Gov. Briscoe Promises New Cut In Taxes

By TEX DEWESE
Gov. Dolph Briscoe, in an address at the Pampa Rotary Club luncheon in Coronado Inn yesterday, told a capacity crowd of the promise he had kept to "break the expanding cycle of new and additional state taxes" and declared next "next year we are going to do it again."

The governor said he was proud of Texas' heritage of fiscal responsibility ... that the state operates on a cash basis.

"If the federal government did the same thing, our economy wouldn't be in the shape it's in today," Briscoe said.

Then he added: "The next step is a tax cut."

He stated that during the next session of the legislature, he will recommend removal of the state sales tax from monthly gas and electric bills.

"The people of Texas are already paying enough for gas and electricity with which to heat and light their homes," he said.

The governor touched on the need to continue efforts to meet the state's water needs for water-short areas and for easing regulations to permit further exploration for oil and gas.

The governor said the world-wide demand for greater supplies of food and fiber pose new opportunities for Texas agriculture.

"Texas ranks third in the nation in agriculture," Briscoe said, "and one of the goals of this administration is to see our state become the number one agricultural producing state in the nation."

He stated Texas also faces a challenge in the field of education for what he termed "an overwhelming need to overhaul our system of state support for public schools."

The governor said the next session of the legislature has an opportunity to go down in history as the "Public Education Legislature."

But in these times," he added, "it's not only an opportunity — it's an obligation."

In closing, the governor said:

"I would like to leave one thought. Our system of government is not perfect, but it is the best ever devised for man to govern himself. Participation of each one of us will determine what we have in store in the future. It is our challenge and our opportunity."

Gov. Briscoe was seated at the speaker's table with State Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon, 13th District congressional candidate, and State Rep. Phil Cates, running unopposed for re-election in the 66th District.

The governor was introduced to the joint Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce audience by Pampa attorney, Jimmy Thompson.

Briscoe gave Cates and Hightower a pat on the back by stating "both are doing a capable an effective job in the State Legislature."

Following his appearance at the civic club luncheon, Gov. Briscoe attended a public reception for him at the First National Bank before leaving for stops in Plainview and Lubbock.

SEN. PELL SAYS

Cuba Changed Greatly From Days Before Castro

Editor's Note: Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., returned Monday from his first visit to Cuba since 1960. He was accompanied by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., on the unofficial visit.

By SEN. C. PELL
(Written for UPI)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba, the tropical island of sugar cane and Castro-brand communism just 90 miles off U.S. shores, has changed greatly from my last trip there in December, 1960.

Cuba today is a country struggling with the usual problems of undeveloped countries — poverty, hunger, inadequate housing, lack of education and health care.

But there are many signs that the elaborate social programs of the Communist system there are working, and that the average Cuban working man and farmer is better off today than he was in the days before 1959 "when the revolution triumphed," as the Cuban Communists continually say.

I last went to Havana as a senator-elect from Rhode Island to see for myself what conditions were like. Last weekend I returned to Havana with Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York — once again to find out what conditions were like.

We were received warmly by Cuban officials, and met for a total of more than 10 hours with the highest government leaders, including Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The biggest change I noticed from 1960 was the almost complete absence of weapons and of policemen on the streets of Havana.

Cars and trucks were in much poorer shape. Many of the cars on the road were badly deteriorated, pre-1960 American models. The modern vehicles we saw were either Russian or Japanese.

At the fishing fleet's repair port, I noticed that the new machinery was Russian-made.

In general, the Russian influence, almost nonexistent 14 years ago, was now very apparent. Havana harbor was filled with Soviet vessels, including modern missile and fishing ships.

In Cuba today clothing and staples are rationed and prices are lower than in this country. Luxury goods, however, are very expensive.

Havana itself is a startling mixture of the old and new. In many places it has the look of a blighted American city in the process of urban renewal.

The Cubans are extremely proud of the great progress they have made in education.

Both the percentage of children who attend school and the rate of literacy have improved greatly since 1959, and modern schools are being built everywhere.

The health care system also has been improved. After 1959 more than half of the island's 6,000 doctors fled.

Today, according to Cuban figures, there are 9,000 doctors with 1,000 more being graduated each year. At present there is one doctor for every 1,000 Cubans.

Our final evening was spent dining and talking with Fidel Castro, a man of curious contrast.

I had expected to find an aging, burly, loud revolutionary. I found instead a relatively shy man, young for his years and softspoken.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyers for former President Richard M. Nixon today formally asked that subpoenas for his appearance to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial be quashed.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who opened the trial of five former Nixon aides Tuesday, said the motions have been filed under seal "until the court has had an opportunity to review them thoroughly."

Herbert J. Miller Jr., Nixon's lawyer, delivered a sealed envelope to Sirica about 11 a.m., refusing to say what was contained in it. Sirica made a two-sentence announcement 45 minutes later.

"The court has received today two motions to quash subpoenas submitted by counsel for former President Richard M. Nixon," the Sirica statement said. "It was expected the motions cited Nixon's health as grounds for quashing subpoenas served on him by both the prosecution and defense in the case. His lawyers said earlier this week that he is too ill with phlebitis to travel for at least one month and perhaps as long as three."

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski suggested last week that Sirica might wish to consider sending a team of doctors to California to examine Nixon before ruling on whether he must comply with subpoenas for his appearance.

Sirica had started the long process of individually questioning prospective jurors for the trial to five former Nixon associates.

Miller's actions came as sources disclosed that another of his clients, Richard A. Moore, a former Nixon aide, had been added as an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up case on the basis of "newly discovered evidence" found in the Watergate tapes.

Sources close to the case identified Moore, 60, whose resignation as White House special counsel was announced Wednesday, as the unidentified 20th name which Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski had added to list of unindicted co-conspirators. Nixon had been listed as one of the original 19 unindicted co-conspirators.

Moore and Miller, acting as his attorney, said they knew nothing about it.

Moore, who had contradicted the testimony of Nixon's chief accuser John Dean in testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee, said he did not know "anything new" either about being named as an unindicted co-conspirator or being subpoenaed to testify.

Miller added, "Mr. Moore has not been named either by the grand jury or the special prosecutor. On the basis of all the information available to me, I do not believe he will be or should be named coconspirator."

In the third day of the trial, Sirica began questioning individually 144 prospective jurors who had been selected during the first two days from a group of 315 candidates. It proved easy.

Five of former President Richard M. Nixon's closest aides — former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, former White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former Assistant Attorney General Robert C. Mardian and reelection lawyer Kenneth W. Parkinson — are charged with conspiracy in the concealing of top-level involvement in the 1972 Watergate bugging.

Nixon's lawyers were expected to report to Sirica today on whether the former President would be well enough to testify at the trial.

The Washington Star-News reported that the lawyers, headed by former Assistant Attorney General Herbert J. Miller Jr., would ask Sirica to excuse Nixon from testifying.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's physician, said in Long Beach, Calif., Wednesday that he would discharge Nixon from the hospital at the end of the week.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski disclosed in a court memo Wednesday that the government has added a 20th name to its list of unindicted co-conspirators.

NBC News reported that the person was former White House Special Counsel Richard A. Moore, whose resignation was announced Wednesday.

Ehrlichman, who was Nixon's former top domestic-affairs adviser, filed a motion contending that the cover-up trial was placing him in unconstitutional double jeopardy.

DELAY BOTHERS HIM

Rockefeller Upset With Confirmation

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nelson Rockefeller Wednesday suggested in his first major speech since nomination as vice president that he is somewhat annoyed with the prospect of Congress delaying his confirmation until after election day.

Filing in for President Ford at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, and here at a meeting of UPI editors and publishers Wednesday, Rockefeller never directly criticized the Democratic controlled House and Senate.

In fact, when asked directly if the delay bothered him Rockefeller responded, "I have total confidence in the committees and in the Congress — whatever their decision may be."

But in his speeches he showed a gentlemanly annoyance at the announced intention of the House Judiciary Committee and the Senate Rules Committee not to take up his nomination before recessing Oct. 11 for elections.

Rockefeller said he was in a "suspended state — I'm almost halfway through hearings that have been suspended until after elections — so I don't know what my status is. So my ability to speak is somewhat limited."

TO ONLY $200,000

Committee Cuts Nixon's Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House that was ready to impeach Richard Nixon has decided that his resignation does not entitle him to $850,000 in public funds for the transition to private life.

It voted 317 to 72 Wednesday for a supplemental appropriations bill which would give Nixon only $200,000 and insisted that no taxpayers' money be used to transport the White House tapes to California.

The House appropriations committee proposed giving Nixon $398,000, but by a 342-47 vote, the full chamber subtracted $145,000 of the $245,000 request for the first six months out of office and by a 321-62 margin, removed $53,000 from the $153,000 earmarked for his second six months.

Both amendments were offered by Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y.

The action was likely to have an effect on the Senate. Its Appropriations Committee scheduled a meeting behind closed doors on its subcommittee recommendations to give Nixon $328,000 in transition money.

The House had little patience with appeals not to punish Nixon for his actions in office.

As Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., asked, "What services can a president who left office under less than honorable conditions provide to the United States?"

