PAMPA, TEXAS

March 31, 1995

50¢ DAILY/SUNDAY $1

Good Evening!

LOCAL

PAMPA — Visiting evangelist Jay Strack is to visit Pampa High School from 9:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. and Pampa Middle School from 2:30 to 3:25 p.m. on Monday. Strack is conducting a six-day revival crusade beginning at 7 p.m. Sunday at the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium and Civic Center.

PAMPA — A medical assistance fund for Cupid Proby, 17, has been established at First National Bank of Pampa.

Sponsored by the Brothers' Club, 636 S. Gray, the fund is to help defray medical expenses for Proby, who has undergone three brain surgeries at High Plains Baptist Hospital, Amarillo. To contribute, contact Sheila Lott at the bank.

NATIONAL

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House of Representatives' rejection recently of four term limits measures is "only the beginning to what I believe will be eventual term limits for Congress," U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry said Thursday.

Thornberry, a freshman Republican from Amarillo, voted in favor of all four term limits proposals on Wednesday. None of the measures received the required two-thirds vote needed for a constitutional amendment.

"I supported term limits in my campaign, and I support them now," Thornberry said. "We must change the entrenched culture of Washington. Term limits are the best way to get there, and the overwhelming majority of American people know it. It's sad that some members of Congress haven't gotten the message yet."

"Fortunately this issue isn't going away," Thornberry said. "Voters for the first time now have a recorded vote from their representatives. Voters can respond if they choose by voting out those members who think term limits are a bad idea."

STATE

DALHART (AP) — The pilot of a single-engine Cessna died Thursday when his airplane crashed in heavy snow.

Authorities declined to identify the 55-year-old Albuquerque, N.M., man until his family was notified.

Hartley County sheriff's deputy Scott Leatherwood said the pilot was the only person aboard when the plane crashed and burned at 11:30 a.m. in a wheat field south of the city. He was headed back to New Mexico after refueling at the Dalhart airport, Leatherwood said.

"We really don't know exactly what happened," he said.

AUSTIN (AP) — Looking for incentive to hit the books? One state legislator thinks cheaper auto insurance might do the trick.

Rep. Tony Goolsby, R-Dallas, is sponsoring a bill that would allow insurance companies to offer discounts to high school, college and vocational school students who maintain at least a "B" average or are ranked in the top 20 percent of their class.

The state insurance commissioner would decide on the amount of the discount.

County continues discussions on sheriff's office staffing needs

By CHERYL BERZANSKIS
News Editor

Gray County commissioners today didn't reach a conclusion about staff problems in Gray County Sheriff's Office, but brainstormed ideas for later consideration.

The court learned the office has accumulated 2,600 hours of compensatory time due employees, and Sheriff Randy Stubblefield told them he is plagued by jailer shortages and maternity leaves among dispatchers.

Commissioners on March 15 had discussed cross training precinct employees as jailers so prisoner trustees may be utilized for county work and using the same employees as relief jailers to alleviate comp time build up.

"That's our problem, comp just builds comp," the sheriff said.

Stubblefield agreed while inmates can't be forced to work, some would agree to go out to work to avoid days in jail. Trustees must be supervised by a certified jailer if they work outside the jail.

Turnover among jailers is "High. Real high," Stubblefield said.

A Gray County jailer's maximum pay is $1,444 while a Rufe Jordan Unit corrections officer's pay tops out at $1,980 per month. Low pay is the main reason employees leave the jailer job, he said.

Precinct 3 Commissioner Gerald Wright told the court he is reluctant to use precinct employees as jailers unless they volunteer for the training, knowing they may draw jail assignments aside from supervising trustees.

"I feel like most of the precinct employees may be inclined to help work trustees than go in the jail," Wright said.

County Judge Richard Peet asked Stubblefield about using unpaid, but trained jailers.

"If we got one of those volunteers up there and they got their butt whipped or took hostage, I think we'd be in for a whale of a lawsuit," Stubblefield replied.

Jailers, he said, interact closely with inmates daily and are actually incarcerated with them.

"I'd like for y'all to come over and stay for one day ... You can't sit over in this court and know what it's like," Stubblefield said.

A personnel specialist with Texas Association of Counties is expected in May to address the court about personnel issues, including comp time management, Peet said.

In other morning discussion, the court learned $205,279.53 has been spent on the prosecution and defense of Henry Watkins Skinner, convicted of killing the Busby family on New Year's Eve, 1993. However, they got the good news that witness expenses are eligible for reimbursement by the state.

"If we get 20- or 30- or $40,000 back, it will be nice," said Peet.

He pledged to continue pursuing reimbursement options for the county.

Peet said he learned from District Judge Kent Sims, who presided over the trial, the defense's appeal will continue to be handled by a court-appointed attorney paid by the county, while the prosecution's side of the appeal will be taken over by the state.

Sims is considering using either one of the two attorneys already appointed to the case, Peet said.

Spring forward

It's that time of year again, time to change the clocks from standard time to daylight savings time. Officially, clocks and watches should be changed Sunday morning at 2 a.m., with the hands or digital numbers moved forward to 3 a.m. However, many people likely will be changing their timepieces Saturday night. Just remember — spring forward: move the time ahead one hour.

Romanian airliner crashes in sleet storm, killing 59

By BOGDAN PREDA
Associated Press Writer

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — A Romanian airliner crashed in a sleet storm minutes after taking off from Bucharest's airport today. All 59 people on board were killed, including three Americans.

The plane, an Airbus A310 flown by Tarom airlines, was headed for Brussels, Belgium with 49 passengers and 10 crew. It had just left Otopeni airport when it crashed near the village of Balotesti, 13 miles north of Bucharest.

The cause of the crash was not immediately known. One witness, who would not give his name, said the plane exploded before crashing. Airline and government officials refused to comment on that report.

Tarom also said it received an anonymous bomb threat on a plane flying the same route earlier this month. No bomb was found on that plane.

Belgium's national airlines, Sabena, said 41 of the passengers were Belgians, but Tarom spokeswoman Aurica Filip listed 32 Belgians dead.

The other dead were three Americans, two Spaniards, one Dutchman, one Frenchman, one Thai and nine Romanians, Filip said. One infant and one child had been on board, she said.

The Americans included the Rev. Norman Hoyt and his wife, Virginia, who had been heading home to Columbia, S.C., after three weeks of missionary work in Romania, according to Columbia International University.

Hoyt, 67, was assistant dean of the bible college, spokeswoman Sherry Brown said. His wife, also 67, worked in the university's records department and for the Columbia Biblical Seminary, the university's graduate seminary. U.S. Embassy spokesman Chris Filostrat said the third American was a woman named Terry Chung. He did not have a hometown.

There, the plane was broken apart, and its nose appeared buried deep in the ground. Body parts and blood were strewn across the frozen ground, along with shards of twisted metal, a few hundred yards from Balotesti's small train station.

Romanian soldiers carried body parts and personal belongings from the scene on covered stretchers.

One witness who spoke on condition of anonymity said he saw the plane explode in the air. Neither Tarom, the Transport Ministry nor the government would comment on that report, saying the crash was under investigation.

"Until the moment of the crash, three minutes after takeoff, the plane was going very smoothly," said Dan Andrei of civil aviation at Otopeni.

Sleet was falling amid gusting winds at the time of the crash, but Andrei said the weather caused no major problems for other planes that took off this morning.

Tarom said it received an anonymous bomb threat earlier this month.

A Tarom flight to Brussels was forced to make an emergency landing at Timisoara in western Romania on March 15, but nothing was found aboard the Boeing 737 airliner which flew on to Belgium, said spokeswoman Veronica Sabau.

