I had no confidence in the media. I have since repented. Not that there aren't unprincipled people in the media. I met one such reporter from the Amarillo Globe News. However, my letter is about three other examples of "media award winners.'

First, I want to pat Chip Chandler on the back. He is one of your of NORML (National Organization for the Repeal of Marijuana reporters and was honest, thorough, straightforward in his questioning and did not misrepresent anything that I said or stood for. He didn't necessarily agree with everything, but he didn't let that interfere with his job. Second, I want to toot Mike Ehrle's horn. He too was professional in every way, yet did not taint or twist anything that Mr. Craven or I said. Third, let me encourage everyone in television to be as professional as Bridgette Jacobs, a reporter with Channel 7 News. These three reporters are perfect examples of everything good about journalism. Hooray! Hooray! Hooray! The next time you see one of these professionals, tell them how much you appreciate them.

One other thing. It surely was unfortunate for someone to associate Christ's name with placing an X rated movie on their "must see" list. Being a follower of Christ used to stand for Bible study, prayer, worship, spreading good and fighting evil. I never thought that I would see His name tagged to an eager pursuit of a "skin flick."

Business

Minding Basiness

By Don Taylor

Why not excellence?

The word excellence means to "be of superior quality or value," to surpass in accomplishment" or "to be eminently good." It is a tall order for any business to qualify as excellent. Yet the rewards certainly justify the effort required to attain a high-quality status.

There is a spreading recognition that quality pays. From Wall Street to Main Street, customers, managers and owners are receiving the benefits associated with various quality-oriented move-

For customers, the advantages are better products, competitive prices and vastly improved levels of service. Management benefits from increasing employee morale, reduced stress levels, the joy of accomplishment and higher levels of compensation based on productivity. For company owners, the benefits come in the form of increasing profits and long-term company value. Everyone wins in this game of excellence.

The question that begs asking is this: "If everyone wins, why isn't everyone involved in the direct pursuit of excellence?" In other words, why isn't every company implementing a quality

Why not excellence?

I believe there are three main reasons why companies have not jumped on the quality bandwagon. First, they are not aware of the benefits that all companies who focus on quality receive. If the business is doing well, owners and managers may not see any reason to implement a quality program. This is the "if it ain't broke, don't fix it" syndrome.

However, statistics prove that companies who become obsessed with quality issues perform better, provide higher profits and gain market share. Still, some companies are comfortable in their ignorance because their short-term survival is not in jeopardy.

The second reason is that to implement a quality program requires change. Experts agree that only babies are comfortable with change. I cannot explain why well-run companies would resist utilizing proven self-improvement concepts, but change is a

Making changes in any business organization requires the commitment of top management. Then every member must be led into the process. All changes must focus on improving elements of the business that result in satisfied or even delighted customers. Remember, if you can't measure it, you can't improve it.

The third reason why some companies haven't gotten involved in the quality movement is unconcern. They know, but don't care.

I'll make a prediction about this group. In the next decade as world competition increases, these firms will suffer one of three fates. They will fail with fanfare, that is, with public bankruptcies and front-page headlines. Or, they will fail quietly, and just slip from sight. Or, they will be swallowed up by quality-focused, wellrun companies who will implement swift and traumatic changes. Quality opportunities

Businesses in the Amarillo area have two unique opportunities to get involved in the quality movement this month. If your firm is interested in long-term survival, I urge you to take advantage of these quality programs.

The first opportunity is the 11th Annual Quality Forum which can be attended locally at the Amarillo College Union Building on Oct. 26, at 10 a.m. The title of this year's event is "Quality Happens Through People." The entire cost including lunch is only $39. Call Randy Crawford at (806) 371-5204 for details.

The second quality opportunity is the brand new Northwest Texas Quality Award program. This unique program allows local businesses and public entities to participate in a process that uses guidelines similar to those developed for the Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award. The goal of the program is to help participants to reduce waste, lower costs and prices, enhance profit margins, serve customers more effectively and increase employee

Letters to the editor

He shall take a stand

To the editor:

I am one of the ministers that opposed the showing of Showgirls in our community, and I am forever in debt to those individuals who have showed me the errors of my ways! I see now that I have been too influential in trying to change society. I and my forefathers, years ago, should have taken a hands-off approach and minded our own business on several key historical issues.

I can see now that we should have never stood against the slavery issue. After all, it's a free country and no one was forced to own slaves. My ancestors were not potential slaves, so why did they get involved? They should have just looked the other way. I now see that those who fought for child labor laws in this country were wrong, and that six-year-old immigrant boys and girls should have been allowed to remain in the coal mines 18 hours a day, seven days a week. I mean, those who fought for these laws were not immigrants, their children were not in the mines, so what business was it of theirs, anyway. I just wish people would mind their own business.

