BETWEEN SYRIA, ISRAEL

Kissinger Gets Breakthrough In Proposals For Cease-Fire

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger achieved a dramatic breakthrough Saturday in his efforts to get a military disengagement between Israel and Syria when Syria tentatively accepted his proposal on where to draw the cease-fire line.

He said he expected Kissinger to return to Damascus Monday. A Syrian statement said the same thing.

The official said that if the disengagement agreement can be worked out as Kissinger hopes, there was a chance that Israelis and Syrians might negotiate the final details and sign an accord in Geneva.

Syria had boycotted the opening round of the Geneva talks late last year.

The various elements of the disengagement of forces were discussed, the Syrian statement said. "Some progress was achieved. Dr. Kissinger will return to Damascus on Monday."

In his brief departure statement, Kissinger also paid tribute to the Syrians for the reception they gave him.

"As always, we were received with great cordiality and I would like to extend the appreciation of my colleagues and myself," he said.

Kissinger was accompanied by his wife Nancy on his sixth shuttle to Damascus since his longest diplomatic mission started 21 days ago.

The French government gave voters an official "day of reflection" Saturday to make up their minds whether to vote for Francois Mitterrand, the candidate of the leftist bloc, or Valery Giscard d'Estaing, backed by most center and right groups.

At the request of interim President Alain Poper, the newspaper France-Soir suppressed the results of a last-minute opinion poll so as not to influence the undecided.

Officially the campaign ended Friday midnight.

Mitterrand, 57, the secretary general of the Socialist party, is also backed by the Communists. Giscard d'Estaing, 48, a conservative, is the current finance minister in a Gaullist-dominated coalition although he himself is not a Gaullist, but a member of the centrist Independent Republican party. They finished 1-2 in the first round of voting two weeks ago.

Earlier opinion polls showed the two candidates running even in their race to succeed the late President Georges Pompidou.

There were variations in favor of each man during the campaign but never by more than 2 per cent and one study suggested the presidency could be decided by as few as 200,000 votes out of a total of 30 million.

The result may not be known until Monday when the 800,000 returns are in from France's overseas territories, covering 2 1/2 per cent of the electorate spread over Africa, the South Pacific and the Caribbean.

If an official recount is necessary, the winner of the seven-year term in the Elysee Palace will not be known until May 29.

The shootout in predominantly black south central Los Angeles, broadcast live on television and radio stations, was described by Hagen as "a war—that's what it was like."

Automatic weapon fire came defiantly from the windows of the small structure even after tear gas was exploded inside. The battle lasted almost two hours until the house was consumed in flames. Debris inside was four feet high.

Miss Hearst was carried screaming from her apartment in Berkeley, Calif., on Feb. 4. Her family carried out a $2 million free food program trying to appease the SLA and get her release.

The granddaughter of the founder of the Hearst newspaper empire made tape recordings in captivity which changed from pleas to her family for rescue to defiant proclamations that she had herself joined the SLA and would fight to the death.

She was photographed inside a San Francisco bank on April 15, wielding a submachinegun, during a holdup.

The fantastic fire fight, drawing a crowd of hundreds, was triggered late Friday by a call to police from Mrs. Mary Carr, 52, whose daughter had rented the house to five persons who paid $100 to spend the night.

Mrs. Carr went into the house to "see what was going on" and encountered a young white woman with a pistol in her belt. "She slapped it and smiled at me," Mrs. Carr said.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst was not among the five Symbionese Liberation Army members killed in a shootout with police but SLA "General Field Marshal Cinque" was slain in the battle, it was disclosed Saturday.

Coroner Thomas Noguchi telephoned the parents of the 20-year-old heiress to tell them she was not among the five persons who perished in the ashes of a yellow stucco house Friday.

A family spokesman in Hillsborough, Calif., said there was a "feeling of great relief."

At a news conference, Noguchi said that Cinque, the name used by 30-year-old black ex-convict Donald DeFreeze, died in the 1,000-shot gun battle after fighting defiantly for nearly two hours.

Also killed were Nancy Ling Perry, 26; Patricia Soltzysik, 24, and William Wolfe, 22. All were white.

The fifth victim was not yet identified and was listed as a "Jane Doe" but Noguchi said dental and medical records showed she definitely was not Patricia Hearst.

An FBI spokesman said it had no information on the whereabouts of Miss Hearst who was carried screaming from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment on Feb. 4.

But Noguchi ended speculation that the girl had carried out her tape-recorded pledges to fight to the death with the SLA.

"She was not there," he said. "That is definite and there is no question about it."

"We compared dental charts Miss Hearst had taken, dental charts and X-rays taken in early 1974. We compared them and they did not match."

DeFreeze had claimed in "communiques" and tape recordings to be the leader of the terrorist band, formed while he was an inmate at California State Prison in Vacaville.

In and out of jail frequently since he was 14, he was reported to have a fascination for guns and bombs and a thirst for plum wine. He was the one who demanded a multimillion dollar free food program for the release of Miss Hearst and then spurned it after the Hearsts spent $2 million.

Nancy Ling Perry once was a junior high school cheerleader and a onetime supporter of Sen. Barry Goldwater. After working as a topless blackjack dealer, she joined the SLA movement.

Miss Soltzysik attended the University of California at Berkeley and majored in French and Spanish. Early in her junior year, she took the name "Mizmoon" from a lesbian poem written about her and became emotionally attached to another SLA member, Camilla Hall.

Wolfe, the son of an Allentown, Pa., doctor who also attended college at Berkeley, was sought in connection with the slaying of black Oakland school superintendent Marcus Foster—a crime for which two other SLA members are now being held on trial.

Police entered after firing tear gas canisters through blanket-covered windows. There was nobody in the house, but officers found a munitions, three suitcases, women's handbags and wigs and "general filth."

Then police were tipped from a black neighborhood five miles away that a group of blacks and whites, including a young white woman, had reportedly offered a woman $100 for a night's lodging and were moving in an arsenal of guns and ammunition.

Police surrounded the home in force, warned the occupants and told them to surrender. Shots were fired from inside the house and a firefight one of the most intense in the city police department's history, was on.

CHAIN OF EVENTS

Shoplifted Socks Ended In Shootout With SLA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A pair of socks shoplifted from an Ingleside store set off a chain of events that ended with a blazing south Los Angeles home and five persons killed.

Police said the five were believed to be members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Tony Shepard, 20, a clerk, saw a man stuff a pair of socks into his sleeve after the man and a woman purchased $31.50 worth of camping-type clothing from Mel's Sporting Goods store.

Shepard said he followed the man out of the store and grappled with him, and managed to get one manacle of a set of handcuffs on the alleged shoplifter.

During the struggle, a pistol fell from the man's waistband.

Police said a woman waiting in a van across the street opened fire with a semiautomatic rifle and peppered the store front with 27 shots. Three more shots struck an adjacent building.

The man and woman were later identified from photos as Emily and Lillian Harris, 27 and 29, suspected SLA members wanted in the Patricia Hearst kidnapping.

The couple fled to the van and escaped as Shepard fired at the vehicle with the dropped pistol.

The three, now aware their red and white vehicle had been identified, abandoned it and commandeered a car from a passing motorist.

According to police reports, they stopped a driver, announced "We're from the SLA," and drove on.

That car conked out two blocks after they took it over.

They abandoned it and took over another car driven by Thomas Patin, 65, and again identified themselves as from the SLA. That car was found near the site where the trio halted Tom Mathews, 18, a senior at Lynwood High School, and kidnaped him along with his van.

Mathews told police they stopped at several hardware stores until they purchased a hacksaw blade. They then drove to a drive-in movie and sawed the manacle off Harris' hand.

Mathews let out on Mulholland Drive, a parkway in the hills overlooking the city.

Meanwhile, the FBI had been alerted by the pistol left at the sporting goods store. They connected it to Harris.

They searched the abandoned van which was registered to a parking lot address in San Francisco.

Next, a parking ticket for the vehicle turned up, made out while the van was parked at an address near Pepperdine University.

The owner of the house at that address said he rented it to a white woman a week ago who identified herself as "Ms. Rivera," for $70 a month. He said the woman would not sign a receipt for the apartment, neighbors told officers she had seen two women, only at night, and they appeared to be wearing wigs.

FOR PEACEFUL USE

India Explodes Nuclear Device

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India announced Saturday it had exploded a Nagasaki-force nuclear device it said was designed for peaceful uses, not war.

Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi said of her country's first nuclear test: "It is nothing to get excited about. We are firmly committed only to the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

The blast made India the sixth nation with nuclear capability. It thus joined the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Britain and France.

Although the Atomic Energy Commission announcement of the explosion gave no details, the Press Trust of India (PTI) said, "It can be inferred that the explosion created a force equivalent to 10,000 tons of TNT. This was the same force as the atomic bomb dropped on Nagasaki in World War II."

The official announcement did not state when the device was exploded but PTI quoted an official spokesman as saying it took place early Saturday. PTI also said there were indications the test occurred "perhaps in India's Rajasthan area."

