Hail Causes Damage To Crops

Although not as heavy as earlier in the week, more rain fell in the Pampa area last night, accompanied by some hail and wind which caused minor damages, with estimates of $500,000 damage to wheat and milo crops.

Thursday night's spring-like rains left .22 of an inch of moisture to add to the 1.39 inches gained during the first of the week.

Prospects for more showers continue with a 20 percent chance today, 40 percent tonight and 20 percent chance tomorrow.

A front causing cooler temperatures had moved into the area with a high in the upper 70's forecast for tomorrow and partly cloudy skies still hover over the Panhandle today and tomorrow.

Foster Whaley, Gray County agricultural agent, reported to The News this morning that reports indicated the storm caused extensive damage to wheat and milo crops throughout the county.

Most of the damages were centered around Grandview and from Pampa to Laketon.

Whaley estimated that 3,000 acres of wheat were knocked out by the hail and rain. The wheat was averaging 60 bushels to the acre, at a cost of $180 per acre.

Judiciary Members Vow To Ignore Jury's Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the House Judiciary Committee vowed not to be influenced in their impeachment deliberations by disclosure that a grand jury had named President Nixon as an unindicted Watergate co-conspirator.

But Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, said the "tremendous impact" on the public was bound to be felt indirectly by the committee.

"These are not politicians or lawyers," he said about the grand jurors. "These are just 19 ordinary citizens who came to an extraordinary conclusion."

A Republican, Rep. Charles Sandman, N.J., minimized the effect on the 38 congressmen who must vote next month on whether to recommend that the House impeach Nixon.

"Public opinion is public opinion — it's not 38 votes," said Sandman.

The grand jury's action — taken in February but kept secret until now — was confirmed Thursday by Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair. He sought to minimize the impact, saying of Nixon: "He's not a co-conspirator just because a grand jury says he is. The grand jury is

O.G. Trimble says he picked up about a gallon and a half of golf-ball size hailstones following last night's brief but violent wind and hail storm.

He picked up those hailstones inside the house, after the windows had been blown out.

The Trimble residence is located about a mile north of town, on the Perryton Highway, where most of the damage was concentrated at about 10:30 p.m.

Trimble estimated this morning the damage to his home, garage and automobiles would run to "several thousand" dollars.

Across the street, at the Forrest Hills residence, there was also severe damage.

"It was almost like a tornado," Mrs. Hills said this morning.

"Some of the hailstones were larger than golf balls, and they piled up in drifts against buildings."

The loss, as at the Trimble home, included windows, damage to siding and roofs, TV antenna and the windshields of automobiles.

"The rumor that our dog was killed isn't true," she said, "but he did suffer gashes on the head from a chunk of hail."

Also in the same area several mobile homes were damaged.

No injuries were reported as a result of the storm.

which seemed to skip from the north edge of the city on out a mile or so.

City police reported some damage in the Navajo-Comanche vicinity, mostly to roofs, autos and TV antennas.

A spokesman at the Gray County sheriff's office said they had, by late this morning, received no reports of serious damage other than mentioned above.

Insurance adjusters were busy today assessing damages.

County Agent Foster Whaley said there had been some damage to wheat in the county, with a final report not available at press time.

In UPI reports: A line of thick dark clouds

100 miles wide swept southward through North Central Texas today turning the day black and pounding the area with heavy rains and hail. Several funnel clouds were reported.

A funnel cloud was sighted between the Dallas suburbs of Garland and Mesquite at 9:05 a.m. and a tornado warning was issued by the National Weather Service for Dallas, Rockwall and Kaufman counties.

A second funnel cloud was sighted near Paris in East Texas at 8:55 a.m. and a warning was issued for Lamar, Red River, Hopkins and Delta counties. Funnel clouds were also sighted near New Boston in East Texas but none of the clouds touched ground.

President Working On Problems, Trip

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon was at his mountain retreat today working on domestic problems and making plans for a five-nation tour of the Mideast starting Monday.

His aides insisted that Thursday's revelation Nixon was named by a grand jury as a co-conspirator in the Watergate coverup would have no ill effects on his leadership. Nor would it dampen the impact of his overseas mission, they said.

Nixon flew to Camp David by helicopter Thursday night after cruising on the Potomac with his wife, Pat, and daughter, Tricia Cox.

Make Public

His chief lawyer, James D. St. Clair, explained Thursday that just because the grand jury implicated Nixon in a crime did not mean he is guilty. St. Clair asked U.S. District John J. Sirica to make the secret grand jury report public, and Sirica was expected to hold hearings soon, possibly today.

Kenneth Cole, Nixon's domestic affairs adviser, said neither the President's actions nor the grand jury report "has affected one iota the good work that the President of the United States has done for this country over the five and a half years he has been in office. Not one bit."

Cole said he agreed that "a lot of people say the tone of the President's Watergate transcripts is bad ... but the intent of what he was doing is entirely right and proper."

Another White House counselor, Kenneth Rush, said "Watergate would have no impact" on Nixon's travels overseas as an effort to fight inflation.

Anti-inflation Strategy

Rush, Nixon's new chief economic policy adviser, met with the President for 90 minutes Thursday evening on anti-inflation strategy.

The President will fly to Salzburg, Austria, Monday for a two-day rest before traveling to Cairo for two days on the first leg of his tour. It will be marked by festivity and talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

No Absentee Ballots Cast In City Race

With the deadline just one week away for absentee balloting in Pampa's June 18 special election, not a single absentee vote had been cast up until noon today.

City Secretary S.M. Chittenden said the absentee balloting period will end at 5 p.m. next Friday.

The write-in election to name a Ward 4 commissioner is scheduled for the following Tuesday, June 18.

Only two candidates have announced publicly for the unexpired term of Arthur Rohde, who resigned his city council post in mid-April. The term will run until April 1976.

Balloting for the Ward 4 spot on the commission will be city-wide. Registered electors in all four city wards are eligible to vote.

The two candidates who have announced they will seek the post are Kermit Rasco, a Cabot Corp. employee who lives at 1009 Prairie Dr., and A.C. Thompson, a Cities Service Co. employee, residing at 1085 Vernon Dr.

There is no deadline on announcement of candidate intentions in a write-in election.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge suggested today President Nixon's refusal to surrender subpoenaed trial evidence in the Ellsberg case "borders on obstruction" of justice.

Judge Gerhard A. Gesell held a hearing on a possible contempt citation against the President and said afterward he would rule promptly on the matter.

Gesell told White House lawyers he does not think the President "understands the consequences of what he is doing."

Nixon has refused to surrender White House files subpoenaed by his former No. 2 aide, John D. Ehrlichman, for his conspiracy trial this month in the 1971 burglary at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Testimony today indicated the White House has refused to let Ehrlichman's lawyers look at the materials with him.

"Mr. Ehrlichman is a lawyer," Gesell said. "But we have a saying in the law that when a lawyer represents himself he has a fool for a client."

"The position of the President of the United States not to allow Mr. Ehrlichman to be represented by counsel as the Constitution requires is 'offensive. I think it borders on obstruction.'"

A number of items subpoenaed by Ehrlichman have been provided, but the White House has refused to hand over boxes full of Ehrlichman's handwritten notes while he was chief domestic affairs adviser to the President.

Nixon contends that he alone has the authority to decide which materials to surrender "consistent with the public interest."

Gesell has threatened to dismiss an indictment against Ehrlichman and others facing coverup trial unless Nixon surrenders relevant defense evidence.

Insisted that the courts alone have that power.

"I cannot try this case with the President standing behind me determining what I can do," Gesell said. "I will not try any case that way."

Gesell ordered hearings on who has custody of the materials. Both Ehrlichman and a White House lawyer said the President did.

Gesell denied — for the time being at least — a motion by Ehrlichman's attorney to dismiss his indictment because of Nixon's refusal to surrender materials sought by Ehrlichman for the trial.

Gesell had ruled several days ago that it was up to the court, not the President, to decide what materials requested by the defendants should be made available for their use, and noting that "the court's ruling has not been adhered to," he raised the matter of contempt proceedings.

The hearing then proceeded after Ehrlichman's lawyer formally asked that persons in control of the subpoenaed materials be held in contempt.

Ehrlichman is one of five persons now facing trial for the burglary of the office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Gesell announced a "hearing about who has custody of these documents so I can take appropriate action under contempt statutes."

The judge previously had indicated he might dismiss charges against the defendants if the White House refused to turn over material they say they need for their defense. Gesell said today:

"Dismissal (of charges) that the President's actions seem to be pointing toward is a course I should not follow until I have exhausted every other possibility."

Gesell acted after

Ehrlichman's lawyer William Frates complained that the White House had refused to surrender all of Ehrlichman's files and notes subpoenaed two weeks ago. Gesell said this amounted to a "complete disregard of the court's order" to comply with the subpoena.

The judge sternly asked Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, if he would or would not produce Ehrlichman's notes today as ordered.

"I do not produce, the President does," St. Clair replied. "I have no authority to go beyond what a President directs."

"So you are saying he will not comply with this court's order?" Gesell demanded.

"Since you ask a direct question, I will give you a direct answer: I think that's a fair reading," St. Clair replied.

SAXBES WARNS

Businessmen Need More Public Trust

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe today warned the nation's businessmen that free enterprise may be wrecked if they do not face up to "personal Watergates" and stop cutting corners with the law.

Saxbe said the public "will not be tolerant" of ripoffs, rigged bids, hidden assets, bribes, price fixing or deals with organized crime.

While Watergate scandals have eroded public trust in government, Saxbe said, private business also has a "seamy side that could lead to a devastating loss of public confidence."

Fail to Measure

The 11 major corporations that pleaded guilty during the past year to making illegal campaign contributions show that an individual in private industry as well as public business has "his own personal Watergate," Saxbe said. He said more and more seem to fail to measure up.

"If enough parts of the ledger sheet are added up we can begin to see indications that the drive to cut corners is so fierce that our entire free enterprise system could be beset," Saxbe said.

Saxbe, who warned about effects of lax morality in government Thursday in a commencement address at the Ohio State University Law School at Columbus, turned to business ethics in a speech prepared for the Toledo Area Governmental Research Association.

A Justice Department source said Saxbe plans to discuss the need for higher standards of moral responsibility in four of five speeches he is making in a four-day tour of his home state.

In his warning to the "business community," Saxbe said "we cannot expect to have an honest, moral society if we shove our own ethics and cut corners with the law."

Any Means Acceptable

Saxbe said one of the problems "is the feeling among too many in the business community that any means are acceptable to achieving profits and that the crime is not in the doing but in the getting caught."

MOD Chapter Plans Annual Meeting Report

With H.L. Weatherly, new chairman, presiding, the Gray County Chapter of the March of Dimes will hold its annual meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. at Lovett Memorial Library.

Emmett Saltzman, fund drive chairman for the 1974 drive, will report on this year's total.

"Moving Mountains," a film on teenage participation in the drive, will be presented at the meeting, and Ed Ramey, field representative for the March of Dimes, will also be present.

The Gray County Chapter raised $9,114.06 in funds from this year's drive, according to Saltzman. Forty percent of the funds will remain in Gray County for care of patients suffering from birth defects and polio.

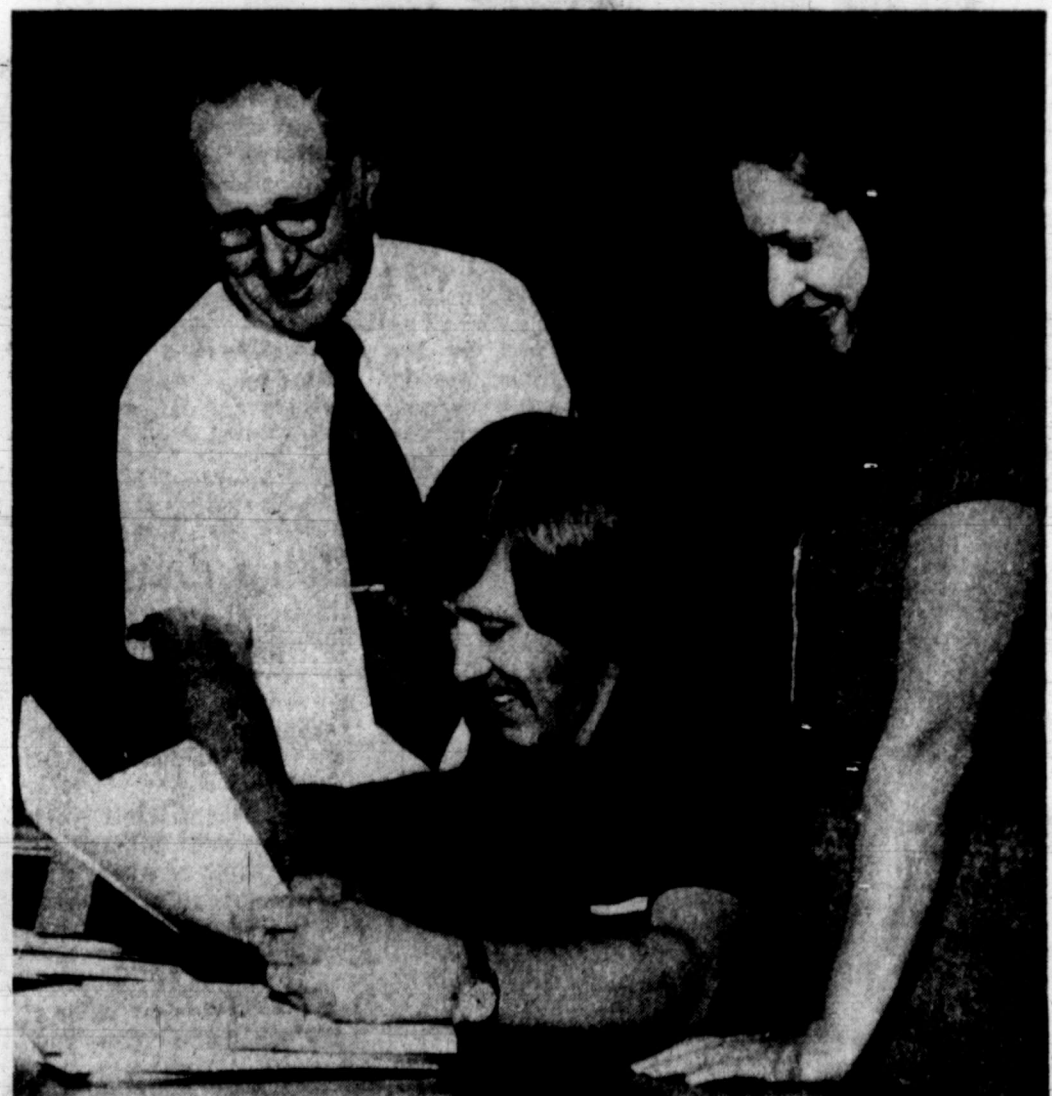

"We use the money as it's needed," Saltzman said.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Retiring officers of the Chapter are A.W. Bassett, chairman, and Larry Cross, vice chairman. Newly elected officers are Weatherly, president, and Emmett Saltzman, vice chairman, while officers continuing in their capacity are John English, treasurer, and Mrs. Mary Howard, secretary.