And child pornography; I really blew that one. Can you imagine that I was so narrow minded as to actually oppose it; I mean after all, it's a free country. To censor pornography is just one step away from communism! I can see that now! Oh, what a better world it would be if we would all just mind our own business. Slavery would still be thriving, your children would be forced to work in mines or factories, and exploited for sex. What a utopia this world would be!

Alas, while now I see the error of the past I cannot change! I am forever doomed to remain one of those narrow minded Christians that are destroying our society by censoring our freedoms and taking away our first amendment right as my forefathers did.

I know it's wrong, but anytime I see immorality creeping in to destroy marriages and families, and warp the minds of children and youth, I shall take a stand. That's just the kind of bad person I am. Lyndon Glaesman

Shriners appreciate support

We, the Pampa Shrine Club, would like to take this opportunity to thank The Pampa News for the outstanding coverage of our recent fall barbecue held at the Pampa Shrine Club Sunday, Oct. 8. We found the newspaper to be very cooperative and congenial to work with in preparation of promoting our fall fundraiser. We certainly do feel that the event was a huge success and attribute a lot of our success to the article that was run in the paper Monday, Oct. 2

We would also like to acknowledge KGRO/KMOX for their continued support in promoting our barbecue and Shrinedom. Their interview program gives us an excellent opportunity to inform the public of our fundraisers which benefit our travel fund for transportation expense for children and an adult escort to our shrine hospitals for orthopedic or burn care at "no charge" for medical expenses received.

We would also like to thank the public for the support that they give us each and every fundraiser. Without the continued support of the public in Pampa and the surrounding areas, we could not continue to help our children. We look forward to serving you in the spring

We sincerely believe that "No man stands so tall as when he stoops to help a crippled child."

Cuba poses major problem

Edwin Feulner in his column Oct. 6, 1995 stated, "250 miles from Miami, the United States is facing what could be the greatest nuclear threat, in the form of a couple of Russian-designed nuclear reactors under construction ... The Cubans are building not one but two accidents."

In the early Eighties, Mr. David Wilkes, now president of Southwestern Public Service, investigated and made a study of the catastrophe at Chernobyl. In a talk to the Kiwanis Club in Pampa, in 1981, he discussed the faulty design and inadequate engineering. He said with the design being used in the U.S. such a catastrophe could not happen. Recently there was a story of the deterioration of the present concrete bubble over the Chernobyl reactor. There is molten nuclear material, after 15 years, that must be cooled to prevent a "melt-down." The Nuclear Consortium in Europe is designing a bubble to be built over the Chernobyl bubble and reactor area. This will take several years. In the meantime, the land and river water is continuing to be polluted.

"Castro mothballed the project (two nuclear reactors) in 1990 because of U.S. objections." Now, construction is being resumed, apparently hoping to "shakedown" the U.S. and other international communities for some kind of "compensatory alternative" as the North Koreans were able to do, as also the Russian-Iran nuclear deal. Their settlements encouraged Castro to pursue his goals.

There is much talk about the safety of the environment in the Panhandle because of the Pantex Plant, and rightly so. However, the nation's real concern is, that "next door" TWO CHERNOBYLS are being built that could destroy the southern part of the U.S. and the Atlantic Coast area. I have seen nothing in the press or TV media concerning this potential catastrophe, of two Chernobyl type reactors. It is reported that Castro will use the faulty design of Chernobyl, using materials from Russia which are "60 percent faulty."

This is a MAJOR PROBLEM that needs presidential and congressional action. This an URGENT matter!

LEFORS — Follett downed Lefors, 40-20, in a District 1-1A Six-Man opener Friday night. Follett took an early lead and led the entire contest. Jerimey Howard tallied all three touchdowns for Lefors on runs of 79, 42 and 1 yard. Keith Franks had a conversion kick for the Pirates. · Follett held a 26-14 advantage at halftime. Lefors finished with 291 yards in total offense while Follett had 314. Follett led in first downs, 14-11. Coby Cook paced Follett's offense. He threw three touchdown passes and scored on a 2vard run. Two of his scoring passes went to Kenton Laubhan and one went to Joe Thomas. William Frazier added a touchdown on a 2-yard run.

The game was filled with turnovers. Follett had seven and Lefors six.

Both teams now have 3-3 records for the season. Lefors goes to Higgins next Friday night. The next home game for the Pirates is Oct. 27 against McLean.

SAMNORWOOD

Samnorwood handed Miami its first loss, 48-20, Friday night in District 1-1A Six-Man football

Samnorwood was able to build a 28-12 lead at halftime.

