3 WOMEN SETTLERS KILLED

Guerrillas Attack Israeli Village

United Press International Arab guerrillas attacked the Israeli village of Shamir today in what they said was a protest against President Nixon's Middle East visit aimed at changing the "ugly face of America." Israeli authorities said three women settlers were slain before the three or four guerrillas were killed. A Palestinian guerrilla spokesman in Damascus said several groups of Arab commandos were involved and that they had seized 700 Israelis as hostages and were holding them to demand the release of 100 guerrillas held in Israeli jails. The Palestinian spokesman said later that the guerrillas blew up themselves and their hostages. He did not repeat the figure of 700 but said Israel was trying to "cover up the operation and to belittle its magnitude."

UPI Correspondent Richard C. Gross, reporting from the honey-producing kibbutz village of Shamir near the Lebanese frontier, made no mention of the Palestinian hostage claims and said the incident ended after an hour and 40 minute gunbattle.

FROM SENATORS

Kissinger Wins Strong Backing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who has threatened to quit unless he is cleared of allegations that he ordered wiretaps, has won strong, initial backing in the Senate.

More than 40 senators, including Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, have signed a resolution calling Kissinger's "integrity and veracity" above reproach.

Kissinger, touring in the Middle East with President Nixon, has remained silent since his emotion-charged news conference in Salzburg, Austria, Tuesday, when he threatened to resign unless he was cleared by "some responsible forum."

But angry Republicans sharply attacked the House Judiciary Committee, as the source of allegations that Kissinger ordered wiretaps on 17 newsmen and government officials from 1969 through 1971.

Leaked to Newspapers Kissinger denied under oath Sept. 7 that he initiated the wiretaps. He said he only provided the names of persons who had access to classified information that was leaked to newspapers. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, Sens. Barry M.

Goldwater, R-Ariz., Edward Gurney, R-Fla., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., presidential counselor Dean Burchard and Vice President Gerald R. Ford all denounced the leaks of FBI documents on the wiretap controversy to several newspapers and the use of them by the media.

Goldwater accused the Washington Post of "an act of treason" for quoting secret FBI memos as contradicting Kissinger's account. He added that national security was the important issue not "nitpicking" over whether Kissinger might have told a "falsehood" when testifying about his role in the wiretapping at his confirmation hearing.

Burchard blamed "back door, back biting" news leaks from the Judiciary Committee or its staff as the source of information against Kissinger. Ford accused "pro-impachment" forces of leaking such information with "ulterior motives."

Unequivocal Declaration Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said an unequivocal declaration by President Nixon would clear up the matter for Kissinger. "I cannot imagine that anybody would initiate this on his own and surely without presidential approval, and I cannot imagine J. Edgar Hoover taking orders from any underling," Humphrey said.

An attempt by Rep. Joseph Maraziti, R-N.J., to have the House Judiciary Committee hold an open hearing today to declare its confidence in Kissinger was ruled out of order by chairman Peter Rodino, R-N.J.

Few Absentee Ballots Cast In City Post Race

Only six absentee ballots had been cast up until noon today in the city election set for next Tuesday to pick a Ward 4 write-in candidate for city commissioner.

Deadline for the absentee balloting was 5 p.m. today.

Three candidates have publicly announced intentions to seek the post. They are Kermit E. Rasco, 1009 Prairie Dr., an employee of Cabot Corp. Research and Development Department; A. C. Thompson, 1085 Varnon Dr., employee of Cities Service Co., and Linden Shepherd, employe of Panhandle Industrial Co.

Tuesday's balloting will be city-wide although the candidate must be a resident of Ward 4 with required qualifications for the office.

There will be no names on the election ballot. Voters must write in the correct name of their choice.

There will be only one voting place — the City Commission Room at City Hall. Votes may be cast from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Egyptians Continue To Welcome Nixon

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — Millions of Egyptians, traveling by camel, donkey, oxcart and foot, left their work in the fields to honor President Nixon as a new friend and peacemaker on a campaign style train ride through the Nile Valley.

Nixon described himself as "overwhelmed" by the massive show of esteem for him and First Lady Pat Nixon.

It was "a magnificent reception," Nixon told newsmen on the train when asked his reaction to the throngs that gathered along the 130 miles of tracks that carried him and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat from Cairo to the Mediterranean port of Alexandria.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, estimated on his own that 3 1/2 million persons saw Nixon during the 3 1/2 hour ride from Cairo to Alexandria's Ras El Tin Palace where the Nixons will stay during their overnight stay.

Nixon and Sadat rode side-by-side on the train's observation platform. Nixon had expected crowds but he began swinging his head from side to side in disbelief as the dimensions of the crowd and its emotions gripped him.

The two presidents used the snail-paced ride to discuss Geneva negotiations to reach a permanent peace in the Mideast. They told newsmen they agreed Arab leaders should hold what Sadat called a "little summit" before meeting with Israel.

Before going to a summit conference, a number of leaders representing different points of view should have bilateral discussions," Nixon said. In response to questions, he said this need not apply to Israel.

Everywhere along the train route there were signs of the changing Egyptian-U.S. relations that had been hostile for nearly two decades until Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began his peace missions six months ago that set the stage for Nixon's five-nation tour.

Kissinger, who since his resignation threat Tuesday in Austria has stayed in the background so that Nixon might reap the honors, received a separate burst of applause when he got off the train in Alexandria.

At one point along the route, at Kafr El Zayat, one of the thousands of children who watched the train pass, 7-year-old Sahar Mohammad, said she had never actually heard of Nixon. Asked if she had heard of the United States, she replied, "Yes, they are the war people."

"No, no, no," her mother Fat'ha hastily corrected. "Now we are friends."

At Tanta, about half way between Cairo and Alexandria, trucks with loudspeakers explained to the crowds that the United States is now Egypt's friend and that this is the reason Nixon's pictures are everywhere.

"We greet Mr. Nixon with love, appreciation and fellowships," the sound truck told the crowds.

And everywhere were the chants of "Nix-on...Nixon" that sometimes even drowned out the noise of the train.

"I've never seen people so excited and emotional," said a White House official aboard the train. "This is for a President who has run into hostile placards in the U.S.," referring to Nixon's impeachment troubles over Watergate back home.

About 30,000 policemen were turned out for security purposes along the train route, carrying automatic weapons. Helicopters followed Nixon's motorcade through the streets of Alexandria.

Security measures are expected to increase as Nixon continues his journey through the Mideast, especially in view of an Arab guerrilla attack today at the Israeli settlement of Shamir.

Nixon and his wife will spend the night at Ras El Tin Palace, from where King Farouk went into exile in 1952, before returning to Cairo Friday for a visit to the pyramids. He will depart Friday for Saudi Arabia and then will go on to Syria, Israel and Jordan.

"Long live Nixon!" shouted the crowd as Nixon left the Cairo station. He responded with smiles, waves and the V sign Nixon is so noted for giving - hands over his head, two fingers spread apart.

All along the train route, workers left the fields to watch the train. Women, usually waiting in the background because of Moslem custom, were up front, holding up their children.

"I made arrangements for this special trip to pass by this place where I could see them," said Abdul Hak Ahmed, 36, who led a string of four camels to a spot where the train passed. "I want to go to Mecca most of all but I want to be here, too."

"It's unbelievable," Ziegler said. "My God, it's unbelievable."

FOR EHRLICHMAN

Gesell Defers Trial Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge Gerhard A. Gesell today deferred a decision on whether John D. Ehrlichman should go on trial next week as originally scheduled now that the White House has agreed to give the former presidential aide some documents he wanted.

The federal district judge met with lawyers for the President and Ehrlichman in his chambers for almost two hours this morning to discuss the arrangement whereby Ehrlichman can examine materials he said are needed for his defense in the Ellsberg break-in case.

There was no word after the meeting whether Gesell would order Ehrlichman tried at the same time as three other defendants in the case. The judge earlier in the week put off the Ehrlichman trial indefinitely because of White House refusal to let Ehrlichman's lawyers look at his old White House files.

"It now appears that some sort of an order will be issued by the judge tomorrow," a spokesman for Gesell said. He said the judge would meet with the lawyers again Friday morning.

Ehrlichman was said to have returned to the West Coast earlier in the week but was back at the federal courthouse today.

Ehrlichman is the chief defendant remaining in the Ellsberg case, set for trial Monday. He is accused of having over-all responsibility for the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Only two days ago Gesell said he was severing Ehrlichman's trial from that of the remaining three defendants in the case because of Nixon's refusal to permit both Ehrlichman and his lawyer to have access to Ehrlichman's old files. Gesell indicated then that he might hold Nixon in contempt of court.

No Severance On Wednesday White House Counsel J. Fred Buzhardt Jr. said a series of papers selected from Ehrlichman's notes were being turned over by the White House. Gesell called that "a very substantial change" in the White House position and added that "possibly...no severance or continuance as to Ehrlichman is necessary."

Obviously relieved, Gesell indicated the switch in the White House position came just in time to avoid a contempt citation against Nixon. "I was about to reach a decision none of us would have liked to see," the judge said. "I hope we now can go ahead and avoid that decision."

But it appeared that decision may have simply been postponed. Buzhardt told reporters later that privilege has not been waived in respect to materials Ehrlichman may yet demand. He said Nixon still insists that he, not the court, is the final judge of what evidence to surrender.

County Awards Contract For Paving Parking Lot

At today's meeting of the Gray County Commissioners Court, Lewis Construction Co. of Dumas was awarded a contract for paving of the Courthouse Annex parking lot.

Their bid was $8,266.30.

Two other firms bid on the project. They were G.W. James Materials Co., Pampa, whose bid was $14,014; and E.D. Baker Corp., Borger, with a bid of $15,266.30.

The Lewis firm, after the county has provided dirt work, grading and curb and gutter preparations, will lay a hot-mix asphalt coating on the lot.

The work is to be coordinated with the county's preparatory work, the job to be completed in October.

After paying of bills and authorizing time deposits of $25,000 for 60 days, the Commissioners Court conferred with members of the State Highway Patrol regarding possible purchase by the county of auxiliary radio equipment to be installed in patrol cars.

The court also had scheduled for today's session the following items:

—A resolution regarding full salary retirement plan deductions in the Texas District and County Retirement System.

—Consideration of the welfare and treasurer reports.

—Request from Community Day Care Center for $500 of Revenue Sharing funds for improvements to the center.

—Request by Texas Highway Department for review of Draft Environmental Statement for a four-mile stretch of Highway 40 in the Groom vicinity.

—Request of sheriff's department for application to Criminal Justice Council for a planning grant for jail and courthouse improvements.

—Request by District Judge for application to Criminal Justice Council for adult probation program.

—Independent audit of county offices by Wayne Brown.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT — Mark Adair, 1227 Christine, pulls in for a parallel parking practice while his partner, Bruce Reeves, 1924 N. Dwight, watches the procedure at the M.K. Brown Auditorium parking lot. The two are among the students taking driver's education during the summer session conducted by Pampa High School. Students received their learner's permits Saturday and will end class instruction Tuesday. Driving practice will continue into July.

Commissioners Delay Meeting For 2nd Time

This week's regular meeting of the Pampa City Commission was postponed today for the second time.

Due to the death last night of Mrs. Lalar Wilkerson, mother of Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, and the hospitalization of Ward 3 Commissioner Leo Braswell the meeting was re-set for 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Braswell was in Worley Hospital this morning undergoing tests following a sudden illness on his return Tuesday night from the Ninth Annual Conference of Mayors and Councilmen in Corpus Christi.

Commissioners Ray Thompson and Joe Curtis, who also attended the Corpus Christi meeting, conferred with City Manager Mack Wofford this morning and agreed to postpone the scheduled council session until Monday.

Lawyers Seek Tape To Study IRS Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Judiciary Committee lawyers say a tape now in the hands of Judge John J. Sirica is critical to their inquiry into charges President Nixon used the Internal Revenue Service to retaliate against his enemies.

The committee hoped to complete the closed-door presentation of evidence on the IRS allegations today.

But it will be without the last 15 minutes of a Sept. 15, 1972, tape in which Nixon is said to have discussed the matter.

Special Counsel John Doar said he hoped the committee could get the tape before completing the impeachment probe.

Washington, D.C., describing the tape as "highly relevant," ordered it sent to a grand jury, but said he was powerless to give it to the judiciary committee.

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, said he would appeal Sirica's order.

The committee has the first part of the tape, including a section where Nixon said to John W. Dean III, according to the White House transcripts:

"I want the most comprehensive notes on all those who tried to do us in. They didn't have to do it. They are asking for it and they are going to get it. We have not used the power in the first four years as you know. We have never used it but things have changed now."

In that part of the conversation Nixon mentioned using the FBI and the Justice Department against White House enemies, but there have been public allegations that use of the IRS was discussed in the latter portion the committee does not have.

Two moderate Democratic congressmen said there was evidence presented Wednesday to show that the White House used the IRS to harass its enemies. But they added that nothing in the evidence yet links Nixon with the actions of his aides.

"That's why the tape is so important. We want to know if the orders came from the President," one of the Democrats said.

After the committee finishes the IRS probe, it will turn to the question of Nixon's impoundment of up to $18 billion worth of congressionally approved expenditures.

AT ANNUAL CONVENTION Baptists Vote Down Proposal Banning Women's Ordination

DALLAS (UPI) — Delegates to the 129th annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention Tuesday defeated a constitutional amendment prohibiting ordination of women into the ministry and left the controversial issue of ordination of women up to each member church.

