API Members Discuss Oil Pollution Regulations

By TEX DeWEESE

Requirements of the new combined federal-state regulations to control oil pollution were outlined to nearly 100 members of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute at a banquet last night in the Pampa Country Club.

E. Wallace Cooper from the Dallas regional office of the federal Environmental Protection Agency, gave an illustrated lecture detailing provisions of Public Law 92-500 and its regulations governing oil pollution and hazardous materials.

"EPA's chief concern," Wallace said, "is the prevention of oil spills and measures to be taken by owners and operators when spills occur."

The new pollution control law, he stated, became effective last Jan. 11. Its regulations require owners or operators of non-transportation related onshore and offshore facilities to prepare and implement Spill Prevention Control and Countermeasure (SPCC) plans for facilities under their control.

Cooper said the SPCC plans and reports must be implemented within one year unless a time extension is approved. Forms must be filled out and reports filed concerning any spills, the cause, and methods adopted to prevent recurrence. Owners and operators in violation have until Jan. 11, 1975 to comply.

The plans, he said, must be technically sound, have full approval of management and carry certification of a professional engineer. They must then be submitted to the regional EPA office for review if the facility has had an oil spill of more than 1000 gallons or two spills less than that in a 12-month period.

Cooper pointed out that failure to prepare implement or amend a plan would subject a facility owner or operator to a fine up to $5,000 a day for each day of violation.

The Dallas regional office of EPA supervises a five-state area covering Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

The Texas Water Quality Board at Austin is the state's policing agency on water pollution in Texas.

Forrest Smith, assistant director for the Dallas headquarters of API, told the local chapter members of the good relations existing between API and the regional EPA office and urged Panhandle operators and owners to familiarize themselves with the new law's requirements. He joined with Cooper in a question and answer period following the meeting.

Seth Abbott, Dallas, chairman of the API Task Force on Oil Pollution, spoke briefly urging cooperation of oilmen and called on local chapters of the organization to increase their activities relating to educational programs to keep people of their communities informed about the oil industry.

Chuck Zlomke, of the local chapter, said applications for scholarships for sons and daughters of API members will be taken up until the June 1 deadline. Four $250 scholarships will be awarded for use in the college or university of the recipient's choice.

Harold Lawley was in charge of last night's program. Bud Nunn, chapter chairman, announced that the API meetings would be adjourned for the summer until September.

Nixon Exonerated In Ellsberg Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One year after the Senate Watergate hearings were launched, President Nixon has been exonerated of any advance knowledge in a related scandal — the Ellsberg break-in.

Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski filed papers in U.S. District Court Thursday in which he said he has no evidence the President authorized the 1971 burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist or knew of it in advance.

Determining Nixon's role was not the direct subject of Jaworski's brief. His purpose was to refute defense motions by six defendants awaiting trial in the case, who claim the raid had Nixon's blessing as a national security measure.

Jaworski rejected that claim and referred to the burglary as "a warrantless trespassory break-in and search that had not received the prior approval of the President or the attorney general."

Jaworski said that when Nixon demanded White House leaks be stopped "whatever the cost," he was speaking in general terms and was not giving a mandate for a burglary. The burglary allegedly was the work of the White House "plumbers" unit, set up to stop security leaks. Among the defendants are two of Nixon's closest aides — John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson.

It was a year ago today that the Senate Watergate committee opened hearings that brought Watergate into American living rooms, and the President appeared to prefer that kind of open hearing to the impeachment inquiry now going on behind closed doors.

Presidential attorney James D. St. Clair formally asked the House Judiciary Committee Thursday to open its impeachment hearing to the public, saying "selective" news leaks from the closed hearings prejudiced the President's case. Chairman Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., opposes opening the hearings now.

Nixon's best friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, made the same complaint to the Senate Watergate committee Thursday.

It's getting so (says Troy Gordon) that when Dad comes home at night he no longer asks, "Is everything all right?" He asks: "Is anything 'all right'?" # War Threatens Mid-East As Israeli Planes Strike

United Press International

An Israeli commando unit carried out a hit-run attack against an Arab guerrilla base a mile inside Lebanon today and Israeli planes struck guerrilla bases near the border in the second day of retaliation for the Maalot massacre. Israeli military spokesmen reported.

Damascus reported a dog-fight over Lebanon between Israeli and Syrian planes but Israel denied the report. The Lebanese military command said Israeli planes broke the sonic barrier over Beirut today and that the Lebanese air force scrambled but made no contact.

A Syrian communique issued in Damascus said the Syrian and Israeli warplanes fought an air battle over south Lebanon today and that an Israeli plane was shot down in flames.

"There was no contact, there was no battle and there was no downing," an Israeli army spokesman said in Tel Aviv.

The Lebanese government announced that 48 persons were killed and 184 wounded in two Israeli air strikes into Lebanon Thursday, carried out in retaliation for an Arab guerrilla attack on the Israeli border village of Maalot that left 30 persons dead.

The Israeli air strikes brought sharp criticism from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger who had also denounced the Arab guerrilla attack. Egypt warned Israel that there could be grave consequences from the air raids and the Egyptian War Minister spoke of a resumption of the war.

Israel did not mention inflicting casualties in today's ground strike one mile across the Lebanese border in which the commandos blew up a house believed used by Arab guerrillas. A spokesman said Israeli planes eight hours later flew strikes on targets inside "Fatahland," the Israeli term for guerrilla-dominated areas of southeastern Lebanon near the Syrian border. He said all planes returned from the half hour raid.

Both Israel and Syria reported heavy fighting on the Golan Heights and around Mt. Hermon today, the 67th consecutive day of combat there. A Syrian communique reported Syrian-Israeli tank duels and that both sides were using artillery and anti-tank weapons.

The massive Israeli bombing raids against Lebanon Thursday brought strong reaction from Egypt, and Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Lutfi el Mitwalli conveyed today to the Lebanese government Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy's stern warning to Israel that such "treacherous" attacks could have "the gravest consequences."

The Israeli air attacks Thursday, carried out in reprisal for the Arab guerrilla attack which left 30 persons dead in the Israeli border village of Maalot, killed 29 Palestinian refugees and wounded 134. Lebanese officials reported.

An army spokesman in Tel Aviv said the commandos crossed the Israeli border and blew up a house used by Palestinian guerrillas in the Lebanese frontier town of Majdia. There were no reported casualties.

A search of the building prior to its detonation showed the presence of terrorists, the military spokesman said.

Arab guerrillas reacted to the latest raids — by threatening revenge. "Israel must expect a strong reprisal of the same proportion and level of the beastly crime it has committed," a leader of the Al-Saiqa guerrilla group said.

Lebanese military communiques issued in Beirut said Israeli warplanes penetrated Lebanese air space, but flew back into Israeli territory when Lebanese planes rose to challenge them.

Witnesses said the planes flew near Beirut and Lebanese ground forces countered with anti-aircraft fire.

Lebanese communiques also said the armed forces fought off an Israeli patrol that crossed into southern Lebanon about 12 miles from the area where the Israelis reported their attack. Lebanon made no mention of a raid on Majdia. The Lebanese cabinet met in restricted session today to discuss Israeli air strikes in southern Lebanon Thursday, the heaviest raids in the country since the October, 1973, Middle East war.

Prime Minister Takieddin Solh announced after the session that the government decided "in principle" to lodge a complaint with the U.N. Security Council over the Israeli raids.

The Israeli spokesman said the raid inside Lebanon today came after Arab guerrillas fired mortar shells from Lebanese territory at the town of Metulla, Israel's northernmost settlement. He reported no casualties in the shelling.

FOR SYSTEM PERSONNEL

School Board Approves Local Salary Increment

By CLAY LIVELY

A local salary increment of $500 above state scale for professional personnel in the Pampa Independent School District was approved by the school board last night upon the recommendation of Superintendent James F. Malone.

Malone told the board the increment could easily be taken care of within the district's projected income for the 1974-75 school year. School business manager Homer Craig backed Malone up on the recommendation.

The board was told if the increment was approved last night, contracts could be given to teachers before school is out.

In other business, the board approved a new workmen's compensation contract and adopted a written policy relative to teacher re-employment recommendation lists.

The board agreed to purchase the insurance from the Pampa Insurance Exchange, represented at the meeting by local agent Lee Fraser.

Members also considered buying insurance through the Texas Association of School Boards. Next year for the first time, professional personnel have to be covered under workmen's compensation.

The teacher recommendation list policy reads in part:

"It is the policy of the board that all material which is discussed in its Executive Sessions shall be kept confidential by the Administrators, the Board Members, and those who, due to personal involvement in the matter(s) in question, are privy to this material. All copies of confidential material will be returned to the School Office confidential files at the conclusion of each Executive Session."

The reason given for adopting such a policy was because of questions raised by some members of the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association earlier this spring about how the lists were handled this year and in the past.

They said the recommendations by administrators and expressed fears they had been shown to unauthorized personnel.

The board meeting opened with a prayer given by Rev. Claude Cone, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Following 45 minutes given to consideration of minutes of past meetings and due bills, the board retired into executive session to discuss personnel.

After the closed session, the board approved several resignations and okayed the employment of personnel, both auxiliary and professional.

Teachers hired were Carol Cline, Wanda Doughten, Myrtle Lofflin, Ouida Kay Slaughter and Peggy Davis.

Teacher-coaches employed were Curtis Didway, Louis Alfred and Philip Pirkle, all football coaches, and John Mickey, tennis coach to replace Alton Setliff, who resigned last week.

The board approved one request for the use of school facilities and turned down another. Okayed was a request from the Area Ministerial Alliance to use Pampa Junior High School's auditorium for the week of June 24-29.

A request by high school basketball coach Robert McPherson to use Harvester Fieldhouse for a summer basketball camp was refused. Cost would have been $35 per camper for the two week camp.

In the only vote which was not unanimous during the meeting, member Bob Carmichael voted to approve the request and members Sam Anderson, Bill Arrington, Curt Beck and Paul Simmons voted no.

A resolution of tribute was approved to honor Randy Cain, Pampa High School senior who was recently elected national president of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. It was also decided to issue certificates of appreciation to teachers retiring at the end of the year.

Consideration of broadcasting school athletic events for the 1974-75 school year was deferred to the June 10 board meeting at the request of KGRO radio station owner Jim Hughes.

Reports on the elementary physical education program and of a "Right To Read" program which the PISD has been selected to participate in were presented to the board.

TO CONDUCT BUSINESS

Board President Asks God's Help

Declaring that people today are living in a time that has brought about distrust and skepticism, Paul Simmons, president of the Pampa school board, opened last night's meeting of the new board by calling for Divine guidance and dedication to Christian principles in the conduct of school business.

As he opened the meeting, Simmons said:

"This is the first regular meeting since reorganization of the board and I would like to do something just a little bit different than usual tonight."

"This is a new year for this board and I feel we should acknowledge our need for dependence upon God, seeking His divine leadership and counsel during the coming days and weeks that lie ahead of us and praying that we might make the best decisions in the interest of our students and all the people involved in the educational process, as well as the rest of the community."

"We are living in a period of time that has brought about distrust and skepticism of any and all governing bodies, and many times rightfully so, because elected officials have betrayed the trust placed upon them."

"We cannot do much about the scandals in Austin or Washington, but we can locally conduct ourselves and the public's business openly and honestly, ever mindful of a dedication to Christian principles."

Simmons then stated, with those thoughts in mind, he had asked the Rev. Claude Cone, pastor of First Baptist Church, to attend the meeting and offer a prayer before the board started its deliberations.

