Japanese Gunmen Get Release For Comrade

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Three Japanese Red Army gunmen holding the French ambassador and eight other weary hostages under death threat Saturday won the release of a comrade jailed in France and an offer of safe passage out of Holland.

The government ordered a KLM Royal Dutch DC8 jetliner readied at Amsterdam's international airport and a volunteer crew arrived to fly the guerrillas to freedom.

A last-minute snag developed when the government refused to allow the plane to leave unless the guerrillas laid down their weapons and disclosed their destination. The extremists apparently balked.

An estimated 200 policemen lined the modern glass and concrete French embassy where the three "Japanese Red Army" gunmen seized French ambassador Count Jacques Senard, 54, and eight other persons Friday.

As the tense drama wore on into its second day, policemen took up positions in an uncompleted government building 30 yards from the embassy building.

Long-haired police officers in blue-and-black uniforms smoked pipes to pass the time as they stood ready with highpowered rifles and sub-machineguns cradled in their arms.

A French government spokesman in Paris, however, ruled out a direct assault on the embassy in an effort to rescue the hostages.

At one point during the negotiations, Ambassador Senard poked his head from his office window and shouted down to Dutch Foreign ministry officials on the street below. The message was not released.

Dutch Premier Joop Den Uyl headed initial negotiations with the three extremists, but then flew to Paris to keep a scheduled dinner appointment with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Arriving in Paris, Den Uyl said: "The situation is improving a little, but remains very grave. Contact with the terrorists has been broken several times but we hope the hostages will be saved and all the efforts of the government are directed towards this goal.

"We have a very close collaboration with the French government and I hope this affair will be terminated tomorrow."

A spokesman for the French Interior Ministry said, "the last of the solutions being considered is a direct intervention. There are nine persons involved and the Dutch government has no intention of putting their lives in peril."

Dutch Interior Minister de Gaay Fortman took over from Den Uyl to conduct the negotiations. Government sources close to the talks said the two sides spoke at short intervals over the telephone.

French authorities bowed to a guerrilla ultimatum early Saturday and released Red Army member Yutaka Furuya from Paris' Sante prison, where he had been jailed on charges of entering France with forged passports and counterfeit money.

Furuya, 25, was flown to Amsterdam's international airport, 35 miles from the Hague. Police kept Furuya handcuffed in a yellow airport car during the long negotiations.

The gunmen, armed with three pistols and a hand grenade, held their captives in the ambassador's office on the top floor of the five-story building.

During the takeover of the embassy, one gunman wounded two police officers — one of them a woman — in a brief gunbattle.

TerHorst Reveals Frictions In Staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's former press secretary, Jerald F. TerHorst, said Saturday that Ford is spending "an inordinate amount of time" keeping peace between his own aides and those left over from the Nixon staff.

TerHorst told UPI his comments, made in a syndicated column, were more a lament than a criticism.

Much of the friction, TerHorst said, results from the extraordinarily rapid change in chief executives — exactly 28 minutes for a transfer of presidential power which under normal circumstances stretches leisurely from an election day in early November to Inauguration Day the following Jan. 20.

He said Ford aides walked into the White House "without titles indicating their duties and without desks at which to sit," while most of the Nixon staff remained on the job at Ford's request and "were still in power."

TerHorst, who resigned last Sunday in protest of Ford's pardon for former President Nixon, said White House Chief of Staff Alexander Haig became "the acting president" during Nixon's last year in office and kept control of the administrative machinery after Ford took office.

He also said "some Ford men suspect Haig of unduly influencing Ford to issue his pardon of Richard Nixon on the grounds that the former president's physical and emotional well-being was at stake."

"Even putting aside the national furor over the Nixon pardon, Ford is spending an inordinate amount of time soothing his loyalists and placating the sensitive feelings of Haig," TerHorst wrote.

Officials Discuss Boycott In Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Black leaders and city officials met separately Saturday to decide what steps they might take to make a reality of court-ordered school integration in Boston — frustrated for two days by rock-throwing and boycotts involving at first white students and then blacks as well.

The chairman of the local branch of the NAACP said a decision on requesting several marshals to protect black children from jeering, stone-throwing whites would depend on whether the city could guarantee adequate protection by city police.

The city was calm Saturday after two days of tension and scattered violence.

At least 23 persons were arrested and another 21 injured Thursday and Friday as the nation's oldest public school system began the federally ordered busing plan. Classes were scheduled to resume Monday.

As black leaders discussed the possibility of asking for federal marshals to quell the violence, Thomas I. Atkins, head of the Boston chapter of the NAACP, indicated he would take up the question at a news conference scheduled for Sunday.

More than 54,000 students attended classes citywide Friday, although in South Boston, focus of most of the trouble, officials said that only four per cent showed up. South Boston High was previously all white.

South Boston is a predominantly white Irish Catholic area, with a population of about 38,000. The demonstrators generally have numbered between 300 and 500.

Whites stoned busloads of blacks in three incidents in the Hyde Park and Roslindale sections of the city. Six youngsters sustained minor injuries.

WITHOUT DISCUSSION

County Commissioners Okay Salary Measure

The pay raise proposed for Gray county officials and employees are due to go into effect Oct. 1, 1974.

At Saturday's meeting of Gray County Commissioners Court the salary adjustment measure passed unanimously and without discussion.

Only five spectators showed up for the fourth and final session at which the matter had appeared on the published agenda.

At a previous meeting, a delegation from the Tax Assessor and Collectors office had appeared.

A spokesman expressed disappointment regarding the $50 per month workers in that department were scheduled to receive, maintaining that, in view of recent increases in work loads, the increase should be $100.

Since that time there apparently has been no organized, vocal opposition to the proposed raises.

Following is a list of new pay scales as published recently in legal advertisements and news accounts in The News.

The first figure is the current monthly salary, the second figure is the new salary, with the dollar amount of the increase in parentheses:

County Judge — from $1,201.71 to $1,401.71 ($200)

Tax Assessor — Collector — from $929.69 to $1,079.69 ($150)

Sheriff — from $901.58 to $1,051.58 ($150)

County Clerk — from $899.69 to $1,049.69 ($150)

County Treasurer, County Attorney, and District Clerk — same figures as for County Clerk.

County Commissioner — from $685.75 to $785.75 ($100)

Justices of the Peace — from $500.86 to $600.86 ($100)

Contables — from $473.04 to $573.04 ($100)

Foremen, Road & Bridge

— from $597.56 to $672.56 ($75)

Chief Deputy Sheriff — from $617.98 to $717.98 ($100)

Field Deputies — from $563.29 to $663.29 ($100)

All others — $50 increase.

Monthly travel allowances of the County Judge and County Commissioners are to be raised from the present $100 to $150.

In other action Saturday the county commissioners: — Heard from County Judge Don Cain a report on the County Available Fund which he had previously presented to school board meetings at Pampa and McLean.

Both those boards have voted to request a partial distribution of the fund, which is controlled by commissioners court.

— Okayed a bid from Harold Barrett Ford for providing a 1974 pickup truck (with trade-in of a 1969 Chevrolet half-ton pickup). The bid, in the amount of $1,195, was the only one received. The money will come from revenue sharing funds.

— Approved payment of $1,241.46 to Lewis Construction Co., Inc. for work on the Courthouse Annex parking lot.

— Accepted reports from the County Treasurer and the County Welfare Director.

— Moved to advertise for bids for materials to construct a by-pass crossing of a creek in Precinct 1.

Joe Clark, Precinct 1 commissioner, said replacement of an existing bridge would cost about $60,000, whereas installation of a culvert system would cost only a fraction of that amount and would prove adequate, since the creek floods only about once every 30 years.

OF SPECIAL REPORT

Task Force Urges Support For Aims

Three members of the Pampa Drug Task Force appeared before the Downtown Pampa Kiwanis Club Friday noon and urged support of the group's recommendations for attacking the drug problem in Pampa schools.

The recommendations were made in a detailed report issued by the Task Force after a six-month study of the situation.

Appearing at the civic club luncheon were Mrs. Reed Echols, task force chairman, and D.W. Bond and Don Lusher, members of the county-city appointed committee which went into action last December.

Mrs. Echols told Kiwanians the committee had spent a great deal of time and vast research on the project and had come up with recommendations about which something should now be done.

"We are extremely concerned about what we found," Mrs. Echols said, "and believe the report and the recommendations should not just be read and then put aside."

"The next step is up to the community and now is the time to start action," she said.

Mrs. Echols introduced Bond who read from the committee's long list of recommendations and proposals which the task force believes would help solve the drug problem locally.

"We spent six months getting the information contained in our report," Bond said. "It came from personal investigations and questionnaires submitted to teachers, counselors and students."

Bond said there is definitely a drug problem in Pampa schools although it is not believed to be as extensive as a year or two ago.

Bond also pointed-out that the Task Force had learned through its delving into the drug problem that there is equally an alcohol problem among local students.

Lusher discussed more of the task force recommendations in his review of the report.

He also stated the drug abuse problem was decreasing some and now is most prevalent among students in grades 7 through 12, the junior and senior high school grades.

The Pampa News is publishing a series of articles dealing with the Task Force report and recommendations.

President Shifts Attention To Foreign Policy Issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford conferred with the National Security Council and key U.S. negotiators Saturday in preparation for renewed talks with the Soviets on nuclear arms control and troop deployment.

Ford shifted his attention from troubling domestic issues to foreign policy problems that eluded Richard M. Nixon's final attempts at solution — the need for a new Strategic Arms Limitation pact and an agreement to reduce the forces ranged along the frontiers of central Europe.

The President first met with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, and then for more than two hours with the National Security Council in discussions understood to include a review of U.S. strategy at next week's resumption of the U.S.-Soviet SALT talks in Geneva.

The talks broke off in stalemate March 19 and Nixon was unable to make any progress toward a second-round SALT accord when he visited the Soviet Union in May.

Ford has to deal with disagreements on SALT objectives within his own administration as well as the disputes between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Pardon Hurts Ford's Credibility

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whatever his motives, President Ford's grant of complete pardon to Richard M. Nixon may well cost a very dear price — his credibility with an American people hungry for a president they can trust.

One week after his bombshell pardon announcement, followed by a series of confusing White House statements intended to soften the blow, the new president has conceded he is in trouble.

Privately, he is reported to have told friends that he wound up with "egg on his face." Publicly, at his golf match at Pinehurst, N.C., with pros in their own game, Ford remarked wryly:

"I spent much of today in an unsuccessful attempt to get a hole in one. Tomorrow I'll be back in Washington trying to get out of one."

In one week, Ford has seen his old friend, J.F. TerHorst, quit in protest as White House press secretary; has angered Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, and has dismayed some of his strongest Republican supporters on Capitol Hill.

Publicly, he and the White House defend the pardon as an "act of mercy" and compassion for a man who already has suffered enough from the indignity of having been the first American president forced to resign.

The White House concedes Ford's decision was unpopular. A massive outpouring of telegrams, letters and telephone calls establish that. But to his political friends and foes, what hurt Ford most was not necessarily the pardon but its timing.

Compounding the President's problems was the subsequent attempt — eventually disavowed — to defuse the sudden surge of criticism by suggesting Ford seriously was considering a blanket pardon for all Watergate figures.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia characterized Ford's fall from grace this way: "His believability, which was his greatest asset, has been undermined." One of his party's shrewdest politicians, Byrd was not displeased.

During his confirmation hearings to be vice president, Ford had testified that "I do not think the public would stand for it" should he become president, then pardon Nixon.

Even as late as Aug. 28, Ford told a news conference it would be "unwise and untimely" for him to commit himself to a Nixon pardon until the former President's case had run its course through the courts. It is known Ford intended to pardon Nixon eventually.

Yet two days after that news conference, Ford quietly asked his old friend and former Grand Rapids law partner, Philip W. Buchen, to make discreet inquiries about a pardon. One of the first things Buchen reported back — to Ford's apparent surprise — was that a president could grant a pardon even before an indictment.

STANDING GUARD — As police stand guard, black students arrive at the predominantly all white South Boston High School. Thousands of Boston school children refused to enter court-ordered desegregated schools last week. Black leaders and city officials met Saturday to discuss the situation.

Dissension Plagues Texas Demos

AUSTIN (UPI) — Democrats convene their 1974 state convention at Municipal Auditorium Tuesday with liberals and Wallaceites threatening to defy Gov. Dolph Briscoe's predictions of harmony.

Houston city controller Leonel Castillo already has announced plans for a liberal-backed challenge to the re-election of Briscoe's hand-picked party chairman, Calvin R. Guest of Bryan.

At least 15 disgruntled groups are contesting the seating of delegations from their areas. One Dallas rump group even filed a lawsuit seeking a court order to bar party officials from seating a delegation headed by Walter P. Morgan Jr.

A temporary credentials committee is slated to begin hearing the disputes at 9 a.m. Sunday.

Briscoe predicted last week that the only convention fights would be over credentials and said he expected the rest of the session to be "relatively harmonious."

The governor also said he expects Guest to win reelection without any serious opposition.

"I see an open convention, one that will be a fair convention where every part of the Democratic Party will have a chance to have its say," Briscoe said. "I hope it will be a relatively harmonious convention, and I believe it will be."

Castillo, however, told the Harris County Democratic Executive Committee last week "I frankly feel our state Democratic Party—its leadership—stinks. I feel Calvin Guest ought to be removed and I intend to oppose Mr. Guest."

The Houston official said he thinks he will start out with the support of 25 to 30 per cent of the convention delegates "who would go with anybody who opposes those guys."

Castillo said he hopes to get the backing of most minority members unhappy with what he feels has been the party's insensitivity and of metropolitan area delegates "who aren't happy with all the leaders being from places like Bryan."

Guest also drew fire in advance from M.E. Bradford of Dallas, a state committeeman from the 8th Senatorial District and a Wallace leader.

Bradford charged Guest's appointment of Robert W. "Corky" Smith of Dallas to chair the temporary credentials committee violated "his sworn word to me that no one from Dallas County would be on the credentials committee."

Area Demos, GOP Delegates Head To Meets

A number of Gray County residents will leave today to attend the state conventions of the Democratic and Republican political parties.

Both conventions will convene Tuesday. Democrats in Austin and the GOP in Houston.

