AMARILLO — The counselors from the Samaritan Pastoral Counseling Center of Amarillo are attending the American Association of Pastoral Counselors Southwest Regional Annual Conference in New Braunfels on Oct. 13-15, according to Ann McKay, interim executive director.

The Rev. John Karl, director of the Samaritan Pastoral Counseling Center of the Genesee Valley in Rochester, N.Y., will lead three plenary sessions on the theme: "Remembering Sacred Meetings and Their Stories" with applications where psychotherapy and faith intersect. The counseling staff of the Amarillo SPCC serves the Texas Panhandle with headquarters offices located in the First Christian Church, Amarillo, and satellite offices in three other Amarillo congregations in addition to satellite offices in Canyon, Pampa, Dumas, Canadian and Perryton.

Local congregations provide this interdenominational pastoral counseling to anyone in need. For further information, call 1-800-318-1725 or (806) 353-1668.

PAMPA — Dr. J. Paul Matney will speak to the Gray County Democratic Club at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Lovett Library on "Why People Vote the Way They Do," according to Zetha Dougherty, president.

Matney is division chairman and professor of language communication and fine arts at Amarillo College. He graduated from the University of Texas at Austin with a degree in journalism in 1971. He earned a master of arts degree in speech communication from West Texas A&M in 1973.

Matney received a doctor of philosophy in higher education and mass communication from Texas Tech University in 1989. He taught at West Texas A&M. He has been with Amarillo College since 1979. He was honored with the John F. Mead Faculty Excellence Award in 1992.

The public is invited.

AUSTIN (AP) — One winning ticket bought in Friendswood correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth $4 million.

The numbers drawn from a field of 50 were: 7, 21, 23, 29, 30 and 49.

There were 99 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,814.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Saturday night's game will be $4 million.

PEDC, county support prison expansion plan

By CHIP CHANDLER
Staff Writer

In a pair of emergency meetings today and Wednesday, Pampa Economic Development Corporation board of directors and Gray County commissioners began the first step in bringing a new, high security prison facility to the existing Rufe Jordan Unit.

The entities voted to give board president Vic Raymond and County Judge Richard Peet permission to sign a letter to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice supporting the expansion.

Mayor Bob Neslage must still sign the letter before a Tuesday deadline.

The city commission will meet Friday at noon to consider authorizing Neslage's signature.

City Manager Bob Eskridge explained to the board and commissioner's court that TDCJ has funding to construct 8,000 or more beds during fiscal years 1996-97. For cost effectiveness reasons, he said, the department is reviewing the possibility of adding those beds to eight of their current facilities.

Pampa is one of 20 possible sites, Eskridge said.

Designs for a prototype approximate 660-cell high security building are currently being drawn up. That building, Eskridge said, would be either part of or adjacent to an existing unit's compound.

The department sent a questionnaire to the community leaders essentially asking what each community could provide for TDCJ, he continued.

"Cost effectiveness is a must in considering sites for the location of these buildings," Eskridge said.

Peet, Neslage and Raymond met Tuesday afternoon with representatives from Southwestern Public Service, Southwestern Bell Telephone, the city water department and Energas to fill out the questionnaire, which focused primarily on the cost of utilities for the facility.

In their responses, the city indicated that utility ties to the building would be provided at no cost, as well as any utility relocation, initial connection and additional meters.

The city would also provide water, sanitary sewer service and solid waste disposal at discounted rates, as they currently do for the existing unit. SPS indicated that under the conditions outlined by TDCJ, the unit could also enjoy slightly lower electrical costs.

Eskridge emphasized to commissioners that this was just a document indicating the community's interest in the project, but made no lasting commitments.

Commissioner Joe Wheeley, who seconded the motion today to allow Peet to sign the letter, said that he relied "on the fact that I can say no at any time."

PEDC board member Wayne Stribling asked Eskridge Wednesday where additional money would come from if it was needed.

Eskridge indicated that in the worst-case scenario, the new unit could cost between $500,000 to $1 million to the city.

"Is the community willing to come up with these funds? PEDC has some and the city has limited funds. Either we use what we have with the PEDC and the city or we issue debt," Eskridge said.

He hastened to add that "we don't know what this will require at this stage. ... We'll do what it takes to get it."

Blessing of the animals

Even the big kids brought their animals by St. Matthew's Episcopal Church for "The Blessing of the Animals." Curt and Eveline Farmer of Pampa, who attend the church, brought a llama by Wednesday morning for the event at which Father Jacob S. Clemmens blessed animals which were brought by students of the day care school. Live animals included dogs, cats, a donkey and a tarantula and the toy animals even included Mickey Mouse and the Lion King. The blessing of the animals continued this morning. Wednesday was St. Francis of Assisi Day, who is the patron saint of animals.

Thornberry to introduce reform bill to limit congressional career goals

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Texas 13th Congressional District U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry has announced he is planning to sponsor a congressional reform package that will, among other things, limit congressional pensions and ban the personal use of frequent flyer miles accrued at taxpayer expense.

"We were elected to shake things up on Capitol Hill," Thornberry said. "We made great strides when we passed the Congressional Accountability Act earlier this year. Most significantly, we applied to Congress the same laws which apply to everyone else in the country. But more needs to be done, and I think this legislation is a step in the right direction."

Thornberry said the goal of the reform package "is not only to provide greater accountability for members of Congress, but also to provide members with a greater disincentive to make Congress a career."

The Thornberry reform package contains four legislative proposals designed to achieve this goal.

The cornerstone of the package is a proposal he will introduce that will not only prohibit the use of frequent flyer miles for personal travel, but also provide for their conversion to a charitable organization if not used for official purposes. This proposal would apply to both members of Congress and their staffs.

"Since taking office in January, I've traveled a total of 81,900 miles back and forth between the 13th District and Washington, D.C. There's no reason I should be able to use this mileage for two free tickets to Hawaii," Thornberry said. "It belongs to the American taxpayer, and it should be used accordingly."

"And, if it's not used for official purposes, it makes more sense to have it used by a 10-year-old boy who needs a new heart than a 50-year-old congressman who wants a vacation."

In addition to the proposal to ban the personal use of frequent flyer miles, the Thornberry reform package also includes legislation to limit congressional pensions and prohibit the participation by members of Congress in the federal thrift savings plan.

Members are currently able to participate in both plans for as long as they are in office.

According to Thornberry, limiting participation in one plan and prohibiting participation in the other would give members less financial incentive to make Congress a career.

"We didn't pass term limits for members of Congress this year, but we will continue to try," he said. "But in the meantime, if we can't limit the terms of their employment, then at least we can limit the terms of their retirement."

The third provision in the reform package is original legislation which would eliminate the cost of living adjustment (COLA) pay raise which members of Congress automatically receive each year. The COLA increase is the same that other federal employees receive.

While members of Congress have voted down this increase in the five years it has been in effect, Thornberry said such an automatic increase is not only wrong, it also runs counter to the spirit of the 27th Amendment.

Region 16 to host Head Start training

AMARILLO — Dr. Alvin Granowsky, noted educator, author, speaker and educational consultant, will kick off the year for Head Start students, their teachers and parents at an area-wide Parent Training Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m. at Region 16 Educational Service Center, 1601 S. Cleveland, Amarillo.

Among the schools participating are two Pampa elementary schools.

The first of four regional parent events set for the year, the evening will focus on parent involvement in education. Head Start children and parents will also be recognized for their efforts in family reading.

The meeting is open to all interested parents and educators, according to Jo Moore, Region 16 compensatory education director.

Presenting a message that "parents need to be educated on how to educate their children," Granowsky, who speaks to groups throughout the country, relates that the nation's future is "tied directly to how well we educate our children."

According to Granowsky's literature, "The key to learning success for children is enthusiastic teachers and parents with high self-esteem who can nurture high self-esteem, reading and learning in children."

With more than 30 years in education, Granowsky, a Dallas resident, is currently vice president of School Library Services, World Book Educational Products. He has served as director, language-arts-reading for Dallas ISD, and director for Diagnostic Reading Center, Greensboro City School in North Carolina, where he also worked as a consultant for the North Carolina State Education Agency's Right-to-Read Program.

He has also taught at two universities, University of North Carolina and the University of North Texas in Denton.

Other than Lamar and Baker elementaries in Pampa, schools scheduled to participate in the meeting are 12 schools in Amarillo — Bivins, Emerson, Forest Hill, Hamlet, Lamar, Lee, M. Wills, Mesa Verde, Rogers, Sanborn, San Jacinto and Whittier; Crockett Elementary in Borger; Ridgelea in Bovina; Lakeview Elementary in Canyon; Childress Elementary; Clarendon Elementary; Dalhart Elementary; Richardson Elementary in Dimmitt; Hillside and Sunset in Dumas; Farwell Elementary; Friona Elementary; Hart Elementary; Stanton Center in Hereford; Travis Elementary in Memphis; Central in Perryton; and Wellington Elementary.

