Planning Gets Underway On Beautification Project

A select group of the Yard Beautification Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, with Ab Conway as chairman, met with a group of the Pampa Garden Clubs, with Mrs. Joe Curtis as chairman, recently to choose the appropriate date and areas to be selected for judging the most beautiful yards in the city in September.

Six separate areas will be judged with a first, second and third place winner in each of the six areas.

No restrictions will be placed on the contest; however, the continued use of cushion mums were recommended where they fit the overall landscape plan.

"Our recent clean-up campaign that netted 185 loads of junk and trash removed from yards, alleys and lots has improved the overall neat look for which we are striving," Conway said.

Yard beautification is being emphasized by the committee, with the application of paint and repairs to yard fences, buildings, signs and homes, planting bare areas with cultivated grasses or flowers, and to the eradication of bindweed.

"Bindweed infestation is becoming an enormous problem within the city limits, as well as our surrounding areas. Our committee is attempting to make each homeowner conscious of the problem, and report any outbreak that they may see.

"We would also like to see more red, white and blue flower beds to commemorate the Bi-Centennial to be celebrated in two years. Some homeowners have already started the practice with wonderful effect," Conway continued.

The committee is also encouraging removal of all unlicensed vehicles from streets, vacant lots and yards.

"The city of Pampa is a clean, beautiful, healthy city and the vast majority of the homeowners show their pride and care in the lovely tended yards and we want to encourage a 100 percent cooperation from everyone," Conway said.

The Pampa Garden Clubs will select first, second and third winners from the six following areas: homes west of Hobart and north of Rham St., homes between Hobart, Mary Ellen and north of Foster, homes east of Mary Ellen and north of Harvester, homes east of Mary Ellen between Harvester and Foster, homes between Cuyler, Barnes, McCullough and Tignor St., and homes between Foster, Rham, McCullough and Cuyler St.

Tax Filibuster Blocks Reform Considerations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Finance chairman Russell Long says a Senate filibuster against tax reform amendments "is picking up steam."

Aided by Republicans, oil state senators and conservatives, Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., has successfully blocked consideration of liberal-sponsored tax measures which would, among other things, end the oil depletion allowance and cut individual income taxes.

A pending debt ceiling bill had seemed the best vehicle for forcing through the amendments because it must become law by midnight June 30, but Allen and his allies apparently will be able to thwart these plans.

John M. Doar, special impeachment counsel, said the committee had renewed its request for a March 17, 1973, tape which would establish with finality whether Nixon knew of the cover-up on that date. It was one of the first tapes subpoenaed by the panel.

SOME THINK SO Nixon's Cover-Up Evidence Found?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some members of the House Judiciary Committee think they've found evidence on one of President Nixon's own tapes that he knew of the Watergate cover-up four days earlier than he has insisted he first learned of it.

The point may seem minor but could be crucial. If the tape does establish that it could undermine Nixon's Watergate defense.

It would throw into question his contention that, acting decisively and swiftly, he initiated "intensive new inquiries" immediately upon learning on March 21, 1973, of his administration's complicity.

The tape the committee heard Tuesday was of a June 4, 1973, conversation. In that conversation, according to Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., and some other members, Nixon acknowledged knowing of "the possible involvement of White House personnel" in the cover-up as early as March 17.

At today's closed-door session, the committee was to look into the very event which brought life to Congress' impeachment inquiry — the firing of Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor last Oct. 20.

The issue is whether Cox's firing represents part of an obstruction of justice by Nixon.

Also under examination is whether the famous 18½ minute gap in another tape can be considered destruction of evidence.

After they had heard the June 4, 1973, tape, members disagreed on whether it showed Nixon had revealed knowledge of the cover-up prior to March 21, 1972.

So staunch a Nixon defender as Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said the tape showed Nixon had at least an "inkling" of his administration's involvement in the cover-up.

Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., paraphrased Nixon as saying "perhaps, maybe I know of something around March 17." But he said "it was not a definite admission." Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, however, said he heard no admission at all.

Israel Continues Strikes Against Guerrilla Bases

United Press International Israeli warplanes attacked Palestinian guerrilla bases in the border region of southeast Lebanon for the third time in 16 hours today and a Beirut publication said the Israelis appeared to be conducting a "scorched earth policy" there.

The Israeli attacks—apparently delayed during President Nixon's visit to Israel

Rabin Survives First Test On U.S. Agreement

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government survived its first no-confidence vote in parliament today over its response to the U.S.-Egyptian nuclear assistance agreement.

The vote came while the military command was reporting air strikes by Israeli fighter-bombers against Arab guerrilla targets in southern Lebanon for the second consecutive day.

The no-confidence motion submitted to the Knesset (parliament) by the opposition Likud political bloc was defeated by a vote of 60-50 following a sometimes stormy three-hour debate over the government's reaction to the U.S.-Egyptian pact, almost identical to one announced later between Israel and the United States.

It was the first such motion against Rabin's government since it took office two weeks ago.

Prior to the vote, Rabin told the Knesset that his government was concerned that Egypt might be able to use the U.S. supplied nuclear technology provided by the assistance pact to build nuclear weapons.

Briefing the Knesset on Nixon's 25-hour visit to Israel Sunday and Monday, Rabin said he and his colleagues expressed to Nixon their concern over the U.S.-Egyptian nuclear assistance pact.

Rabin said the Americans assured him that every precaution was being taken to prevent the military use of the nuclear technology it was supplying Egypt, but added that he was asking experts in the field of nuclear research for an opinion if such safeguards could be effective. When the experts report is completed, Rabin said, he would take up the matter again with the Americans.

Rabin said it was his assumption that the nuclear power station in Egypt would be in operation in the beginning of the 1980s.

Nixon announced an almost identical nuclear assistance pact with Israel, which it has been supplying with nuclear research technology for nine years.

Sunday and Monday—brought a warning from Egypt that the attacks could wreck Nixon's Middle East peace efforts and provoke another round of warfare.

There were no reports of casualties in today's dawn attack. Press reports said one guerrilla was killed and several wounded and at least four Lebanese civilians, including one child, were wounded in Tuesday's raids.

While Israeli planes hit Lebanon today, the Israeli parliament gave Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin his first vote of confidence after an angry debate on the U.S. decision to give nuclear reactors to Egypt. The vote was 60-50. Rabin himself expressed fear Egypt would use the nuclear technology for military purposes.

Egypt took the bombings to the U.N. Security Council Tuesday and heard a reply from Israel that it is duty bound to defend itself against aggression from Lebanese soil and will continue to take measures to "foil terrorist attacks" into Israeli border settlements.

The Israeli raids resumed Tuesday about the time Nixon was leaving Jordan on his return to the United States. They presumably were in retaliation for a guerrilla attack that killed three women at Shamir a week ago Tuesday.

The Arab World, a daily press summary and news commentary published in Beirut, said in two raids Tuesday which preceded this morning's attack, the Israeli planes caused heavy damage to farms.

The Israeli aircraft deliberately set fire to farms, apparently in fulfillment of threats made earlier by Israeli leaders to undertake scorched earth policy against south Lebanon if alleged guerrilla activity from there continued," the Arab World said.

Witnesses in Lebanon said four Israeli planes bombed and rocketed the valleys of Ebl Es Saqi and El Khureiba and the outskirts of Rachaya El Fukhkar and nearby forests and valleys. No casualties were reported in the raid.

In Cairo, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi warned Tuesday the raids could wreck Nixon's peace efforts and provoke another round of warfare.

"Egypt holds Israel responsible for all the consequences of this aggression, including the possible abortion of the chances of realizing Middle East peace," he said in a message to the United Nations Security Council.

Fahmi asked the Security Council to take steps to halt what he called "barbarous aggressions" and said Egypt "will not watch with folded arms this aggression on Lebanon's sovereignty."

The Israeli command said the first wave of attacks began Tuesday afternoon with strikes on five bases in Lebanon shortly before President Nixon left Jordan, the last stop of his Middle East tour.

Bombings at night near the village of Hraibe, seven miles north of the frontier, an Israeli military spokesman said.

Watergate Leaks, Delays Disturbing To Mansfield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today he was disturbed and depressed over leaks and delays surrounding the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"This thing has been hanging over us so long, I'd like to get it over with," Mansfield told reporters.

He described himself as "disturbed, in a sense depressed, in the delay and postponement on the one hand and the leaks on the other."

Mansfield said the White House was responsible for delays and the committee was responsible for leaks.

"It's not facing up to the issue squarely or fairly," he said. "It's creating impressions and innuendoes and speculations and rumors which ought to be considered only by the committee concerned and the courts."

Mansfield's comments followed charges by a White House spokesman that President Nixon was being tried by innuendo through a series of memos leaked from the committee's closed hearings.

On top of that, he says, some of the memos were written by a former McGovern campaign worker now employed by the Judiciary Committee.

"The purposeful effort to bring down the President with smoke-filled room operations by a clique of Nixon-hating partisans is an affront to the sense of fairness of every American," Ken W. Clawson, White House communications director, said Tuesday.

"It is time to stop the leaks. It is time to open these closed door proceedings to the sunshine of truth."

Saying he was speaking only for himself, Clawson protested that leaks damaging to Nixon have been coming from the impeachment inquiry with "the alacrity of a carnival barker at the country fair."

Clawson was protesting a series of leaks, many based on memos written by William P. Dixon, who works for a Judiciary subcommittee chaired by Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., but has been loaned occasionally to the full committee's impeachment inquiry staff.

Big Business Puts Pressure On Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Big industry is putting home town business pressure on senators from 16 states in an attempt to kill legislation to create a consumer protection agency independent of the administration.

The strategy was revealed in a letter the National Association of Manufacturers is sending to its member companies in states, whose senators' votes are considered crucial in the coming battle. Forces backing the consumer proposal gave a copy of the letter to UPI.

Legislation to create an agency to lobby for the consumer with other government agencies has passed the House. It is due on the Senate floor in mid-July, and a filibuster has been promised by opponents.

Big business opposes the idea as a costly, time-consuming Ralph Nader-inspired plot. Consumer groups favor it as a chance to give the average person the same leverage enjoyed by companies which hire high-paid lobbyists to speak for them.

The NAM letter states that "at least 34 senators are firmly opposed to the bill, and that up to 22 of these will speak in support (filibuster) of Senator (Sam) Ervin, D-N.C., who will lead the opposition."

IN WRITE-IN BALLOTING

Linden Shepherd Elected For Commission Position

By TEX DEWESE Linden (Butch) Shepherd, a machinist with Grayco Division of Panhandle Industrial Co., was elected Ward 4 commissioner Tuesday in Pampa's special municipal election.

Shepherd received a total of 290 votes out of the 461-vote total cast for five write-in candidates.

Kermit E. Rasco, 1009 Prairie Dr., was second with 111 votes and A.C. Thompson, 1085 Varnon Dr., finished third with 53 votes.

Shepherd, Rasco and Thompson were the only three who had announced as write-in candidates.

Two votes were cast for Clyde Carruth and one for Glen Radcliff. Four other persons, not residents of Ward 4, each received one vote.

Since Shepherd's 290 total was far more than the combined 171 total vote of all other candidates, necessity of a run-off election was avoided.

Shepherd is married and

LINDEN SHEPHERD
Ward 4 commissioner resides at 1224 S. Dwight with his wife, Marilyn, and two children, Mike and Kim.

He will be sworn in and take office at the regular meeting of the city commission at 9:30 a.m. next Tuesday.

The newly-elected commissioner will serve the unexpired two-year term of Arthur J. Rohde, who resigned two weeks after he was re-elected last April 6. The unexpired term runs until April of 1976.

Voters in all four city wards participated in yesterday's election although candidates were required to be residents of Ward 4.

There was one voting place. That was at City Hall where ballots were cast from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Counting of ballots was completed and outcome of the election was announced at 7:15 p.m.

Nixon To Get Warm Welcome

LAJES AIR BASE, Azores (UPI) — President Nixon headed for home today following exhausting discussions with Arab and Israeli leaders that a top aide said "opened the door to peace in the Middle East."

Awaiting Nixon upon his return to Washington in the late afternoon was a warm welcome by his daughters, cabinet members and others—as well as the Watergate and impeachment problems that have been in his background during his five-nation "journey for peace" in the Mideast.

Nixon's last stop was an overnight rest at Lajes Air Base that included talks with the new Portuguese president, Antonio de Spínola, during which the two leaders agreed on continued U.S. support for a "independent, free and prosperous Portugal."

The trip that crisscrossed four Arab nations and Israel and included numerous talks with top leaders, state dinners, sightseeing and public appearances before millions, appeared to take its toll on Nixon. His eyes appeared puffy in his meeting with Spínola today and he called his trip "very long and arduous."

But the trip, which Nixon repeatedly told Mideast leaders would bring no instant solutions, raised hopes in the presidential party of permanent peace in the Mideast.

"The diplomacy on this trip has opened the door to peace in the Middle East and the nations in that area now have an opportunity to walk through that door,"

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said.

Ziegler said he could not assess what effect the trip would have on opinion in the United States where Nixon is the subject of an impeachment inquiry.

"I can't judge," he said. "I think the American people will have to be the judges."

The President's two daughters, Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox, planned to meet their father and mother when they arrived at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., and ride with them in a helicopter for a welcome by cabinet members, White House aides, foreign diplomats and others on the White House South Lawn.

Nixon's stay in Washington will be brief. He plans to go to Key Biscayne, Fla. Thursday for a weekend of rest and preparation for next week's visit to NATO headquarters in Brussels and his trip to Moscow for his third Summit meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

In brief comments before boarding his Spirit of '76 jet in the Azores, Nixon said that while he has been "preoccupied with the problems of the Middle East" the last eight days he now is turning his attention to two other "crucial areas of the world: Europe and the Soviet Union."

He said his trips next week "are an essential part of our continuing effort to reduce tensions around the world and to solve problems through negotiation, not confrontation."

NATO was one of the subjects in the conference between Nixon and Spínola, president of Portugal since April 25 when he helped overthrow the right-wing dictatorship that had ruled the country for nearly half a century.

While the two leaders discussed NATO and possible technical and economic aid, there was no agreement on the leasing of the Lajes Air Base in the Azores owned by Portugal. The lease had expired Feb. 3 and there was speculation an agreement might have been reached today on a new one.

Several hundred residents and U.S. military families mobbed Nixon when he arrived at the base Tuesday. They pushed so closely they matted his hair and children were packed so close in the crowd that some of them cried out.

ON OFFENSES

Court Upholds Military Codes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today upheld by a 5-3 vote the section of the Uniform Code of Military Justice making it a criminal offense to engage in "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

The court also upheld another section of the code, dating back to colonial America, which defines as criminal offenses "all disorders and neglects to the prejudice of good order and discipline in the armed forces" and "all conduct of a nature to bring discredit upon the armed forces."

Justice William H. Rehnquist delivered the court's opinion, with Justices William O. Douglas, Potter Stewart and William J. Brennan Jr. dissenting. Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate.

The provisions of the military code were used against Capt. Howard B. Levy, a Brooklyn dermatologist who refused to train Army medics for Vietnam duty, and a Marine Corps private, Mark Avrech, convicted by court martial for attempting to publish an antiwar statement while in Vietnam.

Levy was convicted under both articles.

Both convictions had been set aside by lower federal courts.

The Uniform Code of Military Justice is the body of law governing conduct in the armed services. Its provisions and the way it is administered differ in a number of respects from civilian law.

McLean Plans Jubilee Event

McLEAN — To be held in conjunction with the McLean 66 Roundup and Rodeo on June 20-22, the McLean Derby Town Jubilee Association is sponsoring a picnic at McLean City Park June 22 from 4:30-8 p.m.

An afternoon of music and entertainment is planned, which will include some area talent in the field of country and western music.

"We like to think of our Rodeo and Jubilee as versions of the Big D Jamboree, the Louisiana Hayride and the Grand Ole Opry all rolled into one and it is our belief that anyone who is a country and western music fan will certainly enjoy visiting with us here in McLean for the Jubilee and Rodeo," George Terry of the Association said.

The public is invited to bring a picnic lunch and to attend the picnic before the Rodeo that night.

SOUTH OF PAMPA

Gray Generator Aiding Industry

By FRANK BAIN
The first new approach to steam generation in 200 years is the way Gray Company Enterprises, Inc. of Dallas, describes its "Gray Vapor Generator."

SOMETHING NEW in the area is a steam vapor generator (see arrow) being utilized for surface cleaning of pipe at an oil lease near Pampa. The manufacturers say it may revolutionize use of steam in industry and especially in reactivating abandoned oil wells.

Of special interest to the Pampa area is the fact that one use of the new concept is being carried out a few miles south of here on an oil lease where the vapor generator is utilized in surface cleaning of pipe.

This marks the first time anywhere the one-year old firm has employed its revolutionary process in surface or "hot oil" cleaning of pipe.

Company officials are hopeful that this will mark the opening of a new use for their versatile vapor generator, which is billed as "virtually noiseless, odorless and pollution free." It has already been utilized in many branches of industry.

The Gray generator consists of two hollow metal tubes secured on either end by metal plates.

The inside chamber creates super-hot steam by heating water, through the burning of a propane and butane mixture.

Steam is forced by the inherent pressure through the generator's lower plate and into whatever type of turbine or steam nozzle is being used.

Sen. McGovern Proposes New Food Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., today proposed a new $20 billion a year international food effort — "Plowshares for Peace" — to prevent mass starvation among the world's hungry.

He also called on President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger to "place the great world food and population problems at the top of their agenda" in their travels through the Middle East, Western Europe and the Soviet Union.

McGovern's proposal came at the opening of three days of Senate hearings on developing a national nutrition policy. He is chairman of the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

Although the plight of America's hungry, including those forced to eat dog and cat food for lack of money, will be examined at the hearings, the major focus will be on international food and population problems and the U.S. role in alleviating them.

Dr. Jean Mayer, the Harvard nutritionist who organized the Senate hearings as he did the 1969 White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, made that clear at a Senate reception Tuesday night.

"We meet now in the shadow of an international crisis which has periled the food supply of hundreds of millions of people throughout the world," Mayer said. He included soaring world population, depleted fishing beds, rising food consumption among the affluent, low grain reserves and sub-Saharan drought among the factors threatening "higher (food) prices for us and great misery abroad."

McGovern said Plowshares for Peace could be the beginning of a great American initiative for the 1970s and beyond.

Businessmen Considering Korean Labor Possibility

A group of businessmen met yesterday afternoon with representatives of two employment agencies to discuss the possibilities of bringing Korean skilled labor to the Pampa area.

William S. Chang, president of Pan Asia Employment Agency of Falls Church, Va., and W.H. Voyles, general manager of Beck and Voyles Ltd. of Oklahoma City, explained basic details of their services.

