Report Urges Tightening Confidential Data Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee's draft report on "dirty tricks" has recommended tightening the law to keep White House officials from obtaining confidential data from the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for use in a presidential campaign.

Israel Awaits Nixon

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel Saturday promised President Nixon "a very warm welcome" when he arrives here Sunday, despite some of the tightest security measures of his Middle East tour and a minimum of ceremonial pomp.

Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said Israel saw little cause for concern in the U.S.-Egyptian nuclear know-how agreement and indicated a similar accord would be reached in Jerusalem.

Allon said in a radio interview hundreds of thousands of Israelis would turn out to greet Nixon as he drives into Jerusalem in a closed bulletproof limousine from Ben-Gurion International Airport.

Government sources said American security officials turned down Israeli proposals for sightseeing stops by the Nixons in the walled old city of Jerusalem and at the ancient Jewish desert fortress of Masada. Newsmen will be barred from viewing Nixon's tour of Yad Vashem, the capital's memorial for the Jewish dead of World War II, reportedly at the orders of the White House.

Asked about Israel's reaction to the expressions of closer U.S. relations with the Arab states sounded during the Presidential tour, Allon said:

"If the Arab governments don't misinterpret this closeness and try to impose upon America certain concessions at the expense of Israel, I don't think we have to worry."

Aside from talks to "clarify further commitments" to Israel, Allon said Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli officials will try to secure Nixon's help in winning emigration of Jews from Syria and the Soviet Union.

Government sources said Israel will be seeking long-term American economic and military aid commitments to replace the annual appropriations bills submitted to Congress.

Earl Wilson

Most summer romances (say the cynic) are ended either by September or by marriage. Someone described a bore: "His idea of a dull conversation is someone not listening." A man answers the phone by saying, "Hello"; a woman answers by saying, "Wait till I put out the light under the potatoes." They discussed a fading actor: "Once his pictures were plastered all over town; now he is..." A film producer refused to make a movie called "The Optimist" because, "Let's face it — how many people would know it was about an eye doctor?" (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 14.)

President Nixon recommended new legislation to protect against "wholesale political investigations such as those conducted by the White House staff and its agents from 1969-72 and by the Committee to Re-elect the President."

It proposed full disclosure to congressional committees of all contacts between White House officials and investigative agencies such as the FBI and IRS; prohibiting such agencies from furnishing confidential information to any White House officials except those expressly authorized, and full disclosure of all investigations and surveillance of any kind by and for any presidential candidate including an incumbent President.

The 350-page draft was another in a series of staff reports being submitted to senators on the committee, whose final report is due at the end of June. UPI gained access to a copy of the draft.

Much of the report took up the alleged activities of Donald Segretti, the so-called "dirty trickster" who already has been in prison for illegal distribution of campaign literature aimed at Democratic candidates in the Florida presidential primary.

The draft also discussed the White House "plumbers" special investigative unit; John J. Caulfield and Anthony Ulasewicz, White House operatives who allegedly were involved in various espionage and sabotage activities; Arthur Bremer, convicted in the assassination attempt on

Gov. George C. Wallace; the Chappaquiddick investigation of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy; the suggested fire bombing of the Brookings Institute; the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. and Dita Beard, its Washington lobbyist, and ITT's alleged donation for the 1977 Republican National Convention.

The report also took up the use of the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), the Secret Service and White House public relations efforts in Nixon's 1972 campaign.

"This entire effort was coordinated by President Nixon's closest adviser, H.R. Haldeman, and the former attorney general of the United States, John N. Mitchell," the report said.

"However, it is President Nixon who must be held responsible and accountable for the actions of his subordinates. Not only was he the candidate on behalf of whom these activities were undertaken, he also set the moral and ethical standards by which his reelection campaign operated."

"The Democrats were left far behind the starting line in the general campaign race, in part because of the systematic campaign of illegal and unethical activity by the agents of the White House and the Committee to Re-Elect the President," the report said.

Other recommendations included in the report would:

— Establish an independent federal elections commission to enforce a code of ethics for federal campaigns and outlaw any conspiracy that would threaten or intimidate any candidate.

— Permit contributors to file civil suits recover their donations plus treble damages if any funds were used to finance illegal activities.

— Prohibit anyone from gaining voluntary or paid employment under false pretenses in a presidential campaign for the purpose of spying.

Syria Jet-Escort Meets Aerial Acrobatics Scare

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Syria threw an unintended scare into President Nixon's Middle East caravan Saturday, dispatching unannounced escort fighters that sent the presidential jet into evasive swoops and dives as it carried Nixon to his third and most security-conscious Arab stop.

The seven tense minutes of aerial acrobatics and the protocol mix-up that caused them gave way to a relatively cordial greeting in Damascus, a stronghold of Palestinian sentiment and militant Arab feeling that was guarded by thousands of soldiers and security men for Nixon's protection.

Nixon's party came to Syria from Saudi Arabia, where he met privately earlier in the day with King Faisal. Wishing him farewell in Jeddah, Faisal warned that anyone who opposes Nixon either inside or outside the United States has only "mischief" in mind.

Officials said the Damascus visit might lead to restoration of U.S.-Syrian diplomatic relations, but possibly at a high price. Syrian sources said Damascus would press for even more than the $100 million in aid and investments the United States has been considering.

Only about 100 onlookers watched President Hafez Assad take Nixon through the formal gun-salute ceremonies at the airport, but estimated crowds of 350,000 lined downtown Damascus streets and applauded until Nixon raised the bulletproof bubble top of his black armored limousine and stood up, waving and ignoring security considerations.

The greeting, although mild compared to the millions who jammed the streets of Cairo, was a modest triumph for Nixon in this Arab nation, which technically considers itself still at war and appears to be so. Soldiers armed with Soviet-made AK47 rifles lined the roads everywhere, bayonets at the ready. Two Russian-built helicopters hovered protectively over the motorcade as it sped at 60 mph into town over roads deserted by all but the soldiers.

But the crowds began to appear on the edge of this ancient city at a Syrian refugee camp. Hundreds of people displaced by warfare from their homes in the Golan Heights lined up to watch Nixon and Assad go past. Downtown, people lined streets decked with American and Syrian flags and many even peered down from balconies and rooftops — a development that seemed surprising in view of the well-publicized security precautions Syria had prepared against the potential threat of guerrilla activity.

Nixon got a close-up view of a city still marked by war as he rode waving and grinning at the crowds. Damascus is dotted with military installations and the smells of military camps — old oil and grease, burning diesel fuel, rusty trucks and decaying canvas — were all around. And, for his coming especially, khaki uniforms were everywhere.

The motorcade took the Nixons to a brown cement government guest house, where they freshened up before an evening dinner with the Assads. Formal negotiations between the two presidents were scheduled for Sunday, before Nixon flies on to Israel.

No one in the White House party had an immediate explanation for the nerve-racking aerial incident that opened the visit to Damascus.

Suddenly, as Air Force One swept into Syria about 60 miles south of Damascus, four camouflaged MIG fighters approached and settled not far off the big jet's wingtips.

ON NIXON INDICTMENT

Supreme Court Refuses To Make Report Public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Saturday refused to make public documents related to a grand jury decision naming President Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up, but it agreed to decide if the jurors had the power to list an incumbent President.

Both Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and James D. St. Clair, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, had asked that the documents be made public. But lawyers for the six defendants in the cover-up case opposed it.

The documents are briefs and transcripts of private in-chamber discussions last May with District Court Judge John J. Sirica, Jaworski, St. Clair and lawyers for the defendants. After those discussions, Sirica ordered tapes and documents relating to 64 White House conversations turned over to him for study and the President refused to comply.

No dissent was noted in the Supreme Court's brief unsigned order. Justice William H. Rehnquist, who worked for former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, refused to take part. Mitchell is a defendant in the cover-up trial, scheduled to begin Sept. 9, and Rehnquist has stayed out of previous consideration of the case.

The high court said it would hear oral arguments July 8 about the power of a grand jury to name a President as an unindicted co-conspirator. The White House had requested a ruling on that issue.

The issue of the grand jury's power will be combined with a dispute over whether Nixon can claim executive privilege in refusing to hand over the White House tapes and documents Jaworski says are needed to prosecute the cover-up defendants.

The Supreme Court asked the lawyers to argue whether Sirica's order for the tapes is appealable to a higher court.

The court also made public an extract of the records in its possession which merely confirmed what was already public.

It said that on Feb. 25, 1974, the Watergate grand jury voted 19 to 0 that there was probable cause to believe that Nixon "was a member of the conspiracy to defraud the United States and to obstruct justice..." and the grand jury authorized the special prosecutor to identify Richard M. Nixon (among others) as an unindicted co-conspirator in connection with subsequent legal proceedings in this case.

The order also brought to light another pending litigation the court agreed to consider: whether it can decide a "petition for mandamus transmitted by the Court of Appeals to this court?"

The Supreme Court clerk's office said the appeals court petition was also under seal. There was no word on what it contained. Court observers speculated it might be a request by St. Clair asking higher courts to quash Sirica's order that the tapes and records be turned over for his inspection.

St. Clair may have filed such a request before the Supreme Court agreed to hear the executive privilege issue, and the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia merely may have forwarded it to the Supreme Court when the petition for expedited review sought by Jaworski was granted.

Barring any secret Supreme Court appeals, Saturday's order cleaned up formal Watergate matters pending for the justice's consideration until the oral arguments July 8.

Both Jaworski and St. Clair can submit additional written arguments on the issues by June 21, with responses due July 1. The justices will read these as they decide other pending cases, hear the oral arguments and hand down a written decision.

OVER HOLIDAY

Demos Postpone Meeting Decision

AUSTIN (UPI) — The State Democratic Executive Committee Saturday postponed for another month a final decision on whether to delay the Sept. 17 state party convention for 48 hours to avoid a conflict with the Jewish high holy day Rosh Hashana.

State party Chairman Calvin Guest said party leaders have decided against a proposal to allow Jewish delegates to participate in the state convention by proxy.

A rules subcommittee which heard more than three hours of testimony on the issue Friday recommended a one-time change in the party rules which would allow the convention to officially convene Sept. 17, then immediately recess for 48 hours without conducting any business.

Guest called for a special meeting of the SDEC for July 16 to vote on that rules change, which will require a three-fourth majority vote of the 64 members to be put into effect.

He also appointed a special committee headed by Colin Carl of Austin to determine if hotel space and an auditorium will be available for the convention in Austin on Sept. 19 if the delay is adopted.

A number of backers of Alabama Gov. George Wallace's presidential campaign and party liberals are opposed to any attempt to alter the meeting time or place of the convention, however.

Guest said there are legal problems involved in attempting to move the site of the convention if space is not available in Austin on Sept. 19.

"If the site is moved, we would have to convene here and then move to another city," he said. "There would be some awkwardness about it but the legality is the real problem."

State law requires that the SDEC set the time and place of the September convention in March, and Austin was then chosen as the site, Guest said.

Joe Batson, an SDEC member from Amarillo, tried unsuccessfully Saturday to amend a resolution on the convention date to ask Gov. Dolph Briscoe to convene a special session of the legislature to rewrite the law setting convention dates in order to avoid this year's conflict with Rosh Hashana.

Board Planning Budget Session

Board members of Pampa Independent School District will hold a special meeting Monday night to consider budget matters for the coming year.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Carver Educational Center.

Final board action is required in August, with a public hearing set for Aug. 12.

School officials have pointed out that much preliminary work must be done before that time.

A resume of the proposed budget indicates total receipts of $4,570,000, with $4,504,116 being budgeted.

About 80 per cent of the total budget is for salaries.

BY SCHOOL BOARD

Trusty Named Interim Superintendent

By FRANK BAIN
James Trusty, 40, assistant superintendent of schools here for the past year, has been named interim superintendent, effective immediately.

His appointment came on a 5-member unanimous vote at a special meeting of the board of trustees of Pampa Independent School District late Friday afternoon. The meeting was called specifically to fill the vacancy created by last Monday's resignation of Dr. James F. Malone as superintendent.

Trusty, who has spent his entire 18-year professional career with the Pampa school system, will fill the position of superintendent until the board can go through the sometimes lengthy procedure of interviewing applicants for the job.

School board president Paul Simmons announced immediately after Trusty's appointment that the board is now accepting applications for the top administrative position.

Malone, who declined to

JAMES TRUSTY

A part of the resignation agreement, proposed by Malone, was that he be paid salary and allowances through Dec. 31, 1974, amounting to a net of $10,623.42.

Trusty's 18 years in the local system includes several years as a teacher and assistant principal at the old Pampa Junior High School; two and a half years as assistant business manager and administrative assistant; and the past year as assistant superintendent.

He holds a BS degree and also a Master's degree in education, both from West Texas State University. Trusty lives at 1927 Holly Lane with his wife Valta and their son, Phillip, 11.

In a statement to The News, board president Simmons said Saturday: "The facts concerning the resignation of the school superintendent are simple."

"After six years of service and upon the graduation from Pampa High school last month of his daughter, who plans to enter Baylor University this year, Dr.

Malone tendered his resignation effective June 30.

"The board felt Dr. Malone considered this to be in his own best interests and therefore accepted the resignation, and by a 4-1 vote, consented to what was considered an appropriate extension of salary through December of this year as requested by Dr. Malone in one of the conditions bearing on his resignation."

"Otherwise, it was stated in the letter of resignation, he would plan to fulfill his contract of July 1, 1976."

"Members of the board have assured me they will strive to cultivate a spirit of goodwill and cooperation that will be beneficial to the school system and the community — especially the children who attend our schools."

"We believe this to be the best basis for successful performance as an educational institution and something that will instill a feeling of pride in everyone involved."

"To this end, we solicit the assistance of all persons in the school district."

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Orville is the type of talented salesman who can zoom attendance at Sunday School and also fill the empty pews. For Jesus employed superb psychology to attract crowds, hold their interest, and disseminate his precepts via narratives (parables).

