

Judge Orders TYC To Close Schools For Boys

TYLER, Tex. (UPI) — Citing examples of physical abuse and violation of inmates' constitutional rights, a federal judge today ordered the closing of Gatesville and Mountain View state schools for boys.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice also ordered the Texas Youth Council to discontinue placing all juveniles committed to its care in a large reform school, but instead place the youths in group homes, foster homes, day care centers or other community based programs.

In a 204 page report, Justice said if the alternative homes are not available, the TYC must create them.

The court finds from the heavy preponderance of evidence that two institutions, Gatesville State School for Boys and Mountain View State School for Boys, are places where the delivery of effective rehabilitative treatment is impossible," he said, "and that they must not be utilized any longer than is absolutely necessary as facilities for delinquent juveniles."

The judge said the TYC and interested parties must meet within 30 days to formulate a plan for implementing the reforms, including the eventual closing of the two reform schools.

The report stemmed from a suit filed in February, 1971 by Alicia Moales and 11 other inmates of state schools charging the use of cruel and unusual punishment and violation of inmate rights.

The report was particularly critical of the Mountain View facility, saying "staff brutality at Mountain View is not ignored, but encouraged by those in authority."

The report told of beatings by correctional officers, and the requirement of one officer that a boy under review by the disciplinary committee be required to run in his bare feet at top speed from the security wings to the committee meeting room.

"If the boy did not run fast enough, he was racked or beaten by a correctional officer," the report said.

The judge said expert witnesses told the court that "most so-called disciplinary practices at the Mountain View school have no rehabilitative values; they are strictly punitive and serve only to degrade and belittle the boy concerned."

"Expert witnesses also found no merit in the rule of enforced silence, the ban on sleeping, the unrestricted use of tear gas and demeaning procedures before the discipline committee."

The report told of a boy, nicknamed "Twenty Bird," who was called from his solitary confinement cell at Mountain View to a central location where he was beaten by an officer, then blindfolded with his hands tied.

The report said the boy was ordered to run to his room, "the order being accompanied by threats of another beating if the boy did not proceed rapidly."

"In trying to follow the order, Twenty Bird ran headlong into the wall several times," the report said. "Finally, screaming and crying he fell to the floor. (The officer) terminated the torture by placing his foot on the boy's stomach and covering the boy's face with a mop."

The judge ordered the TYC to hire more qualified staff members, maintain a higher staff student ratio, observe strict procedures in use of solitary confinement and stop the indiscriminate use of major tranquilizers on juveniles.

Pampa Youth Meets With President Ford

Randy Cain, elected president of the Distributive Education Clubs of America — High School Division, was selected as one of the top 20 youth leaders to meet with President Gerald Ford at The White House last Friday.

The purpose of the meeting was for the President to gain an insight into the different youth organizations and to seek council from these youth leaders.

The Distributive Education Clubs of America — otherwise known as DECA — is an organization whose program of leadership, personal development and career encouragement is designed specifically for students enrolled in Distributive Education.

Distributive Education is a program of instruction which teaches marketing, merchandising and management and DECA is an integral part of this program. DECA was begun in 1946 and is now operating in 50 states plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Cain is a 1974 graduate of Pampa High School and will be a freshman at the University of Texas in Austin this fall where he will be majoring in business administration. He is the son of Judge and Mrs. Don E. Cain, Sr., 1826 Williston.

Cain served as president of the Texas DECA Association in 1973-74 and was selected as an Outstanding Teenager of America and as the 1974 DECA Student of the Year for Texas.

He was a member of the National Honor Society, Student Council, Junior Rotarian and was selected as the Student Leader of the Year at Pampa High School, 1973-74.

Plumbing Code Study Planned

Updating of Pampa's plumbing code will be the aim of a committee review and study of the current ordinance, according to City Manager Mack Wofford.

Wofford said a committee of five has been asked to conduct the code review.

Members of the committee will hold their first meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the City Commission room at City Hall.

Asked to serve on the committee are Nathan F. Miller, master plumber; Edwin L. Hogan, journeyman plumber; Raymond York, Pioneer Natural Gas Co.; W.A. Morgan, Celanese Chemical Co.; and Trice F. Smith, building contractor.

After completion of the study the committee members is expected to make its recommendations to the City Commission for changes to update the current plumbing code which was adopted in 1969.

Autumn-Like Chill Drops Temperatures In Vicinity

A cold front continued to bring fall-like weather into the Panhandle regions today, accompanied by near-northerly winds.

Low today in Pampa was reported at 41 degrees, setting a new record for this date. High Monday, was a crisp 54.

Forecast calls for a return of sunshine lasting at least through Wednesday, with fair and cool nights. High today was expected to creep up into the middle 60s, with an over-night low in the upper 40s. High Wednesday should reach the middle 70s.

A light fog covered the area Monday morning, with gray skies dominating the scene throughout the rest of the day.

Clear skies prevailed in the vicinity at forenoon, with temperatures in the upper 50s.

In UPI reports:

The first norther of the season toppled temperatures to record lows across much of the northern half of Texas today.

"It was like all those previews on TV of what's ahead for this fall," said Sibette Brandt, a Lubbock housewife. "I know it sounds stupid but we rolled a log into the fireplace and just got cozy. We like cold weather and can hardly wait for it to get here."

Robert Miller, a Lubbock store clerk, said the cold snap was "a welcome break from the heat, just like Labor Day was a welcome break from work."

Nippish readings in the middle and upper 40s dominated Panhandle and South Plains and the mercury dipped into the 50s in North Central Texas and into the low 60s as far south as a College Station-Austin-San Antonio line.

Amarillo's record 46 degrees was the coolest reported among the regular National Weather Service reporting stations, while Childress and Dalhart recorded 47s, Lubbock 48 and Marfa 49.

The 52-degree readings at Abilene and Wichita Falls were records. The Wichita Falls record for the date was 59 set in 1934, while Abilene had not had a Sept. 3 reading that low since 1915. The 61-degree minimum at Austin snapped a record of 66 that had stood since 1950.

The cold front which had spawned heavy rains earlier in the week on a slow march through the state still was kicking up some shower activity at mid-morning in the San Angelo-Ozona area, south and west of San Antonio and in the southeast corner of the state.

Heaviest 24-hour rainfall reports for Labor Day included 1.60 inches at Del Rio and 1.03 at Tyler.

Hail the size of lemons fell around Marathon in Far West Texas Monday afternoon, while heavy rains disrupted rail and highway traffic for a time around Sanderson.

Autumn-like cool penetrated deep into the South early today, three weeks before fall officially begins. It was the second day of cooler than normal weather for most of the nation.

The chilly weather Monday kept many persons away from Labor Day activities in some northern states.

A high pressure system centered itself over Nebraska during the night and spread cool air as far south as southern Texas. The holiday was a day for record low temperatures. Shortly before midnight, temperatures at Sioux City, Iowa dipped to 42 degrees, to 34 degrees at North Platte, Neb., 43 at Lincoln, Neb., 47 at Amarillo, Tex., 42 at Minneapolis, Minn., and 48 at Wichita, Kan.

Frost and freezing temperatures were expected today in the Dakotas, Minnesota and portions of Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska.

Clouds shrouded the northern half of the Atlantic Coast to the southern Plains where showers and thundershowers wetted the ground.

Streets were flooded in parts of southwestern Texas.

Stevens said tentative agreement has been reached in a nationwide strike of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against Western Electric that has caused the shortage. (See story, Page 2.)

"We don't know exactly how long it will take to return equipment inventories to normal," Stevens explained.

Western Electric is the Bell System's manufacturing and supply unit.

"Under the procedures we've established, installations will be limited to one line and one telephone per customer," Stevens said. "When inventories return to normal, and equipment becomes available, we will complete the installations that customers requested without additional charge."

Stevens said customers will be billed only for one line and one telephone until any additional equipment they have ordered has been installed.

