Republican Wants Tapes Subpoenaed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Republican on the House Judiciary Committee said today the Watergate tapes should be subpoenaed and a refusal by President Nixon to surrender them should then be treated as an impeachable offense.
Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan of Maryland, usually a Nixon loyalist, reacted strongly to the President's decision Tuesday to make no more Watergate evidence available to the House impeachment inquiry or to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.
Encountering reporters in a House corridor, Hogan said he would support a move to declare Nixon in contempt of Congress if the President defied a subpoena for the tapes as his lawyer, James D. St. Clair, said he would do.
"I think clearly contempt of Congress is an impeachable offense," Hogan said.
But at the same time, Hogan said he believed the committee would have to come up with further evidence of presidential criminal wrongdoing for the majority of the House to vote this summer to impeach Nixon and submit him to trial in the Senate.

Kissinger Takes Consideration For Disengagement To Syria

STILL SHUTTling — Still on his peace effort mission to the Middle East, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger tells reporters of his planned consultation with Syrian officials. Kissinger will be taking a new series of "considerations" on troops disengagement from Israel to Damascus.

WEST GERMAN PAPERS SAY

Brandt Resigned To End Danger From Blackmail

BONN (UPI) — West German newspapers said today Chancellor Willy Brandt may have resigned because he feared a Communist spy on his staff was threatening to compromise him by disclosing embarrassing and delicate details of his private life.
The reports appeared most prominently in newspapers owned by publishing czar Axel Springer and which normally opposed Brandt's policies. However, other newspapers printed similar reports or quoted from the Springer publications.
Neither Brandt, his party nor the caretaker government would comment.
The nationally-circulated Bild asked in a front page headline, "Was Brandt to be blackmailed?"
The Welt of Hamburg headlined the declarative sentence, "Brandt was in Danger of Being Blackmailed."
The newspapers, both owned by Springer, said Guenther Guillaume, one of Brandt's personal aides arrested 13 days ago as a Communist spy, had relayed many embarrassing details of Brandt's private life to his East German superiors.
The West Berlin newspaper B.Z. also owned by Springer, added detail.
"Guillaume let it be known that unless he was immediately turned over to East Germany and without being subjected to prosecution, he would make statements which would compromise the chancellor," B.Z. said. "The subject of a possible blackmail is a woman. She is said to have been with Brandt on a Norwegian holiday in 1973... Guillaume is supposed to know a number of delicate details on Brandt's private life."

Guillaume and his wife and son accompanied Brandt on the 1973 Norwegian vacation, a DAMASCUS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived from Israel today with a new batch of "considerations" on a troop disengagement formula. Arab press commentators took a pessimistic view and began talking of re-imposing the oil embargo if his mission fails.

U.S. sources emphasized that Kissinger had brought "considerations" for discussion with President Hafez Assad and not hard and fast Israeli proposals for the crucial talks that could decide whether he can achieve Syrian-Israeli agreement on his current trip. He returns to Israel tonight.

The Israeli considerations have not been made public but the Israeli press said Israel is prepared to give up some areas captured in the 1967 war, including the dead city of Quneitra, in return for an armed United Nations buffer force. Syria opposes such a force and wants only unarmed observers.
Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam met Kissinger at the airport. Security precautions appeared more relaxed than during his visit to the Syrian capital Friday and Saturday. But plainclothes agents carrying submachine guns again lined the 12-mile highway from the airport to downtown Damascus.
Arab press commentators took the view that there was little chance President Assad would accept the new Israeli views on disengagement Kissinger brought with him from talks with Israeli leaders Tuesday and today.

They quoted reports from Israel indicating the Israelis were not prepared to accept the extent of complete withdrawal from the embattled Golan Heights which the Syrians were demanding. Israel opposes total withdrawal and has established 14 communities on former Syrian territory.
Talks which Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko had with the Syrian leaders Sunday and Monday ended with a communique expressing support for Syria's tough stand. Gromyko's meeting in Cyprus with Kissinger Tuesday appeared to have done little to ease Kissinger's task with the Syrians.

The Beirut newspaper Al Sharq, published by the Lebanese branch of Syria's ruling Baath Socialist party, said Gromyko and Kissinger "did not agree on anything" during their Cyprus talks. It said if Kissinger's attempt to negotiate a troop disengagement fails, Syria may ask the Arabs to reimpose their oil embargo and call for an Arab summit conference to discuss support for Syria in the Golan Heights fighting.
On the Golan Heights front today artillery and tank fire exchanges continued for the 58th consecutive day. But there were no reports of air activity by the time Kissinger arrived.

A high official aboard Kissinger's plane said the secretary was confident of bringing about an eventual agreement, but might not be able to wrap up all the details on this trip.
Kissinger was expected to have a better idea of whether he can separate Syrian and Israeli forces when he returns to Jerusalem tonight after presenting the new proposals to President Hafez Assad in Damascus.
Israel presented the United States with some new considerations which will be used as a basis for discussions with the Syrians when we go there tomorrow," State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Tuesday.

He said the United States thinks there is a possibility for agreement, but there is no way to know for certain before presenting them.
Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres said Jerusalem's "shaped opinion" included geographic considerations, but he refused to go into details.
Mrs. Meir gave Kissinger the details Tuesday night after the secretary returned to Israel from a meeting in Cyprus with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. A U.S. official said Gromyko promised not to block the pullback talks.

Donor Pays Union Fine, Strike Ends

LONDON (UPI) — A nationwide strike by 1.2 million engineering industry workers ended today almost as quickly as it began when an anonymous donor offered $168,000 to pay a union fine which provoked the walkout.

"The strike is off forthwith," Hugh Scanlon, president of the Amalgamated-Union of Engineering Workers, said after conferring with Employment Secretary Michael Foot.
The offer was made through a lawyer by an anonymous man who said he was concerned solely with the disruption of the strike had brought. The National Industrial Relations Court accepted the offer and so did the union.

The 1.2 million-member Amalgamated Engineering Workers Union, Britain's second largest, began a nationwide, indefinite walkout today to protest the seizure by the court of $720,000 of union funds after the union refused to pay the smaller damages award.
The strike confronted the two-month-old minority Labor government with its first major industrial crisis since a coal mine shutdown in February led to a three-day work schedule and toppled the former Conservative government.
Within hours the strike snowballed through key sections of British industry. Only three of London's nine morning newspapers were able to appear. One of them, the Daily Telegraph, printed only 5,000 copies.

Automotive plants, shipyards, iron and steel plants, aeronautical engineering works and engineering industry factories closed down as engineering union workers walked off the job.
A lawyer representing an anonymous individual made an unexpected appearance before the National Industrial Relations Court and said his client would pay the $168,000 on behalf of the union.
This represented damages and costs awarded by the court to a small engineering company for losses suffered during a walkout last year. The union had refused to pay.

After considering the offer, court president Sir John Donaldson announced the three-man court would accept $156,000 in settlement of all claims against the union.

WALLACE GETS LANDSLIDE

Glenn Finally Wins Nomination

United Press International
Former astronaut John Glenn Jr. got his political career off the ground on the third try, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace served up a landslide to show he is ready for a fourth run for the White House in primary elections Tuesday.
Glenn, the first American to ride a rocket into orbit a decade ago, finally got the Ohio Democratic senatorial nomination the hard way — by defeating Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, the choice of the state's party organization and of organized labor.
Wallace, confined to a wheelchair as the result of a crippling assassination attempt during the 1972 presidential primaries, wiped out all opposition to his bid for a third term as governor and demonstrated both that he can still campaign and still draw votes in large numbers.

There were also primaries in North Carolina, where state Attorney General Robert Morgan appeared headed for the Democratic nomination for the seat now being vacated by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, and Indiana, where incumbent House members won re-nomination.
And voters in Washington, D.C. approved a home-rule charter that will give them elected local officials and limited self-government after a century under presidential appointees and congressional lawmaking.
The Ohio outcome was open, in part, to an interpretation based on "post-Watergate politics." Glenn, 52, threw open his tax and financial records when he declared his candidacy. Then, he attacked the millionaire senator's income tax problems and his role as the favorite of labor and the state Democratic party, headed by Gov. John Gilligan, who appointed Metzenbaum four months ago to fill the seat vacated by Attorney General William Saxbe.

Glenn lost the 1970 Senate primary to Metzenbaum and a 1964 race to then-Sen. Stephen Young. In the first campaign, Glenn withdrew after suffering a fall in his bathtub, but his name remained on the ballot. He will face Republican Mayor Ralph J. Perk of Cleveland in the general election.
Wallace also produced something new in his 60 year cent-plus victory over a field of challengers led by State

Sen. Eugene McLain. The governor, who came to national prominence as an arch segregationist, got strong support in black areas — a dividend of his recent effort to soft-pedal racial politics and make himself acceptable to Democrats in other areas of the country.
In North Carolina, Morgan, a 48-year-old veteran of state politics was within one quarter of a percentage point of gaining a majority of the vote and avoiding a runoff when counting stopped at 3:30 a.m. EDT. If he edges past the 50 per cent mark, he will face Republican William Stevens.
The referendum in Washington was the first step in selfgovernment for the nation's capital.

AT $50,000 Reward Offered On Pat's Return

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst today offered a $50,000 reward for information leading to the safe return of their kidnapped daughter, Patricia.
The reward was the first offered in the case, which began more than three months ago when the 20-year-old newspaper heiress was carried from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.
In a related development, San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto confirmed reports that police believe the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers of Miss Hearst were considering kidnapping one or more of the mayor's young grandchildren.

Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, said the reward money has been deposited in a bank account and will be paid to the person or persons who provide authorities with information leading to Miss Hearst's safe return to her parents' home.
He asked anyone with information about the whereabouts of his daughter or the SLA to contact the FBI or police. He emphasized that the names of those offering information would be kept secret.
The threat to Alioto's grandchildren came during the weekend before the SLA held up a San Francisco bank on April 15, the mayor confirmed. Police said the mayor's daughter, Angela Veronese, saw suspicious persons watching her home and speaking to the children playing outside.

Mrs. Veronese said she talked with one woman whom she later identified as Emily Harris, an SLA member who is being sought in connection with the bank robbery.
Plainclothes policemen were spread throughout the neighborhood and armed officers were stationed in the Veronese home hoping the SLA members would return, but they did not.
The reward money, offered by the Hearst family from their own funds, was in addition to $20 million already paid out as ransom in a free food program demanded by the SLA. Of that money, Hearst himself put up $500,000 and the Hearst Foundation supplied the rest.

Another $4 million worth of food offered as ransom by the Hearst Corp. was withdrawn after the kidnapers failed to meet a deadline of last Friday midnight for returning Miss Hearst.
Earlier, it was disclosed that the SLA may be carrying a homemade bomb.

IN GRAY COUNTY THC Gives Okay To Road Program

Work in the Texas Panhandle estimated to cost $1,015,000 is included in the 1974 Texas Farm to Market Road Program approved Tuesday by the Texas Highway Commission.
In Gray County, FM 3302, now a gravel road from Texas Highway 152 from 4.8 miles east of U.S. Highway 60 south a distance of 4 miles, will be paved and brought up to farm to market road standards.
This project was originally estimated to cost $220,000. The 1974 farm to market road program adds $77,000.

40,000 miles of paved farm and ranch to market roads, probably the most highly developed system of secondary roads in the nation.
Originally conceived to get the farmer out of the mud, the FM system provides all-weather roads for agriculture in the state. Now, FM roads also serve many recreational areas in the state as well as providing access for new industrial development in many smaller cities and towns.

The new $214 million program calls for work on 565.9 miles of secondary roads throughout the state.
Projects in the program were proposed by counties in consultations with district engineers of the Texas Highway Department. The FM program is a partnership effort between the counties and the Highway Department with the counties providing necessary right of way and the Highway Department providing for construction and maintenance.
Texas now has some 450 miles of paved farm and ranch roads are not "new" routes. They represent roads which were transferred from county or other local road systems to the state-maintained system.

Red Troops Take Over Saigon Base

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops overran a 100-man government base in fierce fighting on wooded flatlands below South Vietnam's second largest city, military sources said today.

The sources said the advancing Communist forces drove government defenders out of a riverside outpost 37 miles south of Da Nang Tuesday after a heavy midday assault.

The military officers said the base, 340 miles north of Saigon, was the fourth government position in the region to fall to Communists since Saturday.

Before the government military command lost radio contact with the outpost, the defenders reporting killing 15 North Vietnamese troops and losing six dead and six wounded, the sources said.

Government warplanes hit back after the base fell, battering Communist position around the outpost, located near the provincial capital of Tam Ky.

Warplanes reported hitting a Communist buildup five miles south of Tam Ky in the first known raids in the northern section of the country in recent weeks.

Pilots said they knocked out seven anti-aircraft guns, three mortars and two Communist ammunition dumps during the raids.

In Cambodia, troops defending a government garrison at Longvek, 21 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, reported killing 37 attacking rebels. The insurgents have cut all roads to Longvek, forcing the government to supply troops by air.

In South Vietnam, the government military command reported heavy fighting southwest of Saigon along the Cambodian Parrot's Beak region.

Field reports said 150 Communists and three government soldiers were killed Tuesday in two major Parrot's Beak battles 52 miles from Saigon.

Military intelligence sources said the Communists have ordered heavy reinforcements into the area to counter a threat to Cambodian bases by the advancing South Vietnamese. They said the North Vietnamese division based far south of Saigon deep in the Mekong Delta has been ordered into the Parrot's Beak battle.

Trudeau Faces Confidence Vote In Parliament

OTTAWA (UPI) — The two main opposition parties' discontent with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's budget threatens to overturn the Canadian government tonight, when a left-wing group's non-confidence motion is voted on in Parliament.

The Socialist New Democratic party (NDP), which has 31 votes, introduced its measure in the form of an amendment to a Progressive Conservative party's motion asking the House to declare that it "does not have confidence in the government by reason of its failure to propose effective budgetary measures to contain and reduce inflation."

The NDP amendment accused the government of "failure to propose any measures to assist pensioners, people on low and fixed incomes, or to deal with the housing crisis or to remove glaring inequities in the Canadian tax system."

"The Conservatives, who have 107 of Parliament's 264 seats, welcomed the NDP amendment with lengthy cheers—and is expected to support it when it comes up for a vote tonight. If that happens, a majority of members will be recorded against the budget.

Trudeau said Tuesday that, in such an event, he will ask Governor General Jules LeGer to dissolve Parliament Thursday, which would pave the way for a new general election.

Should the prime minister get by tonight's balloting, he still will have to face the Conservative motion—probably on Friday. Then it would be up to the NDP to back the Conservatives if Trudeau is to be turned out of office.

Trudeau's $23.95 billion budget provides some benefits for low-income groups and calls for higher taxes on large corporations. But its opponents brand these proposals as "too little and too late," and denounce the government for failing to impose strict anti-inflationary controls.

Police Studying Ideal's Burglary

Pampa police are investigating the burglary early Tuesday of Ideal No. 2, 300 E. Brown, in which a large number of trading stamps and a small amount of cash and other items were taken.

Approximately $200 in trading stamps, worth about $10,000 on purchases, were taken in the break-in, along with $3 in change. Also stolen were a Polaroid camera belonging to the store manager, postage stamps and several butane lighters.

Entry into the building was apparently made through a door on the east side of the building. Police believe two persons were involved in the burglary.

SLA Could Be Carrying Homemade Bomb Around

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnaped Patricia Hearst more than three months ago, may be carrying a homemade bomb, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Investigators said they found empty shotgun shells and rifle cartridges in an apartment the SLA abandoned about a week ago. They said the powder and shotgun pellets could be used to make a bomb.

Charles Bates, the FBI agent in charge of the Hearst investigation, declined to comment on whether he felt the SLA had made a bomb. He said what was found in the apartment could become evidence in prosecutions.

Bates also said there were increased reports of sightings of Miss Hearst in the San Francisco Bay Area in the past two days. However, he said, there has been no clear pattern.

The agent said the sightings might indicate she and her abductors were still in the Bay Area. "We have nothing to indicate they have left the area," he said.

Meanwhile, U.S. attorney James L. Browning Jr. said he would seek contempt citations against Paul Halverson, 29, San Francisco, and Cynthia Garvey, 26, Oakland, for refusing to testify before a federal grand jury probing the kidnap and bank holdup.

Halverson and Miss Garvey reportedly were acquainted with persons who had been members of the SLA.

Browning said Thursday's grand jury session was postponed pending the contempt citations.

More Burglary Charges Filed

Police have filed two additional charges of burglary against 21-year-old Calvin Ray Cornwell, 713 W. Francis, in connection with break-ins at Hughes Automotive, 115 N. Ward, and the Pampa Firestone Store, 120 N. Gray. Cornwell's address was originally given as being 709 Brunow.

Cornwell was arrested Monday and charged with the burglary of Texas Furniture Co., 210 N. Cuyler.

A roll of 10-cent stamps stolen from Utility Tire Co., 447 W. Brown, was recovered from the suspect's apartment, but he was not charged in connection with that incident.

Most of the merchandise stolen in the string of burglaries has been recovered, police reported. Cornwell remains in Gray County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

SLA Could Be Carrying Homemade Bomb Around

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnaped Patricia Hearst more than three months ago, may be carrying a homemade bomb, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Investigators said they found empty shotgun shells and rifle cartridges in an apartment the SLA abandoned about a week ago. They said the powder and shotgun pellets could be used to make a bomb.

Charles Bates, the FBI agent in charge of the Hearst investigation, declined to comment on whether he felt the SLA had made a bomb. He said what was found in the apartment could become evidence in prosecutions.

Bates also said there were increased reports of sightings of Miss Hearst in the San Francisco Bay Area in the past two days. However, he said, there has been no clear pattern.

The agent said the sightings might indicate she and her abductors were still in the Bay Area. "We have nothing to indicate they have left the area," he said.

Meanwhile, U.S. attorney James L. Browning Jr. said he would seek contempt citations against Paul Halverson, 29, San Francisco, and Cynthia Garvey, 26, Oakland, for refusing to testify before a federal grand jury probing the kidnap and bank holdup.

Halverson and Miss Garvey reportedly were acquainted with persons who had been members of the SLA.

Browning said Thursday's grand jury session was postponed pending the contempt citations.

Don't Force Your Child Into "Obesity Syndrome"

(Susan Haynes is the therapeutic dietitian at Hendrick Memorial Hospital, Abilene, Tex., and a registered dietitian. This feature is furnished through the Office of Early Childhood Development, Texas Department of Community Affairs.)

By SUSAN HAYNES R.D.

Many adults think a fat baby is a healthy baby. The more food eaten the "healthier" baby will be — or so the opinion runs. Parents who hold this opinion are apt to coax or even force their children to overeat. For the first year or so of life, many babies will get a bottle pushed into their mouths every time they cry. As toddlers and older children, they may be made to sit at the table until they have finished every morsel of food.

Unfortunately the child often must finish his meal without any thought on the part of the demanding parent as to how many calories the food contains.

After the child is verbal, it is frequent to find the parent using guilt to get the child to eat everything in front of him by telling him to "think of all the little children in the world who are starving."

