Israelis Kill Guerrillas Near Lebanon Border

United Press International
An Israeli patrol killed four heavily armed Arab guerrillas in a shootout Saturday near a settlement along the Lebanese border only hours before Israel received back the last of its prisoners of war known to be in Arab hands.

Two pilots were exchanged for 13 Lebanese civilians who had been seized by Israeli troops in retaliation for an earlier guerrilla raid into Israel.

The guerrilla infiltration was reported by the Israeli high command as Israel began pulling out its troops and weapons from two slivers of land on the October war battlefield in the first stage of disengagement from the Syrians on the Golan Heights front.

The Israelis began pulling out from the southeasternmost corner of the bulge they thrust into Syria during the war and from another sliver of captured territory north of the Quneitra-Damascus Highway, the military source said.

The southeastern corner, protruding like a nose, marks the farthest Israeli penetration into Syria. An official source said the nose will be entirely cut off by the withdrawal, marked by a line running southwest from Tel Shams to the southern boundary of the salient.

Israeli military sources said the first disengagement phase will end in four or five days when the Syrians will have withdrawn from one sector. Both sides must be behind their new lines by June 25.

In Damascus, U.N. sources said the implementation of the accord worked out in negotiations by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was proceeding "well and fast" and might even be completed ahead of schedule.

Units of the U.N. Disengagement Observer Force were taking over the areas evacuated by the Israelis, the sources said. The entire 1,240-man U.N. force arrived in the Golan Heights Friday.

The Israeli military command said the gunbattle with the guerrillas occurred near the settlement of Adamit, 1 1/2 miles south of the Lebanese frontier.

Adamit is about five miles northwest of Maalot and 23 miles southwest of Qiryat Shemona, the scenes of earlier guerrilla attacks. There was no indication of where the guerrillas shot Saturday were heading.

Each guerrilla carried Sovietbuilt submachine guns, grenades, medical supplies and propaganda leaflets of the Al Fatah guerrilla organization, it said.

A few hours later two Israeli pilots, the last prisoners known held by the Arabs, were returned by Lebanon in exchange for the release of 13 Lebanese civilians captured by Israel during a retaliatory raid following a guerrilla massacre. Israel, meanwhile, was preparing to give up Syrian territory in the southern sector of the salient it captured last October in accord with the disengagement agreement worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

In Cairo, Palestinian leaders, although not mentioning the Soviet Union by name, called upon it to curb emigration to Israel.

The 140-member Palestine National Council ratified a program leaving the door open for Palestinian participation in the Geneva Middle East peace conference and calling for establishment of a Palestinian state on the Jordanian West Bank and Gaza Strip if Israel withdraws from these areas.

U.N. Secretary General

Kurt Waldheim, meanwhile, conferred Saturday with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat at Alexandria. He leaves Sunday for the Sudan on a continuation of his Middle East tour.

The Tel Aviv command said soldiers patrolling near the northern town of Adamit, 1 1/2 miles from the Lebanese border, shot and killed infiltrating Arab guerrillas during the early morning hours.

The contract was renewed last February by a 3 to 2 vote of the board which at that time was comprised of Bob Carmichael, president; Warren Hasse, Mrs. Dorothy Stowers, Curt Beck and Paul Simmons. Simmons and Beck voted against the contract extension.

In April, Hasse wound up his term on the board and Mrs. Stowers lost her bid for election at the April 6 school balloting.

Two new members were elected to the board. They were Bill Arrington and Sam Anderson. Carmichael, Beck and Simmons remain as hold-overs to make up the current five-member board.

The board will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Carver Center.

The agenda released Friday states an executive session may be called to discuss personnel matters.

recommened with a four-cent tax decrease from the present rate, due to increased valuation and increased state income.

At Monday's meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Carver Educational Service Center, the board is also due to consider employment and resignations of professional and auxiliary personnel.

Also on the agenda are:

1. Expansion of recreational program.

2. Broadcasting of school athletic events.

3. Student fees (with recommendation of an increase from $3 to $4 per elementary student).

4. Selection of auditor to begin work end of June, verifying tax collections.

5. Approval of application for food commodities made available to the State Department of Public Welfare by US Dept. of Agriculture.

6. Approval of James E. Trusty, assistant superintendent, as authorized representative of Pampa ISD for the 1974-75 school year.

The agenda also notes that, following action on routine matters, the board may go into executive session, from which the public is barred. This would be for decisions and final action on personnel matters.

Following the executive meeting, the board would then re-convene and announce official action taken during the closed session.

TO SUPERINTENDENT
School Board President Denies Contract 'Offer'

By TEX DEWEESE
Persistent reports being circulated during the weekend that an offer had been made by a school board member to buy the contract of Dr. James F. Malone, Pampa school superintendent, were denied Saturday by Paul Simmons, school board president.

There were also reports Dr. Malone had sold his home, obtained another job and was planning to resign before the beginning of the next school year.

Several attempts to contact Dr. Malone Saturday for comment on the reports were unsuccessful. On the final effort to reach him, The News was told he was out of the city and it was not known just when he would return.

Questioned by The News several days ago, Dr. Malone freely confirmed that his house had been sold.

When asked at that time if he had accepted another job, the school superintendent declined to comment.

Board president Simmons, questioned Saturday about the rumor an offer had been made to buy the superintendent's contract, had this to say:

"I certainly have not made any such offer to the school superintendent in regard to his contract. Neither do I have knowledge that any other board member has made an offer."

Simmons said policy rules clearly set forth the board would not be bound by the action of any individual member; that it only has authority when acting as a constituted board legally in session.

"The board president doesn't have any powers

AFTER FRIDAY RAIN Windstorm Blasts Area On Saturday Afternoon

The weather system which brought high winds, hail and reports of a funnel cloud to Amarillo Friday night left the Pampa area unscathed, though crops were still suffering from Thursday's storm.

Rainfall here was .14 inch, according to Radio Station KGRO, which operates an official weather station.

This amount brought to 1.77 inches the total so far in June. Total for the year, to date, is 5.37 inches.

The Gray County Airport reported wind gusts of 45-50 miles per hour Saturday afternoon during a dust and windstorm which endured throughout most of the day.

Updating of damage estimates from Thursday night's wind and hail storm around the Pampa area reveals that early figures were too conservative.

Gray County Agricultural Agent Foster Whaley told the Pampa Daily News Saturday afternoon that crop damage in this area was, at a conservative estimate, $1 million.

In speaking of damage to irrigated wheat, he said, "it's now a salvage job. What could have been 60-bushel wheat may now be 5 to 10 bushels."

Whaley also pointed out the big difference in losses to the irrigated crop compared to dryland wheat.

On irrigated land, he noted, there are the extra expenses of fertilizer and the natural gas for operation of pumps.

Regarding hail insurance, the county agent said many farmers don't carry it simply because it is too expensive, especially since the threat of hail damage exists only for a short time in comparison with the longer time between sowing and harvesting.

In UPI reports: High winds kicked up dust in West Texas and a few light showers fell in the Panhandle and Northeast Texas Saturday amid generally warm temperatures.

The winds, in excess of 40 miles an hour on the plains, also kicked up nine to 11-foot tall waves in the gulf with slightly smaller waves hitting the beaches.

Some cooler air moved into the extreme northern Panhandle in the afternoon pushing readings at Dalhart into the 50s. Elsewhere readings were in the high 80s and 90s under generally cloudy skies.

The National Weather Service reported heavy rains throughout North Central and Northeast Texas during the past 24 hours. Lined reported 6.83 inches, Naples had 5.45 inches, Hawkins, 4.56; Gilmer, 4.44; Greenville, 4.42; and Longview 4.13 inches.

Heavier rains fell in Arkansas while Magnolia reported 9.80 inches Athens 7.43 and Fulton 6.16.

MORE ARRESTS MADE Motorists Still Breaking Speed Limit For Nation

United Press International
Many American motorists, their tanks full of gas and the energy crisis just a nagging memory, are breaking the 55 mph speed limit in their rush to get there faster, highway police reported Saturday.

The speeders are also being arrested in increasing numbers, patrolmen reported.

A UPI survey showed, however, that in some parts of the country, most motorists were staying within the nationwide 55-mph speed limit, which began last fall in the midst of the gasoline shortage.

Highway officials said that even though drivers were exceeding the limit, highway deaths were down.

Lead-footed drivers are giving the California Highway Patrol its biggest headache. Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski reported that despite more than 4,000 speeding arrests daily — compared with last year's 1,300 — patrolmen are hardly making a dent in highway speeding.

"Unless I get the support of the motoring public, how can I enforce the speed limit?" Pudinski asked. "When 70 per cent are in violation it is impossible to catch all the speeders."

Pudinski said that if he had the necessary manpower and equipment, "I could arrest 100,000 speeders a day."

In contrast, Kentucky highway patrolmen reported that most motorists in the state were observing the limit, and if they edge over it, they're given a 5 mph tolerance — "and then we throw the book at them."

Turnpikes and freeways appeared to be the favorite spot for speeders. A UPI reporter who recently drove from New York to Washington at speeds of 60-65 mph said he was passed by hundreds of cars and scores of trucks.

Many states reported highway deaths had dropped.

In North Carolina, 589 persons have died in traffic accidents this year, compared with 761 for the same period last year. Tennessee reported 475 deaths as against 561 last year.