The House also adopted an amendment by Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., to prevent any of the appropriated funds to be used for transporting Nixon's tapes and documents.

They are now in government custody but destined for San Clemente, Calif., unless the courts or Congress decide otherwise.

Yates' provision would allow transportation of the material if the possession issue is resolved in Nixon's favor or has not been resolved at all by next June 30.

The House rejected amendments to completely cut off Nixon's funds, to eliminate the remaining $55,000 of his $60,000 presidential pension and to leave him nothing but that pension.

Opponents of the amendments argued that past presidents received healthy transition sums and that Congress should not deny Nixon equal treatment just because he resigned in disgrace.

Some members said it didn't matter what they gave Nixon nothing, because President Ford still has authority to spend funds for Nixon, and already has spent $316,000.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS TOLD

'Let's Keep Within The Budget'

A special called board meeting of the Pampa Independent School District conducted at 4 p.m. Wednesday at Carve Center considered setting values of school property for audit purposes and discussed sticking to the budget.

Dr. Dan Long, school superintendent, requested the board to withhold a decision on the item until the next regular scheduled board meeting Oct. 14.

Dr. Long stated he felt the decision regarding the amount of insurance coverage set on buildings and contents, which has been discussed at a previous meeting would coincide with the figure to be used for audit purposes and that he and his staff needed additional time to make the proper proposal to the board.

This request was granted by the board unanimously.

Next item was an extensive report by Ed Lehnick, athletic director.

Lehnick gave the board a detailed report showing itemized expenditures for all athletic programs.

The board was also furnished a handout report showing the budgeted amount for each sport, number of participants, and the average expended per student. A third handout was provided showing the athletic revenue for all athletic programs, 1952 through 1973.

Board president Paul Simmons stated, in view of the discussion regarding budget and expenditures, it would be in order for the board to make its feelings known that they expected the administration and department heads to live within the confines of the budget and that no budgeted categories be overspent.

Simmons went on to say, "We as individuals must live within a set budget and so must we as a government body. Each budget category will be rigidly adhered to and this board will not tolerate any deviation from it."

The board president also stated the board felt that some administrative personnel or staff has not taken this business seriously enough, as a letter from the Texas Education Agency had been brought to his attention through the school auditor that should have come directly from the administration to the board.

The letter was written prior to Dr. Long's coming here and at this time, so far is known has gone unanswered.

Dr. Long was asked to see if the letter had been answered and to give the board the results of his findings.

Simmons said "We must be informed in order for us to inform the public that we serve, as that is our responsibility as elected representatives of the public."

Harold Comer read Texas statutes that prohibit overspending any budget category and that if it is done, those permitting it are subject to be charged with a misdemeanor, and that school districts can lose state funds as a result.

Comer pointed out that, according to state statutes, if it should become necessary to alter the budget in any manner, an amended budget must be filed with the agency by action of the board.

Sam Anderson and Bill Arrington joined Simmons and Comer in supportive statements regarding the board's intention to make certain this district is in compliance with the laws that govern this body.

Homer Craig, business manager told the board there would be no problem staying within the budget as requested. Previous boards had not said they could not overspend categories, Craig said.

Craig said that for the first time in several years, the board had approved a realistic budget for the district.

The board taped the open meeting for the first time as an official record. It will be kept on file in the superintendent's office. Any person is at liberty to come to the office and hear these meetings if they wish, Simmons said.

The board held an executive session for personnel matters and returned to open session with no action taken.

Board member Curt Beck was out of town on business.

Tickets Still Available For Film Series

Tickets still are available for the first attraction in the Pampa Rotary Club's World of Travel film series to be presented at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium.

The opening presentation will be "The Alpine World, U.S.A.," with Eric Pavel as the narrator.

It is a story of man's relation to nature and wildlife in the Sierra and Rocky Mountains in all four seasons of the year.

The film was produced by Pavel, who will be here in person to bring the beauty and adventure of Alpine World U.S.A.

Rotary Club officials pointed out today that single admission tickets will be available for each of the travel film performances at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students.

Season tickets for all five attractions may be purchased at $7.50 for adults and $5 for students. A family membership for the entire series is available for $20.

The box office will be open at the auditorium for the purchase of tickets before each performance. "It is not necessary to have season tickets to attend," said Charles D. Zlomke, club president. "The season tickets save money for those who plan to attend all five travel presentations."

Let's Ask the Cook

by Nan Wiley

Dear Nan:
Here is the recipe for Italian cream cake I promised to send you months ago when you were autographing your book at a department store. My sister-in-law, Nancy Cox from Morristown, Tenn. gave me the recipe. She is a fan of yours and also an excellent cook and cake baker.

I entered the cake in a Mother's Day cake bake contest at a local shopping center and won first prize. The credit goes to the recipe, however I enjoyed every minute of the excitement.

You will need 1 stick (4 ounces) margarine, 1/2 cup solid vegetable shortening, 2 cups sugar, 5 egg yolks, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup buttermilk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 small can coconut, 1 cup chopped pecans and 5 beaten egg whites. Cream margarine and shortening together with electric mixer; add sugar, beat well. Add egg yolks one at a time. Sift flour and soda together; add alternately with buttermilk. Add vanilla, coconut and chopped pecans. Last, fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into 3 greased and lined bake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until sides shrink from the pans. Set on wire rack to cool before removing from pans.

For filling and frosting you will need an 8-ounce package of cream cheese, creamed with 1/2 stick (2 ounces) margarine. Add a 1-pound box sifted confectioners sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla. When cake is frosted sprinkle top and sides with chopped pecans. Alice Cox, Overland Park, Kansas.

Let me suggest that whatever you use to line the greased pans, waxed paper or brown paper, that should also be greased. Otherwise the waxed paper in particular can be difficult to pull off without breaking the tender cake layers. High altitude cooks should cut the soda according to local customs.

Every 1,000 feet makes a difference. Use eggs directly out of the refrigerator, not at room temperature, to cut down volume.

Dear Nan:
Do you or any of your readers have any salt free recipes that would tempt a small child who also has a limited fluid intake? Mrs. R.L. Brockton, Mass.

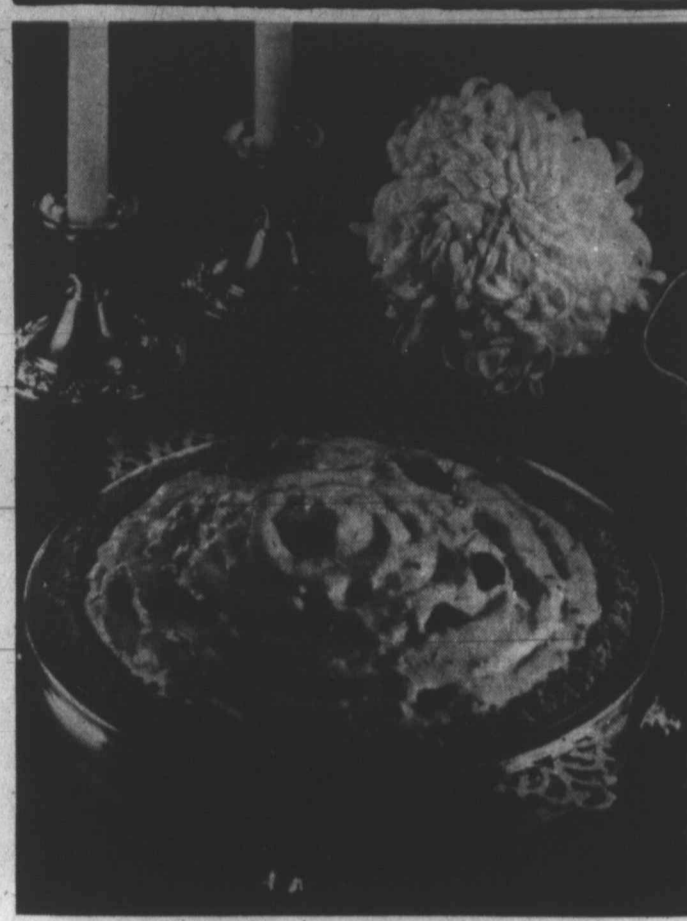

Your doctor has probably given you a list of foods which have some natural sodium content but pretty largely it is a matter of using a salt substitute, not hunting special recipes. Make sure it is totally salt-free, not the one that is half salt, half substitute. Anyone with a high blood pressure problem should stay away from that kind too.

Easy as pie is this one made with yogurt, gelatin, egg whites and frozen berries. Vanilla wafer crumbs mixed with melted butter form the crust.

Pies rank with cakes as one of the favorite desserts throughout the country. When they're as easy to make as this Raspberry Yogurt Pie, they could conceivably dislodge cakes from first place on the list.

Yogurt, that cultured dairy product which now comes in many interesting flavors, is added to chilled gelatin with the fool-proof filling. The result is a delightful close to any hot weather meal.

