

Fighting Continues In Cyprus 'Cease-Fire'

United Press International
The British High Commissioner on Cyprus said fighting continued on the island at least an hour past the 9 a.m. CDT cease-fire deadline set by Greek and Turkish forces today. The Greek Cypriots radioed that they had accepted the truce offer but reported heavy Turkish air attacks. The Greek Cypriot Radio said Turkish planes striking shortly before the truce deadline bombed a hotel in the port of Famagusta and killed a number of persons including 20 foreigners. It did not say what nationality the foreigners were. Other dispatches spoke of a Turkish breakthrough to the Turkish Cypriot quarter of Nicosia. Australian newsmen Bryan Boswell said Turkish warplanes bombed targets in the Nicosia area after the cease-fire went into effect, but that all ground fighting ceased in the capital. He said the truce came shortly after Turkish army troops supported by fresh paratroops broke through to the Turkish quarter of Nicosia in heavy fighting.

Ankara Radio said an Athens coup overthrew the Greek government today but the Greek Embassy in Washington said the report was totally unfounded. UPI Correspondent John Rigos reported from Athens that the Greek military junta remained in power and the city was normal. The British High Commissioner said in a message delivered over British Forces radio at 5 p.m. Cyprus time (10 a.m. CDT), an hour after the cease-fire was to have gone into effect:

"In many areas fighting has been intense and I cannot provide you with the security and protection that I would wish. The U.N. is doing a magnificent job in trying to arrange a cease-fire and I am still hopeful that his can be arranged. My advice to you is very short: keep calm and stay indoors and take no chances. The cease-fire, largely a triumph of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, appeared to have turned the two NATO allies from the brink of war towards the negotiating table. British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan announced in London today that Britain, Greece and Turkey will begin talks on a Cyprus settlement in Geneva Tuesday or Wednesday. All indications from broadcasts and dispatches from the Mediterranean island were that heavy fighting continued until the last minute. Broadcasts told of Turkish bomb attacks and an Australian correspondent said Turkish army troops supported by fresh paratroop drops broke through to the Turkish quarter of Nicosia in heavy fighting today. The Greek Cypriot radio said at 8:50 a.m. CDT that Turkish warplanes bombed civilian targets in the eastern Cypriot port city of Famagusta, including the Salamania Hotel, killing a number of people including 20 foreigners. It did not identify the foreigners. The broadcast, made five minutes before the cease-fire went into effect, said the air attack against Famagusta started at noon (5 a.m. CDT) today.

It said Greek Cypriot troops have occupied large parts of the city and the "Turks are now besieged behind the old walls of the city." Bryan Boswell of the newspaper the Australian reported from Nicosia that truckloads of heavily armed Turkish troops were pouring into the enclave, relieving the Turkish Cypriot militiamen who have defended the area since the fighting started three days ago. The breakthrough was preceded by dawn air strikes by Turkish jet fighter bombers and a new wave of paratroops dropped on the outskirts of the city, he said. He said the troops were accompanied by numerous wounded. "The Turkish General Hospital is overflowing with casualties," he said. The Lendra Palace Hotel, near the area where hundreds of tourists and newsmen sought shelter from the fighting before being evacuated Sunday is now a "mortared shell," he said.

"Dare to be true; nothing can need a lie. A fault, which needs it most, grows two thereby."

Britain Airlifting Refugees

LYNEHAM, England (UPI) — Scores of British Royal Air Force planes airlifted to safety today a nonstop stream of refugees trapped by the bloody fighting on Cyprus. The jammed planes landed every half hour at Lyneham and another base north of London. As soon as each plane emptied, reinforcement troops loaded it with armored cars and food and climbed aboard for the flight back to Cyprus. A convoy of 1,000 passenger cars carried 4,400 refugees Sunday from the Cypriot capital of Nicosia, where bodies littered the streets, to two British bases on Cyprus. Fourteen army trucks escorted the five-mile long convoy past burned-out buildings and shattered storefronts after U.N. officials arranged a tenuous cease-fire between Greek Cypriots and invading Turks. Thousands of other refugees in Nicosia and other cities made their own way to the two British bases in Cyprus. Some carried their belongings in paper bags, but many had only the clothes on their backs.

Water Consumption Sets New Records

By TEX DE WEESE
The long dry spell and daily temperatures reaching near the 100-degree mark have broken all records in Pampa water consumption and brought both bad and good news, according to city officials. The bad news of the prolonged drought area has to do with heat explosions of city pavement and breaks in water lines because of heavy pressure brought on by increased demands for water. On the good news side of the City Hall ledger is the increased use of water during the long period of no rainfall that has set an all-time record for water consumption in Pampa. That, of course, means increase in water revenue, due to heavy use of water for lawns and other hot weather uses. The record-breaking figures on water consumption show up in the fact that the municipal plant has been pumping 8 1/2 to 9 million gallons of water daily since May of this year. Norman Rogers, supervisor at Pampa's municipal water plant, said today the city has been mixing lake and well water to meet the demand. Pampa, he said, is equipped to take 8.4 million gallons daily from its Lake Meredith aqueduct. Now, he stated, the city is pumping 6 or 7 million gallons of lake water daily and about 2 1/2 million gallons of well water into its distribution system. The water wells currently are pumping from 9 a.m. to 10 or 11 o'clock at night. "It used to be," Rodgers said, "we would have a two-week peak period of about 8 million gallons a day around the last two weeks in July. We have been pumping more than 8 millions gallons a day here ever since May." Rodgers said, for example, his records show that during the first 8 days in July there were three days in which the water consumption topped 9 million gallons and two days when it ran more than 8 1/2 million gallons. Yesterday's water consumption was 6,254,000 gallons of lake water and 2,000,000 gallons of well water, a total of 8,254,000 gallons according to Rodgers. Worst in the bulging pavement caused by the heat has occurred on N. Somerville St. where workmen were busy today making repairs in two or three places where the pavement expanded and

ON NEGOTIATIONS Jordan Requesting Arab Coordination

United Press International
Jordan called today for a meeting of the foreign ministers of Jordan, Egypt, and Syria and a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization to coordinate the Arab stand towards Middle East peace negotiations. A statement issued by Jordanian Premier Zeid Rifai said Jordan would like the meeting to be held "as soon as possible." He said his government had sent invitations to the parties concerned and was awaiting a reply. Rifai said Jordan's aim was "to insure and develop the Arab coordination called for in the joint communique issued after King Hussein's talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Alexandria last week. The Jordanian move followed PLO rejection Sunday of the formula for Palestinian representation contained in the Sadat-Hussein communique. The communique said the PLO was the legitimate representative of the Palestinians, "except those living in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan." The PLO announced after Sunday's Executive Committee meeting it could never accept a formula that split the representation of the Palestinians.

created traffic hazards until blocked off Saturday and Sunday by street department workers. R.B. Cooke, public works director, said the repairs were expected to be completed by nightfall and that traffic was proceeding around the repair areas today. A second water line break was reported early today in the alley between Foster and Kingsmill Sts. just east of the First National Bank Bldg. It followed another break in the water main at Somerville and Foster Sts. on Saturday. Thousands of gallons of water were lost in the breaks before repairs were completed. Weather forecasters today offered no promise of relief from the drought and hot spell. Temperatures were expected to reach near the 100-mark late this afternoon and continued hot was the prediction for Tuesday with no rain in sight. Old-timers report the current dry spell is believed to be the longest drought period in Pampa history for nearly 40 years.

Commissioners May Postpone Regular Meeting

City Manager Wofford said late this forenoon there is a possibility tomorrow's regularly scheduled session of the City Commission at 9:30 a.m. may have to be postponed one week until July 30.

Wofford said it would not be known until late today or possibly until Tuesday morning whether the meeting would be held. The development arose because of the absence from the city tomorrow of Mayor R.D. Wilkerson and Commissioner Joe Curtis. They will be in Arlington attending a conference of the Texas Water Quality Board.

Wofford indicated it might not be possible to get a quorum for tomorrow's commission meeting with only three of the commissioners still in town. Attendance of all three would be required to hold a meeting. The agenda for the meeting includes the following items: A public hearing on proposed removal of abandoned buildings at 326 N. Cuyler, 317 Perry, 324 N. Davis, 313 W. Tuke and 526 Elm. Consideration of a resolution appointing one of Pampa's two representatives on the board of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. Consideration of idle fund investments and the transfer of $100,000 from the Water & Sewer Fund to the city's General Fund. A report concerning relocation of the street curb at the intersection of Hobart and Decatur Sts. Appointment of members to the City Traffic Commission.

Three city officials will fly to Arlington early Tuesday to attend a pre-application conference scheduled by the Texas Water Quality Board in connection with Pampa's proposed $1-million sewage treatment plant project. Attending the conference which starts at 8:30 a.m. in the City of Arlington's Main Library will be Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, City Manager Mack Wofford and City Commissioner Joe Curtis. The pre-application conference will be a general seminar type program to review and discuss construction grant program requirements, according to Milton R. Rose of the TQWB's Construction Grants Division. In a letter to Mayor Wilkerson, Rose stated the conference is designed to provide information on what he termed the "rather complex program requirements, create the basis for orderly fulfillment of the requirements, and clarify and questions about the program."

City Officials To Attend Conference For TWQB

Sen. Morse Dies Today

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Former Sen. Wayne Morse, one-time "Tiger of the Senate," died Monday at 8:10 a.m. PDT. He was 73.