Tarom began using the A310, a wide-body twin-engine jetliner, in April 1994, according to a statement from Airbus Industrie in Paris. The plane began flying in 1987, logging more than 31,000 flight hours on some 6,220 flights before being sold to Tarom, the statement said. It did not name the prior owner.

Clinton visits with Aristide in Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — In a historic visit, President Clinton today offered praise and a symbolic embrace to Haitian President Jean-Bertrand Aristide and told cheering U.S. troops they had moved the tiny nation "from a dark night of fear to a new day of freedom."

Six months after sending U.S. forces to remove military coup leaders who drove Aristide from power, Clinton promised to stand by the tiny nation as it tries to rebuild its devastated economy and prepare for new elections.

Clinton's trip was marred by allegations a senior member of Aristide's administration was involved in a political assassination this week. Aristide today flatly denied any involvement by his interior minister.

"This is a day of celebration and nothing can cast a cloud on it," Clinton told reporters.

At a joyous, sunny celebration outside the presidential palace, Clinton praised the restoration of Haitian democracy. "Never again must it be stolen away," he told thousands of cheering Haitians.

Aristide repeatedly thanked Clinton for restoring him to power. In a poignant tribute to U.S. troops, Aristide said they had led Haiti from "death to life. ... The blood of violence was transformed to the wine of peace."

Clinton's visit was designed to trumpet the success of the U.S. military mission, and a crowd of thousands of Haitians obliged by giving Clinton a hero's welcome. After his remarks at the palace, delivered from a platform shrouded by bulletproof glass, he walked along the jostling crowd, clapping hands with Haitians.

In his speech Clinton made no direct reference to the assassination of an Aristide critic. He repeatedly praised Aristide's commitment to democracy and recalled the priest-turned-politician's pledge not to seek revenge against his critics and enemies.

And Clinton told the Haitian people it would take time to build a strong police and court system. In the meantime, he implored, "Citizens must not take the law into their own hands."

When he concluded, brightly colored balloons were released as a chorale sang "America the Beautiful." The crowd waved banners reading "Thank you president Clinton," and "Thank you for your sacrifice."

Earlier, speaking to U.S. troops, Clinton offered a spirited thank you "for helping to bring back the promise of liberty to this long-troubled land."

Continental sued over cracked eggs

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Continental Airlines is being sued for scrambling 108 ostrich eggs.

The football-size eggs were shipped from Texas to Utah in 18 boxes marked fragile. They arrived at David and Donna Schmidt's ostrich farm dented and leaking, Mrs. Schmidt said. Six eggs were broken and the yolk and the white had mixed together in about 80 other eggs, she said.

Only six eggs could be hatched, according to a lawsuit the Schmidts filed this week in district court.

American death in Guatemala makes waves

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Michael Devine was brutally murdered in 1990 near the ranch where he lived in a remote area of Guatemala, he seemed to be just another of the country's tens of thousands of civil war victims.

The world barely took notice of the death of the American innkeeper and father of two. Now, however, Devine is the centerpiece of a federal investigation that began last fall and, fueled by a spate of new disclosures, has been mushrooming by the day.

The incident raises questions about the behavior of government agents in far-flung lands but President Clinton pointedly noted on Thursday that he should not be tainted because the events occurred before he took office.

The FBI has opened an investigation concerning allegations that documents were shredded as part of a scheme to destroy evidence. Investigators also will check allegations that the U.S. Army may have had a direct role in the murder.

Clinton ordered a review of all allegations surrounding the death of Devine and the death or abuse of at least three other Americans in Guatemala dating back 10 years. Clinton also wants the probe to cover the 1992 killings of a Guatemalan guerrilla leader who was married to an American woman.

But U.S. officials said it is the Devine case that is potentially the most explosive, because he was an American alleged to have been killed on the order of a Guatemalan officer who was a paid CIA agent, Col. Julio Roberto Alpirez. Alpirez denies any wrongdoing.

Bush administration officials said Thursday they confronted the Guatemalan government aggressively during the months that followed Devine's murder. Unhappy with Guatemalan cooperation, the United States suspended military aid in December 1990.

One official, asking not to be identified, said a "death squad" turned up at a military camp run by Alpirez at Poptun in June 1990 and bunked there. Shortly thereafter, Devine's nearly decapitated body was found at the side of a road.

A clear motive for the crime has never been established. Devine's wife, Carole, maintains that the killing may have been the outgrowth of an altercation at Devine's bar in the days preceding his death.

Devine's adult son and daughter have asked prominent Harvard University law professor Alan Dershowitz to look into the case.

"They told me that the mother wants me to represent them," Dershowitz said Thursday. "I have not yet been able to reach the mother." Mrs. Devine lives 140 miles north of Guatemala City at a ranch that has no telephone.

After Devine died, when U.S. officials attempted to question Alpirez, he refused to cooperate. The story might have ended there but Rep. Robert Torricelli, D-N.J., disclosed last week that Alpirez was on the CIA payroll at the time of the murder and retained his links with the CIA for two years afterward.

The plot thickened when Torricelli received an anonymous letter this week from inside the super-secret National Security Agency alleging that the CIA and the Defense Department knew the circumstances of Devine's death at the time he was killed.

Nine American evangelists arrested

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Nine Americans and a Singaporean who belong to an evangelical group based in Texas were arrested in a remote area of India after a rally they organized turned violent.

None of the Americans was injured, but they will be tried Monday, apparently on charges of inciting a riot and holding the rally without a required permit, Dino Caterini, the public affairs officer of the U.S. Consulate in Calcutta, said Friday.

Caterini said the consulate is sending an official to Berhampur, the town in Orissa state where the trial will be held, to meet the jailed defendants and attend the proceeding.

Details of what had happened to the evangelists on Wednesday remain vague Friday. U.S. officials hadn't managed to contact them, state police in Orissa were still gathering information, and the incident hadn't been reported in national newspapers.

Caterini said thousands of Indians reportedly attended the rally organized by the 10 members of a Christian mission, the Gospel to the Unreached Millions, which is based in Houston.

The ceremony was held in Badapada, a village in Orissa, an underdeveloped eastern state where many tribal groups live.

Like America's Indians, the tribespeople were the original inhabitants of India, and some still live in forests and wilderness areas, and practice voodoo and witchcraft.

For decades, evangelists and missionaries from the West have come to India to convert tribal people to their religions.

The rally turned violent after police said it lacked the required permit, and an undetermined number of Indians were injured in fighting and stone throwing, Caterini said.

Houston newspapers reported Friday that the arrested people include four Americans from the Houston area: Jeff Berkhouse and the Revs. John Parks, Mike Walsh and Larry Reichart.

Woman bites a 91-year-old

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An HIV-positive woman has been sentenced to 10 years in prison after biting an elderly man who eventually tested positive for the AIDS virus.

Naomi Morrison, who has carried the virus since at least 1988, pleaded guilty in November to aggravated battery on a person over 65, robbery and auto burglary.

Authorities say the man, 91, may be the first person to contract the disease through a bite. Attorneys for Morrison, who has a history arrests of for prostitution, say he may have become infected by having sex with her.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Texas Editorials

Abilene Reporter-News on weight-lifting inmates:

The mental image of a muscular, freshly paroled ex-convict hitting the streets better conditioned to wreak havoc scares us. And the Texas Legislature knows it.

State lawmakers are joining a nationwide trend by considering two bills to remove weight-lifting equipment from Texas lockups. The bills' sponsors argue their proposals would protect the public, shore up rehabilitation efforts and rid prisons of an unnecessary luxury.

But lawmakers backing such proposals seem more interested in capitalizing politically on their constituencies' fears.

According to corrections officials, weight lifting benefits both inmates and prison employees.