Adults who follow this chain of events with their children are making a big mistake.

Obesity is seldom a glandular problem. The major cause of being overweight is that the person's calorie intake is not balanced with his energy expenditure. And all to frequently, the habit of eating too much begins when one is newborn. But it begins in the mind of the parent, not the child.

Children may be encouraged to overeat in many ways, but the result is always the same — extra, useless fat. And eating habits established in early childhood are very difficult to change later.

At only two periods in the lifetime of a person can the number of fat cells in the body be increased: infancy and the onset of puberty.

How? By overeating. During all other periods of life, only the size of the fat cells will increase if there is too much intake.

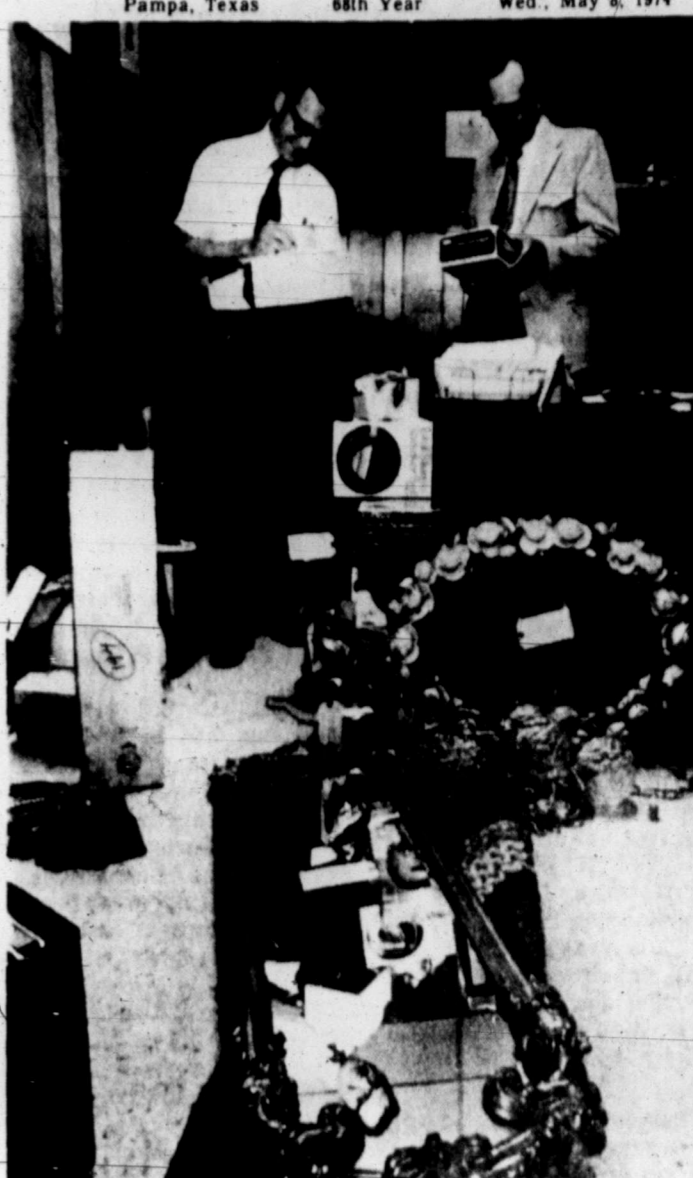

As an adult, the number of fat cells will always remain the same. The only thing the overweight adult can do is to decrease the size of his fat cells. That is what a person 35 years old is trying to do when he goes on a diet.

Studies have shown that those persons with the greater number of fat cells have a lot harder time reducing than those with few.

Dietitians and physicians knowledgeable about obesity will tell parents the same thing: a fat baby can still be malnourished. This doesn't mean mothers should starve their children, only that they should feed their children a properly balanced diet of good, nutritious food rather than overfeeding.

Parents who know that fat cells can increase only during early childhood and early adolescence should be especially cautious about overfeeding their children during those key periods.

Obesity is a problem itself, but it can lead to other, far more serious health problems.

BURGLARY LOOT RECOVERED — Pampa police chief Jim Conner, right, and detective J.J. Ryzman look over some of the merchandise police have recovered that was stolen in the Texas Furniture Co. burglary April 23. Twenty-one-year-old Calvin Ray Cornwell, 709 Brunow, was arrested and charged Monday in the incident. Other charges on other recent burglaries may be filed later. (Photo by Bill Kincaid)

Ag Educational Programs Increasing In Popularity

COLLEGE STATION — Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are continuing to gain in popularity, as participants are gaining useful information to assist them with their farms, ranches and other businesses.

"More than 99,000 farmers and ranchers, businessmen and homeowners participated in short courses, clinics and workshops, conducted by Extension Service agricultural specialists throughout the state during 1972," Dr. E.M. Trew, assistant director for the Extension Service and state agricultural program leader, said. "This was an increase of more than 11,000 over 1971."

Training sessions totaled 1,182, which were 42 less than in 1971.

What programs attracted the most participants?

"Top interest was shown in training sessions related to fruit and nut (pecan) production and processing, with attendance totaling more than 21,600," points out Trew. "Next in popularity were programs on landscaping and ornamentals. These attracted almost 17,200 participants."

Almost 11,000 producers, ginners and suppliers registered at cotton production programs while some 8,000 people received training in beef cattle production.

Programs in farm management, financial and estate planning, plant disease control and poultry production each attracted more than 4,000 participants.

As far as hours of instruction are concerned, 288 hours were devoted to beef cattle production while sessions on horse production totaled 240 hours. These two program areas involved the most hours of instruction, according to the Extension Service leader.

The 4-H Club originated in Holmes County, Mississippi, in 1907 as a series of "corn clubs" for boys.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opposition to the Alaskan pipeline has generated a number of alternate proposals for carrying oil from the North Slope.

Ten of these plans recently were analyzed by an oil company publication to show why they were impractical. And I must say I thought the company was a bit picky.

Among the ideas considered, and rejected, were:

Clearing a water passage through the ice pack with combination tanker-ice-breakers; using submarine tankers to go under the ice pack; building an 800-mile steel tunnel for vehicular movement; bringing out the oil in blimps and elevated trains.

Also turned down was a plan for preventing possible environmental damage from hot oil moving through the pipeline.

Oil to be Emulsified — It would involve emulsifying the oil with seawater to form "a mayonnaise-like mixture which could be pumped cold through the pipeline."

The fact that the oil industry regards all of these suggestions as unfeasible does not mean a substitute for the pipeline is out of the question.

It simply means that all of us need to think a little harder. I'm sure if we put our minds to it we can come up with a satisfactory alternative.

I'm just thinking off the top of my head now, but that mayonnaise concept sounded promising to me.

With a few modifications, it might be the answer.

One of the objections raised by the oil company was that in event of a winter shutdown the pipeline "could freeze into an 800-mile-long cylinder of oily ice." Aha!

Why put the emulsion in a pipeline at all? Why not freeze it in big, wheel-like molds and roll it down the North Slope?

Should Roll a Long Way — The area of the petroleum strike is described in the publication as "chill tundra flatlands." Given a good push, a congealed wheel of oil-seawater mayonnaise should roll a long way.

And if the North Slope inclines southward, as seems logical, the wheels would pick up momentum from gravity.

Anticipating that the oil industry will find some flaw in this method, I also have given some thought to a back-up system.

What is the first thing that springs to mind when we think of the frozen north? Why skiing, of course.

Have the oil companies engaged in the pipeline project considered building an 800-mile ski lift instead? One big enough to accommodate oil barrels? I'll bet not.

DMFA Plans State-Wide Crafts Competition

The Dallas Museum of Fine Arts has scheduled a state-wide competition for original handcrafted work in clay, bookbinding, enamels, fibers, glass, metals, plastics and wood.

The winning entries will be exhibited in the Museum's 16th Texas Crafts Exhibition scheduled for September 18 through October 27. The event is being co-sponsored by the Museum and the Craft Guild of Dallas with the intent of showing a broader scope of the work of Texas' finest craftsmen.

The juror for the competition will be Eudora Moore, Curator of Design for the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art, Pasadena, California. Ms. Moore will present award monies of $1,000 to one or more craftsmen for work of Outstanding Merit.

This year's competition will be somewhat different in that each craftsman is permitted to submit a total of six entries. The entries will be judged and exhibited as a unit, providing a more comprehensive examination of each individual artist's work.

Entries must be received by DMFA between July 16 and August 13. Museum officials urge early delivery because of the enormous volume of work expected. The prospectus and entry form will be mailed from the museum by May 1. An entry fee of $10 per artist must accompany the submitted works. All artists entering must be a legal resident of Texas and over 17 years of age.

Works selected for the exhibition may be sold with no commission for the Museum. If not for sale, please mark "NFS." All objects selected for the exhibition will be insured by the Museum, and every care will be taken to assure the proper handling of all entries.

Entries should be delivered to DMFA Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. No deliveries will be accepted on Saturday and Sunday. Do not ship by bus. Rejected entries should be picked up, September 2 through 20, while accepted entries will remain until the close of the exhibition on October 28 and may be picked up October 30 through November 15. The museum will not assume responsibility for craft objects unclaimed by November 15.

SPORTABILITY - New battle-jacketed pants outfit by Stewart Inc., of comfortable pure cotton "fade-out" corduroy from Cone Mills. Zippy jacket with elasticized waist sports flapped patch pockets. Star-studded T-shirt is pure cotton knit.

A neighbor of mine was recently telling me of his dog's virtues.

"He's not a pedigree dog, and he's not much to look at, but no stranger can ever come near the house without his letting us know about it."

"What does he do?" I asked facetiously. "point or bark?"