A spokesman at Good Samaritan Hospital said Morse, who had been hospitalized since last Wednesday, slipped into a coma at 5:50 a.m. PDT and never regained consciousness. Morse became ill while campaigning here to regain the seat he lost in 1968 to Republican Sen. Bob Packwood. Packwood canceled his campaign engagements Monday because of Morse's illness. Morse was first thought to have a cold and congestion, but tests Thursday diagnosed a urinary tract infection. His physician had listed him as seriously ill and responding to antibiotics until Sunday when kidney failure put him on the critical list.

Morse won the Democratic nomination to oppose Packwood by beating state Sen. Jason Boe, D-Reedsport, in Oregon's May primary.

In 1964, Morse was one of two senators who voted against the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, which gave Congressional authorization to increase American involvement in Vietnam.

WITHOUT SUCCESS Daniel Says He's Tried To Gain Briscoe's Help

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — President Price Daniel Jr. said today he's tried unsuccessfully for two weeks to see Gov. Dolph Briscoe and seek his help in winning over enough Constitutional Convention delegates to submit a new state charter to voters. "I haven't been able to get in to see him in the past two weeks," despite a dozen requests for appointments, Daniel said. Daniel said Briscoe's aides at one point told him the governor was on his way to the capitol from the airport. "It's a long ride from the airport," Daniel said. "The governor's not available, I guess." With only nine days remaining in which to reach final agreement, Daniel said the situation was too fluid to predict delegates will adopt the compromise proposal presented today. But he said he has not lost his optimism that a charter will be approved by the July 30 deadline.

HIGH PAYMENTS

Home Hunters Have Troubles

United Press International Realtors are advising would-be homebuyers to buy now, before housing prices increase. But high down payments, scarcity of mortgage money and the high price of mortgages when available are putting a damper on home hunters' dreams.

Committee Asks For Study Of Texas Prisons

AUSTIN (UPI)—A joint legislative committee has voted to ask the U. S. Justice Department to investigate Texas prisons.

"These beatings and this harassment cannot go unresolved," Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson, D-Dallas, said Saturday after listening to testimony from three prisoners.

"But this committee has no jurisdiction to take action against any guilty parties and this committee does not have the time to investigate each possible violation."

Mrs. Johnson, a member of the committee which heard testimony from inmates Marion McMillan, Julius Corpus and Philip Ragsdale, said she has documented evidence of "many incidents of possible violations of inmates' civil rights."

The prisoners who appeared before the committee criticized the state's system of pardons and paroles and the prison's system of treating inmates who are sick.

"Parole is indeed an act of divine grace, a gift that comes from the sky," said McMillan, sentenced to 10 years for destroying private property during a civil rights protest in Dallas.

"The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles is indeed an outdated, insensitive agency. It is in serious need of drastic change."

"In prison, the parole system is a tool used again and again to repress dissent."

"There is no mortgage money available in the Atlanta area at the present time unless you're a veteran," said John Tarleton, an agent for Kuniansky Real Estate Co. "Buying a home can be done on a loan assumption basis—where the buyer takes over the present mortgage and then gets another mortgage—but the interest rate is exorbitant and it's rare."

Interest rates have climbed to more than 9 percent in Miami and San Francisco. Mortgages are available in Hartford, Conn., but only if the borrower can come up with a 50 percent down payment.

While some realtors hope the interest rate on mortgages eventually will drop, those surveyed by UPI in cities across the country said they also believed the purchase price of homes would climb at rates of up to 16 percent a year by 1975.

They advise persons able to come up with the large down payments to buy now—even with the high interest.

With the steep increase in housing prices considered, they say, the cost of a home will be cheaper in the long run if purchased now.

The nationwide average interest for loans is about 9 to 9 1/4 percent, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington. The board says the national average for required down payments on new and existing mortgages is about 27 percent.

But in San Francisco, according to a spokesman for a realty firm, interest rates have shot to 9 3/4 percent, payoff periods have dropped from 30 to 25 years and down payment requirements have increased from 20 percent to 25 percent.

In Hartford, three of the largest banks are charging record interest rates—one of them 9 3/4 percent—and requiring 50 percent down payments.

Judge Dismisses Perjury Charge Against Reinecke

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal judge today dismissed one of two counts of perjury against California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who is accused of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1972.

The dismissal left only one count against Reinecke—that he lied when he denied he told then Attorney General John N. Mitchell of a $400,000 offer by ITT to help finance the 1972 Republican convention before the Justice Department settled a major antitrust suit against the corporation.

Reinecke's lawyer, James E. Cox, indicated Reinecke might testify in his own defense.

U.S. District Judge Barrington A. Parker dismissed a count based on questioning of Reinecke by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., during the committee's hearings on the nomination of Richard Kleindienst as attorney general.

Cox contended the questioning merely involved Reinecke's "impression" of what Mitchell's knowledge may have been of the offer by ITT to help finance the convention if it were held in San Diego, Calif.

Parker told Assistant Special Prosecutor Richard Davis that Kennedy's questions had been "somewhat nebulous and that he felt he had to acquit Reinecke on that count under recent guidelines of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia."

'JUST REMAINS DORMANT' Anthrax Disease Won't Go Away, Expert Says

MARLIN, Tex. (UPI)—Anthrax, the disease blamed for the deaths of at least 200 head of cattle in Texas alone during the last week, won't go away, it will just remain dormant, according to a state health official.

"It isn't something that will go away like World War I," Dr. James Young of the Texas Animal Health Commission said Sunday. "In fact, to my present knowledge of science I don't think it ever will be eradicated."

Young said the only way to control anthrax is by vaccination. "I think cattlemen should leave a provision in their wills for their children and grandchildren insisting on vaccination of the cattle left to them," he said.

"In an infected herd there will continue to be deaths of animals who were too intensely infected before the vaccine had time to take effect," Young said. "Good immunity comes in seven to nine days and then a booster shot hikes the antibody level dramatically."

Young said the outbreak of anthrax in Falls County appears to be under control, but there are certain steps ranchers must take. "My objective is to get people, primarily in this immediate area but also everywhere in cattle country, to immunize their herds," he said.

"But those words 'brought under control' could lull some raisers into thinking the danger is over and cause them to stop vaccinating," Young said.

Young said the quarantine placed on cattle from Falls County will be lifted when the number of anthrax-caused deaths decreases.

"But, if we kept the quarantine as long as cattle die, we'd be here until the turn of the century."

"Some people think there still are spores left in the ground by the buffalo. I think there is an area in Germany which went 80 years without an outbreak and there have been numerous areas in this country where the disease has erupted after 20 year spans."

WITH DEFENSE LAWYER

President To Consider Anit-Impeachment Plans

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon, pledging to withstand the "very grave assault" on his conduct of the presidency, confers today with his chief defense lawyer on anti-impeachment strategy.

Nixon will hold his first face-to-face meeting in 10 days with James D. St. Clair, who argued Nixon's case before the House Judiciary Committee. The panel is beginning what may be its last week, with debate on articles of impeachment scheduled to begin Wednesday.

St. Clair told reporters Sunday he did not have "a clue" when the Supreme Court would rule on Nixon's defiance of a subpoena for White House tapes and documents sought by the special Watergate prosecutor. The President has refused to say how he would respond to an adverse ruling.

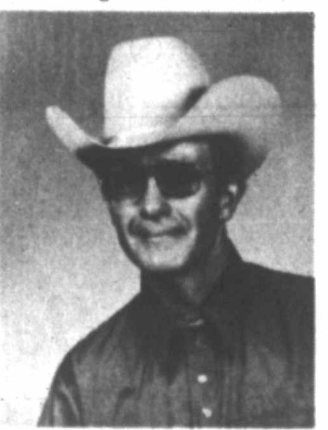

The President was among old friends, California's elite businessmen, Sunday night when he attended a dinner party in his honor at the fashionable Bel Air home of budget director Roy Ash.

The convivial setting with long-time political supporters and heavy contributors gave Nixon a chance to reaffirm his intention to remain in office.

"I am often asked, 'How do you really take the burden of the presidency, particularly when at times it seems to be under very, very grave assault?' Let me say it isn't new for us to be under assault, because since the time I came into office, for five years, we have had problems."

"There have been people marching around the White House when we were trying to bring the (Vietnam) war to an end, and we have withstood that and we will withstand the problems of the future."

"People wonder," he added, "how does any individual these days, when we have very high pressure campaigns in the media to take on public figures, how does any individual take it, how does he survive it, how does he keep his composure, his strength and his rest."

SONNY LINGER, producer of rodeo

Nixon said he has been able to survive the Watergate onslaught and maintain his composure because "I have a strong family and I am very proud of it. I have a lot of good friends who write and call and say 'We're sticking by you.'"

"I assure you no man in public life has ever had a more loyal group of friends who stood by in good and tough days..."

Another of Nixon's major concerns is the economy.

Spain's Entrant To Reign As Miss Universe

MANILA (UPI)—Amparo Munoz of Spain today began her year's reign as Miss Universe, a title that brought her $10,000 cash, a $10,000 personal appearance contract and the use of a resort island for a year.

The 20-year-old movie actress from Malaga said one of the first things she did after besting 64 other contestants for the crown Sunday was to telephone her boyfriend, actor Maximiliano Gomez.

"He said he was very happy for me but sorry for herself since he will now see less of me," the brown-eyed beauty said.

