MINSK, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — President Nixon took a break from summitry today and visited White Russia amid the surprise Soviet disclosure that he and Leonid I. Brezhnev had made some progress in plotting a course toward further nuclear arms control.

As Nixon and Brezhnev broke up their Yalta seaside summit, Soviet sources said they had achieved "a sense of understanding on goals the two sides hope to achieve by the end of this year" in strategic arms limitation (SALT) negotiations.

The sources said the two men had succeeded during seven hours of talks at Brezhnev's Black Sea cliff-top retreat in clarifying what steps they must take to move toward a second pact limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

The sources made clear no such pact could be completed during this summit, but mentioned year's end as a time frame. In all, it was the first report of any sort of progress on the key nuclear issue and it countered the trend of pessimistic comments offered by U.S. and Soviet spokesmen.

(Parting company with Brezhnev until further summit talks in Moscow Tuesday, President and Mrs. Nixon flew to a half-day stopover in a land that is living testimony to the brutality of warfare.

The Brezhnevian — or White Russian — capital of Minsk lies outside the Warsaw-Winnipeg road and was pounded flat by the Nazis during World War II. Bystrians lost 2 million war dead in all and saw some 9,500 of its towns destroyed.

Nixon arrived at a military airport outside Minsk, he limped noticeably in obvious discomfort from the phlebitis that has swollen his left leg. The airport greeting was low-key, with about 150 spectators on hand and no crowds along the country roads as the presidential motorcade traveled to a luncheon engagement.

At lunch, however, Nixon drew frequent applause from Communist party and government officials as he paid somber homage to Byelorussian war dead and pledged to work with Brezhnev for peace.

The greatest memorial to those people who died in the war is for us to build a structure of peace so their children and grandchildren will not die in another war, Nixon said in a luncheon toast.

A big government which can take money from your neighbors to subsidize your farm or business or send you welfare checks or make you low interest loans from the public treasury can also confiscate YOUR property.

Mother Of Dr. King Killed By Black Man

ATLANTA (UPI) — A chunky black man, describing himself as a "Hebrew" on a mission, pleaded not guilty today to charges of murdering the mother of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Marcus Wayne Chenault, 23, of Dayton, Ohio, first sought to plead no contest to charges of murdering Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. and a church deacon, plus assorted other counts.

But Judge William Brock, who ordered him bound over to a Fulton County grand jury without bond, directed that the pleas be changed to not guilty.

Chenault, accompanied by attorney Randy Bacote, who said he was hired to defend the suspect by a person who didn't want to be identified, was in the arraignment hearing for 20 minutes before being taken to the county jail.

After he was identified by witnesses as the man who fired two pistols at Ebenezer Baptist Church Sunday, killing Mrs. King, 69, and a deacon, Edward Boykin, 69, Bacote said Chenault wanted to make a statement.

Guerrilla Leaders Order Lebanon Operations Halt

United Press International — Palestinian guerrilla leaders have ordered an end to all commando attacks from Lebanese territory against settlements in Israel, it was reported today.

The Beirut newspapers An Nahar and L'Orient-Le Jour said the decision followed a two-hour meeting Sunday between Lebanese Prime Minister Takiyeddin Solh and a guerrilla delegation.

A Lebanese government spokesman said, however, the decision was nothing new. "We have always said that no guerrilla operations against Israel are carried out from Lebanon," he said.

The newspapers quoted Palestinian sources as saying the guerrillas called off attacks from Lebanon, but intended to use commandos based inside Israel to raid targets in the Jewish state.

The leadership of the guerrilla movement has informed Lebanese officials that it stands responsible for the fulfillment of this promise," the papers said.

FOR ETHIOPIAN OFFICIALS Rebellious Troops Start House-To-House Search

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — Under cover of early morning darkness, rebellious troops today began house-to-house searches of the Ethiopian capital, rounding up the country's leading noblemen and some government officials.

Western diplomatic sources said several hundred persons probably had been arrested by the army since it seized virtual power in Ethiopia Friday.

Working under the cover of a dusk to dawn curfew, hundreds of troops late Sunday night and today sealed off exclusive parts of the city and began house-to-house searches, military sources said, rounding up leading members of the aristocracy.

Delegates Debating General Provisions

AUSTIN (UPI) — Constitutional Convention delegates eager to begin a long Independence Day holiday returned to the capitol today for a final vote on the complex General Provisions Article of the proposed new constitution.

The article is the last section to be considered independently by the convention, which will take a week-long break before returning July 8 or July 9 to consider a vote on the new charter — a measure which will need the support of 121 of the 181 delegates in order to be submitted to voters for approval in November.

The General Provisions Article had been tentatively scheduled for debate Saturday, but minor changes made it in by style and drafting committee concerned some of the delegates who asked for the delay.

Rep. Richard Reynolds, Richardson, a member of the General Provisions Committee, contended some of the changes made by style and drafting amounted to more than simple rewording.

Referring to the style and drafting panel, Reynolds told his colleagues "they have no style and drafting panel. Reynolds told his colleagues "they have no style and drafting panel. Reynolds told his colleagues "they have no style and drafting panel.

Man Drowns At Greenbelt

An Amarillo man, 26-year old Kevin Mooney, drowned in Greenbelt Lake, five miles north of Clarendon at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

Mooney and a companion were fishing from a 14-foot boat about 300 yards from shore when the boat capsized, officers reported.

The other occupant of the boat reportedly swam ashore to safety with the help of a witness to the accident.

Time To Think About Purpose Of Education

By ARCH BOOTH
President U.S.C. of C.
WASHINGTON — A young friend graduated from college recently and started looking for a job. The experience was a shock. He put it this way: "Prospective employers would say to me, 'Yes, it's nice that you have a BA degree, but what can you do?' And I realized that after 16 years of education, I couldn't do anything; that I'd have to learn a skill of some economic value to society to earn a living."

Lots of college grads are having similar experiences these days. And lots more will in the future. Experts figure that the supply of college graduates and the supply of jobs requiring them will remain in rough balance through the 1970s. But in the decade of the 1980s, the number of college graduates will far outstrip the supply of jobs for them.

Maybe it's time we all did some hard thinking about the purpose of an education. Most educators do not think that a liberal arts curriculum should be structured to impart a particular economically viable skill. That, they believe, is the proper aim of a professional, technical or vocational school.

On the other hand, many liberal arts students seem to have a vague expectation that by graduation they will have acquired a marketable skill. That's a formula for disillusionment and bitterness.

Career Education
Students need more exposure to the world of commerce and industry, and they need it early in the educational process. The buzzword for such exposure is "career education."

Career education means learning something about the nature and variety of skills needed by society. In the process, students should visit factories, stores and offices. They should hear lectures from business executives, union leaders and civil servants.

An advanced education in the liberal arts should be pursued for its own sake, not solely as a ticket of admission to the management-trainee job. We should not take the snobbish and ignorant position that a college degree is "wasted" on someone who happens to prefer earning a living as an electrician, a plumber or a mechanic.

In most cases, the individual who works with his hands as well as his mind

SSI Payments Due Increase

Basic supplemental security income payments will be increased starting in July, according to Howard L. Weatherly, social security manager in Pampa.

The supplemental security income program pays monthly checks to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. The amount people get depends primarily on other income they might have.

Eligible people with no other income at all who live in their own household have been getting supplemental security income payments of $140 a month for one person and $210 for a couple.

Starting in July, these amounts will go to $146 and $219 under a recent change in the law enacted to keep supplemental security income payments in line with the cost of living.

Payments will also generally be increased to people who have other income and get reduced supplemental security income payments, according to Weatherly.

Those who get supplemental security income payments don't have to do anything about their checks. Any increases due will be added to checks automatically.

People can get information about supplemental security income at any social security office.

The supplemental security income program is run by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Pampa social security office is at 1541 N. Hobart. The phone number is (806) 669-3381.

C-C Probing Nation's Problems

To help probe, the usual assortment of politicians and bureaucrats were invited. Their comments were interesting, whether or

Fourth Graders Offer Solutions To Energy Ills

WASHINGTON — Perhaps what we need are some really hard-nosed, down-to-earth solutions to the energy crisis. Here are some offerings from a fourth grade class in St. Louis, as related by teacher Harold Dunn in the American Petroleum Institute's magazine, Petroleum Today.

"Don't drive more than one car at a time."
"Change jobs so that everybody is working at the place closest to their homes."
"Don't accept any new inventions using oil and electricity and things we are short of."

"Don't have so many days people have to drive to work or school, especially school."
"Cold engines take more gasoline. Everybody should put insulation around their engines."
"Keep the volume of the car radio down so it won't take so much energy."

"Fix it so that cars can travel piggyback on roads like they do on trains."
"Drive faster so you won't have to be on the road so long using gasoline."
"And the best one of all: 'Find oil on the moon.'" not they threw any more light on the problems that were discussed.

