Buzhardt Denying Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House official who has heard most of the original Watergate tape recordings says President Nixon did not use ethnic slurs in his conversations, and that news reports saying he did are an "attempt to poison the public mind against the President."

"There have been fabrications, there have been attempts to portray remarks that are on the tapes as racial slurs and they are not," J. Fred Buzhardt, Nixon's special counsel, said Sunday.

Appearing on CBS' Face the Nation, Buzhardt was asked about a New York Times report Sunday that Nixon referred to "wops" and "Jewboys" in places where the term "expletive deleted" or "characterization deleted" appeared in the transcripts.

Buzhardt said he had listened to most of the tapes of Nixon's conversations from which the transcripts were taken and "I have heard nothing that I would consider ethnic slurs."

"And let me say this," he added. "For a number of days now, we have been literally besieged by rumors that there were ethnic slurs in the tapes. Some language which I wouldn't think of repeating here or in private has been suggested as being on the tapes, and I find it just totally unbelievable."

"And I wonder, you know, it's clear that a concerted campaign has been made to cause these to be publicized. And that is one of the problems that bothers many of us. Obviously this type of material is not relevant to the question of whether the President has committed treason, bribery or high crimes or misdemeanors. I can only characterize this as malicious and vicious attempts to poison the public mind against the President by any means."

The Times reported that Nixon called U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica a "wop," made references to "Jewboys" on the Securities and Exchange Commission and called the three original Watergate prosecutors "those Jews down there."

Red Dissidents Publish Paper Despite Threats

MOSCOW (UPI) — An underground newspaper suppressed by political police 18 months ago is back in circulation — a new attempt by dissidents in the Soviet Union to reassert themselves.

The Chronicle of Current Events, once the outside world's chief source of information about Kremlin crackdowns on dissent, has published three new issues, covering events up to the end of last year.

Physicist Sergei Korvalov, mathematician Tatiana Velikanova and linguist Tatiana Khodorovich gave copies of the typewritten journal to newsmen Sunday. All three dissidents said they faced arrest for their action.

The three were among scores of persons arrested and questioned about the Chronicle by KGB political police during 1972 and 1973.

The last issue of the Chronicle, which has a reputation for accuracy, appeared in October, 1972. Publication was suspended after a crackdown involving hundreds of KGB men and threats of mass arrests for every new issue.

The Chronicle, which circulates from hand to hand, reports information about dissent and repression from volunteers in various parts of the Soviet Union. Many of the underground newspaper's readers also type copies to increase circulation in a process called "samizdat" (self-publishing).

NIXON SUPPORTERS — With cries for resignation and impeachment surrounding him, President Nixon still has a group of supporters. Lawyer Fred Buzhardt, left, denied rumors of ethnic slurs in tapes; daughter Julie Nixon Eisenhower, center, joined her husband in supporting the president's claims of innocence, and chief of staff Alexander M. Haig, right, rejected attempts to demand resignation.

WITH ISRAELI LEADERS

Chanting Demonstrators Greet Kissinger's Visit

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Taunted by a chorus of protesting demonstrators, U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger held the first of two meetings with Israeli leaders today on bridging the negotiating gap with Syria over a military disengagement for the Golan Heights.

U.S. officials with Kissinger put chances of reaching an agreement at about 50-50, but in Washington White House officials said Kissinger was on the verge of a Middle East breakthrough and hinted a Syrian-Israeli troop separation accord might come this week. Israel was less optimistic.

The Israeli cabinet met for four hours after a one-hour session between Kissinger, Mrs. Meir and their aides. A communique said the cabinet reviewed Kissinger's disengagement efforts. Kissinger planned to meet with the Israeli negotiators again at 6 p.m. (noon EDT). As the cabinet met, about 500 demonstrators gathered across the street protesting further concessions to the Syrians.

Striding into the meeting at Mrs. Meir's office, Kissinger glanced briefly in the direction of about 50 persons holding placards and chanting slogans 150 feet away in a parking lot. The protesters, mostly settlers in Jewish outposts on the Heights, called him "Killing" and other epithets.

When the meeting broke up, Information Minister Shimon Peres and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan walked over to the protesters and remonstrated with them to tone down their remarks about Kissinger.

"He doesn't deserve it," Peres said. "It's not polite."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the two sides broke off the talks to allow the cabinet to meet at noon.

Kissinger had shuttled to Damascus on Sunday for talks with President Hafez Assad and returned to Israel Sunday night for today's meetings — the 16th day of his current mission. He was expected to fly back to Damascus with the Israeli Replias after the cabinet meeting.

The Israeli press was less optimistic than the Americans traveling with Kissinger. The newspaper Ha'aretz quoted senior Israeli officials as saying Syria had rejected the Israeli proposal for a disengagement line in the heights and demanded additional territory in the Quneitra region plus more villages along the 1967 cease-fire line.

According to this estimate Kissinger would get an agreement only on a separation line and leave the rest of the aspects to continued negotiations in Geneva, Ha'aretz said.

The secretary was to confer tonight with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and fly Tuesday to Syria, the next stop on his Jerusalem-Damascus diplomatic shuttle.

IN MID-EAST TALKS

Nixon 'Optimistic' Of Breakthrough

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon temporarily sets aside his battle against impeachment today to focus his attention on optimistic reports that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is on the verge of a breakthrough in the Syria-Israeli impasse.

White House officials are hinting that an accord on troop disengagement in the Golan Heights might come this week. They said despite the "heat of emotion" on Watergate, Nixon spent much of the weekend studying cables from Kissinger and would be "actively involved" in foreign policy the early part of this week.

Nixon spent a rare Sunday at the White House with members of his family, who gathered for Mother's Day.

On Saturday, his daughter Julie Eisenhower and her husband David held a news conference at which they said Nixon told them he would take his troubles constitutionally down to the wire.

Aides said Nixon "felt good" over the warm reception he received Saturday at Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, where he vowed at an airport reception that he would "never give up" in his struggle to stay in the presidency.

But a reading of the Sunday public opinion polls spelled bad news for Nixon. The Louis Harris poll, taken after the censored Watergate transcripts were released, showed 49 per cent of the American people want Nixon impeached and removed from office.

The Roper organization poll showed 53 per cent of the American people now favor impeachment.

Alexander M. Haig, White House chief of staff, was quoted in the Washington Post as saying, "He's not going to be pressured out of office. We just can't succumb to the firestorms of public opinion."

BY INDEPENDENT TRUCKERS

Few Signs Seen On New Strike

United Press International State police reported there were few signs that a truckers strike called for today by Overdrive magazine had taken hold in Pennsylvania. Similar reports came from most other sections of the country.

Police said that in Pennsylvania, key state in the truckers strike that seriously disrupted trucking throughout the nation in February, drivers appeared to have assumed a "wait and see" posture in connection with the strike call.

Editor Michael Parkhurst of Overdrive, an independent truckers' publication, issued the strike call Sunday night and predicted that more than 90,000 drivers would start a nationwide walkout at midnight.

But except in Utah, where drivers voted to keep their rigs off the roads after midnight, there was no evidence that the truckers were paying any heed to Parkhurst.

A Pennsylvania State Police patrol car was struck by rifle fire on the Pennsylvania Turnpike early today about one hour after the scheduled start of the walkout. It was not known whether the incident had any connection with the trucking situation.

Air hoses were severed on about six trucks parked at the Blue Ridge truck stop on U.S. 119 north of Conneville, Pa., and rocks were thrown at the windshields of trucks moving on U.S. 40 and State Route 51. There were no injuries and no arrests, police said.

Drivers in other parts of the country were said to be awaiting the action of Pennsylvania drivers before taking any action. And the absence of strike activity in the Keystone State apparently signified that no nationwide shutdown would take place.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania expressed doubt Sunday night that there would be any strike. He offered to introduce legislation to allow the drivers another 60 days for renewing state licenses—the present deadline is May 31. He noted that the truckers needed the extension because they are short of cash—a license costs a minimum of $200.

Other demands of the drivers include the raising of the current 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, and the right for small truckers to haul manufactured goods in competition with the big trucking companies.

A trucking strike, which affected widespread areas of the nation, began last Jan. 31 and lasted until Feb. 11. It was accompanied by violence, which especially hit Pennsylvania and Ohio. A trucker was killed in Pennsylvania when he crashed his vehicle after a huge rock smashed through his windshield.

Many drivers stayed off the roads in fear of attack. A number of states suffered shortages of gas and foodstuffs, particularly fresh produce.