She also offered prayers for her country and its ailing leader, Generalissimo Francisco Franco—"I pray to God that the best will happen to Spain and to everybody."

Tsngaridou Andri, the Cypriot candidate in the pageant, cried after the finals, saying she has nowhere to go because of conditions in troubled Cyprus.

Runnerup for the Miss Perryton award and their sponsors were: First runnerup—Jennifer Garner, Perryton Office Supply. Second runnerup—Kim O'Dell, Perryton Herald. Third runnerup—Barbara Kile, Sperry, New Holland. Fourth runnerup—Stacy McGarrough, Toler Trading Co.

Gray County 4-H Youths To Attend State Meeting

Two Pampa area girls will represent Gray County at the second annual Texas 4-H Congress, opening Tuesday in Dallas.

They are Elaine Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V.C. Webb, Mobeetie; and Sally Brinard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brinard, Pampa.

They will be among the 500 4-H'ers in attendance at the four-day event, whose theme is "Careers in the World of Work."

Congress delegates will be 15 to 19 years of age and will represent all areas of Texas.

According to Miss Yvonne Garcia, 4-H and youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the objectives of the Congress are for the youth to recognize the need to plan for selection a career and to use a rational process in planning for their choice of a career.

Featured speakers include Dr. Herman L. Glaess of Concordia Teachers College, Seward, Neb., and John D. "Jack" Jackson, ground school instructor for American Airlines, Inc., Flight Academy, Fort Worth. The speakers will reflect on their personal career experiences as well as give their perspectives on selecting and planning for careers.

A highlight of the conference will be the division of Congress participants into mini-groups to participate in discussions and tours of various businesses and services in the Dallas-Fort Worth areas.

Miss Garcia said: "Tour groups will be related to manufacturing and processing, banking and finance, public service, recreation and leisure, merchandising and sales, and transportation."

The delegation will attend Wednesday's Dinner Theater Wednesday evening for the production of "Never Too Late" with Bob Cummings. A special Congress Ball will be held the following evening.

New officers and members of the Texas 4-H Council for 1974-75 will be presented at the closing session of the Congress on Friday morning. The state council consists of the chairman and vice chairman of each of the 13 Extension Service district 4-H councils plus four delegates at-large.

Participants will be among the 500 4-H'ers in attendance at the four-day event, whose theme is "Careers in the World of Work."

MRS. BERTHA H. KING—She was a member of Richland Hills Baptist Church. Survivors include four sons: J.R. and Doyle, both of Muleshoe; J.W., Santa Fe, N.M.; and Lloyd, Imperial, Calif.; 15 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

IRVEN J. HINK—Funeral services for Irvan J. Hink, 56, brother of Harold Hink, 1717 Chestnut, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the First United Methodist Church at Wheeler. Officiating will be the Rev. Marvin Roark, pastor. Burial will be in Kelton Cemetery by Wright Funeral Home of Wheeler. Mr. Hink died at 6 a.m. Sunday in Parkview Hospital of Wheeler.

Born at Lamar, Ark., Mr. Hink was a farmer and rancher and had lived in Kelton since 1932. He had served on the Kelton School Board, the board of directors of the Shamrock Co-Gin and the Wheeler County Produce Board.

He was a member of Wheeler First United Methodist Church. Survivors include his wife, Dorothy; one son, Bob, Kelton; one daughter, Mrs. Sue Anderson, Beaver, Okla.; two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Ledbetter, Kelton and Mrs. Henrietta Bennett, Panhandle; and six grandchildren.

Fire Extinguished—Pampa firemen made only one run Sunday. At 12:05 a.m. they were called to 403 W. Atchison where a fire was extinguished in the rear seat of an automobile.

Retail Beef Prices Show 1¢ Increase, TCFA Says

Average retail beef prices increased 1 cent per pound last week, to an average of $1.38, reports the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Amarillo. However, wholesale beef prices decreased $2.25 per hundredweight from the previous week, while live cattle prices remained constant at $45.50 per hundredweight.

This week, the USDA released the Cattle on Feed Report which describes the cattle feeding industry. Major points of the report were:

— Cattle on feed in the 23 feeding states are estimated at 10,047,000 head. This is 21 percent below a year ago, and the lowest number for this date since 1968. With an increased feeding capacity, feedyards are now at the lowest occupancy rate in history.

— Placements of cattle on feed in the 23 states are down 29 percent, the lowest since 1967. In the seven major cattle feeding states, placements were down 49 percent, the lowest ever.

— Number of cattle marketed during the last quarter was about the same as last year.

— Feedyards have moved through the oversupply of the past year and are now rapidly entering a period of tighter supply. Unless placements pick up considerably in the next 30 days, supplies of fed cattle could be extremely short in the fall of 1974.

Total beef production will tend to remain relatively stable. Because the severe drought sweeping the Plains states is forcing many producers to offer their cattle for slaughter, net result will be a shorter supply of choice beef cuts in retail stores.

An abundant supply of plainer cuts, such as processed meats and hamburger, will be available. TCF officials said.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Elsie is losing her husband to John Barleycorn. She doesn't know why, but the reason is simple! When a husband thinks he is slipping in his libido, notice the deceptive strategy he employs to hide this fact from his wife!

CASE A-691: Elsie B., aged 36, is an unwitting sex victim.

"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "we were happily married our first 12 years."

"But during the past 3 years, my life has been miserable."

"For my husband then started drinking heavily and usually stays out late at night."

"When he finally does stagger home, he is intoxicated and may be very abusive to me and the children."

"But the few times he is sober, he is a wonderful husband and father."

"Most of the time, however, he is interested only in himself despite the fact the children beg him to play with them or go fishing."

"Dr. Crane why would a formerly wonderful husband make such a tragic change, for he is only 39 years of age?"

PLATONIC PANIC

This is a classical case of platonic panic.

Women seem unduly obtuse about recognizing the underlying cause of this type of change in husbands.

But it is a world-wide symptom of men who grow scared about becoming impotent.

On the honeymoon, the usual young husband may have 3 or 4 times the erotic hunger of his bride.

But after 15 or 20 years of marriage, plus the arrival of several children and other worries about finances, the male slows down in his sexual desire till the husband-wife ratio in their libido may now drop from 4 to 1, down to 1 to 1, but this terrifies the usual male.

His wife is still quite content, for women are basically frigid anyway, in comparison with the husband's erotic appetite.

But a reduction from 4:1 down to 1:1, makes the husband start worrying lest he soon be "on the shelf."

Alas, worry is a mental (cerebral) function.

So we can't long maintain cerebral and emotional activity simultaneously, before one or the other subsides.

Since this dread of impotence remains ascendant, his erotic verve wanes.

Then he finds that he can't grow passionate regarding his wife.

"But she expects me to be erotic," he thinks, "so I must divert her attention or she'll realize I am prematurely senile in the bedroom."

And here are the usual devices that men all over the world have automatically evolved to hide their impotence:

(1) Excessive use of alcohol, for if they stumble home half drunk, their wife will assume their lack of sex desire is due to liquor;

(2) Hypercriticism of their wife, till they bring her to tears;

For if they affect anger or hatred, then the wife will not expect them to be affectionate, so their impotence will be camouflaged;

(3) Miserliness with money, for when males think they can't dominate a wife's heart, they try to make her beg for doled out cash, thus letting the husband feel that he is still head of the house;

(4) Poker, bowling and any other nocturnal engagements that can keep him away till long after bedtime, so his sleepy wife will be in dreamland when he sneaks into bed.

Send for my booklet "How to Prevent a Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Livingston parish in southeast Louisiana was one of the earliest settled areas in the state. It was named for Edward Livingston, who formulated the state's law code.

The Greater Los Angeles area is 800 square miles larger than the states of Rhode Island and Delaware combined.

NEW RAILROAD ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) - Construction of about 500 miles of railroad through northwestern Alaska is planned by native corporations, the Alaska Railroad and potential users. The proposal calls for the line to terminate in the south at Lost River near the tip of the Seward Peninsula and wind north to the Kobuk area, ending at Cape Sabine on the Arctic Ocean coast.

Farmers Looking For Catch Crop

Prospects of a cotton crop have faded into a moistureless sky in parts of the Texas South Plains. Farmers now are looking for something to plant in mid-July to salvage some return from their land this year.

A possible answer to their needs is southern peas, says a Lubbock agricultural economist.

"Historically, southern peas have been used as a catch crop on dryland High Plains farms," says Marvin Sartin, area economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "They are quick maturing and adapt fairly well to dryland conditions. Plantings can be made into late July with reasonable expectations of a harvestable crop."

Sartin says the yields from late-planted peas depend some on the planting date and a lot on the availability of moisture.

"Drought conditions that prevented farmers from planting cotton cast a specter over any anticipation of high yields of peas," he adds. "However, a good rain to plant on and a couple of timely showers could easily result in peas yielding between 500 and 1,000 pounds per acre. These yields and the current anticipated price would result in a profitable catch crop."

Estimates of the costs of producing a crop of southern peas are included in Table 1. Sartin says these estimates are based on the assumption that some land preparation was completed in anticipation of planting cotton and they do not include the cost of these operations.

Total variable costs, including out-of-pocket expenses, amount to $30.15 per acre, he figures.

In this short-run situation, if the land is owned, only variable costs are pertinent in the decision to plant southern peas. A yield of 700 pound delivered to a local shipping point."

