Sadat Defends Mission Of Peace By Kissinger

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat today defended Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East peace mission and said Arab leaders who oppose the current peace efforts are "sick and juvenile politicians."

Sadat, a strong Kissinger supporter, who addresses him as "Henry," took time out from his talk with Kissinger on Syrian Israeli troop disengagement to address a May Day rally in the industrial Cairo suburb of Helwan. Kissinger and his wife Nancy spent the day sightseeing.

Kissinger confers again tonight with Sadat and flies Thursday to Jerusalem where a top Israeli military leader said chances of Kissinger's success on this mission to the Middle East were very small, the outcome is still very obscure. He then goes to Damascus.

Before flying to Egypt Kissinger won a pledge of Soviet and Algerian support for his attempt to get a cease-fire between Israeli and Syria and then turned to Sadat, his principal supporter in the Arab world.

Sick and juvenile politicians consider a Kissinger visit to Moscow and Peking a good thing but regard a visit by Kissinger to Cairo, Damascus and Algiers as treason, Sadat said.

Sadat's remarks appeared aimed primarily at Arab leaders such as Libya's Col. Muammar Khadafi who have voiced strong criticism of his collaboration with Kissinger in the drive for a negotiated Middle East settlement.

He said the politicians he referred to but did not name consider that investment of American money in the Soviet Union is acceptable, but investment of American money in Egypt is unacceptable.

Explaining Egypt's formerly poor relations with the United States, Sadat said, "Our hostility to America was not a question of principle, but rather a political stand. Our policy has always been friendly with those who are friendly to us and hostile to those who show hostility toward us."

Kissinger spent the morning with his wife Nancy looking over Alexandria's Greco-Roman museum and an archeological site.

A high American official traveling with Kissinger said the secretary of state was sounding out Sadat on what could be achieved in a disengagement accord between Israel and Syria.

1-TIME NOMINEE

Agnes Moorehead Dies From Illness

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI) — Agnes Moorehead, nominated four times for Academy Awards for film roles but best known as the sharp-tongued Endora in the television series "Bewitched," died Tuesday at Methodist Hospital of an undisclosed illness.

The 67-year-old character actress was under the care of Mayo Clinic doctors and had been hospitalized since April 9.

Miss Moorehead's first role was in Orson Welles' classic movie "Citizen

Kane. In 1942 she was nominated for an Academy Award for her role in "The Magnificent Ambersons." She was nominated again in 1944 for "Mrs. Parkington," in 1948 for "Johnny Belinda," and 1964 for "Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte." All her nominations were for best supporting roles.

Second to acting, Miss Moorehead enjoyed her half section of farmland between Zanesville and Cambridge, Ohio. The land was a grant to her great grandparents who came from England.

Miss Moorehead received a master's degree from the University of Wisconsin and then enrolled at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. She appeared in a succession of Broadway hits and later toured the vaudeville circuit and began a radio career. She had a recurring role in Lionel Barrymore's "Mayor of the Town."

While many of her film roles were of wispish or drab women, such as in "Jane Eyre," "The Magnificent Ambersons," "Dark Passage," "Showboat" and "Raintree County," she also could be a glamorous, as in "Mrs. Parkington."

Street Widening Property Offer Deadline Today

Although today was the deadline set by the City of Pampa for property owners on S. Cuyler St. to accept offers for purchase of property needed for widening Hwy. 273, City Manager Mack Wofford said this morning signatures still will be accepted on appraisal figures set the State Highway Department.

Meanwhile, the city manager added steps will be taken to start condemnation proceedings against owners of property who have definitely announced refusal of the offers.

Property affected by the street widening project includes ten feet on each side of S. Cuyler from Tuke St. to the Fort Worth & Denver underpass.

Wofford said that so far owners of 56 of the 68 original parcels of land have signed agreements for purchase. The city will pay half of the cost and the state the other half.

The city manager explained that future proceedings against property owners who do not sign the agreement will include appointment of a three-man condemnation court to be named by County Judge Don Cain.

This tribunal, he said, would conduct the condemnation hearings and rule on each case.

City Manager Wofford said the entire project eventually will extend to the McCullough St. city limits.

The State Highway Department currently is continuing appraisal of property south from the underpass to McCullough

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Edited transcripts of White House tapes show President Nixon considered paying hush money to Watergate defendants, but he turned down proposals that they be granted clemency.

They indicate he knew nothing about the break in at the headquarters of the National Democratic Party

Showers Bring Welcome Rain To Panhandle

Those April showers which began Tuesday continued into May today, bringing hope for those spring flowers, though probably too late for some area wheat farmers.

Last night's and this morning's rains brought only .02 of an inch to Pampa and no more moisture is expected during the next two days. However, the small amount added to Monday's 24 inches has dampened the area enough to be somewhat beneficial.

Forecasts call for decreasing cloudiness and warmer conditions this afternoon with fair and mild conditions tonight. Thursday's weather should be sunny and warmer with the high reaching into the mid 80's.

The high today is expected to be in the mid 70's while the low tonight will be around 50.

Winds are westerly today at 5-15 miles per hour.

In UPI reports, heavy thunderstorms beat down today from Texas to New Mexico and from Louisiana into West Virginia. Flash flood watches and warnings were posted throughout the Lone Star State.

The National Weather Service called flash flood watches in north-central, northeast and southwest Texas where even heavier rains were expected at daybreak.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported flash flooding at Kerrville, Tex., where more than seven inches of rain fell during a six-hour period.

The thunderstorms left nearly an inch and a half of rain in the Texas towns of College Station, Cotulla and Killen.

until he read it in news reports June 17, 1972.

The unprecedented disclosure Tuesday of more than 1,200 pages of transcripts edited by the White House triggered additional controversy over Nixon's role in Watergate.

An accompanying White House summary of the transcripts put much of the blame for the Watergate scandal and the subsequent impeachment inquiry on what it contended was false testimony by Nixon's former counsel John W. Dean III. It said the transcripts proved the President did not conspire to obstruct justice.

Committee Needs Tapes

But some critics, including members of the House Judiciary Committee, which is considering his impeachment, said the edited transcripts were unsatisfactory and that the committee needed the tapes themselves — on subjects including contributions from the milk industry, International Telephone & Telegraph and Howard Hughes.

Nixon had said earlier that the transcripts were in places, contradictory and ambiguous. They have so far gotten a mixed reception from the impeachment committee, which sought them.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said he did not consider Nixon to be in compliance with the committee's April 11 subpoena of 42 tapes, but members of the committee were so far undecided how best to respond to Nixon's move.

Only 31 Covered

The transcripts covered only 31 of the 42 subpoenaed conversations, plus 17 other Watergate-related meetings or telephone conversations. The White House said nine of the remaining conversations were never recorded and two tapes could not be found.

Release of the transcripts was a gamble that the nation would share the conclusion they proved Nixon's innocence.

In all of the thousands of words spoken even if they are not clear and ambiguous, not once does it appear that the President of the United States was involved in a criminal plot to obstruct justice. White House lawyers said in a summary of the tapes.

Millions of Americans were likely to examine at least some of the contents of Nixon's private conversations over the next few days. Some newspapers planned to carry the 250,000 word text in full.

White House sources declined to say whether the President would comply with a subpoena from Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski for 64 taped Watergate conversations by a court set Thursday deadline.

The transcripts released Tuesday indicated that during a two-hour White House meeting on March 21, 1973, Nixon never explicitly rejected a proposal to pay $120,000 to buy continued silence from E. Howard Hunt, one of the seven Watergate bugging defendants Nixon considered and rejected granting clemency as politically unworkable — and because "it is wrong."

It was at this meeting that Nixon said he first learned the full story of the Watergate cover-up from Dean. At one point in the conversation this exchange is quoted:

Nixon: "You have no choice but to come up with the $120,000, right?"

Dean: "That's right."

The Prime Thing

Nixon: "Would you agree that that's the prime thing that you damn well better get that done?"

Dean: "Obviously, he ought to be given some signal anyway."

Nixon: "get it" (the three dots indicated an ex-pletive) had been deleted by the White House tape editors.)

In the same meeting Nixon said there would be no problem raising $1 million and that he knew where to get it "to take care of these jackasses who are in jail."

Within hours of the meeting, $75,000 was paid to Hunt, according to grand jury evidence. But the White House summary said that "the President not only did not approve of any payment to Hunt, but he did not even know a payment had been made."

Would Involve President

At another point in the meeting the two discussed clemency and agreed that it wouldn't work politically and it would involve the President too deeply in the Watergate scandal.

"You can't do it until after the '74 election, that's for sure," Nixon said.

Your point is that even then you couldn't do it."

That's right," Dean replied. "It may further involve you in a way you should not be involved in this."

The "it is wrong" quote did not take place during the discussion of hush money payments, as Nixon had indicated in previous statements on Watergate. Instead it came during the later discussion of clemency.

County Okays Resolution To Set Minimum Wages

The Gray County Commissioners Court this morning approved a resolution setting the minimum wage for county employees at $2 per hour in compliance with recent federal legislation.

All employees now working for the county as well as any substitute or part-time employees who may be hired in the future come under the law.

A bid from the G.W. James Materials Co., Price Rd., was accepted for improvements on Gwendolyn and McCullough Sts. The bid called for the payment of $130 per square yard for a total of $25,991.80.

The only other bid received was for $175 per square yard for a total of $35,462 from Lewis Construction Co. The Lewis bid included approximately 500 more square yards of paving than the James bid.

All final grading, asphalt and gravel are included in the work to be done on the improvements.

The commissioners also approved the acceptance and filing of a deed from the City of Lefors for Precinct 1 building property and the execution and delivery of a deed to the City of Lefors for old Precinct 1 building property.

Those resolutions dealt with as transference of land between the county and the City of Lefors.

The setting of dates for Board of Equalization hearings on both the industrial roll and local roll was passed until the May 14 commissioners meeting.

Ambulance service, fire protection and county library expenses for the last half of 1974 were approved by the court.

County Judge Don Cain announced that free blood pressure clinics conducted by Highland General Hospital employees and sponsored by the county chapter of the American Heart Association will operate Friday at several city locations.

Clinics will be open at Coronado Center, the First National Bank, Citizens Bank and Gibson's. Hours are from 10 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. Friday.

Several time deposits were approved by commissioners. They included $250,000 from both the general fund and the farm to market and lateral road funds for 90 days each, interest to be paid into the general fund, $12,000 from the jury fund for 90 days, interest to general fund, $25,000 for 90 days from revenue sharing fund, interest to revenue sharing fund, and $12,000 for 90 days from the courthouse and jail fund, interest to general fund.

A transfer of $500 from the general fund to the county law library was also okayed.

In routine business the court approved the payment of salaries and bills as approved by the county auditor.

Tight Security Used To Guard Hearst's Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tight security was set up at Patricia Hearst's family home in fashionable Hillsborough today as the deadline on a $4 million food giveaway program drew near.

It's a kind of critical time, her father, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of The San Francisco Examiner, told newsmen late Tuesday. "The next few days you don't know what's going to happen."

The money will be released from escrow and applied to the food program by the Hearst Corp. Friday, only if Miss Hearst is released by the Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnapped her on Feb. 4. Hearst has already provided $2 million for groceries for the poor in an effort to win his daughter's freedom.

But Miss Hearst 20 said in recent tape recorded messages sent by the SLA that she was giving up her former life and joining the revolutionary drive of the underground organization.

Hearst said a rusted iron gate in front of the family home just south of here was being welded shut, guards were being assigned to ring the house and locks were being changed.