The shutdown was over truckers' demand for relief from high fuel prices and low fuel supplies, as well as other restrictions related to the energy shortage.

Wiretap Law Uses Rejected By Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, in an action probably meaning acquittal for hundreds of criminal defendants, ruled unanimously today that the Justice Department consistently violated federal wiretap law while John N. Mitchell was attorney general.

The 9-0 decision hinged on an interpretation of the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1968, which lays down specific procedures for making application to a trial judge for a wiretap order.

Affected by the ruling are narcotics and gambling prosecutions against hundreds of persons in various courts, which have been upheld pending a final decision on the wiretap procedures.

One of the test cases involved narcotics charges against Dominic Nicholas Giordano and 13 co-defendants in Baltimore. The Justice Department had told the Court about 1,430 persons were involved in the various cases.

Justice Byron R. White wrote opinions in two highly complex cases. The Justice Department won in one of the cases but lost in the other—the one holding unanimously that many of the wiretaps were handled illegally by Mitchell's subordinates.

The court held that the department did not err in authorizing U.S. attorneys in the field to set up wiretaps.

In other actions, the court: —Let stand a lower court decision allowing the FBI to keep secret its files on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, which author Harold Weisberg had sought under the Freedom of Information Act.

—Blocked an order which would have required the Chicago Transit Authority to accept "Impeach Nixon" advertising on its buses.

—Let stand a lower court ruling that Rhode Island's amended anti-abortion law is unconstitutional. The statute said the fetus is a person from the moment of conception.

—Agreed to decide if a federal judge can immediately sentence persons for contempt when they refuse to testify at a trial even after receiving immunity from prosecution.

—In cases involving sex discrimination, dismissed a challenge to Virginia's law allowing alimony only for women; refused to hear a coed's complaint that Eastern Kentucky University's dormitory curfew discriminates against women; and let stand a decision that the Air Line Stewards Association did not properly represent 600 airline stewardesses protesting their discharge because of pregnancy.

In the wiretap case, the Justice Department argued that, at worst, it had committed "harmless error" in its procedures and had not endangered anyone's privacy.

A second issue focused on what has become known as "Will Wilson letters" — wiretap permissions to U.S. attorneys in the field which former Assistant Attorney General Will Wilson was obliged under law to sign. Instead they were signed by deputies.

The department won on the second issue.

The challenged practices, which were carried on in 1969 and 1970, have been discontinued.

The department originally told the court about 1,430 persons are involved in a series of cases awaiting today's decisions.

White said "plainly enough, the executive assistant is neither the attorney general nor a specially designated assistant attorney general."

'CLEARING THE DECKS'

Activity Underway For Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While politicians continue to debate the merits of a presidential resignation, the House Judiciary Committee opens its first full week of impeachment hearings Tuesday, and the Senate is quietly preparing to "clear the decks."

The House panel, having begun hearing evidence against President Nixon last Thursday, may have another battle over subpoenas shaping up.

The committee, still demanding more White House tapes that Nixon has vowed will not be released, may back off from the strategy of subpoenaing a mass of tapes all at once. Instead, it may call for specific individual tape recordings.

Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino has indicated the panel might abandon its sweeping request, forwarded April 19, for about 75 presidential tapes.

Nixon defied an earlier committee subpoena for 42 tapes, furnishing instead the edited transcripts that have provoked public controversy. The White House has since said repeatedly it will provide no more Watergate materials. The committee has three days of closed hearings scheduled this week. The hearings may be opened to the public next week with a decision pending on whether they will be televised.

On the other side of the Capitol, a random survey by UPI shows that many senators have been studying Senate rules of impeachment, seeking additional reading material from the Library of Congress and submitting procedural questions to staff.

members on the Rules Committee.

In addition, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield has met with committee chairmen and urged them to speed their legislative pace so that, in his words, the "decks will be clear" if a trial is held.

"We'll be prepared to face up to our duty," he said in an interview. Mansfield estimated that "if and when the issue comes to the Senate, it would take two weeks to get things in order. Then we'd put all business aside, except for appropriations bills and the like."

Reports Claim Dog Discovers Pat's Blindfold

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Randolph A. Hearst said Sunday he was not surprised by reports that his daughter may have been blindfolded while staying at a hideout used by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"I've known she was taken against her will since the very beginning," said Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner. "It was not surprising that they'd find a blindfold or anything else."

He was referring to an unconfirmed story printed in the Chicago Tribune which said a dog trained to follow Miss Hearst's scent went directly to a blindfold made of sponges in an apartment abandoned by the SLA two weeks ago.

Charles Bates, the FBI man in charge of the investigation into SLA activities, refused to comment on the story, but he said the trail of the terrorist group "has never been completely cold."

ON SEWAGE PLANT

City Still Awaiting Word About Grant

City Hall still is awaiting word on the status of its application for federal aid on Pampa's proposed $1-million improvement at the city's sewage treatment plant.

City Manager Mack Wofford today received notice from the Texas Water Quality Board in Austin that Pampa now is No. 30 on the construction priority list among 375 Texas cities and towns requesting federal financial assistance on sewage treatment projects.

Wofford said the understanding is that if a city is among the first 50 on the list, the prospects are "pretty good" for getting the grant.

Pampa has applied for federal help in the amount of 75 percent of the total cost. Wofford pointed out that Pampa was No. 10 on the original list of applicants released several months ago.

The city manager said he had not received any explanation for the city being moved back to No. 30. Wofford said Gene Barber of the Merriman and Barber consultant engineering firm, which is handling the local project, is expected to report to city commissioners when they meet in regular session at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in City Hall.

The notice received by Wofford this morning stated that another TWQB hearing on construction priorities is scheduled for 10 a.m. tomorrow in Austin.

He stated it was unlikely that it would be necessary for Pampa to be represented at the hearing.

ALTHOUGH NERVOUS

Texas Truckers Aren't Striking

United Press International The new strike by truckers set to begin today across the nation apparently has only made a few people nervous in Texas, but has shut down no trucking.

"We haven't missed a delivery," said Bill Shipley, wholesale salesman at the Farmers Meat Market in Dallas. "We don't know who struck and we probably won't know for a few days, if then. There are a lot of truckers out front there, and they are moving in and out just like they always do."

Jack C. Bryan, official of the Texas Motor Transportation Association (TMTA) in Austin, said the strike from the time it was first mentioned about two months ago has been "awful vague." He said the TMTA, which is the lobby for the truck and bus industry in Texas, had received no reports of striking drivers or shutdowns.

"Our people, the carriers, the trucking lines, the grocery concerns, the manufacturers, are not the ones who are going to be involved in this thing," he said. "But we could be caught in a trap going into an area, with roads blocked by other truckers."

"As far as my sources indicate, the strike is going to be pretty much limited to the Rio Grande Valley, if it comes off. Most of the drivers that would strike are down there. Those are the type drivers who would be in the strike, if it happens. They operate out of their hip pockets."

"We have no reports of any shutdowns. Right now, I would doubt it happens."

Clean-Up Crews Continuing Work

City clean-up crews will finish their work in Ward 2 today and tomorrow and move into Ward 3 Wednesday for one week.

R.B. Cooke, city public works director, said 14 loads were hauled away from Ward 2 Friday bringing the total loads removed so far in the annual city-wide clean-up campaign to 135. Cooke urged Ward 3 residents to have trash and debris ready for pick up Wednesday morning.

TAKES WRONG PLANE

LONDON (UPI) — A funny thing happened to Mrs. Shirley McVay on her way home to Chicago from Los Angeles Sunday — she arrived in London.

With her was her 2-year-old son, Bernardo. Mrs. McVay, 29, said she happened to get on the wrong plane. "Two other relatives were supposed to be traveling with me and I thought they were in another part of the airliner," she said. "There was no room at the back where my seat should have been so I went up front and the stewardess said, 'OK. Sit down there.'"

"It really gave me a bit of a shock when I heard we were going so far."

Meteorologist Tells Kiwanians About Tornado

William Frank, chief meteorologist at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Amarillo, told Pampa Kiwanis' Club members Friday what to do when a tornado approaches.

If one has actually been spotted, listen to the radio for directions, he said. Then open windows on the opposite side of the tornado approach, get under a heavy piece of furniture on the ground floor or basement.

Above all don't call the police or sheriff's office. Listen to the radio. Frank said winds in a funnel cloud sometimes reach 300 miles an hour. Mobile homes should be anchored and if you are out on the road in a car when a tornado approaches, get out and lie face down in a culvert if possible.

