France Selects President

PARIS (UPI) — Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, winner of a razor-thin victory over Communist-backed Socialist Francis Mitterand in the French presidential election, moved swiftly today to form a "new look" government to head off economic chaos threatened by the leftists who nearly defeated him.

He said he will take office officially next Monday, name a premier the same day and hold his first cabinet meeting next Wednesday. He spoke to newsmen after a 40-minute conference with the senate speaker who is acting as interim head of state.

Although Giscard d'Estaing, 48, has promised to follow the foreign policy of his predecessor, President Georges Pompidou, he is expected to soften France's traditional toughness with the United States.

One of his key ministers will be a fervent Atlanticist, Jean Lecanuet, who brought him crucial center party support during the campaign. Speculation on his choice for premier centered on Lecanuet, Health Minister Michel Poniatowski and Equipment Minister Olivier Guichard.

Supporters clapped happily Sunday when Giscard d'Estaing, in a move unprecedented for a French president, happily repeated in English for American television crews the victory speech he had just made in French.

Franco-American contacts got off on the right foot when President Nixon telephoned his congratulations to Giscard d'Estaing—the first head of state to do so—and the two chatted in English.

Giscard d'Estaing emerged from the Elysees Presidential Palace today and told newsmen, "I have told the interim president that I intend to see to it that my functions go into effect as soon as possible."

"With this in mind, we have decided that I will assume my presidential duties next Monday. I intend to hold my first cabinet meeting next Wednesday. I will announce the name of my new premier as soon as I have assumed my official functions."

Aides said one aim of the new cabinet would be to formulate economic policies aimed at beating back threatened labor unrest.

Giscard d'Estaing, the youngest French president of the 20th Century, vowed Sunday night to carry out to "the last iota" his campaign promises of sweeping economic and social reforms.

The president-elect promised new welfare measures, higher wages, improved working conditions and fringe benefits to "surprise all by their scope and portent."

Nixon Defends Insurance Plan

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon appealed today for rapid congressional approval of his national health insurance program, claiming that health care charges will continue rising and that every American must be assured adequate means to meet the cost.

In a nationwide radio address, the President also urged the health care industry "to take every action at their disposal" to hold down prices and said failure to move voluntarily "could lead to drastic, congressionally imposed mandatory controls."

Nixon acknowledged at the outset of his speech that he chose to speak out once again in pushing the plan he advanced last February because the Senate Finance Committee is opening hearings Tuesday on the whole concept of national health insurance, with consideration of some sharply different proposals.

"Never has the need been greater... or the national climate more favorable for the development of a sound consensus on a comprehensive program of health insurance than today," Nixon said.

In defending his own approach, the President asserted: "It is the only major plan that offers extensive, uniform health coverage without raising your taxes, without severely damaging the effective private health insurance industry that has helped to make this generation of Americans the healthiest, best-cared for in our history; and, without establishing an enormous new federal bureaucracy."

White House officials said Nixon was willing to make some modification in what he has called his Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan, known as CHIP and pegged to preservation of the traditional private health care system with minimal government involvement.

Valedictorian Nancy Palmer and salutatorian Darrell Carey will deliver addresses. James Lusby, pastor of the Westside Church of Christ, will give the benediction and Highland Baptist Church pastor M.B. Smith will give the invocation.

The Concert Choir, accompanied by members of the Harvester Band, will provide music for the ceremonies. All present will join the 1974 graduating class in singing the school song.

Following graduation services, seniors are invited to attend an all-night party with the first stop at the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown auditorium for a 4-hour dance beginning at 10:30 p.m. Games will also be available at the Green Room.

At 2:30 a.m. the party will be moved to the Capri Theater where a movie will be shown. The seniors will be served breakfast at First Baptist Church at 5 a.m.

Tickets for the party cost $5 each and are available from Mrs. Ed Williams or Mrs. Cleo Hoyer.

Vesper services for the Class of '74 were conducted yesterday at 5 p.m. at the fieldhouse, with Glen Walton, minister of Harvester and Mary Ellen Church of Christ, the guest speaker. A reception was held in the Girl's Gym following the vesper services.

Mrs. Dennis has requested the graduating seniors to congregate at the Field House not later than 7:30 p.m.

Kissinger Keeps At Syrian Talks

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived from Israel today to get Syria's final agreement on a cease-fire and establishment of the "Kissinger line" separating Israeli and Syrian forces in the Golan Heights.

A high American official aboard Kissinger's plane said that Israel and Syria had basically agreed on a buffer zone between the two forces and that the zone will vary in width from two to six kilometers (1.2 and 3.6 miles).

The official said Kissinger expected to get from Syrian President Hafez Assad the final agreement on a cease-fire line which both Israel and Syria have provisionally accepted.

Kissinger's talks with President Hafez Assad started over a working lunch at the presidential palace at 2 p.m. (6 a.m. CDT).

The cease-fire line is the key issue, and there also has been agreement in principle as well as on a thinning out of forces, a buffer zone, a role for the United Nations and an exchange of war prisoners.

The high American official said today will be the first day Kissinger and Assad will sit down and work out the concrete details and there could still be many snags.

The toughest issues, he said, will be the limitation of forces on both sides of the cease-fire line and the narrow buffer zone.

This is Kissinger's seventh shuttle to Damascus and the fourth week of his longest mission abroad.

Debbie Heinritz Receives Band Sousa Award

Debbie Heinritz was awarded the John Philip Sousa award, symbolic of the individual who has contributed most to the Pampa High School band during the past year, at the band honors banquet Saturday night at the Optimist Club.

Pam Adams was named outstanding girl musician and Greg Williams outstanding boy musician at the banquet.

Twenty students received letters and all band members were given an honor patch from the Buccaneer Music Festival at Corpus Christi for earning a Division I rating there.

Speaker for the event was Dr. Gar Garner, director of bands at West Texas State University.

Plans are being finalized this week for the annual carnival sponsored by the high school band.

The carnival, which is used by the band to raise funds for trips the following year, will be set up Sunday at Coronado Center. It will open Monday and run for a week, band director Jeff Doughen said.

Earl Wilson

A Floridian boasted that his state has 365 days of sunshine a year. "And mind you, that's just a conservative estimate." Fame and fortune don't always go together. Benjamine Franklin discovered electricity, but it was the man who invented the meter who made all the money... The friction between a man and his mother-in-law is understandable. When you're dissatisfied with something, it's natural to blame the manufacturer. (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 12.)

The high official said that he hoped to complete the details of the agreement this week, but in any case it was the last he could spend in the area at this time.

Already a whole week of appointments have been cancelled in Washington.

Kissinger may leave two high U.S. officials behind when he shuttles back to Israel tonight, to work on technical details with the Syrians.

The agreement is modelled on the troop disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt, but is more complicated because of the narrow width of the territory in comparison with the broad Sinai desert and the fact that it is populated.

As in the Egyptian agreement, the United States is expected to give certain assurances that the two sides do not want to give to each other directly. As in the Egyptian agreement also, the United States may provide high altitude reconnaissance to insure that its provisions are being carried out.

Deadline Gone, No Candidate Files For Post

The deadline for candidates to file in the June 18 special election of a Ward 4 city commissioner passed Friday with nobody filing for the post.

The special election was called last Tuesday by city commissioners to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Commissioner Arthur Rohde, who was re-elected to the job April 2.

It was discovered today that the election date, set for June 18, was too early to comply with city charter provisions which establish the time for filing of candidates and absentee balloting.

One possibility, City Manager Mack Wofford said, was that the election would be held as scheduled, but candidates for the city commission post would have to be written in. If that should be true, provisions for absentee balloting would have to be arranged later.

The city manager said he was to confer later today with City Atty. Bob Gordon to determine what procedure would have to be followed.

Man Suffers Gunshot Wound After Scuffle

A 55-year-old Pampa man was listed in good condition in Highland General Hospital this morning suffering from a gunshot wound in the stomach.

Ray Browning, 2205 Williston, was wounded with a .22 caliber pistol around 8:30 p.m. following a scuffle for the gun on Price Rd.

Two black suspects in the case were arrested later last night by Carson County sheriff's officers while apparently enroute to Amarillo.

Details in the case were sketchy this morning, and it was not known at presstime whether or not charges will be filed, officials said.

of such a nature that both Israel and Syria can accept it," Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres said after the talks.

The remaining details of a disengagement plan were expected to include creation of a buffer zone, a thinning of troops on both sides, a U.N. force to police the cease-fire and an exchange of prisoners.

Israel was believed willing from the start to return all 325 square miles of Syrian territory captured in last October's Middle East war, but was reported to have balked at giving back Golan Heights land seized in the six-day, 1967 conflict.

Israeli diplomatic sources said the Jewish state also had been willing to return Quneitra, former capital of the Golan Heights.

The hills, believed to be the major issue in dispute, overlook three of the 17 Israeli settlements built on the heights since the 1967 war.

Soviets Maintain 'Strike Capability'

MIAMI (UPI) — A study on Soviet nuclear arms strategy lends credence to reports that the U.S.S.R. maintains a permanent nuclear strike capability in Cuba which could wipe out as much as two-thirds of the United States in the event of atomic war.

The strike capability is in the form of ships docked or anchored in Cuban waters rather than land bases, according to experts here.

The report, published in book form today by the Center for Advanced International Studies at the University of Miami, said the Soviet nuclear strength was considered by the Kremlin to deter U.S. intervention in the Caribbean island.

The study is authored by Prof. Foy D. Kohler, former U.S. ambassador to Moscow; Prof. Mose L. Harvey, director of the center, and Dr. Leon Goure, director of Soviet studies at the center.

Matter Of Record For several years, Dr. Manolo Reyes, an exiled Cuban civil leader and newscaster for Miami's WTVJ-TV, has appeared before various congressional committees with reports from inside Cuba concerning Soviet arms build-ups. His appearance before the House Internal Security Committee last October is a matter of public record.

Eleven days ago, Dr. Reyes said he had learned the Soviet 12th naval fleet was anchored in Cuban waters. "It is composed of two destroyers, one tanker and one ballistic missile submarine. Even though this is a diesel (powered) sub and not nuclear (powered), it carries three nuclear missiles called 'Serbs' with a range of 750 miles," Reyes said.

The authoritative Jane's All The World's Aircraft describes Serb as a missile "similar in appearance to the (U.S.) Polaris A2."

Study Supports Reyes In an interview with UPI, Dr. Goure said the eight-month study of Soviet nuclear arms strategy by way of Kremlin speeches, publications and broadcasts, supported the view of Reyes and others that a system of relief vessels at Cienfuegos, Cuba, and elsewhere on the island assured a Soviet nuclear strike capability in Cuba at any given moment.

FORCES GATHERED

Delegates Dispute Judiciary Article

AUSTIN (UPI) — Proponents of a streamlined court system marshal forces today to try to repair damage done by a curious coalition of liberal and conservative status quo defenders that threatens to block approval of a judiciary article for the new state constitution.

Price Daniel Jr., Constitutional Convention president, said he hopes to have the dispute settled and the article approved before Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards speaks to delegates Tuesday afternoon. Edwards has been invited to talk about Louisiana's constitution revision effort which won approval of voters last month.

Daniel met with officials of the State Bar Association, Texas League of Women Voters, Trial Lawyers Association and Supreme Court justices over the weekend to round up support to counter the lobbying efforts of disgruntled county judges and criminal defense lawyers.

The judges and defense lawyers suffered set backs in their efforts to scuttle plans for doing away with county courts and merging the present court of criminal appeals into the state supreme court Friday, but teamed up to make one change Daniel and his force consider critical for the success of a streamlined, unified court system.

The change would authorize future legislature to write rules for administration of the court system, such as assignment of judges.