Ballet Dancer, Wife Get Okay For Emigration

MOSCOW (UPI) — After more than two years of trying Jewish ballet dancer Valery S. Panov and his ballerina wife had permission Saturday to emigrate to Israel and were planning to leave within five days, a deadline set by the Soviet authorities.

"I'm very excited, very emotional," the former Leningrad Kirov company star said by telephone from Vilnius, the capital of Lithuania where his pregnant wife and his brother live. "It is all so new to me. I'm not used to it yet but we are very happy."

Their fight to emigrate has aroused international interest and threatened to disrupt next week's British tour by the Bolshoi ballet company.

Panov, who was dismissed from his job when he applied to emigrate in March, 1972, indicated that the health of his wife, Galina, 24, would not prevent them from meeting the Thursday deadline.

Mrs. Panov, who is not Jewish, is several months pregnant and was recently hospitalized in Vilnius. A former soloist, she was demoted to the Kirov's corps de ballet after she applied to emigrate. She later resigned.

Panov said he was summoned to the Lithuanian visa office Saturday where an official read him a decision by Leningrad visa authorities to grant him and his wife exit permits.

"I have to leave within five days from today," Panov said. "It is quite unusual." He said he must appear at the Leningrad visa office Monday morning.

WITH SAIGON Viet Cong Agree To Reopen Talks

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong agreed Saturday to reopen cease-fire talks with South Vietnam and said the search for 1,100 American servicemen missing in Indochina could be resumed.

But the Viet Cong spokesman, Senior Col. Vo Dong Giang, said its Provisional Revolutionary Government delegation would not now return to the Paris talks with South Vietnam on the country's political future.

In Cambodia, government forces killed 178 rebels in fighting for control of Highway 1, 15 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, field reporters said. Three government soldiers died in the clash.

The PRG agreed to return to the Saigon-based armistice talks and to resume the search for missing Americans after South Vietnam said Friday it was restoring diplomatic privileges to the Viet Cong cut April 18.

Civil Engineers Slatting Meeting

The June Meeting of the High Plains branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held in Pampa Thursday, June 13.

The engineers and their wives will meet at Pamel Hall at the Celanese plant for a social hour at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

These activities will be preceded by an afternoon of golf at the Pamel golf course, according to Phil Rapstine of Pampa. Rapstine is a member of the branch and a state director of the society.

Information on tee-off times and reservations for dinner may be obtained by contacting Rapstine at 665-1681, extension 307.

Saigon restored telephone service to the Viet Cong compound at Tan Son Nhut airbase Friday, allowed a Communist news conference Saturday for the first time since April and promised resumption Monday of twice-weekly helicopter liaison flights to the de facto Viet Cong capital at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon.

The Viet Cong had walked out of negotiations after South Vietnam took away these privileges, citing heavy battlefield attacks in violation of the Paris cease-fire pact.

Speaking at the news conference, Giang said the Viet Cong has agreed to a Tuesday meeting of the two-party Joint Military Commission, which oversees the cease-fire.

Convention Delegates Reject Antibusing Amendment 61-60

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas Constitutional Convention Saturday rejected an antibusing amendment 61-60 in an emotion-charged session marked by shouting matches, cursing and an effort at one point to have sergeants-at-arms arrest departing delegates.

The sergeants were ordered by convention president Price Daniel Jr. to seat veteran Rep. W. S. Healy, D-Paducah.

"If you lay a hand on me I'm going to beat the (expletive deleted) out of you," Healy growled at the three sergeants who approached him.

The sergeants instead unplugged the microphone at the stand where Healy was speaking.

Rep. Larry Vick, R-Houston, author of the controversial antibusing provision, accused three opponents of cursing and shoving him in an effort to make him drop the proposal to guarantee students the right to attend the public school nearest their homes.

The three delegates he named Reps. Lyndon Olson, D-Waco, Tom Schieffer, D-Fort Worth, and John Whitmire, D-Houston, heard Vick complaining to reporters and angrily denied the charges.

"I pulled Schieffer off you. I never shoved you," Olson, a double amputee, heatedly told Vick.

"You're standing there telling a bunch of lies to get publicity," Whitmire shouted.

Sergeants pleaded with the delegates to return to their seats during the convention's first Saturday session.

Rep. Joe Wyatt, D-Victoria, meanwhile had moved to place a call on the convention and have sergeants-at-arms dispatched to arrest members outside the hall.

Healy took the microphone to make a substitute motion to adjourn.

The Paducah legislator raised Daniel's ire by repeatedly interrupting Daniel's efforts to explain the alternative.

"Mr. Healy, you are out of order. The sergeants will seat Mr. Healy," Daniel boomed, slamming his gavel down.

Healy's adjournment motion lost 17-105, and Wyatt withdrew his motion. Daniel then called a voice vote on a motion to recess

Doubt Cast On Sincerity Of Group And Professor

By C.R. BATTEN
A major conservation organization which shall be called Vexillatio, in one of the Rocky Mountain States (called Vitula) has long opposed timber harvests in what it calls high altitude forests.

It has prepared a detailed policy statement which says, among other things, that large timber operations should be discouraged "because their capacity is beyond the ability of the forests to produce a sustained yield," and that all timber harvests should be monitored by the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ).

In an effort to exchange ideas with the group, an industrial forester in Vitula wrote the Vexillatio and asked some logical questions: What is high altitude? Would 40-acre cutting blocks be acceptable where regeneration is assured? What is the large operation? What is your source of information that they are beyond the sustained yield capacity of the forest? Do you really think the CEQ should monitor timber harvests? If so, shouldn't it also monitor wildlife management practices and other resource uses?

He also pointed out one or two areas of agreement, and asked whether the group had a forestry committee that was familiar with the restraints imposed on timber operators.

To his surprise, the reply to his letter came on the letterhead of the Geology Department of the University of Caesaria, a distant state with 60 times the population of Vitula. The two-page letter did not answer a single question asked by the forester. Instead, it was a diatribe against timber harvest practices.

That letter naturally brought up some more questions, and the industrial forester happens to be one who wants to know the answers.

He asked the professor why the letter was answered from the University of Caesaria; how much State of Caesaria money is being spent to influence land management decisions in Vitula and why? Who really wrote the Vexillatio's policy on timber harvests?

Does that organization really speak for its members, or is it being used as a front for some larger environmental organization?

To get the answers, he sent copies of his letter to the governor of Caesaria and to the president of the University.

The professor has not replied. The only answer from the Vexillatio was a letter to the president of the forester's company crying "foul" — accusing the forester of unfair tactics because, in his search for information, he had included the governor of Caesaria and the president of the University.

It is well known that Professor owns a summer home in Vitula. Inquiry has revealed that he is working on a research project near his summer home. It is financed to the tune of some $90,000 per year by the taxpayers of the United States through the Geological Survey.

To summarize, questioning by the forester revealed that the Vexillatio's policy on forest management practices in Vitula was apparently written by a geology professor at the University of Caesaria, more than 1,000 miles distant.

When questioned about these policies, the professor and the Vexillatio were either unable or unwilling to provide the reasoning and the information on which they were based. The question of how much of the money of the taxpayers of Caesaria has been used to influence land management decisions in Vitula remains unanswered.

Here is a scientist who has gone outside the area of his expertise to criticize the work of other scientists and land managers in another field. This entire flap casts doubt on the sincerity of the Vexillatio and whoever they represent.

More important than that, they cast doubt on the work and on the integrity of the professor from Caesaria University. He may be a very competent scientist in his field.

But he has endangered his own reputation by stepping outside his field into another, to attempt to discredit another equally honorable profession. No matter how well founded his research may be, I will always look at it with a high degree of skepticism. He has lost his credibility with me.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: The day seems so tightly organized you may as well accept it as a day of work with untypical duties, many of them, to attend. Keep the sequence going right.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Almost anything will do to set off a dissenting viewpoint, endless rounds of critical conversation. It's up to you to keep things simple.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Prefer a middle course, avoiding extremes of behavior and action. By the time you've heard all sides of every story, evening finds you thankful you've made it so well.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: A vigorous pursuit of agreed-upon goals or quotas is justified. You have to turn all the wheels, true, but you have great leverage and will be heard readily.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: You can almost adjourn formal business, turn to personal matters. Much of what happens now is so satisfying you can celebrate in grand style tonight.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Get right on the ball, clear off incomplete or neglected projects, pave the way for major changes, expansion coming up soon. Avoid premature discussion of details.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Lecture From A Politician

Sam Ervin, the Harvard lawyer with a Southern drawl, has a weakness for self-glorification on the TV tube, but otherwise has done some fairly useful things. Among them is a speech he made to newspaper people at Columbia, Mo. He pointed out that newspapers generally have defended the First Amendment as it pertains to press and speech. He suggested that the posture of the press ought not to be defensive, but rather extensive.

The First Amendment, he pointed out, "undoubtedly forbids government to deny to a broadcaster freedom to broadcast the news or programs it chooses or the views it entertains." That was hitting us where it hurts. Frankly, we have come to detest the smirking, slanting and twisting of the news that we hear on radio and see on TV. We concede the bombardment from the electronic media will have an impact on popular opinion, at least temporarily. We have no great confidence that the mob of humanity will ever be inclined to recognize the insult thus done to the collective intelligence, so-called. We wince when we consider how slow the printed media, especially newspapers, have been to nail the leftist lie to the churchhouse door. Yet, the fact is, Ervin is correct. The freer communications are, the greater the chances are that Truth will shine through.