Steven Browning led Miami's offense. He threw touchdown passes to Jared Neighbors (30 yards) and Jammy Murray (20 yards). Browning also ran for a 19-yard touchdown.

Artie Wright scored three touchdowns and Dane Martindale added two for Samnorwood.

Miami is now 5-1 for the season while Samnorwood is also 5-1. The Warriors host McLean in another district clash next Friday night.

Cowboys face off against stumbling Chargers

By BERNIE WILSON AP Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) - After two weeks of stumbling, bumbling and fumbling, the San Diego Chargers at least have one small consolation going into Sunday's game counting on the fact that playing Dallas against the Dallas Cowbovs:

Deion Sanders won't be around to dance in their faces.

The underdog Chargers will be busy enough with Troy Aikman, Emmitt Smith, Michael Irvin and Charles Haley as they try to avoid their first three-game losing streak since early in the 1993 season.

This could have been one of those "Super Bowl Previews." Maybe it still will be, but only the Cowboys (5-1) have held up their end of the deal. Their only loss was at Washington, when Aikman was knocked out with a strained calf muscle.

The Chargers (3-3) are another story. No NFL team turns the ball over with more frequency than the defending AFC champions, who have a minus-8 ratio. Their pass rush has been off the mark, the offensive line spotty at times, and the wide receivers have become prone to fumbling after the catch or letting balls bounce off their hands for easy pickoffs.

Aikman knows the spot the Chargers are 537 yards, may be San Diego's key. He had Chargers.

Coach Bobby Ross tried to play spin injury — imploring his line to play a little doctor in the wake of road losses to harder to keep him in one piece - and threw for 316 yards and two touchdowns

"When you lose a game like that, as frustrating as it is, it puts a new importance on the following game," Aikman said. "That was the situation that we were in a week But the Chargers likely will be without ago, and that's a situation that they now face."

> The Cowboys certainly responded well after the Washington loss. Against the Packers, Aikman was 24-for-31; Smith, the NFL's leading rusher, had 106 yards and two TDs on 31 carries; and Irvin had eight catches for 150 yards.

> Having played in the NFC East for a few seasons, defensive tackle Reuben Davis knows how big it is to play Dallas.

"We wanted to go into this game and have it so dramatized that it would bring in so much media attention," Davis said. "Now people have the feeling that we're mediocre and Dallas is going to come in here and sweep us.

"Well, this is an opportunity that we can rise to their level, bring our self-esteem back up, our confidence level. Because I Gale Gilbert is expected to make only his know a lot of guys are down right now

"I don't think we have to play a perfect game," Swayne said. "People have been scoring on them. People have been running the ball well on them. I think (Washington) could have done a lot better than they did, actually. They didn't start off the game too well."

Nonetheless, the Redskins finished with 136 rushing yards against Dallas.

On the other hand, the Chargers' streak of not allowing a 100-yard rusher is in serious danger of being broken Sunday. Smith, who has 744 total yards, missed 100 only once, when he finished with 95 against "The biggest key is that we've got to go out and stay together," Davis said. They're the type of team that they're going to keep pounding and pounding and when you break, that's when they let it all rip."

At least the Chargers won't have to face Sanders, who is scheduled to make his first appearance for Dallas at Atlanta on Oct.

Last year, Sanders punctuated San Francisco's 38-15 regular-season win here by returning an interception 90 yards for a touchdown, then dancing in the end zone. He also had an interception in the 49ers' Means, the AFC's leading rusher with 49-26 Super Bowl blowout of the

The six riders, of whom five are disabled, will arrive in Pampa from Amarillo about 4 p.m. Monday and will be stopping at the Best Western Northgate Inn (2831 Perryton Parkway, Highway 70, N. Pampa). The group of riders is known as AXA World Ride.

On Tuesday, the riders will continue the final leg of their 13,000-mile journey as they leave the Best Western parking lot at 8 a.m. for a 95mile day of cycling to Elk City, Okla.

AXA World Ride, which began on March 17 in Atlanta, has taken them from the east coast of the United States to the British Isles, then onto the European continent. They rode across the vast expanse of Russia to Siberia and Mongolia, past the Great Wall of China to lapan before finally returning to the American shores. Their incredible journey comes to an end Nov. 18 when they pedal into Washington, D.C.

Many celebrities, including Olympic gold medalist Dave Jansen, are participating and offering their support to the six core riders: Steve Ackerman of Fort Collins, Colo.; David Cornelsen of Huntington Beach,

Country Fair '95

Chamber prepares for its 11th annual fund-raiser

In an event offering nearly something for everyone, the 11th Annual Country Fair, the major fund-raiser for the Greater Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce, will open its doors at 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 21, in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium and Civic Center.