Certain parts of the house have not been so secure so we're beefing up security," the newspaper man said.

In a later interview he said he was not very optimistic. "The SLA would set free his daughter and he repeated his contention that she had mind control used on her to swing her into the ranks of the SLA."

286 Residents Vote Absentee

Nearly 300 county residents had cast absentee ballots for the Saturday primary elections when the deadline for that type voting fell at 5 p.m. yesterday, the county clerk's office reported today.

Of the 286 ballots filled out, 244 were for the Democratic primary and 42 for the Republican.

Besides casting votes for various county, state and some federal offices, Texas voters will be asked to express their desires on three referendum issues Saturday.

They deal with the right to work laws, personal or corporate state income tax and pari-mutuel wagering.

City Clean-Up Drive Begins

Pampa's annual Spring Clean-up campaign got under way as scheduled this forenoon despite the raining weather.

The trucks will be working in Ward 1 (northwest) through May 7, with the exception of Saturday and Sunday.

Property owners in Ward 1 were again urged to place trash and material to be collected in alleys to be hauled away by the city clean-up crews.

The trucks will move into Ward 2 on Wednesday May 8, into Ward 3 on May 15 and into Ward 4 on May 22.

IN MID-EAST Diplomats Work To End Dispute

United Press International Syrian and Israeli troops fought with artillery and tanks on strategic Mt. Hermon today, but beyond the battlefield diplomats worked to separate the opposing Golan Heights armies.

The war of attrition on the northern truce lines went into the 51st day after an all-day battle along Mt. Hermon that the Beirut government said spilled over into neighboring Lebanon.

On the diplomatic front, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger went into a second day of meetings in Alexandria today to get Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's support in separating Syrian and Israeli forces.

A Damascus military communique reported fresh fighting early today for control of the steep, rocky peaks of 9,232 foot Mt. Hermon which overlooks Syria, Israel and Lebanon.

The Beirut Defense Ministry said an Israeli force took up positions Tuesday on two Lebanese hills near Mt. Hermon, clashing for two hours with local troops before pulling back. One Lebanese soldier was reported wounded.

An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv said, however, "There has been no infiltration by our forces into Lebanon."

The Israeli cabinet met Tuesday to consider troop separation proposals and discuss the strategic importance of Golan Heights regions demanded by Syria.

Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon said Tuesday Syria would fail to get Israeli concessions by stepping up the Golan Heights fighting.

"In fact, the graver they make the situation, the more the Syrians obligate us to toughen our position to defend our security," Alon said at the northern town of Qiryat Shemona, where Arab guerrillas killed 18 Israelis last month.

Syria reported direct artillery hits Tuesday on an Israeli missile base and radar station. The Syrians also claimed knocking out several Israeli tanks and armored vehicles.

The Israeli military command said its warplanes strafed Syrian gun and missile positions on Mt. Hermon.

Portugal Observes May Day

LISBON (UPI) — Troops and marines took up positions at strategic points in Lisbon today as workers began massing for the first May Day demonstrations the country has seen in over four decades.

Lisbon city streets were almost deserted early with all stores and most restaurants closed for the May 1 holiday.

But by mid-morning several hundred persons gathered under partly cloudy skies in Lisbon's downtown Rossio Square, traditional center for demonstrations in the Portuguese capital. An army helicopter circled overhead.

Troops wearing carnations—the emblem of the April 25 revolution—stood guard outside government buildings.

Big banners were set up at each end of the square with slogans including "If You Respect Your Freedom, Respect Others," "Free Trade Unions," and "End Colonial Wars."

In working class suburbs workers began massing under Communist and Socialist party banners for demonstrations scheduled later in the day.

The government announced all mail services to foreign countries had been suspended temporarily. Earlier this week stiff restrictions on taking both Portuguese and foreign money abroad were imposed.

The ruling military junta massed troops tanks, the National Guard and police to guard against troublemakers of both the left and right for the first May Day demonstrations after 46 years of right-wing dictatorship.

The troops got their first test shortly after midnight when a false intelligence report warned of a rightist attack against the Defense Ministry at Cova da Moura Palace.

Three heavy armored cars with cannons, four scout cars with machine guns and nearly a dozen jeeps of troops raced to the Cova da Moura Palace but returned to barracks in an hour.

Troops ringed Lisbon's downtown Rossio Square all night and one soldier said the guard was to prevent trouble from former secret police.

The junta, which came to power in a coup d'etat last Thursday, called for a demonstration of support this evening at the square. The rally was to come after a two-mile workers' march organized by 23 labor unions.

A few scattered automobiles racing through the streets honking their horns got May Day off to an early and mild start shortly after midnight.

The junta proclaimed May 1 celebrated as Labor Day in Eastern Europe and many other parts of the world, a national holiday for the first time since the ousted rightist regime seized power in 1926.

JO ANN JAMES
...PHS Twirler

PHS Twirler Receives Two Scholarships

Jo Ann James, Pampa High School senior, has received notification that she has been awarded a $900 scholarship for the 1974-75 school year at Southwestern State College at Weatherford, Okla.

She was also awarded a scholarship for private music lessons and has been selected twirler for the marching band. The band will appear on nation-wide television during the year. During concert season she will play the clarinet.

The announcement of the scholarships was made by Dr. James Jurens, head of the music department at the college.

Miss James is currently a member of the PHS Harvester Band. She has served as drum major at Pampa Junior High School and has been a twirler for the past two years at PHS.

For the past two years, she has received a superior rating for twirling in University Interscholastic League contests and has won a place in the All-Region Band.

She also has won several superior ratings for solo and ensemble in UIL contests.

She will attend Southwestern State this fall, where she will be a music major or seek a bachelor of science degree in nursing.

Miss James is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. James, 1435 E. Francis.

Saigon, Communist Battle Spreads Into Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese troops killed 251 Communists in a two-day tank, air and artillery drive that military sources today said spilled into neighboring Cambodia.

The Saigon command said 20 government soldiers were killed in the fighting in South Vietnam's Duc Hue district, which lies along the Cambodian border 35 miles north of Saigon.

Command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien denied, however, reports by the sources that government troops crossed into Cambodia.

"We did not chase them over the Cambodian border," Hien said.

An officer in Phnom Penh said the Cambodian government was "studying the situation."

Military analysts said the drive, aimed at stopping the Communists from stepping up troop strength in provinces around Saigon, was probably the largest government operation since the Jan. 28, 1973, cease-fire accord.

Military sources said the 6,000-man government force pushed about 2 1/2 miles into the Cambodian Parrot's Beak region Tuesday in the first attack over the border since the ceasefire pact was signed 15 months ago.

The sources said the Communists have used the Parrot's Beak, named because of its appearance on maps, as a sanctuary since the 1972 spring offensive.

The Paris truce agreement forbids military operations by any foreign troops inside Cambodia, but North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces have largely ignored the stipulation.

C-C Accepting Reservations For Luncheon

Reservations are being taken for the special Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon set for next Monday noon in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

The program will be presented by the Celanese Chemical Co. with an address by executive vice president Harry B. Bartley, Jr.

Bartley's talk will include some of the company's plans for the future in the local area as well as world-wide operations. An 80-unit slide presentation will describe operations at the local Celanese plant.

A large crowd is expected to attend the luncheon. Reservations will be accepted until 10 a.m. Monday. However, due to the early demand for tickets, a sell-out is expected by the end of the week, according to chamber officials.

Center Planning Enrollment For Swim Classes

The Pampa Youth and Community Center will hold its annual registration for the summer swim lessons at 1 p.m. on May 9. This registration period will last until all classes are filled.

Enrollment is on a first-come, first-serve basis with the doors opening at 1 p.m. sharp, director, George Smith said.

Classes are listed below and parents should check the list and try to anticipate a full summer of enrollment. A child may be enrolled in more than one session.

Enrollment is open to the general public and you do not have to be a member to participate. All classes are taught by certified Red Cross Water Safety instructors.

Cost is $4 for each session for non-members and free to Youth Center members. Members must bring their membership cards.

6 Passengers Die In Crash

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — A Metro Airline computer plane lost power shortly after takeoff from Shoals Field Tuesday and crashed and exploded in flames, killing six passengers, including the former mayor pro tem of Corpus Christi and injuring six others.

The dead were Corpus Christi attorney and former mayor pro tem Charles Bonniwell, 33, Phillip Hillman, 23, of Houston, Metro's first officer on the flight, N. A. Curlee Jr., of Grand Prairie, Mrs. John Leddy Jones of Dallas, Tommy Charles Vinson of Fort Worth, and James E. Franken, 47, of Paul's Valley, Okla., who died of burns at John Sealy Hospital late Tuesday night.

A Metro spokesman said there was no definite determination of the cause of the crash. He said an investigation would be conducted.

Tom Tompkins, a pilot who lives near the airport, said the small slow takeoff and landing craft banked left as it left the ground and then just fell.

"It was up a good 400 feet and all of a sudden it just dropped," Tompkins said. "It looked like he just lost his power. It didn't even nose down. It just dropped."

Another witness, Carl Cook, said he saw the plane flying but "the left wing dipped and it was instantly in flames after it hit the ground."

Several survivors ran from the rear door of the plane after it hit the ground. One passenger was found critically burned but still alive in the plane after the fire was put out.

Two Suspects Arrested In 'Zebra' Assassinations

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police announced two arrests today in the so-called "Zebra" assassinations on San Francisco streets of 12 white persons by black gunmen.

The arrests were made public by Charles Barca, chief of the Inspectors Bureau.

There were no details immediately.

In announcing the early morning arrests, the department said its investigation was continuing and that there was a possibility of additional arrests.

Both arrests were made within the city, but the department did not give the addresses immediately.

Those taken into custody were identified as J.C. Smith, 29, and Larry Green, 22, both of San Francisco and both Negroes.

Officers booked both for investigations into murder charges and other charges connected with the street slayings.

Since November, there have been 18 shootings by blacks of whites within the city. In addition to the 12 slain, six were wounded.

A television station reported Tuesday night that two possible suspects had been taken into custody in the Zebra killings.

Newman Jack Bates of KRON said the rite was "weird and bizarre" and has spread "across the United States." The two

Voters To Hold Conventions At Precinct Level

Following the closing of polls after the primary elections Saturday, precinct conventions for both the Democratic and Republican parties will begin at 7:15 p.m. at the precinct polling places.

A key rule for Democratic precinct conventions this year stipulates that at least 20 percent of those in attendance may — by written petition — form a separate caucus and elect their share of the total delegation.

Precinct conventions following the Democratic primary this year have been described as "the first step toward writing a new charter for the national Democratic Party."

Both Democratic and Republican delegates elected Saturday will go to their county conventions May 11. The state conventions in both parties will be in Austin in September. U.S. Congressman Bob Price will attend the May 11 county convention of the Republican party, it has been reported.

People casting votes in either primary Saturday automatically entitle themselves to be a delegate to their precinct convention.

Voting places and convention locations for the Democratic primary election are:

Pythians Choose Contest Winners

Rex Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Caldwell, Panhandle, won first place in the Knights of Pythias public speaking contest Tuesday evening at the Pythian Hall.

He will represent Pampa Lodge No. 480 in the Region One contest in Abilene May 5. Winner of that contest will be entered in the state contest at Longview June 12.

Miss Kayla Waterbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Waterbury, 706 E. 15th, Pampa, was first runner-up and will serve as an alternate Delwin Hinkle, Panhandle, placed third.

Caldwell and Hinkle are speech students of L.A. Sparks, Panhandle High School, and Miss Waterbury is a speech student of Warren David Cain, Pampa High School. All students spoke on the topic, "What is the Future of the Taxpayer?"