In his invocation the Rev. Mr. Cone asked that the Lord give His blessings to the school board, students, administrators and teachers, the citizens of Pampa, the Governor and the state of Texas, and the President of the nation.

He also asked that all citizens of Pampa and the nation live according to the principles of Christ.

The school board president said today he plans to call upon other Pampa pastors and ministers to offer prayers at the start of school board meetings.

"WE'RE NO. 1!" — When their team jumped out to an early lead in the first check-in of the Chamber of Commerce Membership Drive yesterday, Henry Gruben and Gene Barrett were quick to proclaim that their team — the Mets, managed by Barrett — was "Number One." But by the end of the check-in period, they had slipped to the No. 3 spot. Check-in will be held again next Wednesday. (Photo by Bill Kincaid)

Kleindienst Getting Jaworski's Praise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard G. Kleindienst may go to jail, but he has Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's praise that "he stood up to his convictions" in rejecting a direct order from the President of the United States.

Kleindienst, 50, the second of President Nixon's four attorneys general, pleaded guilty Thursday in U.S. District Court to one count of refusing to testify "accurately and completely" before the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972 about the ITT antitrust case.

Later, Kleindienst issued a statement about what happened in 1971 while he was deputy attorney general and the Justice Department was handling an antitrust suit against the mammoth International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT).

First, he said, White House Domestic Affairs Assistant John D. Ehrlichman and then Nixon called, ordering him to drop the case which was due to expire the next day. There have been some reports Nixon swore at him.

Considered Resigning — "When the President hung up, I considered immediately resigning but realized that if I did so the case might not be appealed, which would be tantamount to compliance with the order. Instead, I decided to get the extension of time and then offer my resignation," Kleindienst said.

Shortly, Nixon retracted. The case was appealed. Eventually, however, a settlement was reached out of court. The settlement was viewed as favorable to ITT — which was allowed to keep Hartford Insurance — and subsequently ITT offered up to $400,000 to help fund the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Kleindienst said that to his knowledge the settlement and the offer were not linked and so he asked that the committee's 1972 hearings on his nomination as attorney general be reopened.

Kleindienst testified at the time that he had had no White House pressure on the ITT case.

"Less Than Candid" — On his refusal to answer to the Judiciary Committee, Kleindienst said Thursday: "I was less than candid because I viewed the President's order as ill conceived, quickly retracted, in my opinion privileged and in any event not the focus of the committee's inquiry."

"I was wrong in not having been more candid with the committee and I sincerely regret it. It is my earnest prayer that in due time history will record that in ITT the Department of Justice fulfilled its charge fairly and fully to enforce the laws..."

Kleindienst faces a possible sentence of one month to one year and a $1,000 fine. It could be suspended. The fact that the charge was a misdemeanor probably means Kleindienst will avoid disbarment.

Jaworski told reporters that Kleindienst had stepped forward voluntarily to cooperate in the Watergate case.

McLean Joins In Observing Hospital Week

McLean Hospital is joining other hospitals in the county in observing National Hospital Week through Saturday.

The annual event, also being noted by Worley Hospital and Highland General Hospital, is sponsored by the American Hospital Association and its member institutions.

The purpose of the week is to stimulate public interest in the hospitals, in their accomplishments, their goals and even some of their problems.

McLean Hospital is one of 7,000 hospitals throughout the nation observing the national event with the slogan, "Get to know us before you need us."

Mrs. Aline Winegeart, R.N., director of nurses; Mrs. Helen Cullers, R.N., and Mrs. Johnnie Spert, R.N., invite the public to drop by and visit the hospital and to meet the staff.

In conjunction with the observance, Mayor Samuel Haynes of McLean has issued a proclamation designating the week as National Hospital Week.

In his proclamation, the mayor noted "the City of McLean joins the nation in encouraging our citizens to become better informed about our hospitals' services and accomplishments, and to lend their support to the achievement of our hospitals' goals."

NBC Purchases 'GWTW' Movie

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Gone With the Wind," the 1939 film classic that has sold more theater admissions than any other motion picture, will be shown on television for the first time in 1976.

NBC-TV is paying $5 million — the highest price ever paid for a single program — for a single showing in 1976, UPI has learned.

The movie has been released periodically by MGM since it opened in Atlanta — the setting of much of the film — in 1939. It was renovated technically in 1967 for large-screen projection.

The standard price paid for networks for two runs of a successful movie is $750,000, though "blockbusters" bring higher prices.

The highest price previously paid for a feature film was $3.3 million, which ABC-TV bid last year for "The Poseidon Adventure," to be shown this fall. With a running time of three hours, 40 minutes, "Gone With the Wind" could carry up to 30 minutes of commercials if shown in prime time.

Variety, the show business weekly, shows that "The Godfather" and "The Sound of Music" both grossed more at the box office than "Gone With the Wind," but the higher gross figures for those two are attributed to higher theater admission prices.

Demonstration Club To Meet

A short slide presentation, with cassette recording on gardening for Home Demonstration members, will be held Tuesday, May 21, at 10 a.m. in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

A new variety of tomatoes "Summertime" will be given as door prizes.

If planning to attend, please register by calling the County Extension Office, 669-7429. There is room for only 60 at one time, but should both meetings be seated, another time and date will be scheduled.

AFTER 20 YEARS

Segregation Still Exists Despite Courts' Orders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two decades ago today the U.S. Supreme Court declared "separate but equal" schools unconstitutional. But on the 20th anniversary of that historic decision two out of three black school children outside the South still attend schools that have become increasingly segregated and overwhelmingly black.

Statistics compiled by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in 1972 showed 71.1 per cent of Northern public schools had enrollments more than half black.

More than 68 per cent of the schools in border states and the District of Columbia remained predominantly black. And while 53.7 per cent of the public schools in the Old South were at least 50 per cent black, an estimated half million white students still attended private segregated academies.

Noted black psychologist Dr. Kenneth Clark said, "The major problem now in the desegregation of the schools is clearly the Northern urban problem. There is no question of this. Clark's studies showing the debilitating affect of racial segregation on children were cited by the high court in the 1954 Brown opinion."

Garden Club Gains Award

The Pampa Garden Club was recently presented an award from Region I of the Soil and Water Conservation District for its work with city parks.

Robert Sailor, Gray County SWC representative, presented a plaque to the club through its president, Mrs. James F. Malone, and executive committee members Mrs. W.E. Abernathy at a local meeting this week.

The award was originally presented May 7 at the Region I awards banquet at Plainview.

The Pampa Garden Club received the honor in the civic groups category, sponsored by the Fort Worth Area Chamber of Commerce. Nominations were made by the local SWC districts.

The Region I area comprises 60 counties in the Texas Panhandle, South Plains and to the east.

Forty civic groups were nominated in the region.

The Pampa club received recognition for its work with city parks, particularly with the development of the "hike and bike trails" systems and providing more picnic tables, trees, shrubs and other plants.

Motivation Lacking For U.S. Cyclists

By MICHAEL WESTER
LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Motivation is the one thing lacking among American bicyclists, and Dr. William J. Mayer-Oakes says something can be done about it.

Motivation, according to Webster's dictionary, is a need or desire that causes a person to act. Mayer-Oakes, chairman of the anthropology department of Texas Tech University, says motivation can be developed for U.S. cyclists.

"We are trying to shift from a non-entity among the world powers in cycling to a power nation," says Mayer-Oakes, one of 10 men selected to serve on the U.S. Olympic Cycling Committee. Emphasis of the committee is cycle development for the Olympics in Montreal.

"The United States is healthier and stronger than most of the power cycling nations," he said. "We just are not motivated now for cycling—that is what we've got to develop."

Mayer-Oakes, 50, was born in Oskaloosa, Iowa. He moved to Lubbock three years ago from Canada to head up the new department at Texas Tech.

"We are among the world's worst competitive cyclists, but we can change that," he says. "People nationwide are becoming interested. After a couple years experience we can compete with other nations who now have cycling deeply imbedded in their history."

Mayer-Oakes is a past president of the Lubbock County Wheelmen Club. Through his own club, and others like it across Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Mississippi and Louisiana, he has set up a series of races to develop a U.S. bike team for both road races and track races.

"Each event is aimed at testing the skills of the cyclist and developing him just a little farther, so that when we have completed the races we will have selected the best riders based upon the points they scored in each race," Mayer-Oakes said.

"This is a critical year for the cyclists who want to ride in next year's Pan American Games, because we will not be able to follow the same process of eliminations resulting in national finals and then the international races before the Pan American event next year."

He said similar elimination races would be held both next year and again in 1976 in order to select the best riders in the United States to make up the 1976 olympic team.

"We are now in a bike boom," Mayer-Oakes said. "Both California and the New York-New Jersey area have long been strong areas for biking. But only recently has it spread nationwide. Cycling is a sport that can go on forever—there is no age limit in competitive racing."

He says that during the past three years, the sport of competitive bike racing in the United States has mushroomed.

"Three years ago when we started a competitive cycling club in Lubbock we have only six members," he said. "Today, we have over 60. And, its growing everywhere just as fast."

Mayer-Oakes said in 1971 there were only 25 licensed riders by the Amateur Bicycle League of America in the entire state of Texas. Last year, he said, there were over 400 licensed cyclists.

"The cyclist roots in Texas are not very deep, but interest is growing rapidly," he said. "Last year Texas had the biggest growth in the nation. This year it appears as if the Southeast, particularly Georgia and Florida, is having the biggest growth."

Cycling has had a similar growth nationwide.

"In 1971 there were less than 3,000 licensed riders in the nation," Mayer-Oakes said. "But this year there will be over 10,000 licensed riders in the United States."

Most catfish are nocturnal in habits and are often inactive in daylight hours.

Hawk Lovers Save A Tree

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (UPI)—Bird lovers saved the birds but lost the tree in a battle against two 25-ton bulldozers and a major construction company.

The compromise was reached Wednesday when the contractor agreed to wait until a nest of rare baby hawks can fly before cutting down the 85-foot elm that is their home.

"I just feel wonderful about this whole thing," said Mrs. Marion Stevens, one of the birds' defenders. "The company says it will not touch the tree until the tiny hawks are strong enough to fly away."

Billmore Homes Co., building a subdivision in the area, had sent two 25-ton bulldozers into the woody area to flatten all the trees. But as the bulldozers pushed near the elm tree containing a four-foot-wide nest with three baby hawks, Mrs. Stevens rushed to the tree, tied a white bed sheet around it and defied the operations.

She gathered the support of several dozen other concerned citizens, including Thomas H. Notebaert, owner of a wildlife hospital, who fell 40 feet from the elm when he climbed the tree to ward off the bulldozers.

Billmore pulled back its bulldozers.

"The tree can stay, at least until the birds are old enough to fly," a company official said. That could be as long as six weeks, according to some hawk experts.

"The babies exercise every day," Mrs. Stevens said. "I can see them standing on the edge of the nest, flapping their wings to build up strength."

The parents of the hawks flew away in the noise and confusion when the bulldozers arrived last weekend, but Mrs. Stevens says now they're back.

Mrs. Stevens said she has been bird-watching for 20 years, and it was the first time she had seen the rare red-shouldered hawks.

"I'm so happy for the babies," she said. "I was prepared to stand next to the tree for as long as necessary to keep the bulldozers away."

IN PEACE SEARCH Emotional, Military Items Obstacles For Kissinger

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Emotional as well as military considerations have been obstacles in the way of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's search for agreement on disengagement of Israeli and Syrian armies.