Korean labor, they stated, is now being brought into the U.S. through the H-2 Visa plan. The visa is good for two years and may be renewed.

Only skilled labor is eligible to be brought in under the present laws, according to Chang. The employment agency, he explained, would handle all details of the transaction without obligation to the local employer other than to guarantee a job for the applicant when they arrive here.

Some interest was shown in the program by officials of several local companies who expressed hope something could be worked out to provide additional labor needed by some firms here.

Any local business concerns interested in the program may contact Beck & Voyles Ltd. in Oklahoma City or William S. Chang at the Pan Asia Employment Agency, 5881 Leesburg Pike Suite 202, Falls Church, Va. 22041.

Striking Nurses Threaten Emergency Room Duties

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Striking nurses, accusing hospitals of "misusing our goodwill," have threatened to reduce the number of nurses assigned to emergency rooms and intensive care units during the walkout now in its 13th day.

Officials of the California Nurses Association said Tuesday night that a decision would probably be made today after a survey of the 41 struck hospitals in the San Francisco Bay Area and Sacramento.

A CNA spokesman said he had reliable reports strikers, working under a voluntary agreement on a rotation basis, were being used in the critical hospital areas to free supervisory personnel to perform "unnecessary" duties. He said, "The hospitals are misusing our goodwill."

About 4,400 nurses were on the picket lines. However, the hospitals were operating at only a 50 per

4 Men Found Shot To Death

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (UPI) — Four men were shot to death early today at the Wills Camp mining community and their bodies left on railroad tracks about four miles west of here.

"It was a massacre with a 30-caliber carbine rifle," said Doug Campbell, chief deputy sheriff for Bell County, Ky. "The four victims had a total of 21 wounds, and one had been shot five times in the back and in the head."

Campbell said authorities hoped to make an arrest later today, but he would divulge no information about the suspect they were seeking.

He said there was evidence that a beer-drinking party had been going on at the site where the four men were killed. Police were dispatched to the scene after a phone call early this morning reporting screams and several gunshots. Campbell said.

Soviets Confirm Zhukov's Death

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union confirmed today the death of Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, its greatest hero of World War II, and said his funeral will be held Friday.

Zhukov died Tuesday afternoon in a Kremlin hospital at age 77, but official confirmation came only today when the Defense Ministry informed foreign military attaches.

The official Soviet news agency Tass afterward carried a nine-word bulletin announcing the death of Zhukov, who won stunning victories at the gates of Moscow but fell from power in the inner chambers of the Kremlin.

Unofficial Soviet sources reported his death a day before the official agencies.

The sources said Zhukov, the man some historians called the "Eisenhower of Russia" for his successful defense of Moscow and capture of Berlin, died Tuesday afternoon at the Kremlin hospital after suffering a heart attack.

He had been hospitalized since December, a short time after making his last known public appearance at the funeral of his 47-year-old second wife who died of cancer.

During Zhukov's stormy career, the military planner climbed to the upper reaches of power in the Soviet Union. But he was denounced as a coward by dictator Josef V. Stalin after his stunning World War II victories.

The late Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev rehabilitated Zhukov as defense minister but then fired him a three months later for "Bonapartism."

Born Dec. 2, 1896, in a peasant village in central Russia, the 5-foot-6-inch, blue-eyed Zhukov rose quickly through the ranks of senior Soviet officers thinned by the Stalinist purges. He became chief of staff in 1941 when Nazi forces were bludgeoning the Russia's Western front.

In addition to routing the Nazis from Moscow in 1941 and capturing Berlin in 1945, he had a key role in virtually every major battle involving the Red Army.

But after the war, Stalin banished him to obscure military posts, apparently out of jealousy over his popularity.

After Stalin's death, Zhukov came back to prominence and was named defense minister.

He was dismissed for violating Leninist principles concerning the administration of the armed forces, apparently reflecting Khrushchev's fear that the military was becoming too powerful in the government.

Arthritis Fund Victory March Drive Continues

Contributions from Gray County residents to the local 1974 fund drive of the Arthritis Foundation have reached $2913.29 to date, according to Mrs. Marian Jameson, campaign chairman.

"We're right on target," Mrs. Jameson said. "We have heard from very few of those who live outside the city to whom we mailed letters, but are still receiving small amounts from the Victory March. We hope to raise an additional $500 before the campaign closes June 25."

"The Pampa Community as a whole is really responding to our appeal," Mrs. Jameson added. "This will enable the West Texas Chapter to continue its services for the children and adults in the area who are victims of arthritis. And it's also vital for us to keep supporting local and national research efforts to conquer the nations No. 1 Crippler."

Mrs. Jameson said support from community groups and organizations has given this year's campaign a big boost. The Altrusa club of Pampa adopted this project about three years ago and other groups assisted them in the Victory March this year.

"Without their willingness to help the campaign could not have been so near completion this year," she said.

Genevieve Henderson, Gray County chairman of the Arthritis Foundation today urged all residents who have not yet given to send contributions to the Arthritis Foundation, P.O. Box 1915, Pampa, Texas.

"If you were away when our victory marchers called at your home, we hope you will mail in the 'Sorry You Were Out' envelope along with a contribution," Mrs. Henderson said.

"Persons who did not receive an envelope during the Victory March or by mail, call 669-6854 or 665-3303 and you will be sent one, or your contribution picked up."

Train Derails At River Bed

VEGA, Tex. (UPI) — The caboose and last four cars of a Burlington Northern freight train jumped the tracks 27 miles northwest of Vega Tuesday night and slid down a 75-foot embankment into a river bed.

Two men in the caboose were seriously injured. They were brakeman James Rogers and conductor Lee Lowrance, both of Amarillo. They were under treatment in an Amarillo hospital.

The railroad was looking for the cause of the derailment.

Rhodes Welcomes Report Of Beef, Pork Purchase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leader John Rhodes, who is seeking ways to get livestock prices up without increasing the cost of meat in groceries, says he welcomes news of a $100 million government purchase of beef and pork.

Rhodes appears before the House Agriculture Committee today to ask the lawmakers to "do whatever they can to give relief and keep cattlemen from bankruptcy."

In an interview before his appearance, Rhodes praised Tuesday's announcement that the Agriculture Department has White House approval to buy up to $100 million in beef and pork for donation to schools as "a 10strike for cattlemen... just the kind of action they need."

The purchase, said Agriculture Department experts, might not by itself be enough to lift cattle

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Ed resented the fact that girls regard him as stodgy and lacking in a good sense of humor. He didn't even realize they also considered him egotistical to a fault and miserly. Yet 4 girls jilted him, despite his millionaire status!

CASE A 663. Ed F., aged 41, is a bachelor.

"Dr. Crane," he grumbled, "I've been enrolled for 6 months in the Scientific Marriage Foundation.

"And I have been introduced during that time to several attractive girls.

"But I don't seem to hit it off very well with any of them, though I am a graduate engineer and very wealthy.

"So I finally persuaded the last girl to rate me on your famous 'Tests for Sweethearts.'

"But what grieved me the most was her comment that I have no sense of humor and am also tactless and self-centered.

"Dr. Crane, why should a girl be so concerned with a man's having a good sense of humor?"

WHY HUMOR?

When a girl says she likes a man with a good sense of humor, she isn't referring to Bob Hope wisecracks.

Nor to the vulgar, pornographic stories that men in the locker room at the Country Club or half drunk at a formal dinner party.

A sense of humor, from the woman's viewpoint, means a well balanced social outlook that permits him to laugh at his own foibles.

It involves a well balanced personality instead of the intense egotist or Hitler megalomaniac.

Also implied in that idea of "Humor" is the fact that he doesn't make a scene over trivial flaws and mistakes in other people, or his own children.

On Monday I referred to True Magazine's survey of career women concerning their attitude toward men.

And for the personality traits they deemed most attractive in a man, they listed (1) Sensitivity, and (2) Sense of humor, in that order.

As you can readily perceive, those career women picked Siamese Twin attributes, for "Sensitivity" and "Humor" are closely related.

Unless a man is socially well oriented to human personality and thus has a dell understanding of what is appropriate vs. inappropriate, he can't see anything out of order in a faux pas or ridiculous act.

So a topnotch humorist, like Bob Hope, must be a superb Applied Psychologist.

And bachelors, who have remained aloof from the main stream of human relationships, thus are often akin to Silas Marner.

In fact, one of the girls that Ed had dated, wrote a note to the home office, saying:

"He is the stingiest and most egotistical man I have ever met in my entire life!"

Yet Ed never dreamed he was violating the social code or acting miserly, for a Silas Marner never sees himself as a penny-pincher.

The intense egotist thus looks out at life through what I call a one-way street and can't imagine that other people regard him in possibly a different light than he views himself.

People who are sensitive and thus with a sense of humor, employ the two-way street outlook.

Ed, for example, would see nothing laughable in a recent Public Utility leaflet with some humorous items therein, such as:

"The length of a minute depends on which side of the bathroom door you're standing on."

Send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Tech To Host Forensics Workshop

LUBBOCK—To speak is common. To speak well is uncommon—an art to be learned in high school forensics and in summertime, at the Texas Tech University High School Forensics Workshop.

The workshop scheduled for July 21-Aug. 1 this year is the 23rd at Texas Tech, and it will feature lecture, study and performance sessions in debate and in extemporaneous speaking and oral interpretation.

The workshop debate topic will be the same as the 1974-75 Texas high school debate topic.

In addition, high school teachers may enroll for credit in a workshop which begins July 15 and then runs concurrently with the students' workshop.

Speech Prof. Vernon R. McGuire is director of the workshops. He holds both regional and national "coach-of-the-year" designations.

Applications should be addressed to McGuire and accompanied by a $10 deposit. The total cost of the high school workshop is $25 as a general fee and room and board in a university residence hall at approximately $80.

Tuition scholarships are awarded some eligible students who have won first place in any regional or state Interscholastic League speech contest during the past year. Workshop enrollment is limited to 50 students.

Lecture sessions are devoted to research methods, analysis of debate propositions, the development of arguments and delivery.

Afternoon sessions are for small groups of students who apply what they have learned in lectures under the direction of instructors.

Performance sessions will culminate on the final day of the workshop with a four-round tournament.

Those enrolled in extemporaneous speaking and oral interpretation will have similar sessions, but their final performance may be participation in readers' theater production or individual participation in the debate tournament.

Dr. Vera Simpson of the speech and theater arts faculty will direct this portion of the workshop.

McGuire said the teachers' workshop emphasizes problems encountered in directing school speech activities.

This workshop is closely integrated with the high school workshop," he said, "and it allows the teachers to observe afternoon work sessions of the high school students."

Inquiries concerning the course for teachers should be directed to Dr. William J. Jordan, graduate director in Speech Communication Department of Speech and Theater Arts, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Tex. 79409.

Television Notes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Diana Gould, who wrote the script for ABC's "I Love You, Goodbye," a "Tuesday Movie of the Week" presentation this season, received a $10,000 cash award in the Second Annual Television Population Script Awards competition. The top prize was not awarded in the first year of the award.

Dropped by NBC on a daily network basis, Dinah Shore next season will work for CBS as host of a daily 90-minute program for the network's five owned stations. It is likely that her show will be syndicated to other stations around the country.

Who else but Roddy McDowall would you expect to see as a star of the television series "Planet of the Apes" on CBS next season? McDowall, of course, was outstanding in the series of theater "Apes" movies on which the video program is based.

The Hughes Television Network will be deep in pro football during the coming season. From NFL Films, a subsidiary of the National Football League, it has acquired rights to 28 programs during the summer. It will be telecasting 13 half-hour films called "NFL in Action" depicting past activities as a warmup for the new season. There will follow 15 one-hour programs, "This Week in Pro Football," beginning the weekend of Sept. 21-22, that will review play of the previous week.

Jim Bishop's best-selling book of some years ago, "The Last Year of F. D. R.," has been acquired by Viacom for development as either a three-hour special or a mini-series.

Good Fences Make Good Neighbors, Add To Value

NEW YORK (UPI)—Good fences make good neighbors. They also add to the value of a house and to its livability.

Along with the time honored reasons for erecting fences, such as boundary definition, safety and protection, the right fence can do any number of other jobs.

A fence, of course, will protect children, keeping your own where you can watch them, and keeping those outside the family from prized garden areas, or out of the swimming pool. It will also help control pets—yours and the neighbors.

The right fence can make outdoor areas an extension of the home, give privacy, screen unwanted views, shelter from too strong breezes and help reduce noise from adjacent busy streets.

Fencing can be substituted for curbs and edgings, serve as a retaining wall, a storage wall, a planter, shadow box, a screen, a railing for steps and in place of a trellis. It can be combined with a deck, a gazebo or screened pavilion to add an outdoor living room.

There is fencing to suit any purpose, any home. In wooden fencing, styles range from traditional picket or post-and-rail types to stylized board designs and woven screen fencing in a variety of heights. Modern wood fencing is treated to prevent attack by insects and decay organisms and insure long life. It may be left natural, stained or painted. It can be custom-made or purchased in pre-built sections.

The Southern Forest Products Association, New Orleans, offers some pointers on fence planning. First, it recommends, be sure the type of fence you plan meets local zoning requirements. The most common limitation is the height to which it can be built along a property line.

In some areas, swimming pools are required by law to be fenced. Check to make sure the fence you plan meets all requirements. Check, too, if you are planning a boundary fence, that limits are clear. You may want to have a survey made or rechecked.

The best answer to a possible problem with neighbors, the association says, is to build a "good neighbor" fence—one that looks the same from either side. Ideally, neighbors can share the work and costs of building such a fence on the property line. If there is no agreement, however, build the fence inside your line. If there is any chance of disagreement, be sure it is far enough inside to allow for installation and maintenance without encroaching on the neighbor's property.

In planning a fence, the association suggests, first stake out locations with twine about a foot above ground over the exact route it will follow. Mark corner post positions. Right angles may be checked by measuring three feet along one string and four feet along another. Then, if the diagonal distance between the two points is five feet, you have a true right angle. Corners also can be trued with a carpenter's square.

Fence posts generally should be set with one-third of their length underground. If practical, holes should be dug an extra six inches deep and the space filled with gravel to facilitate drainage. Tops of posts can be peaked to shed water.

To obtain an evenly topped fence, each post must be set to the exact depth indicated by a level or straightedge held across the posts. Follow the contour of sloping ground by setting each post to the same depth. Brace posts plumb while backfilling, using a level on two adjacent sides. String should be extended between corner posts to keep other posts in line while setting.

Buyer's Billboard

By MICHAEL J. CONLON WASHINGTON (UPI)—Should you buy no-lead gasoline for your car?

The question is pertinent because many service stations are already offering such gas. By July 1, under new federal regulations, it should be available to motorists in about 110,000 stations across the country.

That figures out to about two in every three stations in an area, and roughly every other station in rural sections, according to estimates from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Stations are being required to carry the gas because 1975 model cars—which will start appearing in showrooms in September—won't run on anything else without destroying their expensive new exhaust control devices. To force the issue, these new cars will be equipped with smaller necks in the intake line under the gas cap which will fit only narrow-neck nozzles on the new no-lead gas pumps.

But the new nozzles obviously will fit older cars with the standard intakes, so the question comes back to whether the driver should try no-lead gas.

The answer is that you can, in general, if your car is a 1971 model or later, up through the current '74 models. Earlier models have high compression engines requiring gasoline with more octane than the no-lead gas has.

Even that is not a hard and fast rule, however. Chrysler turned out some models in 1971 and 1972 which required an occasional tank of leaded gas to keep the engine running properly. In addition, cars tend to develop their own octane appetites with prolonged use. If there's any doubt, consult your owner's manual and your own experience.

"Regular" gas contains lead, incidentally, though not as much as "premium." The octane rating of most no-lead gasoline will be about 87 under the formula now being used on those stickers placed on the face of gas pumps. That level of octane, in general, is not sufficient for pre-'71 model cars.

There is also the matter of price to consider in no-lead gasoline. The EPA estimates it will cost about five cents more than regular. The industry thinks it will be more like two or three cents.

If an oil company is not now turning out no-lead gas, government rules allow it to charge up to the price of premium for the product once it starts offering it. Some companies already carrying it, however, are not charging premium-equivalent prices, so it is possible the pressures of the marketplace will keep the price below that of premium.

One final point: The automobile industry has been worried—that people will shy away from buying '75 models because they may fear no-lead gas will be hard to find, particularly in rural areas. The EPA doesn't think there will be much of a problem. That remains to be seen, but experts believe drivers of '75 models will be able to use a few gallons of leaded gas in a pinch without ruining the anti-pollution device. And both EPA and the automobile industry seem to agree that next year's models will get quite a few more miles to the gallon on no-lead fuel than those of the current or past few years because of the switch to the new exhaust control device.

In the hints for the helpless department, one appliance manufacturer recommends dumping an occasional tray of ice cubes through your garbage disposer, and grinding them up with it, of course, to keep the blades sharp. Bones apparently do the same thing.

We'll be happy to try to answer consumer questions or solve problems. While we can't promise to answer every letter, we'll do our best. Let us know care of Buyers Billboard, UPI, 315 National Press Building, Washington DC 20003.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, JUNE 20

Your birthday today: As we flip calendar leaves to begin this day, an eclipse on the far side of the world signals a new dispensation. In many subtle ways you must achieve growth involving constant adjustments, carefully chosen initiatives. Late in the year the results come in strongly. Today's natives can copy or mimic nearly anybody, often improving on the original performance.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Important people are not very helpful. Be willing to compromise with associates and put more energy into getting something done beyond routine.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): All things mechanical need alert care in their use. Work details include minor surprises, occasion for application of creative ideas. Be ready to respond promptly.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Think briefly over your budget and probable obligations, then put your concern aside in favor of meditation followed by active work at whatever is most needed.

Cancer (June 21-July 21): Your normal patience and persistence save the day as you wait out squalls and contrary tides of thought among most of those near you. Postponement makes many actions more effective.

Leo (July 22-Aug. 22): Avoid secret or devious methods in favor of open negotiations, however temptation may lead otherwise. Give more time and attention to your physical welfare.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Expenses rise, shouldn't be pushed upward by extra purchases. Older people require much consideration, increasing your usual responsibility.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Slow but sure is your motto for today. Uncompleted work may get in the way of expansions you've planned. Take the trouble to clear the road as you proceed. Celebrate quietly in the evening.