"Allowing the legislature to meddle in the court's internal administration would be just like letting the legislature say who the governor hires and where he puts the desks in his office," Daniel said. "We just ought to keep the legislature out of it."

The amendment authorizing the legislative rules writing was approved 86-56.

Daniel said he hoped to get delegates to substitute a provision giving district judges the right to appeal administrative decisions of state court officials to the Supreme Court instead.

Clean-Up Drive In Final Days

Pampa's annual month-long clean-up campaign will wind up in Ward 3 tomorrow and move into Ward 4 Wednesday.

R.B. Cooke, public works director, said 14 loads of trash were hauled away from Ward 3 Friday.

That brings the total number of loads removed since the drive started May 1 to 222.

The clean-up campaign is sponsored jointly by the City and the Chamber of Commerce.

FBI Calling For Patty's Arrest

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The FBI, now convinced Patricia Hearst is a willing soldier of the radical Symbionese Liberation Army, has called for her arrest and warned that she could be shot if she forcibly resists.

Six members of the SLA were killed in a weekend shootout with the authorities at a flaming house in a Los Angeles black district, but Miss Hearst was not among them.

William A. Sullivan, assistant director of the FBI, said Miss Hearst was the woman who leaped out the front window of a red and white Volkswagen van and opened fire with a 30-caliber carbine last Thursday afternoon, as SLA member William Harris struggled with a clerk at Mel's Sporting Goods Store in Inglewood. Harris was accused of shoplifting a pair of socks.

"She is a federal fugitive and if she resists arrest she will be treated like any other federal fugitive," Sullivan said. She is considered armed and dangerous, he said, and if located she will be told to surrender immediately. If she tries to shoot, he said, "we would undoubtedly shoot back."

Taking It Hard

The FBI said an agent who believed his life was endangered might open fire on a suspect. A spokesman for the Hearst family in Hillsborough said the family was stunned and was "taking it very, very hard."

Miss Hearst was kidnapped from her Berkeley, Calif. apartment Feb. 4. She later renounced her former life and said she was joining forces with her kidnapers. But the FBI maintained that she was forced to make the statement. Even after she was photographed with a machine gun during a bank robbery, the FBI said she was an unwilling participant.

The FBI said formal complaints would be brought in San Francisco today charging Miss Hearst with violating federal laws against possession or use of machine guns.

Five persons, including David DeFreeze, 30, who as head of the SLA called himself "General Field Marshal Cinque," were killed in the flames and gunfire, police said Friday.

A sixth body, that of Camilla Hall, 29, was found Sunday.

James Johnson, 18, who lived at the home destroyed in the gunfight, told the Los Angeles Times that Miss Hearst fled from the house less than 24 hours before the shootout.

"On Their Side"

Charges against Johnson's mother, Christine Johnson, 35, of harboring fugitives, were dropped Sunday night and she was released, police said today.

Johnson said Miss Hearst told him last Thursday that: "They'll have to kill me before I go back."

"She told me she was with them — on their side," Johnson said.

He said Miss Hearst was wearing a pistol and wanted to stay with the others, but they apparently sent her away to keep her from being involved in the gunfight.

"I think some (black) brothers tipped them off that the cops were onto them and that's why they got Patty out of there — you know, their love for her," he said.

Youth Center Report

YOUTH CENTER MEMBERSHIPS — Participation in the activities of the Center are through a membership plan or a daily fee. The most economical plan is to purchase a membership for the whole family. The cost is really fantastic with all the benefits you receive.

The limited membership plan sold to individuals eight years of age or older or families entitles you to use of the gym, recreation hall, swimming pool and dressing rooms as well as free swim lessons.

The cost of this plan for an individual is $5 for six months or $8 a year. For a family the cost is only $12 for six months or $20 a year.

The unlimited membership plan adds to the above plan the use of the new health facility. This facility houses all the exercises machines, handball and racquetball courts and saunas.

If you are interested in lost weight and inches, the health club membership is your best plan. We have all types of machines including the bicycles, barrell rollers, vibrator belts, rowing machines, jungle pulley universal machine, hips away, sit-up boards and all types of weight lifting equipment.

The unlimited plan costs only $10.50 per month for an individual or for a husband and wife the cost is only $13.87 per month after your initial sign up. For further details come through the club and look around, use it free on your first visit and then make up your mind.

Women's hours are during the mornings from 9-11:45 and also Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7-10 p.m. Men come from 11:45 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and till 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

NEW GAME ROOM — The Center has added a new look to the recreation hall. We are in the process of turning this room into a game type room. We have added two foosball machines, a missile game, pin ball machine and are adding other machines in the near future.

All young people are invited to come by and play these fun machines and enjoy the other activities.

The Almanac

United Press International Today is Monday, May 20, the 140th day of 1974 with 225 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

The German-American inventor of the microphone, Emil Berliner, was born May 20, 1851.

On this day in history:

In 1506, Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

In 1927, Charles Lindbergh began his solo flight from New York to Paris in the "Spirit of St. Louis" monoplane. He landed in the French capital 33 1/2 hours later.

In 1963, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that sit-in demonstrations were legal.

In 1970, House Speaker John McCormack retired at the age of 78.

A thought for the day: American writer Charles Dudley Warner said, "What small potatoes we all are, compared with what we might be."

UPGRADING NEEDED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hospitals must improve their outpatient services. A major defect in the hospital system is that "the service operation has been designed for the comfort of the physician and administrator — and the patient is the last person to be considered."

This is according to Dr. Stanley Reichman, director of community medicine, Hospital for Joint Diseases and Medical Center in New York City. He made that point in the journal, The Hospital Medical Staff, a publication of the American Medical Association.

PHONE HELPS

NEW YORK (UPI) — In two Asian cities family planning advice is given over the telephone. The experiment by the Taipei Family Planning Promotion Center and the Planned Parenthood Federation of Korea in Seoul is drawing all kinds of inquiries.

In the first six months, according to an analysis in Studies in Family Planning, a publication of The Population Council, most callers asked specific questions about different methods of contraception or about sterilization. Both pilot projects are considered successful in that they proved to be a relatively inexpensive way of providing information, counseling and referral to large numbers of persons not regularly served by a family planning program.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — There was such a mixed bag of victors in this week's elections, political analysts are having a hard time finding the handle on current voting patterns.

Perhaps I can be of some assistance.

One clue to the electorate's behavior can be seen in a recent Gallup Poll. It shows the voters are having an identity crisis.

Only 24 per cent of the voters presently consider themselves Republicans, the smallest GOP figure on record. But 38 per cent regard themselves as conservatives, the highest on record.

And 57 per cent of the Republicans place themselves in the conservative camp. Thus it is easy to see what is happening.

The typical voter is inclined to vote for conservative candidates. But conservative candidates are likely to be Republicans. And the typical voter is reluctant to vote for Republicans.

What does this bode for the general elections in November? Let us examine Gallup's statistics a bit further.

The 24 per cent who regard themselves as Republicans and the 38 per cent who consider themselves conservatives make a combined total of 62.

Meanwhile, 42 per cent regard themselves as Democrats and 26 per cent consider themselves liberals, for a total of 68.

Neither of those totals is particularly significant. The real grabber is this:

The poll found that 34 per cent regard themselves as independents and 36 per cent are undecided whether they are conservatives or liberals. Which adds up to 70.

If I were a candidate for public office this fall, there is no doubt what I would do.

I would run as an undecided independent.

The undecided vote in this country is, I believe, growing daily and by November will surpass both the conservative and the liberal vote.

Candidates who are able to capitalize on this groundswell of indeterminateness obviously are going to be in the driver's seat.

The important thing is not to confuse undecidedness with fence-straddling, vacillation or middle-of-the-roadism. The undecided voter does not waver or bend with the wind.

He is resolutely committed to a state of indecision and few forces are powerful enough to shake his indecision.

Show me a voter who is doggedly unable to make up his mind whether he is a liberal or a conservative and I will show you someone who is about to cast an intelligent vote.

Now is the time for candidates to climb on the indecisive bandwagon.

'TIS THE SEASON

NEW YORK (UPI) — Through a combination of circumstances, the coleslaw season is upon us. First it is spring and a time to think of easy-to-fix warm weather menus.

Second, the word from the U.S. Department of Agriculture is that fresh cabbage is in larger-than-usual supply. This is due to heavy yields from Florida, south Georgia, Louisiana, and South Texas.

Broadway

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — New Yorkers are becoming increasingly aware of something called dinner-theater that has been growing rapidly in various parts of the country in recent years.

The idea is simply an extension of the old night club food - drink - entertainment form. Only in this case most of the time the entertainment consists of the presentation of a play or a musical.

In many places this is the only link people have with the theater, its successful attractions and prominent stage actors. Many players with Broadway names make these dinner-theater places for weeks or months at a time and do very well financially.

The first actual case of dinner-theater in Manhattan came about recently when a musical version of a famous old play, "Fashion," moved from its off-Broadway theater to the Little Hippodrome, a midtown restaurant.

Now, Vincent Sardi, owner - operator of the famed Sardi's Restaurant in the Broadway theater district is entering the field. Not at his home base long noted as a gathering place for show folk, but at Franklin Square, Long Island.

There he will open this summer a 700-seat dinner-theater that will be the first of a chain planned for New York, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

The Franklin Square spot will be in a building that housed the Casa Seville night club for around 30 years. The place is now being reconstructed and refurbished along dinner-theater lines.

Sardi plans to operate there year-round, presenting professional productions with Actors' Equity casts in Broadway shows of proven worth. Each show will stay for six to eight weeks, playing seven performances weekly.

The restaurateur said that present plans call for "Hello, Dolly!" to be the first production. The place will have a large proscenium-type stage, and the diners will sit at tables on six levels to provide maximum viewing.

The producer and director of the shows will be John Bowab, whose Broadway producer credits include such hits as "Sweet Charity" and "Mame."

"I've been studying the dinner-theater field for two years," Sardi said, "and I believe it offers a natural marriage of live theater and dinner within the convenience of a single location. And, in these cost-conscious days, people will know exactly what an evening will cost them."

Sardi's plan is to charge $12 per person for both dinner and show at the evening and Wednesday and Sunday matinee performances, except on Friday and Saturday evenings, when the tariff will be $15.

Producer Dore Scharly has been ignoring the theater in recent years because of other activities, but he plans to return to stage production next fall with a musical titled "The Newcomers."

The show has an Ellis Island setting in 1907 and deals with 24 hours in the lives of a group of immigrants of various ethnic backgrounds.

Alan Foster Friedman is author of the libretto, and Craig Carnelia is the composer-lyricist.

The jumping mouse, a small rodent found in Florida, is often injured because it can jump farther than it can see. The mice are nearsighted.

FOR ENERGY NEEDS

Country Lacking Leadership To Become 'Self Sufficient'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The United States has the resources to be energy self-sufficient, but not the leadership to bring it about, Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace said Saturday.

Wallace, speaking to the Patrick Henry Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, said "We don't have an energy crisis or an economic crisis or a moral crisis. We have a leadership crisis."

"This country has the resources to be energy self-sufficient," Wallace said. "We have the capability within the free enterprise system to control inflation and assure maximum employment. Our people are basically decent and moral. What we have lacked is enough leadership to bring it all together."

Wallace said leadership in the 1970s has faltered because of too much partisanship, too much foot dragging, and too much buck passing in dealing with the nation's problems.

He said the nation should have learned during the Suez crisis of 1956-57 that it was depending too heavily on middle east oil.

"It wasn't until the Arabs turned off the spigot that we realized how far distant we had come from self-sufficiency," he said. "Then they dropped the other shoe by running up the ir prices."

Food cooked outdoors over an open fire... is one of the West's great traditions. Fresh air, open flame and the aroma of good, hearty food combine to make a meal an experience.