Ordination and the whole role of women in the upper echelons of church life and decision making has been called by the delegates as the major issue of the convention.

Several churches affiliated with the 12.3 million member denomination have recently ordained women as both deacons and ministers although the Baptist organization does not specifically say women can hold the positions.

Mrs. Richard Sappington, the wife of a Houston pastor, introduced for the second straight year a constitutional amendment prohibiting ordination of women as ministers or chaplains by the denominations boards and agencies, such as the SBC's Christian Life Commission has done.

Mrs. Sappington, who claimed to be inspired by the "Holy Spirit," grabbed the microphone Wednesday night and shouted, "I am a Southern Baptist woman — and free. I don't want to serve the denomination because laws require it."

"Ordination of women could revolutionize our church," she said.

The 17,600 delegates defeated her amendment, but also defeated a recommendation by the Christian Life Commission that women comprise one fifth of the SBC boards. The Christian Life Commission report said 55 per cent of the Southern Baptist Convention's members were women but that only 5 per cent made up board, committee and commission membership.

The delegates also tabled another part of the report which would have endorsed the ordination of women. The tabled portion urged the rejection of "discrimination against women in job placement, by providing equal pay for equal work and by electing women to positions of leadership for which God's gift and the Holy Spirit's calling equip them."

Two other similar amendments face delegates Thursday.

Neither the hospital nor a White House spokesman said a firm prognosis had been made and characterized Buzhardt's ailment as a "mild coronary."

The White House spokesman said the President, who is in Egypt on the first leg of his Middle East tour, had been informed of his counsel's illness.

The White House issued a statement 10 hours after Buzhardt was admitted to the hospital saying he was "currently under observation." It added, "Doctors list his condition as serious but stable and he is resting comfortably."

Extremists of the right and left have staged kidnappings and bombings and government officials have been involved in bribery scandals.

"Things cannot go on in this way," Communist party leader Enrico Berlinguer said after meeting Wednesday with Leone. He said Italy has been run by a "confused and incoherent leadership, lacking in moral strictness and unstable."

Peron Decides Not To Resign
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The entire Argentine cabinet resigned Wednesday night to give President Juan D. Peron a free hand to reorganize the government after he hastily withdrew his own threat to quit.

The 78-year-old president said he would step down Wednesday morning but changed his mind hours later when crowds of up to 100,000 workers converged upon the city's central Plaza de Mayo to shout support for him.

Peron took no immediate action on the subsequent move by all eight members of the cabinet to submit their resignations to help him better deal with a rising tide of strikes, shortages of consumer goods, and violence between rightists and leftists.

"When I came to this country, it was to unite and not to promote disunity among Argentines," Peron said in a radio and television address.

"If I find that this sacrifice is in vain I will not hesitate one instant in ceding this position to someone who can occupy it with better possibilities," Peron returned to Argentina from nearly 18 years of forced exile in June, 1973, and was elected to a third presidential term, which began eight months ago.

Thief Takes 'Large' Haul
Whoever stole Gregory Rollins' clothes from a laundry dryer Tuesday night surely must be either a rather large man or someone willing to try to peddle big-size clothing.

Rollins, whose home address is North Easton, Mass., reported to police at 9:30 p.m. that he washed his clothes, then placed them in a dryer at Day and Nite Laundry, 916 W. Wilks, went out on some errands and returned to find his clothes missing.

The inventory runs like this: Eight pairs pants; 14 short sleeve shirts; 12 pair socks, 14 pairs drawers; 12 T-shirts; three sheets, and four pillow cases. The police report notes: "All sizes would be Extra Large, as complainant weighs about 300 pounds."

SET FOR JUNE 20 Reception Planned For Malones

Reception Planned For Malones

A reception honoring Dr. and Mrs. James F. Malone and their daughter Terri is being planned for June 20 by a group consisting of representatives of Pampa classroom teachers and administrators, along with members of the Pampa Garden Club.

Dr. Malone, who recently resigned as Pampa superintendent of schools after six years of service, has also, along with his wife and daughter, been active in civic and church affairs.

The reception will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown auditorium.

The group sponsoring the reception notes that, in addition to his school duties, Dr. Malone is a member of the First Baptist Church, the Community Concert Ass'n, the Fine Arts Association and the local Knife and Fork Club. He is immediate past president of the latter organization.

Mrs. Jo Malone currently serves as District 4 governor of the Beauty Texas Council and plans to attend the council's annual meeting June 18-19 in Austin, where she will represent the 17 county Top O' Texas area.

Church-related activities include membership in the choir; teaching of 11th grade Sunday School for four years; and support chairman of WMU Mission work.

She has also written many book reviews for organizations in Pampa and other area towns. Her most recent work includes reviews supplied to organizations in Fort Worth, Dallas, Amarillo and Arlington.

A frequent contributor of Christmas stories to groups and churches, Mrs. Malone holds membership in the following organizations: El Progreso Study Club — past president.

Junior Service League — co-chairman, Career Clinic, 1972-73.

Texas Garden Clubs — youth communications chairman, for which she received special presidential citation at the state convention in April, for "outstanding leadership."

In the same organization she holds a life membership and has served as district Environmental chairman.

Pampa Garden Club — current and past president; during 1973-74 term, provided leadership in landscaping of M.K. Brown auditorium grounds, now in progress.

Pampa Environmental Foundation — currently member board of directors; organizer and charter member.

Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee — (since 1970). She was named Pampa Garden Club Gardener of the year in 1972.

Mrs. Malone was the organizer of two other local groups, the Junior Garden Club and Las Pampas "How to Grow" Club.

Terri Malone, who graduated with honors from Pampa High School this year, has been active in choir, speech and drama events.

She played the lead in "Hello Dolly" which was produced this year by the senior high choir and drama groups.

Miss Malone plans to enroll at Baylor University next year.

High School this fall, drowned Tuesday after jumping 15 feet from a cliff into a pond in northwest Amarillo.

Other survivors include his parents, four brothers and three sisters.

MRS. REBA GIBSON HASKELL — Funeral services for Mrs. Reba Gibson, 70, a former Pampa resident, were held today at 2 p.m. in the Haskell Church of Christ.

Rev. Larry Suttle officiated for the services and burial was conducted in Willow Cemetery by Holden McCauley Funeral Home of Haskell.

Mrs. Gibson, 70, died Sunday in Charlotte, N.C. She married Marvin A. Gibson Jan. 31, 1936 in Jacksboro, Tex. He preceded her in death in 1969.

She and her husband resided in Pampa for 10 years.

Survivors include one daughter, two brothers, two sisters and three grandchildren.

NOEL PORTERFIELD LEFORS — Funeral services for Noel N. Porterfield, 65, who died at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Amarillo, are pending with Carmichael-Whately Funeral Directors.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Porterfield had been a resident of Lefors since 1929.

He was born in Wichita Falls and was a member of the Lefors Church of Christ.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Nell Trumm, 2204 N. Zimmers, and Mrs. Iris Barron of Abilene.

Buzhardt Has Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — J. Fred Buzhardt, one of President Nixon's top lawyers in his Watergate defense, suffered an apparent heart attack early today and was reported in serious condition at a hospital.

Peggy Pond, a spokesman for Fairfax Hospital in suburban Falls Church, Va., said Buzhardt, 50, suffered "severe chest pains" and described his condition as serious. He was admitted at 12:23 a.m. EDT, she said.

Buzhardt lives in Fairfax, Va., about 15 miles from Washington.

Neither the hospital nor a White House spokesman said a firm prognosis had been made and characterized Buzhardt's ailment as a "mild coronary."

The White House spokesman said the President, who is in Egypt on the first leg of his Middle East tour, had been informed of his counsel's illness.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In 1972, according to the National Geographic Society, 47 per cent of the nation's population, or 74,400,000 people, went on picnics.

Well and good. But did they all have to show up at the Commodore Claus von Frigate Memorial State Park on the same day?

I remember the day well because the other 73,499,999 picnickers got there ahead of me. It was a beautiful Sunday afternoon. Or it was when my group arrived.

By the time we found a place to spread our hamper, it was late Thursday. And the deviled eggs were at a stage where not even exorcism could save them.

Although 1972 was the last year for which picnicking statistics are available, it is plain that the saturation point already has been reached.

Some days the horde of picnickers is so large there aren't enough ants to go around.

I learned about the ant shortage from Fermus Wangtree, executive secretary of the National Association of Open Air Gourmets.

Ant Shortage
"No picnic is complete without a few ants crawling around on the red-checked tablecloth and scaling the thermos bottle," Wangtree said.

"Sad to say, however, the ant colonies in many parks and other outdoor facilities are too small to accommodate the crowds, especially holidays and weekends."

"Some picnic grounds are trying to meet the emergency by importing ants, but it takes time to get a colony established."

I asked Wangtree why ants had suddenly become so scarce.

"There is still an abundance of ants of many varieties," he replied. "You can find all the harvester ants, carpenter ants, fire ants and sugar ants you could ask for.

"It is only the North American picnic ant that is getting hard to come by."

"Although the picnic ant population has been growing at a fairly respectable rate, it has not kept pace with the massive growth of picnicking."

"Picnic ants presently are spread so thin that, despite overtime shifts, they simply can't fill all the demand for their services."

I asked Wangtree whether any sort of remedy was in sight.

"Fortunately, yes," he said. "It won't be long before places that sell paper plates, ice for coolers and other picnic equipment also will offer carryout ants."

"They will be available in six or eight-ant assortments, each pre-packaged in handy plastic containers that you can take along with you."

That is good news indeed. And if it doesn't work, I suppose the next step will be artificial ants.

Small White Migratory Birds Causing Trouble

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — A small, snow-white bird about two feet tall that keeps company with cattle is causing a lot of headaches for state and federal game officials and at least one Central Texas businessman.

In late spring about 5,000 cattle egrets and a few blue herons established a rookery, or nesting ground, in a grove of scrub oak and bushes behind the 7-Inn West Motel near busy Interstate Highway 35.

Motel manager Jack Laine said the birds caused a stench that was driving customers away.

"They started flying, dropping their mess all over cars, all over windows and the sidewalks," Laine said. "It smelled bad and the birds were hollering, sounding like a bunch of chickens."

Ed Gummelt, Waco businessman and a stockholder in the motel, said local health department officials told them there was nothing they could do.

Gummelt then tried to find someone to spray the area with water to drive the birds away but no one would take the job because of the stench.

Gummelt finally contracted with the T. W. Knowles Co. to clear the brush in the area with a bulldozer, hoping it would alleviate the smell.

The bulldozer only caused more problems for the motel.

As the brush was being cleared, some trees were knocked down, routing the birds from their nests. The adult birds swarmed into the air in a giant white cloud and many newborn chicks fell to the ground with their nests.

Police stopped the bulldozing after several persons had complained the destruction was illegal.

Federal and state officials said laws prevented anyone from destroying the birds' nests during the nesting season.

"Yes, there were one or two trees knocked over," Gummelt said, when asked if he knew the extent of the clearing.

"Future development had nothing to do with it," he said. "We intended to put in a trailer court, but at no particular time. The purpose was to clean out the underbrush to clear up a health hazard."

Since the egret is a migratory bird, federal as well as state wildlife officials were asked to investigate the situation and offer solutions.

"Really, the only solution when you have a problem like this occur in an urban area is to move the birds to another roosting site," said Darrel Juve, district supervisor with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"I don't think it has serious overtones, but it really is a touchy situation," he said.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist John C. Smith said the federal agency will have to solve the problem since the federal government wrote treaties with Japan and Mexico concerning migratory birds. Juve said harassment tactics sometimes are effective — spraying the birds with water or exploding firecrackers — but that persons living in the area of the rookery also are affected.

The solution in this case, Juve said, may be to simply wait until the young birds are able to fly in about three or four weeks.

"We're going to continue to have these problems," Smith said. "The cattle egret is really booming in Texas."

Smith said the bird began migrating to Texas in 1955 and originally was from Europe. It gets its name from its habit of hanging around cattle, which stir up insects which the egret eats.

"It's a problem of interaction between wild animals and human beings," Juve said. "I think we tend to underestimate some species in their adaptability. These birds can live and reproduce in urban areas."

Butch Young, Parks and Wildlife Department biologist, said some of the public furor over the egrets has died down.

"Some people interested in the birds picked up some of them and saved them," Young said. "It seems to have stabilized. We saved all we could."

Young said the state does not plan to take any legal action against Gummelt.

"We're still looking at the thing," said Thomas L. Striegler, special agent for the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "The old boy that owned the property had a legitimate problem. There's no doubt about it."

"At this time we're still trying to assess the thing and see how much actual damage was done to the rookery and so forth."

Striegler said. "We're not in the position now to say whether we are or aren't contemplating legal action."

Right now, Laine is mostly concerned about his business, which he said has picked up somewhat after the bulldozing incident.

"It's doing pretty good, but they're still there and it's still pretty smelly," Laine said. "But you can't do anything about it."

Science Today

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Robert A. Citron, perhaps more than any other man, is constantly reminded of the violent nature of this planet and the abuse heaped upon it by its allegedly most intelligent animal — man.

Earthquakes, floods, volcanic eruptions, oil spills, bird and fish kills, defoliation, discovery of Stone Age-type people, meteorites and the strange doings of the kingdoms of animals and insects are all just part of a day's work for Citron and his staff at the Smithsonian Institution Center for Short-Lived Phenomena.