Much of the state of Rajasthan in western India on the Pakistan border is desert.

Asked if the explosion would raise India's prestige among developing nations, Mrs. Gandhi replied, "I never bother about prestige."

The explosion came three and a half years after Mrs. Gandhi told Parliament that Indian scientists were working on the technique that made it possible.

POSSIBLE TAX INCREASE?

City Will Require More Operating Funds Money

By TEX DEWEESE
City Manager Mack Wofford declared Friday as he spoke to Downtown Kiwanis Club members that more operating fund money will be needed in fiscal 1974-75 if the same level of municipal services is to be maintained for Pampa residents.

While he didn't state it in so many words, the city manager left a "between-the-lines" implication that Pampa's tax rate will have to be increased in fiscal 1974-75 to meet progressively rising operating costs brought about by inflation.

Pointing out that Pampa's ad valorem tax rate has been the same for many years, Wofford said:

"I am convinced our costs are going to be much greater next year if we continue to maintain the same level of services."

Pampa's current tax rate is $1.72 per $100 of assessed property valuation for tax purposes.

Wofford said Pampa's operating budget for the current 1973-74 fiscal year which ends next Sept. 30 is $2,550,000. That's $280,000 more than the last fiscal year.

Pampa's sales tax revenue averages approximately $500,000 a year.

Revenue sharing funds, which are restricted for use by federal regulations, bring in around $250,000 annually.

Costs have gone up this year, the city manager stated, because of wage and salary increases, FICA tax, workmen's compensation insurance requirements, increased cost of gasoline, conversion to landfill for waste disposal and an increase in number of city firemen due to reduction of hours the state allows firemen to work.

Even with these additions and increased costs, he said Pampa now has only three more city employees than it had on the payroll in 1960. The city's current employee total is approximately 200.

In relating his facts about Pampa's city government, Wofford explained city budget percentage expenditures as follows:

Public safety, 28 per cent; public utilities, 20 per cent; general services, 16 per cent; public works, 13.4 per cent; health, 13.4 per cent; parks and recreation, 5.2 per cent, and administrative, 2.4 per cent.

Coverage of the city's expenditures is taken care of on the following percentage basis:

Utilities revenue, 39 percent; ad valorem taxes, 22 percent; city sales tax, 17 percent; services, 12.7 percent; court fines, 2.5 percent; licenses and permits, 1.5 percent, and revenue sharing funds, 5.3 percent.

He listed among services maintained by the city: Pampa's civic center, police and fire protection, water, public library, garbage collection, parks and recreation, and services to business and industry.

Wofford said the most difficult problem in city government is "communication at all personnel levels."

France Voting Today

PARIS (UPI) — France elects a new president Sunday in what could be the closest presidential contest in a Western democracy since John F. Kennedy defeated Richard M. Nixon by 118,550 votes in 1960.

Nothing cures insomnia like the realization that it's time to get up... Taffy Tuttle says she's having trouble getting used to her new bifocals: "I step off every curb like I'm testing the water in a pool..." The Disrespectful Dictionary defines a quorum as "the number of legislators officially empowered to batch legislation"... ON IMPEACHMENT Rodino Has Misgivings About Public Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House drumbeat of criticism over the way the House is conducting its impeachment inquiry will probably result this week in a decision to throw open the proceedings.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., of the House Judiciary Committee has deep misgivings about opening the hearings.

He says open hearings could prejudice the rights of Watergate defendants and violate the conditions under which Congress was given the grand jury's brief caseful of evidence.

Rodino also is believed to harbor the fear that James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's impeachment Watergate lawyer, will turn the hearings into a platform for defending his client and change the nature of the cautious impeachment proceedings.

Rodino is aware that Republicans must go along in large numbers if a decision to impeach Nixon is to be effective.

So far, conducted entirely behind closed doors, the hearings have been so methodical that even the most loyal Nixon partisans have emerged with praise for their fairness and thoroughness.

The 38 lawyer-legislators on the committee are familiar with that old saw of the legal profession: "If the facts go against your client, cite the law; if the law goes against your client, cite the facts; if both go against your client, pound the table."

Rodino & Co. fear that St. Clair, a skilled courtroom practitioner, will engage in table pounding.

Initially, Rodino was reluctant even to admit St. Clair to the hearing and

Dirty Tricks Mar Speaker Race

AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI) — Rumors, alleged dirty tricks and accusations of bribery have turned the race to name a successor for retiring Speaker Price Daniel Jr. into one of the hottest, and perhaps dirtiest, speaker campaigns in more than a decade.

With the election still more than six months away, already two district attorneys are considering allegations that various speaker candidates for disrupting the constitutional convention with their campaigning.

Leach Breaks Story
 The bribery allegations broke into the open last week in a column by Ed Leach, managing editor of the Longview Journal, saying that legislative candidate Pat Noon had told a Kiwanis Club meeting he had been offered a $600 campaign contribution if he would agree to vote for a speaker candidate he declined to name.

Copies of Leach's column were distributed on the convention floor, and backers of two leading speaker candidates — Reps. Fred Head, D-Athens, and Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur — each hinted that the allegations by noon were aimed at the other candidate.

Later same day, Rep. Joe Allen, D-Baytown, a staunch Parker supporter, contacted Travis County District Attorney Robert O. Smith, allegedly to tell him that Allen had been offered $1,000 to vote for Head in the speaker's race. Allen refused to confirm or deny that is what he had told the district attorney, but other House members said Allen had told them of the alleged offer.

Bill Clayton, D-Springlake, has thus far avoided public involvement in the feud between Head and Parker, and is keeping a low profile.

"Divisions are getting pretty deep," Clayton said. "This is the worst I've seen in the 12 years I've been here."

"If I had known the race was going to get this dirty, I wouldn't have wanted any part of it."

Another house member said the lawmakers were so divided over the race that some members were refusing to speak to others.

Cool It
 Daniel said the conduct of the race, including the rumors and speculations about bribes, were interfering with the work of the constitutional convention.

"I'm leaning very strongly toward talking with the Speaker candidates early next week and asking them to please curtail their campaigns, and at the very least not tolerate or participate in any kind of campaigning while the convention is out there working on the floor," Daniel said.

Daniel made a similar request at the beginning of the convention, and said the candidates complied fairly well through the first 90 days.

Six Teen-Agers Killed In Crash

FORT MADISON, Iowa (UPI) — Six teen-agers apparently on their way to a party were killed Friday night when their car went off a state highway, overturned and burst into flames.

Five of the youths were believed to have died immediately and the sixth was found trapped under the wreckage of the 1968 two-door coupe. He was pulled free by sheriff's deputies but died a short time later at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Lee County Sheriff Don Arnold said Saturday, "This is the worst accident I've ever seen. I have no idea how fast they were going. Witnesses said there was certainly speed involved."

It will probably never be known who was driving the car, Arnold said. The vehicle was registered to a relative of one of the victims, Joe Klesner, 16, West Point.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
The column today is the second in a series presenting a recommended statewide program for Conservation and Development of Texas Water Resources. The recommendations were presented to Gov. Dolph Briscoe by the Task Force on Water on April 15. Last week a summary of Statewide Goals was presented.

Recognizing that the total long-range projected water needs of the people of Texas exceed the State's total developable water resources, it should be the policy of the State of Texas:

A. To establish and implement programs for full and timely development of Texas surface water resources to insure that these resources will be dependably available to meet the people's statewide water needs to the maximum practicable extent as they occur. Surface water resources can be made available on a dependable basis only by providing reservoirs to store water during periods of high streamflow so water will be available during periods of low streamflow. Because it takes many years to finance, design and build a reservoir, Texas must proceed with a continuing action program to develop its surface water resources in advance of the occurrence of anticipated needs.

B. To establish and implement programs for movement of developed surface water resources to areas of water need, with adequate safeguards included to assure that the future water needs of source areas will be met. Actual movement of water can be deferred until the location and extent of the areas of need are clearly and unquestionably established, but development of the water resources must be initiated and accomplished well in advance if the water is to be available for movement to the areas of need when the needs occur.

C. To assure efficient use of the state's available water resources. This will require multiple use of the available water resources, elimination of wasteful practices, effective control of water pollution and reuse of so-called "waste" water to the extent feasible.

D. To seek water from outside the state to supplement as necessary the water supplies that can be developed within Texas to meet fully its anticipated long-range water needs. In seeking sources of water from outside its boundaries, Texas must recognize the need to work out fair and equitable arrangements with the exporting area.

E. To give balanced consideration to environmental, economic and social requirements in striving to meet the water needs of the people of Texas. Recognizing that long-range water supplies will undoubtedly be limited, choices between potential demands for water will have to be made which will best serve the overall interests of the people of Texas.

F. To assure the most effective means of developing and conserving the groundwater resources of Texas. Development and use of the total water resources of the State in the best interest of the people of Texas requires management of ground and surface waters as integrated resources. The unique characteristics of aquifers in various parts of the state make it evident that criteria and objectives to achieve such management can be most effectively developed through local management entities.