Child care for the meeting will be provided at the service center by the Amarillo High School Key Club.

Reservations for child care may be made by calling Jane King, parent involvement specialist at Region 16, at (806) 376-5521, extension 273.

Warring parties agree to cease-fire in Bosnia

WASHINGTON (AP) - Warring parties in Bosnia have agreed to a U.S.-brokered cease-fire to end nearly four years of strife and bloodshed, President Clinton announced today. He called the still-fragile accord "another solid step on the hard but hopeful road to peace."

He said the cease-fire would take effect Oct. 10, if "certain conditions are met," to be followed by talks beginning Oct. 25 in the United States aimed at moving toward a permanent armistice.

Clinton tempered his optimism with words of caution.

Mindful of other cease-fires that had fallen by the wayside, Clinton said, "we need to be clear-eyed about this. It matters what the parties do, not just what they say."

The conditions for the cease-fire include orders by all military commanders barring offensive operations. All sniper fire and laying of mines are to cease. And full gas and electrical service are to be restored to the besieged Bosnian capital of Sarajevo.

All civilians and prisoners are to be treated humanely, with U.N. peacekeepers looking after prisoners and assuring clear roads between major cities, U.S. officials said.

The cease-fire is to last 60 days or until there is a peace agreement.

The president announced the accord in the White House briefing room after talking with Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke, head of the U.S. negotiating team.

Clinton's brief announcement came as the United Nations reported that the Croatian army has gone back into Bosnia, possibly signaling increased fighting.

And the announcement of a cease-fire among Bosnian Serbs, Bosnian Muslims and Croats came a day after NATO resumed attacks on Serb targets that had been halted since Sept. 20.

"There remain deep divisions to overcome," Clinton said. "We are on the right road, but we have by no means reached our destination, which is a serious and lasting peace in Bosnia."

He said that, under the accord, the combatants had agreed to "put down their arms and roll up their sleeves and work for peace."

Holbrooke called the president with the breakthrough from Sarajevo after a final meeting with Bosnian President Alija Izetbegovic.

Reform

"The 27th Amendment to the Constitution states that no pay raise can go into effect unless an election has first occurred," Thornberry said. "Yet the way the law is interpreted, members of Congress receive an automatic pay increase unless they vote to reject it."

"While members have rejected this raise every time it has come up for a vote, they shouldn't have that option to begin with, and my legislation would take it away."

The final proposal in Thornberry's reform package is a bill sponsored by Rep. Pat

Roberts of Kansas, which would abolish the franking privilege for members of Congress and provide for the use of approved forms of postage and postage meters for official mail.

Roberts' legislation, formally called the Franking Reform Act of 1995, will be introduced next week. Thornberry is one of the first co-sponsors of the bill.

"Businesses across America use postage meters to keep track of the mail going out their door," Thornberry said. "If one of the goals of this reform package is to increase accountability, then it only makes sense that Congress do the same."

By sponsoring the congressional reform package, Thornberry noted he is keeping a promise he made last year to support reforms of both the campaign finance system and Congress.

Thornberry is also a co-sponsor of H.R. 2148, a bill introduced in August that would require congressional candidates to raise at least 50 percent of their money from in-state residents and that would limit contributions from Political Action Committees to $2,000 per election cycle.

Thornberry will introduce his congressional reform package when the House reconvenes next week.

Coffee Blood Center sets Fall Blood Drive

The Pampa community along with Coffee Memorial Blood Center is hosting its Fall Blood Drive on Monday, Oct. 9, from 1 to 7 p.m. in the second floor Conference room of the Coronado Medical Building, North.

The Pampa community has always been a major supporter of the Panhandle area blood program and through the efforts of its many blood donors have saved many lives, Coffee Memorial Blood Center officials said.

"We are continually working to streamline the donation process, keep healthcare costs down in the Panhandle, and stay within the FDA regulations," stated Kitty Weidauer, Mobile Resources coordinator at Coffee Memorial Blood Center.

"On a national level it now takes between 12 and 15 minutes to screen donors. Here in the Panhandle, our average is a little faster than that," Ms. Weidauer added.

"We certainly appreciate the patience the good-hearted donors of Pampa have shown in the past and we want to keep everyone coming back, but we also have the responsibility of maintaining a safe, reliable blood supply for the Panhandle," she said.

Part of that process is to carefully screen every donor each time he or she comes in to donate so that every unit of blood drawn and transfused in the Panhandle is as safe as it can possibly be.

"We need everyone that can donate to take a little time out of their schedule Monday and come to the hospital and donate. You can be assured that someone here in the Panhandle is counting on you to share your good health with them," Weidauer said.

Placement of facilities into our area over the past several years. The community is again united and dedicated to providing a cost effective project to the TDCJ for this new unit."

Eskridge indicated that community leaders will hand deliver the letter Monday if it signed by all parties to Bill Barry, TDCJ site planning and special projects director.

Prison

TDCJ indicated, Eskridge said, that the new facility could provide about 200 new jobs.

The motion authorizing Raymond's signature passed unanimously with the PEDC board members present. Absent from the meeting were Ernest Ramirez and Jim Morris.

The commissioners also passed their resolution unanimously.

The letter to TDCJ indicated community support for the project, reading:

"Our community stands willing and ready to assist the TDCJ in locating this new facility in the Pampa area. The Pampa community has demonstrated its commitment and desire to work with the TDCJ and provide cost effective placement of facilities into our area over the past several years. The community is again united and dedicated to providing a cost effective project to the TDCJ for this new unit."

Eskridge indicated that community leaders will hand deliver the letter Monday if it signed by all parties to Bill Barry, TDCJ site planning and special projects director.

Group says government estimates of illegal immigrants may be low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 400,000 people may be entering the United States illegally each year — an estimate one-third higher than numbers provided by the federal government, says a Washington research group that favors reduced immigration.

The Center for Immigration Studies arrived at the admittedly "soft" number by comparing 1990 Census data with recently released 1994 figures from the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey. A comparison of the 1990 and 1994 data suggests that the foreign-born population has grown by 4.5 million, center research director John Martin said Wednesday.

During that period, the Immigration and Naturalization Service estimates 3 million people were granted legal residency status. That would mean some 1.5 million people entered the country illegally, he said.

INS estimates that 4 million people are in the United States illegally, with 300,000 new undocumented immigrants entering each year.

Martin cautioned that his calculation isn't firm because the undocumented population — which by its nature avoids detection — is hard to quantify. Also, he acknowledged the numbers don't take into account illegal immigrants who left the country or who died.

"I'm not trying to suggest this is a precise number," Martin said at a news conference, calling it an "upper bounds" estimate.

INS director of research Robert Warren said his agency stands by its 300,000 annual growth estimate. "They haven't taken into account the people who were here in 1990 who left during the period," he said. "Once you do that, you would come out pretty close, we think, to the numbers that we've used."

Census Bureau immigration expert Edward Fernandez said Martin's comparison of the 1990 and 1994 data is "a good approach."

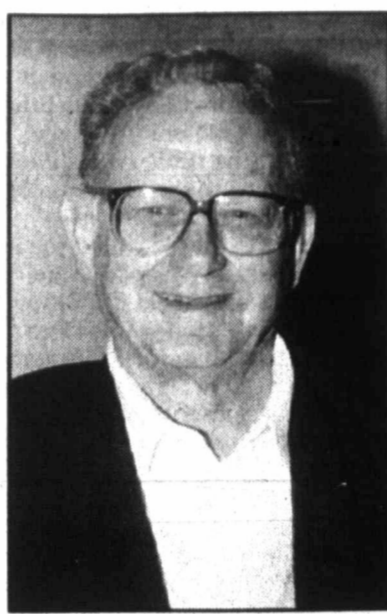

But he cautioned that the Current Population Survey, which polls only 60,000 households nationwide, has a sampling error that makes estimates of illegal immigrants more difficult to quantify. Comparing the survey to the 1990 Census, which polled 20 percent of the population, creates other difficulties because of the different nature of the samples and the methodology, he added.

Martin said he hopes his analysis "will be focused on by both the (Clinton) administration and Congress as they are grappling at the present time with reform in the illegal immigration area."

Congress is considering bills that would cut the rates of legal immigration and seek to slow illegal immigration. The bills would provide more money for the Border Patrol, new technology and barriers along the Southwest border, and would seek to reduce illegal immigrants' ability to get jobs.