Representative Craig Hosmer of California pointed out that except for time of war, the U.S. is faced with shortages for the first time in its history.

"because we've mismanaged things rather badly over the last 20 years."

His example was the low price ceiling on natural gas at the wellhead, which, he said, has caused "all sorts of other energy forms being thrown out of kilter."

Government's role, said Hosmer, should be "to set up the framework in which private enterprise can, in its way, find the answers and deliver to the American people the things that they expect to have delivered to them out of this economic machinery."

He expressed hope that environmentalists would back away from their "intransigent" stand against development of some energy resources, and declared that "You can have both cleanliness and power."

Melvin Conant of the Federal Energy Office, outlined the goals of Project Independence. The project now emphasizes "comparative invulnerability to a repeat of the oil embargo," rather than complete self-sufficiency in energy resources, he explained.

Perhaps some of the most revealing remarks came from Dr. C. Jackson

Grayson, Jr., who is dean of the School of Business Administration of Southern Methodist University. He said that government, itself, has stimulated many shortages.

"I am alarmed by the degree to which this economy has shifted to more and more public control over the private sector. It's not to say that government doesn't have a role; it does. But the degree of control has shifted to the point where I think a lot of people are concerned about the ability of private enterprise to survive."

"If small businesses ask for rationing or allocation, forgive them, for they know now what they ask," said Grayson. "In the end, small business will be hurting themselves worse" by seeking such treatment.

Regular readers of this column may be asking what is so remarkable about these statements — you have seen it all here before.

They are interesting, not because of what was said, but because of who said it.

Presumably, these are men who are in positions of authority to get things done. They are in positions of influence in the circles of government. They were speaking before a gathering of distinguished businessmen who are concerned about the increases in government controls over business in recent years.

So the politicians gave the businessmen the proper dose of what they wanted to hear — an analysis of the problems that agrees with their own, and a prescription for how to solve it.

One wonders: if they know the problem and its solutions so well, how come things keep on getting worse? There appear to be three possible reasons: Either they don't really know the answers, and therefore cannot solve the problem; or they don't really believe what they told the businessmen; or they are powerless to do anything about it. None of these reasons is very complimentary to them.

The statements of Dr. Grayson were the most revealing. He admitted that he "helped run a program which, in a sense, helped to create some of the problems we're experiencing with shortages." For he was head of the Price Commission.

He is alarmed at the extent at which government has taken over control of the economy; he recognizes that government has stimulated shortages.

Yet, he personally has extended government controls, and has contributed to the cause of shortages. No wonder many of the people of this country have lost their confidence in government.

A survey of 1974 graduating medical students by the American Academy of Physicians show that more of them than ever before are choosing family practice as their specialty.

IN HIGH PLAINS Program Planned To Test Rainfall

The Bureau of Reclamation and the U.S. Geological Survey are cooperating in a $146,190 experimental program to test the effectiveness of recording rainfall in the High Plains through use of the Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS).

Commissioner of Reclamation Gilbert G. Stamm said the satellite will relay data from clusters of rain gauges on the ground to provide reliable, nearly instantaneous rainfall information.

The project is part of the Bureau of Reclamation's High Plains Cooperative Program, a comprehensive research effort to refine the technology of seeding summer clouds to increase rainfall over the High Plains States. The U.S. Geological Survey is cooperating in the experiment through its Earth Resources Observation System (EROS) program.

"Satellite telemetry holds great promise for water resource monitoring and managing," Stamm said. "The marriage of space technology and ground-based monitoring instruments should provide a reliable method of gathering information for immediate use in research programs and resource management."

Western Scientific Services, Inc., of Fort Collins, Colo., has been awarded a contract to install, test and maintain an ERTS data collection platform near Miles City, Mont., one of three research sites selected by the Bureau for its High Plains Cooperative Program.

The Bureau is providing $121,190 of the total cost of the project, and the Geological Survey is providing $25,000.

The 65 gauges will relay information on rainfall amounts to the data collection platform, which in turn will transmit the data to the satellite. From there, the information is routed through the Goddard Space Center and a National Weather Service facility in Maryland and on to the Bureau's Engineering and Research Center in Denver. There, scientists in the Division of Atmospheric Water Resources Management will use the information to analyze and evaluate the effect of cloud seeding research which will begin near Miles City next spring.

State and local taxes came to just over $550 per resident in Washington state during fiscal 1973, with property taxes accounting for more than $200 of that total.

More than 51 per cent of the combined land in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming is owned by the federal government.

COUNTRY MUSIC

By PATRICK CARR
Copyright 1974 Country Music Magazine

As the months and years fly by and the country bores deeper into the 1970s, it becomes more obvious, at least to us, exactly what role country music has played and will continue to play in the hearts and minds of the people who play and listen to it.

It seems safe to say that if the strident sounds of rock and roll dominated the 1960s, the sweeter sounds of country music will dominate the 1970s. That's not wishful thinking. Consider these few points:

Country music seems to be the only popular musical form that's capable of bridging the generation gap that was blamed for much of the lack of communication that existed in the past decade. Its softer, more traditional rhythms are more likely to appeal to older people than rock.

Young people, on the other hand, with their unquenchable thirst for "truth," are finding that the homilies and simple anecdotes of traditional country music contain much native wisdom, and they don't have to strain to hear the words.

Younger, more contemporary country songwriters are proving themselves quite capable of dealing with modern themes, also.

As a nation, we're approaching our 200th anniversary. Young and old, we seem to be taking a close, hard look at our origins. What better place to look than country music for our roots?

The cardinal myths of our culture are to be found there — the lonesome cowboy pitted against nature, the strength of the family, and the lure of the land, the embodiment of the American Spirit — ready for our scrutiny.

It might sound corny, but it's true. It reminds us of a remark made in a news story recently by a young musician whose bearded, long-haired image nevertheless fit in well with a country band (Long Island-based, no less) headed up by a 60-year-old retired Army man.

"Rock has burned out," the young man said. "The young people are getting off that high energy trip. They're into Gordon Lightfoot, Charlie Rich. Country music is reality, as opposed to freaked-out acid music. I think there's great musical diversity in country, and I'm glad it's growing this way."

TICKETS SOLD OUT
Along with the rise in popularity of country music, the demand for tickets to the new Grand Ole Opry at Opryland is on the increase and the Opry's sponsors can't seem to keep pace with the demand.

In fact, reservations for Friday night Opry shows are sold out through August, and reserve seats for Saturday nights are sold out through November.

General admission seats are still available, but Opry officials are advising people to secure these tickets well in advance of the dates they plan to be in Nashville.

FRAN FAIR
Nashville is still talking about the decision made by six major record companies to forego this year's concerts they've sponsored during Fran Fair week in the past. Most companies claimed tight budgets were the problem.

Requests for Fran Fair tickets this year are running 50 percent ahead of last year, but it appears there will still be enough high entertainment to make the fans' visits worthwhile, despite the cutbacks.

Several record company spokesmen are of the opinion that current Fran Fair arrangements are stacked in favor of the overall sponsors, WSM and Opryland, and that's why they suffer a loss.

Closing Quote
This week's closing country quote comes from an interview with Bill Anderson which seems pertinent to the opening thesis of this column: "Rock was a blessing and diguise." Whispering Bill adds: "For it made country music come of age."

George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Last Week In Wall Street

By BOEHILL
Luntz, Newton & Co. Analysts in New York
NYY Stock Exchange
There is a fat new game being played by many individuals and especially, USS corporations operating overseas. The game is foreign currency speculation.

The corporations have to get involved in it because they must protect themselves against sharp changes in the currencies of countries in which they manufacture or sell goods.

For instance, Levi Strauss, manufacturer of jeans, deals in 23 different foreign currencies and hedges 24 of them. The individual speculators are in it because it's one of the fastest games around. Can be played right here in the U.S. and their funds don't have to leave the country.

In many cases U.S. corporation did not realize their loss exposure in foreign currencies until someone pointed out to them that they stood to lose a huge sum at any given time if there was a sudden price move against them. The value of a currency can fluctuate as much as 4 percent in a single day.

The volume of trading has hit a tremendous pace. One authority estimates that the daily trading volume is in excess of $20-billion, up from $2-billion just a few years ago.

Losses can be astronomical. Franklin National Bank, a New York City suburban bank, wrote off almost $40-million in foreign currency losses incurred by traders in the bank's foreign exchange department who were making unauthorized transactions and hiding them from superiors.

The Swiss affiliate of one major U.S. bank stopped trading losses effectively put the bank out of business. The U.S. bank made good the losses.

The foreign currency market is ready-made for Mideast oil money because it moves fast and can absorb huge amounts of money. Some of the major European banks will commit as much as $500-million in a single currency.