CASE A-660: Orville T., aged 34, is a Sunday School teacher.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "I first got interested in Bible reading from following your daily newspaper Quiz Column."

"For you'd offer us matching problems of a dramatic sort and then list the Bible references where we could read the full account."

"And your psychological strategy in 'selling' the Bible intrigued me doubly, for I am an insurance salesman."

"Thus, when you asked us to identify the 'Hot Rod Driver' of the Bible or the man who lost his life because he didn't get a haircut, I figured you were a salesman at heart."

"So can you offer any evidences of political propaganda in the Bible to show that Watergate was not a new incident?"

BIBLE WATERGATES
Before he became Prime Minister of Egypt and the world's first Food Administrator, Joseph narrowly escaped a moral trap.

At that time, he was directing the vast estate of a high ranking Egyptian official.

But the latter's wife, probably childless, repeatedly tried to seduce Joseph.

He resolutely resisted her attempts until one day she grabbed him by the coat.

When he fled, leaving his coat in her hand, she pulled what might be called a "Watergate Scandal."

For she screamed for the servants to come back into the house.

Then she fabricated a story that Joseph had tried to assault her and waved his coat in lieu of Watergate "tapes."

But she also injected racial bias by telling her Egyptian servants that it was thus a foreigner (Hebrew) who had contrived to deceive her husband.

Joseph was then given a prison sentence (Genesis, Chapter 39).

But you can also find a classical example of propaganda in the book of Numbers, Chapter 13.

WT Slates Two Music Workshops For Summer

AMARILLO — West Texas State University has slated two summer workshops in music.

Music Therapy Workshop, a one semester hour course, will meet from 1:30-4:30 p.m. Mrs. Martha M. Estes, assistant professor of music at WTSU, will serve as clinician.

The class is designed for special education teachers, music instructors and elementary classroom teachers. Discussion will include philosophy and dynamics of music therapy and career opportunities.

Clinical settings in which music therapy is used with children or adults who require special services because of behavioral, learning or physical disorders will also be presented.

Mrs. Estes has had clinical experience with music therapy in psychiatric hospitals, mental retardation centers, with the hearing and visually impaired and in general hospitals.

Registration may be completed before noon June 17, the first day of class, in Room 101 of the Fine Arts Building. Resident tuition is $32.50.

Dr. Eph Ehly of the University of Missouri at Kansas City will serve as guest clinician for the Choral Conductors Workshop, June 24-28, at West Texas State University.

Dr. Ehly is the choral conductor at the university of Missouri's Conservatory of Music.

The Choral Conductor's Workshop offers one semester hour credit, and is designed for directors of public school, college and church choirs.

For 10 of the 12 spies were "chicken" about going into the Promised Land, so they propagandized the people with a negative, horrendous report of giants.

Only Caleb and Joshua stood pat and urged an immediate invasion.

Apparently, God let the Israelites mill around for 40 more years in the Wilderness, till the cowardly generation had died off.

Bold Caleb, though 85 years old, then chose for his lot the land of the giants, probably to help set a positive example before the rest, to avoid another 40 years of aimless wandering in the Wilderness.

And in II Samuel, Chapter 13, you can see how Absalom slew his half brother at a banquet because the latter had sexually assaulted Absalom's sister.

All the other sons of King David were present but fled for their lives. But note the propaganda "tidings" in Verse 30:

"...tidings came to David, saying Absalom hath slain all the king's sons, and there is not one of them left."

But Jonadab, David's nephew, reassured the king that only one of his sons had been murdered.

Even Jesus employed advertising psychology by launching the first nationwide advertising campaign.

For Christ sent 70 disciples ahead of Himself, 2 by 2, to publicize his forthcoming sermon engagements (Luke, Chapter 10).

Encourage more Bible reading by sending for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

It is excellent, too, for Sunday School teachers and Youth Organizations.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Naples Bldg., Dallas, Indiana 4740. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Suddenly a fungus, isolated by government research scientists seeking an answer to the nagging problem of jungle rot, has become the hottest discovery of the past 50 years.

The super-fungus (trichoderma viride) will grow in any substance containing cellulose. After five to 10 days, the solids are filtered out the resulting liquid or residue will turn cellulose into glucose in 48 hours. The glucose can then be converted to food or fuel.

The scientists have converted old newspapers, cardboard cartons and even manure into yeast and ethanol. The ethanol can be blended with gasoline on a 90 percent gasoline to 10 percent ethanol mixture.

Some chemists have successfully run automobiles on a 80-20 mixture.

The potential of the super-fungus is mind - boggling. It means that 1,000 lbs. of city trash can be converted into 500-700 lbs. of glucose per month in the laboratory. Scientists estimate that 3-million tons of city and farm trash will convert into enough ethanol to offset a shortage of 5-million barrels of oil per day.

Although ethanol (grain alcohol) is more expensive than gasoline today, the super - fungus process will make it competitive with gasoline.

Scientists are even more enthusiastic about the food possibilities of the super - fungus. Asian countries with large quantities of rice hulls (rich in cellulose) are anxious to begin converting these into protein, using the super - fungus process, which will produce a single-cell yeast, suitable for livestock today, and hopefully for humans tomorrow.

A pilot plant is in operation now and economic feasibility tests are underway. A key problem is preparing the raw waste for mixing with the enzyme solution. Two methods of grinding up trash are being used and researchers are studying other methods.

The super-fungus process is already competitive in price with glucose produced from corn starch treated with acids. Experts believe that super - fungus glucose will be much less expensive than the corn starch product when produced in large volume.

TUESDAY IS election day in Pampa. It's a pretty important day when you consider a man will be elected to the 5-man board of directors that will conduct a $3-million business for the next couple of years.

Incidentally, School House Kitty reports that the City Hall Cat has a residence in all four city wards. Kitty adds that the Cat couldn't qualify for city commissioner, but he just might make it for dog-catcher.

Persons filing the reports claim it is not safe to send children alone to the park because of what may happen to them.

They charge the park is a meeting place for undesirable who conduct themselves in a manner embarrassing to mothers and children who have gone to the park for a picnic or to use the wading pool.

One woman who filed a complaint said the park is even a place where marijuana and drug pushers go to sell their wares.

City Manager Mack Wofford said police are aware that suspicious activities have been going on at the park. Numerous police checks have been made, he said, but actual violations of the law must be seen by police before arrests can be made.

The city manager said police plan to keep even a closer watch on the situation and have begun questioning suspicious persons in the park.

Wofford said he had even received complaints about that. One woman called, he said, and charged that her son and two or three companions had been questioned and given a "shake-down" by police even though they were innocent of any wrong-doing.

The city manager added that police will continue to give the park areas plenty of surveillance.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite efforts to rid the Cairo airport of mosquitoes, some of them buzzed around President Nixon when he arrived in Egypt this week.

But I doubt the President minded very much. A few mosquitoes he could live with, considering what he was getting away from.

To understand his feelings we need only note his reasons for going to the Middle East in the first place.

Much has been written about what was behind the sudden decision to make the trip. Piece all of the accounts together and this is what you get:

During his brief visit to the United States last week, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger paid a courtesy call on the President.

"Hello, Henry," the President said. "What brings you to America?"

"Pick Up Laundry" — "I stopped off between planes to pick up my laundry," the Secretary explained.

The President said he had been thinking of taking a little trip himself and he wondered whether Kissinger, as a world traveler, might recommend a place.

The Secretary said the President might do well to try the Middle East. He said the Middle East had an agreeable climate, friendly natives, a favorable exchange rate and oodles of gasoline.

The President said that sounded fine to him. But how about subpoenas?

The President said the subpoenas had been very bad in Washington this year. They were about to drive him crazy, he said.

He said they had been swarming around the White House faster than he and his attorneys could swat them.

The Secretary asked the President where all the subpoenas were coming from.

Breeding Ground
The President replied that most of them were coming from the House Judiciary Committee, which was low and swampy and therefore an ideal breeding ground.

The Secretary asked whether the subpoenas were the type that caused impeachment fever. The President said he didn't think so but they could be very annoying nevertheless.

He said it was difficult to find a moment's peace when you are constantly bothered by subpoenas. Before he went any place he wanted to make sure he wouldn't be pestered by them, he said.

The Secretary said he had spent a lot of time in the Middle East lately and had not seen a single subpoena. Plenty of mosquitoes, but no subpoenas.

The President said that was great. He said he could hardly wait to get on the airplane that would take him away from this subpoena infested hellhole.

Abstinence, Acceptance Can Arrest Alcoholism

This article is part of a series on "The Progression of Alcoholism" produced by the Alcoholism Council of San Fernando Valley, Calif. The stories are made available locally by the Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation.

Alcoholism is a disease which need not lead either to death or confinement in a mental institution. It can be arrested through total abstinence if the sufferer reaches the most important and difficult point on the road to recovery — identification of his sickness as alcoholism and the acceptance of the fact that he is an alcoholic and no longer can practice controlled drinking.

A man or woman who concludes, from matching typical symptoms with his or her own behavior, that his drinking problem is out of control is not a rarity, an isolated individual.

Surveys show there are more than 9,000,000 alcoholics among the 80,000,000 who today use alcohol regularly.

Because alcoholism can be recognized, diagnosed and treated successfully (but never cured so the person can again drink socially). The Pampa News today starts a series of brief stories about this disease.

They are intended to help each heavy drinker, who suspects he has this disease, to determine for himself if the secrets he so long has kept from others makes him the alcoholic that family, medical men and members of the clergy may have been confronting him with for years.

Alcoholism nearly always is a progressive disease. While progression differs in many cases, the majority of alcoholics follow patterns which can be used as guidelines.

Some cases develop slowly and methodically, others swiftly and violently; but, for the most part, the average time required to progress from the first signs of loss of control to final stages is 15 years for men and seven for women.

To begin at earliest stages, we look at pre-alcoholism periods when individuals may show first symptoms of the disease. The length of time varies considerably from a few months to many years.

Only some of this type of drinker develop alcoholism. It is that person with whom we must be concerned, not all who drink.

Through the pre-alcoholic stages there is a gradual, quite often noticeable increase in the use of liquor in the frequency of imbibing and the quantity of alcohol consumed. This increase usually is not entirely intentional.

The person who eventually abuses alcohol invariably is unaware that he is finding, although not deliberately seeking, an increasing number of occasions for drinking.

This person derives an "exceptional reward" from his drinking. He feels liquor does more for him than it does for most people.

For him, alcohol brings a relief from tension. This feeling of pressure, he is positive, comes from circumstances and surely not from the liquor.

When, much later, he analyzes honestly, he realizes that his reaction to liquor has built up tensions. He continues to drink more heavily and more often, experiencing feelings of freedom, adequacy and confidence which normally are not his. As he drinks more, he eventually becomes aware the drinking of alcohol is more important than is the occasion he once considered to be an excuse.

The next step is obvious

The former pattern of "occasional drinking" grows into "constant or regular relief drinking."

Once such relief drinking begins the imbibing may be designated as a "problem drinker."

His drinking most likely is not yet as conspicuous as that of the alcoholic

Business Today

By EDWARD LECHTZN
DETROIT (UPI) — Car manufacturers trying to make sure the chemical smog-control devices for 1975 will work have turned to a device used by the medical and legal professions.

Detroit is using the "atomic absorption spectrophotometer" in its continuous monitoring of the catalytic converters. The muffler-like device that will add about $150 to the price of the average 1975-model car is a sensitive one in which nearly lead-free gasoline must be used. It also must be durable enough to last the 50,000 miles the government requires, without deteriorating.

That's where the specialized instruments come in. Operating on optical principles, the "atomic absorption spectrophotometer" analyzes materials for traces of as many as 68 metals in quantities as low as one millionth of a gram.

Key Items
It's the same instrument that can determine through blood samples whether children have taken in large quantities of lead from paint. It also is used by police to link criminals to evidence.

Environmentalists use similar instruments to check collected air samples for pollution. Gasoline and emissions are the key items checked by the automakers. The gasoline lead level set by the Environmental Protection Agency for use on the 1975 models calls for not more than 0.05 grams a gallon. This reflects the average lead contamination anticipated from "unleaded" gasoline station pumps.

At General Motors' analytical chemistry and emissions test laboratories, gasoline samples from city gasoline stations and samples taken from tanks of gasoline arriving for test-fleet use are analyzed with Perkin-Elmer atomic absorption instruments. This gives technicians an exact reading of the lead content as well as that of other elements, either added to the gasoline during refining or naturally in petroleum such as sulphur.

JAPAN'S CLERGY AIDED

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Board for World Ministries of the United Church of Christ has given a grant of $100,000 to a pension fund for ministers of the church in Japan.

In announcing the grant, the church said that because of the Japanese defeat in World War II and continuing inflation, the savings of many retired Japanese pastors had been wiped out.

TV In Review

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Daddy, why aren't they going to show 'The Cowboys' anymore?"

The question is from a 10-year-old boy who has come to identify himself with several little kids-turned-cowboy on the new but cancelled ABC television series.

"And I liked 'Dirty Sally,'" said his 8-year-old sister. "How come it's going off?"

Both complained that "The Brady Bunch" and "The Partridge Family" would soon be missing from their schedule of allowed pabulum after homework is completed.

Children can't understand low ratings or cancellations. The coming season will see more family oriented shows than last year at 8 o'clock. CBS has even scheduled a 7-30 half-hour Saturday show of children's specials.

The same network will be back with "Apple's Way" and "The Waltons," both of which make family togetherness a television must.

ABC, which gave the kids "The Cowboys," "The Brady Bunch" and "The Partridge Family" last season, compensating with "Kodiak," "The New Land" and "That's My Mama," all at 8 o'clock with appropriate tugs at the heart.

New NBC Series
NBC has some powerful new catnip for the younger generation: "Little House On the Prairie" starring Michael Landon of the defunct "Bonanza" series and a tremendously appealing child performer, Melissa Gilbert.