Frank said the Amarillo weather bureau is one of the larger ones in the U.S., but added severe weather alerts for the Texas Panhandle come from the Kansas City Bureau.

ON REGULATIONS EPA Agents To Speak At Local API Meeting

The Panhandle Chapter of American Petroleum Institute will meet Thursday, May 16, at the Pampa Country Club at 6:30 p.m.

E. Wallace Cooper from the Dallas office of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and Seth Abbott, chairman of the API task force on oil pollution prevention, will present a program explaining the Oil Pollution Prevention Regulations. Slides will be used to show some of the clean-up operations of spills.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Oil Pollution Prevention Regulations became effective Jan. 10, 1974. The regulation requires owners or operators of non-transportation related onshore and offshore facilities to prepare and implement Spill Prevention Control and Countermeasure (SPCC) plans for facilities under their control.

These SPCC plans must be fully implemented by Jan. 11, 1975 unless an extension of time is granted by the regional administrator. The plan must be technically sound, have full approval of management and be certified by a registered professional engineer. A copy of the plan must be maintained at the facility.

Delegates Debate Judiciary Article

AUSTIN (UPI) — Constitutional Convention delegates, facing a decision on a sweeping proposal to realign the state's court system, began work today on the article that could take up the most debate yet in the five-month-old convention.

The judiciary article, which took a committee of 21 lawyer-delegates four months to complete, proposes to streamline the court system from the peace justice benches to the Supreme Court.

The committee recommended that the existing non-justice Supreme Court, which now has jurisdiction only over civil cases, be merged with the five-judge Court of Criminal Appeals, the court of last resort for criminal cases.

Peggy's sex example shows the difference between mere mating vs. marriage. And it illustrates the sexual sophistry of those who have been indoctrinated by Dr. Spool's permissive nonsense. "When you see a wrong, hit it!" said Abraham Lincoln.

SEX SOPHISTRY

CASE A-631: Peggy D., aged 36, is a psychology professor.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "it shocks me to see how some of our university faculty members 'swallow' the liberal nonsense now being paraded as scientific fact."

"For example, I attended our American Psychological Association annual meeting in California."

"One of the notorious sexologists was invited to address this group of college teachers."

"And he stressed sex counseling, even demonstrating some cases before the assembled A.P.A. members."

"As a starter, he had a divorced woman, mother of a 6-year-old daughter, present her problem."

"She said that she craved male attention, so was asserting her freedom to have lovers visit her in her bedroom."

"But she wondered about her little girl's reaction to seeing so many different men sleeping with her mother."

"And this visiting sexologist approved of her conduct, saying a woman has a right to get whatever affection she craves!"

"Indeed, he even minimized the effect of such promiscuity on the mind of that little girl."

"For he said children must learn to adjust to the facts of life, the sooner the better."

"Besides, he cited an example of other youngsters who publicly proclaim to their classmates that 'My mother has more boy friends than yours.'"

"And this speaker said that a mother's many boy friends could thus help inflate the pride of her young children in their association with their school mates."

"Dr. Crane, isn't this sophistry disgusting?"

"How could any sincere teacher, whether in high school or college, condone such permissive nonsense?"

Jesus aptly diagnosed our modern "permissive" age, as abetted by Dr. Spool, when he said (Matthew 15: 14):

"they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch."

Sensationalizers always try to clamber upon any new bandwagon, whether it be the Women's Lib or the recent doctrine that "God is dead."

They hope to rate headlines and notoriety by trying to oppose time-tested truisms.

Such people are called iconoclasts (breakers of previously respected images).

For there is always a minority group which will adopt any nonsense if in so doing, they can shock their comrades and thus attain the social spotlight.

That often explains why cigarette addicts start this nuisance habit at the age of 15.

The roof fell in on electric utility common stocks when Consolidated Edison, the nation's largest electric utility company, omitted the second quarterly dividend. Con Ed hasn't missed a dividend since 1885.

Utility common stocks have traditionally been regarded as steady dividend payers and "safe" from the standpoint of earnings per share being more than adequate to cover the dividend. When Con Ed dropped the bomb, a selling wave hit the electric utility common stock group.

Con Ed's problems are unique in several ways, but the entire electric utility industry is faced with the possibility that some companies may have to reduce or omit dividends unless regulatory bodies act promptly to grant rate increases.

Con Ed has been faced with declining electricity sales, sharply climbing fuel costs and tremendous difficulties in getting its customers to pay their bills.

Matters hit the crisis stage in April when the company had to announce that it was going to have to sell two partially completed generating plants in order to raise enough cash to pay its bills.

Most electric utility companies are reporting first quarter earnings 1-20 per cent below last year. Cautious investors are estimating that earnings for the year will be off by the same amount.

They may be too pessimistic. First quarter earnings were abnormally affected by increases in fuel costs which may be offset by lower fuel costs and rate increases later in the year. Earnings will probably be flat compared to last year instead of sharply lower.

Yields of 8 1/2-9 per cent are available in a number of utility issues where the income and dividend seem secure. You may wish to consider the following for purchase now: Commonwealth Edison, Pacific Gas & Electric, Pennsylvania Power, Southern California Edison, Southwestern Public Service and Wisconsin Electric Power.

The following utility stocks should be avoided for the time being or until sales increases appear or rate increases are approved: Boston Edison, General Public Utilities, Northeast

Utilities, Philadelphia Electric and Union Electric.

Spirits don't exist— not even in Kansas City

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if you believe in spirits. I never did, but something happened that really got me thinking, and I don't know who else to ask about this.

When my husband was in Kansas City on a business trip he looked up an old girl friend just for old time's sake, and she told him that I had visited her some years back under very mysterious circumstances.

Abby, I have never met this woman in my life. In fact, I have never been to Kansas City. Now here is where the spirits come in:

My husband swears that this girl is telling the truth and that somehow my spirit left my body and went to Kansas City to visit Agnes. He says that Agnes described me to a "t," even to the mole I have on my right cheek, so now I don't know what to think.

Can you explain this? I am all bewildered and confused.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I don't believe in spirits. Even though you've never been to Kansas City or met Agnes, perhaps Agnes has seen you or a picture of you. Or possibly you have been described in detail to her. Don't worry about it. There is no evidence that spirits exist, much less leave the body and go to Kansas City.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14. My mother remarried two years ago. The problem is that before she remarried, she used to spend all her time with me and my little brother. As soon as she remarried she started spending all her spare time with him.

She is always sending us to the movies, park, etc. just to get us out of the house so she can be alone with him. My younger brother doesn't realize it, but our mother buys us things to make up for it. [Her shutting us out.]

Do you think I should have a talk with her and explain how I feel? I don't have anybody to tell my troubles to. Please help me. I feel so alone.

SHUT OUT

DEAR SHUT: Yes. Tell your mother how you feel. It will open the door to conversation and give your mother an opportunity to tell you how she feels, too. Instead of resenting the time your mother spends with her new husband, you should be glad she has found someone with whom she is so obviously compatible. If she's actually neglecting you and your brother, she may not realize it until you speak up.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the mother of an 11th grader who is upset about the four-letter words in the books assigned him to read by his English teacher.

Mrs. Upset states: "If I heard my son using such language as he is being forced to read, he would get five knuckles in the mouth."

As a mother and teacher it is my opinion that there is more suffering in this world caused by parents who think parenthood gives them the right to apply five knuckles in the mouth than by all the four-letter words that ever were.

Just as beauty lies in the eye of the beholder, so does filth in literature. To this beholder, dirty words, if used at all, might better be used to describe man's inhumanity to man: the inhumanity of assuming the right to judge the values of another person and further assuming the right to physically assault another person because of a difference in values.

TUESDAY, MAY 14
Your birthday today: Conversion is the main principle in your coming year's experience. This changeover process gets easier as you gradually gain supplemental skills. Relationships contain many surprises, new beginnings and introductions. Today's natives have a strong sense of humor and the knack for turning an ordinary story into a fascinating one.

Aries | March 21-April 19: Much of what seemed settled early in the day proves otherwise by late evening. Direct, discreet action saves the situation. Be alert.

Taurus | April 20-May 20: New ideas can be quite useful, once you're used to them. Your friends will create lively complications if you let them.

Gemini | May 21-June 20: Wishful thinking must be discarded. Serious study benefits your creative projects. Money gets loose too easily—watch out!