RASPBERRY YOGURT PIE

- 1 1/2 cups vanilla wafer crumbs (35 wafers)
- 1/4 cup melted butter
- 1 package (10-oz.) frozen red raspberries
- 1 cup boiling water
- 2 packages (3-oz. each) raspberry flavor gelatin
- 1/4 cup raspberry juice
- 2 egg whites
- 2 tablespoons sugar

2 cartons (8-oz. each) raspberry custard-style yogurt

Combine crumbs and butter, blending well. Press the mixture firmly and evenly over the bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate, building up around the rim. Chill. Thaw raspberries; drain, reserving juice. Pour boiling water over gelatin in large mixing bowl; stir until dissolved. Measure raspberry juice; add enough water to make 1/4 cup liquid; add to gelatin. Chill gelatin mixture until set. Make meringue just before the gelatin is to be beaten. Beat egg whites until frothy; add sugar gradually. Beat until stiff peaks form. Beat gelatin in mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Whip in yogurt. Fold in the meringue. Chill until the mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon. Add raspberries. Turn into the prepared crust and chill until firm, 8 servings.

Country Fare Prepared With Convenience Foods

DALLAS — Old-fashioned country fare which can be turned out with modern processed foods will be featured in the TAP Food and Fiber Pavilion at the State Fair this year.

Everything from beans and cornbread to berry cobbler will be prepared by Texas Department of Agriculture home economists and will be displayed for visitors to the Country Store model in the Pavilion. Recipes will be available which show how canned, frozen and other convenience foods can be seasoned and cooked in a short time without losing the flavor of hours of simmering on an old cook stove.

Thirteen menus have been prepared. "All the ingredients are available on any grocer's shelf," said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. "With prices rising these days, more families need to make every supermarket dollar pay in nutrition and flavor. These recipes will help and buying Texas processed foods helps the whole economy."

One inexpensive and easy-to-prepare dinner features Beef Pie made with canned stew and a homemade cheese and onion crust. The pie is served with Parsled Rice, lettuce wedges and Pecan Banana Bread.

BEEF PIE

- 1/4 cup margarine
- 1/2 cups flour
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup (4 oz.) cheddar cheese
- 2 Tbsp. chopped onion
- 1 lb. 8 oz. can stew
- Melt margarine in bottom of 8-inch square baking dish in oven. Combine all remaining ingredients but stew in mixing bowl. Stir well until blended. Pour over melted margarine. Pour stew over batter. Do not stir. Bake at 350 degrees 60-65 minutes. Serves 6.

PARSLED RICE

- 3 cups cooked rice

- 3 Tbsp. fresh chopped parsley
- Cook rice according to package directions. When ready to serve toss with parsley. Serves 6.

PECAN BANANA BREAD

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. soda

- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 cup mashed ripe banana
- 1/2 cup chopped Texas pecans

Cream shortening and sugar; add eggs and beat well. Sift together dry ingredients. Add to creamed mixture alternately with banana, blending well after each addition. Stir in nuts. Pour into well-greased 9x5x3 loaf pan. Bake in 350 oven 45-50 minutes or until done. Remove from pan and cool on rack. Wrap and store overnight.

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK

When I read recently of a U.S. jet crossing the Atlantic in one hour and 56 minutes, I thought of my husband. He could have driven it by car in less time. With kids in the back seat, he said himself he could have shaved a good 26 minutes off the record.

As you may have guessed, transporting children is my husband's 26th favorite thing. It comes somewhere between dropping a bowling ball on his foot and eating lunch in a tea room.

That's why I was reluctant to ask him to pick up my kindergarten car pool last Wednesday at school.

Remember, I warned, knowing of his impatience. They are small children, not mail sacks. That means you have to bring the car to a complete stop and open the door for them. Don't shout and give all six of them a window. Good luck.

An hour and a half later, he staggered through the door.

So what took you so long?

To begin with, old paste breath didn't want to get in the car. He said his mother didn't want him to ride with strangers. Then the name tag that was pinned to what's her name's dress fell off and she didn't know who she was. Debbie cried for three blocks because she left her Donny Osmond lunch box on the swings. Cecil, I guess that's his name, the one who sits there and re-buttons his sweater all the time trying to make it come out even.

That's Cecil, I nodded.

He told me he lives at Dairy Queen.

So what took you so long?

Michael, Michael is the one who took me so long. He said he didn't know me and I wasn't a mother and he wasn't going to tell me where he lived, so to make friends I gave him a taffy sucker. I must have driven around in circles for 30 minutes before he said, "That's my house."

Michael, I said, "We've passed this house 20 times. Why didn't you say something before?"

Because I'm not allowed to talk with food in my mouth," he said. "I swear if I had to drive those kids around every day I'd slip them a little sleeping pill to make them drowsy."

What a shocking thing to say! I admonished, "Don't you realize that pills could be habit forming?"

I didn't think," he mumbled.

Why, the next thing you know parents would be giving them to their children during dinner, while they were on the telephone, watching their favorite TV shows, going on vacations, entertaining."

SAVING GAS CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — The Boron Oil Co. says motorists who buy 1975 model cars may find they get more miles to the gallon of gasoline, but the increase will do little to ease the petroleum shortage.

Beginning with 1975 models, cars will be equipped with catalytic mufflers rather than current pollution control equipment. The change is expected to increase mileage by as much as 13 percent.

However, the oil company said it takes about seven percent more crude oil to produce the unleaded gasoline.

More people are alive today than the total number of people who were alive and have died since the beginning of the Earth.

ENDS SPECULATION Swedish Authors Win Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Swedish authors Eyvind Johnson and Harry Martinson, both relatively unknown internationally, won the 1974 Nobel Prize for literature today.

The 18-member academy cited Johnson, 74, for "narrative art, far seeing in lands and ages, in the service of freedom." The 70-year-old Martinson's citation was for "writings that catch the dewdrops and reflect the cosmos."

Italy Premier Faces End Of Coalition Rule

ROME (UPI) — Socialist leaders told Italian Premier Mariano Rumor today the end of his coalition rule is inevitable, threatening Italy with its worst government crisis since the war and clearing the way for Communist and neo-Fascist gains in new elections.

Aides said the premier was ready to resign in the face of a 21 per cent annual inflation rate, growing unemployment and terrorist bombings throughout the country.

His resignation was expected tonight or Friday, despite a Vatican warning that Italy has "no time to lose" on government crises and a report in a Vatican magazine that "reports of coups — imagined, conceived or actually plotted" added dangerous uncertainties to Italy's future.

The Italian economic situation is in such bad shape the country was recently forced to borrow $2 billion from West Germany.

Political sources said the fall of Rumor's seven-month coalition might prove the worst government crisis in Italy since the fall of Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini 31 years ago.

Politicians said Rumor's resignation was sparked because of a dispute between the Socialists in his coalition who want friendly relations with the Communist opposition, and the Social Democrats who are against it.

Mrs. Ford Gets Better

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford is feeling well enough to start taking note of the thousands of persons who have sent her get-well messages.

President Ford, who visited his wife at the Bethesda Naval Medical Center Wednesday night, said she was "feeling much better." "She felt well enough in fact that we could call all three of our boys: Mike in Boston, and Jack and Steve who are both in Utah," Ford told reporters.

Doctors reported Wednesday that Mrs. Ford was feeling strong enough after her breast cancer surgery to read, watch television and answer some mail. The White House has received about 10,000 letters and cards from well-wishers, according to her press secretary, Helen McCaig Smith.

Most of the notes are from women who also had a breast removed and most are comforting, assuring Mrs. Ford she can live a "normal, long life," Mrs. Smith said.

A thought for the day: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "The fundamental fault of the female character is that it has no sense of justice."

Kidnapers Get Box Of Food

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch walked briskly past the police barricades and stepped toward the Venezuelan Consulate with a box of food and medicine in his hands.

He halted on the sidewalk in front of the besieged building, set the food down by the door and shouted to guerrillas inside for permission to speak with kidnapped American diplomat Barbara Hutchison.

Guerrilla leader Radames Mendez Vargas listened from an upstairs window and then yelled down approval for the two American diplomats to talk.

He sent one of his men out to pick up the box and let Miss Hutchison talk with the ambassador from the darkened vestibule of the consulate.

Miss Hutchison said she was feeling well — under the circumstances — but the guerrilla chief broke in and cut the conversation short.

The drama in front of the consulate came Wednesday night soon after Hurwitch talked the Dominican government into resuming food and medicine shipments to the six guerrillas and their seven hostages.

Pioneer Gives To PUF Drive

Eighty employees of the Pampa branch of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. have contributed $4,000 to the United Fund, it was announced today by Gary Stevens, local manager of the utility company.

"That averages out $50 per employee," Stevens said.

He added that the company contribution of $1,000 brings Pioneer's local total to $5,000.

Four company employees conducted solicitation of the employees. Stevens stated. They were Violet Gordziel, Helen Castein, Red Ballard and Tex Chisum, all members of the Communications Workers of America.

Hours before, a man yelled down from an upstairs consulate window. "For God's sake, do something. We're hungry." The leftist guerrillas seized Miss Hutchison, the U.S. Embassy's public affairs officer, last Friday while she was driving through Santo Domingo.

The leftist brought the 47-year-old diplomat to the Venezuelan Consulate, took over the building and seized six other hostages, including the Venezuelan consul and a Spanish priest.

Police Chief Rafael Guillermo Guzman halted food and water shipments to the consulate Wednesday morning after talks between the government and the guerrillas broke down.