Weight-lifting sessions, which may begin only after an inmate has fulfilled his daily work and educational requirements, allow prisoners to relieve some of the tremendous tensions and stress of their environment. Thus, the weight-lifting inmates become more controllable.

Prison administrators also note the equipment is a management tool — a "carrot" used to encourage inmates to do what is expected of them. Without those sorts of incentives, the population becomes more volatile.

Correctional officers insist weight lifters are no more dangerous to their safety than their punier cellmates.

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice opposes the bills, so they aren't liable to advance beyond the discussion stage. If they do, legislators should give them the heave-ho. They surely have weightier issues to tackle.

Austin American-Statesman on cabinet status for CIA director:

It is President Clinton's prerogative to elevate the director of the Central Intelligence Agency to Cabinet level, as he has said he will do for his latest nominee to head the agency, Deputy Defense Secretary John M. Deutch. But the wisdom of that decision is questionable.

The agency has been out of control for a long time, and since the end of the Cold War, the need for the CIA has been seriously questioned. Director James Woolsey, who came in to clean house in the wake of the Aldrich Ames scandal, was instead swept out in less than two years, unable to rescue the agency's tattered reputation, let alone provide evidence that there is a reason to retain the agency as a separate intelligence entity.

In some ways, the CIA has become a joke. The agency evidently has so little to do that it was recently reported that its agents were spending their time trying to get the French to import more Walt Disney movies.

In other ways, the CIA is not a joke, but an anachronistic embarrassment to the nation. Last week, The Associated Press reported, a member of the House Intelligence Committee claimed that the CIA used as a paid informant a Guatemalan colonel who ordered the murders of an American hotel operator and a Guatemalan guerrilla leader married to a U.S. citizen.

Given the tattered image of the spook agency, Clinton should have a better reason to elevate the CIA director to Cabinet status than that Deutch insisted. But he doesn't, other than to give the director access to the president that Woolsey lacked. While placing Deutch in the Cabinet might accomplish that, it also sets up a conflict between the director's role as analyst and his Cabinet role as policy maker, and it guarantees nothing.

Houston Chronicle on watching executions:

A bill has been submitted in the Legislature that would allow up to five members of the families of capital murder victims to view the executions of their loved one's killer(s).

With reasonable precautions and strict decorum, this should be an acceptable idea. It must be remembered that serving justice, not visceral retribution, is the goal.

For too long the rights of criminals have been paramount, while the rights of victims have been given short shrift. This would be a small way to help balance the scales of justice and provide what psychologists term "closure" to bereaved families.

Acoustic tumors are the pits

As I've been saying these last two weeks, I feel fine for a man with a brand-new hole in his head. And, by the way, acoustic tumors are the pits.

Acoustic tumors? The newly minted medical authority clears his throat and speaks from personal experience.

Acoustic tumors are brain tumors, only not, in the brain, but adjacent to it. Such a tumor — or neuroma — starts in the internal-auditory canal and ultimately oozes out into the cerebellopontine angle, where it has no conceivable business.

As the tumor presses on the various nerves, dire things happen, such as your wife's saying you are ignoring her when she talks to you — though it's plain she has mush in her mouth. Next, you notice that, having consumed only a Dr Pepper, you are wobbling as though you had polished off a pitcher of martinis. These are not encouraging developments.

Hence, you consult the doctor, who prescribes an MRI, which produces a finely detailed image of this thing you never heard of before, which, you are plausibly informed, must come out.

My own acoustic tumor came out on Feb. 7. The surgery, eight hours long, was spectacularly successful. The 4-centimeter tumor, though tenacious as a New York panhandler, yielded in due course. Everything went right that should have gone right. In only four days, the patient went home, where his good wife and family cuddled him and he read English church history and Southern fiction.

After effects? Loss of hearing in the right ear was the predestined consequence of the surgery. At least this affords me standing to make a politiically incorrect remark: I am deaf as a stump in the right ear. Already, the left ear is compensating both for this deficiency and for the attendant loss of balance.

End of medical lesson — and yet not quite the end. When a man talks about His Operation, there should be a purpose. To commend themselves to me.

First, the world-beating quality of U.S. medicine. We just get better and better, no thanks to the Clintons. Thirty years ago, when this particular kind of surgery was new, the mortality rate was one in three. Dr. William E. House of Los Angeles, who pioneered the present surgery, labored ingeniously and successfully to perfect it, so that today virtually no one dies of it. Did House do so because the government cracked the whip over him? Yeah. Sure. The same way my own two surgeons — Dr. Fred D. Owens, the neurotologist, and Dr. Sam Finn, the neurologist who performed with sublime efficiency and professionalism — stood around waiting for federal orders. Owens and Finn are fleshly monuments to the glories of private medicine.

There is this, too: Medicine thrashes about in no intellectual or moral vacuum. To go through brain surgery is to know something of this.

The ear, the ear — look at it, would you? Whittaker Chambers observed in Witness that his religious conversion began when, observing the elaborate whorls of his infant daughter's ear, he reflected that chance and accident could never have contrived such a wonder. Nor is this to mention the unseen wonders behind the ear — the mastoid, the Eustachian tube, the nerves conveying facial movement, taste, hearing, balance; all working in splendid concert. Accidental? Circumstantial? The ear should knock any mere materialist off his feet. Perhaps even to his knees.

Who is the real doctor? It can only be the Author of all this wonder, whom we know as God. How lonely the materialist must be, faced with the crumbling of a material body whose fitness he has taken for granted. He may find it hard to mutter, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done." Yet no other prayer so neatly answers the purpose of composing mind and body for the facing of calamity. Again and again, it is borne in on me: A good God who has made all things from ears to mountaintops means only good for His creatures — and yearns for them to ask it be given.

And so it came to pass in at least one woefully deficient, cantankerous life: the goodness of God displayed in the miracle of healing. There is no other way to look at it. There is no other way to want to.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, March 31, the 90th day of 1995. There are 275 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

Fifty years ago, on March 31, 1945, the Tennessee Williams play "The Glass Menagerie" had its Broadway premiere with Laurette Taylor as Amanda Wingfield, Eddie Dowling as Tom, Julie Haydon as Laura and Anthony Ross as Jim, the Gentleman Caller.

On this date:

In 1492, King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain issued an edict expelling Jews from Spanish soil, except those willing to convert to Christianity.

In 1880, Wabash, Ind., became the first town completely illuminated by electrical lighting.

In 1889, French engineer Alexandre Gustave Eiffel unfurled the French tricolor atop the Eiffel Tower, officially marking its completion.

Depressing reaction to Simpson trial

When the O.J. Simpson trial is not farce, it is tragedy. Two people have lost their lives, and the trial has limned just how divided we are as a people.

It is truly depressing and dispiriting to see the diametrically opposed views of whites and blacks on the subject of Simpson's guilt. According to a Harris poll conducted last month, 61 percent of whites believe Simpson to be guilty. But 68 percent of blacks believe him to be innocent.

In the face of the overwhelming evidence of Simpson's guilt, why do so many African Americans want to believe in his innocence?

This is dangerous stuff on which to speculate. But it's important to probe — especially for those who have not given up on the idea of a united United States.

According to The New York Times, Johnnie Cochran is viewed as a hero among many blacks. Earl Graves, the publisher of Black Enterprise magazine, recently toasted Cochran as "our new Joe Lewis," adding that "he has made us proud."

To many whites, those sentiments are jarring. Cochran is an extremely expensive attorney who has shamelessly and shamefully stoked fires of racial animosity in the attempt to get his client off (never mind willfully withholding evidence on two occasions). With no credible alibi, and a mountain of incriminating evidence about his client, Cochran has done far more than merely plant doubt in the minds of the jurors. He has sought, irresponsibly in my view, to plant suspicion of a vast police conspiracy to frame O.J. Simpson.