Senator Ervin dwelt on the behavior of the Federal Communications Commission, its threats to broadcasting stations, and revocation of licenses — in one case contrary to the recommendation of its own examiner.

"The FCC," Ervin said, "flouts the First Amendment if it revokes or refuses to renew a license to broadcast merely because it dislikes the political views the broadcaster expresses or applies the fairness doctrine in a way which proclaims in essence that the government has determined the truth in respect to any controversial subject."

He cautioned newsmen to exercise vigilance even as to those who, like themselves or among themselves, profess love of freedom.

"Strange as it may seem," he said, "freedom has many foes, even among those who profess to love it. Some men are annoyed by the abuse of freedom by others and advocate its abridgment to prevent its further abuse. Other men fear the exercise of freedom by others and demand the curtailment to quiet their fears."

"Government itself," he went on, "tends to dislike freedom in general because it obstructs the exercise of arbitrary power and freedom of speech and of the press in particular because they are instruments which expose official mismanagement and misconduct."

We needed that. Right now newspapers are faced with a pending Supreme Court case as to whether they shall be required by law to yield space for editorial opinions of politicians. This is an application of the misnamed and abusive "fairness doctrine" to the printed media. The proper course for us is to insist that broadcasters shall enjoy the full entitlements recognized in the First Amendment.

As for us, our Clearing House is open to all comers. A good part of other space is devoted to happenings in the government. We strive to confine our own opinions to this page where they can be recognized as opinions. We appropriately label commentary and interpretation articles when they appear off the editorial page. We believe a good journalistic example accomplishes more than a law and avoids a lot of damage. Even so, don't expect to find perfection in the news business. Rather, judge us by our effort. Belt us like Sam Ervin did when we fail.

Rodino And Double Standard

By VICTOR RIESEL

NEWARK, N.J. — There's something positively fascinating about Congressman Peter Wallace Rodino, Jr.'s passion for impeachment. His dedication to investigation is so sudden and out of character. As chairman of, and long a force in, the powerful House Judiciary Committee, Rodino never did appear to take as a personal insult the cruelest corruption, extortion, violence, rottenness and deep political muck which swirled through his and his neighboring congressional districts for decades.

It still does. In fact, one of his old friends and political collaborators in Congress, in the National Democratic Club of New Jersey, and here in Essex County, ex-Representative, ex-Newark Mayor Hugh Addonizio, is doing ten years for extortion and wholesale peddling of political influence.

Don't get me wrong. Peter Rodino is clean. He was a fine World War II soldier. He is devoted and decorated. But why the double standard? Why did his Judiciary Committee, with all its subcommittees on crime and the criminal-justice system, ignore the fact that the report of the Governor's Select Commission on Civil Disorders, State of New Jersey (1968), said bluntly that under Addonizio "everything in city hall is for sale... there's a price on everything."

Now, as the Talmudic students say, there are two ways to view this. One — Rep. Rodino knew nothing of this vast corruption. This would hardly qualify him to direct the impeachment probe of President Nixon whom Rodino once said should be vetoed out of office.

Or, it can be said that Rodino is a man of compassion. Hugh Addonizio was his good friend. They both worked closely in the northern New Jersey Democratic party ranks in the organization's worst days — the late '40s and '50s; they collaborated and socialized as Congressmen from adjoining districts. For, Addonizio represented the 11th C.D. from 1948 to 1962. Rodino, like Addonizio, was elected a Congressman in 1948 and still represents the 10th C.D. This includes Newark which Addonizio and his crime family friends looted.

Thus, it is possible that loyalty to a friend motivated Rodino and kept him comparatively silent on the truly brutal exploitation of the Addonizio — underworld mob of the citizenry of the scandal-ridden county.

Compassion is Congressman Rodino's sacred privilege. A double standard is not.

For example, there is the matter of political contributions. One record shows that Rodino once voted an increase of $2 billion in farm price supports. That was some time ago.

More recently the Special Political Agricultural Community Education (SPACE) Committee of Louisville, Ky., contributed $1,000 to a 1972 committee for the reelection of Peter Rodino. SPACE is the political arm of the Committee of Dairymen, Inc. This is a milk marketing cooperative. What intrigues me is that Louisville, Ky., is rather far to be considered a Newark suburb.

There also is a 1972 $1,000 contribution to Rodino from the Washington, D.C. Truck Operators Non-Partisan Committee. And another $1,000 from the Political Action Committee for Cable TV.

Agreed that $1,000 is somewhat less than $100,000 — but then there is no such thing as being a little pregnant in politics as the late Lyndon Johnson used to say when he defined politics as the art of the possible.

There is, of course, the $28,923 contributed to Rodino's 1972 campaign by what Common Cause calls "labor group committees." Well, that's doing what comes naturally. Of this amount, some $3,000 came from the national COPE, the AFL-CIO's political arm.

Labor considers him a deserving friend of the people. They count his combined political record as having voted right 130 times and wrong twice. Consistent here, isn't he?

Nor has he let down the Americans from Democratic Action (ADA). The ADA considers he voted their brand of liberalism 92 per cent of the time. Consistent here too.

But his major inconsistency is obvious. Well, let it not be said that he has ignored the major war on organized crime entirely. Most recently he has appealed to the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to send along some funds for a probe in and around his district.

There is a joint city-county organized crime task force, run by some fine law-enforcement officials. It needs money to carry it through to Jan. 1. Congressman Rodino is helping.

He could help more. Under him, as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, are such subcommittees as Courts, Civil Liberties and the Administration of Justice; Crime, Criminal Justice; and Immigration, Citizenship and International Law. These committees would have a field day in many parts of New Jersey — especially in Congressman Rodino's district, in which is Newark and its suburbs — long considered "the very heart of organized crime in New Jersey." Rodino might ask who said that.

One of his good friends did. So his passion for probing could be more bipartisan. And more productive in rooting out real crimes against the people — some very poor people, at that.

Some believe that all things are subject to the chances of fortune, and that the world has no governor to move it.

Question Box

QUESTION: What is the "pigeon drop"? I was told that it has something to do with fooling people into thinking they are going to get something not theirs and persuading these people to put up their money for a share in the "loot." Of course the promoters disappear with the victim's money. Doesn't that sound like a political scheme?

ANSWER: It certainly does sound like what is going on in political circles at all levels of government. Politicians promise something for nothing or say they will take from the rich and give to the poor in order to gain votes and the money and usufructs that go with elective office. Then the public finds it has been victimized by its own greed. And still they seem inclined to fall for the same old game, seeking a "free lunch" from either the same or a different set of office seekers.

One of the most common practices in the "pigeon drop" is the so-called handkerchief switch, usually operated around a bank. A smooth-talking individual will represent that he has found some money and will offer an elderly "pigeon" a chance to share in the loot, but will require that person to withdraw money from the bank to show good faith.

The money then is put with the "found" money and wrapped in a handkerchief. The victim then is given a handkerchief to hold, believing it is the one with the money. The smooth talker then will leave, promising to return for his share of the total money. Of course, he does not return, and the victim finds he has a wad of newspaper instead of the Federal Reserve notes he thought. The clever operator has just switched handkerchiefs.

We agree that politicians are using the "pigeon drop" technique on the gullible people. But until they learn there is no such thing as a free lunch, they will go on voting for the candidate who promises the most subsidies, the most price cuts, the most controls on "the other party," the most flood-control dams, the lowest price electric power, and to reduce taxes at the same time.

And they'll find the politicians have the loot, and they are left with nothing except a handkerchief filled with worthless paper.

By TEX DEWEESE
Editor Of The News

AFTER GIVING considerable thought to renewed agitation for a municipal golf course in Pampa, the conclusion has been reached there are quite a few things the city needs more than a public place to play golf.

Pampa needs a storm sewer system that probably would cost around $2-million just for the downtown area and it needs to have some 12 miles of broken and bumpy concrete streets replaced at a cost of $4 or $5-million, just to mention a couple.

Another financial hurdle facing city taxpayers is the quarter-million dollar bond issue that's bound to come with the order from the Texas Water Quality Board to update the city's sewage treatment plant to meet standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The cost of that is estimated at $1-million. Pampa has made application for 75 percent of the cost in federal aid. If it gets the grant (and that is not certain yet) there still will be a balance of $250,000 to be paid by local taxpayers.

Among other municipal needs is a remodeling job on Pampa's 47-year-old City Hall. The 1927 steam-heating system is pretty well shot, the wiring continually keeps going on the blink, and it needs air-conditioning. Money that would have to be spent on a golf course could be put to excellent use refurbishing the nearly half-century-old structure.

There is also need for a complete overhaul job at the City swimming pool out on Kentucky St. It's in such bad shape not many people enjoy using it any more.

IT WOULD cost around $15,000 a hole to build a 9-hole public golf course. That, not counting the price of the land, would amount to $135,000. Equipment to start with would cost probably $20,000. A water system would be needed at a cost of around $80,000 and it would take $9,000 or $10,000 worth of water annually to keep the course in condition.

It is estimated there are 500 or 600 dyed-in-the-wool golfers in Pampa, including those who play on the Pampa Country Club's 18-hole course and the Celanese Corp. 9-hole course for employees.