Dissident's Friends Appealing For Aid

MOSCOW (UPI) — Friends and family of dissident Igor Ogurtsov, leader of a small band that once planned an armed overthrow of the Kremlin, appealed today for help in saving him from confinement in a prison psychiatric hospital.

Ogurtsov, 37, a Leningrad translator and one of the earliest Soviet dissidents, is serving a prison term for heading a group called the Social Christian Union.

The organization was founded in 1963 with the aim of taking over the government and establishing a democratic system based on Christian values.

Three of his friends, all of whom have served labor camp terms, gave Western newsmen today a written appeal warning that Ogurtsov might be declared insane and asking people "to do all they can to prevent a monstrous crime."

The signers included Leonid Borodin, Ivan Ivanov and Vladimir Ivoilov, all former members of the Social Christian Union.

Friends of Ogurtsov also made available to newsmen copies of letters his parents have written to Yuri V. Andropov, head of the KGB secret police, and to a deputy attorney general, urging that their son not be transferred to a mental asylum.

"We still believe in justice," the letter to Andropov said. "We still believe you will prevent this crime before it is too late."

Little was known about the Social Christian Union until its former members attempted to draw attention to the plight of Ogurtsov.

Meeting In Secret The group was formed by ten young Leningrad intellectuals meeting in secret in 1963. Its members were united by a common fear—that the country might again undergo a Stalinist-type repression.

ON GOLAN HEIGHTS UN Troops Form Buffer Zone

United Press International United Nations troops took up positions on the Golan Heights battlefield today, setting up a buffer zone and policing the week-old cease-fire between Israel and Syria.

An Israeli military source said army troops had begun pulling back in the Golan, with the first withdrawals in the area around Mt. Hermon, a strategic peak overlooking parts of Israel, Syria, and Lebanon.

Israeli tanks and heavy artillery guns streamed off the Golan plateau Thursday, meeting a deadline set in Geneva for the first pullback of troops—and weapons in the embattled region.

The troop withdrawals began soon after both nations gave a triumphant welcome Thursday to the last prisoners of the October 1973 Middle East War. Syria returned 56 Israeli POWs and Israel released 383 Syrians, Iraqis and Moroccans.

A U.N. spokesman in Tel Aviv said part of a U.N. force of 700 soldiers from Austria and Peru had taken up positions in the Golan Heights buffer zone.

He said the troops moved into the vicinity of Quneitra, the shattered capital of the region, which will be returned to Syrian administration as part of the disengagement accord. The city was captured by Israel in 1967.

The spokesman said logistical units from Canada and Poland will move into the area to round out the U.N. observer force of 1,250 men.

Military sources in Tel Aviv said Israel planned to make a three-stage withdrawal from the Golan region, beginning by evacuating troops from the slopes of Mt. Hermon.

The spokesman said Israeli transports loaded with burned-out, Soviet-built Syrian tanks and trucks with dismantled prefabricated houses rolled past the 1967 cease-fire line Thursday on the way back into Israel.

Even-handed Policy In Cairo, President Anwar Sadat said the United States is following a more even-handed policy in the Middle East conflict, but would never take the side of the Arabs against Israel.

He said that without America's protection and assistance for the Jewish state, Israel would have been defeated completely by the Arabs in last October's war.

Sadat's remarks came at a meeting late Thursday with Air Force pilots at a frontline military airfield, capping a three-day presidential tour of the Suez Zone.

It scheduled action on a series of minor amendments today but put off action on the two hottest remaining issues — new "silo-killer" warheads for the Minuteman and an overall spending ceiling — until next week.

Troop Cuts The Senate voted twice Thursday on overseas troop cuts (of 125,000 and 76,000 men respectively).

Both plans were sponsored by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Democratic leader, and both would have required demobilization of an equal number of men, though not necessarily the same units brought home.

The 125,000-man plan was decisively beaten on a 54-35 roll call after two liberal Republicans and eight Democrats, all favoring a continued U.S. presence in Europe, voted with the pro-military conservatives.

FOR OVERSEAS Senators Reject Troops Cutback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Aided by administration lobbying and a small band of pro-European liberals, Senate conservatives have turned back all attempts to cut U.S. forces abroad in 1975.

In a fourth day of debate Thursday on a $2.8 billion 1975 arms procurement bill — part of the record $85.8 billion defense budget — the Senate also barred the Pentagon from using a secret arms and ammunition stockpile it had built up for U.S. allies in Asia and prohibited a plan for live tests of Minuteman missiles over the Pacific Northwest.

It scheduled action on a series of minor amendments today but put off action on the two hottest remaining issues — new "silo-killer" warheads for the Minuteman and an overall spending ceiling — until next week.

Tornado Smashes Into Shopper Area

FORREST CITY, Ark. (UPI) — Torrential rains and flash flooding hampered search efforts today for more victims of a tornado that smashed into a shopping center and skipped through a residential section Thursday afternoon.

At least four and possibly six persons were dead. More than 100 were injured.

The St. Francis County sheriff's office initially reported eight bodies were found in the rubble of a Gibson discount store in the shopping center. But deputy sheriff Joe McCollum said this morning there were six dead.

State police said they could only confirm four dead "although there well may be six."

But there was no mistaking the devastation wrought on Forrest City, a Mississippi River delta town of 12,763 about 35 miles west of Memphis. Early estimates placed the damages at $10 million.

All of the bodies were found in Gibson's which along with an adjoining Kroger's grocery store took the full force of the tornado.

Laketon Resident Named Pork Producers Leader

The board also set July 1 as the date to start assessments of slaughter hog sales to finance a program of research and education, predator and insect control, and pork promotion.

The assessment, authorized by Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, is 10 cents per head, to be collected at the point of first sale of slaughter hogs.

McLaughlin says the money raised by the assessment is to be held for 90 days, after which anyone unwilling to go along with the program may get a refund of any amounts paid in. Thus, participation is on a voluntary basis.

Another group, unofficial but quite active in promoting the production and distribution of pork, is the Top O' Texas Pork Producers Ass'n., of which Bob Skaggs of Pampa is president. A state-wide organization, the Texas Pork Producers Ass'n., in accordance with the Texas Commodity Checkoff Law, conducted the referendum which allowed the 10 cents per head assessment.

McLaughlin noted that since funds for implementing the new promotional program must be held for 90 days, it will be several weeks before the new board can swing into action.

Pythians, Sisters Group To Attend State Meeting

Several members of Pampa Lodge No. 480, Knights of Pythias, and Pythian Sisters Temple No. 41 will attend the 111th Grand Lodge and 77th Grand Temple state convention at the Contessa Inn, Longview, beginning Sunday, June 9, with registration of delegates.

The convention will conclude Wednesday with installation of the new officers.

The Texas Khorassan Society and the Nomads of Arudaka will hold their convention on Friday, June 7, and end with a banquet and dance Saturday night.

Mrs. Marie Parsley and B.B. Altman, Jr., are the Temple and Lodge representatives.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I won $500 in the state lottery. Are my winnings taxable? Are my losing tickets deductible?

A. Gambling winnings are included in taxable income. If deductions are itemized, gambling losses are deductible to the extent of your winnings. If you have gambling losses but no winnings, you cannot deduct any of these losses.

Q. I am contesting the results of a tax audit and plan to appeal at an IRS district conference. Do district conferences have the authority to consider the hazards of litigation in order to settle a case?

A. Yes. In cases involving $2,500 or less in proposed tax deficiency, IRS district conference staff has authority to consider the hazards of litigation and settlement of the taxpayer's case on that basis. Until recently, the hazards of litigation were considered only at the Regional Appellate level—the second tier of the IRS audit-appeals system.

For more information on the appeals process, see IRS Publication 556, "Audit of Returns, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund." It's available free from your Internal Revenue office.

Q. At the time I filed my 1973 tax return, I had sold my old home but not yet purchased a new one. I noted this fact on my Federal income tax return, but did not report any capital gains. Within the one-year period required by law, I've bought a new home whose price exceeds the adjusted sale price of my old home. Am I now automatically entitled to postpone the tax on the gain from the sale or do I still have to notify the IRS?

A. Yes. IRS Publication 586, "The Collection Process (Income Tax Accounts)," explains how the IRS fulfills its obligations to collect overdue taxes and what the rights and duties are of taxpayers owing bills for taxes. The 12-page booklet can be obtained free of charge at your local IRS office.

A. After your return is filed, if you purchase a new home within the one-year replacement period that costs you at least as much as you received for your old home, you should advise your IRS district director in writing that you have replaced your old residence, giving the dates of purchase and occupancy of the new residence and its cost.

Q. Do you have a booklet that explains the IRS collection process for past due income taxes?

A. Yes. IRS Publication 586, "The Collection Process (Income Tax Accounts)," explains how the IRS fulfills its obligations to collect overdue taxes and what the rights and duties are of taxpayers owing bills for taxes.

The 12-page booklet can be obtained free of charge at your local IRS office.

Survivors Need Advice

"If you haven't done so, tell your survivors what benefits they might be entitled to in event of your death," the Veterans Administration periodically reminds the nation's more than 29 million veterans.

Jack Coker, VA Regional Office director, insists there are good reasons for this advice.

"Too often," he pointed out, "the veteran and his wife neglect to discuss the subject of death, resulting in unnecessary burden on survivors in times of great emotional stress."

Not only should the veteran and his wife discuss locations of important family documents, they should make sure they are protected from fire, theft and damage. It also was emphasized that survivors should be briefed on what to do in case of the veteran's death.

The veteran's family should be told of possible survivor's benefits such as VA's dependency and indemnity compensation for service-connected death, or non-service-connected death pensions for widows, or just for children in cases where a widow may be ineligible because of excessive income.

Burial benefits for wartime and certain peacetime veterans should not be overlooked. These include a maximum $250 burial allowance, plus a plot allowance not exceeding $150—for veterans buried outside national cemeteries.

In lieu of these benefits, there is an $800 burial allowance for veterans who die of service-connected disabilities.

Coker further stressed the importance of keeping track of GI insurance policy numbers, claim numbers for inclusion in all correspondence with VA, commercial insurance policies, social security numbers and naturalization papers—all important in claiming various survivor benefits.

"And don't forget to turn to VA offices, veterans county service offices, and veterans service organizations where assistance is available," Coker advised.

By FRANK SWERTLOW
NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC's "Judgment: The Court-Martial of the Tiger of Malaya. General Yamashita" next Tuesday evening presents a frightening possibility for an American president as commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, the conqueror of Malaya, was the Japanese commander of the Philippines during the last nine months of World War II. Only months after the war ended, he was tried and executed for war crimes committed against civilians by troops under his command.

Throughout the trial, the defense attempted to show Yamashita was unable to prevent his forces from committing the atrocities, especially under the deteriorating military situation.

Held Responsible
Stanley Kramer's 90-minute dramatization stresses the possibility that an American president, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, could be held responsible for any crime committed by an American soldier.

Kramer emphasizes, however, that such a trial could occur only if the United States was defeated by an enemy.

"Yamashita was hanged not because he was in command of troops that committed atrocities," A. Frank Reel said in a telephone interview, "but because he was in command of troops that committed atrocities on the losing side." Reel was one of Yamashita's military defense attorneys.

During the program, Kramer points out that Yamashita was tried in what amounted to a kangaroo court—his judges were handpicked by Gen. Douglas MacArthur; none of them were lawyers and none of them appeared to want to see Yamashita declared innocent.

Kramer has good subject matter for this program, but he unfortunately has come up with a sloppy production filled with wooden acting and historical assumptions on the part of screenwriter Norman Corwin.

The story opens in October, 1945, in a hot

Manila courtroom, but oddly enough nobody perspires. Kramer also fills the courtroom with newsreel cameras, but the cameramen look like a bunch of mannequins.

Crocodile Tears
What is worse, though, is the lineup of actors Kramer has assembled to detail Yamashita's alleged atrocities. Most of these performers shed gallons of crocodile tears on the theory that crying must be great acting.

Performances by veteran actors Keye Luke and Phillip Ahn, however, stand out in the forest.

What is annoying about the screenplay is that Yamashita's military situation is not brought into focus. There are allusions to battle conditions, but they are too fuzzy, especially in the references to the atrocities committed by Japanese naval soldiers under his command. One is almost forced to go to a history book to find out what was what in 1945.

This is the second "Judgment" special produced by Kramer in association with David L. Wolper. It will be aired at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

Business Today

By ROZ LISTON
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Nathan Shapell lost his home in Poland and most of his relatives to the Nazis, but without formal education or a word of English he formed a company which has built 20,000 homes for American families.

The chairman and chief executive officer of Shapell Industries, the largest home building firm in California with sales of $95 million, entered the real estate business in 1953 and now charts the destiny of one of five housing companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

But Shapell Industries is more than just another chapter in the American dream. It is a symbol of survival forged by Shapell, his brother David and his brother-in-law Max Weber—the only male members of the Shapell family to live through Hitler's reign of terror and internment in Nazi concentration camps.