Hurwitch then urged the Dominican government to lift the blockade.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN — More and more consumers are turning to entertainment to enjoy at home. Perhaps because of this, there has been an upsurge in do-it-yourself kits for hobbyists, artists, and home craftsmen who want to produce a useful or decorative item with their own hands.

For whatever reason, do-it-yourself kits can find a tremendous range of packaged kits on the market to satisfy any interest from jewelry making to telescope building, needpointing to greenhouse construction. Children certainly haven't been neglected, either. As a matter of fact, many companies specialize in producing hobby and other do-it-yourself kits for children who want to make their own puppets, doll dresses, or forts, or for older children who may be interested in art, farms, Indian beading or woodworking.

A hobby or craft project can be absorbing when in progress and satisfying when completed. But some consumers have experienced inconvenience or disappointment after purchasing such kits and taking them home.

Complaints range from inadequate or confusing instructions to missing parts, difficulty in completing the project, and inferior quality of finished product.

And some say they find that the parts of the kit when examined at home look nothing like the illustrations that induced them to buy at the store — either in size or quality. Some craft kits are really only big boxes with just a few small parts and substantial amount of "filler" packaging — with lavish oversized, color pictures.

The Federal Trade Commission has been investigating this particular practice of deceptively oversized packaging, known as "slack filling," along with those misleading depictions, and has ordered one craft manufacturer to cease such packaging.

The decision was based on the fact that "slack filling" and oversized illustrations give purchasers the mistaken impression that they are receiving a larger product, or a product of greater volume, than they actually are. This is especially true when children are doing the purchasing.

Some manufacturers claim that "artistic requirements" of telling the product story determine their package size and artwork, occasionally resulting in larger than necessary boxes and illustrations. But the FTC says smaller pictures could do the job just as well, while more accurately reflecting the number and size of the completed products.

However, some consumers may have been responsible for their own dissatisfaction because they didn't take the time to read the product descriptions carefully, to check the illustration for its scale, or to look for a list of included parts before purchasing. Then, when they assembled the "Super-Duper All Purpose Cordless Kitchen Knife" and wanted to test it before going to bed, they discovered the fine print that said "Batteries Not Included."

They may also have found that the colorful picture showing the knife slicing a tomato was drawn four times actual size, and that the only thing their pocket-knife sized tool could handle would be a cherry tomato.

To avoid such problems, the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division recommends that consumers take a few extra minutes to examine the hobby or craft kit they are buying.

Check dimensions or quantities given for the finished item. Do the illustrations seem realistic? Check the package for any disclaimer such as "Illustration one-fourth actual size."

Open the package, if possible, to see that all parts are included and that the quality is as represented. Read the instructions and determine if you need any additional supplies.

If the kit is an expensive one for a product that will receive heavy use, such as a radio or tricycle, is there any guarantee on parts?

If you have a consumer problem, consult our Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

VEGETABLES. Some vegetables, especially tomatoes, develop a metallic taste from a chemical reaction of the food to the lining of an opened can. It's unpleasant, but harmless. Frances Reasonover, food and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, notes:

TO TEST AIR Device Measures Amount Of Gases

HOUSTON (UPI) — A space-developed device for measuring gases on Mars can check earth air for tiny amounts of cancer-causing vinyl chloride, an engineer says.

The device — called a chromatograph — may be necessary to measure the harmful gas severely restricted by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) this week in new rules. OSHA said vinyl chloride causes a rare but fatal form of liver cancer.

OSHA ruled that plastics factory workers can not be exposed to more than one part per million concentration of vinyl chloride in the air over eight hours or 5 parts per million in any 15-minute period.

Gene Manno, general manager of Honeywell Process Analyzer Center in Houston, said his company has developed a chromatograph that can measure less than one part per million maximum and can automatically set off an alarm when the concentration exceeds or nears that danger mark.

"This can be done for virtually any process chemical," Manno said. "It has to be either gaseous or can be vaporized. We could measure gasoline but would have to first heat it and turn it into a vapor."

The OSHA rulings, effective Friday, allow the present 50 parts per million exposure level until Dec. 31 when the new level of one part per million takes effect. Industry claimed during hearings that the low level could not be met and 20 million workers would be thrown out of their jobs.

The chromatographs, Manno said, take a sample of the air, separate the component gases and by measuring the electrical signal can determine the concentration of the gas.

Manno said that industry was already responding to the safety needs of their employers despite the OSHA ruling. He said he has already shipped eight of the units to plastics manufacturers.

Murder Trial Delays Study Of Carrasco

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — A murder trial has forced a postponement of at least one week the grand jury appearance of a ballistics expert who will testify how convict Fred Carrasco died in an abortive attempt to break out of the Huntsville state prison.

District Attorney Jerry Sandel said he was involved in a murder trial and that the grand jury session may be delayed for possibly two weeks until the trial is concluded. The panel originally planned to conclude testimony on the prison break today and send its final report to District Judge James F. Warren next week.

"We had to reschedule everything," Sandel said. "I had witnesses set for Wednesday and Thursday, but I'll have to recontact them now and see when they can appear again."

Carrasco, 34, inmate Rudolfo Dominguez, and two hostages died in a prison shoot out with law officers Aug. 3, ending an 11 day bid for freedom. An autopsy determined the inmates killed their two women hostages but there was conflicting reports on how the convicts died.

A Department of Public Safety lab technician said Carrasco and Dominguez shot themselves and a justice of the peace ruled the deaths suicide. But inmates who witnessed the gun battle, outside the prison library said an officer ran up to the two convicts sprawled on a ramp, kicked off their bullet proof helmets and shot them in the head. The DPS ballistics expert was called to testify what bullets killed the inmates.

The testimony of W.J. Estelle, director of the Department of Corrections, before the Walker County grand jury, also was delayed. He was expected to testify about his negotiations with the inmates during the prison siege. He also was expected to discuss why Carrasco, a narcotics smuggling leader suspected of 50 deaths in Mexico and the United States, was assigned duties as an orderly in the prison chapel. Pistols were smuggled to Carrasco, apparently through the mail in a package marked for the prison chaplain, investigators said.

Operation ID To Cut Burglary Rates

Operation Identification, a special crime prevention project of the Pampa Police Department, is at work cutting burglary rates here in Pampa.

If you own a color television set, stereo, or tape deck and tapes, chances are that this time next year you won't. At least not the same ones.

You'll be out buying new ones to replace those you found missing when you left your doors unlocked "for just a few minutes" to run to the market or pick up the kids at school.

A few minutes — five or less — is all it takes for the average burglar of today to find out if you are at home, pick up a few valuable and easily-resalable items place them in his car and be gone without a trace.

Unless an observant neighbor grows suspicious, calls the police or sheriff's office, takes down his license number, he will be almost impossible to find.

Attempting to find him and returning your stolen items, is currently costing more every year in residential burglaries, and commercial property loss, and uncounted thousands in insurance claims and police salaries.

And all this for a crime that, in addition to being the easiest to commit and the hardest to clear, is also the easiest to prevent.

Operation Identification, originated in 1963 in California, has mushroomed throughout the country as more and more towns and cities across the country have recognized its effectiveness in cutting burglary rates.

With the cooperation of concerned homeowners and businessmen, cutting burglary rates can be remarkable easy. All a homeowner needs to do is borrow a special engraving pen from the Pampa Police Department and mark his valuable items with his driver's license number, such as TX 5551212.

For added security, take photographs, preferably in color, of items too small or delicate to be engraved, such as rings, other jewelry and fine silver of china.

Then display a sticker outside your home or business showing that items inside have been marked. When you do this, you've accomplished several things at one time.

You've advertised to potential burglars that your valuables have traceable identification numbers.

If a burglar should take something in spite of the warnings, you've notified his "fence" that these items are easily traceable and will be extremely difficult to get rid of.

When law enforcement officers locate marked items in the possession of a burglar or fence, there's no question of being able to prove rightful ownership, which aids in the apprehension and conviction of burglars.

And, since driver's license numbers in most states are in computerized banks available in seconds to law enforcement departments, you've made it easy for your property to be returned to you.

Sound simple? It is. And it works. When Chief Everett F. Holladay conceived the idea in Monterey, Calif., in 1963, enthusiasm was low. As burglaries occurred, more and more families signed up until there were 4,000 participating households in a town of 50,000.

Statistics from the National Crime Prevention Institute show that since 1963, only three burglaries have been reported among 4,000 participants in Monterey while 1,800 have been reported from 7,000 non-participating households.

Since then, cities all over the United States have become enthusiastic about Operation Identification as they watch burglary rates drop dramatically. But the success of the program depends on you, the property owner. It will not work unless you do your part in marking your property.

Some frequently stolen items which should be marked include bicycles, television sets, radios, tape recorders, guns, business machines, lawn mowers, hubcaps, stereo tape decks and cartridges, cameras, car wheels, tools and kitchen appliances.

But there's never been a burglary in your neighborhood? Then you're ripe for one — or more. A few hours now spent marking and photographing your property can save you days and even weeks of problems as you hope first for recovery, file insurance claims, and then probably wind up having to replace it all while someone else is enjoying your unmarked equipment — a "bargain" purchased with no suspicion of its being stolen merchandise.