Start your own cookout tradition this summer... with a convenient, dependable gas grill from Pioneer Natural Gas. You get the same delicious, outdoor taste as with a charcoal grill — but without the fuss and bother.

Chances are you'll be spending more time at home... so why not arrange to make that time more enjoyable with the addition of a gas grill to your patio. Call Pioneer or ask any Pioneer employee for information on a complete line of gas grills.

A gas grill is a natural for the Natural Energy Home.

By moving the cooking to the patio, you move the heat out of the house and thereby ease the load on your air conditioning system. Consequently, a gas grill can save money and conserve energy.

Girl Scouts Learn From 'Eco-Antics'

NEW YORK (UPI) — What makes noise measuring just 20 decibels?

And what makes noise measuring just 20 decibels?

Well, if you know, a Girl Scout chances are you can get some help with the questions. That is, if the scout has thumbed through Eco-Antics, a fact-packed booklet on all manner of things ecological. The book aims to help six to 10 year olds investigate their surroundings.

The decibel questions are in a section on noise. And the answers. It's a jet, for example, that makes one quadrillion decibels. On takeoff. And it's a songbird that fills the air with 20 decibels.

The point of all this, as the young scouts learn, is that anything sounding over 90 decibels can hurt the ears. The booklet from the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. also describes how one can teach a goldfish to "read" by holding up a card that says "come to the surface." The fish actually do after a while. A few days of training.

There also is the modus operandi on how to catch and preserve a snowflake and how to spy on a fly.

Save a Snowflake
The booklet contains simple experiments that children can do to test air pollution, both indoors and outdoors. Using such everyday items as old nylons, rulers, and rubber bands, they can see for themselves where the air is dirtiest in their vicinity.

"Eco-Antics" has numerous other how-to's, all employing items readily available in the home or easily found outside. From learning how to make their own recycle paper, to indoor garbage gardening, to exploring a tiny jungle, the book is full of ecology fun for youngsters.

Fish Trick
Primarily written for Brownie and younger Junior Girl Scouts, Eco-Antics will appeal to any boy or girl in the six to 10 year age bracket. The projects described are designed for city, suburban and rural dwellers.

The principal aim is to stimulate youngsters to make discoveries for themselves about their environment.

The book is available at Girl Scout shops of local department stores around the country, or can be ordered by mail from Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., 830 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. The price: $1.25.

About that fish trick. You hold the card next to the tank as you feed your fish. Take it away when the fish has finished eating. In a few days the fish will come to the surface when you hold the card near the fish tank.

And, oh yes, about that spying on a fly. You get a jar, punch holes in the lid with a nail so the fly can breathe. Then you catch a fly and put it in the jar.

Put in a little twig and leaf. Mix some sugar in water and give your fly one drop of sugar water a day. Watch it eat. Count the fly's legs.

This really delightful booklet by Beverly Armstrong and Laura Watkins, of the Girl Scouts, cautions the spies on flies — "Wash your hands after you catch your fly."

Under Twenty

By KURT LASSEN

There are times when there is no satisfactory career around, so some enterprising people carve out a new one for themselves. That is what Larry Sloan of the publishing firm of Price-Stern-Sloan did.

"We decided," he told us, "to publish non-books."

What are non-books? Larry explains, "There are lots of people, mostly young people, in this country who don't regularly read books. They never go in a bookstore and seldom go into a library. We decided we'd publish material that was easy, interesting and amusing reading and see if we could reach them."

"One day I ran into Leonard Stern some years after we'd gone to high school together. We'd worked on a few small papers together and then gone our separate ways. He told me he had gotten together with Roger Price and they had published a thing called 'Mad Libs' which was a hit and had sold over a million copies."

"Then," Larry told us, "I wrote the 'V.I.P. Notebook.' I got the idea when I was working on publicity in Las Vegas. Well, it sold very well and the three of us decided to work together. The company is now ten years old and we enjoy what we do."

The key to the success of the venture, Larry feels, is the fact that they decided to go after readers rather than through traditional channels.

"We went after stationary stores, boutiques, gift shops and, in some cases, like on college campuses, to regular bookstores. We were trying to reach those people we call non-readers with enjoyable non-books. I don't think anyone really had tried it before."

The range of titles from P-S-S, as they call themselves, is a wide one. There was (and is) "How To Be A Jewish Mother" which was, according to Larry, probably their biggest seller. This contrasts with "The Complete Step-By-Step Book of Flower Arranging" and "The Shell Coloring Book," part of a selection of "How To" books.

Larry had no idea he'd end up in publishing. "It just seemed to happen and here we are." He once reviewed plays and movies on a Hollywood newspaper and did a coast-to-coast radio show, "Hollywood By-Line," and was Hollywood correspondent for the London Evening News.

"Writing was what I'd always wanted to do," Larry explained. "But it was slim picking at times so I joined a public relations firm and finally opened my own. About the time I got tired of doing publicity in Las Vegas was the time I ran into Leonard."

Today Larry shuttles from Los Angeles to New York, to London, to practically everywhere in connection with the publishing business.

"We're always on the lookout for new material," he told us. "We know there are lots of bright, young writers around and when we get their material, it gets the attention of all of us."

"We're also going into major, hard-cover books. One of the reasons is that the bookstores are beginning to recognize us now and we feel we have the right combination to make it work. We have fun doing it and I guess that's because most of our books tend to be funny or satirical."

Larry has proven, along with Roger Price and Leonard Stern, that if there isn't a career around you like — invent one!

FOR CAREERS College Conducts Women's Center

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — To further underscore the women's equal rights movement, the University of California has put major emphasis on its Women's Center.

The center, now in its second year, was originated to help women find what they can do best and how to translate their talents into rewarding careers, according to the university.

"Our most important goal is to provide women with enough information so that they have genuine freedom of choice in planning their futures," said May Diaz, the center's director and also a professor of anthropology at Berkeley.

Because they often do not have enough information, women may make decisions that later "lock them out" of opportunities or options," Mr. Diaz said.

"For instance, if a woman does not take enough math courses early in her educational career, she has handicapped herself for entry into many interesting and well-paid fields.

"Many of the women who come to us have no idea of the options open to them," Ms. Diaz added. "Sometimes it takes a lot of talking before we can help women see what they've really been interested in and what else there is to do."

"We find it very helpful to ask women what they really wanted to do in their wildest dreams. Then we work from there to find practical ways their interests can be used in the job market."

Counseling workshops are offered at the center for women who want to return to school, undergraduates trying to make decisions on career objectives and graduate students.

Ireland now has 35 wildfowl sanctuaries where no shooting is permitted.

House Speaker Sets Address For UPI Meet

DALLAS (UPI) — The 16th annual convention of the Texas UPI Editors Association will be held next month in Galveston with Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. as featured speaker.

The acceptance by Daniel to address the convention at the Galvez Hotel was announced by association president Terry Walsh, assistant managing editor of the Dallas Morning News.

Daniel, whose father served as governor, senator, House speaker and attorney general before joining the Texas Supreme Court, will detail to the editors highlights of the State Constitutional Convention. His address is set for the UPI convention's awards banquet on Sunday, June 9.

The convention will open June 8 with a Saturday night beach party cookout.

The convention program also will include a visit to SeaArama Marineworld and a tour for the ladies of Galveston's famed Bishop's Palace.

Cash awards and plaques will be given to newswriters and photographers who competed in the association's annual contest. This year's contest attracted 583 entries in the 26 categories.

Other association officers include William B. Bellamy, San Antonio Light, vice president; and directors Dave Knapp, Lubbock Avalanche-Journal; Ward Colwell, Brownsville Herald; and Frank Kelly, Denton Record-Chronicle.

DISLIKES NAME IN PRINT

Hill 'Stung' By Films Success

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George Roy Hill won the Academy Award this year for his direction of "The Sting," but that is probably all most people, in and out of Hollywood, know about the man.

Hill also directed "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "Thoroughly Modern Millie," "Slaughterhouse Five" and is putting the finishing touches on "The Great Waldo Pepper."

In a town overburdened with hyperactive egos, Hill dislikes seeing his name in print.

He was once a reporter and his family still owns newspapers, which may account for his ink-shy attitude.

Box-Office Winners
Hill's pictures are characterized by a light, entertaining touch. They are also fast-paced, brilliantly photographed and big box-office winners.

A graduate of Yale, who also attended Trinity

College in Dublin, Hill was a fighter pilot in World War II and Korea.

He became a pilot when he was 17 years old and flying is his passion.

It is understandable then that "The Great Waldo Pepper" is a labor of love for the tall, talented Hill. The film deals with barnstorming pilots circa 1928-36.

For the third time in three years, Robert Redford stars for Hill (The others were "Cassidy" and "Sting.") in the leading role.

Since becoming a director, it has been Hill's dream to make a film dealing with classic old airplanes. He has been working on "Waldo Pepper" for a decade, inventing the story and plot himself.

Hill often flew the camera planes, directing difficult sequences from the air.

Sound of Old Engines
He even managed to talk Redford into wing-walking several thousand feet in the air. So meticulous is Hill that to match the sound of the old alternating plane engines he is making special sound tracks of several ancient cranes. Only a handful of old pilots would ever know the difference.

Hill, an articulate self-effacing man, grins at critics who attack his pictures for lacking "meaning" or "significance."

He believes there is a strong Puritan strain among critics who feel guilty if they simply enjoy an entertaining movie which carries no great philosophical message.

His characters are relatively uncomplicated. They are doing the best they can to survive. So is Hill.

He lives in New York City, not too far from his pal Redford. He flies his own plane cross-country when he comes to Hollywood to work on a film. He is a more than passable pianist.

In fact, Hill played the piano rags of Scott Joplin for the original sound track of "The Sting." But executives at Universal Pictures detected a few clams in the rendering. Hill hired Marvin Hamlisch, a move that won Hamlisch one of his three Oscars this year.

George Roy Hill is a rich source of creativity in movies, and one day in the future he will be spoken of in terms reserved for such old masters as Capra, Ford, Hitchcock, Wyler, Wellman and the rest.

HEALTH COSTS RISE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National expenditures on health care have grown from $78.35 per person in 1950 to $394.16 in 1972 and may reach around $750 per person by 1980, the National Consumer Finance Association says. The big increase has been in hospital care, the cost of which has risen 8.5 per cent a year over two decades.

Gold, Dollars And Fertilizer

The present price of gold is crazy and promises to be crazier.

Those words of expertise and prophecy come from Malcolm S. Forbes in Forbes magazine, March 15, 1974.

While conceding that "the stuff has certain limited industrial uses and has always been valued as adornment," Mr. Forbes asserts that gold is "an anachronistic absurdity" as a measure of a nation's wealth and worth.

"When the Arabs and the French and the other gold collectors get the price up to a thousand dollars or two or three per ounce, we ought to sell what was $10 billion worth (when we stuck it in the Ft. Knox hole) and collect the $300 or $400 or $500 billion," he counsels. He then adds: "That tidy sum will more than pay for developing all the energy we need from coal and sun and air and water, and will finance the production of all the fertilizer we need to feed the world."

Forbes magazine is a kind of spokesman in the business community. Some businessmen read it. Some believe it. What Malcolm Forbes says, therefore, is worth examining. Let's do that.

When Mr. Forbes says that $300 billion to $500 billion will finance energy and fertilizer needs, he must be speaking in terms of today's buying power of the dollar, when the dollar is worth one hundred and - seventy-fifth of an ounce of gold.

Thus if the energy-fertilizer investment had been made 25 years ago when the dollar was on thirty - fifth of an ounce and other commodities were correspondingly priced, the investment would have run approximately one - fifth of the present price or only $60 billion to $100 billion.