NBC also is adding "Born Free," from the book and motion picture of the same title about a lioness and her cubs in Africa. It should attract small fry like free

THE HOUSE DOCTOR

Dampness Probably Cause Of Stuck Drawer

By HERMAN BAUM
Dear House Doctor: I have an expensive dresser in which one of the drawers is stuck fast and we can only open it an inch or two. This condition has just occurred.

My father thinks that dampness is the cause. There are articles in the drawer that we need now. Do you have any ideas as to how the drawer can be made to operate properly?

—Mrs. W.F.P.
ANSWER — Dampness is probably the cause, and this is often the penalty you pay for owning fine furniture. If you owned the borax variety with sloppily fitted drawers, swelling of the wood, caused by absorption of moisture, would only make the fit better.

This is not a job for the muscle in the family, who will attempt to open the drawer by pulling on the handles or the front. There is a good chance that by so doing, he will pull them off, thus reducing your expensive furniture to something you can place in the garage for dead storage.

If you can get the drawer out an inch or two, do any pulling by grasping the sides of the drawer.

If you can get the drawer out far enough, use an extension cord to place a 40-watt lamp inside the drawer. Place a saucer under the lamp.

If this cannot be done, use a 60 or 75-watt lamp on a saucer on the floor beneath the dresser. Cover the dresser with a blanket. Two or more days will be required to dry out the wood. The saucer should be thick china, not metal or plastic.

Should these methods fail, the next approach is to remove the back of the dresser. This is usually thin plywood attached with small brads. Then, use a mallet or hammer with a block of wood to gently tap the back of the drawer on one side, then the other, until the drawer is removed.

Once the drawer is out and has had an opportunity to dry thoroughly, paint all surfaces except the front with fresh shellac to seal out moisture. Two coats should be used.

Drawers require lubrication. There are several non-grease lubricants available for this purpose. Good results can also be obtained with paraffin or bar soap. Lubricate all surfaces that contact the interior of the dresser. Lubricants are applied after the shellac is dry.

In some cases, trimming the drawer may be necessary. You should be able to see abrasive spots on the bottom or sides of the drawer. All trimming should be done on the bottom of the drawer, if possible. A file is best for trimming as it can be controlled better than a knife or plane. Apply shellac to all trimmed surfaces.

OUTPATIENTS' CLINIC

C.R.W. — A choice between aluminum and vinyl siding must be one of personal preference. Each has its advantages and disadvantages.

H.S.J. — It is not possible to insulate concrete block walls on the outside. Polystyrene foam must be applied to the room sides of the walls. This requires removing the plaster or other wall material now in place.

Mrs. T.H.P. — A sealer finish is the most durable one that you can place on the maple floor in your kitchen. The new polyurethane varnishes are much more durable than the older types with which you are familiar.

J.M.E. — When rattan

furniture gets in the condition you describe, it is time to call Goodwill Industries.

DOG HOUSE PLANS

Dear House Doctor: We have acquired a dog. He is a mutt and is small now, but we suspect he will soon grow larger. I want my husband to build a dog house for him. Do you have a plan?

—Mrs. R.K.F.
ANSWER — It just so happens that we have a plan for a dog house. It is suitable for large dogs or small dogs, and it looks like a child's playhouse rather than a conventional kennel. A copy is available for 30 cents in coin (no stamps or checks please) and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, sent to The House Doctor in care of Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

FLOOR TILES

Dear House Doctor: Our house is on a concrete slab, and the floors are covered with asphalt tiles in good condition. I would like to place vinyl tile with an adhesive backing on top of the present tiles, because they are easier to clean. If this cannot be done, why not?

—H.J.F.
ANSWER — Some people have done this with no problem, but it is not recommended. It may cause the asphalt tiles to come loose, and you cannot salvage the new tiles for doing the job properly. I suggest you play it safe and remove the asphalt tiles.

WATER DAMAGED PLASTER

Dear House Doctor: A roof leak above a bathroom water-soaked the ceiling and wall on one side of the room. After the leak was repaired, a white crystalline deposit appeared on the plaster.

I sanded it off and repainted. Six months later it reappeared. Following a decorator's advice, I again sanded the area and applied three coats of shellac. Three months later, the same trouble occurred. What do you suggest?

—R.P.K.
ANSWER — When plaster has been damaged so severely, as this has, the shellac treatment gives only temporary relief. Replastering the damaged area is the only sure

SIDEWALL INSULATION

Dear House Doctor: Our home is brick veneer. We are thinking of having insulation blown into these walls. Some people tell us that this is a fire hazard and should not be done.

—J.R.C.
ANSWER — For fuel economy, these walls should be insulated. I have never heard that insulation presents a fire hazard. The insulation is non-combustible glass fiber. If anything, it will prevent the spread of a fire.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — While many economists expect short-term money market rates to remain high until late this year or early 1975, Dean Witter & Co. says, "rates now are extremely volatile and it is unlikely the upward pressure will remain steady when the source of much of it is changing direction."

The firm expects rates to decline through June and July, with some rallying in stock prices likely. This, it says, will be followed by a jump in short-term rates coinciding with new highs in long-term rates. This may produce a downward market correction, tempered, however, by the fact it will be starting late in 1974, when the anticipated 1975 economic recovery is closer to realization.

Witter said.
Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, sees as the major concern at present "that efforts to relieve near-term problems by continuing excessive monetary growth will merely postpone and exacerbate an eventual adjustment." The bank says, "Should the monetary authorities continue to increase the money supply as rapidly as they have over the past several months, short-term benefits of more real growth and more employment will result in the latter part of 1974 and into 1975. However, the excess stimulus of such actions will lead to the need for an even greater downward adjustment in growth and employment later in 1975 in an effort to contain an inflation rate which would then be in the 8 to 10 per cent range."

"The rest of 1974 will see the economy in a phase of righting the imbalances and correcting the distortions that have emerged in earlier periods," says United Business Service, Boston. It forecasts, "...the economy will exhibit symptoms of withdrawal from the narcotic of inflation (and) is unlikely to achieve much in the way of real growth during the year. If the cure works, however, the way will be prepared for a resumption of genuine growth in later years."

BEE PROTECTION

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Because so many things are becoming "imitation" these days, the state of California has passed a law banning sale of "imitation honey." Officials say this will protect not only the bees and beekeepers, but the crops which need pollination.

BIG IF

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York City Ballet has received a grant of $800,000 for fiscal 1974-75 from the New York State Council on the Arts with a "conditional" angle. This requires that the Ballet and its parent, the City Center of Music and Drama, "show increased public support for their activities."

tips for consumers
from your
BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

The dress you bought looked good in the store but when you got it home it didn't match your accessories. The rug you bought is 9 x 12 but the room turns out to be only 8 1/2 x 11 1/2.

"I want my money back," might be your reaction. But the question is, can you expect an adjustment for a refund when it isn't the store's fault that you are dissatisfied.

It all depends on the individual store's policy, something you should check before you buy. Ask the clerk or the floor manager. Some stores post their exchange policy on the wall. However, there are certain rules of the road that most retail merchants follow.

Usually, unless the merchandise is faulty or misrepresented, a store is not legally bound to give you a refund, an exchange or credit. However, most businessmen go out of their way to keep you happy.

So if you have made an honest error in judgement, mismeasured the space or have forgotten granddad's shirt size, chances are they will exchange the merchandise and may even give you a refund or credit.

But wise consumers don't abuse the privilege by trying to return something which has been used or soiled. Exchanges cost the store money and those costs are passed on to all customers — including the considerate ones — in the prices of the store's merchandise.

On the other hand, if the store makes an error or advertises the product to be something that it isn't, you have the legal right to receive an adjustment — a refund if you desire.

For example, you buy an oval coffee table but the delivery man brings a square lamp table. Or you buy what are labeled "Full size" percale sheets that turn out to be too small for a full size bed.

Watch out for merchandise offered in a "sale" or at special discount. Ask about the return policy. Very often "sale" merchandise is offered on a "no return" or "all sales final" basis.

In retail language, that means that the store will not exchange or refund your purchase. The same is true of intimate apparel such as undergarments, shorts, bathing suits and lingerie.

Most stores require some proof of purchase, so when you do return merchandise, take the sales slip or charge receipt with you. If possible, return goods in their original package or wrapper. Take along any hang tags or labels that may have been attached.

And be patient. Above all, explain just why you are dissatisfied before DEMANDING anything. If the store does not have an adjustment desk, ask to see the manager.

The best way to be happy with what you buy is to buy carefully from a merchant you know you can trust to help you if you make an error.

Buzhardt Is Serious

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House confirmed today that counsel J. Fred Buzhardt had suffered a heart attack and would not be able to participate in President Nixon's Watergate defense—now in a critical stage—for at least two months.

Buzhardt was taken to Fairfax Hospital in suburban Falls Church, Va. Thursday for what doctors called "a myocardial infarction of intermediate degree." His condition is reported as "serious but stable with no particular complications at this time."

A White House spokesman said Buzhardt probably will have to remain in the hospital for close to three weeks and then recuperate at home for another four to six weeks.

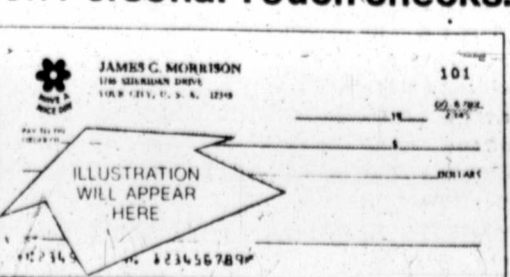

Buzhardt has been working on Nixon's Watergate legal defense since May, 1973, and supervised the transcription of White House tape recordings dealing with the scandal.

SUNDAY, JUNE 16

Your birthday today: Father's Day and its symbolism indicate current influences. You are on your own deeper resources all this year, apt to come into heavier responsibility, the authority to carry it and to speak for yourself and your level of people. The later months promise prosperity. Today's natives think on their feet; many have distinguished themselves as dancers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: No rush for the moment, be at ease as you go through your regular Sunday customs. Let life come to you rather than pursue. Knowing who is arriving uninvited is helpful.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You should exert yourself, calmly and with determination to secure your fair share of whatever is in distribution. Evening is for taking stock, sharing important information.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: The emphasis this Sunday is on principles, your deeper unconscious drives and how they're directed. Time for solitude and meditation is essential.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Get out and make the rounds. Be in touch with people, especially those at a distance, who are waiting to hear from you. There's news to celebrate this evening.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Present your finest appearance this busy Sunday. Gifts in moderation, long-awaited favors, settlements of outstanding negotiations are all indicated as successful.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Make immediate use of any new equipment or facilities. Bring along those who depend on you for advice, let them learn for themselves. New contacts include promise of romance.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]:

Get yourself right side up and then put your best foot forward. Early readjustments turn into successful enterprises. Romantic interests are featured.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Letting well enough alone is again a fine art this Sunday, with exceptional results for bonus. Be polite but reticent; there's everything to gain by persistence.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Early moods are a bit cool and formal, but all thaws quickly later in the sharing of pastimes, light sports, good conversation. Just don't overdo physical exercise.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Symbols become significant this Sunday. Everything you say or do is taken seriously. Use the passing opportunity fully for making your real intent generally understood.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: This Sunday's formalities may not be precisely what you expected, involve benefits and pleasures once you reorient your thinking. Start early, and persevere.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Be alert for the pageantry, symbols of prosperity coming, the "luck" of the day—it's apt to be good on all accounts. Younger people provide much diversion.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lose Weight Before You Vacation This Summer

This is the day when folks travel light. I am thinking of both luggage and body weight. The experienced globe trotter is not burdened with lots of luggage. She has learned to correlate her wardrobe so that this is unnecessary. She does not wish to spend hours packing and unpacking.

A woman who is dreaming of a vacation frequently indulges in preventive measures, such as losing a few pounds so she can be guilt-free when eating the gourmet food she may encounter.

Actually, when on vacation, anything she doesn't have to cook is apt to taste great! If you start out a few pounds overweight, it is certain to balloon.

I bring you my Nine-Day Reducing Diet (which gives you a loss of from five to ten pounds in nine days) at this time of year in order to help you get ready for summer fun and vacations. This is the seventh day of this diet. If you missed some of the menu, or failed to cut them out, the entire diet is available in a booklet.

Today let me give you a list of fruits and vegetables you can substitute for any you do not like, in cases you wish to repeat the diet at some future date.

Substitute List
Vegetables: Asparagus — 10 spears, limas — 1/4 cup, string beans — scant cup, beets — (2) — 2 inches in diameter, cabbage — one scant cup, carrots — two young ones, celery — six stalks, cauliflower — one cup, lettuce — one medium head, peas — one-third cup, spinach — one cup, squash — one cup, tomatoes, raw — one to 1 1/2 medium, tomatoes, canned — one cup, turnips — one cup, all greens are similar to spinach.

Fruits: Apples — one medium or 1/2 cup unsweetened sauce, bananas — 1/2 medium, grapefruit — 1/2, oranges — one large, peaches — one medium, pears — one, pineapple, fresh — 1/2 cup, plums — two, prunes — two, tangerines — one, 1/2 cup cantaloupe, 4 cup honey-dew melon.

Menus for Tomorrow

Breakfast: 1/2 grapefruit, one boiled egg, one slice of whole wheat toast, black coffee or tea with lemon.

Lunch: Chicken sandwich: 2 thin slices of whole wheat bread, 2 thin slices chicken (with mustard), a sliced tomato or canned tomato, one glass skimmed milk.

Dinner: 1/2 (6 oz.) broiled rockfish, perch or shad roe, salad of shredded cabbage and carrots, diet dressing, 1/2 cup cooked greens with vinegar, 1/2 grapefruit, one glass skimmed milk.

NATURE LOVER

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—Johnny Appleseed, legendary orchardist of 18th century America, was the hippie ecologist of his time.

He had a mystical love for nature and all growing things. He worked tirelessly to preserve the apple tree and plant it widely.