Frequent movements of money in such large size has prompted charges that there is plenty of manipulation of currencies by both Mideast oil barons and the international corporations with the help of banks operating numerous foreign branches.

SOVIET ATTRACTS
MOSCOW (UPI) — Tourism to the Soviet Union jumped 26 per cent in 1973 over the previous year, according to Viktor Boichenko, head of Intourist, the state travel service.

About 2.9 million persons from 150 countries came here last year, 1.6 million of them from Communist countries, he said. The number of American tourists increased 38 per cent — 91,254 in 1973, compared with 66,164 in 1972.

The United States ranked third among non-Communist nations in the number of visitors. Finland was first with 493,452 and West Germany second with 109,059.

WORRY CLINIC

Heed Rabbi Samuel's shrewd psychoanalysis! It is dangerous when a majority of the voters lack confidence in churches, our public schools, the Supreme Court and Congress. Ecologists fret more about erosion of Uncle Sam's soul!

CASE A-673: Rabbi Samuel, aged 42, is shocked. "Dr. Crane," he began as we dined together, "the moral decay in America is worse than most people imagine."

"It isn't just the high incidence of venereal disease, shoplifting, drug addiction or promiscuity that has finally alarmed me most."

"No," it is the data that Louis Harris found on his poll last winter when the U.S. Senate commissioned him to find out how much confidence the public placed in various organizations.

"Our U.S. Supreme Court rated only 33% and even the United Fund scored but 35%."

"So our churches must face up to the grim reality that the mainstream of society is by-passing moral tutors."

SPIRITUAL DECAY

Many of you readers will recall that Harris survey but I'll give you a brief memory test thereon.

Analyze the 5 entries at the left and then try to match them with the percentage of confidence that the public places therein.

The percentage figures are jumbled so the number opposite each organization does not apply to it.

- (a) Organized religion (v) 44%
- (b) Organized labor (w) 41%
- (c) U.S. Senate (x) 36%
- (d) Local police (y) 30%
- (e) TV news (z) 20%

Out of 22 organizations or institutions rated by the American public, only 2 scored above the 50% level!

These were the medical profession (57%) and garbage collection (52%).

Confidence in local government was only 28% and but 24% in law firms.

Local schools drew 39%, which means that almost two-thirds of Americans have lost confidence in our public educational system!

Louis Harris made a very comprehensive poll nationwide, so his data should challenge the thinking of all our citizens.

Alas, our newspapers obtained a confidence rating of but 30% which was far below the TV newscasts! Why?

Here are the correct confidence scores reposed in those 5 entries listed above:

- (a) Organized religion .36% (x)
  - (b) Organized labor .20% (z)
  - (c) U.S. Senate .30% (y)
  - (d) Local police .44% (v)
  - (e) TV news .41% (w)
- Isn't it shocking to find that organized religion enjoys the confidence of only 36% of Americans? Why?
- Is it due to the fact many clergymen have changed their former evangelistic pulpits into political soap boxes for sociological issues?
- And how do you figure that 41% confidence in TV news vs. only 30% for the printed word in the newspaper?
- Could it be that the public is more easily persuaded by the human element, as indicated by the newscaster's authoritative voice, his gestures, emotional arousing tricks, plus the public's familiarity with the same newscaster, day after day?
- For familiarity breeds confidence, so maybe we need more signed newspaper stories, where the writer's personality begins to attain some of the TV newscaster's personalized influence.
- But Rabbi Samuel is psychologically correct in his view that the churches need to revamp their emphasis and forego political pulpit propaganda!

ENJOY A GREAT WESTERN TRADITION THIS SUMMER.

Food cooked outdoors over an open fire... is one of the West's great traditions. Fresh air, open flame and the aroma of good, hearty food combine to make a meal an experience.

Start your own cookout tradition this summer... with a convenient, dependable gas grill from Pioneer Natural Gas. You get the same delicious, outdoor taste as with a charcoal grill — but without the fuss and bother.

Chances are you'll be spending more time at home... so why not arrange to make that time more enjoyable with the addition of a gas grill to your patio. Call Pioneer or ask any Pioneer employee for information on a complete line of gas grills.

A gas grill is a natural for the Natural Energy Home.

By moving the cooking to the patio, you move the heat out of the house and thereby ease the load on your air conditioning system. Consequently, a gas grill can save money and conserve energy.

Williams Starts Tonight As California Manager

UPI Sports Writer
 Dick Williams, a world champion the last time he wore a baseball uniform, starts his comeback tonight as the manager of a last-place team.

The ex-manager of the two-time world champion Oakland A's officially returns to the game in Anaheim, Calif., tonight, when he takes command of the California Angels. The Angels have lost 26 of their last 28 games and are in last place in the American League's Western Division.

Ironically, the party of the second part — Williams' opponents — will be his old club, the A's, who currently seem on their way to a third consecutive division title and possibly the AL pennant.

The Kansas City Royals defeated the A's, 8-7, the Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox, 9-2, Detroit topped Milwaukee, 3-2, after a 4-1 loss, the Baltimore Orioles downed the New York Yankees, 3-0, and Minnesota won over Chicago, 6-3, after an 8-3 defeat, in other AL games.

National League results were St. Louis over New York, 5-3 and 5-3, Pittsburgh over Philadelphia, 11-8 and 3-2, Montreal 10 Chicago, 2, Atlanta 7 Cincinnati, 3, Los Angeles 5 San Francisco, 3, and Houston 3 San Diego 1 in the first game and San Diego 6 Houston 3, in 11 innings, in the second.

Cesar Tovar had three hits, including a two-run single which climaxed the Rangers' six-run sixth-inning outburst. Tovar started the rally with a single, and other key hits before Cesar's second hit of the inning were run-scoring singles by Lenny Randle and Jeff Burroughs and a two-run double by Toby Harrah. Bob Oliver had three hits for the Angels.

Royals 8 A's 7:
 Pinch-hitter Buck Martinez single with one out in the ninth inning capped a two-run rally which enabled the Royals to beat the A's. The A's had taken a 7-6 lead in the top of the inning when Bert Campaneris scored his third run of the game on an infield out by Reggie Jackson but consecutive singles by Amos Otis, Hal McRae and Fran Healy plus a walk to Richie Scheinblum tied the score for the Royals.

Indians 9 Red Sox 2:
 George Hendrick drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single and Steve Arlin pitched a six-hitter for the Indians, who dealt Rick Wise his third loss. Hendrick has driven in 15 runs and batted .418 in his last 12 games. It was Arlin's first complete game in the AL.

Brewers 4-2 Tigers 1-3:
 Charlie Moore's two-run double capped a three-run sixth inning as the Brewers' Ed Sprague raised his record to 5-1 in the first game of their doubleheader at Detroit.

Williams will be taking over an Angel team which suffered a 9-2 loss to the Texas Rangers Sunday and is 10 games out of first place in its division.

The Rangers made a rout of the game by scoring six runs in the fifth inning and Jim Bibby scored his 11th victory of the season with the late-inning relief help of Steve Foucault. Biff Stoneman was kayoed in the big fifth inning and suffered his seventh straight loss as his season record dipped to 1-8.

Braves 7, Reds 3:
 Atlanta overcame a 3-0 deficit to down Cincinnati. The Braves cut the deficit to 3-2 in the fourth and won it with a four-run fifth. Carl Morton pitched a seven-hitter to get the win and boost his record to 10-6.

Expos 10, Cubs 2:
 Mike Jorgensen's two-run homer in the four-run first inning and Ron Fairly's three-run homer in the five-run eighth lifted the Expos past the Cubs.

Watson will be taking over a team which has a 2-1 record in the first tournament victory, by two strokes, with a three-over-par 287 for the 72 holes.

Weiskopf's mistakes, the ones that hurt, came on the last two holes. He needed no better than pars on those difficult 454-yard and 446-yard par 4s to win the tournament. He got a five on the 17th and then, tied with Watson at three-under par, his game collapsed.

His big drive on 18 went to the left into the water and after a penalty stroke, he missed the green with his approach, winding up with a double bogey.

Watson has been ready to win for two years. Joining the PGA tour in 1972, he earned $31,081, and in 1973 he earned $74,973 with his best finish a third place at Hawaii. But Watson led the Hawaiian Open with one round to play and lost. In the World Open he led by six strokes with two rounds to play and by two with one round remaining, but finished tied for fourth.

This year, he had a one-stroke lead after three rounds in the U.S. Open and finished tied for fifth.

Mets' Victory Wiped Out After Decision

United Press International
 The New York Mets apparently "won" the second game of a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday when Cleon Jones lined the winning hit to right in the ninth inning. The players congratulated each other with the traditional handshakes and headed to the dressing room.