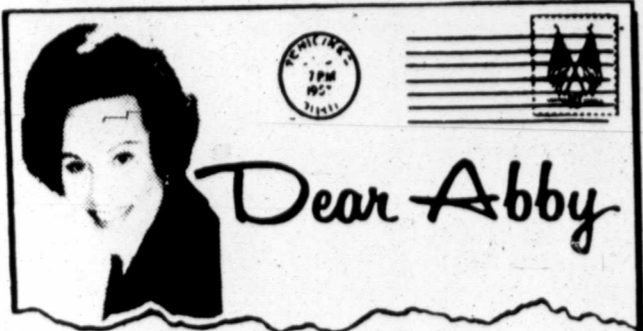

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep your course simple and in the open—never mind extremes, technicalities, special advantages. News from all sides brings conflicting opinions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It's your turn to sustain the welfare of others you hold in esteem. Do nothing with their resources without prior consultation. Older people follow very conservative approaches.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Ongoing enterprises, career pursuits are favored over social or family activity. Make your excuses early enough to avoid inconvenience. New projects should wait a bit.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): However tedious you find the routines of the day, keep at them steadily to prevent either letdown or fatigue. Forcing issues just doesn't produce results today.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Confronting limitations and finding ways around them is par for the course, involves many others besides yourself. The simplest solution comes late, after full discussions.

Dear Abby

His lady love is a night call girl

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I met and fell in love with the most beautiful girl I've ever seen. She liked me, too, and soon she was staying with me, cooking my meals and taking care of my apartment. It seemed like an ideal setup, but there is just one problem: she works days in a massage parlor, and is a call girl at night.

She makes more in one night than I make in a whole week, but she never has any money because she likes to gamble, and she gives ten per cent of her earnings to the church.

Is there any way I can get her to quit taking those calls at night? She says she loves me, but she can't live on what I make.

A FOOL IN LOVE

DEAR FOOL: [You said it, I didn't.] So your lady love works in a massage parlor by day and is a call girl by night? When does she work you in? I'm afraid it's hopeless, unless you can make more, or she agrees to settle for less.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a peculiar one. I've been dating a very special young lady for the past two months. She is perfect in every way except for her elbows. They have got to be the ugliest matching pair I have ever seen. I've never mentioned this to her, but she must be aware of it because she keeps them hidden by long sleeves when possible.

I've met her parents only once and they both seem to have normal elbows so it's not hereditary. Could she have developed those ugly elbows through drug abuse? Or could she have had a vitamin deficiency when she was young?

I wouldn't hurt her feelings by asking her what happened to her elbows because I love her, but I wonder if you can tell me anything that might shed some light on the subject.

NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST

DEAR NAME: It's entirely possible that the young lady's elbows are perfectly normal—it's your concept of ugliness that's far-out. As long as they bend in the right places and you say she is otherwise perfect and you love her, why not accept her as she is—elbows and all? I trust that you are a perfectly flawless man.

DEAR ABBY: I am 41 and my boyfriend is 43. We've gone together for six months, and have been considering marriage. We've both been married and divorced. I have worked for 23 years and have some money in the bank. Probably more than he has.

Out of curiosity mostly, I asked him if I could borrow $200. He said, "Yes, but you will have to sign a note." When I showed surprise, he added, "It wouldn't matter if it was my sister or brother. When it comes to money, I want a note."

I couldn't get over his attitude. Then I told him I really didn't need the money, I just wanted to see how he'd handle it, and he said I should write to you and get your opinion. So I'm writing.

CORKY

DEAR CORKY: I'm with him. A loan is a business deal, and he sounds like a hard-nosed businessman. I'll bet a lot more people regret not having asked for a note than regret having asked for one.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CRYING A RIVER IN BUFFALO": Believe him. It's all over. I think you gave too much. There's nothing for him to come back for.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 67906, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mrs. Rene Bell Anderson introduced Mrs. R.J. Sailor of White Deer, guest speaker, who spoke on "Spin-offs From the Space Age." The preparation for her talk was inspired by a newspaper article by Paul Harvey. Thirty-six members and guests were present.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In today's deal, our South declarer played his game contract in the hope that East was the possessor of a specific key card; and by playing the hand as he did, he failed to fulfill his contract. When the post-mortem analysis took place, it was revealed that South had made the mistake of putting all his eggs in one basket.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

After winning the opening lead with the diamond queen, South cashed the ace and king of diamonds, hoping that West had led from a three-card suit, and that the six adversely-held diamonds were divided 3-3. If such had been the set-up, dummy's fourth diamond would have become declarer's game-going trick. But this hope ended when East discarded a spade on the third diamond lead.

Declarer then turned his attention to the club suit, indulging in the 50-50 hope that East had been dealt the club king. He led the deuce of clubs to dummy's ace, after which he returned the club four, playing his queen on East's eight-spot. When West captured this lead with the king, all hope for declarer had vanished. At the conclusion of play, declarer had only the eight winning tricks with which he had started.

Declarer's play of the club suit was incorrect. After cashing his three top diamonds, he should have led a low club, and permitted West's nine to have captured the trick. When he regained the lead, he would next play another low club to dummy's ace. As is evident, he would have caught West's king. The queen of clubs would now have become declarer's game-going trick.

By playing the hand as recommended, declarer would make his ninth trick whenever West had been dealt the doubleton K-x of clubs. By adopting the line of play of giving away the initial club lead, declarer would be taking out insurance (at no cost) against West having been dealt the K-x of clubs. And if it turned out that East was the possessor of the club king, then the contract would still be made by taking the second club lead with dummy's ace and leading the dummy's remaining club. And even if West had the club king, the contract would be made if the adversely-held clubs were divided 3-3.

Pamela Klein Becomes Bride Of William Rogers

Miss Pamela Sue Klein became the bride of William James Rogers of Canyon Saturday, June 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Chester A. Klein, 1136 Sirroco and the late Odessa E. Klein. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Fuller of Ellinwood, Kan. and the late William C. Rogers.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. Ralph Palmer, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. A three-arched candelabrum with pink candles, accented with lemon leaves, and two large urns, filled with pink galdioli and large daisies, decorated the front of the church. Large pink satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. John Gill, organist, played various wedding selections and Sally Ruste, Borger sang "Twelfth of Never" and "Wedding Song."

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress made of sheer white dotted Swiss with small hearts scattered through the cloth. The skirt was styled in three tiers, with each tier gathered and sleeves were puffed and fitted starting at the middle upper arm. The dress was accented with a square neckline and an empire waist. Sleeves, tiers and the waist were trimmed with white flowers.

One tier of her two-tiered veil rested on her shoulder while the other fell to her waist. Her headpiece, of sheer material was tied in a bow and accented with streamers of flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations, pink bridal roses and tiny white flowers intermixed atop a Bible decorated with long pink streamers.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Mary Washington of Canyon served as maid of honor while bridesmaids were Mrs. Jim Bonnell of Ulysses, Kan. and Mrs. David Callison of Pampa. Flower girls were Debbie Collins of Rush Center, Kan. and Jane Klein of Midland. Both are nieces of the bride.

Bridal attendants were attired in hot pink sheer dotted Swiss dresses with Empire waistlines, square necklines, three-tiered skirts and puffed sleeves. The flower girls' dresses were enhanced by a ruffle around the bottom with white lace trim. They carried cascades of variegated pink and white carnations with long pink satin streamers.

Serving as best man was Dennis Boepple of Ulysses, Kan. Groomsmen were Ron Klein, Canyon, brother of the bride, and Alan Armstrong of Canyon. Ushers were Rod Rogers, brother of the bridegroom of Salina, Kan. and Jim Tilger, Canyon.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the church parlor, the bridal table was decorated with a silver punch bowl, tray and the bride's bouquet. Two silver candelabra holding pink candles and silver trays holding pink heart mints enhanced the table. The three-tiered wedding cake was accented with pillars between the layers and a fresh flower arrangement on the top of pink carnations. The cake was further decorated with pink roses.

Linette Rogers and Paula Rogers, sisters of the bridegroom, Ellinwood, Kan., assisted at the punch bowl while Janelle Rogers, sister of the bridegroom, Ellinwood, served cake. Guests were registered by Ann Washington of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Sandra Vance of Pampa played various musical selections.

For the wedding trip to Six Flags Over Texas, Dallas and Fort Worth, the bride wore a pink double knit A-line dress and lifted the corsage from the bridal bouquet.

They will make their home at 708 17th St. in Canyon.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride will be a senior student at West Texas State University and the bridegroom is a graduate student at WTSU.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored with a bridal shower in Rush

Center, Kan., hosted by her relatives.

Another shower, held at the First Christian Church, was hosted by the women of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. W.K. Mackey, 952 Terry Rd., announce the marriage of their daughter, Cynthia, to Phillip Owen Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Lee Cox of Stinnett. Nuptial vows were exchanged Saturday, June 8 in the chapel of First Presbyterian Church, Pampa. Dr. Bob Stalcup, pastor, officiated for the ceremony. After a short wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will reside in Dumas.

Vitamins—In The Age Of 'Supernutrition'

COLLEGE STATION — "If a few vitamins are good, then lots of vitamins must be better" has been said more than once.

"It's just not true," one foods and nutrition expert says — "Too many vitamins don't make you healthier — they might even be harmful."

AERIAL TRAMWAY CASCADE LOCKS, Ore. (UPI) — A spectacular aerial tramway may be constructed in Oregon's scenic Columbia River Gorge near this small community east of Portland.

The tramway would rise from a terminal south of Interstate Highway 80-N upward for one and one-quarter miles to a 3,212-foot ridge. The Federal Office of Economic Development has approved a $1.25 million grant to the Port of Cascade Locks to aid construction of the tramway. The port is providing $71 million for the project, final design plans of which must receive port and U.S. Forest Service approval.

She's Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Fat-soluble vitamins A, D, E and K are stored in the body and excess amounts taken for an extended time may be toxic," the specialist warned.

Because of this danger, the Food and Drug Administration has limited the amount of vitamins A and D supplements sold across the counter, she added.

"If a person restricts his diet to specific foods and takes supplemental vitamins over an extended time, toxic symptoms of certain vitamins may appear," she continued.

Water-soluble vitamins — C and B-complex — do not stockpile in the body — so excess amounts of these do neither good nor harm. The body simply doesn't use them.

"Good nutrition in our 'age of supernutrition' comes from eating a wide variety of foods every day. Excess vitamins don't help your health," the specialist concluded.

INSIDE WASHINGTON Nixon Trip Not Helping Passage Of Foreign Aid

By ROBERT S. ALLEN WASHINGTON — While President Nixon is busily striving to win friends and influence people abroad, there is no indication that's improving the congressional prospects of his hotly embattled multi-billion dollar foreign aid program.

At best, it's certain to be drastically pruned. And it's possible it could be junked entirely. It's not generally realized that on several occasions in the last few years, foreign aid measures narrowly escaped outright rejection...

A key factor behind this possibility is that disillusionment and resentment at more large-scale foreign aid spending is widely bipartisan. Republicans and Democrats are up in arms and making no bones about it.

Significantly illustrative is the critical attitude of Chairman Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, where the huge foreign aid budget is now pending.

Startling Revelation Those unpublicized committee hearings already have produced one intriguing surprise. This is that the real total of the foreign aid program is upwards of $8 billion and not the announced $5.18 billion.

Newsman and journalists who visited Peking during and shortly after President Nixon's visit to Red China returned with glowing stories about life under Mao's regime.

The news stories after Nixon's visit told of peace and order in Red China. Now we are seeing purges, condemnations and propaganda attacks similar to those of the Great Cultural Revolution in the late 1960s.

It remains to be seen what the Chinese government is becoming increasingly worried about escapes from mainland China. In one seven-month period, 23,000 persons were arrested while trying to flee to Hong Kong and Macao.

Alcohol Abuser Can Recover If He Asks For Assistance

This article is part of a series on "The Progression of Alcoholism" produced by the Alcoholism Council of San Fernando Valley, Calif. The stories are made available locally by the TEXAS PANHANDLE COMMUNITY Action Corporation.

Since alcoholism, in the vast majority of instances, is a progressive disease during which glaring warning signals are set up by the problem drinker's behavior, any abuser of alcohol can personally measure his patterns and determine for himself whether or not he has become a victim of this killer disease.

Once an alcoholic has accepted that fact and asked for help, he has a chance to recover. This article describes some of the warning indications which point toward the fact that the problem drinker is making the transition into the state of an alcoholic, for which there is no cure. At any stage of alcoholism, even near fatal conditions, arrest of the disease is possible.

Rare appearances of any of the "symptoms" do not mean definite alcoholism, but continued experiences with them almost always do. Probably the most shattering symptom of alcoholism is the "blackout." This practice of "pulling a blank" is not a mere "passing out" experience when the drinker folds up and sleeps it off, usually "like a slob."

The latter is bad enough, but the blackout is capable of creating sheer terror. After a few drinks, the victim, without showing any or little obvious change in behavior, undergoes a total lapse of memory.

The drinker in blackout is not outwardly drunk in the vulgar sense of the term. He acts no different from others at a party, but he lives in a coma during a period of time. Suffers often "come to" the next morning remembering nothing of the preceding evening and may not even know how they got home. Stories are common of those who rush out to hunt for their cars, to learn if they show crash signs. Strangely, such suffers remember what they are doing while they are in these "lost hours" — or days-and weeks. But if later, in normalcy, they recall anything at all it will be confusing and meaningless minor details.

Weird stories are common of businessmen who have operated successfully for as long as six weeks without later recalling that fact that many missions even had been attempted.

If a heavy drinker experiences blackouts, he should know he is courting disaster.

The ones who sneak drinks may not, because it is a common behavior of those progressing into alcoholism.

This person is clever in his manner of getting refills without being obvious, downing drinks left unattended, parking extra drinks for quick pick-ups or helping the host to mix and serve so that he can sneak extras.

When this type of drinking becomes obvious to his friends and associates the sneak drinker feels a drop in acceptance by the group and frequently is impelled to get a head start on every party or social gathering by having several drinks before showing up among others.

He feels this will cut down the necessity of sneaking more than his share. He falls into the habit of pre-judging affairs as dull or "dry" gatherings and won't take a chance at being bored or made thirsty.

By arriving with a heavy liquor breath, the drinker invariably attracts suspicion, and he often is gradually eliminated from guest lists. This inevitably directs him toward isolation drinking.

Highly significant of the progression of alcoholism is the move to gulping drinks. Sipping and leisurely consumption no longer satisfies because such styles cannot give an immediate and potent reward.

The imbibor now feels he NEEDS to drink. The quicker it goes down the better. The glow of partial intoxication, with its release from the increasingly painful realities of life, is best achieved by quickly downing liquor, as opposed to the socially approved habit of sipping, which becomes laborious.

These, and other warning signs, worry the drinker.

and he becomes constantly reminded that he has developed a problem. He knows he is drinking differently than other people, and the fact embarrasses him and creates feelings of guilt.

He artfully dodges discussions about drinking patterns, even preferences in drinks, for fear his own drinking habits will come into the conversation.

He becomes aware friends recognize his problem, are concerned and often discuss it among themselves. But he doesn't want them talking to him about it.

Other signs leading toward an acute state will be covered in the next article. Meanwhile, readers may get information and aid today if they telephone the Alcohol Counseling Program located in Highland General Hospital.

TV Notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC's "Columbo" series, starring Peter Falk, begins its fourth season in the fall, and the producer for 1974-75 will be Everett Chambers, who handled it during its first season.

One of the CBS "Kojak" episodes for the new season will be the first two-hour segment for this normally one-hour program. Title is "Another Fine Mess," with Michael Constantine, Tige Andrews and Sheree North backing up star Telly Savalas.

A new member of the cast of ABC's daytime serial, "One Life to Live," is Lisa Richards, who plays a nurse and who is a veteran of other video serials.

Henry Fonda's one-man stage vehicle, "Clarence Darrow," in which he portrays the late noted attorney, using material from the many cases in which Darrow was involved, will turn up in a television adaptation on NBC Sept. 4 as a 90-minute program.

Group W, the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., has a series of 12 children's specials, "Call It Macaroni," coming up for 1974-75. Prime outlet will be the five Group W stations, but the half-hour programs dealing with American history and culture will be in syndication to stations everywhere.

NBC will be back with the National Hockey League for a third season during 1974-75. The network will telecast 14 regular season games, 13 on Sundays and one on Saturday, all in the afternoon. Also, there will be telecasts of Stanley Cup playoff games, which could run to seven.

ANCIENT WINNER HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Animal Crackers," the Marx Brothers' 44-year-old comedy, broke an attendance record at its re-release in Los Angeles and will be shown around the country this summer.

TV RODEO HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — This year's Salinas, Calif., rodeo will be filmed with the approval of the Rodeo Cowboys Association for a one-hour television special.

Business Today

By LEONARD CURRY UPI Business Writer WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bank plans for small investors interested in the stock market probably will begin to expand in the coming months—with encouragement from the federal government.

Complaints by stock brokers that banks have overstepped their legal bounds in offering securities investment plans have been brushed aside.

The U.S. Controller of the Currency has stated for the second time in 17 months that banks can legitimately buy stocks and bonds for their customers' accounts. And a long time banking foe in Congress—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.—agrees.

Proxmire, who is expected to become chairman of the Senate Banking Committee next January, has been critical of many bank functions. But he said it appears bank stock plans have been good for small investors.

"Benefits Public" "I think it opens a new field of competition for the investor-consumer," Proxmire told UPI. "It is wholesome. If a bank can offer a service at a lower cost, then it is a proper function that benefits the public."

Under the plans now being offered by about 20 banks, primarily in New York and California, a customer can put $25 or more into a monthly pool which the bank uses to buy blue chip stocks. The bank allocates shares, or parts of shares, to the customer's account.

Banks say the advantage is that small investors can benefit from the institution's buying power to hold down commission rates. The New York Stock Exchange and the Investment Company Institute, which represents mutual funds, asked for a review of the Controller of Currency's February, 1973 ruling in favor of the bank plans. In a decision June 11, the Controller again found in behalf of the banks.

Controller James E. Smith, echoing the sentiment of his predecessor, William B. Camp, said the "competitive force" was healthy in an industry that has long had fixed charges.

The brokers and exchanges have received no balm from the Securities and Exchange Commission. SEC Chairman Ray Garrett and most of the other commissioners have called on brokers to compete with banks by offering their own monthly investment plans. Garrett has noted many brokerage houses used to offer the plans, but apparently have lost interest in them.

Although no government official has ventured to explain why the brokerage industry has gone soft on small investors, a recent report to the New York Stock Exchange might hold the answer. Greenwich Research Associates said in the active year of 1969 only two per cent of individual investors generated enough business for their brokers to make a profit.

Regardless of how the brokers feel about the small investor, it is apparent most banks welcome him. Officials of the American Bankers Association say the latest ruling of the Controller of the Currency should lead to rapid expansion of bank investment plans.