Finding out about these things is just the beginning for the center. The major function is swiftly alerting scientists and experts around the world via its vast communications network so research teams can investigate on a scope previously unavailable.

A Better Understanding
What has resulted is a better understanding of this planet and a heightened realization man had best mend his ways.

Citron has been director of the center since its founding in 1968, and that gives him a unique view of the situation.

The center started small but found such widespread acceptance in the scientific community that its growth has been considered a phenomenon in its own right.

The center acts as an early ecological alert system and clearing house for gathering and distributing information on short-lived events, both natural and man-caused. Using more than 3,000 correspondents around the world, the center is able to alert interested persons in various disciplines about occurring events via telephone, cable, telegram and teletype circuits.

This has allowed scientists unprecedented opportunities for field research.

The events covered fall under four basic categories: earth science, biological science, astrophysical and urgent anthropological events.

Citron, reflecting on six years as head of the center, said the most important thing that has resulted is the knowledge that the earth is a "very terribly dynamic planet." Many things people think are unusual are really routine as far as nature is concerned, such as earthquakes and volcanic eruptions.

"When we started, scientists weren't aware whether there were five or 10 volcanic eruptions a year," Citron said. "Now we know there are at least 20 or 30 a year."

The other vital knowledge, the scope of which might have escaped public awareness had it not been for the center, is "the incredible increase in pollution events that we've reported," Citron said.

The center covered 22 pollution events in 1970, 20 the following year, 27 in 1972 and 57 last year.

"Man, by his myriad of activities, is creating more havoc with the environment than he ever has before," he said. "We've noted a distinctive increase in the number of pollution events — oil spills, fish kills, defoliation and chemical poisoning of fish and wildlife."

Citron thinks the center's constant worldwide vigilance may help spur governments to curb such potentially catastrophic events.

Dairy sanitarians of the Oregon Department of Agriculture made a total of 4,245 inspections during 1973.

Let's Ask the Cook

by Nan Wiley

By NAN WILEY
Dear Nan:
I always look forward to your column and have found many interesting and unique ideas. Do you have any recipes for using "white chocolate?" I have been told that those who cannot eat regular chocolate can tolerate this.

At one time I believe you gave directions for dipping pretzels, but I am interested in knowing if the coating can be used for other things like fudge or frostings. — Rosa P. Emery, Gastonia, N.C.

The last time I gave a recipe for white chocolate fudge was back in 1970 so I guess it's time for a rerun. It was sent to me by a thoughtful reader at Plattsburg, Mo.

Put one & one-third cups sugar, 1/2 stick margarine (2 ounces) and two-thirds cup evaporated milk in a double boiler. After bringing to a full rolling boil, cook for 5 minutes. Take from heat, add 1/2 pound of "white chocolate" which has been chopped into pieces, 2 cups miniature marshmallows, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup nuts.

Stir until smooth. Beat to spreading consistency. Pour into plastic meat trays covered with waxed paper or into shallow metal trays lightly greased with butter.

Many prized recipes are contained in the booklet, "Nan's Recipes You've Loved and Lost." To get your copy, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nan Wiley in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Consumer Market Report

COLLEGE STATION — It's a good time for meat "madcaps" to stock up, according to most sources. One is Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She reports beef production higher than last year, pork prices down a little, and turkeys available "in record quantities with very attractive prices."

"Beef specials take careful shopping and likely will include chuck cuts, round steak, liver and ground meat. Pork values will be Boston butt, quarter-loin chops, loin-end roasts, smoked picnics and hams."

Turning to vegetables, Mrs. Clyatt said there's "good news" for onion lovers — big crops and prices about half what they were last year.

More lettuce is available, as are escarole, endive, beet tops and leaf lettuce. Carrots, celery, cabbage, tomatoes, radishes, cooking greens, cucumbers and yellow squash are other choices.

"Peaches are on the market, but prices are high. Cantaloupe, honeydew and watermelon prices are relatively high."

"Citrus supplies are only fair, as the end of the season. The military government of Chile this year banned the practice and teaching of karate, judo and jujitsu."

since the coating doesn't melt. When I get to the place where the stuff isn't deep enough for dipping, I just toss in all the broken pretzel bits (chow mein noodles, raisins, nuts or chopped maraschino cherries work, too), coat well, then drop them from a teaspoon onto waxed paper to make chunky morsels.

I well recall that some of the chocolate manufacturers about had a spell when I first referred to it as "white chocolate," because there is a government ruling that it doesn't contain enough chocolate liqueur to be termed chocolate, but that's what we "civilians" keep calling it. Properly it should be called white coating.

The one thing to remember when melting it by itself in the top of a double boiler is to have the water just hot, never simmering. Cover the top and take from heat entirely. Stir occasionally.

It will take about half an hour to melt depending on how much you are working with. If the water gets too hot your chipped or grated coating will go back to a rock hard stage and there is nothing you can do then to remelt it.

Many prized recipes are contained in the booklet, "Nan's Recipes You've Loved and Lost." To get your copy, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nan Wiley in care of The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Savory "Tuna Diagonal" New Slant On Hot Main Dish

While prices have soared on most complete protein foods, canned tuna still gives you value for your money — especially when it comes to fixing a satisfying hot main dish, such as this "Tuna Diagonal." The casserole's stripe-y garnish is made with toasted bread cubes and chopped parsley. Underneath is a delectable blend of canned tuna in vegetable oil, vegetables and a sauce quickly concocted with canned soup. "Tuna Diagonal" is a winner. You can count on it to provide your family with indispensable complete protein at a moderate price.

For additional inflation-beating tuna recipes, send for your free copy of the colorful "Tuna: As You Like It" cookbook. Send your request with name, address and zip code to: Tuna Research Foundation, 215 Cannery St., Terminal Island, Calif. 90731.

Tuna Diagonal
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium green pepper, coarsely cut
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, quartered
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1/2 cup milk
2 cans (6 1/2 oz.) 7-ounces each tuna in vegetable oil
Buttered bread cubes (about 1 1/2 cups)
Finely chopped parsley (about 1/2 cup)

Heat butter in saucepan. Add green pepper, mushrooms and onion. Cook, stirring occasionally, until tender, about 10 minutes. Add soup, milk and tuna; mix well. Turn into a shallow 1 1/2-quart casserole. Put buttered bread cubes in diagonal rows on top of casserole. Bake in 350° F. oven, 30 minutes. Remove from oven. Sprinkle parsley on spaces between buttered bread cubes. YIELD: 4 servings.

Note: If desired, substitute 1 1/2 cups diagonally sliced celery for mushrooms and use cream of mushroom soup instead of celery soup.

Homesickness A Peculiar Pain

COLLEGE STATION — Homesickness is misery. But it is even more than that — loneliness, hostility, guilt, depression, and self-imposed failure, according to one family life education specialist.

"Homesickness can strike both children and adults unexpectedly, even in the middle of planning activities and events," says Dorothy Taylor with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Since summer is often a time of moving, changing jobs and vacationing away from home, it's a 'prime time' for homesickness," the specialist said. She recommended "homesick awareness" and some preventive steps.

"Entering strange or new situations makes a person more aware of his need for security. He will find this security through accepting himself and being able to make and meet his personal goals," Miss Taylor says. Keeping busy often helps defeat homesickness. "But here," she warns, "there is the danger of entering too many activities, getting extremely tired and bringing about another stressful situation — exhaustion."

College Notes

PITTSBURG, Kan. — Fred Hild received a master of science degree and was commissioned as Second Lieutenant in the United States Army in ceremonies recently at Kansas State College of Pittsburg. His branch of service is the medical service corps.

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Ellen McDaniel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. McDaniel, 1940 Evergreen, received a master's degree in English recently from Purdue University during the University's 122nd commencement.

COLLEGE STATION — William C. Campaigne, son of W.E. Campaigne, 1824 Chestnut, has been named a Distinguished Student in veterinary medicine at Texas A&M University. He is a first year student in the College of Veterinary Medicine professional program leading to a doctor of veterinary medicine degree.

Distinguished Student status is awarded to students who earn a 3.25 or better grade point ratio out of a possible 4.0 during the spring trimester period.

DENTON — Aluminum reliefs, acrylics and drawings by Larry Hopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.V. Hopp, 825 E. Kingsmill, will be shown in The Gallery of the North Texas State University Art Building June 10-28.

Hopp, a master of fine arts degree candidate, has won several awards in the annual Voertman Competition of Student Art at NTSU.

The exhibition will feature Hopp's drawings of nudes, done with a stencil and airbrush, and his constructions of aluminum, wire and cord, often are in sections, with one section suspended from the other.

Hopp buffs or polishes the aluminum in his reliefs, and often welds the metal into layers.

AMARILLO — Johnny W. Bearden of Pampa was recently named to the President's honor roll at the Mid-Continent Campus of Texas State Technical Institute, according to Lovell A. Pillow, general manager of the Amarillo campus.

Membership to the President's honor roll is attained by maintaining a 4.0 grade average. Bearden was majoring in livestock and ranch operations and is a graduate of Pampa High School.

Robert E. Ebenkamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.J. Ebenkamp of 2108 Hamilton, was named to the Vice President's honor roll at TSTI, maintaining a 3.5 grade average. He was majoring in construction technology and is a graduate of Pampa High School.

AMARILLO — Four Pampa students were among 283 students named on the spring honor roll at West Texas State University.

Brenda J. Vick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Vick, 1206 S. Finley, had a 2.8 semester average. James F. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Keith Davis, south of city, had a 2.6 average. He is a music major.

Lisa C. Laycock, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Royce Laycock, 2400 Mary Ellen, is a biology major and held a 2.6 average. Pamela S. Balay, 601 E. Francis, a history education major, carried a 2.5 average.

In order to be eligible for the honor roll, a student must be enrolled in at least 15 semester hours and maintain at least a 2.5 grade point average.

WICHITA FALLS — Charles Barclay Hammons, 1138 S. Dwight, received a Master of Science degree in math from Midwestern University May 18.

He will be instructor at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos while he works toward his doctorate at the University of Texas at Austin. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Hammons.

BORGER — Four area students were recently initiated into the Eta Iota Chapter of the national honor fraternity, Phi Theta Kappa.

New members from the area are Susan Kay Barrett and Jim Tom Pepper, Pampa, and Eve Dee Kinsey and Glenda Trapp, Perryton.

The fraternity strives to promote scholarship on junior college campuses, to develop character and to cultivate friendships.

AUSTIN — James Scott Gallman, 501 Magnolia, and Randy Byron Tevis and Charles David Wilson of Perryton were named to the College of Pharmacy honor roll at the University of Texas for the 1973 fall semester.

They were named to the list with high honors and qualified by accumulating at least 36 grade points (B average) for the semester.

AMARILLO — Debra

Bray, a West Texas State University junior from Pampa, was nominated for the association of Women students Woman of the Year honors.

Miss Bray, the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Bray, 1306 Hamilton, was judged by a committee along with 16 other university women on the basis of academic record, leadership and citizenship. She was nominated by the women's Athletic Association.

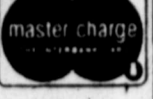

SAN ANTONIO — Mrs. Peggy Tholen, a second grade teacher who was the first student to apply for admission to the University of Texas at San Antonio, celebrated the institution's June 5 anniversary with Gov. and Mrs. Dolph Briscoe.

Approximately 670 students attended the first day of classes at UTSA on June 5, 1973. The classes, all on the graduate level, were held in a leased classroom building. By spring, the enrollment reached 1,172 and several hundred students had to be turned away because of the limited facilities and faculty.

UTSA is the largest new university under construction in the United States. The permanent campus, located on 600 acres in northwest San Antonio, can accommodate as many as 10,000 graduate and undergraduate students when the first construction phase is completed. Classes are scheduled to begin at the campus in September 1975.

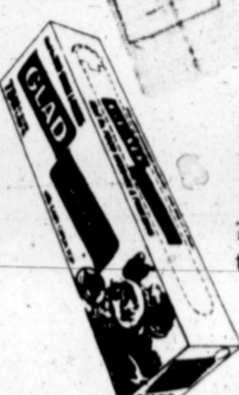

The Texas Legislature created UTSA in 1969. San Antonio was the largest urban area in the country not served by a comprehensive public supported university.

READING HER LETTER from King George V of England is Mrs. Edna York. The letter in its entirety and the envelope is at right. Mrs. York received the letter in 1918 commending her on her Red Cross work in Battle Creek, Mich. during World War I.

Pampa Resident Still Cherishes 1918 Letter From English King

By MONA WILLIAMS
During World War I, Mrs. Edna York worked as a Red Cross volunteer in Battle Creek, Mich., and today she still cherishes her letter of commendation from King George V of England.

Mrs. York, who lives at 1328 Coffee, Apartment 3, explained that she worked as a Red Cross volunteer in Battle Creek while her husband, Charles, was in the Army.

"I don't know how he came to send it to me," she said. "But I was working for the United States and when something went wrong in our chapter, I would contact the chapter in England. I bet my name was on their list more than anyone else's."

Yellowed with the years, the letter bears the crest of arms of King George V of England, who succeeded his father to the throne in 1910, and the return address of Windsor Castle.

Nurse Class Will Finish

BORGER — Vocational Nursing students of Frank Phillips College will complete in August their first annual class since merging the North Plains and Highland General Hospital programs last September.

This new consolidated program is approved by the Vocational Nurses Examining Board and the Texas Education Agency.