Winner of each of the six sectional contests to be held in July will receive a $1,000 scholarship with each second-place winner receiving a $500 scholarship. A total of $90,000 in scholarships will be awarded.

In the Highway Safety poster contest, Miss Allison Cox, Panhandle, won first place; her poster will be entered in the Region One contest. Jill Caldwell, Panhandle, placed second and Chris E. Butler, White Deer, placed third.

A total of $900 in bonds will be awarded to the 15 winners in the national contest.

By LEROY POPE
Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—The automobile graveyard, a dismal feature of the American landscape for nearly 40 years, is fast disappearing.

The new electric furnace process of making steel in smaller mills uses virtually all scrap as the raw material, and junked cars make the best scrap.

As recently as 10 years ago, automobile cemeteries were growing in the United States and many other countries. The cost of transporting and recycling junked cars exceeded the value of the metal that could be extracted from them.

In some European countries short of land it even became fashionable to load junked automobiles on ships and dump them in the sea. This aroused protests from fishermen and ecologists who said the corroding metal polluted the ocean.

Computer Controlled
But development of the minimill, which makes a few kinds of steel to serve the needs of local markets, changed everything. These little mills are computer controlled. The computer is programmed to give the mill manager an accurate analysis of the scrap content in the automobiles, refrigerators and other junked steel objects he melts down. The computer also tells him how much pure metallic alloys he must add to get the kinds of new steel he wants.

According to Ogden Corporation's Luria Bros. subsidiary, perhaps the nation's biggest scrap dealer, the electric furnace sector of the industry, spurred by the rise of the minimill, produced 18.2 per cent of the nation's steel last year. It is expected to produce at least 25 per cent by 1980.

While the mini-mills use all scrap as raw material, larger electric furnace mills use combinations of scrap and new iron ore. Mills using the basic oxygen process, which made about 55 per cent of the steel output last year, use only 25 per cent scrap and 75 per cent new ore. The old-fashioned open hearth mills, which still make around 27 per cent of the steel, use half scrap and half ore.

The price of steel scrap went sky-high as the mini-mills and other electric furnace steelmaking expanded in recent years. But within the past few weeks, the scrap price has broken by $4 to $16 a ton in the important Philadelphia and Chicago markets. A small drop in the nation's overall steel output probably caused the fall in scrap prices. A spokesman for Ogden's Luria Division said he thought the break in scrap prices may be of national importance, considering the tightness of U.S. supplies of domestic and imported iron ore. It means, he said, that making steel largely from scrap will be considerably more economic.

The corn plant flourishes from Canada to China and from Italy to India.

Subdivisions are the biggest users of farmland. According to a March 1972 survey by the Economic Research Service of the USDA, 42 per cent of the national farm acreage sold was bought by subdivision developers. This was followed by accounted for nine per cent of the acreage.

"New towns" are another municipal menace facing Texas agriculturalists. To organize and direct the future population growth, "self-contained" cities are being planned by governments and private organizations. The Texas Business Review reported that three "new cities" have been proposed for Texas. Located near Houston, Dallas and San Antonio the towns would cover a combined 36,672 acres.

Many regions could more than triple in size within the next 50 years. As cities grow and expand into rural areas, the potential market value of agricultural land increases, White explained.

In 1970 the average price per acre of farmland in Texas was $148 — a $63 increase from 1960 figures.

Agricultural lands, especially those around cities, have been treated as speculative commodity and farms are being assessed at increased, speculative values," White said.

In 1966 Texans adopted an amendment allowing preferential assessment of farmlands, unfortunately, a number of conditions must be met before agricultural-use designation can be granted. According to the Agricultural and Land Assessment Study Committee, the amendment has been of limited benefit to agriculturalists. As of 1970 only 1,053 farms were granted agricultural-use status.

A 1972 court case eased some of the restrictions, but a recent U.S. District Court ruling in Virginia has provided more for farm and ranch owners in remote areas. The court provided a precedent by striking down an IRS contention that such property is suitable for subdivision development when no real market exists in the area.

Urbanization Threatening Availability Of Farmland

AUSTIN—A farmer in Dallas cultivates his land in the shadow of a multimillion-dollar skyscraper. A rancher in West Texas must sell his highly taxed land to a developer for a subdivision. And in the Rio Grande Valley, promises of a warm climate are enticing Northerners to retire in modern "rural" residences.

Throughout Texas growing populations and urbanization have invaded the rural areas and depleted agricultural acreage. To accommodate projected population growth and the subsequent growth of business and industry, an estimated 18 million acres of Texas farmland could be urbanized in the next 30 years, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reported.

If the trend of the Sixties carries over into the Seventies, the national population will multiply at the rate of one person every 18½ seconds. For every additional person added to the population, it is estimated that 1-5 of the American farmland is lost to urbanization—very hour. 40 acres of cropland would disappear.

Since 1954 total farm acreage in Texas has decreased from 145.8 million to 141.8 million acres in 1973. Accompanying the acreage decrease is the declining number of farms. From the record high of 501,000 in 1935, the numbers have been steadily decreasing to 209,000 farms in 1974.

Despite the decreases, Texas leads the nation in number of farms and total acreage being farmed, Whitesaid.

Subdivisions are the biggest users of farmland. According to a March 1972 survey by the Economic Research Service of the USDA, 42 per cent of the national farm acreage sold was bought by subdivision developers. This was followed by accounted for nine per cent of the acreage.

"New towns" are another municipal menace facing Texas agriculturalists. To organize and direct the future population growth, "self-contained" cities are being planned by governments and private organizations. The court provided a precedent by striking down an IRS contention that such property is suitable for subdivision development when no real market exists in the area.

As rich croplands are converted into urban uses, the future harbors many uncertainties in the face of mounting food needs, especially when resources are needed to meet both foreign and domestic demand.

In 1972 approximately 296 million acres were used in U.S. crop production — 85 million of which went to produce products for export. This was a 23 million acre increase from 1971. As the world's population grows, more and more land will be needed for food production.

To alleviate some of the problem, the U.S. government has released set-aside acreage that was previously withheld from crop production.

The Soil Conservation Service reported that as of last October 209,000 acres of land were returned to cultivation in Texas. However, 75,000 acres were classified as 4-6 grade land — land that is not safe to farm or land that is unsuitable to farm.

Through modern technology, the farmer has become one of the most efficient producers in the world. White said that in 1950-54 1.85-1.98 acres of land were needed to supply the needs of one person. In 1965-71 this decreased to 1.10-1.24 acres.

"However, the farmer can not use the results of science nor the mechanization of technology to produce if he does not have the land," White said.

The "urban sprawl" is taking its toll of Texas agriculture. It is depriving the Dallas farmer of looking up at a blue sky without the prevailing smog. It is depriving the West Texas rancher of his unobstructed "hundred mile" view. It is robbing many Texans of their basic natural resource — land.

Blueberry Has Potential As New Crop In Texas

COLLEGE STATION—Through the work of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, a new crop is coming on the scene that seems to have a lot of potential. That crop is blueberries.

Work has been underway since 1966 to check the performance of various varieties as well as to see just how well blueberries grow in Texas. Research plots were put in at Buna and Magnolia Springs in Jasper County, and a test plot has just been planted at Canton in Van Zandt County.

"Our overall objective was to see just how well blueberries would perform in this part of Texas," said

Dr. Hollis Bowen, associate professor of pomology with TAES at Texas A&M University. "We are especially interested in blueberries since few fresh blueberries are marketed west of the Mississippi River. Thus, there seems to be an untapped market for the product."

According to Bowen, most blueberries are grown in the Southwestern United States. The performance of the research project in Texas is being compared with blueberries grown in Arkansas and Georgia.

"Our plantings at Buna have produced adequate to good crops although they have not performed as well as those in other states. Fruit size, color and flavor were generally not as good as they should be," noted the scientist.

In comparison, the experimental plantings at Magnolia Springs performed much the same although several older varieties looked better than those at Buna. Bowen allowed that the sandy loam soil at Magnolia Springs could be the reason for the improved performance whereas the test area at Buna has heavier soils.

The varieties Woodard and Tibblue have been the top performers at both test sites and are considered the best for commercial planting.

There have been no disease or insect problems with the blueberries.

What is the economic potential of blueberries in Texas?

"Some plants in our tests have produced as many as 30 pints a year," pointed out Bowen. "Returns can be high, ranging from $2,000 to $3,000 per acre. And the plants are long-lived and can be expected to offer satisfactory yields for at least 50 years with good management."

"Blueberry productions could offer good income potential to low income families," believes the researcher. "Of course, initial investments would be high in establishing plantings and then waiting for them to begin producing — four to five years. Large plantings would require heavy labor input for hand harvesting for fresh fruit sales. Mechanical harvesters are also on the market."

According to Bowen, new varieties are being tested, and work will continue by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in developing this new crop to its fullest potential.

TADA Gives Service Award To Culberson

Members of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association have presented their "TADA Meritorious Service Award" to Pampa automobile dealer, Frank M. Culberson.

Some 1,000 dealers, their wives, bankers, financial representatives, and auto industry leaders attended the Association's 57th annual convention which ended Tuesday at the San Antonio Convention Center.

Association president Ted Mahone of San Antonio presented Culberson with his award at the TADA noon luncheon Monday.

Culberson was cited for 46 years of service to the automobile industry and the automobile-buying public of Pampa.

Culberson opened his dealership in Pampa in 1928, and has been actively engaged in its management ever since. A former president of his local car dealers association, he has been a member of the Chevrolet Dealer Council, at both the zone and regional levels, and has served as a TADA director.

The TADA award-winner has been active in his community's service, and has held top offices in the local chapters of the Lion's Club, Salvation Army and Boy Scouts of America.

Knights Honor Preston Bailey, Area Members

Lt. Preston E. Bailey of the Pampa Police Department was named Lawman of the Year by the Frank Keim Council No. 2767, Knights of Columbus, during an awards banquet in the Council Hall, 500 Ward, Sunday evening.

Members and guests attended the banquet to honor various members for distinguished service to the Knights Council and for years of service.

Angelo J. Carrubi, Sr., was honored as Knight of the Year for his "long and very dedicated service to the order."

In appreciation for outstanding services, H.J. (Hub) Homer received the Grand Knight's award.

Jasper S. McBride received the former District Deputy award for District 45 and Joseph G. Dickey was awarded the Past Grand Knight award.

Merit awards went to Willie Rapstine and Jerry D. Braddock.

Membership awards were:

Hampton W. Waddell, honorary life membership, 57 years membership in order.

Wm. J. Smith, honorary life membership, 38 years in order.

Joseph Pavlovsky, Canadian, honorary membership, 25 years.

Carl E. Homer, Groom, honorary membership, 48 years.

Laddie Kotara, White Deer, 25-year pin.

Alfred A. Homer, Groom, 25-year pin.

The Council chaplain, Rev. Francis Hynes, C.M., and Rev. Wendelin Dunker, both of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, and Rev. J. Arnold Carlson, Groom, attended and participated in making the awards.

WORRY CLINIC

Dr. Raymond was pestered by a very brilliant multimillionaire patient whom he didn't dare offend. So he asked me to hypnotize this apparent victim of "phantom pain." But his pain was a sexual "red herring."

CASE A-621. Dr. Raymond M., aged 58, was our leading surgeon at Wesley Memorial Hospital here in Chicago.

"Dr. Crane," he phoned me. "I wonder if you could do me a personal favor?"

For the chief of the medical department and I have been treating a multimillionaire Loop executive but to no avail.