Such seeds have fertile soil in which to grow, alas.

Mona Charen

Long before Simpson found himself under arrest, shockingly large numbers of black Americans told pollsters that they believed in something called "The Plan," an effort by white doctors to spread AIDS in the black community. If white people are already attempting to commit genocide, it is a small matter to believe in a police conspiracy to falsely convict one very prominent black man of murder.

Los Angeles' black police chief, Willie Williams, held a press conference to debunk and deplore the notion of a police conspiracy against O.J. — and, indeed, the evidence put forward in the trial so far seems to suggest that the police were, if anything, overly friendly toward O.J. Simpson. But that has had no effect on the vast majority of African Americans.

The New York Times quotes Laura Washington, the publisher of the Chicago Reporter, a magazine devoted to race relations and urban issues, as follows: "I talk to intelligent, successful black people all the time who sort of wink and say, 'Well, even if he did it, he must have had a good reason,' or 'I don't care if he's innocent or guilty, let him go.'" Similar sentiments are expressed frequently on black talk-radio programs.

That is not the way Americans should talk. That is Bosnia. He killed someone? Well, before we know whether to frown or smile, we need to know what color (religion, race) the victim was. If one of ours killed one of theirs, let him go.

That is not the language of civil society. It is the language of outright warfare. Is that really how a majority of African Americans see race relations in this country?

I would not be so foolish as to suggest that white racism has disappeared in America. But I am struck by the earnestness of many white Americans demonstrating their lack of it. Why is Colin Powell everybody's favorite candidate for president? Sure, he is an extraordinary speaker, with a fine record of public service. He's a patriot. But way up there on the list of qualities people want to reward is his skin color.

On the almost lily-white Republican primary campaign trail, Alan Keyes, the black former diplomat, is bringing audiences to their feet. With no money and no organization, he stands almost no chance of winning. But in straw polls, he does better by just showing up than some of the white candidates in the race.

Yet the black response to the Simpson trial makes it seem that efforts at goodwill by whites go unnoticed in the black community — while paranoia sells well.

Humor: A politician's occupational hazard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometimes, politicians are funny on purpose.

Only sometimes. It's the laughs they don't want that can make humor an occupational hazard.

But in early spring, which Franklin D. Roosevelt once called the stiff shirt season in Washington, top figures in government turn comedians, or try, at formal dinners sponsored by the journalists who cover them.

"It's only 11:15 and I've gotten my second wind," President Clinton said recently at the white-tie dinner of The Gridiron Club, which has been satirizing and listening to the leaders of government for 110 years. "I guess I'll finish the State of the Union message."

The original ran a marathon 81 minutes. Clinton also said he's decided to propose a "three boring speeches and you're out bill."

"Thank God that's not retroactive," said the president, who has been known to run on frequently enough to be past that quota. At an earlier formal dinner, he jokingly put an egg timer on the lectern while he spoke, briefly.

"Well, I could go on forever," he said at another. "But you know that already, don't you?"

Clinton had said earlier that he'd been told being president was like running a cemetery. "There's a lot of people under you, but nobody's listening."

Self-deprecating lines are sure winners when politicians turn comics, and that is doubly so when they come from the president. Or the first lady, who wasn't even there.

Hillary Rodham Clinton appeared on videotape, in a five-minute takeoff on the movie character Forrest Gump.

"Hi, my name's Hillary, Hillary Gump," she drawled. "You can call me Hillary Rodham Gump. That's what everyone calls me except on the Connie Chung show."

That was the program on which Newt Gingrich's mother confided in a whisper, then televised on CBS, that the House speaker once had called Mrs. Clinton a bitch. At the head table, even Gingrich, who has said he does not recall saying such a thing, was laughing.

She has her box of chocolates until the close, when Clinton sits down on the bench, takes them all when she offers one, and asks for some french fries as well. Hillary has them handy.

It was a show-stopper, a performance reminiscent of the image-repairing spoof song Nancy Reagan sang in the same setting 13 years ago, when she was being criticized for receiving expensive gowns from fashion designers. Her number was "Secondhand Clothes."

In his Gridiron talk, Clinton said he was reinventing the House GOP's "Contract With America," into one of his own. "The 'I hate the federal government more than you do' contract," he said. "Our motto is 'If it ain't broke, break it.'"

With that, he parodied the Republican version. For example:

"Replace food stamps with E-mail stamps, available to the poor on their computers, where they can order virtual food and download it from the Internet."

And:

"Pass a law that would prohibit any law from being passed that would reverse a law that would prohibit another law from being passed."

William Bennett, the former education secretary and drug czar, spoke for the Republicans and joked about their plan to cut federal funding for public television. Bennett said he doesn't watch a lot of TV, "C-SPAN mostly, Newt span," and once in a while, PBS.

"It's three Eskimos eating blubber, several insects making love, some British constable saying it's an open-and-shut case, or some 60-year-old woman trying to sell you a $100 tote bag."

Then there was Rep. Dick Gephardt, the House minority leader, costumed as the Eagle Scout he once was, saying somebody had to clean up the image of Congress. He and Clinton sometimes have differed, as on trade policy, but now he conceded that the president was right on free trade with Mexico. "The peso is every bit as stable as the dollar," he said.

Gephardt also offered the classic summation of these wisecracking outings.

"Too often in this town we take our politics and ourselves far too seriously," he said.

It is serious business, of course. But once in a while, a Saturday night off helps keep it in perspective.

Defense suggests expert witness go to detox center

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Proving that the battle over DNA evidence in the O.J. Simpson trial won't be for the faint of heart, a prosecutor suggested a defense scientist ought to go to a drug detox center before testifying.

Deputy District Attorney Rockne Harmon delivered his acid-tongued comment about Nobel Prize-winning scientist — and admitted LSD user — Kary Mullis out of the jury's presence Thursday.

Just moments earlier, Harmon was accused of harassing and intimidating scientific witnesses who didn't agree with him. "This is the sort of thing we mean," said defense attorney Peter Neufeld, springing from his chair and pointing at Harmon.

Judge Lance Ito warned, "Mr. Harmon, I don't need to hear these things."

Mullis wasn't in court and messages left on his home answering machine were not returned late Thursday.

The sparring was part of a hearing in which Simpson's attorneys argued they had the right to resurrect a challenge of critical DNA evidence.

They also asked Ito to stop prosecutors from waging personal attacks on witnesses like Mullis. Ito said he would rule Monday.

The hearing set the stage for the next phase of the trial, which could begin as early as today with testimony from police technicians who collected blood and other evidence from Simpson's house and Bronco and the crime scene.

Simpson, 47, is charged with slashing to death his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman outside Ms. Simpson's condominium.

Prosecutors said they plan to haul an airport trash can into court, along with a new witness to suggest Simpson disposed of something before leaving town the night of the murders, according to a court transcript released Thursday.

Marcia Clark said a witness had come forward who saw Simpson standing by a trash can at Los Angeles International Airport before his late-night flight to Chicago on June 12.

"This witness will state that he saw Mr. Simpson reach down, then reach back up and go into his bag and zip it up," Clark said at a sidebar conference Wednesday.

"The trash can is coming, too," she added.

The witness's name was not released and Clark did not elaborate. Prosecutors also didn't say when they might produce the witness or the can.

Prosecutors are suggesting that two pieces of luggage Simpson loaded at his home are missing and that he discarded potentially incriminating evidence at the airport.

The promise of entering a garbage can into evidence served as an appropriate precursor to the afternoon DNA hearing, which was decidedly dirty.