"Heck, no," came the reply. "he crawls under the sofa."

In bridge, we would call the dog's approach to strangers a "negative" one. Yet there are times when this negative, or passive approach can pay great dividends, whereas an active, aggressive attitude can bring about one's total defeat. Today's deal is a case in point, with the West defender's aggressive "greediness" resulting in his demise.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

Opening lead: Two of ♠.

West had just become the victim of an end play, for at trick twelve he was compelled to lead away from his K-9 of trumps into South's A-J, thus giving declarer the last two tricks and his contract.

After the dummy came into view, it was quite apparent to our South declarer that West's double was based on the king and queen of trumps, since they were the only two picture cards outstanding (plus the spade jack).

Without the double, South would have played either the ace and another trump, holding either to catch a singleton honor, or that the four outstanding trumps were divided 2-2; or else he would have double-finessed in the suit, figuring that East rated to hold either the king or queen of trumps. But with the double by West, South knew that both of these lines of play would be losing ones.

West's opening spade lead was taken by declarer's ace, after which a spade was led to the board's king. This was followed by a low spade lead, which declarer ruffed.

Then came three rounds of clubs, ending up in dummy. The board's high queen of spades was now ruffed in the closed hand. Next followed the king, queen, and ace of diamonds, the latter trick being ruffed in dummy.

At this point, with the lead being in dummy at the conclusion of trick ten, South held the A-J-10 of trumps, and West held the K-Q-9. A low trump was now led, and South inserted his ten-spot, which West took with the queen.

Don't monkey
around with chimps

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't laugh when you read this because I am sincere. I love all animals, but I am especially fascinated by chimpanzees. I go to the zoo and watch them for hours.

I would like to own a chimp as a pet, but don't know where to buy one. How much would a young chimp cost? Are they hard to care for? What do they eat? Would I need a heated cage to keep one in Ohio?

Any information you can give me on chimps would be greatly appreciated.

LOVES CHIMPS

DEAR LOVES: According to John Fletcher, head zoologist at the Como Park Zoo in St. Paul, Minn., chimps are presently in very short supply. When available for circuses, zoos or behavior research, a young chimp costs between $800 and $1,000.

Dr. Fletcher informs me that a single chimp would not make a very good house pet, because when a chimp reaches sexual maturity he becomes frustrated, ill-tempered and unpredictable. So the word from here is: don't monkey around with chimps or you'll have nothing but problems.

DEAR ABBY: Billy and I have been married a year. I am 20 and Billy is 22. We get along fine. The problem is Billy's mother, who lives near us. Billy gave her a key to our house so she can get in in case of an emergency or so if we go out of town, she can come in and water our plants. We have never had an emergency and we don't go out of town that much.

Several times after we've gone to bed his mother has walked right into our bedroom without even knocking. She says she got "lonesome" or she had something to tell us. What she had to tell us could have waited until the next day.

I didn't expect our honeymoon to last forever but I can assure you, it has ended because all I have on my mind is worrying that his mother will come walking in on us.

I have told Billy to ask his mother for our housekey, but he says he doesn't want to hurt her feelings. I don't want to ask her for it because I don't want her mad at me. Can you help me?

FRAIDY CAT

DEAR CAT: Don't be afraid. You are entitled to your privacy, so if Billy refuses to ask his mother for the key, you ask her. Tell her if you leave town you'll give her the key. And if you can't do that, get a bolt and chain for your bedroom door.

DEAR ABBY: Magazine rippers is (or is it "are?") my problem. I operate a beauty salon and keep up-to-date magazines for my patrons. It takes only one or two magazine rippers to ruin the magazines for everyone else.

Not only do they tear a small piece out of one page, they rip out entire articles and consequently the whole magazine falls apart!

I have put up signs asking people to please leave the magazines whole. Or if there's something they can't live without, all they have to do is buy one at the store, or ask me to save it for them, and I will.

I'm sure many businesses have this problem. I just hope the offenders will read this—and maybe you can add something to help us out.

Dear Consumer

Use Credit With Caution

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

You hear so much talk these days about "a cashless society," and it worries me a bit.

It seems to have become a way of life for many of us to use credit instead of paying cash. Just think how often we use credit!

We have charge accounts at local stores and we have bank credit cards, too. We buy everything—from television sets to vacations—on the installment plan. And we often borrow cash—to pay for cars, couches and college—from banks, credit unions, savings and loan associations and finance companies.

I would surely agree that credit is a useful tool for consumers. Being able to say, "Charge it" is a convenience; and it's practical not to carry too much cash with you.

But I am just old-fashioned enough to think that credit is a tool that should be used very cautiously. Unless you plan wisely, those monthly payments become more than you can handle. And there's trouble ahead.

Avoid trouble by following the basic rules suggested by consumer credit experts:

- Don't use credit until you know how much you can afford.
- Start with a budget. List all your necessary expenses. Whatever is left is your "discretionary income"—the money you can choose to spend on "extras." Face the fact that this is all you have available for charge accounts, installment buying and other kinds of credit.
- Shop for credit, just as you shop for products.

Credit costs vary tremendously from store to store, and from lender to lender. Always compare credit costs.

- Hunt for the lowest possible credit terms.

You're looking for two figures—the finance charge and the annual percentage rate (APR). Under the Federal Truth in Lending Law, every store or lender must give you both these figures. The finance charge is the total cost—in dollars—that you are paying for the privilege of using credit.

The APR could be called a yardstick set by the Federal government. Since there are different ways of figuring interest rates, Truth in Lending says that every lender must present his rates in the same form. This form is the APR—the annual percentage rate. Don't accept any other rate that a lender may quote.

When you compare APRs, you see at a glance how big a spread there is in credit costs.

If a credit union, for instance, lends you $500 for one year at an APR of 12%, the finance charge is $33.09. A bank lending you $500 for one year at an APR of 12.5% gets a finance charge of $34.50. If you borrow the $500 against your bank credit card at an APR of 18%, you pay a finance charge of $50.00. And if you borrow $500 from a small-loan company with an APR of 30%, your finance charge is a whopping $83.76!

- Before deciding on credit, do some figuring. Ask yourself: Would it be wiser to wait, save the money on my own and buy for cash later?

If you want a television set costing $500, you might borrow the $500 on a two-year loan at an APR of 12%. Your monthly payments would be about $23.50 and after two years you would have paid $564.88. Your credit would cost you $64.88; that's your finance charge.

But if you decide to save on your own for the TV, you could put $20 a month into a savings account paying you 5% interest compounded quarterly. After two years, you'd have $505.71 with which to buy your TV. Which method suits your budget?

- Read the terms of the contract before you sign it. Under Truth in Lending, your contract must give you many details in addition to finance charge and APR. For more information about credit, read two useful booklets from Federal Trade Commission (FTC)—"What Truth in Lending Means to You" and "Truth in Lending: Takes the Wrap Off Credit." You can get single copies free by writing to FTC, Legal and Public Records, Washington, D.C. 20590.

Amarillo Slim Favored Again

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Defending champion W. C. "Puggy Wuggy" Pearson and 1972 winner T. A. "Amarillo Slim" Preston have been established as favorites in the fifth annual World Series of Poker, according to oddsmaker Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder.

Billed as the world's richest card tournament, the 1974 contest is scheduled for May 13-17 at Binion's Horseshoe Club, with preliminary play starting today.

Pearson, a native of Nashville, Tenn., now making his home here, netted $165,000 in last year's event. Largest part of his winnings came in a 13-man "hold'em" game that requires each player to post $10,000 in the tournament's winner-take-all finale.

Preston, a self-proclaimed "all-around gambling man" from Amarillo, Tex., outlasted Pearson for a major share of the tournament loot in the 1972 finals. John Moss, another Texas, won the first two World Series.

President Nixon Muckrakers Win Pulitzer Prizes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The trustees of Columbia University this week awarded Pulitzer Prizes to two reporters who exposed President Nixon's income tax problems and revealed improprieties in financing his re-election campaign.

The award for a "distinguished example of reporting on national affairs" went to James R. Polk of the Washington Star-News, who was credited with revealing the extent of dairy and trucking industry contributions. He identified Herbert Kalmbach as a secret fund raiser for the President and disclosed the secret $200,000 donation made by Robert Vesco, the New Jersey financier who has since left the country to escape prosecution.

A similar award for national reporting went to Jack White of the Providence (R.I.) Journal and Evening Bulletin, "for his initiative in exclusively disclosing President Nixon's federal income tax payments in 1970 and 1971."

The 58th annual awards, which carry $1,000 prizes, were announced by Columbia President William J. McGill. The trustees acted on the recommendations of an advisory board, which reviewed the decisions of juries in journalism, letters, drama and music.

In the arts category, Robert Lowell won his second Pulitzer for his latest book of poetry, "The Dolphin." There were no awards for fiction or drama.

No Substitutes Allowed. Joseph Pulitzer, the newspaper publisher who set up the awards in his will in 1911, allowed the trustees to reject recommended candidates but not to substitute their own choices. The first awards were made in 1916.

Other journalism awards: —General or spot news reporting: Arthur M. Petacque and Hugh F. Hough of the Chicago Sun-Times, who charged a convicted burglar with the slaying of Valerie Percy, Sen. Charles Percy's daughter, and reopened the seven-year-old investigation.

—Meritorious public service by a newspaper: Newsday, Garden City, N.Y., for a 32-part series of articles, "The Heroin Trail," which traced the route of the drug from its foreign sources to the United States.

—Investigative reporting in a local area: William Sherman of New York's Daily News, who exposed abuses of the public health system by masquerading as a Medicaid patient. His reporting resulted in prosecutions and the return of over $1 million to the government.