Important Role Created For Doctors

United Press International Up until just years ago, a couple preparing to get married would contact their family physician just long enough to have the necessary blood test for syphilis drawn. Other than this, medicine was asked to add almost nothing to the preparations for marriage.

The increased sophistication of the public and the general availability of medical advice concerning contraception today has created an important role for the physician in helping a couple prepare for a life together.

Most states still require a blood test for syphilis prior to applying for the marriage license. This necessitates the drawing of a small quantity of blood. It is done because undiagnosed and untreated syphilis can have a crippling effect upon a baby. With V.D. at an all time high in this country, this test is becoming increasingly more important.

Since the three day measles (rubella), if contracted during the first three months of a woman's pregnancy, can cause defects in the baby such as blindness and heart malformations, many states couple the test for syphilis with a test that indicates whether the woman has ever had three day measles.

Should a bride have escaped this as a child, she may be immunized against it before she gets pregnant, but in no case should this immunization be done while a person is pregnant since fatal abnormalities may result.

It takes only a little more blood for the blood type of a couple to be determined in order to anticipate possible problems in babies as they come along. Incidentally, most cases of rh difficulties in babies now are avoidable through the use of a new desensitizing shot which is given to the mother shortly after birth.

A thorough physical examination should be part of the premarital preparation of both partners, since some treatable defects may interfere with a normal happy life. This is particularly true of the pelvic examination where abnormalities of the reproductive system can be detected as can any condition likely to result in painful intercourse.

Family planning is an important part of every premarital examination. Appropriate means of contraception should be discussed and in some instances (such as the "pill") begun a month or so before marriage. This is important if the bride expects to be protected against pregnancy during her honeymoon.

The teletype was invented in 1928, five years after the television set.

"SERVING THE PAMPA AREA OVER 50 YEARS"

Classical records

By WILBUR G. LANDREY NEW YORK (UPI) — After 33 days shuttling around with Henry A. Kissinger, it is a balm to the spirit to write about music again instead of Middle East diplomacy.

The choice of records to be noted or reviewed is sometimes haphazard, given the pile that is likely to accumulate even in a week, and it was by happy chance that two albums of performances by the late great French pianist Robert Casadesus were on top of the pile.

The first was a three-record memorial album of selections put together with the help of Casadesus' widow, Gaby, a fine pianist herself who plays in tandem with him in several of the selections (Columbia M3 32135).

They run from 11 sonatas by Scarlatti through pieces by Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Chopin and Casadesus himself.

Most are mono recordings and the Scarlatti goes back to 1930. Casadesus' own Sonata No. 2 for violin and piano, played by Zino Francescatti, was recorded in 1949. The others are from the 50's and 60's.

The Schubert Andantino Variet for four hands is played with Gaby Casadesus and the Bach concerto in C major for three pianos and string orchestra with Gaby and Jean Casadesus, the son of Gaby and Robert, who was killed in an automobile accident only eight months before Robert's death on Sept. 19, 1972.

In all, the album is what it says it is—a tribute to a great artist. The other Casadesus album on the pile was a re-issue of his performance of some of my favorite music—the last six piano concertos of W. A. Mozart recorded under the direction of George Szell in the late 1950's and early 1960's.

Separately these luminous performances still are listed in the current catalogue so I mention only that they are now packaged in a three-record album (Columbia D3M-32796)—Concertos 21 through 27.

After a month of no music, these late Mozart concertos were a wonderful way to get back into it.

Recommended: Bach's "Brandenburg Concertos" played by the Academy of St. Martin in the Fields under the direction of Neville Marriner (Philips 6700 045)—What makes this doubly interesting is that it is a recording, the first, of the first version of these works before Bach recopied them for the Margrave of Brandenburg in 1721. The late Robert Thuston Dart took these versions from several sources.

Symphony No. 10 in F sharp by Gustav Mahler performed by the New Philharmonia Orchestra under Wyn Morris (Philips 6700 067)—Mahler never completed his 10th symphony before his death in 1911. He sketched each of the five movements and completed a first orchestra draft as far as bar 28 of the third movement. This is British musicologist Deryck Cooke's final full length performing version, having completed the orchestration as far as he could.

He concludes: "The score is still not, and never could be. Mahler's Tenth Symphony as he himself would have completed it... But its justification is that it enables us to experience as living sound Mahler's final musical testament in the provisional form in which he left it."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Doctor Names It 'Child Abuse'

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I know a couple with a little child not yet two years old. He holds a bite in his mouth for three or four hours, especially meat. He is whipped and slapped across the face and told to chew and chew until he swallows it, which can take several hours.

I think he has taken all the nourishment out of the meat by then so why not let him spit the stuff out? And do you believe a child that age is old enough to be whipped and made to stand in a corner for two hours or so? They think a lot of this child but I think he is too young to fully realize.

I raised five and I didn't resort to these tactics. I say a tap on his hands for a no-no and he'll learn.

It breaks my heart and he is nothing to me. (And I like well-behaved children.) His sister, who is five, says he touches the TV and he gets a whipping. Do you approve of putting a five-year-old to snitching? She's lucky she doesn't have an older child to snitch on her.

Also after a whipping the little boy is told to shut up. Whether three hours of chewing 'gets all the nourishment' out of a soggy piece of meat is beside the point. The average child is brought along gradually, first pureed baby foods, then ground or fine-chopped meat, and in time easily learns to chew and swallow. Slapping and punishing isn't part of it. All that does is make him resentful and rebellious. In time he'll hate those folks. If he doesn't already, that is probably why he acts the way he does.

The father has read many books on child psychology, so he says. I don't mean child abuse, but a good whipping and slaps across the face. What to do in place of them for a child under two?

I will be looking for your answer and show it to them. —D.M.T.

You don't call it child abuse, I do. Just because no bones have been broken, and the police haven't been called to rescue the child, does not excuse whipping and slapping across the face, and standing in a corner for two hours, and being forced to chew on a piece of meat for longer than that, and not being allowed to cry.

If the parents 'think a lot of this child,' I wonder what they'd do to one they didn't like.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can I get in touch with Dr. Rudolph Troques, a plastic surgeon? He was on the Mike Douglas show. I enclose a stamped envelope. —L.D.

Do the obvious. Write to Mike Douglas and ask him. Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes macular degeneration? Would pernicious anemia have anything to do with it? I have B-12 shots for the anemia.

A deficient blood supply to the back of the eye can cause macular degeneration, and that can result from hardening of the arteries or from an untreated anemia. If you have both macular degeneration and pernicious anemia, it is vital that you keep your blood count up with regular B-12 injections. (Not that the B-12 isn't vital for pernicious anemia, quite aside from the eye trouble.)

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of 'Help for Hypoglycemia,' enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT Sidney Poitier Takes Limousine

By EARL WILSON NEW YORK — There was a limousine waiting in front of the elegant Quo Vadis to take Sidney Poitier back to his elegant suite at his elegant hotel.

Smoothly he studied the elegant menu, asked for freshly squeezed orange juice and calves' liver, and amusingly recounted that he'd once been a Broadway dishwasher for $4 a night (and meals) when he was a 15-year-old escapee from Miami, Fla.

'A dish jockey! What a stunt! You should have your opening part for your picture in a joint where you washed dishes,' suggested a friend.

'But the Turf, where I got that incredible salary, and the Zanzibar, are gone,' he said. 'I also washed dishes at McGinnis', the Crossroads cafe, Rudley's, the Savoy, Plaza Hotel, the Madison, the Taft, Edison and Waldorf. I went up to the roof at 1650 Broadway and found a little space where I could sleep in the summer. Anyway...

The party for his new movie, 'Uptown Saturday Night,' which he produced, directed and stars in, will be at Vincent's in Harlem — uptown Saturday night.

'I happened to see an ad,' he remembered. 'Actors Wanted.' 'I'd been born in Florida of Nassau parents. My academic training was so little — from 11 to 12½ — that I could hardly read. My accent was awful. I got a radio and learned to pronounce every word like an announcer. Norman Brokenshire.'

Today he's got the prettiest diction anywhere. He and beautiful Joanna Shimkus live together in Nassau with their two children and his four by his ex-wife. He used to hop freight trains to get north beyond the restrictions on blacks. The damned freight trains were always stopping on a siding — still in Florida.

'Today I rather like Miami. I commend the city for some remarkable things it's done for its ethnic elements.' Getting into the limo, the dish jockey who became star, director and producer, said, 'I also operated a ribs place at 127th and 7th. Ribs in the Ruff, R-u-f-f. My ribs,' he said, 'were not memorable.'

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... With all those female impersonator shows, just call it 'The Main Drag.' 'The Happy Hooker,' to be filmed here by Cannon Films and Dennis Friedland, is intended to be an R-rated comedy. Ursula Andress probably starring... Celeste Holm turned down $100,000 to do a toilet deodorant commercial (said so — at Great Aunt Fanny's)... Jennifer O'Neill and Elliott Gould held hands at the Bottom Line at the debut of all-gal rock group Isis... Scoop & L'Escargot restaurants report both dining and drinking bigger — and later — now.

Secret Stuff: The beautiful wife of a handsome actor's pulling out; so much humiliation in public... Bit author's studio only wants to pay him 40 percent for his unsatisfactory script... Las Vegas is scandalized at a recently wed gal's openness with a young singer... Jack Gilford's wife Madelyn Lee couldn't attend his Westbury 'Sunshine Boys' opening. She stepped in for Molly Stark who had a heart attack and couldn't open at Paramus in 'Laugh a Little, Cry a Little'... Mack and Mabel's company flew to San Diego for its break-in, then on to LA... Mrs. Allen Funt sparked a 'Therapy Through Tennis' fund raiser at the Colony. 'Special' children, through trying to hit tennis balls from a machine, greatly improve.

Show Biz Quiz: Name Liz Taylor's five husbands. Ans. to yesterday's: Cary Grant co-starred with both Mae West and Grace Kelly.

Young singer Julie Budd, a Barbra Streisand look-alike and sound-alike, began her act (at the Menchell Infant Survival Foundation benefit) by announcing: 'Before you all ask — no, I'm not her sister'...

It's back to swimming for Johnny Weissmuller, now 70 (therapy, while he recovers from a busted hip)... Arthur Godfrey made a rare cafe visit to hear pianist-singer, Glen Covington — once a Godfrey contest winner — at The Embers.

Ginger Rogers gave a party at Benihana Palace for visiting Japanese film distributors; her old movies with Fred Astaire are still big at box office there... The 'French Dressing' show at Shepheard's, which features female impersonators, had its stay extended (and it's now doing 18 shows a week)...

Friends of singer Mabel Mercer, now at the St. Regis Rm., gave her a surprise party, and the mayor's office gave her a key to the city — after she'd been working here for about 30 years.

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT Today's Best Laugh: Comic Wayland Flowers, who works with a 'dirty old lady' puppet called 'Madame,' says, 'I'm showing that women can be just as rotten as men.'

Wish I'd Said That: A certain actor has so little personality that he worked on a color TV show — and came out in black and white. Remembered Quote: 'Experience is what teaches you that you need a lot more of it.' — Bobby Vinton.

Earl's Pearls: Mike Vogel of Travelers Hotel recalls visiting a very small Midwest town: 'When it held a 100-yard race, contestants had to run around the town twice.'

In the last scene of 'Hot L Baltimore' the cast drinks real champagne. 'Some nights,' says a backstage crew member, 'they don't care if they get applause or not. And some nights they don't know if they get applause or not.'

That's earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

with them but they just don't seem to understand. After all, I've got all my life to work.

—Miss Understood Dear Miss Understood: If, at your age, you are able to find part-time work enough to take care of yourself you are entitled to do so. However, you can't expect your parents to pick up the tab while you refuse to take responsibility for yourself.

The truth of the matter is that at this stage of your life they actually owe you nothing but their love and concern for you. You owe it to yourself to get a firm foundation under your life. When you do it is up to you as long as you pay your own way.

Dear Astrid: There is a man I met a few weeks ago. He's always very pleasant to me but doesn't ask me out for a date. He says he likes me, wants to be friends but is too old for me. He's seven years older than I. I want him to date me and get interested in me. I've come right out and asked him to date me. How can I get him interested in me? —Younger

Dear Astrid: The 'older man' is showing both good sense and consideration for you. Seven years is a big difference when you are young and he recognizes this difference but offers you, instead of dating, a friendship.

You can learn a great deal from him, mostly how to become mature. Accept his offer of friendship and start developing a dating interest in boys closer to your own age. (Distributed by Columbia Features, Inc.)

Elk City To Host Net Tourney

ELK CITY, Okla. — Pampa-area tennis players are invited to compete in the Ninth Annual Elk City Key Club Open Tennis Tournament June 29-30 here. The event is Western Oklahoma's largest tournament.
 Registration fees are as follows: $2.00 for players in Womens Doubles, $3.00 for players in Boys Singles (up to age 18), Boys Doubles, Mens Doubles and Mixed

So, the major league's top fielding second baseman of a year ago decided to stress offense this season and is finding the switch very satisfying. Grich, who made only five errors last season and set a major league fielding mark for second baseman of .995, is not doing as well in the field, having already made eight errors, but he's providing the kind of power at bat the Baltimore Orioles' management wants from him.
 Grich, who last year hit only 12 homers, cracked out three homers in one game Tuesday night, raising his season total to 11, in leading the Orioles to a 10-1 pasting of the Minnesota Twins. The homers gave Grich four in his last two games and increased his runs batted in total to 37, tying him for the club leadership with Tommy Davis.
 "I don't think about home-run power. I do think about extrabase power. I want to hit the ball hard enough to get those doubles and triples," said Grich. "I set goals at the beginning of the season of 15 home runs and to improve on the 50 rbi's I had last season. But it looks like I have to reestablish those now. Now I'm thinking in terms of 75 rbi's and to hit as many home runs as possible."
 In other AL games, Chicago downed Cleveland 7-3, Texas blanked Detroit 6-0, California whipped New York 3-0, Boston defeated Oakland 6-1 and Kansas City topped Milwaukee 7-0 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was postponed by rain.
 Pittsburgh blanked Los Angeles 2-0, Houston edged Philadelphia 1-0, Atlanta whipped New York 6-1, Montreal nipped Cincinnati 2-1, St. Louis downed San Francisco 3-0 and San Diego routed Chicago 9-4 in National League action.
White Sox 7, Indians 3
 The White Sox unloaded six home runs, including a pair each by Jorge Orta and Dick Allen, to help Jim Kaat to his 200th major league victory. Carlos May and Ken Henderson also homered for Chicago, while George Hendrick hit a pair for Cleveland.
Rangers 6, Tigers 0
 Jim Bibby tossed a two-hitter for his 10th victory in pitching the Rangers to victory over the Tigers. Bibby retired the first 12

Legion Team Visits Berger For 8:30 Tilt
 Pampa's American Legion Rebels will try to conquer a four-game victory drought as they travel to Berger for an 8:30 p.m. game today.
 The Rebels defeated Berger, 10-3, two weekends ago, the last time Pampa won a game. Since then, the team has lost to Hooker, Okla., Tascosa, Dumas and Amarillo High.
 In that win against Berger, Larry Petty was the winning pitcher. He will most likely be on the mound again tonight. Other probable starters are John Agan, catcher; Roy Morris, first base; Bobby Chance, second base; Steve Edwards, third base; Kory Gamblin or Mike Adair, shortstop; Tony Frogge, leftfield; Rick Smith, centerfield; and Robby Harris, rightfield.
 Mike Fraser will get the starting nod if Petty doesn't throw.
 As a team, Pampa is batting .231 with only five doubles, one triple and no home runs for the season.
 Morris is the team's leading hitter with seven hits in 14 trips for a .500 average, including two doubles and a triple. Chance is hitting .380, Frogge .294 and Petty .286.

Alexandria Nips Shreveport, 4-3, In Texas League
 United Press International
 Mike Ivie singled home the tying run in the bottom of the eighth and Mike Dupree drove in the winning run Tuesday night, giving Alexandria Manager Ken Bracey a 4-3 Texas League victory over Shreveport Tuesday night win in his first night on the job.
 Alexandria led 2-0 after the second by virtue of a two-run homer by catcher Joe Goddard, his third of the season. Shreveport went ahead 3-2 in the sixth on four singles and a two-run double by Dave Lindsey.
 But the Aces pulled it out with two runs in the eighth on three singles and an error. Ivie's single scored Duane Larson to make the score 3-3 and Dupree's single scored Jerry Turner with the winning run.
 Greg Zale (2-1) was the winning pitcher.
 In other league games, Victoria dumped Arkansas 5-1, El Paso nudged Amarillo 4-2 and Midland and San Antonio were not scheduled.

Pampa CC To Sponsor Net Classes

Hockey Players Agree Not To Play 2 Series

TORONTO (UPI) — National Hockey League players say they do not plan to play in either the proposed Canada-Russia eight-game series or the NHL-world Hockey Association 15-game exhibition series.
 Alan Eagleson, executive director of the NHL Players' Association, made the announcements Tuesday after a meeting between the players and four NHL club owners.
 Eagleson told reporters both the NHL and the players' association have rejected overtures from the WHA to join the Canadian team which is scheduled to meet the Soviets for eight games in September.
 He said the WHA has made specific approaches to Boston Bruins stars Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito and possibly to Philadelphia goal tender Bernie Parent to join the team.

 "We don't think we are obliged to take part just to roll out the flag," Eagleson said. "We wish the WHA every success nevertheless."
 He said the owners and players might reconsider their decision if the timing and structure of the proposed series were changed.
 He mentioned a "World Cup structure" as being preferable to the eight-game series. The players want to play only at mid-season or after the Stanley Cup playoffs in the spring.

 "The players are fearful of the timing," Eagleson said. "They have already had a bad experience

Court Upholds Military Codes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today upheld by a 5-3 vote the section of the Uniform Code of Military Justice making it a criminal offense to engage in "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman." The court also upheld another section of the code, dating back to colonial America which defines as criminal offenses "all disorders and neglects to the prejudice of good order and discipline in the armed forces and all conduct of a nature to bring discredit upon the armed forces." Justice William H. Rehnquist delivered the court's opinion with Justices William O. Douglas, Potter Stewart and William J. Brennan Jr. dissenting. Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate. The provisions of the military code were used against Capt. Howard B. Levy, a Brooklyn dermatologist who refused to train Army medics for Vietnam duty and a Marine Corps private Mark Avrech, convicted by court martial for attempting to publish an antiwar statement while in Vietnam. Levy was convicted under both articles. Both convictions had been set aside by lower federal courts. The Uniform Code of Military Justice is the body of law governing conduct in the armed services. Its provisions and the way it is administered differ in a number of respects from civilian law. Retired Supreme Court

McLean Plans Jubilee Event

MCLEAN — To be held in conjunction with the McLean 66 Roundup and Rodeo on June 20-22, the McLean Derby Town Jubilee Association is sponsoring a picnic at McLean City Park June 22 from 4-8 p.m. An afternoon of music and entertainment is planned, which will include some area talent in the field of country and western music. We like to think of our Rodeo and jubilees as versions of the Big D jamboree, the Louisiana Hayride and the Grand Ole Opry all rolled into one and it is our belief that anyone who is a country and western music fan will certainly enjoy visiting with us here in McLean for the Jubilee and Rodeo. George Terry of the Association said. The public is invited to bring a picnic lunch and to attend the picnic before the Rodeo that night.