Johnny's real name was John Chapman. Born in 1774, he walked thousands of miles across Ohio River settlements distributing apple seeds. He also helped clear wilderness areas and plant the seeds, says the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture.

"AT WIT'S END"

By ERMA BOMBECK

Kids nowadays take all the fun out of gift-giving.

It used to be that whatever you coughed up came as a surprise. Not anymore. Last Christmas I was presented with not only a list of suggestions, but the serial numbers, the list price and the store hours that handled them.

All of it was as spontaneous as an Eastern Sunrise.

Not only that, but they seem to have no conception of what constitutes a gift and what constitutes a "memorial."

Take Fred. He's a nice kid who lives down the street who happens to be graduating from high school this year.

"I have to buy a gift for Fred," said my son.

I smiled at his thoughtfulness. "What did you have in mind?"

"He wants a tape deck for his car." (Serial no. 9176329. Retail $59.95.)

"Who do you think is giving him the car?"

"That's their business," I said. "But I personally believe a car is like entering a marriage... you go into it when you can promise to love and support it from this day forward in overtime pay and in gas shortages, in good mileage and broken down transmissions... in oil leaks and insurance premiums until you and the loan company (or death, whichever comes first) do part."

"You said that before," he grumbled. "It still doesn't solve what I am going to give Fred for graduation."

"How much money do you have?"

"Thirty-five cents and a student I.D. card."

"That can get you identified as a pauper."

"Maybe I could get him a new tennis racket? A sports shirt? A hot comb? A can of tennis balls?"

"How about a card?" I asked.

"That's not much for a guy who has everything."

"I know something he doesn't have."

"What?"

"A need."

And I want a motel where you dial 4 and Robert Redford appears at your door with ice.

"A guy only graduates once," he said.

"If he plays his cards right, that's enough," I said.

"He doesn't need anything else," he insisted.

"Ridiculous," I said. "If you got him a tape deck for his car, what would his parents give him?"

"Who do you think is giving him the car?"

"That's their business," I said. "But I personally believe a car is like entering a marriage... you go into it when you can promise to love and support it from this day forward in overtime pay and in gas shortages, in good mileage and broken down transmissions... in oil leaks and insurance premiums until you and the loan company (or death, whichever comes first) do part."

How to 'double up' when the time comes

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Here is my story: After 34 years of marriage, my wife died. I bought a double plot—one for her and one for me when my time comes. I couldn't decide on what kind of headstone I wanted for my wife's grave, so I put off buying one.

Meanwhile, I met a woman and things started happening so fast I couldn't believe it. To make a long story short, I married her. In the meantime, my wife's headstone slipped my mind, so my married son got disgusted with me and he bought one and put it up. Then he told me to buy two more lots—one for myself and one for my new wife because he was sure his mother wouldn't want me buried next to her if I couldn't even wait three months to get married again.

I asked him what he planned to do with the empty plot beside his mother, and he said he'd find some other dummy to bury there.

What should I do now?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I'd buy another double plot—unless your present wife has already made plans to double up with someone else when her time comes.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old married man who has had this problem ever since I could tell the difference between a boy and a girl. You guessed it, I can't resist women. Maybe I should say the problem is that women can't resist ME. I'm a pretty good looking guy (I'm told) and have an athletic build and keep in shape, but the ladies tell me it's the sexy look in my eye that gets them.

I love my wife (we've been married for seven years and have two children) but I can't leave other women alone. Right now I have something going with my best friend's wife, and also with my wife's best friend. It's not a heavy love affair in either case, but it's fun.

In my defense, let me say I've never propositioned a woman in my life. They approach me, and I can't say no. Can you help me?

LADIES' MAN

DEAR MAN: I'm all choked up. You can say no if you want to. And you'd better start trying, before somebody does your wife a favor and tells her.

DEAR ABBY: After 32 years of marriage, I finally got up enough gumption to divorce my husband. Although I still cared for him, I couldn't take any more of his cruel and inhuman treatment.

One week after our divorce was final he married another woman. Now listen to this. On his honeymoon he sent ME a dozen roses with the following card: "To a lovely lady with love."

A few days later I received a menu from a resort hotel where he and I had spent our honeymoon. He had written on it: "Remember this place, Darling? Love," and then his name.

This has been very upsetting to me. What do you make of it and what should I do about it?

BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: Ignore it. But if he sends any more reminders of him or the past, write and ask him to please keep OUT of touch with you because you want to forget him. He sounds like a very cruel (or sick) man.

DEAR ABBY: A young woman wrote that she was in love with a fine young man but her mother didn't want her to marry him because he was too short.

You suggested that one should measure a man from his eyebrows up. That isn't low enough. You must go to the base of his heart, for there you will find all of his emotions, including love, which is basic to a man's character.

RAY IN SCOTTS VALLEY

DEAR RAY: Right on!

Texas Watermelon Remains A Favorite

AUSTIN — On a hot day in ancient Egypt, likely as not the slaves and pharaohs gathered under their separate shade trees and cut open a cool succulent watermelon.

Four thousand years after those first melons were cultivated, folks still do the same thing — though now their parties range from the simple juice — running kind to more elaborate feasts featuring carved melon baskets and chilled comotes.

"Any way you eat Texas watermelon is a good way," said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. "The season has started now and melons are on their way to market from South Texas. Gradually harvest will move north and east to provide enough watermelon to keep everyone happy all summer long."

White noted that Texas is first in the nation in watermelon production. This season homemakers can expect to pay slightly more than they did a year ago, he said. Planting dropped 10,000 acres which, combined with a dry season, decreased the crop. Melons are smaller this year but of high quality.

To select a good one. White suggests look for a melon that is firm, symmetrical and of good color, varying from deep, solid green to gray, depending on the variety. Mature watermelons have a dull rather than shiny surface. The underside is yellowish. Sweetness is largely due to variety and not appearance.

In planning a watermelon party, consider the ages of guests. Chilled and sliced melon is the favorite of youngsters — and many adults too. But older folks may enjoy the change of watermelon balls and ice cream or sherbet or watermelon mixed with fresh Texas cantelope and neaches, which are also appearing on the market.

The following recipe, tested by Texas Department of Agriculture home economists, turns watermelon into sherbet.

MELON SHERBET
1 1/4 cups water
1 Tbsp. & 1 tsp. lemon juice
2 cups watermelon juice and pieces, crushed
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup non-fat dry milk solids
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
Blend 1/2 cup water and sugar in heavy pan. Heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes. Meanwhile, place 3/4 cup water and lemon juice in mixing bowl. Sprinkle non-fat dry milk solids over the surface, and beat until mixture is thick and fluffy. Blend in lemon juice and crushed melon; add syrup. Pour mixture into refrigerator trays and begin freezing. When partially frozen, remove from tray and beat with rotary beater. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Return to freezer until frozen firmly. Yield: 12 servings.

White Deer Land Museum Receives JS League Gift

A $3,300 gift to the White Deer Land Museum has been donated by Pampa Junior Service League, Inc. according to League President, Mrs. Rodney De Fever.

The gift will be used to begin work on the Museum's second floor.

"This is a marvelous beginning step, and of course, this work on the second floor is one of the bicentennial goals for the Museum," said Mrs. Fred Thompson, Curator.

"We hope the second floor project will be completed before 1976," said Mrs. Thompson. "One of the first phases of the second floor project will be to introduce the children of Pampa from 4 years through second grade to the exciting world of a 'Touch Museum.' Items are now being collected that the children will be encouraged to touch and even operate," said Mrs. Thompson.

She envisions, "Children grinding coffee and packing household goods for a trip west." She continued, "In reality this would be a true learning. The children would have a vivid lesson in pioneer life," she said.

At the present time the second floor is divided into a number of apartments.

"We would begin by opening up this area. This Junior Service League gift will certainly get us started on these physical changes we must make to utilize the second floor," said Mrs. Thompson.

Junior Service League has supported the Museum in the past. "We feel the second floor renovation project is a contribution to Pampa's progress. Preserving our unique Panhandle heritage is a very valid concern of Junior Service League," said Mrs. De Fever.

She pointed out that this $3,300 gift to the Museum is the single largest donation in the League's history. It is most gratifying to us to be able to begin such a project," said Mrs. De Fever. "Such gifts are possible only because League money raising projects are supported by the community," said Mrs. De Fever. "The Golden Eagle and the annual Charity Ball are current League projects," she said.

HOMEMAKERS NEWS

By ELAINE HOUSTON
County Extension Agent

We had a nice morning coffee at Mrs. Jewel Walker's Tuesday to meet newcomers in the Pampa area. I think this is a great way to help new people in the area get acquainted. Mrs. Walker gave me a tour of her beautiful vegetable garden. Mr. Walker has built a sprinkler system that everyone should have. It's completely automatic — he even has it built to water the potted plants. I am anxious to see a variety of okra — red okra that they are growing.

The Extension Office will be happy to test any canners for homemakers. We can check the gauge to see that it is correct.

Don't forget to call and sign up for the Preservation Mailout Service.

SEWING CLASSES
We are still getting calls for the sewing classes. We need some more to sign up so if you're interested call for details.

DID YOU KNOW—
—To cut expenses, omit nuts from most recipes. Substitutions for expensive tree nuts are chopped peanuts or oatmeal.

—Beets are a two for one vegetable — the leaves as well as the roots make fine eating. The greens are delicious cooked quickly in the water that clings to their leaves, buttered and served promptly. Try the leaves raw, they add extra color and tang to a tossed salad.

—Turn knit garments inside out before washing or dry cleaning to protect them from snagging.

BETTER BUSES?
RICHMOND, Calif. (UPI) — The local transit system is experimenting with buses whose seats are placed diagonally to give more leg room.

MUSEUM GIFT — Mrs. Paul Hartin, member of the Pampa Junior Service League, Inc., finance committee, recently presented a check for $3,300 to White Deer Land Museum Curator, Mrs. Fred Thompson. The gift from Service League will be used for the second floor renovation project.

Florida Botanist Gives Aquatic Plant Program

"While aquatic plants are needed to take nutrients out of water, they must also be controlled," stated Rue Hestand, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rue Hestand of Pampa, in an illustrated talk to members and guests of the Pampa Garden Club recently. Hestand, associated with the Fish and Game commission of Florida and Florida state botanist, is a recognized authority for his research on aquatic plants.

"Aquatic plants are more prolific in Florida waters because the waters are more shallow," said the speaker. He showed slides of water-choked lakes, canals, and reservoirs. Two of the most rapid growing plants are the water hyacinth, which has a beautiful white flower but doubles in area in 5 days, and the hydrilla, good in aquariums but a problem in lakes because of its 17-inch growth rate per week.

While an overabundance of plants can be devastating, the lack of plants in water can also present problems. Algae will form, bacteria increases, and the waters become polluted.

Hestand and his research team employ the air boat for the air plant studies in the swamps. They scuba dive as well as run tests in waters waist high and infested with alligators, bugs, snakes, wasps, and some of the 66 species of mosquitoes present in Florida.

Other research is conducted at a research center with 60 pools and several green houses with controlled temperatures. The pools are filled with six inches of sand, followed by water and various plants for research. Rates of growth, seasons for growth, and growth habits are studied along with methods to control or ban growth.

The speaker showed a series of slides of aquatic plants which grow in Florida lakes and canals and also be used in aquariums in the home and outdoor ponds. He noted that many people have problems with their aquarium plants because the plants are not given enough indirect sunlight and sometimes have not been properly cleaned before being put into the container. Tree shade must be provided for plants on outdoor ponds in Pampa because of the intense summer sun.

An environmentalist, Hestand is studying the natural approach to solving some of Florida's problems, including importing a fresh water Chinese carp fish, whose reproduction can be controlled and which will eat plants that need control. In citing environmental problems caused by man in Florida, a state which uses more chemicals than all the other states combined, he included the dumping of treated sewage into waters and the water level controls, which have prevented hurricanes from flushing out the canals and lakes.

Clear water flows at Disney World, located near polluted water, because springs feed the lakes, and man-made ponds at the entertainment site are concreted, painted blue, and constantly cleaned by scuba divers who scrub the algae away.

Hestand's work sometimes takes him into the court room when suits arise concerning environmental issues between the state of Florida and individuals or businesses. He is currently working under a Federal grant on a study of the environmental impact barge canals will have on plants.

During the business portion of the meeting, members were asked to take plants to the home of Mrs. Elbert Walker, 1812 Evergreen, for distribution to Pampa newcomers.

Contributions to the M.K. Brown Landscaping fund may be mailed to the Pampa Environmental Beautification Foundation-Brown Landscaping Fund, c/o R. H. Nensiel, treasurer, Combs - Worley Building. Donations are tax deductible, and memorial contributions will be recorded in a Memorial Book.

The fall flower show will be held with the Fine Arts Festival at M.K. Brown Oct. 12-13. The horticulture division will be open to the public, and residents are urged to plan to participate. Classes will include annuals, perennials, roses, dahlias, and mums grown by the exhibitor. Potted plants must have been in the exhibitor's possession three months before the show date.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Holly Gray and Mrs. W.E. Abernathy. The table arrangement was a traditional bouquet of summer flowers. The next meeting of the club will be held in September.

Look for more bodysuits in sheer and semisheer fabrics this fall. The softer fabrics lend themselves to feminine styling, including bow tied shirt styles.

WORTHWHILE CLUB
The Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met June 7 at 1:30 p.m. with Mrs. May Cude. Gladys Stone was co-hostess.

Mrs. Maggie Smith called the meeting to order with the club prayer. Roll call was answered with things I like to do most.

Mrs. Cora Lee Robertson, THDA chairman, reported delegates elected at last council meeting to attend state meeting in Amarillo in September are Mmes. Cora Robertson, Jim Clifton and J. S. Hollingwood, with alternates, Mmes. Laverne Coombs and Gladys Stone.

The president appointed a committee to revise the groups by-laws. They are Mmes. Gladys Stone, May Cude and Alma Jaynes.