—Reporting on foreign affairs: Hedrick Smith, Moscow correspondent of The New York Times, for his coverage of the Soviet Union and its allies in Eastern Europe.

—Editorial Award: —Editorial writing: F. Gilman Spencer, editor of the Trenton (N.J.) Trentonian, "for his courageous campaign to focus public attention on scandals in New Jersey's state government."

—Cartooning: Paul Szep of the Boston Globe, much of whose work in 1973 was devoted to the Watergate affair. When he learned of the award, the Canadian-born Szep said with a smile that he wanted to "give thanks to the Nixon administration."

—Spot news photography: Anthony K. Roberts, a freelance photographer from Beverly Hills, Calif., who happened on the scene of a would-be kidnapping.

—Feature photography: Slava Veder of the Associated Press for his picture of a returning prisoner of war reunited with his joyful family.

—Commentary: Edwin A. Roberts Jr. of the National Observer "for his 'Mainstream' column. Roberts says, "I write what's on my mind each week. This week, for example, I wrote about gardens."

—Criticism: Emily Genauer of the Newsday Syndicate for her art reviews.

The arts awards: —U.S. history: "The Americans: The Democratic Experience," by Daniel J. Boorstin, senior historian at the Smithsonian Institution.

Films Pay Off For Wilbur, Sox As Tigers Fall In Extra Frames

The Chicago White Sox new film library has produced its first classic. The White Sox, experimenting with a video tape machine this year to help correct pitching flaws, turned their new device on knuckleballer Wilbur Wood recently and may have come up with an Oscar winner.

Wood, after viewing films of his recent games, spotted something wrong with his stride. He made an effort to correct it and his studious work paid off Tuesday night when he two-hit the Detroit Tigers, 1-0, in 11 innings.

"It was the best I've ever seen him pitch," said Detroit-relief pitcher John Hiller. "We only hit two balls hard. His ball was breaking viciously."

Wood Strikes Out 10
Wood, who won 24 games last season, struck out 10 and walked four in boosting his record to 4-5. Almost as effective was Detroit's Lerrin LaGow, who allowed only five hits in 11 innings but was beaten by Ed Herrmann's third homer in the 11th.

In other American League games, Minnesota blanked Milwaukee, 3-0. New York edged Texas, 4-3, in 12 innings. Cleveland bested California, 5-3, and Baltimore routed Oakland, 9-2. Kansas City and Boston were not scheduled.

San Francisco swept a doubleheader from New York, 4-3 and 3-0, Chicago edged Atlanta, 3-2. San Diego beat Philadelphia, 5-3, in 13 innings. St. Louis nipped Cincinnati, 1-0, and Houston topped Pittsburgh, 2-1, in National League action. Los Angeles at Montreal was postponed by rain.

Twins 3, Brewers 0: Harmon Killebrew hit a pair of run-scoring singles to back the eight-hit pitching of Joe Decker as the Twins handed the Brewers their fourth straight loss. Tony Oliva chipped in with a homer for Minnesota, which handed Clyde Wright his fourth straight setback.

Yankees 4, Rangers 3: Elliot Maddox did in his ex-teammates with a run-scoring double in the 12th to give the Yankees a victory. Maddox' double scored Thurman Munson, who had reached base on an error by second baseman Dave Nelson. Sparky Lyle, who frittered away George Medich's 3-1 lead in the ninth, worked 3 2-3 innings in relief to get the win.

Indians 5, Angels 3: Shortstop Dave Chalk's throwing error enabled the Indians to score twice in the ninth and defeat the Angels. With two runners on base in the ninth the Indians' John Lowenstein hit a ball that second baseman Denny Doyle couldn't handle. When Doyle relayed the ball to Chalk, the Angel shortstop threw the ball wildly past third base in an effort to get Duffy and two runs scored.

Orioles 9, A's 3: The Orioles collected 21 hits in routing the A's with Paul Blair leading the way with four singles. Ross Grimsley pitched a seven-inning victory for his fourth in career in six decisions while Ken Holtzman suffered his fourth loss in six decisions.

One Hundred Attend Spring Sports Fete

By LARRY HOLLIS
More than 100 students, parents, coaches and Harvester boosters attended the annual spring sports picnic Tuesday night at Central Park.

Coaches of each of the various spring sports presented awards to the outstanding student for each sport.

Ed Lehnick, Pampa High School athletic director, presided over the presentation of awards.

Named as outstanding students for the most athletic accomplishments in their respective sports were:

Rick Smith, baseball; Steve Mathis, track; Ted

Brown, swimming; Wiley McIntire, boys golf; Debbie Thompson, girls golf; Martha Plunk, tennis; Debbie Gray, girls track, and Debbie Harris, volleyball.

Each will have his or her name engraved on a plaque hanging on the wall in the Athletic Bldg.

Warren Hasse, broadcaster from KPDM radio station, spoke to the group and congratulated them on their accomplishments. He said the past season was generally the most successful for PHS spring sports in years.

Noting that the school board in recent years has placed emphasis on getting specialist coaches for all the sports, Hasse said "there are no minor sports. They're all important."

He explained that spring sports, unlike football and basketball, generally put emphasis on individual ability, "a one-to-one" competition, as students will face in life.

H. L. Weatherly, president of the Pampa Boosters Club, addressed the athletes, saying "It's been a real pleasure to have been associated this year with all the sports."

The Boosters Club sponsored the picnic.

Astros Nip Pirates Behind Hurler

UPI Sports Writer
One of the reasons the Houston Astros were so willing to deal away southpaw Jerry Reuss this past winter is that they were counting on young Tom Griffin to return to the form that made him the National League's top rookie pitcher in 1969.

Well, Tom Griffin is off to his best start ever as a major leaguer—something the Pittsburgh Pirates found out last night when the 26-year-old Astros' right-hander limited them to just one hit en route to a 2-1 victory.

Only a second-inning single by Willie Stargell prevented Griffin from no-hitting the Pirates and three consecutive Astro errors in the fifth cost him his shutout.

Meanwhile, Mill May, the catcher the Astros acquired from Pittsburgh for Reuss, accounted for the winning run with a triple in the eighth that scored Bob Watson, who had singled.

His Arm was Sore
"My arm was sore and that made me pitch a better ball game," said Griffin.

Tickets Still On Sale For Opening Day

Tickets are still on sale from any Optimist Club member for the Optimist Club Opening Day (baseball) ceremonies Saturday.

Warren Spahn, probably the greatest left-handed pitcher in history, and Bob Hayes, starting wide receiver for the Dallas Cowboys and the "World's Fastest Human" will be on hand for the festivities, which begin with an early afternoon Babe Ruth baseball game.

Following the game, a barbecue dinner will be served at 4:30 p.m. Another Babe Ruth game will be played in the evening.

Tickets can be purchased for $2.50. Children, six and under and accompanied by a parent will be admitted free.

The $2.50 is for the barbecue part of the ceremonies only. Admittance to the remainder of the program is free, according to Robert Dixon, president of the Babe Ruth baseball program.

who was only 4-6 last year. "It's nice to win now—especially since I've equaled my 1973 wins."

Griffin, now 4-1, faced only 28 batters. In other National League games, Chicago edged Atlanta, 3-2. San Francisco swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 4-3 and 3-0. St. Louis blanked Cincinnati, 1-0. San Diego downed Philadelphia, 5-3, and Los Angeles and Montreal were rained out.

In the American League, Chicago blanked Detroit, 1-0. Minnesota shut out Milwaukee, 3-0. New York nipped Texas, 4-3. Cleveland beat California, 5-3, and Baltimore - belted Oakland, 9-3.

Cubs 3 Braves 2:
Steve Stone recorded his first National League victory of the season since coming over from the Crosstown White Sox. Stone scattered six hits before being knocked out in the ninth inning. Billy Williams drove in a pair of runs for the Cubs.

Giants 4-3, Mets 3-0:
Gary Matthews clouted a three-run homer off Tom Seaver to win the opener and then doubled in the first run of the nightcap which turned out to be all the Giants needed behind the shutout pitching of Jim Barr and Randy Moffitt. It was Barr's first start of the year, while Seaver, 1-3, has now

Men's Tourney To Take Place In 2 Weekends

Entries are still being accepted for the Men's City Golf Tournament to be held May 18-19 at the Pammel Golf Course.

According to E. O. Wedgworth of the Chamber of Commerce, several openings are still available but the field will be limited to around the first 100.

Entry fee is $6.00 and can be paid at the Chamber of Commerce or to Bill Ellis at Celanese or Art Aftergut.

The tourney is co-sponsored by Celanese Chemical Corporation and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

been tagged for nine homers this season—tops in the NL. Cardinals 1, Reds 0; Reggie Smith led off the ninth inning with a single for St. Louis, took second on pitcher Fred Norman's wild pickoff throw, moved to third on an infield out and came home on Joe Torre's sacrifice fly. Lynn McGlothen picked up his fourth win in five decisions as a National Leaguer.

Celtics Whip Bucks In Finals

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — All the talk was about that famous word "adjustments" and all the technical moves that would bring either the Boston Celtics or Milwaukee Bucks the National Basketball Association title.

But when it got right down to it Tuesday night, "execution" became the operative word. The Celtics had more of it—both sides agreed—and handed the Bucks a 96-87 defeat to take a 3-2 lead back to Boston for the sixth game of the championship playoffs Friday night.

"We played the same way we always have in this series, only harder," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said. "We made some adjustments early in the series, but now it comes down to execution."

The Bucks' big trouble finished with only a 43 per cent shooting average from the floor. Milwaukee hit only 25 per cent in the first quarter and that set the tone for the rest of the evening.