Business lobbyists enjoy new access on Capitol Hill

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Americans elected a new Republican majority in Congress, they also swept into power a new crowd of lobbyists. At private meetings, in congressional offices and in bill-drafting sessions, the welcome mat is out for American business.

The change was on clear display Wednesday, when Senate aides arriving for a briefing at the Senate Judiciary Committee found that the experts on Majority Leader Bob Dole's regulatory reform bill were not fellow staff members, but lobbyists for the electric power industry.

The three briefers, from the law firm of Hunton and Williams, described for a dozen Senate aides a bill that would subject any health or environmental rule with more than a $50 million impact on the economy to rigorous new cost-benefit tests.

The law firm's client list includes Long Island Lighting Co., Southern California Edison, Virginia Power, Pennsylvania Power and Light, Oklahoma Gas and Electric, and Arkansas Power and Light Co., as well as a coalition of utilities concerned about clean air regulation.

"Clearly, they were there to advocate, not to make a comparison or to make objective explanations," said a Democratic aide who was present. When one staff member questioned why the lobbyists were present, he was told: "They've been advising Dole all along on the bill," the aide recounted.

Committee spokeswoman Jeanne Lopatto said the three lobbyists were there as experts on "a very complex, arcane area of the law. This is hardly the first time outside experts have been called in to brief Hill staff." She added: "We're not privy to who their clients are."

Indeed, lobbyists often are asked their opinions as legislation is written, and even sometimes are asked to draft language. It's a way for Congress to avoid unintended consequences, especially in complicated matters.

But some of those at Wednesday's briefing said they were surprised at how completely the meeting was dominated by the three lobbyists, George C. Freeman Jr., Henry V. Nickel and Turner T. Smith Jr.

Those describing the meeting did so only on condition of anonymity.

The three lobbyists had another link to Dole, as well. Dole's top aide for regulatory issues, Kyle McSarrow, worked at their law firm until two months ago. Dole's hiring of McSarrow, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress with close ties to conservative Christians, was seen as an effort to reach out to the right in Dole's bid for the GOP presidential nomination.

Business and industry lobbyists who couldn't get in the door when Democrats were in control now are finding themselves invited to testify at hearings and offer their views at private meetings. At the same time, the labor and environmental interests who once felt comfortable in the corridors of power now find themselves shut out.

Among examples of the new access: —House Transportation Committee Chairman Bud Shuster, R-Pa., drafted a new Clean Water Bill with the aid of some three dozen lobbyists for outside interest groups.

Organized into task forces, the lobbyists represented chemical makers Allied Signal, Rhone-Poulenc and Union Carbide; associations representing the oil, chemical, pesticide, logging, paper, mining and construction industries; the U.S. Chamber of Commerce; pharmaceutical maker American Home Products; General Motors; the National Cattlemen's Association; and the Farm Bureau.

The panel's senior Democrat, Rep. Norman Mineta, D-Calif., complained that Democrats and the Environmental Protection Agency were excluded.

—House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., has assembled a coalition of conservative interest groups and trade associations that meets several times a week in his office suite or in other rooms on Capitol Hill to plot strategy for passing planks of the GOP's "Contract With America."

Federal judge declares military's 'don't ask, don't tell' policy unconstitutional

NEW YORK (AP) - For the first time, a federal judge declared unconstitutional the Clinton administration's "don't ask, don't tell" policy on gays in the military, barring the Pentagon Thursday from discharging six homosexuals.

U.S. District Judge Eugene Nickerson said the policy is "nothing short of Orwellian" because it equates sexual orientation with misconduct.

"To presume from a person's status that he or she will commit undesirable acts is an extreme measure," he wrote. "Hitler taught the world what could happen when the government began to target people not for what they had done but because of their status."

"Lawyers for the plaintiffs welcomed the ruling but cautioned that it applies only to the six people in the case and doesn't prevent the Pentagon from taking action against other gays."

"We don't want people to read the paper and think they can come out tomorrow," said Beatrice Dohrn, legal director of the Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund, which helped represent the plaintiffs.

Justice Department spokesman Carl Stern said the government will appeal.

"We believe the challenged policy is constitutional and we remain committed to defending it," he said.

Under the "don't ask, don't tell, don't pursue" policy, gays can serve as long as they keep their sexual orientation to themselves and do not engage in homosexual acts. Otherwise, they can be honorably discharged. In addition, commanders may not ask a service member his or her sexual orientation.

The Clinton administration adopted the policy in 1993 as a compromise between the views of gay-rights advocates and those flatly opposed to gays in the military. Previously, the Pentagon rooted out homosexuals as a threat to morale and fighting ability.

The judge said the new policy violates the constitutional rights to free speech and equal protection.

"The policy ... is not only inherently deceptive, it also offers powerful inducements to homosexuals to lie," Nickerson said.

The government, he said, failed to prove its key argument that homosexuals, by their presence, can harm a military unit's cohesion.

"Even if defendants do believe that heterosexual service members will be so upset by a co-worker's mere statement of homosexuality as not to work cooperatively in the unit, such a belief does not justify a discriminatory policy," Nickerson wrote.

None of the five men and one woman could be reached for comment. Their lawyers said they did not wish to make statements.

Bush calls himself 'boring'

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. George W. Bush acknowledges that his speeches are getting boring, but he's not about to change his tune.

For the umpteenth time, Bush Thursday repeated almost verbatim the same speech he has given since he launched his bid for governor.

It's to the point where frequent listeners can recite the words along with him as he plows over his four legislative priorities: tort reform, juvenile justice reform, welfare reform and education.

"That's what I am for, those four things. And I'm getting to be really boring about it," Bush told a gathering of the Texas Federation of Republican Women.

"Like the last 12 months, this is all I talk about. Every single speech I talk about it, to the point where Karen Hughes (Bush's communications director) has been bombarded by the press corps."

"They say, 'Can't you get the boy to talk about something else?' So I have figured something else to talk about, it's point number five."

"To the Senate and to the House I say, pass the first four and Texas will be better off for it."

"You can try to be all things to all people or all issues and get nothing done," Bush said. "That would be really frustrating. That would mean the next time around when the Legislature meets, I would have no political capital and would be someone just out there cutting ribbons on occasion."

Bush said he decided to stick to only a handful of issues, in part, after observing President Clinton.

"Instead of following the example of our president, who in his State of the Union address had 36 goals - so many goals there are no goals - I have limited my own agenda," Bush said.

Big fish, little creek

Aileen Childers of Pampa shows off a five pound seven ounce blackmouthed bass that she caught in the creek running through Central Park. "It's about laughable," said Childers about her catch.

By MELINDA MARTINEZ
Lifestyles Editor

Sunshine one day, snow the next and a five pound seven ounce blackmouthed bass turns up in the creek running through Central Park. What's next?

"It's about laughable," said Aileen Childers who just happened to be that lucky person to catch that fish. "We thought it was pretty funny," she said. "Some of our friends couldn't believe it."

It was on a Monday afternoon that Childers and her husband Bob decided to enjoy the only day of sunshine this week with a quiet picnic by the creek.

Both brought along their fishing poles "just to have something to do besides sitting there."

"I like to fish," said Childers. "But I never expected to catch anything in that creek — anything like this."

Her husband Bob also never expected for there to be a fish that size in the creek.

"I've seen small bass fish," he said, which were about two inches long.

They both thought something was fishy when Aileen's fishing pole started to take off. Bob was able to get hold of the pole before it made it's way down the creek.

"It put up quite a fight," he said. When Bob saw the size of the fish, "I told Aileen that she caught us dinner."

Those who think there's not a fish that size worth fishing for in the creek might be right. Have a happy April Fool's Day tomorrow.