Preconvention activities for Republicans include credentials, rules and orders, and business committees. Democrats will conduct caucuses for election of committee members.

The GOP state executive committee will meet Monday, followed by informal workshops. Democrats will also conduct various committees business.

Attending the GOP convention from the Pampa area are Congressman Bob Price, county vice chairman Mrs. Scott Nisbet, Joe Curtis, Jim Cambell, Mrs. and Mrs. George Cree, Warren Fetherree, Mrs. and Mrs. David McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Williams, Mrs. Hugh Burdette and Mrs. Betty Cooper.

Curtis is running for district committeeman from the 31st Senatorial District.

Area Democrats leaving today include, Mrs. Ruth Osborne, 31st District committeewoman, and Rex McAnelly, county chairman. Others are John Warner, Ott Shewmaker, Sam Haynes (McLean), Don Cain, Fred Vanderburg, Jr., Judy Warner and L.G. Pierce.

Alternates are Bill W. Waters and Jake Hess, Jr. (McLean).

Mrs. Osborne will seek reelection.

Convention headquarters for Republicans are in Hall Regency Hotel in Houston. The Democrats are centered at Austin's Memorial Center.

Nixon Continues Working

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon was reported in good mental condition Saturday and working at his office despite some swelling and pain caused by another blood clot in his left leg.

There has been no official word on how serious the former President's condition is, but Paul Presley, a personal friend who lives next door to Nixon, said he doesn't think Nixon's condition is grave.

"If he was as ill as they say he was, his daughters would be here. They love him very much," Presley said.

"I think the White House should tell you about his condition," he said, referring to the former Western White House, Casa Pacifica, "and not give you the privilege to speculate on his condition."

Presley said Nixon was probably working at his office which is a short distance from the seaside home.

"I can imagine, for example, that there are a lot of letters to answer. He has always been a great one to answer letters," Presley said.

Presley noted that when Presidents Lyndon Johnson and Dwight Eisenhower left office, both had lengthy transition periods in which to put their affairs in order.

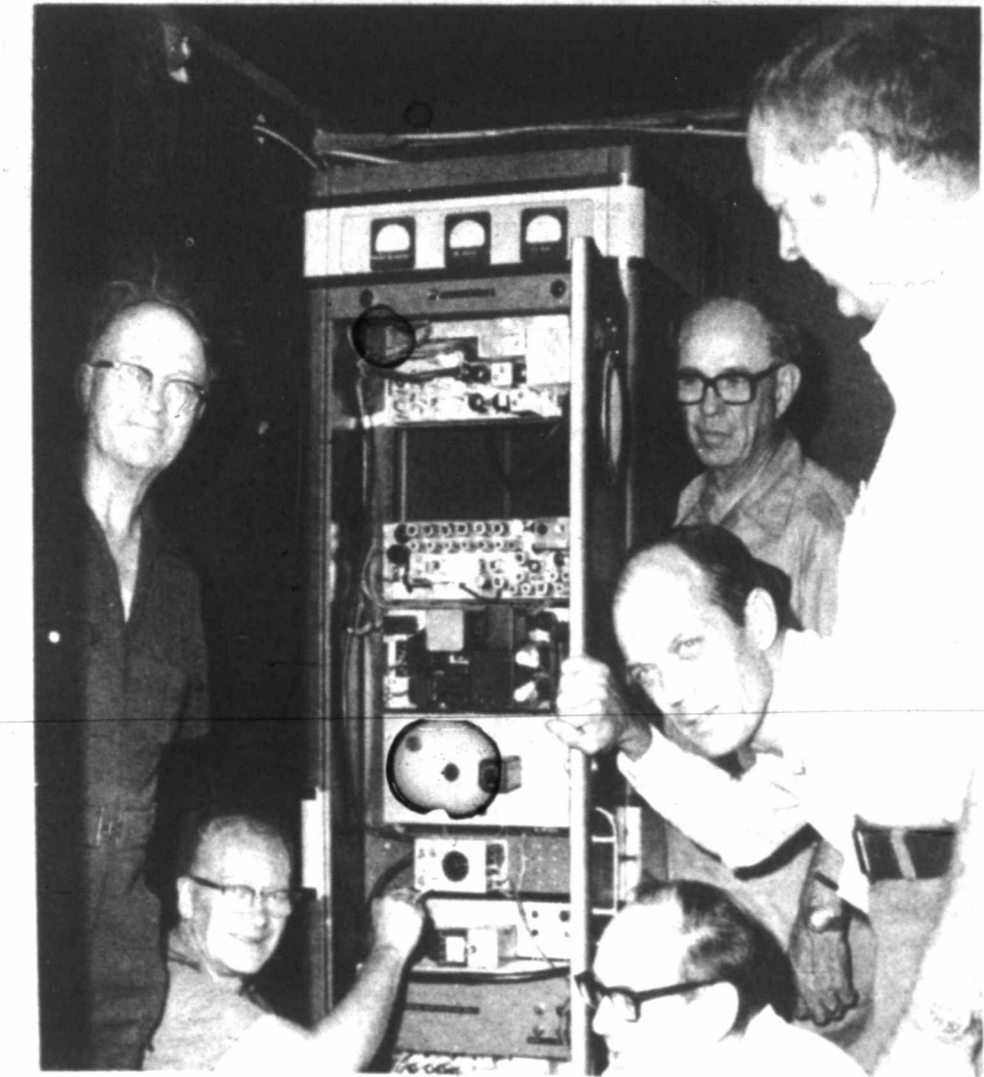

But Nixon's transition period from public person to private citizen, he said, was more abrupt.

Dr. Walter Tkach, who was Nixon's personal physician during his presidency, flew here Friday to examine the former President.

Dr. Tkach said there was a new "venous clot" in Nixon's upper leg that was causing some pain. Tkach added that the clot from the earlier phlebitis still troubled Nixon.

He said he recommended that Nixon be hospitalized, but that the former President refused.

Instead, Tkach said, Nixon will continue to receive medication and weekly medical examinations.

'POSITIVE PRIORITIES' Granberry Urges Statewide Policies

HOUSTON (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Granberry Saturday told party leaders the GOP must set statewide policies that will bring government of "positive priorities" rather than crisis reaction.

The Lubbock orthodontist called for a 1 per cent reduction in the state sales tax, limited annual sessions of the legislature, an attempt to salvage some work of the constitutional convention, "right to work" single member districts and public school financing.

He made his remarks before the platform and resolutions committee of the state party which opens its annual convention this week.

"I believe we must eliminate government by crisis and have government by positive priorities," Granberry said.

Granberry said single member districts and annual sessions would help achieve party and state goals.

"I think we can do a better job if we stay on top of things each year, rather than meeting every two years," he said. "We can

Amateur Radio Club Sets Up New Antenna

Last week the Pampa Amateur Radio Club placed a new type of amateur transmitter in service.

After several months of preparation, the club's 2-meter band repeater station is now on the air. The club received the license for Amateur Repeater Station W5SFA last Saturday.

The repeater will retransmit signals from low power stations in homes or cars using a high power transmitter and an exceptional antenna location.

Cabot Corporation, recognizing the work of the Amateur Radio Service during communications emergencies, has donated space for the transmitting antenna atop their 400 foot tower west of the city.

Repeaters in the Amateur Radio Service provide an independent means of communication when normal methods may not be available. Amateur Repeater Stations have already proved their merit during weather emergencies and Civil Defense work in other parts of Texas.

The repeater will provide telephone quality communications between licensed Radio Amateurs for a radius of 100 miles around Pampa.

Bill Hawkins, W5BCK, club president, and Harold Trimble, W5ETD, VHF group chairman, have invited all those interested in the operation of the new repeater and in becoming a Radio Amateur to attend the next meeting of the Pampa Amateur Radio Club, Monday, Oct. 7, at 6:30 p.m. in Furr's Cafeteria.

API To Hear Alpar President

Jack Allen, president of Alpar Resources, Inc., and an independent oil and gas producer, will be guest speaker at the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute meeting to be held at the Pampa Country Club next Thursday.

The meeting will be preceded by a social hour starting at 6:30 p.m. A buffet dinner is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Allen, a graduate of Texas School of Law, is immediate past president of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Assn., chairman of the Natural Gas Committee of Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, and a member of the Gas Supply Committee.

He will discuss various legislative proposals now before Congress, which, he believes, "pose a great cloud of uncertainty for the industry."

These include rolling back of domestic crude oil prices, reduction or elimination of essential tax provisions (depletion), imposition of excise taxes on production, mandatory allocations, and many others.

A question and answer session will follow Allen's presentation.

Guests are welcome. The door prize will be donated by Ron Hess, of W.B. Pump and Supply, Inc. of Pampa.

Kissinger To Visit Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger plans to visit Cairo and other Middle East capitals next month to make final preparations for a new phase of the search for a permanent Arab-Israeli peace settlement, diplomatic sources said Saturday.

That new phase is likely to center on negotiations between Israel and Egypt conducted through an American intermediary, sources said after the departure from Washington of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

Kissinger, they added, may hand over the role of honest broker between the two sides to Joseph J. Sisco, the No. 3 man in the State Department and a diplomat with long experience in Middle East affairs.

Sources said Kissinger would continue his contacts with Arab and Israeli representatives when he visits the United Nations for about 10 days, beginning Sept. 23. They said his mid-October trip will carry him to Amman, Damascus and Jerusalem as well as to Cairo.

Rabin, the last in a series of high level Israeli and Arab visitors to Washington, told a news conference Friday that Israel seeks a pledge of nonbelligerency from Arab governments and is ready for broad peace negotiations on a bilateral basis.

A pledge of non-belligerency would move the quest for peace to a halfway point between the present situation — marked by military disengagement agreements between Israel and Egypt and Syria — and the ultimate goal of a formal accord to end the state of war between Israel and the Arab governments.

While he did not say so specifically, Rabin seemed

FIRST LOAD of milo came in Wednesday to the Hoover elevator of Western Beef and Cattle Co. The irrigated milo was produced on the Don Whitney farm 10 miles northeast of Pampa. Moisture content was 14.5 per cent, about normal. On truck are Whitney (right) and elevator manager Bob Galmor.

Irrigated Milo About Average

Gray County Agricultural Agent Foster Whaley reported late in the week that the irrigated milo crop this year will run from "average to good."

The grain is now beginning to come in to local elevators, the first reported load arriving Wednesday at Hoover. (see photo).

Whaley says dry-land milo is in a race with the first frost and that prospects are otherwise good.

The bulk of the dry-land milo harvest can be expected around Nov. 5 to Nov. 10, or about a week after the frost.

This year's milo production in Gray County is about 25,000 acres, compared with a normal 40,000 acres, Whaley said, adding that this year's breakdown would be about 12,000 to 15,000 acres of irrigated, and some 10,000 dry-land.

As a crop, milo ranks below the 100,000 acres in wheat.

Researchers Have Shown Forest Income Can Double

COLLEGE STATION — Does doubling our forest income sound impossible?

Well, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientist specializing in wood chemistry says this aim is quite conservative.

Dr. Don Durso says that with present technology we can only use about 30 percent of the total wood fiber our forests produce. And that's for pines; our utilization record on hardwoods is even poorer.

Durso is directing a research program designed to radically improve the yield of our forests. For example, can hardwoods (now often wasted) be converted directly into esters and ethers and used in manufacturing wood-based plastics and additives?

Durso and his associates say "yes." By the conventional, indirect route the yield is about 20 to 35 percent, based on the initial weight of the wood.

A new procedure under development will be able to use any species of wood, especially Southern hardwoods, converted on site into barks chips. These hardwoods, when reacted, yield over 50 percent.

Another project is aimed at doing something useful with pine bark. About 10 to 15 percent of the weight of wood brought to the mill is tied up in the bark of the Southern pine.

An Experiment Station project seeks to combine the chemical and physical properties of bark into an adsorbent which can clarify effluent streams in the areas where the bark is accumulated.

Still another part of Durso's total wood utilization program includes mequite. Nearly everyone knows that mesquite, whether trees or brush, is rather useless.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
Last Sunday this column carried the minimum spacing regulations of irrigation size water wells. The regulations require 10-inch wells to be spaced 600 yards apart, 8-inch wells 440 yards apart, 6-inch wells 300 yards apart, 5-inch wells 250 yards apart.

Water wells 4-inch or smaller that pump more than 100,000 gallons daily are spaced at least 200 yards apart.

The District Office has had several calls, during the past week, questioning this requirement. In other words why the spacing.

Water engineers who are experts in the field tell us that a water well in operation causes a draw-down cone in the water bearing sands around the perimeter of the well after a period of several days this draw-down cone will reach a diameter of approximately 440 yards for an 8-inch irrigation well.

The same situation occurs for municipal industrial wells. To follow this line of thinking through we then know that if two 8-inch wells are spaced only 300 yards apart that the draw-down cones are going to overlap each other.

Current costs for drilling 8-inch wells for the purpose of irrigation, may exceed $25,000. Underground irrigation pipe or gated aluminum pipe will add to this cost.

One can now readily see that the irrigation farmer has a sizable investment in an irrigation well. The cost of the fuel to operate the well is costing more with each passing month.

Wells that are spaced too close thus overlap and the production of water from each well decreases. Too much has been invested to run this risk.

Since water wells cause a draw-down cone it is then understandable why there is also a requirement to move back from the property line in order that your draw-down cone does not reach across the property line and take water belonging to an adjoining property owner.

There are situations where test holes have shown that a plentiful supply of water is found only near the property line. A landowner may then ask for a Public Hearing and ask for a permit under Exception to Spacing Rule.

Today we are carrying a portion of that Rule: Exception To Spacing Rule
If an exception to such regulations is desired, application therefor shall be submitted by the applicant in writing to the Board at its District Office on forms furnished by the District.

The application shall be accompanied by a plat or sketch drawn to scale on one inch equalling two hundred (200) yards.

The plat or sketch shall show thereon the property lines in the immediate area and show accurately to scale all wells within one-half mile of the proposed well site.

The application shall also contain the names and addresses of all property owners adjoining the tract on which the well is to be located and ownership of the wells within one-half mile of the proposed locations.

Such application and plat shall be certified by some person actually acquainted with the facts who shall state that all facts therein are true and correct.