With dinner, silent and live auctions, Bingo, a chance to win $5,000 and a dance, the Country Fair provides a fun-filled evening lasting until 1 a.m. for those attending the event.

Tickets are $15 per person, which gives admission to all the evening's festivities. Tickets may be purchased at FirstBank Southwest, Boatmen's First-Pampa Banking Cente, First American Bank, National Bank of Commerce, Malcolm Hinkle Inc., Wayne's Western Wear and the Chamber Office.

In addition, drawing tickets are available at $100 each from members of the Drawing Ticket Committee, Chamber board members or the Chamber office. The drawing tickets also will be available at the door. During the live auction segment, drawings will be held for prizes of $500, $1,000, $1,500 and top prize of $5,000.

Providing a wide variety of food items for the dinner portion of the evening will be Kevin's, Dyer's Bar-B-Que, Pizza Hut, Chicken Express and Pampa Country Club.

Snacks for the dance will be provided by Malcolm Hinkle Inc. During the Silent Auction period, those attending can place their bids on such items as gift certificates, arts and crafts products, professional services, dinners, automotive items, household articles, movie rentals, books and numerous others.

The Live Auction will allow people the opportunity to bid competively on items ranging from a football autographed by Troy Aikman to 10 U.S. minted Morgan silver dollars, from a trip to Las Vegas to a fishing trip, from a 14 karat gold amethyst ring to a chance to fly your alma mater's flag for a week on the City Hall flagpole.

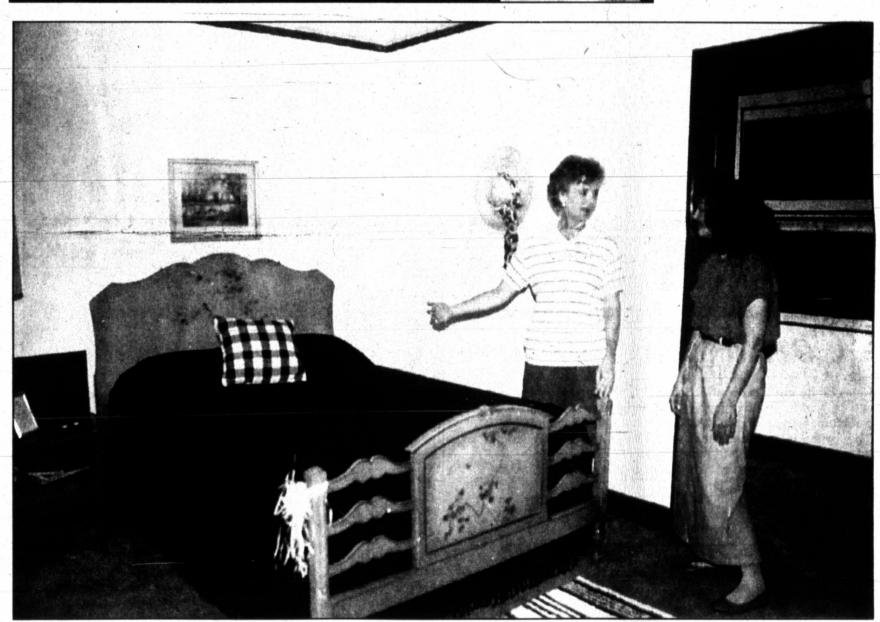

Schedule of Activities

For complete auction listings, see advertisements in today's paper.

Doors open at 5 p.m. Dinner: 5-7 p.m. Silent Auction: 5-8 p.m. Live Auction: 8-9 p.m.

Bingo: 9-11 p.m. (Admission tickets do not cover cost of playing Bingo)

Dance: 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., with the Tiny Lynn Band

Satellite program on medication to air Oct. 26.

The statistics are alarming: Nationwide, nearly one-third of all medications prescribed for the elderly in 1994 were unnecessary, according to recent research done by the University of Houston.

The research also found that 51 percent of all deaths and 39 percent of all hospitalizations of people 60 and older were caused by adverse reaction to medications.

A satellite program, "Prescription for Senior Health," will air the morning of Oct. 26. The nearest downlink site is the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center at 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West in Amarillo. The one hour satellite conference will air from 9:45 a.m. to

The program will provide information on innovative medication education and screening programs for older adults. Three outstanding programs in Texas will be presented and discussed by the program coordinators.

The satellite program has targeted an audience consisting of but not limited to pharmacists, directors of senior citizen centers, Area Agency on Aging staff, American Association of Retired Persons leaders, Family and Community educators and any other leaders of senior citizen organizations.