Projecting then to the future when the dollar will be valued at one - one - thousandths of an ounce of gold (or about one - sixth of the dollars present buying power), you can see that some change would have to be made in Mr. Forbes' calculations. That is, you would have to multiply the amount of the dollar outlay by six to obtain the equivalent of today's buying power. Thus the cost would come to $1.8 trillion or $2.4 trillion or, perhaps, $3 trillion.

In Forbes' phraseology, that is a "tidy sum."

All of which is a reminder that there always have been two kinds of prophets, right one and wrong ones. When gold is selling for $1,000 an ounce, one dollar isn't going to buy much energy. Perhaps we still will be able to look to Forbes for the fertilizer.

The Inflation Game

It isn't easy to keep ahead of inflation via wage boosts. John O'Riley, writing in the Wall Street Journal, presents two sets of figures covering the periods from 1952 to 1962 and from 1962 to 1973.

In the first period — a time of relatively mild inflation — consumer prices rose 14 percent while average weekly earnings were up 44 percent. In the more recent period, consumer prices were up 53 percent and weekly earnings 80 percent. Comparing these figures, O'Riley comments, "Whereas wages grew half again as much as prices in 1962-73, their percentage gain was more than three times that of consumer prices in 1952-62. Thus the real buying power of the average weekly paycheck grew much more sharply in the earlier period — when inflation wasn't so rampant. And thus when people say they feel the impact of soaring prices more today than in the past, they speak with some factual support."

There is no way to beat runaway inflation. The longer the race continues the more disastrous the betting odds become against the wage - earner. What is worse, the plight of people living on fixed incomes edges closer to the point of catastrophe. Inflation will end only when people demand less government spending and cease believing those office holders whose chief claim to distinction is their ability to devise new ways for government to spend money.

OUTRIDER

Behind The Oval Office Door

By GARRY WILLS

In the tight little world of Nixon's intimates, everyone was considered stupid and manipulable. The only question was how long these slickers would bother to use other groups or people, enemies or allies.

Nixon set the tone, as in his comments on the Congress. Remarkably to Dean that both Houses are "exhausted," he went on: "We can take very little comfort from it because we have to work with them. But they become irrelevant because they are so damned irresponsible, as much as we would like to say otherwise" (p. 92).

The American people are considered just about as dumb as their own representatives. When Haldeman says they want solutions, not problems, Nixon answers that the "so-called people polling" shows the populace treating Watergate as a "caper" (p. 757). Haldeman says the people just don't want to be bothered. "They don't care" (p. 620). Dean recommends a course of action because "it confuses the public" (p. 82).

Opposition is consistently underrated by this crew. Ehrlichman brushes off Senator Weicker with the comment that "he's too buzzy, stupid" (p. 1195). Ervin can be fooled with flattery (p. 306). The press can be bamboozled by Ziegler's mere "cockiness" (p. 313). One can stonewall like Mitchell (p. 110) or blackmail like Hoover (p. 88) and get by. Carl Albert can easily be threatened into silence (p. 67).

But the most disheartening aspect of these sordid little mutual ravagings is the low opinion these men had of each other. They seem anxious to call their own allies wicked or silly or useless. When Dean calls "Deke" DeLoach of the FBI a White House friend, the President's answer is an expletive, and Dean, taking the signal, agrees that the man he has just praised is now below criticism (p. 133). The President refers to "damned dumb Gray" (p. 932). Haldeman dismisses Richard Moore as not having legal skills, and Len Garment as being worse (p. 1050). William Rogers cannot handle "mean tough problems" (p. 455).

Magruder is a "lightweight" (p. 741) and Dean has lost touch with reality (p. 1276). Charles Colson would do anything (p. 109). Henry Petersen blabs (pp. 1219-20). Mitchell was uxorious (p. 1254). Everyone is dumb and can be had by one or more; and well, maybe one of us is not all that bright. The inside men seem to have got inside with Nixon by their willingness to tattle and attack and tear down anyone on the outside — and some of those inside as well.

The Nixon crew was not only willing but eager to do in partners and sell friends out. That no doubt kept some of the... in line for a while, and may still do so. John Ehrlichman has some sulphurous reactions to the way he was handled, I am sure. We can all read, now, how his own boss lied to him, telling him (on p. 512) that he only taped conversations with Henry Kissinger. We know the President was lying because we can read tapes that were being made while the President denied that he would tape a friend without warning.

But what can Ehrlichman do? Nixon screened these tapes, having to do with the Watergate break-in. Maybe he doctored them: Maybe he didn't. But there are thousands of hours of other tapes, having to do with "security matters" that Ehrlichman was up to his expressive eyebrows in.

Ehrlichman was jobbed. But he was busy jobbing others, too. And not all his dirty work was confined to the area-covered by these transcripts. Ditto for Haldeman. For Colson. For Mitchell. Which phone calls are preserved on tape? Nixon holds a great power by the mere fact that he captured these men at their nastiest — a personal note his presence seems to elicit. He controls others in a mutuality of viciousness. They know that he knows that there is much more than we will ever know about the slimy bunch in that Oval Pit.

INSIDE LABOR

Good Year For Women, Blacks

WASHINGTON — Soon enough you will be reading of women pulling out their hose. This won't be a peek into a boudoir. It will be a trip into some blazing building.

Or the report may have it that "she" pulled her gun in a shootout. These won't be esoteric accounts of some lone woman fire-fighter or cop. The federal government is determined to make it a way of life. It is part of a vast sweeping drive to rip open the rosters of fire and police departments, sanitation divisions, whole state and municipal governments for women on a man - to - man basis as well as for blacks, Puerto Ricans, Chicanos and Orientals. And it's not just talk.

This is the year of sex equality as well as for blacks and other minorities.

This is the year of triphammer civil court action, not only against cities and states, but against hundreds of corporations and unions. Already David Rose's Employment Section, Civil Rights Division (Justice Department), has moved against some 10 major cities and one state — Maryland. And not only in the South where the federal government is concentrating on Jackson, Miss., to open all municipal divisions, especially the fire department, to women and blacks, but to major Northern municipalities.

These include Buffalo's fire department in behalf of blacks, Puerto Ricans and women; Philadelphia's police in behalf of women; Chicago's fire department in behalf of blacks and Spanish - surnamed persons, and against the Boston fire department for blacks. Also in other parts of the country: St. Louis, Dallas, Albuquerque, Los Angeles.

This is just the beginning. High Justice Department officials tell me they're about to file more antidiscrimination suits.

"We have been focusing on public employment," says David Rose, "and we will continue to do that. We will be filing suits regularly. We soon will be going to trial in Chicago. Then other cities to end all sorts of bans on race, sex and national origin in fire and police and other departments."

Actually this year of sex also will see the blacks and other minorities championed by a tough triple offensive: Already the Justice Department is hammering at the gates of 342 trucking corporations, hundreds of steel mills, scores of major firms such as Westinghouse which is fighting efforts to have its employment roster publicized and scores of unions.

And it all may prove costly — in money — to the unions as well as companies. Few have noticed that the United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO) agreed to pay $5 million of the $31 million it will cost labor and management for back pay to minorities who were not promoted or who got clogged in the seniority list.

The union's international headquarters in Pittsburgh will pay labor's share. It can be expected that the Teamsters and the Machinists will be forced to follow this precedent when the final accord is settled between the sprawling trucking industry and the Justice Department. Next in line, according to reports, are sections of the building and construction field. This could cost the craft unions tens of millions of dollars in penalties. Also there is federal concentration on the oil industry, the banking and the broadcast media. And some, though not much, in "auto."

This reparation pay for those blacks, Puerto Ricans, Chicanos, Chinese and women who were not upgraded, or even not hired, may soon enough come to hundreds of millions of dollars. Further goals, some call it "quotas," will be set as in the consent decree between the Justice Department and the steel industry. For example: at least 25 percent of the vacancies developing in supervisory jobs and openings in management training will have to be from either racial or sexual minority workers.

INSIDE WASHINGTON Strategy Of Leftists Is For Impeachment

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — One of the most significant aspects of the fateful impeachment issue is the increasingly shrill and virulent agitation of leftist lobbying and pressure elements.

Virtually nothing is heard about this in the daily welter of impeachment reports, but it is definitely a backstage factor.

To what extent the aggressively organized and financed propagandizing and pressuring is influencing congressional opinion is debatable. But this is an election year, and the activist organizations and forces waging this agitation are clearly bent on making the most of it.

Their strategy is obvious: the more furor they can create, the greater the impression of public support for impeachment.

Regardless of evidence or anything else, their aim is impeachment. That's what they are furiously striving to hammer home on the 38 members of the House Judiciary Committee in particular and the 397 other House members in general.

All report being deluged with patently incited mail urging impeachment of the President.

Judiciary committeemen and other Congressmen who have gone to the trouble to check these letters have discovered one revealing fact: a large proportion of them are from people who barraged the legislators with fulminations against the Vietnam war.

This finding is not surprising in view of the prominence of dove elements in the impeachment clamor.

Example: Leaders of the "National Campaign to Impeach Nixon" are well-known radicals and antiwar activists, foremost among them Ted Glick and Kitty Tucker. They staged the recent so-called "impeachment fair" in Washington, caustically characterized by Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., 34-year congressional veteran and a ranking Appropriations committeeman, as:

"We don't know who paid for it, but it was a rebash of antiwar demonstrations and the abortive May Day protest. There was a sprinkling of the same professional organizers, and there were many young people present. The whole thing was laced with pot and beer. It was hardly a genuine outpouring of public sentiment, but it gave the press something to get excited about."

Who's Behind It

Some members of the House are privately beginning to ask why the Judiciary Committee doesn't look into this extensive campaign of lobbying and agitating for impeachment.

These legislators feel there is ample reason the committee should ascertain who is organizing and financing this virulent drive. It is their contention this information is as essential for the committee to know as obtaining evidence relating to charges against the President.

The committee should have no difficulty uncovering who is active in the propaganda operations. At least one committeeman is indirectly involved.

He is Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., board member of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), which stridently elected for Sen. George McGovern in 1972 and is now in the forefront of the nationwide impeachment clamor.

Conyers isn't the only Congressman prominent in ADA.

Head of the leftist organization is Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., also a vigorous McGovern backer, and two other board members are Reps. Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, and Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex. Mrs. Mink, like Conyers, has long openly advocated impeachment.

Recently, Fraser in a letter to ADA members throughout the country not only called for impeachment but urgently solicited funds to agitate for it.

"Send money," he urged, "as much as you can and as quickly as you can. We must continue to conduct a massive educational campaign. Distribution of special reports takes money; the impeachment phone bank takes money. Events break quickly and you must respond quickly. Your check is essential; send it now."

In this mass communication, Fraser boasted ADA has distributed 500,000 copies of a booklet "The Case for Impeachment," and 250,000 copies of a special impeachment issue of "ADA World." He also reported that so-called "phone banks" were being organized throughout the country "for quick action and dissemination of impeachment information."

All this is taking place, virtually in the House of Representatives which presumably will sit in judgment of the President, and right under the nose of the Judiciary Committee — which hasn't lifted a finger to do anything about it.

Officially, the committee is considering and weighing evidence and testimony objectively and conscientiously. But the indisputable fact is that some of its own members are party to the widespread leftist agitation and lobbying to impeach the President out of hand.

Apparently, as far as Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., is concerned, that's of no moment. He is completely ignoring it.

But at least one committeeman has considered it necessary to give assurances he is not being influenced. Rep. George Danielson, D-Fla., in a special report to constituents, told them:

"The ultimate vote for or against impeachment will probably be the most awesome responsibility that any member of Congress will be called upon to meet. In discharging that responsibility, each member must be guided by the evidence, the Constitution and his own conscience. You have my assurance that this precisely how I will reach my decision. No one can do more, and no one has a right to do less."