United Way introduces '95 campaign chairman

The Pampa United Way's 1995 fund-raising campaign is officially underway and its Board of Directors is pleased to introduce Charles M. White as this year's campaign chairman. Under his thoughtful and energetic leadership, the campaign promises to be a very successful one.

Charles M. White

Chuck, as he is known by friends and associates, brings extensive United Way experience to his office. Past offices include that of treasurer, president and campaign chairman.

A retired vice president of marketing for IRI International, Chuck began his career in 1953 with a bachelor of arts degree in physics from Williams College in Williamstown, Penn., after serving a three-year stint in the U.S. Navy.

As part of his lifelong commitment to community service, he is an elder and trustee of the First Presbyterian Church in Pampa and has served as president and treasurer of Hospice of the Panhandle. He has lived in Pampa since 1967.

Chuck's dedication to United Way comes straight from the heart. He believes that no community can provide a healthy environment in which to live, work and raise a family unless its citizens share a genuine commitment to addressing the needs of its youth, its senior citizens and its less fortunate citizens.

"Pampa United Way supports an essential group of agencies and organizations working hard to make Pampa a better place to live," Chuck says, "and it is up to us to support these devoted staff members and volunteers. My job is to tell the story of the 'Good Guys' in town. People helping people — that's the purpose of United Way."

Court rules in four capital murder cases

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has returned a capital murder conviction to a lower court because of a procedural error and affirmed the death sentences in three other capital cases.

Clyde Smith, 22, was convicted and sentenced to death in the February 1992 killing of Houston cab driver David Jacobs.

Smith's attorneys, during his trial, tried to prevent his confession from being entered into evidence. The trial court denied the motion but failed to file on time the written findings justifying the decision.

The appeals court sent the case back to the trial court Wednesday to refile the findings. The conviction wasn't reversed.

The court also affirmed the death sentence of Eugene Broxton, 40, who was convicted of killing Sheila Dockens, a 20-year-old Louisiana resident who was in Houston with her husband, Waylon.

Texas, Mexico reach water agreement

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas will provide water to drought-ravaged communities in northern Mexico on an emergency basis, Gov. George W. Bush says.

The agreement was hailed Wednesday as unprecedented by water and agricultural leaders in the Rio Grande Valley. They said northern Mexico will now work closely with Texas in water conservation programs and data sharing that will be crucial to extending the water supply in the region.

If water levels in northern Mexico reservoirs drop to emergency levels any time over the next 18 months, Texas will loan water to the country for human consumption only under the agreement.

Previously, Bush had denied sharing water out of fear that there wouldn't be enough for consumption and agricultural needs in South Texas.

However, local water and agriculture officials in the Rio Grande Valley who helped iron out the agreement said it was important to maintain good relations and develop long-term, joint conservation programs with northern Mexico.

Sanctions announced in immunization program

AUSTIN (AP) — In an effort to get more children immunized in Texas, the state is imposing sanctions on parents who receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children welfare benefits.

The parents have six months to get their children immunized or they will have $25 per month for each child taken out of their AFDC payments, officials said Wednesday.

Texas Department of Human Services Commissioner Burton F. Raiford and Department of Health Commissioner David R. Smith announced the sanctions as part of a new program designed to get more children immunized.

"We don't want to sanction the families," Smith said. "We want to make sure the services are available and take away the excuses for not having children immunized."

The $25 fine on each unimmunized child would be a significant cut for welfare parents in Texas, which currently ranks 48th among the 50 states in payments to welfare recipients.

Land Office reports heaviest oil-gas lease bidding in decade

AUSTIN - Texas General Land Office Tuesday recorded the heaviest bidding on state oil-gas leases in a decade and racked up the highest average bonus per acre in the history of the agency.

"There is only one way you can characterize this," said Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro after bids had been tabulated.

"It means there's a major recovery under way for the oil and gas industry in Texas, particularly in offshore exploration, and it means a significant cash infusion for the Permanent School Fund which helps finance public education in the state."

The land office accepted $19.69 million in total bonus money, the most since April 1985 when $23.23 million was received. Other highs of the day included the most tracts leased, 242, since October 1984 when 222 were leased, and the most acres leased, 72,384, since October of 1984 when 106,474 were leased.

The average bonus per acre, $290.19, was the highest ever at a regular land office lease sale for acreage dedicated to the PSF. The previous high was $283.08.

Leading the pack of bidders was Shell Western E&P Inc. which submitted bonus bids of $7.96 million for 11,380 acres. Another Shell company, Shell Offshore Inc., submitted $473,999 in bonus bids for another 2,720 acres.

Other high bidders were Amerada Hess Corp., $2.23 million for 8,000 acres; Phillips Petroleum Co., $1.66 million for 7,995 acres; Enron Oil and Gas Co., $646,464 for 2,958 acres; Vintage Petroleum Inc., $625,953 for 3,509 acres; Southern Mineral Corp., $593,840 for 3,040 acres; Mitchell Energy Corp., $572,330 for 3,105 acres; Samedan Oil Corp., $560,700 for 3,386 acres, and Enserch Exploration Corp., $498,958 for 2,865 acres.

Most of the tracts were offshore, with heavy bidding activity in the coastal bays. There were 40 tracts leased in the East Matagorda and Matagorda bays, and 53 tracts leased in the Galveston and Trinity bays.

Mexico debates casino gambling

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Even as Mexico's Congress debates a proposal to allow Las Vegas-style gaming, a new report has blasted casino gambling as an unsafe investment that carries a "heavy negative burden."

Gambling proponents pushing for a gaming license for the Juarez Racetrack and other local venues, say the opposition will yet be beaten, however.

"These arguments have been made before, and they're wrong," said Farrell Drozd, vice president for Cesta Punta Deportes, the company that owns the racetrack and three sports books in Ciudad Juarez.

Drozd said he doesn't expect the report from Coparmex, a Mexican business organization, or even opposition from Chihuahua Gov. Francisco Barrio to stop legalization efforts.

The report, which was issued last week, maintains that casino gambling would do little to help Mexico's tourism industry and would result in money leaving the country.

Also, the report claims that gambling has brought crime, drug addiction, prostitution and drug-money laundering in countries where casinos have been allowed.

Felipe Gonzalez, a Coparmex spokesman in Mexico City, said the Mexican Congress has been seriously discussing his organization's report as it debates the gambling issue.

Mexico already has several forms of gambling, including dog races, satellite sports betting and a national lottery. The new proposal would allow card games, slot machines and other wagering.

The Boogie Man

The Boogie Man is in Pampa and he is sitting outside the house of Jacob Jenkins, 5, in east Pampa. Jacob's mother, Janet, said the little fellow made the scarecrow by himself. Jacob's monster consists of a latex mask and some clothes he stuffed with newspapers. "Halloween is about one of our favorite holidays," said Janet. In the previous years, the Jenkins have had a spook house.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

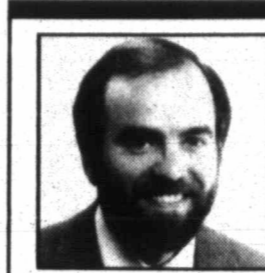

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Real threat to the poverty stricken

Stephen Chapman

President Clinton, acting to advance his campaign goal to "end welfare as we know it" and to satisfy public demand for change, has praised the welfare reform bill approved this week by the Senate. But to his left, he finds critics demanding that he not do anything that could possibly harm children now on welfare.

Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-Mass.) called the measure "legislative child abuse." Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan (D-N.Y.) assumed an air of pious indignation: "if this administration wants to go down in history as the one that abandoned, eagerly abandoned, the national commitment to dependent children, so be it. I would not want to be associated with such an enterprise, and I shall not be."

Moynihan and his allies prefer to be associated with an enterprise that has contributed to an epidemic of dependency and social chaos while utterly failing to eliminate poverty. The idea that children should be protected at all costs has succeeded mainly in creating an ever-growing class of children who need to be protected. If we didn't know better, we might think Moynihan loves dependent children so much that he wants more of them.

Between 1970 and 1985, the number of children on Aid to Families With Dependent Children barely rose, going from about 7 million to about 7.2 million. But in the last decade, it has climbed to 9.6 million. Long-term dependency has become the rule, not the exception: Among the families on AFDC at any given time, the average stay is nearly 12 years. The incentives of the welfare system have helped raise the black illegitimacy rate from 28% in 1965 to 68% in 1991.

The program has provided for the material needs of poor children, but it has not shielded them from growing up in single-parent homes where no one works, in neighborhoods desolated by crime, idleness and illicit drugs. We have spent more than $5 trillion fighting poverty over the past 30 years, but the lives of the poor, in many ways, have deteriorated.