The economist also figures that farmers operating rented land must also consider the return to the landlord. A one-third share rent with a 700-pound yield and $15 per pound price would net the landowner about $30.40 per acre. The production costs in this situation are $30.87 per pound. The fixed costs of depreciation and interest on machinery total about $3.30 per acre and increase the total cost of production to $34.17 per pound.

The assumptions of 700-pound yield and $15 per pound show peas to be a profitable enterprise," he says. "However, yields vary above and below this level, and prices fluctuate so an individual's planning must take into consideration the possibility of both yield and price deviation from the estimate."

Table 2 is included to illustrate both the variable and total costs of production at various per-acre yields. According to the farm management specialist, yields of only 300 pounds per acre show a variable cost of $1.14 per pound and total costs of $1.14 per pound. However, as the most constant per-acre costs are spread over additional units, the cost per pound decreases substantially.

"Your analysis of your particular situation is necessary to estimate your reasonable yield potentials," Sartin explains.

"Investigation in local markets for the product will likely provide insight into the price level that may be expected at harvest. Armed with estimates of costs of production, your conclusion of price expectations makes the final decision on the potential profitability of southern peas an easy one."

Weather experts are deeply concerned over the possibility that the mild heat wave the world has been enjoying over the past 70 years will soon come to an end.

Now temperatures seem to be retreating to slightly lower levels. Some meteorologists say this is causing shifts in rainfall, creating droughts and floods in regions where huge populations have sprung up in the last century.

Very small changes in temperature (less than 1 per cent over 20 years) can cause sharp changes in rainfall around the world. In India, before 1900, severe droughts occurred about every fourth year. As the earth warmed throughout this century, the monsoon rains of India failed an average of once every 18 years, vastly improving India's ability to feed its rapidly growing population.

The period 1931 to 1960 is defined by the experts as normal, yet, with its high temperatures, it was the most abnormal period in the last 1,000 years.

Changing climate in other parts of the world has already caused serious food problems. A severe drought has persisted in North Central Africa for six years. The edge of the Sahara Desert is moving southward at a rate of 30 miles per year. Famine has been the result.

A drought has struck the Great Plains of the U.S. and Canada like clockwork every 20 years since the Civil War. It is now overdue. The Dust Bowl days in the 1930's was the result of this cycle. Another long dry spell came to the Southwestern U.S. during the early 1950's. If the cycle holds, another severe drought will hit the Plains states.

Some scientist believe droughts are direct results of periods of reduced sunspot activity on the sun's surface. Recently solar activity has stepped up and this may be responsible for the temporary delay in a severe drought for the U.S., according to those experts who subscribe to the sunspot theory.

Rainfall shortages in the U.S. and Canada are of special significance to the world because North America supplies 10 times more grain for worldwide consumption than does any other continent. In fact, Australia is the only other continent that is a net exporter of grain.

Farm Week Is July 25-31

CHICAGO - President Richard M. Nixon has proclaimed that July 25-31, 1974 shall be dedicated to the observance of National Farm Safety Week. This marks the 31st consecutive year in which this annual national safety activity co-sponsored by the National Safety Council (NSC) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has been observed.

Farm Safety Week was initiated during World War II to attack accident losses that were impairing crucial agricultural production. Thus, the two-fold purpose of Farm Safety Week is to call attention to major accident problems that drain human and economic resources in agricultural production, and to suggest preventive measures which can be applied to reduce these losses.

Accidents claimed the lives of about 6,000 farm and ranch residents last year. Approximately half of these were victims of motor-vehicle mishaps. Another one-fourth were accounted for in accidental agricultural work deaths. About 500,000 farm residents suffered disabling injuries last year.

According to Argentine tradition, the Casa Rosada (Pink House) presidential palace in Buenos Aires was painted pink as a compromise between the identifying colors of rival 19th century political groups.

Ft. Fisher, on the Cape Fear River near Wilmington, N.C., was the largest earthwork fortification of the Confederacy.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

Londoners more proper than angelenos.

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I just read an article about rape. It said that last year there were 150 cases of rape every 24 hours in Los Angeles, and only 134 cases of rape for the whole year in London. How do you explain that?

A.G. INLA.

DEAR A.G.: The English are a very proper people. In London, they ask.

DEAR ABBY: I gave birth to a healthy baby girl ten months ago. My husband and I very much wanted this baby, but I have proven myself to be a very immature and rotten mother.

You see, the baby is very lovely. She has a large nose, and for some reason this has caused me to get terribly depressed. Every time I look at her I start crying.

I don't want to take the baby out where people can see her because someone is sure to see what a big nose she has and I will be embarrassed.

This is ruining my whole life. I went to a psychiatrist for several months, but I quit going because he refused to believe that it was really the baby's nose that bothered me. He kept suggesting that maybe it was the responsibility of motherhood. Abby, I swear it's her nose that bothers me.

I have a wonderful husband, and wonderful parents, and I feel that I have let them all down because I'm such a terrible mother. I wanted this baby so much, but she isn't giving me any happiness at all. I feel so guilty for being ashamed of her looks.

Please, please help me.

DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: See your family doctor, and take this letter with you. Then follow his advice. If he asks you to go back to the psychiatrist, go! You need help, dear, and that is where it is. God bless. Please write again. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I've been divorced for 12 years and have three children. For the last two years, I've been dating a man who is a year younger than I am. I've been 100% true to him, and we even talked about marriage.

Well, out of the blue he tells me that he is getting married next month! I couldn't believe it. Now all my friends tell me that they knew he had been seeing this other girl all along.

Abby, I love him. He says he loves me, too, but he got so involved with this other girl he thinks the best solution would be to marry her and continue to see me whenever he could.

I don't want a back alley relationship with a married man. I can't believe I've wasted two years of my life on someone who could do this to me. Please tell me what to do.

FEELING HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS: Face it. You've been used. Tell that poor excuse for a man that you never want to see him again. You're right you didn't marry him. Who needs a husband who tries to line up an affair on the side even before he's married?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JULY 23

Your birthday today. Today the Sun enters Leo at 1:31 a.m. EDT so most of today's natives are Leos by Sun Sign. The early part of this year is challenging—the somewhat heavy going improves greatly about mid-year. Relationships bring larger responsibility. Today's Cancerians are rugged individuals, no two alike. Today's Leos are forceful often know things without studying them.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: The outside world gives you plenty of room for success. The challenge today is coping with your home or local matters without upsetting anybody.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Take nothing for granted in shared ventures, make sure you know where others leave off before you begin. Use mechanical or electrical things with great care.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Today you find yourself bridging an age gap, dealing with much older and much younger people, reconciling their differences. Postpone final agreements a bit longer.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You can easily come on too strongly, provoke responses that you don't want. Unsettle conditions require close attention and real sympathy.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: A few important people tend to back you, right or wrong. It is best now to put them to the test now, but to proceed without their intervention. Avoid being bossy yourself.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Since there's no parity between you and your neighbors or competitors, there's no reason to try keeping up with them. Do the thing at which you excel.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Everybody is readily pleased today except yourself. Try hard and say some prayers for guidance. Later hours bring you restored equanimity, even high good humor.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Ask everybody you know about his connections. Get introductions to those who intrigue you, but take no friendly advice from your based.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Follow routines, adding nothing beyond simple updating of information. Put all your surplus energy and leisure into hard study, learn something new.

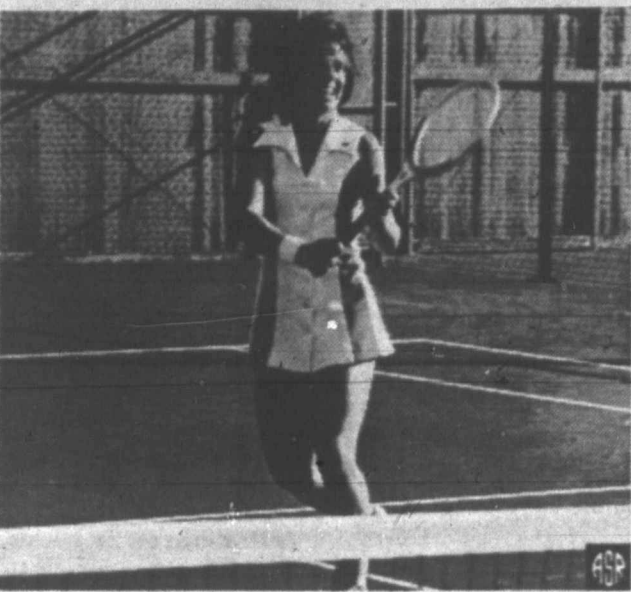

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan.

19]: Vocational efforts pay off, belatedly. Sell any white elephants, regardless of potential loss. Get free of responsibilities you don't want.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Distant people, even strangers, prove interesting and helpful, if you're up and active. Local controversy is complex, hard to cope with if you get involved.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: More care with details is essential, especially in buying and selling. Measurements, particularly, can go awry. Home life improves spontaneously with good news.

Says Billie Jean King, "I know most players would like

Billie Jean King, who knows all the do's and don'ts of tennis.

Mad dogs and Englishmen aren't the only ones who go out in the noontime sun. Look at any tennis court on a sizzling summer day. You'll find a number of tennis buffs racing back and forth at top speed, seemingly oblivious to the heat.

If they're smart, they'll have taken some precautions before exposing themselves to the hottest sun of the year. This is equally true for men and women tennis players. All should be protecting their skins from an overdose of sunshine with a carefully chosen sun preparation.