Gray Generator Aiding Industry

By FRANK BAIN The first new approach to steam generation in 200 years is the way Gray Company Enterprises, Inc. of Dallas, describes its "Gray Vapor Generator." Of special interest to the Pampa area is the fact that one use of the new concept is being carried out on a few miles south of here on an oil lease where the vapor generator is utilized in surface cleaning of pipe. This marks the first time anywhere the one-year-old firm has employed its revolutionary process in surface or "hot oil" cleaning of pipe. Company officials are hopeful that this will mark the opening of a new use for their versatile vapor generator, which is billed as "virtually noiseless, odorless and pollution free." It has already been utilized in many branches of industry. The Gray generator consists of two hollow metal tubes secured on either end by metal plates. The inside chamber creates super-hot steam by heating water through the burning of a propane and butane mixture. Steam is forced by the inherent pressure through the generator's lower plate and into whatever type of turbine or steam nozzle is being used. Of added interest to Pampa is the fact that many of Gray's company officers are Pampa natives. These include Bill Gray, who invented the new generator and presides over planning for the firm; Bob Meador, who heads operations; Perry Thompson, director of special projects; Dan Foster, director of media relations; and Mickey Miller, research and development. John Spence, director of marketing, is from White Deer. In looking to the future, these company officials see their special generator as opening the door to "almost unlimited" use of steam. This would include steam for turning large electrical generators; for cleaning industrial machinery; and for powering automobiles, trains, boats and airplanes. But perhaps most important, at least in this

Sen. McGovern Proposes New Food Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., today proposed a new $20 billion a year international food effort — "Plowshares for Peace" — to prevent mass starvation among the world's hungry. He also called on President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger to "place the great world food and population problems at the top of their agenda" in their travels through the Middle East, Western Europe and the Soviet Union. McGovern's proposal came at the opening of three days of Senate hearings on developing a national nutrition policy. He is chairman of the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs. Although the plight of America's hungry, including those forced to eat dog and cat food for lack of money, will be examined at the hearings, the major focus will be on international food and population problems and the U.S. role in alleviating them. Dr. Jean Mayer, the Harvard nutritionist who organized the Senate hearings as he did the 1969 White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, made that clear at a Senate reception Tuesday night. "We meet now in the shadow of an international crisis which has perilled the food supply of hundreds of millions of people throughout the world," Mayer said. He included soaring world population, depleted fishing beds, rising food consumption among the affluent, low grain reserves and sub-Saharan drought among the factors threatening "higher (food) prices for us and great misery abroad." McGovern said Plowshares for Peace could be the beginning of a great American initiative for the 1970s and beyond.

Businessmen Considering Korean Labor Possibility

A group of businessmen met yesterday afternoon with representatives of two employment agencies to discuss the possibilities of bringing Korean skilled labor to the Pampa area. William S. Chang, president of Pan Asia Employment Agency of Falls Church, Va., and W.H. Voyles, general manager of Beck and Voyles Ltd. of Oklahoma City, explained basic details of their services. Korean labor, they stated, is now being brought into the U.S. through the H-2 Visa plan. The visa is good for two years and may be renewed. Only skilled labor is eligible to be brought in under the present laws, according to Chang. The employment agency, he explained, would handle all details of the transaction without obligation to the local employer other than to guarantee a job for the applicant when they arrive here. Some interest was shown in the program by officials of several local companies who expressed hope something could be worked out to provide additional labor needed by some firms here. Any local business concerns interested in the program may contact Beck & Voyles Ltd. in Oklahoma City or William S. Chang at the Pan Asia Employment Agency, 5881 Leesburg Pike, Suite 202, Falls Church, Va. 22041.

4 Men Found Shot To Death

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (UPI) — Four men were shot to death early today at the Wills Camp mining community and their bodies left on railroad tracks about four miles west of here. "It was a massacre with a 30-caliber carbine rifle," said Doug Campbell, chief deputy sheriff for Bell County, Ky. "The four victims had a total of 21 wounds, and one had been shot five times in the back and in the head." Campbell said authorities hoped to make an arrest later today, but he would divulge no information about the suspect they were seeking. He said there was evidence that a beer-drinking party had been going on at the site where the four men were killed. Police were dispatched to the scene after a phone call early this morning reporting screams and several gunshots. Campbell said.

Soviets Confirm Zhukov's Death

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union confirmed today the death of Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, its greatest hero of World War II, and said his funeral will be held Friday. Zhukov died Tuesday afternoon in a Kremlin hospital at age 77, but official confirmation came only today when the Defense Ministry informed foreign military attaches. The official Soviet news agency Tass afterward carried a nine-word bulletin announcing the death of Zhukov, who won stunning victories at the gates of Moscow but fell from power in the inner chambers of the Kremlin. Unofficial Soviet sources reported his death a day before the official agencies. The sources said Zhukov, the man some historians called the "Eisenhower of Russia" for his successful defense of Moscow and capture of Berlin, died Tuesday afternoon at the Kremlin hospital after suffering a heart attack. He had been hospitalized since December, a short time after making his last known public appearance at the funeral of his 47-year-old second wife who died of cancer. During Zhukov's stormy career, the military planner climbed to the upper reaches of power in the Soviet Union. But he was denounced as a coward by dictator Josef V. Stalin after his stunning World War II victories. The late Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev rehabilitated Zhukov as defense minister but then fired him a three months later for "Bonapartism." Born Dec. 2, 1896, in a peasant village in central Russia, the 5-foot-6-inch, blue-eyed Zhukov rose quickly through the ranks of senior Soviet officers thinned by the Stalinist purges. He became chief of staff in 1941 when Nazi forces were bled in the Russia's Western front. In addition to routing the Nazis from Moscow in 1941 and capturing Berlin in 1945, he had a key role in virtually every major battle involving the Red Army. But after the war, Stalin banished him to obscure military posts, apparently out of jealousy over his popularity. After Stalin's death, Zhukov came back to prominence and was named defense minister. He was dismissed for "violating Leninist principles concerning the administration of the armed forces," apparently reflecting Khrushchev's fear that the military was becoming too powerful in the government.

Arthritis Fund Victory March Drive Continues

Contributions from Gray County residents to the local 1974 fund drive of the Arthritis Foundation have reached $2913.29 to date, according to Mrs. Marian Jameson, campaign chairman. "We're right on target," Mrs. Jameson said. "We have heard from very few of those who live outside the city to whom we mailed letters, but are still receiving small amounts from the Victory March. We hope to raise an additional $500 before the campaign closes June 25." "The Pampa Community as a whole is really responding to our appeal," Mrs. Jameson added. "This will enable the West Texas Chapter to continue its services for the children and adults in the area who are victims of arthritis. And it's also vital for us to keep supporting local and national research efforts to conquer the nation's No. 1 Crippler." Mrs. Jameson said support from community groups and organizations has given this year's campaign a big boost. The Altrusa club of Pampa adopted this project about three years ago and other groups assisted them in the Victory March this year. "Without their willingness to help the campaign could not have been so near completion this year," she said. Genevieve Henderson, Gray County chairman of the Arthritis Foundation today urged all residents who have not yet given to send contributions to the Arthritis Foundation, P.O. Box 1915, Pampa, Texas. "If you were away when our victory marchers called at your home, we hope you will mail in the 'Sorry You Were Out' envelope along with a contribution," Mrs. Henderson said. "Persons who did not receive an envelope during the Victory March or by mail, call 669-6854 or 665-3303 and you will be sent one, or your contribution picked up."

Striking Nurses Threaten Emergency Room Duties

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Striking nurses, accusing hospitals of "misusing our goodwill," have threatened to reduce the number of nurses assigned to emergency rooms and intensive care units during the walkout now in its 13th day. Officials of the California Nurses Association said Tuesday night that a decision would probably be made today after a survey of the 41 struck hospitals in the San Francisco Bay Area and Sacramento. A CNA spokesman said he had reliable reports strikers, working under a voluntary agreement on a rotation basis, were being used in the critical hospital areas to free supervisory personnel to perform "unnecessary" duties. He said, "The hospitals are misusing our goodwill." About 4,400 nurses were on the picket lines. However, the hospitals were operating at only a 50 per cent patient population, and there were no serious problems reported. A pivotal issue in the strike was a demand by CNA that nurses be allowed to participate in the staffing decisions at the hospitals. The hospitals said this was the responsibility of doctors and the administrations themselves. Negotiations under the guidance of the state Conciliation Service were broken off the past weekend with no new date set for further bargaining. However, state Industrial Relations Director Ed White Tuesday sent telegrams to both sides asking for an immediate resumption of talks. Representatives of the hospital associations rejected a three-pronged proposal from the CNA for settlement of the strike. The hospitals said the proposal was "unnecessary, time consuming, counterproductive and unacceptable."

Train Derails At River Bed

VEGA, Tex. (UPI) — The caboose and last four cars of a Burlington Northern freight train jumped the tracks 27 miles northwest of Vega Tuesday night and slid down a 75-foot embankment into a river bed. Two men in the caboose were seriously injured. They were brakeman James Rogers and conductor Lee Lowrance, both of Amarillo. They were under treatment in an Amarillo hospital. The railroad was looking for the cause of the derailment.

Rhodes Welcomes Report Of Beef, Pork Purchase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leader John Rhodes, who is seeking ways to get livestock prices up without increasing the cost of meat in groceries, says he welcomes news of a $100 million government purchase of beef and pork. Rhodes appears before the House Agriculture Committee today to ask the lawmakers to "do whatever they can to give relief and keep cattlemen from bankruptcy." In an interview before his appearance, Rhodes praised Tuesday's announcement that the Agriculture Department has White House approval to buy up to $100 million in beef and pork for donation to schools as "a lifeline for cattlemen... just the kind of action they need." The purchase, said Agriculture Department experts, might not by itself be enough to lift cattle prices significantly, although it might provide a psychological lift. White House economic counselor Kenneth Rush said Tuesday, that the purchases for school donation would probably have been made later in the year but making them this summer is a matter of timing — filling the school orders when live cattle are low and the government can get a good buy.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Ed resented the fact that girls regard him as stodgy and lacking in a good sense of humor. He didn't even realize they also considered him egotistical to a fault and miserly. Yet 4 girls jilted him, despite his millionaire status!

CASE A-663. Ed F., aged 41, is a bachelor. Dr. Crane, he grumbled, "I've been enrolled for 6 months in the Scientific Marriage Foundation."

"And I have been introduced during that time to several attractive girls."

"But I don't seem to hit it off very well with any of them, though I am a graduate engineer and very wealthy."

"So I finally persuaded the last girl to rate me on your famous 'Tests for Sweethearts.'"

"But what griped me the most was her comment that I have no sense of humor and am also tactless and self-centered."

"Dr. Crane, why should a girl be so concerned with a man's having a good sense of humor?"

WHY HUMOR?

When a girl says she likes a man with a good sense of humor, she isn't referring to Bob Hope wisecracks.

Nor to the vulgar, pornographic stories that men often tell when they are in the locker room at the Country Club or half drunk at a formal dinner party.

A sense of humor, from the woman's viewpoint, means a well-balanced social outlook that permits him to laugh at his own foibles.

It involves a well-balanced personality instead of the intense egotist or Hitler megalomaniac.

Also implied in that idea of "Humor" is the fact that he doesn't make a scene over trivial flaws and mistakes in other people, or his own children.

On Monday I referred to True Magazine's survey of career women concerning their attitude toward men.

And for the personality traits they deemed most attractive in a man, they listed: (1) Sensitivity, and (2) Sense of humor, in that order.

As you can readily perceive, those career women picked Siamese Twin attributes for "Sensitivity" and "Humor" are closely related.

Unless a man is socially well oriented to human personality and thus has a deft understanding of what is appropriate vs. inappropriate, he can't see anything out of order in a faux pas or ridiculous act.

So a topnotch humorist, like Bob Hope, must be a superb Applied Psychologist.

A hermit miser, like Silas Marner, would not be expected to have a sense of humor.

Nor would Robinson Crusoe.

And bachelors, who have remained aloof from the main stream of human relationships, thus are often akin to Silas Marner.

In fact, one of the girls that Ed had dated, wrote a note to the home office, saying:

"He is the stingiest and most egotistical man I have ever met in my entire life!"

Yet Ed never dreamed he was violating the social code or acting miserly, for a Silas Marner never sees himself as a penny-pincher.

The intense egotist thus looks out at life through what I call a one-way street and can't imagine that other people regard him in possibly a different light than he views himself.

People who are sensitive and thus with a sense of humor, employ the two-way street outlook.

Ed, for example, would see nothing laughable in a recent Public Utility leaflet with some humorous items therein, such as:

"The length of a minute depends on which side of the bathroom door you're standing on."

Send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write in Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Mellett, Indiana 47550. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Buyer's Billboard

By MICHAEL J. CONLON WASHINGTON (UPI) — Should you buy no-lead gasoline for your car?

The question is pertinent because many service stations are already offering such gas. By July 1, under new federal regulations, it should be available to motorists in about 110,000 stations across the country.

That figures out to about two in every three stations in an area, and roughly every other station in rural sections, according to estimates from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Stations are being required to carry the gas because 1975 model cars — which will start appearing in showrooms in September — won't run on anything else without destroying their expensive new exhaust control devices. To force the issue, these new cars will be equipped with smaller necks in the intake line under the gas cap which will fit only narrow-neck nozzles on the new no-lead gas pumps.

But the new nozzles obviously will fit older cars with the standard intakes, so the question comes back to whether the driver should try no-lead gas.

The answer is that you can, in general, if your car is a 1971 model or later, up through the current '74 models. Earlier models have high compression engines requiring gasoline with more octane than the no-lead gas has.

Even that is not a hard and fast rule, however. Chrysler turned out some models in 1971 and 1972 which required an occasional tank of leaded gas to keep the engine running properly. In addition, cars tend to develop their own octane appetites with prolonged use. If there's any doubt, consult your owner's manual and your own experience.

"Regular" gas contains lead, incidentally, though not as much as "premium." The octane rating of most no-lead gasoline will be about 87 under the formula now being used on those stickers placed on the face of gas pumps. That level of octane, in general, is not sufficient for pre-'71 model cars.

There is also the matter of price to consider in no-lead gasoline. The EPA estimates it will cost about five cents more than regular. The industry thinks it will be more like two or three cents.

If an oil company is not now turning out no-lead gas, government rules allow it to charge up to the price of premium for the product once it starts offering it. Some companies already carrying it, however, are not charging premium-equivalent prices, so it is possible the pressures of the marketplace will keep the price below that of premium.

One final point: The automobile industry has been worried that people will shy away from buying '75 models because they may fear no-lead gas will be hard to find, particularly in rural areas. The EPA doesn't think there will be much of a problem. That remains to be seen, but experts believe drivers of '75 models will be able to use a few gallons of leaded gas in a pinch without ruining the anti-pollution device. And both EPA and the automobile industry seem to agree that next year's models will get quite a few more miles to the gallon on no-lead fuel than those of the current or past few years because of the switch to the new exhaust control device.

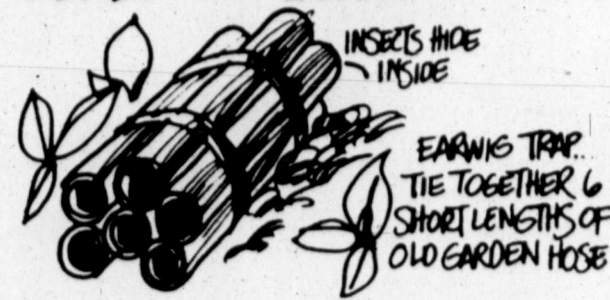

In the hints for the helpless department, one appliance manufacturer recommends dumping an occasional tray of ice cubes through your garbage disposer, and grinding them up with it, of course, to keep the blades sharp. Bones apparently do the same thing.

We'll be happy to try to answer consumer questions or solve problems. While we can't promise to answer every letter, we'll do our best. Let us know care of Buyers Billboard, UPI, 315 National Press Building, Washington DC 20003.

Tech To Host Forensics Workshop

LUBBOCK—To speak is common. To speak well is uncommon—an art to be learned in high school forensics and, in summertime, at the Texas Tech University High School Forensics Workshop.

The workshop scheduled for July 21-Aug. 1 this year is the 23rd at Texas Tech, and it will feature lecture, study and performance sessions in debate and in extemporaneous speaking and oral interpretation.

The workshop debate topic will be the same as the 1974-75 Texas high school debate topic.

In addition, high school teachers may enroll for credit in a workshop which begins July 15 and then runs concurrently with the students' workshop. Speech Prof. Vernon R. McGuire is director of the workshops. He holds both regional and national "coach-of-the-year" designations.

Applications should be addressed to McGuire and accompanied by a $10 deposit. The total cost of the high school workshop is $25 as a general fee and room and board in a university residence hall at approximately $80.

Tuition scholarships are awarded some eligible students who have won first place in any regional or state Interscholastic League speech contest during the past year. Workshop enrollment is limited to 50 students.

Lecture sessions are devoted to research methods, analysis of debate propositions, the development of arguments and delivery.

Afternoon sessions are for small groups of students who apply what they have learned in lectures under the direction of instructors.

Performance sessions will culminate on the final day of the workshop with a four-round tournament. Those enrolled in extemporaneous speaking and oral interpretation will have similar sessions, but their final performance may be participation in readers' theater production or individual participation in the debate tournament.

Dr. Vera Simpson of the speech and theater arts faculty will direct this portion of the workshop.

McGuire said the teachers' workshop emphasizes problems encountered in directing school speech activities.

This workshop is closely integrated with the high school workshop," he said, "and it allows the teachers to observe afternoon work sessions of the high school students."

Inquiries concerning the course for teachers should be directed to Dr. William J. Jordan, graduate director in Speech Communication Department of Speech and Theater Arts, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Tex. 79409.

Television Notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Diana Gould, who wrote the script for ABC's "I Love You, Goodbye," a

"Tuesday Movie of the Week" presentation this season, received a $10,000 cash award in the Second Annual Television Population Script Awards competition. The top prize was not awarded in the first year of the award.