Even before Shapell came to the United States in 1951 wearing the tattooed number that marked his imprisonment in Auschwitz, he had built a community in Bavaria for thousands of displaced persons whose homes, families and lives had been destroyed by the Nazis.

Foundation For Children
This intense and gentle man has written a book about the post-war years—"Witness to the Truth"—in the English that eluded him when he first arrived in America. Proceeds will go to a foundation for needy children.

"I became a leader by default," Shapell said in describing his role as a 23-year-old Jewish refugee who persuaded the American military government to permit him to set up a community in the German town of Munchberg, untouched by the war. "Our leadership was gone," he said.

Thousands of displaced persons poured into Munchberg. Thrust into the role of a diplomat shuttling between the DPs, the hostile German resident and U.S. officers, stunned by Hitler's carnage and unprepared for the enormity of the refugee problem, Shapell made Munchberg a model community while similar efforts failed in other parts of Germany.

Public Defender
In his 5 1/2 years at Munchberg, Shapell built the first orphanage in Germany for 450 Jewish children.

kibbutzim to prepare young DPs for immigration to Palestine, a school and turned broken lives into a revitalized community. He also acted as a public defender for the DPs.

"If a DP spent one day in jail, his entire family would be denied immigration to Canada, Australia or the United States," Shapell explained. He lost only one case, although he left school in his teens.

Shapell and his wife, Lilly, who also survived several concentration camps and a death march, sailed for America in 1951, only after every one of Munchberg's temporary residents had found a permanent home.

"Witness to the Truth," written in 1963, is dedicated to the 52 members of Shapell's family who died under Hitler's rule.

"It's time somebody stood up and said: 'Look at all America has done for the world,'" said Shapell.

A lion kills to live. It kills only when it must eat and then only one animal at a time.

Teresa Lee-Steven Richardson Pledge Recent Marriage Vows

Mr. and Mrs. I.B. Akst, 1032 Duncan, announce the marriage of their daughter, Teresa Lee, to Steven M. Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Richardson, 1819 Evergreen.

The informal wedding was held Monday, May 27, in St. Vincent's Catholic Church at 7 p.m.

Fr. Jack L. Jones, uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony, with Jason Akst, brother of the bride, acting as server.

The bride was attired in a long dress of blue and white checked gingham, fashioned with short puffed sleeves, square neckline, and tiered skirt, trimmed with eyelet and ribbon.

She wore a matching bow in her hair and carried a nosegay of multi-colored flowers and a rosary that had belonged to her grandmother.

Serving her sister as maid of honor, was Miss Janet Akst of Denton. Her dress was of yellow and white checked gingham and fashioned like the bride's. She carried a single yellow rose.

Vic Schuman, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a long dress of red and white and wore a corsage of white carnations. The bride's mother wore a long dress of black and white and wore a red carnation corsage.

Adam Akst, brother of the bride, and Michael Mathews, brother-in-law of the bride, were ushers. Miss Lynn Richardson, sister of the bridegroom, sang "Oh, Lord, I Am Not Worthy." She was accompanied by Wm. Haley, at the organ, who also played the traditional processional and recessional.

MRS. STEVEN RICHARDSON
...nee Miss Teresa Lee Akst

The altar was decorated with floor baskets of white gladioli and greenery, with white tapers in brass candelabra. Pews were marked with multi-colored flowers and bows.

A reception was held in the bride's home after the ceremony, with Miss Susan Richardson, sister of the bridegroom, registering guests. At the serving table, covered with a blue cloth, was a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Table decorations also included a basket of multi-colored flowers, flanked by white tapers in silver holders.

Following the traditional toast to the bride and bridegroom, a buffet supper was served. Miss Cheryl Richardson, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Cheryl Akst and Mrs. Carol Mathews, both sisters of the bride, assisted in the serving.

The bridegroom, a 1973 graduate of Pampa High School, attended West Texas College one year, and is employed by Southwestern Public Service Co. in Amarillo.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of PHS. Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will reside at 2601 S. Polk in Amarillo.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JUNE 8
Your birthday today: Brings on a rush to cash in on the potentials you've developed lately. Inclination is to pursue conflicting vocations which build up more activity than your original profession, forcing simplification midyear. Success is promised at moderately high cost. Relationships are tense, tight for time, tested abruptly. Today's natives are versatile, given to sharp opinions.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Competitive, contradictory moods beset you and your associates all morning. Afternoon clears the air—if you let it. You'll do best just riding this one out.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Leave business matters alone, pursue personal changes, improvements. Later hours find you in unaccustomed circumstances—make the most of them while they last!

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Promotion of your schemes becomes intricate, complicated. A good idea is taken too far, so revision is needed, using the results as a guideline. Proceed in a gracious manner.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Family enterprises are discussed and experiments tried. Be conservative in your own approach, whatever the situation may be. Romance beckons, unexpectedly.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Separative influences exist in nearly all activities. Avoid dissension—ordinary tact and special arrangements aren't quite enough. Mechanical accuracy improves.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: What you choose to say now makes a great deal of difference in your share of community experience. Special care in driving and any physical sports is advised.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Speculative ventures are costly, even where they pay out financially in the end. Pursue relationships without special regard for financial factors.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Favorable conditions exist for recovery of hidden or lost objects, investigation of unknown facts. Check on health maintenance habits and changing requirements.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Deal with close friends, settle old scores nearby. Avoid disputes—any exchange of wisecracks generates a quarrel. There is time and the need for prayer tonight.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Financial matters are at critical susceptibility; impulse is apt to be wide of the mark. Pursue proven business methods to beef up your resources.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: A skeptical question for which you have no reply makes you stop and think, realize the inadequacy of personal plans. Distant people and facts support business projects.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Pitch in and do the best you can with the situation at hand. Reconcile those in conflict, taking neither side of any disagreement. Attend needs of younger people.

APPLIANCES

Major appliances usually are coated with an acrylic enamel finish that can be cleaned with warm water and detergent. Avoid use of ammonia, alcohol, chlorine bleach, abrasive cleaners or strong solvents, warns Doris Myers, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. These solutions can permanently damage appliance surfaces. If you must scrub, use a little baking soda on a damp cloth, the specialist says.

Pampa Art Club Ends Year With Installation Luncheon

Pampa Art Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Ann Heskew for a noon luncheon and officer installation ceremony. The theme of the luncheon was carried out in a bird motif using pink luncheon cloths centered with summer flowers and swan containers. The main table was centered with an Oriental Origami Tree decorated with original Origami folded birds made by Cynthia Knox. Table favors were Origami Swans or Japanese Flapping Birds.

The installation ceremony was performed before a Silver Branch hung with different Japanese Origami Birds depicting the various officers of the Art Club. Mrs. Ted Knox, president, installed the members and officers of the club using the theme "Birds Together."

Officers for the coming year are Mrs. D.E. Bohlander, president; Mrs. W.L. Waggoner, vice-president; Mrs. Robert Ragsdale, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. David Gantz, reporter-historian. Mrs. Bohlander will appoint her various committees during the summer months.

An appreciation corsage of pink summer flowers and birds was presented to Mrs. Ann Heskew, hostess, for her contributions to the club this past year.

Members present were Mrs. Frances Appleby, Mona Cox, Viola Doggett, Leta Flynt, Tommie Grant, Robin Gantz, Frances Hall, Ann Heskew, Olive Hills, Victoria Houchin, Betty

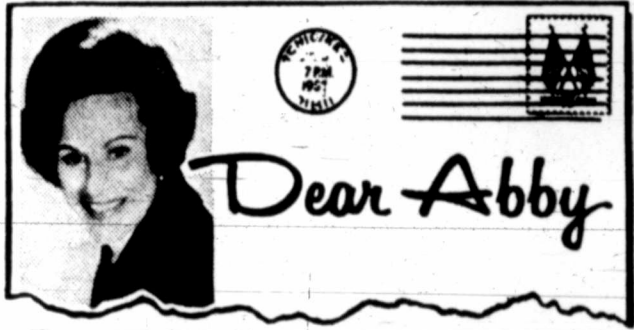

Knox, Kathryn Lyons, Hazel McCune, Peggy Palmitier, Adney Parker, Audie Ragsdale, Katherine Stringer, Mary Waggoner, Ruth Wells, Betty Bailey, Faunce Mack, Marie Bohlander and Erma Lee Barber.

Guests were Cynthia Knox and Kay Warren.

Dear Abby

Keep cool, no more punishment needed

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 18 years, and I always thought we had a great marriage. Having once been his secretary, I sometimes fill in at his office when one of his girls is on vacation.

Last week while I was working there, a man phoned, and in a very gruff and angry tone, he asked to speak to my husband. Since my husband happened to be standing right beside my desk at the time, I handed him the telephone.

Then I heard this booming voice say: "My wife just told me everything, and even though I have a loaded gun, you're not worth going to prison for and neither is she, but if I ever catch you near her again, don't say I didn't warn you!" Then he hung up.

Abby, I nearly fell apart. I went home immediately, and my husband followed me. We had a long talk, and he told me who she was. [She and her husband belong to our club, and she certainly doesn't look the part.] My husband said he'd seen her only a few times, she meant nothing to him, and he'd never see her again.

I forgave him, and believe him when he says he'll never see her again, but I'm bound to see into her at the club, and I'm not sure I can handle it. I want her to know that I know. Should I tell her? SHOOK

DEAR SHOOK: No. Keep your cool, and resist the temptation to tell her that you know. [Your husband will tell her.] No need to punish her further. Her husband has probably already taken care of that.

DEAR ABBY: We have a dentist in our town who is so money hungry it's unbelievable. It's a pity the new generation will never know the kind of dentists we knew when we were growing up. They always had time to listen, and they cared.

This dentist sees anywhere from 50 to 60 patients daily. Besides a secretary who answers his telephone, he has three people working for him whom he calls "technicians" although none of them has ever had any formal training for the job. They take X-rays, impressions, and even clean and scale teeth. One pulled a suture out of my mouth on the doctor's day off!

Isn't there a law to protect the public against unqualified people doing dental work? Where should I write to complain? CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: There ARE laws, and they are well-defined. Write to your county or state Dental Association. But before you make any accusations, be sure of your facts.

DEAR ABBY: Can you think of a nice, simple way for me to ask my parents if I can have a guy spend the night with me? I'm a 21-year-old liberated woman who lives at home.

This guy I'm dating lives about an hour's drive from my house, but he works only ten minutes from here. On Friday nights he works until 10 p.m., and he has to be at work at 9 a.m. on Saturday, so you can see how much more convenient it would be for him if he slept over.

My folks are on the old-fashioned side. Got any ideas? LIBERATED

DEAR LIB: If you have an extra room for an overnight guest, ask your folks if the fellow can use it. If you're considering inviting the guy to share your bed, forget it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 88700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Karpin On Bridge

Had a poor player been sitting in the South seat in today's deal, he would have been excused for his play of the slam contract. But he was a good player — and thus had no excuse.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Dummy's ace of clubs won the opening lead, after which the ace and king of trumps were cashed. A heart was then led, with dummy's jack being finessed. Upon taking the trick with his queen, East returned the diamond jack. When South finessed his queen, West's king took the setting trick.

Had declarer's finesse of the heart jack been successful, he would have fulfilled his contract, for he then would have been able to discard one of dummy's diamonds on his king of hearts. All he would have then lost would have been a diamond trick. But the fact is that he misplayed the hand.

Upon winning the opening club lead with dummy's ace, declarer should have ruffed a club at once. The ace and queen of trumps would then be cashed, and this would be followed by the ruffing of another club. Next would come a heart to dummy's ace, after which the jack of hearts would be led to South's king. South's remaining heart would then be ruffed in dummy. Hearts would now be eliminated from both the North and South hands.

Next would come the jack of clubs, and on it South would discard his losing five of diamonds. West would win the trick with the queen of clubs (which he was known to possess, based on his opening lead of the club king).

West would now be the victim of an end play. If he played back a heart (or, in theory, a club, if he had one) declared would ruff the trick with dummy's last trump as, simultaneously, he discarded the diamond queen from his own hand.

And if, instead, West returned a diamond (as he actually did), South's queen would capture the trick via a "free finesse." As South actually played the hand — taking two finesses — he was unlucky in that one of the finesses figured to be successful. But, as has been demonstrated, his defeat was strictly his own fault.

"AT WIT'S END"

By ERMA BOMBECK

By ERMA BOMBECK I was browsing in a music store last Saturday when the sound of a melody stopped me dead in my tracks.

I became rigid, my palms started to sweat and a wave of nausea swept over my body. Unable to help myself I was drawn like a magnet to the room where the music originated. Opening the door I said mechanically, "It's 'The March Of The Porcupines,' isn't it?"

The teacher and the small child on the piano bench and the mother sitting on a chair nearby looked up startled. "Oh yes," said the mother nimbly. "She's playing it in the recital."

There is something about the song your child plays in the piano recital that is as repulsive as a Hungarian cabbage dinner. It haunts you the rest of your life. I even knew one mother who underwent shock treatments and the only thing left in her memory bank was a haunting melody. "There's A Daffodil Left In The Bottom Of My Teacup," a drum solo which her son performed in a music recital.

The first time my son played, "The March Of The Porcupines" it sounded familiar. Later I realized I associated it with a friend of mine who once fainted over a keyboard. Mrs. Miller, our son's music teacher assured me that after nine weeks of practice, practice, practice, it would sound completely different.

When the recital was seven weeks away, I told my husband I didn't want to be a mother anymore. The "March Of The Porcupines" was getting through to me and I felt that physically I was deteriorating. He assured me the Mother of Van Cliburn had endured The March Of The Porcupines and so should I.

When the recital was four weeks away, our bird died for no particular reason. However, it was suspicious that his wings were cupped around each ear.

The critical period arrived two weeks before the recital. Our son was thumping, thumping, thumping (with feeling, feeling, feeling) through TMOTP, when my husband came home early one afternoon. I had a crown of flowers around my head and was sprinkling petals from a nosegay around the living room. "It's all right," he said softly. "Only two weeks to go."