"I was in the clubhouse, happy we won a game," remembered John Milner.

"All of a sudden I heard on the radio we hadn't won the game and had to go out and play. It's the craziest thing I've ever seen."

The umpires, after first ruling that Reggie Smith had trapped Jones' drive, changed their mind and ruled he caught the ball to end the inning.

The Mets were called back on the field and promptly lost in the 10th inning on a homer by Bake McBride. That made it a doubleheader sweep for the Cards, who won the opener, 5-2.

announcer — he asked not to be named — agreed that Pryor blew the call.

"Sometimes an ump misses one. This was one of those times. You can't blame them. They've got a tough job," the announcer, a former player, said.

Chris Pelekoudas, the crew chief who was the first-base umpire, seemed somewhat apologetic about it. "It was a revolting situation. I ruled the play was no catch but yet two umpires close to the play had different views. After talking it over, we decided that the call was Pryor's."

Billie Jean Named Wimbledon Favorite

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — The British have long memories but Billie Jean King must be hoping this is the year they finally forget whatever it is that always has the crowd rooting for her opponent in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

It's been going on for quite a while now and there are divided opinions on the reason why. Some say it's because of her militant stand for professionalism in the days when amateur tennis seemed secure.

Color the Mets blue. Of course, Smith claimed he caught the ball Sunday. "I caught the ball reaching for it with my glove. Maybe the glove wasn't seen by the first base umpire but (Paul) Pryor (the second base umpire) had a clear view of it."

Pryor said, "I was on the edge of the grass. Perhaps I wasn't in the best position to see what happened. But I called it as I saw it."

Video replays seemed to indicate the ball was trapped and even a St. Louis second game, 3-2, Baltimore blanked New York, 3-0, Kansas City nipped Oakland, 8-7, and Texas downed California, 9-2.

Dodgers 5, Giants 3:
 Is Mike Marshall going to get a day off the rest of this season? The tireless Los Angeles reliever appeared in his 11th straight game and pitched two innings of scoreless relief ball to nail down the triumph over San Francisco. Marshall has appeared in 51 of the 76 Dodger games. Bill Buckner's two-run homer in the eighth snapped a 3-3 deadlock and was the key blow.

Amarillo Trips Midland's Cubs

United Press International
 Frank Panick struck out 10 and gave up five hits Sunday night in winning his first game with El Paso, a 6-1 decision over San Antonio in Texas League play.

Amarillo defeated Midland 9-4 and Victoria beat Alexandria 5-2 in other league games.

Panick was in his first start since move up from Quad Cities in the Midwestern League. Dave Collins hit a two-run single for El Paso and the loss went to Bob Grossman, 4-4.

NFL Strike Launches Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the slogan "No Freedom, No Football," NFL players, launched a strike today that threatened to be disruptive, costly to the owners and of long duration.

Almost without exception, veterans from superstars to taxi squadders prepared to man picket lines and boycott pre-season training camps beginning with the San Diego Chargers Wednesday. Player representatives of the 26 NFL teams reported solid support in their ranks.

"There won't be any neutrals this time," Ed Garvey, executive secretary of the NFL Players Association, said, as the strike was automatically kicked off Sunday midnight. It was the second strike action by the pro football union and the fourth in major league sports since 1970.

Skala Wins Top Prize In Jackson

MONTREAL (UPI) — Carole Jo Skala says it was a day when everything clicked and the 25-foot putt for an eagle on the 460-yard eighth-hole was the boost she needed to cruise to an easy win in the $60,000 Peter Jackson Ladies Classic Sunday.

Mrs. Skala entered the final round with a one-stroke lead and she fared the 6,345-yard Candiac Golf Course with a four-under-par 69 and an amazing 11-under 208 for the 54-hole event. Only 12 of the 63 pros were able to make or break par-219.

Michie-Allen Take Title In PTC Doubles Affair

New Pampa High tennis coach John Michie made his first competitive showing in town success as he teamed with Jerry Allen, Jr., and the duo captured first place in the men's division of the Pampa Tennis Club Doubles Tournament Saturday and Sunday at the high school courts.

In the women's division, Elaine Scott and Lynn Robinson won first. They defeated Lynn Robinson and Mary Hughes, 6-2, 6-3, in the semifinals and Dixie and Stacy Douglass, 6-1, 6-4, in the finals.

Michie and Allen stopped Jack Scott, Jr., and Jack Scott, Sr., 6-3, 6-0, in a semifinal match, and Bryan Kirby and Bob Melancon, 6-2, 6-1, in the finals.

The club's next tournament will be a whisk event Sunday. Interested people need to contact Bob or Betty Blake before 6 p.m. Saturday.

A singles tourney will be held July 12-14.

4 Left In World Soccer Cup

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — The world soccer cup narrowed down today to four possible winners — West Germany, Holland, Brazil or Poland.

The two finalists will be decided Wednesday when the high-flying Dutchmen, favorites at 13-4, take on Brazil at Dortmund and West Germany meets Poland in Frankfurt.

Though the organizers planned the competition on a mini-league basis, the Wednesday games will be in effect "semifinals" as on the old knockout basis.

"This is because the four front-runners all won their first two games in the second final round, leaving Argentina, East Germany, Sweden and Yugoslavia to battle for a runner-up position.

In a goal-burst of exciting football Sunday, West Germany crushed Sweden, 4-2, Brazil powered to a 2-1 victory over Argentina, Poland edged Yugoslavia, 2-1, and Holland coasted home, 2-0, against East Germany.

Holland and West Germany will have the advantage in Wednesday's games since a draw will be enough to see them through to the final in Munich July 7. Dutch coach Rinus

Equal, But Equal To What?

Correct us if you think we're wrong, but — as we see it — to say that two or more things are equal is quite different from saying that two things are the same.

That is the precise point upon which so many judges and bureaucrats are going wrong. Usually, governmental types do not go widely astray unless they have a chance of taking a substantial percentage of the population along with them. Great error requires the support of public opinion.

For example, to say that black equals white — racially speaking — is not the same as saying that black is white. The Declaration of Independence held as a premise that "all men are created equal." That clause was used in the context of natural rights. It was their endowment of these rights that were equal.

But the point now has been pushed to the extent that Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Caspar Weinberger is trying to force the little boys and girls to sit in the same classroom while some tax-supported "expert" lectures them on the so-called facts of life, namely, sex. United Press-International reported the other day that the Nixon administration has proposed regulations under which no school receiving federal aid could offer males or females separate classes, including sex instruction, physical instruction, home economics and industrial arts.

Secretary Weinberger was quoted as saying, "This is the next step in our country's continuing effort to assure equality of opportunity for all citizens in pursuing their full potential through education, and it's long overdue."

One need have only a slight acquaintance with the literature to gather the message from that. The Secretary is revealing, without saying, that he and others have certain goals in view and that they expect to use the term "equality of opportunity" to persuade members of the public that such goals are justified. The word "equality" is a sales word, has been so since the demagogic French Revolution. And it's really not an evil word when confined to signify the impartiality of judges and administrators. Equality before the civil law is a reasonable projection of equality as to the endowment of rights.

But Weinberger and company go far beyond that.

They are not content with mere equality under law. They seek the law's power to compel sameness. Opportunity, as they deem it, must be not only equivalent; it must be identical. What is appropriate to an individual has no bearing, what counts is uniformity — that is their thinking.

We are under no illusion, of course, that the Weinberger objectives were arrived at because a group of men got together to find what is reasonable. Nor do we expect to persuade any of that school that their logic took a wrong turn. We just want to show that their sales pitch is deceptive. Equal opportunity does not require everyone to be treated exactly the same as everyone else; it means only that each have as good a chance as anyone else so far as the law is concerned. Even that much has a question mark on it. For certainly slaves are equal, de jure if not de facto. In fact there is more equality in slavery than in a free society. That is something to think about. Strictly construed, "equality of opportunity" has a double meaning. When Secretary Weinberger uses the glowing phrase, you have no assurance that he means what you think.

ALL THAT GLITTERS The Lesson Of Dulles' Folly

By VIC GOLD

WASHINGTON — Somewhere beyond the Great Brink, John Foster Dulles must be enjoying a last laugh at his detractors. He had that Middle East situation pegged right all along, he's telling Metternich, Talleyrand, anyone who'll listen. Now, if that damn fool Kissinger doesn't move in with those nuclear reactor giveaways and ruin everything.

Two decades have passed since Dulles, in a moment of diplomatic and fiscal inspiration, saved the taxpayers of America a fortune by telling Gamal Abdul Nasser where the could go with his proposed Aswan dam project. Nasser had asked for economic and technical assistance to construct the dam. But Eisenhower's Secretary of State wanted certain commitments out of Egypt in terms of East-West alignment.