Dropped by NBC on a daily network basis, Dinah Shore next season will work for CBS as host of a daily 90-minute program for the network's five owned stations. It is likely that her show will be syndicated to other stations around the country.

Who else but Roddy McDowall would you expect to see as a star of the television series "Planet of the Apes" on CBS next season? McDowall, of course, was outstanding in the series of theater "Apes" movies on which the video program is based.

The Hughes Television Network will be deep in pro football during the coming season. From NFL Films, a subsidiary of the National Football League, it has ac-

Good Fences Make Good Neighbors, Add To Value

NEW YORK (UPI) — Good fences make good neighbors. They also add to the value of a house and to its livability.

Along with the time honored reasons for erecting fences, such as boundary definition, safety and protection, the right fence can do any number of other jobs.

A fence, of course, will protect children, keeping your own where you can watch them, and keeping those outside the family from prized garden areas, or out of the swimming pool. It will also help control pets — yours and the neighbors.

The right fence can make outdoor areas an extension of the home, give privacy, screen unwanted views, shelter from too strong breezes and help reduce noise from adjacent busy streets.

Fencing can be substituted for curbs and edgings, serve as a retaining wall, a storage wall, a planter, shadow box, a screen, a railing for steps and in place of a trellis, it can be combined with a deck, a gazebo or screened pavilion to add an outdoor living room.

There is fencing to suit any purpose, any home. In wooden fencing, styles range from traditional picket or post-and-rail types to stylized board designs and woven screen fencing in a variety of heights. Modern wood fencing is treated to prevent attack by insects and decay organisms and insure long life. It may be left natural, stained or painted. It can be custom-made or purchased in pre-built sections.

Pointers

The Southern Forest Products Association, New Orleans, offers some pointers on fence planning. First, it recommends, be sure the type of fence you plan meets local zoning requirements. The most common limitation is the height to which it can be built along a property line. In some areas, swimming pools are required by law to be fenced. Check to make sure the fence you plan meets all requirements. Check, too, if you are planning a boundary fence, that limits are clear. You may want to have a survey made or rechecked.

The best answer to a possible problem with neighbors, the association says, is to build a "good neighbor" fence — one that looks the same from either side. Ideally, neighbors can share the work and costs of building such a fence on the property line. If there is no agreement, however, build the fence inside your line. If there is any chance of disagreement, be sure it is far enough inside to allow for installation and maintenance without encroaching on the neighbor's property.

In planning a fence, the association suggests, first stake out locations with twine about a foot above ground over the exact route it will follow. Mark corner post positions. Right angles may be checked by measuring three feet along one string and four feet along another. Then, if the diagonal distance between the two points is five feet, you have a true right angle. Corners also can be trued with a carpenter's square.

Setting Posts

Fence posts generally should be set with one-third of their length underground. If practical, holes should be dug an extra six inches deep and the space filled with gravel to facilitate drainage. Tops of posts can be peaked to shed water.

To obtain an evenly topped fence, each post must be set to the exact depth indicated by a level or straightedge held across the posts. Follow the contour of sloping ground by setting each post to the same depth. Brace posts plumb while backfilling, using a string on two adjacent sides. Level should be extended between corner posts to keep other posts in line while setting.

Dear Abby

His lady love is a night call girl

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I met and fell in love with the most beautiful girl I've ever seen. She liked me, too, and soon she was staying with me, cooking my meals and taking care of my apartment. It seemed like an ideal setup, but there is just one problem: she works days in a massage parlor, and is a call girl at night.

She makes more in one night than I make in a whole week, but she never has any money because she likes to gamble, and she gives ten per cent of her earnings to the church.

Is there any way I can get her to quit taking those calls at night? She says she loves me, but she can't live on what I make. A FOOL IN LOVE

DEAR FOOL: [You said it, I didn't.] So your lady love works in a massage parlor by day and is a call girl by night? When does she work you in? I'm afraid it's hopeless, unless you can make more, or she agrees to settle for less.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a peculiar one. I've been dating a very special young lady for the past two months. She is perfect in every way except for her elbows. They have got to be the ugliest matching pair I have ever seen. I've never mentioned this to her, but she must be aware of it because she keeps them hidden by long sleeves when possible.

I've met her parents only once and they both seem to have normal elbows so it's not hereditary. Could she have developed those ugly elbows through drug abuse? Or could she have had a vitamin deficiency when she was young?

I wouldn't hurt her feelings by asking her what happened to her elbows because I love her, but I wonder if you can tell me anything that might shed some light on the subject. NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST

DEAR NAME: It's entirely possible that the young lady's elbows are perfectly normal—it's your concept of ugliness that's far-out. As long as they bend in the right places and you say she is otherwise perfect and you love her, why not accept her as she is—elbows and all? I trust that you are a perfectly flawless man.

DEAR ABBY: I am 41 and my boyfriend is 43. We've gone together for six months, and have been considering marriage. We've both been married and divorced. I have worked for 23 years and have some money in the bank. Probably more than he has.

Out of curiosity mostly, I asked him if I could borrow $200. He said, "Yes, but you will have to sign a note." When I showed surprise, he added, "It wouldn't matter if it was my sister or brother. When it comes to money, I want a note."

I couldn't get over his attitude. Then I told him I really didn't need the money. I just wanted to see how he'd handle it, and he said I should write to you and get your opinion. So I'm writing. CORKY

DEAR CORKY: I'm with him. A loan is a business deal, and he sounds like a hard-nosed businessman. I'll bet a lot more people regret not having asked for a note than regret having asked for one.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CRYING A RIVER IN BUFFALO": Believe him. It's all over. I think you gave too much. There's nothing for him to come back for.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Altrusa Club met at noon June 11, in Coronado Inn, with Mrs. C.L. Sullins, president, presiding. Reports of various committees were given.

Mrs. Jerry L. Blakemore, organizer of the "door to door" march for arthritis was recognized.

Mrs. Rene Bell Anderson introduced Mrs. R.J. Sailor of White Deer, guest speaker, who spoke on "Spin-offs From the Space Age." The preparation for her talk was inspired by a newspaper article by Paul Harvey. Thirty-six members and guests were present.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In today's deal, our South declarer played his game contract in the hope that East was the possessor of a specific key card; and by playing the hand as he did, he failed to fulfill his contract. When the post-mortem analysis took place, it was revealed that South had made the mistake of putting all his eggs in one basket.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

After winning the opening lead with the diamond queen, South cashed the ace and king of diamonds, hoping that West had led from a three-card suit, and that the six adversely-held diamonds were divided 3-3. If such had been the set-up, dummy's fourth diamond would have become declarer's game-going trick. But this hope ended when East discarded a spade on the third diamond lead.

Declarer then turned his attention to the club suit, indulging in the 50-50 hope that East had been dealt the club king. He led the deuce of clubs to dummy's ace, after which he returned the club four, playing his queen on East's eight-spot. When West captured this lead with the king, all hope for declarer had vanished. At the conclusion of play, declarer had only the eight winning tricks with which he had started.

Declarer's play of the club suit was incorrect. After cashing his three top diamonds, he should have led a low club, and permitted West's nine to have captured the trick. When he regained the lead, he would next play another low club to dummy's ace. As is evident, he would have caught West's king. The queen of clubs would now have become declarer's game-going trick.

By playing the hand as recommended, declarer would make his ninth trick whenever West had been dealt the doubleton K-x of clubs. By adopting the line of play of giving away the initial club lead, declarer would be taking out insurance (at no cost) against West having been dealt the K-x of clubs. And if it turned out that East was the possessor of the club king, then the contract would still be made by taking the second club lead with dummy's ace and leading the dummy's remaining club. And even if West had the club king, the contract would be made if the adversely-held clubs were divided 3-3.

Pamela Klein Becomes Bride Of William Rogers

Miss Pamela Sue Klein became the bride of William James Rogers of Canyon Saturday, June 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Chester A. Klein, 1136 Sirroco and the late Odessa E. Klein. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Fuller of Ellinwood, Kan. and the late William C. Rogers.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. Ralph Palmer, pastor, officiated for the double ring ceremony. A three-arched candelabrum with pink candles, accented with lemon leaves, and two large urns, filled with pink gaidioli and large daisies, decorated the front of the church. Large pink satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. John Gill, organist, played various wedding selections and Sally Ruster, Borger sang "Twelfth of Never" and "Wedding Song."

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress made of sheer white dotted Swiss with small hearts scattered through the cloth. The skirt was styled in three tiers, with each tier gathered and sleeves were puffed and fitted starting at the middle upper arm. The dress was accented with a square neckline and an empire waist. Sleeves, tiers and the waist were trimmed with white flowers.

One tier of her two-tiered veil rested on her shoulder while the other fell to her waist. Her headpiece, of sheer material was tied in a bow and accented with streamers of flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations, pink bridal roses and tiny white flowers intermixed atop a Bible decorated with long pink streamers.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Mary Washington of Canyon served as maid of honor while bridesmaids were Mrs. Jim Bonnell of Ulysses, Kan. and Mrs. David Callison of Pampa. Flower girls were Debbie Collins of Rush Center, Kan. and Jane Klein of Midland. Both are nieces of the bride.

Bridal attendants were attired in hot pink sheer dotted Swiss dresses with Empire waists, square necklines, three-tiered skirts and puffed sleeves. The flower girls' dresses were enhanced by a ruffle around the bottom with white lace trim. They carried cascades of variegated pink and white carnations with long pink satin streamers.

Serving as best man was Dennis Boepple of Ulysses, Kan. Groomsmen were Ron Klein, Canyon, brother of the bride, and Alan Armstrong of Canyon. Ushers were Rod Rogers, brother of the bridegroom of Salina, Kan. and Jim Tilger, Canyon.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the church parlor, the bridal table was decorated with a silver punch bowl, tray and the bride's bouquet. Two silver candelabra holding pink candles and silver trays holding pink heart mints enhanced the table. The three-tiered wedding cake was accented with pillars between the layers and a fresh flower arrangement on the top of pink carnations. The cake was further decorated with pink roses.

Linette Rogers and Paula Rogers, sisters of the bridegroom, Ellinwood, Kan., assisted at the punch bowl while Janelle Rogers, sister of the bridegroom, Ellinwood, served cake. Guests were registered by Ann Washington of Oklahoma City, Okla. and Sandra Vance of Pampa played various musical selections.

For the wedding trip to Six Flags Over Texas, Dallas and Fort Worth, the bride wore a pink double knit A-line dress and lifted the corsage from the bridal bouquet.

They will make their home at 708 17th St. in Canyon.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride will be a senior student at West Texas State University and the bridegroom is a graduate student at WTSU.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored with a bridal shower in Rush

Center, Kan., hosted by her relatives.

Another shower, held at the First Christian Church, was hosted by the women of the church.

Cynthia Mackey-Phillip Cox

Mr. and Mrs. W.K. Mackey, 952 Terry Rd., announce the marriage of their daughter, Cynthia, to Phillip Owen Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Lee Cox of Stinnett. Nuptial vows were exchanged Saturday, June 8 in the chapel of First Presbyterian Church, Pampa. Dr. Bob Stalcup, pastor, officiated for the ceremony. After a short wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will reside in Dumas.

Vitamins—In The Age Of 'Supernutrition'

COLLEGE STATION — "If a few vitamins are good, then lots of vitamins must be better" has been said more than once.

"It's just not true," one foods and nutrition expert says — "Too many vitamins don't make you healthier — they might even be harmful."

AERIAL TRAMWAY CASCADE LOCKS, Ore. (UPI) — A spectacular aerial tramway may be constructed in Oregon's scenic Columbia River Gorge near this small community east of Portland.

The tramway would rise from a terminal south of Interstate Highway 80-N upward for one and one-quarter miles to a 3,212-foot ridge. The Federal Office of Economic Development has approved a $1.25 million grant to the Port of Cascade Locks to aid construction of the tramway. The port is providing $71 million for the project, final design plans of which must receive port and U.S. Forest Service approval.

She's Sally Springer, foods and nutritionist specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Fat-soluble vitamins A, D, E and K are stored in the body and excess amounts taken for an extended time may be toxic," the specialist warned.

Because of this danger, the Food and Drug Administration has limited the amount of vitamins A and D supplements sold across the counter, she added.

"If a person restricts his diet to specific foods and takes supplemental vitamins over an extended time, toxic symptoms of certain vitamins may appear," she continued.

"Water-soluble vitamins — C and B-complex — do not stockpile in the body — so excess amounts of these do neither good nor harm. The body simply doesn't use them."

"Good nutrition in our age of supernutrition comes from eating a wide variety of foods every day. Excess vitamins don't help your health," the specialist concluded.

Source Of Foreign Aid

President Nixon's proposal for $5.18 billion in foreign aid will be hard for many Americans to understand. In the first place, this country doesn't have the money. The budget is a deficit budget. In the second place, some people do not know whom the funds will aid. About $250 million is slated to go to Egypt for clearance of the Suez Canal. This waterway connects the Mediterranean Sea with the Indian Ocean. As the Soviet has built up sea power in the Mediterranean, it will now have access to the warm waters that border Iran. That country, by the way, is non-Arabian oil source for this country. And it so happens that the Soviet is well-equipped with submarines. Years ago, it telegraphed its oceanic designs by preparing marine maps that chart the prevailing current for every water inlet on the globe. (If the Arabs wish to return the Suez to navigation, they have their own dollars to achieve that.) The Nixon proposal cuts in Israel for $350 million. This is in addition to the $2.2 billion that Congress voted earlier. We do not understand why Congress and the President do not admit Israel as the 51st State in the Union. It would be cheaper. Mr. Nixon allots $75 million for that veteran

Inferior Judging

The difference between blame and credit is very slight. If you blame your woes on some other person, the chances are you are adding more importance to him than he actually has. For, as often as not, some decision of our own led to the circumstance in which we find ourselves. Back up the road a piece, we consciously took a turn or unconsciously wandered into a turn that proved out to be the wrong way. Political coercion by some upon others excepted, seldom does one run afoul of ill-fate without his volition. Having been mixed up in it somewhere. Have you been defrauded? What part did your own greed make you a likely prey for fraud? Did you rely upon a false friend for advice? Was it rather that you preferred to let someone else carry the burden of your thinking? Blame of others leads to self pity instead of self-examination, to immobility instead of improvement, to moral defeat instead of victory. To admit one's own foolishness when such has been the case is to become less the fool.

OUTRIDER Watergate Is An Education

By GARRY WILLS
An impeachment trial in the Senate is not like any other kind of trial. Granted, it serves various purposes for people on all sides to play down its unique nature now. Senators, for instance, who don't want to commit themselves on anything having to do with Mr. Nixon, adopt a gag rule of their own making and for their own convenience — they say they should not comment ahead of time in a case where they may be sitting as jurors. ("Senator, do you think burglars should be dispatched from the White House? Well, I want to be perfectly fair to any burglar who might stand trial before the Senate.") Mr. St. Clair also likes to treat the trial as a criminal one, so he can claim all the rights guaranteed to a criminal defendant — rights Mr. Nixon vaguely promised to hedge and renege in his 1968 campaign. No doubt he is glad he could only imperfectly keep that promise. Another reason the President wants to treat a Senate trial as a criminal one is to narrow the possible grounds for impeachment to crimes in the strict statutory sense. But if Mr. Nixon actually gets to trial, he will change his strategy, and start stressing the differences between Senate trial and a criminal proceeding. For a very simple reason. In a normal trial, jurors determine questions of fact. Questions of law are settled for them by the judge. But that will not happen in the Senate. Although the Chief Justice must preside at such a trial, his function is that of the Vice President when he presides over the Senate. We have seen this whenever judges were impeached — the Vice President performed his normal function in the proceedings, and no one expected him to instruct senators from a judicial bench. The Chief Justice is brought into presidential impeachment because the likelihood of the Vice President's succeeding to the office of Chief Executive is being handled there, and for the Vice President to conduct the proceeding would be indicative. In a normal trial, a judge would instruct the jurors on the meaning of the legal offense — in this case, the meaning of "high crimes and misdemeanors." His ruling could be appealed in a higher court, but it could not be defied by the jurors. Not so with senators. They are both judges and jurors — that is how far the Senate trial differs from others. Each senator will decide points of law as well as of fact. That is exactly what happened in the Andrew Johnson trial. Senators differed on the nature of impeachable offenses right up to (and through) their verdict. Johnson received several of the key votes for acquittal from senators who were not sure that the counts in the bill of impeachment touched on high crimes and misdemeanors. Since the Johnson trial, scholarship has advanced on the background of the phrase "high crimes and misdemeanors," and a majority of the concerned legal scholars would admit far more latitude in this phrase than Mr. St. Clair would like. But in the Senate, at a trial, he would have to stress that each juror voting is also a judge, and must make up his own mind on this point of law, uninfluenced by any other legal opinion, even that of the presiding Chief Justice. Having performed this maneuver, Mr. St. Clair will have to reverse himself again if Mr. Nixon is convicted. He will emphasize once more the parallels between Senate trial and criminal trial, arguing for a review of the case by the Supreme Court. Never mind that the Chief Justice's very presence in the Senate indicates that the Constitution's framers did not envisage the case reappearing before him in his strictly judicial role. Never mind that judicial review if of points of law from the bench — and such points of law are not made in a Senate trial. Never mind that a judge's rulings are confirmed or reversed in review, and there will be no such rulings in the Senate, where there are 101 judges. The President's defenders have already stated that his conviction could be reviewed, and even reversed, by the high court.