He complains of excruciating pain in his amputated right leg.

"Yet I have severed all possible nerves that connect that leg."

Moreover, the medical chief has tried various narcotics and even snake venom to allay his suffering.

"Still he will go into paroxysms of pain about 11 P.M. so he can't get to sleep."

"And he is driving us almost crazy, for he has become so persistent that we don't get any sleep, either!"

"Could you possibly go over at 11 P.M. and put him to sleep via hypnosis, as a great favor to us colleagues?"

PHANTOM PAIN?
This multimillionaire's limb had been amputated above the knee, so he had a stump of the thigh extending about one-third of the way down from his hip joint.

As a favor to those medical colleagues, I agreed to visit this patient a few times to put him to sleep via hypnosis.

He was a very cultured gentleman, aged 60, with an attractive wife who was about 40.

As I sat conversing with him, he would frantically rub the stump of his amputated limb, for he always shed his artificial leg whenever he was at home (to make himself more helpless).

Soon I observed that when he became interested in recounting tales about his participation in bicycle races 40 years earlier, his pain disappeared.

Furthermore, he didn't have the pain all day when he was at his office, where he always wore his artificial leg.

No, it hit him chiefly when he returned home at night.

And was especially evident if his wife reminded him that they had been invited to a party or the opera.

So I realized his pain was a subconscious device to hold his young wife's attention and keep her away from younger men.

Oh, he may occasionally have had "phantom pain," as during a harrowing dream at night. But most of his pain was malingering.

So I hypnotized him every night for a week, thus giving him 8 or 9 hours of refreshing slumber.

It was then I found that he was secretly afraid he couldn't compete with younger men, if he went out on a date with her to the opera or social parties!

Since he was 20 years her senior and with but one leg, he imagined that he would suffer badly in comparison with men more nearly her own age and without any physical handicaps.

This anxiety had then made him phobic, so he exaggerated his stump pain as a sex alibi.

Yet his wife was devoted to him and never suspected that his intense "stump pain" was a subconscious sexual ruse (psychosomatic ailment) to insure his dominance of her interest.

The reason I mention this case is to show how even college educated executives and business tycoons can adopt the very same subconscious strategy that toddlers often evolve to coerce their mothers.

Nervous breakdowns and even insanity can result from bottling up inner unsolved problems or tensions that should be "talked out" intelligently.

So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Nervous Breakdowns," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

From 'Pie' To Violence

Inspector Erskine, the miracle worker on television's FBI, solves his cases in an hour, less commercial breaks. In real life, the FBI requires a bit more time, but just how much will be needed in the Patricia Hearts related crimes? The American tax payer must eventually evaluate the effectiveness of that vast law-enforcement bureau, and we fear some drastic actions may be forthcoming. This is nervous time for law-abiding, peaceful citizens. People are being shot on the streets of San Francisco for no apparent reason. Lawless gangs call themselves an "army," vowing simply to kill people. This will no doubt become a new "sport" for the unstable minds that walk among us. "Motiveless crimes" are the most difficult assignments for law enforcement agencies. There simply is little to go on. But as this violence increases, demands for action will be heard throughout the land. We can expect to have larger budgets for law enforcement, increased numbers of officers and more stringent controls. The peaceful citizens will find greater interference with their freedom. The spectre of that police state, with gestapo-like legions patrolling the urban areas, is waiting in the wings. It is not a pleasant thought, but it simply is not politically wise for a government to have its tax payers shot on the streets and the property looted on a wholesale scale without taking drastic action. Sometimes the criticism is justified, but it is simple for one to yell "over reaction" when he is not in jeopardy. The expediency we can expect from political government is to place greater emphasis on the law-enforcement agencies. We can expect the day of the single officer patrol to be soon ended, and it could be that we will have squads of four or more, heavily armed, making the rounds in more troubled areas. It is than but a small National Police Force with check points and the "let me see your papers" line so frequently used in the movies. It is not fantasy. This is the nature of political government. The dilemma peaceful citizens face is to live in fear of criminal attack or bear the burdens of the police state. How could all this happen in our land? We suggest it is the result of a long history of looking to political government to solve individual problems of human beings. The greater the involvement of government in individual lives, the more demands are made. Politicians have long legalized the plunder of some to provide loot for others. These practices have developed the idea in the minds of growing numbers that they actually have a right to the property of those who have more wisely managed their affairs. Promises politicians make are impossible to keep, and when "pie in the sky" fails to materialize, violence is born.

THE HURDLES

INSIDE LABOR

Nixon Alerted On Recession

By VICTOR RIESEL WASHINGTON — Some time ago in President Nixon's residential quarters we discussed action to counter a depression. I suggested he move as Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson had. Almost wistfully, Dick Nixon replied: "I would but I'm not in the party." The President meant, of course, that our mutual "friend" Wilson had his Parliament with him while the President didn't. Since then the Congress has become a tougher, more crushing Democratic labor controlled opposition to him and virtually all his policies. This thought must have been with him as he chaired a two-hour and -20-minute economic strategy parley beginning at 4 p.m. in his Oval Office last Tuesday, April 23. He peppered his top braintrustees with hard-nosed questions as they put "shocker after shocker" to him. In the words of one of his advisers, "We told him plain." Yes, there was a chance of a sharp recession later this year. Yes, there might well be heavy unemployment. Perhaps as much as 6 per cent joblessness. High interest rates were brutal. They were killing residential housing starts. These are off by more than 800,000 from last year. The auto industry assembly lines have slowed by about a third of what they were whipping out last year. Soft goods sales are off; household appliances are off; hard goods, too, are off. Output of construction products is dropping because of the residential "starts" cutback. There were few bright spots. One was the booming of construction in the non-housing field — heavy business spending on industrial construction. This is running very high. Huge capital expenditures are going into new facilities. The President kept the discussion of residential housing going for fully half the time. And with good reason. This hits home. Fewer "starts" mean less purchasing of everything from household appliances to home furnishings and building materials. Not only will there be fewer young couples seeking their own living space — and older folks in those new retirement colonies — but flaring joblessness in household appliance plants right across the nation. President Nixon then decided on a special task force to see what could be done to ease credit, lower interest rates and stir up those crucial "housing starts." The onrush of spreading unemployment appalled the eight or ten men in the room. They knew they'd be clobbered by the labor-Democratic coalition. Dick Nixon knew that the record would show the White House had been pushing for congressional action on the job and jobless fronts. But Congress appeared apathetic on these and uptight on "that other matter."

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE Democracy In Italy Slipping Slowly Away

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER A letter from an Italian friend of mine affords a chilling glimpse of what daily life is beginning to be like in that lovely country. Ever since World War II, Italy has struggled to maintain its slippery footing as one of the world's major democracies and a responsible partner in NATO. Like most democracies, including our own, it has been forced to provide the voters with ever-increasing social "benefits" that bear no visible relation to productivity. The Communists, who regularly get 27 percent of the vote in general elections, have been excluded from the successive governments (usually a coalition of Christian Democrats and Socialists) and have bided their time, quietly encouraging labor unrest and general economic disruption. My friend, a Roman engineer in his mid-thirties, is an intelligent man, basically anti-Communist and outspokenly pro-American, but after reading his letter I am afraid he is in for some rude shocks. The Italian postal service had all but collapsed last fall and winter, and he is thus able to begin on an upbeat note. "Yesterday I received your letter mailed from Arizona, after only 8 days! It is wonderful. It means that in Italy things are getting better!" His very next paragraph, however, tells a quite different story: "The political and social situation is really very bad. Even the unions have lost control of the various categories of workers and constant strikes are normal. Especially the public employees strike frequently, and even when they work their efficiency is very very poor. There are over 1,700,000 of them and they cost quite a lot of money to the state. "The rate of every kind of crime has increased fearfully, and every day all over the nation there are wild robberies where the bandits do not hesitate at all to kill people and policemen. We are now in such a bad situation that all over the nation, in front of each bank and post office, there are standing at all times two policemen or carabinieri with rifles in hand, ready to shoot! Should the general situation deteriorate more, I feel that something really bad will happen in Italy, such as a take-over of power by the extreme left or right. But my friend has a solution: "My own feeling is that the solution to the critical Italian situation is a joint government of the Christian Democrats, the Socialists and the Communists. So, at least as far as my correspondent is concerned, the Communists have won their gamble after all. By waiting patiently and fostering disruption, they can now blackmail their way into the government. My friend takes care to prettify his retreat with a certain amount of chop-logic, talking as much to himself as to me: "Now it is really out of any logical way of thinking to pretend to keep on running Italy without taking into account the will of more than 10 million Italian citizens who vote Communist. Why should we not get along very well with both the Christian Democrats and the Communists in the government, considering that, at a much higher level, we have the positive example of cooperation between the U.S. and the Soviet Union, who share so fairly the assignment to run the world!" Henry Kissinger, please note: Your strategy of "detente" is spawning some strange offspring. My pro-American friend, watching his beloved Italy sink into permanent crisis en route to irretrievable catastrophe, opts for a coalition with the Communists in the forlorn hope that they will behave in return for a share of power — and then cites as justification the example of the current cordiality between the United States and the Soviet Union! But of course neither the Italian Communists nor those in the Soviet Union will settle for half a loaf permanently. Once the Italian Communist party has become a partner in the government, it will simply be in a stronger position to shake, and ultimately shatter, the fragile framework of Italian democracy. And when Italy has been absorbed into the Communist system at last, and France and perhaps Spain are teetering on the brink of joining her, both my Roman friend and Secretary Kissinger may find that the smile has unaccountably vanished from the face of the Russian bear. Tapes As Nixon's Weapon

By GARRY WILLS Behind all questions about the future of President Nixon's tapes there are the first puzzles, still unriddled: why did he make them in the first place, and why did he keep them after they had become a threat to him? We are often told that Mr. Nixon has a sense of his own place in history. It more often looks like a disbelief in his own existence. He keeps mementos of every place he has gone to, as if to prove to himself that he was there. Anything connected with his time in the White House has been treasured as a piece of evidence. He used to tell the story of his waking up with a sense of urgency over something, and thinking "I have to tell the President" — only to realize he was the President. One can almost see him checking the table linen to see if it really does have the White House markings on it. "Yes, I am here after all." The tapes are evidence that he truly was in the White House, talking to everybody as the President. Arturo Toscanini, at the end of his life, used to listen to tapes of his own earlier performances, and one can imagine that Nixon had looked forward to long hours of such enjoyment in his old age at San Clemente. "Boy, did I ever tell off George Meany that time." "Note the authority with which I ordered that day's soup." "See? Never a hesitation when the big decisions were made." The tapes were evidence in a larger sense as well. Since Nixon always anticipates attack, he never knows what might come in handy for his defense. I remember talking with one of his team of stenographers in the 1968 campaign. This man would get off the campaign plane at each stop and ride with the press to Nixon's speaking locale, where advance men had arranged for his special plug into the podium. Then, through earphones that cut out any crowd noise, he would take down the first half of Nixon's speech in shorthand. The advance man had a car waiting to rush him back to the plane where he would type up his portion of the speech. Meanwhile, a second man had been taking down the rest of the talk. While this part was being typed up, the first half was duplicated, fifty copies being stacked in the rear of the plane ready for release before the plane reached its next stop, where the whole process would be repeated. What you have to remember is that Nixon was giving his stock campaign speeches with interchangeable parts but little or no additions (perhaps a word to the local politician or a reference to the local industry). Yet over and over this team would operate, taking down and printing up each word. I asked why all this effort and bother, only to throw all extra copies of the speeches out in a day or two. The answer: if Nixon was misquoted, the team would distribute its copies of the speech and confound the misquoter. So far as I know, the opportunity never arose to use these documents that way; but Nixon likes to be ready for any contingency. I think that copying program contained the germ of the taping idea. You never know what you may want to produce in some future battle. Nail everything down. Tape it. File it. Know that you have it in reserve. It might be used against one of those being taped.