Craft works make a break through cultural boundaries

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Crafts ranging from glass blowing to fiber art, from metal work to jewelry, have been collected for a traveling exhibition, "Breaking Barriers: Recent American Craft."

The famous glass artist Dale Chihuly is represented with his glowing works, and another master, Wendell Castle, with his wood furniture. They make art that is tied to the American landscape, guest curator Matthew Kangas writes in the catalog.

Among those described as emerging artists is Ke Francis, book artist, "who combines wood, ceramics, glass, and paper in mixed-media sculptures that hark back to Mississippi folk art traditions."

The 17 artists whose 60 works make up the exhibition have in common that they "have frequently crossed cultural boundaries in their search for individual expression, thus creating an American sensibility that reflects trends in world craft," Kangas says.

The exhibition is on show at the Portland Art Museum Feb. 6-April 23. It is then scheduled to travel to:

— Madison, Wis., Art Center, May 20-Aug. 6.

— Albany, Ga., Museum of Art, Sept. 16-Jan. 1, 1996.

— American Craft Museum, New York, March-June, 1996.

The exhibition has been organized by the American Craft Museum.

Little home changes with big results

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some simple changes can make a tiny home seem bigger, and smart choices of appliances and furnishings can make the most of the space you have, say two architecture teachers.

Ann Cederna, associate professor of architecture at the Catholic University of America, and Douglas Frederick, a visiting lecturer, are leading a team of students in a project to make a 500-square-foot space livable. Key features are using glass on three sides, putting storage space in the floor and including skylights in the design.

Religion briefs

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Cardinal Joseph L. Bernardin of Chicago will receive the 1995 Laetare Medal, Notre Dame's president said.

"Cardinal Bernardin has been the very exemplar of the bishop as a pastor, teacher and witness to the Gospel," said the Rev. Edward Malloy, Notre Dame's president. "With this Laetare Medal, Notre Dame celebrates the manner in which his personal life and public ministry have combined to become a treasure of the church."

The award will be presented May 21 during Notre Dame's commencement ceremonies.

Bernardin, a Columbia, S.C., native, was ordained in 1952 and became the country's youngest bishop in 1966, when he was appointed auxiliary bishop of Atlanta by Pope Paul VI. He was appointed archbishop of Cincinnati in 1972, and served there for 10 years before he was named Chicago's archbishop. Bernardin was made a cardinal in 1983.

The medal, established in 1883 at Notre Dame, is awarded annually to a Catholic who illustrates the ideals of the church and enriched the heritage of humanity.

GREER, S.C. (AP) — Workers may need blueprints to build a new apartment complex here, but instructions are from the Bible.

The 54-unit, $2.8 million complex is going up across the street from the newly renovated United House of Prayer for All People, the church that is paying to build it.

The two-bedroom apartments, which will be open to all, should be finished by July, officials said.

March for Jesus set for June

The third annual March for Jesus is set for 10 a.m. Saturday, May 27 with marchers parading from the intersection of Somerville and Hobart streets to Hobart Street Park, a one mile walk. Buses will be available for those unable to walk the route.

The theme of the 1995 parade is "Together for the Gospel" and a city wide choir under the direction of Darrell Dishner, minister of music and youth at Trinity Fellowship, is planned.

Dishner, who will also handle parade arrangements, worked with the Memphis, Tenn., March for Jesus as a steering committee leader.

The march will conclude with a prayer rally led by local pastors with the march choir performing the march music. Food and drinks will be served.

About 325 people participated in Pampa's 1994 March for Jesus, with an estimated 12 million people from 550 U.S. cities and 178 foreign countries in the first global march.

Building dedication at Central

A Sunday dedication is set for the new senior adult/music education building at Central Baptist Church, Starkweather and Browning.

Sunday schedule of services includes Bible study at 9:30 a.m., morning worship at 10:45 a.m., with a covered dish luncheon and dedication ceremony in the sanctuary to follow.

Open house will follow the dedication ceremony.

Construction of the 10,868 square foot building began in 1994.

The Rev. Norman Rushing and membership of Central Baptist Church invite the public to the services and dedication.

Donation breakfast at St. Mark

St. Mark Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, 406 Elm, is to host its monthly fellowship breakfast 8 to 11 a.m. Saturday.

The menu will include pancakes, eggs, bacon or sausage, toast, juice and coffee.

The Rev. Merle L. Houska is the pastor and the public is invited. Donation will be accepted.

Kendall preaches at Grace Baptist

Grace Baptist Church, 824 S. Barnes, is to host evangelist Clyde Kendall in a revival crusade April 2 through 9. Services will be at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Pre-crusade rally draws 400 youth

By CHERYL BERZANSKIS
News Editor

Over 400 shouting, clapping, singing young people were SRO in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium Wednesday when they gathered to hear youth speaker Scott Grissom of Plano.

Grissom, a youth speaker for the Jay Strack Crusade, spoke nearly an hour encouraging teens to get fired up for God. He told them about his life with a dad with whom he shared drugs and alcohol until Grissom found God at age 17.

Grissom, in his de rigueur baggy jeans and loafers, quick one liners connected with kids when he encouraged them to be as Old Testament priests who were charged with keeping the altar fires burning to char away the fat in ancient sacrifices.

At the end of his talk, about 100 young people came forward for prayer and counseling.

Aside from Grissom's address, local youths led singing and skits which showcased drugs, alcohol, AIDS and depression dilemmas. Jason Jones of Pampa gave his testimony.

Words to birdies' song are sweet tweet to readers

DEAR READERS: "Stumped in Clearwater, Fla." wrote to ask if anyone knew the words to a song from her childhood. The first line was: "Let's all sing like the birdies sing ... tweet, tweet, tweet, tweet." More than 20,000 readers sent me letters with the words (some also sent sheet music and cassettes). Some responses:

DEAR ABBY: I've copied the words from the sheet music that has been in my piano bench for many years. I hope "Clearwater" enjoys having it. The chorus goes: "Let's all sing like the birdies sing, 'Tweet! Tweet! Tweet! Tweet! Tweet!'"

"Let's all sing like the birdies sing, 'Sweet! Sweet! Sweet! Sweet! Sweet!'"

"Let's all warble like nightingales, give your throat a treat. 'Take your time from the birds, now you know all the words. 'Tweet! Tweet! Tweet! Tweet! Tweet!'"

JAN PAYNE, OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR JAN: Thanks! Thanks! Thanks! Thanks! Thanks! Another version, which I received from many, went like this:

"Let's all sing like the birdies sing, 'Tweet, tweet, tweet, tweet, tweet. 'Raise your voice, let your heart take wing."

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR TERESA SUSSKIND: Congratulations on your 50th! And thank you for letting me know about Amanda. Please drop me a line and let me know what she's doing.

DEAR ABBY: The song my seven children, 18 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren most enjoyed singing with me is:

"When my sugar walks down the street,

"All the birdies go tweet, tweet, tweet.

"And in the evening when the sun goes down,

"It's never dull when she's around.

"She so affectionate, and I'll say this,

"When she kisses me, I stay kissed.

"When my sugar walks down the street,

"The little birdies go tweet, tweet, tweet."

A SINGING GRANDMA

DEAR SINGING GRANDMA, WILLIAM CHAMBLESS, TERESA SUSSKIND, JAN PAYNE, and the thousands of readers who took the time to send me the lyrics: Thank you! The problem is resolved, and this old bird is just about all "tweeted" out! So please, cease and desist with the tweet, tweet, tweet, tweet — before I croak!

DEAR ABBY: I am sending you the words to "Let's All Sing Like the Birdies Sing." I sang that song as a child growing up in England. I came to America as a British war bride and have lived in the States ever since.