Engravers may be checked out at: Pampa Police Department, Phone: (806) 669-2515.

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — A cog isn't necessarily a gear tooth.

It's also an acronym for a Council of Government. Seventeen such organizations throughout Nebraska are in most of the state's 26 planning and development districts.

Through COGs, local officials can gain knowledge of available funds, share large and expensive equipment with neighboring governments or reduce cost by joint purchasing.

Definite Cure For Arthritis?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thostenon: Is there a definite cure for arthritis? I have an ache from my shoulder down my right arm which seemed to come on suddenly about three weeks ago.

I tried taking aspirin to ease the pain, also went to the local doctor and had cortisone shots which I don't like to continue.

I wear a copper bracelet and also was advised to take cod liver oil. Another neighbor advised taking boiled sea water, and I wonder who is correct.

I am over 80 and walk about three miles a week, having no car. - G.R.

There are two or three things I want to tell you - besides congratulating you on walking that much at the age of 80.

First, let's speak plainly. There is no "definite cure for arthritis." But there are things you can do to help arthritis. More about that later.

Second, are you sure you have arthritis? Did the doctor diagnose it as such? The location, the abruptness of onset, and the use of cortisone raises a question. Maybe it's arthritis, but maybe not, and I wonder whether it is bursitis instead. If so, treatment would not be the same as for arthritis.

As to the copper bracelet, cod liver oil and sea water, none of them will cure arthritis. But those and a lot of other remedies that don't work will continue to be recommended by amateur healers until a "definite cure" does develop. If ever.

This is a human foible which has been observed over the years. As long as there is no specific cure for an ailment, all sorts of "sure remedies" are talked up by friends, neighbors, relatives (and quacks seeking your money) and, in spite of trial and failure, these folklore "remedies" hold their allure.

It's human nature to hope you will be cured by something that somebody says will cure you.

But as soon as a genuine cure - one that really works - comes along, the whole batch of folk remedies quickly disappear.

My advice to you is to check again with your doctor and find out whether your trouble is bursitis or arthritis. If bursitis, then give the arm and shoulder plenty of rest, avoid strain on it, apply heat, and use such medication as your doctor prescribes.

If it is indeed arthritis, the next question is: what kind of arthritis? There are osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, gouty, traumatic, psoriatic, and several other kinds of arthritis. For maximum relief, it is urgent that you know which type.

I don't have space to go into all of them here, but I recommend that you send for my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis." It doesn't promise a cure, because none yet exists. But it will tell you how to prevent it from becoming crippling, and how to be as comfortable as possible.

You can get the booklet by mail - send 35 cents and a long, self-addressed and stamped envelope to me in care of Dr. George C. Thostenon, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Dear Dr. Thostenon: Is coffee bad for angina pectoris? - Mrs. M.S.M.

Caffeine (as in coffee) speeds up the heart action. If coffee drinking is followed by chest pain, then avoid it entirely. Otherwise a single cup at breakfast or dinner would be permissible. Several cups a day should be avoided by angina patients, (but decaffeinated brew can be substituted.)

Dear Dr. Thostenon: Is it dangerous to drink alcoholic beverages when taking Premarin (estrogen) daily? - Mrs. M.S.

No. - I angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition write to Dr. Thostenon in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

 Rev. McLaughlin Leaves Position At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Rev. John J. McLaughlin is finally leaving the White House staff.
 His resignation letter, dated Wednesday and effective Oct. 15, told President Ford:
 "I also take particular satisfaction in my work for your predecessor — whose achievements for the nation and the world will live on in history — at the time when he was facing personal adversity and when the effects of that strain were being felt by the nation."

 He, like all in his order, vowed "perpetual poverty." Yet he has an apartment in the Watergate apartment building and, as a White House speech writer, earned around $32,000 a year. He has declined to say what he does with the money.
 He ran for the Senate from Rhode Island in 1970 in Roman collar and black suit, but when he came to the White House after his defeat by Sen. John Pastore, D.R.I., he began wearing well-tailored, "tasteful" laymen's garb.

McLaughlin, who plans a news conference Friday, was an outspoken and colorful member of the White House staff for three years and three months. He served both as a speech writer and speech maker.
 "Power as an experience is as intense as sex," McLaughlin once told the Washington Post. "Power is more pervasive and unremitting."
 Tall and husky, McLaughlin defended the former President in a booming voice. In May meeting with reporters, he said he wanted to explain the language on Nixon's Watergate tapes.

Candidate Opposes New Gasoline Tax

United Press International
 Democratic comptroller candidate Bob Bullock thinks higher federal gasoline taxes may be all right for the "Republican linsome crowd," but he wants Texans to have a better vehicle.
 "As a vehicle for fighting inflation and reducing consumer needs a gas tax is an Edsel," Bullock said Wednesday. "Nixon tried to drive this last year. It had a flat then and it still does."
 "Apparently the price working people pay to get to their jobs isn't important to the Republican linsome crowd."

Bullock complained a hike in federal gasoline taxes would result in a decline in the state highway fund and gasoline revenues for public schools.
 "My Republican opponent should speak up for the best interest of Texas — now that he lives here — if he realizes the threat a new 10 or 20 per cent federal gas tax poses to fund our schools and highways."

Bullock called on GOP nominee Nick Rowe to urge Ford to avoid imposing the hardships of higher gasoline prices on consumers.

Rowe, meanwhile, announced in a Brownfield, Tex., statement that he plans to make spot audits of state agency's expenditures if he's elected.

"The comptroller should do more than just tell the legislature how much it can spend," Rowe said. "As a statewide elected official, the state comptroller should also be a statewide voice for the taxpayers of this state."

 "As comptroller I will make periodic spot audits of these expenditures and make complete reports on that spending to the taxpayers of Texas. They deserve to know what is happening in every state department and agency because they are paying for it."
 Bullock and Rowe both are seeking to succeed retiring Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, 82, who has held the post for more than 25 years.

Republican lieutenant governor candidate Gaylord Marshall called a capitol news conference to criticize Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby for not taking a stand against labor-backed agency shop legislation.
 "Organized labor in Texas has stated that this will be the main thrust of their efforts in the next legislature," Marshall said. "I want to know how bill Hobby stands on that?"
 Marshall said he would work to kill the legislation, which allows unions to collect dues from nonmembers who receive union benefits.

Louisiana is the nation's leading producer of furs, says the state's tourist commission. It brings in almost 40 per cent of all American pelts.

BESIDE LARGE PIT

Ranchers, Politicians Discuss Kill

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The calf kill was "on" as ranchers and politicians shouted and argued beside an eight-foot-deep pit — the politicians calling for a postponement and the financially strapped cattlemen explaining why 500 month-old animals must be shot to death.

A telegram arrived from Gov. Dolph Briscoe suggesting the ranchers donate unwanted and expensive calves to charity instead of shooting and burying them.

"We could give them to charity but charity couldn't raise them either," said Bill Fanning, who brought six calves to be killed. "They haven't been alive long enough to raise a debt."

"You can't eat these calves now and by the time you raise them to where you can eat them — six months — with all the feed and equipment they're worth less than they are now."

A bulldozer pushed dirt from the depths of the burial pit and the crowd shouted for the machine to stop in order for the speakers to be better heard.

"The price of milk and the price of feed is about the same," said W. L. Payton, Stephenville dairy farmer. "A pound of milk I sell buys me a pound of feed and there's no way you can make it that way."
 "It takes $140 to $150 to produce a calf to six months and at the six months they are being sold for $75."

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White pleaded with the ranchers to reconsider.

"I believe if you go ahead and kill those calves there's going to be such a public reaction that we can't get anything done."

 "I tell you my heart really is with you, but there ought to be a better way."

White called on the cattlemen to give their animals to Boy's Ranch.

"If you donate these calves to a boy's ranch, the government will just have to subsidize those ranches," cattleman W. L. Flowers replied. "We are not here to donate. We're trying to say something else."

Flowers brought two calves to the planned slaughter. He had meant to bring 12 but sold 10 for $5 each Monday.

"We went to Washington and it didn't do us a damn bit of good, so I say we need to kill these calves, set them loose in the streets of Dallas and Fort Worth or something," shouted Ed Black of Hico. "These people don't understand 20 hours every day of working and worry. I say let's put Earl Butz in that hole."

Butz, in Washington, Wednesday estimated 1974 meat imports into the United States at 1.11 billion pounds. There have been no restrictions on meat imports into the United States since mid-1972.

White finally convinced the cattlemen to delay the slaughter for two weeks, but the overwhelming majority of the ranchers who listened predicted the calves would be killed sooner or later.

"Last month I lost $600 and that was the first time in a half a century I have not made a profit," Payton said.

"No, I'm not kidding," Thompkins interrupted. "You come and every newborn calf is yours. If you had a dog and you couldn't feed it and times were hard, wouldn't you get rid of it?"
 "No, I'd give it away," Mrs. Gardner said.
 "If you could find someone to give it to ..."

"The exchange between Nita Gardner of Santo and rancher Harry Thompkins, a former champion rodeo performer and now a beef raiser, typified the day."
 "Why don't you sell those calves to me?" Mrs. Gardner asked Thompkins.
 "You come out to my place and I'll give those calves to you," he replied.
 "You're kidding, of course, but ..."