Question Box

QUESTION: What is a fair profit? What is a fair wage? Isn't there some moral obligations due the public by both business and labor in the answer to these questions, or should we as a nation operate on the theory that "I'll get mine, you get yours and never mind those who can't afford the cost?" —L.W.B. ANSWER: We know of no way to determine what is either a fair profit or fair wage other than by a voluntary agreement between two parties. In a free enterprise economy, two parties to a transaction must agree as to what is a fair price or a fair wage. Both a buyer and a seller must believe they are gaining from a transaction. The buyer must want the product more than the money, and the seller must want the money more than the product in order for both to profit from the transaction. If there is no third party to the transaction, the profit will be fair in the minds of the parties. The term "fair" has meaning only to the individual himself. It is like beauty, it is in the view of the individual. The same is true in employer-employee relations. One individual might consider that a dollar was adequate pay for a piece of work. Another might not consider anything less than thousands of dollars to be adequate compensation. An employer naturally will seek to pay no more than necessary for a piece of work, and an employee will seek as much as he can for it. When there is no third-party intervention, an agreement will be reached that is something of a compromise; yet both will consider the transaction profitable or they will not enter the deal. The worker would rather have the money than the time, and the employer would rather have the work done than to hold the money. In the long run, the worker must be able to produce his own wages, or the employer cannot long remain in business and able to hire the work done. We doubt if the above transactions would fit in the category of "I'll get mine at the expense of all others." Individuals find they must provide a good or a service that others want or they will not long survive in a free enterprise competitive society. Certainly self-interest is involved. We know of no one who does not live, act and make choices out of self-interest. He seeks to profit by his activities, whether the profit is monetary or otherwise. The individual who devotes all his or her time to charitable work does so because he or she is happier in that activity than in some other activity. That is what profit is — an increase in happiness. And a fair profit to one individual may not be considered a fair profit to another. It is attempts by third-party interventionists to determine fair prices, fair profits and fair wages that prevent truly free enterprise.

Dear Abby

Two divorcees catch her in the middle

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My brother left his wife and five children and got a divorce. My close friend subsequently divorced her husband. It soon came out that my brother and my friend had been seeing each other for a few years before their divorces. They are presently living together and plan to be married soon. I hope they will find the happiness together they lacked in their former marriages, but there is a problem:

I have always been very close to my brother's wife, and I adore the children. My brother says that his ex-wife is no longer a part of the family, and that if I want to see his children I should do so when he has them for visitation. Brother says that if his ex-wife is invited to any family gatherings, he and his wife-to-be will not come.

I don't want to have to choose whom to invite to my home for a family affair, but I am told that since my brother is closer to me than his ex-wife, he should not have to stay away. During the holidays, I invited everyone and left the decision up to those who wanted to come, but there was side-choosing and ill feelings, so I cancelled the party. My own children are being denied associating with their cousins, and remaining neutral is not easy. Please help.

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Your brother divorced his wife, you didn't, so don't let him dictate whom you shall have in your home. Ask everyone you want, and if Brother doesn't want to come, let him stay away.

DEAR ABBY: Several of us have a question to which we have been unable to find an answer.

When a married man is invited to be the guest speaker for a women's club (business or social), what about his wife?

The affair is usually held in the evening at a motel or hotel beginning with a dinner. What is the speaker's wife supposed to do? Sit home and eat alone while her husband is being fussed over by a bunch of women?

I feel that if a club can't afford two meals, they should get their speakers from the membership.

Also, what if the meeting is out of town over a weekend? Don't you think the speaker's wife should be invited too? Please set us straight on this.

A CLUB DIVIDED

DEAR CLUB: It is customary when inviting a speaker to let him know that his wife is welcome, too. If this courtesy is omitted and the speaker wants his wife to be included, he should say so. Weekends? Absolutely—if the budget permits.

DEAR ABBY: To the lady who was 30 and recently divorced and wanted to know where to go to meet men. Here's what I did at age 36 and newly divorced:

I called around to all the churches (all denominations) and got information on all the religious and social gatherings the churches sponsored for singles in my age group. Then I made a list and took turns visiting all the churches. It took a lot of courage to go to so many strange groups alone, but it paid off because at the Unitarian church I met just the man for me. We have been happily married for 15 years.

HAPPY IN HOUSTON

DEAR HAPPY: Some people go to church to pray. Others go to pray they meet someone. To each his own.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, MAY 2
Your birthday today: Increasing energy is forecast for a two-year span; the challenge mainly is in containing it long enough to put it to use constructively. You tend all year to outpace those you care about—where you can't slow down, at least keep them informed of what's happening. Tangible progress varies erratically, but on balance should be better than previous years. Today's natives know what they want to do and usually proceed without prior announcement.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: You are on your own today, responsible for any error. Do not prolong matters, but be sure to take whatever time the job requires for completion.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Material interests today are favorable, while romantic urges seem unswayed, and social contacts tend to range from eccentric to confused.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Pay no attention to casual criticism. In turn, wait and see where and what form your backing and backers take before you offer any adverse comment.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Long-range plans advance while short-term matters run a contrary course. Be patient, realizing that your ways have brought on the emotional stress.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Earning capacity rises—also your tendency to spend. Taking on an extra obligation just to please somebody special leads to one more and then yet another.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: What may seem to you consistent and reasonable may seem capricious and arbitrary to others. Try hard for perspective and self-discipline.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Very large deals arise and are made almost casually, while the routine cooperation needed for daily living seems difficult to maintain.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Feeling sympathetic for somebody is no basis for taking up or sharing their burdens—find a more rational reason, if that is what you expect to do.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Time spent in serious work promises results. Relationships of all sorts are subtly tested today by absences, personal tensions.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your natural tendency toward closely organized schedules now overreaches itself. You must make some exceptions, allow extra leeway.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Save your money by avoiding spur-of-the-moment purchasing—later you'll be dissatisfied with the items you buy. Financial breaks require more than "luck."

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: With no exact measures to go by, today's unplanned adventures turn out to be expensive as well as great fun and of high interest. People have mixed reactions.

Carpet Sales To Increase

COLLEGE STATION — Experts predict an increase in carpet sales—despite the energy crisis and a shortage of raw materials.

"Industry reports indicate that carpet sales should reach $6 billion by 1980," Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted.

"This increase includes a higher demand for wall-to-wall carpeting, which helps keep homes warmer during cold weather.

"In addition, the present consumer trend toward cut pile—as found in plushes, shags and saxony—is expected to continue."

The specialist said influences of this trend include:

—heaviers, more dense constructions,

—continued emphasis on bright yarns, and —new anti-static products or systems suited to cut pile styles.

"Since color has always been the most important factor in carpet selection, today's multi-color and multi-tone looks lead the market."

"Using color as the focal point tends to de-emphasize face texture as a style element."

The carpet industry also notes a shift in fiber choice. Miss Bradshaw added.

"Currently, nylon accounts for 53 per cent of broadloom face fibers—and this figure may rise to 75 per cent by 1978.

"Acrylics and wool, on the other hand, will lose favor while polypropylene will take a bigger share of the lower priced market. Popularity of polypropylene comes from its durability, printability and competitive price."

Recent Baby Shower Honors Mrs. Francis

Mrs. Charles Michael Francis was honored recently with a baby shower held in the home of Mrs. Preston W. Lamb, 1908 N. Christy. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Joe D. Patterson and Mrs. Joel R. Combs.

The honoree was presented a pink, blue and yellow baby sock corsage, tied with matching ribbons. Guests of honor, Mrs. Robert Kimball, the honoree's stepmother; Mrs. Charles Phippen, mother-in-law and Mrs. J.M. Hensley, grandmother-in-law, wore white carnation corsages tied with multi-colored ribbons.

The serving table, covered with a white lace cloth, held a large spring floral arrangement in a crystal bowl flanked by pink tapers in crystal holders. Pink raspberry punch, coffee, mints in pink and blue napkin-diapers, nuts, and pink Easter bunny cake were served by Mrs. Rusty Vernon and Ms. Evelyn Cash.

Approximately 16 guests attending the event registered in a baby bib book register.

CHEESE

Tossing out leftover bits of cheese is like feeding your garbage can money. Instead, grate cheese slivers, and dried, uneven pieces—then store in a glass jar. Use for flavoring white sauce, sprinkling over salads or for topping casseroles, suggests Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

GOODWILL CLUB

Mrs. A.P. Coombes, 1220 E. Frederic, was hostess recently to members of Goodwill Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Paul Johnson, president, presided. Mrs. Lettie Smith, secretary, called the roll, and each one answered with, "A tornado precaution I have in my home."

Mrs. Johnson gave the Council report and a financial report from The Top of Texas Live Stock Show. Also a THDA Club work, annual report for the year was made. This includes Cultural Arts, Family Life, Citizenship, 4-H Work, Health, and Recreation.

New officers were elected for the year 1974-75 as follows: President, Mrs. A.P. Coombes; Vice-President and Program Chairman, Mrs. Laura Kilgore; Secretary, Lettie Smith; Treasurer, Mrs. Lee Jackson; and Council Delegate, Mrs. Cecil Barnett.

A "Get Well" card was signed by members for Mrs. Laura Kilgore who is hospitalized.

Mrs. Cecil Barnett was awarded the "White Elephant" gift.

Coffee and assorted rolls were served to Mmes. Lee Jackson, Lettie Smith, G.B. Hogan, Cecil Barnett, Paul Johnson and A.P. Coombes.

Mrs. Hogan, 914 S. Somerville, will give a demonstration on how to make velvet roses at the next meeting, May 7, at 10 a.m.

WORTHWHILE CLUB

The Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met with Edna Daughtee, 1313 Duncan, recently.

Mrs. Maggie Smith, called the meeting to order with the club prayer, and roll call was answered with a tornado precaution.

Mrs. Cora Lee Robertson gave highlights of the THDA District 1 meeting held recently in Borger. Eight club members and 29 club members attended from the Gray County chapters. There were 360 in attendance.

New officers for the 1974 year will be President, Mrs. Maggie Smith; Vice President, Mrs. Pauline Beard; Secretary, Mrs. Cora Lee Robertson; Treasurer, Mrs. Billie Rogers; Reporter, Mrs. Gladys Stone.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

A food inspector walked into a restaurant and asked the proprietor: "I see you have a sign on your window that you are serving rabbit stew. Is it all rabbit?"

"Well, no," came the answer, "there is a little horsemeat in it."

"How much horsemeat?" inquired the inspector.

"Fifty-fifty," answered the proprietor, "one horse and one rabbit."

Abstract mathematics, when applied to the play of the cards, can often be as misleading as the rabbit stew. The reason is that abstract mathematics does not take into consideration various clues which might have been divulged during the bidding, or in the early stages of play. These clues frequently negate the theoretical mathematical probabilities, especially of suit distributions, which are published in all books on the play of the cards. Here is a "for instance."

The bidding:
South West North East
2♣ 1♠ 5♣ Pass
6♣ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

This deal was played in the National Championships of 1961. Of the 13 times it was played, 12 South declarers arrived at a six-spade contract—and each of them finessed against East for the spade queen. The reason was a simple one.