These are unpredictable forces often defying reason such as an attack described by Kissinger as "mindless and irrational" by three Arab guerrillas last Wednesday on an Israeli village close to the Lebanon frontier and their attempt to hold 75 school children hostage.

The fact that a splinter group calling itself the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine claimed credit for it in a communique issued from Damascus did nothing to make Kissinger's tasks easier or to ease Israeli suspicions of the sincerity of Syrian negotiators.

Blow to Pride
Add to this the blow to Syrian military pride in the loss of further Syrian territory along the Golan Heights in the 1973 war and Israeli determination never again to be threatened by surprise attack along exposed borders and some idea may be gained of the monumental task facing Kissinger.

In the rise and fall of Syrian governments since the birth of Israel in 1948, Syrian President Hafez Assad is the first to demand less than the extinction of Israel and demonstrate some willingness to negotiate.

But Assad, who took over via a military coup in 1971, does not operate with totally free hands.

Nearly 150,000 Palestinians fled to Syria during the 1948 war with Israel. In the 1967 conflict, about 135,000 Syrians, including inhabitants of the Golan Heights, lost their homes. And, according to Syrian sources, another 23,000 fled before advancing Israeli forces in the war of October, 1973.

A Nation of Mystic Sects
Since its founding, Syria has been among the most ungovernable of the Arab states, a nation of mystic sects, of tribes and clans and a leadership which reaches its decisions by routes often still a mystery.

Crowded among them are the refugees, and these elements altogether mean that Assad always must operate with one eye on the possibility of violence in the streets.

Of all the Arab states, Syria has felt the most responsibility towards the Palestinians and has given the most support to the Palestinian guerrilla groups.

Similar pressures exist for Israeli negotiators.

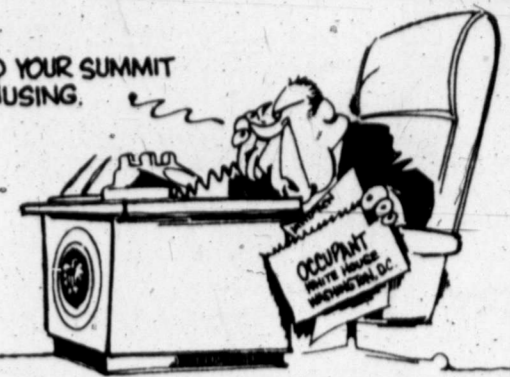

Just as Syrian refugees from the Golan Heights live for a return and oppose a settlement, so Israeli demonstrators from new Israeli villages on the captured heights have heckled Kissinger for his attempts at peace.

For the Syrians, with Israeli troops on the flatlands below Mt. Hermon in a position to threaten Damascus, it is both a military question and one of pride.

FALSE ALARMS
MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI)—There were 1,675,697 fire alarms in the United States during 1971 of which 420,260 were false, Stanford Research Institute estimates.

Banking Board To Decide On Charter

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The Texas Banking Board has told proponents and opponents of a planned bank in Brownsville it will reach a decision on whether to grant a charter by the middle of next month.

The board has already denied a charter to a group that wanted to establish a bank in Brownsville this year. Opponents say the city's economy can't support another bank, but proponents say the bank will be located in an area not served by other banks.

The banking board met Wednesday to listen to the arguments from both sides concerning the application from the Bank of Brownsville at Amigoland.

After listening to the arguments, the three-man board said it would reach its decision by the middle of June.

Larry Temple, an attorney representing three existing banks in Brownsville and one chartered but unopened bank, said declines in tourism in the Rio Grande Valley brought on by the energy shortage and the 84 per cent decrease in new building permits issued this year makes the area's economy undesirable for a new bank.

Temple said there are 10 banks in Cameron County and three more are chartered but not opened. He also said there are seven banks in operation in Matamoros, just across the Mexican border from Brownsville.

Dr. David Huff, a professor at the University of Texas' graduate school of business, said studies he made indicate the existing banks had more customers than the statewide average and the economy could support another bank.

"The proposed Bank of Brownsville should not cause any undue harm to any of the existing banks," Huff said.

Vernon Lemens Jr., one of the proposed directors and the attorney representing the bank, said it was needed because of the construction of the Amigoland Shopping Mall which he said will become Brownsville's central business district. Three of the four chartered banks are located in downtown Brownsville, 1 1/2 miles from the shopping malls, he said.

The application for the bank proposes capital of $300,000, surpluses of $300,000 and reserves of $150,000. On Feb. 27, the board rejected the application for a proposed First Security Bank of Brownsville with the same capital backing.

Dear Abby

He wants to horse around, not get bridled

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old guy with a problem. I was married for less than one year, and it was a disaster. My divorce will be final in three weeks.

I am presently in pretty deep with a chick who is hot to get married as soon as my divorce is final. She's okay to go with, but there is no way I could ever marry this gal. Besides, I want to play the field a while before tying myself down again.

I've tried to explain this to her, but she says: "Don't be afraid of marriage because you had one bad experience. If a person falls off a horse, the way to overcome his fear is to get back on the horse and ride."

Abby, this may be true with riding, but does it apply to marriage?

DEAR TEX: No. Marriage is a horse of a different color. If you want to horse around a while longer, tell that chick to cool it. And don't restrict yourself to one gal. There's safety in numbers.

DEAR ABBY: I have always wanted to make up a problem and send it in just to see if it would get printed, but now I have a real one.

About two years ago I started a pen pal correspondence with a girl in Japan. We are both 18 now. [I'm also a girl.] We exchanged pictures and became very friendly. I just got a letter from her which nearly knocked me over. She says she wants to come over here and spend A YEAR with me and my family! Abby, I would love to have her here for a month maybe, but I can't have her here for a year.

I live with my parents in a crowded apartment, and it's out of the question.

She says it's her lifelong dream to come to America, and I hate to disappoint her, but I need advice on how to tell her.

DEAR STUMPED: Tell her, just as you've told me, that you live in a small apartment, and much as you'd like to have her visit for a year, you're able to extend your parents' hospitality for only one month.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy who is living at home—but I may not be by the time you get this letter if things don't improve at my house.

I have a friend [another guy] who is studying to be a hairdresser. I asked him to bleach my hair and make it a golden blond. My natural color is a dull, uninteresting light brown. I repeat—I ASKED my friend to do this. Nobody talked me into it.

I like my hair this way, but my parents don't. You would think I had committed some kind of crime. My mother said I would have to let it grow out. [As you know, this would look terrible.] My father says I look like a guy who likes guys.

I think it's my hair and I should be able to have it the color I like. My mom dyes her hair, and I'm not crazy about HER color, but I don't hassle her about it. I figure, if she likes it, that's her business. So why can't I have my hair the way I like it?

DEAR GOLDEN: For my part, you can.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOT FOOLED": Don't rely on appearances. The guy you peg as the early bird may have been up all night.

By FRED KARPIN

As has been pointed out in these columns, bridge bidding at the upper levels has become quite complicated, with many artificial systems having come into being over the past decade. One of these systems in the "Precision Club." This system is being employed by an ever-increasing number of players in upper-echelon circles.

Here is an example of this system in action. The deal arose in the National Men's Team of Four Championship, held in Vancouver, Canada this past March. Sitting North and South, respectively, were Steve Goldstein and Mark Feldman, two members of the winning team.

East-West vulnerable. West deals.

NORTH
♠ AK 7 2
♥ AK 6 3 2
♣ A 9 5

WEST EAST
♠ 9 6 3 ♠ Q J 8 5 4
♥ 8 5 ♥ 4
♦ Q 9 5 4 ♦ 10 8 7 3 2
♣ J 10 7 6 ♣ Q 3

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 1♣ Pass 1♥
Pass 1NT Pass 2♥
Pass 2♣ Pass 2NT
Pass 7♥ Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣.

The complete artificiality of the bidding will be observed in a moment. And, quite properly, most readers will probably say: "It's too rough for me."

Agreed it is. But the fact is that this complex artificiality resulted in the optimum contract being reached with the assurance that it was the right contract. Thus the result was a systemic triumph.

North's one-club opening showed a hand containing 16 or more high-card points.

South's one-heart response was equally artificial, and showed 8 or more high-card points, plus a five-card heart suit.

North's one notrump rebid was an "asking" bid, and inquired of South: "How many controls do you have?" South's two-heart rebid answered: "I have four controls" (an ace equals two controls, and a king equals one control).

North's two-spade bid was also an "asking" bid, in spades, inquiring: "Partner, how many spades do you have?" South's answer of two notrump said: "Either a singleton or a void in spades."

North now bid the grand slam in hearts, knowing that South could ruff out both of North's low spades, and that South's A-K diamonds and king of clubs would take care of all the minor-suit losers.

The only "gray" area, from North's position, was whether South possessed the queen of hearts. But even if South didn't, his guaranteed possession of at least five hearts would make the grand slam contract an excellent one.

Beef Kabob Klatch

Kabobs add excitement to outdoor cookery. Cubes or strips of beef threaded on skewers with fruits or vegetables are easy to ready for the grill and delicious when served from it. Let it be "each to his own" for a fun and fast way to conviviality. The vegetable and fruit pieces should be of the size to cook or heat through, as necessary, by the time the meat is done and not before.

Moore, vice president; and Clara Lee Rhodes, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Sullins also installed the officers telling them that a vitamin would encourage them to do a good job.

Mrs. Shotwell presented a gift to Marian Stroup in appreciation for her good work for the past year. She in turn gave each of her officers a remembrance for helping her with the year's work.

AT ST. VINCENT'S

Diocese Bishop Makes Visit For Local Masses

Parishioners of St. Vincent de Paul in Pampa were honored on Mother's Day by a visit from His Excellency, Most Rev. Lawrence M. DeFalco, D.D., bishop of the Amarillo Diocese.

Rev. Francis Hynes, C.M., pastor of St. Vincent's, was away for the day, and Bishop DeFalco consented to take his place on the occasion, for which several special events had been arranged.

Bishop DeFalco celebrated Mass both at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. The 9 a.m. observance was a Youth Mass, with the young people of the Parish attending and participating in large numbers.

Guitar music and vocal selections were contributed by various groups and choirs made up of the youthful members of the church and its associated Parochial School.

At the 11 a.m. High Mass, Sir Knights of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, formed an honor guard in full regalia to honor their Bishop. This consisted of Sir Knights Max Myers, Borger; Gerard Leger, Lloyd Simpson, Jasper McBride and Harry Cain, Pampa.

At the conclusion of this Mass, certificates of recognition were given to members of St. Vincent's Choir by Tracy-Cary, director.

A breakfast was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Leger at 1628 Faulkner. Mesdames Jasper McBride and Angelo Carrubi, Sr. assisted the hostess in preparing the food.

In addition to His Excellency Bishop DeFalco and Rev. Wendelin Dunker, C.M. of St. Vincent, guests at the breakfast included the five Sir Knights of the Honor Guard and their ladies, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Carrubi, Sr., and Tracy Cary.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS, England (UPI) — Undertaker Geoff Baker, 65, found it necessary to take a newspaper ad to prove that rumors of his death were exaggerated.

It began when he dropped into the local pub and a regular bought him a pint, saying, "Good heavens—I thought you were dead."

Then three friends stopped his son Leonard on the street to say how sorry they were about Baker's death.

The clincher came when more friends dropped by the Baker house to offer their condolences.

"I thought it was a joke at first but I hope people will believe now that I am alive and kicking," Baker said.

Science Today

By AL ROSSITER JR., UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 20 million Americans suffer each year from the headache, toothache, sometimes earache and swelling around the eyes caused by inflammation of the sinuses.