Such exception may be granted ten (10) days after written notice has been given to the applicant and all adjoining owners and all well owners within a half-mile of the proposed location and after the Board has decided that an exception should be granted.

Provided, however, that if all such owners execute a waiver in writing stating that they do not object to the granting of such exception, the Board may thereupon proceed to decide upon the granting or refusing of such application without notice or hearing except to the applicant. The applicant may also waive notice or hearing or both.

Farmers Asked To Air Views

President Ford's current inflation-fighting campaign offers a timely opportunity for farmers and ranchers to sound off, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station research economist says.

Dr. Tyrus R. Timm said the President is discussing the task of controlling inflation with agricultural leaders and other representatives of the overall economy, and "it's time for farmers and ranchers to speak up."

The nation's food and fiber producers can air their views in three ways, the economist said:

As individuals exercising their citizen rights; through general farm organizations or commodity groups; and through their representatives in Congress and in the Executive Branch.

Timm, an agricultural economist for 38 years, is nationally known in this field and is considered an authority on institutional arrangements affecting international trade in farm commodities.

He has made six research trips to Europe during the past decade and has just returned from seven weeks in western and eastern Europe.

During World War II, he was agricultural relations adviser to Chester Bowles, Administrator of the Office of Price Administration.

Timm says there is an urgent need for all advisers in the President's inflation discussions to understand three basic "behavior patterns" about the nation's giant agricultural complex.

"Otherwise, America's farmers and ranchers will neither participate as full partners in the inflation program nor receive fair and equitable treatment in the policies and controls adopted," he pointed out.

The first behavior pattern involves price trends in and out of agriculture.

With the high rate of inflation continuing, wider disparities are showing up among farm product prices, between agricultural and non-agricultural prices, and wages. Timm foresees stronger inflationary pressures for the next few years on the cost side of farming and ranching.

Therefore, an effective, inflation-restraining national program should not harm agriculture's orderly economic growth, Timm said. Yet, whatever program is adopted will have to be "stirred up and poured" in the political arena.

Compromises will be necessary, and farm leaders may have to support restraints on prices of some farm products in order to get price restraints on the cost side.

The second behavior pattern the advisers should consider is the structure of the U.S. agricultural economy.

Mineral needs of beef cattle on pasture should not be neglected if the animals are to remain healthy and show proper growth and protection from disease.

Texas Water Study Begins

COLLEGE STATION - The 1974 Water for Texas Conference will deal with many important aspects of the state's water resources when it is held on the Texas A&M University campus, Sept. 19-20.

This word comes from the general chairman, Dr. J.R. Runkles, director of the Texas Water Resources Institute and a researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the state's agricultural research agency.

Theme for the conference will be "Ground Water Management - Current Issues."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is scheduled to address the conference at the 6:30 p.m. banquet Sept. 19 at the Aggeland Inn.

Earlier that day at the J. Earl Rudder Center Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby will serve as keynote speaker at 9:30 a.m. and discuss "Ground Water Issues Facing Texas."

State Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, chairman of the House Interim Committee on Water, will speak at 10 a.m. on "Legislative Perspective on Ground Water Issues."

Dr. Jack K. Williams, president of the Texas A&M University System, will welcome conferees. Moderator for the opening session will be Joe D. Carter of Austin, chairman of the Texas Water Rights Commission.

Other opening morning speakers will be Bill Waddle, Austin, general manager of the Texas Water Conservation Association, who will discuss "Approaches to Ground Water Management," and Frank R. Booth, an Austin attorney, who will speak on "Alternative Ground Water Laws for Texas."

4-H Club News

By ELAINE HOUSTON

What is 4-H? 4-H is going places such as attending group activities club meetings, camps, fairs and contests.

4-H is helping others by practicing good citizenship and developing leadership talents.

4-H is learning to do things by selecting projects.

4-H is having fun. You can make new friends, share talents, skills and hobbies.

4-H is the youth development program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and focuses on the needs, interests and concerns of boys and girls between 9 and 19 years of age.

Its aim is to help young people develop through practical learning experiences like preparing a nutritious meal, building bookshelves, growing a vegetable garden or grooming a calf.

Since young people do not develop their skills and attitudes overnight, they need help from 4-H volunteers.

These volunteers are 4-H organizational leaders, project leaders and activity leaders.

The organizational leader guides the over-all operation of a 4-H group, the project and activity leaders help boys and girls learn by involving them in a specific project such as clothing, auto repair, leather craft, bicycle safety - and related activities such as safety clinics, exhibits and local tours.

These leaders, may in turn, be assisted by junior and teen leaders who work closely with an adult leader.

The Gray County Adult Leader Association membership committee headed by Mrs. Wayland Acker and Mrs. Truitt Wren and assisted by Mrs. Ed Brainard, association chairman, will be making preparations for a membership drive in the coming months.

They will be recruiting new 4-H club members as well as volunteer leaders.

Working Is the Answer

At what point will the wage earner and businessman revolt against the politician? Will the revolt be violent and bloody or will it be passive rejection?

These are questions to be seriously pondered by individual tax payers and politicians alike. The basic question is not IF it will happen, but when.

Human action is as predictable as are the occurrences in such exact sciences as mathematics, chemistry, etc. The intangible part of the equation is the time factor.

The catalyst is the economy.

During periods of high productivity, millions of Americans generally enjoy abundant creature comforts. There is no wholesale concern over keeping the refrigerator well stocked. The children are well clothed, the house is warm and well lighted. There is money to fix the children's teeth, pay for dancing lessons, pay dues to social clubs and take extended vacation trips.

But more importantly, there is an abundance of leisure time, time to get involved in social causes, time to campaign for special legislation or volunteer to aid a politician in search of office.

It is during such periods that political action increases with little opposition since the overwhelming majority of American families have little or no economic problems at home. It is during such periods that people are persuaded to join pressure groups such as the environmentalist movement, "welfare rights" organizations, campaigns to subsidize the arts and on and on.

All of these cost money and require a great amount of human energy, but they grow and prosper during the period of high productivity because the time and money is there. And that is when the politician thrives and the bureaucracy mushrooms.

We can afford it.

Now comes the change in the economy. Inflation, caused by the increased government spending for productivity, begins to gradually lessen the real value of the dollar. This gradual drain becomes more rapid and before you know it the individual American family no longer has the extra bucks for all those luxuries.

The refrigerator conks out, and the service charge, that once was maybe $10 now costs maybe $35, and the repair man can't get to it for four days. The TV screen goes black, and that's now closer to $50, and it may be fixed in a week, if the parts are available because we don't work on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and birthdays. Productivity has to wait.

The grumbling is quiet at first, and the culprit is the private enterprise sector — like the oil companies because gasoline costs more per gallon. The automobile costs more because pressure groups and government forced added costs upon the manufacturer and because we don't work on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and birthdays.

And a new car is forsaken and the old one has to make do, but from time to time it conks out, repairs take a bigger bite and it takes a week or so to get it fixed. You see, we don't work on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and birthdays.

And that gradual inflation takes more and more and that quiet grumbling becomes louder and louder. The solvent household with its well stocked refrigerator, children in new clothes, dancing lessons and social club memberships suddenly finds there are some things it can no longer afford.

We still don't work on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays or birthdays, but it has to be someone else's fault that things are so scarce and so costly, so the politicians are besieged to "do something."

So they start putting more of a squeeze on what's left of the productive segments and pumping more paper money into non-productive activities. More money to buy fewer goods means higher prices.

This vicious cycle continues until more and more realize the politicians don't have the answers. It is at this point that the revolt begins. It could be violent and bloody or it could be an understanding, finally, that the principal problem with individual welfare is that we don't watch our own expenses carefully enough, and also we don't work on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and birthdays.

"Indeed, but I'd just as soon hear the questions from somebody else."

INSIDE LABOR

Summits, Circuses and Bread

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — If President Ford wants a future he'd best throw on the brakes — instead of throwing them out. Period.

This means tough wage and price controls, a tougher pay-price commission, and the realization that the summit circuses won't put bread on the table.

Strangely, this is the attitude of many influential labor leaders who feel they're being had by some of President Ford's new, untried, "un-Washington-wise" advisers. There's no animosity. There's just amazement. And a disenchantment with the "tent shows." To report anything else from this heavily publicized series of anti-inflation road shows would be far less than candid and a disservice to the decency of the new open hand, open door President.

His "people" just don't know "the movement." There is, for example, one powerful labor leader who is trying to avoid being invited despite the presidential letters already on his desk. Thus, he's attempting to avoid taking follow-up phone calls from acting czar Bill Seidman.

There is another even more powerful union chief who told a friend he just didn't want to "show for the show" and was putting in a call to his deputy to see if the second-in-command would attend.

And only 3,000 Internal Revenue Service agents in some 50 field offices were used on the price-control front. They had their own work. They were desk shut-ins using the phones which were clogged. They had virtually no guidance. It was chaos. But at least you could get bread for 31 cents a loaf instead of 60 and 75 cents.

Many labor leaders have been invited not only to the mini-labor summit but to others across the nation — the transportation conference in Los Angeles, for example. The labor men probably will accept all the invitations out of sheer respect for the President. But in the final analysis they have to return to their uptight rank and file with something more than photos with Mr. Ford.

On the surface their economic policies will be what you can expect — slash the interest rates, finance housing and construction, equality of sacrifice, etc.

The national AFL-CIO Economic Policy Committee had their own private summit Sept. 5 to unify and cosmetize their suggestions for cutting the double-digit inflation. Actually they little heeded, nor were they impressed by, the White House economists' summit across the street. Of course, publicly they'll bristle at any suggestion of wage-price controls. But privately some of them have been telling each other — and friends — that the Landrum-Riffin Act gives the rank and file membership such power to reject new wage contracts that the "whole thing" is out of control.

In fact, hundreds of labor officials are now bargaining way over the economic head of their industries — and may well be on their way to ruining them.

Why, then, has the President so firmly cut himself off from retreat to wage-price controls?

He and his advisers base their decision on the failure of such powers during Dick Nixon's Phase Two.

Well, how can something fail that hasn't been tried? Nixon opposed controls, as he often told me, "because, you of all people know, they'll create a black market and would need a huge bureaucracy of some 75,000 people...to enforce price controls."

So he invoked the phases and freezes. But his economic czar "Blue Eyes," as he called George Shultz, never tried. Shultz didn't believe in controls. Neither did Herb Stein, chairman of the President's economic advisory council. Nor did the brilliant "Mr. Bang," Prof. John Dunlop.

Further, they used less than 5,000 persons during the pay board-price commission days. They brought in from Seattle the gentle, retired Judge George Boldt to head the Pay Board. He was mocked, abused and reviled with the most scatalogical tirades by some labor officials.

And let's remember the "last cow in the gate" policy. That meant don't freeze anything, any big wage contracts, neither steel nor coal nor rails, until they're signed with heavy pay increases.

Well, what better service than price patrol? My good friend Pete talks of the jobless as though they would be good only as latter-day leaf-rakers.

They could be the field troops for a new pay-price commission with tiger-tooth controls. The summits could demand that. Just look at Question 3 of Part Two of the President's suggestion to labor leaders attached to his invitations.

It asks for views on "wage, price and other income controls." So this is still on the agenda. Let's try them before that radio commercial in which a youngster says, "Pa, give me $5 for an ice cream cone" is more fact than funny.

Whether they actually handle the foodstuffs is of no import. The speculators add their money to the market and play a beneficial role to the public.

THERE HAVE been some telephoned complaints about the tax rate increase and the hike in service fees incorporated in Pampa's budget for fiscal 1974-75 that were approved on first reading of ordinances at last Tuesday's City Commission meeting.

Most of them have come from elderly and jobless persons who say they don't know how they are going to be able to pay the increases in taxes, water, sewer and garbage collection fees.

This doesn't mean the elderly and jobless are the only ones feeling the pinch of inflation. Others with good jobs and regular incomes are finding that not only increased taxes but rising prices in the cost of everything has thrown a monkey-wrench into the effort of trying to make ends meet.

The complaints bring to mind the fact that very few persons take the trouble to appear and protest when public hearings are held on proposals to increase taxes and service charges.

They wait until it's too late. Only one person voiced a protest at the recent hearing on Pampa's city budget. He seemed to be fairly successful in getting what he was complaining about removed from the budget.

Public officials have their problems, too. The inflation problem has been dogging them on all sides. People still want the same services. They want public employees to be paid a living wage. The cost of everything continues to climb.

If more people would attend public hearings perhaps public officials could explain why taxes are being hiked and why it costs more to provide services taxpayers demand.

Inflation is a monster that is devouring all of us. If President Ford and his staff of economic advisors don't come up with a solution — it looks like we'll all go down the drain.

escape judicial process under law, now comes the question what about the others involved in Watergate who must have been taking orders from the boss (as the tapes would indicate)?

Should they be pardoned, too? Should those already in prison be set free? Should those who have served their sentences have the stigma of being a convict removed from their records? Should those still facing trial be released from the anguish of that burden?

Should compassion, and mercy be shown to them and to their families who have suffered through it all the same as Nixon and his family?

President Ford says he will consider their cases for pardon individually. Well, who should go to prison and who shouldn't and why?

They were all in the same boat. They got their orders from the top man through his two closest staff aides to whom (according to the tape that finally spilled the beans) instructions were given with orders to send them down the line.

It would seem it all boils down to whether we have in this nation a double standard of justice — or a top administrative policy that all men are not to be treated equally under the law.

TICKETS FOR the 1974-75 season were mailed last week to members of the Pampa Community Concert Association with a reminder that the season opens Thursday night, Oct. 10, with Soviet Georgian Dancers and Tbilisi Polyphonic Choir, a company of 80 dancers, singers and musicians.

The company is making its long-awaited United States debut tour and advance reports say there never has been anything like it on the American concert scene.

EDUCATION IN AMERICA

'Dear-Sir-You-Cur' Mailbag

By MAX RAFFERTY

I know you've been breathlessly waiting for the annual "Dear-Sir-You-Cur" collection of hate letters from the unregenerate. Herewith, then, a fair sampling.

Q — "During the past year, you've condemned rock music, upheld the barbarism which is capital punishment, tried to show that pot is more harmful than booze and opposed busing to integrate schools. After studying such a track record, how could you be described as anything but a perfect ass?" — A.C. Joplin, Mo.

A — Correction: Nobody's perfect.