After winning his heart king, West led the heart ace. East discarding a diamond as South ruffed. Each South declarer now realized that the appearance of a nine-card suit in West's hand was a reality that had more practical significance with regard to the situation at hand than out-of-context mathematical probabilities; and that West, with but four cards in clubs, spades, and diamonds, did not figure to have the doubleton or tripleton queen of spades.

So, after trumping the second heart lead, each declarer led a spade to dummy's king. A spade was then returned and each declarer finessed his jack when East followed with the spade four. The ace of spades then felled East's queen, and that was that.

If one were to take the East-West cards, reshuffle them, and give East thirteen new cards, abstract mathematics would now come into its own. In this set-up, the plays of the king and ace of spades would avoid the loss of a spade trick more often than a finesse against East would.

Can Epileptics Play In Sports?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 13, has grand mal epilepsy, but with medication his seizures are very well controlled. He has not had one now for at least a year and half.

He is a very active boy and I would like to know what kind of sports are safe for such a child? A friend told me that this can be outgrown. Is this possible?

In a case as well controlled as your son's, almost any sport is allowable, but I suggest he start with the less violent ones — tennis, golf, baseball, swimming. But as to swimming, he should NEVER swim alone, and a swimming coach or buddy should be aware that he is epileptic, no matter how remote the chance of a seizure.

It is risky to predict that epilepsy can be outgrown. While that is not impossible in some cases, it seldom happens that way, and continued medication is the only course I recommend. Here's an added thought, however. Periods of low blood sugar have been associated with seizures, so a protein snack (to ward off any possible drop-in blood sugar) before physical activity makes sense. Muscular activity, you see, can lower the blood sugar. Protein, which is converted slowly into blood sugar, provides a slow, steady release of sugar as a guard against a sudden drop.

Participation in sports, however, is desirable when seizures are well controlled. It is, indeed, part of the psychological help that epilepsy patients should have, to promote the sense of being normal. For too long in the past epileptics have not been treated normally as they should.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an operation to remove my Fallopian tubes and most of one ovary but still have one good ovary and get my menstrual period every three weeks. So is there any way I can become pregnant?

Gynecologists say there is an operation which can artificially replace the tubes, and also that a wedge of the good ovary can be taken and an egg caught as it is released, and fertilize it and implant it in the uterus. Could you help us find the names of doctors and hospitals that do this?

—Mrs. R.R.
Seems to me that it's up to your gynecologists to do the referring — since your state has some notably fine medical facilities.

As to replacing the tubes, I question whether adoption wouldn't be the better answer, avoiding the risk of the operation — by "risk" I mean the risk that it would not be successful, that is in the experimentally far-out range and I can't recommend it as a practical solution now.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Concerning babies born with red faces, this may reassure Miss P.G.S. My only daughter was born with a very dark red skin but she turned out to be the most beautiful, blonde, blue-eyed, fair-skinned girl imaginable.

—Mrs. G.N.
Maybe that will persuade her aunts to stop bugging her about what a red baby she was.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a small wart under my right eye. It started to show about a year ago. Sometimes it gets bigger and then sometimes it almost disappears. It does not hurt, it's just annoying. Do you have something that would dissolve it?

—E.S.
No, I don't. But I do have a question as to whether it is a wart or some other variety of growth. Particularly since it is close to the eye, I'd suggest that you have a dermatologist look at it and decide what to do.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin, and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Cicely Tyson Gifted With ESP

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Cicely Tyson, the beautiful black actress, is afflicted, or gifted, with a form of ESP which greatly disturbed musician Miles Davis when they were dating because when he was with another girl the "image" was telegraphed to her — and the girl-like, she mentioned it to him.

"He thought I was spying on him," Cicely laughed the other day. "I told him 'You were driving such-and-such a street with so-and-so.' It drove him nuts. I knew everything about him, we needed almost no communication because I already knew everything."

"What if you'd got married and you'd caught him cheating?"
"I caught him and we were just going steady!"
Davis kept his sense of humor. When Cicely was nominated for an Oscar for "Sounder" in 1972, and got worldwide publicity, Davis told her, "You see, if you'd have become Mrs. Miles Davis, you'd be pickin' up after me and be spared all this trouble you're in."

Cicely, now up for an Emmy for "The Biography of Miss Jane Pittman," has been getting these "images" since her childhood in East Harlem. Her extremely religious mother "thought it was sinful to go to movies" and took her off to St. John's Episcopal Church instead.

When Cicely was recommended for a modeling job, then a movie contract, she wasn't impressed. "I knew less about movies than anybody."

She's convinced she's destiny's baby. However, she insists the images tell her nothing about the possible Emmy. "But she could be holding out on us."

"When I was up for 'Sounder,' everybody had doubts," she remembered. "When my agent called and said in excitement, 'Well, it's yours, I didn't show any surprise. He was astonished at me not being astonished. I told him, 'I knew it all along."

Under Twenty

DEAR ASTRID
By ASTRID CARSON
Dear Astrid:
I started going with this girl about two months ago. We are always arguing but we know we love each other. When we go out we always have a good time and never argue. I don't want to lose her because I love her too much. What is wrong with out relationship?

Lost
Without knowing what you argue about, it is difficult to tell you what is wrong. It would seem, though, that when you aren't out and active and spend too much time alone together (that is when you get on each other's nerves).

Perhaps what you need to do is to keep more active. You might also try to figure out what you argue about and what makes you argue. All relationships have some problems, but if you really argue a great deal there is something fundamentally wrong and you should both try to figure it out.

Dear Astrid:
I have a problem and it is a big one. I stay with my aunt and uncle because both of my parents are dead. I am 18. At that age I think I should be going off with friends and boys.

My aunt and uncle won't hear of it. They say they don't care where I go but when I ask them to let me go out the answer is always "no." If a boy comes to see me it always has to be in the day and I can't even go out with him.

If they don't care where I go why is the answer always "no." Please tell me how to handle this problem.

Disappointed
Dear Disappointed:
It is possible that because you are not their own child your aunt and uncle tend to be overly concerned about you. You are completely right. At 18 you should be having a well-rounded social life including dating boys.

What you should do is try to have a good talk with them about your life and point out to them that you are considered an adult. Convince them that you can be trusted by the way you handle yourself.

It may be that the help of another adult, preferably a relative, might make them understand that you have rights to some freedom if you are capable of handling it.

Dear Astrid:
I am 14 and my friend and I met a man who is 22. He and I are going together but my friend knows him better than I. He gave me a beautiful ring and now we are to go on a double date.

I also love another guy and he's one year younger than I. Me and the youngest have known each other for almost four years. I need help. What shall I do?

Frightened
Dear Frightened:
It just seems, and quite naturally so, that you have gotten yourself in over your head with the 22-year-old. Your letter hints that you feel closer and safer with the boy nearer your own age. The age span with the older man just seems like too much for you to handle which is why you sign yourself "Frightened."

Perhaps what you should do is kindly give him his ring back and begin going with boys-your-own-age. It isn't necessary for you to get into the steady routine just yet, but the younger boy has evidently been a friend for a long time and is well worth holding onto.

Harvesters Fall To PD, 7-3

AMARILLO — Palo Duro has been able to muster only a 1-7 district record going into Tuesday's home contest against Pampa but the Dons have never been beaten by more than two runs in any game this season, and that includes non-conference games.

And Pampa found out just how strong the luckless Dons can be as the Amarillo team scattered 11 hits, including three by both Craig Russell and Gene Jolly, and belted the Harvesters, 7-3.

The loss did not mean a whole lot as far as the district title is concerned for Pampa since Caprock defeated Berger, 10-1, which gave the Longhorns their first district baseball championship ever. Caprock is 8-1 in district while Pampa is now 5-4.

The Harvesters are 14-9 for the season and would like nothing more than to win their 15th game as they host Amarillo High Friday in the district finale.

"We'd like to win it because we'd like to end the season on a winning note. We're still looking for second place and it's going to boil down to whoever wins that game," said Pampa coach Ronnie White following Tuesday's loss. "I was disappointed," said White concerning the Palo Duro upset. "We didn't do the things we needed to do and get the hits we needed to hit."

"We waited for something to happen instead of making it happen. We left too many men on base."

Pampa left nine men on base during the game and had the bases loaded in the top of the seventh but could get nobody across the plate.

Palo Duro led throughout the game, getting a run in the bottom of the first on a single by Russell, the leftfielder, a sacrifice bunt by Robert Douglas, a walk by Jim Rogers and a run-scoring base hit by Gene Jolly. Jolly pitched for Palo Duro, going the distance while giving up 10 hits and two walks and striking out five.

Palo Duro added two in the third, one in the fourth and three in the fifth. Two of Pampa's runs came in the fourth with the Harvesters down, 3-0, and the other came in the seventh with Palo Duro leading, 7-2.

In the top of the fourth, shortstop Toddy Black led off with a single. Roy Morris singled and Tyler Drinnon drove Black in with a base hit. With one out, Joe Watkins reached on an error and Mike Adair singled in Morris.

On the throw from the centerfielder on the single, Drinnon was tagged out at home.

Pampa's run in the seventh came on a double by Adair and a single by Black.

The losing pitcher was Dennis Edmondson (5-3), who pitched five innings.

Pampa's leading hitters were Black, three for four with a run batted in; Morris, two for three; Adair, two for three with an RBI; Rick Smith, one for three; Rick Bigham, one for three, and Drinnon, one for three.

FUMBLES ARE notorious for occurring often in the early stages of spring training and for Pampa that is no exception. That's why Pampa head football coach John Welborn and staff are drilling the Harvester gridders on fundamentals this week. Spring training culminates May 18 with the Green and Gold scrimmage.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Yankee Swap Pays Off As Team Edges Oakland

United Press International — It's the New York Yankees' turn to take a bow for their controversial seven-player trade with the Cleveland Indians.

The Yankee management was criticized in its own clubhouse when the deal was announced last Friday night and it didn't help when the Indians promptly went on a five-game winning streak.

But the swap paid its first big dividend for the Yankees Tuesday night when Chris Chambliss, the key man acquired by New York, hit the game-winning homer in a 4-3 victory over Vida Blue and the World Champion Oakland A's.

Blue, now 0-3, carried a 2-1 lead into the eighth inning but the Yankees went ahead, 3-2, when pinch-hitter Rick Dempsey singled and Roy White homered. Chambliss followed with his homer, which stood up as the winning run when Gene Tenace homered for the A's in the ninth.

Felt No Pressure — "I wasn't feeling any pressure because some of the fellows the Indians got from the Yankees have been doing so well," said

Chambliss after the game. "I just went up there and swung the bat."

The Indians made it five straight since the deal by beating Minnesota, 8-3. Chicago shaded Baltimore, 2-1. California drubbed Boston, 16-6. Detroit downed Kansas City, 7-2, and Texas outslug Milwaukee, 12-10, in other American League games.

In the National League, it was San Diego 2 Montreal 1, St. Louis 7 Atlanta 2, Houston 4 Chicago 2, New York 8 Los Angeles 7 and Philadelphia 6 San Francisco 5.

Mel Stottlemyre went 8-2-3 in three starts to raise his record to 5-1 with the last-out relief aid of Sparky Lyle, who earned his third save. Bill Sudakis also homered for the Yankees while Reggie Jackson and Bill North connected for the A's.

Indians 8 Twins 3 — Former Yankees Fritz Peterson and Fred Beene combined in an eight-hitter for the Indians. Charlie Spikes, another ex-Yank, had a two-run single, stretching his hitting streak to 19 games. It was the big blow of a four-run fifth inning which clinched the game for Cleveland. Bobby Darwin drove in three runs with a pair of homers for the Twins.