"We regret not being able to furnish all the equipment our customers request at the time they want it," the local manager said. "However, the policy is temporary. Meanwhile, we'll be able to provide good, basic service until the equipment situation improves."

President Studying Inflation, Amnesty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today faced another round of consultations on key issues of inflation and a compromise form of amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers and deserters.

The President was also meeting with Republican leaders to discuss the November elections.

Ford, who spent the Labor Day weekend at the Presidential retreat at Camp David in the Catoctin mountains of Maryland, brought back a briefcase full of work when he returned by helicopter to the White House Monday night.

His first appointment today was with Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who White House aides insist will remain as chief of staff despite recurring rumors he will leave soon.

Ford was still wrestling with various formulas for granting leniency to Vietnam deserters and draft evaders and was expected to make his decision by the end of the week.

In a meeting with the President Saturday, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and Attorney General William French Smith proposed that evaders and deserters be required to serve up to 18 months of alternative service after re-pledging allegiance to the United States.

But press secretary J. F. TerHorst said that Ford has "some ideas of his own" on "earned re-entry" of those who fled abroad and what measures would be taken for those already convicted.

The President also had a succession of appointments in the morning and afternoon with Republican leaders, including Mary Louise Smith, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee; Richard D. Obenshain, Virginia Republican leader; and House Republican leaders John J. Rhodes of Arizona and Leslie C. Arends of Illinois.

TerHorst said they will discuss party matters, looking ahead to the November elections.

The President also was to meet with economic advisers to review plans already under way for the economic summit later this month and to determine where to go from there.

They included counselor Kenneth Rush, William L. Seidman, executive director of the economic summit, and Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic advisers.

The landmark pension reform bill signed by President Ford in a festive Labor Day ceremony will create the first federal machinery to regulate private retirement plans and guarantee the rights of more than 30 million workers enrolled in them.

The discovery of a mass grave of mutilated bodies in a small Turkish Cypriot village has postponed peace talks on divided Cyprus and hardened the island's warring communities.

Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktaş accused Greek Cypriots Monday of the "mass murder" of up to 85 persons in the village of Maratha along the island's eastern coast.

Denktaş said searchers found 35 bullet-riddled bodies at the village and expected to uncover at least 50 more. Turkish soldiers, wearing handkerchiefs over their faces, kept up digging for more bodies.

He said the killers wired the victims' wrists together and then opened fire on the helpless villagers. He said some of the dead were beheaded.

"This added the final salt to our wounds," Denktaş said as he angrily called off Monday's scheduled talks with President Glafkos Clerides, leader of the

Grand Jury Remains In Recess Today

The Gray County grand jury, convened last week to investigate a shooting incident here Aug. 23, remained in recess today, according to a spokesman at the District Clerk's office.

The grand jury had been called Friday at the request of District Attorney Guy Hardin to consider an incident at the Catalina Club, 600 S. Cuyler, in which two Pampa men were injured.

Local law enforcement officers were called to the club shortly after 11 p.m. Aug. 23 after receiving a report that a shot had been fired as two Texas Alcohol Beverage Commission inspectors attempted to arrest a man inside the club for drunkenness.

When the man resisted, two of his friends became involved in the fracas. Reports from the scene indicated that this is what happened:

Wiley (Butch) Reynolds Jr., 37, suffered a head injury when struck by a handgun wielded by Elvis E. Davis, one of the ABC officers.

Ronnie Melton, 27, then intervened and, when Davis swung the pistol at him, the gun fired, a bullet striking Melton in the chest.

Melton was admitted to St. Anthony's Hospital, Amarillo, and was released Aug. 31.

Reynolds received treatment at Both Highland General Hospital and later at Worley Hospital, from where he was released Aug. 27.

The second ABC inspector, Eugene L. McNeely, reportedly was not directly involved in the shooting. Both officers are from Amarillo.

Commissioners Consider Proposal On Pay Raises

Gray County Commissioners Court at its meeting held Monday reiterated their intention to raise salaries of elected county officials and employees.

Final consideration of the pay raise issue will take place at the next meeting, set for Sept. 14 at 10 a.m.

If no changes are introduced at that session, the raises are to go into effect Oct. 1, 1974. (See legal ad today, page 9).

At yesterday's meeting a delegation from the Tax Assessor-Collector's office presented a letter protesting the proposed $50 raise they would receive, stating that inflation plus added hours of work should call for a $100 per month raise.

The complete list of proposed raises was published in last Thursday's (Aug. 29) issue of The News. The Labor Day meeting of

Grave's Discovery Delays Negotiation

The discovery of a mass grave of mutilated bodies in a small Turkish Cypriot village has postponed peace talks on divided Cyprus and hardened the island's warring communities.

Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktaş accused Greek Cypriots Monday of the "mass murder" of up to 85 persons in the village of Maratha along the island's eastern coast.

Denktaş said searchers found 35 bullet-riddled bodies at the village and expected to uncover at least 50 more. Turkish soldiers, wearing handkerchiefs over their faces, kept up digging for more bodies.

He said the killers wired the victims' wrists together and then opened fire on the helpless villagers. He said some of the dead were beheaded.

"This added the final salt to our wounds," Denktaş said as he angrily called off Monday's scheduled talks with President Glafkos Clerides, leader of the island's Greek Cypriot community.

A U.N. spokesman said the discussions, aimed at easing the plight of nearly 200,000 refugees on the island, would take place Friday, but Denktaş said the new date was only provisional.

The meeting was to be the first in a series of weekly, face-to-face talks set up by U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim during his visit to the island last week.

The Maratha incident was the latest in a series of alleged massacres reported by both Greek and Turkish Cypriots since the Cyprus crisis broke out a month and a half ago.

Greek Cypriots outnumber Turkish residents 4-1 on the eastern Mediterranean island of 700,000. The two communities have clashed frequently since independence from Britain in 1960.

A U.N. spokesman said peacekeeping troops were in Maratha, a village along the island's eastern coast, when the bodies were discovered Sunday, but were not asked to help identify the victims.

In Athens, diplomatic sources said Monday the government turned down a new British attempt to resume the suspended, Greek-Turkish peace talks in Geneva.

IN NEWARK 'Peace' Enforced By Armed Police

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Police with shotguns and automatic weapons enforced an uneasy calm today after street violence including sporadic fires set with molotov cocktails broke out for the second night in a Puerto Rican section.

Mayor Kenneth Gibson called the situation critical and appealed to citizens to stay off the streets.

At least 24 persons were hurt and 15 arrested Monday night and this morning in disorders touched off by complaints about police tactics at a Sunday fiesta in Branch Brook Park that erupted into a rock-and-bottle throwing confrontation.

The 1,500-man police force was put on special 12-hour shifts Monday after windows were smashed at City Hall while they mayor met inside with Puerto Rican leaders.

At least 400 police officers remained on the streets, some in riot gear.

Gibson conferred with police brass into the early morning hours but stopped short of proclaiming a formal curfew.

Police cars equipped with loudspeakers cruised the downtown streets, broadcasting the mayor's appeal to get off the streets and stay indoors until further notice.

IBEW Decides To End Strike In Close Vote

United Press International
A scant 80 votes out of tens of thousands cast sent electrical workers back to their jobs today at Western Electric, the manufacturing arm of the Bell Telephone system.

"You wouldn't believe this, but out of 57,000 eligible voters, by 80 votes, the national and local contracts were accepted," said David Urie of Chicago, a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Executive Board.

Urie said all IBEW members would return today at 16 Western Electric plants across the nation, ending a month-long walkout. But some 650 IBEW members at Vancouver, Wash., said they would stay off the job despite the passage of the national contract. A spokesman in Vancouver said they voted narrowly not to ratify proposed settlement of local issues. Negotiations continued over those issues.

An estimated 250,000 San Francisco Bay area commuters inconvenienced by a 61-day bus drivers strike saw buses back on the roads. Drivers went back to work Sunday after accepting a new contract with AC Transit.