"No, I'm not kidding," Thompkins interrupted. "You come and every newborn calf is yours. If you had a dog and you couldn't feed it and times were hard, wouldn't you get rid of it?"
 "No, I'd give it away," Mrs. Gardner said.

Pirates Capture Crown

United Press International
The Pittsburgh Pirates had it coming to them but, really, the St. Louis Cardinals deserved a better fate.

Losers of a National League playoff series on Bob Moose's wild pitch in 1972 and then torn apart by the tragic death of Roberto Clemente in an airplane crash a few months later, the Pirates struggled through the last two seasons seemingly a team which would never get a break.

And then Wednesday night they got one of the biggest breaks in baseball history — and suddenly the NL Eastern Division race was over. The Pirates were the winners and the Cardinals were left in Montreal holding their plane tickets.

This is a team which scored the tying run with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning on a strikeout.

SPORTS

The Pampa Daily News
Pampa, Texas 68th Year Thursday, Oct. 3, 1974

It was the biggest break any team ever got since Mickey Owen of the Brooklyn Dodgers committed a passed ball in the ninth inning of the fourth game of the 1941 World Series, enabling the New York Yankees to win the game and go on to take the Series.

Steve Swisher, the Chicago Cubs' catcher, is the man whose name will be forever linked with that of Owens. It was he who let the game-ending strikeout, which would have given the Cardinals a life, get away. He then compounded the mistake by making a wild throw to first base which let Bob Robertson reach second game of the season rescheduled for Thursday. The Cardinals battled their way through the stretch, winning extra-inning after extra-inning game. In the end, they never had a chance to win or lose it for themselves.

Among the footnotes to the history made, Ramon Hernandez was the Pirates' winning pitcher and Ken Frailing lost for the Cubs.

Atlanta defeated Cincinnati 13-0. Los Angeles downed Houston 5-4. Philadelphia shaded New York 3-2 and San Diego drubbed San Francisco 9-5 in other NL games.

Hank Aaron hit the 20th homer of this season and the 73rd of his career and also raised his career hit total to 3,600 as Phil Niekro pitched a four-hitter for his 20th victory for the Braves. The Dodgers scored their 102nd victory by beating the Astros.

REGULAR SEASON OVER

Baltimore, Oakland Remain Alive

United Press International
Over.
For the New York Yankees it was. For Al Kaline it was. For Ken Aspromonte it was. For everyone in the American League it was — everyone that is except the Baltimore Orioles and the world champion Oakland Athletics.

For all intents and purposes, the 1974 American League baseball season ended Tuesday night when the New York Yankees dropped a 3-2, 10th inning decision to the Brewers in Milwaukee, but on the final day there were still a few items left on the agenda.

For one thing, the Orioles needed to prove that they didn't back into the Eastern Division championship after the Yankees' loss the night before. They proved it — beating Detroit 5-4 for their ninth straight victory down the torrid stretch run. Thus the Yankees' 2-1 season finale win over the Brewers was academic. No matter what had happened the night before, the Yankees would still be No. 2 today instead of No. 1 because the Orioles simply didn't know how to lose when it all counted.

As for Kaline, his brilliant 22-year career, which featured a batting title at 24 in 1955 and 3,007 hits all told, also was over. Sad, well yes. But even sadder was that it ended with boos instead of cheers.

The 39-year old future Hall of Famer removed himself from the game in the fifth inning of the Tigers' loss to the Orioles despite having perhaps two more shots at his 400th career homer. The 4,671 fans on hand greeted that decision with boos as Kaline, on his final day in the major leagues, went 0-for-2 — finishing with a 297 lifetime average.

"I was just punching the ball up there," Kaline said. "There was no way I could hit the 400th home run. I told Ralph (Houk) I couldn't swing and to take me out of the game."

The Orioles, meanwhile, chalked up their fifth division title in six tries to an old familiar trademark — the kangaroo court, a clubhouse justice system that Frank Robinson instituted in his early seasons with Baltimore to keep the team loose. A mock trial takes place after every game with players fined various token amounts for errors — and rewarded for good plays.

Elsewhere in AL action, Chicago edged Kansas City 5-4, Texas nipped Minnesota 2-1. Cleveland outslugged Boston 8-6 and California edged Oakland 3-2.

District Play Begins For 4 Area Teams

By PAUL SIMS
District warfare starts Friday night for four Class A area teams — White Deer, Canadian, Wheeler and McLean — which will really suffer if they happen to lose in their respective openers as Texas schoolboy football moves into its fourth weekend.

There are still several non-conference games to be played, including three involving area teams this weekend. But for Districts 1-A and 2-A, it all counts from now on. White Deer hosts Stratford and Canadian entertains Sunray in 1-A clashes, and McLean visits Silvertown and Wheeler hosts Claude in 2-A battles.

In other games, Dalhart is at Perryton and Miami is at Lefors Saturday. Groom hosts the Pampa junior varsity McLean, Perryton and Lefors start at 7:30 p.m., while the others have 8 p.m. kickoffs.

In District 1-A this season, balance is the name of the game but that balance starts with the lower four teams — Canadian, White Deer, Sunray and Gruver. The other teams — Stratford and Stinnett — are overwhelming favorites, and a loss by any of the four underdogs could be very damaging.

However, Canadian, White Deer and Sunray are all threats, which was evident in non-district play. Sunray finished with a 3-1 record while the others were 2-2 and both defeated good teams in their final game (Canadian downed Panhandle, White Deer beat Lefors).

And then there's Gruver, the most surprising team in 1-A in non-conference games. Gruver somehow managed a 3-1 record, which included a 20-6 win over Lefors.

The story in 2-A is practically the same. For Wheeler (1-3) and McLean (0-3), a loss would be crippling since those two are in the same district with Memphis and Clarendon, either of which is liable to go unbeaten in loop play.

And Shamrock is powerful enough to do the same, given a few breaks.

Sunray at Canadian
Sunray as picked to finish fourth prior to the season, and the mediocre rating was based on the Bobcats' lack of size. But Sunray has shown thus far that you can make up for no size with quickness, the Bobcats' No. 1 asset. Quarterback Alan Hunnicutt, (150), halfback Tommy Cartrite (15) and linebacker Ronnie Woodall (155) are as good as you'll find in this area and are going to make the Bobcats a threat.

Canadian has struggled so far, evident with its 2-2 record, but has won its last two games and is showing signs of returning to its strength of a year ago. Quarterback Lonnie Hines is getting better all the time, and halfbacks Kevin Wilson and Marty Carr are starting to give the Wildcats their usually potent running game. Last week in Canadian's 22-17 win over Panhandle, the Cats ground out 308 yards on the ground, including 130 by Hines and 105 by Wilson.

Which cat is stronger? Wildcats by four.

Stratford at White Deer
The Elks nearly won the District 1-AA title a year ago and have now dropped one classification, which has made Stratford a powerhouse in Class A. The Elks are blessed with the likes of quarterback Mark Beatty, probably the fastest signal caller of Class A.

Panhandle teams linebacker Steve Coats and tackle Ricky Reed (183).

White Deer showed its potential in a 20-12 loss to tough Clarendon and last week in a 12-12 victory over the Lefors Pirates. The Bucks have come a long way from what they were last year and, with players like quarterback Dan Cathey, backs Denny Moss and Billy Lynch and linebacker John Keeton, they're going to go a lot further before the season's over.

The Battle of the Deer — in nature, an elk would defeat a buck. So — Stratford by 15.

Claude at Wheeler
Claude is down from last year, when the Mustangs were 2-A co-champs. Claude's best athlete is sophomore quarterback Jeff Forbes. The Mustangs were 7-3 last year and way ahead of the pace they're setting this season, so far struggling to a 1-2 record.

Wheeler's only win was a 25-20 win over Lefors in the opener, but don't think the Mustangs aren't one of the better teams in 2-A. Halfback Kent Ware, line man Jim Verden and linebacker Dale Helton are quality athletes. The Mustangs had problems with Groom last week, losing 42-13, but count on them bouncing back this week.

Wheeler by five.
McLean at Silvertown
The McLean-Tigers are off to a slow start after having been crippled by injuries to key players. Defensive back Curtis Simpson, tackle — fullback Eddie Estes and halfback Ronnie Heasley are taking up the slack for Randy Hicks' Tigers.

Silvertown, 1-2, has a talented backfield, consisting of quarterback Zane Mayfield, halfback Dean Ziegler and fullback Ken Woods. But the talent doesn't go much further as the Owls are off to another mediocre start and things don't look much better their remaining seven games.

McLean's injured and most people are betting on Silvertown in this one. So how 'bout an upset — Tigers by three.

Dalhart at Perryton
The Wolfpack tied for the 1-AA championship with Spearman last year and have returned four offensive and five defensive starters off that team. Three of those — linebacker Mike Slaton, guard Kevin Green and end Jason Robertson — were all district choices and give Dalhart 2-2 the potential to cop 1-AA honors again.