The Senate welfare bill tries to reverse that trend by turning AFDC over to the states, with a mandate that they put half of their recipients to work and limit most of them to five years on the rolls. This "abandonment" of Washington's commitment calls for the federal government to boost spending on the eight welfare programs covered by the bill from $170 billion this year to $287 billion in 2002.

The states, meanwhile, will be required to spend at least 80% as much on AFDC over the next five years as they spent in 1994. Poor children will still benefit from a variety of federal programs - food stamps, Head Start, the Earned Income Tax Credit, housing subsidies and more.

Moynihan suggests that once they are liberated from federal constraints, states will leap to kick welfare families into the snow, which implies that the federal government has a monopoly on compassion. But states are free to abolish AFDC already, and none has. In the last five years, total state spending on AFDC has risen just as fast as total federal spending on AFDC.

Under the measure, the states are obliged to do what many of them want to do: find ways to get welfare recipients into useful jobs. The last welfare reform bill, passed in 1988 under the sponsorship of Daniel Patrick Moynihan, was supposed to do that. But seven years later, less than 1% of AFDC recipients are required to work, and welfare is anything but temporary.

Truly tying welfare to work, as the reform bill tries to do, has two great virtues: It deters people from doing things that cause them to go on AFDC in the first place, and it helps those who land there anyway to move into productive employment. The existing program encourages young women - and men - to beget children they can't support, by promising that the government will support them without demanding much of the parents in return. A serious work requirement would make the bargain far less attractive.

It would also help the chronically dependent find jobs and develop the basic skills for staying in the labor force - showing up every day on time, getting along with co-workers, accepting direction from superiors. It recognizes that the surest way out of destitution is a steady job.

But a serious work requirement also means that recipients who resist will lose some or all of their benefits after two years. Opponents think it is better to demand nothing of all welfare recipients than to run the risk that they will suffer a reduction in aid that might visit suffering on their kids.

The price of protecting the children, however, is to preserve the essentials of a system that has given us a permanent and growing underclass that victimizes children by the millions. Continuing to do what we are doing now assures that the lives of the poor will keep getting worse. Reforming welfare offers the hope of making them better.

Opinion

Immigration plans are costly to liberty

Immigration continues to be a hot-button issue across American politics. Before things go much further, it's worth stepping back a bit to look at what's really going on.

The October 1995 Reason magazine brings a disturbing article by Glenn Garvin on just how intrusive is big government's thugish imposition of the 1986 immigration law. He reported on what happened at a business owned by Laurie (who requested her last name not be used because of legal problems):

"INS agents raided Laurie's restaurant in the rural Northeast, just as the lunch rush was beginning. They acted like a bunch of Gestapo people, standing at the doors like that. In a little town like this it doesn't take much to catch everyone's attention, and I felt I was being branded a criminal. Every time I asked them what my rights were, they just ignored me," Laurie said. The INS arrested five Mexican employees who'd shown Laurie fake ID." She wasn't punished for that. "Then they went through the files on her American-born workers, fining her $275 for every minor error - a total of $8,000."

Then came the costs of replacing the workers - her restaurant being a Mexican food establishment, she needed to fly chefs in from California and Texas - which were painful for such a small business. Laurie's was not, alas, an isolated case. Multiply this raid by the hundreds that take place across the country and start totting up the cost to small American businesses everywhere.

Is this happening here? American born workers, by filling out INS forms incorrectly, causing heavy penalties to be imposed on their employers? Yes, it is happening here.

A question: On matters of public policy, what price do we wish to pay to eliminate immigration entirely, as presidential candidate Pat Buchanan and others demand?

The potential price in liberty is shown by several current proposals - a national ID card system, a new federal birth certificate that includes fingerprints and Rep. Lamar Smith, who represents part of West Texas, wants to seize the property of "those suspected of hiring illegals," according to Garvin even if those suspected are innocent.

The price in increased costs to businesses - indirect taxation - also could be immense. The government isn't exactly known for keeping accurate records. For example, a 1989 Justice Department report found a 17% error rate in the INS's own documents.

Then there's the cost of all the new INS agents and Justice Department prosecutors that would have to be hired. Plus the cost of welfare and unemployment benefits paid to those thrown out of work. Plus the cost of maintaining a huge computer base.

A strong opposition to an ID card system likely would develop. But the reaction might take some time to build, with untold damage to liberty and property occurring in the meantime.

Now is the time to work to head off such a disastrous program. Two things need to be done. First, Americans need to realize that, whatever problems immigrants cause, the loss of freedom threatened in these draconian proposals to deal with those problems is not worth it. Second, problems with immigrants should be handled by cutting government, not increasing it. By all means, end welfare to immigrants, with the money refunded to taxpayers.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, Oct. 5, the 278th day of 1995. There are 87 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On Oct. 5, 1921, the World Series was broadcast on radio for the first time, with sportswriter Grantland Rice describing the action between the New York Yankees and the New York Giants, who went on to win the Series.

On this date:
In 1813, the Battle of the Thames was fought in Upper Canada during the War of 1812. The British troops were soundly defeated, and their Indian ally, Tecumseh, was killed.

In 1892, the Dalton Gang, notorious for its train robberies, was practically wiped out while attempting to rob a pair of banks in Coffeyville, Kan.

In 1947, in the first televised White House address, President Truman asked Americans to refrain from eating meat on Tuesdays and poultry on Thursdays to help stockpile grain for starving people in Europe.

Attempting to justify the unjustifiable

Charley Reese

The United States is about to commit one of the greatest foreign policy blunders in the 20th century - admitting East European countries into NATO.

The responsibility for this blunder is shared equally by President Clinton and by the Congress, both Republicans and Democrats. Like lemmings, they are plunging over the Cliffs of Folly to drown in the Sea of Arrogance.

There is one, and only one, strategic objective for a rational American foreign policy: that is to encourage the continued democratization of Russia and to further draw the country into a partnership with the West.

Nothing else in the foreign policy field really has any strategic significance for the United States at this time. Poor Africa could sink into the ocean. Except for the inconvenience of higher prices for a few commodities, it would not cause a ripple in America's economy and security. For all practical purposes, we ignore Africa anyway. Ditto for South America.

Whether the Middle East peace process works or doesn't work, we can buy oil, and that's all we really care about. Whether there is peace or war in the Balkans matters not the least to us.

But drive Russia back into a paranoid, anti-Western dictatorship and we will have real trouble. In the worst scenario, nuclear war; in the best scenario, we go bankrupt trying to maintain enough military power to forestall the war. Yet extending NATO - a war alliance for the purpose of making war - to the borders of Russia will do just that.

The Ukrainians are trying to warn us. They're saying loudly, "Don't do it." They know Russians and they know how Russia will react. Russian democrats are begging us not to do it.

But neither Clinton nor foolhardy Republican leaders are listening. Only last month, Secretary of Defense William Perry said he wants the Czech Republic in NATO.

This bizarre, almost insane insistence on keeping NATO is eerily reminiscent of the mule-headed diplomacy that launched World War I and this grim, bloody century. It is to justify NATO, which has no genuine enemy and therefore no reason for existence, that the Clinton administration has maneuvered to use NATO to attack the Serb side of a three-sided civil war. It is a cruel and unforgivable use of military power to justify the unjustifiable.

Before you scoff at Russia's reaction in your own version of American arrogance, I suggest you not be fooled by shallow American journalism into thinking Russia is some disabled, hopelessly weak country. It is still a military superpower.

Only recently, Russia unveiled a new intercontinental/mobile missile as well as new warplanes. Russians have more than enough nuclear warheads and the means to deliver them to end America's life as a nation. They have made great advances in silencing their submarines, and in many areas, they are ahead of us in space.

The Russian people did not conquer the largest land mass ever to be incorporated into one empire by being stupid and timid. Alas, in recent years the American establishment has been emulating the disastrous conceit and arrogance of the British establishment that lost an empire.

What we are about to lose by expanding NATO is a chance for peace and a chance to recover from the near mortal economic wounds of a 50-year-long conflict. What child in the future will forgive this nation's foolish turning away from peace toward more conflict?

The more you look at the human race, the more you see the endless repetition of the Adam and Eve story. Man has it good and screws it up. Man gets another chance and screws it up, and so on and so on. If there is no merciful God, someone had better invent Him, because the human race can screw up a three-float parade.

It will take divine intervention to keep this planet from ending up like Mars - empty and barren of life.

Colin Powell disappoints the right wing

Joseph Spear

For two years, right-wing Republicans have been rubbing their hands and chortling among themselves in anticipation that Colin Powell would be the heavy hitter that would carry them back to the White House for only the second time in 64 years.