They spend millions of dollars annually for medications that promise relief from the misery of sinusitis, as the condition is called.

A new government booklet on the ailment says there is no way all sinus disorders can be prevented any more than all colds or bacterial infections can be avoided. It says the best way to resist sinusitis is to get enough rest and exercise, eat a well-balanced diet and maintain a general resistance to infections.

Anything that causes a swelling in the nose, be it a viral or bacterial infection or an allergic reaction, can affect the sinuses. The National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, which prepared the booklet "Sinusitis," reasons the best way to check the ailment is to control or prevent the underlying causes.

Intensive Research — The institute has intensive research underway aimed at curbing a variety of allergic disorders and the viruses which have been implicated in the common cold, which often precedes a sinus infection.

Sinusitis usually occurs in one or more of the sinus cavities located over the eyes, inside each cheekbone, just behind the bridge of the nose or in the upper region of the nose. Air and mucus trapped in an obstructed sinus may cause pressure on the sinus wall and the intense pain of a sinus attack.

Headache upon awakening in the morning is characteristic of a sinus problem, the booklet says. Pain when the forehead is touched may indicate inflammation of the sinuses over the eyes. Infection of the cheek sinuses can cause the upper jaw and teeth to ache.

Sinusitis often causes swelling of the eyelids and tissues around the eyes, pain between the eyes and tenderness when the sides of the nose are touched. Infected sinuses also can result in earaches, neck pain and deep aching at the top of the head.

May Require Medication — Doctors treat the condition by draining nasal passages and controlling or eliminating the source of the inflammation. This may require medication to reduce the congestion antibiotics to control a bacterial infection and painkillers to relieve discomfort.

A sinus infection can't be cured by home remedies, the booklet said, but the discomfort that accompanies the ailment can be lessened by inhaling steam from a vaporizer or tea kettle. A hot water bottle or a heating pad placed over the inflamed area also can help.

Many victims of the condition find partial relief when humidifiers are installed in their home. Air conditioners and electrostatic filters attached to heating and cooling equipment help by keeping an even temperature and removing dust and pollen from the air.

Cigarette smoking should be avoided by someone susceptible to sinus problems, the institute said in the booklet. The institute also recommends that alcohol drinking be curtailed because alcohol causes a swelling of the nasal-sinus membranes.

"If a person suspects that his sinus inflammation may be related to an allergic reaction to dust, mold, food, or pollen—or any of the hundreds of allergens that can trigger a respiratory reaction—he would be wise to seek his physician's referral to an allergist," the booklet advises.

City Auditor Takes Personal Look At Garbagemen's Work

By PETER GILLINS SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI)

When an anonymous garbage man complained about the trashy way Salt Lake County officials treated employees, Auditor Gerald R. Hansen decided to get to the bottom of it.

Hansen, who normally spends a day punching a calculator, donned work clothes and climbed aboard a Sanitation Department truck. He worked a full shift, picking up garbage in the suburbs of Salt Lake City.

"It gave me a whole different viewpoint," he said afterward.

"I learned you have got to watch out for those plastic baggies. They can explode when you throw them on the truck and cover you with who-knows-what."

The 39-year-old auditor decided to get a handle on things in the Sanitation Department after an employee circulated an anonymous letter accusing Hansen and other officials of various abuses—including an unsubstantiated charge that employees were forced to pay kickbacks.

"It was basically a crank letter," Hansen said, "full of malicious lies. I've asked postal authorities to see if any laws were broken."

"But it indicated that we have a pretty drastic lack of communication," he said. "So I thought, 'By gosh, I'll go out and talk with them.'"

Hansen said he would incorporate his first-hand findings into a performance audit of the department.

The auditor began his day as a garbage man at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday. He listened to complaints from sanitation workers as they arrived at work — complaints about overtime, and the need for protective clothing, shoes and gloves. Then he climbed aboard a truck.

"The man I worked with has been a garbage man for five years," he said. "He has a family and is proud of his job."

"I also found that people like garbage men — and get to know them just like the mailman or the milkman."

Hansen said handling garbage cans all day made him aware of the dangers of the job.

"You never know what you are picking up," he said. The auditor said he found some legitimate gripes about the need for the county to provide its sanitation workers with special gloves and other protective clothing.

"I also got a sore back and a few aching muscles," he added. "But I'll survive."

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN — One popular investment today, and periodically throughout the past, is fine jewelry. Gold jewelry, diamond rings, and other jewelry with precious metals and stones are being purchased in record amounts.

But it is often impossible for an inexperienced consumer to tell if a piece of jewelry or an uncut stone is what it is represented to be.

Reports from other states indicate there is a rash of deceptive practices in segments of today's jewelry market, although most jewelers are honest and depend on customer good will. Sometimes, however, even an unwary jewelry store owner may be "taken."

One report revealed that a jeweler who had been selling "amber beads" for years discovered when he had the beads tested that they were not amber at all. His foreign supplier had misled him.

Federal Trade Commission officials report that the problem is compounded by the fact that so few people who are taken advantage of by deceptive practices in the jewelry industry ever discover the deception and file complaints.

It is usually only when a person has a piece of jewelry appraised for insurance or when he tries to sell it that he becomes aware that he has been taken.

A diamond engagement ring is often the first piece of expensive jewelry many persons purchase. It's of great importance to select a highly reputable jeweler and to depend on his advice when picking a diamond, since for most couples an engagement ring is a major investment.

There are four things to consider when buying a diamond: carat, color, clarity, and cut. And there are two standard grading systems that classify diamonds by these four criteria. One system is used by the Gemological Society of America, the other by the American Gem Society.

Attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division learned of a consumer who bought a diamond from one jeweler, only to have another jeweler appraise the stone a few months later at about half what he had paid for it.

To avoid such disappointments, have the jeweler indicate on the sales receipt the exact description of the diamond according to one of the two standards mentioned. The receipt should state which standard was used and should indicate precisely the diamond's carat size, clarity, color and cut.

"Carats" and "points" are terms of weight for diamonds. There are 100 points to a carat, so a quarter of a carat is written ".25." It takes 142 carats to make one ounce. The Federal Trade Commission standards require that there be no more than one-half point variance from the exact weight in grading a diamond.

Diamond color can range from colorless to canary yellow, with the colorless ones generally preferred. A very few diamonds can be accurately described as "blue-white," but they are quite rare.

Occasionally, a diamond may naturally possess an unusual tint, but it is also true that artificial methods such as subatomic particle radiation, heat treatment, or chemical methods may be used to tint a diamond or to conceal an off-tint. Such treatment should be disclosed to the purchaser.

Clarity refers to the absence of imperfections in a diamond. Most of them have imperfections, but if they are not visible to the naked eye, the stone is more valuable.

Most jewelers advise consumers to purchase a stone with as few invisible flaws as possible. They say that any diamond with visible flaws is likely to have poor resale value.

Cutting is the fourth thing to consider. It's the method by which jewelers shape a diamond and arrange its facets (or reflecting surfaces) to get brilliance and fire. Experts advise consumers not to compromise on the quality of a diamond's cut, since poor cutting can ruin a diamond's proportions and beauty.

Jade and American Indian jewelry are two other types of jewelry especially popular today.

Because of increased trade with China and a corresponding interest in Chinese goods, jade is now in the limelight. It has been valued in China for thousands of years, although the best jade comes from Burma.

Our attorneys have reports from a consumer agency in the East about a woman whose $6,000 "jade" jewelry piece turned out to be green garnet worth about $1,000, so investigate carefully before investing.

Due to the recent upsurge of interest in American Indian silver and turquoise jewelry, many amateur collectors are combing the market for good buys.

Experts warn that it's not the cost of the materials that makes Indian jewelry so valuable, but the quality of workmanship. Therefore, it is very important to rely on the guidance of a good dealer who generally trades directly with the tribes producing quality jewelry.

If you have a consumer problem, consult our Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's time for an equal rights amendment on the home front. I'd even lead a bra burning demonstration for it if I thought such an action would help.

For what is happening in our society is that women increasingly are holding two jobs — the one of homemaker, usually a mother, too, and one outside the home.

But what society forgets is that it takes a Superwoman to do both with competence without becoming a jangle of nerves and a basket case from fatigue.

Look at the statistics. The Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor says there are 34.5 million women in the labor force. Of that number, 58 per cent are married with husband present, 23 per cent single, and 19 per cent widowed, divorced or separated.

Thirteen million have children under age 18, and 4.8 million with children under 6.

The dual role is difficult enough when there are no children still in the nest. But I feel like marching the most for those who do a darned conscientious job at office or wherever, bring home a big chunk of the family paycheck, get along without part-time help, clean the house, wipe noses, tie shoelaces, plan the family meals, shop, cook, pack school lunches, dunk the clothes into the washer and dryer, read bedtime stories, kiss away the pain of a mashed finger, pick up dad's clothes where he's dropped them, and hears a hundred times a day, "As long as you're up, dear, would you...?"

Well, I could go on. But just keep a calendar on what you, the working mother and-or wife, do and you get what I mean.

So it is that a publication of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. called "Mothers at Work" is welcome.

Emission controls on an automobile increase gas usage by about 15 per cent.

Officials Take Optimistic View Of China Relations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials take a relatively optimistic view of the future of U.S. relations with China, discounting speculation that rising anti-Americanism imperils the understanding reached at the 1972 Peking summit.

Nor do officials believe that Premier Chou En-lai is in any imminent peril of being displaced by a radical. There is, however, some concern over Chou's health.

Last Tuesday was the first anniversary of the establishment in Peking of the U.S. liaison office. A Chinese mission was opened in Washington a short time later.

The year has been marked by steady development of relations. The Communist government's increasing condemnation of "Western imperialism" and Peking's attacks on American foreign policy are not taken too seriously here. The assumption is that this condemnation waxes and wanes with its usefulness for domestic policy purposes.

Personal Contact
Officials say there is considerable and increasing personal contact between Chinese and Americans in liaison offices in the two capitals.

SSI-Alert Plan Designed To Help Blind, Disabled

The Social Security Administration has joined with the Administration on Aging in Project SSI-Alert, which is designed to reach and provide assistance to those aged, blind, and disabled people who are eligible for the new Federal program of Supplemental Security Income (SSI).

The purpose of the project is to enlist the assistance of local community action groups in explaining who is eligible for the Supplemental Security Income program and how individuals can establish this eligibility.

SSI payments can be made to persons who are disabled, blind, or over 65, and have little or no income and limited resources.

The American Red Cross as well as other national and local governmental agencies have been providing assistance on the Project SSI-Alert.

out of retirement to head the U.S. office in Peking, has informed the administration that he intends to stay on as long as his presence there is desired by Washington. Bruce denied he and Mrs. Bruce found life in Peking rather lonely and unfamiliar.

Bruce, whose staff includes about 10 U.S. officers and 14 clerks and secretaries, attends few diplomatic parties but has frequent and worthwhile contacts with Chou and Vice Foreign Minister Chiou Kuanhua, the man with whom Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger worked closely in arranging for the 1972 visit to Peking by President Nixon.

Huang Chen, director of the Chinese office in Washington, has taken a much more active role in the diplomatic party circuit. He also has established close working relationships at the State Department, which he frequently visits.

There is much discussion of increased trade between the two countries. Two-way commerce in 1973 totalled only about $800 million with an 11-1 balance in favor of the United States.

However, U.S. officials expect this to grow substantially in the calendar year 1974.

Petroleum Resources
Agriculture Secretary

Earl Butz has estimated that U.S. sales of wheat and other grain during the fiscal year ending June 30 will total $1.2 billion. Most of the sales will be accounted for in the first half of calendar 1974.