If you tan easily and want a lot of color, choose a sun cream or lotion that blocks out only the burning rays and lets the tanning rays come through. If, however, you have a fair skin that burns easily, by all means wear a sun cream that gives maximum blockage.

Don't apply the cream to the bridge of the nose and cheekbone and stop there. Use it on arms, legs and over every inch of exposed skin. Remember too that more skin is exposed when you're moving than when you're standing still. So spread the sun cream under waistbands, under a midriff tied shirt, and higher under the hem of shorts, or skirt, than you think necessary.

Even if you don't sunburn at all, you'd be smart to settle for a light tan and wear some skin protection in the form of a modern sun block. People who get deep, dark sunburns year after year wind up with sea captain complexion at an early age—and sometimes with serious skin disorders.

You can't go wrong by pampering your skin out on the tennis courts. Following the after-game shower, everyone should apply a moisturizer to face and body. Modern moisturizers do a quick disappearing act. They won't be visible or feel sticky.

Another favor you can do yourself is to drink several glasses of liquid before the game. This will help avoid severe dehydration as you perspire. Salt tablets are another method of preventing dehydration. Some athletes like them, and some don't. Ask your doctor's advice on taking salt tablets before a midsummer match.

You won't want to eat heavily before a tennis game—or right afterwards either—but you need a light refreshment that's very nourishing. Take a tip from superstar Billie Jean King. She often drinks Carnation Instant Breakfast for quick energy because she knows that "it's equivalent to having bacon and an egg."

Fluorescent lighting can be mounted unseen on the upper shelf to highlight art objects displayed on lower shelves. Patricia Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, advised.

Carnation Instant Breakfast because it's like having a milkshake, and yet you're getting the nourishment.

It is essential that you be in good physical condition to play tennis, and you don't get that way with a weekly game. Daily exercise is a must. Work on your legs and your wind every day by jogging or running. Above all, don't rush from a sedentary job to your summer vacation and plunge into a tennis marathon. Ease into it with short games at first.

Whenever you're playing in the hot sun, it's a good idea to wear a tennis hat. It protects the whole head and may prevent heat exhaustion and headaches to say nothing of protecting your eyes. The hat helps not only your vision and your tennis game, but also your face. Squinting in the bright sunlight for a couple of hours will give you "whiskers" of suntan around the eyes and outer cheeks. That's not very flattering. Wouldn't you rather keep the wrinkles off your face while taking the wrinkles out of your game?

Two Californians who were rabid in their belief that Los Angeles was the best of all possible worlds, were having lunch during a violent rainstorm in their fair city. They watched the torrential downpour in embarrassed silence. Finally one of them said to the other: "Bill, some terrible weather blows in from Nevada, doesn't it?"

At the bridge table, it is not an uncommon occurrence to see one partner criticize the other for an allegedly bad bid or bad play. Later, after sober reflection and analysis, it is perceived that the critic was the one at fault. Today's deal is a case in point.

YOU CAN FEAST ON...DAY LILIES? YEP! DAY LILIES.

By J. SHUTTLEWORTH
Euell Gibbons, the wild food expert, has struck the Shuttleworth family again. This time with something I never thought I'd eat, let alone enjoy... flowers.

Now let me emphasize that I'm no stranger to wild foods. I grew up on an Indiana farm and looked forward year after year to getting my share of hickory nuts, black walnuts, rabbits and pheasants.

I've also picked a few gallons of wild strawberries, raspberries and blackberries in my day, and I've learned to eat lamb's quarters, chickweed, cattail shoots, persimmons, pawpaws, sorrel, one or two varieties of wild mushrooms and I don't know what all somewhere along the line.

But flowers? Well, sir!

Flowers were just something that I didn't eat. No. Not at all. Never.

Never, that is, until the day three summers ago when Bob Richman pulled out of his car carrying a big sack of day lily blossoms.

"We're gonna whip us up some egg batter, dip these little fellers in it, drop 'em in hot grease, fry 'em brown and eat 'em," Bob stated.

I was a little more cautious. "Says who?"

"Says Euell Gibbons. He does it all the time."

So we cautiously battered, deep-fried and tasted the blooms... and I had to admit they were good. Even delicious. So delicious that I've enjoyed the dish many times since.

It wasn't until a few days ago, however, that I finally took the time to try some additional day lily recipes recommended by Euell Gibbons.

With Euell's book, "Stalking the Wild Asparagus," as my guide, I visited a large patch of volunteer day lilies and pinched off a goodly kettleful of unopened flower buds. I also spent 15 minutes digging around under a few of the plants and harvesting a double-handful of the little tubers that were clustered there so thickly.

Sure enough, once I was back in the kitchen, I found that the buds — when boiled three or four minutes, buttered and seasoned like green beans — made a delicious vegetable.

The little root nodules (which ranged up to a half inch across and, at most, one and a quarter inches long) came in three varieties: crisp snowy white; crisp light brown and soft darker brown. The last (there were only a few) were too old to be eaten and I threw them away.

The little white tubers, however, were good enough — when washed — to eat raw, and made a delightfully crunchy addition to a salad. The washed light-brown nodules, while slightly bitter uncooked, were delicious after a 10-minute boil... and I ate them buttered (like tiny, tiny new potatoes) and the rest in another salad.

Not bad for a few minutes foraging, I'd say. And I hadn't even tried adding either day lily buds or blossoms to a soup or stew (to thicken both dishes), nor have I yet dried buds and blooms for use (again as a soup or stew thickener) in the winter.

Gibbons also states that day lily shoots can be collected early in the spring as they sprout. He advises: "Cut just above the roots, remove the larger leaves, and the tender inner portions of the stalks can be sliced into a tossed salad or cooked like asparagus. Boiled and seasoned, they make a sweet vegetable that pleases even the fussiest eater." I look forward to trying that next April.

OK. There are many different ways to eat day lilies. But can you find and identify the plant? Of course. It's as distinctive as the common dandelion... and a whole lot better to eat!

Day lilies bloom alongside country roads and in vacant lots across the United States and well up into Canada. The plant grows in clumps, its dark-green stems look a little like fanned-out cattail shoots — or monster onion sets — and it's topped throughout the late spring and much of the summer with rich-orange flowers.

These blossoms, of course, bloom for only one day each... hence the plant's common name (botanists know it as Hemerocallis fulva which, according to Gibbons, translates as "one day beauty").

Pinch, cut or snip off day lily buds and blossoms when you're out foraging and use a garden trowel or shovel to dig up the underground tubers (which, by the way, can be gathered any time the ground isn't frozen). A sharp knife, of course, is the right tool for cutting the nodules from the plant's root system.

It's nice to know that, as long as you don't get positively greedy, there's no need to worry about over-harvesting day lilies. The plant is quite prolific and you only have to leave a few specimens in each bed to assure yourself and others of a bountiful crop year after year.

So, thanks to Bob Richman I now know that Euell Gibbons was right. It's fun, tasty and nourishing to eat flowers in a half dozen different ways... as long as those flowers are day lilies!

Gather and eat wild mint, chicory, catnip and blackberries! Mother's Reprint No. 91, "Wild Food Buffs," tells you how. For your copy, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to The Mother Earth News, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

For more even browning and a perfect golden color, use unsalted butter for grilling sandwiches.

The Lions Club will sponsor the swim meet this Friday evening, July 26, at 7 p.m., at the City Pool. All boys and girls who are good swimmers may enter two events.

There will be a trophy for the littles swimmer and diver, both boys and girls. The events are back stroke, breast stroke, American Crawl, and side stroke. Boys and girls will swim in their age group and will compete for the trophy against those who win first, second and third ribbons.

Mrs. Lillian Esson, WSI, is in charge of the swim meet and all persons are invited to attend this important fun night. There is no charge.

Dana J. Chisum, WSI, and Vickie White, WSI, completed an Advanced Beginner class at the City Pool with the following completing their class: Brent Bailey, Mark Miller, Melany and Mary Miller, Joan Gray, Lena Stewart and Shannon Henry.

Susie Stowers completed a Beginner class with the following completing the class work: Tammy Corcoran, Shannon Churchman, Debbie Bryan, Rickay Dougherty, Leslie Mallock, Jami Kirkwood, Rick Smith, Melissa Crossman, Wade Henley, Jimmy and Rob Hammer, Steve Johnson, and Carl Van McQueen.

Wendy Coday, Zanna Huckaly, Skelly and Kelly Zeck, Chris Hampton, Tanya Cross, Renita Hill, Michelle Hill and Dustin Cox, completed their skills in a Polywog class taught by Mrs. Evangeline Turner.

These boys and girls learn to get used to the water, to prone float and to rump into the water with an instructor ready to catch them. They are ready for the Beginner class where they begin to learn to swim.

Thanks, Vangie, for the work you gave with these little ones. This class was taught at the Youth Center Pool.

Merita Ree Carter, WSI, taught a Beginner class at the City Pool with the following completing the course: Shannon Keller, David Carter, Valerie Bradford, Wesley Marlar, Nikki Relan and Curtis Childress.

We have a new First Aid Instructor, Mrs. Grady Darnell. She comes to us from Odessa and teaches basic First Aid. She tells me she loves to teach Boy and Girl Scouts. We are happy to add Mrs. Darnell to our list of FAI.