INSIDE LABOR NEA Pushing Teacher Power

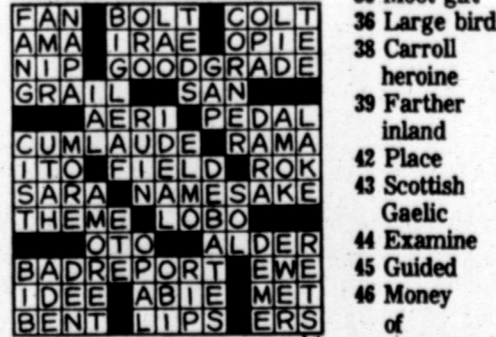

By VICTOR RIESEL
NEW YORK — Here a newly elected leader of a patrolmen's benevolent organization talks of turning it into a tough union. And in one suburb the cops suddenly got blue flu all together and a fire fighters union chief probably will go to prison for leading a short strike. So the headlines and TV camera crews swarm all over the place. But the spotlight should be in the great hall of the Hilton Hawaiian Village Convention Center in Honolulu. There, despite the vision of leis, alohas and ukuleles, a mighty aggressive proletariat has been meeting to develop strategy for unionizing millions of public workers and striking whole cities if need be. In that convention center have gathered public workers union delegates and their leaders — who may well be the hard core of labor power of the '80s. They've been listening to their rip-roaring oratorical 55-year-old militant leader Jerry Wurf, their president who in 10 years exactly has taken a tea-party municipal employees' union of less than 150,000 members and built it into a combative, hard-hitting sometimes city-crippling powerhouse of nearly 700,000 members. This union is the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), now the swiftest-growing union, now the kind of union the late Walter Reuther always thought he could build, now the challenger in the AFL-CIO, now the patron of the Coalition of Black Trade Unionists, led by AFSCME's secretary-treasurer Bill Lucy. Wurf, whose histrionic bite is far worse than his bark, is an irreverent iconoclast. He opened the union's 20th international convention the other day by challenging AFL-CIO chief of chiefs, George Meany, when he pointedly charged that while the AFSCME was growing rapidly the mother federation known as the AFL-CIO was "slipping organizationally." There was a second significant speech. It will be overlooked by all but a handful of insiders. It was delivered to the delegates by an ally of Wurf's, one Terry Herndon. This nation will be hearing much of Herndon, a tall, 35-year-old, soft-spoken, low-profiled chap who just about a year ago became chief executive officer (secretary) of the National Education Assn. (NEA). Make no mistake, this NEA isn't what it used to be. Neither is the teachers' field incidentally. They reckon there've been 1,000 teachers' strikes in recent years, at least. Under Herndon, the 1.5 million-member NEA is on the move. It is independent. But it is a union. And it expects to roll up to 2 million in a year. Herndon and Wurf are in tandem. Together they lead over 2.2 million public workers. Together they plan to lead their forces politically in scores of cities. Together they created something called the Coalition of American Public Employees — CAPE. They care little that CAPE doesn't always work in tandem with the AFL-CIO's COPE (Committee on Political Education). Wurf and Herndon's organization were in the McGovern vanguard in '72. And Wurf pointedly said in his talk that COPE and other labor organizations come around to his union for lessons in political action. "Young" Herndon, actually leader of the free world's biggest teachers organization which in size is second only to the Teamsters in the U.S., made it crystal clear that he and Wurf share the same political and organizational passions — and hates. Both Wurf and Shanker are national AFL-CIO vice presidents. Both are tough. Both are of the most sophisticated intellectual New York circles. But few plunge as hard as does Wurf. Shanker can shut down a school. Wurf, a city, Wurf isn't without powerful allies in the highest labor councils in and out of the AFL-CIO. So watch this fellow, his union and his pile-driving offensives — and you'll see American history in the making. (All Rights Reserved)

INSIDE WASHINGTON Nixon Trip Not Helping Passage Of Foreign Aid

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON — While President Nixon is busily striving to win friends and influence people abroad, there is no indication that's improving the congressional prospects of his holly embattled multi-billion dollar foreign aid program. Fate of that legislation is distinctly murky. At best, it's certain to be drastically pruned. And it's possible it could be junked entirely. It's not generally realized that on several occasions in the last few years, foreign aid measures narrowly escaped outright rejection in both the House and Senate. That could well happen this year — with the sullen and rebellious mood now generally prevailing in Congress. A key factor behind this possibility is that disillusionment and resentment at more large-scale foreign aid spending is widely bipartisan. Republicans and Democrats are up in arms and making no bones about it. Significantly illustrative is the critical attitude of Chairman Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, where the huge foreign aid budget is now pending. As reported in this column last week, Morgan, long a steadfast foreign aid supporter, is now openly voicing misgivings. "The American people have become highly skeptical about the value and usefulness of large-scale foreign aid spending," he bluntly told Secretary Kissinger when he appeared before the Committee to espouse the multi-billion dollar budget. "They're fed up with constantly lading out billions to countries all over the world with little, if anything, to show for it — with the possible ironic exception of India to whom we have given some $10 billion and which recently suddenly exploded a nuclear bomb with the utterly spurious announcement that it was for 'peaceful purposes.'" Startling Revelation Those unpublicized committee hearings already have produced one intriguing surprise. This is that the real total of the foreign aid program is upwards of $8 billion and not the announced $5.18 billion. Secretary Kissinger reluctantly conceded that under sharp grilling the State Department head was pinned down on that by Representative H.R. Gross, Iowa, ranking Republican committee member and long-time foe of foreign aid spending. Following is their significant discussion: Gross: How much will the total foreign aid bill really come to when you wrap it all up? Will it be around the same $13 billion we have actually been spending yearly for some time? Kissinger: Our estimate is that if everything is included, the total is around $8 billion. Gross: So what you are really asking for is an $8 billion program and not $5 billion. Kissinger: You are correct that the total bill, including military aspects and the financial institutions, is in the order of $8 billion. I want to make clear that I am supporting the entire package. Gross: Isn't it true that every other country that is participating in the clearing and rehabilitation of the Suez Canal has a string on the money they are spending? They expect to be repaid in one form or another. When the Canal is reopened, they will collect tolls, won't they? Kissinger: Some of the countries are tying their assistance to purchases in their countries. Gross: Is there any reason why we shouldn't participate in those tolls and be repaid over a period of time for the millions we are spending to reopen the Canal, rather than making it an outright gift. Kissinger: In future years, after the Canal is opened, it would be appropriate for us to give assistance in the form of loans. But at this time, in the terms of the needs of the situation, we felt that direct grants were essential. That was our decision, and we stand by it. It remains to be seen what Congress does about the $250 million earmarked for Egypt in the pending budget.

Narrow Escape

You are now aware of it because it was ignored by the media, but the House came within a hair of voting $10 million for something called "White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services." In fact, he only way this was averted was a technically that required a two-thirds majority for approval. Actually, this $10 million high-flown boondoggle mustered a majority vote — 223 to 147, with 63 not voting. But under the procedure it was considered, a two-thirds count was necessary and it failed that. During the brief floor discussion, it came out that this hefty boodle grab was approved last November by the Senate without a word of explanation or debate and by unanimous consent. In other words, it was routinely called up by the clerk and swished through as if it were a $10 measure instead of $10 million.

The story in the House was caustically different. Opposition was vehement and indignant. Legislators voiced outraged amazement at the amount being sought for the project. Some expressed outright disbelief. "How in the name of heaven," thundered Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, who spearheaded the opposition, "can anyone spend $10 million on this kind of a White House conference? I can't imagine such a conference draining taxpayers of $10 million. The report accompanying this scheme offers no justification. "I am utterly unable to understand how a committee of Congress would bring out this kind of resolution. With the federal debt nearing $500 billion, almost half a trillion dollars, it seems to me that the least we can do is to practice a little sanity and defeat this scheme. "With $10 million, at the rate of $500,000 each, this money would be enough to construct 20 libraries in cities throughout the country. If you want to do something for libraries, that's the way to spend the money and not appropriate $10 million for a White House conference on Libraries and Information Services."

H.L. Hunt Writes

LIFE AND CRIME IN RED CHINA

Newsman and journalists who visited Peking during and shortly after President Nixon's visit to Red China returned with glowing stories about life under Mao's regime. The glow has faded considerably with recent reports about violence and disorder in mainland China. The news stories after Nixon's visit told of peace and order in Red China. Now we are seeing purges, condemnations and propaganda attacks similar to those of the Great Cultural Revolution in the late 1960s. Chinese are being condemned for any number of imaginary crimes, such as sympathy for the philosophy of Confucius. Western culture also is under furious attack. The supposed low crime rate in Mao's China was also praised a few years ago. One Washington reporter informed his readers that there "is no crime problem in China." The Chinese government itself doesn't believe that. A dispatch carried in the Toronto Globe and Mail reports that "neighborhoods are being patrolled day and night by militia units," and there are posters on city walls "urging support for the fight against 'hooliganism.'" Chou En-lai has declared that "larceny is very common in every metropolitan and middle-sized city." The Chinese government is becoming increasingly worried about escapes from mainland China. In one seven-month period, 23,000 persons were arrested while trying to flee to Hong Kong and Macao. The brave people who try for freedom are ample evidence that mainland China is anything but a paradise.

Alcohol Abuser Can Recover If He Asks For Assistance

This article is part of a series on "The Progression of Alcoholism" produced by the Alcoholism Council of San Fernando Valley, Calif. The stories are made available locally by the TEXAS PANAHANDLE COMMUNITY Action Corporation.

Since alcoholism, in the vast majority of instances, is a progressive disease during which glaring warning signals are set up by the problem drinker's behavior, any abuser of alcohol can personally measure his patterns and determine for himself whether or not he has become a victim of this killer disease.

Once an alcoholic has accepted that fact and asked for help, he has a chance to recover.

This article describes some of the warning indications which point toward the fact that the problem drinker is making the transition into the state of an alcoholic, for which there is no cure. At any stage of alcoholism, even near fatal conditions, arrest of the disease is possible.

Rare appearances of any of the "symptoms" do not mean definite alcoholism, but continued experiences with them almost always do.

Probably the most shattering symptom of alcoholism is the "blackout." This practice of "pulling a blank" is not a mere "passing out" experience when the drinker folds up and sleeps it off, usually "like a slob."

The latter is bad enough, but the blackout is capable of creating sheer terror. After a few drinks, the victim, without showing any or little obvious change in behavior, undergoes a total lapse of memory.

The drinker in blackout is not outwardly drunk in the vulgar sense of the term. He acts no different from others at a party, but he lives in a coma during a period of time.

Suffers often "come to" the next morning remembering nothing of the preceding evening and may not even know how they got home. Stories are common of those who rush out to hunt for their cars, to learn if they show crash signs.

Strangely, such suffers remember what they are doing while they are in these "lost hours"—or days and weeks. But if later, in normalcy, they recall anything at all it will be confusing and meaningless minor details.

Weird stories are common of businessmen who have operated successfully for as long as six weeks without later recalling that fact that many missions even had been attempted.

If a heavy drinker experiences blackouts, he should know he is courting disaster.

The ones who sneak drinks may not, because it is a common behavior of those progressing into alcoholism. This person is clever in his manner of getting refills without being obvious, downing drinks left unattended, parking extra drinks for quick pick-ups or helping the host to mix and serve so that he can sneak extras.

When this type of drinking becomes obvious to his friends and associates the sneak drinker feels a drop in acceptance by the group and frequently is impelled to get a head start on every party or social gathering by having several drinks before showing up among others.

He feels this will cut down the necessity of sneaking more than his share. He falls into the habit of pre-judging affairs as dull or "dry" gatherings and won't take a chance at being bored or made thirsty.

By arriving with a heavy liquor breath, the drinker invariably attracts suspicion, and he often is gradually eliminated from guest lists. This inevitably directs him toward isolation drinking.

Highly significant of the progression of alcoholism is the move to gulping drinks. Sipping and leisurely consumption no longer satisfies because such styles cannot give an immediate and potent reward.

The imbibor now feels he NEEDS to drink. The quicker it goes down the better. The glow of partial intoxication, with its release from the increasingly painful realities of life, is best achieved by quickly downing liquor, as opposed to the socially approved habit of sipping, which becomes laborious.

These, and other warning signs, worry the drinker.

and he becomes constantly reminded that he has developed a problem. He knows he is drinking differently than other people, and the fact embarrasses him and creates feelings of guilt.

He artfully dodges discussions about drinking patterns, even preferences in drinks, for fear his own drinking habits will come into the conversation.

He becomes aware friends recognize his problem, are concerned and often discuss it among themselves. But he doesn't want them talking to him about it.

Other signs leading toward an acute state will be covered in the next article.

Symphony No. 10 in F sharp by Gustav Mahler performed by the New Philharmonia Orchestra under Wyn Morris (Philips 6700 067) — Mahler never completed his 10th symphony before his death in 1911. He sketched each of the five movements and completed a first orchestra draft as far as bar 28 of the third movement. This is British musicologist Deryck Cooke's final full length performing version, having completed the orchestration as far as he could.

He concludes: "The score is still not, and never could be. Mahler's Tenth Symphony as he himself would have completed it... But its justification is that it enables us to experience as living sound Mahler's final musical testament in the provisional form in which he left it."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bank plans for small investors interested in the stock market probably will begin to expand in the coming months—with encouragement from the federal government.

Complaints by stock brokers that banks have overstepped their legal bounds in offering securities investment plans have been brushed aside.

The U. S. Controller of the Currency has stated for the second time in 17 months that banks can legitimately buy stocks and bonds for their customers' accounts. And a long time banking foe in Congress—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.—agrees.

Proxmire, who is expected to become chairman of the Senate Banking Committee next January, has been critical of many bank functions. But he said it appears bank stock plans have been good for small investors.

"Benefits Public" "I think it opens a new field of competition for the investor—consumer," Proxmire told UPI. "It is wholesome. If a bank can offer a service at a lower cost, then it is a proper function that benefits the public."

Under the plans now being offered by about 20 banks, primarily in New York and California, a customer can put $25 or more into a monthly pool which the bank uses to buy blue chip stocks. The bank allocates shares, or parts of shares, to the customer's account.

Banks say the advantage is that small investors can benefit from the institution's buying power to hold down commission rates.

The New York Stock Exchange and the Investment Company Institute, which represents mutual funds, asked for a review of the Controller of Currency's February, 1973 ruling in favor of the bank plans. In a decision June 11, the Controller again found in behalf of the banks.

Controller James E. Smith, echoing the sentiment of his predecessor, William B. Cavanaugh, said the "competitive force" was healthy in an industry that has long had fixed charges.

The brokers and exchanges have received no balm from the Securities and Exchange Commission. SEC Chairman Ray Garrett, most of the other commissioners have called on brokers to compete with banks by offering their own monthly investment plans. Garrett has noted many brokerage houses used to offer the plans, but apparently have lost interest in them.

Although no government official has ventured to explain why the brokerage industry has gone soft on small investors, a recent report to the New York Stock Exchange might hold the answer.

Greenwich Research Associates said in the active year of 1969 only two per cent of individual investors generated enough business for their brokers to make a profit.

Regardless of how the brokers feel about the small investor, it is apparent most banks welcome him.

Officials of the American Bankers Association say the latest ruling of the Controller of the Currency should lead to rapid expansion of bank investment plans.

Important Role Created For Doctors

United Press International
Up until just years ago, a couple preparing to get married would contact their family physician just long enough to have the necessary blood test for syphilis drawn. Other than this, medicine was asked to add almost nothing to the preparations for marriage.

The increased sophistication of the public and the general availability of medical advice concerning contraception today has created an important role for the physician in helping a couple prepare for a life together.

Most states still require a blood test for syphilis prior to applying for the marriage license. This necessitates the drawing of a small quantity of blood. It is done because undiagnosed and untreated syphilis can have a crippling effect upon a baby. With V.D. at an all time high in this country, this test is becoming increasingly more important. Since the three day measles (rubella), if contracted during the first three months of a woman's pregnancy, can cause defects in the baby such as blindness and heart malformations, many states couple the test for syphilis with a test that indicates whether the woman has ever had three day measles.

Should a bride have escaped this as a child, she may be immunized against it before she gets pregnant, but in no case should this immunization be done while a person is pregnant since fatal abnormalities may result.

It takes only a little more blood for the blood type of a couple to be determined in order to anticipate possible problems in babies as they come along. Incidentally, most cases of rh difficulties in babies now are avoidable through the use of a new desensitizing shot which is given to the mother shortly after birth. A thorough physical examination should be part of the premarital preparation of both partners, since some treatable defects may interfere with a normal happy life. This is particularly true of the pelvic examination where abnormalities of the reproductive system can be detected as can any condition likely to result in painful intercourse.

Family planning is an important part of every premarital examination. Appropriate means of contraception should be discussed and in some instances (such as the "pill") be begun a month or so before marriage. This is important if the bride expects to be protected against pregnancy during her honeymoon.

The teletype was invented in 1928, five years after the television set.

Classical records

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
NEW YORK (UPI) — After 33 days shuttling around with Henry A. Kissinger, it is a balm to the spirit to write about music again instead of Middle East diplomacy.

The choice of records to be noted or reviewed is sometimes haphazard, given the pile that is likely to accumulate even in a week, and it was by happy chance that two albums of performances by the late great French pianist Robert Casadesu were on top of the pile.

concertos of W. A. Mozart recorded under the direction of George Szell in the late 1950's and early 1960's. Separately these luminous performances still are listed in the current catalogue so I mention only that they are now packaged in a three-record album (Columbia D3M-32796) — Concertos 21 through 27.

After a month of no music, these late Mozart concertos were a wonderful way to get back into it.

Recommended: Bach's "Brandenburg Concertos" played by the Academy of St. Martin in the Fields under the direction of Neville Marriner (Philips 6700 045) — What makes this doubly interesting is that it is a recording, the first, of the first version of these works before Bach recopied them for the Margrave of Brandenburg in 1721. The late Robert Thuston Dart took these versions from several sources.

Symphony No. 10 in F sharp by Gustav Mahler performed by the New Philharmonia Orchestra under Wyn Morris (Philips 6700 067) — Mahler never completed his 10th symphony before his death in 1911. TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Doctor Names It 'Child Abuse'

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I know a couple with a little child not yet two years old. He holds a bite in his mouth for three or four hours, especially meat. He is whipped and slapped across the face and told to chew and chew until he swallows it, which can take several hours.

I think he has taken all the nourishment out of the meat by then so why not let him spit the stuff out?

And do you believe a child that age is old enough to be whipped and made to stand in a corner for two hours or so? They think a lot of this child but I think he is too young to fully realize.

I raised five and I didn't resort to these tactics. I say a tap on his hands for a no-no and he'll learn.

It breaks my heart and he is nothing to me. (And I like well-behaved children.) His sister, who is five, says he touches the TV and he gets a whipping. Do you approve of putting a five-year-old to snitching? She's lucky she doesn't have an older child to snitch on her. Also after a whipping the little boy is told to shut up.

he's not allowed to cry. The father has read many books on child psychology, so he says.

I don't mean child abuse, but a good whipping and slaps across the face. What to do in place of them for a child under two?

I will be looking for your answer and show it to them. —D.M.T.

You don't call it child abuse, I do.

Just because no bones have been broken, and the police haven't been called to rescue the child, does not excuse whipping and slapping across the face, and standing in a corner for two hours, and being forced to chew on a piece of meat for longer than that, and not being allowed to cry.

If the parents "think a lot of this child," I wonder what they'd do to one they didn't like.

Whether three hours of chewing "gets all the nourishment" out of a soggy piece of meat is beside the point. The average child is brought along gradually, first pureed baby foods, then ground or fine-chopped meat, and in time easily learns to chew and swallow.

Slapping and punishing isn't part of it. All that does is make him resentful and rebellious. In time he'll hate those folks. If he doesn't already. That is probably why he acts the way he does. The father has read "books on child psychology?" Ha!