We can sympathize with the few hundred golfers who wish they had a place where they could play on weekends and holidays.

But when you figure the cost to build it, plus maintenance, the figure becomes astronomical in view of other things Pampa needs more than a municipal golf course that wouldn't even pay its own way, let alone bring in a profit.

FOR MANY years Pampa needed a civic center and auditorium and needed it badly. The city didn't build one because it didn't have the money. Then along came the M.K. Brown Foundation and furnished the cash to build an auditorium on land donated by the Gray-Pampa Foundation. That's why Pampa has a civic auditorium.

Now all that needs to be done is to hope a big-hearted philanthropist will make happy all the golfers who are not country club members or Celanese employees by donating land and money for a $235,000 bond issue. The only alternative would be to use federal revenue sharing funds for a year or so (and they could very well be cut off by that time).

It is hoped city fathers would think twice before approving the building of a municipal golf course with revenue sharing funds that could be spent on things serving a much more useful and practical purpose.

A public golf course is something that should be far down on the priority list of municipal needs.

THE CITY Hall Cat reports School House Kitty has been acting strangely for several days. The Cat says he can't pry a purr out of Kitty who just struts around acting like she knows something nobody else knows.

The Cat was continuing the questioning during the weekend but says Schoolhouse Kitty just smiled and took the Fifth Amendment on all counts.

Incidentally, the Pampa School Board has a regular open meeting scheduled for Monday night and it's understood it will be preceded by an executive session.

Cattlemen and Processors Answer Consumers' Complaints

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Times are tough for cattlemen.

It was about a year ago that the cattle raiser was sitting on top of his world. Then everything collapsed around him. First, there was the ban on the growth hormone D-E-S and the severe winter of 1973. That was followed by the consumer's boycott and the beef price freeze. If that wasn't enough, the truckers went on strike and fat cattle stood in feed yard pens putting on more weight.

The cattlemen's cost started climbing and the American consumer started cutting back in what she spends in her grocery budget for beef.

Which Approach
The nation's cattle associations are not sure which approach to take as they try to convince Mrs. Housewife to return to beef and beef by-products. They first tried to justify the price paid at the supermarket by showing their costs had risen to all-time highs.

Some were openly critical of the consumer and the "highprice" complaint. Rex McAnally, a Pampa, Tex., cattle feeder, said he would like to see just one housewife ride herd on several head of cattle in the dead of a Panhandle snow storm and still charge a low price.

The cattlemen are now attempting to re-build his empire on the local level.

Amarillo is in the center of the largest cattle feeding area in the world. In 1973, 4,962,763 head were custom fed in 110 feed yards. Since the time they fatten cattle is only a few months, the turnover in the yards is high. If each of the feedyards were completely full at the same time, there would be almost 2,750,000 head ready for slaughter. This would be the ideal situation, but today's low market demand has drastically cut the total cattle on feed.

Add High Cost of Feed
Cattlemen in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Kansas are not buying the cattle that would be ready for market in about eight months. Cattle sold today at 400 per 100 pounds were purchased for about $53 eight months ago. Added to this is the high cost of feed and all the cowman has to show for his efforts is a massive loss.

Some of the ranchers who have put their cattle on commercial feed are reporting losses of between $125 and $175 per head. It is just as bad for company-owned cattle and as a result, those firms are attempting to get out of the business.

Last week, stockholders of Mesa Petroleum Co. of Amarillo were told the company was going to sell its three big feed yards, Mesa president T. Boone Pickens said the company lost more than $5.7 million during the last quarter of 1973 and the first quarter of this year on cattle. Mesa's gas and oil division showed a healthy profit.

Operate Until Buyer Found
Pickens did say Mesa would continue to operate "as usual" until they can find someone to buy the yards in Randall, Swisher and Gaines counties.

While cattlemen have been having their second thoughts about the future, beef processing firms seem to think everything will settle down. American Beef of Omaha, Neb., has just opened a processing plant north of Dumas, Tex., and near the small town of Cactus.

American officials say they will be able to hire 800 employees to process 250 head an hour. At the present, American's plant is the largest in the world, but it won't be for long.

Iowa Beef Processors, Inc. of Dakota City, Neb., is in the final stages of construction for an even larger processing plant northeast of Amarillo. The IBP plant will hire up to 1,500 employees and they say over 300 head will be processed per hour.

Economic Boost For Dumas
The opening of the American plant at Cactus has been an economic boost for Dumas. City officials say 75 new building permits for houses have already been issued and a 86-unit, $1 million apartment complex is on the drawing board.

Amarillo is also gearing up for an expected influx of new residents when the IBP plant opens in October or November. What company and chamber of commerce officials don't talk about is possible layoffs because of the beef situation.

One of the Panhandle's major beef processors had to close its Friona, Tex., plant during the boycott and again during the trucker's strike. Missouri Beef, Inc., was able to operate on an "almost normal" schedule at their Plainview, Tex., plant during the two dark periods.

The Swift, Armour and National Processing plants at Clovis, N.M., Friona and Liberal, Kan., also had to curtail work at the same time. In all, about 2,000 employees were laid off for a three week period.

World Wide Trade Needed
One answer to the cattlemen's problem of high costs and low consumption may be in worldwide distribution of beef. Charles Ball, the executive vice president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, said the consumer in Japan, Europe and Asia wants beef. The Amarillo executive said the prices they pay are up to five times higher than what Americans are paying for the same product.

"A $2 steak in Dallas will bring well over $10 in Tokyo," Ball said, "and cattle feeding operations have already started in Australia to take care of this need in Japan."

Tariff and import-export regulations stop the cattlemen from jumping into the world-wide operation now, but they feel the growing populations in Europe and Asia may help ease the problem in the future.

Ball may be optimistic in his thinking about the future. He believes there will be at least six million cattle on custom feed by 1980, in Texas alone.

WHAT IS GOOD FOR THE SOIL IS GOOD FOR THE SOUL

Harvest will be well underway and over by the time you read this, if no further rain. The dryland crop to be cut will be mainly 1973 summer-fallow cropland. Harvest on irrigated wheat will follow soon after. We have heard of some 12-bushel yields on dryland and good test weight.

Over 75 percent of the irrigated milo crop has been seeded. The rains have been very beneficial in helping establish good stands. No damaging hail to either the milo or wheat crop has been reported. The moisture has been spotty but has fallen at the right time for planting of dryland milo which is now underway. Many farmers that have wheat to harvest and milo to plant would like to see ten days to two weeks of dry weather — then get wet again.

We are still having many calls for garden bulletins. We still have a few left. Call our office at 669-7429. We will be happy to mail one to you.

For several decades a McLean Gin has been operated by one or more companies. Of recent years, the remaining one was owned by the Elk City Gins of Elk City, Okla.

Recently the management of the gin announced plans to close the gin or offer it for sale. The reason given by the company was harassment by the Air Quality Control Board and certain individuals in the McLean area because of the nuisance causes.

Several meetings of concerned citizens in the McLean Area have resulted in a local potential buyer. A loan application is pending and it is hoped the gin will remain in operation for the coming year. There is about 2,700 acres of cotton planted in Gray County. The acreage is expected to increase if the price continues as good as in past years.

HARD TIMES
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — The declining days of the Civil War brought hard times to newspapermen in the South.

In June, 1865, the Milledgeville Southern Recorder reported that for two months it had made no effort to collect money from its readers but hoped that some payments in food would be made so the paper's employees could be fed.

TUBBY RECORD
EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — The record for sitting in a bathtub full of water is 49 hours. Gene Sparks, Leeburg, Ore., set the record as a jark with a friend. At the completion of the wet sit-in in downtown Eugene, Sparks, who beat his friend by a half hour, said, "I feel like a prune."

Panhandle Water

By FELIX RYALS
District Manager
Water District No. 3
Today's column is another in a continuing series acquainting the people of the area with the recommended statewide program for conservation and development of Texas water resources.

Last week we presented the first two items of the long range portion of the Texas recommendations. Today we pick up with item three.

Long-Range Plans
3. In planning the conservation and development of surface water supplies, first consideration must be given to achieving the most effective and fullest practicable development of the available surface water resources of every river basin and watershed in Texas, since it is estimated that the projected water needs of the state will exceed its developable water resources.

As a part of this effort, individual projects must be planned not only to meet local needs but also to contribute in combination with other projects most effectively to overall development of the available water resources of the entire basin, so that these resources will be available to help meet the needs throughout the basin and the adjoining coastal areas and if sufficient developable water resources are available in other areas of the state as well.

4. In addition to have a sufficient quantity of water, it is necessary to have water of satisfactory quality. Provision for the establishment of water quality standards and for meeting and maintaining such standards must be an integral part of long-range water planning.

5. Long-range plans should recognize that there may be several different ways in which available water resources of a basin or watershed may be effectively developed and that the ways finally used will depend on conditions as they exist at the time and, especially, on how and where and when water needs develop.

Long-range plans should, therefore, present proposed water resource projects in the form of alternatives, or, if there is no readily apparent alternatives, then in the form of examples of means that can be used to develop water resources to meet projected needs 50 years hence.

Regardless of how proposed projects are presented in long-range plans, it should be made clear in such plans that the proposed projects are not firm, and will not be firm, until included in short-range action plans as discussed below.