The voice of the mother in the music store jolted me back to reality. "It doesn't sound like much now, but she has 11 weeks to practice. The music is familiar to you. Did your child play it in a recital?"

"Actually no," I smiled wanly. "He practiced it for nine weeks and came down with measles on the morning of the recital." She was crying when I left.

Installation Highlights Junior Service League Meet

The Junior Service League of Pampa held its annual luncheon recently at the Pampa Country Club with 40 members present.

Miss Jean Sims, outgoing president, and Mrs. Rodney DeFever, the new president, co-presided over the meeting. Among the items discussed were the new hours for the Golden Eagle, the consignment store that Junior Service League operates at 216 North Ward. The Golden Eagle will be open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9:30 a.m.

until 1 p.m. throughout the summers.

It was approved by the membership that Junior Service League provide a scholarship for a deserving four-year-old child at St. Matthews Day School for the coming year. Other projects approved were the sponsorship of two children at the Speech and Hearing Center in Amarillo and aid for Genesis House in Pampa.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Jo Malone installed the 1974 officers. The new officers are:

President, Mrs. Rodney DeFever, Vice, President, Mrs. June Beyer, Treasurer, Mrs. Betty Bassett, Recording Secretary, Mrs. Nancy Kotara, and Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Carolyn Horne. Mrs. Malone presented each of these officers with a plant signifying the qualities needed for each office.

ALL THAT GLITTERS

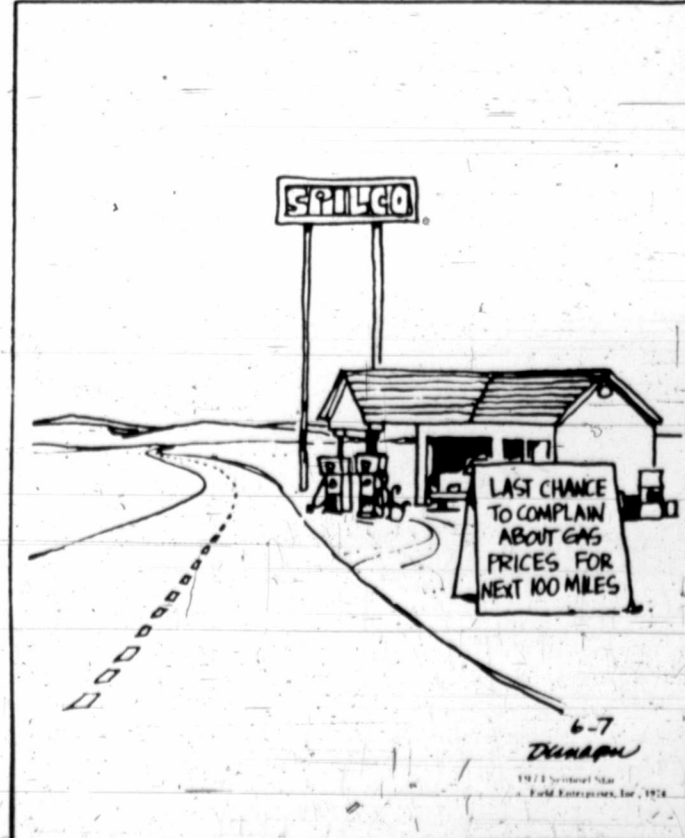

Who's A Seat-Belt Ogre

By VIC GOLD WASHINGTON — Congressman John Moss (D-Cal.) has responded to what he describes as "the ogre who has made driving such a disagreeable chore." What Moss refers to is a recent column in which I charged him, as well as others on Capitol Hill, with responsibility for requiring a mandatory seat-belt system in new automobiles. Not so, claims the California lawmaker. Moss protests that he's not the man who foisted the so-called starter-interlock system on the driving public. For those unknown owners blessed with pre-1974 models, that's the system which prevents new car drivers from starting their vehicles unless they're strapped down six ways from Dearborn. The interlocking device was not the creation of either bureaucracy or of the House of Representatives or of my subcommittee or me," writes Moss, who is chairman of the Commerce and Finance Subcommittee. Well, then, who in Big Brotherland is responsible for foisting this system on the American driving public? The Ford Motor Company, says Moss. Along with the Nixon White House and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), Odd, but I would have sworn the last-named outfit is part of the "bureaucracy" which Moss simultaneously claims didn't create the interlock system. But then, that's one of the problems you encounter when trying to track down who's responsible for what in Big Brotherland. You end up traveling in circles. In this regard, John Moss is an expert circle-traveling guide. As chairman of that subcommittee and a member of the powerful Democratic Steering and Policy Committee of the House, he's been known to swing some heavy weight on Capitol Hill. And sit hard on some bills, too. Such as a bill sponsored by Congressman Louis Wyman (R-N.H.) which, as long ago as last September, would have done away with the mandatory starter-interlock system. Not that Wyman, this columnist or anyone else opposed to compulsory seat-beltism is against safety on the road. It's only that millions of American drivers and car passengers don't care for the mandatory strap system featured in all late models. Nevertheless, Chairman Moss has refused to hold hearings on the Wyman bill. In addition, his stance on another interlock proposal pending before the full House Commerce Committee — one sponsored by Congressman John Dingell (D-Mich.), which would make them optional rather than mandatory — is also, while not ogrelike, something other than that of Jack the Interlock Giant Killer. As best I can ascertain Moss's position on the issue then, it adds up to this: he actually prefers a "passive" or air-bag system of auto-passenger protection (as does this writer); but until that system comes to pass, he'll go along with the noxious Ford Motor Company-Nixon White House-NHTSA compulsory interlock plan. Surveys show that over 55 per cent of the people willingly use (the interlock system)," declares Moss, "with the resultant forecast by this administration's Department of Transportation specialists that the device will result in an annual death-toll decrease of between 5,000 and 7,000 over the lifetime of the automobiles now on the road containing such devices."

INSIDE LABOR

Labor In Split With Dems

By VICTOR RIESEL WASHINGTON — Jerry Ford might be fascinated by some chit-chat I had with Israel's foreign minister Abba Eban in Jerusalem during the late spring of 1968. The Israeli asked me whom the major parties would nominate for President — and who would win. I replied, "Dick Nixon."

"Lucky me," said Eban. "I golfed with him at Caesarea and beat him — but by one stroke. There's rare diplomacy for you."

Well, any clear day now Vice President Ford may find himself golfing with labor chief George Meany. Trouble with Ford is that the Veep shoots 96. This brings him in well under George. That may well stop much of labor's drift towards a 1972-neutrality in 1976.

For there no longer is any doubt that the men in control of the AFL-CIO political machine — the nation's most powerful and effective — have decided to break with Democratic National Committee chairman Robert Strauss.

In fact, word from a source who has rarely been wrong is that Meany, who is chief executive officer of the national Committee on Political Education (COPE), is not accepting calls from Strauss.

And that Meany's chief political activist, COPE director Al Barkan, has been attacking Strauss furiously virtually every chance he gets — and this hedge-hopping strategist does more shuttling than Henry Kissinger.

The issue is basic. McGovernites are winning vote after vote in critical Democratic party caucuses and commission meetings. New Politics caucuses are vitriolically attempting to destroy the candidacies of labor's allies, the party regulars.

These are the factional facts of life in New York, where the Meany-Paul Hall (Seafarers) forces are throwing their strength behind Congressman Hugh Carey in the primary fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. It's evident in New Jersey, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Kansas and Texas, just to name a few states. Meany's lieutenants report that the "new politics crows" have stronger district organizations than labor's coalitions in the pivotal states of New York and California. For example, not too long ago the Democratic party's Charter Commission held a decision-making conference to develop proposals for the midterm Charter (mini-) Convention in Kansas City next December. The labor-party regular coalition fought the adoption of such measures as "affirmative action" which means, in effect, the 1972 quota system. Here's how one of labor's allies describes what then happened: "The New Politics members of the commission relished their success; Hodding Carter III gave sermons, Don Fraser (national chairman) of Americans for Democratic Action issued ultimatums — for a moment it became a 1972 Convention nostalgia party. Party regulars and labor representatives were angry; they now are determined to try to change the commission proposal at the August meeting — with or without Strauss.

This is a reference to the Charter Commission's August parley for a final review of recommendations to be sent to the all-powerful December charter conference.

The angry mentioning of Strauss reflects the bitterness which the Meany-regular-traditional-liberal bloc feels towards Strauss.

They believe Strauss is siding with the McGovern faction which still has its '72 machinery controlling strong sections of the party. And that Chairman Strauss has been favoring a New Politics coalition in which are the Americans for Democratic Action, the small Victor Reuther Socialist faction, and what Al Barkan called "kooks" during the '72 Miami convention.

By any other name this left-wing coalition is straight-jacketing the Democratic party, the regular labor leaders believe. For example, there is a party commission rule, forced on it by the New Politics alliance, insisting that two-thirds of the delegates to the December Charter Convention must be chosen at, or below, the congressional district level. This means the "grass roots," whatever that means.

This has the regular professional Democrats of the first and second Rooseveltian generation growing green in their clubhouses. This clause added to the affirmative action decision will put the party right back into the hands of McGovern's 1972 leaders — such as Baltimore's City Councilwoman Barbara Mikulski and Minnesota Congressman Don Fraser. And the regulars put Gary's (Ind.) Mayor Richard Hatcher in the opposition (new politics) group.

So it appears that any day now Jerry Ford may find himself playing client golf with George Meany — and vice versa. It's fascinating to see what the labor chieftain can do with a golf club and neutrality. (All Rights Reserved)

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Plan Under Way For Another Boodle Grab

By ROBERT S. ALLEN WASHINGTON — A new boodle grab is quietly in the making in the House of Representatives.

This time it's another huge office building — the fourth.

Earlier this year, a high-powered drive for a $10,000 pay hike was blocked by a torrent of irate mail from all sections of the country. With a highly uncertain election looming in the fall, the lawmakers scurried for cover and the pay grab was shelved.

That is, for the time being. Actually, the alluring boodle is still simmering backstage — and it's entirely possible may be resurrected after the November election.

That balloting is virtually certain to produce a number of lame ducks, and having nothing to lose, they may be quite willing to revive the stymied pay increase and ram it through. Lame-duck Congresses are notorious for tapping the public till.

Meanwhile, a slick scheme is being pushed in the House for a fourth office building.

Under this plan, the big Library of Congress annex, under construction on Independence Avenue, directly opposite the main Library building, would be converted to the fourth office building.

A carefully unpublicized petition urging this be done reportedly has the signatures of around 200 Democratic and Republican House members — 18 short of a majority.

Cloakroom word is that strongly favoring such conversion is Speaker Carl Albert.

The Oklahoman wanted the structure to be a House office building in the first place. He was unable to put that through because of two obstacles: the Library's pressing need for more space, and the immense cost of the third House office building which had been completed only a few years previous.

Piling another costly office structure on top of that was just too much to get away with at that time. So obliquely, the urgently necessary Library annex went out.

Credited as being another leading conversion advocate is Rep. Fortney (Pet) Stark, D-Oakland, Calif., who lists himself in his self-penned biography in the Congressional Directory as "banker; chairman, board of trustees, Starr King School for the Ministry; trustee, Graduate Theological Union; sponsor, Northern California American Civil Liberties Union; director, Common Cause."

Prospects for converting the proposed annex to another House office building are distinctly iffy. Bit obstacle is the hazardous fall election.

It's loaded with political dynamite, and even some "safe" legislators are uneasy. Voters are angry and rebellious, and in a belligerent mood to clean house.

Conversion would be immediately tagged as a glaring boodle grab, and that charge could prove deadly on the hustings. So while the desire is there, the fear is greater.

Estimated cost of the Library annex is $90 million. Conversion would undoubtedly run that well over $100 million. The vast Rayburn House Office Building, named after the late Speaker Sam Rayburn, and completed less than a decade ago, wound up at more than $112 million.

The other two office buildings are:

The original named after Joe Cannon, R-Ill., who served from 1873 to 1923. Speaker from 1901 to 1911, his arbitrary and high-handed rule was smashed by a bipartisan revolt of the members, led by the late George Norris, R-Neb., later Senator for many years.

The second is named after Speaker Nicholas Longworth, R-Ohio, who married Alice Roosevelt, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt. Longworth, scion of a wealthy Cincinnati family, an elegant and widely popular sportsman, died in 1931. His widow, "Princess" Alice, 91, is still living in their Massachusetts Avenue mansion, and is the witty, lively and irreverent favorite of Washington society — regardless of party.

Recently she was the star of a birthday party in the Georgetown home of former Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, 82, attended by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and scores of headline Democrats going back to New Deal days.

Monthly Sabbaticals One thing can be said for Rep. "Petey" Boy McCloskey, the ultra-liberal California Republican who votes regularly with the leftist Democratic contingent in the House:

He is no slouch when it comes to far-out ideas.

Latest remarkable scheme is something he calls "Constituent Service Week" — which in substance amounts to members of Congress having a one-week sabbatical every month of the year.

That is, they would work three weeks in Washington and then spend a week at home.

McCloskey claims to have the backing of 100 House members and 67 Senators. He carefully does not name them and neither did he publicize the unique "concept."

Clearing House

Editor: Many in Washington pretend to be concerned about this dishonesty in government; yet, Congressman John Roussetot (R-Cal.), lacks support on a bill which would expose what could be the greatest scandal of them all — an audit of the Federal Reserve System. Such a bill has been bottled up in Committee for want of support from other members of Congress; and they in turn, in some instances, have not supported it for lack of interest from their constituencies.

On the other hand, powerful forces are using extreme pressure to prevent action on this legislation. Fed Chairman Arthur Burns for instance, openly opposes such an audit. To appreciate Congressman Roussetot's efforts consider: how would you like to use millions of dollars without paying interest? The Fed, a privately owned organization, enjoys such a privilege!