Eisenhower? Hell, Ike was a mugwump who played too much golf. Nixon? He was a moderate, for heaven's sake, and not only that, he rubbed elbows with the Chinese communists. Reagan was the only true blue conservative to be elected since Hoover.

They wanted another real one, and all the better if it was a black guy, to demonstrate that bootstraps are neat things to pull yourself up by and to prove that the right isn't racist.

Now it turns out that Colin Powell has not been practicing his hitting. He's been working on his pitching, and he's got a beautiful, sneaky curve ball that has them swinging in the dirt.

I love it. The 58-year-old former national security chief and chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff is off on a 20-day, 23-city tour to promote his new autobiography, My American Journey. He will also, he says, be taking the public's pulse to see whether a run for the presidency would be feasible.

Until the book was published, Powell kept his political feelings to himself. Then he started talking - to Time magazine, to the New York Times, to the Washington Post, to ABC's Barbara Walters, to NBC's Tom Brokaw. And, guess what, folks? We've got a genuine, gilded, polished-and-waxed, four-star middle-of-the-roader on our hands. A man of humble origin and stubborn determination, a living example of the American Dream realized. A man who leans toward the "sensible center." A forthright, principled, political and moral force who believes pretty much as two-thirds of all Americans believe.

Hallelujah. I was beginning to think that moderates, and especially moderate Republicans, were going to have to be listed as an extinct species to ensure their survival. Powell says he believes in balanced budgets and lower taxes. Most of us would agree. Powell says he believes the government should not be telling a woman what to do with her body. Most of us feel the same way. Powell says there's nothing wrong with laws that keep guns out of the hands of wackos and convicted criminals. Most of us would sign on to that.

Powell says he supports a moment of silence to begin the day in public schools, but he is opposed to organized prayer. Most of us concur. Powell says he believes in affirmative action laws. I personally think their time has passed, and I suspect many of you do, too. We can allow him one mistake.

But the right wing, Oh, my, the right wing. The folks who think government ought to stay out of everything except school prayer, and abortion, and free markets, and tax breaks for quadrillionaires. The folks who believe you ain't living if you ain't polarizing. How hurt and resentful they are that Colin Powell lets his head be ruled by common sense.

Phil Gramm: "I think his views in some way reflect more the views of the Democratic Party than the Republican Party."

Jesse Helms: Powell's nomination "would be a mistake, because I think it would split the party." Anti-abortion activist Patrick Mahoney: Pro-lifers are planning to "get in his face."

Columnist Tony Snow: "Many hardcore conservative whites... would give their eyeteeth to find a black politician they could support because of his heart and not his skin. In return, he has told them to drop dead."

My pro-Powell words should not be interpreted as an endorsement. I refuse to get on that bandwagon. I think Powell is a man of great intelligence and courage, but I am equally certain the book on his political beliefs and human foibles is far from complete, so I'm withholding judgment for a while.

I am elated, however, that Colin Powell may give political moderates the courage to come out of their cubbyholes.

New study shows more jail time not proven effective in lowering crime

AUSTIN (AP) — Is Texas' penchant for building prisons an effective way to address the state's crime problem?

That was the question the Texas Criminal Justice Policy Council addressed in a new report released Wednesday.

Executive Director Tony Fabelo said the state's current strategy of incarcerating more offenders for longer spans of time may prove to be ineffective at reducing crime.

"The paradox of this policy is that more punishment for adults may do very little to continue lowering the state's crime rate, and may actually divert funds that could more effectively impact a decline in crime, if spent on juvenile justice policies or related areas," Fabelo said in the new report.

According to the report, Texas' incarceration rate is higher than any other state or Western democracy. In 1994, the state imprisoned 636 people in every 100,000. The U.S. rate was 387 per 100,000 the same year. And rates in Canada, England, France, Germany, Italy, Mexico and Spain range from 80 to 120 per 100,000.

Tougher parole and sentencing policies are expected to boost the Texas rate to 809 per 100,000 by the year 2000, the report said.

"If the goal of the policy of more incarceration is 'you do the crime, you do the time,' then Texas is accomplishing this by being the most punitive state in the country," Fabelo wrote.

But if the goal is to reduce the crime rate, the report said, perhaps resources should be directed at juvenile justice programs.

Highly contagious disease prompts quarantine

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A live-stock quarantine has been put into effect in three East Texas counties because of a diagnosis that a horse on a farm near Henderson has highly contagious vesicular stomatitis.

Quarantine notices were posted in Smith, Henderson and Cherokee counties Wednesday, according to Texas Animal Health Commission official Joe Kelsey.

The quarantine was ordered following confirmation on Tuesday of the second such case in Texas, Kelsey said.

The quarantine, which is expected to last at least 45 days, could result in more than $1 million in lost revenue, according to Rusk County Extension Service Agent Tommy McDaniel.

He said the lost revenue would result from the temporary closure of show bars and the inability of farmers and ranchers to transport livestock to markets and shows.

The infected animal, a 6-month-old paint horse, is being boarded on the ranch of Dan Brown of Henderson, Kelsey said.

The quarantine prohibits livestock, including deer, from being moved beyond a 10-mile radius of the infected horse, Kelsey said.

The quarantine will be in force until 30 days after lesions caused by vesicular stomatitis on the animal heal. If other animals come down with VS, the quarantine area and time length will be extended, Kelsey said.

Elderly Mom's Bad Judgment Brings Danger Into Her Home

DEAR ABBY: No wonder our society is going to the dogs; there are so few good role models these days. People talk about the immorality of our young people, but only young people immoral. Our seniors are also living in sin. Excusing!

My mother, who is in her 70s, invited a man to live with her after leaving him for only one week. He moved into her house faster than a lightning bolt. I am in shock!

I believe Mother did this because she's lonely. She's getting on in years and she decided she's going to do whatever she wants — and too bad about what people think! What a simple step — setting for my mother, her grandchildren. Of course they know what's going on. I'm not stupid.

I have proof that this man has a criminal record and can be violent. I would inform Mother and risk being gangly with me, or should I just keep quiet? My husband says I should stay out of it. He says if we give this guy enough love, he'll hang himself.

Please respond soon as I'm losing my power this fast. NO NAME, SAN ANTONIO

DEAR NO NAME: If you give your mother's roommate enough rope, he could also hang her! Share your proof of his criminal record and his history of violent behavior with her immediately. A word of caution, however: Cool your anger and judgmental attitude, or you may alienate her before you can deliver the message.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In the letter signed "Desperate," a woman's son was coming home from college and bringing his live-in girlfriend, which threw his mother into a tizzy. She didn't approve of her son sleeping with his girlfriend under her roof. It reminded me of my own situation.

I was returning from Germany after 17 years of service in the U.S. Army and bringing with me Ingrid, my live-in girlfriend, and her son.

My father said Ingrid and I could not sleep together in his house. Easily fixed. Ingrid slept in the house with her son, and I slept in my parents' camping trailer. Because I respect my mother and father, in their home I live by their rules.

My father died two years ago, right after their 50th wedding anniversary, and I will continue to live by his rules while in their home. If you print this, please use my name. I want everyone to know how much I respect my parents.

DAVID SCRIVEN, U.S. ARMY (RET.)
DEAR DAVID SCRIVEN: Thank you for a heartwarming letter. To your credit, you obviously practice the commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother."

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Loves to Move," the woman who moves from house to house, even though her kids hate moving, because she loves hard work.

May I offer a suggestion? Why doesn't she start her own local moving company? That way, she can work hard, her teen-agers can have the stability kids so desperately need, and she can make some money to send her kids to college. It's the perfect solution!

NEVER MOVING AGAIN

DEAR NEVER: Thank you for your moving letter.

Good advice for everyone — teens to seniors — is in "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. ## Horoscope

Friday Oct 6, 1995

In the year ahead, your ability to make and maintain friendships may be numbered among your most outstanding assets. The high regard that others hold for you could grow more evident each day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your leadership qualities will become very evident to others today. Even persons you have only brief dealings with will be aware of this fact. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murrah Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your chances for success today will be stronger if you don't broadcast your intentions.