Q — "I'm a driver-training teacher and I bitterly resent your column attacking our high school programs and recommending that private driving schools be contracted with to do the job. Can you honestly think of anything more important for the public schools to teach than how to drive safely?" — L.B. West Palm Beach, Fla.

A — Yep. Reading, writing, arithmetic, history, geography, music, art and so on and so forth.

Q — "In commenting on the killing of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr., you made the shocking suggestion that every American over 10 years of age be tested for mental stability and institutionalized until he could pass the sanity test. How can you possibly look with favor upon such an infringement on civil rights?" — S.T.S., Knoxville, Tenn.

A — It's real easy. I just visualize myself getting gorily slaughtered by some glazed-eyeball maniac and everything seems to fall naturally into place.

Q — "In your list of history's 12 wisest men, I note that you showed your despicable bias by omitting the name of the Berrigan brothers, certainly the wisest and most farseeing men of our time. Why?" — H.L. Winona, Minn.

A — Would you believe sheer lack of space? I was also forced to leave out Judas Iscariot, Benedict Arnold and Tokyo Rose. Regrettably.

Q — "I cannot believe that you are a professional educator. You differ from every educational leader I've ever talked to about how to teach reading, the way to handle student disorders, classroom discipline, textbooks, curriculum — everything. Why not tell us who you really are and what your qualifications are to judge school problems — if any?" — R.T. Hammond, Ind.

A — Well, now, let's see. I'm presently dean of a university school of education and full professor of education. During a long and checkered past, I've been an elementary school teacher, principal and superintendent; a high school teacher, vice-principal, principal and superintendent; state superintendent of schools for the biggest state in the nation, and the author of six books on education, including two college textbooks. During the 1960s, I served as a regent of America's largest university and a trustee of its biggest state college system. Outside of these, I have no qualifications at all.

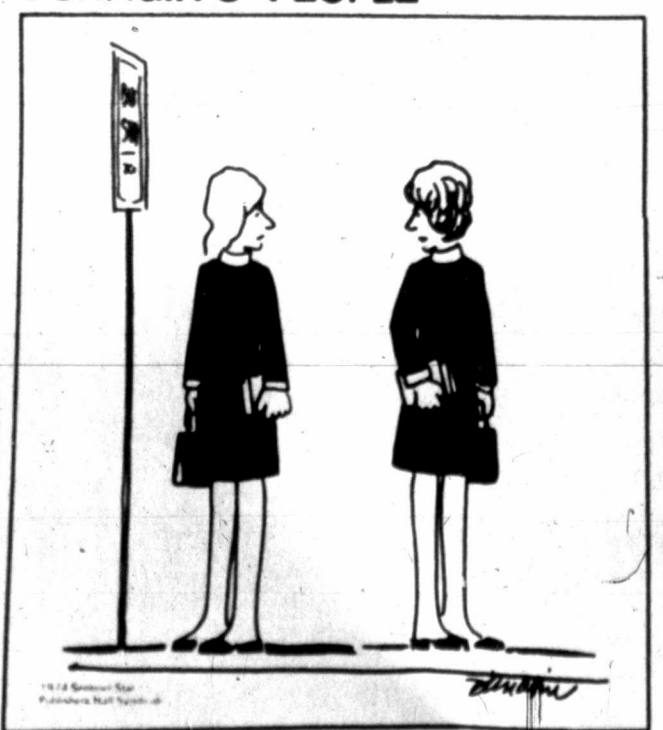

(Foregive me, folks, but he asked for it.)

Q — "You snidely referred to the Kent State rioters as 'hairy barbarians.' Why are you always sounding off about people who like to grow long hair and beards and go naked once in a while? What's wrong with that?" — P.O., Detroit, Mich.

A — Here's what's wrong with it: Ever since man became man, he has fought a long battle against the animal in himself. To separate mankind from the beast world became our highest goal. This meant bathing and clothing and shearing and shaving and combing — all the things which beasts never do. So I guess it all depends on what you want to be. P.O.: a man or a beast?

Basque Separatists Blamed For Terrorism

MADRID (UPI) — Police blamed Basque separatists Saturday for a bomb blast that killed 11 persons and injured 71 in the bloodiest act of terrorism since the end of the Spanish civil war.

A police statement said Juan Manuel Galarraga Mendizabal, a member of the outlawed separatist organization "Basque Homeland and Liberty" (ETA) was being sought for Friday's bombing.

A reward of one million pesetas ($16,700) for information leading to his capture was offered by the government.

Police Chief Francisco Duenas said six men and five women, including a policewoman, were killed, 71 injured, many of them seriously, when the bomb exploded at lunch hour in a crowded bar opposite the headquarters of the National Security Police in the heart of Madrid. Eleven of the wounded were policemen.

Prime Minister Carlos Arias, accompanied by Interior Minister Jose Garcia Hernandez, met with officials in the headquarters. Later, with six of his ministers, he attended the burial of the policewoman who died in the blast, Concepcion Perez.

As her casket was carried from the building, a crowd of some 4,000 gathered to watch. Many of them shouted, "Death to Assassins!" and "Down with the ETA!" while others raised their right arms in the stiff Fascist salute or sang the Falangist anthem, "Cara al Sol" (Facing the Sun).

They broke up peacefully and no incidents were reported.

In the Basque country, police announced the seizure of ETA arms and explosives material.

Government officials said it was the bloodiest act of terror in the 35 years Generalissimo Francisco Franco has ruled Spain since the civil war ended in 1939.

However, the bomb slaying of Prime Minister Luis Carrero Blanco in Madrid nine months ago — for which the ETA claimed responsibility — had more political impact. The ETA was silent on Friday's act.

IN WEST VIRGINIA Parents Protest Books, Violence Closes Mines

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The weekend brought at least a brief calm to a violent protest against a new series of school textbooks called "rotten and filthy" by angry parents.

Leaders of the crusade against the controversial texts Saturday called off demonstrations, saying they had made their point.

Rains throughout the Appalachian coal country helped cool off the dispute, which led to shootings, beatings and the closing of mines, business places and schools.

"The pickets are gone, at least for the weekend," said a Kanawha County sheriff's spokesman. "The weather helped."

Hymn-singing, flag-waving parents started the protest two weeks ago against supplemental textbooks with titles such as "Man," "The Dynamics of Language" and "Informative Articles."

They said the books were obscene, unpatriotic and anti-Christian.

The books, published by D.C. Heath, McDougal, Littell & Co. and other firms, were approved by the county School Board this year for all grade levels. They are now out of the classrooms for a 30-day review by a citizens committee.

One elementary text asks children if they ever feel stealing is all right and asks: "Tell when it is."

A 6th grader's book tells how a boy thinks about committing suicide with his father's pistol.

A high school text has a story about a prostitute with phrases such as "mainly a whore," "Very expensive Johns" and "a hundred dollars a shot."

A segment from a poem in one of the books goes: "You made good. Probably you were a bastard."

Highway Patrol Releases Totals For Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 14 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of August, 1974, according to Sergeant D.E. Womack, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and 13 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first eight months of 1974 shows a total of 109 accidents resulting in six persons killed and 60 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for August, 1974, shows a total of 542 accidents resulting in 30 persons killed and 314 persons injured as compared to August, 1973, with 586 accidents resulting in 24 persons killed and 328 persons injured. This was 44 less accidents, six more killed, and 14 less injured in 1974 at the same period of time.

Shrimp Fleets In Deep Water

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — High fuel and equipment costs and poor prices for their product are threatening to drive some of Louisiana's 8,500 commercial shrimpers out of business, according to a Louisiana shrimp Association official.

"Diesel fuel and fishing gear costs are at least double the cost of 1972 whereas the current dockside prices for the majority of shrimp now landed are 10 to 20 cents per pound below the 1972 level," George W. Snow, director of the Shrimp Association, said Friday.

Snow's testimony was made to the Joint Legislative Natural Resources Committee which is investigating financial troubles in the state's seafood industry.

"With no assistance of any kind to the industry there will undoubtedly be a significant reduction in the shrimp fleet," said Snow.

"Our present economic plight emphasizes the need for sound management of the shrimp industry to insure that a maximum number of fishermen can continue to make a living."

C-C Committees Slate Meetings

Two Chamber of Commerce committee meetings are scheduled Monday and Tuesday of this week.

The Education Committee will meet at 4 p.m. Monday in the chamber office in the Hughes Bldg.

Chairman Dick Stowers said purpose of the meeting is to finalize plans for the annual dinner honoring new teachers in the Pampa school system.

Plans for the 1975 Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show and other agribusiness in the area will be discussed at a coffee for the chamber's 53-member Agriculture and Livestock Committee at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the First National Bank hospitality room.

Luther Robinson, committee chairman, will preside.

The 30 traffic deaths for the month of August, 1974, occurred in the following counties: seven in Palo Pinto; three each in Potter, Wheeler, Crosby, and Lubbock; and one each in Armstrong, Childress, Deaf Smith, Hardeman, Hemphill, Parmer, Jack, Lamb, Stonewall, Wichita and Wise.

Last Week In Wall Street

Tax cuts are always welcome and tax increases are political dynamite. One of the basic reasons for our current inflation rate was President Johnson's reluctance to propose a tax increase in the midst of the Vietnam conflict. It imposed a huge war effort on top of a booming economy and prices went through the roof.

Now a rising chorus of "let's have a tax cut" is coming from the liberal wing of politicians and economists. The Ford Administration is holding to a policy of more restraint, not less.

The tax cut advocates say that high interest rates and tight money will do little to curb inflation, but will do plenty to cut production and cause unemployment.

If that happened, then the reaction of the monetary authorities would be to begin massive deficit spending, in order to get the economy moving upward. The result would then be a repeat of the 1971 inflation spurge.

Most of the tax cut proposals are in the social security tax, both the employee's and the employer's contributions.

"Dreaming of running men down in a Cadillac"

"And tearing blouses off women..."

Other persons, including school officials, defended the books as merely telling it like it is in modern America.

Hundreds of children were kept home from classes by outraged parents. The picketing spread from campuses to coal mines and more than 6,000 workers walked out to join the crusade.

Roving bands of pickets halted work at construction sites, truck companies and food stores and at one point knocked out public bus transportation. As the protest grew, two men were shot and wounded, another was critically beaten by a mob and schools were closed throughout the county for the safety of children.

After the second shooting, leaders of the textbook forces called for a halt to violence.

"I believe our motto — 'Books Out — Children In' — has been met," said Rev. Marvin Horan, chief spokesman for the protesters.

"I'm very optimistic things will return to normal after the weekend."

Everyone talked about the books which set off such a wave of protest coal mines closed up to 60 miles away in other counties.

"I've seen 'em and I don't like 'em," said waitress Marie Bennett.

Harvester Balance Means 19-0 Win Over Demons

PERFECT TIMING — Pampa quarterback Chuck Quarles pitches the ball out to Tim Thornburg just prior to getting hit by Dumas tackle Mike Bassham in Friday night's 19-0 Harvester win. Pampa's second of the season. (Photo by Jim Williams)

By PAUL SIMS
Pampa displayed extraordinary balance between offense and defense by racking up 359 yards total offense while holding Dumas to 60 yards, all rushing, as the Harvesters blanked the Demons, 19-0, Friday night in an almost packed Harvester Stadium.

The Harvester defense, a reason for Pampa's 2-8 record of last year, was considered untested and questionable prior to the season's start. Now it's been tested twice and both times it has met the test successfully.

In the season opener the Hereford Whitefaces managed only 130 yards, and Friday the Demons were held to just 60 yards and one first down, which didn't come until early in the fourth quarter.

292 Yards
For the second straight week Pampa's rushing attack gained more than 200 yards, with 241 against Hereford and 292 against Dumas. The rushing balance was especially evident Friday evening as three different Harvesters scored on runs.

Halfback Tim Thornburg went 11 yards around left end at 6:15 in the opening period for the first touchdown. Fullback David Smith scored next, going behind right guard Roy Morris and tackle Joe Graves for a three-yard score with 2:09 left in the first half. The third touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by halfback Rick Leverich, who went off right tackle with 3:36 left in the third stanza.

The first score capped a seven-play, 60-yard drive in which Thornburg had a 33-yard ramble around left end to put the ball on the Dumas 20. Smith carried for three yards, Leverich twice for six and then Thornburg, a 160-pound senior, for the touchdown.

Couts' Extra Point
Joe Couts faked on the extra point to give Pampa its 7-0 advantage.

Neither team scored, although Dumas threatened once, until late in the first half. Dumas blew an opportunity to score after Randy Srader returned a Leverich punt 43 yards to the Harvester nine. Alternate quarterback Tim Noack fumbled the ball into the end zone on the first play from scrimmage to give Pampa the ball on the Harvester 20.

Pampa then took 11 plays, including a 27-yard pass from Chuck Quarles to Kelly Baker on the seventh, to score as Smith went over. The extra point try by Couts was wide this time.

67-Yard Drive
On the first possession of the second half Pampa marched 67 yards in 15 plays before Leverich scored the third touchdown. Four big plays were instrumental in the drive — an 18-yard run by Leverich, a 19-yard end-around by split end Howie Lewis, a 13-yard pass to Lewis and a 16-yard ramble by Quarles.

Lewis' reception was his only one of the night because of a Dumas double-team on the 6-6 senior. Against Hereford, he caught three for 72 yards and two touchdowns.

The only Demon first down came after a fumble recovery by tackle Mike Bassham. Halfback Curtis McCandless ran 10 yards for the first down, and was followed by an eight-yard spurt by Noack. Dumas drove to the 25, the second biggest penetration of the game for the 1-AAA Demons, before Pampa held on fourth down.

Two Other Chances
The Harvesters had two other scoring chances on their next possession. On the first, a 27-yard touchdown pass to Deannie Lewis was called back because of an ineligible receiver downfield. A few plays later, a bad snap blew a field goal try by Couts from the 30.

The Harvesters held an overwhelming edge in turnovers, outgaining the Demons in passing yards (67) and first downs (18-1). Quarles completed five of eight passes while the two Demon signal callers — Noack and Eddie Troutman — missed on five attempts.

Seven Punts
Pampa also forced seven punts in the game.