The second annual class of vocational nurses is scheduled to begin Aug. 19, and the tentative deadline for receipt of applications has been set for July 12.

Ample time is needed for obtaining responses from references, scheduling the pre-classification test, personal interviews, appointments with the screening committee and the physical examination which are needed for acceptance into the 1974-75 class.

Admission requirements for the next class included two years of high school or its equivalent, good physical and mental health, definite interest in nursing, pre-classification test and the approval of the screening committee. Interested persons must be between the ages of 18 and 55.

Grants and loan funds are available for needy students.

Interested persons should contact Andy Hicks, dean of the vocational technical education division, or Mrs. Ella Mae Weeter, director of the LVN program.

Both can be located in the Administration Building on the campus or by writing either of the two in care of Frank Phillips College, Box 111.

New car seats for infants
CHICAGO (UPI) — New car safety seats for children are called "love seats" by the maker.

The National Safety Council reports that General Motors is offering two seats, one for babies up to 20 pounds and the other for children between 20 and 40 pounds who can sit upright. GM says the seats have been tested extensively and evaluated by pediatricians and child safety experts.

Kaye Stevens Leads Existence Of Very Rich

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Singer-comedienne Kaye Stevens is the newest member of the cast of television's No. 1 soap opera, "Days of Our Lives," but her life style surpasses anything the script writers can dream up.

Red-haired Kaye leads the existence of the very, very rich.
Her home in Margate, Fla., 28 miles from Miami, is a showcase situated on a lake, surrounded by lawns, exotic trees and a pond that houses her pet six foot long alligator, Rufus.

Kaye's mother lives on the same property in a separate house. Both abodes are in a bird sanctuary.

Kaye moved to her hideaway 15 years ago when she was first married. She has been divorced 10 years and has no immediate intentions of remarrying.

Steady Boyfriend
Her steady boyfriend is Sam Warner Hiatt, an enormously wealthy man of 26, many years younger than Kaye. He lives in Aspen, Colo., but is content to follow Kaye around on her nightclub circuit, temporarily suspended while she stars in the NBC daily series.

Kaye's Florida home has three bedrooms. Her own is immense to compensate for the tiny chambers she occupies in hotels on the road.

All the furniture in the house was custom made. Her boudoir is a study in sunshine. The carpet is bright yellow shag, six inches deep. The draperies are yellow and white velvet. The bed rests on a dais. And her bathroom includes an 8-foot-square sunken tub.

There is a terrace off the bedroom that overlooks her pool.

Her living room is done in yellows and white with deep blue velvet divans. All the windows have shutters and the walls are decorated with paintings collected from all over the world. All the tables are glass topped.

Dining Room
Her dining room is spacious and much used. She frequently entertains 16 at sit-down dinners prepared by herself with help from her housekeeper.

Kaye rents an apartment in Beverly Hills. It is a two bedroom penthouse done in browns, dark blues, beige and lots of satin and silk. She's had the apartment for seven years.

She is poised to build a mountain-top chalet at Lake Tahoe where she owns property. She is anxious to get started because her steady fella likes to ski in that area, as does Kaye.

NBC will write Kaye in and out of "Days of Our Lives" to accommodate her three-month circuit of nightclubs on the road.

She travels with a conductor, drummer and guitar accompanist, hiring local musicians at each of her stops.

Royal Wardrobe
Kaye probably has more clothes than Jackie Kennedy Onassis and Princess Grace combined. She has individual wardrobes in Florida, Beverly Hills and Lake Tahoe where she now has a condominium.

Additionally, Kaye employs a full-time secretary who accompanies her on the road, takes care of her correspondence and does the packing.

Several years ago Kaye bought a German shepherd from the pound for $3.75 and then shelled out $3,000 to have a fence built around her Margate home to keep "Trouper" from chasing the local fauna.

Night Owl
Always a night owl, Kaye has had to reorganize her life for the television series. Now she must arise at 5 a.m. to report for rehearsal in Burbank at 7 o'clock. She rehearses every hour on the hour until noon when each episode is taped.

Kaye continues to live in Florida because it is tranquil, off the beaten show business path and because many of her friends are located in the area. It is headquarters, too, for her files of correspondence with 310 children across the nation who are in juvenile detention homes.

Each time she stops for a nightclub appearance she visits these detention homes to see the kids. That's the sort of drama rarely shown on soap operas, but illustrates the sort of woman Kaye Stevens is.

It Sims To Me...

Girls playing Little League hardball? What was once a startling thought is now a reality. Now how about this one? A woman director of Little League in Texas. Also a reality.

Jan Cochran, Little League state coordinator, is doing her best to see that the organization, which is being honored this week in National Little League Week, remains forever the institution that it is in this country. And looking at the amount of nation-wide interest in Little League, Mrs. Cochran and 49 other state coordinators are doing a pretty good job.

"We even have a senior division of Little League for boys 13 to 15. And it's bigger than Babe Ruth, Pony League, Colts and everything put together," said Mrs. Cochran, who is involved "because I've always had an active interest in sports. I guess it started with my own participation as a girl in sports."

Mrs. Cochran, who lives in Waco where the state office is located, played softball as a young girl. Ironically, she says she wouldn't have played Little League hardball if she had the chance.

"I'm not in favor of girls on the same team as boys. This New Jersey thing had highlights. It's a shame that parents won't rely on research findings and they'll press for publicity."

"She was making reference to a recent New Jersey incident where a court ruling favored a girl who desired to play on a Little League team."

"They're just not conditioned at this point. Girls are more conditioned to softball programs."

Her last statement led to another plug for the Little League program.

"There is, however," Mrs. Cochran said, "a separate program called Little League for Girls. It's softball. Little League for Girls is new this year. Division I is for 9- to 12-year-old girls and Division II is for girls 13 to 15 years old. We feel that by providing this parallel program, there will be very few parents wanting girls to participate on the same team as boys."

The Division I girls will even have a four-team World Series Aug. 31 in Williamsport, Penn., which makes the new program exactly like boys' Little League. The Division II girls will compete in respective state tournaments.

Jan Cochran sees several benefits in Little League, although the organization has encountered much opposition in recent years due to bad coaches and managers.

"Dr. Johnson (Thomas P. Johnson, M.D., consultant to public schools, Department of Probation, United States Naval Hospital in San Diego, Calif.) has participated in Little League and has been a coach and an umpire. He's put out two fine articles on what the benefits are."

"He says Little League is a method of preparing a child's personality. Praise him for his part — praise builds confidence. The coach makes it a good or bad experience. If it's a good experience, the child can maintain perspective."

Mrs. Cochran believes parents should, like her, get involved. "The involved parents are rather important to the child. I think Little League is a good program not only for keeping the child off the street but for keeping the parents active in a family program."

"And the league does need their help. They can mend fences or run concession stands."

"She added, "I feel that sometimes adults forget the purpose. We need to constantly cite this, getting parents to remember that it is a youth program for the boy."

"Concerning win-at-all-costs-minded parents and coaches, Mrs. Cochran replied, "It should be fun. We have a saying, 'if it isn't fun, it isn't Little League.'"

Coaches and managers play the most significant role in Little League since kids will try to typify the ideals and virtues they see in the manager.

"So we consider teaching sportsmanship first; skill is secondary. And I think the manager should play every kid on the team."

National Little League Week, hopes Jan Cochran, will make people stop and realize that there are still a few things around trying to keep good kids good and make bad kids good. And she also hopes the week will inspire coaches and parents to keep Little League strong.

Monterey Captures 4A Title

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Phil Hale and Dick Bathrop combined to pitch a three-hitter and Hale knocked in two runs with four hits Wednesday as South Grand Prairie whipped Mercedes 9-1 to win the state Class AAA baseball championship.

In the second game of the day, pinch hitter Richard Bowles slammed a three-run homer in the sixth inning to lead Lubbock Monterey to a 4-2 Class AAAA championship win over Houston Spring Woods. Hale started for South

Grand Prairie and went 4 1-3 innings until Bathrop relieved. Randy Sawyer and Danny Fatheree also collected two hits apiece in that game.

Scott Gardner was the winning pitcher for Lubbock Monterey allowing Spring Woods only two runs on six hits. He walked two and struck out five.

Bathrop had stopped Pecos 1-0 Tuesday on a two-hitter. He also scored the only run of that contest and now has a record of 13-2.

Female Liberation: Finally Comes To Little League

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — National officials of the Little League have decided to allow girls to play baseball with the boys. But the league says local coaches will still decide who makes the team and who doesn't, regardless of sex.

Girls who want to play Little League baseball must prove to local volunteers, management and coaches that they are of "equal competency in baseball skills, physical skills and other attributions scaled as a basis for team selection," league officials announced Wednesday.

The league's board of directors said the ruling is effective immediately. But it still must be formally approved by the Congress, since the Little League, founded in 1939, has been operating under a federal charter the past 10 years.

"Little League baseball shall defer to the changing social climate and will permit girls to register for local league participation," the officials said.

"The implication that the program is unwilling to change or incompetent to solve its own problems is simply not true."

The officials said any disputes should be handled at the local level and that "any action in this regard be responded to with firm conviction and forthright statements—that Little League does not discriminate and has feelings of ill will toward any sex, race, color or creed."

"In reaching a decision of landmark significance, the board has taken the position that it would be imprudent for an organization as large and universally represented as 35-year-old baseball to allow itself to become embroiled in a public controversy."

The league, which began operations in 1939, currently has 2 1/2 million boys playing in 31 countries.

Officials said they would continue to administer a softball program for girls which was begun this year and has an estimated 50,000 participants.

— In New York, the National Organization for Women (NOW) issued a statement praising the league for changing its discriminatory policy toward girls.

"NOW chapters and members throughout the country have devoted much effort to enacting this kind of change for equal sports opportunities for girls and women. This victory is an important step," the group said.

Carlton Blanks Houston 3-2 To Win Ninth Game

United Press International
Quietly, almost without notice, Steve Carlton is regaining the form that made him the best pitcher in baseball two years ago.

The 29-year-old lefthander of the Philadelphia Phillies won 27 games, including 15 in a row, in 1972 and was named the National League's Cy Young Award winner—a feat made even more remarkable by the fact that the Phillies finished last in the East Division.

Almost as startling, however, was Carlton's incredible turnaround last season when he fell to a 13-20 record as the Phillies once again finished last.

This season, however,

Carlton seems to have found himself again. Wednesday night he pitched his eighth straight complete game as he blanked the Houston Astros on five hits, 3-0.

11 Consecutive Victories— Unlike two years ago when he was the center of attention among baseball writers, Carlton's steadiness has been overlooked because of the sensational start of Cleveland's Gaylord Perry, who has recorded 11 consecutive victories since opening day.

"It was as good a game as I've pitched this year," said Carlton, who became only the second nine-game winner in the NL this year.

— Was it as good as any game he pitched two years ago?

"I pitched better (then) on occasion," he said. "The club played superb defense behind me in '72. What more can you ask of a club? They are superb again this year, although they may be able to score a few more runs."

Indeed, the Phillies are not the same kind of club that finished last the past three seasons. They are, in fact, a first place club at the moment.

Rebels Drop Game To Dumas By 12-2

DUMAS — Dumas, down 2-0 early in the game, scored six unearned runs and throttled the Pampa Rebels, 12-2, Wednesday in an American Legion baseball clash.

The loss leaves Pampa with a 2-3 season record. Its next action will be against Amarillo High at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Pampa's Optimist Park.

The Rebels scored twice in the first inning. Chuck Quarles walked to lead off the frame, Rick Smith was then hit by a pitch and both advanced on a wild pitch by Dumas hurler Vic Vaughn. John Agan scored Quarles with a sacrifice fly to left and Roy Morris knocked in Smith with a single to left.

In the bottom of the first, Dumas scored twice to knot the score. Three Pampa errors in the third resulted in five more runs, all unearned, as Dumas took a 7-2 lead.

In the fourth, Dumas took advantage of a walk and two errors to push across another unearned run. Dumas added four earned runs in the fifth.

In the contest, Dumas outbit Pampa, 5-4. The Rebels had seven errors and Dumas none while Larry Petty of Pampa, who went four and a third innings, gave up seven walks compared to five by Vaughn and reliever Mike O'Kelley.

Petty was relieved by Morris in the fifth.

Morris was the Rebels' leading hitter, going two for three. Lonnie Austin went two for four for Dumas. There were no extra base hits in the game.

"We beat ourselves with walks, poor defense and lack of offense," said Pampa coach Dan Hood.

"Dumas played a good defensive game."

Amarillo Giants Stop Alexandria Aces, 5-2

United Press International
Rightfielder Mike Potter's homer in the eighth inning carried Arkansas to a 3-2 Texas League victory over Midland Wednesday night to complete a doubleheader sweep. Arkansas won the first game, also by a 3-2 score.

Larry Voikenning picked up the win in the first game and Harry Rasmusen was credited with the victory in the nightcap.

Elsewhere Amarillo dumped Alexandria 5-2. Victoria nudged San

Open Starts Today

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Take it from the men who know best: there are going to be a lot of embarrassing scores and good stories coming out of the U.S. Open, which got underway this morning.

Doomsday was the official word that emanated from the contestants following their get-acquainted practice rounds over the newly-renovated Winged Foot Golf Club, and even Johnny Miller and Hubert Green, who between them have won exactly one-third of the PGA tournaments and $350,000 this year, predicted the winning score could sky as high as 10-over-par.