White Sox 2 Orioles 1 — Ron Santo, acquired from the Crosstown Cubs last winter, hit his first AL homer with Ken Henderson aboard in the seventh inning, lifting Stan Bahnsen to his third victory. Bahnsen went the distance, allowing seven hits and striking out five. Jim Palmer, the AL's Cy Young Award winner in 1973, suffered his first setback against two wins.

Angels 16 Red Sox 6 — Bob Oliver drove in four runs with a sacrifice fly, double and triple and Ellie Rodriguez and Dave Chalk drove in three runs each for the Angels, who got a weird pitching performance from Nolan Ryan. Ryan went the distance, yielding six hits and seven walks plus two hit batsmen while striking out 15.

Doug Griffin suffered a "severe concussion" when hit in the head by one of Ryan's fast balls and spent the night in the intensive care unit of Boston's, Hahnemann Hospital. Dick McAuliffe and Cecil Cooper homered for the Red Sox.

Milwaukee Holds Off Boston To Even NBA Series At 1-1

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — There were a lot of doubters hanging around the Milwaukee Arena who conceded the National Basketball Association title to Boston on the basis of the Celtics' 98-83 win in the first game of the championship series against the Bucks.

They heard Larry Costello, the Milwaukee coach, talk about doing something to counter the Boston pressure defense. Costello talked about making a "minor adjustment" and many experts scoffed at the idea.

But game two opened Tuesday night and Costello's "adjustment" was unveiled.

It resulted in a 105-96

Milwaukee overtime win to even the best-of-seven series at one game each.

The adjustment itself consisted of getting the ball to Oscar Robertson, then sending the other four players up court and letting Robertson bring the ball up by himself.

Adjustment was the Key — "That adjustment was the key to the ball game," Bucks assistant coach Hubie Brown said. "A lot of people said you can't make an adjustment to beat the press but I guess we showed them."

The end result of the Costello move was to enable the Bucks to build a big enough lead so that Milwaukee could stand off the most furious Celtics rally. The big margin was needed, too, as Boston came back to force an overtime.

With 11 seconds left and the score 90-90, Dave Cowens had the ball at the top of the free throw circle. He drove to the basket in his right and leaped in the air, the ball held high in his right hand.

He released a little hook shot from only three feet away and the ball headed toward the basket. But Kareem Abdul-Jabbar soared well into the rafters of the Milwaukee Arena to gently tap the ball to the floor where Ron Williams picked it up and the game went into overtime.

In the extra period, with the score 98-96, Cornell Warner became a hero.

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everywhere Maury Willis goes, he has a way of attracting people.

Even other ballplayers. Maury Willis is baseball's Muhammad Ali minus the controversy.

Two things he has going for him are his personality and his attitude, both upbeat. He also has a brain, and that never hurts, no matter what business you're in.

Right now Maury Willis has a couple of jobs that keep him moving around. He's baserunning and base-stealing instructor for the Los Angeles Dodgers and analyst for NBC-TV's Major League Baseball Game of the Week.

In his time, Willis played with and against some of the greatest — Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Hank Aaron, Willie Mays, Stan Musial and Roberto Clemente.

Questioned About Others — Occasionally, he's asked about them, but more often he's questioned about two other much younger players who don't own anywhere near the reputations those others do.

One of the two he keeps getting questions about is 21-year-old son, Bump Willis, a second baseman with Arizona State University.

The other is his personal "pupil," Herb Washington, the world's fastest human at 50 and 60 yards and the Oakland Athletics' designated runner.

"Your Boy, Bump, will be graduating soon, won't he?" someone said to Willis the other day around the Texas Rangers' batting cage.

"That's right," replied the 41-year-old ex-Dodgers shortstop. "He's a senior now and he'll be eligible for the June draft. It's rumored he'll be No. 1 in the nation in the draft. He's a switch-hitter, and hits a ball 400 feet from his natural side and 385 feet from the left side. He's only my size but much stronger. I'm going to help him get everything he's worth, and it's all his."

They Were Curious — Jim Fregosi and Larry Brown, two of the Rangers' infielders, were standing alongside the cage with Maury Willis. They knew Charlie Finley had gotten permission from the Dodgers for Willis to work with Herb Washington in Mesa, Ariz., this spring and they were curious about how it went.

After all, Herb Washington was strictly a runner, not a ballplayer, and ballplayers are eternally curious about such an individual because they figure his background is completely different than theirs and they want to find out how different he is.

"First of all," explained Willis, "I had to teach him the basic rules of baseball pertaining to a base-runner because opposing infielders were bound to try pulling tricks on him."

"I told him he was going to look good at times, and also look bad. I said when he looked good, he'd get a lot of pats on the back, and when he looked bad, he'd get a lot of negative remarks like 'go back to the track.'"

"I told him that even on his own ball club there'd be some teammates who would not accept his position."

He's a Gentleman — Willis found Washington to be intelligent, gung ho about his job as a special base runner for the Athletics and "as fine a gentleman as I've ever met."

Herb Washington, as the 25th man, has a chance to win maybe 5-10 ball games for Oakland. He doesn't have to steal 30-40 bases to justify his position. He might score from first base on a double that nobody else could've scored on, or he might score from third on a short fly nobody else could. I think having him on the club is a good idea."

DEMANDS NEW CLAUSE Action Is 'McCarthyism' Garvey Claims Rozelle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The executive director of the National Football League Players Association says Commissioner Pete Rozelle acted irresponsibly when he fined eight San Diego Charger players for alleged drug use without a hearing before an impartial arbitrator.

Ed Garvey, the NFLPA executive director, urged the players not to pay the fines and said the association would not sign a new contract with the league without a clause to protect players against such abuses.

Calling Rozelle's action "McCarthyism at its best," Garvey told a news conference Tuesday the NFLPA has listed 57 demands it wants in its new contract, but that the league has not yet replied.

Last Friday Rozelle fined Charger General Manager Harland Svare and eight players a total of $20,000 and the San Diego club another $20,000 for alleged use of drugs during training camp and also during the regular season. Svare and the players also were placed on probation.

Garvey said he had no indication of "illegal" use of drugs by any of the Chargers and certainly no use of any "hard drugs" such as heroin or cocaine. He said Rozelle had no right to arbitrarily fine the players unless there was proof of illegal use of drugs.

"He has demonstrated a shocking disregard for the lives of the men involved as well as their future and their families' future," he said.

Garvey said for some weeks he has been urging Rozelle to work jointly with the NFLPA to draw up drug use guidelines but that Rozelle had rejected the offer, saying he would act on his own.

Bruins Going To Finals After Win Over Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A puck that bounced "like a pinball machine" put the Boston Bruins into the finals for the third time in five years.

Gregg Sheppard put an end to 14 minutes of growing tension Tuesday night when he rattled the puck between Chicago goalie Tony Esposito's pads for the winning score with 1:49 to play. It took off the pressure and set up another goal, into an empty net, 33 seconds later by Phil Esposito to give the Bruins a 4-2 victory and a 4-2 series triumph over the Black Hawks.

"It was a tough angle and I was hoping to hit the net and maybe get a rebound," Sheppard said. "I was lucky. I kept it low and it went right between his legs like a pinball machine back and forth and finally dribbled into the net."

It was Sheppard's ninth goal in 10 playoff games. Andre Savard's line contributed the first two Boston goals, both by Don Marcotte in less than a five-minute span in the second period which pulled the Bruins from behind to a 2-1 lead.

But Hawk rookie Len Frig produced a tie with a power play score at 4:18 of the last period and that put the pressure on both teams to win and avoid an overtime.

"Frig made a good play," Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert said. "But I was so glad Sheppard scored that goal and particularly Phil Esposito. After he scored, I was not feeling tired anymore."

Guidolin said the Bruins "played well the last four games," including three straight victories over the Hawks. "But Chicago is a good club and they gave us all they had," he said.

Hawk Coach Billy Reay said he "didn't think we could play any better than we did in the first period and Gilbert was sensational." Tony Esposito blamed himself for Sheppard's winning goal.

"He blasted it pretty good but I still should have had it. He had no angle and it was a desperation shot and went through. It hit perfectly between my pads and it just had enough momentum to go through."

The win, the fourth for Boston over the Hawks in as many playoff series, meant the Bruins would face the winner of the Philadelphia-New York Rangers series for the Stanley Cup.

Houston Stops Chicago Behind Shortstop's Play

HOUSTON (UPI) — Brand new Houston Astro Mike Kelleher traveled all day to get where he was going and when he got there, he did his job.

The little shortstop, called up Monday night from the Denver farm club, hurried to the Astrodome Tuesday night and promptly drove in two runs with two singles to spark the Astros to a 4-2 win over the Chicago Cubs.

"It was a busy day but a happy one," Kelleher said. "I've traveled all day long. I left Denver about 5 a.m. this morning."

Kelleher expected to catch a little rest in the Astros' dugout, being it was his first game and all but Roger Metzger's original substitute. Larry Milbourne, twisted his right ankle in the first inning rounding first base and Kelleher got the call.

"I wasn't nervous because I'd been called up to the majors before," Kelleher said. "It was a good feeling to do well."

The Cubs jumped ahead 2-0 in the second inning on two unearned runs. Second baseman Dave Campbell sandwiched two errors around a triple by Don Kessinger to allow the scores.

But the Astros started to come back in the fifth with a little help from Kelleher. Doug Rader singled, advanced to second on a walk and raced home on Kelleher's bloop single.

The Astros tied the score 2-2 in the seventh on Greg Gross' two-out single that scored Dennis Menke.

That set up the eighth inning when Kelleher again did his trick and catcher John Edwards also got into the act.

Lee May led off the inning with a double and scored the go-ahead run on Edwards' single. Then Kelleher got his second RBI with a single that sent Rader, on base by a fielder's choice, home.

IN CRIMINAL PLOT White House Transcripts Show Nixon Not Involved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Tuesday that "not once does it appear" in transcripts of Watergate conversations that President Nixon was engaged in a criminal plot to obstruct justice.

In issuing a 50-page summary "white paper," the White House launched a full-fledged attack on John W. Dean III, fired one year ago today as presidential counsel. Much of the document dealt with Nixon's Sept. 15, 1972, and March 21, 1973, conversations with Dean, who later became the President's chief adviser.

The summary was presented to substantiate Nixon's assertion Monday night that his release of 1,200 pages of the transcripts would clear him of any involvement in Watergate and would "tell it all."

In reference to the Sept. 15 conversation, the day the original seven Watergate indictments were handed down, the summary says that Nixon told Dean:

"But the way you have handled all this seems to me has been very skillful, putting your finger in the leaks that have sprung here and have sprung there."

The white paper said Nixon made the statement "in the context not of a criminal plot to obstruct justice as Dean alleges, but rather in the context of the politics of the matter."

Dean testified at the Senate Watergate hearings last summer Nixon in that conversation had congratulated him for containing the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

In reference to Nixon's conversation with Dean on March 21—the date the President said he first learned of the scope of the cover-up—the white paper said the President asked Dean: "Tell me this: Did Mitchell go along?"

"Did Colson (former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson) know what they (Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt) were talking about?"

"Did he (Colson) talk with Haldeman?"

"Did he (Haldeman) know where it (the information) was coming from?"

The summary did not say how Dean answered the questions, which it said were among more than 150 Nixon asked of Dean at the meeting.

In the conclusion of the summary, the White House said: "Throughout the period of the Watergate affair the raw material of these recorded confidential conversations establishes that the President had no prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in and that he had no knowledge of any coverup prior to 1973.