Frankly I never know quite what to do with letters like this — which almost never have a return address.

So from time to time I print one, in hopes (vain hopes perhaps) that possibly some of these punishment-oriented parents may get some faint glimpse of themselves, and see themselves for the overdemanding bullies that they are.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can I get in touch with Dr. Rudolph Troques, a plastic surgeon? He was on the Mike Douglas show. I enclose a stamped envelope. —L.D.

Do the obvious. Write to Mike Douglas and ask him.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What

causes macular degeneration? Would pernicious anemia have anything to do with it? I have B-12 shots for the anemia.

—Mrs. K.C. A deficient blood supply to the back of the eye can cause macular degeneration, and that can result from hardening of the arteries or from an untreated anemia.

If you have both macular degeneration and pernicious anemia, it is vital that you keep your blood count up with regular B-12 injections. (Not that the B-12 isn't vital for pernicious anemia, quite aside from the eye trouble.)

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. G.C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Sidney Poitier Takes Limousine

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — There was a limousine waiting in front of the elegant Quo Vadis to take Sidney Poitier back to his elegant suite at his elegant hotel.

Smoothly he studied the elegant menu, asked for freshly squeezed orange juice and calves' liver, and amusingly recounted that he'd once been a Broadway dishwasher for $4 a night (and meals) when he was a 15-year-old escapee from Miami, Fla.

"A dish jockey? What a stunt! You should have your opening part for your picture in a joint where you washed dishes," suggested a friend.

"But the Turf, where I got that incredible salary, and the Zanzibar, are gone," he said. "I also washed dishes at McGinnis, the Crossroads cafe, Rudley's, the Savoy Plaza Hotel, the Madison, the Taft, Edison and Waldorf. I went up to the roof at 1650 Broadway and found a little space where I could sleep in the summer. Anyway..."

The party for his new movie, "Uptown Saturday Night," which he produced, directed and stars in, will be at Vincent's in Harlem — uptown Saturday night.

"I happened to see an ad," he remembered. "Actors Wanted." "I'd been born in Florida of Nassau parents. My academic training was so little — from 11 to 12½ — that I could hardly read. My accent was awful. I got a radio and learned to pronounce every word like a nouncer Normen Brokenshire."

Today he's got the prettiest diction anywhere. He and beautiful Joanna Shmikus live together in Nassau with their two children and his four by his ex-wife. He used to hop freight trains to get north beyond the restrictions on blacks. The damned freight trains were always stopping on a siding — still in Florida.

"Today I rather like Miami. I commend the city for some remarkable things it's done for its ethnic elements." Getting into the limo, the dish jockey who became star, director and producer, said he also operated a ribs place at 127th and 7th. My ribs," he said, "were not memorable."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... With all those female impersonator shows, just call it "The Main Drag." "The Happy Hooker," to be filmed here by Cannon Films and Dennis Friedland, is intended to be an R-rated comedy. Ursula Andress probably starring... Celeste Holm turned down $100,000 to do a toilet deodorant commercial (Said so — at Great Aunt Fanny's)...

Jennifer O'Neill and Elliott Gould held hands at the Bottom Line at the debut of all-gal rock group Isis... Scoop & L'Escargot restaurants report both dining and drinking bigger — and later — now.

Secret Stuff: The beautiful wife of a handsome actor's pulling out; so much humiliation in public... Bit author's studio only wants to pay him 40 percent for his unsatisfactory script... Las Vegas is scandalized at a recently wed gal's openness with a young singer.

Jack Gifford's wife Madelyn Lee couldn't attend his Westbury "Sunshine Boys" opening. She stepped in for Molly Stark who had a heart attack and couldn't open at Paramus in "Laugh a Little, Cry a Little"...

Mack and Mabel company flew to San Diego for its break-in, then on to L.A. Mrs. Allen Funt sparked a "Therapy Through Tennis" fund...

raiser at the Colony. "Special" children, through trying to hit tennis balls from a machine, greatly improve.

Show Biz Quiz: Name Liz Taylor's five husbands. Ans. to yesterday's: Cary Grant co-starred with both Mae West and Grace Kelly. Young singer Julie Budd, a Barbra Streisand look-alike and sound-alike, began her act (at the Menchell Infant Survival Foundation benefit) by announcing: "Before you all ask — no, I'm not her sister..."

It's back to swimming for Johnny Weissmuller, now 70 (therapy, while he recovers from a busted hip)... Arthur Godfrey made a rare rare visit to hear pianist singer Gene Covington — once a Godfrey contest winner — at The Embers.

Ginger Rogers gave a party at Benihana Palace for visiting Japanese film distributors; her old movies with Fred Astaire are still big at box office there... The "French Dressing" show at Shepherds', which features female impersonators, had its stay extended (and it's now doing 18 shows a week)...

Friends of singer Mabel Mercer, now at the St. Regis Rm., gave her a surprise party, and the mayor's office gave her a key to the city — after she'd been working here for about 30 years.

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT Today's Best Laugh: Comic Wayland Flowers, who works with a "dirty old lady" puppet called "Madame," says, "I'm showing that women can be just as rotten as men."

Wish I'd Said That: A certain actor has so little personality that he worked on a color TV show — and came out in black and white.

Remembered Quote: "Experience is what teaches you that you need a lot more of it," Bobby Vinton.

Earl's Pearls: Mike Vogel of Travelers Hotel recalls visiting a very small Midwest town: "When it held a 100-yard race, contestants had to run around the town twice."

In the last scene of "Hot L Baltimore" the cast drinks real champagne. "Some nights," says a backstage crew member, "they don't care if they get applause or not. And some nights they don't know if they get applause or not."

That's earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

Under Twenty

DEAR ASTRID

By ASTRID CARSON

Dear Astrid:

While I've been going to school and working nights for the last two years I have been going with a girl I love very much. I only got to see her over the weekend and I thought everything was okay until I found out she had been running around with other guys during the week.

I overheard some guys talking and they said she was really a swinger. She admitted that she had had some dates but that she hadn't done anything with them. We had plans to get married and I feel about as hurt as you can get. I don't know what to do.

—Fooled—

with them but they just don't seem to understand. After all, I've got all my life to work.

—Miss Understood

Dear Miss Understood:

If, at your age, you are able to find part-time work enough to take care of yourself you are entitled to do so. However, you can't expect your parents to pick up the tab while you refuse to take responsibility for yourself.

The truth of the matter is that at this stage of your life they actually owe you nothing but their love and concern for you. You owe it to yourself to get a firm foundation under your life. When you do it is up to you as long as you pay your own way.

Dear Fooled:

Just because you were fooled don't be a fool. If the girl cheats on you under today's conditions she isn't likely to be very much of a wife later on. If, because you were so busy, she wanted to date other boys, she should have discussed it with you rather than just run around.

Of course you feel hurt and cheated. With time the hurt will become less intense, especially as you manage to keep yourself busy. Cut loose and look for another girl who can play it straight.

Dear Astrid:

I've finished two years of college and am not going on to formal college. I want to take some courses. My parents say that if I'm not going to continue college I should get a job.

I'm not ready to settle down to the nine-to-five routine but they say I've got to get started sometime. I've discussed my feelings

Dear Astrid:

There is a man I met a few weeks ago. He's always very pleasant to me but doesn't ask me out for a date. He says he likes me, wants to be friends but is too old for me. He's seven years older than I. I want him to date me and get interested in me. I've come right out and asked him to date me. How can I get him interested in me?

—Younger

Dear Younger: The "older man" is showing both good sense and consideration for you. Seven years is a big difference when you are young and he recognizes this difference but offers you, instead of dating, a friendship.

You can learn a great deal from him, mostly how to become mature. Accept his offer of friendship and start developing a dating interest in boys closer to your own age.

Elk City To Host Net Tourney
ELK CITY, Okla. — Pampa-area tennis players are invited to compete in the Ninth Annual Elk City Key Club Open Tennis Tournament June 29-30 here. The event is Western Oklahoma's largest tournament.
Registration fees are as follows: $2.00 for players in Womens Doubles, $3.00 for players in Boys Singles (up to age 18), Boys Doubles, Mens Doubles and Mixed men he faced and struck out seven while becoming only the second pitcher in the Rangers' three-year history to win at least 10 games in a season.

Angels 3, Yankees 0
Nolan Ryan and Skip Lockwood combined on a five-hitter as the Angels topped the Yankees. Ryan, boosting his record to 8-6, had to leave after six innings when he developed a blister on his pitching hand. The Angels scored all of their runs in the first inning with the aid of errors by Gene Michael and Bobby Murcer.

Red Sox 6, A's 1
Roger Moret went the distance on a 10-hitter for his first victory of the year in pitching the Red Sox to victory over the A's. Moret struck out 10 to-even his record at 1-1 while besting Ken Holtzman, now 7-8.

Royals 7, Brewers 0
Paul Splittorff tossed a two-hitter and John Mayberry and Amos Otis slammed homers to spark the Royals' triumph over the Brewers. Mayberry's homer was his 16th of the year, giving him the AL lead.

game series. The players want to play only at mid-season or after the Stanley Cup playoffs in the spring. "The players are fearful of the timing," Eagleson said. "They have already had a bad experience."

PREPARING THE COURSE — David Skoog of 515 N. Gray mows the grass on the par-three, 170-yard 16th hole at Pampa Country Club in preparation for the Men's West Texas Golf Tournament, which starts at 1 p.m. Thursday. Those entrants with low handicaps will try to qualify at that time for the Championship Flight.

Hockey Players Agree Not To Play 2 Series

TORONTO (UPI) — National Hockey League players say they do not plan to play in either the proposed Canada-Russia eight-game series or the NHL-world Hockey Association 15-game exhibition series.

Alan Eagleson, executive director of the NHL Players' Association, made the announcements Tuesday after a meeting between the players and four NHL club owners.

Eagleson told reporters both the NHL and the players' association have rejected overtures from the WHA to join the Canadian team which is scheduled to meet the Soviets for eight games in September.

He said the WHA has made specific approaches to Boston Bruins' stars Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito and possibly to Philadelphia goal tender Bernie Parent to

Alexandria Nips Shreveport, 4-3, In Texas League

United Press International
Mike Ivie singled home the tying run in the bottom of the eighth and Mike Dupree drove in the winning run Tuesday night, giving Alexandria Manager Ken Bracey a 4-3 Texas League victory over Shreveport Tuesday night win in his first night on the job.

Alexandria led 2-0 after the second by virtue of a two-run homer by catcher Joe Goddard, his third of the season. Shreveport went ahead 3-2 in the sixth on four singles and a two-run double by Dave Lindsey.

But the Aces pulled it out with two runs in the eighth on three singles and an error. Ivie's single scored Duane Larson to make the score 3-3 and Dupree's single scored Jerry Turner with the winning run.

Greg Zale (2-1) was the winning pitcher.

In other league games, Victoria dumped Arkansas 5-1. El Paso nudged Amarillo 4-2 and Midland and San Antonio were not scheduled.

Legion Team Visits Berger For 8:30 Tilt

Pampa's American Legion Rebels will try to conquer a four-game victory drought as they travel to Berger for an 8:30 p.m. game today.

The Rebels defeated Berger, 10-3, two weekends ago, the last time Pampa won a game. Since then, the team has lost to Hooker, Okla., Tascosa, Dumas and Amarillo High.

In that win against Berger, Larry Petty was the winning pitcher. He will most likely be on the mound again tonight. Other probable starters are John Agan, catcher; Roy Morris, first base; Bobby Chance, second base; Steve Edwards, third base; Kory Gamblin or Mike Adair, shortstop; Tony Frogge, leftfield; Rick Smith, centerfield, and Robby Harris, rightfield.

Mike Fraser will get the starting nod if Petty doesn't throw.

As a team, Pampa is batting .231 with only five doubles, one triple and no homeruns for the season.

Morris is the team's leading hitter with seven hits in 14 trips for a .500 average, including two doubles and a triple. Chance is hitting .380, Frogge .294 and Petty .286.

Pampa CC To Sponsor Net Classes

The Pampa Country Club in conjunction with West Texas State tennis camps will hold a series of lessons and classes for its members starting July 2.

Dale Corbin, assistant to David Kent of West Texas State, will conduct the classes, which will be held on Tuesdays.

For information, country club members need to contact Mary Hughes or the club office.

Murrell Sends Braves Past Mets

UPI Sports Writer
Hank Aaron's "caddy" says he's no beach bum, and Manager Eddie Mathews of the Atlanta Braves is the first to agree and treat Ivan Murrell like a pro.

A 29-year-old outfielder-first baseman from Panama, Murrell plays for the Braves when Aaron is being rested for one reason or another. Hank can't play the full schedule because of a variety of aches and pains that afflict any 40-year-old athlete and also because he is running into a series of "Hank Aaron" days honoring him for topping Babe Ruth's home run record.

Mathews gave Aaron the night off Tuesday because the new home run king was honored by city officials in New York. That gave Murrell a chance to make a rare start and he responded by hitting a bases-filled triple in the third inning which was the key blow in the Braves' 6-1 victory over the New York Mets.

The win moved the Braves into a tie with the Cincinnati Reds for second place in the National League West, six games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers.
"I'm enjoying this," said Murrell after the game. "This is the best thing that has ever happened to me. I was one of 13 outfielders on the San Diego club last April and they wanted to send me to Hawaii in the Pacific Coast League, but I had enough time in the league to say 'no.' I'm no beach bum."

In other National League games, the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Houston Astros 2-0, the Montreal Expos edged out the Philadelphia Phillies, 1-0, the Montreal Expos edged the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1, the Cardinals downed the San Francisco Giants 3-0, and the Padres topped the Chicago Cubs, 9-4.

Pirates 2 Dodgers 0
Dave Giusti, making his first start after 235 relief appearances spread over a four-year period, pitched shutout ball for seven innings and won his second game with the relief help of Bruce Kison and Daryl Patterson. Bob Robertson and Gene Clines drove in the runs for the Pirates, who dealt 10-game winner Tommy John his second defeat.

Astros 1 Phillies 0
Tommy Helms' second-inning homer was the only run of the game and enabled rookie Mike Cosgrove, who took over with one out in the first inning and went the rest of the way, to win his second game for the Astros. Ron Schueler was tagged for his eighth loss against three victories.

Expos 2 Reds 1
Jim Cox homered in the ninth inning to give the Expos their victory over the Reds behind the two-hit pitching of Ernie McNally. McNally struck out seven while walking two in raising his record to 5-6, while Clay Kirby dropped his fourth game against five wins.

Kennedy's Successor To Be Chosen Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The future of professional basketball could take a dramatic turn today with the possibility of two announcements that would have an immediate effect on each team in both the National and American Basketball Associations.

The most probable eventuality is that a successor will be named for Walter Kennedy, who announced his resignation as commissioner of the NBA last summer. Although Kennedy's contract doesn't expire until next June, he has said he would step down whenever the Board of Governors came to an agreement on his replacement.

Two strong candidates have emerged for the job, both of whom are Los Angeles attorneys and both of whom are currently in New York. They are 35-year-old Alan Rothenberg, whose firm represents the Los Angeles Lakers and who is a member of the league Board of Directors, and 41-year-old Henry Steinman, who played for John Wooden at UCLA from 1951-54.
A second possibility is that a long-rumored merger between the NBA and ABA will be announced.

World Soccer Cup Has Big Games

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Steadily separating the good from the ordinary, the World Soccer Cup entered a crucial stage today for eight teams in the second half of the draw.

Sweden, Bulgaria, Uruguay, Poland and Argentina all faced matches which could decide whether they become members of the elite last eight, or take part in the rest of the tournament as television spectators.

With 12 games played, this was the situation:
—West Germany qualified for the second final round.
—Australia and Zaire faced certain elimination.
—No South American team has yet won.
—Group Two has produced a thrilling cliff-hanger finale.

West Germany, the home team and favorite to lift the cup, beat Australia 3-0 Tuesday and when East Germany managed only a 1-1 draw with Chile, entered the last eight with a game still to play.
Chile, facing Australia Saturday while East Germany meets West Germany, was the favorite to accompany the home side from group one into the final stage of the tournament.

In Group Two, Scotland and Brazil fought out a goalless draw while Yugoslavia crushed hapless Zaire 9-0 to equal the world cup record score.

With Zaire certain to go out, the wide-open battle to qualify for the second final round hinges on Saturday's games when Yugoslavia meets Scotland and Brazil plays Zaire.

At present Scotland and Yugoslavia each has three points and Brazil two. If there is a result in the Scotland v. Yugoslavia match, the winner will qualify. If it is a draw, the qualification could depend on goal average, assuming Brazil beats Zaire, Brazil would have to win by a minimum three-goal margin to edge Scotland or by 10 goals to go ahead of the Yugoslavs.

The Brazilians have yet to score after 180 minutes of World Cup finals football. Group three favorite to qualify was Holland, who lined up against Sweden today. The other group game matched Uruguay, still seeking its first point, and Bulgaria, which has one point.

In group four, Italy (two points) confronted Argentina (none) and Poland (two) faced 1,000-louder Haiti.
It looked like curtains for the Haitians with Poland and Italy favorites to progress.

Bobby Wins 10th Game As Tigers Blanked, 6-0

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—Jim Bobby retired the first 12 men he faced Tuesday night and allowed just two hits and struck out seven in pitching the Texas Rangers to a 6-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The only hits off Bobby were a line single through the pitcher's mound by Ben Oglivie in the fifth inning and a double off the left field wall by Jim Northrup in the eighth.
It was Bobby's 10th win of the year against eight losses. He became only the second pitcher to win that many games during a single season in the team's three years in Texas. The shutout was Bobby's third this year.
The Rangers scored three runs in the first two innings off Lerrin LaGrew, 5-6. Cesar Tovar led off with a single for Texas and stole second, and then Dave Nelson walked. Alex Johnson drove in both runners with a double and scored when shortstop Eddie Brinkman fired the relay to third base before he realized that no one was on the base to catch it. The ball sailed into the Tigers' dugout.

In the second, with one out, Duke Sims singled, Len Randle walked, and Tovar singled to produce one run. Nelson singled to left to score Randle and when the ball slipped from Willie Horton's hand as he tried to throw to the infield, Tovar also scored.

He's not hoping for a college education...

he's banking on it!

Most newspaperboys are banking part of their savings for higher education.

Even if you can easily afford to send your boy to college, you might consider this—the boy who works and saves for part of his education is the boy who will get the most out of college.

He'll appreciate Pop and the checks from home more if he's already had a taste of earning money by working himself.

And while his route profits are important, this is only one of a number of reasons why so many of today's successful men encourage their boys to get the benefit of Newspaper Route experience—including service, salesmanship, collections and record keeping.