"You're going to hear some guys tell some great stories on their putting," said Miller, who won the 1973 Open at Oakmont, Pa., and has taken five events this year. "You might be surprised at what will win this tournament—it might be 290. These are as tough as any greens in the world and you'll probably see some well-known players coming in at 79 or 80."

The Pampa Daily News SPORTS

Bjorn Puts Win Streak In Jeopardy

PARIS (UPI) — Bjorn Borg of Sweden put his 14-match winning streak on the line today in the quarterfinals of the French open tennis Championships.

The 18-year-old was tangling with Mexico's Raul Ramirez, who holds victories over John Newcombe, Ilie Nastase and Stan Smith.

But while Borg has been playing a lot of tennis, he has always managed to call up enough skill and stamina to win.

He stopped Californian Erik van Dillen 6-6, 6-3, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 Tuesday and then played two double matches Wednesday.

But leaving the dressing room the blond teenager said "I feel good" and that he was ready for Ramirez.

Since May 12 when he lost the World Championship Tennis (WCT) winners tournament final to Newcombe in Dallas, Texas, Borg has chalked up the win streak.

a score over-par could win; and Arnold Palmer said the important thing here "is to have patience. This isn't a place to get discouraged by a couple of bad holes."

The championship lost some of its charm before it even started as 62-year-old Sam Snead, who has competed in 30 Opens, was forced to withdraw Wednesday because of a cracked rib. This is the one major tournament that Snead has failed to win and he said he was playing as well as he ever had before an Open.

More Troublesome
Just two years ago, at Pebble Beach, Nicklaus won the Open with a 290, the second highest winning score in 40 years. And although Winged Foot usually isn't invaded by the high winds of the California course, Miller feels that this course is more troublesome in its way than Pebble Beach.

"Pebble gave you some breathers through seven," said Miller, who already open an incredible bankroll of $203,000 for this year's work. "If you were playing well, you could be three or four under through seven."

Pampa Army Private First Class Coaches Youngsters

FORT SILL, Okla. — He stands about three feet taller than the kids, but he's no giant. He's Pfc. Larry Gallagher of Pampa, Tex., who is stationed at Ft. Sill. But to his team he's just plain "Coach."

The 19-year-old Gallagher is the head coach of the "Senators," a baseball team in the Ft. Sill Midget League, made up of boys in the 9-11 age bracket. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herman R. Gallagher of 336 Anne St., Pampa.

Under Pfc. Gallagher's guidance, the Senators hope to win a pennant in 1974.

Gallagher is among a handful of young enlisted soldiers coaching Midget League teams this season. This is a twist from previous years when almost all coaches were sergeants or officers. Now, Ft. Sill personnel of all ranks are joining in.

"It's a little rough, but I've always wanted to coach a Little League team, ever since my days in it," Gallagher explained. "Now I've got my chance." A roster of players was drawn out of a hat by Gallagher and from these names the Senators were formed.

Pfc. Gallagher enlisted in the Army for the Station of Choice option which guarantees him 12 months at Ft. Sill. He entered the service in July of 1973, took basic training at Ft. Polk, La., and advanced individual training at both Ft. Ord, Calif., and Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

He arrived at Ft. Sill in March and is currently assigned to Headquarters and Headquarters Battery of the U.S. Army Field Artillery Center. He works as a finance specialist at the post Finance and Accounting Office.

Gallagher enjoys working with the team and likes to keep them both busy and interested in their play.

"Incentive is a big plus," he added. "Without it we'd be just ho-humming along. We're trying to keep the guys interested in what's going on, and I think we're doing just that."

Then as Pfc. Gallagher put his team through infield practice, he admitted to a sort of flashback to his days in the Little Leagues. He remembers the good times, the game-winning hits, the thrill of playing under the lights, the diving grab of a sinking liner, and the overall great feeling of winning.

Could it all happen again? Time will only tell for Coach Larry Gallagher and his Senators.

"SENATORS" coach Larry Gallagher, left, of Pampa, has a man-to-man talk about teamwork with 10-year-old Jimmy Henson of Ft. Sill, who is an outfielder on the team.

Lots To Do In Texas

Abundant family entertainment for Texans stretches down the center of the state, an easy ride from the Fort Worth - Arlington complex to Austin and the Hill Country.

The distance from Tarrant County to the state capital, 193 miles. Some cars can drive it on a tank of gasoline, observing today's 55 mph speed limit.

It's not only a sound vacation idea, says J. Fike Godfrey of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, but it's a fuel-saver that aids the Texas tourist industry.

The West Texas Chamber serves this area from its Abilene office, said Godfrey. WTCC executive vice president.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe notes that more than 600,000 Texans are employed in the state's $2.2 billion tourist business.

The area to the north, from Gainesville near the Red River to Jacksboro, features the old Butterfield Trail Route. And a train for vacationers, the Firefly, crosses the sometimes rugged terrain between Bridgeport and Fort Richardson at Jacksboro.

The Fort Worth area has Six Flags Over Texas, in its 13th season; Seven Seas, in its third; Lion Country Safari, Texas Rangers baseball, and the newest sight worth seeing: the Dallas - Fort Worth Regional Airport, the world's largest.

Arts enrich Fort Worth through the Amon G. Carter Museum of Western Art, Kimbell Art Museum and the Fort Worth Art Museum. For theater there's Casa Manna.

Eighty-seven miles south along Interstate 35 is Waco and Fort Fisher, home of Company F of the Texas Rangers. The fort is a replica of one established in 1837 and is the site of the Homer Garrison Memorial Texas Ranger Museum.

Austin, 106 miles farther, and explored for its own beauty or serve as a jump-off for the Hill Country or the Highland Lakes, both to the west.

Scenery comes in many forms in Austin, much of it historical: the 46-acre capital grounds; French Legation, built in 1841; the home of writer "O. Henry," a resident from 1885-95; and the newest and most popular attraction, the Lyndon B. Johnson Library.

The LBJ Ranch and National Historic Site is just over an hour's drive west of Austin, near Stonewall. Horse-drawn vehicles are used for visitors.

Hill Country memories last longer after detours through the small towns, some of them German in origin, with their reputations for tasty, solid food.

This 200-mile, eastern fringe of West Texas is included in a new map published by the WTCC, the "Wonderful West Texas Fun and Adventure Map." It and more than 200 brochures on individual cities of West Texas are available from: West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Box 1561, Abilene 79604.

The blacktip, bull, great white and several other special of shark can be found in the coastal waters off Texas.

WATERMAN RETURNS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Waterman of France and Allied Products Division of Consolidated Cigar Corp. recently made a marketing agreement to bring the Waterman pen name back to the U.S. market.

A. N. Brainerd, president of Consolidated Cigar, said the distribution agreement reached between the two companies is the first step in his organization's diversification into non-tobacco products.

Waterman writing instruments include fashion styled fountain pens, ball points, fiber tips and pencils. In 1971 Waterman of France acquired the U.S. Waterman rights and finally those in the United Kingdom and Canada.

CANVAS SHRINKAGE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The canvas products industry shrank a little in the United States between 1967 and 1972, the Commerce Department reports. At the manufacturer's level, the value of shipments dropped by $3 million to $271 million. However, the manufacturers' value added portion of this volume rose 12 percent in the same period as economies were made in the use of raw materials.

GONE PANNING
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "The Californian," the state's first newspaper, was published in 1846-1848. If went out of business because its readers and advertisers had left for the gold fields.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Horace has a scientific outlook so he wants to know the specific ways in which tobacco causes death by heart attacks or cancer. Only 56,000,000 Americans use cigarettes and the nonsmokers outlive those smokers by 5 to 7 years!

CASE A-658: Horace J., aged 42, has had a coronary heart attack.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my physician ordered me to stop smoking."

"For I used 2 packs per day for the previous 25 years. But what is the reason tobacco seems to zoom heart attacks, for I don't like to be coerced on a mere say-so even by my doctor."

"Instead, I desire definite scientific reasons!"

OUR CHIEF KILLER

Many people think John Barleycorn is the greatest cause of deaths in America.

For half of the 60,000 annual auto fatalities involve autoists under the influence of a few drinks.

And thousands suffer from cirrhosis of the liver, usually a side effect of liquor, which sexually feminizes men, too!

But cigarettes are the chief killer in America!

They are listed as not only the greatest cause of cancer of the lung, as well as emphysema, and many cancers of lips, tongue, throat, esophagus and stomach.

But they are definitely proved to be the major cause of heart attacks.

At present, and despite all the latest hospital techniques, including surgery, X-ray, cobalt, etc., 350,000 men, women and children die EVERY YEAR OF CANCER JUST IN THE U.S.A. alone!

But the deaths from heart and blood vessel disease mean while run over 1,000,000, so all cancer deaths barely equal 30% of the heart (coronary) ailments.

Now for the specific scientific facts why cigarettes are the main killer of mankind, far exceeding wars, famines, and disease germs:

(1) They prematurely exhaust those 3 billion beats, which God stores in the pacemaker of the heart.

To be specific, the heart rate jumps as high as 20 beats per minute while you are smoking a cigarette.

GI Checks Due Soon

Educational assistance checks for some 150,000 veterans whose G.I. bill eligibility was extended by one month will reach them by late June or earlier, the Veterans Administration announced today.

On May 31, the day the G.I. education entitlement expired for veterans discharged between Jan. 31, 1955 and July 1, 1966, the President signed PL 93-293 granting a 30-day extension to the eight years entitlement veterans normally have.

Long before the legislation was passed, VA accomplished all possible preliminary work for the speedy service in anticipation that some form of extension would be passed by Congress and approved by the President.

In addition to the May 31 law, a supplemental appropriation is needed to fund the increases, but speedy Congressional action is expected on the President's request for the necessary funds.

The extension allows 85,000 veterans pursuing correspondence courses during May to continue through June. The extra month of eligibility extends also to nearly 4 million other eligible veterans not currently training.

Commenting on the pay problem posed by the former May 31 deadline, VA officials explained, "Most veterans receive educational assistance checks at the beginning of each month of training, but veterans who continued training after the deadline could not legally be paid for the June training."

The new deadline, July 1, 1974, for veterans separated from service between Jan. 31, 1955 and July 1, 1966, applies only to school training, it was pointed out. Veterans taking farm cooperative, flight, apprenticeship and on-job training have until Aug. 30, 1975, to complete training.

Single veterans going to school full-time under the G.I. Bill draw $220 monthly in educational assistance, while those with dependents receive higher benefits.

And even when you snuff out the cigarette butt, your heart still races at that abnormal rate for as long as 20 minutes after you are through with that cigarette.

Suppose you smoke but 5 minutes, plus the additional 20 after you are through, will use up 500 extra heart beats.

And that's just for ONE cigarette.

If you smoke even one pack per day, you are needlessly depleting your cardiac "bank account" to the tune of 10,000 beats every 24 hours.

This means you shorten your life by 35 days each year!

Anger, fear, tension and even obesity likewise consume millions of heart beats, too, so stay slender and serene of soul if you wish to keep your cardiac "motor" in good shape till you pass 85 or 90 years.

(2) Carbon monoxide is inhaled with each puff on your lighted cigarette.

After smoking just 3 cigarettes, your lack of oxygen capacity in the blood equals that of suddenly being on top of a mountain 7,500 feet high.

But you coronary victims need MORE oxygen, not less, and this sudden reduction can throw you into a heart attack.

(3) The tars and resins in the hot smoke also cause cancer, as of the lips, throat and lungs.

For tar is used on the sides of a mouse to produce cancer in our laboratories.

So send for my booklet "How to Stop Smoking," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Mellet, Indiana 47630. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Far West Texas Rich In Scenery

Texas history from a century ago and scenery shaped through the ages dominate the vacation opportunities of Far West Texas, that region rolling west of the Hill Country to El Paso.

And today's 55 mph speed limit stretches the fuel far enough to see it all: the Sonora Caverns, Langtry, Big Bend, restored old Ford Davis, and Guadalupe National Park and El Capitan.

These and more than five dozen travel stops are mentioned in the new "Wonderful West Texas Fun and Adventure Map," says J. Fike Godfrey, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Sonora Caverns, best known of the Edwards Plateau caves, was discovered only in 1961.

Langtry is the home of Judge Roy Bean's frontier court and an attractive Texas Highway Department tourist information center. It shares the Rio Grande region with Amistad (Friendship) Reservoir and the Texas - Mexico towns of Del Rio and Ciudad Acuna.

Up river is Big Bend, one of Texas' two national parks, a blend of desert and mountains, horseback trails and house trailers, and the canyon waters of Santa Elena, Mariscal and Boquillas.

Plenteous air currents make Marfa the site in early summer of the national sail plane meet. Twenty-one miles north, 19th Century Fort Davis isn't far from the 20th Century's McDonald Observatory, both open to the public.

The Texas Highway Department also recommends a scenic 74-mile drive, looping through the Davis Mountains.

More mountains lie across Interstate 10 between Van Horn and Ysleta, location of the Tigua Indian Reservation, the only one in West Texas.

Just beyond there's populous El Paso and Juarez. A tank of gasoline goes a long way there, with the handy concentration of border shopping, bullfights, dog and horse racing and the Mt. Franklin scenic tramway.

Between El Paso and Carlsbad Caverns rise El Capitan and Guadalupe Peak, both above 8,000 feet, and Guadalupe Mountains National Park.