Cancer | June 21-July 22: Serious discussion of money and its uses is not enough. Everybody does what he wants anyway. You've got to draw a line on your own expenditures.

Leo | July 23-Aug. 22: This quiet day can be filled with good results and sound purchases if made early. It shouldn't be prolonged to squeeze in any last minute, hasty actions.

Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22: Teamwork improves your chances of success. You have plenty of opportunity to communicate and temptation to say too much too soon. Keep it simple.

Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22: Changes early in the day are probably temporary, but those made later tend to be permanent. Leave nothing to chance. Older people may have good advice.

Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21: You can troubleshoot and make minor corrections early, consolidate progress on creative ventures late in the day. Evening favors technical consultations.

Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21: Bright ideas need double checking, may be very useful by late afternoon. Home life promises to be lively, contributes to personal and family resources.

Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 19: Financial prospects are looking up. Family and neighbors' concerns are near at hand. Use the opportunity to improve the entire situation.

Aquarius | Jan. 20-Feb. 18: If you want anything above normal routine, you'll have to try harder today. If you must rely on others, maintain your surface calm and total tact.

Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20: Getting started early merely adds to the corrections you must make later in the day. Personal plans survive the stress, may even increase in merit.

First Class Pins Presentation Highlights Girl Scout Banquet

Two Pampa students who are members of Troop 90, were recently awarded their First Class pins in Girl Scouts at an awards banquet the troop held for their parents. Recipients of the awards were Susanne Walsh and Kim Hagerman, ninth grade students at Pampa Junior High.

Both girls have been in scouting together since they began with Troop 75 organized by Mrs. B.J. Hagerman and directed by Mrs. Hagerman and Mrs. C.W. Walsh several years. Through their scouting years the girls have each earned over 40 badges in Scouting and the four challenges for Cadettes. They recently completed the Active Citizenship and Girl Scout Promise Challenges and the six proficiency badges to qualify as First Class Scouts.

Their citizenship project was organizing, promoting, and conducting the anti-litter campaign on aluminum cans for recycling. Their depository is at 19th and Hobart Streets next to the Fina Station.

Miss Walsh was recently honored with the Best Girl Citizen award given during the Pampa Junior High award assembly. An honor roll student each semester, she is in the top 10 of her ninth grade class, and a member of the National Junior Honor Society Rating sports at the top of her hobbies, she is on the school volleyball team.

Miss Hagerman is active in FHA, a member of the student council, an office assistant at Pampa Junior High, and a member of the Quivira Scout Council.

Program Committee. She enjoys sewing, bicycling, embroidery, and reading.

Both girls are active members of St. Vincent's Church. They are members of the Junior Christian Youth Organization, church choir, and church nursery staff.

Miss Walsh and Miss Hagerman are members of scouting families. Miss Walsh has three sisters who have been in scouting and Miss Hagerman three brothers active in the scouting program.

Miss Hagerman said that scouting had helped her learn how to work with many different people and through the program she had met many wonderful people she might not have ever known.

Miss Walsh attributed her recent citizenship award to what she had learned through her many experiences working with others in the scout program. Both students plan to pursue careers in which they can work with children as teachers.

Other members of Troop 90 receiving membership pins, conservation and first aid badges emergency preparedness and social dependability challenges included Sally Brainard, Carrie Comer, Mary Gantz, Susan Michael, Kathryn Morgan, Sarah Lee Stallings, Jennifer Suttle, and Cheryl Birkes.

Jerrie Carter received the emergency preparedness challenge, and she, Teri Prentice, and Relinda Brewer the membership pins.

Troop leaders are Mrs. David Gantz and Mrs. Wallace Birkes.

NUTRITION A LA CARTE

The big message in fruits and vegetables is vitamins. Quite a few of the foods in this group are rich in iron as well. Vegetables will "turn you on" whether you cook them or eat them raw. Fresh or canned fruits fit in with everything. Eat at least four servings of fruits and vegetables daily as part of the four food group plan for good health.

Your kitchen can be a dangerous room in your house. Cuts, falls, burns, and poisoning — all these can happen in the kitchen if you're not careful. Keep poisons and medicine somewhere else, out of reach. Prevent burns and cuts by not leaving these risks unattended. And keep your children away from electricity.

Milk is an important food for the elderly. It contains a wide variety of nutrients. If chewing is a problem, milk, alone or with eggs, may be the major source of high quality protein. Calcium in milk may protect against demineralization of bones. Milk fat is sometimes tolerated when other fats cause digestive distress.

Salads can make a wonderful lunch, especially for businessmen and women who have to return to a desk for an afternoon's work. Almost any restaurant menu now offers salads that are almost a complete meal in themselves. Have one with milk as a beverage and you'll avoid that sleepier afternoon feeling that a heavier meal can create.

Good nutrition won't guarantee athletic ability. But it will go a long way to helping your young athlete reach his full potential in sports. Well balanced meals each day, plus nutritious snacks, are the pattern he should follow with four or more glasses of milk a day and a wide variety of other foods.

Regularly I suggest that people would feel better if they stopped skipping breakfast. To save arguments in the family, have your breakfast "skippers" try eating breakfast for two or three weeks and let them appraise for themselves whether they do or do not feel better in the morning and accomplish more at school or at work.

The hamburger is said to have been popular in Germany before immigrants brought the idea to the United States. But Americans were the first to put it on a bun. This happened in 1904 at the St. Louis World's Fair, where the ice cream cone was also invented, and iced tea first served.

Broadway

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) —
When one has been writing about the New York theater long enough, it is possible to begin to think that a new year begins on May 3 and not Jan. 1.

Because on May 3, a whole new year began for "The Fantasticks," and this is the 14th time I have recorded that fact. Do that often enough, and it's no wonder the calendar can seem to be out of order.

The persistent little musical with the lovely score entered its 15th year May 3. It is still at the off-Broadway Sullivan Street Playhouse in Greenwich Village where it began life in 1960.

The anniversary evening marked the 5,831st performance here for this longest running musical in theater history.

"The Fantasticks" is the work of songwriters Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, and its success resulted in them moving uptown to create several big Broadway musicals.

So far, there have been 3,371 productions of the show in the United States in more than 1,500 cities and towns. This includes stock, amateur, college and high school productions.

It has played in all of the 50 states, plus Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia.

There have been 12 national touring companies over the years, and there have been 221 productions in 54 foreign countries. Also, there was a national television version broadcast on NBC.

It seems like almost every actor in town has appeared in the New York production at one time or another over the years. The cast changes have been numerous. Players will appear in it for a time, leave for other work and then return to it in their original roles or, possibly, other parts. Even Lore Noto, the producer and a former actor, stepped into the cast for a spell last year.

Jerry Orbach, Rita Gardner and Kenneth Nelson of the original company graduated to Broadway stardom. Jones, the librettist and lyricist, was an original player under the name Thomas Bruce.

Producer Noto sees no end in sight for the New York production.

ROCK MUSIC

By BRUCE MEYER
United Press International
Wall-to-wall people in a backstage dressing room, champagne and beer flowing freely from iced bottles. On one side of the room, Gracie Slick is explaining her new interest in the Orient and demonstrating her Samurai sword. Her goal, she says, is learning to remove the tops of wine bottles with one swipe.

The other side of the room is somewhat saner. Paul Kantner is explaining the status of the Jefferson Airplane and the band's offspring, the Jefferson Starship.

"We (Paul and Gracie) just wanted to play again. We've been waiting a year for Jorma and Jack (Kaukonen and Casady, the Airplane's lead guitarist and bass, respectively) to get it together, and we just got tired of waiting."

Gracie, clad in her Samurai suit, explains that her pupils are permanently dilated. Paul continues:

"This (the Starship) is definitely a new band. We don't want to rely too much on old Airplane material."

But though the Starship is a separate band, all is not yet lost for Airplane freaks:

"The Airplane has not broken up officially or legally," says Paul. "We may play together again—maybe even make an album. Marty Balin may come back—we (Paul and Marty) have been writing songs together lately."

The Doors are no more—they died, just as all the doomsayers predicted, with Jim Morrison in Paris. But the remnants of the band move on. Robbie Krieger and John Densmore have formed the Butts Band, a sort of mellow rock 'n' roll group.

Keyboardman Ray Manzarek, meanwhile, is off on his own trip, with a new album called "The Golden Scarab" (Mercury SRM 1-703). It's a concept LP, rooted in a book by Sigmund Freud, "Moses and Monotheism."