Members of United Auto Workers Local 25 returned to work at General Motors' St. Louis, Mo., plant after ratifying an agreement to end a nine-week strike at the plant, the only manufacturer of the Chevrolet Corvette sports car.

More than 30,000 other auto workers — some 20,000 at General Motors and 10,000 at Chrysler — also returned to their jobs after having been laid off because of strikes in related industries.

But 27,000 GM workers laid off due to strikes remained idled.

Cates Backs Rep. Clayton

State Rep. Phil Cates of Pampa was announced today as one of the supporters of Rep. Bill Clayton's candidacy for Speaker of the Texas House.

Four other names were released by Clayton today as backing his candidacy. They included Representatives Milton Fox of Houston, Kay Bailey of Houston, Nub Donaldson of Gatesville and Joe Wyatt of Victoria.

In a joint statement released by the Clayton supporters, the representatives stated they were supporting Clayton because of his independence from organized special interest groups.

Sniper Suspect Lost Job Because Of 'Freak Out'

SANTA FE SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Only hours before three persons were killed in a weekend desert sniping spree, suspect Richard H. Hick was fired from his job at a plastics plant when he "freaked out" over losing a screwdriver, a co-worker said Monday.

"He really flipped out," said Steve Brown, 27, a maintenance worker at the plant here. "He had to be on something."

Hicks, 34, was being held in jail in Indio, Calif., on suspicion of killing three persons and wounding six others in a six-hour shooting rampage across a 125-mile stretch of desert highway early Saturday.

The county district attorney was expected to decide this week on formal charges and arraignment of Hicks.

Brown described Hicks' final day as an employee at a plastics plant Friday.

"I came in about 5 o'clock Friday morning," Brown said, "and Hicks was working on this machine, even though there was nothing wrong with it. Hours later, the foreman finally had to tell him to get away from it."

Brown said Hicks remained at the plant throughout the day, "just freaking out."

"He got kind of violent about this big screwdriver he'd lost," Brown said. "He came up to me and said he was going to get somebody's head if he couldn't find it."

At one point, Brown said Hicks warned him not to go in the bathroom because there were bugs all over.

"He said they were big silver bugs with big silver eyes," Brown said. "He started trying to kill them on his legs with a pocket knife."

Franco Takes Powers Back From Carlos

MADRID (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco, given a clean bill of health by his doctors, has taken back all the leadership powers he gave Prince Juan Carlos from a hospital bed six weeks ago.

The 81-year-old Spanish leader announced plans Monday to resume "the functions that were temporarily assumed" by the 36-year-old prince, his handpicked successor.

El Caudillo took back his powers a day after a seven-man team of physicians declared him "clinically cured" of a circulatory ailment and ready to "resume his normal life."

A statement signed by Prime Minister Carlos Arias announced the end of the first interruption in Franco's rule since coming to power in Spain 35 years ago.

OVER LONG WEEKEND

Oratory, Parties, Games Mark Labor Day Flings

United Press International — It was a day of parties and political oratory, carnivals and concerts, baseball and barnstorming Monday as the nation celebrated Labor Day, summer's last holiday fling.

President Ford, flanked by top government, labor and business leaders, marked the holiday by signing a landmark law setting federal standards for pensions.

"It is certainly appropriate that this law be signed on Labor Day, since this act marks a brighter future for almost all the men-and women of our labor force," Ford said at the signing ceremonies in the White House rose garden.

He also urged organized labor to help fight inflation, but labor leaders said the need for higher wages so workers can catch up with the economy will come first.

What most Americans did had little connection with the significance of the holiday. They chose instead to use the long weekend for a last assault on summer's recreational offerings.

More than 15,000 persons watched in amazement as French daredevil Philippe

Petit walked a tightrope strung 100 feet over the murky waters of the great falls at Paterson, N.J., Monday.

It took Petit 8 1/2 minutes in a steady wind to make the walk at the town's annual holiday festival.

Some 60,000 young people jammed the banks of the Allegheny River near Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium to listen to a rock concert by musicians on three barges moored in the river.

Many of the concertgoers jumped into the river from the Fort Duquesne Bridge to cool off or get closer to the music. One youth apparently drowned and authorities were searching for the body.

A massive traffic jam resulted when concertgoers and some 45,000 persons who attended a Pirates baseball game at the stadium drove into the city's downtown district.

But cold weather and rain put the dampers on holiday observances in the nation's midsection.

Only about 1,000 persons showed up to make the annual holiday hike across the five-mile long Macinac Bridge separating Michigan's Upper and Lower peninsulas.

Between 20,000 and 25,000 had been expected, but many were driven off by cold weather and rain.

ON TEXAS ROADS

Holiday Traffic Deaths Reach Above Prediction

United Press International — A pair of three-car wrecks occurred in South and Northeast Texas.

In a two-car head-on between San Antonio and New Braunfels on I-35, Josephine Martinez, 22, of Seguin; Jose Espinoza, 9, of Dallas and Esperanza Molina Salinas, 22, of Dallas were killed.

Five other persons were injured, four of them members of the Salinas family.

In Northeast Texas near Bogata, a car traveling at a high rate of speed missed a curve and hit a tree early Monday, killing Kenneth A. Owens, 16, Gaylan Cecil Patton, 39, and Robert Patton, 17, all residents of Shawnee, Kan.

In a non-traffic accident early Monday, a retired Pleasanton man, Duke McCauley, 65, was hit by a train while he was sitting on the tracks one mile north of Natalia in South Texas. Authorities said the Missouri Pacific freight train blew its whistle but McCauley was hit as he tried to stand up and was knocked 50 feet down the tracks.

The DPS had predicted 34 persons would die during the counting period, which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

Two of the traffic fatalities included a teenage couple hitchhiking from Florida. Police said Russ C. Townsend, 16, of Windmere, Fla., and Diane G. Wurtz, 15, of Orlando, Fla., had unrolled their sleeping bags in the middle of a highway near Marble Falls and had fallen asleep when they were hit by a car.

TV IN REVIEW

Fonda To Play Clarence Darrow

NEW YORK (UPI) — Henry Fonda, who steps into the shoes of Clarence Darrow Wednesday night on NBC, is one of the iron men of acting.

At age 69, Fonda seems as energetic about "Clarence Darrow" as he was for his first performance in 1925 with the Community Playhouse in Omaha, Neb.

"I was a little worried about doing the play on television," said Fonda in a telephone interview from Seattle where he is on tour with a stage production. "Sometimes you can't transfer one work to another medium."

Fonda, however, did not seem terribly concerned. The 90 minute program, based on Irving Stone's novel "Clarence Darrow for the Defense," was prepared in the same fashion as a play — one continuous performance instead of being sliced into bits and pieces then thrown together the way films and television shows are done.

"We did it on two different nights," said Fonda. "The only difference from doing it as a play was that I was vaguely aware there were four cameras somewhere in the darkness."

But if Fonda had his choice, he'd step onto a stage before walking in front of camera.

"I really like the stage," he said. "It's more gratifying, you can create something on the stage. Films are less interesting. Everything is out of sequence and then it is put together. There's no magic in it for me. You can never remember anything afterwards. It goes so fast, maybe a minute and a half for a good scene.

"Hell, in the 40 years I have been acting, there's only one scene from a movie I really remember — that's when I said goodbye to Ma Joad in "The Grapes of Wrath."

"But when I did "Mr. Roberts" for 1,700 performances, every night was magic."

Fonda's theatrical performance of "Darrow," which has been praised by drama critics around the country, centers on several aspects of the celebrated lawyer's career.

Among the many great cases Fonda will step into are Darrow's defense of Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist leader accused of conspiracy in the railroad strike of 1894 and the defense of John T. Scopes of "Monkey Trial" fame. He also will offer Darrow's arguments in the Leopold-Loeb case.