"In all of the thousands of words spoken, even if they are not clear and ambiguous, not once does it appear that the President of the United States was involved in a criminal plot to obstruct justice."

Dean testified last summer that he warned Nixon at that meeting of a "cancer growing on the presidency" because of Watergate.

The White House summary conceded the transcript "contains ambiguities and statements which, taken out of context, could be construed to have a variety of meanings."

But the white paper said these things "clearly stand out" in the transcript:

"The President had not been previously aware of any payments made allegedly to purchase silence on the part of the Watergate defendants."

"The President rejected the payment of $120,000 or any sum to (Watergate conspirator E. Howard) Hunt or Watergate defendants."

"The President determined that the best way to proceed was to have White House people appear before a grand jury even though it meant that some people might have to go to jail."

It has been alleged that a $75,000 payment was made to Hunt's lawyer the night after the March 21 Nixon-Dean conversation.

The White House summary said Tuesday that tapes of subsequent meetings "further establish that the President not only did not approve of any payment to Hunt, but he did not even know a payment had been made to Hunt's lawyer in the amount of $75,000.

The paper said the acquittals of former Nixon cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans Sunday in New York "demonstrate the wisdom of the President's actions in insisting that the orderly process of the judicial system be utilized, rather than in participating in trials in the public media."

The White House said swear words and obscenities had been omitted from the transcripts "in the interest of good taste, except where necessary to depict accurately" the conversation. It also said characterization of third persons "and other material not relating to the President's conduct" had been omitted.

In reference to a meeting Nixon had with his former chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, and his domestic affairs adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, on April 14, 1973—shortly after Dean and former deputy campaign director Jeb Magruder started talking to federal prosecutors—the White House said Nixon said in regard to Mitchell:

"I'm not convinced he's guilty but I am convinced that he ought to go before a grand jury."

With respect to Magruder, the white paper said Nixon told his two aides: "We've come full circle on the Mitchell thing. The Mitchell thing must come first. That is something today."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Topical board games have been a big item in the home entertainment market these past few years but some of the newer ones have suffered from poor timing.

Last winter's gasoline shortage, for example, inspired an outbreak of energy crisis games. I bought one for my family, thinking it would give us something to do even when we didn't have enough gas to go anywhere.

But by the time we finally learned all the rules, the oil embargo had already been lifted.

Streking also came and went too fast for board game publishers to capitalize on it. Alas, had not the faded I might have made millions on a streaking game I invented.

Dear Consumer

Store Food Safely

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education & Welfare

If you're a thrifty consumer, you're probably storing a few leftovers in the refrigerator. That's sensible housekeeping.

But how did you store the leftovers? If they're stashed away in bowls or cups or pitchers from your dinnerware set, you may be taking unnecessary risks.

There have been cases of overnight storage where foods—foods with an acid content—have picked up lead from the glaze (the usually shiny coating) on the decoration on certain dishes. Lead is a toxic metal. If large quantities of it accumulate in the body, lead poisoning may result.

This is why Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has warned consumers that it is dangerous to store food in dishes used for meals.

I want to emphasize that FDA says all dishes are safe for serving food. It's the storage of food—for a number of hours—that may be risky.

I also want to emphasize that only a small percentage of all dishes present this risk in storage. But to be safe, you should follow this rule: Never store food in dinnerware—whether it's inexpensive pottery, moderate priced earthenware, or expensive china. Instead, store food in glass or plastic containers.

How does the lead get into the food?

Toxic metals like lead and cadmium are safe if dishes are glazed properly. If they are made wrong, there is a possibility that the metal compound in the glaze or decoration may be released by extended contact with acidic foods. The metal might then seep into the food.

A few common foods containing acid are fruit juices, cooked fruits, soft drinks, cider, sauerkraut, tomatoes, wines and vinegar.

FDA does test dishes for the safety of the glaze and decoration. FDA stops the sale of any dinnerware if inspectors find some samples to be unsafe.

Domestic and foreign factories test their own dinnerware also, and manufacturers of glazes test the glazes sold to amateur and professional potters. They also urge potters to use only the glazes labeled safe for dinnerware.

But your safety is your responsibility also.

Are you protecting yourself by storing all your leftovers in plastic or glass containers? Take a look in your refrigerator right now.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last week's losses left the market in an oversold condition and ripe for a technical rally," according to Standard & Poor's the Outlook. It advises investors to maintain a neutral stance until some relief from monetary and political pressures suggests a better market environment.

"Studies of market seasonality show that while May often sees big sell-offs, these have on a number of occasions marked the end of major declines," it adds.

"The recession is being extended, and recovery postponed by unexpectedly high inflation and money rates," says Lionel D. Edie & Co. The firm predicts there is a 65 per cent chance that lower inflation and interest rates will be in effect this summer and a general recovery will begin late this year.

"The remaining 35 per cent chance is that some combination of stronger spending, higher inflation, and yet higher interest rates will persist, in which case a sharper and even steeper recession would lie ahead later this year and into 1975," it adds.

The market is at the mercy of rising interest rates and inflationary trends, says the Predictor, a West Hartford, Conn. letter.

"Until the prime rate peaks we expect continued lethargic price behavior with neither bills nor bears able to gain the upper hand and hold it," the letter notes. In the intermediate term, however, it says all signals are "go" and advises investors to "use any remaining downtime to add to favored issues."

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — The first swine farrowing house heated by solar energy was built in western Illinois in 1964, according to University of Illinois agricultural engineer Marvin Hall.

Asbestos Fibers Hazardous To Health

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Labor has alerted industry and labor to a new-found source of hazardous exposure to asbestos fibers.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John H. Stender, who heads the Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), said his agency has learned that many spackling and taping compounds used to cover seams in dry-wall joints contain asbestos.

Employees sanding joints smooth before painting may expose themselves to three to 13.7 asbestos fibers per cubic centimeter of air. OSHA's asbestos health standard limits employee exposure to five fibers per cubic centimeter, on an 8-hour time weighted average.

OSHA officials caution that many employers and employees, particularly in the home building industry, may be exposed to unacceptable levels of chrysotile asbestos.

Asbestos is one of five toxic substances (the others are carbon monoxide, lead, silica and cotton dust) that have received special attention from OSHA inspectors since announcement of the agency's "Target Health Hazards Program" in January, 1971.

The OSHA field staff in more than 100 offices nationwide, and all states with OSHA-approved job safety and health plans, have been notified of the new source of asbestos exposure.

Trade associations, other employer groups, unions, and representatives of the construction industry are being asked to join the effort to alert all employers and employees of the potential hazard and of the need to comply with OSHA's asbestos standard to assure employee protection.

OSHA was alerted to the new hazard by Dr. Marcus M. Key, director of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. NIOSH is OSHA's research arm.

Key said an examination of 17 members of Local 1974 (New York City) of the International Brotherhood of Painters and Allied Trades, conducted by Dr. Irving J. Wellkoff, director of the Environmental Sciences Laboratory, Mount Sinai School of Medicine, of the City University of New York revealed that the lungs of nine of 17 workers examined showed positive X-ray evidence of fibrosis.

Although Selikoff cautioned that conclusions cannot be drawn from such few data, they suggest that a serious hazard may exist among home builders because lung cancer, which often follows fibrosis, seldom develops in fewer than 20 years of exposure.

Of the 17 workers examined, five out of 10 who had been in taping work 10 to 19 years showed fibrosis results; four of the remaining seven workers showed fibrosis and had an exposure history of 20 to 29 years.

Since asbestos fibers are microscopic in size, they can easily be inhaled. Once in the lungs, the fibers are coated with a secretion but are not dissolved or eliminated. Sufficient buildup of such secretions can cause serious impairment of lung capacity and even death.

Control Agency Studies Sewage

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Water Quality Board officials have warned representatives of cities across the state that the pollution control agency may force municipalities to limit building permits and sewer connections.

Hugh Yantis Jr., executive director, called on municipal sewer department heads this week to reassess their systems and draw up plans to meet future growth.

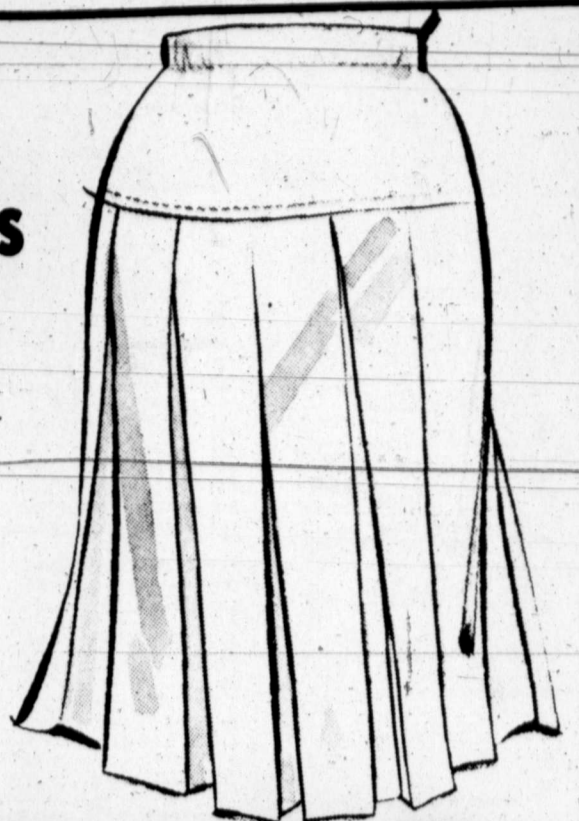

Lack of adequate sewage treatment facilities in Houston has resulted in a board order restricting building permits and new sewer connections there. Yantis said the board could make a similar order effective in all Texas cities or any particular city with an overloaded sewer system.

Buyer's Billboard

By MICHAEL J. CONLON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Moving into a new house or apartment can be a hazardous adventure, even beyond the financial and legal problems.

The last thing most consumers think about is accidental injury; but government statistics indicate the people most likely to be moving—young couples for instance—run the worst risk of getting injured.

Stairs are a particular problem. According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission stairs and related structures account for about 356,000 emergency room cases every year.

Persons aged 25 to 34 account for more stair-related injuries—15 percent of the total—than any other group. The next highest group, with 11 percent of the stairs themselves, junk left on them, loose railings and—not the least of it—the victims themselves who run, jump, act careless, think they don't need to use the hand rail or are in their stocking feet.

The statistics covering other household injuries are no less comforting. The commission says there are 153,000 emergency room cases every year involving non-glass doors, including garage and screen doors, and another 178,000 accidents requiring emergency treatment that involve architectural glass, such as doors, shower enclosures and windows.

Speaking of moving, the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) has a booklet for consumers offering tips about the moving business and detailing your rights as a buyer of their services. The publication, called "Information on Moving Your Household Goods", is available for 20 cents by writing to Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Okay Detroit, here's a gripe no doubt shared by many car owners and pedestrians. Writes John M. McCartney of Cumberland, Md.:

"My gripe is about the way American automobile manufacturers design the bodies of their cars so the wheels set out from under the fenders and throw everything that is on the road up along the sides of the car instead of up under the fenders. My personal experience has been with 1967, 1969 and 1973 Chevrolets.

"When the roads were wet or have had slush, salt etc., on them, a short drive of five to 10 miles and both sides of the car look as though they have been sprayed. Where a side rear view mirror is on a car the spray from the front wheels hits the mirror and in a very short time the door glasses are completely covered, obstructing one's side view.

"I have always been under the impression, a fender was made to contain the spray set up by the wheels, but I do believe the car designers have overlooked this basic fact.

We'll second that.