When your employer withholds "taxes" from your paycheck, the money is sent to a Federal Reserve bank — not to the IRS. The government receives no interest from the Fed; yet, the Fed uses it for lending and collecting interest.

Congressman Roussetot wants to stop this theft, but he needs for people from all over the nation — whose money he is trying to save — to demand that their representatives in Washington support his bill.

June Has Been Designated As Cat And Kitten Month

If cats in your neighborhood are sporting Cheshire-cat grins, there's a good reason for it. June is Cat and Kitten Month, thirty days of purring tribute to the nation's 25 million feline friends.

Endorsed by animal welfare organizations, cat breeders and just plain folks who just plain love cats, the celebration promotes better cat care and acquaints people with the pleasures of owning a cat.

The theme of Cat and Kitten Month, "Discover love in a purr-fect package," is a poignant reminder that thousands of unwanted, abandoned kittens crowd shelters during spring and early summer months. Animal welfare organizations estimate that only four percent are placed in homes.

Sponsors of Cat and Kitten Month are urging cat owners to have their pets spayed or neutered in order to stem the tide of homeless kittens.

Veterinarians say that sterilization can prolong a cat's life. Spayed females are less prone to develop mammary cancer or infections of the reproductive organs later in life.

Neutered males, because they're content to stay at home, less frequently require medical attention for bites, scratches or injuries sustained in auto accidents.

If you're thinking of acquiring a pet cat or kitten, here are some tips from the Pet Food Institute, sponsors of Cat and Kitten Month, to help you and your cat have a long and purr-fect relationship.

—Have your kitten vaccinated for feline distemper, a major killer of kittens. Inoculations at weaning age with regular booster shots are needed to protect even cats that never go out of doors. It is believed that the distemper virus can be carried in from the street on shoe soles.

—Give you cat plenty of companionship. A cat likes to make the first move, but when Puss shows he's in the mood for attention, play with him, talk to him or just let him sit on your lap. According to cat fanciers, a cat will develop a great attachment for his "family" and extraordinary sensitivity to his owner's moods.

—Respect a cat's preference for peace and quiet. Undisturbed catsnap are important to a kitten's health. Rough handling and loud noises will make him "nervous as a cat" and wary of people. For the sake of a kitten's personality development and their own safety, children should be taught that Puss likes gentle treatment.

—Give your cat a balanced diet plus plenty of water. Cat foods labeled "complete" or "balanced" are formulated to provide the unique nutrition a cat needs for good health. Recent research indicates drinking plenty of water may prevent stone formation in a cat's urinary tract, a problem that plagues many cats.

—Keep your cat at home. Especially if they're neutered, cats quickly adapt to life indoors. Protection from traffic accidents and injuries by other animals can prolong a cat's life.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Heed Hilda's query! For it isn't the "whistle" that pulls the train! Many "whistle" courses in school have value but the real "motor" of the entire educational machine is described below. Before kindergarten you can motivate your child for college!

CASE A-652: Hilda K., aged 28, has 2 kiddies in kindergarten and first grade.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "it seems tragic to me that so many supposedly intelligent children make low grades and soon drop out of school. And many of those who graduate with a high school diploma are unable to add the price of a hamburger, piece of pie and a cup of coffee."

"And they often can't compute the retail sales tax of 4% thereon!"

"So what is the greatest need in our present school system?"

BUILD THE MOTOR. The "motor" of the entire educational machinery is "reading."

Unless you can read fluently, you can't do well in math or history or any other subject that requires a textbook.

Yet our modern youth are becoming such slaves of the TV (boob tube) that they are ear-minded. Incidentally, ear-minded people are then ripe for mob leaders or fiery Hitler, for they stampede more easily than eye-minded folks!

Readers are thus more independent and individualistic. They don't stampede as easily or even swallow printed propaganda as readily, for the same newspaper has opposing columnists, whereas television sticks more closely to but one side of an issue.

Although the TV has several educational values, it always tends to prepare the listener for emotional appeals, as about the fuel "crisis" or the water "crisis," etc.

You can easily spot the pupils who will graduate from high school vs. the dropouts by noting how many of them read books, magazines and especially the local newspaper.

How many of you parents have a library card that permits you or your family to borrow books from your city library?

How many own an encyclopedia?

Or have taught your kiddies how to look up the answers therein to their many school problems, as well as your own dilemmas?

Every literate home should also have a dictionary, which the children should consult almost daily (and so should you adults).

Plus an atlas, to keep the family abreast of world affairs, and geographically oriented.

Try to answer these simple questions from my newspaper Quiz Column:

(a) Which city is nearest the equator: New York - Paris - Rome - Moscow?

(b) Which is nearest the North Pole: Boston - Montreal - London - Vancouver?

Do you have a Bible in your home? Is it used weekly?

Instead of surrounding kiddies with so many mechanical toys and athletic equipment, please remember that they'll never become engineers or pro athletes unless they can R-E-A-D.

For reading is essential to their success in ALL the major trades and occupations.

TV is fun and entertaining, but you don't rate honors or become star pupils by means of the boob tube!

So stress reading, by surrounding kiddies with attractive, colorful books even when they are toddlers.

Build up respect and fondness for printed material.

And send for my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Answers to above questions: (a) New York, and (b) London.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Blg., Mettler, Indiana 47688. Enclose a bag stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of the booklets.

ANY OF YOU CATS LONELY? This bundle of kitten charisma is typical of the thousands of unwanted, homeless kittens, crowding animal shelters this time of year. Buyers Billboard

By MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For less than $100 it may be possible to protect yourself and your family from death by smoke or flames from a household fire.

The idea of home smoke or fire detection devices is not a new one, but more and more products—some of them even portable—have been coming on the market. Basically they all do the same thing: sense the presence of poisonous gases or heat, then set off a bell or buzzer loud enough to wake the soundest sleeper.

Some mechanisms work only for heat while others detect only gases. There are others that do both. Protecting against poisonous fumes is an important consideration since a fire can smolder long before it gets hot, fed on space-age foam and plastic materials that emit silent, choking gases.

In April of this year the Department of Housing and Urban Development began requiring at least one automatic smoke detector in federal and FHA-backed housing. The regulations require the device to be placed near the sleeping areas, or at the head of the stairway in two-story houses.

Portable Detector The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) says the middle of the ceiling, in a hallway outside the bedrooms for instance, is the best location. It also suggests such devices be tested weekly once installed. And while not recommending specific brands it urges buyers to check the labels when shopping for the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) Factory Mutual Engineering Corp. (FM) or Underwriters' Laboratories of Canada (ULC) seals.

One witness before a recent government hearing displayed a portable smoke detector which he plugs in the wall and hangs near the ceiling each night when he checks into a motel. The witness started using the device because he narrowly escaped death when a color TV set caught fire in his motel room and he had to crawl along the floor to escape the poisonous gases which filled the room.

There are some other considerations beyond what brand to buy. However, most of them are too involved to get into here. For a complete rundown we'd suggest writing the NFPA at 470 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02210, for a booklet called "Household Fire Warning Equipment." It costs $1, but it gives a detailed rundown on circuitry, back-up systems and so on.

Or you can write for information to the following manufacturers of household fire warning systems which NFPA says are listed by UL or FM: Artolter Lighting and Sound Division, Emerson Electric, Honeywell, Falls, N.Y., 14472; BRK Electronics Division of Pittsburg Corp., Aurora, Ill., 60538; Electro Signal Lab Inc., Rockland, Mass., 02370; Fire Lock Corp., Long Beach Calif., 90805; Gardsman Corp., New York, N.Y., 10010; Interstate Engineering, Division of A-T-O Inc., Anaheim, Calif., 92805; Walter Kidde & Co., Inc., Belleville, N.J., 07109; Lutron Electronics Co. Inc., Coopersburg, Pa., 18036; Mallory Distributor Products Co., Indianapolis, Ind., 46206; Mastergard Corp., Dallas, Tex., 75207; Music and Sound Inc., Dallas, Tex., 75220; Pyrotec Inc., Hingham, Mass., 02043; Pyrotec, Division of Baker Industries Inc., Cedar Knolls, N.J., 07927; Renn Enterprises Ltd., Winston-Salem, N.C., 27106; Sens-Alarm Division, Aljenik Industries Inc., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 33308; Statitrol Corp., Lakewood, Colo., 80228; Thomas Industries Inc., Ft. Atkinson, Wis., 53538; U.S. Safety & Engineering Corp., Sacramento, Calif., 95821.

Leisure Suit Dominates Men's Wear Field Still

NEW YORK (UPI) — They call it the "other suit" but it is not really a suit even if the tops and bottoms sometimes match. It is a leisure suit and it dominates the men's wear field more than any other style since World War II.

You might possibly wear it to work with a shirt and a tie if you don't work for one of those fussy places that demands a real suit. Or you could wear it with an open shirt for a country sporty look. Or with a turtle neck for a dressed up country sporty look.

It is not really a new concept, according to Daniel F. Keisman, president of Windbreaker, Inc., one of the larger manufacturers of sportswear. It started with the end of the war but only in the past year or so has it swept the industry like a tidal wave.

The 1930s were the high spot for tailored suits and somewhere between 23 to 25 million were sold each year. With the end of the war there was a trend toward sportswear and suit production is now somewhere around 14 million a year. The switch has been to sports clothes.

Classic Designs As for the "other suit," he said, "we like to feel, and we cannot emphasize it too strongly, that the leisure suit is only another facet of the ever growing sportswear business. It could be around for a very long time."

It is not just a cheap suit—the price range of various manufacturers runs anywhere from $80 to $150 or more. Keisman attributes its popularity to the fact its components are mostly classic designs that let a man express himself.

The dominant feeling is military—the safari jackets, the tunic, the short battle jackets. But there are two other important influences, work clothes (which includes cowboy styles) and active sports which includes everything from tennis to bicycling.

The current craze for leisure suits which can be worn so many different ways and with so many different accessories is an offshoot of the carefully coordinated look of a few years back—"we thought coordinates were the next thing to the Messiah."

Popular Fabrics This summer the safari jacket is perhaps the most important "single look"—a jacket usually with four patch pockets, a belt and often with military brass buttons. Behind it are the shirtsuit and, the battlejackets, also called baseball jackets.

The most popular fabrics this summer are poplin and twills, some in a mixture of polyester and cotton, usually in tans or other earth tones. Keisman displayed a shirtsuit, a soft yellow outer shirt with straight front, buttoned like a shirt and with two flapped breast pockets. It would be worn with a matching pair of slacks. The fabric was heavy like a pair of pants rather than thin like a dress shirt.

Trousers shown with the various jackets, whether they matched or not, were modified flares—with no cuffs because, he explained, "the kids didn't go for them." Handsome as some of the outfits are they have not cut into the world epidemic of blue jeans—but they have cut into the sports jacket business. No worry, however, all the sports jacket manufacturers are making leisure suits.

James A. Garfield was the first left-handed president.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) —

"We should see significantly lower rates of inflation in the last half of 1974 and for 1975 we should make even further progress on this front," according to Tilford Gaines, senior vice president and economist for Manufacturers Hanover Trust. But Gaines predicts the rate of inflation increase in May and June probably will reach the 14 per cent range and overheated prices won't be contained until 1976, at the earliest. "The trend starting in the last half of this year should be toward a better rather than a worse performance," he says.

A slowing down in inflation will be followed by a sustained market advance, says Wright Investors' Service of Bridgeport, Conn. Dramatic declines in inflation occurred within one year of two post-war highs set in 1947 and 1951, spurring a rise in corporate profits and a prolonged market upswing, the firm notes. Now that the inflationary Vietnam war has become a fact of economic history, "the stock market will reach a somewhat lower price level before beginning a broadly-based summer rally," it adds.

"Our best judgment remains that short-term interest rates will be headed down this summer," says Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co. But the firm warns that if interest rates remain at present levels throughout this year, the U.S. economy could experience "a deepening recession in late 1974 and in 1975 and stepped-up failures in the business and in the financial community." The country does not need "a full blown recession to kill inflation and 'cleanse' the economy," it says.

Youth Program Looking For Families To Host

Youth for Understanding International Teen - Age Exchange Programs is looking for families to host high school exchange students for the next school year. Approximately 2,000 students from Europe, Asia and Africa will arrive in August.

They are between the ages of 16-18, speak English, attend high school and live as a member of an American family. The families provide room and board.

The students are selected by YFU committees overseas on the basis of their scholarship, leadership, interest in international affairs, as well as on the basis of recommendations provided by their teachers, minister, and family friends.

The purpose of the program is to create better international understanding among people of different countries through a people-to-people approach. YFU is the largest of three high school exchange programs in the United States which cooperates with the State Department in Washington for international teen-age exchange.

Founded in 1951 to bring German students into this country after World War II, more than 40,000 students from 52 countries have participated.

Families interested in possibly hosting a student can contact Mrs. Florence Coulehan, 8803 Galena Dr., El Paso, Tex. 79904, phone 915-751-3649 for further information.

Star Records

By W. LER NEW YORK (UPI) — During the Big Band era, orchestra leaders worked hard at developing vocalists because they had to move up front and take over the proceedings on almost every tune.

Some of the great stars of their time made their bid as soloists with orchestras. Among them were Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, Dick Haymes and Harriet Hilliard.

Helen Forrest was an outstanding singer during those days. She began her upward spiral with Artie Shaw and then sidled over to Benny Goodman and Harry James.

Some of her finest songs were done with Goodman and those who do not have the old 78 rpm can enjoy the tunes again on a two-LP album, "Benny Goodman and Helen Forrest" (Columbia KG 32822).

Not Upstaged Goodman is best remembered as a jazz and swing clarinetist in small groups but he also excelled as leader of a big band. And this was a big band with such musicians as Ziggy Elman, Charlie Christian, Cootie Williams, Billy Butterfield and Teddy Wilson.

But Helen Forrest was not to be upstaged as she sang "Amapola" or "Yours" or "Lazy River." These songs are included in this selection, along with "Taking a Chance on Love" and "I'm Nobody's Baby."