Mrs. Elaine Houston, Gray County Extension Agent, announced that material had been mailed on canning and preserving. Anyone interested in receiving this information should call or write the extension office.

Mrs. Elaine Houston installed the following new officers: president, Mrs. Maggie Smith; vice president, Mrs. Pauline Beard; secretary, Mrs. Cora Robertson; treasurer, Mrs. Billie Rogers; and council delegate, Mrs. Janice Carter.

Mrs. Smith introduced Mrs. Forrest Hills who presented the program, "A Guide for the Diabetic."

Mrs. Corinne Bell joined the organization. Other members present were Mmes. Estelle Purvis, Edna Daughtree, Lottie Reynolds, Janice Myers, Mina Benham, Dot Chisum, Donna Lee Borwn, Maggie Smith, Jessie Rance, Billie Rogers, Janice Carter, Alma Jaynes, Odessa Blackeslee, Cora Robertson, May Cude, Gladys Stone.

Guest were Mmes. Houston and Hills.

The next meeting will be June 21, with Mrs. Billie Rogers, 2239 N. Russell.

AFRICAN VIOLET SOCIETY

The Pampa African Violet Society met in the home of Mrs. Evan Jones, with the president, Mrs. Lee Moore, presiding. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Jones, a prayer written by Ethel Simianer.

Roll call was answered by members with a favorite quotation. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. Jones discussed the gardens of royalty in France, Egypt, Africa and China.

HUMAN NEEDS

Self-actualization is one of the basic human needs, says Mrs. Jane Fleischer Moss, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. She defines it as the need to become the most effective person one can, using the potentialities he has.

Mrs. Holly Gray discussed the use of charcoal in the soil for gardening and house plants, also the proper care of plants. She also told the legend of the dogwood and rebud trees.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments enjoyed by the following members: Mmes. Holly Gray, Vernon Osborn, J.E. Carlson, Norman Walberg, Evan Jones, Lee Moore and Charles Gison.

COALITION SUGGESTED

ATLANTA (UPI) — The head of the U.S. Agriculture Department's extension service told an interdenominational meeting here that there should be a coalition between church and government to promote rural development.

Dorris Rivers said the church and government were "dynamic forces working for common goals and common programs" in rural economic development.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

The late Alvin Landy, former Executive Secretary of the American Contract Bridge League, was on jury duty some years ago in New York City. When he took his seat in the jury box, one of the lawyers, recognizing him, started the questioning:

Attorney: "Aren't you the Alvin Landy who is the Executive Secretary of the American Contract Bridge League?"

A.L.: "Yes, sir."

Attorney: "Weren't you at one time a tournament director for the A.C.B.L.?"

A.L.: "Yes, sir."

Attorney: "Your Honor, I would like to excuse Mr. Landy for cause. Ten years ago, in a tournament, he ruled against me. I don't want him to do it again."

Actually, Landy was a fine tournament director, and he would not have ruled against anyone except for cause. He was also a top-flight player. Here is an example of Landy in action. The deal arose in the Mixed-Team - Of - Four Championships of 1950.

The bidding:

2♥ 3♦ 4♦ Pass
5♣ Pass 6♣ Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠

On this deal, most pairs arrived at a six - spade contract, which was defeated owing to the bad spade break. There was justification in bidding six spades: it was a duplicate game, and spades count more than clubs.

Against Landy's six - club contract, West's ace of diamonds opening lead was ruffed in dummy. If a trump had then been led, only 12 tricks would have been made, since declarer would have been able to get rid of only four of his hearts on dummy's spades; and he would then have had to concede a heart trick at the end.

After ruffing the opening diamond lead, Landy promptly led a low spade and trumped it. He then cashed the ace of trumps, after which he led a low trump to the board's ten spot. With dummy's six of spades having been promoted into a winning trick, it now became a routine matter to cash the five spades remaining in dummy, and to discard the five hearts in his own hand. Thus an overtrick was made.

Marriage The Second Time Around

COLLEGE STATION — People marrying for the second time face problems somewhat different from those of a first marriage, according to one authority.

"If people could recognize these possible problem areas, they could handle minor difficulties before they became major problems," Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said this week.

She pointed out several areas that may cause hardships in second marriages.

"First marriages are usually optimistically accepted and enthusiastically celebrated. However, second marriages seem to be greeted with a "wait and see" attitude," the specialist noted.

Families often express mixed feelings of hope and fear that must be considered. The divorced partner's family will naturally compare the new and former spouses. In-law relationships begin with more strain than in first marriages, she reflected.

Assuming emotional and financial care of stepchildren usually calls for adjustments by the second mate. Visitation rights, child support and competition for affection are factors which the person marrying a divorcee needs to consider, the specialist pointed out.

"Another factor that surfaces in remarriages is how much did the divorced partner learn from marriage failure," the specialist said.

"Marriage failure, like marriage success, is usually achieved by two working together. The partner who sees himself as blameless is usually a poor marital risk," Miss Taylor warned.

In spite of the special factors in remarriage, understanding, mature couples can turn the hurtful experience of a previous marriage into a rewarding relationship, the specialist concluded.

Mind Treatment For Warts?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My little girl has warts on her hands and face and they keep appearing. Is there a treatment, other than burning them off? She has so many that a doctor said he would have to put her under an anesthetic to remove them.
But what if they keep coming back?
—Mrs. D.D.

Most treatment of warts involves removal by electrocautery or applying an acid to the warts, but warts are caused by a particular virus for which we have no preventive medication. So warts can come back after removal. Especially in children.
But there's a very curious thing about warts. For some strange reason, suggestion very often works — again, especially in children. I don't know why; call it a manifestation of psychosomatic reaction if you wish, but putting a name on it doesn't explain it.
Anyway, touching the warts with some unusual object seems to have a happy effect. I have, for example, seen it work by rubbing warts at the same time each day with the shiny quarter. And the warts vanished.
No doubt almost anything else would be used just as well. Including the stump water and dead cat, or whatever it was the Huckleberry Finn used in Mark Twain's story.
Confessing as I do that I don't know the reason, I'd still suggest trying such a simple method before subjecting your little girl to more drastic procedures.
—Mrs. J.H.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am planning a face-lift this year and have consulted two well-known plastic surgeons. One says he does a face-lift in his office (equipped like an operating room) and does the operation the first thing in the morning under total anesthesia, the patient going home late in the afternoon.
The second doctor does it in the hospital under local anesthetic and requires that his patients stay in the hospital three or four days.
—Mrs. J.H.

Don't know that I can give you a valid answer. Many qualified plastic surgeons have equipment and facilities in their offices; others prefer hospital facilities — and perhaps want to make sure a patient remains quiet for a few days until healing is well begun.
Your question would depend in part on how extensive your operation will be. But for a suggestion, why not ask your family physician, who quite likely has a professional's view of how successful the contrasting methods are under the conditions as they exist there.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: For months now every night when I go to sleep my mouth and tongue go dry. I take a drink of water but in a few minutes it goes dry again. I am 72.
It goes dry when I sleep on my back but not when I lie on my side. What causes this?
—F.P.

Best guess, from the clues you give me, is that when you lie on your back, your mouth is likely to pop open — but not so likely when you lie on your side.
When you were younger and your glands were more vigorous, you may well have produced enough saliva so you didn't notice any dryness. But now you do. If lying on your side prevents the trouble, then my advice is to sleep on your side.
Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To learn more about it, write for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," in care of Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Gwen Still Twists And Wiggles

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — "It was 21 years ago," Gwen Verdon said.
Yes, it was May 1953 that I wrote, "Red-haired dancer Gwen Verdon of 'Can-Can' was the greatest personal hit in last night's opening since Mary Martin came along. She used to be a gossip columnist on The Hollywood Reporter during a six-year period in which she gave up dancing entirely. She's the greatest. RUSH to see her!"
Now Gwen Verdon is rehearsing for a theater-in-the-round revival of "Damn Yankees" and getting ready to rehearse for a new musical, "Chicago," to be directed by Bob Fosse from whom she's legally separated.
She was doing all the sexy twists and wiggles at the rehearsal the other afternoon with Ray Walston as director and it didn't seem anybody could have remained as alluring after 21 years.
"I remember it well," smiles Gwen during a break.
She was unknown at 8:40 and a celebrity at 11:15. She did a slow-motion apache dance that set the audience screaming. She was in her dressing room, no clothes on, pinned into a towel, when somebody rushed in saying, "You have to take a bow."
"But I'm undressed," she said. She just had on her opera-lengths. And was holding her costume in front her. Two other actors had started their part, she took her bow, saying, "Oh, I'm so sorry to have ruined your act."
"I couldn't get out of Shubert Alley. I had to get to a policeman's horse to get to the Hotel Astor. I was almost crushed."
"Chicago" coming up will be only her seventh show. "I stay with a show for two years," she said now. "I save up my money, then I go away for five years. I did it after 'Redhead' and after 'Sweet Charity.' It closed six years ago. I've done TV and the play 'Children, Children' which we rehearsed three weeks and it closed opening night."
Gwen, wearing a sweat shirt and leaning her elbows on a desk in an office off the rehearsal hall, said, "I'm the idiot in this group because I've never been in a circle show before. I don't really know how to do it."
"Will it be different working with Bob Fosse now that you're not together?" I asked.
"So far it's no different. We got married in '60 when we were both in 'Redhead,' I guess the whole relationship was mutual admiration — that sounds like a Frank Loesser song. Of course, I knew him in Hollywood."
"He was the young fellow who was going to take over when Fred Astaire retired. He just did some dancing in 'The Little Prince.' The last time he danced in a show was in 'Pal Joey' at City Center 11 years ago. But he dances all the time in the rehearsals of his shows, showing the others how the dances should be done."
When Fosse got an Oscar in '73, he said he wanted to thank his "dear friend," Gwen Verdon. And Miss Verdon still says, "Wasn't that a sweet thing to do?" Their daughter Nicole Providence Fosse, 11, studies ballet two nights a week.
But Gwen, it would appear, studies ballet, or something, all the time.
"The first thing I do after I get up with my daughter and get her off to school is 45 minutes of warming up in my long dining room. Then I go to a dance class and do the same thing over. Or maybe I do a ballet bar. Then I get a saxophone lesson from Phil Bodner — I play a sax in 'Chicago' — then I take a singing lesson from Keith Davis."
"Do you ever get a little creaky as the years rush on?"
"So far it's getting easier. Of course if I had to go back and do one of the shows like 'Redhead,' that was a lot harder to do, maybe I couldn't do it."
Gwen weighs 122 pounds and looks like she weighs 100. "You know dancers — they're all muscle," she said. Her son James Henighan, Jr., is 31 and does acting and TV commercials; "he has two kids of his own."
Sexy Gwen, the grandmother, got up from the desk to return to her wiggling and twisting and kissing Jerry Lanning, the handsome, singing son of Roberta Sherwood. I mentioned her sweat shirt which has the word "Pippin" across the front.
"I'm loyal, right?" Gwen said. That's Bob Fosse's show.
A N.Y. restaurateur told George Plimpton, "Do a TV special on being a restaurateur. Next to those risks, playing quarterback for the Detroit Lions is nice and safe!"
I'D RATHER BE LIGHT
Today's Best Laugh: The millionaire's will read, "To my wife I leave $5,000,000; to my daughter, $5,000,000. And to my partner, who always said health is better than wealth, I leave my sunlamp."
Wish I'd Said That: "In youth we run into difficulties. In old age, difficulties run into us." — Josh Billings.
Remembered Quote: "Any man who correctly guesses a woman's age may be smart — but he's not very bright."
Earl's Pearls: Bob Curran heard a woman complain that one trouble with being a housewife is that when you don't feel well enough to go to work, staying home doesn't do any good.
Mickey Free doubts that Pres. Nixon will see much on his Middle East trip: "It's too much, six countries in twelve days. I know — I was on a cruise like that once."

Lumps for Beef Growers... Ideas for Cattlemen...
Brucellosis Again... Fewer Turkeys Coming.

THE BEEF industry is taking its lumps, and, as usual in such cases, there are several theories about the cause. One is that the demand in this country was down. Americans ate 14 pounds less beef in 1973 than they did in 1972. Another is that the export demand was less and that other countries imposed export controls, while the United States has no such controls on imported beef. As you can imagine, there are some people calling for government restrictions on beef imports, and that may be imperative, but right now is only in the talking stage. U. S. Agriculture Secretary Butz says that because Americans ate less beef last year doesn't mean they like beef less. He said less red meat was marketed because of consumer boycotts and government price manipulation. And that sounds reasonable; but, in the meantime, cattlemen pay more for what they must buy and get less for what they sell.

YOU MIGHT have noticed that the governor of Oklahoma, David Hall, introduced a resolution before the recent governor's conference calling for a change in meat grading standards and introduction of a national "check off" program on slaughter cattle to promote beef. Texas pork producers recently approved a check-off program of promotion, education and research, and insect, disease and predator control. This program will be getting underway about July 1. Other commodity groups who have similar programs include peanuts, soybeans, grain sorghum, pecans, turkeys, and wheat. Such programs are authorized under the Texas Commodity Referendum Law which is administered by Commissioner White.

KAUFMAN and Washington Counties cattlemen have fewer restrictions now on brucellosis testing requirements. Those two counties have been restored to "modified-certified" status; the USDA reports. At the same time, Cherokee, Naylor, and Wood Counties, all in northeastern Texas, have been taken off the modified-certified brucellosis area list; and cattlemen there who ship beef for dairy-breeding animals will have more brucellosis testing requirements.

APPARENTLY TEXANS will produce fewer turkeys this year than they did in 1973. There were fewer turkey eggs set every week in May than were set in May, 1973, ranging from 71 per cent fewer in the week ending June 1 to 96 per cent fewer in the week ending May 18. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reported that there were 251,000 heavy breed turkey poult hatched in the State during the week ending June 1, and that was 25 per cent fewer than a year ago and nine per cent fewer than the previous week.