"Scarab," says Ray, is "about this guy who is waiting for the messiah. He's looking for someone to show him the way... a personal quest for the understanding of life. At the end he finds out that he can only do it himself. Take life as it is, don't judge."

A grandiose theme, to say the least, but handled relatively well, except for the utterly insane lines of spoken narration between several of the tracks. On the whole, though, a successful debut for Manzarek as a solo.

A prediction: Kiss is going to be a super-group and may just bring us all back to the kind of tailshaking rock 'n' roll we all deserve... the gas shortage has caused two of my favorite bands to try a new twist: buspooling. The New Riders of the Purple Sage and Commander Cody are sharing Cody's scenicruiiser bus, "Honeysuckle Rose," on tour... For better or worse, Jeff Baxter of Steely Dan has disclosed that the band gives each potential song idea 10 minutes of brainstorming before going ahead with it or throwing it out. Fast workers... James Taylor begins a 22-city tour in May... Alice Cooper's first movie will be out soon, including footage from the "Billion Dollar Babies" tour.

THE HOUSE DOCTOR

Creaking Stairs Can Sometimes Be Easily Fixed

By HERMAN BAUM
Dear House Doctor:

During the past few months, some of the treads of the stairs to the second floor of our home have begun to creak when stepped on. It is not a serious problem, but it is annoying. Please tell me if this is a job that I can handle and not call in a carpenter.

ANSWER — We agree that creaking stairs are not serious, but very annoying to burglars, late poker players, and refrigerator raiders. A homeowner, reasonably handy with tools, can usually handle the problem, and it is certainly worth a try.

The job is much easier if the underside of the stairs is exposed, but this is seldom the case. Many stairs are factory assembled units with rabbeted connections and this may add to the difficulty.

The first thing you must do is to determine if the noise is being generated at the front or back of the tread. If this is not possible, then it becomes a matter of trial and error.

Let's start with the case where the underside of the stair is exposed. If the tread and riser are rabbeted into the stringers, you will usually find wedges used to make the connections tight. If this is the case, simply tightening the wedges should solve the problem.

In other cases, a couple of shelf brackets, installed as illustrated, will hold the tread and riser tightly together. Attach the brackets to the tread first, then have an assistant stand on the tread while you drive the screws into the riser.

Another method used by carpenters is to use glue and a screw to attach a wood block on the riser pressed hard up against the tread. A couple of finishing nails will remove the squeaks originating at the connection of the bottom of the riser and the back of the tread.

—Herman Baum
TB Increases Noted In State
The American Lung Association of Texas reported today that a comparison between the first four months of 1974 and 1973 shows an increase of TB cases for the current year. State Health Department statistics for the period in 1973 reported 637 cases whereas 963 cases have been reported thus far in 1974.

Bill Mackey and Miss Vermell Meador, RN, serve Gray County for the association.

Glynn B. Roland of Amarillo, president of the Top of Texas Area of ALAT, stated that the five-year median of reported TB cases stands now at 60 cases per week in Texas.

Warning that the public must not be complacent toward TB as a public health menace, Roland said the Christmas Seal group advocates a tuberculosis check-up as an integral part of all physical examinations.

Symptoms of TB usually consist of persistent fatigue, expectoration, and cough, though symptoms often do not become apparent until the disease has advanced considerably. Non-pulmonary tuberculosis, such as TB of the bone or kidney, may cause fatigue and pain, but neither cough nor expectoration.

Hardest hit by the rise are dense population centers where contagion spreads most easily. Roland said, adding that a number of cases have nevertheles been reported in the relatively sparse population of the Panhandle.

If the underside of the stairs is enclosed, then all work must be done from the front. While alternately placing and removing a weight from the treads, see if there is any movement between the tread and riser that could cause the noise.

Drive thin wood wedges into these areas to prevent movement. After the wedges are in place, cut them off flush with the front surface and cover the connection with a small molding.

A simple cure for a noise that comes from the connection of the top of the riser and the front of the tread is to drive two 6-penny finishing nails through the tread and into the riser.

Drive the nails at an angle to each other so that they form a lock to hold the two pieces together. Set the nails below the surface and fill the holes with putty.

OUTPATIENTS' CLINIC
E. K. G. — Apply shellac to the water-stained ceiling before painting it. This prevents the stain showing through the new paint.

G. W. B. — The fungus on the floor joists in the crawl space can damage the wood. Spray the wood with a five percent solution of pentachlorophenol. Wear goggles and a respirator.

Mrs. E. F. G. — Metal air conditioning ducts must be covered with insulation that has a vapor barrier on the outside. Joints are sealed with a special cloth tape. Without this, condensation will form on the ducts and damage the ceiling below. Your air conditioning man apparently does not know his work.

PORCH PAINT
Dear House Doctor: We painted our concrete front porch with the best grade porch enamel, and in two months it peeled off. What is the trouble?

—Mrs. V. A. M.

ANSWER — Perhaps you are using the wrong type paint. Porch enamel is not suitable where the concrete is in contact with the earth. I recommend a water emulsion alkyd latex paint. All paint now on the floor must be removed first.

Another possibility is that the concrete has a polished finish. In this case, the surface should be etched with a mixture of one part muriatic acid slowly added to five parts water in a wood or enameled container. Acid is very dangerous to handle. Let an expert do it.

BATHROOM WALLS
Dear House Doctor: The area of our bathroom walls, above the tile, is painted. We want to paper these areas and ask if we should use prepepasted or dry strippable paper. Since the latter is easily removed, it appeals to us.

—Mrs. T. O.

ANSWER — It has been my experience that the so-called strippable coverings are removable for the first six months. After that, the adhesive becomes so dry that it cannot be removed.

A fabric type covering is best in a bathroom, as this will resist dampness and mildew. A special adhesive is required. I have used conventional prepepasted paper and then protected the surface with wallpaper wax. The result was quite satisfactory.

GUTTER LEAKS
Dear House Doctor: What is the best way to seal the joints in aluminum gutters so that they do not leak?

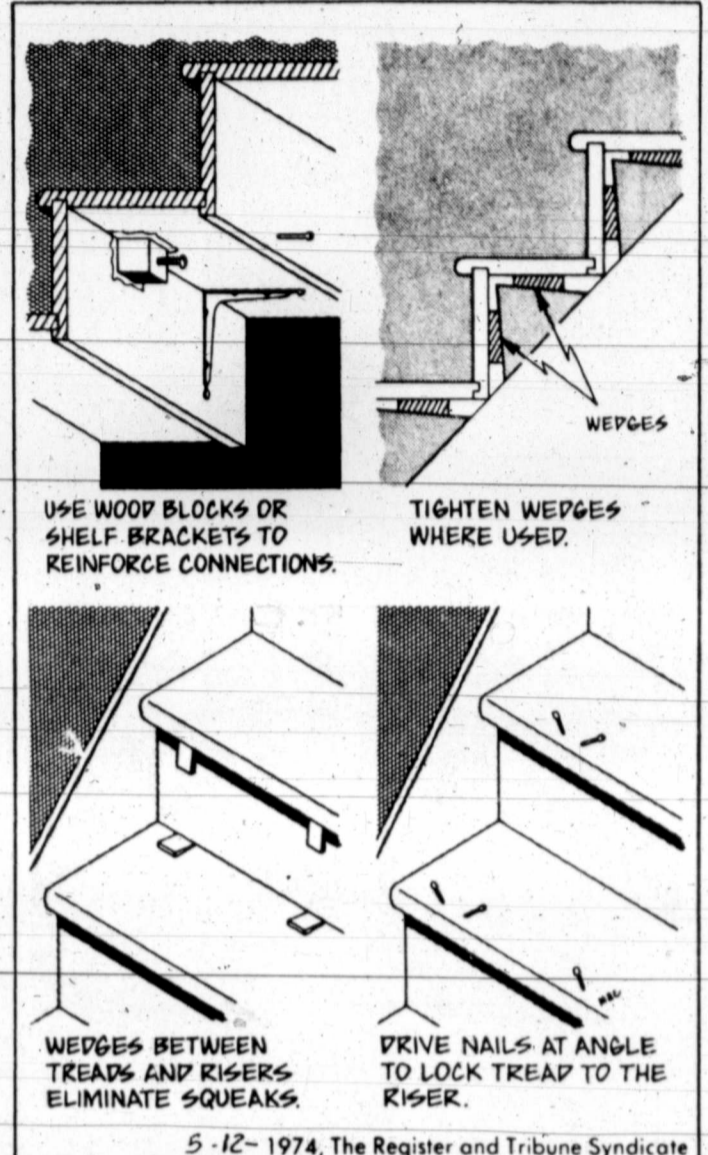

—A. M.