Nasser wouldn't make those commitments and began playing hard-to-get. So Dulles, operating on the principle of no quid, no quod, pulled the United States out of the Aswan deal. At the time, the Eisenhower administration's Democratic opposition in Congress roared its disapproval. The automatic reaction of the foreign aid lobby was that Dulles, by slamming the door in Nasser's face, had perpetrated one of the great foreign policy blunders of modern times.

It was Dulles' Folly. Why, argued Dulles's detractors, the Secretary of State has driven Nasser into the Soviet sphere. The result of Dulles' "simplistic" Cold War approach to diplomacy would be that the Russians, rather than the United States, would be given the magnificent opportunity of investing treasure and technical expertise to develop the Aswan and America, they said, would be left out in the cold.

But here it is, June 1974, and who do you suppose is receiving that thundering ovation motorcading down the main boulevards of Cairo? Leonid Brezhnev and the Soviet foreign minister? No, it's the President of the United States and his Secretary of State. And the Russians? After twenty years of diplomatic, economic and military investment, they've had to pick up their expertise and go home. But that dam they built on the Aswan, it stays.

Consider, if you will, what

INSIDE LABOR From Bankruptcy To Riches

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — Since transcripts are in season I offer one from which no expletives are deleted. At one point (tapes available) the speaker says:

"In my mind he is guilty as hell. Let's go on with the impeachment and get rid of this bastard."

The reference is to Dick Nixon. The speaker is one of the nation's low-profiled, but nonetheless powerful labor chiefs, 60-year-old Emil Mazey, second in command of the giant United Auto Workers (UAW). Scene: the virtually unreported UAW 24th constitutional convention in Los Angeles early this month.

Later Mazey, the 1,750 million-member union's Secretary Treasurer, was asked to retract. He said he would if he could substitute the letters "s.o.b."

Mazey is tough. His references to President Nixon are mild compared with his torrid bon mots reserved for AFL-CIO President George Meany. But what's fascinating about "Emil" (few call him Mr. Mazey) is his avowed Norman Thomas-type militant socialism which hasn't prevented him from skillfully building the UAW into a union with the nation's, if not the world's greatest cache of capitalist dollars.

There's intense significance in this on the national and international political and industrial fronts. With no great battles facing it, the UAW may well pile up almost half a billion dollars in fixed assets and cash in banks (instant cash — certificates and bonds) by the time it meets in convention again in mid-1977.

Built into it are moneys for political action; for Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers; for other unions' strikers needing immediate cash. The UAW contributed $100,000 to the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Parah-boycott drive. Chavez has been getting $10,000 a week and told the convention delegates that "without that money we'd be dead today."

And right off, one delegate handed him eight checks for $10,000 each.

Yet the auto union itself was practically bankrupt some three years ago. It had spent $160 million striking General Motors. It was $80 million in debt. But black ink was beautiful for Mazey at the convention.

He reported the UAW now was worth $144.5 million — mostly in liquid assets. Some $12.3 million was in cash. That was as of April 30. So the figure is higher today.

Of the total figure, the UAW strike fund now runs higher than $90 million. All of it is invested. It keeps piling up though the union appears to be spending about $12 million a month in benefits for local strikes. The going relief rate for a family is $40 a week.

Even at 60, Emil Mazey is a veteran of the early sit-down wars of the '30s. He was the first to sign a union contract with Ford. Back in 1941. And he was the first, I do believe, to sign the First Cost of Living escalator clause in the industry — with General Motors.

No insinuations meant here that it was a one-man show. But he was there during the sit-ins. He unleashed the earliest flying squads. He was first with a lot of firsts. With him were the three Reuther brothers. But Walter and Roy have passed away. And the surviving Victor is writing a book and trying to build a Socialist bloc inside the Democratic party.

So to "Emil" has gone the flaming torch — and the development of more firsts. There appears to be a new one, in the creation of something called the Free World Fund. The convention set it up as a regular section of the huge union's infrastructure. It used to be the Free World Fund — which was financed by the interest on the multi-million-dollar strike fund.

Now the Department will move more solidly on the international front. I see this as the beginning of actual and not just rhetorical international solidarity with the militant and Socialist automotive and metal workers' unions abroad.

"Why do we establish the Free World Fund?" Mazey asked and then answered himself. "We are living in a period of history where we have multinational corporations such as General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, General Electric, International Harvester, Caterpillar, and numerous other companies, and it is important that we have a relationship with the balance of the labor movement in other countries whose members are working for the same corporations that the membership of our union is important that we have a relationship with the balance of the labor movement in other countries whose members are working for the same corporations that the membership of our union is important that we assist them financially to build strong unions."

This would help auto unions in their drive for higher wages in other nations. Thus the work becomes a regular function under the new Free World Dept. Times change. Men's psyches and intellectual conditioned reflexes rarely do. So it can be expected that Mazey and the men in the UAW's high command age thinking in terms of global action, worldwide strikes.

It's intriguing to note that among the guests were the leaders of the German, Japanese, and Republic of South Africa auto unions.

So I thought I wouldn't let this transcript go by.

INSIDE WASHINGTON Further Concessions Feared By Congressmen

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has been squarely up against two highly hazardous dilemmas in the eventful Moscow summit.

On one hand — he faced risky pitfalls and crafty stratagems in negotiating with the Kremlin rulers on nuclear weapons control, trade concessions and other thorny problems.

On the other — the President grimly knows well that everything said and done in the momentous deliberations will be exhaustively probed and analyzed by powerful Congressional leaders who are already voicing sharply challenging doubts and misgivings.

Further grievously complicating matters is that the overall atmosphere in both the U.S. and Russia is far different than the President's last trip there. In 1972, he was at the height of his popularity and effectiveness.

His "innovative" and "trail-blazing" diplomacy was acclaimed throughout the world.

This time he is under ferocious attack at home, and on uncertain footing abroad.

No one has been more acutely aware of that than the Soviet masters. They are fully apprized of the President's agonizing plight, and pressing need for a spectacular diplomatic triumph. It goes without saying they would seek to make the most of this.

That fear is already being bluntly raised on Capitol Hill.

Significantly, it's emanating from legislators who are not hostile to the President or clamoring for his scalp. For the most part they support his policies. But they have become profoundly uneasy about what "detente" has led to so far, and highly wary about any new deals with the Soviets.

In their emphatic opinion, "The United States invariably comes out second best."

Somber Record

Forcefully illustrative of this powerful bipartisan viewpoint is Sen. Harry Byrd, Ind.-Va., influential member of the Senate Armed Services and Finance Committees.

He charges flatly that while "detente" has paid off handsomely for the Soviets, the U.S. has gotten the short end — and proves it.

Cited as evidence are the three arms, trade and debt agreements in 1972.

Characterized by Byrd as the "most dramatic" is the huge grain deal, which he maintains "was in effect a $300 million subsidy" to Russia. And that wasn't all. "The Soviets borrowed the money from the U.S. government to pay for the wheat," points out Byrd. "In other words, Russia bought our wheat with our money. No wonder Brezhnev is so anxious to promote detente."

That deal, Byrd stresses, made it a lot easier for the Soviets to spend heavily on their huge military forces.

The second costly deal to the U.S., Byrd contends, was the SALT I agreement under which Russia was "permitted to gain numerical superiority" — with 1,618 intercontinental ballistic missiles (IBMs) against 1,054 for the U.S.

In addition, the Soviets obtained numerical advantage in missile-carrying submarines and submarine-launched ballistic missiles. As a consequence, they are now building and modernizing 62 nuclear-powered submarines, while the U.S. is limited to 44.

With the third agreement, settlement of Russia's long-pending $11 billion World War II lend-lease debt, the U.S. not only wrote off all but $2.6 billion but has yet to collect the relatively small amount due. Sardonicly explains Byrd:

"The U.S. agreed to a settlement of the $2.6 billion for $722 million, about 28 cents on a dollar. But there is no assurance even that will be paid: Of that total, $674 million is contingent upon granting the U.S.S.R. most-favored-nation status in tariffs, a concession many of us in Congress strongly oppose. That leaves only $48 million in assured repayment — which is less than 2 percent of the $2.6 billion."

No wonder Byrd observes ironically:

"Yes, let there be detente. But let it be based on reality, on recognition of Russia's ambitions and might, and the need for American strength — and not on wishes and unilateral concessions. Weakness has never been a basis for peace. The U.S. cannot afford to accept 'detente' which leaves open the way for global domination by the Soviets."

"The danger of 'detente' is that it tends to lull the U.S. into a false sense of security. Russia is playing a shrewd game. While the Soviet leaders have signed agreements with the U.S., we must remember they have received far more than they have given. That is true both in arms and in trade."

"Our representatives have been so anxious to get agreements that they are too willing to make unmatched concessions."