Bob Dandridge, the slender forward who usually has to produce for Milwaukee to win, hit only four of 17 shots from the field and finished with 10 points. And Dandridge had the responsibility of guarding John Havlicek, who scored 28 points. Dave Cowens also hit 28 for the Celtics.

The Celtics built an 18-point lead in the third quarter, and even though the Bucks came within an eyelash of closing the score, someone from Boston always came up with the big basket.

It was 78-71 and the Bucks were cooking when Havlicek hit a jump shot from the side. Then, after Dandridge lost the ball, Cowens hit from the other side. Later it was 86-78 and Boston's Jo Jo White drove right by Mickey Davis for an easy layup.

Boston Lucky, Captures Opener In Final Series

BOSTON (UPI) — Thirty-three seconds of luck were all the Boston Bruins needed.

In that half-minute Tuesday night, the Bruins rocketed from loser to 3-2 winner in the opening game of their Stanley Cup finals against the Philadelphia Flyers.

"We were lucky to win it," said Phil Esposito just after the Bruins had whipped the Flyers with 22 seconds to play on a Bobby Orr screamer from 40 feet.

The luck of the Bruins began at 19:05 of the final period when Philadelphia's Bobby Clarke passed to an unattended Bill Flett at the right-side of the Boston net. Flett drew the puck across the front of the goal leaving himself two-thirds of the net in which to deposit the puck. Flett couldn't handle it. But Flett couldn't handle the puck and when teammate Bill Barber and a Boston contingent of Orr, goalie Gilles Gilbert and Ken Hodge converged on the disc, it slid just past the far post.

Boston recovered quickly and brought the puck up ice where luck for a dirty play, depending on whom you believe) struck again.

Boston's Wayne Cashman and Andre Dupont dug in the right corner and both went down. The puck slid along the backboard where Hodge picked it up and centered a sharp pass to Orr, who rifled a shot past Bernie Parent's stick side.

"I'd like to tell you I aimed it," said Orr. "but I didn't. I just shot it."

"Dupont's skate got caught in the stirrup of my sock" on the winning goal. "I couldn't get up or do anything," said Cashman.

Dupont, however, thought Cashman already had done enough, claiming the Boston winger had grabbed him.

"The referee should have called a penalty," he said. "The puck was loose and he was holding me."

No penalty was called, though, and Boston had its victory despite playing good hockey for only the first 20 minutes. The Bruins, coming off a week's rest, skated to a 20 first-period lead on goals by Cashman and Gregg Sheppard that came 53 seconds apart. Sheppard's goal was his 10th in 11 playoff games after scoring 16 all season.

The Flyers charged back with goals by Orest Kindrachuk at 7:47 of the second period and Clarke at 5:32 of the third period.

But Philadelphia simply had no luck at the end when hustle wasn't enough to win.

Yankees Edge Rangers In Twelve Innings, 4-3

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Ex-Ranger Elliot Maddox slugged a run-scoring double with one out in the 12th inning to lead the New York Yankees to a 4-3 win over Texas Tuesday night.

Thurman Munson led off the inning with a grounder that second baseman Dave Nelson bobbled for an error, and scored on Maddox's liner to left center. Nelson, ironically, had been the hero in the ninth when he hit a two-out single to rightfield, driving in Mike Hargrove and Toby Harrah with the tying runs to send the contest into extra innings.

Sparky Lyle, relieving George Medich in the top of the ninth, was credited with the win, his first of the year against no losses. Steve Foucault was charged with the defeat, dropping him to 0-1 although he allowed just one hit in three innings of relief for Jackie Brown, one of four Ranger pitchers.

New York took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Chris Chambliss singled, went to third on a double by Munson and scored on Bobby Murcer's sacrifice fly.

The Yanks broke the deadlock in the third as Chambliss doubled and scored on Munson's single. Jim Mason added another Yankee run in the fourth as he tripled and scored on Roy White's single.

Indy Has 1st Wreck

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Speedway had its first fender-bender of the season Tuesday and "Ol' Tex" A. J. Foyt, Bobby Unser and Johnny Rutherford appeared to be the early favorites for the 500-mile race pole position.

Although speeds were expected to be down considerably from last year because of rule changes and a cutback in fuel allotments, practice averages in the 190 miles per hour bracket had not been expected until later this week.

But Foyt, the three-time "500" champion from Houston hurtled his 8-cylinder Coyote around the famed 2 1/2-mile oval at a speed of 192.349 m.p.h., about a mile faster than Unser's best lap Tuesday.

Rutherford wasn't far behind Unser, the Albuquerque, N.M., speedster.

Rookies Tom Bigelow, Whitewater, Wis., and Lee Brayton, Coldwater, Mich., collided in the southwest turn and both cars kissed the outside retaining wall. The drivers walked away unscathed.

Observers said the accident was triggered when Bigelow, 34, slid entering the turn and then was struck broadside by Brayton's car. Both machines sustained extensive damage.

Epidemic Of Head Lice Due?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently there was news in our local paper about an almost epidemic of head lice in the schools. Probably due in part to the long-hair trend...

basis of effectiveness. Remember, lice can lurk in seams of bedding and clothes, but can be routed by laundering in hot water and ironing. The ironing is a necessary part of it if you want to be sure...

Maybe it would be better if more local papers printed news about lice, whether head, crab or body varieties, because epidemics are breaking out in many communities. Dermatological statistics indicate that the louse problem has increased 800 percent in the last 10 years...

Exact cause of polyps is not known. Dear Dr. Thosteson: It is true that, if one eats a small piece of garlic three times a day, it's good for people with heart trouble...

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN — Our Consumer Protection Division has received several reports from other states about some deceptive practices regarding the sale of meat by bulk meat dealers.

Some of the described tactics were observed in Texas during last year's meat price crisis and they could turn up again.

One tactic complained of in other states is the "bait and switch" technique, in which consumers are drawn to a store by low advertised prices. When they respond to the ad, the seller shows them very fat, old, or generally unattractive beef. The consumer then is shown better - looking beef and urged to buy it at much higher prices.

Many people do not know that the U.S. Department of Agriculture requires that all meat be coded as to freshness.

Some bulk meat dealers sell meat by "hanging weight," without explaining that the term refers to the entire side of an animal, including all fat and bones.

Consumers should find out what the cost per pound is for "take-home meat after trimming and boning. Sometimes edible meat may amount to only half the hanging weight, so you would be paying twice as much as the advertised price for the meat you can eat.

If you're buying from a bulk meat supplier you've never traded with, it's a good idea to watch while the meat is trimmed, cut, and packaged, to make sure what you paid for is what you'll be taking home. Reports from other states indicate that dishonest dealers sometimes switch meat orders on customers.

In most of our columns - like today's - we concentrate on alerting the consumer to deceptive trade practices such as these that he should be on guard against.

The perpetrators of such schemes are a very small percentage of the business community - a percentage that the honest merchant deprecates as much as the public and our Consumer Protection Division.

But instead of focusing only on the minority of merchants who deliberately TRY to confuse or deceive the public, we'd like to call attention now to an example of an entire industry that is attempting to CLEAR UP consumer confusion.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board has responded to requests from consumers who were having a hard time identifying such meat cuts as "New York" steak, "Delmonico" steak, "his and her" steaks, or "charbroil" steak.

Aerosol Products Are Investigated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission today began investigating aerosol products under its jurisdiction, including furniture polishes and window cleaners, to see if they contain vinyl chloride, a suspected cancer-causer.

The commission said it would propose a ban in the near future on the use of vinyl chloride as a propellant in aerosol products under its control.

In the meantime, it is asking various manufacturers to notify the commission at once if vinyl chloride is used in any of their products.

The commission became the third government agency to study vinyl chloride in consumer products. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) previously launched a recall of more than a score of aerosol products, mainly cosmetics such as hair sprays. The Environmental Protection Agency also has banned the sale of pesticides for indoor use containing vinyl chloride.

The chemical has been linked to a dozen cases of a rare form of liver cancer diagnosed in workers employed at plants where the chemical is processed.

With a total of more than a thousand such different names for beef cuts being used across the country, the problem was widespread.

The NLSMB set up an advisory committee to study the problem and recommend solutions. The committee found that a single cut of meat now can be labeled with as many as a dozen different popular names, depending on the store and the part of the country you're in.

As a result of the study, the NLSMB has adopted a new set of meat identity standards that may be used by up to 80 per cent of the nation's supermarkets within a few months. These standards reduce the number of meat names by more than two-thirds, to around 315.

They require that each label on packages of meat in supermarkets identify the kind of meat, the wholesale cut that tells what part of the animal the meat is from, and the retail cut that consumers buy.