ANSWER — There is a special caulking made for these gutters, but any nonhardening vinyl or butyl caulking can be used with equal results. Success depends upon how well you are able to pack the caulking into the joints. To be sure of a good job, the gutters should be dismantled so that the connectors can be packed full.

GRASS CONTAINER
Last year, we published a plan for a stand to hold a plastic bag used for lawn clippings. A manufacturer sent us a device which we agree is a better idea than ours. It is an adjustable plastic liner that fits inside the bag to hold it upright while clippings are being packed into it.

If you cannot find it locally, write to Garbagger, Box 35007, Minneapolis, Minn. 55435.

A booklet covering 18 fence plans which the home handyman can build is now available. Send 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to The House Doctor, in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. Ask for "Wood Fences You Can Build."

What About Persimmon Fibers?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: You recently had an article about a bezoar caused by the indigestible fiber in persimmons...

in time create quite a large ball or bezoar. Bezoars are not common, although among foods persimmons are a frequent cause of them...

Do these fibers remain indigestible regardless of how they are prepared? Are the fibers indigestible in everyone's body? Would you recommend that no one eat persimmons?

Anyway, this is not so much a warning against persimmons as it is information about a situation that sometimes occurs.

No, I don't recommend that no one eat persimmons. But from the number of persimmon lovers who wrote me, I think if I had it to do over I might have started a persimmon farm instead of writing a medical column.

Boston Captures NBA Crown

ALTHOUGH MOST of the kids at Saturday's Opening Day ceremonies at Optimist Park had never heard of Warren Spahn, the Hall of Fame pitcher signed more than 200 autographs. He highlighted the festivities, which included a barbeque, program and Babe Ruth and Little League baseball games.

Reds Stomp Houston Twice

The Cincinnati Reds can make winning look so easy—as long as they get pitching.

Most experts think the Reds have the best all-around team in either league and point for proof to such super stars as Johnny Bench, Pete Rose, Joe Morgan and Tony Perez, plus border-liners like Dave Concepcion and Dave Driessen.

And yet the Reds have lost two National League playoffs and a World Series in the last four years because of pitching problems. Probably no team in modern times has had more bad luck with promising young pitchers than the Reds except for the "Boys of Summer" Brooklyn Dodgers of the 1950s.

Well, Manager Sparky Anderson had one of those beautiful days Sunday when the Reds got pitching and defeated the Houston Astros, 5-0 and 4-2. Fred Norman tossed a five-hitter in the first game and Clay Kirby allowed only two hits in the second game.

Concepcion, Bench and Merv Rettenmund supported Norman's fine pitching in the first game, while Kirby carried a one-hitter into the ninth before Cesar Cedeno hit a two-run homer for the Astros. Norman struck out nine in the opener and Kirby followed by striking out 10 batters in the second game.

Los Angeles scored six runs in the 13th inning to defeat San Diego, 15-9; San Francisco beat Atlanta, 6-2, after losing, 5-1; Philadelphia shaded Pittsburgh, 8-7, and Chicago edged out New York, 4-3, in other NL games.

American League scores were Milwaukee over New York, 7-3 and 5-1; Boston 4 Detroit 3; Chicago 5 Texas 4; Oakland 9 Minnesota 2, and Kansas City over

California, 3-2 and 5-2. Dodgers 15 Padres 9

Steve Garvey's tie-breaking single sparked a six-run 13th inning which carried the Dodgers to their victory after the Padres. Jim Wynn hit a two-run homer in the sixth and leads the major leagues with 31 runs batted in.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — John Havlicek likes to talk about the rebirth of the Boston Celtics. He's one of the few Celtics who played both in the glory years and in the years when things weren't going so good for Boston.

The "new Celtics" came of age Sunday when they beat the Milwaukee Bucks, 102-87, to win their 12th National Basketball Association title, four games to three.

"This title gives me greater satisfaction than any of the others," Havlicek said. "I was a part of the rebirth of this team. We used to look at Bill Russell for all the leadership and inspiration. But now these guys look to me and it gives me a very, very good feeling."

The Celtics won the title in one of the most exciting series in recent years. It is the first time in four years the finals have gone a full seven games.

"If there were any kids who want to learn how to play basketball, they should have been watching this series," Boston center Dave Cowens said. "It was just magnificent all the way."

With the score 71-68, Boston got eight straight points from four different men to take a 79-68 lead and Milwaukee was done.

The victory was worth $100,000 to the Celtics and built their post-season earning total to $215,000.

Hill Wins Open After 65 Round

HOUSTON (UPI) — Walking down the 17th fairway after sinking a 30-foot birdie putt on 16 to go two up on the Houston Open Field, Dave Hill knew he had shown the world and then some.

At that point, Hill said, "It looked like the good Lord wanted me to win because he had sompted all-over me before."

Not only did the 15-year-old tour veteran and well known "bad mouth" of the PGA show the heavens by firing a final round 65 Sunday to win the Open with a 12-under-par 277. But he went one up on the tournament sponsors, Houston Golf Association.

Hill explained Saturday after jumping into a share of the lead with Steve Melnyk that in 1973, he was stuck in Colorado and could not make the Houston Open. But an PGA official, Hill said, would not let him withdraw.

So if he won this year, the money would be incidental.

The Celtics found what they needed late in the game after the Bucks rallied from a 17 point deficit to come within three points of a tie.

Spahn Highlights Program Saturday For Opening Day

Bob Hayes, split end for Dallas Cowboys, did not show up Saturday for the Optimist Club's Opening Day baseball ceremonies. Otherwise, the program was a success Saturday.

The Bucks got $65,000 as losers and wound up with $220,000 for post-season play. Milwaukee's total was just short of the 1972 record pool of $224,000 won by the Los Angeles Lakers.

Milwaukee received a $40,000 bonus for finishing with the best regular season record in the NBA.

Davis, Blake Capture Titles In Whist Event

Joe Davis racked up 28 points to win the men's title while Betty Blake managed 26 and won the women's in the Pampa Tennis Club's Whist tournament, which opened the club's 1974 schedule, Sunday at the Pampa High School courts.

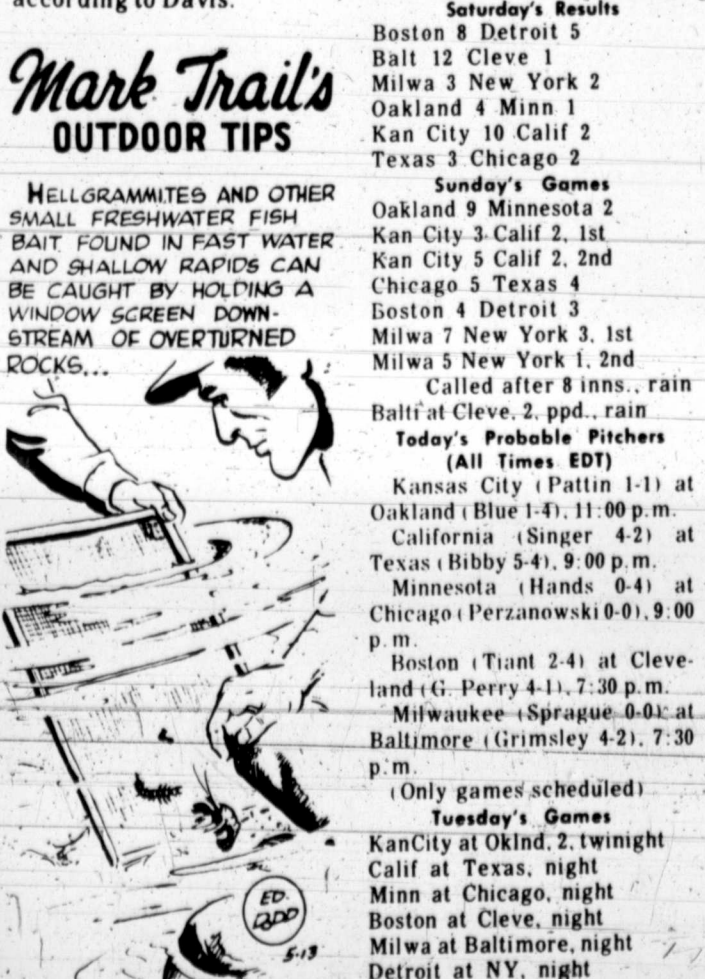

Jim Hughes and Joe Zuerker tied for second in the men's division with 26 and Mary Hughes and Dorothy Stowers scored 24 each in the women's.