G. To seek appropriate federal participation in water resource conservation and development in Texas while taking the necessary steps to effectively conserve and develop the state's water resources regardless of the nature or extent of federal participation.

H. To utilize fully the capabilities of existing state water agencies and political sub-divisions, modifying and supplementing these entities as appropriate to accomplish the most effective conservation and development of Texas water resources.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
On Tuesday, May 21, we have two meetings scheduled on the topic of gardening. The meetings will be at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the meeting room of Pioneer Natural Gas.

The program will be a colored slide presentation supplemented with a tape recording from our film library at Texas A&M. I have viewed these slides and the tape — they have some very excellent pointers on all types of gardening.

A total of 16 potted tomatoes of the new variety "Summertime" will be given away as door prizes. This new variety is a recent development of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Elaine Houston, new home demonstration agent, will be present for the 2 p.m. meeting. Come on out, get acquainted with Elaine — you will like her. Elaine has some of the best publications on canning and freezing garden products you can find anywhere. There will also be some other door prizes — probably some type of plants. We might have some coffee but no beer — McCoy wouldn't like this.

The extension office is asking those who plan to attend to pre-register by calling the office. The telephone number is 669-7429.

There is room for only 50 people at one time. Should one of the sessions fill up, you will be asked to attend the other. Should both meetings be filled, we will schedule another time and date.

You might even persuade McCoy (manager Pioneer Natural Gas) to sell you a bag of Kiwanis fertilizer. Incidentally, there are just a few bags of the Kiwanis fertilizer left. One fellow called the other day and was about to take what was left. His brother-in-law, a farmer, was going to buy what was left. Check any Kiwanian and they will help you if there is any.

LAST WEEK'S NEWS ARTICLE
The deadline for turning this news article in is on Wednesday of each week. Last week we were in Canyon all day Wednesday and Thursday in District

Extension meetings. Writing the article slipped our mind on Tuesday. Thus, the reason for not showing up last week. The reaction to this article is sometimes very strange. Sometimes I will spend a half day digging out what I think are excellent facts that should help someone make a good economic decision. I will write the article, check it for accuracy and really slave to make it informative. I'll say to myself — bet I get some feedback on this — never a word. However, you can mention the fact that Dora Reeves fell in the irrigation ditch and everybody is talking about it.

This week everyone I ran into — (many people that surprises me they read this column). "How come you missed your article?" "Have you already left for Australia?" "Have you given up on projecting cattle prices?"

Boy, the past week was a wringer for me. So, I have just decided to take two days of annual leave and go pick my daughter up at A&M... end of school.

CATTLE MARKET
No spectacular price moves yet but watch for a sharp move upward within the near future. Remember the 22 - State, Cattle - on - Feed report that showed 973 thousand head weighing over 1100 pounds.

During April the marketings were up 14 percent. A total of 1,644 thousand cattle were slaughtered. Of course, a sizeable portion of these are not feedlot cattle but we now have two weeks of marketings in May which should account for another half million cattle. I'd say pretty well all of your overfed cattle have gone to market. We will soon be slaughtering cattle that weighed less than 900 pounds on April 1. There was only 88 percent as many of this group on feed as of April 1, 1974, when compared to a year earlier.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long-run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Problems Almost Solved

As a boy Peter Mikhailovich liked to play with boats. In fact, he even built boats. As he grew older, he built bigger boats. In his early 20's, he built several boats that were big enough to attack a Turkish city on the shores of the Caspian Sea. Peter was the czar of Russia. From his time, dates the Russian zeal for seapower.

The problem, as Peter saw it, was that Russia didn't have enough water to sail ships on. Real seapower requires an ocean. An attack on Sweden in 1701 eventually netted the czar an outlet on the northern Baltic Sea, but there winter ice enforced a natural curb on sea-going ambitions. East Coast ports were too far removed from the industrial base to be any good. Since the contest with Sweden, the Muscovite thrust has been largely to the south.

The 300-year-old ambition has proceeded by stages. Basically, there were two possibilities: (a) a move south from the southern edges of the Caspian, across Iran to the Persian Gulf, or (b) a westerly route down the Black Sea, through the Bosporus, out the Aegean to the Mediterranean, and from there to the Atlantic and Indian oceans. Both routes posed problems. Crossing Iran meant a land battle away from Russian-held soil. The westerly route was fraught with narrow passages, subject to bombardment from shore batteries.

Commencing in 1918 under a new political leadership, Russia—having emerged as the Soviet Union—commenced a policy of forming alliances among the nations fronting on the Black Sea, Bosporus, and the Aegean. In 1945, the Muscovites won ascendancy over Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria. In the 1950's, they extended an influence over the southern shore of the Mediterranean. In the 1960's this influence was advanced to include Syria and Iraq on the eastern Mediterranean shore. But even this did not solve all the problems. These were four in number.

Three of them were Spain, France and Italy, which offered space for potentially hostile air power. The fourth problem was the Suez Canal, gateway to the Indian ocean. The canal was closed after the Israel-Arab war of 1967.

But from the Russian standpoint, there is plenty of hope ahead. In 1973, with the help of American computer technology, Egyptian missiles were able to stand off Israeli aircraft, the Egyptians seized the east bank of the Suez. Detente diplomacy allowed them to keep it, and a $250 million loan from American taxpayers provides for the dredging that will give the Soviet fleet an outlet to the Red Sea and Gulf of Aden.

In the meantime, the political picture is developing favorably—from the Soviet standpoint. Portugal has been opened to pro-Soviet political organization; it offers a potential sanctuary for renewed activism in Spain. Simultaneously, a Communist Party candidate bids for the top office in France and only the thirst for American tourist dollars keeps Italy out of the Soviet fold.

Oddly, this long sequence of events—which can mean so much to inhabitants of the Free World—started with a child's hobby.

ADRIFT?

INSIDE LABOR

Power Of One Union Leader

By VICTOR RIESEL
WASHINGTON — This report is intended to give some 1984 analysts and a startled future generation a background on where it all began. Insiders are convinced they can write headlines on this story ten years in advance. Perhaps not. But really there's reason to believe we can.

First, it's generally not understood that the basic center of power in any land is not the traditional political—or even military—complex. It is the combination of control over the factory and a nation's distribution system. In turn, this means the labor movement which almost always comes equipped with an infrastructure political machine.

For example, few Americans appeared to pay much attention to a quickie British strike which began May 7. This stoppage could have paralyzed all of Britain swiftly. It was in fact seeping industrial paraplegia—far more than a strike.

It took one powerful man, long a Communist party member and fellow traveler, controlling one powerful union, the 12 million member Amalgamated Union of Engineering Workers, to prove that he and his union could decide when the Isles should stand still. The strike was called May 7. By nightfall some newspapers were forced to shut down while others prepared to cease publication. Auto plants, steel mills did close, docks were ready for "no work," airports, electrical power stations were next in line for what was a politically inspired strike order to protest a national industrial law and a court fine.

Strike leader was Hugh Scanlon. He came to America not too long ago to sneer. He is chairman of the engineering group of the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions. Also he is president of the massive Amalgamated Union, the Confederation affiliate, which surly controls virtually all of British industry. It issued the strike call. Scanlon was a member of the Communist party until 1956. Then he left. But he has followed the party line like a fetish ritual.

The strike was called off when someone literally ransomed the government. But Scanlon made his point. He could have done far more harm to the British economy than the Socialist Communist dominated miners did or the consequent three-day week. Thus—one man, one union could mean power over one nation.

Which brings us to a two-day negotiating session in a Lisbon, Portugal, conference room the other day. This nation isn't just the Estoril beach playground of exiled royalty or old mountain castles. It owns the Azores which are mighty vital to our armed forces and to NATO.

In that conference room were representatives of junta chief General Antonio De Spinoia—and "leaders" of 44 unions. They were negotiating for the creation of a Portuguese Federation of Labor. Toughest negotiators at the table were the men controlled by Communist chief Alvaro Cunhal. For years he has been in Soviet training—in Paris, Moscow and in Prague with stops in Bucharest and North Korea (mid-1972). Like many others in Moscow's political warehouse, Comrade Cunhal has been a government-in-exile.

They are in key spots now in the key seven to ten major unions. It was all prepared by the Soviet underground, the Moscow radio broadcasts and the full-time "Radio Free Portugal" operating out of Bucharest, Romania.

The PCP is tough. It has purged the Maoists. It has attacked Peking. It is the most "Stalinist" of world Communist parties outside the USSR.

Constantly it has been strongly anti-American. Few of its underground pamphlets, little of its literature ever failed to attack the American military operations based on the island Azores off the Portuguese coast.

These are vital to the Mideast balance of power. The Soviets want America out of the islands—and Portugal as well. Thus the old political pyramid operation starts. The biggest of the new unions are controlled or dominated by Comrade Cunhal's former underground leaders and those who have just flown in from Moscow, Paris, Eastern bloc cities and Rome. The big unions become the power base in the new Portuguese labor federation.

Already this labor movement is the base of power for Cunhal's political power. The word from the meeting in Lisbon May 8 and 9 is that Gen. Spinoia plans to give Cunhal's new Communist party the labor ministry when the civilian cabinet is in full swing.