During his performance, Fonda will use dialogue from many of Darrow's actual courtroom speeches. Many of them were rewritten slightly to anticipate responses from judges, juries and prosecutors.

Union Members Asked To Lend Helping Hand

AUSTIN (UPI)—Labor leaders are asking union members to spend today thinking of ways they can help the advancement of unskilled workers and laborers who are minorities.

"American workers have built the world's greatest nation," Texas AFL-CIO president Harry Hubbard and secretary-treasurer Sherman Fricks said in a joint statement. "They have — through their unions — won the highest standard of living for themselves and their families."

"As we enjoy recognition on our day, however, it is important for all Texans to remember those able-bodied persons who, because they are unskilled or belong to a minority, cannot find adequate or equitable employment.

"Labor Day, therefore should become a time of determined effort on the part of labor organizations, on the part of employers, on the part of government and on the part of every individual to remove all barriers which hinder any worker's advancement."

"When every person is working at his proper level regardless of race, creed, color, religion or sex, then the labor movement will have fulfilled its function."

Dear Consumer

Condos: Ask a Lot of Questions

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Housing experts tell me that within 20 years over 50 percent of the American population will be living in condominiums.

"Condos"—as they are being called—are apartments or townhouses that you buy in a multi-unit project. This year alone American consumers are expected to buy 220,000 "condos."

The main attraction of a condominium is that it allows the consumer to own his apartment or townhouse while at the same time sharing with the other condominium owners the responsibility and expense for the common facilities—halls, elevators, lobbies, grounds, parking lots and recreational areas.

Another important attraction is the tax benefits of a condominium. Because a condominium owner buys his unit as he would a house—with a down payment, a monthly mortgage payment and the payment of real estate taxes—he can take the same tax deductions as a conventional homeowner.

Although condominium living has some important advantages, there are also a growing number of complaints about shoddy construction, poor maintenance and hidden costs.

To avoid these problems when purchasing a condo, ask these questions before you buy!

• Is the down payment refundable? If not, don't put any money down until you are sure of a mortgage loan.

• Are there any settlement costs? They will require cash over and above your down payment.

• What will your monthly maintenance costs be? Add these costs to your mortgage down payment to find out the extent of your total monthly obligation.

• Are there any common areas that the condominium owners do not own? Some condominium developers retain ownership of common parts of the project, usually the recreational areas. In these instances you will be required to pay a monthly rent whether you use the facilities or not.

• Are there any restrictions on your right to re-sell?

254 Counties Lose People To Migration

AUSTIN (UPI) — Mainly because of the migration of blacks from rural areas to the larger cities, more than two thirds of Texas' 254 counties lost population during the 1960s, according to the editor of Texas Business Review.

Robert H. Ryan said Saturday a study of population shifts showed 185 of the 254 counties lost population through migration in the 10 year period ending in 1970, but in some of the counties the excess of births over deaths offset the migration losses.

"With striking consistency, the rural counties that have lost population through migration have lost proportionately far more Negroes than whites," Ryan said.

He said the state's black population increased 55 percent higher than the white population during the 1960s.

"Two factors accounted for this differential," Ryan said. "First, more than a third of Texas' total migration gain was due to an influx of Negroes, a dramatic contrast with the black flight from the Southeast. Second, the Negro birth rate has been very substantially higher than the white birth rate."

He said the black birth rate is one factor maintaining the population of Texas' inner cities. He said cities such as Baltimore, St. Louis and Detroit have lost population in their inner cities, but no Texas city has reported such a loss.

St. Louis University scientists have completed installation of a network of 16 earthquake detectors along the New Madrid fault zone, which runs south of St. Louis.

For suggestions of other questions you should ask before buying a condominium, you may want to get a free copy of Questions About Condominiums: What To Ask Before You Buy by writing to: Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

To provide information and ideas about condominium developments, the National Association of Condominium Owners has been formed. For more details about this new group, you may want to write to NACO at 529 14th St., NW, Suite 890, Washington, D.C. 20004.

But they also offer a custom trim service, even for those ready-made covers. Seat covers can be custom fitted with one-day service on most jobs at Hall Tire, with over 27 years of business to back it.

In addition to seat-covering and re-upholstering, Hall Tire Co. also features stereo components and accessories for both the home and car, with one of the largest and most complete stocks in the area.

The firm has one of the largest stocks of stereo tapes with a complete price range for eight-track players for both home and automobiles.

Residential Construction Drops 25 Percent Thus Far

AUSTIN (UPI) — Residential construction in Texas dropped 25 per cent during the first seven months of the year, according to a University of Texas Bureau of Business Research associate.

Constance Cooleage said Saturday the number of residential units authorized in the January through July period dropped 1,240 units below 1973 levels. All categories of residential construction—single family homes, duplexes, and apartment units—showed declines, particularly in metropolitan areas.

A 25 per cent increase in nonresidential construction accounted for a 6 per cent gain in total construction authorized during the first seven months of 1974.

The biggest declines in new buildings were in three and four family dwelling units and apartments, which dropped 26 per cent below last year's levels. Single family residence construction dropped 12 per cent. The biggest declines were in the metropolitan areas, while cities like Gladewater, Kilgore, Longview, Marshall, Huntsville and Victoria all reported gains in residential buildings.

Youth Hangs Himself, Warns Against Drugs

EVERETT, Wash. (UPI) — A teen-ager from San Francisco who hanged himself in the county jail left behind a note that said, "Drugs are no good for you."

The young man had been arrested two days earlier for possession of marijuana and 1,000 amphetamine tablets as well as theft of a credit card.

Authorities at the Snohomish County Jail said he hanged himself in his cell Saturday night with a television lead-in wire, leaving a note that said in part:

"I'd like to tell all the kids that drugs are no good for you. It gets you in all kinds of trouble. I've been through a lot of it. First I started out on pot, then LSD, speed, downers and I got all messed up myself. Put this on the news and tell all the kids out there 'please.' Thank you."

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS
... it tells you how
HOW TO MAKE BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES
If you planted a garden this year—and if that garden contained any cucumbers at all—chances are that you've about sated your appetite for the vegetable by now. All the more reason—since cucumbers tend to bear heavily right up until frost in many parts of the country—to finish off the harvest season with a few cans of old-timey, do-it-yourself pickles. Last year, I gave you the Shuttleworth family recipe for dilling cucumbers. This time around, how about bread and butter pickles?
You'll need one gallon of cucumbers. (You can use the larger ones that are too big and tough for salads and you won't even have to peel them unless they're really tough.) Slice and heavily salt the cukes and let them stand for two hours (if you put a few ice cubes on top, the slices will stay crisper during this part of the process).
Drain the cucumbers after their briny rest and add four large onions (sliced), four mangoes (sliced), two tablespoons of mustard seed, one tablespoon of celery seed, three cups sugar, three cups vinegar and one heaping teaspoon of turmeric.
Heat the mixture thoroughly but don't boil. This will probably require that you simmer and occasionally stir all the ingredients for about one-half hour. Then pack the pickles in sterilized jars, add a piece of alum the size of a pea to each container and seal every one with a sterilized, airtight lid.
For a mini-manual on canning, drying and root storing produce, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. Ask for Reprint No. 77, HOW TO PRESERVE PRODUCE.

Dear Abby

Hubby likes to "bathe with Abby"

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What would you say if I told you that a supposedly sane 50-year-old man refuses to take a bath without your column? If for some reason our newspaper ever quit printing it, I am sure he would rot.

As if this isn't bad enough, he is truly convinced that sometimes his wife tries to destroy the paper before he gets an opportunity to "bathe" with Abby.

Is he crazy, or just eccentric?

APPALLED DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Neither. He's adorable. Please ask him not to splash. I hate to get my hair wet!

DEAR ABBY: I love my husband, but sometimes I would like to wring his neck.

We have two kids, five and seven, and Joe keeps nagging me for more. He says he "loves" kids. Well, I love them, too, but he is making it very hard for me to raise them right.