The Chinese already have purchased some Boeing aircraft and industrial equipment such as fertilizer plants.

The Chinese have the advantage of petroleum resources which enable them to export this critical fuel to Japan and gain additional foreign exchange to be spent in various countries in Europe and the United States.

U.S. officials say more Americans than last year attended the Canton spring fair this year at which Chinese businessmen offered products for export.

The commission Wednesday set the statewide allowable at 100 per cent except for the Kelly Snyder and East Texas fields, both at 86 per cent, and the Big Wells, San Miguel, Fort Trinidad, Dexter, Buda and Glen Rose fields at 80 per cent each.

Demands for Texas crude in June total 3,879,449 barrels daily, up 18,684 over May. Natural gas nominations for June total 27,985,323 cubic feet daily, up 283,752 cubic feet daily over May.

Requests by major purchasers included AMOCO 350,000 barrels daily, Atlantic Richfield 170,000, Chevron 77,800, Cities Service 118,000, Continental 38,000, Crown Central 45,600, Diamond Shamrock 35,000, Exxon 632,000, Gulf 182,000, Mobil 345,000, Phillips 115,000, Shell 322,000, Sun 192,000, Texaco 223,000 and Union of California 95,000.

IN SATURDAY CEREMONIES

Carson County To Receive Official 'Bicentennial' Flags

PANHANDLE — The Carson County Bicentennial flags, the official designation of a Bicentennial community, will be presented to county and city officials at 12:30 p.m., Saturday on the grounds of the Carson County War Memorial Building here during the day's activities of the Square House Museum annual Arts and Crafts Fair.

Dr. Shirley Abbott, Regional Director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration for Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana, will present the flags. Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo has been invited to accept the flags and to, in turn, present them to Carson County Judge Clarence Williams, Panhandle Mayor Marvin Sparks of Panhandle, Mayor Paul Homer, Groom, Mayor Winfield Powers, White Deer, and Mayor W.F. Moreland of Skellytown.

Members of the Carson County Bicentennial Committee will be present. Mrs. J.B. McCray is general chairman and Mrs. Ralph Randal serves as coordinator with the Square House Museum. Richard Hunn is chairman of Horizons '76. Mrs. Marshall Sherwood serves as Festival U.S.A. chairman, and Mrs. J.I. Williams is Heritage '76 chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Scott, as Curator and Educational Director of the Square House Museum, will also be present.

High school speech students will give patriotic speeches, and elementary school children will sing patriotic songs to conclude the program.

County Girl and Boy Scouts, 4-H youth, other youth groups, and all interested citizens are especially invited to attend this official designation of Carson County as a Bicentennial Community, according to committee chairmen.

At a meeting of the Carson County Bicentennial Committee in Panhandle Monday night, plans were discussed for the official designation ceremony of the county as an American Revolution Bicentennial community. All Panhandle communities which have received national designation will be honored at the opening of "Texas," June 19 in the amphitheater at Palo Duro Canyon.

Nunn reported that he had met with the city council of Panhandle and that plans were already being made for a town clean-up. He plans to meet with Groom, White Deer and Skellytown officials.

Mrs. Sherwood reported on her meeting with the school superintendents of the county, Freeman Melton, Jr. of Panhandle, John Brunley of Groom, and R.W. Standefer of White Deer - Skellytown, and of their initial plans for the exhibits of student work during the bicentennial celebration.

The theme of the students' exhibit will be "What America Means to Me." The superintendents pledged their support of the project and indicated their intent to instruct their teachers to include Bicentennial units in their regular programs.

Mrs. J.I. Williams reported on the meeting of Bicentennial representatives during the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Odessa recently. Carson County was recognized at this meeting as having received the national Bicentennial designation.

Mrs. Ralph Randal reported that funds were still being solicited for the building of "Freedom Hall" on the museum grounds. She stated that the building would be built. This building will house the Bicentennial exhibits of the nation's freedom, the freedom of Texas, and the settlement of the county, as well as the students' creative exhibits during the bicentennial years.

Jerry Lane, coordinator of summer youth activities for the Panhandle churches, announced plans for a July 4, 1974 parade, game day, dinner on the grounds at the courthouse. The theme for the day will be "Freedom The American Way."

The committee approved the use of the Cornado medallion, a museum artifact, as the official county side of the commemorative coin to be issued.

Chester Sparks and Patti Scott, Panhandle High School students, reported on the recent Youth Conference held at the Valley of Cibola in Donley County.

The next county committee meeting will be at 8 p.m., June 10, at the Square House Museum.

Juries Need Instructions About Rules Of Evidence

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — If circumstantial evidence is the only type of evidence the prosecution can produce, a jury must be instructed on the rules of such evidence before it begins its deliberations, according to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The court ordered a new trial for Richard Eiland of Houston who was convicted of murdering a 76-year-old woman. The only evidence against Eiland was circumstantial.

Eiland's palm and fingerprints were found on the window sill of the home of the murder victim. These prints were the main evidence used to convict him and give him a life sentence.

But the appeals court said this evidence proved only that Eiland's palm and fingerprints were on the windowsill, but did not prove that Eiland killed the woman.

And when no direct evidence can be found to support the charges against a defendant, a jury must be instructed on the rules of circumstantial evidence.

The court also overturned a murder conviction of J.W. Gamble of Dallas and an assault to murder conviction of Wayne Ernest Barker of Houston.

Question: Are women being admitted to the priesthood of the Greek Orthodox Church in Greece?

—St. Louis, Mo.

Answer: No. It is not even being considered. However, your question may arise out of the fact that some of the preaching in Orthodox Churches in Greece is now being done by women who are highly educated in the field of theology.

For a long time it has been customary for lay theologians to deliver sermons in Greek Orthodox Churches in Athens and elsewhere in Greece. It has been agreed that women who have the qualifications as the male theologians also are entitled to deliver sermons at the Liturgy which is, of course, celebrated by an Orthodox priest.

Question: Where are the headquarters of the Youth for Christ Movement?

—Columbus, Ohio

Answer: The address is 360 South Main Place, Carol Stream, Ill. 60187.

Question: Are you familiar with a spiritual teacher named Apollonius of Tyana who lived, roughly, in the same era as Jesus Christ? If so, please give me some information on him.

—Albany, N.Y.

Answer: We do not know the time of the birth of Apollonius, but he died about 98 A.D., more than 40 years after the death of Jesus Christ.

Although Apollonius is known to have lived a very virtuous life and to have been a leader of spiritual and social reform, some of his biographers probably enhanced these qualities after his death. Some of them made his achievements almost parallel with the Gospel of Christ.

The best-known life of Apollonius was by Flavius Philostratus, written about 220 A.D. It had so many exaggerations that it became used, later, as a tool of anti-Christians.

About 303 A.D. there was another life of Apollonius by Hierocles, governor of Bithynis. His work was denounced by Bishop Eusebius of Caesarea who is known as the father of church history.

Even in modern times some people used Apollonius as a tool for discounting the uniqueness of the Christian Gospel, but this is due to the excesses of his early biographers.

Question: Stanislas is a common name among Polish Christians. What is its origin?

—Washington, Pa.

Answer: It was the name of the Bishop of Krakow in Poland during the reign of King Boleslas II. Stanislas spoke out against the immoral conduct of the king who eloped with the wife of one of his noblemen. St. Stanislas, in 1079, was murdered by the king before the bishop's cathedral altar.

Thoughts

In him lie hidden all the mighty, untapped treasures of wisdom and knowledge. I am saying this because I am afraid that someone may fool you with smooth talk. For though I am far away from you, my heart is with you, happy because you are getting along so well, happy because of your strong faith in Christ. And now just as you trusted Christ to save you, trust him, too, for each day's problems; live in vital union with him.

Pentecostal Study Slated

The United Pentecostal Church continues their study of 1st and 2nd Corinthians of "The Saints Way." This Sunday's lesson title is "The Saint's True Measurement."

This is truly a wonderful lesson to be studied and learned, for the only true standard of measurement is the Word of God.

Rev. H.M. Veach and congregation cordially invite all who are interested to come and study this wonderful lesson with them. If you cannot make it to the church, you are invited to tune in to KGRO radio at 9 a.m. for the Voice of Pentecost. We believe you will receive a blessing from this broadcast.

KEEPING THE FAITH LANTANA, Fla. (UPI) —

Ninety-four per cent of all Americans believe in the existence of God, says the National Enquirer.

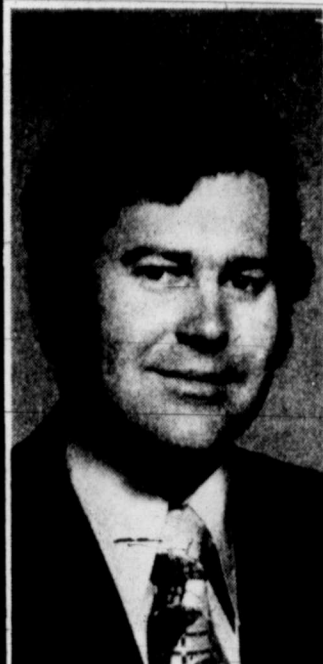

Although church attendance dropped between 1958 and 1971, personal interest in religion remained high, said the publication, quoting a study by sociologists at the University of Michigan.

The researchers said churchgoers declined from 43 to 35 per cent, but more than half of the newest sampling said their interest in religion remained unchanged.

BIBLE STUDIES NEW YORK (UPI) —

Group Bible studies are becoming more popular, according to the Assemblies of God Department of Education. The church's Berean Bible School gained 42 per cent in enrollments in correspondence Bible Study programs.

A SALUTE TO OUR GRADUATES
It is graduation time again and I want to offer my personal best wishes to all who are receiving diplomas this month or next. A lot of work has been put forth to give you the right to walk across a stage and receive your diploma. Let me share with you some thoughts from Eric A. Walker, President of Pennsylvania State University.

Your parents and grandparents are the people who within just five decades have by their work increased your life expectancy by approximately 50 percent — who by cutting the working day by a third, have more than doubled the per capita output.

These are the people who have given you a healthier world than they found. And because of this you no longer have to fear epidemics of flu, typhus, diphtheria, smallpox, scarlet fever, measles or mumps that they knew in their youth. And the dreaded polio is no longer a medical factor, and tuberculosis is almost unheard of.

Let me remind you that these remarkable people lived through history's greatest depression. Many of these people know what it is to be poor, what it is to be hungry and cold. And because of this, they determined that it would not happen to you; that you would have a better life; you would have food to eat, milk to drink, vitamins to nourish you, a warm house, better schools and greater opportunities to succeed than they had.

They built thousands of high schools, trained and hired tens of thousands of better teachers, and at the same time made higher education a very real possibility for millions of youngsters — where once it was only the dream of a wealthy few.

While they have done all these things, and more, they have had some failures. They have not yet found an alternative for war, nor for racial hatred. Perhaps you, the members of this graduating class, will perfect the social mechanisms by which all men may follow their ambitions without the threat of force — so that the earth will no longer need police to enforce the laws, nor armies to prevent some men from trespassing against others. But they — those generations — made more progress by the sweat of their brows than in any previous era, and don't forget it! And if your generation can make as much progress in as many areas as these two generations have; you should be able to solve a good many of the world's remaining ills.

Members of the Class of 1974, I salute you and wish you God's richest blessings as you continue the lifelong process of learning. Be sure to remember that Jesus Christ is the way, the truth, and the life.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sharp drop in Treasury bill yields sparked interest among investors and traders even though it is not yet evident that interest rates have peaked, says E. F. Hutton & Co.