Free and open to the public, the satellite program is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Department of Aging, the Texas Pharmacy Foundation, the Texas Medical Foundation and the Health Care Financing Administration.

Simple Love Poem Unlocks Treasure Chest Of Memories

killed in Vietnam in 1974. I was only 4 years old and don't remember much about him, but my mother kept his memory alive through stories and photos. They were childhood sweethearts, and after he died, she never remarried.

Recently I lost my dear mother. As I was putting away her things, I found this poem, written in her hand, among a box of keepsakes:

Remember the day I borrowed your brand-new car.

And I dented it? I thought you'd kill me. But you didn't

And remember the time I dragged you to the beach. And you/said it would rain, and I thought you'd say, "I told you But you didn't.

Do you remember the time I flirted with all the guys to make you jealous?

And you were: I thought you'd leave me. But you didn't.

Do you remember the time I spilled strawberry pie all over the rug in your new car' I thought you'd hit me.

But you didn't. And remember the time I forgot

Where Hawthorne tackled thorny moral and spiritual conflicts, Joffe and Stewart provide a superficial story and cardboard characters who are about as complex as the imbeciles on Melrose Place.

And the filmmakers tumble even further into the pit of banality by changing Hawthorne's ending to a snappy Hollywood tale of "happily ever after." Pish posh. There is only one way "The Scarlet Letter" can end that makes sense and preserves the dramatic arc of the story and what the movie attempts simply isn't it.

In the film version, Hester Prynne (Demi Moore) is sent by her physician husband, Roger (Robert Duvall), to set up house in Puritan New England. Hester is a modern kind of gal who wears stays in her bodice, bids at slave auctions and otherwise infuriates the male-dominated Christian community.

Early on in the movie, she follows a scarlet bird into the forest and a erotically beautiful waterfall where the Rev. Arthur Dimmesdale (Gary Oldman) is skinny dipping. Oh boy, oh boy! Her eyes simply glow, and the bird's all atwitter.

Dimmesdale and Hester unite in one of the most embarrassing lovemaking scenes ever filmed. While they fornicate in a granary, Hester's maid Mituba (Lisa Jolliff-Andoh) takes a bath with a candle and the bird. The two scenes are juxtaposed and when Dimmesdale and Hester reach their climax, the grain slipping through their clenching fingers, Mituba apparently has her own moment of passion with the Stewart's script would have problems. Oldman holds up just fine, as does Joan Plowright in the supporting role of an accused witch. Duvall looks positively ridiculous in his long wig and high hat and is over the top as the mad doctor.

The Hollywood Pictures release does get big pluses for the movie's glorious cinematography, by Alex Thomson (Excalibur, Black Beauty). But Joffe's pacing makes this one extremely slow movie. The boredom is broken only by the unintended humor.

Ranchers warned of prussic acid danger

AMARILLO - The recent cold snap and unseasaid Dr. Ted McCollum, beef specialist with the Texas Agrcultural Extension Service, and Dr. John Haliburton, head of veterinary toxicology at the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Lab in

"Producers should be alert to potential prussic acid poisoning or cyanide intoxication in any livestock grazing on grain sorghum, forage sorghums, or in areas where the cattle have access to Johnson grass, McCollum said.

The acid is a fast-acting toxin, resulting in death shortly after consumption of a lethal dose. The amount of forage needed to ingest a lethal dose depends on the concentration of prussic acid in the plant, Haliburton said.

With extremely low temperatures and moist conditions over several days followed by warmer temperatures, McCollum said forages may begin to initiate new growth. Any new growth has the

"The stage is set for problems when any forages sonably wet weather may be causing some unex- are hit by early frost or some other mechanical pected problems for area livestock producers, damage," Haliburton added. "The same plants also accumulate nitrates. It will be necessary to determine whether the cause is nitrates or prussic acid."

> Unlike nitrates which accumulate in the stalk of the plant, prussic acid levels are highest in the new growth. Existing leaves will reinstate growth following the cold weather, or new tillers will sprout from the base of the base of the plants. Because prussic acid is in the leaves, grazing livestock are at greater risk than usually occur with nitrate accumulations alone.

> "Forage being harvested for hay should not cause problems since prussic acid will dissipate as the hay is field cured," McCollum said.

> Testing laboratories can assay acid levels in forages. Producers should collect fresh leaves from plants and seal them in a plastic storage bag.

Samples cool should be kept cool until they can be delivered to the lab. Since acid levels dissipate after harvest, care should be taken to deliver the potential to contain toxic levels of prussic acid or samples to the lab as quickly as possible, McCollum said.