INSECTS ARE on the rampage in some areas. Walnut caterpillars have been reported pillaging pecans in some Central Texas areas. Sorghum midges are also hitting grain sorghum in Central Texas, and boll weevils have been reported flourishing in many areas of the State where cotton is big enough to supply them something to eat.

RAINS HAVE blessed areas in the State, but there is still a short supply of moisture on the High and Low Plains, handicapping planting. This probably initiated the joke about a West Texas drought: A tourist stopped at a service station (when it had gas) and commented to the old-timer serving him that it looked like rain.
"Hope it does rain," the old-timer said. "Not for myself but for my grandson. I've seen rain."

ADVANTAGES of deferred grazing are illustrated in this photo of a pasture in Wheeler County which had been sprayed three times. It has been grazed during winter each year for the past four years. Plants and wildlife have benefitted, and erosion has been reduced. (Photo Courtesy SCS)

'Deferred Grazing' Is Beneficial For Area Pastures, Says SC Service

By DAVID B. POLK
SCS, Pampa
In its strictest sense, deferred grazing is the vacating or non-use of a grazing unit from the beginning of growth until full development and seed maturity of the forage plants at or near the end of the growing season. In practice, deferred grazing means a postponement of grazing or resting of grazing land for a prescribed period, usually 3 to 5 months. The purpose of deferred grazing is to promote natural revegetation by increasing the vigor of the forage stand and permitting desirable plants to seed. This system of grazing management is designed to give the desirable forage plants full benefit of the entire growing season for maximum plant development. If grazing can be deferred every few years, then the forage plants have a better opportunity to reproduce. By allowing important forage plants to grow unhindered during the period most favorable for their growth, they are enabled to produce a

Predators Pose Many Problems

COLLEGE STATION — Predator control work in the United States is caught in a crossfire. The crossfire is between those who advocate no control at all and some who want to eliminate all pests. Between these two extremes are many varying shades of opinion. Research by Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists is striving to clear up many of the unproved ideas that have evolved from years of unevaluated predator control work. Our goal is to gain data and information for sound decisions," said Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, director of the TAES, the state's agricultural research agency. A TAES scientist, Dr. Samuel L. Beasom, assistant professor of Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences at Texas A&M University, did an intensive, objective study on the impact of predation on game animals and rodents in South Texas in 1971 and 1972. Beasom gathered data on the selectivity and efficiency of M-44's, hunting, strychnine baits and steel traps.

Association Plans Shorthorn Meeting

The Five States Shorthorn Ass'n will hold its annual field day at Palo Ca Acce Farms, owned by Robert Dahl, at Gruver, July 27. Registration is to begin at 9 a.m., with a judging contest to follow. A pot-luck dinner will also be held, and all interested cattlemen are invited to attend.

Group Views Beef Cattle

The U.S. beef cattle industry is in a wreck — a wreck that is breaking many cattle feeders and that is sure to lead to less beef for consumers in the long run — reports the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Amarillo.

"Live cattle prices nose-dived $4 per hundredweight this week, the largest drop in months," says Charles E. Ball, TCFA executive vice president. "That's a 10 per cent tumble from last week and a 17 per cent drop from last month. Furthermore, the drop occurred on the heels of the greatest sustained losses in history for cattle feeders — average losses of $70 to $236 per animal sold during the past eight months."

TCFA estimates that actual losses on fat cattle sold since October 1, 1973, exceeds $1.5 billion. And the estimated inventory loss on all beef cattle including cows and calves still on pasture, exceeds $15.5 billion.

"Cattle feeders are disillusioned and going out of business," adds Ball. This is reflected in the USDA Cattle on Feed Report, released today, which showed that cattle placements in feedlots were down 40 per cent from a year ago! That's the largest drop in recent memory and it indicates a shortage of fed Choice cattle coming off feed this fall.

"The discouraging part is that consumers are not reaping the benefit of these lower prices," he continues. "Average retail prices have come down only 12 per cent since early February, compared to a 32 per cent drop in live cattle prices." "But at present, beef is plentiful," concludes Ball. "And if retailers pass on their reduced costs, consumers should enjoy during the next few weeks some of the best beef buys in over a year."

Cattle Feeders Face Problems

AMARILLO — Beef cattle raisers may enjoy up to a 10 per cent increase in returns per cow through feed additive research with an artificial amino acid, methionine hydroxy calcium analog (MHA), presently underway at West Texas State University. Funded through a $4,000 grant from the DuPont Corp., the WTSU School of Agriculture is midway in their project to determine the effects of the amino acid on beef cattle milk production, with the ultimate goal of increasing calf weight at weaning time.

"We hope there will be from a 10-20 pound increase in the calf weight," noted Dr. Don Beerwinkle, WTSU agriculture professor and project coordinator. This amino acid is already being used successfully in the poultry and the dairy cattle industry." For the last two days, the six-man team, including Dr. Larry Varner from the Texas A&M Extension Service in Uvalde, have been milking the 180-cow test herd. It is the regular University teaching herd of Angus and Hereford cows. "We will be looking at the total milk production, the fat and protein content, and other solids content of the milk," Beerwinkle said. The cows and calves were to be weighed Saturday to determine calf weight gains at this point. The project, begun in mid-March, will be completed some time in October at the final weighing. The cows and calves have been given daily doses of MHA in portions of 0.5, 10 and 15 grams. This is the only milking they will receive.

Hearings May Determine Extent Of Financial Aid

Hearings on legislation to bring financial aid to hard-pressed livestock producers and feeders will be held by the House Agriculture Committee Tuesday, June 25, and Wednesday, June 26. The two-day public hearings will be held on legislation introduced by Congressman Bob Price, to establish a guaranteed or insured loan fund to cattlemen suffering from substantial financial losses. Congressman Bob Price reintroduced the legislation Wednesday with the bi-partisan support of sixteen other members of Congress. The Senate Agriculture Committee has also announced that they will conduct a hearing on similar legislation which has been introduced in the Senate by Senators Carl Curtis, John Tower, Henry Bellmon, James Eastland, Clifford Hansen, Dewey Bartlett, and Peter Dominici. "Since late last year livestock prices have dropped sharply and many cattlemen and feedlot operators face financial ruin and bankruptcy unless prompt help is provided," Price stated. The Texas Congressman further stated he "was pleased that the chairmen of both the Senate and House

By FOSTER WHALEY
Gray County Agent

Last week's Sunday paper pictured this writer and Bill Skaggs in a wheat field that had been hailed out. In my news column (same paper), I mentioned there had been no serious hail losses reported. A close friend sent me the news clipping with this note attached: "These pictures on the front page and your column on page 5, which says that no damaging hail has been reported, might seem a little conflicting to some people." The person writing me has a point even though he fully understood the situation. The headline on this column is Wednesday for the following Sunday's paper. Thus you see last week's column was written about twenty-four hours before the severe hail that played havoc with so much of the irrigated wheat. Very few people with whom I talked carry hail insurance. The reason is the high cost of insuring. For instance, full coverage in certain townships of Gray County cost $15 per $100 value placed on the wheat. However, according to Ray Duncan, almost 100 per cent of his clients take a ten percent deductible clause. This costs $10.15 per $100. So, in effect, if you had a hail that damaged the crop by twenty per cent, you would not have to pay out any premium nor would you collect any insurance. It would take ten per cent to pay for your premium and there being a ten per cent deductible clause would mean you would be just as well off uninsured in this case. I heard one farmer remark several years ago, it was like taking on another landlord and paying out another 20 per cent for 30 days of risk. Of course, in a year like this everyone wishes they had taken no deductible and placed $200 per acre on the insurance. Such is the life of a farmer. This is a good 'next year' country.

Agriculture Position Is Sought By Fisher

As the Republican candidate for State Agriculture Commissioner, Zack Fisher has a slogan: "If you eat, agriculture is important to you." He probably doesn't get much argument on that point, not even from Democrats. But just in case anyone would like to know his own ideas on how such an important post should be filled, Fisher is currently conducting a statewide campaign.

A native of Spearman, he now has a cow-calf operation in Hall County, is active in feed grain farming and feels that, as both producer and consumer, he understands the problems of low prices at the farm and high prices at the store. His political background includes participation in state Republican organizations; he was liaison for Congressman Bob Price last year; and served as legislative assistant to U.S. Senator John Tower. A graduate of Spearman High School, he also attended Clarendon Junior College and the University of Texas at Austin. Fisher, who lives with his wife and two children near Memphis, is 32 years of age and participates in many civic activities, including Rotary Club, Jaycees and Little League. He is also a member of the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Ass'n.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX RYALS
(Editor's Note: Ryals serves on the Governor's Task Force on Water. The Task Force was formed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe following the Bureau of Reclamation Report in 1973 that the importation of water from the Mississippi River, at a point below New Orleans, was non-feasible from an economic return status. The Task Force was directed to come up with a new plan for development and conservation of the waters of Texas.)

In last week's column we continued the series of articles on the new recommended statewide program for Conservation and Development of Texas Water Resources. Last week's column ended with item 6 of the long-range plans. Today we begin with item 7 of the long-range plans.

7. Long-range plans should also provide for seeking water from sources outside of Texas to meet needs that cannot be met by full development and utilization of water resources available in Texas. Obtaining water from such sources will be dependent on fair and reasonable compensation for that water. It is essential that arrangements be made for obtaining out-of-state water and for transporting the water to areas of need well in advance of occurrence of the anticipated need.

8. Long-range plans must be revised and updated periodically if they are to serve their intended purpose of looking forward at least 50 years into the future. A long-range plan that is 10 years old is no longer a 50-year plan; it is a 40-year plan. In order to have long-range plans serve their intended purpose, they should be thoroughly reviewed and revised once every five years in light of then-current conditions and in light of anticipated conditions 50 years later as they can then be visualized.

9. Preparation and updating of long-range plans should be accomplished primarily by the Texas Water Development Board with active participation by cities, towns, river authorities, water districts, and other agencies and political subdivisions of the state as appropriate. Coordination of planning efforts and effective utilization of all available water resource planning capabilities within the state should be the responsibility of the governor, which responsibility could be exercised through the Division of Planning Coordination of his office.

10. Collection, organization and dissemination of basic data are essential to effective planning. The Texas Water Development Board is engaged in an extensive basic data program in cooperation with other state, federal and local entities, and this program should be continued and expanded with the Texas Water Development Board having primary responsibility.

Short-Range Plans
1. Purpose: There comes a time when plans must be converted into action if anything is to be accomplished. The principal purpose of short-range or "action" plans is to convert plans into action.

2. Scope and Content: Short-range plans encompass those projects and activities currently underway or which must be initiated immediately or in the near future and actively prosecuted to completion if anticipated water needs are to be met when they are expected to occur. Short-range plans should: (a) describe such projects and activities in clear and specific terms; (b) indicate the degree of urgency and the desired time schedule for accomplishing each such project and activity; (c) specify procedures and allocate responsibilities for taking the actions necessary to achieve the desired results.

3. Planning Period: Short-range plans should cover a period of 10 to 20 years into the future. This time span generally provides adequate time to initiate and complete a major water resource project, yet does not extend so far into the future as to preclude accurate estimates of anticipated needs. Those projects for which a clear need can be foreseen within the next 10 to 20 years should be included in the short-range plans.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Women's libbers probably bit off more than they can chew by using 57 lawsuits to press Little League to change its charter and allow girls to play on what are now boys teams.

And now there is even talk of suing Babe Ruth next year so girls can play. "Today the Little League, tomorrow Cooperstown," said one member of Mothers' March on the Little League, the primary force behind the rules change. Cooperstown is professional baseball's Hall of Fame in New York State.

The Little League issue has now become the first step of what feminists see as a road to equality in athletics. However, a question arises. Will it be a road to equality or to damage?

"It's going to have to be tested. If it's a good thing, it'll work," said B.C. Graves, a prominent Amarillo psychologist. "I think that over the long run, as people come to accept the situation, attitudes and psychological feelings will change."

He added, "I don't know if there'll be any psychological problems with girls and boys on the same team. You might ask a schoolteacher."

Walter D. Davis, Pampa schoolteacher, said, "I think it ought to be tried on a limited basis. I think there will be some problems but I don't really know. I think it would be better to keep them separated at that age."

One problem being brought up by coaches and Little League officials throughout the country is that girls are more liable to get hurt in hardball than boys. "That's a typical male chauvinistic attitude," said Edward Williams, M.D.

"In some ways girls are stronger than boys. They're really not any different than a boy. The general feeling among authorities is they can (play hardball) as long as they're good in sports."

A.C. Thompson who once coached a California Little League team to the state finals has a different opinion than Edwards.

"It's just not a girl's sport, it's too competitive for a girl. There's too many boys that can't play baseball so where are you going to find a girl that can play it?"

Gene Bynum, National Little League president in Pampa, said that in the Little League rulebook it says if a coach feels a boy is going to get hurt, the youngster can be cut from the team for that reason.

"They just can't compete with the boys, it's too rough," said Bynum. "I'm against it because we have a program for girls here. I'm gonna send all the boys out to try out for the girls' softball program if they (girls) start coming out here."

Bynum laughed as he made the last statement but many Little League officials aren't laughing at the thought of girls' athletics becoming "a thing of the past."

Ed Petersen, president of the Oregon Little League, was quoted as saying the acceptance of girls into hardball has "established the opportunity to eliminate all girls' athletics. When you turn this decision around, it seems to me you must allow boys to compete in girls sports. That will kill girls' athletics."

Mrs. Curt Beck, a physician in Pampa and mother of a 14-year-old daughter, talks not from the position of a doctor, but from that of a parent. She agrees with Dr. Williams that girls are not more susceptible to injury than boys. "No, they're not any more liable to get hurt," says Mrs. Beck.

"But if you put girls on a Little League team, it'll spoil the team. There are certain things that are for boys and certain things that are for girls. Boys have a pretty good team spirit and they'll play baseball better without girls. They like girls sitting in the bleachers."