6. Long-range plans should include general provisions for anticipated movement of water from areas of the state where water resources can be developed in excess of anticipated local needs into areas of the state where needs are expected to exceed available supplies. Here again, plans for movement of water should not be considered firm until included in short-range action plans as discussed below.

7. Long-range plans should provide for seeking water from sources outside of Texas to meet needs that cannot be met by full development and utilization of water resources available in Texas.

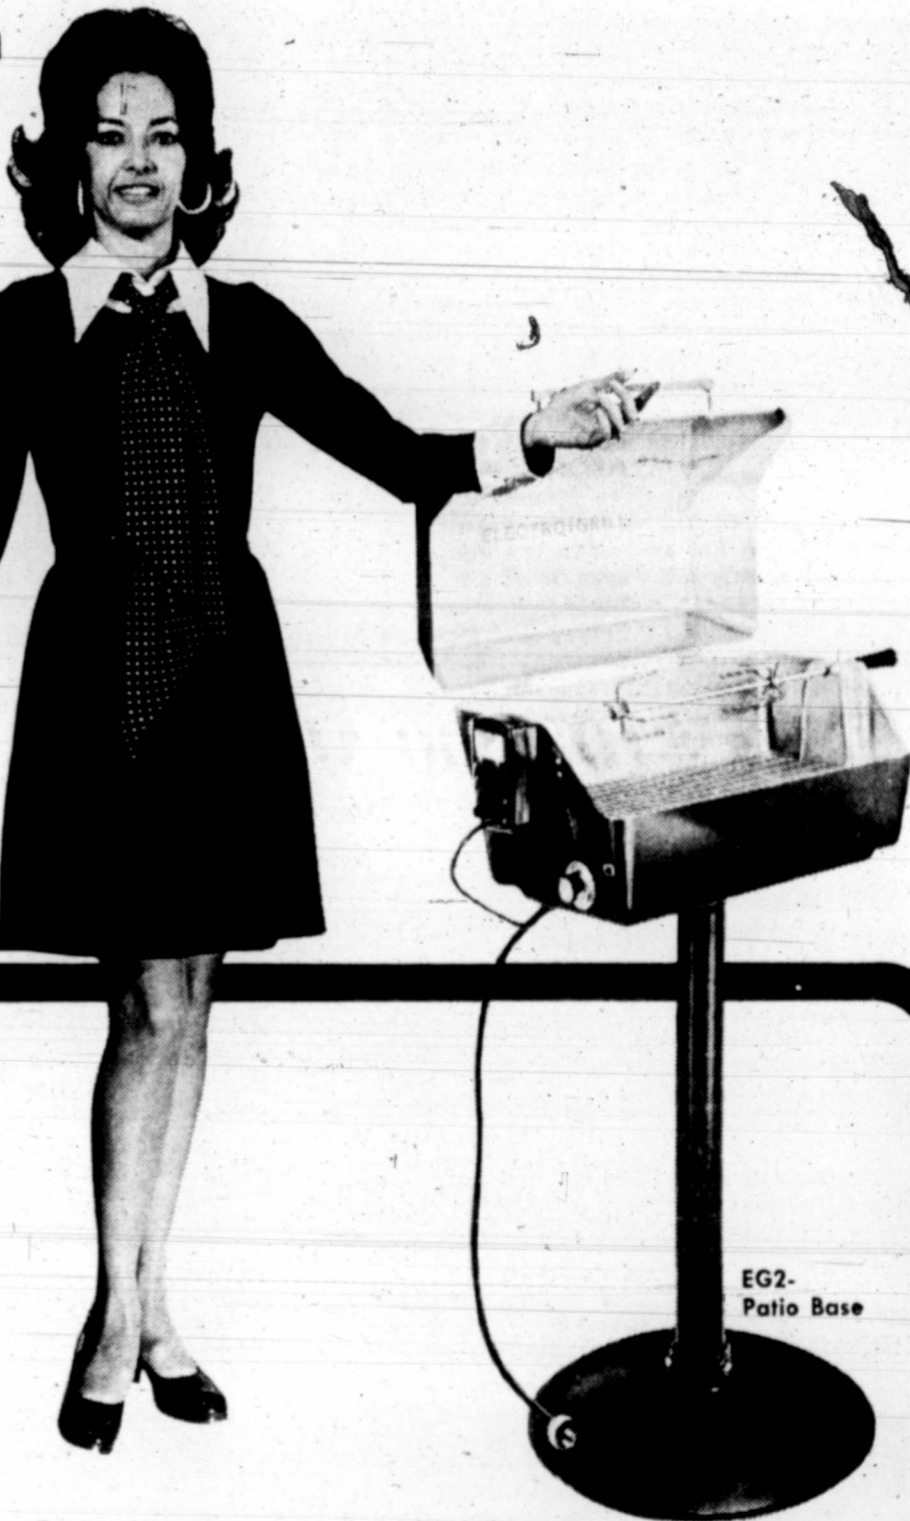

NEW FACES at the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District office in Pampa are David Polk, left, and Jerry Walker. Polk is full-time range conservationist and is a recent graduate of Texas A&M. He has a master's degree in range management. Walker, student trainee, will work full time this summer before returning to studies at Texas A&M, where he's majoring in Agricultural Engineering.

All wool and a... NEW YORK (UPI)—The expression "all wool and a yard wide" faces some changes.

Soon it will be "all wool and nine-tenths of a meter wide." For the metric system is on its way into U.S. usage. The Wool Bureau, Inc., a trade group, reports the system already used in many areas. One auto manufacturer, for instance, has opened the first plant in the country designed to build products to metric specifications. The home sewing pattern companies print both systems of measurements on envelopes and pattern pieces. Many kitchen recipes use metric measurements. And many school systems already are teaching the metric system.

Wife's nest egg may prevent a goose egg

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am an experienced secretary and bookkeeper who quit work to have a family. My children are in school all day now and I want to get a part-time job.

My husband says if I want to work outside the home I should work for him. [He owns a small retail business.] I don't want to work for him because he refuses to pay me. He says: "You don't need any money of your own. If you want something, ask me and I'll give you the money for it." [In the past when I've asked for money he has had to know where every dime is going.] He enjoys having me ask him for money. It makes him feel important.

I don't see anything wrong with a wife having a little nest egg, do you? J. IN MASS.

DEAR J.: No. And sometimes it's the wife's nest egg that balls her husband out when there's a goose egg in his bank account!

DEAR ABBY: How much time should a wife give her husband to make up his mind between her and the other woman?

After 18 years of marriage and four beautiful children, my husband became involved with a divorcee I'll call Anna. After he told me about her, I tried for three months to correct the things about me that made him stray in the first place. Finally, I couldn't stand his running back and forth between me and Anna, so I told him to move out until he decided which one he wanted.

He went to stay with a buddy but he comes home a couple times a week. [Anna works days, and he works nights.] When he's home I do his laundry and we share the same bed. Everything is just wonderful—just like old times. I try to be the ideal wife, hoping he will realize what he's missing and decide to come home for good. He keeps telling me he still loves me but he can't give up Anna. I told him he can't come home to live until he quits seeing Anna altogether.

Abby, lately I'm losing respect for myself. I feel like I'm being used. Am I going about this wrong? Please advise me. CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You did everything right up to the point where you let him come home to use you as a part-time wife and a full time laundry service.

DEAR ABBY: I went with a beautiful 22-year-old girl for eight months. [I'm 28.] She came on like a lily white touch-me-not virgin. She even slapped my face once, when I let my hands get too familiar with her.

I never came right out and asked her if she was a virgin because from her actions I was sure she was. I was so glad she had "saved herself" for marriage because that was the one thing I wanted in a wife.

Well, after we were married I found out that she lied to me. She refuses to talk about it, and I feel that I have been tricked. I think she withheld the truth from me because she knew I'd never marry her if I knew. I was really crazy about this girl, and she seemed to care for me, too, but now everything is ruined.

We aren't getting along at all, and it's all because she deceived me about her virginity. It's gotten to the point where I feel divorce is the only answer. Please help me. CHEATED

DEAR CHEATED: She didn't lie to you, you jumped to a conclusion. Too bad you place such a high priority on virginity because there is no way she can get hers back. However, "never have loved before" isn't the most important thing a woman can bring to a marriage.

Her past is her business, and she owes you no explanations, so if you want to save your marriage, get some counseling.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Longer Life For Cut Flowers

COLLEGE STATION — Keeping cut flowers attractive for the longest time is a challenge many home gardeners face, one horticulturist noted.

"Certain steps will prolong life of cut flowers—whether homegrown or from a florist," says Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

He offered the following suggestions to maximize cut flowers' beauty:

—For best results, cut flowers in early morning or late afternoon.

—Then, select flowers not fully open — avoid cutting old ones.

—Remove foliage from the lower third of the stem, along with all broken and bruised parts.

—If possible, wash flowers and foliage to remove dirt, sprays or dusts. Also, store cut flowers in a cool area or refrigerator until arranged.

—Cut stems on a slant, using a sharp knife or shears.

—Before using a container for an arrangement, make sure it's washed clean with soap and water.

—When receiving bulk flowers from a florist, recut ends of stems about one inch above the original cuts.

—Don't place an arrangement in direct sun, near gas fires or oil burners.

When possible, place it in a cool area during the night—but not where drafts may occur.

—Change the water of an arrangement and recut stems of flowers to give them longer life. Use warm, but not hot, water. For most species, repeat this every other day.