A Whist tourney is one where mixed doubles matches are played. Entrants change partners eight times during the tournament.

The club's next event will be a mixed doubles tournament May 25-27 at the high school courts. Entry fee is $6.00 and can be paid to either Joe Davis or Jack Scott. Entries need to be in by Friday, the 24th, according to Davis.

5 WAYS TO PAY AT GOODYEAR

INSIDE WASHINGTON House Committee Okays All-Nuclear Navy Plan

By ROBERT S. ALLEN WASHINGTON — Epochal naval policy is being quietly laid down in a key House Armed Services subcommittee.

Without hooplah or fanfare, the Subcommittee on Seapower has unanimously approved legislation making it mandatory that henceforth all "major combatant vessels" be nuclear-powered.

Effect of this momentous provision would be as revolutionary as the introduction of steam and armor plate in the U.S. Navy more than a century ago.

Authors of the far-reaching measure are the bipartisan leaders of the subcommittee — Reps. Charles Bennett, D-Fla., chairman, and Bob Wilson, Calif., ranking Republican.

Both have long been staunch supporters of Adm. Hyman Rickover, "father" of this country's nuclear-powered submarine fleet.

Significantly, the Bennett-Wilson bill has the complete backing of the top leaders of the full Armed Services Committee — Reps. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman, and Melvin Price, D-Ill., second-ranking member.

With their influential cooperation, the Bennett-Wilson policy edict will be written into the pending multi-billion-dollar military procurement bill — as Title VIII. That will make it an integral part of this essential legislation.

In urging this, Rep. Wilson contended: "If we are to learn any lesson from the constantly expanding Soviet naval capability and the oil crisis, it is that we must provide nuclear propulsion in the new warships being built for our first-line striking forces which must be capable of defending us in areas of highest threat. To me, it is inconceivable that the Navy should even be considering the design of new ships for our aircraft carrier striking forces which do not have nuclear propulsion."

"It is time for our Navy to stop living in the past and to recognize the needs of the future. We must lose no time in going about the task of building the ships needed for our national defense. Not to do so could well be fatal. Our people must fully and clearly understand this stark reality, and face up to it."

What It Does The Bennett-Wilson measure not only explicitly directs that all "major combatant vessels" henceforth be nuclear-powered, but also specifies that "an adequate industrial and research" base be provided for this purpose.

This means the construction of new shipbuilding, laboratory and other facilities. Following is the way that is spelled out: "It is the policy of the United States of America to modernize the strike forces of the U.S. Navy by the construction of nuclear-powered major combatant vessels, and to provide for an adequate industrial base for the research, development, design, construction, operation and maintenance of such vessels. New construction of major combatant vessels for the strike forces of the U.S. Navy authorized subsequent to the date this Act becomes law shall be nuclear powered, except as provided hereafter."

Neither the Department of Defense nor the Office of Management and Budget, nor any other executive department or agency, nor any employe thereof, shall make any request for the authorization or appropriation for Congress for construction of any non-nuclear powered major combatant vessels for the strike forces of the U.S. Navy unless and until: The President of the United States has fully advised the Congress that Construction of nuclear-powered vessels for such purpose is not in the national interest.

Such report of the President to the Congress shall include for consideration by Congress an alternate program of nuclear-powered ships with appropriate design, cost and schedule information."

Designated as "major combatant vessels for the strike forces of the U.S. Navy" are three categories: (1) Combata nt submarines for strategic and/or tactical missions; (2) combatant vessels intended to operate in aircraft carrier task groups; (3) combatant vessels designed for independent combat missions where essentially unlimited high-speed endurance will be of significant military value.

What's Behind It Decisive factor motivating the Bennett-Wilson policy measure is the continuing opposition of high-plated naval authorities to nuclear power.

Striking backstage instances of this, as recently reported in this column, are the following: —A proposal by Defense Department "systems analysts" to "sink 10 Polaris submarines to save money"

—A Defense Department decision to "stop building any more nuclear submarines after 1970" — that was overruled by Congress.

—Direct intervention by Congress last year in ordering the Defense Department to increase the number of high-speed nuclear attack submarines. Pentagon authorities had balked at that.

—Covert junking by the Defense Department of the construction of two nuclear-powered frigates authorized by Congress. One of these ships was finally built after a two-year delay, the other is still "on the drawing board."

Adm. Rickover, forcefully condemning this obstructive record, declared: "Reluctance to build nuclear submarines has continued even through the Soviets have surpassed us in numbers of these craft since 1971 and are outfitting us by three to one; also even though they now possess three times our submarine-building capacity and are continuing to increase that capacity; and even though they have introduced three new designs in the past several years as compared to two for us."

Echoing this condemnation, Rep. Wilson asserted: "I just can't understand how the Navy can even be considering the design of a new ship for our aircraft carrier forces which do not have nuclear propulsion. Yet that is exactly what the Navy is doing. It is spending money on the design of a new class of conventional-powered aircraft carriers and missile ships for our carrier task forces. What that amounts to is wasting taxpayers' money. It is as simple and indefensible as that."

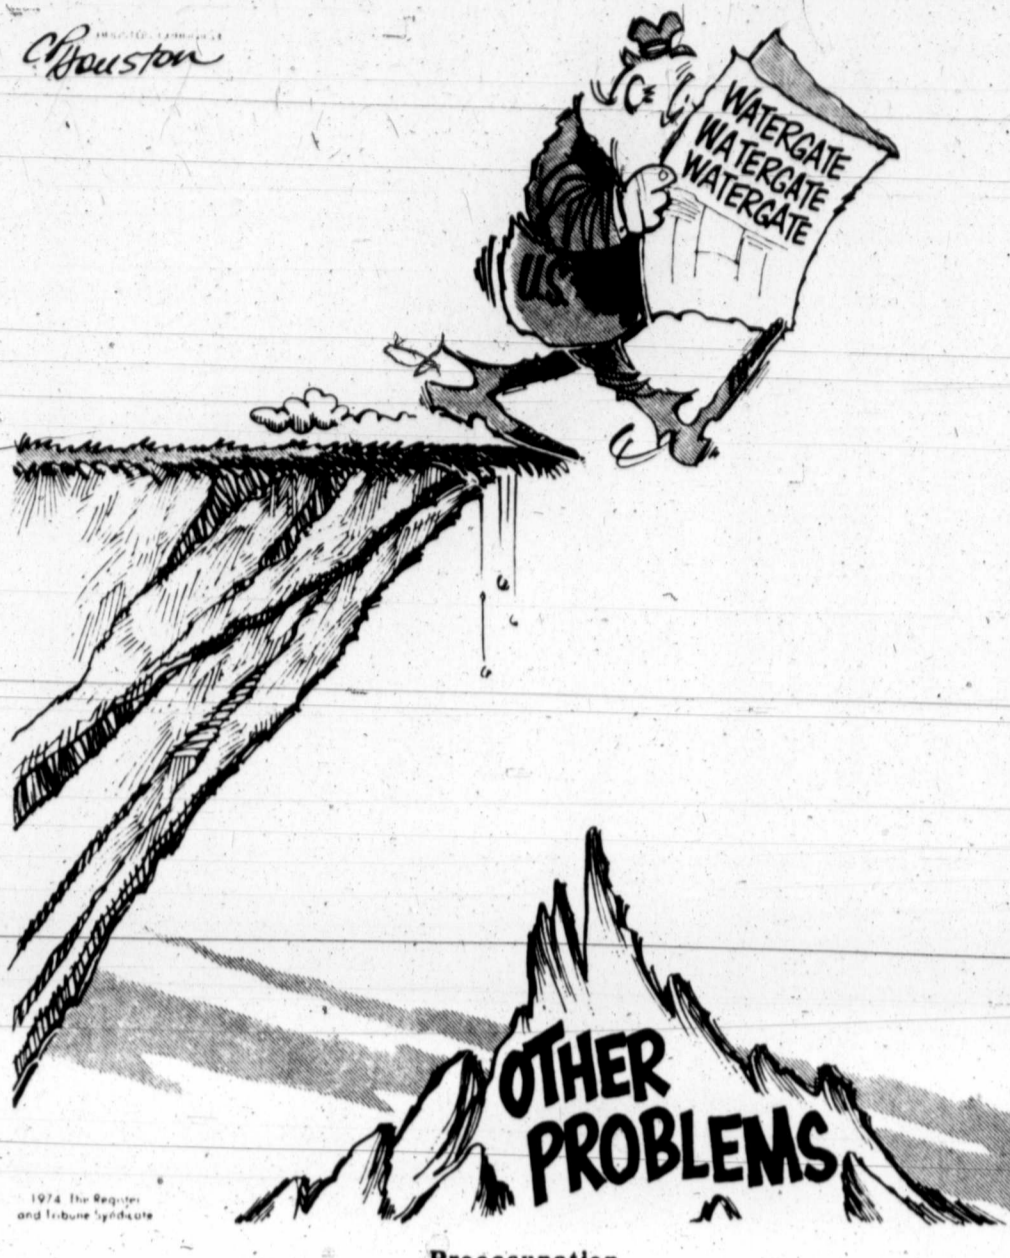

Noted by Wilson as a significantly promising development was the appointment of Admiral James Holloway as new Chief of Naval Operations — "true believer" in nuclear propulsion.