Tommy Dorsey had Sinatra as his vocalist for quite a while and some of their sides have been electronically processed for modern stereo equipment on "What'll I Do" (RCA APL-10497).

Nostalgia Evoked The young Sinatra's mastery of phrasing was forecast in these sessions, particularly on "Blue Skies" and "The One I Love."

"Imagination" and "What'll I Do?" also seemed tailored to Sinatra's stylings, as well as "In the Blue of the Evening" and "We Three."

Both albums will stir up nostalgic visions among those who grew up with this music.

And for those who remember even farther back, "The 20's Score Again" by Bob Thiele and His New Happy Times Orchestra (Signature BSL 1055) is a delightful surprise.

Inspired by the renewal of interest in F. Scott Fitzgerald and "The Great Gatsby," Thiele's music is justifiably jazzy.

And it wouldn't be complete without "Muskrat Ramble" and "The Sheik of Araby," two of the warhorses of jazz.

Thiele has a good change of pace, sprinkling the session with tunes such as "Wolverine Blues" and "Farewell Blues" with the more lively "Indiana" and "Someday Sweetheart."

'Texas' Being Rehearsed For Ninth Season

In its ninth season, "Texas," a musical drama by Paul Green, is currently in rehearsals for the first show June 19 at 8:30 p.m. in Palo Duro Canyon Amphitheater, Canyon.

The show will run through August 24, nightly except Sundays.

A hundred and forty people are involved in the annual production including actors, dancers, singers, light and sound crew, stage hands, costumers, ushers, ticket sellers, parking attendants and concessionaires.

Members of the 1974 cast and company hail from 40 towns in seven states, from Columbia University and the National Shakespeare Company in New York and the Film Actor's Playhouse in California.

Director for the production is William A. Moore. Other executive cast members are Les Harper, historian; Margaret Moore, associate director; Neil Hess, choreographer; James Kemmerling, technical director; and Raymond Raillard, executive vice president and general manager.

Local cast and crew members include Viola Marie Parsley, dancer; J. Frank Davis, singer; Tom E. Francis, singer; Diana Lynn Richardson, singer, all from Pampa. Ross Allen Lisman from McLean is on the hospitality committee.

For tickets and information write "Texas," Box 268, Canyon 79015 or call 806-655-2182. Those planning to attend any performance should make reservations in advance, according to Mrs. Ples Harper, public relations.

GSA Publishes New Booklet On 'Portable Dehumidifiers'

"It's not the heat, it's the humidity." If all or some of the rooms in your house are uncomfortably damp, you probably could benefit from using a dehumidifier. This machine is built like an air conditioner, but it dries the air rather than cooling it.

To help you choose the dehumidifier which best suits your needs, the General Services Administration has published a booklet called "Portable Dehumidifiers," the seventeenth publication in its Consumer Information Series. Copies are available for 25 cents from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Here are some points to check when you shop:

—Certification. A safety symbol, such as that of Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., assures you that the design is safe under normal use and care. A seal saying, "AHAM Certified" confirms its water removing capacity.

—Operating cost. For two models with the same water removing capacity, compare the wattages on the serial plates. The machine with the lower wattage is less expensive to operate.

—Lubrication. The fan motor should either be permanently oiled or easy to reach for oiling. The refrigeration system motor is sealed and never needs oiling.

—The cabinet. It should have smooth corners and no cracks or crevices between parts, and should provide easy cleaning access to the cold coils.

—The power cord. For safety, it should be long enough to permit you to place the dehumidifier where you want it without using an extension cord.

—The water disposal system. Most dehumidifiers drain the water that condenses on the cold coils into a bucket or pan that must be emptied. Since this container must be handled frequently, examine its features carefully.

Does it have a covered top or a shape that minimizes water slosh when it is full and being moved? Does it have hand holds for carrying, and a lip or spout to make emptying easy?

Help your son get ahead.

Newspaper route management can be a boy's first step forward

A BOY with a newspaper route truly is in business for himself. With an assist from our people, who are experienced in working with boys.

He buys his newspapers from us and retails them to you. He sells, he delivers, and he collects. Like any good businessman, he keeps records (you can see how valuable this is in applying the lessons he learns in the classroom in a practical way).

And like any good businessman, he shows a profit. A boy with a newspaper route earns money that can help him build a sizable bank account of his own. Useful for the things he wants. Even for a college education.

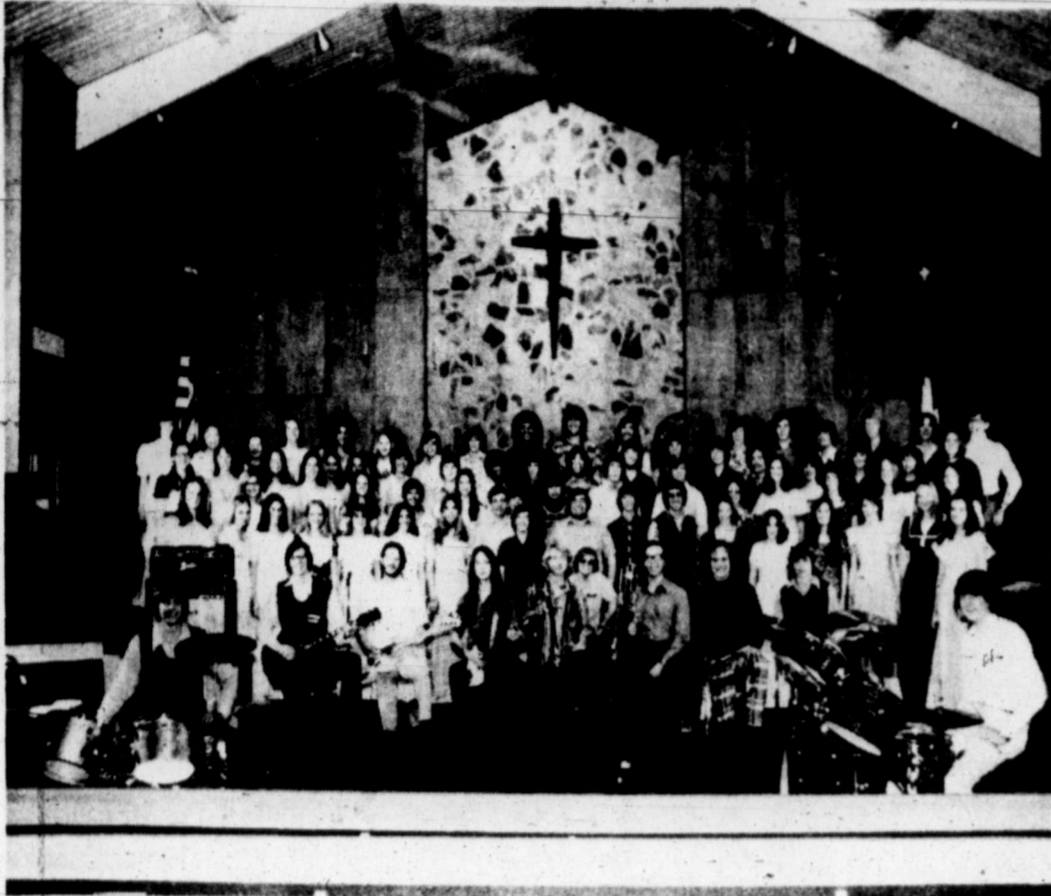

Not only does a newspaper route sharpen a young boy's business sense (which will be helpful to him throughout life no matter what career he chooses). It also offers him some important extras — the ability to deal with people, and the lessons of promptness, of care, of self-reliance, and of good manners.

In these ways, a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life.

If your son wants to handle a route, put him in touch with us. One may be available for him in your neighborhood. It will be an unusual opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

Camp For Teenagers Will Open On June 17

Teenagers in the Pampa area have been advised to register soon if they plan to attend the Teen Camp to be conducted at Hardesty, Okla. June 17-21 at Camp Gibson.

Sponsored by Child Evangelism Fellowship (interdenominational) the five-day annual camp this year will feature films, campfires, crafts, swimming and other recreation.

Also on the agenda are such topical subjects as the

REV. PAUL DEWOLFE

Assembly Of God Gets New Pastor

The Rev. Paul DeWolfe has recently moved to Pampa as pastor of Bethel Assembly of God. He and his wife have a daughter, Jan, who will be a senior in Pampa High School this fall, and a son who is married and living in Amarillo.

The Rev. DeWolfe has been active as an evangelist and has served as assistant pastor and also as pastor in Assembly of God churches in Amarillo and Gruver.

Rev. DeWolfe and the entire congregation at Bethel Assembly of God, 1541 Hamilton extend a cordial invitation to all to attend their services: Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; morning worship, 11:00 a.m.; Sunday evening evangelistic service, 7:00 p.m.; and Wednesday evening service at 7:30 p.m.

Pentecostal Church Invites Participation

The United Pentecostal Church extends an open invitation to all interested persons to come out and worship with them as they begin a new quarter in Sunday school studies.

This quarter, the church will be studying about "Wisdom and Worship," from the books of Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Song of Solomon.

This study of the poetical books probably contains more practical instructions about life as it really is, than any other area of the Old Testament. Job's life definitely has a relationship to ours. Faithful men still are challenged before God by Satan and then given a chance to prove their love and dedication to their God.

This Sunday's lesson title is "Job In Adversity." This promises to be a great quarter, full of wisdom and worship. We invite you to come out and study and worship with us.

If you are unable to come out to the House of God then we extend an invitation to tune in to KGRO at 9 a.m. each Sunday to the "Voice of Pentecost." God is richly blessing this broadcast and we would like to share it with you.

Sunday School: 10:00 a.m.
Morning worship: 11:00 a.m.

Highland Baptist Offers Training

Highland Baptist Church extends an invitation to everyone to attend Vacation Bible School June 10 thru 14. Time is, 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The school is for all ages, preschool thru adults. Preschool will study the Book of Ephesians.

Teach safety NEW YORK (UPI) - If your children walk to school, walk with them now and then to be sure they are going the safe way. Some schools suggest safe routes. Parents should explain to a child why one route is best, and warn of any dangers, blind intersections, grouchy pooches, heavy traffic, deserted buildings or construction sites.

Ordination Ceremony Is Scheduled Saturday At St. Matthew's Church

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church will be the scene of the ordination Sat. June 8 of former Pampa, Mr. Charles James Cook, to the diaconate. The Rt. Reverend Willis R. Henton, Bishop of the diocese of Northwest Texas, will officiate at the ceremony scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Other priests serving at the ordination will be the Rev. Ken Clark, Jr. of St. Christopher's, Lubbock; the Rev. Jim Bethell of the Episcopal preaching station at West Texas State University in Canyon; and the Rev. William B. Green, professor of systematic theology at the Seminary of the Southwest in Austin.

The reverend Richard Wilson, Archdeacon of the diocese, will serve as the litantist. Mr. Will Ellis of St. Matthew's will read the Old Testament lesson and Mr. John R. Reeve, Fr., also form St. Matthew's, will read the Epistle. The Rev. C. Phillip Craig, rector of the church, and Mr. William D. Nix, a former Pampa now seminary in the Austin seminary, will present Mr. Cook for ordination.

REV. CHARLES J. COOK

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook of Pampa, he graduated from St. John's Military Academy in Delafield, Wisc and Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. He received a degree in journalism advertising from Drake.

After working in Minneapolis, Minn., he returned to Pampa and managed the Texas Furniture company for three years before deciding to join the priesthood in 1971. He has attended the seminary of the Southwest in Austin for the past three years.

He is married to the former Chris White of Des Moines, and they have two children, Charlie, 7, and Caroline, 3.

Following his ordination, Mr. Cook will serve as a deacon at St. Christopher's Episcopal Church in Lubbock.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

First Pentecostal Holiness Church

REV. ALBERT MAGGARD
Pastor

A part of the Apostle Paul's inspired testimony is found in these words: "Forgetting those things that are behind, I press toward the mark..."

From Isa. 51: comes this good advice: "Remember the pit from whence ye were digged..."

While these verses may seem contradictory, they're actually two sides of the same coin.

A well organized office must contain two very important things - a trash basket and a file cabinet. Sometimes the success or failure of an enterprise depends on the staff in the office knowing when to use which.

A well arranged file cabinet containing essential and important information is of tremendous benefit. Without a wastebasket for disposing of outdated, unnecessary, trivial or useless papers, the office would soon become too cluttered to operate efficiently.

Things to remember and things to forget; how careful we should be to do some of both. How important it is to know what to forget and what to remember.

So many people torment themselves by remembering things which should have been long forgotten. Some wise fellow once observed that "it takes no medical skill to nurse a grudge." We all know people who succeed in keeping one alive almost indefinitely. Such people are always unhappy, usually depressed and sometimes suffering with ulcers. The one they hate and whose slight they remember may be getting along fine. The one carrying resentment and grudges, though, is hurting.

In his fascinating little book, Dr. S.I. McMillan M.D., has a thought provoking chapter entitled, "It's Not What You Eat But What Eats You." How much unhappiness is occasioned by people letting things from the past "eat on" them.

Sometimes it's a past failure or sin which clings to the memory and robs one's life of its joy and song. St. Paul was troubled with this at times. On one occasion he declared that he was "the chief of sinners" when he remembered his past life as a persecutor of the church. At other times he recalled that awful day when Stephen, the first Christian martyr, was stoned to death. In the file cabinet of his mind was stored a vivid picture of himself standing there; holding the coats for the men who carried out this terrible deed.

One day Paul discovered that victorious living requires a wastebasket as well as a file cabinet. He learned that God wants us to forget some things. Provision has been made in the grace of God for our guilt to be buried in the depths of His forgiving love. The Lord assures us that He will forgive and forget. In faith we must accept his assurance. We, too, must forget the things of the past which would torment and defeat us. Throw these things into the wastebasket.

But, back to the file cabinet: There are some memories that should never be stored with us. We should remember the mercies of the Lord in delivering us from the pit we were in. We should recall his blessings. These, like the manna which fell from heaven, are new and fresh every morning. We should adopt the attitude of the Psalmist who said, "Thy Word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against thee."