With a chemical flower preservative, recutting and changing the water aren't necessary.

According to Dr. Welch, a very weak lemonade solution — lemon juice, sugar and water — helps extend life of cut flowers.

Jaycee-Ettes Name Committee Chairmen

The Pampa Jaycee-Ettes held their regular monthly meeting recently at Southwestern Public Service Co. with five members and one guest present. The meeting was opened with a call to order and invocation by President Kerrick Horton, and the creed was led by Trecia Saltzman.

One in every 20 preschool age children has a vision problem that unless corrected can seriously affect his development and schooling, according to National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc. estimates. Discovery and treatment of amblyopia or "lazy eye" is extremely important. A Home Eye Test for preschoolers, free for the asking, has been devised to check a child's vision, but it doesn't take the place of a professional eye examination. To get the Home Eye Test, write Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York 10016, says Dr. Barbara A. Sears, health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

No Pregnancy After Menopause

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: You wrote that a woman can count herself "beyond the chance of pregnancy" when at menopause age she has not had a period for one whole year.

Does this mean there will be no more periods after that or does it mean the reproductive organs will be too deteriorated to reproduce?

I stopped menstruation at the age of 51. Now two years later I have experienced a normal, heavy, healthy flow for four days.

While I am not fearful of child-bearing, I am hoping that you will not mislead some poor desperate soul.

—B.B.
No, I don't think I have misled anybody, and the rule still stands: pregnancy does not occur after menopause has provided a year without a menstrual period.

That period-free year indicates the reproductive organs have deteriorated — or should we just say aged? — to the extent the ovaries no longer produce ova, or eggs. Without an ovum, there can be no pregnancy.

An integral part of this aging process is that the ovaries not only have ceased producing ova but they also have substantially reduced the amount of estrogen, or female hormone, which they provide.

To explain what appears to be a "normal" menstrual flow after a year has passed without any requires some additional information about how the female body works.

Reduction of estrogen production is not the same as having it stop entirely. It doesn't. Some estrogen still is produced by the body, largely by the adrenal glands rather than the ovaries, however.

Now if, as sometimes happens, the uterus is still responsive to a surge of estrogen, and if there is such a rise in the amount of estrogen, then a "period" may occur. There can be such surges.

Serial tests have shown that some women have sporadic rises in estrogen level and can account for such "periods." They do NOT indicate that ovulation is occurring — that the ovaries have resumed producing ova.

A word of warning, however, concerning the resumption of "periods" after menopause. They may be, as I have just described, the result of fluctuation in the amount of estrogen being produced.

But until you are sure that is the explanation, you will be wise to be at least a little suspicious, because other factors can be responsible.

One is that many post-menopausal women are taking estrogen regularly. The dosage may be sufficient to cause "breakthrough bleeding," in which case the dosage may be modified somewhat.

More important, some disorder of the uterus may be causing the bleeding, and it is important to find out what that disorder is. Hence, a Pap test is imperative. I do not say that such bleeding necessarily indicates cancer, because there are other disorders which can be responsible.

But cancer is one of the possibilities, and no time should be lost in finding out for certain.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is an "apecal" pulse? I have heard the term used but can't find it in a medical dictionary.

—Mrs. S.G.
A case of "vowel trouble." Try spelling it "apical."

It's nothing to worry about. It means that movement can be seen in the left chest wall between the fifth and sixth ribs. Most easily visible in lean folks; usually can be felt by the doctor's fingers.

It is merely the thump of the apex of the heart against the chest wall. Apex — hence the adjective apical.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing your request 15 cents in coin, and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

She Gives Up Her Beauty Sleep

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — "I've given up my beauty sleep for you, dear," Anne Baxter sang out to me as she swept into Les Pyrenees in beige evening pajamas at 5 p.m. "and as you see, I've brought my peach..."

"Could I have a napkin?" she addressed the waiter. "This gets rather messy." She began making noises and I said I wanted to get sound effects. "Yes, it is definitely slurping time," she said, slurping, as she downed the delicate peach.

Anne Baxter was on the way to "Noel Coward in Two Keys" with Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy. "Do you remember Bob Burns' joke?" she asked. "My grandmother had a skin like a peach — yaller and fuzzy." Anne added, "I eat like a horse later but now just this and some tea..."

Much goes on off stage for Anne Baxter — a secret romance ("private"), completion of a book which may be called "Barefoot and Pregnant" about her "personal earthquake" in Australia with her divorced husband Randolph Galt ("father of two of my three lovely daughters") — and her plans for her next project, whatever it might be.

"My husband had a cattle station (a ranch), medium-size, 36,000 acres, he had several planes ... But oh, you don't know what you have here: Australian women aren't permitted in pubs! (Except for barmaids.) My husband came to California and spent 15 days with his daughters. Spoil them! He had them scrubbing the floors and doing his shirts."

But that chapter is almost a decade ago. Anne Baxter lives with a great friend Ann Slater whose lush and spacious apartment inspired a banker friend to exclaim, "This is bigger than my bank!" Anne said, "It's like a dormitory. We're girls together..."

She frowned. "The Russell Birdwell period," she said, naming the famous press agent. "Beautiful little Spanish cigars, made for women. Hitchcock gave them to me but they cost 50 cents apiece and I'd open up my box and somebody'd take a handful..."

Anne announced her admiration for Hume Cronyn as a director. "He gave me one word, ONE WORD, that changed the way I was doing a scene. He merely said, 'Conversational.' It was like pushing the right button."

"Have I ever been fired? Yes, at 14, from 'Philadelphia Story.' I was too old for the part. The part was for an 11-year-old! My worst experience was "Square Root of Wonderful," by Carson McCullers. It shouldn't have come to Broadway. There were nights when I didn't think I could go to the theater and wait for them to hate me. There was one actor who some nights would leave out big chunks of dialogue. One night he threw me across the stage and broke my finger. But with this play, we love each other, we love what we're doing..."

"Did you ever fall in love with your leading man?" "Yes, literally. I met John Hodiak on the set. I thought he was wonderfully attractive, but so private. I had to play gin rummy. I knew that the only way to get him out of his shell was to beat him and so I did. It was in 'Sunday Dinner for a Sailor' at Fox. I was owned lock, box, bosom and bottom by Fox. And so we were married..."

She added, "So you see, practice your gin rummy." The granddaughter of great architect Frank Lloyd Wright wears what she calls "passion killers," silk nude-colored knickers down to the knee that leave no line. "I've worn them for 20 years. They are held up by a hook."

So she and Hume Cronyn were beginning their rehearsals with a scene where Hume had to embrace her soulfully, and he felt something around his feet and looked down.

"It was her panties," coughed Hume embarrassedly when he told me about it. "No, not my panties, my knickers!" Anne corrected him. "The hook gave away after 20 years."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP...
George DeWitt, for five years the host of "Name That Tune," was suggested as host of a forthcoming revival of the show. "But someone," he says, "decided I wasn't the type" ... Inflation note: an East Side garage is now charging $116.60 a month to house a car ... Robert Mason (of the Colony Record Shop) and Anne Marie wrote the song "My Little Man" that's heard in Jackie Mason's film "The Studier."

Young singer Kenny Colman got a thrill — Princess Grace, who heard him in Acapulco, invited him to entertain in Monaco ... Publicist Larry Eisenberg's book, "Villa of the Ferronome," will be published June 25 ... A star's publicized hospital stay was really for one simple thing: a facelift ... the Beacon Theater'll inaugurate a new policy July 26-27 — a first-run film, plus a stage show with a big-name entertainer.

Brenda Vaccaro was asked at Pier 52 when she was marrying her very dear friend Michael Douglas. She smiled: "But we haven't even announced our engagement yet..."

Duke Ellington left a wealth of unpublished music including some lyrics. Sylvia Syms spoke of his eloquence: one night Duke said, "Thank you for allowing the gold of your halo to dress up the sackcloth of our table..." Another tribute: "He should have been King instead of Duke" ... Rose Bigman, Walter Winchell's gal Friday, is writing her own book about her late boss and she says it'll correct all the errors.

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT
Today's Best Laugh: Congress was asked to raise the debt limit again, notes Bob Orben, which means either they expect a big budget deficit, "or they're adding a patio to San Clemente..."

Wish I'd Said That: The slumping stock market has Charles Carden giving his definition of a streaker as "a stock broker leaving town with all his possessions..."

Remembered Quote: "Too many people go through life standing at the complaint counter..."