Drawing The Line

There will be no extension of the highly controversial SALT I agreement without thorough Senate consideration and formal approval.

In other words, an extension will be considered a new treaty and require ratification.

That's the forceful notice served on President Nixon and Secretary Kissinger before they embarked for Moscow. It was made by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Arms Control Subcommittee — and leading critic of SALT I.

From authoritative State Department and Pentagon sources, Jackson learned that the President and Kissinger are considering proposing a three-year extension of the SALT I accord. It expires in 1977, and the inside information was that they favor continuing the pact to 1980 or longer on the premise that would provide time for working out a "comprehensive" SALT II treaty.

While not definitely opposed to that, Jackson insists such an understanding must be submitted to the Senate for ratification. He maintains it constitutes a new agreement and therefore must be formally acted on by the Senate.

Secretary Kissinger is understood to hold that isn't required; that extension of an existing treaty does not require Senate consideration.

H. L. Hunt Writes

GAS PREDICTION COMING TRUE

Knowledgeable independent oil marketing executives find their latest predictions coming true. People from the oil industry were much in demand as speakers last fall and winter, with service clubs, trade associations, consumer groups and just about everybody wanting somebody to tell them what happened and what would be next in the energy crunch.

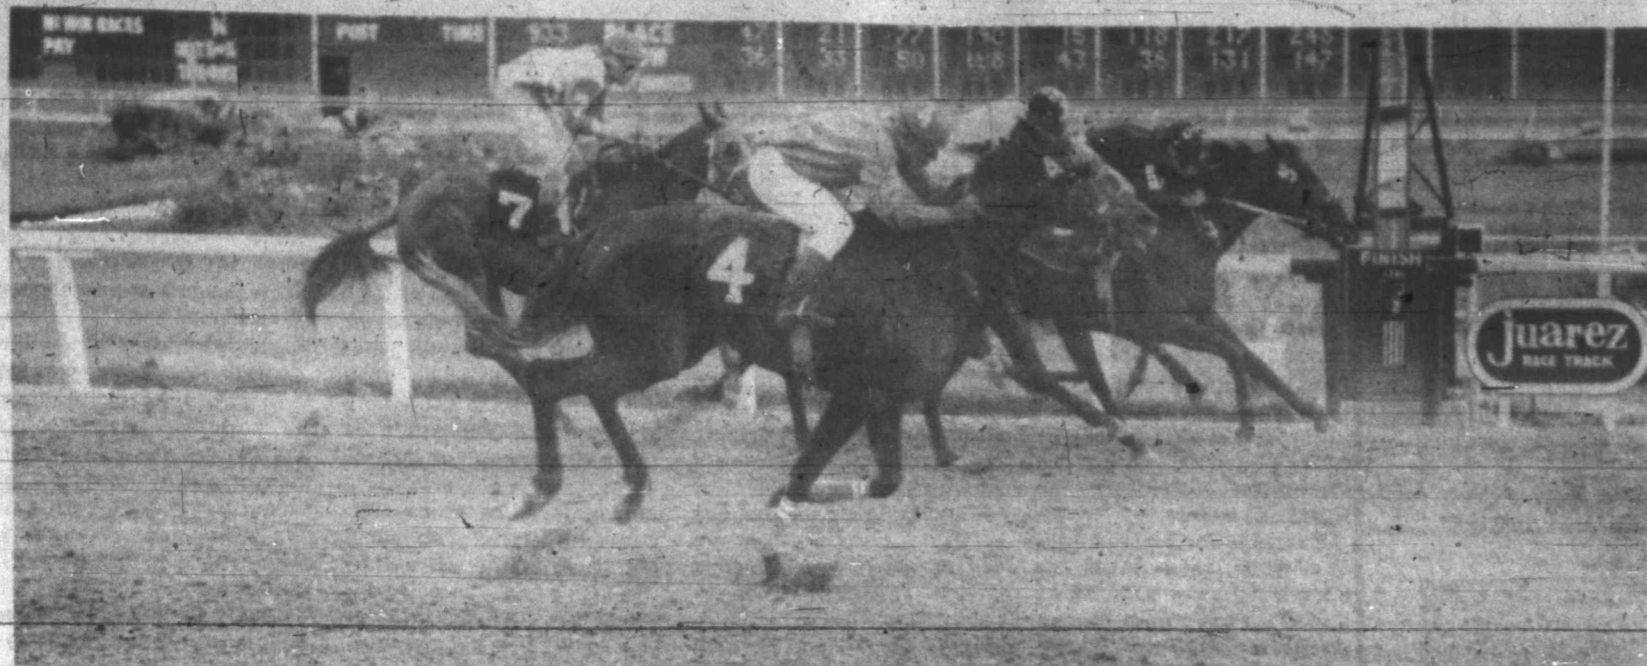

Seasoned veterans in the industry were making predictions which differed from those of many in government and from some in major oil companies. Those who had lived through oil gluts knew how elastic the oil market can be.

Despite the "official" embargo by the Arabs, some of their rulers allowed their oil merchants to "leak" large quantities of petroleum in order to take advantage of high prices being offered.

Thus, predictions by wise independents were correct that gasoline would soon be more plentiful than expected — in the short run. Then look out for worse shortages than expected in the long run. Temporary sufficiency of supplies takes the pressure off for now but does nothing to insure future essential searching drilling and production. We still need incentives of the free market to do that.

"The trouble with many people in trying times is that they stop trying."

Mets' Victory Wiped Out After Decision

United Press International — The New York Mets apparently "won" the second game of a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday when Cleon Jones lined the winning hit to right in the ninth inning. The players congratulated each other with the traditional handshakes and headed to the dressing room.

"I was in the clubhouse, happy we won a game," remembered John Milner.

"All of a sudden I heard on the radio we hadn't won the game and had to go out and play. It's the craziest thing I've ever seen."

The umpires, after first ruling that Reggie Smith had trapped Jones' drive, changed their mind and ruled he caught the ball to end the inning.

The Mets were called back on the field and promptly lost in the 10th inning on a homer by Bake McBride. That made it a doubleheader sweep for the Cards, who won the opener, 5-2.

Color the Mets blue. Of course, Smith claimed he caught the ball Sunday. "I caught the ball reaching for it with my glove. Maybe the glove wasn't seen by the first-base umpire but (Paul) Pryor (the second base umpire) had a clear view of it."

Pryor said, "I was on the edge of the grass. Perhaps I wasn't in the best position to see what happened. But I called it as I saw it."

Video replays seemed to indicate the ball was trapped and even a St. Louis announcer — he asked not to be named — agreed that Pryor blew the call.

"Sometimes an ump misses one. This was one of those times. You can't blame them. They've got a tough job," the announcer, a former player, said.

Chris Pelekoudas, the crew chief who was the first-base umpire, seemed somewhat apologetic about it. "It was a revolting situation. I ruled the play was no catch but yet two umpires close to the play had different views. After talking it over, we decided that the call was Pryor's."

In the other games, Los Angeles downed San Francisco, 5-3. Atlanta downed Cincinnati, 7-4. Montreal routed Chicago, 10-2. Pittsburgh swept Philadelphia, 11-8 and 3-2, and San Diego beat Houston, 6-5, in 11th innings, after losing the opener, 3-1.

In the American League, Cleveland downed Boston, 9-2. Chicago beat Minnesota, 8-3, but lost the second game, 6-3. Milwaukee beat Detroit, 4-1, but lost the

Billie Jean Named Wimbledon Favorite

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — The British have long memories but Billie Jean King must be hoping this is the year they finally forget whatever it is that always has the crowd rooting for her opponent in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

It's been going on for quite a while now and there are divided opinions on the reason why. Some say it's because of her militant stand for professionalism in the days when amateur tennis seemed secure.

Some put it down to the British tradition of supporting the underdog. Practically everyone who plays Billie Jean these days fits into that category.

And some trace it back to a Wightman Cup incident of some years ago when Billie Jean appeared to suffer cramp and stomach pains in a tight tussle with Britain's Ann Hayden Jones, who slowed up her game because she thought it was taking unfair advantage — and lost.

"I know the crowd will be against me here," Billie Jean once said, somewhat wistfully.

Whatever the reason, Center Court, while appreciating the talents of the American number one, will not be shattered if she is upset by France's Francoise Durr today in their battle for a place in the last 16 of the women's singles.

But top-seeded Billie Jean is a heavy betting favorite to win this match and even money to go on to take a record sixth singles title since the war and the first prize of $16,800. Total prize money at the 88th Championships is $234,400.

With play again starting two hours early at noon to make up for the washouts caused by the rains of the first week, officials were hoping to fill the last 16 of the men's and women's singles. Few of the seeded men players were running into major opposition with the notable exception of top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia, who meets Nikki Pilić of Yugoslavia.