"It remains a frustrating market," the firm continues, "one that is particularly difficult to trade since the price swings either up or down are relatively narrow." But the market's performance has been encouraging, it adds, when viewed in light of Watergate, inflation, soaring interest rates, and the problems plaguing Con Edison and Franklin National Bank.

The uninterrupted sequence of ten quarterly Dow Jones industrial average earnings advances, culminated by an estimated 21 per cent increase for the March quarter, is convincing evidence that the American publicly owned common stock is still an effective hedge against inflation," according to Wright Investors' Service.

The Brideport, Conn. firm advises investors to exercise near-term caution despite the values in most common stocks.

"The securities markets in general and the stock market in particular have been marking time, waiting for hard news on interest rates and inflation," says Paine Webber Jackson & Curtis Inc. If the market breaks through the 800 mark on the Dow Jones Industrial Average, it would suggest a plunge to the mid-700's, the firm says.

"A rally from current levels, no matter how short-lived, would be welcomed as an indication that the market was continuing its basebuilding for an extended advance later on in the year," it adds.

A motion was made and seconded that the Association set up a booth in the Coronado Center the first Saturday each month where the Flea Market is held. A committee of four was selected to attend to the sales. All who can donate are requested to put the price on each item given and bring to Lester Hathaway in Mobeetie and Mrs. Sallie Harris in Wheeler.

Those of us in positions of public trust must speak to the problems resulting from the mountains of government forms and paperwork, bureaucratic indifference, and top-heavy organization of federal agencies that is so prevalent today.

Last year, I introduced legislation to eliminate unnecessary paperwork required of independent government regulatory agencies. I am happy to say, that legislation has now become law.

And additional legislation is pending in Congress to eliminate unnecessary paperwork required by other government agencies.

The malfunctioning Veterans Administration only reflects the indifference and insensitivity of its top management. Under pressure from the Veterans Affairs Committee, and from Congressman Olin Teague in particular, the Administrator is now stepping down.

Congress must see it that his successor is screened very carefully, and that the entire agency is upgraded.

The Defense Manpower Commission, established by legislation I introduced, has now launched a study of military personnel practices to determine whether the Pentagon is making the best use of its personnel.

The 8-member Commission is charged with making its report within 18 months — and I am hopeful it will lead to improved personnel policies in the Pentagon.

We need to raise standards of job performance in our bureaucratic agencies and we must constantly strive to replace mediocrity with excellence.

Of course, this cannot be done overnight. But the process must begin.

World's Greatest Democracy Also 'Greatest' Bureaucracy

BY SENATOR LLOYD BENTSEN

The world's greatest democracy may be on its way to becoming the world's greatest bureaucracy.

The small businessman, the farmer, the veteran, the elderly person on social security — all struggle along as best they can with the countless forms, directives and questionnaires of government agencies.

And all experience a growing inability to communicate with the faceless, nameless, computerized bureaucracy. Let me cite a few examples.

Small businesses — which are supposed to be encouraged by the government — are the target of 10 billion sheets of government forms and regulations every year — enough to fill the stands of 50 major-league baseball parks.

Nowhere is bureaucratic indifference more in evidence than in the Veterans Administration. Recent delays and confusion in the payment of educational benefits are prime examples of this.

But, such things as unnecessary paperwork and indifference are not the only problems of bureaucracy. There is also evidence that many government agencies, such as the Pentagon, are top-heavy.

Our military personnel costs have increased by $22 billion a year over the past 10 years, despite the fact that the number of our personnel has been reduced by 400,000.

Those of us in positions of public trust must speak to the problems resulting from the mountains of government forms and paperwork, bureaucratic indifference, and top-heavy organization of federal agencies that is so prevalent today.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

George was an escapee from the Turkish massacre of Armenia and fled to this Mecca of Freedom. As a modern Horatio Alger hero, he offers an inspiring antidote to the Watergate nausea and cynicism regarding politicians. Heed Prof. Barber's comments!

CASE A-635: George Mardikian should be familiar to every high school and college student.

For he came to America as a teen-ager in 1922, with tremendous admiration for this great Republic and its superb "Free Enterprise" system.

"He is truly the modern Horatio Alger," Prof. Margaret Barber told me recently at lunch.

"For he believes in Woodrow Wilson's motto, namely, that all any American should desire is a free field and no favors."

"So he started doing any honest manual work that he could find, including washing dishes at a restaurant."

"He married a wonderful wife when he was 26, and she helped him found his famous Omar Khayyam's Restaurant at San Francisco."

"Dr. Crane, I made a 60-minute movie of Mr. Mardikian which I show to my students here at El Camino College."

"And they are fascinated by his comments, as well as inspired by his rugged defense of 'Free Enterprise.'"

"So please urge all teachers to cite Mr. Mardikian as the symbol of this great country, which is the Mecca for oppressed people all over the rest of this planet."

George Mardikian offers you a tonic for your soul when you hear his staunch defense of this country or read his inspiring book, titled "Song of America."

Heidi Hirschman, talented Hoosier book reviewer, has thrilled audiences of over 2,000 women when she has portrayed that "Song of America."

It alternated laughter with tears and leaves every audience enthralled.

For it is the saga of an immigrant boy who escaped death in Armenia and arrived in America as a devout worshiper of our freedoms so tersely codified in the U.S. Constitution.

You readers are familiar with the fact that most of us native Americans fail to appreciate the paradise into which we have been born.

So a talented newcomer like George Mardikian can wake up and combat the insidious erosion of patriotism that has been occurring in this liberal, permissive generation.

If you thrill when you hear "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," you will likewise experience a tonic to your soul when you see Prof. Barber's movie or read George Mardikian's "Song of America."

As superb vaccination against the Watergate nausea and growing cynicism for Washington politicians, I prescribe George Mardikian.

He is now an orator for Americanism, donating his speaking fees to the Boy Scouts, which he considers a splendid organization for building respect for this Republic.

Every high school might very properly show Prof. Barber's splendid movie of George Mardikian, as an antidote for the negative carping and criticisms that are sabotaging this country.

George Mardikian advocates positive thinking and hard work (elbow grease), plus honesty and intelligent patriotism.

As an escapee of Turkish massacres in Armenia, this immigrant boy's saga of success in our wonderful country is as inspiring as a Billy Graham evangelistic sermon!

A lawyer may have delivered your newspaper today

Newspaper route management: There's a future in it.

Or a doctor. Or an accountant.
Or president of the whole United States.

Of course, we're talking about the future—but a carrier is laying the groundwork for his future NOW.

Because he is a carrier, he has the stuff that makes for success.

He's managing a business of his own. That's what a newspaper route is all about. He is learning the lessons of responsibility and promptness and courtesy. And how to make a profit.

That profit, chances are, he is banking away. To use when he will need it. For something important, like college and a professional career, perhaps. To become the lawyer who once delivered your newspaper, and learned a great deal while doing it.

So congratulate a future lawyer. Or future doctor. Or spaceman.

Congratulate him the next time he comes around to deliver or collect for your newspaper.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Pampa head coach John Welborn's platoon system won't be completely unique in the Panhandle since George Kirk, Plainview's first-year coach, is also introducing the system.

However, the systems will be different in that Welborn will use separate offensive, defensive and special teams while the Plainview head will platoon only offense and defense.

Plainview has a week left in its spring football program. Pampa's three-week period ends Saturday night with the annual Green and Gold game.

Mike Garrison, an assistant to Kirk at Plainview, played for Welborn when the Pampa mentor was an assistant coach at Dalhart in 1959-60. In 1959, Welborn was Dalhart Junior High's coach, the first coaching position held.

The following year, Welborn coached the varsity's offensive backs and assisted in track and basketball.

Bill White, Caprock's junior varsity basketball coach the past six seasons, has been promoted to head coach of the Longhorns, replacing Bill Bolk, who resigned recently to become a field counselor at Palo Duro High.

White compiled a 102-42 record as the Shorthorns coach. He becomes Caprock's fifth head coach in the school's 11-year history.

Dennis Crowell, 22, who played tennis at Eastern New Mexico University in Plainview, was given the job as tennis coach at Amarillo High, a school with a strong tennis program in recent years. Crowell replaces Roland Ingram, who resigned last month to take the coaching job at Midland Junior College.

Ingram is not the only tennis coach in the district to resign recently. Alton Setliff, Pampa's coach for two years, quit his position to accept the coaching job at Lubbock Monterey High, a regional power. Setliff is replacing Bob McKenna, who will head a large tennis club in Lubbock.

A question — According to a University Interscholastic League ruling, a Conference AAAA high school must have at least a 1,135 enrollment. AAA schools next year will have an enrollment between 520 and 1,134. Pampa High's pre-enrollment figure for next year is 1,120, which is 14 under the AAAA limit. Will Pampa be AAA next year?

The answer — No. The UIL ruling applies to schools with grades 9-12, and since Pampa High has no freshmen, it will not drop to AAA. If the freshmen at Pampa Junior High were added to the pre-enrollment figure, the number would well exceed 1,135.

Lefors High will still be in Conference B next school year since B schools have an enrollment below 125. According to Lefors superintendent Gerald Julian, there will be 66 students in grades 9-12 next year, a drop of 17 from this past school year.

Other conference limits established by the UIL are A, 125-234; AA, 235-519, and AAA, 520-1,134.

Pampa's 1974 football schedule is as follows: Sept. 6, Hereford, there; Sept. 13, Dumas, here; Sept. 20, Perryton, there; Sept. 27, open; Oct. 4, Canyon, here; Oct. 11, Lubbock Monterey, there; Oct. 18, Caprock, here; Oct. 25, Tascosa, there; Nov. 1, Borger, here; Nov. 8, Palo Duro, there; Nov. 15, Amarillo, here.

TEE-OFF TIMES RELEASED

Pampa Golfers Prepare For Tomorrow's Round

Pampa golfers are practicing for the final time today at the Pamel course in preparation for Saturday and Sunday's Men's City Golf Tournament, which closed its field this morning with approximately 100 golfers.

The tournament, sponsored by both the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Gelanese Chemical Corporation, is being held for the second straight year after a 10-year layoff.

A year ago, Eddie Duenkel won the affair, which was then a match play tournament. David Parker, Pampa Country Club champion, was medalist. The two are back and have been declared co-favorites to capture top money in the championship flight.

Other strong contenders in the championship flight should be Max Hickey, a several time city champion, Jim Simpson and Don Pierce.

The tournament will differ from last year's in that it will not be played on two separate weekends. Golfers will play 18 holes of medal play on each day.

Hale Irwin Has Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf has had a little success on the golf course so he knows excellence when he sees it. And he saw some Thursday.

"It was one of the finest rounds of golf I've ever seen played in my life," Weiskopf said.

Unfortunately for Weiskopf he was not the one with the super day. It was Hale Irwin.

Irwin, 28, a one-time football player and consistent money winner, fired a five-under-par 65 over the double-put, par-70 Colonial Country Club course in the first round of the PGA's first designated tournament.

That was good for a three-shot lead over six golfers — Billy Casper, Charles Coody, Hubert Green, Larry Hinson, Bobby Nichols and Bert Yancey.

Only 13 players could crack par over the exacting 7,142-yard course on a day when winds gusting to 30 miles an hour and the temperature soared into the 90s in the lowlands alongside the Trinity River.

The wind helped ruin the rounds of several of the top names in golf who were ordered to play in this tournament — the first phase of a PGA experiment to put on more events in which the leading attractions appear.