Someone may ask, "But how can I go about forgetting the undesirable things in memory's file?" The best answer to that is simply to fill our minds and hearts with good things. Again, it was St. Paul who told us how to do it. He said it in these words: "Finally brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things." Phil. 4:8.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Skin Cancer Needs Removal

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a spot on my forehead which my doctor tells me is skin cancer and should be removed. Can you tell me how they remove it? And does it spread? And is it really curable? Also what causes it?

—B.S.K.
First of all, and most important, do what your doctor told you to do. Have that skin cancer removed without delay.

Skin cancer, particularly on the face, is fairly common among folks who have been exposed to the sun and wind — not very common in the young, but something to watch for as we get on in years.

Removal is usually quite simple, either by surgical removal or by electrocautery, and it is done with use of a local anesthetic.

There is one advantage in surgical removal: bits of tissue can be taken to the laboratory for examination, to make sure that enough has been removed to get rid of all tissue in which cancer cells are present.

If it isn't removed, it can spread. In fact, it will spread — which is the basic fact that makes cancer so dangerous. It will spread and spread.

Skin cancer, however, is the most curable of all cancers for the simple reason that it is visible, can be discovered early, and can be removed before it has had a chance to spread to dangerous proportions. So take full advantage of the fact that yours has been found and identified early.

What causes it? As I said, long exposure to the elements is known to contribute to skin cancer, just as other irritations can lead to cancer elsewhere, but the actual basic question of "what causes cancer" is not specifically known.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a relative who suffers with arthritis in her knees. A friend mentioned "the gold cure" and in my younger days I had heard of it. Would you describe the treatment and do you recommend it?

—V.E.C.
It involves injection of gold salts, and it was originated a good many years ago. It fell into disuse, but in fairly recent years has been employed again, and at the same time the technique of calculating the correct dosage has been improved substantially.

In some cases it works very well; in others, it does not, and there is no way of predicting in advance.

It is primarily effective in rheumatoid arthritis, which usually involves various joints of the body, so I would question whether your relative, with the painful knees, has rheumatoid arthritis. More likely osteoarthritis, for which gold salts would not be indicated.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis" write to him, Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Tour Escort Likes His Business

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — In the old days, he would have been called a courier. Now he is known as a tour escort.

The title may have changed but the basic duties have not, according to Jean Cheller.

"My primary assignment is to assure that every member of my tour group enjoys a worry-free vacation," said the Senior Tour Escort for American Express in an interview.

"And that means taking care of transportation, accommodations, sightseeing, luggage and any problems which may crop up."

Cheller said he believed prepaid group tours could be the answer to Americans worried about the possible effects on the U.S. travel dollar by devaluation and inflation. He noted American Express guarantees the land prices on all its European programs.

There are about 600 men and women working as tour escorts around the world for the company, he said. Their ages, backgrounds and nationalities may vary but the basic qualifications are the same, he said.

What are the prime requisites?

"People will grumble at times, especially if the weather is bad, but you have to be patient and remember that they may be on a once-in-a-lifetime vacation and expect everything to be perfect. You have to deal with their problems tactfully," he said.

"But the best thing a tour guide can have is a keen sense of humor."

Today is Friday, June 7, the 158th day of 1974 with 207 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini.

British fashion expert George "Beau" Brummel was born June 7, 1778.

On this day in history: In 1864, delegates meeting in Baltimore nominated Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson to head the Republican presidential ticket.

In 1933, Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany signed a 10-year peace pact. Less than six years later, Germany started World War II.

In 1939, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth became the first British monarchs to visit the United States.

In 1973, President Richard Nixon nominated Kansas City Police Chief Clarence Kelley to be director of the FBI.

A thought for the day: American poet Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Beauty without grace is the hook without the bait."

He enjoys swimming and cooking.

"I collect recipes from all over the world and write my own, too. One of the nice things about my job is that I have made friends in many countries and they're usually willing to lend their kitchens for culinary experiments."

Cheller already speaks French, German, English, Spanish and Italian, has learned some Arabic and is studying Japanese.

"When I can dream in a language—or grumble in it—I know I've learned it," he said.

Cheller's linguistic ability was put to use during World War II when he enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps Transport Command as a translator. After service in French Africa and Sicily, he went into the hotel business in Egypt.

Favors Prepaid Tours
"I had wanderlust, and a friend suggested the travel field might be better for me," he said. "I've been with American Express for 17 years."

Cheller said that the average escorted tour group ranges from 30 to 40 persons. However, he said he has on occasions guided groups as small as 10.

Paradoxically, the larger groups are actually easier to deal with because people will often try to resolve their own problems," he said. "The smaller a group, the more demanding it can be."

Under Twenty

By TOM WILLIAMS

At this time of the year commercial trade schools step up their recruiting and advertising efforts to attract students who have not yet prepared themselves for a career.

Those considering entering these trade schools should use extreme caution in selecting a school BEFORE laying out any of their money. The promises made in their advertising should be thoroughly checked out.

Recently, in one state, charges were brought against a major school teaching truck driving. Their advertisements hinted at earnings higher than could be expected by beginning drivers. They also implied that job placement was an easy matter, by no means true. The state is asking that the school's accreditation be withdrawn.

Other areas in which false and misleading advertising may be found are for schools offering courses in computer programming and repairs, refrigeration repairs, television repairs, models and airline stewardesses, to name a few.

Many promise exceedingly high earnings and ready availability of jobs and sometimes actual job placement. Promises they cannot and do not keep.

What is a student to do in considering a commercial trade school?

First, beware of glowing promises, especially those concerning earnings and availability of jobs. The phrase may not say, "We promise to place you in a good paying job." They often do, however, hedge their phrases so that you think that is what they are saying.

Second, check out whether or not a school is accredited by your state board of education, student aid programs and the Veteran's Administration. Accreditation, however, is often not enough. They may have begun violations of good practice after being accredited.

Contact prospective employers (usually through their personnel departments) and find out if they confirm or deny the promises made to you. Talk to someone in the type of job you are looking for in the future and get his views on the school in terms of its ability to teach you properly, salary potential and job availability.

Seek the help of your school guidance counselor or, if necessary, a professional job counselor. Paying a relatively small amount to a professional counselor may save you a considerable amount of money and disappointment in the future.

This is by no means meant to say that all trade schools are operating unfairly. There are many good ones. Schools that deliver what they promise. Be sure you thoroughly check out their credentials before you commit yourself.

Cheller's linguistic ability was put to use during World War II when he enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps Transport Command as a translator. After service in French Africa and Sicily, he went into the hotel business in Egypt.

BIG GEORGE! Virgil Partch

Belmont Stakes Saturday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cannonade and Little Current, each with a piece of the Triple Crown safely tucked away, clash in their rubber match at Belmont Park Saturday in the 106th Belmont Stakes.

Twelve 3-year-olds were entered for the oldest, longest and toughest of the Triple Crown classics. Little Current, on the strength of his overpowering seven-length victory two weeks ago in the Preakness Stakes, was the favorite at odds of 6 to 5.

Cannonade was second choice at 5 to 2. The bay colt won the Kentucky Derby with Little Current fifth. But, after getting to the front deep in the stretch, he finished third in the Preakness.

Little Current may have a running-mate to make sure the early pace is fast in the 1 1/2 mile Belmont Stakes. Trainer Lou Rondinello also entered Covered Portage, another colt from the Darby Dan Farm.

Finished Eighth
Cannonade goes it alone. Trainer Woody Stephens decided several days ago not to enter Judger, who ran coupled with Cannonade in the Kentucky Derby where he finished a trailing eighth.

There are two other entries in the race. Rube the Great runs coupled with Accipiter just as they did in the Kentucky Derby when Rube the Great was 10th and Accipiter was 18th.

Bold and Fancy runs coupled with El Espanoleta. Neither ran in the Kentucky Derby or the Preakness.

Hudson County, Jolly Johu, Kin Run, Sea Songster and Shady Character complete the field.

Miguel Rivera rides Little Current, whose final burst of speed in the Preakness Stakes earned him the favorite's role in the Belmont.

"If he runs back to that race, and I certainly hope he does, he'll win," Rondinello said. He entered Covered Portage, who has won two of four races this year, to insure a fast early pace in the Belmont for his stretch-running Little Current.

Confirmed Suspension
Jorge Velasquez rides Cannonade for the first time, replacing the suspended Angel Cordero. Cordero rode Cannonade to victory in the Kentucky Derby and to third place in the Preakness. He appealed the suspension but the New York Racing and Wagering Board backed up the stewards Thursday and confirmed the seven day suspension. Stephens then announced that Velasquez would ride Cannonade.

The Rube the Great-Accipiter entry was third choice at 5 to 1 with Braulio Baeza on Rube the Great and Angel Santiago on Accipiter. The pair raced in the Kentucky Derby where Rube the Great, winner of a division of the Gotham Stakes and of the Wood Memorial, was 10th. Accipiter was 18th.

Since then Rube the Great finished ninth in the Preakness in another poor showing but Accipiter won the Withers Stakes.

Hudson County, next in the betting line at 6 to 1, also will have a new jockey with Mike Venezia replacing Mike Miceli. Hudson County was a strong second in the Kentucky Derby but ran into trouble in the Preakness and finished eighth. Trainer Skip Shapoff plans to have Venezia take Hudson County to the front at the start of the long race.

"His speed is his one advantage and I plan to use it," he said. "They won't be able to outrun my horse. If they try they may kill me but they will kill themselves too," Shapoff said.

Cannonade, Little Current, Rube the Great and Hudson County are the only Belmont starters that raced in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

Jolly Johu and Kin Run skipped the Kentucky Derby but ran in the Preakness where Jolly Johu was fourth and Kin Run fifth. Ben Feliciano rides Jolly Johu with Mike Hole on Kin Run.

All Newcomers
The others all were newcomers to the classics. Bold and Fancy was fourth in the Withers Stakes and fifth in the Illinois Derby over the past two weeks and will be ridden by Vince Bracciale.

Sea Songster never has started in a stakes race and originally was not eligible to run in the Belmont Stakes. But his owner paid a supplementary fee of $2,500 to enter him and must pay an additional $10,000 if the colt starts on Saturday. It cost the others $250 to go through the box and $1,000 to start.

Ron Turcotte, seeking a third straight Belmont Stakes victory, rides Sea Songster. The Canadian jockey won the classic with Riva Ridge in 1972 and with Secretariat last year.

IN NCAA TRACK

Texas-El Paso Out Of Running

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Larry Jones, technically a professional football player, ran in the 53rd NCAA track and field meet Thursday night—which was all nice and legal.

But when professionalism is introduced into the world of amateur athletics, it has to produce controversy and this was certainly no exception. In this case, however, the target of the athletes' bitterness was the AAU.

In the race for the team title, meanwhile, Tennessee, UCLA, Brigham Young and North Carolina Central all stayed in the running, but Texas-El Paso, another of the favorites, fell from contention when Miner pole vaulter Larry Jesse failed to survive the qualifying round.

Jones, a quartermiler from Northeast Missouri State, signed a pro contract with the New York Giants of the National Football League and, under new NCAA rules, is permitted to participate in the track championships as long as he is not a professional in track.

But because of his pro football status, Jones, who turned in the third best qualifying time in the 400-yard dash, is not eligible to compete in next week's AAU meet nor is he eligible to try

Legion Team Wins Opening Game, 20-6

PERRYTON — Pampa took advantage of 13 walks issued by two Perryton pitchers while Roy Morris drove in eight runs with a single, double and triple as Pampa's American Legion baseball team opened its season Wednesday here with a 20-6 conference victory.

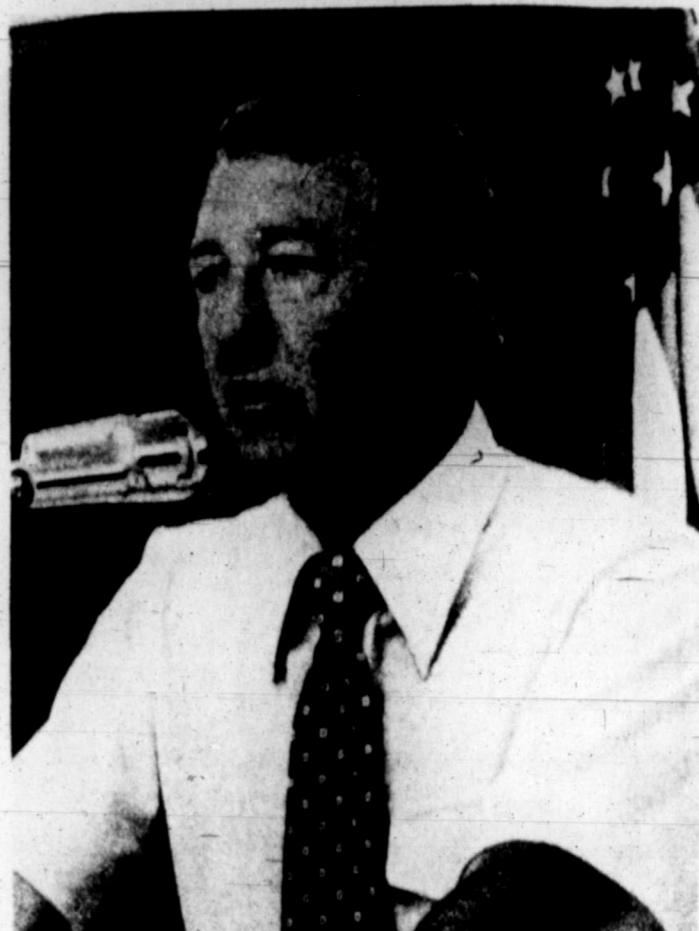

The Rebels jumped out to a six-run lead in the first inning and were never headed. Perryton got two runs in the fourth and four in the fifth but Pampa was still ahead, 16-6.

Pampa, coached by Dan Hood, got six in the top of the first. Chuck Quarles singled and Mike Fraser and Tony Frogge both walked to load the bases. With two outs, Morris singled in two runs. John Agan followed with a walk and Mike Adair with a single to knock in two more.