To the east, the wind has sculptured 4,000 acres at Monahans Sandhills State Park. Oiltown Odessa has America's second largest meteor crater and Globe of the Southwest, an authentic replica of the original Shakespeare Globe Theatre, with professional talent.

Bike rules of the road
CHICAGO (UPI) — Remember, a cyclist also is a driver.

The National Safety Council reports the death of a 15-year-old Connecticut boy who failed to realize it is just as important for cyclists to obey traffic signals as it is for motorists. The Hartford County corner ruled the youth caused his own death when he went through a red light and ran into the side of a truck. The truck driver was absolved of responsibility.

The Almanac

Today is Thursday, June 13, the 164th day of 1974 with 201 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini.

Famed U.S. Army Gen. Winfield Scott was born June 13, 1786.

On this day in history: In 1877, the Russo-Turkish War began.

In 1935, Jim Braddock decided Max Baer to win the heavyweight boxing crown.

In 1944, Germany began using its "buzz bomb" secret weapon on England during World War II.

In 1973, President Nixon froze prices for 60 days.

A thought for the day: Irish poet William Butler Yeats, born on this day in 1865, said, "The years like great black oxen tread the world and God, the herdsman, goads them on behind."

Help your son get ahead.

This boy knows that courtesy is good business

Newspaper route management can be a boy's first step forward

A BOY with a newspaper route truly is in business for himself. With an assist from our people who are experienced in working with boys.

He buys his newspapers from us and retails them to you.

He sells, he delivers, and he collects. Like any good businessman, he keeps records (you can see how valuable this is in applying the lessons he learns in the classroom in a practical way).

And like any good businessman, he shows a profit. A boy with a newspaper route earns money that can help him build a sizable bank account of his own. Useful for the things he wants. Even for a college education.

Not only does a newspaper route sharpen a young boy's business sense (which will be helpful to him throughout life no matter what career he chooses). It also offers him some important extras — the ability to deal with people, and the lessons of promptness, of care, of self-reliance, and of good manners.

In these ways, a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life.

If your son wants to handle a route, put him in touch with us. One may be available for him in your neighborhood. It will be an unusual opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

West Lives On In Rolling Plains Of Texas, Land Of Four C's

The West lives on in the rolling plains of Texas, maintaining a broad-brimmed profile in the land of the Four C's: Coronado, Comanches, Cavalrymen and Cowboys.

The first three are gone, but not the Cowboys, in a region that runs from below Abilene to the Oklahoma border in the Panhandle. Western hats and boots are everyday wear, particularly in the smaller towns. Not far from main highways are the old, established ranches: the Spur, Pitchfork and Matador, below the Caprock in the Dickens area; farther east, near Vernon, the W.T. Waggoner spread; and near Dalhart, what remains of the XIT, once the world's largest Rodeos abound. Some are stop-offs on the professional cowboy circuit; others such as the Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford, are for amateurs.

Texans who decide to vacation on the plains will find that there is one scenic point which surpasses all others: the 122-mile Palo Duro Canyon, 22 miles southeast of Amarillo.

The 1,000-foot deep canyon is the scene each summer of the Panhandle heritage drama, "Texas," in an outdoor amphitheater.

Palo Duro is recommended by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its new spring publication, "Wonderful West Texas Fun and Adventure Map," said J. Fike Godfrey of Abilene.

WTCC executive vice president.

"An in-Texas vacation, at today's lower speed limits, offers a fine opportunity to enjoy the majestic expanse of the Plains and Panhandle," said Godfrey.

Below Palo Duro Canyon, State Highway 207 between Claude and Sverton, also passes across Tule Canyon. The Croton Breaks south of Dickens is a colorful region of canyons, buttes and creeks, while the new Copper Breaks State Park north of Crowell was dedicated in April.

Abilene, the southernmost of the three largest Plains cities, offers an excellent zoo whose reputation is growing, and Old Abilene Town, a western amusement park on Interstate 20.

Southwest of Abilene, near Buffalo Gap, is Abilene State Park, shaded by oaks and mesquites. It is one of seven state parks on the Plains: Copper Breaks, near Crowell; Lake Arrowhead, Wichita Falls; Lake Brownwood, north of Brownwood; Mackenzie at Lubbock; Palo Duro Canyon; and Fort Griffin.

north of Albany.

Lake Brownwood and Hubbard Creek Reservoir near Breckenridge give fishermen and water sport fans plenty of elbow room as do lakes near Abilene and Coleman and Lake Kemp at Seymour.

There are 945 miles of street in San Francisco and 38,812 street lights.

FRIDAY, JUNE 14
 Your birthday today: The exuberance of America's Flag Day serves to color your moods and progress through the year ahead. Early obstacles are overcome, useful experience attained in the doing. Personal satisfaction comes before purely material gains. Relationships are subject to unusual developments. Today's natives have faith in human nature and are very expressive in declaring it.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: You're on top of the crest of your personal wave—make the most of it. Wind up your work week swiftly and surely, for you've got much to look forward to over this weekend.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Inspiration comes; be as free to respond as you can manage by early diligence, avoidance of too-generous or general promises. Home life picks up, includes poignant moments.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Older people have advice worth your full attention, no matter which way you decide to act. Don't be thrown by trivial annoyances. Take infinite pains in checking facts and figures.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Career and business activity advances, personal and family ventures drag. Being on good behavior is as much in season as ever. There's no letting down today!

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Pride and theory figure largely in your approach to life today. Whatever else happens, get through with anything you've promised in time for it to serve its intended purpose.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Differences arise as a natural consequence of living in today's world. Endless rounds of discussion leave most matters just where they were, but with every-one somewhat better educated.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: However weary you may be of an unresolved question, don't force the issue now. Important results arise from very small changes, so give serious thought to what you do.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: The emphasis now is on services rendered and duly rewarded. See that you go to no excess or neglect either way. Clear off your agenda so you can be free to maneuver this weekend.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: This is your day to shine. Take the initiative, claim full credit for whatever you've done to deserve pay or advantage. Bring your friends and loved ones along.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Special attention to details takes you out ahead. Set a deliberate pace which allows time and space for reconsideration, revision of schedules.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Little things get out of hand, particularly if you've put off too many for too long. Get help, clear the decks for definite action soon. You have a great deal to contemplate.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Family and home conditions require extra expense, long-term outlays, extensive planning. Make sure all concerned really agree. Check accounts and budgets as you go.

NEW BPW OFFICERS — At a recent dinner held at Furr's Cafeteria, the above Business and Professional Women's Club officers were installed. Serving for the 1974-75 club year will be from left Doyve Massie, second vice president;

Revised Credit Law In Texas Recognizes Women

COLLEGE STATION — Household purse strings unbound for Texas women recently with changes in credit legislation, according to one authority.

In Texas, women 18 years or older, can no longer be denied credit solely on the basis of sex or marital status. Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, explained.

"Legal rights of women are being recognized as equal to those of men, and this law is responsible for that trend," the specialist observed.

She outlined implications of the revised law. "In 1973, the Texas Legislature amended the Texas Consumer Credit Code to prohibit a credit grantor from denying an individual credit or loans in his or her name — or from restricting or limiting the credit granted — solely on the basis of sex."

"This gives a woman, 18 years or older, the right to apply for and get credit in her own name, if she meets the financial requirements of the credit grantor."

"Meeting those depends on her ability to be responsible for her own debts."

"This usually means having a regular income, stability in employment and residence, a checking account and references," Mrs. Myers said.

The specialist discussed how variations in individual marital status can affect credit even with new legislation.

"The single, young woman who has never had credit may have a problem in establishing credit."

"A parent or some other responsible adult may have to guarantee the account at first."

"Credit is established once the account is handled properly for a sufficient time."

"Although the married woman now has the legal right to credit in her own name, most firms usually prefer to handle the account as a family account," Mrs. Myers said.

"It's less expensive to service one account instead of two."

"However, most firms will open an account for the married woman on request, if she meets the credit requirements. Still, some firms may include her husband's name in parenthesis for identity purposes."

Married women may encounter credit problems if credit reporting agencies are slow to make separate reports for husband and wife, the specialist noted.

"For instance, if a married woman applies for credit in her own name, and the reporting agency shows no separate record on her, it could cause a refusal or credit."

"A visit to the reporting agency and then the firm's credit manager can help straighten out the matter, if the woman meets all the other credit requirements."

Other credit situations involve widows, divorced or separated women.

"The widow usually has no problem in changing accounts to her name if the family has a good record of payment and her financial position meets the firm's requirements," Mrs. Myers said.

"A divorced woman who had accounts in her husband's name may have to reapply for accounts in her name."

"In general she must follow the same guidelines for establishing credit as a single woman."

"If she had accounts in her name as a married woman, she simply might have her marital status changed on their records after discussing the accounts with her creditors."

"The divorced woman, in any case, would be wise to consult each firm and change previous accounts that were family accounts in her husband's name," Mrs. Myers suggested.

Women who are separated, but not divorced, have the most difficult time with credit, the specialist said.

"Some firms suspend additional credit during this time, because funds may be tied up until a divorce is final."

"This may affect the credit records and impair future credit."

"The firm's credit policy will determine what a separated woman can do."

Noting "many substantial and beneficial changes" recently in the rights of women, especially married women, Mrs. Myers said that more firms are realizing they can give credit to married women in Texas with complete legal security, since married women now can be sued in the same manner as their husbands.

The specialist also cited "changing economic factors" and "continued liberalized credit policies of most firms" as other reasons for changes in current business practices.

"AT WIT'S END"

By ERMA BOMBECK

There are families who take vacations with their children.

There are families who prefer to stay at home with their children. The sniveling cowards!

Sure, it's easy to spend time with your kids when you have a stove to cook on ... a washing machine that doesn't eat quarters ... and a freezer you can run to for a gin poppicle anytime you want.

But out there on the road ... in a leaky tent, a sandy bed, and mildewed marshmallows ... it's a jungle.

Our neighbors, Wanda and Duward, have never taken a vacation in their lives. When their children were infants, do you know what her excuse was for not traveling? "What fun would it be for me to wash diapers in a saucepan and sit in a mosquito-infested cabin while my husband fished?" So, who promised her a rose garden?

When their children were toddlers, she again stayed home saying, "All our children can do now is fall in a lake, upset a boat, or drool chocolate all over their clothes." So what are kids for?

When their kids were 9 and 11, she informed me they were staying home because other parents told them all their children cared about was putting quarters in a magic fingers vibrating bed.

But there were other chances for them to be one of the gang. One year they rejected a vacation because their daughter had a boyfriend who threatened to turn to crime if she left him. Another year, their son had a job and they would have had to plan their vacation between 9 p.m. Sunday and 4:30 p.m. Monday.

It's hard to love people like Wanda and Duward ... People who are practical, sensible, and perceptive. I had just about given up on our having any kind of a relationship when she informed me this year she and Duward were going on a vacation ... without the children.

"I think they're old enough to be trusted and mature enough to be left at home alone," she said. "I have a freezer full of food for them, notes all over the refrigerator, and emergency numbers in case they need us."

Last night, Wanda and Duward arrived home. There were 123 lights burning. The dog was on the roof. Stereos were blaring. Her china service for 12 was soaking in the sink. Their son was wearing the same clothes as when they left. There were car tracks on the front porch. There were phone messages from 18 neighbors ... some of them as far as 50 miles away.

Poor Wanda and Duward. A couple of summer vacations would have conditioned them for this.

PURE DENIMITE — Pants-set by Shutterbug goes bananas for supple, comfortable pure cotton denim from VIP. Western-cut shirt-jacket sports printed shoulder-yoke and sleeves. Top-stitching and sidevents add fashion dash to new young look.

NEW YORK (UPI) — In general, the doctor's house call is a rarity these days.

But the extent to which doctors see patients at home varies considerably with the practitioner and the age of the patient, reports the Health Insurance Institute. It cites further figures from the National Center for Health Statistics, showing there were 17 million home visits in 1971. But they constituted only 1.7 per cent of all physicians' appointments that year.

The British Broadcasting Corp., world service program cited statistics to prove you are 200 times more likely to die as passenger in a car or bus than on a train.

WEDDING-ENGAGEMENT DEADLINE

Dear Abby

Husband wants wife to pose in the nude

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am approaching 40 and so is my wife. We've been married for 22 years. Like most couples our age, our sex life isn't what it used to be. My wife can take it or leave it. I'm no sex maniac, but I'm not exactly dead yet.

Last Christmas the wife gave me a Polaroid camera, and just for the heck of it, she let me take some pictures of her in the bedroom, unclothed. That's when I discovered those pictures really turned me on.

Now, all of a sudden the wife tells me she is no striptease model, and she doesn't want to pose for any more pornography. I say it's not pornography as long as we're married because I'm the only one who sees those pictures.

We are both born-again Christians. I'd like your opinion. Am I kooky or not? SHUTTERBUG

DEAR SHUTTER: Not kooky, just a little far out. Whatever you do behind closed doors that is mutually agreeable is all right! I'm sold. Now all you have to do is sell the wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset, I don't know what to do anymore. I've called the police, military base, Chamber of Commerce, the base chaplain and three lawyers. As I write this I am crying and have a knot in my throat.

I've been married to a serviceman for 15 years and now he is involved with a red-headed woman who works where he works. [He got her the job.] He picks her up and drives her home, and I see him only when he comes here to change his clothes.

He has told me he doesn't love me anymore and as soon as he can afford it he will officially divorce me. He's even tried to push me at me. I am so hurt I could die!