If there are free elections there's little doubt the Communist party, now already dominating the new Left Front, using its labor force, will poll heavily. Then the confrontation—Spinoia's soldiers or Cunhal's comrades.

But remember, the force which can shut down a nation can neutralize an army too. It almost did in Chile. It has a military underground which has practiced bombing communications and power stations. There's more to watch in Portugal these days than the beach at Estoril.

Potomac Fever

Senator Scott (Rep., Pa.) called the transcripts "deplorable, disgusting, shabby and immoral." And then he decided to read them.

Although White House aides appeared on several TV shows to support the President, they avoided "To Tell The Truth."

Leaving the House Rules Committee intact in reforming Congress is like building a modern, solar-heated, air conditioned home with an outhouse in back.

The House voted to create a U.S. Fire Academy to train men in the latest methods of flame control and arson investigation. Testing grounds will be either the CIA or State Department.

Editor Of The News

EVER GET a mental block on names of persons you have known for a long time? The other day we fouled up in a news story on the name of Ward 2 city commissioner Joe Curtis.

For some abstract reason we decided to change his last name to Lewis. The only possible explanation was the fact that 30 minutes before attending a city commission meeting there was some conversation about a man by the name of Lewis who might be a candidate for Ward 4 commissioner at the special election set for June 18.

The name Lewis apparently stuck with us and as we wrote the story the subconscious moved in and gave it to Commissioner Curtis who really has no aliases. His name is Joe Curtis, not Joe Lewis.

Paul Sims, Pampa News sports editor, says Curtis should feel honored.

"After all," says Sims, "Joe Lewis is quite a guy—a heavyweight and former champion." But, we apologize to Commissioner Curtis, anyway.

that the less secrecy there is in government and the more checkreins we have on elected officials who run it—the better for all of us.

WE READ with interest in Wes Izzard's A to Izzard column the other day about a man from Slippery Rock who didn't believe there was such a place as Pampa, Texas.

The man, according to Izzard, made a special trip out here just to see if Pampa was for real.

He claimed people in Slippery Rock have wondered for years whether there it was a Pampa or whether it was a misprint for Pimple, N.M., or a garble for Pumps, Okla., or that it might even be a misspelling for Tampa, Fla. It was also reported the man came to visit with cousins in Pampa and was surprised to find that our town exists.

He said the people of Slippery Rock would be surprised when he got back and confirmed there really is a Pampa.

You have to keep wondering how he knew where his cousins lived and how in the world he ever wound up in Pampa—and, by the way, is there really a Slippery Rock?

COMES A letter from J.L. Cooper, 528 Powell. He doesn't agree with State Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo who helped legislator-delegates to the Texas Constitutional Convention defeat a proposal that the Texas Constitution be amended to allow voters to initiate and pass state laws.

Bynum and Rep. Bill Sullivan of Gainesville, according to Cooper, contended the people would not give proposals proper study and would not intelligently vote on issues.

Backers of the proposal contended "initiative" would enable voters, under rules laid down by the legislature, to propose laws by petition and enact them by popular vote—thus bringing government closer to the people.

"In one respect," Mr. Cooper writes, "I think Mr. Sillivant and Mr. Bynum are correct. If the people had studied them and their issues a little more intelligently they might not have been elected."

"After some of our officials are elected, they seem to know more than their constituents just what is best for the people and want to make sure the people have nothing to say about it."

"I know you to be an advocate of the right of the people to have a say in the running of the people's business and against all secrecy in government and I wanted to bring this to your attention."

We agree with Mr. Cooper.

DID YOU get a notice from the City Board of Equalization that the valuation on your property for tax purposes has been increased?

Well, if you think it's out of line you will have a chance to protest at a public hearing at 9 a.m. Wednesday in City Hall.

It is understood 500 or 600 property owners did get notices that valuations had been upped.

This brings to mind a quotation somebody apparently slipped under the glass top of a tax office desk at City Hall. It reads like this:

"Colbert, financial wizard for Louis XIV, observed that 'the art of taxation consists of so plucking the goose as to procure the greatest possible number of feathers with the least amount of hissing.'"

ALONG THIS same line the May issue of "The Landman" reports on the taxpayers' lament as follows: "Go ahead and say it—Let's make it a four-letter word—Tax—Social Security Tax, Ad Valorem Tax, Sales Tax, Income Tax, Franchise Tax, Gasoline Tax, School Tax, City Tax, County Tax, State Tax, Vehicle Tax, Inheritance Tax, Federal Tax, more tax and bigger tax, etc., etc., ad infinitum tax." A 4-letter word, for sure.

OSHA OUTRAGES CONTINUE

Small businessmen are an essential element in the productive workings of our economy. While many find much to criticize in "big business," it is rare to find even the business-haters attacking small business vociferously.

Yet the infamous Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), passed in 1972 and first fully taking effect last year, strikes directly and much the hardest at the small businessman. Supposedly intended to better protect the health and safety of workers on the job, it sets up a maze of thousands of bureaucratic regulations which the average small businessman has little time or opportunity to read, can hardly understand without the aid of lawyers and other specialists, and in many cases cannot possibly comply with. Big businesses can hire the staff needed to comply with the law, but the small businessman cannot.

OSHA applies to every business no matter how few persons it employs, and requires mandatory fines whenever violations are discovered. No opportunity is given the employer to correct the violation before paying the fine.

A survey by the National Federation of Independent

Business shows small businessmen to be really terrified of this law. A California laundromat owner says: "This OSHA scares the pants off me." An Idaho house mover says: "The OSHA law is the worst thing that has ever hit the small businessman." And a Kansas auto dealer says: "As a small businessman I feel this is a gestapo agency and that they will force many small firms out of business." So far there is no sign that immediate action is planned in Congress to modify or repeal OSHA. Such action should have top priority.

Ever wonder why politicians can't get money for schools, mass transit and our other needs the same easy way they can always arrange to get money to pay their own pay increases?

Re: Germany's Sacred Cow

By VIC GOLD
WASHINGTON — In my next life, I want to be born and-or made (however it's done) a Left-Wing Sacred Cow.

Not a multi-millionaire. A person can be a fool and lose his millions.

Not a Greek god. You can do something to offend Zeus or the other gods and wind up pounding big cinders into little cinders in Hades.

But Left-Wing Sacred Cows go on forever. Neither foolishness nor offense can diminish their value in the eyes of the EESPSC—the Eastern-Editorial Society for the Preservation of Sacred Cows.

Take Willy Brandt. You can have him now, cutrate. Former Western heads of government are a glut on the market these days. Or haven't you noticed?

Let's see now. Herr Brandt kept an enemy agent on his personal staff—a trained spy. Which, by ordinary mortal or even Greek-god standards would seem to demonstrate grievous misjudgment and/or administrative incompetence. Especially since Herr Brandt himself admits to having known for nearly a year that the man was an enemy agent (went along to trap him, understand).

But then, what's a little misjudgment among left-wing friends on matters affecting Western security? Now, if it had been Konrad Adenauer hiring a file clerk who had once visited Franco Spain, the Eastern Editorial Society would be reconvening the Nuremberg war crime trials. But UNSER Willy?

Mr Brandt ennobled the office even in leaving it. gushed a leading member of the Editorial Society after the German Socialist Heilige Kuh got his hoof caught in the wringer. "He chose to accept personal responsibility, though he was under no discernible pressure to do so, for the fact that a close aide appointed by a sub-minister had been an East German spy for 18 years."

"And who, may we ask, appointed that sub-minister? And made that East German spy not just an aide but a close personal friend?"

"But this scandal," continued the editorial, "may have been only the last straw, disheartening for him as it surely was to find that the state most central to his dream of reconciliation, East Germany, had planted (the) agent."

"Disheartening for HIM? I wonder what might possibly be going through the hearts and minds of West Germans who entrusted their freedom and security to Herr Brandt. But wait, the ultimate accolade is yet to come—and at the expense of guess who?"

"To Americans," the editorial intoned, "of all the comments made around the world, none struck home more squarely than that of a friend of Mr. Brandt in Bonn who said the Chancellor's decision to assume responsibility for the espionage affair was an effort, in part, to show that there was still one leader of integrity in the Western world."

VERSTEHEN SIE? What Willy's friend alludes to is Richard Nixon's refusal to resign. And since Richard Nixon is definitely not a Left-Wing Sacred Cow, the aspersion is happily passed on by our Eastern editorialist.

Well, there are standards and standards. Haldeman and Ehrlichman were certainly no prizes. But let me suggest to Willy's integrity-minded friend that, although the American head of government made his own grievous errors in choosing personal aides, he still has a long way to go to duplicate Herr Brandt's. If, indeed, there isn't actually much more to this story than the German people are being told even now.

But wait. Let's not be too harsh. We're advised by yet another opinion-molder that while Brandt may have miscalculated regarding Communist strategems, we should nevertheless judge him as a leader with "a sense for the movement of history."