If I say no, he says yes. When I tell the kids to go to bed and they beg to stay up later, he says: "Aw, why do you have to be so strict? Give 'em an extra half hour." And he says this right in front of the kids! If I don't go along with him, I am made to look like the mean one.

You always say the husband and wife should be on the same team, but how do you get a husband on your team when he always wants to be the "hero"?

CAN'T WIN FOR LOSIN'

DEAR CAN'T: Tell the "hero" (and not in front of the kids) that children NEED to know what they may and may not do, and parents who allow themselves to be manipulated are doing their children an injustice. Mom and Dad should make those decisions together and stick with them. Always be fair and just. But firm. That's parental love in action.

DEAR ABBY: I am living at home and my boyfriend, who lives out of state, is on a very limited income, so he has been writing airmail postcards instead of letters. He writes every day.

My mother has been reading his postcards. I am sure of it because she seems to know everything he has written on them. He sometimes gets a little mushy and also writes some short poems which I consider beautiful, but very personal.

I told my mother that I would appreciate it if she would NOT read my postcards, and she said anything written on a postcard could be expected to be read by the mailman and anyone else who handled it.

Abby, I feel that if a person has real character he will not read even a postcard. What do you think? OKLAHOMAN

DEAR OKIE: I think it is foolish to expect that which has been written on a postcard to remain confidential. Suggestion: Give your boyfriend his Christmas presents early, and send him some airmail postage stamps.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "EMBARRASSED NOW": My medical experts inform me that Herpes 2 should not (repeat NOT) be classified as a venereal disease. Although it is possible to contract it through sexual relations, it is by no means the ONLY way. No need for you to be embarrassed.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 4

Your birthday today; Consistent with your way of life and livelihood, this is your year for striking out on your own. For some this means relocating, for others, changing vocation or moving toward independence. Relationships are provocative, grow or dwindle according to the energy devoted to them. Today's natives often have strong mystical tendencies.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Old problems still vex or challenge you, depending on your inclination. Older people want attention, not drastic change. You'll have to delay personal projects.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Today needs no special arrangements, aside from minding your own business. Do those routines which serve basic requirements first.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Trust your own intuition to suggest your actions. Then, insist on following your suggestions, rather than those of friends.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Concern over public events makes personal moves more difficult. Examine what you're doing, if it's what you want to do and where it leads. Avoid stress.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Distant associates effect changes without consultation. Keep track of them. Attend neglected, incomplete work first; new projects can wait with no complication.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Speculation that appears a calculated risk is actually a gamble. You find long-term plans hard to keep in perspective. Present dilemmas aren't as difficult as they seem.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Career or business matters involve more people than is convenient. Revise and clarify your approach. Take one thing at a time. Home life proceeds slowly.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Don't expect extra work and responsibility, but ask the reason for it. Avoid or postpone formalities and legal procedures. Older people deviate from usual habits.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Give emotional support, encouragement, but no loans or grants right now. Unwittingly, you ask too much of family, friends, relatives. Think!

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Find the source of the immediate problem. Advance while the means are available. Whatever you settle tonight is permanent.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Attend to details, work systematically through encounter situations. For once, you're far better off listening than advising. Rest early.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: If you spend money, do so reasonably and promptly to benefit yourself and younger people. Charity still begins at home.

Home gardeners often make the error of planting vegetables too thick. When this occurs the plants should be properly thinned for maximum production.

How To Spot A Fad Diet

COLLEGE STATION — Fad diets may be harmful to health, and weight loss often isn't permanent. Fad diets severely limit food choice, often emphasizing only one or two foods. Nutritionally balanced diets include a variety of foods, giving the dieter a chance to eat foods he likes. Common fad diets suggest alterations in the protein, carbohydrate or fat intake.

'Politics' Without Force

The new Libertarian Party held a convention in Irving, Tex., the other day. Two hundred delegates showed up. They adopted a platform advocating free enterprise and condemning "victimless crimes."

We doubt that the Libertarian Party is a political organization in the same sense as the Republican Party or Democrat Party. Republicans and Democrats subscribe to the use of force for aggressive force; Libertarians hold that force, even if legal, should be limited to defensive purposes. We surmise that the function of the Libertarian Party will be to employ the political platform in order to counter political proposals with Libertarian alternatives.

This country can use a few alternatives. We have come into a situation which revolutions have virtually monopolized the art of protest. Oh sure, Republicans and Democrats protest one another's behavior, but the only difference is the amount of force that each is willing to use. Republicans wish to use all the force necessary and Democrats desire to employ all the force available. Neither objects to the force system. Revolutionists do object to the system — on grounds that the wrong people have charge of it and that more force can be made available with new revolutionary management.

In this three way tug-of-war, revolutionaries have been able to gain sympathies among the younger population by pointing to the injustices, inequalities, and unfairness of the existing

Libertarian Morals

Only a moral man can be a libertarian, for a libertarian professes to be guided by moral law.

The libertarian may be a Moslem, a Jew, a Christian, Shinto or other, but he must have some code to go by.

A libertarian is as opposed to man-made morals as he is to man-made law. The libertarian will tolerate the libertine who harms no one but himself, but will not mistake him for a co-believer.

No libertarian is immune from error. His distinctiveness is not that he never blunders, but that he tried to find out where he departed from his creed and holds himself accountable for having done so.

THE CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE

Fresh Hope For The GOP

By WM.A. RUSHER

One of the most immediate and predictable results of Richard Nixon's replacement by Gerald Ford is going to be a sharp upswing in the prospects of republican candidates in this fall's congressional elections.

It would be hard to imagine a bleaker outlook than the one faced by these same candidates only a month ago. Watergate had wracked the nation for over two years. Vice President Agnew had resigned in the teeth of "unrelated" charges of kick-backs. A motion to impeach President Nixon was nearing the floor of the House of Representatives, and every day its passage grew likelier. If it did pass, there would be a harrowing trail in the Senate, where a majority (though not yet the necessary two-thirds) seemed to favor his conviction and ouster. Whichever way a Republican candidate for either House indicated he would vote on the issue he was bound to alienate a major segment of his natural support.

As if all this weren't enough, double-digit inflation was eating away at Americans' earnings, savings and pensions, causing bitter dissatisfaction right across the board. The Democrats were quietly smacking their lips, and the AFL-CIO 'stop Washington lobbyist. Al Barkan, was openly calling and planning for a "veto-proof Congress" — i.e. a Congress so full of cooperative Democrats that there would be two-thirds majorities in both Houses to reimpose any labor-backed legislation that Nixon dared to veto. Many gloomy Republicans thought Barkan might just pull it off.

But today there is a brand new twinkle in your local Republican candidate's eye, and a noticeable spring to his step. However good or bad his chances were a month ago, they are a whale of a lot better today. Watergate, as a divisive factor in our national politics, has vanished as totally as Nineveh and Tyre. Richard Nixon is on his way to the limbo where Spiro Agnew dwells, and no candidate who wants to avoid the question need ever tell how he would have voted on the issue of Nixon's guilt. There is a new and wholly untainted Republican president in the White House — calmly self-confident, ruggedly handsome, transparently honest, hugely popular, and there isn't a Republican candidate from the rocky coast of

"I'D LIKE TO KEEP THESE LITTLE CHATS WITH THE PRESS AS INFORMAL AS POSSIBLE."

INSIDE REPORT
Deroyalizing

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — How far President Ford really intends to deroyalize the presidency depends on his reaction to a private proposal to slash the White House palace guard, both in its swollen numbers and special privileges.

The proposal from a former Nixon aide, plus several others, is now under scrutiny by the Ford transition staff, headed by Ambassador Donald Rumsfeld. Robert Hartmann, Mr. Ford's influential longtime aide and new counselor, has recommended drastic staff reductions. Mr. Ford tends to agree.

Nevertheless, skepticism among Ford partisans persists whether this President will be any more resolute than others in draconian reduction of his own staff.