The leading rusher in the contest was Leverich with 95 yards on 19 carries. Thornburg picked up 86 yards on 12 attempts and was followed by Quarles, 43 yards on 10 tries and Smith, 36 yards on 12 rushes.

Noack was Dumas leading ground gainer with 27 yards on six tries. He was followed by McCandless and Wayne Jones who gained 12 yards apiece.

Pampa has now matched its total number of wins to the 1973 season — two. Dumas fell to 0-2 with the loss. The Harvesters visit Perryton, 2-0, Friday while Dumas travels to Amarillo to play Tascosa (1-1).

Perryton defeated Dallas Jesuit Friday night. In other games Odessa Permian outlasted Amarillo High, 20-7. Tascosa edged Plainview, 14-7, and Berger nosed Canyon, 6-0. Caprock and El Paso Andrews played last night in El Paso.

'Bama Edges 11th-Ranked Terps

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Calvin Culliver scored two first half touchdowns and quarterback Richard Todd ran for a decisive third quarter score Saturday to give second-ranked Alabama a 21-16 victory over 11th-ranked Maryland.

Todd's touchdown, which made the score 21-9, was set up when Maryland quarterback Ben Kinard fumbled and Alabama's Mike Dubose recovered at the Terps' 39. Todd swept around end for 19 yards, passed to Joe Dale Harris at the nine, then ran in from the seven for the score.

The Terps, on the strength of three field goals by Steve Mike Mayer and a touchdown by Lou Carter in the fourth quarter, kept the game in doubt until 5:30 left when Maryland's Bob Smith fumbled a Todd punt at the Maryland 49.

Then with less than two minutes left the Tide's Ricky Davis intercepted a Kinard pass at the Maryland 35, killing the Terps' last chance.

Alabama drove 72 yards in 11 plays from the opening kickoff for its first score with Culliver rushing for 40 of those yards. On fourth and two at the Maryland 12 Todd skirted the left side for a first down, then on the next play Culliver scored from the seven.

Culliver, who ran for 154 yards in 15 first half carries, gave Alabama a 14-0 lead midway in the second quarter when he blasted through the middle for a 73 yard TD. Mike Mayer kicked 32 and 35 yards after the Maryland offense sputtered on third down plays to bring the Terps to 14-6.

Maryland's Rick Jennings took the second half kickoff 61 yards but the Tide defense held the Terps at the 23 and Mike Mayer booted a 40 yard field goal to make it 14-9.

Maryland marched 70 yards at the end of the third quarter, aided by an interference call on a pass play, with Carter plunging over for the score in the opening moments of the fourth quarter.

Bean, Walker Boost Aggies Over Clemson Tigers, 24-0

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Texas A&M combined a methodical ground attack, led by halfbacks Bubba Bean and Skip Walker and a solid defense Saturday to shut out Clemson 24-0 in a game marred by a bench-emptying brawl during the final quarter. Walker, a 189-pound speedster, scored for the Aggies on runs of three and 25 yards, and Bean raced 32 yards down the sidelines for another score that capped a 97-yard fourth period drive.

The Aggies controlled the game from the outset, allowing Clemson only one serious scoring opportunity in the final quarter. But Tiger halfback Ken Callicutt fumbled when he was hit by Jackie Williams, and Tim Gray recovered for A&M at the Aggie three to end the Clemson threat.

Randy Haddox had booted a 36-yard field goal midway through the first period to give A&M the lead. Paul Chulin fell on a Clemson fumble at the Tiger 16 in the second period and three plays later Walker followed the blocks of Richard Osborne and Glen Bujnoch into the end zone.

The Aggies drove 78 yards with the second half kickoff, getting yardage in big chunks as Bean ran outside for 32 yards and Walker skirted the other side for the final 25.

Police charged onto the field with just over six minutes to field when a Clemson fourth down try failed and a mele broke out that emptied both benches. Coaches and officials finally stopped the series of fights between the players.

The scramble began on the Clemson bench and fisticuffs moved all the way to the 20 yard line at one end of the field before they were finally halted.

WT Blasts Drake, 37-17

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Reserve quarterback Mike Wartes fired two second half touchdown passes to lead West Texas State to a 37-17 Missouri Valley Conference victory over Drake Saturday.

Wartes' first scoring pass went seven yards to tight end Merced Solis and broke a 17-17 tie with 2:48 left in the third period.

Five plays later, linebacker Larry Spees recovered a Drake fumble and on the first play of the fourth quarter, halfback Rick Schleider broke over right guard for a 28-yard touchdown run.

Another Drake turnover set up Wartes' second scoring pass a 10-yarder to reserve end Mickey Matthews with 2:40 left in the game.

Drake quarterback Jonas Sears tossed two touchdown passes in the first half and was nine for 33 for 261 yards, but could not lead a touchdown drive in the second half as the Bulldogs fell to 0-2 for the season and 0-1 in the conference West Texas is 1-0.

West Texas jumped to a 10-0 lead on a 41-yard field goal by Bruce Wyrse and a 14-yard run by fullback Johnny Darden.

OU Wins But Bears Make It Tough

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Oklahoma, leading by only two points after three quarters, struck for three last period touchdowns Saturday and a 28-11 victory over a fired-up Baylor Team in a nonconference football game.

Sooner halfback Joe Washington, who scored one touchdown on a nine-yard burst, zig-zagged 156 yards on 17 carries for most of the excitement in an otherwise ragged opening game for both teams.

Halfback Grant Burget raced 28 yards to score on the Sooners' first possession, quarterback Steve Davis plunged over from the one on the first play of the fourth quarter, and split end Tinker Owens wrapped it up with a seven-yard dash on an end-around.

AGAINST ATLANTA TODAY

Shaky Dallas To Rely On Dallas

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys take a shaky first step into the regular season Sunday in what Coach Tom Landry hopes will be a defensive oriented game against the Atlanta Falcons.

"This has to be a defensive game if we are going to win it," said Landry, who will begin his 15th season as the only coach the club has ever had.

"We have to play a good defensive game because you know they probably will."

The Cowboy offense has sputtered through preseason, chiefly in the past two weeks as a result of a rib injury suffered by No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach.

Staubach, with some extra padding tucked around his rib cage, is expected to be in the starting lineup Sunday.

McDowell Has Fastest Pigeon

R.L. McDowell, with a Red Check Splash cock, had a time of 982.14 yards per minute and won the Hereford "B" race in the Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club weekly competition Saturday.

McDowell's winner was also the fastest bird of the day since the "A" race winner was a Mealy cock, owned by A.P. Coombes, which flew 928.86 yards per minute.

In the "B" race Jim Cantrell captured second with a Blue Bar cock which flew 978.14.

Red Hot Steelers May Win It All

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers won all their six preseason games for the first time in their 42-year history but Coach Chuck Noll isn't predicting outright they will be in the Super Bowl next January.

Gilliam was outstanding and Bradshaw played very well, but there's no such thing as No. 2. Noll hedged. "We have 47 players and all will contribute."

History bears him out. The New York Giants also turned in a 6-0 record in preseason play in 1973 but slumped to a 2-11-1 showing in the regular campaign.

with his replacement, rookie Jack Lambert. Ed Bradley also will see duty, as well as Loren Toews. Guard Bruce Van Dyke, in his ninth year, has been traded to Green Bay...

Asked if there was any credence to reports Hanratty would be traded, Noll replied: "We want to put together the best team we can. Last year we ended up with three quarterbacks. You never know what happens over a long season. We'll keep all four quarterbacks. I assume. But I'm not closing my mind to any possibility. But I would just as soon keep them all."

Joe Greene, one of the finest in the NFL, and Ernie Holmes anchor down the defensive tackle posts. Back as defensive ends are L.C. Greenwood and Dwight White, with Craig Hanneman and Steve Furness in reserve.

Veteran running backs are Franco Harris, John "Frenchy" Fuqua, Preston Pearson and Steve Davis. Rocky Bleier, used on the speciality teams, was spotted as a running back and acquitted himself well in preseason play.

The secondary, which led the NFL in interceptions last season, will have veteran Mel Blount and second-year man J. T. Thomas at the corners and Glen Edwards and Mike Wagner at the safeties. Thomas was handed the job when veteran John Rowser was traded during the draft in January.

Noll has made it clear third-year quarterback Joe Gilliam would open the season. The former Tennessee State star, tutored in football by his father when he was a small boy, was spectacular in leading the team to its perfect preseason record.

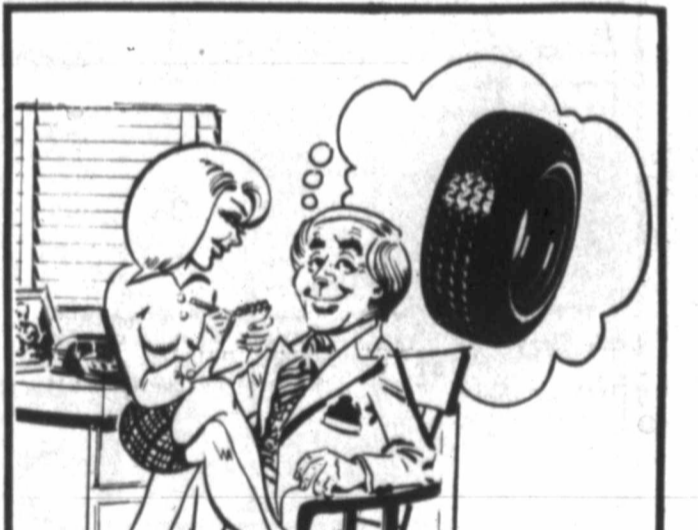

And long it was, as Spearman went on to belt the Wildcats, 43-12. Friday night here in a non-district football clash between two teams ranked highly in their respective districts — Spearman in 1-AA and Canadian in 1-A.

King made it 13-12 midway through the second quarter with a 25-yard romp around right end. He set the score up with runs of 10, 7, 15, 8 and 12 yards. King booted the extra point as Clarendon took a 13-12 advantage.

Canadian's only touchdowns were on a one-yard run around right end by Marty Carr late in the third quarter, and a 24-yard pass from Gary Bob Hutcheson to Robert Wilson midway through the fourth. Spearman led, 7-0, after Davis' touchdown, at the end of the first period, and 27-0 at the half.

Another thing I want to mention is the fact that we are always receptive to your ideas or suggestions on how to improve or help you with a problem. It has been brought to our attention that some of the open bowlers tend to not observe the courtesies of the league having the right of not being distracted or interfered with while they are bowling.

Bye now, Gil

Suburban Dwellers Work Outside Cities, Patterns Show

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study of commuting patterns in eight major cities in Arkansas, Colorado, Louisiana, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas indicates that most suburban dwellers work outside the cities. The study was made by Associated Mortgage Companies, Inc., a Philadelphia-based national real estate and financing organization with a portfolio of more than $2 billion.

"Associated Mortgage President Marshall C. Dennison, reporting in Washington on the study said: "This pattern will be a key factor in the Southwest region's construction picture in the latter half of the '70s. It's simply a case of bringing the work place to the people." Based on the commuter profile of suburbanites in Denver, Kansas City, New Orleans, Tulsa, Houston, Dallas, Little Rock and Albuquerque, he made the following observations: Denver: The portion of suburban residents also working in suburbia is 57 per cent — will rise to almost 60 per cent by end-decade. Kansas City: Suburban dwellers-workers are 56 per cent. Projections set this figure at 60 per cent in 1980. New Orleans: Currently, 54 per cent of suburbanites also hold jobs there, and at decade's conclusion—58 per cent. Tulsa: Suburban residents working in suburbia are 52 per cent.

The estimate for 1980 is 57 per cent. Houston: Today, 52 per cent of suburbanites work in their immediate area — by 1980, the portion is projected at 55 per cent. Dallas: Of all workers living in the suburbs now, 49 per cent also work in their immediate communities. By 1980, this portion will climb to over 52 per cent. Little Rock and Albuquerque are exceptions to the general pattern in the Southwest, Dennison said.

Law won't allow her to get pregnant

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am an adult, unmarried woman. I feel that I can get along without a husband if the right one never comes along. I want a child, but I don't want to adopt one. I want to experience bearing a child.

I have spent many hours on the phone talking to doctors and hospitals about artificial insemination, but they all refuse to help me because I am not married. They say it is the "law." Abby, why? I am healthy, well-adjusted and can well afford to raise a child. I have even taken courses in child care and child psychology. Above all, I love children and know I would make a good mother.

Some girls fool around and get pregnant. I have never fooled around, and I wouldn't do it even for the purpose of having a child, but the law says I can't have artificial insemination because I am not married. That's discrimination.

I am willing to go anywhere in the U.S.A., but it would be much more convenient if I could have it done near here. Please help me.

CHILDLESS IN MICHIGAN

DEAR CHILDLESS: Ask a lawyer to tell you if there is any state that allows an unmarried woman to have artificial insemination. If there is none, you are out of luck. I agree, it's discriminatory and archaic. It assumes that a child cannot be successfully reared by one parent—a fallacy, as widows, divorcees and single fathers have proven.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can help me. At a convention dinner, my husband and I were having a wonderful time until I told an off-color, Polish joke. It didn't go over very well.

Later, I found out that one of the couples sitting at our table was Polish. I felt so stupid. I didn't know what to do or say. Needless to say, the rest of the evening was ruined for me.

Abby, what should I have done? Would an apology have helped?

DEAR RUINED: Possibly. Now, do yourself (and your husband) a favor and vow never again to tell a joke that puts down an ethnic group. (And don't laugh at one, either.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, a divorcee with two children and am considered attractive. About a year ago I spotted an eligible bachelor in town, so I moved into this apartment building hoping to make his acquaintance. I made his acquaintance all right, but that's about all. He says hello pleasantly when we meet in the hall, but I've never been able to get him into my apartment.

I telephone him one evening to tell him my bedroom window was stuck (it really was), so he sent a janitor up with a hammer. He's not going with anybody special, and he's not a goody-goody because I've seen him entertain women in his apartment. None of them is as attractive as I. How can I get him interested without having it look like I'm chasing him?