Leading money winner Johnny Miller staggered in with a 78 and Buddy Alin — who follows Miller on the money chart — had a 74. Arnold Palmer also had a 74.

The first team offense ("go team") will play the first team defense ("hit team"). The first team offense will play defense while the first team defense runs the football and vice versa.

The "go team" will wear gold while the "hit team" will have on green a year ago, the gold team defeated the green squad, 7-2.

Saturday's "go team" will include senior center David Hampton, 185 pounds; senior right guard Roy Morris, 180; senior left guard Joe Holt, 185; senior right tackle Joe Graves, 225; junior left tackle Jim Crocker, 175; senior split end Howie Lewis, 185; and senior tight end Deanne Lewis, 155.

Tommy Hutton thinks he'll be ready for a rest — along about late October. "They say I can't play every day but I played every day in the minors — look up my averages," the Philadelphia Phils' reserve first baseman says.

The record books show he hit 328 and 352 in Spokane in 1970 and 1971 but he hasn't been able to break into the Phils' regular lineup.

"I'm ready," he said. "How can I be tired? I've been resting for three years. I can rest after the World Series in October."

Hutton got a chance to play Thursday night for the second straight game because Willie Montanez has a sore wrist. He drove in five runs with two homers and a single to pace the Philadelphia Phils to a 6-3 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Tennis, Football Coaches To Fill Spots At Pampa

John Mickey, a standout tennis player while at Schreiner Institute at Kerrville, and Lou Allred and Phil Pirkle, assistants to Pampa head football coach John Welborn at Shawnee, Okla., were given one-year contracts to coach at Pampa High School next school year.

The three, along with Curtis Didway of Muleshoe who will coach football next season, were hired at Thursday night's Pampa School Board meeting at Carver Center.

Preakness Saturday

BALTIMORE (UPI) — After 45 years on the race track, trainer Harold "Baldy" Tinker finally has made it to Pimlico where his colt, J.R.'s Pet, challenges Kentucky Derby winner Cannonade again Saturday in the $209,000 Preakness Stakes.

Five other horses who hopelessly chased Cannonade home in the Kentucky Derby also are among the 13 entered for the second jewel in the Triple Crown of racing. The series will be completed with the June 8 running of the Belmont Stakes.

Each of the trainers confidently expect their charges to handle Cannonade this time with none of them more confident than Tinker. J.R.'s Pet finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby behind Cannonade, Hudson County and Agitate.

"My horse ran good in the Derby and he is good right now," said Tinker. "This colt has been improving over the past several weeks. He's better physically and he can do things now that he couldn't before. He was winning races but because a horse wins doesn't mean it was a good race."

Pros, Cons Of Soft Contacts

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are there any dangers in wearing soft contact lenses, provided all precautions are taken? Are they better for teenagers than regular contacts?

—E.A.B.
Probably no more dangerous than the hard contact lenses, but there are advantages as well as disadvantages.

The soft lenses molds to the contour of the eyeball better and is more comfortable, and in some eye conditions, particularly if the cornea is of unusual shape, the soft lenses have a definite usefulness.

Your eye specialist would advise you about that — in fact, my advice is to listen to what the specialist tells you rather than insisting that you want a certain type.

It is essential that the soft lenses be sterilized every day, because bacteria have been found either from handling the lenses or from contamination carried in the air.

The soft lenses must be handled most carefully because the very thin covering can be ruptured. They can be lost more easily and be harder to find because of their jelly-like consistency.

Vision may not be sharp with the soft lens, but the difference is not great. The soft lens may have to be replaced oftener than the older type.

But some patients can tolerate the soft lenses better than the hard.

Hence valid arguments for and against. But the soft lenses are newer — and improvements are being made constantly. So I repeat: pay attention to your eye specialist's advice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Did you ever hear of putting an incision in the gall bladder and letting the bile drain? What is the outcome, will it ever heal? Is it just an experiment?

—C.B.
Yes, it is commonly done. A tube is put through the gall bladder wall and extends through the skin to the outside. The tube is eventually removed or extruded and both incisions heal.

It is not an experiment, but it is a technique to be used only at the surgeon's discretion, depending on the nature of the gall bladder problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have to know as soon as possible what you have heard and what you know of a lens implant for cataracts.

—B.J.
To my knowledge a lens transplant is not done for a cataract. Are you sure you aren't thinking of corneal transplant — transplanting the cornea, or outer covering of the eyeball? That's done regularly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a test for glaucoma and it registered 26. Can you tell me something about it? Does high blood pressure have anything to do with it? I am taking medication for that. I am 68.

—Mrs. S.D.
Glaucoma is an increase in pressure within the eyeball, but has no direct relationship to high blood pressure. It can occur in patients with normal blood pressure. Occurrence is a coincidence, albeit a rather common one because high blood pressure is so prevalent.

A reading of 26 is elevated, since 20 is regarded as top normal. Prompt — and continuing — treatment with eye drops is the right course, since untreated glaucoma can cause blindness.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of his helpful booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Sy's Playing At The Royal Box

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Sy Oliver's band is now playing at the Americana Royal Box and it is only fair that I point out that Sy's another one of the Ohioans who made it big in show business... part of a list that includes Ted Lewis, Clark Gable, Bob Hope, Dean Martin, Hopalong Cassidy, Paul Lynde, Doris Day and Harry Richman.

Sy comes from Zanesville, home of Ebenezer Zane and Zane Grey, and also of a famous Y-shaped bridge which inspired a local joke, "Go to the middle of the bridge and turn left."

"And don't forget our movie star, Richard Basehart," smiled Sy, reminiscing the other night between sets. "Every time one of his movies runs on TV, my wife says even before I get a chance, 'Yes, yes, I know, his family had the drugstore at 5th and Market and you can see it yet!'"

David Merrick insists that money isn't difficult to raise for Broadway shows. He got $750,000 for his new musical, "Mack and Mabel" in two weeks... The asking price for movie rights to the next James Michener book is $1 million... Charles Lachman, one of the founders of Revlon, and wife Rita divorced... Fred Robbins had quite a candid interview with Anthony Quinn in Genesis... Westport 'll be the scene of a movie about opulent suburbia, "The Stepford Wives," with Katharine Ross and Joanna Cassidy in two strong roles. It's based on an Ira Levin novel... Martin Gabel's director Billy Wilder gave him a couple days off from filming "Front Page" in LA so he could fly here to celebrate his and Ariane Francis' 28th anniversary.

When Henry Mancini's orchestra began the music at the big SHARE party in Hollywood Saturday night, Mancini suddenly stopped, strode over to the string section, pointed accusingly at one musician and said: "Out!"

The musician left sheepishly — to enormous applause from the show business crowd.

It was Jack Benny, trailing his violin behind him.

Johnny Carson took over the master of ceremonies job at the affair after Frank Sinatra got laryngitis... George Burns attended with his new friend, Joanna Hill Baer, ex-wife of Max Baer Jr. "We've gone together two days, and I haven't cheated once," boasted George.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...
One of Nixon's long-time top advisers insists the President is "going to tough it out"... Sid Bernstein, who produced the first Beatles concert in Shea Stadium, opened a personal management and concert promotion office... Father Bob Perella's book, "They Call Me the Show Biz Priest," went into a second printing.

Producer Joe Levine took his wife to see Sammy Cahn — who's a frequent visitor to his home — in Cahn's B-way show, "Words & Music." "I can't get over it," Levine said later, "I spent $17 to see something I've been seeing for nothing in my living room all these years."

Show Biz Quiz: Who starred in the TV comedy series, "I Married Joan"? Ans. to yesterday's: "Martin Kane, Private Eye" was played by William Gargan, Lee Tracy, Lloyd Nolan and Mark Stevens.

Veteran announcer John Cameron Swayze said at Maude's he's moving to the Virgin Islands... Paul Anka bought 26 acres of Las Vegas real estate... Dancer Betty Bruce is in Roosevelt Hospital... A former film actor's driving a hansom cab; he tied a horse to a lamppost outside the Stage Deli for a brief stopover.

Engelbert Humperdinck's collapse (and cancellation) at the Westbury Music Fair here, from acute strep throat, was accompanied by 104 temperature and such violent illness that some witnesses feared the worst.

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT
Today's Best Laugh: A theatrical agent tried vainly to phone a client to cancel an appointment, finally said: "Oh well, it's a mind-reading act — he'll know I can't make it."

Wish I'd Said That: Lowbrows use cusswords, Highbrows use epithets.
Remembered Quote: "A gadget ceases to be a luxury the day your neighbor gets one."

Earl's Pearls: The late actor Lee Tracy claimed that in 35 years as a star he seldom missed a performance: "A real actor's never sick, as long as he can act healthy."

A second-rate mimic did impressions of Johnny Carson, Jimmy Durante and Pres. Nixon, and got no applause. "I can understand," he said, "some people don't like Nixon — but what have they got against Carson and Durante?"

That's earl, brother.

Under Twenty

By TOM WILLIAMS
The locale is an older suburban area near a large city. Two lower elementary schools have been closed within the last year and an upper elementary school is soon to be closed.

The result is that in this community there are less opportunities to pursue a career as a teacher, particularly for recent graduates.

The above situation, of course, is not typical of all communities in the country. There are many new communities that are showing growth in the number of young families with children and are experiencing growth in the number of students.

Hence they are in need for teachers. The trend, however, is national in nature and is the result of the fact that the United States has passed the big bulge in population growth.

For young people this development has a vital impact in their consideration of a career. A very large percentage of young people have traditionally looked for a career as a teacher. In the years to come there simply will be less opportunity for would-be teachers to find employment in their chosen profession.

The shrinkage is not limited to elementary school alone. Already there is the beginning of a decrease in the high school population.

The smaller enrollment in colleges and universities has also had a major impact not only on instructors and professors, but on the institutions themselves. Many smaller, private colleges are faced with the prospect of closing.

What all this means to you, if you have had your eye on a teaching career, is that you should seriously consider preparing yourself for another career.

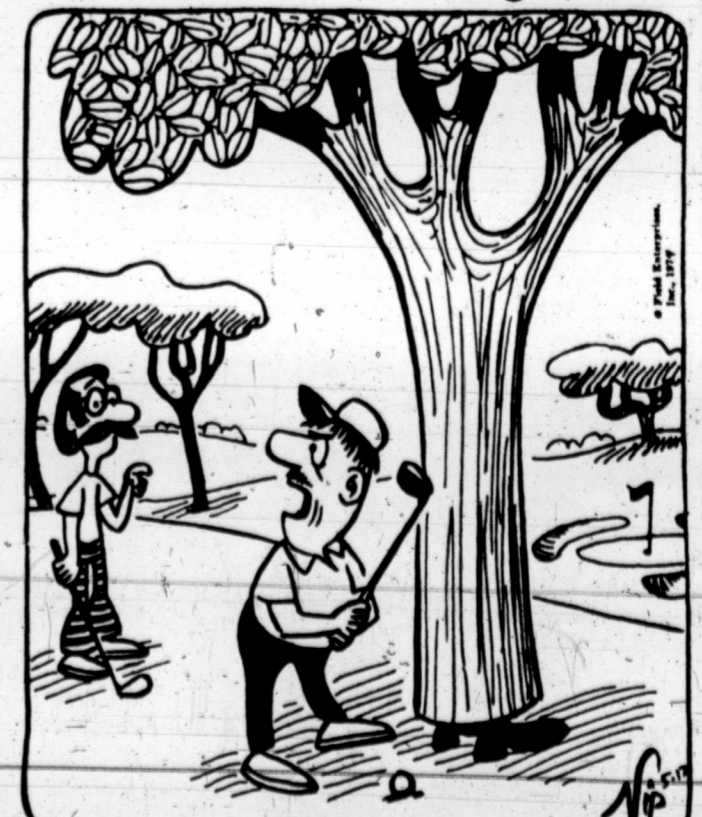

There are, of course, some teaching areas still enjoying a growth. These include remedial teaching, teaching the disadvantaged and a growth in the adult education field. The latter is expected to expand considerably in the next decade or so. However, many openings in these areas will be filled by present teachers who get additional education to enter specialized fields.