"In 1968," wrote this particular adulator, "when the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia dashed hopes for East-West accommodations, Brandt foresaw that the OSTOPOLITIK would still go forward when the dust had settled."

(The dust, presumably, being that which settled on the grave of Czech freedom.)

But why quibble Willy Brandt, we're told in one euphoric report, is "known, and even loved, for reasons that cannot be entirely explained by his accomplishments."

You won't find me arguing with that statement. No, sir. Freudian slip, you see. For whether or not the EESPSC meant it that way, that's about the most accurate assessment of Willy Brandt and other Left-Wing Sacred Cows I've read east of the Hudson-Potomac Line.

Dear Abby

Widower is being pestered to death
By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune. All rights reserved.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower for only ten months, and all I want is to be left alone. I am constantly bothered by widows, divorcees and wives whose husbands will pay any attention to them. Also, people with the "I've-got-a-girl-for-you!" routine. You wouldn't believe the propositions I get.

When I try to bow out politely, they say, "What's the matter? Are you some kind of queer?"

One time a young neighbor from across the street came to my front door and a story about how lonely she was with no one to talk to all day and her husband on the road. She made the proposition. I finally had to ask her to leave.

The morning while taking a shower I heard someone knocking through my front door. It was the lady next door. She said she just happened to see me through my bathroom window, and I looked like maybe I wasn't feeling well so she came over to see if there was anything she could do for me. I had a terrible time getting rid of her. After that, I put up my shades and bolted my door. I'm a prisoner in my own house!

I even put a sign on my front door. "Were you invited?"

Everyone thinks I mean somebody else.

I am not particularly good-looking. I try not to hurt anyone's feelings, but I don't want anyone pestering me. What should I do?
—NO NAME OR ADDRESS

DEAR NO: You've put out a sign, bolted your door, and then no one the slightest encouragement. All that's left is a watchdog and a barbed wire fence.

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and going through my menopause. I have consulted my gynecologist for help, but I can't get any satisfaction from him, so I'm asking you. How can I be absolutely sure I won't get pregnant? (I have three grand-children!)

My husband is 50, and we're not sex maniacs or anything like that, but we do get together once in a while, and I am afraid that I'll find myself pregnant with a change-of-life baby. I have told my doctor that, and he said, "Don't worry, women your age seldom get pregnant." Abby, I don't want to take any chances, but my doctor says I don't need to take any precautions.

Is he right? Am I foolish to be concerned? Can you recommend something to ease my mind? NEEDS ADVICE.

DEAR NEEDS: You need more than advice. You need another doctor. Even though the chances of your becoming pregnant are small, it's possible! I don't blame you for wanting to be absolutely sure. If you don't know another gynecologist, your Planned Parenthood Clinic can give you competent medical advice and recommend the most ideal method of contraception for a woman your age. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In my work I deal with the public. My supervisor told me that the use of the words "ma'am" and "sir" is not proper—that a "thank you," or a simple "yes" or "no" is sufficient.

He insists that when one uses "ma'am" and "sir," he implies that he is socially beneath the person he is speaking to.

Is my supervisor correct? I don't share his views.
—NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH: I don't share his views either. But customs vary in different parts of the country (or world). In Iowa, where I grew up, "ma'am" and "sir" were used to show respect and had nothing to do with one's social position.

Travis Staff Honors Retiring, Mrs. Pyeatt

Friends of Mrs. Beulah Pyeatt, who is retiring this year from her teaching position at William B. Travis elementary school, honored her recently with a tea at Travis school. Hosting the event was the entire staff of the school.

Guests included friends from all schools in the teaching profession as well as administrative and auxiliary personnel.

From 1943-56 Mrs. Pyeatt taught in the Canadian Public Schools. She came to Pampa in 1956 and has taught second and fifth grades at Lamar and Travis.

Recalling some of her teaching highlights, Mrs. Pyeatt told:

Her first year of teaching was done about 60 miles back in the Sierra Rista Mountains in southeast New Mexico in 1938-39.

She had to load supplies and five gallon cream cans of gasoline in an old Model-T Ford and drive out to the community on Sunday evening and stay until Friday evening.

She lived in a half dug-out with a dirt floor, and the schoolhouse was made of raw lumber, rock and adobe mud. Pack came in and carried off pencils, except the ones kept in a tin syrup bucket secured with a lid.

Mrs. Pyeatt taught 30 pupils ranging in age from seven to 17, in grades one to seven. Her salary was $90 a month.

Her second year of teaching, also rural, was Washita School, 10 miles south of Canadian in 1941-42. This was during World War II when gasoline and tires both were rationed. She earned $105 per month and had to drive 20 miles a day and pay for the gasoline out of her husband's salary, most of the time.

These were unique teaching experiences because occasionally she would look up and find the school board seated in the back of the room observing classes. Their criticism was usually constructive, however.

Some 250 students from Pampa's elementary schools joined forces to form THE ALL-CITY ELEMENTARY BAND under the direction of PHS Assistant Band Director David Fennell.

Over five thousand Pampans packed Harvester Fieldhouse two nights this past week to watch, listen to, and enjoy this year's versions of the annual extravaganzas staged by the bands and choral departments of Pampa's school system.

Musical extravaganzas? Yes — but they were more... much more. They were precision in motion — as some 825 singers joined their voices in harmony Friday night, and 565 bandmen offered encore after spirited encore Tuesday evening.

And there was plenty of devotion and hard work in evidence as well.

The abundant pride shown by the musicians could logically be expected of the junior high and high school members, since they had captured various first division and sweepstakes honors this year. Less expected was the pride, precision and ability amply shown by even the elementary school musicians.

Pride, devotion, hard work, precision, staging, musical ability and training — it all adds up to entertainment. And that's what Pampa's Spring Music Festivals are all about.

One mouth-watering taste treat suggested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: a bowl of creamed onions a la peanuts. Mix some finely chopped salted peanuts into the cream sauce as you prepare the onions. Just before serving, sprinkle more chopped salted peanuts on top.

With springtime yard activity, hurried schedules of school activities, end of year school functions and the start of summer sports, it's hard to get the whole family to sit down for a leisurely meal. One good way to beat the spring scurry is to fix the meal ahead of time so that it can be served almost at a moment's notice.

Hanging Baskets

COLLEGE STATION — Hanging baskets add new dimensions to most landscapes and take up very little space, one authority points out.

Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, suggested eaves of a house, carports, terraces, porches and trees as possible locations.

Most apartments even have enough space to hang a basket, he added.

"Suitable containers include galvanized wire baskets, which are still popular and last many years.

"Pressed liners are now available for these, but some plants prefer the traditional two-inch-thick liner of coarse sphagnum moss.

Other possibilities include wood, plastic and terra cotta, Welch said.

"When using these, fill the basket center with a good potting soil — high in organic material such as peat moss.

"When choosing a container, remember it should be unobtrusive — to feature the plant.

"Plants appropriate for hanging baskets are numerous, but most any plant with drooping growth is appropriate," the specialist said.

"Ferns, the traditional favorite, add gracefulness and coolness to the atmosphere.

THE CEREMONY

Rev. James Futch, a Methodist minister, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. was centered with an arrangement of red and white carnations and held the three-tiered wedding cake decorated with red roses. The bridegroom's cake was chocolate, with double rings. Brenda Scott and Jan Futch assisted at the punch bowl and coffee service and Marsha Crouch and Cynthia Sidwell served cake. Ann Dyer registered wedding guests.

FANCY TEARING SIMPLIFIED
Do you want to make something fancy for your family? Fancy foods don't have to require lots of work. Frozen bread dough turns into an attractive tea ring with very little effort. To prepare a tearing first grease the top of frozen dough. Place in a greased bowl and let rise until double — about six to eight hours. Next, roll dough into a rectangle and top with desired filling — such as fruit, date sauce or cinnamon-sugar mixture. Then roll up rectangle and place, seam down, on a greased cookie sheet. Shape this into a ring, and cut about two-thirds of the way through — at one-inch intervals. Twist each section slightly — as shown in most cookbooks. Let rise again until double. Bake at 375 degrees F for about 20 minutes. Glaze and serve — or wrap and freeze. Nuts and cherries make an attractive garnish. Since frozen dough takes so long to rise, some homemakers set it out the night before. The next morning they shape it and let rise again. To be with it in fashion, if your age is young and your figure tiny, you'll want to get for the summer an Indian army cotton twill suit, overwashed for softness. The pants fit and the jacket is reversible — from plain to check and/or plaid. One cup of canned sauerkraut has 45 calories and is 93 per cent water.

"AT WIT'S END"

By ERMA BOMBECK

When the Good Lord was creating Mothers, He was into "His sixth day of overtime" when the angel appeared and said, "You're doing a lot of fiddling around on this one."

And the Lord said, "Have you read the spec on this order?"

"She has to be completely washable, but not plastic. Have 180 movable parts... all replaceable."

"Run on black coffee and leftovers."

"Have a lap that disappears when she stands up."

"A kiss that can cure anything from a broken leg to a disappointed love affair."

"And six pairs of hands."

The angel shook her head slowly and said, "Six pairs of hands... no way."