Two Perryton errors scored two more runs. Pampa followed with five runs in the second. Rick Smith reached on an error. Fraser singled and Frogge walked. Morris doubled in three runs and later scored on an error. Pampa added another later in the inning.

In the third inning, the Rebels tallied four runs. Quarles walked, stole second and then third and scored as Smith lined a single to the outfield. Frogge and Rick Beesley walked before Morris tripled to bat in three more runs.

Pampa's Bobby Chance doubled in the fourth.

PRESIDENTIAL NEWS CONFERENCE? — No, it's Pampa head football coach addressing the Pampa Noon Lions Club Thursday at First United Methodist Church. Welborn talked about the team's chances. District 3-AAAA and coaching.

Southern Cal Gets Chance To Defend

OMAHA (UPI) — As predictable as Nebraska's spring tornadoes, Southern California blew in from the coast this weekend to fill its annual berth in the NCAA college world series.

The defending national champion Trojans are shooting for their 10th title and fifth in a row. But some great escapes in a "sub-par" 45-19 season make coach Rod Dedeaux's crew look more like a bunch of magicians than tourney favorites.

Their most recent feat came in the District 8 playoffs when they trailed Los Angeles State 9-7 with one out and no one on base in the ninth inning in the final round's deciding game. Trojan batsmen knocked out five straight hits to pull out an 11-9 win.

It isn't likely fans will be leaving Rosenblatt Stadium early in any Southern California game. About 4,000 became believers last year when the Trojans staged another ninth inning rally to overcome a 7-0 deficit and sting Minnesota 8-7.

Ex-TCU Linkster Holds 1st In TAGC

DALLAS (UPI)—Former Texas Christian University golfer Sale Omohundro took a one stroke lead over three other players into today's second round of the 64th Texas Amateur Golf Championships.

Omohundro fought winds of 35 miles an hour on the Royal Oaks Country Club course Thursday to finish with a one over par 72. He had three bogeys and two birdies on the course.

Schlee Leads IVB Golf By 1 After Shooting 66

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Forty-nine par-busters, led by John Schlee with a six-under 66, swung into the second round of the $150,000 IVB Golf Classic today in pursuit of a $30,000 first prize purse.

Playing under sunny skies with increasing temperatures and humidity, the touring pros continued their devastating play, although it was thought that scores would be higher here than last week at the Kemper Open in Charlotte, N.C., where only those who broke par made the 36-hole cut.

Performance here Thursday seemed to give credence to the criticism defending IVB champion

Astros Stop Expos With 3-Hit Shutout

United Press International
At an age when most pitchers are in their prime, Larry Dierker is making a comeback.

The 27-year old right-hander limited Montreal to three hits Thursday night as the Houston Astros blanked the Expos 4-0. Lee May hit two home runs, his eighth and ninth, to lead the Houston attack.

The shutout was the first for Dierker since July 4, 1972 when he handcuffed Pittsburgh on eight hits.

Dierker has been plagued by a sore arm the past several years and last season appeared in only 14 games. It was only about 10 years ago, however, at the age of 18, that Dierker made his major league debut with the Astros, matching serves with such stars as Sandy Koufax and Juan Marichal.

But Dierker never quite fulfilled his potential despite winning 20 games for Houston in 1969. His problems weren't only limited to physical ailments. A variety of personal problems have also been blamed for his lackluster performance in recent years. Dierker has managed, however, to exhibit some signs of his former brilliance this season and Manager Preston Gomez, for one, is impressed.

One Bad Outing
Dierker by far has been our most consistent pitcher this year. Gomez said. "He had to come out of several games with no decision but in 11 starts he's only had one bad outing."

The victory was Dierker's third and first since April 15. "If I could throw like I was throwing tonight," said Dierker, "I think I have a chance against anybody."

In other games, Chicago downed San Diego 5-1. Los Angeles ripped Pittsburgh 6-0. San Francisco beat St. Louis 9-5 and New York edged Cincinnati 4-3.

Dodgers 6, Pirates 0
Ron Cey slammed a two-run homer in the fourth inning and right-hander Andy Messersmith pitched a five-hitter as Los Angeles completed a three-game sweep of the Pirates.

Cubs 5, Padres 1
Don Kessinger singled in George Mitterwald from second in the seventh inning to snap a 1-1 tie and then singled home another run in the ninth to touch off a three-run inning as Chicago turned back San Diego.

Roloff Files Suit Against Newspaper

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — Evangelist Lester Roloff has filed two libel suits in federal court against the New Times Communication Corp., and the Chicago Daily News seeking $5 million in damages for stories published about his homes for troubled children.

"For nearly a year the news media, magazines, papers and television have viciously and deceptively attacked our character and our ministry," Roloff said in a released statement.

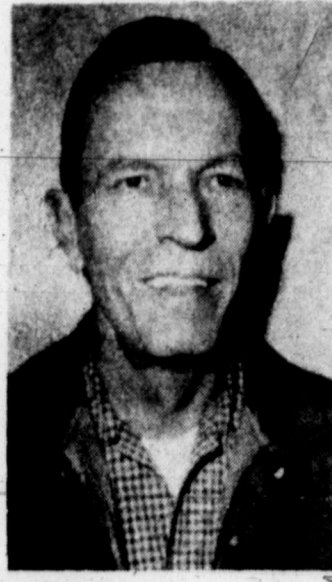

"I think in the land of America, the land of the free and the home of the brave, there ought to be some damage paid for the heartache, grief, wasted time and money for such attacks that have violated the constitution of the United States."

Roloff was found in contempt of court earlier this year for failure to obtain state licenses for three South Texas child-care institutions his Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises, Inc., operates in Corpus Christi, Zapata and on Padre Island.

He was fined $5,000 and sentenced to five days in the Nueces County jail. He served one day in jail before the supreme court, meeting in special session on Feb. 12, ordered the evangelist free on bond.

On May 30 the supreme court ordered him freed from the balance of his jail term and fine on the grounds the state law governing child-care institutions is ambiguous.

The state welfare department began investigating Roloff's facilities after receiving complaints of physical abuse.

IDEA REWARDED — C.W. Steger, 1117 Seneca, troubadour in Phillips Petroleum Company's Exploration and Production Department, Pampa, has been awarded $640 for his suggestion recommending an improved operating procedure which resulted in considerable liquid and residue savings. Steger has been an employe for 1 1/2 years.

TRASH ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Virtually all St. Louis area trash will be burned to generate electricity by mid-1977 under plans announced by Union Electric Co.

A $70 million plant will burn solid waste, eliminate the need for landfills and generate about 6 per cent of its power from the burning.

Dear Consumer

Credit for Retirees?

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

You've just received word of the birth of your first grandchild. You've rushed to make plane reservations, and you're ready to go to the airport.

Suddenly you realize that you don't have enough cash to pay for the ticket. And you don't receive your pension check until the end of the week, so you can't write a check.

Luckily, you think, you have a credit card, so you'll tell the airline to "charge it."

Under these circumstances, there's convenience—and relief—in being able to use credit. But in general, people who are retired and are living on fixed incomes are usually advised to be particularly careful about using credit.

In fact, many stores and lending institutions are reluctant to open charge accounts or give loans to people who are retired or are over 65.

It's not difficult to see the reason for this policy. A fixed income usually requires cautious budgeting—down to the last dollar sign. When it's tight to meet each month's regular bills, "charging" extra bills may loosen the squeeze for the moment, but it's not the prudent approach.

For you who are retired or about to retire, consider these pointers on credit:

• If you have not already retired, remember that it is much easier to get credit while you are still working.

Plan ahead. If you do not already have a bank credit card or a travel and entertainment credit card, you may want to apply for one now. If you plan to travel and to purchase small luxuries after retirement, credit cards may be convenient. But always be sure you can afford it before you say, "Charge it."

• Realize that credit may not be advisable for you once you are retired. A special savings account for "extras" may be wiser—and easier—than the rigmarole of getting a credit card or opening a charge account.

• If you are retired and need extra money now, consider using a co-signer to get a loan.

First, you must be certain that you can meet the monthly payments, regularly and promptly, before you apply for a loan. Second, you must decide who you want to ask to act as co-signer for you. Perhaps a son or daughter who is working. Admittedly, asking someone to be a co-signer might be hard to swallow. The decision must be yours. But first you must know that you really can afford to repay the loan. Worse than asking someone to co-sign would be having the co-signer bail you out.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senator Fulbright's defeat in the Arkansas primary has heightened fears in Congress that incumbents are marked men this year.

So great is the Watergate backlash it is even smiting politicians who had no part in the scandals.

Thus there is concern that in their zeal to weed out the black sheep the voters will lead scores of innocent lambs to slaughter.

"Candidates who are already in office definitely have a big handicap," one worried congressman told me. "Those who are trying to get to Washington have an advantage over those of us who are already here."

I said, "It's too bad you can't be your own opponent. You might have a better chance of winning in November if you were running against yourself."

Misfortune to Win
"That's right," the congressman said glumly. "But since I had the misfortune to win the race two years ago the only way I can run this year is to run for re-election."

"It all seems so unfair," I commiserated. "No candidate should be made to suffer for his previous victories."

Actually, however, the plight of the incumbents isn't entirely bleak.

A senator with whom I discussed the situation has hit upon a plan for offsetting the electorate's disenchantment with present officeholders.

"I'm copying the technique used by President Nixon in the 1972 campaign," he said. "Nixon, you'll recall, never used his own name during the campaign but always identified himself by his title. As in 'the Committee to Re-elect the President.'"

"Nixon knew there were many voters who didn't like him and would be prone to vote against him. But nearly everyone respected the presidency and would be reluctant to vote against the President."

"So his strategy was to get people to vote for the office rather than the man."

I said, "How is that going to help you?"

"I'm applying the same strategy toward a different end," he explained. "All of my posters, bumper stickers, radio spots and other campaign material will simply refer to me as 'Your U.S. Senator.'"

"It is my hope that by the time the election rolls around many of the voters will have forgotten who their senator is."

"Then when they go to the polls and see my name on the ballot they won't hold that against me."

The senator's plan might very well work. Unfortunately, however, it will make for a dirty campaign.

Any incumbent who seeks refuge in anonymity will be inviting his opponents to indulge in name-calling—his.

CANYON — West Texas State University has been given one-third interest in Emulous 6956, an intensely-bred Emulous bull, by the Nance Angus Ranch of Canyon. The Nance Angus Ranch is owned by Dr. and Mrs. Jack Nance.

The bull will be used by WTSU on the 2,500-acre Nance Ranch in an intense performance program using the top performing yearling bulls each year.

"We will turn our herd bulls over rapidly," said Don Beerwinkle, operations and breeding program director.

The program is to select the top bulls, prove them and replace them with better ones each year to make the greatest improvement in the shortest time. The top bulls will be sold each year by the University as they are proved and replaced, along with the top end of the bull crop.

Emulous 6956 is sired by Emulous 7054 (CMS) by Emulous 7000 (CMS). The dam of 6956 was sired by Emulous Bob of K Pride and out of an Emulous Bob 9 dam. Emulous 6956, bred and tested by Eldon Flynn of Fittstown, Okla., had a 3.79 daily gain on an official 140-day test and an 1.176 adjusted yearling weight. The 6956 was calved April 4, 1969, and has sired some outstanding individuals and performance cattle for the Nances.

The University has 120 registered angus mother cows at the Nance Ranch and is building a strong performance herd based on Emulous and Wye breeding.

Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of the WTSU School of Agriculture, assisted in initiating the Murray Bull Test at Tishomingo and operated the Murray State station until moving to West Texas State University in 1958. Dr. Smallwood tested the first Emulous cattle of Carlton and Murray Corbin, and is familiar with the bred-in performance of the bull donated to WTSU.

"The Emulous cattle have a very high percentage of top performing individuals in the line," said Smallwood. "We are getting calves on the ground now sired by the 6956 of Emulous Arrowhead 014, a son of Emulous Master 209. Other sires being used are Geordus of BAR 1582, a high performance Burch bull, and two sons of Lodge of Wye.

Dr. and Mrs. Nance established their herd at Ada, Okla., while he was on the faculty of East Central State. He moved to WTSU as associate professor of education in 1971, bringing his Emulous cattle with him. Dr. and Mrs. Nance operate a small irrigated farm utilizing the water in a forage production system for the registered herd. West Texas State University operates the Nance Ranch and herds as a teaching and research laboratory for their 500 graduate and undergraduate students in the School of Agriculture.

The Department of Animal Science has approximately 200 majors who utilize the ranch and livestock in a variety of ways during their four years at the University.

Approximately 70 percent of all of the graduates of agriculture from West Texas State University go to work in the vast feedlot, prebred or agri-business of the region and state.

Parasites Cause Itch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Careful about schistosome dermatitis if you go swimming in a lake.

This is a fancy name for swimmer's itch. It is caused by tiny parasites in the water, usually lake water. It occurs in all northern states from coast to coast, as well as in the extreme south.

Saltwater bathers in the seaboard states have been known to get swimmer's itch.

The parasites burrow into the skin and may cause a prickly feeling when you come out of the water.

Medical authorities say that welts, resembling mosquito bites, usually appear within 24 hours but may take up to two weeks to appear. Many swimmers mistake the itch for poison ivy or chigger or other insect bite.

The parasites must live part of their life in certain fresh water snails.

The best way to avoid swimmer's itch is to keep out of lakes when the parasites are emerging from the snails.

In a book on recreation and relaxation, published by the American Medical Association, the advice on swimmer's itch goes like this:

"Usually these lakes give little trouble in early spring or late summer.

"If you do swim in parasite-infected water, swim as far away from the snail beds as you can. Short dips reduce chances for exposure.

"When you come out of the water give yourself a brisk rubdown with a towel. You may be able to rub off the parasites before they burrow into your skin.

Report on women workers
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly three out of 10 families (28 per cent) headed by women had annual incomes of less than $3,000 in 1971, says the latest report on women workers from the U.S. Department of Labor.