Secretly establish your objectives and proceed quietly toward them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If your ears are ringing today, it could be because friends are saying nice things about you. Pals in positions to grant favors might do so without being asked.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not limit your thinking or your talents today because you're capable of achievements that might even surprise you. Put the pedal to the metal and go.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Very soon, possibly even today, you might receive some news from a distance that'll be extremely welcomed. The sender is someone you like.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may be more astute in business today than you were yesterday. Go back and trim up any loose ends you might have left dangling.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should have harmony in the romance department. Matters of the heart will have greater significance than usual in various aspects of your life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Plan a full agenda today because the busier you are, the happier you're likely to feel. Of equal significance is that whatever you attempt, you'll do well.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Socializing with friends will spark the brighter aspects of your personality today. Wherever you go, the welcome mat will be out for you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Given adequate time, things in general will have a way of working out to your ultimate advantage today. This should be especially noticeable concerning material interests.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are currently in an excellent cycle for successfully promoting products, enterprises or issues that are important to you. Get out there and make your pitch.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your probabilities for personal accumulation are more consistent now than they have been for some time. The cash flow could develop from several sources.

VOLLEYBALL

PAMPA — Pampa welcomes Borger Saturday in a District 1-4A Volleyball match in McNeely Fieldhouse.

The junior varsity plays first at 10 a.m., followed by the varsity. The matches were moved to a morning time because of Borger High's afternoon football game.

Pampa has a 2-4 record in district play and is 8-10 for the season. Borger is 1-5 and 6-13.

The Lady Harvesters had an open date Tuesday while Borger was defeated by Randall, 15-13, 15-13.

Hereford extended its district lead to 6-0 Tuesday with a 15-3, 15-0 victory over Amarillo Caprock.

GOLF

PAMPA — Registration for the first annual Jordan Unit charity golf tournament is set for 8 a.m. Oct. 14 at Hidden Hills Municipal Golf Course.

The six-man scramble will begin at 9 a.m. with a shotgun start. Entry fee is $40, two mulligans are $5, which includes green fee, cart, lunch and prizes. Entry fees will be accepted through Oct. 11. Entry is limited to the first 108 entries. Flighted players will be drawn by committee.

Prizes include first through third place gift certificates, longest drive for both men and women, closest to pin for both men and women. Those who buy a gift certificate from the pro shop and hit the green on hole 12 will double their money.

Mail entries to Jordan Unit charity golf tournament, 1992 Hilton Road, Pampa, 79065. Entries may also be submitted to Hidden Hills golf course before deadline.

All money from sponsorship will go to local charities.

FOOTBALL

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Wade Wilson worked with the Dallas Cowboys first team Wednesday while Troy Aikman tried to get well.

Aikman's pulled right calf muscle was still sore and he said his participation against the Green Bay Packers on Sunday in Texas Stadium "was extremely doubtful."

Aikman said he's now hoping to be ready to play at San Diego on Oct. 15.

Unless Aikman's sore and swollen calf muscle progresses, trainers may tell Aikman to sit out until the Oct. 29 game in Atlanta. The Cowboys have a bye week on Oct. 22.

BASKETBALL

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — Joe Smith, the top pick in last June's NBA draft, signed with Golden State. Under the new salary scale for NBA rookies, the top draft pick is limited to a three-year deal worth from $7.1 million to $8.53 million. Smith reportedly got the maximum.

The 6-foot-10, 225-pound Smith averaged 20.2 points and 10.7 rebounds a game during his two years at Maryland.

PHOENIX (AP) — The Phoenix Suns, firming up their roster heading into training camp, re-signed free-agent Wayne Tisdale to a two-year contract and first-round draft picks Michael Finley and Mario Bennett to three-year deals.

The Suns also announced the signing of free-agent guard Isaac Burton of Arizona State to a tryout contract.

Finley, a 6-foot-7 swingman out of Wisconsin, was the No. 21 overall pick of the draft. Bennett, a 6-foot-9 power forward, was the 27th pick.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics signed top draft pick Eric Williams to a three-year contract that his agent says will pay him close to $3.1 million.

The Celtics also signed free agent Doug Smith, who was drafted by Dallas in 1991 and has played his entire career with the Mavericks.

Hershiser pitches Indians past Red Sox

By CHUCK MELVIN
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Best of all, Orel Hershiser knew when it was time to quit.

Hershiser gave up three hits in 7 1-3 scoreless innings Wednesday night, then let Cleveland's superb bullpen take over as the Indians beat the Boston Red Sox 4-0 for a 2-0 lead in their best-of-5 playoff series.

Eddie Murray homered and Omar Vizquel hit a two-run double for Cleveland.

Hershiser's performance was exactly what the Indians envisioned when they signed him as a free agent in April.

"He is a big-game pitcher," manager Mike Hargrove said. "He has demonstrated that all season. I've been around a lot of talented baseball players in my career, and I don't think I've ever run across somebody who is able to focus in on what they are doing and then go out and execute the plan as well as Orel Hershiser does."

The MVP of the playoffs and the World Series for Los Angeles in 1988, Hershiser underwent major shoulder surgery in 1990 and has been steadily working his way back ever since.

He's almost there. "My movement and my velocity are back to where they were pre-surgery," he said. "I think the thing that I'm still working on a little bit is playing with that loaded gun. It kind of surprises me every now and then."

Hershiser wriggled out of jams in the first and second innings, but his best move of the night may have come in the eighth, when he realized his back was beginning to tighten up. Hershiser is 37 years old now, and although he would have loved to finish off the shutout — it would have been the third of his postseason career — he realized the Indians would be better served if he sat down.

He motioned to Hargrove, who came and got him.

"I started to have a double mind about being in the game or not," Hershiser said. "We have five or six of the best arms around down there in the bullpen. I kind of tried to manage myself right then and not get an ego about whether or not I should finish."

Julian Tavarez and Paul Assenmacher closed out the eighth inning, each recording one out, and Jose Mesa finished up with a perfect ninth.

Hershiser gave up three singles, walked two and set an Indians postseason record with seven strikeouts. In nine career postseason appearances, he is 5-0 with a 1.52 ERA.

Boston, which was blanked only once during the regular season, lost its 12th straight postseason game dating back to Bill Buckner's infamous error in the sixth game of the 1986 World Series. The Red Sox must sweep all three games this weekend in Boston if they are to advance to the next round.

Both teams planned workouts today in Fenway Park.

"There are three wins to a series, and this club has won three straight before," manager Kevin Kennedy said. "We will keep battling."

Red Sox starter Erik Hanson matched Hershiser pitch for pitch through the first four innings, but Hanson got himself in trouble in the fifth when he walked Paul Sorrento to start the inning. A sacrifice bunt moved Sorrento to second, and after he took third on a passed ball, Kenny Lofton also walked.

Vizquel then drove a double to right-center, scoring both runners.

In the eighth, Albert Belle walked before Murray homered.

"I pitched OK, but their guy was super," Hanson said. "Our offense is as good as theirs, and Hershiser shut it down. So that's how you judge what he did."

Mo Vaughn and Jose Canseco, the third and fourth hitters in Boston's lineup, have gone 0-for-20 with seven strikeouts in the first two games.

"Orel has a lot of different pitches and has got command of them all," Vaughn said. "He wasn't throwing beach balls out there. Their whole staff has done a great job on me especially."

Gas giveaway

Terry Ferguson (right) of the Pampa Academy of Christian Education congratulates Max Presnell for drawing the winning ticket in a gas giveaway at Citgo Service Center. Presnell will receive $100 worth of free gasoline. Also pictured is Citgo owner Dennis Edmondson. The drawing was held to raise money for the Pampa Academy athletic program. Ferguson said the drawing raised $900. "I want to thank the people for their support and Mr. Edmondson for furnishing the free gasoline," Ferguson said.

Braves rally to down Rockies

DENVER (AP) — Fighting off 40-degree temperatures, Mike Mordecai kept warm by sitting in front of the dugout heater all night. He must have kept his bat there with him.

Called on to pinch-hit with two outs in the ninth, Mordecai delivered an RBI single for the go-ahead run, helping the Atlanta Braves to a 7-4 win over the Colorado Rockies on Wednesday night.

The come-from-behind victory sends the Braves back to Atlanta with a 2-0 lead in the best-of-5 NL playoff series. In Game 3 Friday night, John Smoltz (12-7) is scheduled to pitch for the Braves against Bill Swift (9-3).

"We let another one get away," Rockies manager Don Baylor said. "The disheartening thing is we should be 2-0 going to Atlanta. We're up against the wall now, no doubt about it."

In the history of five-game postseason series, no team has ever lost the first two games at home and won a series.

The Braves pushed across four runs in the ninth to overcome a 4-3 deficit.

Fred McGriff and Mordecai had RBI singles in the inning, and two more runs came across on second baseman Eric Young's throwing error on a routine ground ball.

The heroics of Mordecai, a rookie who had only 75 at-bats this season, evoked memories of another obscure Atlanta player, Francisco Cabrera, whose pinch-hit, two-out single in the ninth sent the Braves to their second straight World Series in 1992.