"It's not the hands that are causing me problems," said the Lord. "It's the three pairs of eyes that Mothers have to have."

"That's on the standard model?" asked the angel.

The Lord nodded. "One pair that sees through closed doors when she asks, 'What are you kids doing in there?' when she already knows. Another here in the back of her head that sees what she shouldn't but what she has to know, and of course the ones here in front so that she can look at a child when he goofs and say, 'I understand and I love you' without so much as uttering a word."

"Lord," said the angel touching His sleeve gently, "come to bed tomorrow."

"I can't," said the Lord. "I'm so close to creating something so close to myself. Already I have one who heals herself when she is sick... feed a family of six on one pound of hamburger... and can get a 9-year-old to stand under a shower."

The angel circled the model of a Mother very slowly. "It's too soft," she sighed.

"But tough!" said the Lord excitedly. "You cannot imagine what this Mother can do or endure."

"Can it think?"

"Not only think, but it can reason and compromise," said the Creator.

Finally, the angel bent over and ran her finger across the cheek. "There's a leak," she pronounced. "I told you you were trying to put too much into this model."

"It's not a leak," said the Lord. "It's a tear."

"What's it for?"

"It's for joy, sadness, disappointment, pain, loneliness and pride."

"You are a genius," said the angel.

The Lord looked somber. "I didn't put it there."

Nude Stripteaser On Trapeze

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — "When I was 17, they found a 12-pound tumor under my breast," Joan Byron said quietly as she sat in the Showbar next to the Billy Rose Theater drinking coffee.

"I decided, 'If I live through this, I'm going to do what I always wanted to do — join a circus.'"
Joan, now 23, is believed to be the world's first totally nude stripteaser on a trapeze. She peels off her clothes in the opening minutes of the "B" show "Jumpers." She's also the first naked lady on TV, in one of the show's commercials. She hangs by her teeth wearing only a hat, wig and glasses.

"The tumor wasn't malignant, but at first I couldn't raise my arm," Joan said. "I'd been gymnastic in school, so I began working out at the 23rd St. Y.M.C.A., the first girl they let in."

She got into Ringling's circus and must have been good because Vander Barrette saw her and asked her to join his "iron jaw" act — hanging by the teeth.

"It takes weeks of training usually but I learned it in five days. It was excruciating painful. There's no gimmick, no faking, it's all pain. We would practice by hanging by our teeth from a bar in a clothes closet. One day in Hartford a maid found me hanging by my teeth in a clothes closet. She ran out screaming."

Joan psyched herself into believing it didn't hurt, and got so she could hang by her teeth 10 minutes. When she heard they wanted an iron-jaw performer in a Broadway show, who also had to strip, she said, "Well, I've never taken my clothes off before, have never even posed nude as a model..."

But the lure of a Broadway show got her to audition. She now removes slip, bra and bikini pants in the half minute she's whizzing back and forth over the musicians' heads.

"I assure you it's total nudity," she said. "I don't even wear a G-string. I work so fast, I never have time to think about being nude. I have a little trouble getting my bra off because it unhooks in the front and since I'm hanging by my teeth, I can't see the bra."

She drops her clothes on the stage and the four men manning the trapeze backstage are respectful toward her and her total nakedness. They make no remarks. They are gentlemen, she says.

Joan rushes from her raw condition into some sedate secretarial attire and spends the rest of the show not opening her mouth but listening to the man who in the play is supposed to be her employer.

Joan loves circus people; they're honest and real, she says. She's glad she went into it. "But I want to pursue theater and films, now," she said. "I want to leave the circus while I'm in one piece."

Her young husband Jan Marasek is occasionally a treasure-hunter and was on an expedition in Cuba when he saw her naked in Time magazine telling about her new job.

"Seeing your wife naked in a magazine... in front of hundreds of spectators... well," he admitted, "I was kind of proud of her."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP...

Peter Cook of "Good Evening" was the only guest in T-shirt and denim pants at a recent black tie party for Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon. (He said he didn't know it was formal.)

The Betty Hutton love-in at the Riverboat is set for June 17... Bryan Murray'll direct the comedy "Nice Girls" (by Ilene Lasker and Ginger Friedman).

Emory Bass, star of "Bad Habits," is the standby for George S. Irving of "Irene"; if Bass has to take over for Irving, someone else has to take over for Bass in HIS show... Singer Kenny Coleman, former Winnipeg hockey star and ex-Fla. disc jockey, is likely to make it with a recording of Latin hit he wrote a new lyric for ("I Need You").

Steve Allen and his wife Jayne will summer-tour in Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30"... Roseland bandleader Jimmy Featherstone married socialite Martha Cameron... The NY Public Library asked producer Stuart Ostrow for a video tape of his musical "Pippin," for its theater collection.

Producer Leonard Sillman, 66 last week, shrugged off questions about his age: "Some people try to recapture their lost youth — I'm trying to capture my lost middle age."

Vivian Blaine'll unveil her new cafe at in Las Vegas in the fall... Lee Ann Meriweather's luggage was lost en route from L.A. and she had to rush out and buy a gown to wear on the "$10,000 Pyramid."

Husband Ignores Stomach Pains

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you believe, my husband has been having pains in the stomach area for quite some time. Went to the doctor and came home with medication, ate highly seasoned sauerkraut and drank about 12 beers that day (and every day prior and every day after) and said the doctor said he had acute gastritis and duodenitis.

The doctor also gave him a pamphlet on ulcers — he had been hospitalized before for bleeding ulcers.

Does he read the same thing about his condition that I do, or is he trying to make himself sick?

Not only that, this alcohol seems to change his whole personality. Instead of relaxing — he has two on his way home from work, three before dinner — he complains about the food, continues drinking until he can no longer hold his eyes open.

Our whole evening and the complete weekend is spent in an upset atmosphere. He is highly critical of anything the family does. He yells and shouts. Our children are very insecure and both want to leave home.

Our sex life is really sour. It seems to me that he is not responsive to my need for just plain affection.

Am I dreaming all these subtle and not so subtle changes in him? The few times I have talked to him he acts as though I am crazy. I feel sometimes as though I am but I don't know what to do.

I am printing your letter because it is typical of many I get from wives with alcoholic husbands. (There are husbands with alcoholic wives, too.)

There can't be any doubt that his stomach trouble is related to his drinking. It is also aggravated by his own irritability. He is self-centered and inconsiderate of his family, and that does him no good, nor anyone else.

No, you are not crazy. But there may (or may not) be something behind his drinking that you don't know about.

Problems at work that he keeps to himself but tries to submerge with alcohol? Worries of some sort? Could there be anything in the marriage that ought to be changed? A marriage counselor might find a significant clue that would help.

He can be helped medically if he wants to be helped. Or he could join Alcoholics Anonymous — again, if he wants to be helped.

But until he does, about the only suggestion I can offer you is that you get in touch with Al-Anon (counterpart of AA for spouses or relatives of alcoholics). Or write to headquarters to find the chapter nearest you. Write to Al-Anon Family Group, P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York 10010.

Other than that, all I can see is that one of these days a major episode of bleeding from his troubled stomach may scare him into action in time to save himself.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You have mentioned an organization called Overeaters Anonymous for compulsive eaters. Can you give me an address to write to?

Yes, and it's a new address for that organization: Overeaters Anonymous, Box 2613, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm 17 and was told that there wasn't a chance of getting pregnant if I had sexual intercourse during my period or two weeks after. The person who told me this said that they learned it in a biology class.

With "advice" like that going around, no wonder so many girls are getting pregnant. Pregnancy is unlikely during the period but the two-week bit is dangerous. The closer you get to mid-cycle the greater is the possibility of pregnancy.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of the booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all main from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE
By FRED KARPIN

SUNDAY
Through 1966, Italy had won the World Championships eight consecutive times. In discussing plans as to how to prevent them from winning a ninth time in a row, Charles J. Solomon, then the President of the World Bridge Federation, made this suggestion: "The 1967 Championships are going to be held in Miami Beach. Let's get our State Department to decline to give visas to the Italian team." For the record, the Italian team won again.

During the National Championship held this past March in Vancouver, Canada, Internationalist Bob Hamman was hosting a panel show. The question was asked: "Which player has been most helpful to the Italian team over the years?" It was a tough question, what with Forquet, Belladonna and Gorozza being regulars throughout the years. But Hamman had no difficulty in answering promptly: "It's close between Eric Murray and me."

It was, of course, a quip. Hamman and Murray (of Toronto) are each described in the Official Encyclopedia of Bridge as being "one of the world's outstanding players."

An example of Hamman in action can be observed in today's deal. He was occupying the West seat.

North-South vulnerable. South deals.

On Hamman's opening lead of the club king, East played the discouraging three-spot. At trick two, Hamman shifted to the three of hearts.

Surveys Toward 'The Pill'

PEARL RIVER, N.Y. — Do women resent the responsibility involved in taking the pill?

Not as much as many of us have thought, say women taking part in research on today's attitudes toward oral contraception, currently being conducted by Lederle Laboratories, a division of American Cyanamid Company.