I would do away with myself, if I didn't have five kids who need me. When I complain about the way he treats me, he beats me up. I know you'll think I'm crazy, but I still love him and want to know how I can get him back. MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Your chances for getting him back are small, and from your letter, I think you're better off without him. But if you considered doing away with yourself, you need help in handling your problems. It's available through your County Mental Health Association, and Family Service Association. Give them a call.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "AM I AN ALCOHOLIC?": That's a tough one to answer because there is no absolute definition of an alcoholic. But here's a partial checklist drawn up by The National Council of Alcoholism:

- Do you drink heavily after a disappointment or a quarrel?
- Did you ever wake up the morning after to discover you couldn't remember part of the evening before even though you didn't pass out?
- Do you try to have a few extra drinks when others will not know?
- Have you often failed to keep a promise to yourself about controlling or cutting down on your drinking?

If the answer is "yes" to any one of the above questions, you have a problem. And the best solution for that kind of problem begins with one telephone call—to Alcoholics Anonymous. They're in your telephone book. It's your move.

CONFIDENTIAL TO H. IN OMAHA: I don't recommend marrying a man for his money. You may have to divorce him to get it.

Clothing Projects Will Begin Soon
 AUDETTE KINCAID
 Asst. County Extension Agent

4-H clothing projects will be beginning for boys and girls (9-19). Mothers and leaders will be conducting construction classes where students will complete a simple garment. Boys are also making vests and chaps under the direction of Jim Hollingwood, a local leather craftsman.

Jane McDaniels will be conducting a modeling seminar on June 27 and a style show will be staged during the second week of July.

Special recognition will be given to the best western garment. The Bi-Centennial Association will also be judging the garments which are made of red, white, and blue.

If you are interested in this project, please contact Audette Kincaid by calling the County Extension Service 669-7429 or 665-4988.

HARKNESS TOUR

Jim Miser presented the gavel to Miss Miser, and some close friends presented her with a necklace.

An exchange of pins by Miss Debbie Roth, Jr. Past Worthy Advisor, and Miss Miser concluded the program.

Jim Blackman gave the benediction.

Church News

FIRST BAPTIST

The Baptist women met Wednesday, June 5, at 9:30 a.m., at the church. They were host for a reception at this time to honor Miss Lillie Hundley, a retired missionary.

The Royal Service Study was opened with the "Call to Prayer" by Mrs. James Malone. Various members read names of missionaries having birthdays on this day and led in sentence prayers for them.

President, Mrs. Jack White, greeted the numerous visitors and recognized the different churches with members present. She then introduced the WMU Director, Miss Claudia Everly, who introduced Miss Hundley.

Miss Hundley is a native of Claude and was the first single missionary from the Panhandle area to go to China in 1923. She now resides in Canyon. She was in China for 25 years. Seven months of this time was spent in an internment camp before she was repatriated in 1943, at which time she came home. She went back as soon as she could after the war, and worked at a mission school in Shanghai until she was forced to leave in 1949. She was ill and left a year before all missionaries escaped or were imprisoned by the Communists.

Miss Hundley told of experiences she had while serving in China and showed slides of China. She encouraged all the ladies to continue to pray for Christians who are in China today and who do not have the religious freedom that we enjoy and take for granted. She also emphasized the importance for Christians in America to show real Christianity to foreigners who visit our country.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. G. E. Groninger.

Sterilizing Baby's Formula

COLLEGE STATION — Sterilize baby's formula to kill any harmful bacteria present in milk, one authority cautions.

"Either of two sterilization methods is acceptable," Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, said. The specialist explained that terminal sterilization involves pouring formula into bottles and sterilizing them together.

"Most authorities consider this the easiest and safest method.

"The antiseptic method, on the other hand, sterilizes formula and bottles separately — then combines them carefully.

"The method a mother chooses depends on equipment available, recommendations of the baby's doctor, and what is most convenient.

"After sterilization, cool formula and refrigerate until use," Miss Reasonover added.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Rapee's bid of four hearts was an overbid. As he explained it: "I knew the British pair would arrive in four hearts (he was right). And I wasn't going to play a partial in hearts while they were playing a game."

West's opening lead of the diamond king was permitted to win the trick. Not knowing what to play next, West decided to lead a club, which was taken by East's ace. Now East had a problem as to what to return. He finally played back a club, hoping that West had been dealt a singleton. South won this trick with his king, drew trumps, and discarded his two losing spades on dummy's clubs. The rest of the tricks belonged to him.

When the deal was replayed with Britain holding the North-South cards, the late Sidney Silodor, sitting West, also opened the diamond king against South's four-heart contract. As when the deal was played originally, the king was allowed to win the trick.

But Silodor gave his partner no problem. At trick two he laid down the spade ace. The reason was a logical one. He had to find two tricks in his partner's hand to defeat the contract. If they were the king and ace of clubs, East would play a low spade on the lead of the ace. Silodor would then switch to clubs. But when East played the spade jack, Silodor continued with a spade to East's king. The club ace then took the setting trick.

Summer Vacations Can Be Spoiled By Food-Borne Infections

School's out, and the summer ahead will bring travel, swimming, boating, picnicking and other happy leisure hours. BUT, for the careless or the unfortunate, that long-awaited vacation can be spoiled by intestinal problems which may be prevented.

Summer food poisoning can be carried with you in your picnic basket or obtained at a cafe, cafeteria or a church supper. Or, says the State Health Department, it can be gotten at home.

At the bottom of this pain and misery may be a bacterial infection called salmonellosis. It is commonly known as food poisoning and often is credited by individuals as being a 24-hour virus.

Health authorities can tell anyone what causes salmonellosis and how to prevent it, but it continues to be a health problem.

The term "salmonellosis" refers to infections caused by any of the numerous members of the genus salmonella. Some 900 varieties are known and they may inhabit most species of warm-blooded animals and many cold-blooded vertebrates.

Major reservoirs of human salmonellosis are in domestic livestock, swine and poultry. Organisms may be transmitted to man either directly from animals or through contaminated products of animal origin. Not overlooked in importance is the human carrier.

The most dramatic and highly publicized aspects of salmonellosis are the food-borne infections which occur in large groups of persons who have consumed a common, contaminated food.

In this type of contamination, the food most likely has been prepared in advance and then held in such manner that the bacteria had an opportunity to multiply. Perhaps you've read or heard of such outbreaks which followed a banquet or picnic.

The State Health Department is so concerned with the problem of food-borne infections that it sponsors courses in teaching food hygiene. Its regional offices and local health departments help carry out training programs for food handlers.

And, films and literature are available on the subject. In addition, periodic inspections are carried out at food handling establishments.

Many of the foods you buy raw and prepare may have salmonella in them. But by proper handling, you can neutralize the dangers from infection. Your home cutting board could be the source of illness unless it is properly washed using hot water after cutting up raw meat and poultry. Bacteria can build up in cracks and crevices and contaminate other foods — or even the meat after it is cooked and placed back on the cutting board.

In some ways, food-borne illness is a matter of chance. Five factors must come into play to produce it. You must, of course, have bacteria present, and you need growth — supporting temperatures, suitable food, moisture and time.

Improper sanitation or improper refrigeration and heating are the main causes of food poisoning in humans. Almost without exception in food poisoning cases, the food was contaminated after having been cooked and allowed to stand at temperatures which encouraged bacterial growth.

These bacteria thrive at temperatures ranging from 45 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit — from cool to warm. So keeping food just barely cool or warm doesn't help. A cold product, says the Health Department, should not be allowed to exceed 40 degrees Fahrenheit. And, a hot dish should be kept above 140 degrees.

Once introduced into foods under proper conditions, the bacteria begins growing. So time is important between fixing and eating the food. The shorter, period the better. And, beware of leftovers which have been off refrigeration for long periods.

Some of the things you are most likely to take on picnics are the high protein, moist foods in which germs thrive. These include milk, milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, shellfish and such favorites as cream pies, custards and potato salad.

Air Conditioner Manufacturers Using Wattage Tags On Units

By MICHAEL J. CONLON WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you're thinking about buying an air conditioner before summer settles in, here's something to keep in mind.

Some manufacturers of room air conditioners are now placing tags on the units to tell you how efficient the machines are in terms of using energy. With electric bills going up in many parts of the country, that information may prove valuable in terms of your future utility bills.

Up to now, it's been hard to choose between two units with about the same cooling capacity but which require different wattage. One that uses more watts is usually cheaper than one that runs on less wattage — even though both might cool your room about the same.

To a degree the buyer still has a problem in making that choice. If you don't use the air conditioner very much, you may not save that much in electric bills by buying a more expensive, more energy-efficient air conditioner.

Formula Proposed

But in most cases efficiency is a good buy. And on May 1 of this year the government decided on a formula for manufacturers who want to give efficiency information to the buyer in a standard formula on tags that will read the same throughout the industry.

The central feature of this tag is a number called an "energy efficiency ratio." The higher the number, the more efficient — and cheaper — the unit is to run.

By dividing the unit's BTUs per hour (the cooling capacity) by the number of watts it uses, it also will show what the range of numbers is likely to be for other models with about the same cooling capacity. And the buyer is advised in writing on the tag that the higher numbers mean the unit will cost less to run over the years.

There are no firm figures available on how many of the 5.3 million window air conditioners turned out in the United States each year will be carrying the tags since the whole program is voluntary — although there are proposals pending in Congress to make it mandatory.

Helpful to Buyer

But there are indications some of the bigger companies are offering the information. Sears Roebuck & Co. tells us that energy efficiency ratio numbers are listed both in their catalog and on labels pasted on top of window units when they leave the factory.

General Electric reports GE and Hotpoint air conditioners have carried the efficiency numbers derived from the same formula for two years. The company plans to adopt the whole government formula tag for production starting this summer — meaning the tags will probably start showing up on their products later this year.

The Commerce Department now is working on a similar formula for refrigerators and freezers, but no firm date has been set on when it will be finished.

While the energy efficiency ratio/number formula has been in use for some time, the fact that the information — and the explanation of what it is — will now be available on a standard tag should be a big help to the buyer.

Recent discussions in this column on how to avoid possible fire hazards with "instant on" television sets prompted yet another possible solution from a reader in Alexandria, Va., who writes:

"My husband purchased an 'AMF Nite-Owl' TV Timer and connected it to the wall plug. The TV plugs into it. The timer may be set for six hours or less, and to watch, one must turn on both the TV and timer. However, it is necessary to turn off the TV only. Although at this point the 'instant on' is still burning, the timer will automatically shut off everything shortly without further attention.

Fingernails, Dishwashing Clash

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss why fingernails and dishwashing don't go together...

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any truth to reports that certain ingredients in frozen foods are carcinogenic agents?

In a word, I'd totally ignore such rumors unless the gossips can produce more than an unsupported say-so.

The temperature ranges you mention are not unusual for your age. The higher temperature later in the day is merely the result of your daily activities.

The chemical explanation is that soaps, cleansers and household cleaning compounds in general contain alkali of varying strengths. Alkali attacks the keratin of which your nails are made.

My opinion? That people who peddle such scare stories ought to be gagged. With the Food and Drug Administration leaning as far as it is already to prohibit things that are merely suspected of being dangerous...

However, when a person acquires such an exaggerated taste for some particular thing, it sometimes turns out to be a sort of automatic, unrecognized rebellion by the human system because of lack of something - particularly iron.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is trying the tubes to prevent pregnancy always done after childbirth or can it be done aside from that?

You may avoid some annoyance from rubber gloves by getting cotton-lined ones, or wearing cotton gloves under the rubber, or resorting to plastic gloves which permit a little more circulation of air.

Incidentally, do the rumor-peddlers ever tell you what they think is in the frozen foods - other than plain food, frozen?

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Day You Were Robbed

On June 10, the politicians celebrated a major anniversary — the anniversary of the signing of the bill establishing withholding of income taxes.

Our calendar listing important and not so important events reminds us that the income tax withholding act was signed into law on June 10, 1943, just 31 years ago.

It should be remembered that the federal income tax had been in effect for about 30 years. In the early years, as is true with most taxes, the rates were rather low and affected few persons. Then came the New Deal spending, followed by U.S.

entry into World War II. Tax rates climbed rather abruptly, although not sufficient to meet the ballooning budgets.

And the big spenders were in trouble. Too many individuals did not save enough to meet their tax bills when they fell due on March 15. More and more individuals just threw up their hands and said they couldn't pay. What to do? The politicians didn't have enough jail space to put the tax delinquents behind bars. And the relocation camps were filled with Americans of Japanese descent, whom the politicians feared as possible saboteurs.

Then, the wise men of Washington hit on the idea of withholding the tax at the source. Employers were ordered to involuntarily servitude as tax collectors and were ordered to take money out of workers' pay checks and envelopes, and to remit same to Washington post haste, under penalty of prosecution.

The problem was solved for the politicians, who have continued their merry spending ways ever since. And now many states are doing the same thing. Is it any wonder the total tax take in the nation is now somewhere around 40 per cent of the gross earnings of the producers?

The Story Of Taps

Dan Butterfield was a general in the Army of the Potomac and served as chief of staff to General Joe Hooker and later to General George Meade when they were commanding. His name figures in the historically controversial aspects of the Battle of Gettysburg. He was awarded the Medal of Honor for gallantry under fire. Though he was not a West Point man, having risen from first sergeant, he is buried there, and his grave is marked by a 35-foot-high white marble monument. Yet for all his other feats and accomplishments, Butterfield's most lasting impression on the military service came about because he could whistle.