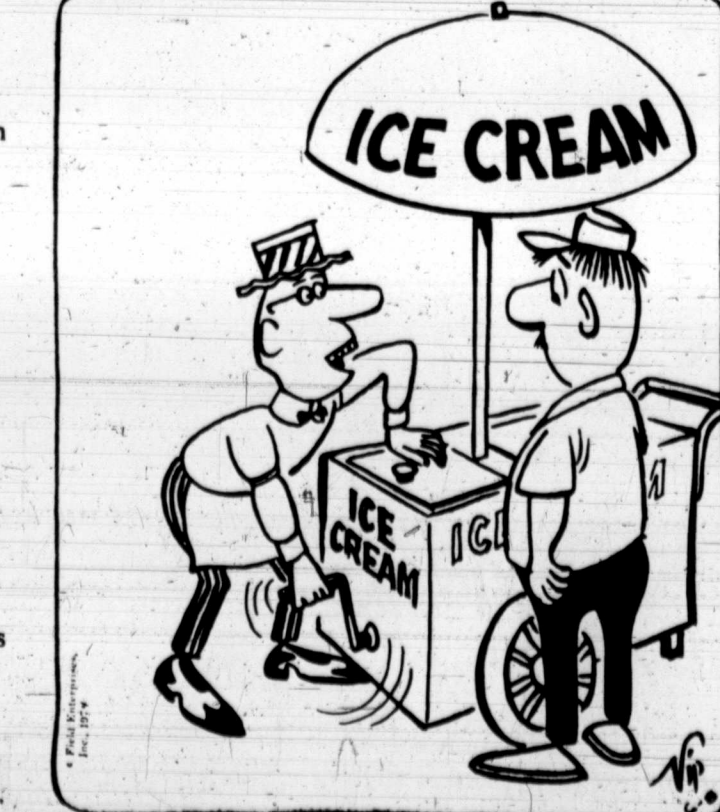

Earl's Pearl: The best thing about a rock'n roll record is that if you break one side, you break the other side, too.

Little Current Garner Belmont Roses

NEW YORK (UPI) Little Current exploded in the stretch at Belmont Park Saturday, just as he did two weeks ago in the Preakness, and pulled away from eight rivals to easily win the 106th running of the Belmont Stakes.

After running far back in the early stages of the mile and a half race as is his usual custom, Little Current started his move toward victory on the final turn.

In an amazing display of speed, the son of Sea Bird sprinted inside several horses and then swung out to take command shortly after entering the stretch.

Once the gallant little colt was straightened out at the start of the home stretch, the $169,950 race was all over. Little Current, with Little Current's victory gave John W. Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm its second Belmont Stakes victory. Galbreath won the Belmont with Chateaugay in 1963 but it was the first victory for Rivera and trainer Lou Rondinello.

Do you need a Texas fishing license? The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department wardens have filed their reports after the three-day Memorial weekend.

A surprisingly large percentage of the violations observed by the wardens were individuals fishing without a Texas fishing license. Forty-five citations were written in the Lubbock area alone for "no fishing license."

The most frequent statement heard by Texas game wardens is: "I didn't know I needed a fishing license."

Everyone that hunts or fishes in Texas is regulated by seasons, limits, and restrictions. Warden Bobby Goff said, "and it is very apparent that these individuals are either using this as an excuse or are not aware of license requirements."

A $4.25 fishing license is required of all persons (residents and non-residents) who fish in the waters of Texas with the exception of those under seventeen years of age; over sixty-five years of age; fishing in private waters; fishing in county of residence with trotline, throwline, or ordinary pole and line having no reel or winding device attached; or holding a valid Texas commercial fishing license.

These licenses issued by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, regardless of month issued, are valid only during the period of Sept. 1 through Aug. 31 of the following year.

This means that a license bought today will be good until Aug. 31, 1974 and then you will be required to buy another license for this fall, winter and next summer.

It is a good idea to buy a fishing license before you go outdoors on that vacation you have been planning all year.

Even though there are over 4,500 licensed deputies that sell fifty-three different types of licenses, don't wait until you go fishing to realize what you are required to do. Besides, the money you spend on a Texas fishing license is used to stock the lakes and maintain the excellent fishing that you enjoy now.

Stop in any Texas Parks and Wildlife Department district office in Amarillo, Lubbock, and Abilene, or give them a phone call and find out the requirements of a Texas angler.

The fish can hardly wait to bite that minnow, worm or plug, and who can forget that aroma of deep fried flathead after the trip is over.

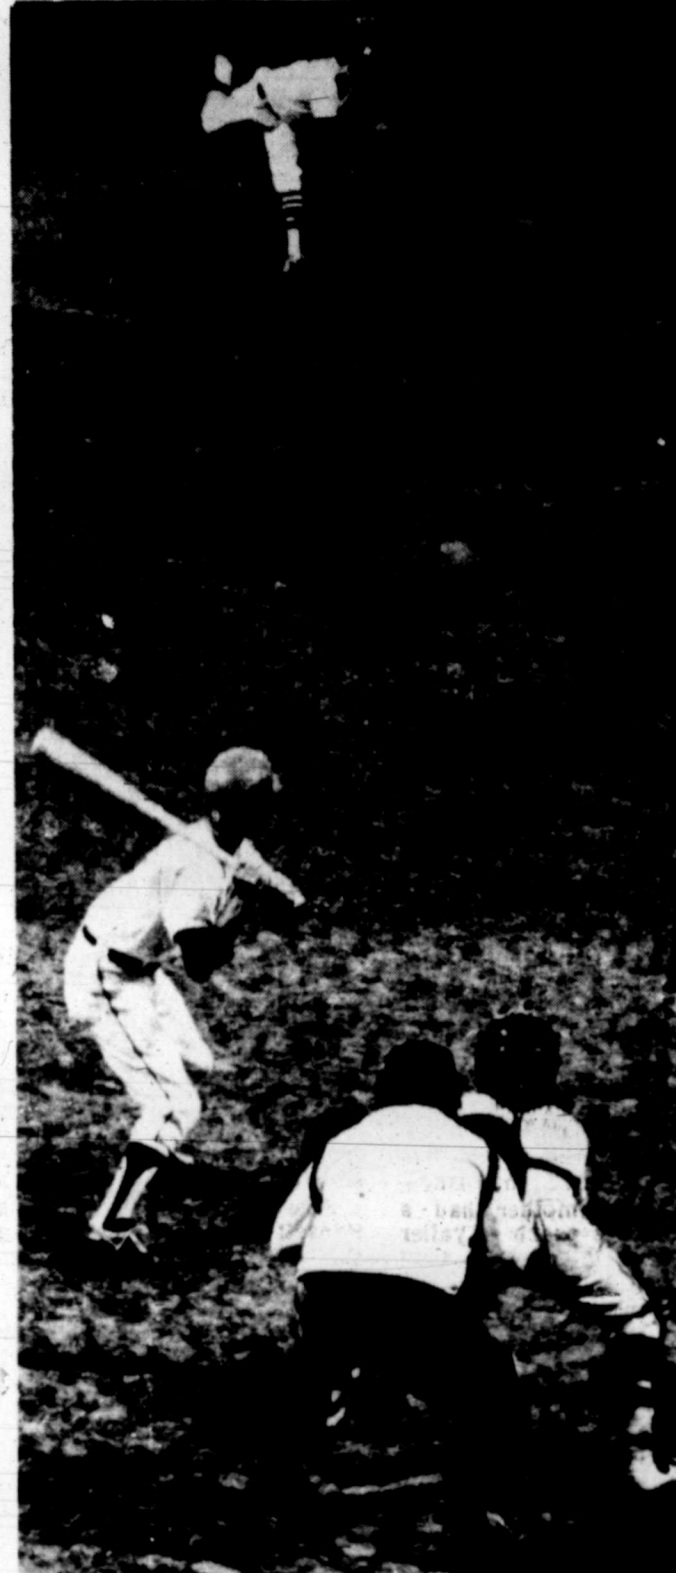

Southern Coach Peeved At Refs

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas Southern University track coach Dave Bethany, upset at what he considered to be inconsistent officiating at the NCAA track and field championship, said Saturday his school would become a leader in lobbying for more black officials for future NCAA meets.

Bethany, who said last week that he had received harassment calls from people who did not want his team to participate in the NCAA championship, was particularly incensed at Texas Southern's mile relay team being disqualified during its semifinal heat Friday night.

would like to know how only one official saw that when something like that should have been visible to everyone.

Bethany said it could be proven to him that his team was at fault then he would gracefully accept the decision.

FORESHADOW — When Brent Dabbs (pitching) walked Lions leadoff batter Mark Ebenkamp, it proved to be a picture of things to come. Ebenkamp stole second and third and scored in the first inning for the first of 10 runs for the Lions Club, which defeated Pampa Hardware, 10-0, Thursday night in Babe Ruth action at Optimist Park. John McBride is catching for Hardware.

Ideal Wins Twice To Stay Unbeaten

Ideal finished up the sixth week of this year's Babe Ruth race with two victories that kept the team in first place with a two-game lead over Lions Club and a three game margin over Grant Supply.

With only four games remaining for all clubs, Lions and Grant will need some help from the other teams if either is to overtake Ideal, which stands 10-0 for the season after last Friday nights rain - shortened clash with Ford's Body Shop.

bring him in. Davis ended the game by striking out the final batter.

Grant and Lions both won their two games last week to keep pace with Ideal's two victories. Lions beat P 12-2, and then came back, shut out Hardware, 9-0. Grant beat Pupco 7-4 and also came from behind to edge Hardware, 11-10. Hardware built up an early 9-2 lead but was unable to hold it. The game went eight innings.

The final game of the night between Cree and First National Bank will probably be played Wednesday evening.

Earlier in the week Ideal nipped Bank, 1-0. Joe Davis was on the hill for Ideal and Gary Bolch did the firing for the Bank. Both were razor sharp, giving up only two hits apiece as Bolch striking out 17 and Davis 15.

This week's action will see Ideal playing Hardware on p.m. Monday and then coming back to tangle with the Lions Club at 8 p.m. Thursday Lions will play Ford's on Monday.

Grant plays Bank in the late game on Tuesday and ends the week playing Cree on Friday.