Asked about Mordecai's relative anonymity, Braves manager Bobby Cox said, "All of our players know who Mordy is. He works hard, he knows who he's going to face. He clutched it in. Mordy got the biggest hit of the evening."

Mordecai, whose hit off Darren Holmes came on a 3-0 count, said he was surprised he was given the green light.

"But Bobby knows I can hit the fastball, and he's going to give me a chance to swing the bat in that situation," said Mordecai, who had a pair of game-winning, last-at-bat hits this season — including one against Colorado on Aug. 13, also off Holmes.

"I thought he might throw me a curve because he has a great one," Mordecai said.

PAMPA — The Harris Rating System picks the Pampa Harvesters to have a happy football homecoming Friday night.

Harris favors Pampa by a whopping 25 points over Canyon when the two teams meet at 7:30 tomorrow night in the District 1-4A opener in Harvester Stadium.

After last week's 34-6 win over Andrews, the Harvesters climbed from No. 18 to No. 13 in Class 4A Harris poll. Canyon is ranked No. 87. Pampa has a 3-1 record while Canyon is 2-2.

In other District 1-4A openers Friday night, 20th-ranked Borger is favored by 32 over Amarillo Caprock and Randall is favored by 2 over Hereford.

Canyon's 34-0 loss to Littlefield last week was somewhat puzzling to Pampa head coach Dennis Cavalier.

"Canyon won the junior varsity district last year with an outstanding group of sophomores and I figured they were right on schedule," Cavalier said. "Most of their varsity is made up of juniors and they opened up with two wins. Then they got beat by Levelland in a game they should have won. Levelland scored on a big play near the end of the game to win it. Last week, they played Littlefield, which is a good 3A school and undefeated, but Canyon just fell apart against them."

However, Cavalier feels the Eagles have enough character to regroup and be ready for the district opener.

"I look for them to be ready," Cavalier added.

The Harvesters will be bolstered by the return of senior quarterback Joel Ferland, who hasn't played in a game this season due to a stress fracture in his foot. Cavalier did point out that junior Clint Curtis would be starting again at quarterback Friday night.

"Joel will be going through what is known as low intensity practice. I don't suspect he'll be playing unless an emergency occurs. If the opportunity presents itself, he could take a few snaps," Cavalier added.

Offensive tackle John Porter has returned from injuries, but would probably not play against Canyon, Cavalier said.

"John has been involved in non-contact drills this week. He's in the same situation as Joel. He would be available if an emergency occurs," Cavalier said.

Kicker Todd Finney has been slowed by a shoulder injury and he is still limited to only field goals and extra point kicks as he was last week against Andrews. Backup kicker Jeff Henderson will again be used in punting and kickoff situations.

Canadian hosts Perryton at 7:30 p.m. Friday night and the Wildcats are favored by 15 points by the Harris Rating System.

Canadian has a 2-1 record while Perryton is still looking for its first win after four losses. Candadian is currently ranked No. 39 in the Class 2A poll.

Area 1A schools Wheeler and White Deer go against Class 2A competition this Friday night. Stratford is a 9-point favorite over Wheeler while White Deer is a 29-point underdog to Memphis.

Kress is favored over Groom by 27 points in A 1A area matchup this weekend.

Reds go 2-up on Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds got a lot of help. Now they've also got home field advantage.

"I knew we'd get at least one here," pitcher Dave Burba said. "But we're 2-0, we've got three at home and the ball's definitely in our court."

Cincinnati took advantage of its opportunities and the Los Angeles Dodgers wasted several chances Wednesday night, leading to a 5-4 victory by the Reds, giving them a 2-0 lead in the teams' best-of-5 NL playoff series.

That puts the Dodgers just one loss away from 1996.

Now, all the Reds need to reach the NL Championship Series against Atlanta or Colorado is one win in three chances at Riverfront Stadium, where they were 44-28 this season.

Hideo Nomo (13-6, 2.54 ERA) will pitch for the Dodgers against David Wells (6-5, 3.59 ERA) when the series resumes Friday night.

"Nomo's going against us and he's a tough pitcher, but we've got a club that battles and it doesn't matter who's pitching against us," said Burba, Wednesday night's winner.

"We're going to give him a good game."

Every run the Reds scored in Game 2 came with some help from the Dodgers as Cincinnati got only six hits against 14 by Los Angeles.

Eric Karros homered twice, doubled and drove in all four Los Angeles runs. But the Dodgers couldn't overcome a key error, a botched pitchout and three ninth-inning walks that led to two runs — runs the Reds would ultimately need to win.

"By all rights, we shouldn't have won this game," Reds manager Davey Johnson said.

Ohio State hopes to avenge Buckeyes' worst defeat

By RICK WARNER
AP Football Writer

Fifth-ranked Ohio State wants to settle a score Saturday at No. 12 Penn State. The score the Buckeyes have in mind is 63-14.

That was their losing margin last year at Happy Valley — Ohio State's worst defeat in 48 years.

It's a game the Buckeyes haven't forgotten. At their indoor practice field this week, the score is posted on a bulletin board.

"They'll come here ready to play and try to give us a dose of what happened last year," Penn State coach Joe Paterno said.

Last year, Penn State beat Ohio State and went on to complete a perfect season. The roles could be reversed this year.

The Buckeyes are 4-0 after last week's emotional win over Notre Dame, and appear to have enough talent to make a run at their first national championship since 1968.

Quarterback Bobby Hoying is the Big Ten's top passer, tailback Eddie George is No. 2 in rushing, and receiver Terry Glenn leads the league in scoring.

Penn State (3-1) is coming off a 17-9 loss to Wisconsin that ended the Nittany Lions' 20-game winning streak. Although they're playing at home Saturday, the Lions are a 1-point underdog.

"Right now, we're red meat for the conference," Paterno said. "Everybody we play is saying, 'Let's get after them.'"

Wilson wants the ring

IRVING (AP) — The ring, Wade Wilson wants the ring. Forget the ego of being the starting quarterback. Forget all the fringe benefits of being "the man" on a professional football team. Wade Wilson has had all that. But he doesn't have the ring. "I'm quite comfortable being Troy Aikman's backup," Wilson said. "I know why I'm on this team. I'm here for when Troy gets hurt. "I'd played 14 years in this league but teams are looking for younger starters now. I had to understand what position I'm in. Being from Texas was perfect and I'm glad I landed with Dallas. I'd like one of those things with diamonds all over it." The Cowboys first noticed Wilson when he completed 30 of 41 passes for 340 yards and two touchdowns for Atlanta as the Cowboys clinched the NFC East title with a 41-17 victory in 1992. Dallas tried to sign the former East Texas State star in 1993 but the New Orleans Saints outbid them. Wilson went to New Orleans because he could also be a starter. Too bad for Wilson, but the Cowboys went on to win the Super Bowl that year. "We wanted Wade because of his talent, ability, and the fact he had won playoff games," offensive coordinator Ernie Zampese said. "Wade has caught on with our offense quickly." After Aikman was hurt against Washington on Sunday, Wilson had a solid second half, hitting 16 of 20 passes, including a scoring toss to Michael Irvin. Wilson was expected to start against the Green Bay Packers on Sunday while Aikman's pulled calf muscle heals. It's easy to see why the Cowboys signed Wilson to a three-year deal at a base salary of $275,000 plus a $452,000 signing bonus. It wasn't blockbuster dollars by today's standards. Dallas owner Jerry Jones said, "Wade made a lot of money in the past and he took that into consideration in coming with us. Now we won't have to look for a backup quarterback every year." Wilson passed for 300 yards per game on 11 occasions in his career which started as an eighth round draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings in 1981. Wilson spent six years as Tommy Kramer's backup. Eventually Wilson started 22 games. He was released by the Vikings in 1992 and signed with Atlanta as the backup to Bobby Hebert. He was there a year before going to New Orleans. His career stats aren't bad. He has 91 touchdown passes and 94 interceptions. Wilson was sought by the Cowboys after last year's backup, Rodney Peete, found greener pastures on the free-agent trail. Wilson has started 75 games and has a 35-30 record.

Airline chairman discusses U.S.-Britain air agreement

By HENRY CUTTER
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The chairman of American Airlines wouldn't object to British Airways buying a U.S. airline — if he gets what he wants.

Robert Crandall said he would favor lifting a government ban on complete foreign ownership of U.S. airlines in exchange for unlimited access to London's Heathrow Airport, an end to curbs on flights from there and the lifting of restrictions on sales of landing rights there.

"Under those circumstances, I would certainly support the complete ownership of any U.S. airline by any European airline," he said Wednesday.

He spoke to reporters at Carnegie Mellon University. Crandall visited the school to address students and receive a business leadership award from the Graduate School of Industrial Administration.