It would be unwise to assume that there will be NO future in the teaching profession. For the absolutely outstanding new aspirant in almost any field there is always room.

If you feel you are unusually outstanding and wish to pursue specialized training in critical areas, you must also be willing to compete for a diminishing number of jobs.

For most young people who aspire to a career as a teacher, however, the wise course is to examine other career possibilities.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Are political contributions tax deductible?

A. Yes. You may deduct up to $50 ($100 on a joint return) for contributions to political parties, candidates and campaign committees. Or you can take half of your contribution as a credit against your tax up to $12.50 ($25 on a joint return).

IRS Publication 585, "Voluntary Tax Methods to Help Finance Political Campaigns," explains the circumstances under which a deduction or credit for a contribution is more advantageous. Copies may be obtained free of charge from IRS district offices. Bulk quantities may be purchased from the Government Printing Office in Washington, D.C.

Q. I bought a pocket calculator for $150 to use in figuring out my taxes and in connection with my investment activities. Do I deduct the cost of the calculator or do I have to capitalize it?

A. If the calculator has a useful life of more than one year, its cost is usually recovered through depreciation deductions over its useful life. If the calculator has a useful life of one year or less, you may deduct the entire amount as an income-producing expense or as an expense paid in connection with the determination of tax.

Q. Is it possible after April 15 to get an extension of time to file an income tax return?

A. In the typical case, the taxpayer must have taken some action on or before April 15 to qualify for an extension. To obtain an automatic two-month extension, a taxpayer must file on or before April 15 a Form 4868 along with an estimated tax payment. Hardship extensions, filed for on Form 2688, should also be requested on or before April 15.

However, U.S. citizens not in the U.S. or Puerto Rico on April 15 and military personnel similarly situated are allowed a two-month extension of time for filing without any action on their part. All they have to do is attach a statement to their return showing that they were outside the U.S. and Puerto Rico on April 15.

Q. I know the IRS allows for business transportation expenses 12 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business travel and 9 cents for each additional mile. I think I'm spending more than that for such expenses. Can I deduct my actual business transportation expenses?

A. Yes. You can deduct the actual cost of business travel (gas, oil, etc.) plus depreciation on your car to the extent used for business purposes instead of using the IRS standard mileage rates. Of course, you must keep records to support your deductions.

For more details, see IRS Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses." It's available free from your IRS office.

Q. Can I have tax withheld on my pension?

A. Yes. If you want to, you may have income tax withheld from the taxable portion of pensions and annuities paid over a period of more than one year by filling out a Form W-4P and submitting it to the payer. The amount to be withheld must be at least 5% per month and the net annuity payment received may not be less than $10. Forms W-4P are available at IRS offices.

Price Attacks Detente With Soviets As Panacea

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article was written by Pampa Congressman Bob Price concerning U.S. hope for detente with Soviet Russia. Price, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, points out "detente should be pursued but not relied upon as a panacea."

Detente is being used as a descriptive term to characterize the complex relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. It all began with the President's visit to Moscow in 1972 which was followed by a wave of optimism by Americans. Let us look at this word.

Detente is many things to many people, but literally it means a relaxation of tension, implying, of course, that there had been tension in the past. But that is all detente means — nothing more and nothing less.

Many have looked at this description of the state of affairs and found it to be a panacea for all our international problems. These same individuals, and indeed some institutions, worry excessively about press reports that detente is fragile, failing, crumbling or collapsing.

Unfortunately the definition leaves much unanswered about the totality of the state of affairs it attempts to describe.

Perhaps it is easier to express what the word does not mean or what it will not do rather than what it means or will do. Detente is not a panacea, nor is it an agreement, contract, pact or obligation in any form between the two super powers.

Detente will not guarantee peace between the U.S. and the Soviet Union, nor is it a state of affairs which would preclude the need for a modern, well-equipped and ready military establishment.

Detente with the Soviet Union will not provide a basis for agreement between the U.S. and the Arab nations to arrive at a permanent solution to the oil situation, nor will it necessarily help us negotiate the cease fire and troop disengagement between the Israeli and Syrian forces — a giant step required to reach a peaceful settlement in the Middle East.

Detente does not represent a change in the value system of moral and ethical questions in the Soviet Union, nor does it represent an ideological shift by either side which would diminish the "perpetual conflict" destined to confront the two systems.

The fact of the matter is that the Soviets have not made one change to their Marxist-Leninist ideology even in the light of this new era of proclaimed "peaceful coexistence" and, of equal importance, in the face of the Sino-Soviet confrontation.

This latter point causes one to ponder how the Soviet Union will feel about detente in a post-Mao era and China with leaders in agreement with the Soviet view of communism. Make no mistake about it, "American capitalistic imperialism" remains the number one enemy of the Soviet Union.

Chairman Brezhnev said in June 1972, following President Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union, "peaceful coexistence in no way implies the possibility of relaxing the ideological struggle."

On the contrary, we must be prepared for this struggle to become more intense and an ever sharper form on confrontation between the two social systems ("Pravda," June 29, 1972).

The Soviet accommodation with the U.S. in our desire to ease the tensions should not be considered as a sudden and fundamental change in policy which can be applied with any degree of predictability or consistency. It can only be viewed as a selfish willingness on the part of the Soviet leadership to relax the tensions for specific purposes, namely, to enhance Soviet economy and the Soviet position in the world affairs.

We cannot link detente to the full spectrum of Soviet policy issues vis-a-vis those of the U.S.

To some degree, if we keep in mind its precise definition, detente can be used to describe the relationship between the U.S. and the Soviet Union, as there has been a relaxation of tension between the two super powers since 1972.

We find, however, that this condition is characterized by a confused and whimsical mixture of accord and discord, depending on the issue. The hidden danger in using detente, in its broad sense, as a descriptive term lies in the real possibility that many will be lulled into a false sense of security and relax into a sensation of complacency.

Such ominous perceptions could cause us to be overly trusting in negotiations and ill-prepared during confrontations. Already some are saying that this era of detente permits us to reduce our national defenses.

A breathtaking leap in logic, as now, more than ever, we must have a military establishment second to none. Now that the Soviets have reached nuclear superiority, or at best parity, we simply cannot afford to negotiate from a weak hand.

It is true that the framework required to shape the abstract concept of detente into a viable form was built in Moscow in May 1972.

Detente is certainly the initial, and indeed the essential, step in forming lasting relationships and we should pursue it. But until detente is underpinned with initiatives in the social, political, commercial, economic and military areas, we can ill afford to be complacent or at ease with the relationship between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Detente alone is insufficient. As we understand its meaning, detente is certainly preferable to the tense and strained relationship which existed in the 1950s and 1960s during the height of the cold war.

But it is important for us to realize just what detente means, or more importantly, what it does not mean.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — This has been a good week for visionaries.

There was a group of futuristic scientists at Princeton discussing plans for space colonies that eventually would house most of the world's inhabitants.

The earth would then be used primarily as "a beautiful place to visit for a vacation," one of them explained.

And we had Sen. Barry Goldwater, a far-out Arizona Republican, telling a group of aviation writers that the answer to America's transportation problem is the dirigible.

He said dirigibles could lift heavy payloads, reduce pollution, lower noise levels, stay aloft for extended periods and operate where no airports or runways existed.

Sounds Plausible

The space colony concept sounded plausible enough. But Goldwater's presentation, frankly, struck me as being a bit science-fictionish.

An aerial transit system that operates quietly without damaging the environment is something right out of "Star Trek."

So I decided to check it out with the Future Is Yesterday Foundation, a privately endowed "think tank" and research center whose motto is "Progress Through Retrospection."

"Is the senator letting his imagination run away from him or is his idea actually within the realm of possibility?" I asked Sam Harkenback, the foundation's advanced projects director.

"Definitely the latter," Harkenback replied.

He beckoned me to follow him to an airstrip behind the main laboratory. There he pointed to a large cigar-shaped object suspended from a tall tower.

A Basic Dirigible

"That," he said, "is your basic dirigible."

"So that's a dirigible," I said wonderingly. "How does it work?"

"The principle involved here is to take a big bag and fill it up with some type of gas that is lighter than air. The bag will then float aloft. Add a propeller to give it forward thrust and a rudder to control direction and you've got a conveyance for passengers or cargo."

I said, "It still has an otherworldish ring to me. Why is the dirigible shaped like a cigar rather than, say, a Tiparillo?"

Harkenback explained that extensive tests were conducted at the foundation's proving grounds. By tossing both into the air, researchers established that a cigar is 37 per cent more buoyant than a Tiparillo.

It would appear, then, that I owe Goldwater an apology. He may have his feet in the clouds but he's still got his head on the ground.

Buyer's Billboard

By MICHAEL J. CONLON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The documented and explosion hazards connected with television sets, particularly color sets, have left many consumers worried and wondering about a solution.

The quickest and easiest answer is to pull the plug, every night if need be and especially before leaving for a vacation. But that approach can have its drawbacks, particularly if the cord is yanked or otherwise so abused that it becomes a hazard as bad as the one you are trying to correct.

The best solution we've heard to the whole thing comes from Richard O. Simpson, chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission. He suggests buying an extension cord with an on-off switch, plugging that cord into the wall and then plugging the TV cord into the extension line. That way you can turn the power to the set on and off at the switch without having to pull the plug out of the wall.

You can accomplish the same thing if you have a wall plug that is controlled by a switch, although that arrangement is less common. Certainly it would be cheaper to buy an extension cord than to have the plug arrangement changed.

Simpson suggests a "good quality" extension cord. By that he says he means one that has an Underwriters Laboratory tag, showing at least that it meets some test standards.

Cutting off the power to the set while it is not in use may help prevent fires or explosions in the middle of the night while the family is asleep. Recent hearings indicated that such a safeguard may be particularly important for "instant on" sets which never really are "off" but which stay partly warmed up so the picture will appear as soon as the set is turned on.

NO HOTEL
HAMPTON COURT, England (UPI) — A plan to build a $4.4 million hotel on Tagg's Island in the River Thames not far from tourist-famed Hampton Court Palace has been dropped. Houses will be built on the island instead, the local government council decided.

Why should our son have a newspaper route?

The living is good. Plenty of money, nice home, nice furnishings, another salary raise in sight; we've never had it so good. Why should our son manage a newspaper route?

Most any educator or businessman will tell you why in three simple words: it builds character.

Oftentimes the youngster who grows up in comfortable circumstances and who gets his weekly "handout" from dad never realizes the value of money or the efforts required to make it and manage it, until he's on his own. By then attitudes and habits are difficult to reverse.

But the newspaperboy quickly learns valuable lessons that stick. While making money on a newspaper route is important, the experience of getting-the-job-done-no-matter-what is more important. When through route management, responsibility and self-confidence are acquired at this early age, a newspaperboy has an advantage over other youngsters that no amount of money can buy.

If you're still wondering whether your son would benefit from newspaper route management, ask a community businessman or civic leader, or better still, phone our Circulation Department.