What makes this so important to Mr. Ford is the pervasive contribution of the royaled presidency to Watergate and the disgrace of Richard M. Nixon. Grand Rapids Ford is plainshoe Midwestern, but even his presidency will retain imperial trappings if he keeps a huge White House staff isolated from the citizenry and inevitably made arrogant by the perquisites of office.

1. Limit the normal working day to 12 hours, five days a week. That would end the 7 a.m. - 10 p.m. work day, six days and often seven days a week, which were standard during the Nixon administration. Anybody working less was stigmatized as a shirker. Hence, the Nixon aide's horizon was bounded by the four walls of his White House office.

2. Require every aide to get out of Washington and visit the U.S.A. — whether Hagerstown, Md., or Los Angeles — at least once every six months. Failure to comply would require a written explanation.

3. Sharply reduce the physical size of the White House mess (presently seating 32), status symbol of presidential aides where prestige compensates for bland cuisine — perhaps turning it into a buffet-style lunch counter. That would encourage some aides, who never leave the White House, to eat outside several times a week, perhaps even on Capital Hill with the peoples' representatives.

4. Close down the White House barber shop. "If these guys can't get off their butts once a month to get their haircut like everybody else in the world, it's too damn bad," says the former aide.

5. Strictly limit the use of White House limousines to senior aides — perhaps no more than ten — compelling the President's men to join their fellow Americans behind the wheel fighting rush-hour traffic.

Question Box

Question No. 2110: Recently I read that a Southern California planning commissioner was resigning because of the new law requiring public officials to disclose their financial dealings. He was quoted as saying he didn't want to expose himself "to one more regulatory, investigative group." Does that mean there should be a double standard, one for government regulators, and another for the people they regulate?

Answer: That's what it looked like the man meant. But perhaps he is just wakened to the impossibility of the job of regulating the lives of the people without subjecting himself to the same sort of regulation and investigation.

Frankly, we think the politicians in state legislatures who have decided in all their wisdom that any person serving in any government position must disclose their personal financial dealings are on the wrong track, as is not at all unusual. Their avowed purpose is to try to uncover conflicts of interest, which have received quite a bit of publicity of late. If they pursue their avowed purpose of ending any conflict of interest, it would appear they are likely to eliminate any productive individual from a government position and fill positions with replacements of faceless, bureaucratic types.

We do not believe there should be any double standard of what is right and proper. We go with Thomas Jefferson in his statement that he believed what was right for the individual was right for government and that if something was wrong for an individual to do it was wrong for those in government to do it.

From the point of view of an impartial viewer, it would appear that those who are engaged in some governmental activity interfering with the rights of other individuals have abandoned their rights to privacy. A government planner by his very nature is a meddler in the lives of others and hardly is in position to object to meddling by others into his private affairs.

However, we would advocate not more meddling in lives of people, but less. This would be a good time for all planners to resign from their government meddling. It also would be a good idea for all others, such as city councilmen, county supervisors and all others to withdraw from their meddling activities. Then there would be no need for disclosure of personal affairs that might result in interest conflicts.

We realize that politicians are not likely to start withdrawing from such activities of control. For these activities are the source of their personal power and prestige. If government ever returned to its natural prerogatives of protecting lives and property, most of the politicians would be out of business. And they will not willingly give up the chance to become all-powerful meddlers.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS NASA Communications Fuzzy To Americans

By PAUL HARVEY

Next year, July 15, two Russian cosmonauts will be launched from somewhere in Russia into an orbit 130 miles above earth.

Three American astronauts will lift off in their Apollo command ship 7½ hours later from Canaveral.

Fifty hours later the two spacecraft will link up. For two days the crews will work together on scientific experiments, moving back and forth between their craft and ours, sharing meals.

So what? Why do we spend so much money on space research? What's it good for? It's hard to say.

Space exploration has been one of our best investments, yet NASA, when asked for an accounting, finds it difficult to translate its own accomplishments into language that Congress and you I can understand. It's hard to say, but today you and I are going to try.

How would you like for me to read to you from the latest Technology Utilization Compilation? Neither of us would understand much because the text is as technical as the title. The book includes references to thousands of devices, techniques, systems and substances developed through space research and applicable to industrial or medical use — things we've learned in space from which earthmen benefit.

Unless you are an engineer, how much does it mean to hear that NASA-sponsored research has led to the adaptation of fuel cells for ground power uses; that NASA-developed fire-retardant materials now being commercial airlines are helping to make air travel even safer; that a NASA system for analyzing the alloys in metals does in 30 minutes what used to take days? You're still impressed that your Teflon-frying pan was a fringe benefit of space research but infinitely more important accomplishments are beyond our intellectual grasp.

— Antipollution detection equipment.
— A sewage flow meter eliminating sewage backups.
— Separation techniques for recycling nonferrous metals from junked cars profitably.
— The new less costly flat wiring in your home adapted from aerospace research.
— Several fire-retardant materials now saving lives.
— Tomorrow's electric cars may be powered by batteries developed for the Moonrover. Your car may soon have better brake linings because materials had to be developed for high-temperature space applications.
— The newest all-weather thermoplastic patch material used for pothole patching in your street was first a binder for solid fuel rocket propellants.

Bio medical breakthroughs: the rechargeable cardiac pacemaker, cardiac diagnostic computer, portable Echocardioscope, Pericardial Stress Transducer. These and scores more medical engineering tools, byproducts of space research, may add years to your life.

And if I were to talk this fast about nothing else starting right now, this list would grow faster than I could recite details of each new breakthrough.

Economizing, we can better afford to cut almost any other corner.

— Ford promised no illegal surveillance. Any bugging or break-ins will be strictly legal.

ENDLESSLY

The president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees was quoted recently as advising his union members to object if local governments use the so-called revenue sharing money from Washington for "wholesale tax cuts instead of increased public services." The phrase "increased public services" is another way of saying "let's load up the public payroll with still more bureaucrats," who will then promulgate more regulations with which to control you, and create more piles of paper which can then be shuffled — endlessly.

It would be folly to expect this union president to admit that there is such a thing as too much government. One might almost conclude that he and his members have ceased to regard themselves as servants of the public and now see things the other way around.

U.S. Open Tennis To Continue Today

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — The U.S. Open tennis championships got down to deadly serious business today, with eight men gunning for berths in the quarter-finals of the world's richest tournament.

After a tense Labor Day program which saw Jimmy Connors and Stan Smith, the prospective bridegrooms, move into the fourth round, and rising young powerman Roscoe Tanner spill the tempestuous Romanian star Ilie Nastase, the women's single survivors were given the day off to allow the men to fight for their quarter-final places.

Putting their title hopes on the line were defending champion John Newcombe and that other incomparable Australian, Ken Rosewall. Newcombe was going against South Africa's Roy Moore, while Rosewall, loser to Connors in the Wimbledon final, was cranking up his 39-year old bones to take on 21-year old Raul Ramirez of Mexico.

Arthur Ashe, winner of the first Open here in 1968, met Argentina's Guillermo Vilas and the new darling of the crowd, the soft-spoken, smoothstroking, unseeded Vijay Amritraj of India challenge 11th seed Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill.

The holiday's biggest match saw the 22-year old Tanner, possessor of possibly the game's hottest serve today, overcome Nastase's antics to pull out a breath-taking five set win, 4-6, 6-7, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

In women's play Monday, form again held with Billie Jean King brushing by the most promising newcomer, Betsy Nagelsen, 6-4, 6-2, and BJK's pal, Rosemarie Casals, handling another bright new face, Australia's Dianne Fromholtz, 7-6, 6-2.

Tiny Ann Kiyomura of San Mateo, Calif., who had stunned seventh-seeded Britain Virginia Wade on Sunday, was herself taught a brisk lesson by veteran Nancy Gunter, 6-2, 6-2 and Julie Heldman of Houston

Kicking Game To Be Solid For Harvesters

Last Year's number one punter in the district, Rick Leverich, heads the list of Pampa kickers this season.