In this class the boys and girls learn the proper kick and the arm stroke. They learn to turn in the water, floating, treading water and to stand front dive. This is a very important class and most boys and girls take it several times before they can master all the skills.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Fresh" Clerk

Lois, shopping for sandals, paid no attention to the fact that she and the shoe clerk were alone in the store. But suddenly he seized her in a lustful embrace. Outraged, she struggled out of his grasp and escaped through the front door.

Her complaint afterward to the owner of the store got the man fired. Then Lois followed up with a damage suit against the owner himself.

"After all," she pointed out in court, "he was this fellow's employer. Surely an employer is responsible for the way his employees treat the public."

But the court turned down her claim. Reason: the salesman had acted not in the line of duty but for his own private gratification.

Generally speaking, you cannot hold management liable for an employee's misconduct if it was not related to his job. This rule has been applied not only to amorous advances but also to beatings, sexual harassment, defamation of character—even practical jokes.

Thus, a motorist who was sprayed with gasoline by a mischievous gas station attendant was denied compensation from the station proprietor. The court said: "The attendant was employed to service automobiles and not to hose customers."

On the other hand, you may indeed have a claim if the employee, while doing his duty, simply overdid it. For example, a bartender ejected a noisy patron with so much vigor that he broke the man's arm. Could the victim collect damages for his injury from the company that owned the tavern?

In this situation, the court ruled that he could hold the company legally liable. The difference was that ousting noisy customers was part of the bartender's regular duties. An employer must bear the responsibility, said the court, for the employee who does his job not wisely but too well.

Novelli Flees Imprisonment

HOUSTON (UPI)—FBI agents today said contractor Raymond G. Novelli apparently has fled the state to avoid imprisonment for a mail fraud conviction.

Novelli, 35, was convicted in February, 1973, on three counts of using the mails to defraud El-Tee Corp., a Salt Lake City, Utah, construction firm and sentenced to eight years in prison.

Prosecutors argued Novelli padded contracts on three apartment projects in Houston and nearby Pasadena and received $21,000 in kickbacks.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Novelli's conviction in December, 1973. The Supreme Court refused to hear the case in April.

FBI agents said a fugitive warrant was issued for Novelli when he failed to turn himself in to U.S. marshalls following the denials of his court appeals.

Novelli also is under another federal indictment accusing him of conspiracy and violating federal banking laws in connection with a loan he made to purchase stock in four Texas banks.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Fungus Difficult For Treatment

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain what fungus is? Five years ago my big toenail fell off. It grew in again and fell off again. I went to a doctor who gave me a prescription, and I am supposed to take these pills for a year and a half so my nail will grow in right.

He gave me very little explanation. I am 67 and in very good health. I am not a pill-popper. Maybe your advice might ease my mind. — Mrs. R.O.

treatment stops too soon, a few particles of fungus survive and then start to multiply and spread. When a fungus gets into the nails, it is particularly difficult to get rid of; often the whole nail or part of it has to be removed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an awful time with bee stings until I remembered that if you mix a teaspoon of meat tenderizer with two or three drops of water to make a paste and smear it on, it counteracts the sting. No swelling or hurt. — P.J. I've reported this in my

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT Earl Is Happy In Penthouse

By EARL WILSON MANILA — En route here to help judge the Miss Universe contest, I stopped off in Las Vegas to see Shirley MacLaine's spectacular opening at the MGM Grand Hotel.

Considering that my wild passion for gambling has earned me the nickname of "Nickles the Greek" — though I've been known to live dangerously by playing the quarter slot machine — it was nice of the hotel management to put me up in one of their $800-a-day "high-roller suites."

Shirley was surprising, but so was the rose-colored Mata Hari suite with its two bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bar. My BW was impressed. The living room has six couches, four of which are ten feet long. It was hard to decide which one to lie down on.

One of the maids sort of spoiled it for me when she said, "But eh Ben-Hur suite is our favorite — it has eight couches!"

To get into my own penthouse suite I had to go past a uniformed guard sitting at a gridded gate. He even checked room service carefully before letting a waiter come in with toast and coffee.

Besides the suite there is the Metro Club, which is a private gambling room for high rollers, for those who prefer to play without being watched.

The MGM Grand says it is the only private gambling club in America. You can be a member if you've established $10,000 casino credit. Roulette starts at $5 a chip, blackjack at $50 a card; the maximum bet is $2,000. The gourmet dinners, liquor, everything else is free — once you're in.

One member has $1,000,000 credit. He's in oil — and not an American. Lucille Ball and Ginger Rogers dropped into the Metro Club when Shirley MacLaine opened at the Grand — but only to browse. Shirley is really colossal in her Las Vegas caftan debut, with an act written and produced by Bob Wells, husband of Lisa Kirk. (She is preceded by impressionist Fred Travalena.) When Shirley stepped on the stage the girls in the audience said, "What a pretty dress! Isn't it lovely?"

And in a few minutes she was dancing with the energy of Gene Kelly, gliding across the stage like Maury Wills stealing second base. One of her songs has her saying she remembers "Holding my brother Warren on my knee at the age of three... even then I could see he was prettier than me."

Shirley recounted much of her life story in the act she calls "If They Could See Me Now," and reported that she'd played many prostitute roles. In keeping with the modern nightclub entertainer's candor she said:

"Anyway, it gave me a chance to lie down for a while. I doubt that the MGM Grand will ever invite me back to its 'high-roller' suite. Not that I did anything embarrassing. It's because of the tipping. If a suite comes to $800 a day, are you supposed to tip ten per cent? Eighty dollars a day in tips? No, I'll probably never be back."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. Curvy actress Edy Williams writes from Rome that she's "very much in love" with actor Richard Johnson. "He makes me feel very feminine — that's very important for a sex symbol!"

Pennsylvania's Gov. Milton Shapp says he'll enter some of his own compositions in the "American Festival of Song Writing Contest." Henry Youngman'll do a TV symposium with Milton Berle on "What makes people laugh."

"The Luv Machine" (Tony Messina) opened impressively at the Playboy Club, where he kidded the idea that a tall, handsome singer can seduce with song. Gus Christy, a brash and funny comic, spotted a group of four men with no girls, and cracked, "What happened, fellas — computer dating made a mistake?" He looked at a woman's ring and announced, "Look, it even has a place to put a diamond some day!"

Show Biz Quiz: Who first played the title role in "The Life of Riley" on TV? Ans. to Friday's: Michael Landon. Dan Blocker and Pernel Roberts played Loren Green's sons on "Bonanza." Duke Ellington's son Mercer, now conducting his father's band, will record some never-before-published songs by Duke. I'D RATHER BE LIGHT TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Peter Cook of "Good Evening" described the champagne at a party he attended: "It shouldn't even be used to launch ships." WISH I'D SAID THAT: Someone called a girl a blonde. "She has been a blonde, she has been a redhead." REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Today's dollar doesn't go very far — just beyond reach." EARL'S PEARLS: Dozens of contestants have gathered in Manila for the Miss Universe contest, every one of them wondering who's going to take second prize. "I've been feeling so miserable lately," says Bob Orben glumly. "If I saw my name in the obituary column, I'd believe it. That's earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

Under Twenty

By KURT LASSEN It is a peaceful, quiet experience to spend time with John McLaughlin. That is because John is a gentle man whose face literally glows when he speaks about his music and his life. The two, to him, are inseparable.

John McLaughlin prefers to be called "Mahavishnu" which, he explains, means "Great Transformer." "It is a name given to me by my Guru, Sri Chinmoy, who has changed my life completely."

Mahavishnu's story doesn't begin there, although to talk to him one gets the impression he thinks it does.

"I was born in Yorkshire, England, and studied the violin and piano from the time I was seven and switched over to the guitar when I was 11 and listening to American blues recordings. When I was 14 I got interested in jazz," he told us.

Neither of these was to be his musical lot in the Sixties, however. It was a generation of rock. He played with the Graham Bond Organization and in 1969 made his first album.

His demand as a guitarist soared and he was sought by all the prestigious groups. Mahavishnu's reputation spread to the United States where, in 1970, drummer Tony Williams heard a tape of McLaughlin and invited him to come to New York to join his band.

"I was here the next day," he recounts, "and the next day Miles Davis asked me to play on a record date scheduled for the following day."

Within a week John McLaughlin had become the most talked-about "new" guitarist in New York. Said Davis of him, "He's the one. He has the knowledge; you might hear anything. He plays out of his environment and then goes to his knowledge."

Tri-State Seniors Tournament To Begin Tuesday

By PAUL SIMS
Whoever wins this thing is going to have to beat Harold DeLong," said Bud McKinney of Dallas, one of the favorites in the 40th annual Tri-State Seniors Golf Tournament, which opens with the qualifying round Tuesday at the Pampa Country Club.

McKinney, 65, and Web Wilder, 63, of San Antonio will be the oldest favorites in the tournament. But, according to McKinney, DeLong, who is only 58, is the clear-cut favorite. Those three players—and several others in the field of 175 seniors arrived in Pampa Sunday for this morning's registration and practice round. Several of the players, including McKinney and Wilder, also practiced Sunday.

"The course looks nice, it's in good shape. I shot a 74 yesterday and I think Web shot a 74, too," said McKinney. "It'll be par 71 or one over that wins it in the medal round (Friday) that winds it," added McKinney, who was co-runnerup with Mark Smith of Brownwood in last year's Tri-State Seniors.

DeLong won last year with a 70 in the medal round. Smith and McKinney shot 73's and were followed by Eddie Smith of Tishomingo, Okla., 74; C.L. Duniven of Amarillo, 74; Raymond Marshall of Lubbock, 75; Lew Lacy of Oklahoma City, 77, and Ed Rogers of Fort Worth, 79.