In fact, some women indicated they would be hesitant to relinquish their responsibility for birth control. If there were a similar pill for men, they agreed nearly unanimously that they wouldn't trust men to take it.

These attitudes are emerging in the early stages of a study of current views of oral contraception by Lederle Laboratories. The study is being expanded to seek women's views across the country.

Mrs. Dagmar O'Connor, a family counselor and sex therapist at New York Medical Center, has been named special consultant to Lederle on the project and will travel this spring to cities in four geographic areas to continue research begin in New York. The in-depth attitude research dialogues will be conducted in Minneapolis, Atlanta, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., and New York City.

The research is designed to take stock of opinions which have evolved about oral contraceptives after American women and their physicians have had nearly 15 years of experience with the pill.

Although women taking part in initial dialogues prefer to keep the birth control responsibility much as it is now, related issues are emerging: the need for improved communications between sex partners about contraception; the pill's influence on man - women and family relationships; its influence on women's attitudes toward themselves.

"We are trying to sort out the barrage of information about the pill, the arguments and the influential events which have shaped women's attitudes about oral contraception," says Mrs. O'Connor.

Help your son get ahead.

This boy knows that courtesy is good business.

Newspaper route management can be a boy's first step forward

A BOY with a newspaper route truly is in business for himself. With an assist from our people who are experienced in working with boys.

He buys his newspapers from us and retails them to you.

He sells, he delivers, and he collects. Like any good businessman, he keeps records (you can see how valuable this is in applying the lessons he learns in the classroom in a practical way).

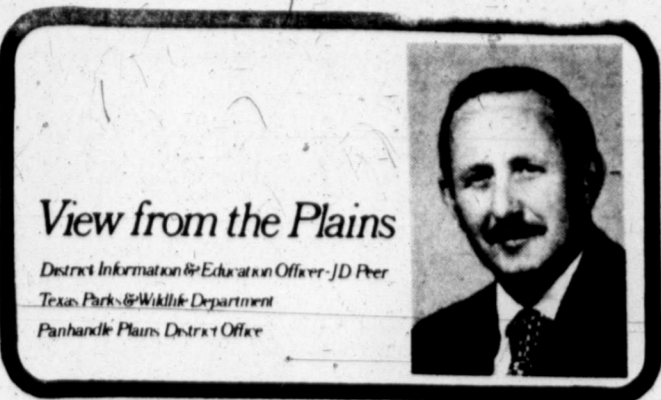

And, like any good businessman, he shows a profit. A boy with a newspaper route earns money that can help him build a sizable bank account of his own. Useful for the things he wants. Even for a college education.

Not only does a newspaper route sharpen a young boy's business sense (which will be helpful to him throughout life no matter what career he chooses), it also offers him some important extras — the ability to deal with people, and the lessons of promptness, of care, of self-reliance, and of good manners.

In these ways, a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life.

If your son wants to handle a route, put him in touch with us. One may be available for him in your neighborhood. It will be an unusual opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

There are many things that people enjoying the outdoors need to know. Take for instance, how to start a fire, whether it is a log fire or their white gas stove; to know the rules and regulations governing boating; hunters and fishermen must know and abide by the rules governing seasons and bag limits.

However, there is one thing that all of these participants must know and be able to perform and that is how to keep from drowning.

Last year, Texas reported 628 drownings. These people were boating, fishing, hunting, swimming or were near water while playing or working. Swimmers accounted for 210 of the 628 drownings.

There are many ways to drownproof yourself or your family. Number one and the most important — don't panic, stay calm. Most humans will have some natural buoyancy and upon entering the water, will come back to the surface. The best buoyancy of course, is a US Coastguard approved personal flotation device. If you don't have a life vest, taking a deep breath before hitting the water will pop you back to the surface.

When your boat capsizes, don't attempt to swim to shore, stay with the craft, help will soon be there and all modern boats have built in buoyancy devices. Be especially careful while fueling your boat as a fire on board leaves you no recourse but to either put the fire out or abandon the craft.

Many fishermen wear either hip or chest waders and some will be surprised when they slip or fall into the water how much air is caught in the boots, assisting them to float to safety.

It would seem that the safest advice would be; don't put yourself in a situation where you are required to test your training for your life.

All of the fishing, skiing, or recreation in Texas or the world is not worth on human life.

For more information on drownproofing, contact your YMCA, American Red Cross, or local college or university swimming instructor. A lesson in the technique or just basic swimming lessons can be worth its weight in buoyancy.

NT, Drake, WSU Favored In MVC

DENTON, Tex. (UPI)—North Texas State University will open defense of its Missouri Valley Conference Track and Field Championship Sunday on its home grounds, but the Eagles will face a tough challenge from both Drake and Wichita State.

Finals in six events will be held Sunday, including the six-mile run and 3,000-meter steeplechase, with 13 more finals scheduled for Monday.

The unusual Sunday-Monday dates were originally set in connection with the energy crisis and then maintained to avoid conflict with the NAIA's National Women's Track Meet scheduled for the same weekend across town at Texas Woman's University.

North Texas coach John MacKenzie, charting the MVC meet, sees his club almost in a dead heat with Wichita and Drake.

"The key for us is to try to cut into the points Wichita expects to win in the distance events," McKenzie said, "and to try to keep up with Drake in the sprints."

Drake's Lansing Holman and Gale Murphy could run the sprints. Holman has run a 9.3 100-yard dash this year and Murphy has turned in a 21.1 in the 220 — by far the fastest time in the conference in that event.

Thought I would pass along to you this week a bit of food for thought. This was found in a booklet for another organization but so well applies to any club or association that we wanted to pass it along to you. Many of us are guilty of one or another of these. "A Dozen Ways to Kill Our Organization."

1. Don't go to any of the meetings.
2. But if you go, go late.
3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of going.
4. If you do attend, find fault with the work of the officers and members.
5. Never accept office. It's much easier to criticize than do things.
6. Get sore if you are not appointed on a committee. Should you be appointed, don't attend any of the meetings.
7. If asked to give your opinion on some matter, tell the chairman you have nothing to say. After the meeting is over, tell everyone how it should be done.
8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary. When others roll up their sleeves and unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, howl that the organization is run by a clique.
9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay them at all.
10. Make no effort to get new members for the club.
11. Don't be sociable, either within or outside the organization.
12. If you should get a good idea, smother it at once.

Matson Stages Comeback Bid In ITA Competition

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — J.J. Jackson and Randy Matson each picked up their third victories on the pro track circuit Friday night, Jackson outdueling John Carlos in the 60-yard dash and Matson throwing three times over 70 feet in the shot put.

Ben Jipcho also won the mile and two-mile in the next to last stop on the International Track Association 14-meet tour which ends May 29 at Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Jackson, who tied the world indoor record of 5.8 seconds in the 60-yard dash last week at Atlanta, ran a 5.9 Friday night in Texas Stadium. He said he might have run a 5.8 or 5.7 had it not been for the fear of injuring himself on a rope barrier which stopped the runners 20 yards past the finish line.

Matson, re-emerging as one of the world's top shot putters, won over Fred DeBernardi, Karl Saltsand Brian Oldfield with a best throw of 70-5/8. He had a six-throw average of 69.9, the second best series of his career. "I think I can throw it a couple of more feet anyway," said Matson. "I've gone back to my old techniques that I had in college." Jipcho held off the challenge of both Jim Ryan and Dave Wottle in the mile run to post a time of 4:00.6 while Wottle finished second in 4:00.9 and Ryan third in 4:01.4. The chance for a four-minute mile was all but lost when Jipcho ran the first half mile in 2:03.5. Henry Hines won the long jump 26-1/4.

Nicklaus Moves Close To Lead After Subpar Round In Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—Chuck Courtney survived another blustery, humid afternoon Saturday to maintain his advantage after three rounds of the $250,000 Colonial National Golf tournament, but Jack Nicklaus fired one of only three subpar rounds shot during the day to move within three shots of the lead.

Courtney, without a victory in the past five years, shot an even par 70 over the treacherous 7,142-yard par 70 Colonial Country Club Course to finish 54 holes at three under 206.

Two strokes back, was Wintu Indian Rod Curl, who shot 71 and was at 208.

Nicklaus, despite a shaky start, put together a one-under 69 and said he was pleased to be in the position he was.

"When I came here at the first of the week," Nicklaus said, "I thought because of the way I was playing that I might be going home after the second round. I've played this course a lot of times and I feel I know the course pretty well."

"I like the position of being a couple of shots back where I can make a charge and run by the leaders."

No other golfer was under par for three rounds in the PGA's first designated tournament.

Hale Irwin, who shot a 73, and Tom Weiskopf who shot 72, were tied for fourth place at even par 210. Julius Boros was a shot back at 211, having fired a 76.

The only rounds under par shot Saturday other than Nicklaus' 69 were 66s by Monty Kaser and Gary McCord, both of them well out of the running for the $5,000 first prize.

Courtney increased his lead from one to two shots with a 25-foot birdie putt on the final hole that hung on the lip for a moment and then fell in.