But Dalhart will have tough going this week, facing the 1-AAA Perryton Rangers, who are 2-2 after playing four quality teams. Among those opponents was Borger, which lost in the season opener. Chuck Bohner, who rushed for 91 yards against the powerful Pampa Harvesters, is probably the best halfback in AAA in the area, and quarterbacks Richard Bates and Russ Reagan, who will alternate series, are good run-pass threats.

Miami at Lefors
The Miami Warriors are winless in three games but have the material to snap the skid against any opponent, including Lefors. Quarterback Danny Gilliland, halfbacks Ken Jenkins and Kirk Flowers, and guard Rusty Early beef up the Miami offense, which is starting to show promise. Miami of District 2-B, 8-man will be playing an 11-man contest this week, giving the Pirates an advantage.

Lefors lost to White Deer, 13-12 last week and has only acquired a 1-3 record so far. But head coach Leonard Tolbert says, "We saw the potential for the first time," regarding last week's loss. Fullback Barney Sawyer, who did not play offense last week because of a hip pointer, is a probable starter against Miami and should greatly help the Pirates' so far inconsistent running game. Quarterback Greg Beck and defensive end Bobby Dunn are two other stalwarts.

This one's a mismatch — Lefors by 20.

Dallas Inks Kicker

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys Wednesday released kicker Mac Percival, who had hit on only 2-of-8 field goal attempts in the first three games of the season, and signed rookie free agent Efen Herrera, a Mexican native who graduated last year from UCLA.

SALARIES TO GO DOWN?

Sports Hurt Lately By Small Crowds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Professional sports already have begun to hurt, and regardless of the different reasons being offered, one certainly has to be the shaky economy.

That could mean one thing: It's only a matter of time until player salaries suddenly start going the other way, meaning downward.

Maybe you didn't pay much attention to Tuesday night's attendance figure at Madison Square Garden where the Portland Trail

Blazers, showing off big Bill Walton for the first time in the Big City, beat the New York Knicks.

Only 7,806 showed up. It was the smallest crowd in the new Garden since it opened six years ago, and although it was an exhibition game, the meager turnout was noticed by many in the NBA. Some of them easily could be excused for wondering how the Buffalo Braves or any other club were going to keep paying someone like Ernie DiGregorio $460,000 a year, good as he is, if this type of trend continues.

Normally, the Dallas Cowboys draw between 50,000 and 60,000 anytime they play at home in Texas Stadium. Last Sunday they didn't. They played before their smallest home crowd in nine years. The Cowboys drew only 45,353 for a contest with the New York Giants.

Some probably will argue that two ball games, any two, do not constitute a true barometer of what to expect in the future. But it can be argued that this pair of contests aren't really just any two.

Generally you can't get a seat to a Knicks' home game. In Dallas, Cowboy football frequently is equated in the same terms with religion and sometimes religion pulls up in second place.

Tex Schramm, the Cowboys' president and general manager, conceded the economy was one of the reasons responsible for Sunday's disappointing crowd.

In that context, it should be pointed out that most of the Cowboy tickets go for $8 and $5 and are not anywhere near the highest priced in the NFL.

Knicks lost many fans to the Yankees that night because he figured they stayed home in front of their tv sets to see if the Yanks could remain in contention against the Brewers in Milwaukee.

"I went up to my office to watch the game myself after our game," Burke said. "I don't begrudge for five or six thousand fans we lost to the Yankees that evening. I was rooting for them myself."

Burke said he thought the loss of Willis Reed, Dave DeBusschere and Dean Meminger also was a factor in the poor turnout. How about the loss of Jerry Lucas?

"Nahh," said Burke. "He didn't do a damn-thing for us last year. I honestly think our crowds will hold up this year. There's no question that without Willis and without DeBusschere we're not as strong a team as we were, but at the same time we have the Fraziers, Jacksons, Bradleys, Monroes and the others, and we can still be a good team. I think we can still make the playoffs."

Eight Rocky Mountain states have only 4 per cent of the nation's population, but they contain 24 per cent of its lands and 12 per cent of all roadway miles.

Robinson Named Today

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Frank Robinson was scheduled to be introduced today as playing manager of the Cleveland Indians, a launching pad from which he can achieve a number of distinctions in the next 12 months:

—He will become the first black major league manager in baseball history.

—As designated hitter, he can reach his stated goals of 3000 career hits and 600 home runs, a twin plateau equaled only by Henry Aaron and Willie Mays.

—He could become the first manager to lead the Indians to a World Series since 1954.

Before the 10 a.m. (EDT) new conference, Robinson said, "I will say it is not so important being the first black in history to be named manager, but to manage."

Managing is the important thing with me, not managing because I am black. Of course being first is special, but it's not the most important thing."

Tom McCraw, a veteran utility man expected to be named a playing coach, and a black, saw it differently.

Frank is not just managing a ball club. He isn't managing for himself, either. He is managing for all black people, and the future of all blacks depends on how good a job he does," McCraw said.

McCraw said the Indians are an ideal club for Robinson to lead under the circumstances.

"It won't make any difference to this club because of all the young kids. They don't care so much about the color of skin as do older players who grew up in a different time," said McCraw.

WILDCAT HALFBACK — Junior halfback Kevin Wilson, 130 pounds, will be among the Canadian Wildcats in action Friday night as they host Sunray in both teams' District 1-A opener. Both the Wildcats and Bobcats were ranked highly in pre-season polls. White Deer hosts Stratford in another key 1-A showdown.

Hank Quitting Atlanta Braves But Indicates Switch To AL

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron apparently has ended his National League baseball career after 21 seasons but has indicated he may attempt to add to his home run record next season in the American League.

The 40-year-old home run champ closed out his playing days with the Braves on a dramatic note Wednesday night, slashing his 733rd home run down the left field line in his final at bat of the season.

"Knowing that was the last time, as an active player, I'll be playing in Atlanta Stadium, I'm glad I had a home run in my last appearance," said Aaron.

"Sure, it's going to be my last game in Atlanta, no question about that."

But in reply to a question as to whether 733 would be his last major league home run, Aaron said, "I might hit my last one against Cleveland or Chicago (the White Sox). Who knows? I don't know. It all depends."

Aaron said the home run, his 20th, thus making him the only one to hit 20 or more homers 20 straight seasons.

"I don't enter into my future plans at all. I always like that element of surprise. I like to surprise people. They expect me to say one thing and I say another."

Aaron said he will announce his decision to either retire or play again next year "in about 10 days. I hope something happens by then. I've got some things I need to do the next few days, then I'll stay home and try to think things over."

Aaron was asked if he would be happy as a "designated hitter" in the American League.

"I don't know, that's one of the things I have to think over."

Then, he was asked if he would like to play for the Milwaukee Brewers.

"I can't say," Aaron replied. "I'm still the property of the Atlanta Braves."

Aaron, needing one home run to tie Babe Ruth (714) when this past season began, hit his 714th in his first swing of the season (at Cincinnati) and his 733rd on his last swing of the season (against Cincinnati).

"I planned it that way," Aaron quipped with a wide grin. "That's the only way to start and finish a season."

Aaron missed 50 games and only pinch-hit in at least 17 others this past season and his .268 average and his 69 RBIs and 20 homers added up to his least productive season since he was a rookie in 1954.

Miller Trying For 9th Win Of Year As Sahara Invitational Starts Today

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Houston's John Mahaffey opens defense of the only PGA tournament title of his young career today but nobody will be paying any attention to him.

Mahaffey, 26, and the other golf pros entered in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational will be second bananas to blond-haired Johnny Miller, who is bidding for his ninth win of the year.

The 27-year-old Miller is fresh from winning the Kaiser International Open at Napa, Calif., last weekend to boost his 1974 earnings to $346,933, a single season record.

A field of 144 tee off today over the par 71, 6,800-yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course. Mahaffey won last year with a 271, 13 under par and two shots off the course record set by Billy Casper in 1965.

Miller won the first three tournaments of the year in January and he has scored three victories the past six weekends. His eight wins this year represent the single season high since Arnold Palmer bagged eight in 1960.

Only two men have won more — Sam Snead with 10 in 1950 and Byron Nelson with 18 in 1945.

Miller, an elder of the Mormon Church and a father of three, had a hole-in-one at Napa and he won there by eight shots, matching Lee Trevino's victory at New Orleans in March for the biggest margin of victory for the year.

Although he hasn't won a major title this year, Miller said, "I wouldn't trade 1974 for one major tournament victory. To me, every victory is a big one."

Miller, a nondrinker and a nonsmoker, is in his sixth year on the tour and had only three wins before 1974, including the U.S. Open last year at Oakmont, Pa. The 6-2, 170-pounder former Brigham Young University All-America plans on playing in one more event — the final stop of the '74 tour later this month, the Disney World Team Championship, with Grier Jones.

Jack Nicklaus, whose 1972 money mark of $320,542 was broken by Miller, isn't here but the field does include Dave Stockton, J.C. Snead, Jerry Heard and Tom Watson, the Nos. 5, 7, 8 and 9 money winners this year.

Although he hasn't won a tournament in 1974, Mahaffey is having his best year ever and has earned $115,210 to rank 17th in earnings.

The Sahara and $125,000 San Antonio-Texas Open Oct. 17-20 are the only two events left on the PGA calendar which will count on the official money list.