She added, "You wouldn't put a boy in a Brownies' troop. Maybe one day Brownies will change their charter and accept both sexes. If that day comes, it will be a giant stride forward for men's liberation."

Ideal Takes Crown In Babe Ruth Play

Ideal wrapped up the Babe Ruth Championship with 10-5 win over the Lions Club in a game played at Optimist Park Thursday night.

The winners did it with heavy hitting, particularly by Hank Jordan who hit a towering home run in the first inning with two men on to put Ideal in front. 3-0. Jordan got two more hits, driving in two more runs, to end up the evening going three for four with five runs driven in.

Joe Davis picked up his sixth win of the season with a five hitter while getting 12 strikeouts. Davis ran into trouble in the top of the fourth inning when he momentarily lost control and gave up four runs as the Lions tied it up in the bottom of the inning Ideal picked up four runs and was never headed.

The win gives Ideal 12 wins for the season and no losses. The team is managed by Wayne Ledford and coached by Leon Peeler and David Sims. It is the first championship for Ideal since 1967. It replaces last year's winner, the First National Bank as champion.

Earlier in the week, Ideal beat Pampa Hardware, 13-0, as Brian Bailey won his fifth game of the year. Other games saw Ford's Body Shop beat Lions, 14-10, and Grant Supply lose to First National Bank, 3-2, as Gary Belch picked up 17 strikeouts. Pupco won its first game of the year, beating Cree, 9-5, and then coming back Friday night to win over the Bank by a 13-5 score. Ford's beat Hardware, 4-3, in an exciting extra inning game.

The standings at the close of the seventh week of the season shows Ideal on top, followed by Lions, 8-4. Grant, 7-5; Fords, 7-5; Bank, 5-6; Cree, 3-8; Hardware, 2-10; and Pupco, 2-10.

Next week's schedule shows Ideal playing Cree on Monday night. Grant playing Lions on the same night in the early game. Ford's and Bank and Pupco and Hardware tangling on Tuesday night. The regular season schedule will end with Lions and Cree and Grant and Ideal playing Thursday night. Friday, Fords and Pupco and Bank and Hardware will close it out.

All-stars will be picked following the season in preparation for the district tournament, which will be held at Follett, starting July 8. They will be managed by the Ideal Coaches. A 13-year-old all-star team will also be picked for a tournament which will be held in Canyon starting July 1. The coaches for that team have not been determined as yet.

U.S. Open To Have Champion Today

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Tom Watson, who was five years old when Arnold Palmer won his first pro tournament, birdied three of his last six holes Saturday to vault past Palmer and take the third round lead in the U.S. Open.

The 24-year-old Watson, only in his third year on the tour, escaped near-disaster with a bogey on the final hole to shoot a one-under-par 69 for a 54-hole total of 213.

His performance was only the sixth sub-par round in this tournament—ones in recent years—and left him with a one-shot lead over Hale Irwin, who had a 71 Saturday.

Three other men who shared the second round lead with Irwin—Palmer, Gary Player and Ray Floyd—drifted back and when the day was over, only the 44-year-old Palmer could still be said to have a chance at the title.

Palmer started the day with a brief charge reminiscent of old but then encountered more of the problems that have been dogging him recent years, bogeying the final two holes. He was alone in third place at 73-216.

Jim Colbert, Bert Yancey and Frank Beard were two strokes further back at 218. Watson, a frequent challenger in the last year and a half but still looking for his first professional victory, said before he went out that he felt he—like Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino before him—was capable of winning the Open for his first pro victory.

RUN ON ERRORS — Cabot's Mark Jennings only hit a single but rounded the bases as Moose committed several errors on the play. Moose pitcher Rob Hammer covers the plate but the throw came in too late to nail Jennings, who also hit his 10 and 11th home runs of the season. Cabot won the Thursday night game, 13-0. Only a week remains in National Little League play.

Standings (second half) are Celanese, 5-0; Dixie, 4-1; Cabot, 3-2; Duncan, 2-3; Moose, 2-3; Glo-Valve, 2-3; Holmes, 1-4; and Fatheree, 1-4. (Photo by Bill Kincaid)

IN NL Celanese Unbeaten In Second Go-Round

Scott Andrews and Loyd Remy socked home runs and led Dixie Parts to a 6-5 win over Duncan Insurance Friday night in National Little League action.

The win keeps Dixie (4-1) only a game behind second-half leader Celanese, a 10-6 winner against Holmes Gift Shop Friday night.

Duncan's leading hitter in the loss was Mickey Bynum, who smacked a grand slam home run and a double. Despite Bynum's accomplishments, Andrews picked up the win on the mound.

Winning pitcher for Celanese was Monte Covalt, who got bat support from Tam Bailey who went two for three. Kyle Orr hit two doubles for Holmes.

In other games last week: THURSDAY Glo-Valve 10, Fatheree 4 — Tim Boyd was the game's winning pitcher. Jeff McDougall hit a home run for the winners.

Cabot 13, Moose 0 — Mark Jennings knocked two balls over the wall and added a base hit. Jeff Putman and Rusty Gallagher shared a no-hitter for Cabot.

TUESDAY Dixie 12, Holmes 10 — Andrews hit a home run and Loyd Remy went three for four with singles as Dixie won its fourth game of the second half. Winner was Andy Richardson. Mark Hutchison went two for three for Holmes.

Celanese 11, Duncan 7 — Bailey and Covalt each homered for unbeaten Celanese. Bynum got two doubles for the losers.

MONDAY Cabot 17, Fatheree 1 — Putman and Gallagher combined for a no-hitter and had bat help from Jennings who hit two homers, including a slam.

Moose 11, Glo-Valve 10 — Winning pitcher was Rob Hammer. Leading batters were Moose's Larry Zamora and Glo-Valve's Donnie Rodgers, each going two for three.

Can you imagine a big league baseball player leading the league in making most errors, in being struck out the most times, and in hitting into the most double plays — and still being voted Most Valuable Player in his league for that year ... Did you know this once happened?

It was 1942 — Joe Gordon did all those things, yet won the Most Valuable award that year in the American League ... There's a lesson to be learned from this ... It shows that even though you have faults, you can overcome them and be recognized for your good points.

How do you figure this one ... Only about 10% of the U.S. population is left-handed, yet almost 30% of major league baseball players are left-handed!

Here's a golf question that may surprise you ... Of all the pro golfers in the world active today, which one has won the most tournaments? ... It's not Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper or Gary Player, but Roberto DeVicenzo of Argentina, who's best remembered for the scorecard error that cost him the 1968 U.S. Masters championship ... DeVicenzo has won more overall golf tournaments than anyone else, although most golf fans wouldn't guess that he had.

I bet you didn't know that people have been asking about MICHELIN 'X' for 25 years. They say a friend sent them. Come in and find out why ... let us introduce you to MICHELIN 'X' ... the leader in steel belt radials.

SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD

...with a business of his own!

We'd like for you to meet the Executive Officer of a thriving business ... the boy who delivers your daily newspaper.

As the owner and operator of his newspaper route, this Junior Independent Merchant must solve problems and shoulder responsibilities, just like all other businessmen.

He buys his product, your newspaper, at wholesale and then retails it to his customers. He must make daily deliveries, do his own accounting, billing, and even struggle with a collection problem here and there.

He is discovering, through actual experience, the rewards for promptness, dependability, self-reliance and initiative.

One of the rewards is his profit, the difference between the wholesale and retail prices of the paper. His route means money for a savings account for college, a new bicycle, a week in camp, many things.

But he is earning even greater rewards. As he learns about sales and salesmanship, he is equipping himself for the future. From boys who learned the principles of business as newspaperboys have come presidents, governors, mayors, industrialists and professional men ... those who determine the quality of our civilization in their generation.

It's his world to conquer ... and he's off to a good start.

WITH STRONG PASSERS Coaches Football Game To Be Played Saturday

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — The 1974 football season premier Saturday night with the 14th annual Coaches All-America game, a contest marked by the expected appearance of strong-armed quarterbacks, speedy running backs and quick-handed receivers.

The combination from both the East and West promises a wide-open offensive show.

San Diego State's Jesse Freitas and Texas Tech's Joe Barnes head the West attack, while quarterbacks Carl Summerell of East Carolina, Norris Weese of Mississippi and Andy Johnson of Georgia lead the East.

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, joined by Texas Tech's Jim Carlen and Wittenberg's Dave Maurer, will direct the West forces. Coaches for the East include Johnny Majors of Pittsburgh with assistants Bennie Ellender of Tulane and John Merritt of Tennessee State.

Players already have begun workouts. The game will be viewed by a near-capacity crowd of 45,000 in Jones Stadium and a national television audience watching via ABC for the 8:30 p.m. (EDT) kickoff.

Both teams are expected to stick closely to a 5-4 standard defense known widely as the Oklahoma defense, and both plan to start with a basic Pro I offensive formation.

"Of course, we are going to have two basic offenses geared around each of our quarterbacks," Switzer said. "Each is talented in different areas—Barnes is exceptional as an option run quarterback and no one can throw the deep, drop back pass like Freitas."

"Therefore, we plan to have both types of offenses to compliment each other," he said.

Majors said he had three top running backs in North Carolina State's Willie Burden, Richmond's Barty

We would like to welcome all the new bowlers to our summer leagues and hope they will consider joining us in the winter leagues as well.

Summer leagues are going quite well and we wish to thank the league secretaries for the work they have put forth in getting these leagues together. We feel the summer leagues are good for new bowlers to gain confidence in their games. And the old bowlers have a chance to relax and meet the new bowlers and encourage them and perhaps work out any game difficulty they might have.

Looking through the league memberships we find quite a good number of new bowlers. In the Adult-Jr. League we have six new members. Tuesday morning, the women have eleven new members. Tuesday evening's mixed league has around twenty new bowlers. The Bantam league on Wednesday morning has seven new AJBC members. The Wednesday afternoon women's league has nine new members. Men's trio league on Wednesday evening has seven new men bowlers.

Thursday morning we find four new ones and on the ladies trio league in the evening we have three new bowlers. We want to welcome the new bowlers from the fine community of Miami as well as the bowlers from there that bowl with us all year. These folks get together and bowl on Friday evenings and have a real good time.

Again we want to extend an invitation to the good people of Pampa to come out and bowl. We're here all day to help you with equipment or in a game problem. Mom, bring the kids out to the air-conditioned comfort during the day and Dad bring the family out in the evenings or weekends.

Don't forget that the stamp spree is going on Sunday evening at 8 p.m. Call us for reservations.

The scores for this week are:
Women: M.A. Allen 526, R. Steddum 504, Men: R. Campbell 524, R. Rowland 529, G. Wuest 203-530, C. Pettit 202-204-594.

This is all for this weekend and want to extend a Happy Fathers Day to all today. See you next week. Bye Now, Gil

Girl Said Unacceptable For Little League Play

DENVER (UPI) — A former Little League coach who was fired for refusing to throw a girl off his team says he may sue the Catholic Youth Organization.

Despite a letter from Annemarie Sandquist, 9, pleading that she be allowed to play baseball, the CYO fired Michael Ousley, as coach of the Southeast Denver Tigers.

"If it takes a lawsuit, this is what we're going to do," Ousley said. "She is a good little ball player and she should at least be allowed to play."

The Tigers, with Annemarie playing second base, won the only game they played this summer, 6-2. But the victory and the three succeeding games were forfeited by Ousley when opposing coaches protested Annemarie's presence on the field.

Ousley and Annemarie's father attended a private meeting of league officials Thursday night at the home of league president Tom Wilson.

Smith and Alabama's Wilbur Jackson.

"Johnson is an excellent runner who throws well. Weese runs the option well and Summerell is a better thrower," he said. "We have some real good receivers, and right now I would expect that we will throw the ball 30 to 35 times—but still use our running backs a lot."

Top passing targets for the West include Southern Cal's Lynn Swann and Utah's Steve Odom. Running backs include Arkansas' Dickey Morton, Texas'ington's Dexter Bussey and Washington State's K. Grandberry.

Southern Cal's John McKay directed the favored West to a 20-6 victory in the 1973 meeting, giving the West a 7-6 edge in the series begun in Buffalo, moved to Atlanta then relocated in Lubbock five years ago.

Terry Metcalf of Long Beach State rushed 18 times for 135 yards and a touchdown, fullback Sam Cunningham and flanker Steve Holden each notched other touchdowns and the West swept to victory last year. Ray Guy booted two East field goals to prevent a shutout.

Linemen on both squads this year are rated as outstanding. In fact, Red Phillips of the San Diego Chargers praised this year's linemen as "the best group this game has ever had."

Tribe 5, Twins 1

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Oscar Gamble doubled home two runs and Jack Brohamer and Dave Duncan hit solo homers Saturday to power the Cleveland Indians to a 5-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Cleveland starter Steve Kline held the Twins to only three hits before leaving in the seventh after pulling a muscle in his right shoulder. Fred Beene blanked the Twins over the final three innings.

Gamble staked Kline to a 2-0 lead in the first inning.

TEE-OFF TID-BITS

Tournament season is here again. The Men's West Texas will be the first of three major tournaments to be held at the Pampa Country Club this season.

The Men's West Texas is sponsored by the West Texas Golf Association so in order to be eligible you must be a member of a club which belongs to this association.

The president for the '74 season is Pampa's own Elmer Wilson, who is backed by 21 directors and an advisory staff of seven head professionals. With this much knowledge behind one golf tournament, it has set a precedent of being one of the most enjoyable to participate in. All of those not signed up should do so.

Just a reminder — as soon as possible the golf course will be closed all day (no golf after tournament play) to all but contestants Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Now to some scores that might affect a few handicaps. On doctor's orders to play golf, Ed Myatt cured his putting yips and toured the course last Thursday in 70 blows. Don't worry. His score was in the book before he reached the shop.