GETTING NOWHERE

DEAR GETTING: It's not easy to chase a man without having it "look like" you're doing what you're doing. Face it. He's not interested in you. And any more moves in his direction will make your scheming so obvious that he's apt to hide when he sees you coming.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I don't really have a problem, but I'd like to get this off my chest. My husband has a young woman working for him who I can't help being a little jealous of. She's younger than I am, much prettier and she's with him all day. What really bothers me is the fact that she is seen all over town driving my husband's car. She's running errands for him—that's why she uses his car, but Abby, it looks bad. A few of my friends have remarked about it. Am I foolish to let this bug me? And what should I do?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: You're foolish to let it bug you, and don't "do" anything. And if any of your "friends" remark about it again, say, "So?"

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK

A prominent psychologist recently announced that due to the economy, the emphasis on overpopulation, and working mothers, there has been a cutback of children and we are entering the era of the Only Child.

Do you have any idea what the impact of that statement is? It means there has been a breakthrough in Sibling Rivalry. That's right. Someone has finally come up with a cure for it—the one-child family. I don't know why our generation never thought of it.

Imagine. No more having to cut a maraschino cherry into four equal pieces. No more trying to convince your younger son that hand-me-down boots are neither male nor female. No more taking a number at mealtime to talk.

With each addition to our family, we tried to explain how wonderful a brother or sister would be, but they never bought it. Few children do. We used to have a neighbor child who treated his smaller sister like chopped spinach. His disgust for her culminated when he dragged her to school one day for Show and Tell, shoved her before his classmates and said, "This is my sister. I told you she was dumb."

All three of my children pretend to be an only child. Their hostility often isn't even subtle. One used to set the table for four and when I'd ask where the other plate was she'd say, "Is HE still here?" (referring to small brother).

"Yes, why?"
"How long is he going to stay?"

"Through dinner or until I can get his plumbing on automatic—whichever comes first."

Somehow, I can't imagine what it would be like to sit down at the dinner table and not have the rivalry, the competition, the clashing of the three of them over what my husband and I refer to as the War of the Catsup.

"Look at him. He's using all the catsup."
"You'll have your turn, so bug off."

"Hah! There won't be a 'turn' after you're finished. Mom! He's wasting it."

"I couldn't help it. It came out all at once."

"Mom! Why do you let him pour catsup in his lap and play in it?"

"He's the baby, haven't you heard?"
"So get another bottle."

"There isn't any more. You are a hog."
"Mom! Make him put some back in the bottle."
"MOM! MOM!"

I wonder how you raise a child with his own bottle of catsup without spoiling him.

Young children are too immature and lack experience to know what is safe in their home and neighborhood. They need guidance and some limits for their own protection. Ilene Carrington, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, advised.

PJHS Students Present Skit For DAR Meeting

The Las Pampas Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met recently in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens Bank and Trust. Mrs. J. B. White, regent, presided over the meeting which was opened by the Pledge to the Flag and the American's Creed led by Mrs. Louise Sewell, flag chairman.

Mrs. Quentin Williams, chaplain, gave the devotional and asked for Divine guidance through these troubled times, these periods of crises, confusion and uncertainty as a free nation and to give us all as Americans the will to do God's work and to make and keep our country free.

In her defense committee report, Mrs. L.A. Barnes warned that even though the United States is now riding the crest of a most extraordinary productive period our needs and our commitments are such that one disastrous crop year could result in acute food shortages and skyrocketing prices. She said that a World Food Conference will be held in November and that our Secretary of State Kissinger, in his March speech to the U.N., urged international co-operation at that conference "To restore the world's capacity to meet a famine."

Mrs. White announced that the Division Work Shop will be held Sept. 23-24 in Abilene.

Mrs. P. R. Britton, vice-regent introduced Mrs. Cleone Sears of Pampa Junior High School American History Department. Since the DAR has oriented the programs for the year on the bi-centennial theme, Mrs. Sears presented some of her students who had prepared the program with this in mind. Susan Lane, Neysa

Copeland and Debbie Gattis opened the program with music on the electric organ and guitars and asked the group to join in singing "America." Jona Daniels, David Anderson, Courtland Imel, Chris Alexander, Chis Kirby, Kelly Moore, and Linda Stovall presented a skit which portrayed the arrival of Benjamin Franklin at Constitution Hall in Philadelphia on May 2, 1776 and the reaction of people of the city who wondered what was going on in that hot hall all summer.

Ron Warren, teacher in the department of PJHS, assisted the young people with behind the scenes recordings of the proceedings of the convention as they might have been.

Guests present were the Misses Minnie McKnerney of Loas Angles, Calif. and Mary Britton.

ABWA Group Slates Enrollment Tea Today

The Pampa Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hold its Silver Celebration enrollment event today at 2:30 p.m. in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank and Trust Company, according to Mrs. J.A. King, chapter president.

This event is held semi-annually to introduce the organization and the local chapter to business women in this area. Throughout this week similar events will be held across the country by more than 1,100 other ABWA chapters.

"The chief function of ABWA is to help women in business advance through education, increased competence, and through upgrading of professional skills and business attitudes," said Mrs. King.

Pampa Charter Chapter was organized in 1960. Each year a Woman of the Year is selected and honored, and scholarships are awarded to deserving recipients. Pampa Charter Chapter meets the second Tuesday of each month at 6:30 p.m. in the Coronado Inn.

The Association, founded in Kansas City, Mo. in 1949, now has over 74,000 members. One of its worthy projects is giving scholarships to women students.

ABWA chapters, which are located throughout the United States and Puerto Rico, awarded over $450,000 in scholarships from Oct. 1, 1972, to Sept. 30, 1973.

Membership is by invitation only. For further information, interested business women may contact Ms. J.G. Shelton, membership chairman, 9-2196, or Mrs. Fred Richmond, tea chairman, 9-3587.

Artist Will Stage Black On White Show

An exhibition of pencil, ink and charcoal drawings by five Texas artists, Richard Thompson, Lloyd Cook, Don Ray, Jim Ward and Bob Moline, will be open to the public Sept. 22-27 at the Pampa Fine Arts Association's Gallery, 512 W. Kingsmill. Gallery hours will be 2 to 6 p.m. daily.

Richard Thompson is from Pampa. Lloyd Cook, Amarillo. Others Jim Ward of Canyon, Don Ray of Channing, and Bob Moline of Joshua, are members of the recently formed Texas Cowboy Artist Association.

Richard Thompson, born in Hinton, Okla. spent much of his youth in Tulsa, where he studied painting privately through his high school years. He continued the study of art at West Texas State University where he received a Bachelor of Arts Degree.

After graduation he was employed on the art staff of Irrigation Age Magazine and later became art director of Russell Stationery Company. Now making Pampa his home, Thompson has devoted his full attention to his painting and sculpting. Working primarily in oils, his paintings depict the wildlife and landscapes of the Southwest. Thompson has held several one-man shows and is represented in numerous private collections.

Lloyd Cook, born in Oklahoma, has lived all his life in the Southwest except for time out to serve in the Pacific in World War II. He began his professional art career at the age of 10 when he sold a drawing of a neighbor's dog to the neighbor for 25 cents. He has been a professional artist all his adult life except for a short stint as an accountant in a construction business. He was art director for an advertising agency for many years until he opened his own studio in 1968.

His work has run the gamut from advertising design and illustration to drawing and painting in most media. Watercolor is his first love and he considers it to be the ideal medium for painting his favorite subject, the Southwestern Landscape.

Cook has been the recipient of many awards for both his painting and advertising art. He is currently an art instructor at TSTU in Amarillo. His paintings may be found in many private collections.

Don Ray is a graduate of West Texas State University and holds Bachelor of Science and Master of Education degrees. A quiet and studious man, his paintings show a depth of understanding and insight seldom equalled by artists many years his senior. He prefers to work in oils, enjoys drawing and occasionally works in water color.

Ray's father is a cattleman and Don was practically raised on a saddle. This in part, accounts for his acute awareness of and interest in all things western. Although he recognizes no special teacher, he was markedly influenced by Olive Vandraff, especially in terms of color values and light contrasts.

Don was born and raised in the Texas Panhandle and now makes his home in Channing.

Jim Ward is vice president of the Texas Cowboy Artist Association and native of Austin. He studied at Oklahoma State University in Stillwater before taking up the rodeo circuit.

Even in those early rodeo days he liked to sketch and he was often sent ahead of the rodeo to paint advertising pictures on windows about town. He became a rodeo clown, assuming the job which, in the opinion of many riders, is the most hazardous of any in the rodeo.

He has lived on the outskirts of Canyon for the past eight years. Here he paints and sculpts and maintains his own foundry. He enjoys working in both art forms and feels that working in either heightens his sensitivities in the other.

Bob Moline was born in South Texas, reared in West Texas and has spent the past 13 years in the Fort Worth area. A Comanche and fine horseman, his sensitive treatment of his Indian ancestry and his cowboy heritage has commanded increasing respect in recent years.

He was a master saddle maker before going into full-time painting. A quiet and serious man, he is a self-taught artist. His favorite media are watercolor, and tempera, along with the acrylics which have constituted many of his recent works.

He considers western art to be the American contribution of the art world, and is elated at the acceptance it has enjoyed in foreign lands as well as at home.

He received the TCA Gold Medalion Award for Best Watercolor of 74 and Best Drawing of 74 at the recent TCA Annual Awards exhibition.

A reception honoring the artists will be held Sept. 21 for Pampa Fine Arts Association members.

Altrusa Guests Attend Noon Meet

Honored guest speakers, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Henderson and Mrs. Linnie Lester, attended the regular noon meeting of the Altrusa Club of Pampa recently. The guests are members of the Senior Citizens Club which meets each Thursday afternoon at Lovett Memorial Library, to play games, have entertainment and are served refreshments.

The Senior Citizens of Pampa celebrated their 18th anniversary recently at the center. Local Altrusans sponsor this weekly event and new members are always welcome.

The President, Geneva Tidwell, presided, and announced that they would be a joint meeting of the Altrusa Clubs of Borger, Amarillo, and Pampa held in Amarillo at the Federated Womens Club Building, Sept. 16. All Pampa members will meet at 5:30 in Coronado Center parking lot to go together.

Rena Belle Anderson introduced Gay Thames, Altrusa Girl for September. Miss Thames, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Thames, 1133 Duncan, is a senior at Pampa High School and told of her many school and church activities.

Mrs. Anderson also gave a report on her visit to the Pampa Day Care Center and refreshed memories of their needs.

The club voted to purchase a portable colored TV to be given away before Christmas to some lucky person who made a contribution toward the many projects of the Altrusa Club of Pampa. Members were reminded that these projects will cost over $1300 this year.

SKACKING

A popular American pastime — snacking — can add needed vitamins and minerals to a person's daily diet. But too many or the wrong kind may cause excess weight gain, according to Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Decorative Gourds---How To Harvest And Cure Them

COLLEGE STATION — Colorful gourds add an imaginative touch to fall decorating — but they must be carefully harvested and cured to prevent decay and discoloration, one landscape horticulturist noted.

He's Everett Janne, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"They should be picked when fully mature, but before frost, to reduce danger of spoiling during the curing process. The stem will shrivel and turn brown as they ripen."

The specialist suggested cutting the fruit from the vine with pruning shears to retain a short portion of the stem.

Brushing and scratching the gourds during harvesting causes rot and unsightly spots.

To prepare the gourds for curing, wipe each fruit with a cloth dampened in rubbing alcohol. This removes dirt and decay organisms. If the gourds are extremely dirty, you can wash them in warm water with a mild soap or detergent. Use a household disinfectant in the rinse water. Then dry each fruit with a soft cloth.

"Place the clean gourds on a shallow slatted tray or open shelf in a well-ventilated porch, garage or shed, taking care that the fruit do not touch each other. Turn them daily and discard any that shrivel or develop soft spots."

"After the first week of curing, the skin will become hard and tough. The gourds can then be stored in shallow wood or cardboard trays in a well-ventilated room or attic for a minimum of three weeks to complete the curing process," Janne said.

The specialist advised continuing to inspect them every few days to remove any fruit which shrivel or show signs of decay. Do not store in a damp basement or in tight, unventilated containers, he cautioned.

"You can look for the colors of properly-cured gourds to last three to four months. They will retain their color an additional month or two if you apply a protective coat of white shellac, floor wax or furniture wax to the dry, completely cured fruit," he noted.

Sparerib Recipe Uses Nectarines

Bake spareribs the final 30 minutes with an easy and exotic sauce for this glamorous main dish, "Spareribs Orientale."
The sweet-sour sauce contains sliced fresh nectarines, green pepper and onion. The golds and reds of the nectarines and the green of the pepper contrast most appetizingly with the richly-browned meat.
Fresh nectarines from California will continue to be available in markets through September. Eating them out-of-hand is the easiest way to enjoy their luscious goodness. There's no need to remove their smooth, tender skins, even in most recipe uses.

Spareribs Orientale

4 lbs. spareribs, cut into 2-rib pieces
2 to 4 fresh California nectarines
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup brown sugar (packed)
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/2 cup sliced green pepper
1 cup thinly-sliced onion

Place spareribs in 13 x 9-inch baking dish; bake at 350 degrees F. 1 1/2 hours. Drain off excess fat. Meanwhile, slice nectarines to yield 2 cups. Blend cornstarch with water in saucepan; add all remaining ingredients except nectarines and cook, stirring until sauce is thickened and clear. Add nectarines and pour sauce over spareribs. Bake 30 minutes longer or until ribs are done. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In the blue-ribbon Life Masters Pairs Championship held this past July in New York City, 516 of our continent's top ranking pairs were entered. The tallest pair by far were Harry Stappenback of Uniondale, New Jersey, who is 6 feet 11 inches, and Bill Root of Boca Raton, Florida, who is 6 feet 9 1/2 inches.

Back in 1967, Root represented the United States in the World Championships. Although he rarely plays these days, his handling of a delicate part score contract in today's deal illustrates that his "stature" has not diminished. He was sitting in the South seat. Stappenback was North.

North - South vulnerable. East deals.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♦ 2♦ 3♦ Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♥.

West's two-spade overcall was an artificial expert bid, showing five hearts and five cards in an unspecified minor suit (either clubs or diamonds).

In retrospect, East should have overtaken West's king of hearts with the ace, and returned a heart to West's queen. He would then have ruffed a third heart lead, and, in time, he would have made two more trump tricks. But he allowed West's king of hearts to win the first trick. A second heart lead was taken by East's ace.