Ashe Defeats Spain's Munoz In Tennis Open

PARIS (UPI) — American Arthur Ashe defeated Antonio Munoz of Spain 6-4, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4 Saturday, advancing to the fourth round of the French Open Tennis Championships and confirming himself as a definite contender for the $25,000 top prize money.

Ashe played a steady backcourt game, running his opponent and forcing him into errors after long rallies.

The 23-year-old Spaniard, ranked fourth in his country, hustled after Ashe's well-placed strokes, trying to match them.

Even after Ashe had won two sets the match was not yet decided.

Tournament players, where are you? The Men's West Texas is just around the dog leg and very few of you have registered.

Entry deadline is June 13 with play beginning June 20. The field is filling fast, so register now.

The rain we have had the past week has sure helped the course and we should be in top notch shape prior to the tourney. Although the hail of last Thursday left some greens in a bad condition, we made a few minor repairs and things are now looking good.

Tuborg 400 Set Today

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Spurred George Folmer will start from the pole in his first ride in the American Motors 1974 Matador today in the $80,000 Tuborg 400, the 14th event on the 28-race NASCAR Grand National calendar.

Replaced by car owner Bud Moore before the World 600 stock car race at Charlotte, N.C., two weeks ago, Folmer is driving Roger Penske's Matador on a one-race basis.

In Friday's qualifying, the 40-year-old veteran road racer from Huntington Harbour, Calif., averaged 109.555 miles per hour around Riverside's 2.62-mile road course.

As we all know, things are more expensive and seem to be going up constantly.

One of our major expenses at the lanes are the bowling pins. They used to cost $39.95 a set and now they go for $52.95 a set. We need 60 sets to fill the machines so at that price a complete outfit costs $3,177.00.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Do you know why the "bullpen" in a baseball park is called a bullpen? ... In the old days, The Bull Durham Tobacco Co. put their advertising signs on the fences in many, many ball parks around the country and a lot of their signs were located in the area of the park where relief pitchers warmed up. That area began to be called the "bullpen," and it's been that ever since.

Believe it or not, a complete 9-inning big league baseball game was once played in 51 minutes! ... It was a game between the Giants and Phils in 1919.

Here's a baseball record that just doesn't seem possible, but it's true ... The entire Chicago White Sox team of 1908 hit only three home runs ALL SEASON! ... Just think, there have been times in baseball history when one player hit three home runs in one game - but imagine, here's a whole team that totaled only three homers all year! ... It's hard to believe, but it happened.

I bet you didn't know that people have been asking about MCHBLIN 'X' for 25 years. They say a friend sent them. Come in and find out why ... let us introduce you to MCHBLIN 'X' ... the leader in steel ball radials.

He'll Never Be A Batboy Again

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI) — Paul Santry is the best pinch hitter in the league.

In the half dozen games in which he has appeared he has yet to be thrown out. But he hasn't hit the ball either. "They can't get me out," the 37-inch-tall boy said Thursday. "They throw it too high. I get walked."

Paul's family lived in El Paso until 10 months ago and baseball out there was becoming a drag for the 11-year-old.

He had three years as a batboy in El Paso before he came here," his mother said. "He's gone out for the team every year, but when he got cut he ended up as a batboy. He wasn't too disappointed the first year, but last year he was pretty upset.

This year he was determined to play on the team or not. He wasn't going to be batboy again. He felt like he was ready to move up when he made the team this year he was so happy. He hasn't touched the ground yet." Paul is usually sent to pinch hit in the fourth or fifth inning of the six-inning games in the Del Rio Little League.

"I kinda crouch down," he said. "But I swing at it. I have not hit it, though."

The closest he came to an out was in one game when a pitcher worked him for a three-two count. But the next pitch sailed high and Paul trotted to first. He once hit a ball that broke his shortened bat, but the ball went foul. He keeps the splintered wood as a trophy. The highlight of his season came two games ago when he scored his first run.

"Well, I got walked," he said. "Then another guy got walked and that put me on second. And then we got a hit and I ran all the way around."

His teammates and the fans gave him a standing ovation. Paul's mother said he was 15 inches long when he was born and his condition is simply "small stature."

TRACK ELITE CHOSEN

Alvin Crenshaw, Galveston Runner Head TSWA's 1974 All-State Squad

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Sprint champion Gregory Edmonds of Galveston and middle distance runner Alvin Crenshaw of Dallas Roosevelt headed the 1974 Texas Sports Writers Association all-state track and field team announced Saturday.

For the first time the association also named a girls all-state team and it was paced by Fort Worth Paschal's Linda Cornelius, Baird's Kathy Jones and Ropesville's Karen Arp.

Edmonds was a unanimous choice in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, events he won in the state meet earlier this year. He ran a 9.2 in the 100 and a 20.9 in the 200 this season.

Crenshaw made the all-state team for the third straight year in the 880-yard run and Refugio's Curtis Isaiah made the all-state team in three events—the 120-yard high hurdles, the 330-yard hurdles and the high jump.

Miss Cornelius was selected to the girls' team in the 400-yard dash, the long jump and the high jump while Miss Jones was nominated in the 100-yard dash, the triple jump and the long jump.

Miss Arp had the state's best time in the 60 and 100-yard dashes.

Unanimous and repeat selections on the boys' team included:

Greg Edmonds, Galveston Ball, 100-yard dash (9.2) and 200-yard dash (20.9); Mark Collins, Burleson, 440 yard dash (47.0); Bill Cork, Hamlin, 440-yard dash (47.2); Alvin Crenshaw, Dallas Roosevelt, 440-yard dash (47.5) and 880-yard run

(1:51.9); Jerry Ryan, North Mesquite, mile (4:16.4); Bill Blessing, Dallas Hillcrest, 330-yard hurdles (35.9).

Frank Myers, San Angelo, shot put (60-0 $\frac{1}{2}$); Leon Farmer, Killeen, discus (195-8); Steve Brown, Fort Worth Western Hills, discus (188-11); Greg Lambdin, Galveston Ball, high jump (6-10 $\frac{1}{4}$); Bud Hebert, Beaumont South Park, long jump (24-0 $\frac{1}{4}$).

Rangers Owner Says Beer Not Instrumental

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — The chief owner of the Texas Rangers believes beer is part of baseball although it helped fuel an unruly crowd that attacked his players this week.

Brad Corbett said Thursday the Rangers have made no decision on ending the promotional "10-cent beer night" because of the Cleveland incident. Hundreds of Indian fans at the Tuesday "10-cent beer night" game swarmed onto the field and attacked Ranger players.

"Personally, I think beer is a part of baseball, like peanuts and hot-dogs," Corbett said. "And I certainly think our people are too mature to get out of hand like that."

"I don't feel the Cleveland thing was just 10-cent beer. I sat in the stands with my boys and watched. Half the litter on the field was cans and bottles."

"The people who threw cherry bombs and firecrackers came prepared. And it certainly didn't help when the organist, at the height of the trouble, kept playing 'charge'."

Tom T. Hall's Story Songs Drawn From Life

By PATRICK CARR
Copyright 1974 Country Music Magazine

Tom T. Hall, known as "the storyteller," is one of country music's most prolific singers and songwriters. Most of his songs are story songs, drawn from the pages of life, and Tom has been known to dash off a verse or two on the back of a napkin or whatever else is handy when a song strikes him.

This can happen anywhere: on the banks of his favorite trout stream; en route to a concert aboard his bus; or in a lonely motel room on Thanksgiving Day, which is where, in 1972, he was inspired to write the now famous "Spokane Motel Blues."

Another important element in Tom's songs is the relative simplicity, which makes them so listenable. They're easy to remember. But, strange as it may seem, these highly desirable characteristics can create problems.

"Spokane Motel Blues," for instance, caused a good deal of hand-wringing among the city fathers of Spokane, Washington, who were particularly concerned about the city's image since it was to be the site of the Expo '74 World's Fair. After being bombarded with complaints, Tom decided he owed the town a favor.

By the time he got around to paying off, however, by staging a benefit concert for Spokane's Sierra Club a few weeks ago, an apology almost wasn't necessary.

Prior to the concert, which netted the ecology group $5,000, Spokane's Mayor Davis Rodgers issued a proclamation praising Hall's song for providing the city with badly-needed recognition at a time when they were hard-pressed for pre-Expo publicity. To top it off, a citizen's committee gave him a standing ovation.

"It was some apology," Tom noted, before heading back to the recording studio to solve another problem connected to the success of his recent hit, "I Love."

Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, they say, but Tom was apparently getting a bit tired of people greeting him with a recitation of verses concerning their particular "loves."

Detecting some sarcasm in these compliments, Tom went into the studio to cut a song entitled "That Song is Driving Me Crazy."

DOT'S RECORDS
Dot Records has a lot to crow about these days. Two of the label's artists, Roy Clark and Diana Trask, performed at the recent White House Correspondents Dinner. A relatively new Dot artist, Brian Collins, is enjoying exceptionally heavy sales with his version of the country standard, "Statue of a Fool."

Does this have something to do with the fact that Jim Foglesong, Dot's president, practices yoga almost daily in his Nashville offices?

CONCERT AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

They may not be the jet set, but George Jones and Tammy Wynette completely captivated New Yorkers during their recent annual concert in the Big Apple. The Epic recording artists packed Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum and delivered a particularly exciting performance featuring their greatest hits.