Fourth-seeded Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., who has been playing impressively, plays Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., and fifth-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden, the 18-year-old big attraction for the schoolgirl spectators, takes on Ismael El Shafei of Egypt.

Ninth-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia, who has been praying, at 39, for comparatively easy matches on his way to the quarter-finals, should have his wish today against Petr Kandařal of Switzerland, who is good but not yet that good.

NFL Strike Launches Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the slogan "No Freedom, No Football," NFL players, launched a strike today that threatened to be disruptive, costly to the owners and of long duration.

Almost without exception, veterans from superstars to taxi squadders prepared to man picket lines and boycott pre-season training camps, beginning with the San Diego Chargers Wednesday. Player representatives of the 26 NFL teams reported solid support in their ranks.

"There won't be any neutrals this time," Ed Garvey, executive secretary of the NFL Players Association, said, as the strike was automatically kicked off Sunday midnight. It was the second strike action by the pro football union and the fourth in major league sports since 1970.

John Thompson, Garvey's bargaining counterpart with the owners' Management Council, expressed "disappointment" that the strike was triggered but declined to predict how long it might continue.

Bargaining talks under the auspices of the federal mediation service, collapsed on the rocks of a series of "freedom issue" demands by the players seeking the right to switch teams when their contracts expire and to exercise a veto over possible trades.

Garvey predicted a long strike which could wreck the traditional televised NFL pre-season opener between the College All-Stars and the Miami Dolphin Super Bowl champions in Chicago July 26 as well as later exhibition games.

"I'm confident we can hold out on strike until a new collective bargaining agreement is signed," he said, adding that in his view the owners seemed embarked on a "union-busting" course.

Thompson said all of the NFL teams were proceeding with plans for their pre-season camps and to play exhibition schedules even with rookies and free agents if necessary.

"Our current plans go on the assumption that our football fans want a football season and we're going to do everything we can to get ready for it," he commented.

4 Left In World Soccer Cup

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — The world soccer cup narrowed today to four possible winners — West Germany, Holland, Brazil or Poland.

The two finalists will be decided Wednesday when the "high-flying" Dutchmen, favorites at 13-8, take on Brazil at Dortmund and West Germany meets Poland in Frankfurt.

Though the organizers planned the competition on a mini-league basis, the Wednesday games will be in effect "semifinals" as on the old knockout basis.

This is because the four front-runners all won their first two games in the second final round, leaving Argentina, East Germany, Sweden and Yugoslavia to battle for a runner-up position.

In a goal-burst of exciting football Sunday, West Germany crushed Sweden, 4-2. Brazil powered to a 2-1 victory over Argentina, Poland edged Yugoslavia, 2-1, and Holland coasted home, 2-0, against East Germany.

Holland and West Germany will have the advantage in Wednesday's games since a draw will be enough to see them through to the final in Munich July 7. Dutch Coach Rinus

Williams Starts Tonight As California Manager

UPI Sports Writer — Dick Williams, a world champion the last time he wore a baseball uniform, starts his comeback tonight as the manager of a last-place team.

The ex-manager of the twotime world champion Oakland A's officially returns to the game in Anaheim, Calif., tonight, when he takes command of the California Angels. The Angels have lost 29 of their last 28 games and are in last place in the American League's Western Division.

Ironically, the party of the second part — Williams' opponents — will be his old club, the A's, who currently seem on their way to a third consecutive division title and possibly the AL pennant.

Williams will be taking over an Angel team which suffered a 9-2 loss to the Texas Rangers Sunday and is 10 games out of first place in its division.

The Rangers made a rout of the game by scoring six runs in the fifth inning and Jim Bibby scored his 11th victory of the season with the late-inning relief help of Steve Foucault. Bill Stoneman was kayoed in the big fifth inning and suffered his seventh straight loss as his season record dipped to 1-8.

Bill Stoneman was kayoed in the big fifth inning and suffered his seventh straight loss as his season record dipped to 1-8.

The Kansas City Royals defeated the A's, 8-7, the Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox, 9-2; Detroit topped Milwaukee, 3-2, after a 4-1 loss, the Baltimore Orioles downed the New York Yankees, 3-0, and Minnesota won over Chicago, 6-3, after an 8-3 defeat, in other AL games.

National League results were St. Louis over New York, 5-2 and 5-3, Pittsburgh over Philadelphia, 11-8 and 3-2, Montreal 10 Chicago 2, Atlanta 7 Cincinnati 3, Los Angeles 5 San Francisco 3, and Houston 3 San Diego 1 in the first game and San Diego 6 Houston 5, in 11 innings, in the second.

Cesar Tovar had three hits, including a two-run single which climaxed the Rangers' six-run sixth-inning outburst. Tovar started the rally with a single, and other key hits before Cesar's second hit of the inning were run-scoring singles by Lenny Randle and Jeff Burroughs and a two-run double by Toby Harrah. Bob Oliver had three hits for the Angels.

George Hendrick drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single and Steve Arlin pitched a six-hitter for the Indians, who dealt Rick Wise his third loss. Hendrick has driven in 15 runs and batted .418 in his last 12 games. It was Arlin's first complete game in the AL.

Brewers 4-2 Tigers 1-3: Charlie Moore's two-run double capped a three-run sixth inning as the Brewers' Ed Sprague raised his record to 5-1 in the first game of their doubleheader at Detroit.

Watson Outstages Weiskopf To Capture Western Crown

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tom Watson has the confidence and optimism of a 24-year-old pro golfer.

Thus he was unperturbed Sunday when he began the last round of the $200,000 Western Open trailing Tom Weiskopf by six strokes on one of the tougher golf courses the pros play, the 7,002-yard, par-71 Butler National Golf Club.

"I knew I was in good position to win if Tom made a mistake," Watson said, "and he made some mistakes."

Watson was right. He shot the best round of the day among the 76 players, a two-under-par 69, made up eight strokes on Weiskopf and won the $40,000 top prize, his first tournament victory, by two strokes, with a three-over-par 287 for the 72 holes.

Weiskopf's mistakes, the ones that hurt, came on the last two holes. He needed no better than pars on those difficult 454-yard and 446-yard par 4s to win the tournament. He got a five on the 17th and then, tied with Watson at three-under par, his game collapsed.

His big drive on 18 went to the left into the water and after a penalty stroke, he missed the green with his approach, winding up with a double bogey.

Watson has been ready to win for two years. Joining the PGA tour in 1972, he earned $31,081, and in 1973 he earned $74,973, with his best finish a third place at Hawaii. But Watson led the Hawaiian Open with one round to play and lost. In the World Open he led by six strokes with two rounds to play and by two with one round remaining, but finished tied for fourth.

This year, he had a one-stroke lead after three rounds in the U.S. Open and finished tied for fifth.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Lice Need Warnings, Regulations

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Thank you for your article on crab lice. Last spring I called the board of health regarding the obnoxious practice of allowing the trying-on and returning of intimate apparel. Strangely enough, the so-called exclusive stores are the worst offenders.

communities, not yours. I think you'll find that restrictions are much more rigid. Because of this variation, I don't see that I am in any position to try to campaign for changes in the 49 or 50 states in which this column is printed, but I do think it worthwhile to call attention to the plague of lice that has set it.

If these epidemics continue I think public outcry will force such action. It's always a question of how much people will stand for before they get tough! I will make this suggestion so far as clothing try-ons are concerned. I think it will apply mostly to women. Wear protective garments, such as panties, panty girdles or such, when trying on clothes. It will at least give you some protection — and in case (horrors!) you happen to be the unprudent possessor of a colony of lice, it will make it that much less likely you can pass them on to someone else.

would be of tremendous value — which is more than I can say for his loose talk. Professionals in any branch should know better. Dear Dr. Thosteson: A man being interviewed on TV made the statement that if a person has a crease in the ear lobe, it is a sign of an oncoming heart attack. Is this true? I have quite a deep crease in my left ear lobe. — E.S.

Earrings for pierced ears are not returnable or exchangeable but underwear, pantyhose, slacks, etc. are. The board of health could find no ruling to cover such a situation, but surely there must be some way to stop this filthy practice.

Lice concentrate in hairy parts of the body, head, underarms, and pubic area, because they lay their eggs there and attach the eggs to hair strands. Hence hairy areas are the ones primarily involved in transmission.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After having some corns removed, I was told by my podiatrist, "You do not have any cancer in your system." I asked how he could tell and he said, "Just by looking at your feet."

How in the world could an oncoming heart attack change the shape of the ears? In other words, pay no attention to balderdash which is no less patently ridiculous because it happened to have been mouthed by somebody on TV.

To get Groucho and girl friend Erin Fleming into the Sutton Theater for a "Re-premiere" of "Animal Crackers," mounted police spurred their horses up onto the sidewalk on E. 57th St. to open a path.