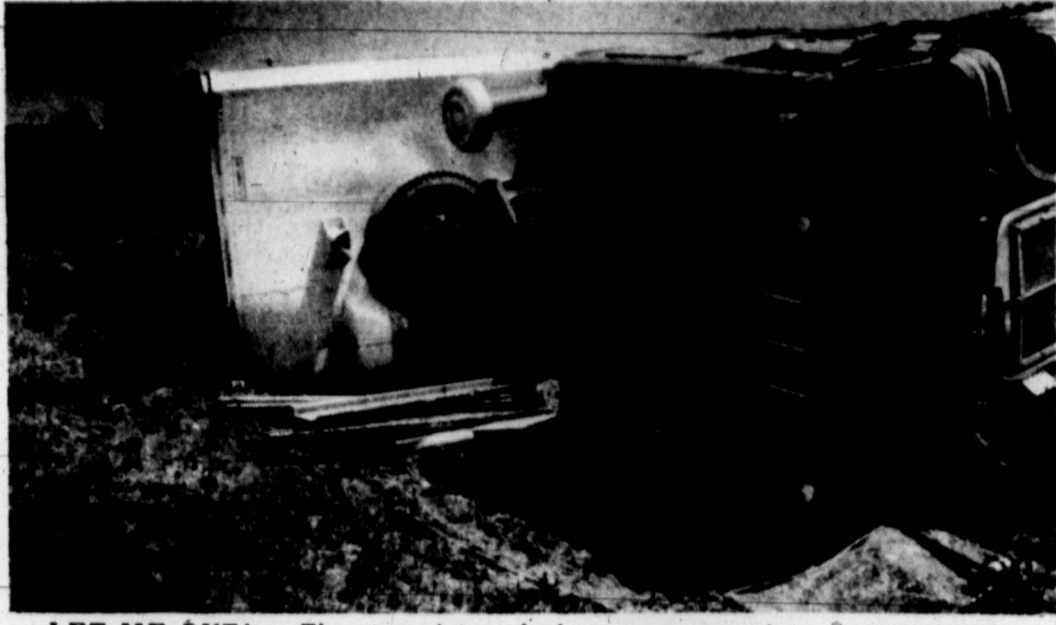

So you might find that the "Pike's Peak" roast you've been buying for years may soon be more accurately labeled as "Beef Chuck - Under Blade Pot Roast." But locally popular names such as "Pike's Peak" can also be included on the label, in addition to the required information, says the NLSMB. This will enable people to find their favorite cut under the new labeling system.

The committee also recommended that all hamburger be called "ground beef," that its percentage of lean to fat be shown, that only skeletal beef meat be used in it, and that an optional descriptive name (such as "Chuck" or "Sirloin") could be included on the label. A complete label might be "Ground Beef Chuck - Not Less Than 75 per cent Lean."

Although these meat labeling standards are not mandatory, the NLSMB expects that they will be adopted by a large majority of meat suppliers.

This voluntary self-regulation by an industry is a good example of the business sector itself recognizing an area of consumer confusion and moving to remedy the situation.

If you should have a consumer problem with a business or individual, try first to talk it over. Then if the problem persists, consult our Consumer Protection Division, your local Better Business Bureau, or your county or district attorney.

Lead Paint Ingestion Study Completed By Paint Group

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Paint and Coatings Association (NPCA) has provided the final report of an eight-month Lead Paint Ingestion Study to the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC).

According to NPCA Executive Vice President Robert A. Roland, "The ingestion study using rats as the model animal will provide CPSC with important scientific data needed to establish a permanent level of lead in paint."

Under recent amendments to the federal Lead-Based Paint Poisoning Prevention Act, the CPSC must conduct research on multiple layers of dried paint containing commonly used lead compounds to determine the safe level of lead in residential paint products, and must report to Congress not later than Dec. 31, 1974.

A lead standard of one half of one percent (0.5 percent) in the dried film for residential paint products, toys, furniture, cooking, eating and drinking utensils is currently in effect.

Roland said the study was funded by NPCA and conducted by an independent research organization, the Midwest Research Institute (MRI) of Kansas City, Missouri. He added that while CPSC is conducting research of its own, the paint industry is volunteering the MRI data to the Commission "in a spirit of constructive cooperation to arrive at a lead standard which is correct and consistent with necessary environmental and health goals."

NPCA initiated the research program to evaluate any potential toxicity of lead as it exists in modern paints compared to the white lead carbonate pigment formerly used in old paint formulations. When ingested, this old white lead is known to be one of the causes of lead poisoning in children.

The study involved 200 carefully selected rats which were fed several lead compounds in various concentrations, all in the form of dried paint chips mixed with the rat food. The research demonstrated that an animal model such as rats can be used to detect the toxic effects of lead.

The study showed a profound difference in availability for lead absorption between the old white lead paint formulations and modern paint formulations. The study provides a strong indication of the safety of modern paint formulations containing less than 2.0 percent lead when the rat is used as the experimental animal.

The study concludes, "Paint containing 1.95 percent lead chromate and paint containing 2.05 percent lead octoate produced no detectable changes in the rats... Since the body lead - burdens of the rats fed the 2.05 percent lead octoate or 1.95 percent lead chromate were not increased," the study states, "it can be assumed that the lead in these paint chips was not absorbed from the gastrointestinal tract."

Lead chromate is a colored pigment which is valuable for use in coatings for farm equipment, highway marking, safety signs, etc. Lead octoate is used as a drier in small amounts to promote the formation of a hard, durable film in many types of paint. Without the drier, many paints would not dry adequately.

The study concludes, "Paint containing 1.95 percent lead chromate and paint containing 2.05 percent lead octoate produced no detectable changes in the rats... Since the body lead - burdens of the rats fed the 2.05 percent lead octoate or 1.95 percent lead chromate were not increased," the study states, "it can be assumed that the lead in these paint chips was not absorbed from the gastrointestinal tract."

Lead chromate is a colored pigment which is valuable for use in coatings for farm equipment, highway marking, safety signs, etc. Lead octoate is used as a drier in small amounts to promote the formation of a hard, durable film in many types of paint. Without the drier, many paints would not dry adequately.

Report Income Changes!

People getting supplemental security income payments should promptly report changes in their other income to social security, according to Howard L. Weatherly, social security manager in Pampa.

Supplemental Security Income payments have established a nationally uniform income floor for people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled.

Increases or decreases in income may affect the amount of monthly supplemental security income payments. People getting supplemental security income checks should report changes or expected changes in their wages, self-employment earnings, pension payments, and other income from any source except Health, Education and Welfare. Supplemental Security Income payments are made from general revenues, not from social security contributions.

The Pampa social security office is at 1941 N. Hobart. The phone number is 806-669-3381.

Food And Drug Administration To Rule On Saccharin Future

WASHINGTON — Decisions now facing the Food and Drug Administration in Washington will affect the sweetness of your life.

Within weeks, the FDA will rule on the future of saccharin. Will it be banned, as was cyclamate 3½ years ago, accused of causing cancer in animals?

Within weeks, too, the FDA is expected to announce its decision on a brand new artificial sweetener, called Aspartame. Will this restore to the nation's figure-conscious sweet-tooths the low-calorie foods and drinks that were lost when cyclamate was banished from the supermarket?

Meanwhile, the makers of cyclamate have petitioned the FDA to allow its return. Will the decision to stop the sales of cyclamate in 1970 on the basis of a few bladder tumors in animals approve to have been a costly blunder?

These questions illustrate the uncertainties in the science and business of trying to give Americans sweet-flavored food and drinks without the same time making them fat.

At the root of these uncertainties are two unknowns. No one knows for sure how to prove that a food additive is 100 percent guaranteed safe.

And no one knows what makes sugar - let alone sugar substitutes like cyclamate and saccharin - taste sweet.

Cyclamate was introduced in 1950, intended originally for use in special dietary foods for diabetics. But its consumption skyrocketed in the 1960s, when America became figure-conscious. Its consumption in 1969 approached 15 million pounds annually - equivalent to 500 million pounds of sugar.

Some scientists expressed alarm at the wide spread use of cyclamates. But the axe did not fall until 1969-70, after feeding trials showed that some animals contracted bladder tumors after consuming very high doses of a cyclamate saccharin mixture.

Under the so-called Delaney Amendment, which states that foods must not contain any substance shown to cause cancer in animals, cyclamate was outlawed.

Last year, similar feeding trials with saccharin alone hinted that saccharin, too, might cause cancer in animals. The National Academy of Sciences has been looking at this data in an attempt to decide whether saccharin does indeed cause cancer, and is about to give its decision to the FDA.

But the animal feeding trials that have cast doubt on both cyclamate and saccharin are far outnumbered by similar trials conducted in laboratories all over the world, which show NO cancer-causing effect of either sweetener.

It is on the basis of these trials, which tend to exonerate saccharin and cyclamate, that the makers of cyclamate are petitioning the FDA to allow the sweetener to return.

A new artificial sweetener, Aspartame, is likely to be cleared by the FDA for sale soon. Some 160 times sweeter than sugar, Aspartame does not have saccharin's bitter aftertaste.

Its manufacturers plan first to sell it through pharmacies as a special dietary product for diabetics, and later in supermarkets as a general sugar substitute.

Aspartame, like saccharin and cyclamate, was discovered by accident. Because scientists do not yet know why some chemicals taste sweet and others do not, searching in any systematic way for new sweeteners is impossible.

But by studying some unusual sweet-tasting molecules from tropical fruits, taste researchers hope soon to have a handle on what sweetness is.

One of these molecules, from an African berry called "miracle fruit," is itself tasteless. But some foods eaten later taste sweet. A Massachusetts company is selling miracle fruit tablets by mail order, along with special recipes for foods to be eaten after the tablet. The company is presently clarifying with the FDA the legal status of these tablets.

Other molecules, similar to that found in miracle fruit, taste intensely sweet themselves. These molecules are much larger than those in sugar or cyclamates, and are probably too big to enter the cells of the taste buds of our tongues.

They have therefore provided an important clue to the nature of sweetness - that it is perceived by the OUTSIDE of cells, rather than the inside.

This means that a molecule need never enter the cells of the body, and still taste sweet.

This fits with the thinking of a new company in California, which has perhaps the ultimate idea for making food-additives - sweeteners included - guaranteed safe.

The idea is to "leash" the additive to a large molecule which the body cannot digest. After doing its job, the sweetener would be carried straight through the body without ever being absorbed by it.

A few weeks ago, scientists at the company took the important step of finding a way to hitch a chemical leash to a sweet-tasting molecule without changing its taste.