He declined to comment on the possibility that American would buy USAir. USAir announced Monday that American and United airlines have discussed a possible buy-out with the carrier.

Crandall criticized an aviation deal reached in June between Britain and the United States. He said that despite the agreement, British Airways still has better access to the U.S. market than American airlines have in Europe.

The June deal granted United Airlines a long-sought route from Chicago to London's Heathrow Airport, lifted restrictions on British Airways' second daily round-trip between Heathrow and Philadelphia and allowed British Airways to broaden its links with USAir.

World briefs

Scientists find dinosaur graveyard in Siberia

NOVOSIBIRSK, Russia (AP) — Russian paleontologists have discovered a dinosaur graveyard in Siberia that may contain bones of previously unknown prehistoric animals.

The scientists found five entire dinosaur skeletons and bones from an unidentified prehistoric animal twice the size of a mammoth, the ITAR-Tass news agency reported Wednesday.

The site on the Kiya River in the Kuznetsk region — about 2,000 miles east of Moscow — is the northernmost spot in Asia where dinosaur bones have been found, said Igor Grebnev, director of the Novosibirsk Museum of Natural History.

The unusual location led Grebnev and other scientists to speculate some of the bones could be those of previously unknown dinosaurs, ITAR-Tass said.

Dinosaur remains estimated to be 70 million years old were found nearby in 1953. In July, Russian archaeologists found a 2,500-year-old mummified horseman in southern Siberia.

Divers pull 2,000-year-old statue from the sea

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Discarding the pick and brush of their colleagues, Egyptian and French archaeologists used a tugboat, crane and parachute Wednesday to haul a 2,000-year-old statue from its undersea resting place.

Struggling against high winds and waves, the team retrieved the red granite torso of a woman from a patch of sea off Alexandria that contains hundreds of Egyptian and Greek statues and temples, many lying in pieces.

Littered among the ruins are the remains of the white marble Pharos lighthouse, one of the wonders of the ancient world and for centuries the symbol of the city Alexander the Great built.

The team hopes to recover at least one piece of the colossal lighthouse and a broken, half-man, half-lion sphinx among the 20-30 relics it plans to retrieve in the next few days. The rest will remain submerged.

On Wednesday, two black rubber boats carried six divers to the area of the Greek statue. They had already tied cables to the shell-encrusted, algae-blanketed statue.

With waves and white foam bobbing the boats up and down, the divers tied a deflated white parachute to the statue. Inflated, it lifted the 1 1/2-ton torso off the seabed, allowing the statue to be dragged into the harbor by tugboat.

Simpson says his 'basic anger' is over distortions of evidence allowed in trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — O.J. Simpson called it the source of his "basic anger," the distortions, as he described them, of the evidence in his double-murder trial.

"Fortunately, for me, the jury listened to what the witnesses said, and not Marcia Clark's or (Christopher) Darden's or anyone else's rendition of what they said," Simpson told CNN Wednesday night, speaking out for the first time since his acquittal.

The surprise phone call to Larry King Live came as King interviewed Simpson's lead defense attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr.

Simpson didn't speak long, and he tried to get off the phone by saying, "I got to go. I really got to go." King squeezed in one more question, asking Simpson about his first meeting earlier in the day with his two young children since being arrested on charges of killing their mother.

"It's been great," Simpson said. And so it ended, with Simpson thanking King for being fair. Any more comments from Simpson may have to wait for the TV pay-per-view show in the works, a program that could reap Simpson millions.

Earlier, some of Simpson's jurors also were speaking out, explaining for the first time why they acquitted him in the slayings of ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

The jurors said they had reason to doubt almost everything prosecutors threw at them: the blood, the glove, the socks, the detectives' testimony.

They spoke of domestic violence having nothing to do with murder.

"Mr. Simpson was not guilty. It was not proven. I did not have enough evidence to convince me that he was guilty," juror Brenda Moran said during a news conference, which was televised live.

Simpson remained out of sight for most of his second day of freedom. During Larry King Live Cochran confirmed that Simpson had met secretly with Sydney and Justin.

Then, Simpson broke his silence.

He responded to a woman who called in asking about prosecution claims that a shadowy figure seen moving across the driveway of his house was him returning from an attempt to hide the bloody glove on the estate.

Simpson said prosecution testimony from limousine driver Allan Park never showed this — only that there was a person near the front door.

"It was me — walking out of my front door, dropping my bags and going back in," he said. Simpson's defense had said that Simpson was racing around his house at about 11 p.m. packing for a planned trip to Chicago.

Simpson said prosecutors and legal commentators misconstrued the evidence.

"My basic anger is people I've heard say, 'I followed the case.' I've heard experts say, 'This was the testimony today,' and that wasn't the testimony today," Simpson said.

Simpson said he went back to his cell many nights and asked: "Were they in the same courtroom that we were in today? Did they hear the testimony today?"

Simpson friend Robert Kardashian, meanwhile, was reportedly behind a $1 million photo package offer to the super-market tabloids that promised exclusive photos of Simpson's post-trial homecoming and the reunion with his children.

An unidentified Simpson representative contacted the Globe, National Enquirer and Star to offer the package, said a source at one of the publications who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"Kardashian orchestrated it," the source said. "The Star bought them."

Star officials declined to comment on what they paid for the photos.

Even though more than 100 reporters staked out Simpson's Brentwood estate, he reportedly slipped out Wednesday to meet with his children. A local bakery clerk told KCAL-TV she served Simpson and Kardashian banana tofu cakes and scones to go in the morning, and a CNN cameraman said he saw Simpson's "wild embrace" with 7-year-old Justin.

Board member to resign for racial comments

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas school board member Dan Peavy, under fire for allegedly using racial slurs in secretly taped telephone conversations, said he will resign today.

Peavy told Dallas television station KDFW he would have a resignation statement on Thursday.

"It's a decision that's in the best interest of my family and the school district and the city," Peavy said. "I've had a lot of dialogue ... a number of phone calls a lot of prayerful thought with my family and friends and people I respect."

A tape containing snippets of several conversations between Peavy and an unidentified caller was mailed anonymously to some board members and a transcript was read at a Sept. 28 board meeting, which Peavy did not attend. At least one member urged him to resign.

Peavy described schools filled with "little niggers" and said a school district employee had mishandled a project and, as a result, the board "got some white folks working on it," according to the transcript.

At other points, he maligns fellow board members, referring to one as "that cow."

Peavy, 49, who is white, apologized for the comments Friday.

"I grew up in a different era, and people said things then that are not acceptable today," Peavy said Friday. "Obviously, I need to work on my language."

But that did not stop the spreading calls for Peavy to go.

A crowd picketed the school district's downtown administration building on Wednesday, snarling lunchtime traffic. Estimates on the crowd size ranged from 40 to 100.

"Peavy is basically gone, as far as we're concerned," said John Wiley Price, a Dallas County commissioner and a black civil rights activist. "We've got to deal with those other people out here who will continue to be the problem in this district."

Schools superintendent Chad Woolery said a copy of the tape was turned over Friday to the FBI, which he expects will investigate its origin and authenticity.

WFAA in Dallas reported Wednesday that the district administration building has been electronically swept for secret listening devices.

Peavy did not return telephone calls made by The Associated Press to his office for comment on Wednesday. His home telephone number is unlisted.

New York modeling agency signs small town Texas girl

AMARILLO — Shantelle Wheeler, from Miami, model of Diane Dick in Amarillo, participated in the International Modeling and Talent Association (IMTA) modeling contest in New York July 21-29. Wheeler was one of 3,000 models attending the IMTA contest. The IMTA competition afforded modeling agencies around the globe a chance to discover a new face.

Wheeler was third runner-up in the Fashion Print Competition and was awarded honorable mention in Theatrical Print, Commercial Print, Runway, Make-up and Sitcoms. She received the third highest number of call backs overall with a total of 40 from agencies in Italy, Paris, Tokyo, Japan, New York, Florida, California, Texas, Greece and Korea and was Most Sought After second runner-up.

After competition, she signed with an agency in New York called Click. Click is known as one of the top three modeling agencies in the world and is currently representing Isabella Rossalini. Click is set to model in Athens, Greece. Wheeler remained in New York following the competition and is very excited about the once in a lifetime opportunity.

"We didn't expect Shantelle to be so successful so fast," Wheeler's parents said, adding that they are proud of what their daughter has accomplished.

Her agent, Diane Dick, was also very pleased stating, "Out of all the models in the competition, Shantelle Wheeler, a young lady from the little town of Miami with a population of 675, was singled out and signed immediately in New York. Now she is traveling the world as a model. I guess our little 'star' is born!"