Leverich, who averaged 46.5 yards per boot in district play last year, returns along with kickoff man Howie Lewis as the two should make Pampa strong in the kicking field.

Joe Couis, who booted two extra points against Vernon Friday, and Mark Baird, strong-legged senior, will handle extra points and field goals for the Harvesters.

Senior Backfield Should Be Potent

Because of what happened a year ago, the Pampa Harvester backfield has become the most underrated backfield in the district.

None of the members of this year's starting backfield played consistently (time-wise) in every game last season. Seniors Chuck Quarles and Rick Leverich both saw action at quarterback. Senior Tim Thornburg was a starter at halfback but alternated with several other backs. And senior David Smith, starting fullback this year was not even in the backfield last season.

So it's a brand new set of backs as far as playing together goes. And, judging from Friday night's scrimmage against the Vernon Lions, the four seniors are probably the most potent unit the Harvesters have.

Leverich gained 85 yards on 11 carries, including a 38-yard touchdown run. The 5-11, 175-pound left halfback is likely to become all-everything when post-season honors are handed out. Leverich, who was Pampa's quarterback early last season and a running back towards the end of the season, proved himself to be a swift breakaway runner Friday night.

one. Bunky Preston of Amarillo, quit after playing 18 Monday.

Scores were far from being impressive Monday. Even Weston, who fired an eight-under 63 Sunday, did poorly Monday with 77 for the first 18 and 77 for the final 18.

The Plainview amateur fought off a strong challenge by Tom Jones of Oklahoma State, first round leader by eagling the par-five 18th to win by only a stroke.

Jones caught Weston after the latter bogied 10 and double bogied 12 and passed Weston on number 13. Jones led down to the final hole before Weston placed his tee shot 90 yards from the green on the 440-yard dog-leg right.

Weston sunk a five-foot putt on the 18th for an eagle while Jones, who was playing in the foursome just in front of Jones, who settled for par on the hole, watched Weston knock in a five-foot putt to win the tournament.

Jones shot 75-73 for the round. In third place was John Zett of Amarillo, 286; followed by John Farquhar of Amrillo, 289; and Robert Cleland, Amarillo, 295.

Other scores in the championship flight were David Edwards, OSU, 300; Bob Buckley, OSU, 300; Allen Johnson, Amarillo, 302; Steve Talbot, OSU, 302; Ken Bailey, Amarillo, 302; Les Howard, Ashtabula, Ohio, 304; Jim Simpson, Pampa, 305; Eddie Duenkl, Pampa, 306; David Parker, Pampa, 306; Gene Gizzarelli, OSU, 311; and Bob Enger, OSU, 313.

First flight winner was Lee Ziegelgruber of Pampa with a 22 after a 79 Monday. He was followed by Elmer Wilson of Pampa, 223 (74); Mack Osborn of Lubbock and Ralph Prock of Pampa.

Other flight winners were:

Second — Harry Aureli, Dallas; third — Roy Stephens, Pampa; fourth — Loyd Stephens, Oklahoma City; fifth — Dr. Frank Kelley, Pampa; sixth — Lee Waters, Pampa; seventh — Paul Dart, Garden City, Kan.; eighth — Joe Franklin, Pampa; ninth — Ben Sturgeon, Pampa; Tenth — Tom Gindorf, Los Angeles, Calif.; eleventh — Dr. Bill Walsh, Pampa.

Quarles will make Pampa's wishbone offense a triple threat since he is quick on handoffs and can throw the ball well or scramble if he has to.

Lining up behind Quarles will be David Smith, a 5-11, 175-pound fullback. "He's a good blocker and a good hard runner," said Harvesters coach John Welborn. "He does a real good job blocking, inside and as a lead blocker outside."

The four seniors will have capable backups in junior quarterback Johnny Agan (5-11, 160), junior fullback Frankie Lemons (6-0, 197), senior left half Willis Price (6-0, 145) and senior right half Mike Adair (5-10, 150).

ToT CHAMPION — Dick Weston, who missed this putt on 17, captured the 37th Top O' Texas Invitational championship with an eagle on the last hole, giving him a one-shot win over Tom Jones of Oklahoma State. (Photo by Jim Williams)

And A Lot Of Apples A Day ...

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is fruit fattening? My daughter eats a lot of fresh fruit, mostly apples and oranges. She has been putting on a lot of weight.

Where she works she has a lot of bending down to do on her job. She says it is hard for her to bend. She has most of the fat on her stomach. The boss lady told her not to eat apples or oranges because they are fattening. She said her doctor told her about it. My daughter is 26. — Mrs. J.J.

I'll accept your implication that your daughter is fat — and getting fatter. But when you say she eats "a lot" of apples and oranges, I'd like to know what you mean by "a lot."

If she's a "muncher" who has to be eating whenever the chance occurs, she could get enough extra calories from apples and oranges to add to her weight — assuming that she is getting just enough to supply her daily needs at her regular meals.

But I would rather doubt that to be the case. My guess is that she's a fairly hearty eater at her regular meals, and her apples and oranges merely add to her problem. They don't cause it.

To call fruit "fattening" is not a fair statement. (Although canned fruit, if it is sweetened, can represent a lot of calories because of the added sugar.)

Specifically, a medium or somewhat larger apple or orange will range from about 75 to 100 calories. A hamburger patty not that large would be 300. A malted milk can run 400 to 500 calories, a medium, lean pork chop 200.

A tablespoon of butter or jelly contains as many calories as a pretty large apple. A three-inch cut of apple pie can go 200 or more calories, and some other kinds of pie much more than that.

So unless she's eating an awful lot of apples a day, she'd better take the pains to find out which are the really "fattening" foods and which ones aren't.

When she's so fat that it's hard to bend, one thing is certain: she's eating more food than she needs, and the excess is being stored in her body as fat.

There are three things most fat people have in common. They don't realize how much they eat; they have never learned that they don't need that much; and quite often they have never bothered to find out which edibles contain 100 calories or more per ounce and which ones don't.

I'd suggest that you send me a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents and I'll send a copy of my booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing."

If your daughter will really read it and understand it, she can get rid of that big bothersome stomach. Or if she insists that she can't do it, tell her to join TOPS or Weight Watchers, and she'll see that as others can do it, so can she.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that normal vision is 20-20. I am 76 and have cataracts and dystrophy of the cornea. My vision is 20-70 in one eye and 20-60 in the other. Would you explain what these figures mean? — Mrs. A.P.

The figures mean that you can only see at 20 feet what you should be able to see at 60 or 70 feet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 14 and have never worn or planned on wearing a bra until my mother told me I am damaging the tissues and if I don't wear one now I'll regret it later.

But I have read that unless you have super-duper large breasts you don't need a bra. What do you say? — J.L.

No, you aren't "damaging the tissues" by not wearing a bra. Best rule is to wear one if breasts are large enough so you are uncomfortable without one.

For a better understanding of colitis and other intestinal ailments, their causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of him, Dr. George C. Thosteson at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 for a copy of his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents. IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Why, Bobby LOVES Girls!

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Bobby Riggs sat in the 21 Club with pretty blond voluptuous actress Sandra Giles and mapped his next battle in his war with women which must never end.

"I'm trying to arrange a $50,000 golf match with Carol Mann — she's not afraid of me," Bobby said. Sandra Giles gave him a look, as Ring Lardner once said, "you could be poured on a waffle."

"Are you a good golfer?" I asked. "Good enough to beat Carol Mann if I can work out the right handicap," he said. "A woman challenged me to a golf-tying contest and offered me a 6-second handicap. I may challenge the woman bowling champion."

Since his first mixed-sex tennis, his "Mother's Day Massacre" of Margaret Court, he's earned $1.5 million in gimmicks.

Sandra Giles said lovingly, "I don't think it was nice of Billie Jean King to refuse to play you again after she said she would."