CARTOONIST AWARD

J.F. D'Angelo, (right), general manager of King Features Syndicate, congratulates Dik Browne, creator of The Pampa News' "Hagar the Horrible," one of the fastest growing, most popular comic strips in the nation, for being named "Outstanding Cartoonist of the Year" by the National Cartoonists Society. The award, called the Reuben, was presented at the group's 28th annual awards dinner in the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza Hotel in New York City after a secret ballot by the NCS's membership.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coast Guard and the Department of Transportation have launched a nationwide promotion program to gain support for the Loran C radionavigation system.
A second generation of the Loran A system that has guided ships and planes since World War II, Loran C uses more sophisticated electronics and a lower frequency to make the system much more accurate and usable at far greater ranges.
Typically, a Loran C position is accurate to 500 yards at a distance 1,000 miles from a transmitting station. This tolerance reduces to a few feet when the vessel is nearer shore.
Congress is being asked to approve a $24 million item to upgrade and expand the Loran C system. If approved, and if endorsed by the White House's Office of Telecommunications Policy and the Office of Management and Budget, Loran C would become the principal radionavigation system for the waters out to the continental shelf.
Cost Reduced
Loran A, which is now used by around 70,000 mariners, fishermen and yachtsmen, would be phased out over the next 5 to 10 years. The shift would

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The stock market is giving a creditable performance in holding its ground against existing stresses," says Standard & Poor's Corp., "but a viable upturn is unlikely until the monetary climate eases." It urges investors to move cautiously until the groundwork is laid for a substantial advance.
"The market has been actively supporting our thesis that a major base is under construction despite some shorter-term fluctuations," says Indicator Digest, Inc. of Palisades Park, N.J. Even in this ever-changing market climate, numerous issues have racked up gains and merely pulled back for good support in the latest decline, the firm notes. "Much of the excess water has already been wrung out," it adds, "leaving many sound issues little — if any — downside potential."

The easing of inflation and high interest rates in the second half of 1974 may send stock prices higher because profits will go down, says Inverness Counsel, Inc. in the security markets, speculation is at a minimum and investors' expectations have been trimmed significantly, the firm continues. "While seemingly not a very exciting appraisal, it is the classic description of the psychological foundation of a bull market," it adds.

United Press International
Frontier Violence, by W. Eugene Holton.
(Oxford, $7.95)

Our violent heritage has come under public scrutiny in the last few years. The more that is revealed, the more we realize most of the bloody events would not make the kind of cowboy and sheriff movies we're used to.

Most people know by now that Wyatt Earp and his brothers were more gangsters than Technicolor heroes. There's even a move to deglamorize Kit Carson. Now Holton, a teacher and historian, has unearthed some shocking information about less famous citizens of the last century.

Our treatment of the Indians not only was violent but utterly dishonest. Not one of the 370 treaties made with the Indians since 1789 has been kept by the federal government, according to this author.

Between the almost universal hatred of Indians and the doctrine of manifest destiny (every time we wanted to expand our borders onto someone else's land, it was our "manifest destiny" to do so) the Red Man never had a chance.

One of the most dreadful examples is the annihilation of the peaceful "Diggers of California," an odd Indian race who averaged four feet eight inches in height with shocks of black hair. They ate insects and vermin and almost anything that crawled. Revolting, yes; but hardly a reason for their extinction.

The targets of violence were not just Indians. In the West, the attitude toward the Chinese resulted in what historians term "one of the most violence and barbaric episodes in the history" of California, as when a mob of 500 Los Angelines, armed with pistols, bowie knives and rifles, hanged, shot and beat to death 25 Chinese. The murder of Orientals, the author says, became a common occurrence in the last half of the 19th Century. This book won't make you proud to be an American, except perhaps in the backhanded way that Americans can feel proud of their ability and willingness to self-criticize.

Joan Hanauer (UPI)

Stress, by Walter McQuade and Ann Aikman. (Dutton, $7.95) No one is certain what diseases are caused by stress but the authors have found enough indications of the harmful effect that stress has on the human body to frighten anyone who is under pressure on the job or at home. Stress even can result in malfunctions of the immunity system, medical researchers say, which in turn may lead to cancer and a multitude of other disorders, including allergy and the common cold. Harmful stress can strike anyone, the authors say in this clearly written, documented book that could be helpful to anyone who finds difficulty in coping with everyday life.

Fifty-Two Pick Up, by Elmore K. Leonard. (Delacorte, $6.95) Unknowingly, a businessman is filmed in a lovemaking session with a lovely blonde. The object is blackmail but the executive, a rich, tough selfmade man, refuses to cave in. The head-on collision between the sleazy porno dealer and the respected businessman is explosive and engrossing. A tingling, breath holding drama.

Zaleski's Percentage, by Donald MacKenzie (Houghton Mifflin, $5.95) The crosscurrents ripple and flow in this tale of a stolen cross encrusted with $2.5 million in jewels and its attempted theft by a band of aging former commandos. The leader, a Polish restaurant proprietor named Zaleski, makes an unlikely gang chief. As always MacKenzie writes in deftly, and obviously, in high good humor.

The Late Harvey Grosbeck, by Gilbert Millstein. (Doubleday, $6.95) Harvey Grosbeck is a newspaperman who, like many of his breed, feels outside - alien certainly from conservatism, put off by liberal platitudes, appalled by hippie nihilism that would destroy what is worth saving. When his wife is mugged, he finally becomes involved, which is at the same time both almost the death of him and also the remaking of Harvey Grosbeck.

Non-marryin' Kind Rot - NEW YORK (UPI) - Charles Farrar Browne in the middle of the 19th century commented on marriage in his story, "Draft in Baldinsville." He wrote:
"The happy married man dies in good stile at home, surrounded by his weeping wife and children. The old bachelor don't die at all - he sort of rots away like a pollywog's tail."

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Elaine is puzzled by "masculine charisma." She has 2 college suitors, both of whom are attractive. But she is perplexed to find that the shorter man exudes more charisma than the big, jolly football player. Scrapbook this case!

CASE A-627: Elaine J., aged 20, asks a very interesting sex question.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "why do some men exude a magical influence that makes girls putty in their hands?"

"Is this what is meant by male sexual charisma?"

"If so, is a boy born with it?"

"Or can he develop it after birth?"
"For I've been dating 2 college men, one of whom is tall and athletic."
"The other is shorter and certainly not a football type."
"Yet this shorter man seems to be more dominant in his contact with me (and even my sorority sisters) than does the big football boy."

"How do you explain this male dominance, if it doesn't pertain to size or muscles?"

SEXUAL CHARISMA
The typical girl wants to be dominated by her boy friend.

But this domination is not limited to the man's greater height or athletic muscles, though they often are a part of such charisma.

What is generally referred to as male charisma is the aura of assurance that is exuded by the dominant male, whose experience shows in his easy handling of problems.

In times of stress, anxiety or uncertainty, most people look to a solid "oak" as an anchor.

This is true in politics, too, which is why Abraham Lincoln is said to have attracted so many votes during the flux and change prior to the Civil War.

But women are especially drawn to men who radiate assurance.

Back in childhood, boys and girls rely on their parents for protection and leadership.

Ultimately, the boy becomes as tall and strong as his father and more so than his mother.

The girls, however, may attain the physical status of their mothers but still look upward to their taller father.

So this "looking up" remains firmly entrenched in their mental attitude toward males, even when they are dating college classmates.

Superficially, this "looking up" gives some advantage to the big, rugged college athlete.

But smart coeds may soon find that they can outsmart the big bruiser, so his mere physical charisma weakens.

If the coed then meets a shorter and less athletic male but one who radiates far more assurance in various social or business realms, his charisma remains more nearly at 100%.

"It isn't the size of the dog in the fight that counts," runs a pertinent adage, "but the size of the fight in the dog."

Masculine charisma indirectly attests to that "size of the fight in the dog."

A good-natured, easygoing athlete may delight a coed like Elaine and even appeal to her maternal nature after she finds that she can outsmart him.

But her shorter suitor apparently exerts greater fascination, since she stands a little more in awe of him, as she did of her father.

Ideally, a girl must secretly feel a little afraid of her mate in order to gain the most excitement from his love-making.

For when a girl knows she is superior to her boy friend and can manipulate him at her whim, she has no fear of him.

And it is this awe or respect that makes her romance more exhilarating, for it gives her the bitter-sweet formula for love.

Send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Method, Indiana 47686. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you need for one of his booklets.)

Kate Joins Atlantic - NEW YORK (UPI) -

Kate Smith has signed an exclusive, long term contract with Atlantic Records.

Her first single under her new sponsorship is "Smile, Smile, Smile."

Home Garden Boon To Fresh Vegetable Industry

COLLEGE STATION - With the rebirth of home vegetable gardens, many folks will be giving their taste buds a real treat as they enjoy the fruits of their labors this season.

Furthermore, a vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service believes that the increase in home gardening will be a boon to the fresh vegetable industry in Texas. He feels more consumers will be "turned on" by fresh produce after having experienced vegetable production themselves on a small scale.

"In recent years many consumers have gotten away from purchasing fresh produce and have gone more for canned, frozen and instant vegetables," points out Sam Cotner. "But the surge in home gardens should bring some turnaround in this trend."

Cotner believes that consumers now engaging in home vegetable production will have a much better appreciation for the vegetable industry.

"They will realize that there are many problems associated with producing vegetables - plus the weather, insects and diseases - plus the costs and labor required and the high perishability of fresh vegetables," he said. According to the Texas

A&M University System specialist, commercial vegetable production in Texas last year was valued at about $200 million, third in the nation.

And he feels that the current home gardening craze will increase consumer demand for more fresh vegetables after appetites have been whetted by those fresh vegetables produced in the back yard.