Dodgers Clip Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Lee Lacy doubled home John Hale with one out in the 10th inning to snap a 4-4 tie and give Los Angeles its 102nd and final regular season victory Wednesday night as the Dodgers defeated the Houston Astros 5-4.

Dodger Manager Walter Alton, whose team won the National League West pennant Tuesday night, rested his regulars for Saturday's start of the playoffs against Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles substitutes, though, did not hold a 3-1 Dodger lead in the fifth inning, which would have recorded a tidy Messersmith's 21st victory.

Instead, Houston scored two runs off reliever Al Downing in the sixth to tie the score 3-3 on run-scoring singles by Cesar Cedeno and Cliff Johnson. Greg Gross' triple in the seventh drove in Roger Metzger for a 4-3 Astros' lead.

The hit was the second of three for Gross, a rookie who set a Houston Astros single-season record of 184 hits.

Los Angeles scored the tying run on Tom Paciorek's sacrifice fly in the ninth, and won it in the 10th on Hale's single and Lacy's double.

FRUSTRATING CAMPAIGN

Law Officers Have Difficulties Curtailing Flow Of Narcotics

EDITOR'S NOTE: This fifth story on organized crime examines the hard but often frustrating campaign against narcotics dealers being waged by all Texas law enforcement authorities. Organized crime specialist Captain K.A. Bung of Corpus Christi and Lieutenant Charles Doerr of San Antonio describe the difficulties of curtailing the flow of narcotics past Texas' borders.

The 12 stories in this

RESEARCH-LAB
OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission has signed a new five-year contract with the University of Tennessee for operation of its animal research laboratory here. The research is a continuing effort to determine the effects of nuclear radiation on animals and plants.

Vermont is bordered by water on two sides: the Connecticut River on the east and Lake Champlain on the west.

public education program are based on interviews with state law enforcement officials and representatives from the ten Texas Organized Crime Task Forces. The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, co-chaired by DPS Director Colonel Wilson E. Speir and Attorney General John Hill, sponsored the series in conjunction with the Governor's Criminal Justice Council, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Texas Department of Public Safety, the office of the Attorney General of Texas, and local law enforcement agencies.

AUSTIN — Not long ago a truck met with an accident near Austin. After the driver had fled, Texas Department of Public Safety officers were surprised to discover six tons of marijuana on board, hidden beneath a shipment of pineapples and cabbage.

With great regularity other law enforcement hauls of illegal drugs and narcotics are made from private automobiles and airplanes. The origin of such shipments is nearly always the Mexican border.

All of the trading is not done for cash. If a crime ring is organized well enough, automobiles and pickup trucks from the United States have a ready market when traded for narcotics on the Mexican border.

The drug traffic from Mexico has a shotgun effect all over the United States, commented Capt. K.A. Bung, head of the Nueces County Organized Crime Unit which is waging a hard but often frustrating campaign against narcotics dealers.

"All Texas coastal cities are vulnerable spots for the transfer of narcotics into Texas and on out of the state," Bung said.

He described such activities as "the biggest problem involving organized crime in Corpus Christi."

Corpus Christi is an ideal spot for a seller to meet a purchaser after leap-frogging over the check points which run several miles into Texas from the U.S.-Mexico border.

"We have excellent connections and it's a simple matter to fly the drugs just about anywhere in the country," Bung said.

"Distribution of narcotics moves into the realm of organized crime when these people fly in with large amounts of money and take out large amounts of drugs to major cities elsewhere," he pointed out.

Narcotics shipments travel through Texas by road, too.

Lt. Charles Doerr, chief of the Bexar County Organized Crime Control Bureau and former head of the City of San Antonio Narcotics Bureau, described it this way:

"When you look at a map of the Texas highway system and you notice that when you leave Laredo, Eagle Pass or Del Rio, you have to come through San Antonio to get to Dallas or Chicago or anywhere north. A supply will come through Bexar County and change hands. The next time it shows up, it's in Dallas or maybe Miami."

In some instances, the distribution of narcotics is tied closely to Texas commercial auto theft rings.

J.M. Ray, chief of Criminal Law Enforcement, Texas Department of Public Safety, reported that organized rings are taking pickups and passenger cars down to the border and trading them for narcotics. A vehicle that sells for $4,000 here, goes for $5,000 across the border.

Organized crime specialists in Texas are quick to note the increased cooperation among state and federal authorities in curtailing the flow of narcotics past the international border.

Lt. Doerr said it's often just a matter of talking to one another.

"Our communications have improved so much that we are far more able to pinpoint and halt illegal drug activities than we once were," he explained. "There is a far greater exchange of information among the local, state and federal officials as well as greater awareness and cooperation on the other side of the border."

Dear Consumer

Before You Buy A Microwave Oven

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Consumers who have seen advertisements for microwave ovens sometimes ask me for advice. To learn more myself, I asked my staff to develop some buying guides about this different kind of appliance. Here are some suggestions worked out with the help of industry and utility specialists:

- Read various manufacturers' manuals of instructions and recipes. Learn what each model offers, what wiring or special utensils it may require and what timing to expect from it (about four minutes for one potato, for instance, but about eight minutes for two potatoes).
- Examine various models. Will you want a tabletop (portable) oven or a full-size range (containing both microwave and conventional ovens)? A portable plugs into any household outlet but needs its own 110-120-volt circuit to work efficiently. A full-size range needs a separate 220-volt line.
- Understand what guarantees and warranties each manufacturer offers.
- Ask about cost of replacing magnetron (vacuum tube that generates microwaves) and other parts.
- Ask whether technicians are available to provide servicing and what rates they charge.
- Consult your local utility company for guidance on energy-saving aspects. Will a microwave oven save energy on all cooking chores, compared with a conventional oven? Would you save more energy with a higher-wattage or a lower-wattage model? What might your average yearly energy savings be with a microwave oven compared with energy used by a conventional oven?
- Consider pros and cons of waiting to buy a model with additional safety interlock features. Food and Drug Administration's deadline for these additional features was August 7, 1974, but there will be a time lag before these models reach stores.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, October 5
Your birthday today: You'll remember this as "the year everything happened." Decide when to jettison whatever has outlived its place in your life. Keep things simple. Obligations undertaken now become grave burdens later. Today's natives know intuitively that success is mostly systematic hard work plus a touch of luck (which isn't really that at all).

Aries [March 21-April 19]: In today's revisions of local statistics, everybody has to contribute something beyond cash. In-laws show unexpected responses. Be prepared!

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: What would have been just the thing to do under recent conditions isn't so now. Don't be stubborn about necessary changes and discussions.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Your creative side leads you into adventures nobody anticipates. Be explicit in telling people just what you want them to hear. Romance thrives.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Work now proceeds apace on confidential projects. Deal with institutions and their accounts by mail. Home life is better; share the joy!

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Keep budgets intact and your affairs disentangled from the enterprises of friends. Romantic attraction is quite strong.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Earning capacity increases at a good rate. A once-successful contact can be renewed. Bridge the gap between your wishes and the preferences of friends.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Be definite in your demands, even where you have doubt of what may come of them. Advice from experts is merely a basis for your own study.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Instead of a head-on confrontation, sort out minor issues one by one, tidy them up piece by piece. The big questions are thus open to solution.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: It's a time for evolving relationships. You have more friends than you knew but some clashes exist—learn to cope with this reality.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: The day includes physical labor, perhaps a great deal, but nothing else quite works out for your success. Check facts and figures as you go.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Professional advice is helpful but is only one factor. Today is a grand time for intellectual explorations. Pursuit of romance.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Your enthusiasm for tackling budget revisions should attract some cooperation. Communications are confused, but the general scene is good.

... it tells you how

BOILING WATER
If you can boil water, you can eat a hearty and nourishing breakfast every day of the month for less than 7¢ a throw. What's more, the meal will be steaming hot and waiting for you each morning when you get up!

The secret is whole wheat and an inexpensive one-quart thermos bottle. (A thermos with a wide mouth is the easiest to use, but a narrow-necked bottle can be pressed into service if necessary.)

Each evening, as you do your supper dishes, put two ounces of whole wheat into a pan. Cover the grain with a pint of water and heat the liquid to boiling. Then pour the wheat and bubbling fluid into your thermos, cap the bottle and lay the container on its side. As the slowly cooling water gradually cooks the grain throughout the night, the wheat will swell and tend to clog up in the bottom of your "fireless cooker" if the thermos is left sitting upright. By laying the bottle down so that its contents are spread evenly throughout the length of the thermos, however, this problem is eliminated.

Dish out the steaming wheat in the morning (the two ounces of hard kernels will have expanded into nine ounces of fluffy, soft cereal), top with a chunk of butter or margarine and a pinch of salt (or sliced green peppers or whatever suits your fancy) and dig in!

Whole wheat should cost you—even now, in late 1974—only 17¢ a pound (in bulk) to 30¢ a pound (by the pound) from a natural foods store or co-op. If you use two ounces a day, four pounds of the grain (68¢ to $1.20 worth) will last a little over a month. Figure in a pound of butter or margarine and a little salt... and—even at the higher price—four full weeks of steaming, stick-to-the-ribs breakfasts will set you back only about $2.00!