Nicklaus, meanwhile, had trouble at 18 for the second day in a row. On Friday, Nicklaus hit the lake to the left of No. 18 green and was lucky to make a bogey. Saturday his second shot from the right rough went into the lake again before stopping in tall grass. From there Nicklaus made another bogey.

Cowboy Saturday Tryouts

The Dallas Cowboys have announced they will hold a tryout camp on Saturday, May 25, for men who are interested in a professional football career.

The workout will be held at Texas Stadium beginning at 9:30 a.m.

—Those wishing to take part must have no college eligibility remaining.

—All who work out must assume all responsibility for personal injury incurred during the workout.

—Each player must provide his own transportation to and from Texas Stadium.

—Each player should bring his own workout equipment (shorts or sweat clothes, and shoes for Tartan Turf). The Cowboys will have none available for loan.

PETE GIVES IN Rentzel Gets Okay To Play For Rams

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — For the first time in 10 months, Lance Rentzel knew Saturday he would be able to resume his football career.

Rentzel, 30, an eight-year veteran and a former All-Pro wide receiver, has been reinstated by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"I'm just as happy as I can be," Rentzel said.

Rozelle made the announcement in New York Friday after notifying Rentzel in person at his Beverly Hills, Calif., apartment the previous night.

Rentzel was suspended last July 24 following his guilty plea to a marijuana possession charge.

A court fined him and gave him a suspended jail sentence, but Rozelle suspended him indefinitely from playing in the NFL for violating probation.

Rentzel had been on probation for his 1971 arrest and conviction on an indecent exposure charge in Dallas while he was with the Cowboys. He pleaded guilty to a similar charge in Minnesota in 1966.

"I went down to Long Beach and got my playbook," said a jubilant Rentzel who announced he was turning down three "very good offers" from World Football League clubs to rejoin the Los Angeles Rams.

The Rams' training camp is located in Long Beach.

Rentzel, who wrote a candid autobiography about the indecent exposure incidents and the breakup of his marriage with entertainer Joey Heatherton, has been working on a second book during his forced exile.

The book is a fictionalized account of the 1972 Rams.

"My biggest interest now is in writing," Rentzel said. "But I owe the Rams and the fans here a lot. I haven't done much for them during my three seasons out here but I'll make up for it this season."

Do you know when the first Indianapolis 500-mile auto race was run? ... It all started in 1911 ... It's been run every year since then except for the war years of 1917-18 and 1942-45.

Did you know that the famous Indianapolis 500-mile Memorial Day race was not always a 500-mile event? ... Back in 1916, five years after the "500" was started, the president of the Indianapolis Speedway cut the distance to 300 miles because he felt a 500-mile race was too long to hold spectator interest!

Did you know that the idea for using rear-view mirrors on cars came about because of automobile racing? ... In the early days of auto racing, there were two people in each car — the driver and a mechanic ... The mechanic served as a sort of "co-pilot," telling the driver if anything was coming up behind him ... But in the 1911 Indianapolis 500-mile race, Ray Harroun wanted to lighten his racer and drive alone ... How would he know what was behind him? ... He conceived the idea of the rear-view mirror, and is generally credited with being the first to use one ... And over the years, many of our other auto improvements have come from auto racing.

I bet you didn't know that people have been asking about MICHELIN 'X' for 25 years. They say a friend sent them. Come in and find out why ... let us introduce you to MICHELIN 'X' ... the leader in steel belt radials.

IN AMARILLO Injury Clinic Slated For Saturday

AMARILLO — A seminar on the prevention of sports injuries will be held at Amarillo College next Saturday for interested coaches, trainers, student trainers, physicians and all athletes in the Panhandle area.

The free, non-credit clinic will be instructed by Lynn Laird and Larry Gardner and five Amarillo physicians from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. in Badger Gym on the Washington Street campus.

"The seminar topics will provide information concerning athletic injuries, both prevention and care," said Laird, who is a physical therapist at Medical Drive Physical Therapy clinic and was previously employed by the West Texas State University athletic department for seven years.

Gardner is a therapist at the Sports Injury Clinic in Dallas, a private athletic problems clinic. He was co-trainer seven years with the Dallas Cowboys and was head trainer with the Miami Dolphins the past two years.

Laird will demonstrate various correct taping methods and Gardner will discuss stretching and conditioning programs.

The clinic is co-sponsored by the Amarillo College Community Service program and the Texas Society of Team Physicians, a special group formed in the Texas Medical Association.

Those interested in the clinic may enroll at 8:45 a.m. Saturday in Badger Gym. Additional information may be obtained from Laird at the Medical Drive clinic.

COUNTRY MUSIC

By PATRICK CARR
Copyright 1974
Country Music Magazine
Songwriter Boudleaux Bryant stood in jacket and tie, on stage one spring New York night, with more than a touch of nerves. Felice Bryant, his wife and professional partner for over 25 years, sat alongside the podium in a long dress and a heavy silver necklace, cheering him on with her eyes.

"I fully realize country music is not exactly the mother's milk of New York," he began cautiously. "I feel like I finally hit the big time, but haven't got an act."

Truth was, this was no act. Billed as a lecture, the warmth of the Bryants eventually placed the audience scattered at the YM-YWHA Auditorium into one big living room.

Boudleaux began with a well-prepared yet naturally worded speech tracing the history of country music for the people who had come to hear a lecture on Nashville songwriting. One of his first observations totally stripped the situation of the dry taste of academia.

"You know," he said with all the storytelling ease of a Tom T. "country is to music as home is to cookin'. You just can't define it." Not much later, he took off his tie, stripped off his jacket, and at last everyone was truly at home.

What followed was a most entertaining evening of personal and professional observations from both Bryants on country music in general, and their success in particular.

Boudleaux spoke of the basic home folk amateurism of the rural south and west in the 20's, back where there was no name for all that was being born musically at the time.

According to the way he sees it, everything played by performers, singing in their regional accents and totally un-slick, rocked the cradle of what we now call "country music." And referring to the first name it came to have — "hillbilly" — Mr. Bryant tagged it "the inaccurate and derogatory creation of some anonymous wretch."

To add to her husband's comment of country coming up from the south, Felice remarked: "It also came over on the slave ship." She alluded to the black influence which also gave country some of its basic characteristics, especially some of its blues progressions and gut-interest lyrical themes.

Addressing their own contributions to country songwriting, Felice continued: "Really, our songs are naked. You can dress them up any way you want to."

They drove this point across by recalling that most of their hits have been sung by more than one type of singer: "Come Live With Me" was as big of a hit for Ray Charles as for Roy Clark; "Have A Good Time" is as much Tony Bennett's song as it is Sue Thompson's; and both the Everly Brothers (with whom the Bryants had their greatest successes) and Bob Dylan found little trouble choosing "Take A Message To Mary" for their recording sessions.

The Bryants were also humble about their own abilities to perform their own creations. True, they hadn't really performed before a paying audience since a tour of state fairs back in '48.

But despite Boudleaux's claim that, "I don't really play anything but polka," he did manage to provide adequate guitar backing for his and Felice's vocals. Nashville session men Dave Kirby and Bobby Thompson also joined in on everything from blue grass of their "Rocky Top" standard to the humor of "I Lost My Liver Over You."

And when it was all over, the packed audience gave the couple a standing ovation. Lecturers don't usually leave the stage to that kind of response, but few lecture halls have the common sense to offer the podium to the likes of country music and the knowledgeable, talented, and down-home charm of the Bryants.

4-H Club News

By AUDETTE KINCAID
Education is more than merely what is taught within the confines of a schoolroom; it also consists of training, practical exercise and opportunities — such as preparing a demonstration upon a particular topic and then competing with one's peers who have also prepared themselves upon similar topics. Whether the demonstration be of athletic skills, musical ability or academic excellence, the concept is basically the same.

At the 4-H county eliminations contest held in March, 38 boys and girls won the right to advance to the District I eliminations held at West Texas State last month. Of that number, 24 won awards — and five senior girls earned the privilege of representing Gray County and District I at the state finals. (Winners in the junior category do not advance beyond the district level.)

1974 FASHION FESTIVAL
Another example of this type of educational activity will be the Gray County 4-H Fashion Festival which will be held during the first two weeks of July. Boys and girls who are interested in learning more about fashions, styles, grooming, modeling and clothing construction are invited to be in this project.

Jane McDaniels, who helped coordinate the Top of Texas Beauty Pageant, will be holding a modeling seminar and planning or training sessions in conjunction with the festival. Boys are also planning to be making chaps, pants or vests.

A 4-H leader training meeting will be held Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in the courthouse annex. Clothing requirements, rules, and construction techniques will be discussed.

NEW ASSIGNMENT
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Gayraud S. Wilmore, Jr., will become the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Professor of Black Church Studies at Colgate Rochester Divinity School-Bexley Hall-Crozier Theological Seminary here on June 1.

Wilmore will also direct the school's Black Church Studies program. A Presbyterian minister and scholar, Wilmore has been Martin Luther King, Jr., professor of social ethics at the Boston University School of Theology.