"I just about had it won last year," added McKinney. "I was winning by two shots and I shanked the ball on number 16 into the lake. In 22 months I've had 107 shanks. You know, I never shanked the ball up until 22 months ago."

DeLong, who is a retired mail carrier from Shawnee, Okla., won the tournament in 1972 and finished fifth in 1973. Those years and 1974 are the only times he has played in the Tri-State Seniors since a player must be 55 to compete in any seniors event.

DeLong, "not playing a lot since I've been retired", participated in the Florida Seniors this year and lost in the second round to Tom Draper, a nationally-recognized player from Michigan.

A 250-yard driver, DeLong likes the Tri-State tournament. "It's a prestigious tournament; it gets pretty good coverage in golf magazines."

"I haven't been playing a lot because I wasn't feeling good. But now I'm feeling better. I got me a new doctor." So DeLong anticipates that he will be playing with more frequency in the days to come.

Wilder was unable to play in the tournament a year ago because he suffered a heart attack shortly before play's start and, as a result, was laid up in Highland General. But "The Kid From San Antonio" is healthy again and will be one of the leading contenders in championship flight play.

Duniven, Marshall and Lacy will be three others to watch in the championship flight. Carroll Weaver of Sinton (Tex.) and Paul Cooley of Oklahoma City did not play last year but are in town today and will be strong competitors for the championship. Cooley is a two handicapper and a member of the Oklahoma City Senior Golf Association.

Odus Mitchell, former Pampa High football coach, and two "old-timers", Frank Bailey of Abilene and Roy Allen of Oklahoma City, will be drawing a great deal of crowd interest. Bailey is 85 and has matched or beaten his age 1,453 times. Allen, 83, was the oldest entrant a year ago and shot a 79 before having to return to Oklahoma City on a freed.

Today's schedule includes a golf clinic by Pampa Country Club pro Hart Warren at 8 p.m. and a hospitality hour at the club at 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday, qualifying begins at 8 a.m. Players may start at either 8 a.m. or 12 noon. Also Tuesday, the Tri-State Team championship will be decided and a putting contest will be held for seniors' wives at 10 a.m. The team title goes to the low team (either Texas, Oklahoma or New Mexico) in the qualifying round. Bigo for wives at 2 p.m. and a senior banquet at 7:30 p.m. round out Tuesday's agenda.

Wednesday, match play begins for all flights in the morning. There will be rounds of match play (Wednesday and Thursday) and survivors play medal play Friday for the championships in respective flights. A brunch for wives at 10 a.m., a bridge party at 12 noon, a seniors' putting contest at 7 p.m. and a hamburger buffet at 7:30 p.m. round out Wednesday's activities at the club.

Thursday, there will be the second round of match play, a luncheon for wives at 12 noon and a board of directors (TSS Golf Association) meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Coronado Inn.

Friday, all flights will play medal play. A lame duck tournament will be held in conjunction with the regular competition.

Haynie Wins 1st

LA GRANGE, III. (UPI) — "Unbelievable," Sandra Haynie said after capturing the $40,000 U.S. Women's Open with a seven-over-par score of 295.

"The putter that failed me all week came through. I couldn't believe it. I've always played my poorest in the Open," she said.

It took birdies on the last two holes with stellar putting to carry her to the win.

The 31-year-old Dallas, Tex., golfer "felt it was all over for me" when she double bogeyed the 16th hole at the 6,266-yard La Grange Country Club Sunday with a six, leaving her nine over par and trailing favorite JoAnne Carner by one stroke with two holes to play.

On the 17th, after her partner, Sandra Spuzich, hit a six iron past the pin on the 154-yard hole, Miss Haynie used a five iron and went far to the back of the green.

While that putt was rolling, Mrs. Carner posted the same double bogey on the 16th, and Miss Haynie, though she didn't know it, moved ahead of both Mrs. Carner, the 1971 Open champion, and Carol Mann, the 1965 champion, with her 70-foot try.

She was eight over par. Miss Mann nine over and Mrs. Carner 10 over.

The victory paid $6,073.75, boosting Miss Haynie's earnings this year to $51,009.59, fourth highest on the LPGA tour. It was her 32nd tournament win, her third this year, and it came after an erratic round for each of the leaders.

Only three of the 54 players on the final day were under par with Bonnie Bryant shooting a course record 67, tying the best open record ever, and moving her into a 14th place tie at 303 to earn $998.75.

Beth Stotes shot a 71, one under par, to tie Miss Mann for second place at 296, each earning $2,573.75. Kathy Whitworth also shot 71 to tie Mrs. Carner at 297 and earn $1,623.75 each.

The third-round leader, Ruth Jessen, shot an 81 to tie for ninth and $1,273.75. Mrs. Carner had a 77, Miss Spuzich an 82, and Miss Mann a 75.

"I figured I had a 60-40 chance of making it if I had the speed," Karl said. "The speed was there."

Pitching Strong For All-Star Tilt

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Gaylord Perry will head a well-rested American League pitching staff Tuesday night as it attempts to crack the National League's domination of the All-Star game.

"Following a directive of new American League resident Lee MacPhail, the AL managers didn't start any of the All-Star pitchers Sunday so they'll all be well-rested for the midsummer classic.

By contrast, two of the NL pitchers, Buzz Capra and Steve Rogers, started Sunday although neither worked an entire game. Andy Messersmith of Los Angeles was expected to start against Perry.

The managers, Dick Williams of the American League and Yogi Berra of the National, make their choices official today.

Perry, the Cleveland righthander who hasn't worked since last Thursday and has a 15-3 record, is likely to go the first three innings, with Jim Hunter of Oakland, Luis Tiant of Boston, Steve Busby of Kansas City, Mike Cuellar of Baltimore and Wilbur Wood of Chicago behind him.

The two relievers on the American League staff, John Hiller of Detroit and Rollie Fingers of Oakland, pitched Sunday but will have no trouble coming back in the late innings Tuesday.

MacPhail issued his directive because the National League has won 11 out of the last 12 games and has a 25-18-1 edge in the series.

Even though Rogers and Capra worked Sunday, Berra still has several well-rested pitchers to call on.

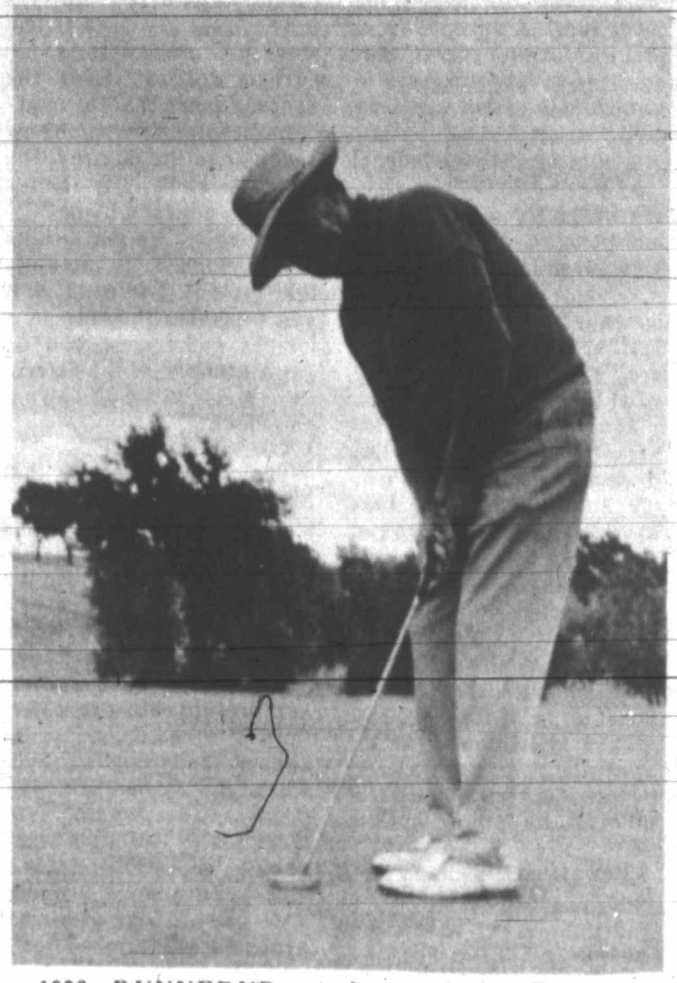

Messersmith, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis haven't pitched since Thursday, while Pittsburgh's Ken Brett and New York's Jon Matlack haven't worked since Friday. That means that Rogers and Capra, who pitched Sunday, are unlikely to see action.

Los Angeles relief specialist Mike Marshall worked Sunday, of course, but he likes to pitch everyday and he'll be ready.

There was a last-minute change on the AL team because reserve third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland is injured. Don Money was named to replace him.

The Nationals' starters, chosen in the voting of the fans, will be catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati, first baseman Steve Garvey of the Dodgers, second baseman Joe Morgan of the Reds, shortstop Larry Bowa of Philadelphia and outfielders Hank Aaron of Atlanta, Pete Rose of the Reds and Jimmy Wynn of the Dodgers.

The Americans' starting lineup will consist of first baseman Dick Allen of Chicago, second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, shortstop Bert Campaneris of Oakland, third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore Orioles and outfielders Reggie Jackson of the A's, Bobby Murcer of New York and Jeff Burroughs of Texas.