He is the first CNO who has commanded a nuclear-powered ship, the aircraft carrier Enterprise; also the first commander of a nuclear ship in combat against the North Vietnamese, 1965-67.

In contrast to that background, former CNO Elmo Zumwalt, favored conventional-powered vessels on the ground they were "less expensive" — a view flatly challenged by Rickover and other advocates of nuclear propulsion.

Addendum: The U.S. now has 107 nuclear vessels — 102 submarines, one carrier, three frigates and one cruiser. Being built or authorized by Congress are 35 others — 27 high-speed attack subs, one Trident submarine, three carriers and four frigates. (All Rights Reserved)

A Non-Legislator

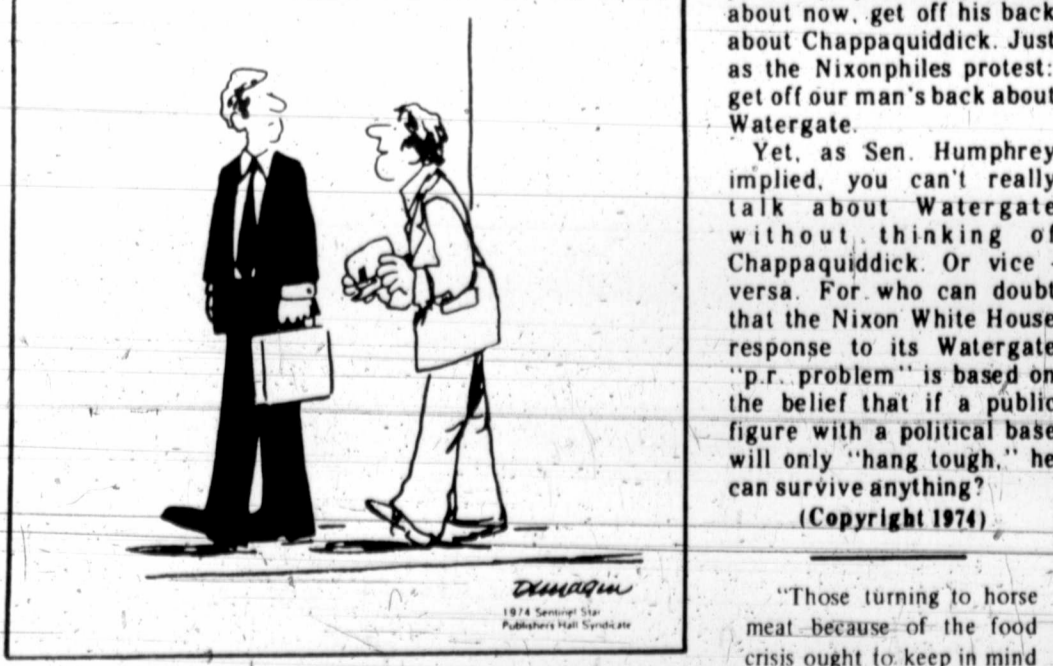

We've seldom been enthusiastic about legislators, but we find we must tip our editorial cap to Miss Janiece Crimmins of the Indiana General Assembly. The April 26 National Review reports "Miss Crimmins, now in her second term in the Indiana General Assembly, is the only member of 150 in that body who did not introduce a bill this session. She did not introduce any legislation last session, either, or in the session before that. In fact she has never introduced a bill. 'People kid me and say I'm not doing my job,' she says. 'But I see no reason to dream up some new law just to appear busy. Most new laws are either going to cost someone money or take away someone's liberties. "MISTER, CAN YOU SPARE A DIME FOR A POSTAGE STAMP?"

INSIDE LABOR

Condemnation Before Trial?

By VICTOR RIESEL WASHINGTON — To each his own. On March 28, Democratic National Committee chairman Robert Strauss struck a note of loyalty — to his party. Said he, the Democratic position on impeachment must be based on what "is good or bad for the Democrats." Then, to even matters, he added: "...Good or bad for the country."

He did not elaborate on what he or his colleagues would do if there were a conflict between what was good for the party and good for the nation. But apparently all sides are full steam ahead to crack President Nixon. And admittedly with great candor, Strauss allegedly speaks for the center. His party's left wing, otherwise known as George McGovern's Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), which has its national conference May 9, is just as outspoken.

In a recent communique to its troops, the ADA admitted it is having difficulty convincing the rank-and-file citizenry that impeachment is as good for the country as it is for the party. The missive was signed by national chairman Congressman Donald Fraser, a Democratic-Farmer-Labor activist since he was 23 years old. One of Hubert Humphrey's disciples.

Since the masses don't appear to be stirred by the impeachment movement, Fraser, who as a Representative from Minnesota should be waiting for the Judiciary Committee to submit the evidence, writes to his fellow ADA-ers quite plaintively: "We must continue to wage a massive education campaign. We must explain these constitutional issues in plain, simple language. Our message must reach beyond the liberals and intellectuals to the conservatives and moderates who cherish our Constitution."

The ADA theory here seems to be that conservatives and moderates should be dosed with monosyllables. And three-word sentences. Such as: He must go. Bill Buckley, please note.

Congressman Don Fraser and such ADA vice chairmen as Prof. J. Kenneth Galbraith want to whip up the impeachment movement at all costs — and since their action program will cost much, it would be fascinating to have John Gardner's Common Cause look at the books. Why?

Just look at the ADA strategy outlined in Fraser's call to arms. The strategy requires the kind of heavy funds which only labor organizations can contribute or an estoteric millionaire whose dad left him $800 million.

"ADA is hard at work: "Distributing 500,000 copies of the Case for Impeachment. "Distributing 250,000 copies of a special ADA World impeachment issue. "Publishing both a Watergate bibliography and chronology. "Distributing an analysis of congressional attitudes based on our lobbyists' daily meetings. "Organizing public meetings, phone and letter campaigns, and personal visits to U.S. Representatives in their home districts. "Organizing special media campaigns to present our views to TV and radio audiences and to readers of the nation's newspapers. "Organizing a grassroots phone bank for quick action and for dissemination of impeachment information."

Then comes an appeal for funds. Says Fraser, "The impeachment phone bank takes money." Certainly does. But where is it coming from?

There are labor leaders on the ADA board. There is cooperation from the United Mine Workers, whose president Arnold Miller is soon to get on the ADA high command. There he will join Joe Rauh, Jr., the lawyer who made him the miners' president. Also the machinists and the communication workers, the unions which bolted in 1968 when ADA excoriated the excommunicated Hubert Humphrey, are virtually back in the fold. Fraser, it can be argued, should be more judicious. He is the head or deputy chief of a number of Democratic groups. He has to vote for or against Dick Nixon's indictment. Therefore it can be assumed, without benefit of Sherlock-Holmes's curved pipe, that he and his band of ADA Congressmen long ago made up their mind to remove the President from office.

And since his vote for indictment, or impeachment, is guaranteed, he and his colleagues are in the hustings with an expensive and expansive campaign to bolster their vote because, as he says in his letter, many Congressmen are "reluctant" to take "this necessary step." The impeachment vote in the House will be extraordinarily difficult for most House members. So the ADA wants to iron-road their backbones.

Apparently Don Fraser agrees with Chairman Strauss that what is good for the party is good. Is this the Fraser-Galbraith interpretation of fair play, innocence before guilt is proven and objective judgment?