On May 1, 1995, my dear husband, Charles, and I will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary. And you might also like to know that our youngest daughter, Amanda, was awarded an Abigail Van Buren journalism scholarship at Stanford University in 1977.

TERESA SUSSKIND, BERKELEY, CALIF.

Horoscope

Saturday, April 1, 1995

You might do more recreational traveling in the year ahead than you have done for quite awhile. Although your trips may not be of long duration, they will include many pleasant adventures.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A well-intentioned friend might offer you some bad business advice today. Take what he/she says with a grain of salt. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.50 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Timing will be extremely important for something you hope to accomplish today. If you jump in prematurely, it could set you back a few squares instead of moving you ahead.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your hunches pertaining to career matters is apt to be on target today. However, your insights in other areas could be way off, so be careful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Business and pleasure might not blend constructively today, so think twice before involving friends you know socially in your commercial affairs.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Persons you helped in the past will help you today, but if you seek assistance from people you've rejected, they're apt to turn you down.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to treat everyone you encounter with consideration today. At all costs, avoid behaving arrogantly to anyone in a subservient position.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you stay within the realm of familiarity today, the results will be gratifying. Experimenting on new turf, however, could be a different story.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This isn't a good day to make snap decisions on important family matters. Take your time weighing all your alternatives before rendering judgment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you have something nice to say about others today, it would be best to say nothing. Acidic comments will not be readily forgiven or forgotten.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you aren't extremely careful with your money today, you might spend funds on foolish things you could easily do without.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your mate's way of handling a critical matter might be more effective than yours today. If your spouse offers suggestions, at the very least, listen to him/her.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Stick to procedures that you know from experience produce desirable results. This will not be a good day to experiment with untested methods.

BOXING

CLEVELAND (AP) — The return of Mike Tyson — one of the most anticipated in sports history — should be titled "The King and I."

The former heavyweight champion ended speculation Thursday about who would guide his boxing career during a 76-second appearance at a news conference at the Gund Arena. The announcement came five days after his release from the Indiana Youth Center, where he served three years for rape.

Tyson, reading a statement that took only 61 seconds, said close friends John Horne and Rory Holloway would be his managers and "Don King continues to promote my fights: Don is the greatest promoter in the world, as we know."

GOLF

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — A two-shot lead didn't make Jim Ferree feel secure.

Not at 63, with younger superstars like Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Ray Floyd and Lee Trevino in pursuit. Not on Desert Mountain's Nicklaus-designed Cochise Course, with its tight, crisp greens and 50-foot-wide fairways.

And not with three rounds left. "This is a major championship, and Jack Nicklaus really is good in major championships," Ferree said Thursday about his chances of winning the $1 million Tradition, the Senior PGA's equivalent of The Masters.

He opened with a 5-under-par 67.

"This course is really designed around his game," Ferree went on. "The par-5 holes — he can reach them with much shorter clubs than some of us do. Jack is a wonderful high-ball player, with a lot of backspin, and Jack is the best fast-greens player who ever walked the face of the earth."

But it was Ferree who conquered the 6,869-yard layout on Thursday, using just 27 putts in a five-birdie, problem-free round.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

PAMPA — Signups for Lady Harvester softball is set for Monday, April 3 from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at the Pampa High School athletic building.

An entry fee of $25 is required. A player must be at least 13 years old to play.

Tryouts will be held Tuesday and Thursday at 6 p.m. at the middle school field for the younger girls.

Call 665-7200 if more information is needed.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK

WHEELER — Wheeler plays host to a big track meet today and Saturday with 19 high school girls and 13 high school boys teams entered.

In the girls' division, Miami is considered to be one of the top contenders after winning the six-man title at the Warriors meet last weekend in Miami.

"We're pretty fortunate with the good girls we have out for track. We've got several individuals who should advance to regionals and a couple of our relay teams should also go," said Miami coach Dwight Rice.

Regional contenders include Misty Barton in the hurdles, Danita Kauk in the triple jump, Erin Locke and Lindsay Gill, high jump and Shantelle Wheeler, discus, Rice said.

Miami scored 130 points to win the six-man division last weekend at the Warriors meet. Follett was a distant second with 75 points.

Barton won gold medals in both the 100 and 300 hurdles while Locke and Kauk also placed first in the high jump and triple jump, respectively. Miami won both the 800 relay and 1600 relay.

The Wheeler meet will also have a junior high boys' and girls' division. Starting times are 3:30 p.m. today and 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

BASKETBALL

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Billy Bayno, a Massachusetts assistant, was hired Thursday as the third coach in as many years of UNLV's troubled basketball program, once ranked among the nation's elite.

Bayno promised at a news conference announcing his hiring that he would work to return the UNLV program to the prominence it once held under former coach Jerry Tarkanian.

"The enormous opportunity that presents itself here, to run this program and be the head coach of what was once obviously the greatest basketball program in the country, is a dream," Bayno said.

It is the first head coaching job for Bayno, who served as the graduate assistant under Larry Brown at the University of Kansas and under P.J. Carlesimo at Seton Hall before joining the University of Massachusetts.

Bayno's determination to land the job apparently was the key factor in winning out over a field of six finalists to replace Tim Grgrich, who lasted only five months as the university's coach.

Final Four teams arrive in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — The Final Four is party time for everyone but the players.

They came trooping off their jets Thursday. From Oklahoma State, Arkansas, North Carolina and UCLA came giants listening to music through headsets, already tuning out any distractions.

The games are the thing, and the only team that will celebrate in Seattle is the one that wins Saturday and Monday night.

"Welcome Final Four Players," read signs on topless bars and waterfront markets. Those places shouldn't count too heavily on the players' for business.

"Today we're not going to do any sightseeing because it's been kind of a tiring trip and we're going to practice here in a few minutes," Oklahoma State coach Eddie Sutton said in the lobby of the team hotel in suburban Bellevue. "Tomorrow I think we'll try to let them see some of the sights."

Some of the sights might mean the Space Needle, with a ride on the monorail, and maybe a ferry ride. But between practice and interviews, sleep and more practice, the players know they're here pretty much on a business trip. And the business is basketball.

Sutton had considered putting his team in a hotel other than the one designated by the NCAA, saying he was concerned about the hoopla that surrounds the Final Four. But he decided his senior-laden team was mature enough to keep its focus.

"I think that's where discipline comes in and managing your time," he said. "We tell all our players there's a time to work and a time to study and a time to practice basketball. We're going to try to do that here."

Oklahoma State has the formidable task of slowing down the sprinters of No. 1 UCLA, while defending NCAA champion Arkansas is preparing to play North Carolina after a perilous journey through the regionals.

The Arkansas Razorbacks arrived in a subdued mood, a huge contrast from their jaun-ty walk into the Final Four a year ago after a brilliant season. This year's team has scars from six losses and the narrow escapes it made.

"It's a totally different feeling," Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson said after the team arrived at its hotel. "Our guys are much more low key. There's not all the jumping up and down."

"We know it's another day at the office. We hope we're not treating this game any differently than any game we play on the road."

With each of the four regional games a down-to-the-wire affair, it would seem Arkansas might be relieved just to be here.

Not this team. After all,

Arkansas is the defending champion, a team that returned all five starters and was just about everybody's pick as No. 1 when the season began.

"Right now, with what has happened to us, we don't just want to get there," Richardson said, "because, let's face it, if we don't complete the round, the media and everybody else ... would say that we didn't have a successful team."

That's the kind of pressure the Razorbacks have been under all season, and they haven't always handled it well. It started with a season-opening 104-80 loss at Massachusetts, a nationally televised rout that knocked Arkansas out of the top spot for good.