"The American people are entitled to ask — that much, and the American people should not accept less."

But they will if the ADA, Common Cause, American Civil Liberties Union, Students for a Democratic Society, the Communist Party, National Campaign to Impeach Nixon and other leftist elements have their way.

Addendum: Of the 50 states, 21 are represented on the Judiciary Committee. California has the largest representation with five members; New York second with four; New Jersey third with three.

Hickey Surges Way To Men's City Golf Crown

Max Hickey, in third place prior to the day's action, knocked in two birdies on the front nine and didn't get any bogeys going out, a commendable feat because of 35-mile-an-hour winds, and won the annual Men's City Golf Tournament Sunday at the Pamcel Golf Course.

Hickey trailed Dick Maxey and Jim Simpson by one stroke going into Sunday's round but shot 33-38 for a 71 Sunday and 146 for the tournament to beat Maxey by four shots and David Parker, last year's medalist, and Eddie Duenkel, defending city champion, by one.

Parker defeated Duenkel in three holes of sudden death to capture third place. Maxey wasn't able to play with the winds Sunday as the first-round co-leader with 74 shot a 42 on the front nine in the second round, ending the day with a 76. On the first nine, Maxey didn't birdie a hole, double bogied the 364-yard, par four first hole and carded five bogeys.

Duenkel shot 37-36-73 Sunday after ending with a surprisingly poor 78 in the opening round. It was the sixth time Hickey captured the city championship. The top three places in the first flight went to Gene James, 160; Otis Nace, 163, and Irvin Williams, 164. Top finishers in the second flight were Dan Rose, 168; Carl Johnson, 177, and Richard Igau, 179. Top in the third were Larry Ingram, 184; Melvin Ball, 197, and Howard Musgrave, 200. In the fourth flight, Thomas Lester won with 199 and was followed by Herman Vinson, 202; Bob Muncy, 203, and Danny Strahn, 204.

"I feel like we had an excellent tournament; other than the wind, it was a very fine tournament," said tourney director Bill Ellis. "It (the wind) was terrible, it made putting very difficult. Max came out and shot 33 on the front nine and had about a five-shot lead at the turn. There's no catching Max Hickey when he's got a lead like that." Hickey won a 50 dollar gift certificate from Gibson's Discount Center. Maxey, for second place, earned a Black and Decker power saw from Motor Inn while Parker won a steak dinner for two at Jim's Steakhouse.

Second Flight - Dan Rose, 168; Carl Johnson, 177; Richard Igau, 179; Jim Beach, 180; Ron Hurd, 181; Clay Livley, 182; Matt Pierce, 183; Bill Ene, 184; John Wad, 184; Wiley McClure, 187; B. F. Dumas, 188; Jim Simpson, 190; Albert O'Neal, 190.
First Flight - Gene James, 160; Otis Nace, 163; Irvin Williams, 164; B.O. Bentley, 169; Rodney DeFever, 170; Larry Wener, 170; Rich Clark, 171; Kyle Hall, 171; Bob Walker, 171; Gene Barrett, 172; Ralph Brock, 173; Scott White, 176; Mickey Wilson, 178; Rick Post, 179; Jerry Heasley, 187; Kevin Francis, 188.

Jack Vaughn, 222.
PRIZES
First Flight - two dozen golf balls from First National Bank, two-way portable radio from Goodyear, spark plug tune-up kit from Thompson's Supply.
Second Flight - two dozen golf balls from Citizens Bank, Zenith radio from Hawkins, Eddie, 118.98 of donuts from Spauld Shop.
Third Flight - two dozen golf balls from Pashaele Savings and Loan, Electric solder gun from Diaz Parts, portable radio from Fleming Appliances.
Fourth Flight - two dozen golf balls from Security Federal, five extinguisher from Radcliff Supply, thermos from Lewis supply.
High gross score went to Clifford Lewis - dinner for two at Dyer's Barbeque.

Gold Socks Green, 26-14

By PAUL SIMS
The Gold team, comprised of first-team offensive members, scored twice in the third quarter after a 6-0 lead at the half and belted the Green team (first-team defense), 26-14, in the annual spring game

Saturday night at Harvester Stadium.
The Gold, led by Rick Leverich and Tim Thornburg, who gained 163 yards on the ground between them, and quarterback Chuck Quarles, who throttled the Green defense with three completions for 87 yards, never trailed the Green in the game.

On the third play of the game, Quarles connected with 6-5 split end Howie Lewis for a 59-yard touchdown to put the Gold in front, 6-0. The play capped a three-play, 66-yard drive. David Smith was stopped on his running try for the extra points.

The Green team received the second-half kickoff and was forced to punt in three plays.
Seven plays later, Leverich scored on a nine-yard run. The Harvester back also had the big play in the drive, a 29-yard ramble which moved the ball to the Green 18.

The drive began on the Gold's 40-yard line. Leverich also carried over the extra points to give Gold a 14-0 advantage.
The lead was stretched to 20 points late in the third period after the Gold began a march on its own 35 following a Green punt. Quarles ran one for 11 yards, Thornburg twice for 19, Leverich once for 26 and then Quarles passed to Lewis in the right side of the end zone for a three-yard touchdown.
Thornburg was stopped on the run for two points.
Early in the fourth period, the Green began a drive on its 42 and scored its first touchdown three plays later as Mike Adair shot off left tackle for two yards and the score.

Curl's Colonial Victory Foreseen In A Dream

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) - When it comes to finding people who have their fondest wishes materialize, a person needs go no further than Rodney Dean Curl, a short, chunky Wintu Indian who is now one of the hottest things going on the professional golf tour.
Curl, 31, emerged as No. 1 Sunday from the best field the PGA could muster for its first designated tournament and in so doing held off the challenge of the man who makes most pros quake - Jack Nicklaus.

The 5-foot-5 Curl edged Nicklaus by a stroke to win the Colonial National Tournament and the $50,000 that went with it, thus bringing to life a dream he had had the night before.
Nicklaus was forced to roll in a 12-foot birdie putt on the final hole just to break a tie with Chuck Courtney for second place. Nicklaus, with a final round 68 and a 72-hole total of three-under-par 277, won $28,500, while Courtney - who began the day two shots in front of the field - captured third place money of $17,750 with a 278 total.

The only other golfer to finish under par for the tournament was Julius Boros, 54, a two-time champion over the tough course, who closed with a 68 for a 279 score. He pocketed $11,750.
Lee Trevino, who came within two shots of the lead before running afoul of the final holes, shot an even-par 280 and won $10,250 in this second richest tournament played in 1974.
"I dreamed I would beat Nicklaus by a stroke," said Curl, who fired a two-under-68 Sunday to come from two strokes off the lead and finish with a four-under-276 over the exacting Colonial Country Club course.
"To beat the best players in the world on one of the best golf courses - well - it's a happy feeling," he said. "My wishes this year were to win $100,000 and to win a golf tournament. And I've done both of those. And I wanted to qualify for the Masters, too. I've done that."
The $50,000 Curl won boosted him into fourth spot in the money winners this year with more than $104,000. He has finished in the top 10 six times and has two second-place finishes as well as his win Sunday.

Curl said he had never been involved particularly with Indian causes, leaving that instead to his mother who he said was very active in the betterment of his Wintu tribe.
"Now that I've got some money," he said, "I am going to see that my mother gets some to help the right Indian causes."
Burroughs, 23, the Texas Rangers' slugger who now leads the major leagues with 41 runs-batted-in, padded that total considerably at Kansas City the past four days, driving in 10 runs with nine hits in 16 trips to the plate.
"You could hit against Walter Johnson in this (the Royals') park and still have a good game here," Burroughs said Sunday after driving home four runs that carried the Rangers to an 8-3 victory over Kansas City. "This is just a good hitting ballpark. You can't beat the astroturf."
Brows Wins First
Burroughs, who was 4-for-5, singled home a run in the first, singled in two more in the fourth and then drove home one more in the seventh to provide Jackie Brown, in relief of David Clyde, with his first win of the season.
Elsewhere in the AL, Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Detroit, 2-1 and 9-4; California topped Minnesota, 4-2, before losing 4-2; Boston dumped Baltimore twice, 11-2 and 6-4; New York split with Milwaukee 6-2 and 3-1, and Oakland upended Chicago, 8-3.
In the National League, Montreal swept New York, 7-4 and 5-0; Philadelphia split with Pittsburgh, 3-2 and 2-1; St. Louis downed Chicago, 6-5; Cincinnati beat Houston, 7-1; Atlanta stopped Los Angeles, 4-2, and San Francisco divided with San Diego, 8-2 and 10-7 in 12 innings.
Indians 2-0, Tigers 1-4
Jack Brohamer's two-run homer combined with Gaylord Perry's two-hit pitching gave the Tribe the win in the opener. Buddy Bell belted another two-run blast in the nightcap to help Bob Johnson to his second victory.
Red Sox 11, 6, Orioles 2, 4
Carlton Fisk smacked a two-run homer in the ninth inning of the nightcap to provide the Red Sox with their sweep. In the first game, a 17-hit attack, led by Rico Petrocelli's four singles, allowed Reggie Cleveland to pick up his fourth win in six decisions.
Angels 4-2 Twins 2-4
Nolan Ryan struck out 12 batters in the opener to outduel the Twins' ace Bert Blyleven. Paul Schaal's two-run single was the big hit in a four-run Angels' eighth. Jim Holt collected two singles and two doubles to help the Twins gain a split in the second game.
Yankees 6-1, Brewers 1-3

Willie Won't Be Forgot

United Press International Mike Caldwell won't ever make San Francisco Giant fans forget the name Willie McCovey out he's doing pretty good at making them remember his own.
When Caldwell was traded to the Giants last winter for the aging McCovey and utility outfielder Bernie Williams, it caused much anger among San Franciscans, who considered McCovey almost as historic a landmark as the Golden Gate Bridge.
The Giants, however, knew what they were doing and it appears they were right. Nowadays when you ask a Giant fan who Mike Caldwell is, the answer will get it that he's the winningest pitcher in the National League.
Caldwell turned in another superlative performance Sunday when he pitched the Giants to an 8-2 victory over his ex-teammates in the first game of a doubleheader to boost his record to 7-1. Caldwell allowed only six hits and neither run was earned as he lowered his earned run average to 1.46.
Praises His Defense
"I'm pitching well this year because of a good defense behind me," said Caldwell, who became the first pitcher in the NL to post seven victories. "Our defense has jelled and no pitcher could ask for better play than the felias have given me."

Bobby Bonds and Ed Goodson supported Caldwell very well in the offensive department as each drove in three runs. Bonds had a homer, a triple and a single, while Goodson had two doubles and two singles.
McCovey gave Giant fans a few fond remembrances in the second game when he blasted a career record-tying 15th grand slam homer to pave the way for a 12-inning, 10-7 San Diego victory. McCovey's homer, which tied him with Hank Aaron for most career grand slams, came in the fifth inning.
In other NL games, Montreal swept a doubleheader from New York, 7-3 and 5-0; St. Louis edged Chicago, 6-5; Cincinnati beat Houston, 7-1; Atlanta trimmed Los Angeles, 4-2, and Pittsburgh nipped Philadelphia, 2-1, after losing 3-2.
Cleveland took two from Detroit, 2-1 and 9-4; Boston swept Baltimore, 6-4 and 6-2; Oakland topped Chicago, 8-3; Texas beat Kansas City, 8-3; California split a doubleheader with Minnesota by identical scores of 4-2, and New York defeated Milwaukee, 6-2, then lost 3-1 in American League action.
Expos 7-5, Mets 3
Willie Davis collected six hits in nine at bats, scored four runs and drove in a pair for the Expos in their doubleheader sweep of the Mets. Ernie McNally tossed a four-hitter for Montreal in the nightcap.
Cardinals 4, Cubs 5
Bake McBride hit a three-run homer in the first inning and scored the winning run on Ted Simmons' double in the eighth to highlight the Cardinals' three-game sweep of the Cubs. Bob Gibson worked 8 1/3 innings to win. Joe Torre also homered for the Cards, while Jerry Morales homered for Chicago.
Reds 7, Astros 1
Southpaw Don Gullett struck out 10 and pitched a five-hitter as the Reds handed the Astros their ninth straight loss. Lee May spoiled Gullett's chances for a shutout with a solo homer in the fourth. Tony Perez homered for the Reds.