To trick three, East led a club, South's ace winning. The ace of trumps was cashed next, felling West's queen, and this was followed by the queen, king and ace of diamonds. South's remaining heart was discarded on the third diamond lead. He then ruffed a diamond.

Root now cashed his king of clubs, after which he ruffed the ten of clubs with dummy's next-to-last trump. At this point, with ten tricks having been played, the lead was in dummy.

Dummy's last three cards were the jack of hearts, the jack of trumps, and the diamond seven. East had the K-10-8 of trumps. And declarer had the 9-7-6 of trumps. No matter what was led from dummy, Root could not be prevented from making his nine of trumps for his ninth trick. His score on the deal was an excellent one.

SAFETY NET
DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Living near the 14th hole of the Waveland Park Golf Course meant a lot of free golf balls for Dave Proctor. It also meant a lot of broken windows and the chance of getting smacked on the head by an errant ball.

To eliminate the hazard, the Des Moines Park Board has voted to construct a huge net in back of Proctor's house.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, Sept. 15

Your birthday today: You now begin the final round of a long cycle of self-improvement. Before the last quarter of the year, refine and redevelop rather than plunge into major changes. Today's natives include many of great intelligence or ability to understand cause and effect.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Make your own arrangements early and keep them simple. Deal tactfully with those you must, but stay out of arguments where possible.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Keep down your impulse to spend extra during otherwise great Sunday. Socialize, enjoy pastimes and reminisce.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be hospitable. Share with those who have less, but don't agree to supply anybody for extended periods. Catch up with an abundance of social news.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Rely on your enthusiasm. Do what is most important, but take a firm stand with money. Pursue mental activities and conversation in afternoon and evening.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Take part in your community social and religious activities. Contacts made now deserve consideration and cultivation, but not extravagant entertainment.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: You can overcome many differences and get started in a new direction by using subtle persuasion, particularly with people you don't know very well.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Find areas where you can bring happiness to those less fortunate, but avoid patronizing or pity. Money complicates most projects, so be patient.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Influential people are apt to be helpful if allowed to do things in their own way, but don't expect definite financial changes or benefits. Advance planning is favored now.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: As you work for long-term goals, take into account the hopes and requirements of your family. An important introduction is probably among today's pleasant events.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Travel is not favored. Attend to simple, dignified customs. Self-improvement is inevitable with reading and meditation.

'Romantic Revival' Is Topic For Music Teachers Program

The September meeting of the Pampa Music Teacher's Association was held Wednesday in the studio of Mrs. Lois Fagan. The meeting opened with the Piano Teacher's Prayer, led by the President Mrs. Darville Orr.

"Romantic Revival" was the program topic presented by Mrs. Orr. Romantic music refers to music written from 1820-1900 by such composers as Schumann, Mendelssohn, Chopin and Liszt, who were getting away from the revered technical aspects of music of their time, she told.

Mrs. Orr also gave a biography of Aslof Henselt, another romantic composer and performed his "La Fontaine" and "Petit Valse". Mrs. Lois Fagan gave a brief sketch of Franz Liszt, and performed his "La Regatta Ventiane". Mrs. Gary Henderson also performed Claude Debussy's "First Arabesque".

During the short business meeting that followed the program, further plans were made for the upcoming P.M.T.A. Cavalcade: a public recital to be held in November.

Members present were Mrs. Gary Henderson, Darville Orr, Harold Starbuck, Calvin Whately and Lois Fagan.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs.

Gary R. Henderson, 2109 N. Banks, on Oct. 8 at 10 a.m.

PAIN RELIEF DALLAS (UPI) — A University of Texas Southwestern Medical School professor recently returned from China says acupuncture will not be a fully recognized method of surgical pain relief in this country for a long time.

Dr. M.T. Jenkins, chairman of the medical school's anesthesiology department, said it was doubted acupuncture anesthesia would be accepted by western patients who tend to have relatively lower pain thresholds than orientals.

Daughter Convulses, Passes Out

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 27 months, holds her breath. She convulses and passes out. These are much like fever convulsions, which she also has at times, except that with a fever the "jerking" lasts longer. She sleeps for an hour or so after these breath-holdings. This happens every day, sometimes several times. This has happened since before I brought her home from the hospital nursery. Her doctor seems to think I am worried needlessly, perhaps overreacting because our son has had grand mal seizures over the last four years. (His seizures, thankfully, seem to be well controlled.) Our doctor also says medication wouldn't help. He seems so uninterested that I haven't even mentioned it to him for over a year.

I don't believe she does this for attention, as she gets none during or after this happens. Other tricks I have heard of — blowing in her face or using cold water — do not help either. I've tried it a couple of times, but she seemed to be "too far gone."

Do these attacks really hurt or damage her? — Mrs. D.D.

Breath-holding is a fairly common trick with some youngsters, which may be why your doctor has not seemed more concerned. Again, you haven't mentioned it for a year, so he may think it has all passed by.

After all, about 4.5 per cent of children adopt this breath-holding trick between the ages of six months and 3 or 4 years. But usually it is a manifestation of anger following a fall, spanking, reprimand or childish frustration.

There are some other aspects to look for, though. An iron deficiency anemia is seven times as common in breath-holders as in other children, so a blood test for a possible anemia wouldn't be amiss.

The fact that your son has had grand mal epileptic seizures could be significant. Not all epileptic seizures are alike, and breath-holding can be confused with such convulsive seizures.

The chief differences that can be observed are that some surprise event preceded the breath-holding but not an epileptic attack; the breath-holder cries hard, and duskiness of the skin occurs early. In epilepsy the child is not crying and the duskiness occurs only late in the convulsion.

An electroencephalogram (EEG, or "brain-wave test") will be normal if it is purely a matter of holding the breath; usually will show well-recognized abnormalities with convulsive seizures.

Breath-holding usually disappears as a child gets older, perhaps in a few months in your daughter's case — if that is it. There is no treatment for it, and it does not harm the child, however much it alarms a mother. All a mother can do is ignore it.

In your case I would want a blood count (to rule out anemia) and an EEG which, if abnormal, would suggest use of anti-convulsant drugs. Such drugs, though, are of no value in a true breath-holder.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any alteration in hormone production following tubal ligation? One would think Mother Nature would soon catch on that the uterus was not receiving ova, unfertilized or otherwise, and react on the body some way. — Mrs. R.O.

It isn't the reception of an ovum (or lack of it) that activates the uterus. It is influence of hormones. They are not affected by tubal ligation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are sneakers good for your feet? My mother and father won't let me wear them (except for gym) and I like to wear them. — J.L.S.

No harm in wearing them. It's pretty much similar to going barefoot.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to him Dr. George C. Thosteson at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Leading Man Leaves Lorelei

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — There's many a leading man who gets misled.

Peter Palmer wasn't going to be one of them. Peter was tall and handsome, a former University of Illinois football star, who'd already been on the Broadway stage in "Li'l Abner." Now he suddenly was Carol Channing's leading man in "Lorelei." That would seem to be a great spot for an actor to promote himself with personal publicity — "Carol Channing's leading man. WOW!"

But that's where Peter Palmer was a leading man who wouldn't be misled.

Because Peter Palmer is now leaving the show, taking with him his wife Aniko Farrell, who was Miss Canada in the Miss Universe, Miss World and Miss International contests 10 years ago.

And there's no great furor about their leaving because, to be frank, not many people knew they were in the show to start with.

That's the way the star system works in the theater and Peter Palmer knew it well.

"When I got into the show, I knew I was never going to steal any scenes from Carol Channing," Palmer said the other afternoon between matinee and evening performances, having dinner at the Pub Theatrical.

"And it has worked great for the show. How many shows are still in business 20 months after they started? Carol did it. Carol and her husband Charles Lowe, they deserve the credit. Nobody else could have done it."

Peter remembers the times that Carol made sure he got introduced to a visiting celebrity.

"She made sure that I stood right next to Lady Bird Johnson in a picture. And Carol's always eating her organic food. One night she's got a pear in one hand and another pear in the other and eating both of them. I kept wondering, are they different pears?"

Peter and his wife were doing a night club act and plush hotel. Cindy wailed, "I don't do this even at home!"

The ad campaign for Burt Reynolds' "Longest Yard" was switched from football to sex and comedy, and business is better. Buckeye on B'way: Dottie Belle Meymann of Cleveland and Middletown, O., joined the Music Hall's line of Rockettes.

Marty Ingels plays the president ("Richard Trixie") in "Linda Lovelace For President." He writes, "I have a great deal — I can choose my own wardrobe man, makeup man and bail bondsman."

Former sex symbol Anita Ekberg, heftier now, is running a car rental agency in Rome. Tony Curtis'll produce, direct and star in "Kid Andrew Cody." (Oh yes, he'll also write the screenplay.)

NBC's sending a camera crew to Munich, where James Caan's filming "Rollerball," so he can make a commercial for the network's showing of "The Godfather." Count Basie's 70th birthday will be celebrated Sept. 22 with a celebrity dinner party at the Waldorf.

Charles Lowe is the unsung and unnoticed hero to Palmer.

He makes dozens of appointments for personal appearances for Carol, and it is whispered that he will occasionally start the applause from the sidelines, and when it tapers off, he might start it up again. He has a few close friends who join him in this endeavor.

Charles is mostly in the audience watching the audience reaction and the sound," Palmer said. "Carol wants a certain volume kept and he watches those mikes. I hardly see Carol except on the stage. We hardly see each other backstage. I go upstairs and she goes down."

"But everybody works and Carol the hardest of all. I would have been glad to do more. But it was Carol who was selling the show. People said to me, 'What do you do in the show?' and I said, 'Well, I walk out and I go 'Ta ta' — and that's it.'"

Palmer was the first University of Illinois music major to get a letter in football (back in '52 and '53). He and his wife wanted to return to Sullivan Co., Ill., to do the Little Theater there this fall and are leaving "Lorelei."

"We'll miss 'Lorelei,'" Palmer said. "We never missed any shows and Carol didn't, and Charles didn't either."

TENT SHOWS

CHAUTAUQUA, N.Y. (UPI) — This is the centennial season for the Chautauqua "movement," which was founded as a training camp for Sunday School teachers and later spawned nationwide summer tent "shows" that took all sorts of entertainment to the small towns of America. That phase ended in 1932, but the summer sessions here, with many types of major artistic and other personalities participating, continue and attract thousands.

The Red Cross Board met Tuesday morning in the City Club Rooms in the City Hall with 18 members present.

Miss Norma Briden, chapter chairman, presided and urged the members to work on the United Fund Drive this year. She also urged each member to give as generously as possible to the UF as this is where the Red Cross gets its money to run its organization.

Standing committees gave their reports with Mrs. Louise Sewell reporting 92 hours given by the Hospital Volunteers and 111 hours given by the Hospital Volunteers. Mrs. Nell Carter, SMF chairman, reported 23 service cases with four Emergency leaves, 14 reports to the military and three cases with counselling in family problems.

The Adult Swim class at the Pampa Youth Center will begin at 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. with Mrs. Sally White, WSI; Mrs. Donna Holland, WSI, and Mrs. Jan Robinson, WSI, in charge of the class. All adults should enter this class and learn to swim or learn to swim better.

If you are a member of the Youth Center, the class will be free. If you are not a member of the Center, the pool fee is $5.

If you are working on a committee in the UF Drive, remember to bring your workers to the dinner at the M.K. Brown Auditorium to hear the story of the UF Drive Sept. 24 at 12 noon.

Red Cross is one of the agencies in the UF and we are anxious that we all work to make the goal this year. Let's get behind the drive and help make this a real 100 percent goal.

STORE A YEAR'S SUPPLY OF FOOD... SIMPLY AND SAFELY

By JOHN SHUTTLEWORTH

Relax. Take a deep breath. Today with the help of someone who's already done it - I'm going to show you one way to solve (on a very personal level) most of the troubles of the world.

By the time you've finished this column, you'll know how to start preparing yourself and your family for future energy crunches, money crises, strikes, floods, earthquakes, war, epidemics, riots and any kind of shortage you can imagine.

Our guide is Kris Torrey - a California woman - who says, "The best insurance policy for these unsettled times is a year's supply of necessities safely tucked away for you and your loved ones. Once you've prepared yourself to live for a 12-month period without any income, the feeling of security is fantastic!"

Water, as Kris correctly points out, is the first and most basic essential of life. She says, "You should store at least one gallon of good drinking water per person per day for a period of two to three weeks. The establishment of a water cache is very important and very inexpensive. DO IT NOW!"

Although some people prefer to buy new five-gallon cans or storage tanks for their water reserve, Kris obtained all the free containers she needed by collecting empty Clorox jugs (plastic containers which have held other products may contain harmful or distasteful contaminants).

Ms. Torrey thoroughly rinses out the jugs, fills them from an indoor tap, identifies their contents as "DRINKING WATER" with a felt-tipped marker and squirrels the reserve away in various nooks and crannies around the house.

She says, "If four drops of any 5 1/2 or 6 percent hypochlorite bleach such as Clorox or Purex are added to each jug at bottling time, the liquid will remain sweet for years... except for a flat taste which is easily cured by aeration before use."

"Insurance" Program
The second most pressing need in your do-it-yourself "insurance" program is for an advance supply of drugs for any member of your family who must take medication on a regular basis. Your doctor should not hesitate to write the necessary prescriptions when you explain the reason you want them.

CAUTION: Do not risk cutting the potency of your reserve medications by storing them away for long periods of time. Rotate the stock. Use your regular supply, then the "extras" which, in turn, have just been replaced with a new prescription. Start with at least two weeks' reserve and - whenever possible - build up to a year's worth.

The third priority in your insurance program is a short-term supply of food that will furnish your family with a balanced diet for at least two weeks.

Probably the easiest way to start assembling such a reserve is simply by double-buying the bulk, canned, dried and other long-shelf-life victuals which your family ordinarily consumes. This will rather painlessly put you in the proper "stocking up" frame of mind.

It will also provide you with enough familiar edibles to ease the shock of transition... should you ever find that you suddenly need to rely on your real, long-term survival rations.

The backbone of that "real" food reserve, according to Kris Torrey, should be wheat.

"It's the most versatile and nutritious low-cost source of protein and can be made into a meat substitute call gluten. Three hundred pounds of the grain will feed an average adult female for one year. Figure on 100 pounds more for a grown man and 100 pounds less for a child. Hard winter wheat (Turkey Red) or hard spring wheat (Marquis) is the best to store. It should be Grade One, with a protein content of a least 11.5 percent and less than 10 percent moisture."