Pampa's Abbott working hard to earn return trip to girls' 4A state meet

By L.D. STRATE
Sports Editor

PAMPA — Pampa Lady Harvester hurdler Mechelle Abbott started making a name for herself almost as soon as she stepped onto a high school track.

As a freshman, Abbott won her first three meets. Despite nagging injuries she's continued to medal consistently, not just in the hurdles, but in other events as well. She was bothered by hip and leg injuries as a sophomore, but was still able to place second in the 300 hurdles and third in the high jump in the district meet. She was a member of the winning 1600-meter relay team.

Abbott capped off an outstanding junior season by advancing to the Class 4A state meet in three events: the 100 hurdles, 300 hurdles and second leg in the 1600 relay. She returned home with a silver medal in the 300 hurdles.

Now in her senior season, with a number of colleges prepared to offer her a track scholarship, Abbott is determined to get back to Austin and go for the gold one final time.

"Mechelle has been working real hard. She's been hampered by a hamstring pull, but she's come back stronger than she was last year," says

Mike Lopez, Pampa head girls' track coach. "She's been lifting weights and I can tell she's much stronger in her legs. Coach (Billie) Osborne has done a good job of working with her."

In three meets this season, the 5-9 1/2 Abbott is undefeated in the 300 hurdles and has won the 100 hurdles twice and placed second the other time.

"The weather has hampered Mechelle's times so far this season. When she comes around a curve, she's tall and the wind hits her right in the face and slows her down. With some good weather and a fast track there's no reason why she shouldn't make it to state in both the 100 and 300-meter hurdles," Lopez said.

Abbott's 15.4 in the 100 hurdles is the best time in the area this season. Her 49.2 in the 300 hurdles is ranked sixth.

"Mechelle is a valuable all-around performer for us," Lopez said. "She competes in two hurdle events, the high jump and the relay team. That's a possible 50 points out of one person."

Abbott and the Lady Harvesters are set to compete in the Borger Relays on Saturday. Seven girls and four boys teams are entered. Running prelims start at 9 a.m., with finals to follow at 2 p.m.

After three meets, Pampa senior Mechelle Abbott is unbeaten in the 300 hurdles. (Pampa News photo)

Injunction by district judge could end baseball strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball strike could end — if U.S. District Judge Sonia Sotomayor issues an injunction against owners.

Just two days before the scheduled season opener and the start of replacement baseball, Sotomayor was scheduled to conduct a hearing today on the National Labor Relations Board's request for a preliminary injunction that would restore salary arbitration and free-agent bidding.

There was no indication if she would rule today. Players already have voted to end the 232-day strike if the injunction is issued. Owners could lock them out, but it appeared that wouldn't happen.

"If the injunction stays and the players to do again state their willingness to go back to work, then I hope they won't be locked out," President Clinton said.

Players, in a bid for a settlement, moved closer to the owners' position with a new proposal Thursday. But it was still uncertain whether the season would start this weekend with replacement players — or if at all.

"We believe, perhaps at long last, we are moving forward," union head Donald Fehr said after presenting a new offer to acting commissioner Bud Selig. "Issues are coming to closure. We are isolating areas of difference, or should be."

Earlier in the day, owners formally approved using replacement players in a 26-2 vote, with only Baltimore and Toronto opposed. New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner voted against replacements in an initial roll call, then changed to vote for them at the end of the conference call.

But with the court hearing and more bargaining ahead, teams weren't sure if replacement ball would start as scheduled.

"Right now, it's 50-50," Boston Red Sox chief executive officer John Harrington said.

Asked how long the uncertainty could go on, Harrington replied: "How 'bout 8:03 p.m. (Sunday). First pitch."

Red Wings rally against Stars

DETROIT (AP) — Dallas' two-goal lead against the Detroit Red Wings would have been somewhat secure if only the Stars didn't take any penalties.

The first two times they did, however, the Red Wings scored and extended their home winning streak to seven games with a 3-2 victory Thursday night.

Dallas scored twice in the game's first 2:51 but couldn't hold off Detroit's power play, which has converted five of its last eight chances and is second in the NHL with a 25 percent conversion rate.

"We got a couple soft goals in the first three minutes, and that really gave us an advantage," Dallas coach Bob Gainey said. "And we played a pretty good game after that. But we had to kill off a few penalties and we weren't able to do it. That's a tough group to defend."

Detroit improved to 9-1-1 in its last 11 games and moved six points ahead of Chicago atop the Central Division.

"We actually have nine guys who are playing well on the power play, and the key is always to have two strong units," Red Wings coach Scotty Bowman said. "Right now, we can either start a power play or finish one with Keith Primeau, Ray Sheppard and Vyacheslav Kozlov up front.

"(Defenseman Paul) Coffey usually plays the whole two minutes — a minute with Nicklas Lidstrom and a minute with Vladimir Konstantinov. That lets us pick our spots for the top line."

Mike Modano and Corey Millen gave the Stars a 2-0 lead before Detroit defenseman Terry Carkner responded at 15:14 of the first period against Andy Moog with his first goal since November 1993, which also came against Moog.

"Every other goalie gives me trouble, but I must have four or five goals against Moog," Carkner said. "If I play Saturday (against Dallas), I'm sure they will have someone on me all night."

Lidstrom scored at 1:26 of the second to tie the game at 2-2, and Sergei Fedorov scored the deciding goal, his 17th of the season, at 19:35.

"Dallas did a great job of slowing the game down during even-strength situations and clogging up the neutral zone," said Dino Ciccarelli, who plays with Steve Yzerman and Fedorov on the top power-play line. "Because of that, our special teams were going to be crucial, and we were able to put a couple goals in."

Warriors no longer playoff contenders

By The Associated Press

With Chris Webber, Chris Mullin, Tim Hardaway and more, the Golden State Warriors began the season as a team that some thought could challenge for the NBA championship in a couple of years.
By the time they were eliminated from playoff contention Thursday night, with more than three weeks still left in the season, they were frustrated and their coach was angry.
"It made me feel bad watching that," interim coach Bob Lanier said after a 108-80 loss to Atlanta.
"Like I told them, 'You all ought to just hand in your paychecks because nobody out there earned a dime, except for Woody (David Wood) running out there with a sore hip,'" he said.
"They've got to look inside themselves. You all see it, the fans see it and they know it."

NBA ROUNDUP

"We're not happy with that's going on either."
"We could be playing anybody and it's going to be a tough game for us, playoff team or non-playoff team. We're not in a position to get pumped up for one and not pumped for another because who we have we beaten? We struggle with everybody."
Mullin and Latrell Sprewell, the Warriors' top scoring threats, combined for only 10 points on 9-for-29 shooting. Golden State missed its first 11 3-point shots.
Grant Long scored 21 points for the Hawks and "Mookie" Blaylock had 12 assists.
Bulls 100, Celtics 82
Michael Jordan followed up his 55-point performance with 23 points, 11 rebounds and six assists as Chicago beat Boston.
The host Bulls broke open the game with 15-2 run in the third quarter. Chicago won for the 12th time in 16 games and pulled within a game of Cleveland for the fifth playoff spot in the Eastern Conference.
Toni Kukoc, struggling since Jordan joined the team six games ago, had a career-high 11 assists, 14 points and 10 rebounds.
The Celtics missed 14 of 37 free throws. Eric Montross was 0-for-8 from the foul line.
Rockets 108, Clippers 96
Clyde Drexler had 41 points and a career-high 18 rebounds as Houston sent Los Angeles to its eighth straight loss.
Drexler's 3-pointer started an 11-0 run that helped the visiting Rockets break away from a tie early in the fourth quarter.
Drexler, whose previous career best was 17 rebounds, tied a season high for points. He also scored 41 against the Clippers on Nov. 5 when he played for Portland.