Carner Wins At Bluegrass

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) - JoAnne Carner's goals are to keep losing weight until she can wear a size 12 dress - and win lots more golf tournaments.
The robust strawberry blonde feels the extra stamina gained from shedding more than 20 pounds this year was a major factor Sunday in her first tournament victory in three years.
Mrs. Carner beat on-charging Sandra Spuzich by shooting a bogey on the first extra hole of a sudden-death playoff to claim the $5,000 first prize in the LPGA Bluegrass Invitational at Hunting Creek Country Club.
Miss Spuzich had a disastrous double bogey after the two players had tied at four-under-par 215 through 54 holes of regulation play.
"Before I lost this weight, I used to get pretty tired toward the end of an 18-hole round and it affected my play," Mrs. Carner said. "I had to play 21 holes today and it got awfully muggy."
"Some of the girls skip this tourney because they say this is an exhausting course. But personally, I like Hunting Creek because it favors the long hitter and because it offers a variety of holes. It was right here three years ago when I won my last tourney."

STANLEY CUP Philadelphia The 1st Expansion Winners

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Kate Smith, Bernie Parent and home ice were great advantages but the Philadelphia Flyers say there is really only one way to win the Stanley Cup - hard work.
The Flyers rolled up their sleeves Sunday and did a job on the Boston Bruins, taking a 1-0 decision to win the best-of-seven series four games to two and become the first National Hockey League expansion team to win the Stanley Cup.
"We didn't beat Boston by fighting," said winger Dave Schultz, the most penalized player in the league. "We beat Boston by good, honest hard work. They didn't realize what hard work is until we showed them. We kept giving that second effort."
The Flyers, who earned a reputation as the "Broad Street Bullies" while becoming the most penalized club in the NHL, used their tight-checking aggressive tactics to hold off the Bruins and make Rick MacLeish's first period goal stand up.

Parent Is MVP
Flyers' goaltender Parent stopped 30 Boston shots and earned the Conn Smythe trophy as the Most Valuable Player in the playoffs, but he really was tested only a few times.
"Sometimes there are only four or five times when you have to make good saves in a game, like today," he said.
"Sometimes there are 11 or 12. We got the breaks today but the way you get the breaks is by working."
The combination of the Flyers' hustling, bustling workman-like effort with the home-ice advantage and an appearance by Miss Smith added up to a huge mountain for the Bruins to climb.
The Flyers won all nine of their playoff games played at the Spectrum and have compiled an amazing 37-3-1 record in the 41 games at which Miss Smith's rendition of "God Bless America" has been played.
She made a rare personal appearance at the Spectrum Sunday and was greeted by a thunderous ovation. She sat in the Flyers' executive box and cheered on the home club.
It was the Bruins who came out smoking early, however, firing 16 shots at Parent in the first period. But the Flyers made one of their eight first-period shots count.
"That Was It"
MacLeish tipped in a blue line shot by Andre Dupont at 14:38 and the fans settled in for a tense hockey game.
"It changed directions all at once," said Boston goaltender Gilles Gilbert. "I had a clear view from the point but lost it as it came across. It just hit his (MacLeish's) stick and went whoosh. That was it. It was over for us."
Flyers' Coach Fred Shero said he didn't know his club had won the title until his players "began jumping onto the ice."
Then bedlam broke loose. Flyer Captain Bobby Clarke and Parent skated slowly around the ice, the coveted cup cradled in their arms and tears rolling down their cheeks.

Indy Bosses In Doghouse

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - The management of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway was threatened with legal action today for ending the rain-plagued 500-mile time trials before all cars lined up at the track had a chance to qualify.
A spokesman for teams with nonqualified cars said he would file a class action suit today unless the speedway and the U.S. Auto Club (USAC) reopened the time trials so at least six machines could get a chance to break into the 33-car lineup for Sunday's million-dollar race.
Entrants of nonqualified cars were given until 1 p.m. EDT to submit a petition to USAC signed by entrants of 33 cars now in the field and two alternates saying they agree to reopening the track for qualifications. If they are successful, Chief Steward Tom Binford said he would "reconsider" extending the time trials.
"Ultimately, the decision to extend time trials rests with the speedway," Binford said. "It's their track."

Tucson Racers In First Place

FORT DAVIS, Tex. (UPI) - The performances of John Timbers and Tim Wilson are keeping Tucson, Ariz., in first place in the U.S. Olympic Cycling Committee-sanctioned races going into today's final two events.
After Lou Piniella's bases-loaded, three-run double highlighted a four-run seventh inning to carry the Yanks to victory in the opener, Johnny Briggs' two-run homer in the sixth earned the Brewers' a second game split.

Leaky Faucet Near Tile Wall? Not All That Involved To Fix

By HERMAN BAUM

Dear House Doctor:
One of the faucets over the bathtub is dripping and I do not know if it is the hot or cold water. I have tried to repair them and got as far as removing the handle and that large dome cover that fits against the tiled wall but the tile fits so closely around the stem that I can't see beyond it. Please offer some advice about this.

-D.P.R.

ANSWER — Tile setters are like that. Perhaps they are in league with the plumbers, knowing that most people will call in a plumber after finding the inner workings of the valves so inaccessible.

The job is not that involved, so let's start at the beginning for the benefit of homeowners who may not even know how to get as far as you did.

As for knowing if it is the hot or cold water that is giving trouble, this is a matter of trial and error, although it is usually the cold water side that drips.

The handle is held on by a screw and this is covered by a cap, usually marked "H" or "C." Some caps snap into place, others screw in.

If the circumference is knurled, it usually is a screw. Should the handle not pull off easily, after removing the screw, tap it off with the handle of the screwdriver. Remove another nut and the bonnet can be lifted off.

Now, you will need a small cold chisel and a light hammer. Carefully chip away the tile, breaking off a very small piece at a time, until the gland nut is exposed and with sufficient clearance for inserting a wrench.

Since the gland nut will be below the surface of the wall, you will need a socket wrench for reaching it. Plumbers have special wrenches for this, but I use a spark plug wrench, which fits most gland nuts. One can usually be purchased for less than a dollar.

Replace the handle temporarily and turn the handle and the gland nut at the same time, and the entire stem assembly can be lifted out. Do not turn the packing nut. You can now install a new washer in the cup at the end of the valve stem.

Before replacing the valve stem assembly, wrap a cloth around a stick and clean the inside of the valve.

The gland nut is filled with a packing material to prevent water leaking out around the valve stem. The packing nut compresses this packing. The nut should be tightened only if water is leaking around the stem, as unnecessary tightening will make the handle difficult to turn.

OUTPATIENTS' CLINIC

Mrs. W.W. — Dampness is the possible cause of the paint peeling from the plastered ceiling. Scrape off all the loose paint, then rub the plaster with steel wool. Wipe away dust and apply a coat of shellac. Paint over this.

R.E. — The only way to reduce humidity in these metal tool sheds is to provide heat, and this is not very practical. There is a wax type product in aerosol cans that can be applied to your tools to prevent rusting of those stored in the shed.

Mrs. F.M. — When you shut off the heat in some rooms in a house in a cool climate, you can expect mildew to take over.

W.D. — Since you will install an oil-fired hot water heating system boiler that is capable of furnishing domestic hot water, I see no point in purchasing an electric water heater.

LOOSE VENEER

Dear House Doctor:
I recently bought a veneer coffee table. Some of the veneer is coming up along the edges. Someone suggested that I apply clear lacquer to the table to correct this. Do you agree?

ANSWER — This party would have given you better advice if he had told you to take the table back to the furniture store and express your unprintable thoughts to them.

If you are timid, carefully lift the loose veneer and scrape the surface beneath it. Apply any good furniture glue and place weights on the veneer until the glue dries.

TOILET TANK COVER

Dear House Doctor:
I recently had my bathroom remodeled at a very substantial cost. My problem is that the toilet tank cover extends so far forward that the seat will not stay up when raised. Neither plumber nor the plumbing supply company will attempt to cut off the back of the tank cover so that it fits properly. Surely there must be some way to do this.

ANSWER — The simple answer to your problem is to buy another designed toilet seat. I have never known one of these vitreous china covers to be cut, but since there are saws that will cut marble and granite, they should certainly cut china. If you prefer to go this route, see if a monument works can help you.

FLOOR REFINISHING

Dear House Doctor:
I recently inherited several pieces of good mahogany furniture. They have been in service for at least 50 years, and are badly about removing the wax so as to make them light again?

-J.P.H.

ANSWER — Removing the wax will not lighten the color enough to be noticed. Oak turns dark as it ages. The only way to obtain the light color is to have the floors sanded and refinished.

After sanding has removed all the old finish, if the wood is not as light colored as you want, it can be bleached with oxalic acid.

FURNITURE REFINISHING

Dear House Doctor:
I recently inherited several pieces of good mahogany furniture. They have been in service for at least 50 years, and are badly in need of refinishing. Have you published any material on this subject?

-W.B.G.

ANSWER — We do have instructions on this subject that include both shellac and wax finish and varnish finish. A copy is available by sending 15 cents in coin (no checks or stamps please) and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to The House Doctor in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

WINE DECLINE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Distribution of wines with more than 14 per cent alcohol declined during the past five years, according to a study by the Bank of America.

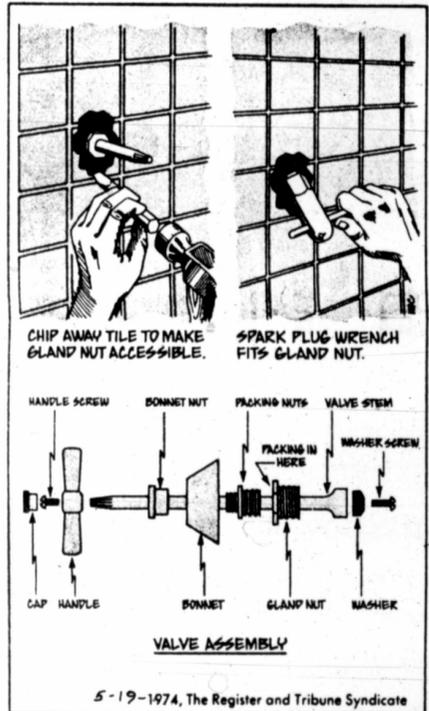

CON GAME

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — A 30-month study of the drug scene in Palo Alto, Los Angeles and Minneapolis by the University of Pacific's School of Pharmacy has shown that drugs bought on the street are rarely what the seller claims.

The study showed that of 640 alleged mescaline-containing street drugs, only 26 actually contained mescaline. Of 284 alleged psilocybin (PSI) samples, the active ingredients in "magic mushroom" only 10 contained the drug. And of 149 samples of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the active ingredient in marijuana, only five samples contained THC.

The study showed that the drug most dominant in the street market was LSD, showing up in 68 per cent of all drugs surveyed.

Rhode Island has an average annual temperature of 50.6 degrees.