Leonard Hudson, Sr., has made a big improvement in his game this year of about 10 shots. And let me tell you that's got E.L. Cree and Rex Rose scratching their heads.

Fran Wilson burned the front side in as fine a round that has been scored this year — an even forty. Pretty strong for the Duncan Flash.

Last weekend a very unusual incident happened on number 16. Homer Miller, with seven iron in hand, took one of his smooth-as-silk swings and after three hops, the ball came to rest in the bottom of the hole. The ace, however, was only part of the unusual thing. The other four scores were two, three, four and five!

A GOOD RULE TO KNOW: Rule 18 — Loose Impediments. Any loose impediment may be removed without penalty except when both the impediment and the ball lie in or touch a hazard. When a ball is in motion, a loose impediment shall not be removed. Penalty for breach of rule: match play — loss of hole; stroke play — two strokes.

BATTIN' AROUND

Businessmen Cannot Defend Capitalism

By C.R. BATTEN
"Can capitalism survive? No. I don't think it can," wrote Joseph Schumpeter in "Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy."
He was quoted by Dr. Benjamin Rogge in a lecture at Hillsdale College, printed in "Imprimis," the journal of the Center for Constructive Alternatives at Hillsdale. Dr. Rogge, who is a professor of political economy at Wabash College, based his lecture on Schumpeter's work. Schumpeter concluded that capitalism cannot survive because "its very success undermines the social institutions which protect it and inevitably creates conditions in which it will not be able to live, and which strongly point to socialism as the heir apparent."

Rogge set the stage by showing the capitalism works. He then turned to the question, "Who will defend capitalism?"
Not the masses, he said, even though they are its principal beneficiaries. They simply do not connect their affluence with the capitalist system; they are not capable of understanding any economic system; and they are taught by the intellectuals to resent the capitalist system and the businessman.

They are allied with the governmental bureaucrats who are becoming increasingly involved in administering anti-capitalist legislation. "The intellectual by creating these bureaucratic control mechanisms is not only controlling his enemy, the businessman, but he is providing jobs for himself and those like him — a very attractive combination."
The extent to which businessmen allow themselves to be influenced by their enemies is astonishing.

Business "absorbs the slogans of current radicalism and seems quite willing to undergo a process of conversion to a creed hostile to its very existence... They snatch at every chance of compromise... They never put up a fight under the flag of their own ideals and their interests."
The constant effort of every man to better his condition is powerful enough to keep natural progress moving toward improvement. It frequently restores health and vigor in spite of the absurd prescriptions of the intellectual.

The aristocracy will not defend it, for capitalism tends to destroy the "tradition-based, religion-based aristocracy."
The businessman cannot defend capitalism.
Schumpeter said, "A genius in the business office may be, and often is, utterly unable outside of it to say boo to a goose, both in the drawing room and on the platform. Knowing this, he wants to be left alone and to leave politics alone. There is surely no trace of any mystic glamour about him, which is what counts in the ruling of men."
The businessman may also lack any real will to defend capitalism. As organizations grow larger the role of the individual businessman or entrepreneur is replaced by the team, and personality is blotted out.

Eventually, the businessman comes to the point where he does not care whether it is the anonymous citizen controlling him or the anonymous stockholder.
"Put him down in Russia and he'll end up running the factories," said Rogge.
If business must be defended, then there must be an enemy. That enemy is growing army of intellectuals which capitalism has spawned.

Intellectuals, as Schumpeter defined them, are "people who wield the power of the spoken and written word, and one of those touches that distinguishes them from other people who do the same is the absence of direct responsibility for practical affairs."
There is a surplus of intellectuals and not enough jobs of the kind they believe they were created to fill. They hold the capitalist system responsible, so their favorite target is the businessman.

COUNTRYMUSIC

Popular records

By PATRICK CARR
David Allan Coe, Nashville's "Mysterious Rhinestone Cowboy," lumbered through the doorway at Max's Kansas City — a New York nightspot noted for its bizarre clientele — and into a darkened tunnel, cum room lined with people sitting cramped around the wobbly tables.

Marty Robbins, Merle Haggard, and Bill Anderson. A handful of people in the crowd of 300 responded. Giggles and more chatter predominated. Coe has written many songs since he came to Nashville about five years ago; for Wilma Lee and Stony Cooper, Billy Joe Spears, David Rogers, Stony Edwards, and Tanya Tucker. He is something of a local legend, a cult hero in Nashville.

He is 34 years old, and has spent 20 of those years in various prisons and reformatories, including a spell on Death Row for murdering another inmate who tried to assault him sexually. He spent most of his time in prison writing songs and poems. Ron Bledsoe, Columbia's top man in Nashville, thinks he is "one of the finest talents I have ever come across."

At Max's, someone turned to the noisy table and asked the people there if they intended to continue their noise through the set by Orleans.

"No," one of them. "We'll appreciate that music more."
We went away into the night, wondering whether their attitude would have been different if they had known about David Allan Coe. Would he have appealed to their thirst for the bizarre? Or was this just yet another indication that the emotion and conviction of Coe's songs (or those of any country singer, for that matter) would have no effect on their busy, busy New York lives?

Later, someone told us about Coe being invited to jam at another club in town. After playing a few songs and impressing the locals, Coe was asked what he had been doing most of his life. He said that he'd been in prison.

The locals nodded knowingly and began to recount their stories of two or three days for disturbing the peace during demonstrations, or for minor drug offenses. "How long were you in for?" Coe was asked.

"Twenty years," he replied. There was a long pause.

"What for?" someone else asked.
"Murder," said Coe. There was a longer pause. "Well," sighed one musician. "At least you missed the 1950's."
(Mr. Carr is editor of Country Music Magazine.) (Copyright 1974 Country Music Magazine.)

Or was this just yet another indication that the emotion and conviction of Coe's songs (or those of any country singer, for that matter) would have no effect on their busy, busy New York lives?

He resumed his song as the level on the microphone was raised, and his voice, a substantial baritone, flooded the room. To compensate for this additional volume from the stage, the party of eight behind us raised their conversation several notches.

Coe finished his song to polite applause, adjusted his guitar strap, muttered something about the amount of Jack Daniels he had consumed, and then, almost as an afterthought, said: "We're from Nashville, so if you have any questions about the South, keep them to yourselves."
He then sang two more songs, pleasant little tunes about love and understanding life, and as the applause dribbled away, he said: "I can see from your response that you don't like country music. At least, you don't like David Allan Coe's country music. Here's some Hank Snow."
He dropped his voice and rolled into a perfect Hank Snow imitation, followed in quick succession by his renditions of George Jones.

By WILLIAM LAFFLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Times have changed somewhat since Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass first appeared on the musical scene a dozen years ago.

At that time rock 'n' roll was popular but it was still on the soft side so Alpert's music appealed to the teenagers of the early 1960's. It was an unusual, melodic sound that Alpert and his band played and it found favor with older folks, too.

So it can be said that Alpert's south of the border music bridged the generation gap in those days. Each of his albums grossed more than one million dollars for a total of around 45 million LP sales.

Even when the rock sound hardened and the groups shied away from such horns as trumpets and trombones, Alpert's music continued to sell. Thus Alpert was ahead of the game when he became bored in 1969 and stopped playing.

Almost five years later, Alpert has reassembled the Tijuana Brass for a second go at the pop music market. Whether he can influence the current crop of teenagers, who are not conditioned to brass, over a long period remains to be seen. He should continue to please those who bought his previous albums.

If Alpert's new album, "You Smile — The Song Begins" (A&M SP 3620), is an indicator, Herb and his musicians should repeat their earlier successes. Basically the music has not changed. Some of the numbers call up images of the early TJB sound. But Alpert has broadened his scope on the trumpet and the result is satisfying.

On "Legend of the One-Eyed Sailor," Alpert departs from his short-note style to play jazzy, reflective music. His trumpet becomes introspective on "I Might Frighten Her Away." There is a suggestion of Miles Davis on the title number. "You Smile — The Song Begins." And Alpert's trumpet is meditative on "Song for Herb."

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) —

They've written about fathers through the centuries but it wasn't until 1972 that DAD got his special day each year by presidential proclamation. June 16 is all his this year.

Fathers have been praised, maligned, counseled, honored and featured in writings from pre-Christian days to the present.
The "honor thy father" admonition appears in the Bible as early as circa 190 B.C. "He that honoreth his father shall have a long life" appeared in Aprophya: Ecclesiasticus.
"Love your parent if he is just; if not, bear with him," wrote Publilius Syrus, circa 43 B.C. "Our Father which art in heaven" opens the Lord's prayer.
"A father's goodness is higher than a mountain; a mother's goodness is deeper than the sea" runs a Japanese proverb.

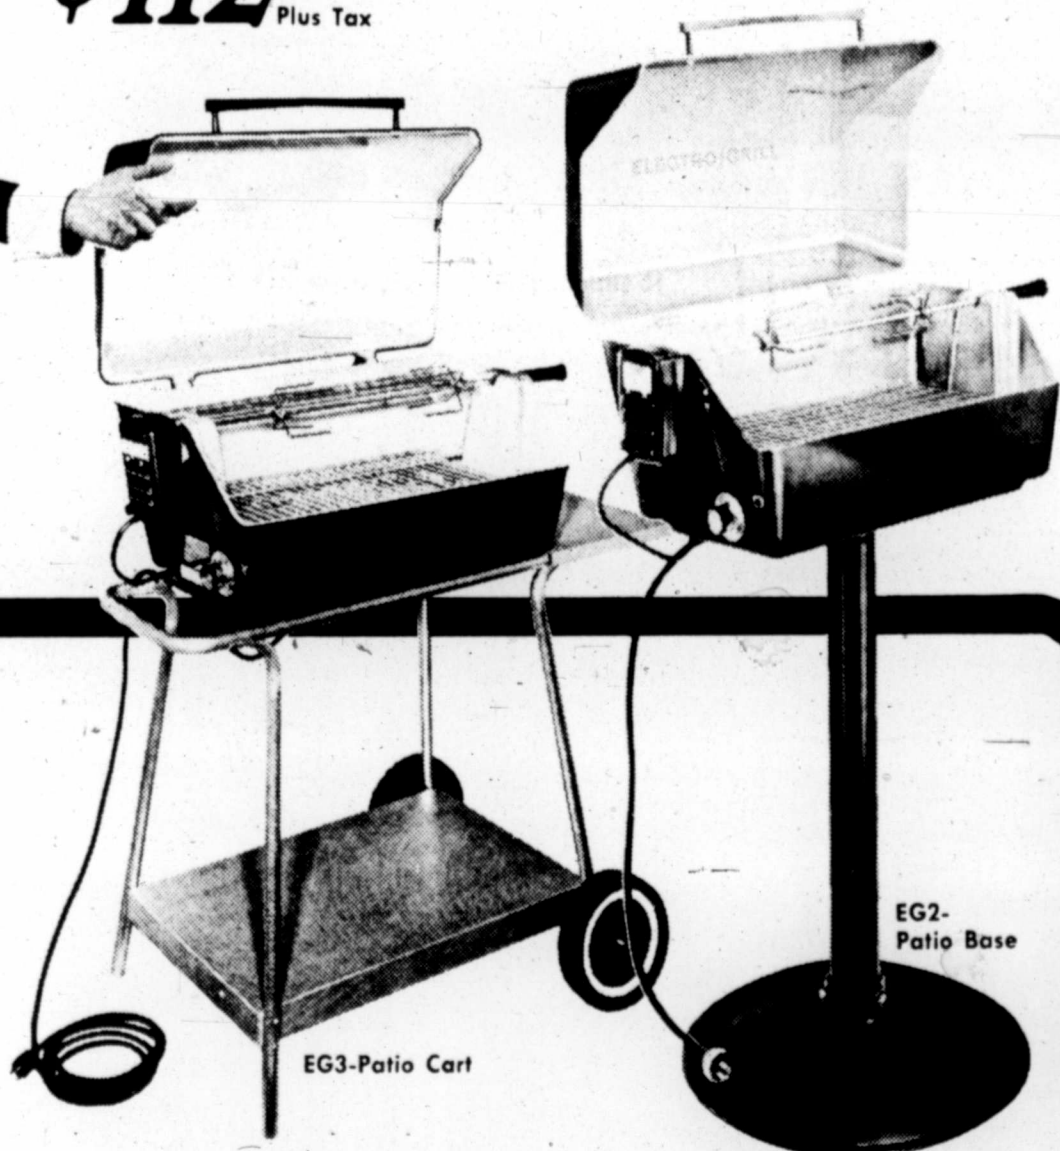

congressional resolution, eliminating the need for the annual proclamation.
This year's fathers (including dads-to-be, grandfathers, great-grandfathers, uncles, and husbands) will be getting a plethora of gifts from neckties to needlepoint tennis racquet covers.
Some women's liberationists may even give Dad such reading matter as "The Feminine Mystique" by Betty Friedan or "The Second Sex" by Simone de Beauvoir.

"Amongst all the abuses of the world... there is none worse than a negligent father," wrote Guazzo in "Civile Conversation."
And Oscar Wilde saw Dad's role this way: "Fathers should be neither seen nor heard. That is the only proper basis for family life."
Nationwide Boost
Celebration of Father's Day on the third Sunday in June got its first nationwide boost in 1924 when President Calvin Coolidge recommended that it be noted in all the states.
Many people attempted to formalize the observance over the years. But it was not until 1972 that President Nixon finally signed a

But it's the greeting card that more often will mark the occasion.
The Greeting Card Publishers, Inc., estimates that from 80 to 90 million cards will be sent. The numbers run well below the numbers sent Moms — about 150 million a year.
Father's Day cards appear less sentimental than those for mothers, said Harry Cooper, executive director, the publishers group.
"Those for Dad tend to be clever but this year there's a lot of nostalgia mixed in — pictures of antique cars, old gun collections, old-time steamboats, the first airplane, even an old-fashioned bike with the tall front wheel and inscribed, naturally, "To the Big Wheel."