When he was a brigade commander, the general found that his troops sometimes were confused by bugle calls from other outfits. To identify the calls of his organization, he devised a little fanfare for his buglers to use, preceding the regulation signals. It amounted to three long a short and a long, which the troops verbalized as "dan-dan-butterfield."

With that musical success, Butterfield was tempted to revise the "lights out" signal. He called the bugler to his tent, whistled a note or two, and had the bugler try it.

No, it wasn't right. The general explained he was looking for something that was quiet and plaintive, that signified an army at rest by its campfire. He whistled another short series. The bugler blew. "That's it," the general said. Other brigades heard the call and picked it up. Detachments of Western troops carried it to the Mississippi, and eventually the Butterfield variation became the regulation signal for the close of the day. That's how we came by Taps, the wordless song of the soldier's slumber.

INSIDE LABOR Public Caught In The Middle

By VICTOR RIESEL
 NEW YORK — There's nothing frivolous in turning to a gastronomic interpretation of history now being made by Cesar Chavez, labor chief George Meany and Teamsters president Frank Fitzsimmons — and the United Farm Worker evangelistic, placard-saving, picketing, hymn-singing pilgrimages into the nation's massive cities.

Early the other morning Chavez's brother Richard, union boycott coordinator, Dolores Huerta, vice president, and hundreds of their devout partisans pursued the first shipments of Coachella Valley (Calif.) grapes into the huge Hunt's Point Terminal Market here with fervent cries for a boycott of lettuce as well as table grapes.

Well, it's not just a matter of boycotting iceberg lettuce picked thousands of miles distant by Teamsters members — whom the Chavez folk call non-union. It's a matter of salads.

For, if the housewife doesn't buy lettuce he's not apt to make a salad. So she doesn't buy tomatoes, or radishes or pickles or cucumbers or celery. So the tonnage of these vegetables falls off in shipments as well as the sales of lettuce. Fewer shipments, fewer trucks. Less trucks. Less Teamsters' jobs.

And, says Charles Ulrich, president of Teamsters Local 202, this has cost his union members 500 jobs. Just at the Hunt's Point Terminal alone. This means less "bread" for more than 10 per cent of his followers.

"What sort of crusade is it," asks he, "which puts union men on the 'bread' line of unemployment offices?"

This is merely the beginning. The 47-year-old Chavez is due here for a week's blitz June 27. He hopes to lead massed workers of the AFL-CIO's Central Labor Council in devout demonstrations against lettuce and table grape purchases.

This is his season for action. Harvesting on the big produce ranches began late in May. Gathered have been grapes, lettuce and some violence — the hacking of one grower's valuable vines and the burning of 15 buses which carried contract laborers in and around the Coachella Valley.

As predicted here months ago, there is little picketing in the fields. The action is on concrete — New York, Boston and a string of cities ranging from Philadelphia and Baltimore to Chicago and Seattle. Also Montreal and Toronto.

Chavez will tell his story surrounded by his disciples and hymn singers. He will cry out for what he calls his exploited followers and denounce the Teamsters who have virtually all Coachella Valley lettuce and grape growers under contract now.

But for the first time Chavez is losing significant Church support.

Into the arena, challenging Chavez's spiritual mentor and strategist Msgr. George Higgins, has come a stranger to us Easterners and Washington, D.C. provincials. He is Fr. Richard Humphrys, pastor of Our Lady of Soledad Church, Coachella, Calif.

Rev. Humphrys is as fervently dedicated to the truth as any clergyman in this unhappy struggle. He denounces the boycott. He reports that Cardinal Manning of Los Angeles and Bishop Donohoe of Fresno "came out against the continued support of the boycott."

Rev. Humphrys, making it amply clear he speaks for himself, deplores the boycott's economic corrosion in the fields. He deplores the impact on the Chicano themselves. He is of Coachella; yet his voice has not been heard in the East.

Chavez, with his charisma and sense of drama, along with his champions in and outside the clergy, have had the public relations arena virtually to themselves in this costly jurisdictional war.

It's fair journalism to report that his statement had to be privately distributed since it hasn't been reported as have announcements and denunciations unleashed by the pro-boycott forces.

"The boycott is harming the very workers it was supposed to help," says Fr. Humphrys. "In the Coachella Valley 120 of 150 table grape growers have been bankrupted. Acreage has been reduced by 40 per cent (from 13,000 to 7,000 acres). This means that 40 per cent of the jobs of our Mexican Americans of this area have been lost as a direct result of the boycott."

"The vines have been bulldozed or allowed to die... There is reason to believe that if the boycott continues much longer, almost the entire grape industry (at least of the Coachella Valley) will be wiped out."

"It does not seem fair that a boycott should be applied against growers that do have a union contract and pay wages and benefits that are almost double those paid in the East, the Midwest and the South."

Thus, as the season turns seeds into grapes of wrath, it also turns clergyman against clergyman, labor leader against labor leader while the growers and the public and the worker's disemployed by the boycott are caught in the middle.

What About Cambodia And The Constitution?

By WILLIAM RUSHER
 As I have noted before, the very eagerness of certain members of the House Judiciary Committee to demand more and more tapes of presidential conversations, and then to make Mr. Nixon's refusal to produce them an additional item in the forthcoming bill of impeachment against him, suggests that they feel their case badly needs that sort of

After all, if Messrs. Rodino and Doar were really up to their knees in hard evidence of presidential "Treason, Bribery, or other high Crimes and Misdemeanors," they would scarcely be spending their time trying desperately, with net and trident, to entangle Mr. Nixon in some arguably contumacious rejection of their further and ever-growing demands for tapes and documents.

And indeed, a look at the substantive case against Mr. Nixon confirms the suspicion that it is still dangerously thin. Right now the impeachment forces' strategy seems to be to try to write an obstruction-of-justice charge out of that annoyingly ambiguous conversation in the Oval Office on March 21, 1973. The effort isn't going particularly well, and if you don't believe me let me refer you to the following paragraph from the New York "Times," which is rarely accused of Nixonian sympathies:

"The House Judiciary Committee, completing closed hearings on the Watergate cover-up, appeared divided and uncertain today on whether evidence presented to date had implicated President Nixon in any impeachable misconduct."

But, unsatisfactory as this state of affairs may be, the impeachment advocates apparently prefer its disadvantages to those involved in focusing attention on some other alleged instance of presidential wrongdoing. Take Cambodia, for example.

For at least a year, no list of Mr. Nixon's alleged misdeeds has been complete without a reference to his secret bombardment of Cambodia in 1969-70. Since Article I of the Constitution expressly vests in Congress the power "to declare War," and since Congress not only didn't authorize the bombing of Cambodia but (with the exception of a few high-ranking members of the relevant committees of the two Houses) didn't acquiesce in it or even know about it, it follows — so runs the argument — that Mr. Nixon deliberately violated the Constitution and his own oath of office.

But the President has a devilishly ingenious and highly plausible defense of his action in ordering the bombing of Cambodia. That neutral nation's territory was, of course, being used without permission by the North Vietnamese as a sanctuary and supply route for its forces fighting Americans in South Vietnam. Prince Sihanouk, Cambodia's head of state, was helpless to prevent this, but (according to Mr. Nixon) gave his consent to American bombardment of the intruders in his country on the condition that the bombings remain unannounced. Otherwise, he explained, he would be compelled, for reasons of sheer face, to object to them. Hence the secrecy.

Of course, one is not required to believe this explanation. And it is only fair to add that Prince Sihanouk, who subsequently abandoned his precarious neutrality and currently lives in Peking on the sufferance of the Chinese Communists, now hotly denies that he ever gave his consent. But few think that the House Judiciary Committee will elect to believe Sihanouk; Mr. Nixon's version of the episode is altogether too plausible, and accords too well with the known facts.

But if we accept the President's explanation, note how it demolishes the case for his impeachment on this particular ground. For Mr. Nixon can hardly be said to have waged an unauthorized war against a foreign nation if its head of state had given his advance consent to the acts in question. It is much as if somebody had tried to impeach FDR for authorizing the bombing of Dutch targets during World War II, despite the fact that Queen Wilhelmina, whom we still recognized as head of state and who was living in Canada at the time, knew all about the bombings and thoroughly approved of them. We were not at war with the Netherlands; on the contrary, that country was our ally. The bombings would have constituted acts of war against it only if they had been conducted without the consent of the recognized Dutch authorities.

So it's back to the drawing boards, gentlemen. The Cambodian — bombing argument just won't wash.

ALL THAT GLITTERS Time For Action At Home

By VIC GOLD
 The White House today accepted the resignation of Donald B. Santarelli as head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

—Wire service report.

On the afternoon the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) was born in the Executive Office Building adjoining the White House, Bill Whittington was operating an auto service station in a high crime shopping-center area.

Like tens of thousands of American small businessmen in such areas, Whittington, according to his wife, took crime in his neighborhood as a "day-to-day occurrence." There was one difference between the Whittington Service Station and most others, however. Only eight miles from the nation's capital, it counted Senators, Congressmen and other top-level government officials among its regular customers.

LEAA was created two years ago, during an election season. The White House, in an all-out effort to promote the agency as the Justice Department's new crime-fighting arm, called in its heavy public relations artillery.

First, the mayors of communities selected for special LEAA pilot programs were summoned to the capital for a White House meeting. Then followed a full-dress news conference in the Executive Office Building. At that conference two major figures of the first Nixon administration, Vice President Spiro Agnew and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, issued a renewed declaration of war against crime in the streets.

Agnew and Mitchell, in retrospect, not exactly a good omen. But that's hindsight. At the time, the Vice President and Attorney General provided heavyweight impetus to an agency touted as the definitive answer to what Americans like Bill Whittington believed was one of their country's biggest domestic issues.

Crime. Not political crime or corporate crime. Not the kind of crime that creates a "constitutional crisis." But crime that nevertheless erodes confidence in the workability of the system because it occurs where people live and work. The "day-to-day" crime that gnaws away at the fabric of American communities and which we, as a society, have some to accept as part of our daily lives — just as Bill Whittington did.

Now, two years after the birth of LEAA, Bill Whittington, the mid-April victim of a vicious daytime burglary — assault at his suburban Virginia place of business lies comatose in a hospital. And the Nixon administration's anti-crime crusade is in much the same condition.

Public relations puffery just hasn't been enough. Thus LEAA has proven to be only another one of those alphabetical washouts. The kind the country came to know so well during the Great Society years.

True, LEAA still has those community grants and impressive-looking national "progress" charts that all federal agencies trot out for congressional refunding — or another election. But even Donald Santarelli, LEAA's second chief, concedes that the "progress" shown on those charts is the result of categorical and statistical juggling — such as federal agencies have also been known to do.

Indeed, the crime problem in America today is getting worse, not better. Santarelli recently indicated. The outgoing LEAA chief furnished an estimate regarding the growth of crime in the Philadelphia area in sharp contrast to previous "official" figures published. Moreover, frequently cited statistics regarding reduced crime rates in other inner cities overlook increased rates for suburban areas. Areas, that is, like the one where Bill Whittington operated his station.

FUEL, JOBS CURBED BY HIGH TAXES

The leftist anti-profit opinion-molders would have you believe that the big U.S. — based international oil companies pay little or no taxes. Well, the figures for 1973 are in and the biggest U.S. oil company paid 36.7 percent of its total revenue in taxes.

The fact is that all taxes are paid by the consumer in the final analysis. A business acts only as a collection agency; being unable to print money, a corporation must get its tax funds from consumers, whether the taxes go to state, local, national or international tax collectors, or to the workers to be paid by them as taxes.

The same big oil company, Exxon, earned less than 2 cents per gallon in profit on its gasoline. While you, the consumer, paid less than 2 cents per gallon to the investors who risked their funds to provide the jobs, find the oil and build the refineries, tankers, etc., you were paying in direct taxes more than 16 cents per gallon in New York City, more than 17 cents per gallon in Mississippi, more than 14 cents per gallon in California, etc.

That is only a fraction of the taxes paid by the company and by independent dealers in the products, who must all pay state, local and federal taxes on such things as real estate for schools, city and state governments, sewers, welfare, etc. Less than 2 cents per gallon goes as incentive to invest in new jobs, seeking new oil fields, building new refineries, etc. Look at all the jobs and cheaper fuel that would have been provided by the oil companies with only a fraction of that money passed on from the consumer to local, state, federal and foreign tax collectors.

Potomac Fever

By JACK POSNER
 Special Prosecutor Jaworski said Nixon could not give a legal order for the office burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist. The election mandate didn't include office breaks.

Press aide Warren denied that Nixon was using delaying tactics. The President has been as cooperative as Robert Vesco, and just as visible.

Former Senator Wayne Morse, 73, won the Democratic nomination in Oregon. Old senators don't fade away; they just die to run.

After saying Nixon should supply the tapes, Ford now thinks they should be withheld. Looks like Ford's jammed his forward and reverse gears.

Three of Jaworski's lawyers quit over the Kleindienst settlement. It was like giving Dillinger a parking ticket.

The company that introduced the Spiro Agnew watch now has a Gerald Ford model. They hope it's a better idea.

To conserve fuel, Nixon's jet flew at 475 m.p.h. instead of 575. They couldn't cut it to 50 m.p.h.

Senator Gurney reportedly kept over $300,000 cash from Florida builders in his office safe — so he could return it faster.