American investors have been bitten by the Goldbug and the result has been a wild scramble to "get in" on the modern day gold rush as the price of gold seems headed for $200 per ounce or higher.
Gold is currently selling for $166 per ounce. That's down from a high of $180 a few months ago, but still quadruple the price three years ago.
The only way Americans can participate in the gold boom is through gold coins, such as U.S. $20 gold pieces, Mexican 50 peso coins and British Sovereigns, or by purchasing shares of Canadian, South African and U.S. mining companies.
Ownership of gold by Americans is still outlawed, but we may see a change in this after the June International Monetary Conference. The new Secretary of the Treasury, William Simon, is in favor of gold ownership by Americans, however, the timing of the move is vital so as not to upset international monetary conditions.
The big profits in gold were made in the past 36 months, but prospects for a continued rise in the price of gold are getting dimmer for several reasons.
1. The supply of gold is controlled by a very small group of producers. Of the total free world gold produced in 1973, South Africa produced 76.9 percent, Canada 5.4 percent and the U.S. 3.2 percent. Therefore, the price of gold is what the South Africans want it to be.

2. Gold in the hands of government is no longer used to settle payments deficits. Gold will not return as a base for money because the economic discipline of gold is too harsh. So if gold is no longer necessary to finance international trade, then there would be over a period of time a real incentive on the part of some governments to dispose of their gold.
3. Gold fever hits the greatest intensity when political and economic conditions are unstable. A period of international calm and prosperity will remove much of the need to flee from currency to gold.
4. The price of gold has risen far above the price at which it should be selling due to inflation. Dollar prices have tripled in the 45 years since 1929 and they have quadrupled in the 41 years since 1933.
If you apply those multiples to the price of gold in 1929 and 1933, you will have a range of $60 to $140 per ounce. Additionally, gold has been a poor inflation hedge over the years, especially from 1935 to 1971.

Has Youth Suddenly Got Religion? Only A Prayer

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Our Father, who art in Heaven" da da da da da. That was my teen-age nephew, working on his motorbike, singing and humming what sounded like the Lord's Prayer. And, in fact, was. "John," I said, "you suddenly got religion?" It was a barbed question. His lack of visible interest in things religious has been a point of contention between us for some time. "Nope," he said. "It's on the charts. Haven't you heard it?" Charts? "The pop charts, Unk. You know, the top 20. The top selling records." "Let me hear it again, how does it go?" Fingers began to snap, then: "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallow-ed be Thy name. They kingdom come. Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heeaaaven." "A good beat to it, huh, Unk?" "Yes, I agreed. A good beat. 'Good words, too,'" I said. "You think about them?" "Ah, Unk. There you go. It's a song. It's good. I like to listen to it. I like to sing it. So, okay, the words. It's this nun, see. From Australia, I think. And she's got this group. They sing songs like that. She writes the words, I think. "She writes the words? She wrote that?" Heavy sarcasm in the voice. "Aw, come on, Unk. I know who wrote the words. At least I know where they came from. Said them often in Sunday school when I was a kid." "Well, I'm glad of that, anyway," I said. "Look," the boy said. "So what's wrong with putting them to a song? A song you like to sing. So what's wrong with that?" "The kid had me. I couldn't think of what's wrong with that." As I walked away I suddenly realized I was singing "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallow-ed be Thy name..." I went back to my nephew, still putting with his bike. "Are there any more words?" I asked. "Does the song have the whole Lord's Prayer?" "Yeah," he said. "All the words, I think so." "Okay, let's sing it together, all the way through this time. I'll follow you on the tune." "Sorry, Unk. Now you really got me. All I know is the first two lines."

FOR BETTER EXTRACTION

Group Working With Oil Shale

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — An Albuquerque research organization is experimenting with a method of extracting oil from Rocky Mountain shale deposits without removing the shale from the ground or using nuclear devices. The Atomic Energy Commission, in cooperation with private industry, has been working for years on the "in situ" or in place, method of extracting oil locked in the tight shale formations. But the AEC's methods, used in such projects as Gasbuggy in New Mexico and Rulison in Colorado, have employed nuclear devices to shatter the shale and release the oil. The use of nuclear explosions led to environmentalist outcries. "Could Be Cheaper" The Albuquerque experiments, by the energy technology department of the private Sandia Laboratories, would be an alternative to nuclear devices. The experiments also could provide a cheaper method of getting the oil. "Successful completion of the project would go a long way toward helping the country build up a large reserve of competitively priced oil," said H.M. Stoller, head of the Sandia project. Stoller said his department will investigate the "in situ" treatment of other fossil fuels such as coal, but the initial experiments will be concerned with oil shale. "In situ treatment should have the advantage of minimal environmental impact," he said. "Other forms of oil shale treatment would leave large amounts of shale on the surface after processing. Safest Method "In situ processing would also be safer than either underground or surface mining." Oil shale deposits in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah are estimated at 1.8 trillion barrels of oil. The shale oil occurs as a solid bituminous material that yields 25 to 30 gallons of oil per ton of shale. The cost of the technical problems of removing the oil from the shale has prohibited its commercial development until recent increases in crude oil prices boosted its competitive potential. Stoller said the method proposed by the lab to

Periarteritis Disease A Puzzle

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain periarteritis. What is it, what causes it, what is the treatment?

—B.L.
Periarteritis (also known as polyarteritis nodosa) is one of the puzzlers. We know what it is, we have learned to treat it, but the cause is open to considerable speculation.

The disease involves inflammation of the blood vessels, primarily the small and medium sized arteries. Because it can occur in any part of the body, or in several areas, the symptoms vary, depending on location and the number of blood vessels involved.

Muscle tenderness and weakness are rather common symptoms. Others, which may or may not occur, include joint pains, skin lesions, changes in vision, even lung and heart problems.

A majority of patients have some form of kidney involvement which may (or may not) result in abnormal urine and high blood pressure. If intestinal blood vessels are affected, vomiting, diarrhea and stomach pains are possible.

So, you can see from this that there is no way to describe a typical case, but it occurs more often in males past 30 than in females.

The cause is not known but there have been reports in various cases that it might be a sensitivity to certain common drugs, sulfa, penicillin, iodides. But it would appear that no single cause is likely.

The most effective treatment is with a cortisone preparation, using high dosage at first and then tapering it off to the amount needed to control the condition. This may have to be continued for months or longer. But — and this is important — occasionally spontaneous or complete clearing up if the disease occurs.

Dr. Thosteson: Second request. Do you know of any effective treatment for neuritis of the optic nerve in back of the eyeball?

—Mrs. F.H.
This is an example of the kind of question I can't answer with any assurance. Causes of such trouble range from infection to poisoning to multiple sclerosis. Once the cause is determined, there's a basis for selecting a treatment.

In many instances no cause may be determined. Under such circumstances corticosteroids (cortisone-type medication) may be used by mouth or by injection.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter - in - law, who is like a daughter to me, does one thing that worries me. She lets household pets lick the dinner dishes clean. First it was a dog, now the cat.

She is soon to have her second baby, and her little boy is 5 and a picky eater and I worry about him eating off the same dishes that are just washed with our regular dishes. I think animals should have their own dishes. Am I a fussy grandmom?

—Mrs. A.W.
You're probably worrying about nothing, although I agree that pets, for the sake of proper pet training, ought to have their own dishes. It's also easier to keep track of how much you are feeding the pets, and what.

When dishes have been thoroughly washed and rinsed with good hot water, there'd be precious little chance of passing on any germs, any more than there would be if somebody else at the table was coming down with a cold or the epizootic or something, and left germs on dishes or silverware. The washing, scalding and then drying would make them safe.

But I still think pets ought to have their own dishes.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's newly revised booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to him, Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self - addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson is happy to receive reader's questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, he regrets he cannot answer letters individually.

Broadway Casting Drama Plots

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — A Broadway casting drama has been developing behind the scenes that is more intriguing than many of its onstage plots.

Singer Kelly Garrett of Sammy Cahn's "Words and Music" had been hired to replace Marcis Rodd, who had been fired from David Merrick's 750G musical, "Mack and Mabel," about Mack Sennett and Mabel Normand.

But Kelly Garrett herself was fired in less than a week by director Gower Champion, who had fired Marcis Rodd after two days' rehearsal.

And while she was being fired from the Merrick musical, Kelly Garrett was being hired for a new TV show, "Your Hit Parade," that paid a bigger salary than she would have gotten in the Broadway show.

Director Gower Champion cast Marcis Rodd as Mabel about ten days ago and after two days' rehearsal, according to Broadway information, he went to see "Words and Music" and decided that Kelly Garrett was better fitted for the role.

Miss Garrett blissfully rehearsed with the star, Robert Preston, for a week under the impression she would be his leading lady.

But then her manager, Roger Ailes, was informed that Champion didn't want her in the show any more.

This didn't disturb Kelly as much as might be expected, because in Los Angeles Chuck Barris, producer of "Your Hit Parade," had been bargaining for her to star in the new TV series.

When the firing of Miss Garrett by Champion seemed to be definite, the Hollywood office of Chuck Barris was ecstatic. "We've definitely got Kelly Garrett!" they said.

The problem centered around director Gower Champion's interpretation of the understanding he had with producer Merrick about additional direction being supplied for Miss Garrett.

It was understood that an assistant director would coach her in the dramatic training she needed for the role. But it was reported that Champion didn't actually want any directorial assistance.

The decision did not bring agony, especially to some other Broadway sources. For example, Kelly Garrett is still performing, for another week at least, in the Sammy Cahn show.

And producer Alex Cohen, who didn't welcome David Merrick's scouts hiring Kelly away from his show, was not displeased.

The question arose: Who will replace Kelly Garrett who replaced Marcis Rodd. Will it be the blonde, sexy, Marilyn Monroeish Bernadette Peters, who was also auditioned for the role by Gower Champion?

The point is that Champion had also told people he didn't care for Miss Peters for the role.

Where do we go from here, boys? THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Liz Taylor and Marcello Mastroianni'll make a film together for the first time.

Carol Channing brought along a basket of her own health foods to the Stage Deli, while her friends ate corned beef sandwiches.

With one of her "Honeymooners" co-stars — Art Carney — at ringside, Sheila MacRae opened at the Rainbow Grill. Her impressions are accurate and hilarious: Zsa Zsa, Streisand, Bette Midler, Jackie Onassis ("in my pussycat voice").

Virginia Graham will do summer stock in "Butterflies Are Free" ... Artist Dong Kingman sold all his paintings in two hours in his one - man show at Hammer Galleries; one viewer enthusiastically called him "a Chinese Grandma Moses" ... Brennan's, the famous New Orleans restaurant, is looking for a NY location.

Show Biz Quiz: What role was played by both Boris Karloff and Keye Luke? (from "Nostalgia Quiz Book"). Ans. To yesterday's: Joan Davis and Jim Backus starred in the TV series, "I Married Joan."

Penny Singleton will tour in "No, No, Nanette," in the Ruby Keeler role ... Fashion designer Dimitri is selling His & Hers trenchcoats — he calls 'em "Colombos," like Peter Falk's battered raincoat — at $750 a pair ... Liza Minnelli and producer Jack Haley Jr. will be together at five major premieres of MGM's "That's Entertainment" — but they insist it's no romance. Just business, etc.

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT Today's Best Laugh: Mort Sahl says that John Dean, a government witness in pending trials of 14 former

Nixon aides, will get $16.50 a day: "The pay is low — but the work is steady."

Wish I'd Said That: The true test of generosity is to give a hitchhiker a quarter without wondering if a dime would have been enough.

Remembered Quote: "The sad thing about some diets is that they do so much for your will power, and so little for your waistline."

Earl's Pearls: Someone described an incompetent talent scout: "He would have discovered America in 1493."

Rising electric bills have some inventors working on substitutes, reports Bob Orben: "One store is selling a wind-up light bulb." That's searl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Lorna's sex debate should be initiated by all women who belong to church Women's Societies! For supposedly virtuous wives are at least 50% at fault for divorce, due to their refusal to be logical. Scrapbook this case!