"Biggest double-cross in the history of sports," said Bobby, his eyes blazing through his glasses. He sipped a soft drink. He had gone on the wagon just hours before. "Billie Jean outthrust the hustler, who is me. She doesn't want to risk me evening it up."

"The girls all love that old guy Bobby Riggs," he said. "They can't keep their hands off me, they want to run their hands through my hair. That's because Billie Jean beat me and they're back on Cloud 9 telling their husbands a woman beat a man."

"You're not a male chauvinist?" "Kinda like women," he said. "I think every man should have two."

"How about a girl having two guys?" Sandra asked. "I know one who does," smiled Bobby.

"Bobby, you know I love you!" the voluptuous creature said and nobody noticing how close she sat to him could have doubted that the young lady meant it.

John Lindsay will announce he's "reconnecting" with his old law firm, Webster, Sheffield, Fleischman, Hitchcock & Brookfield. Richard Widmark was walking along Madison Av. when a woman passerby said "You're beautiful." He didn't know till now it was Sarah Churchill ... Paul Anka, whose "You're Having My Baby" record is No. 1, was cast for a dramatic role on "Kojak," which, with his jetting around to singing dates, keeps him rather busy.

THE MIGHTY EARL ... Ethel Smith fractured a leg leaving her show in Falmouth, Mass., and is around on a crutch ... The City Squire Hotel was renamed the Americana Inn.

Veteran B'wayite Don Weatheron, 87, showed up at Wally's and told George Koch he couldn't stand in a Florida retirement community. "That's for old people!" he sneered.

Lionel Hampton's eye surgeon Dr. Charles Kelman sang, played the sax and told jokes at the Rainbow Grill during Hampton's show, explaining "his medical blackmail. I operated on a cataract for Lionel and told him he had to give me a break in show business if he wants me to do the other eye."

Spectators said as a comic he is a great surgeon. "There's flattery talk in NY's garment district that Mrs. Ford'll visit in mid-September to choose a wardrobe ... Alan King had to stand through much of the show at crowded Buddy's Place when Buddy Rich returned. "So what?" shrugged Alan. "I stood for Toscanini. I'll stand for Rich." "Skinsy Dip tours is booking a nudist Thanksgiving vacation in the Caribbean. "Only the turkey will be dressed!"

Show Biz Quiz: Who was the original "It Girl"? (No, not Clara Bow). Ans. to yesterday's: Richard Dix played "The Whistler" in the film series.

Stu Gilliam'll play the scarecrow in "The Wiz," the all-black B way version of "Wizard of Oz." (A top show biz name was asked to join the cast but there were salary and billing disagreements) ... A diner told Imogene Coca at Pier 52. "We think your series with Sid Caesar is the funniest thing on TV." (Someone whispered, "It's been off for years and years — I wonder what kind of set he gets it on.")

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A businessman who's had trouble collecting bills told Ray Fine. "When things are bad, people don't change their style of living — just their style of paying."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: They tell of the small, dull town where the only thing open all night was the mailbox.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "I have a simple philosophy. Fill what's full, empty what's full, and scratch were it itches." — Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

EARL'S PEARLS: Walter

Brennan said it: "I've seen them come and go. First it's the big house, then the big car and the big head. Then they lose the big house and the big car, and all they got left is the big head."

By the end of '75 (notes Marty Ragaway) there'll be five American and Russian astronauts in space together. "Next thing they'll want up there is a singles bar."

That's earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

Under Twenty

By JEANNE HARRISON

On the charts this time around, there are only two new titles in the Top Ten singles: "Then Came You" from Dionne Warwick and the Spinners and "Can't Get Enough of Your Love, Baby" from Barry White. Maybe with the summer winding down, however, there'll be more action the next few times.

Meanwhile, here's the latest tabulation:

2. "Fulfillingness First Finale" — Stevie Wonder

Jerry Garcia, the Grateful

Dead's superb guitarist, has come up with a rock album of his own. "Garcia." Well worth spinning. Adding some Jamaican rhythm, Herbie Mann takes his flute on a musical journey with "Reggae." Among the featured songs is "Ob-La-Di, Ob-La-Da."

Riding an ever-higher crest of popularity, the Lettermen should cash in with their latest album, "Now and Forever." It's the type of longplay geared to pleasing a large segment of their audience. Also, lend an ear to The Righteous Brothers in "Give It to the People."

CRUISES UP

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — Cruise ship visitors to Jamaica rose 28 per cent in 1973, compared with the year before, the Jamaica Tourist Board announced. Revenues from tourism were up 6.4 per cent for the year, with a total of 509,707 visitors arriving last year compared with 479,256 in 1972. Of last year's total, 91,450 were cruise ship passengers.

United Press International Today is Tuesday, Sept. 3, the 246th day of 1974 with 119 to follow.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo. American engineer and teacher Louis Henry Sullivan was born Sept. 3, 1850.

On this day in history: In 1783, the signing of the Treaty of Paris officially ended the American Revolutionary War. The new country had won its independence from Great Britain.

In 1916, the Allies turned back the Germans in World War I's Battle of Verdun.

In 1939, Great Britain declared war on Germany. France followed six hours later, quickly joined by Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada.

In 1943, Allied forces invaded the Italian mainland in World War II.

A thought for the day: British wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons, "...I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, sweat and tears."

PERFUMED BREWERY

LUTON, England (UPI) — The Whitbread Brewery is putting on new airs these days — an aroma "rather like an old-fashioned barbershop."

Brewery directors began injecting a special rose-scented perfume into the air to kill off the escaping smell of yeast and hops after complaints from people who live near the plant.

WHY COMPLAIN?

CHESTER LE STREET, England (UPI) — Five women who spent a total of $25.40 on drinks at a pub complained to the Consumer Protection Agency because they woke up the next morning without hangovers.

Tests proved the drinks were not watered down, and consumer protection officer Robert Morrison told the ladies, "some people have far greater capacity for alcohol than others."

MUM'S THE WORD

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI) — Chivalrous police refused to identify the "Mrs. X" who set a dubious record at a drivers competition.

After a confident start, she plowed through two garage walls, demolished four fences, knocked down a brick wall then zoomed straight down the slalom course and hit every obstacle for 262 penalty points against an average of 60.

Society Calls For 'Giving' Changes

The dog days of August are hardly the time to begin thinking seriously about Christmas.

Unless, of course, you are Bob Kochtitzky, Jean Foggo, Beth Fannon, Amy Henkel or Tom McCarthy — the staff of Alternatives.

You wouldn't know it by looking at them, but the Alternatives staff is part of the counterculture, the creative, serious side of the counterculture. They're into a lot of things in the area of action and education for developing lifestyles, institutions and methods of social change that free people to be themselves.

One of the things they are most seriously into is Christmas and the "giving" aspects — the traditional emphasis on commercial consumption.

Instead, as its name implies, Alternatives would like to promote different ways of giving.

"We feel a national movement for life-supporting celebrations is the next step in our commitment to harness the power of celebrations for social justice, environmental conservation and world peace," they say in a forward to the second edition of the Alternate Christmas Catalogue.

"As we believe that celebration is a necessary part of life, we also believe that giving (self, money and things) is necessary and good, so long as it is life-supporting," they add.

But at the same time, as they look around at much of the practice of giving and celebrating, it seems little of it is in any way life supporting.

"Materialism, pollution, the rape of the earth's resources and the continuation of colonialism are the fruits of our celebration process," they say. "The alternatives of celebrating simply, making gifts, buying from self-help craft groups, diverting money to people-and-earth oriented projects represent a new philosophy of giving."

That philosophy is a familiar topic for sermons and it reaches a virtual crescendo as Christmas approaches. But all too often, in the view of the Alternatives staff, it is just words and even if people were convinced by the words they would not have the practical resources for changing their styles.

The Alternate Christmas Catalogue is an attempt to change that by offering concrete ways and means of changing the materialist celebration of Christmas.