For the remainder of Groucho's visit to NY, his managers will purposely mislead people about his itinerary to prevent such crowds. Groucho has surrendered in his campaign against neckties in fancy restaurants.

Carol Channing apologized to Secretary Kissinger at the Rockefeller party for thinking, from watching him on TV, that he looks like Otto Preminger. Carol and husband Charles Love went to the party after "Lorelei," arriving with the dessert. Despite the Rockefeller menu, Carol ate the food from the thermos bottle she carried containing organically-grown pork.

Alan King'll play a double-header at the Concord July 6 — a tennis exhibition in the afternoon, starting in the cafe at night. Josh Logan and Eugen Wolsk raised $500G for the Bette Davis musical "Miss Moffett" in only two auditions. Singer Thelma Carpenter'll be working with Teddy Wilson at Carnegie Hall Saturday — first time they've worked together since she was his band singer in 1939.

Young Marxists, not to be confused with Karl Marxists, were trying to jump onto policemen's shoulders to grab at Groucho. Guests clutching tickets took a mauling pushing their way in while foreign visitors exclaimed "Incredible!"

Archie Bunker was one of the most ogled celebrities at the Nelson Rockefeller's party for Secretary Kissinger. Archie — Carroll O'Connor — told friends "It's doubtful" whether he'll return to "All in the Family" — at least on the scheduled starting date July 17. He's sued Tandem Productions for $64,000 he says they owe him.

As Atlantic City's Steel Pier opened for what looks like a boom season, George Mami Jr. said he is lucky in the attractions he repeats. "The dolphins never go on strike as long as you give them their fish," he said, "and the diving horses would just as soon do eight shows a day as two because the water cools them off."

The TV bad next season may be female cops: there are four series in the works (including Angie Dickinson's "Police Woman"). "It was dangerous for Groucho," said Miss Fleming, shaken by her own roughing-up. "He is very frail." Girls in their teens like the Sinatra bobbysoxers of the 1940s were shrieking. "He's here. Joanna, he's here!" And he wasn't. Arriving a half hour late, he was also shaken.

His beret still on, he said, "I'm delighted to be here although I was almost murdered." Accepting an award, he said, "It's all a lie. I have to give it back but I'm gonna sell it back instead. Three cheers for the red, white and blue, and thank you all."

Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., one of two U.S. producers of the material, is promising motorists lower tire prices and smoother rides. Tire producers are being promised lower production costs and the possibility of using existing tire-making equipment.

By 1976, according to Jenks, 20 per cent of all radial passenger tires will contain fiber glass — either all-glass or just in the belts. With the fiber glass tire cord industry running at about 50 per cent of capacity, there should be no difficulty meeting the increased demand.

The radial tire is generally conceded to be the best performing tire available today and should be on almost every U.S.-built car by the time the 1975 models begin rolling off assembly lines this fall.

Why the change to radials? The standard tire of the industry has been the belted bias tire in which fiber glass belts were added under the tread on top of the tire carcass to eliminate flexing of the tread at high speeds which rubbed the tread rubber away.

The radial has treadwear rates better than other belted or non-belted tires — 40,000 miles in normal wear — and improves a vehicle's handling. But since the radial began capturing attention several years ago, steel has been used for the belts.

In the radial, the cords in the carcass run at right angles to the center line of the tire. This allows the tire sidewall to flex more, leaving the tread flat on the road. Squirm is almost completely eliminated which makes the radial design superior for long mileage.

Fiber glass manufacturers say tests show the fiber glass radial performs as well as steel radials and sell for up to 20 per cent less.

One thing radials haven't been is quiet. The ride is usually harder. Passengers experience more feel of the road.

"A recent national survey showed that over 50 per cent of the radials sold in the replacement market were priced at more than $60 while the median price of all replacement tires was $34.22," says William Jenks, manager of Tire Cord Reinforcement for Owens-Corning Fiberglass.

At its research laboratory in Granville, Ohio, Owens-Corning Fiberglass has developed a tire carcass that uses just one ply of fiber glass tire cord instead of two as in most tires. This helps to make the all-glass tire — one using fiber glass in the carcass as well as in the belts — softer and quieter.

West Texas Provides Multiple Trails

Multiple choice is the name of the vacation game in West Texas when it comes to riding the Texas Travel Trails. Four trails fall entirely within the western half of the state, while another three overlap its eastern rim.

Entirely West Texan in flavor are the Mountain Trail, Pecos Trail, Plains Trail and Forts Trail.

Entirely West Texan in flavor are the Mountain Trail, Pecos Trail, Plains Trail and Forts Trail.

Sharing part of West Texas' geography are the Lakes, Brazos and Hill Country Trails.

The listed attractions for all seven trails total 354. The four primary West Texas trails count up 202 among themselves, in a region larger than most of the 49 other states. In fact have begun to emulate Texas' geographic approach to travel — Montana and Missouri, for example — while Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas and Nebraska have formed a region known as the Old West Trail.

Information on the seven West Texas Trails is available from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its new Wonderful West Texas Fun and Adventure Map. Abilene is the home of the Texas Forts Trail Association and the West Texas Chamber. This spring the Forts Trail Association, recognizing new travel needs because of fuel, painfully "drew and quartered" the trail into four quadrants.

The rangeland trail was presented as a four "mini-trails." Each contained two of the old frontier forts: Richardson and Belknap in the northeast, Phantom Hill and Griffin in the northwest, Chaddbourne and Concho in the southwest, and McKavett and Mason in the southeast.

The idea was a closer-to-home approach for the 691-mile Forts Trail.

The starting point for each trail and the number of its attractions are: Mountain, El Paso, 59; Pecos, Odessa, 42; Plains, Amarillo, 42; Forts, Abilene, 49; Lakes, Dallas, 62; Brazos, Waco, 43; and Hill Country, San Antonio, 48.

Brochures of the travel trails, and of the Fun and Adventure Map, may be obtained from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Box 1561, Abilene, 79604.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "With the market sharply oversold, there is a strong likelihood that the industrials will arrive at the 850 to 860 zone within two weeks," says Merkin & Co. "but chances are this advance will be restricted to blue chips and high flyers and lack overall breadth." Even though near-term trading risks should improve in the next two weeks, the firm warns "the major forces are still pointing downward and caution must be exercised."

Public companies should "not give up on Wall Street" despite the disappointing performances of most stocks, says Martin A. Cohen Associates of Fairfield, Conn. The firm points out Wall Street traditionally has provided the financing for business expansion and acquisition.

"The company that turns its back on the financial community today will find it more difficult to arrange equity financing when the investment climate changes," it adds.

"Reported profits were up some 27 per cent in 1973 and up close to 20 per cent year-to-year, in the first quarter of 1974, but common stock prices over the same period have shown one of the worst declines in decades," according to Argus Research Corp. The firm predicts a 10 per cent gain in 1975 profits, which will not be inflated artificially by the sharp price increases of 1974. "The combination of a 10 per cent advance in profits of higher quality and a substantial decline in short-term interest rates will lift stock prices some 20 to 25 per cent from present levels over the next year," it forecasts.

VA To Extend Insurance Coverage

The Veterans Administration is increasing and extending insurance coverage for 6.8 million veterans, servicemen and ready reservists under the new Veterans Insurance Act enacted May 24.

A major provision of the law, according to Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Office Director, is an automatic increase in maximum coverage from $15,000 to $20,000 for 2.4 million servicemen on active duty.

Servicemen and ready reservists are insured automatically under Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) unless they decline the additional coverage in writing. They may elect to be insured for $5,000, $10,000, $15,000, or not at all, it was noted.

Another provision established, effective

August 1, a five-year, nonrenewable Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI) which would provide coverage in amounts of $5,000, $10,000, $15,000 and $20,000. Servicemen leaving active duty could convert their SGLI to VGLI without medical examination.

Also eligible for VGLI are 2.7 million veterans whose SGLI terminated less than four years ago. This group must apply within one year of the effective date of the VGLI program, Coker said.

When an individual's five-year term VGLI runs out, he may convert to an individual policy by applying in writing to a company participating in the VGLI program.

Other highlights of the Veterans Insurance Act of 1974:

- Extends full-time SGLI coverage to about one million members of the ready reserves.

- Provides SGLI coverage for another 100,000 reservists who are retired or will be retired, have not reached their 61st birthday, and have completed at least 20 years of service creditable for retirement.
- Provides for payment of dividends, not to begin before January 1975, to 800,000 Korean Conflict veterans who carry Veterans Special Life Insurance.

VA officials observed that the changes will enable the agency to provide a more viable life insurance program for many persons who serve in the interests of country's national security.

The Brown University Corp. voted this year to freeze full time enrollment at 5,150 students at the nation's seventh oldest college.