CASE A-637: Lorna D., aged 28, has a sex debate scheduled. "Dr. Crane," she began, "our church Women's Society is using your daily column as the basis for discussion."

"When you mention marriage or child problems, we clip the columns and save them for our monthly meetings. "But next week we have also planned a debate. "Some of the older women claim you urge an unsatisfied husband to indulge in extra marital affairs. "But I am on the side that says you never have made such a statement, but merely urge the wives to light fire with fire.

"Isn't that your stand?" SEX DEBATERS You older sex debaters should make sure of your facts at the outset. As Lorna suggests, I have NEVER urged divorce nor advised sex-starved husbands to have affairs!

But I have warned you stodgy wives that divorce usually starts in the bedroom, and due to the wife's failure to serve as enticing boudoir cheesecake as that which sirens offer. Repeatedly I have told wives about the great difference between male and female appetites, both in the dining room and also the bedroom.

If your husbands are created by God Almighty to crave almost twice as many dining room calories as do you wives, do you then say that God is wrong and thus try to make your mates restrict their dining room menu to exactly your own quota of calories?

Certainly not! Instead, you admit that men need far more food at the dinner table, so you garnish your viands and clip recipes from the newspaper. You even feel complimented when your mate asks for second helpings in the dining room.

But how many of you stodgy wives encourage him to ask for seconds in the boudoir?

In fact, you are generally stingy about his receiving a first helping of erotic calories!

Yet he craves 3 or 4 times as many erotic calories as do you typically frigid wives! For men were created to serve a harem, much as Biblical Jacob, who had 4 wives.

Modern monogamy precludes such harems, but if you wives are smart and wish to avoid two-timing mates or the divorce court, you must function as a 4-wife harem!

If you don't, then don't blame me when you find that your sex-starved mate starts looking for boudoir cheesecake elsewhere. It isn't Dr. Crane who sends him into the arms of a paramour but you lazy wives!

So Lorna is entirely correct in the stand she is taking in her forthcoming church debate. It would be a splendid idea if all you other women conducted a similar church "Worry Clinic" and thus learned how to prevent divorce.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. It helps insure greater happiness for your kiddies, too, for they don't want to be pawns between divorced parents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Republic Bldg., Houston, Indiana 4700. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

BIG GEORGE!

Virgil Partch

"No, no, no, George! That's one of ours!"

DANDY CANDY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) have developed a nutritionally balanced, protein-rich candy. They added nutrient fortification mixtures and dry protein to the usual combination of sugar syrup, fat and flavorings. The protein sources included nonfat dry milk, soy protein isolates and casein mixtures. Yet to come: fortified candy using cottonseed, peanut and fish protein concentrates. P.S. The candy has passed taste tests at a school carnival.

BIG DEAL
SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's partyboat fleet of nearly 500 boats carries about 720,000 fishermen annually, generating revenues of about $6 million.

YOU CAN BUILD YOUR OWN HOUSE!

By J. SHUTTLEWORTH
Among all the other imbalances now cresting in the United States and Canada is one heck of a pent-up demand for good, substantial, low-cost housing.

Not mobile homes. Not condominiums. Not $40,000 drywall and plywood wonders. What this continent needs is a return of the solid, real-wood-beamed, attractive and couple of inexpensive wood-burning stoves, instead of a complicated and costly central heating system.

The Vickers couple's housebuilding story actually began a couple of years ago when Larry's office job in a large city was giving him both a fat weekly paycheck and a severe case of nervous stomach.

His nerves weren't helped any, either, by the fact that he was increasingly forced other knowledgeable friends and spent several days poring through the pages of two books devoted to homebuilt houses: "Your Engineered House," by Rex Roberts, and Ken Kern's "Owner-Built Home."

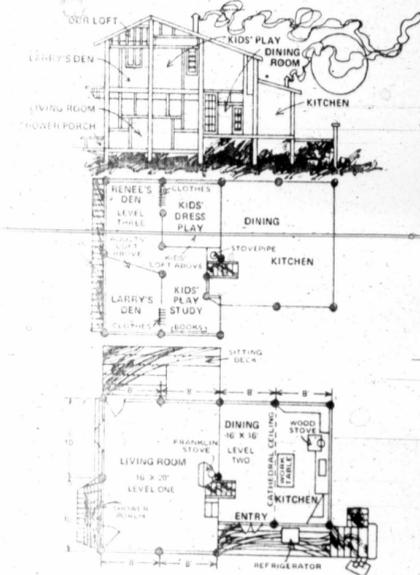

On the other hand, Larry now feels that too much preparation can be as much of a drag as too little when neophytes set out to fabricate a house.

He says, "the best advice to any amateur homebuilder is 'Do it!' Read enough to get some principles in mind, and take a careful look at the design and function of the native structures in the countryside around you. But cut off the theorizing before it becomes an occupation in itself, or you'll never have that house."

The home the Vickers couple built, I should point out, was not only inexpensive... it's somewhat spectacular too.

We left a utility, workshop and wood storage area under the house," says Larry, "and planned three additional main decks above that. In addition to these four living levels, there's two sleeping lofts — accessible by ladders — tucked up under the building's eaves.

"The girls love their snug nest, which they feel is just like the one in the storybook 'Heidi.' Our own bedroom is cozy — almost like an animal's den — and Renee and I both find ourselves emotionally attached to the space."

satisfying house that's built to last for at least 100 years and sets a family back less than $10,000.

Impossible? Not if you know how to make the dream come true — as a Florida couple — Renee and Larry Vickers — have recently shown.

The Vickers, you see, are now living in a new 1,000-square-foot house. The place is surrounded by three big oaks. It's overhung with dogwoods and mossy-leaved oaks. It is, in short, a whole lot of home... and it cost an unbelievably low $10,000.

And how was this miracle wrought?

The Vickers built the residence with their own hands.

Renee and Larry used inexpensive pole-barn techniques for the main structural members of their pleasantly rustic lodge.

Much of the remaining material for the building was salvaged from an elementary school and other old structures that were being wrecked when the Vickers constructed their home.

A good portion of the new lumber used in the house was bought direct from the mill that cut it.

Thanks to the mild climate of their area, Renee and Larry are able to warm the building with only a to watch his two small daughters grow up on concrete... instead of with flowers, green grass and trees they could call their own.

Finally, when a gigantic policeman showed up at the Vickers' front door with a warrant for Larry's arrest (because he'd let the family dog run free in a leash-law town), the couple just threw in the towel.

"We bought 27 acres of wooded countryside," says Larry, "and decided to build our own house on the land without much thought as to whether or not I was up to the job. The night before I was to begin, I suddenly realized that I probably wasn't."

But, with Renee's encouragement and the help of a neighbor, I did set the pressure-treated utility poles that form the backbone of our home. Once the poles were in, everything else just seemed to fall in place as we went along.

Perhaps "everything fell in place" so easily as the Vickers went along because of the advance planning the couple did before they began. Renee and Larry had visited two "intentional communities" in Virginia where others had already put up several "we did it ourselves" structures.

They also consulted with

Does Larry have any final words to a would-be do-it-yourself housebuilder?

"I just wish I'd known how easy pole construction is before we began our home. As it is, I'd like to reassure anyone who wants to duplicate our success. If you can get the poles, you'll need only minimal carpentry skills to build a home like ours... and the result is so simple, strong and inexpensive that it ought to make you a dandy first home."

Well, it's obvious that not everyone is going to be as good at constructing their own house as the Vickers seem to have been.

But, with the cost of jerry-built subdivision "boxes" going straight up and mortgage money costing an arm and a leg (when it's available at all), maybe the time has come for a few more of us to consider the idea of building a "pole barn" house. What do you think?

FREE BOOK BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Argentine government has announced a program of free distribution throughout the country of "Political Leadership," a book written by President Juan D. Peron.

The distribution of Peron's book is part of an "ideological battle" to challenge deviations of the left and right, a government spokesman said.

American Telephone and Telegraph is laying a new cable across the Pacific to Hawaii and Okinawa which will be able to carry 345 simultaneous conversations.

Although there have been numerous complaints of age discrimination since then, Department of Labor officials said they have no indications of any previous suit alleging that a promotion was denied because of age.

O'Connell's suit contends he has been denied requested promotions seven times in the last 17 years, and that supervisors have never given him a definite reason for denying the requests.

The suit was filed by Edward D. O'Connell, 41, of suburban Lincoln Park, who has been with Ford for 24 years.

O'Connell, who started as a mailing clerk in 1950 when he was 17, alleged he has been in his same $15,467-a-year job as engineering change coordinator in Ford's Rouge office building in Dearborn since 1958.

In the suit, O'Connell contended he has been kept in the same position despite what he termed excellent ratings in annual job performance evaluations by his supervisors.

The complaint seeks an injunction restraining Ford from discriminating against O'Connell who, the suit contends, was denied upgrading and promotions simply because of his age.

It also asks back pay he has missed by allegedly being denied promotions.

Congress passed an age discrimination and employment act in 1968 prohibiting discrimination against workers aged 40 to 65 in promotions, hiring, pay, discharge and leave.

RUNNING FOR PRESIDENT?

There's Been A Significant Change In Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There has been a significant change in Vice President Gerald Ford.

He shows an awareness that some day he could be President of the United States.

That is easy to say—very difficult to prove. The change has been that subtle. Nevertheless it is true, and recognized as such by those who have seen Ford grow into the office.

It doesn't mean Ford is planning for it, counting upon it, or even thinking very much about it.

It doesn't even mean that he's putting distance between himself and President Nixon on Watergate.

His Own Man
It does mean that Ford is acting more like his own man. By so doing, he is taking precautions so as not to divorce himself from the constituency which some day could be his.

For example: Shortly after taking office, the vice president made a speech prepared in the White House charging that the impeachment drive against the President was sparked by a few wayout groups in American politics.

That speech could demonstrate that Ford was a loyal member of the administration. But it raised dangerous political risks for him in event the impeachment move should end in removal of the President, because in that speech, Ford was separating himself from a large segment of the body politic.

On the other hand, Ford could not let the pendulum swing too far the other way. He is truly the man on the razor's edge.

That he has done in many ways: his blast at the Nixon re-election committee; his implied criticism of the edited transcripts of Nixon's Watergate talks.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market has headed downward in light of the increasing prime rate and little other news to cheer it, according to Merkin & Co. Although some industrial stocks showed some strength recently, "the overall market breadth has been weak with deterioration occurring practically across the board among secondaries."

Speculation recently that the prime rate had reached a peak pushed some stock prices higher, but the revelation the peak had not been reached prompted emotional selling, according to Dean Witter & Co. At present, the firm says, the market "is poised to react quickly in either direction, often on rumor or expectation."

Within the near future, "the stock market will realize with a rush that most common stocks now represent truly outstanding and lasting investment values," according to the Wright Bankers Service. "We are, however, presently continuing to withhold new commitments until growing financial pressures force a reversal of adamantly restrictive Federal Reserve Board monetary policy."

Comparative Market Indicators says it is looking for signs bearish elements on Wall Street have reached a bottom and "we will then reverse our current stance and become aggressively bullish. But, meanwhile, we'll keep our powder dry."

Every indicator of public opinion showed a large and growing number of people wanted Nixon out of the White House. By attacking them, Ford was attacking his possible future constituency.

Can anyone see Ford making such a speech again?

That is the dramatic result of the subtle change. It wasn't necessary for

Ford Co. Employee Files 'Age Discrimination' Suit

DETROIT (UPI) — In what may be the first age-discrimination suit in the country, a Ford Motor Co. employee has filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court contending he was passed over for promotion because of his age.