Stores Wheat
Kris stores her wheat in clean, airtight, five-gallon metal cans that she gets free from large restaurants and bakeries... and she says that a handful of diatomaceous earth mixed in with the contents of each container protects the grain from insects (but does not harm the humans who later consume the wheat.)

One hundred pound of powdered whole milk (Ms. Torrey prefers the "Milkman" brand), five to ten pounds of iodized or sea salt and 60 to 100 pounds of raw honey per person rounds out Kris' survival rations for one full year.

"The milk has a one-year storage life," she says, "and should be rotated just like your medications. Keep the salt and honey in airtight glass jars or cans."

Kris Torrey is the first to admit that the "homemade insurance program" you've just read is the absolute minimum that anyone should try to get by with. During the past few months, in fact, her family has rounded out this "bare bones" plan with many additional comforts, accessories and extras.

"Still," says Kris, "This survival program will provide you with food, water and medicine for any likely crisis or disaster... in a form that's compact to store and nutritionally adequate and at a minimum cost of $50 to $150 per person. If you follow the suggestions given here, you'll find yourself better prepared and more confident about the future than you ever thought possible."

For every major record company active in the country music industry today, there are a dozen smaller labels vying for a piece of the action. The Nashville Yellow Pages list close to 50 such labels, and there are scores more spread throughout the country.

More often than not, the records released by these companies result in thwarted hopes rather than in hit singles. Likewise, however, it is rare indeed to come across a country superstar who has not paid his or her dues along the small label route.

Naturally, most of these vintage gems grow quite rare over the years, and are capable of fetching high prices from collectors. Since few people are aware of such records' existence (except, of course, the artist, who would usually like to forget about them himself), they are rarely bought up by the major companies and reissued in album form.

Once in awhile, they are bought up and reissued, or merely reissued on their original label if the company is still on the scene. Charlie Rich, Doug Kershaw and Dolly Parton are three artists whose early careers can now be heard thanks to such reissues.

If Charlie Rich is one of the most celebrated country superstars of the 70's it can also be said that his hike to the top was one of the most arduous. "The Best of Charlie Rich" (Epic KE-3191) documents that hike. The album, originally issued as a promotional LP only, follows the Silver Fox from his beginnings 15 years ago at Phillips International to the recent blockbuster, "Behind Closed Doors."

The early days in Memphis are represented here by "Lonely Weekends," "Who Will the Next Fool Be?" and the semi-autobiographical "Sittin' and Thinkin'."

Even before Charlie Rich had cut his first record, Doug Kershaw and his brother Rusty came north to Nashville from southern Louisiana to find their fortune. To be sure, they eventually found it in their 1961 hit "Louisiana Man," and Doug, of course, has become the Crazy Cajun of both country and pop renown.

There was, nonetheless, a lot of recording to be done in between that first trek out of the swamp and that first Top 10 hit. Hickory Records have just issued a collection of Rusty and Doug's first sides called fittingly enough, "Louisiana Man" (Hickory HR-45406).

A fine repast of the Kershaws' pioneering Cajun-country style, "Louisiana Man" includes such pleasures as "So Lovely Baby," "Cajun Joe (The Bully of the Bayou)," original treatments of both Hank Williams' "Kaw-Liga" and the perennial "Jole Blon," plus the classic title tune.

My own favorite reissue is that of Dolly Parton's first professional recording. If you think that Dolly's career began just a few years ago (as I thought until quite recently), you happen to be in for a not too mild surprise, for Dolly has out-Tuckered Tanya in the precocity department.

She was a mere 13 years old when she recorded her first single for Goldband Records, a small Lake Charles label. As if recording at such an age were not an outstanding enough feat, Dolly also authored the song. The record, "Girl Left Alone," is available on the titled LP "I's Cajun Country" (Goldband G-7762), available by mail at $6 from Goldband Recording Corporation, P.O. Box 1485, Lake Charles, La. 70601.

If you find Dolly's voice irresistibly angelic today, you might imagine what she sounded like at 13.

That such recordings as these could be so prized and historically significant - not to mention downright enjoyable - so many years after the fact is perhaps the best testimony that might be offered on the importance of the smaller record companies.

Without such companies, any or all of the artists mentioned above might never have gotten a start on their careers. Wax on, east Texas eight-tracks, wax on. (Mr. Tosches is a contributing writer to Country Music Magazine.)

4-H Provides Youth Program For Retarded

COLLEGE STATION — Every child should have the opportunity to grow and develop to the maximum of his or her ability.

And this certainly includes those special children who need assistance due to mental and physical handicaps, points out a 4-H and youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"4-H offers a special program for the mentally retarded and physically handicapped that is designed to help these children develop basic skills and happy, well-adjusted personalities," says Lanny Bullard.

Although social maladjustment is not a problem peculiar to the mentally or physically deficient, one of their greatest needs is to grow socially. Retarded children usually have a limited circle of contact and acquaintances, and this limits their opportunities to practice personal relationships. The 4-H program develops social growth in these exceptional children.

Through 4-H leadership projects and activities all youth can grow and develop in a wholesome way, points out the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Projects in personal grooming, recreation, care for pets, safety, shopping, and creative arts and crafts are among many activities available to these youth.

"The continued growth of this program depends on interested volunteers and teen leaders. Those interested in giving a little of their time to lend a helping hand to these exceptional youngsters should contact their county Extension office," urges Bullard.

Moynihan Claims Mrs. Gandhi Distrusts U.S.

By HENRY KEYS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ambassador to India Daniel P. Moynihan has warned the State Department that the disclosure of CIA activities in Chile confirmed Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's "worst suspicions and genuine fears" of U.S. policy toward her country.

A department spokesman confirmed today that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger received the cable from Moynihan Thursday, but the department officially had "no comment."

The official said the State Department did not agree with Moynihan's interpretation of Mrs. Gandhi's position. "You all know," he said,

"that Pat Moynihan is a very colorful writer much given to hyperbole."

Moynihan's cable, based on news accounts of the CIA's covert effort during the overthrow of Chilean Marxist President Salvador Allende last year, reportedly told Kissinger:

"Mrs. Gandhi's concern is whether the United States accepts the Indian regime. She is not sure but that we would be content to see others like her overthrown. She knows full well that we have done our share and more of bloody and dishonorable deeds... It is precisely because she is not innocent, not squeamish and not a moralizer that her concern about American intentions is real and immediate.

"And of course, the news from the United States, as printed in the Indian press, confirms her worst suspicions and genuine fears.

"Nothing will change her unless she is satisfied that the United States accepts her India. She does not now think we do. She thinks we are a profoundly selfish and cynical and counter-revolutionary power... she will accordingly proceed to develop nuclear weapons and a missile delivery system preaching nonviolence all the way."

Indian-U.S. relations became strained during the India-Pakistan war of 1970

when news reports indicated an American attitude leaning toward Pakistan.

THIEF REPENTS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UPI) — The Rev. Ron Ritchie of the Grace Methodist Church here admitted that the temptation was to wish the thief would "drop dead."

"Instead, let's pray for him," the minister admonished his flock Sunday.

A short time after the service, the repentant thief showed up with the $1,500 set of children's choir handbells he had stolen from the church.

"The fellow said he really felt bad about taking the bells from the children," Ritchie said Monday.

TV In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS's "Planet of the Apes" on Friday night may be the best monkey show since Tarzan flew through the trees with Jane.

The 60-minute show, which stars Roddy McDowall, Ron Harper and James Naughton, is a spin off from the successful "Ape" films about a future world in which apes rule humans.

In the first episode, "Escape from Tomorrow," 8 p.m., Harper and Naughton play two astronauts, Alan Virton and Pete Burke, who crash through a time warp and land on earth in the 31st Century instead of the 20th.

After the crash, the space-men are captured by apes. Some want to kill them; others want to study them, notably Galen, as played by Roddy McDowall.

McDowall, who turns in a fine performance as the inquiring Galen, steals the entire show from the others. His nice facial mannerisms add considerably to his characterization of an individual who doubts the system—apes over man.

"Should all individuals be equal, he asks?"

If one is not being unkind to the apes, McDowall turns in the most human performance. And he has had enough time to prepare for it since he has been in four of the five "Apes" films.

Both Harper and Naughton and Mark Lenard as the vicious ape Urko provide nice backdrops for McDowall to succeed. Lalo Shifrin's music also enhances the suspense of this well-written and well-paced show.

Although this series was based on the films, the premiere episode has enough consideration for those viewers who have not seen the movies to start off at the beginning of the story rather than work on the assumption that you already know what the show is all about.

Hurry for that.

ABC's "Texas Wheelers," Friday at 9:30 p.m., may be the most outrageous situation comedy of the new season.

The 30-minute show, which deals about life amongst four motherless Wheeler children and their shiftless father, is brought to the screen by the Mary Tyler Moore company.

Although the country style comedy is your basic MTM package, it works, especially with Jack Elam starring as the meanest, foulest, grizzliest comedian in years.

In the premiere episode, Truckie Wheeler, the eldest offspring, is faced with chore of getting his 16-year-old brother Doobie to return to high school.

Truckie's problem is interrupted by the sudden return of his father, Zack, who after a grubby fight with Truckie, decides to stay home and convince Doobie to go to school—but in his own special way. He puts Doobie out to work and waits....

"Don't ever underestimate the power of laziness," Zack says to Truckie. "It may be the secret to life."

Doobie then goes through a series of odd jobs and finds them grueling. "Have you ever tried to smile with feet in your face all day," he says after quitting as a shoe salesman. He then returns to school.

Elam is a delight as Zack and Gary Busey as Truckie should be around the dial for sometime.

The ABC press release says "Clint Walker is Kodiak."

"Kodiak" is a 30-minute advertisement for snowshoes.

This show at 8 p.m. Friday has Walker, formerly of "Cheyenne," as an Alaskan state trooper battling the elements and criminals in the snow-covered north.

The best performance is turned in by the snow.

The show is so tired and cowboy and Indians like, it should be dropped before the first snow fall.

On Thursday night at 10, NBC rolled out a 10-ton Kenmore diesel, hitched a trailer on the back and sent it roaring down the airways. The truck, with all its chrome and shiny paint, is the instant star of "Movin On."

The people in the show are just the props.

"Movin On" is the story of two independent truckers starring Claude Akins and Frank Converse who ride the highways.

In the opening program, Akins and Converse, befriend a cantankerous trucker played by Michael J. Pollard, who doesn't know he is dying of cancer. Pollard's new-found buddies take pity on him, and they march him down the road for a last good time.

Neither Akins nor Converse are inspiring as they read their lines. Pollard has been getting away with his role as a misfit for years. He was superb in "Bonnie and Clyde" and miserable in "Little Fauss and Big Halsey." This time he fell below "Little Fauss."

The most memorable performance was turned in by Elisha Cooke, who played Pollard's insensitive father. Cooke was the punk killer in "The Maltese Falcon."

Karen Jensen is delicious as Pollard's girl friend-for-a-night.

If you are looking for excitement about independent truckers grab a TV Guide and look for George Raft and Humphrey Bogart in "They Ride By Night."

One of these is on how to deal with people.

Meeting his customers on his route, collecting and servicing, he gains this valuable business competence. It will help him throughout his life. Many former newspaper-boys, notable successes among them, have told us as much.

Your newspaperboy also applies the arithmetic he learns in the classroom in a practical way by making change and handling bills...thus he becomes a better student. He learns, too, the value of promptness and of good manners.

In fact, you'll find that a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life...while building a bank account of his own.

Should your son be inclined to put himself that step ahead, have him get in touch with us. There may be a route available to him in your neighborhood. And along with it...the opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

This would be 29.87 down and $13.87 each of the other five months. For full details call or come by the health club. The first visit is on us.

Rock City Barns Fading Away...

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) - Nostalgia fans get ready for another setback. The Rock City barns are going to disappear.

The barns that once dotted highways in the South had huge signs painted on roofs or sides, telling motorists to "See Rock City" but now they are going the way of the old Burma Shave signs.

Rock City is a tourist attraction on the top of Lookout Mountain, overlooking Chattanooga and the Tennessee River Valley. For 42 years visitors have prowled about the rocky escarpments and caverns filled with plaster elves and fairies.

It advertised by painting farmers' barns and by huge billboards. But billboards have been judged to be unlovely and barns are hard to find.

The new interstate highways have done much to cause the demise of the "See Rock City" barns. Rock City advertising manager Dick Borden explained, "There are few old barns within view of the new roads and nobody's going to build a barn on an interstate just so somebody can paint a sign on the roof."

Part of the problem is the status of the barn. Once a symbol of pride and individual artistic expression, the barn is obsolete. The cost of wood and labor has forced farmers to abandon barns for more practical open-sided aluminum roofed sheds. Old barns are either allowed to rot away or are torn down and sold as expensive planks of weathered siding for architectural use.

The idea for the barn signs came from the creator of Rock City, the late Garnet Carter, who opened his home and 10 acres of property to the public in 1932.

Originally, the barn owner got a free paint job but no money for offering the services of his or her roof. After a while Rock City began getting competition for barns from the likes of Morton's Salt and Auto-Lite batteries and it became necessary to rent the roofs at rates varying from $2 to $150 a year.

"We still pay $150 for a barn that's in good shape in view of an interstate," Borden said.

"See Rock City" also emblazoned walls of country stores and service stations. "About the only thing we didn't paint was outhouses," Borden said. At the peak, in 1956, there were about 800 barns with "See Rock City" painted in white on a black background. Today there are still between 200 and 300 scattered all over the country, as far west as Texas and as far north as Michigan.

As a publicity gimmick, the barn signs are amazingly efficient in the age of the media blitz. Borden said that Rock City officials surveyed 2,750 people in a large Atlanta, Ga. shopping center.

"Twenty-seven per cent of the people had gained knowledge of Rock City through the barn signs," Borden said. "Thirty-one per cent had seen the billboards and 20 per cent heard of it through friends."

As a barn sign painter, Clark Byers says he's painted "more barns than anybody that's ever been," although he can't remember the exact number.

Occasionally, Byers would run into some opposition from the barn owners.