1973 RUNNERUP — Last year's Tri-State Seniors runnerup was Mark Smith of Brownwood, who finished behind Harold DeLong of Shawnee, Okla. Both are in town today for the 40th Tri-State Seniors, which starts Tuesday with the qualifying round.

Chisox Bump Off Milwaukee By 6-2

United Press International
American Leaguers who believe in the law of averages — and 99.4 per cent do — figure the man to bet on in Tuesday night's All-Star game with the National League is Dick Allen.

Their thinking is simply, "how long can you keep a good man down?" And they point to an intriguing set of statistics.

Would you believe that a star of Allen's stature hasn't made a hit in an All-Star game since 1967 and that his batting average for five All-Star appearances is .143? Allen's All-Star performance shows two hits in 14 at-bats — one homer and one RBI — both of the latter when he represented the National League in 1967.

But the Chicago White Sox' star is going into this game on what amounts to a season-long streak during which he has batted .302, hit 26 homers and driven in 70 runs. He leads the major leagues in homers and ranks second in the AL in RBI.

Allen hit his 26th homer, a two-run shot, and had two doubles Sunday when the White Sox stretched their winning streak to an AL season-high seven games by beating the Milwaukee Brewers, 6-2, in the first game of a double-header.

The White Sox carried a 3-0 lead into the ninth inning of the second game behind Stan Bahnsen's one-hit pitching, but the Brewers rallied for five runs and won the game, 5-3, on designated hitter Deron Johnson's grand slam homer off reliever Terry Forster. The White Sox thus finished the day five games behind the first-place Oakland A's in the AL West.

The A's defeated the Cleveland, 6-3; New York shaded the Kansas City, 5-4; California beat Baltimore, 6-4; Minnesota downed Detroit, 10-7, and Texas edged Boston, 2-1, in other AL games.

National League results were St. Louis 9 Houston 1, San Diego 7 New York 3, Philadelphia 2 Los Angeles 1, Cincinnati 8 Chicago 2, Pittsburgh 6 Atlanta 2 and San Francisco over Montreal, 4-0 and 2-0.

Karl Captures Title

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (UPI) — Only in a comic strip, where reality takes a backseat to the colorful world of make-believe, do you find the kind of ending that brings tears of joy to an entire community.

But there was nothing unreal about the setting that was created here Sunday when local boy Richie Karl found himself involved in a sudden-death playoff with golfing giant Bruce Crampton for the top prize in the $150,000 B.C. Open.

The playoff began after Crampton, a 38-year-old Australian with more than a million dollars in career earnings, and Karl, a 29-year-old assistant pro at the host EnJoie Golf Club, both finished 72 holes at 11-under-par 273.

Crampton tapped in a one-foot par putt on the first extra hole, but then Karl touched off a citywide celebration when he rolled in a 35-foot putt for a birdie and the victory.

The $30,000 first prize was more money than he had earned in four years on the tour as he became the first home club pro to win an event since Earl Stewart captured the 1961 Dallas Open. Crampton settled for $17,100.

"I figured I had a 60-40 chance of making it if I had the speed," Karl said. "The speed was there."

TEXAS FOOTBALL '74

Aggie Gridders Young, Experienced Says Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — We at Texas A&M are looking forward to the 1974 football season with great anticipation and enthusiasm.

While we're still a relatively young team, we'll be a lot more mature and experienced, not only among our starters but also the back-up people.

This will be the first year since we've been here that we'll have a squad that you would normally associate with collegiate football. We don't have a large senior class, numerically, but we have got at least 10 solid senior football players. We have strong junior and sophomore classes and we feel like we have a good freshman class coming in.

Our defensive unit should be solid. All 11 starters return and during the spring we developed some solid quality depth behind them. Last year we led the Southwest Conference in total defense, were first in pass defense and second in rushing defense.

No question about it, linebacker Ed Simonini is our defensive leader and is a bonafide all-American candidate. Our front four is two deep in solid players with ends Don Long and Paul Hulin and tackles Warren Trahan and Ted Lamp forming the first unit.

Simonini, Ken Stratton and Garth Ten-Napel finished spring training as the first set of linebackers, but there is a host of good performers challenging them. Tim Gray and Pat Thomas could become one of the very best pair of cornerbacks in the country. James Daniels and Jackie Williams should be improved safeties.

Our offense should be improved in view of the fact that eight sophomores, two freshmen and one junior started last year and 10 of them return.

Last year A&M had the seventh-best rushing team and 10th-best total offensive club ever in the Southwest Conference. A year's experience of playing together should make it even better in 1974.

Sophomore David Walker, who started the last six games as a freshman last year, made improving strides as a quarterback in spring practice. Another sophomore — David Shipman — is coming off a knee operation and should develop rapidly this fall.

The third man is junior Mike Jay, the starter for the first five games last year.

We don't have a lot of depth among our running backs but we do have four quality players with experience. Halfbacks Skip Walker and Bubba Bean and fullback Bucky Sams likely will start but Ronnie Hubby, whom we consider first-team also, can play either halfback slot or fullback. All four will be juniors.

The only senior in the line is center Ricky Seeker, who could win conference and national honors.

Mathews Fired As Brave Head

ATLANTA (UPI) — Eddie Mathews, long teamed with Hank Aaron to form one of the most-feared home-run duos in baseball history, has been fired as manager of the Atlanta Braves.

Mathews' two-year tenure ended Sunday when Braves Vice President Eddie Robinson made the surprise announcement just after the Pittsburgh Pirates swept a four-game series here.

"After long and careful consideration and in-depth analysis of our team this year, I've reluctantly come to the conclusion that a change in managers has to be made," said Robinson.

Robinson added that the Braves' new manager will be named during the All-Star break, probably Wednesday. He indicated the job, "on an interim basis until the end of the season," will go either to former San Francisco Manager Clyde King, now a Braves special assistant, or Clint Courtney, manager of the Braves AAA International League farm team at Richmond, Va.

Mathews, 43, played third base for the Braves — in Boston, Milwaukee and Atlanta — for 15 seasons, from 1952 through 1966.

In 13 of those seasons, from 1954 until he was traded to Houston after the '66 campaign, Mathews combined with Aaron to hit more home runs, 863, than any other two players — including Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig — have hit white teammates.

Mathews, who wound up with 512 career homers, returned to the Braves as a coach under Luman Harris in 1971 and replaced Harris as manager in August, 1972.

The Braves got off to a slow, 14-19, start this season, then played over 700 ball from mid-May until late June before going into another skid. Sunday's 6-2 loss to Pittsburgh made the Braves' record 50-49 and left them in fourth place.

Inflation Versus Nutrition

As lawmakers go, U.S. Senator Alan Cranston is rather scrawny. And that is by design. A former track star, the Senator keeps in shape. As a result, his girth is admirably slender. We bring the point up because it seems to be vaguely pertinent to Mr. Cranston's latest re-election topic. He says that inflation threatens to bring on a nutrition crisis in the United States. What we mean to point out is, some of us look better fed than the Senator. Of course, on the other hand, we must be aware that nutrition amounts to more than mere poundage. With that reminder, we will take a more serious look at what the man says. He said a national nutrition policy study by 26 experts concluded that federal food - assistance programs "are failing to reach enormous numbers of impoverished persons."

OUTRIDER Moral Quandaries On Trial

WASHINGTON — Arguments in the Ehrlichman trial ended in a spectacular way, with a gun siege down in the cell block and a series of brilliant key arguments by the lawyers for Messrs. Liddy, Barker, and Martinez. After sending the spectators out of his court, Judge Gessel conferred with marshals on what to do about Liddy — who could not be sent back into the endangered part of the cell block — and then congratulated counsel on the high professional level of their arguments. It was a day for the forgotten men of this trial. Lawyer Peter Maroulis argued that his client, Gordon Liddy, was guilty of nothing more than a mistake of fact in supposing that the break-in at Dr. Fielding's office was authorized from above. And Daniel Schultz, easily the most eloquent of all the lawyers in the room, argued that Barker and Martinez were the victims of a cruel hoax practiced on them by E. Howard Hunt. Mr. Schultz admitted that ignorance of the law is no defense, yet went on to make an argument that won most people's sympathies — perhaps even those of the judge. He painted the picture of men who had "lived at the bottom rung of the intelligence and counterintelligence world."

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

How do I know you're really with the Democratic National Committee?

INSIDE LABOR Unions Bigger Than Crooner

By VICTOR RIESEL NEW YORK — I'm sorry Frankie blew his wig in Australia. I've always pitied Sinatra. He was a good newspaper copy boy but turned to crooning. He was a ukelele - picking street singer in dockside Hoboken (N.J.) and became a star. And he's been running since — not so much from us newsmen but from the shadows of the combine: the late mass killer Lucky Luciano; the dead Profaci, a real don of dons in Brooklyn; the bullet-in-the-head vegetable Joe Colombo, Sr.; the self-exiled Chicago syndicate boss Sam (Momo) Giancana; the old Atlantic City hoods and so, so many others. Frankie is a "moneymaker" in their lingo, and never will they cease haunting him. Frankie never should have lost his cool. And as chairman of the Freedom of the Press Committee of the Overseas Press Club, I do protest the snarling venom he spat at the Aussie press. But this isn't a psyche probe into whether Frankie Sinatra fears most his receding hairline or the hoodlums. Scatological though he was in his blarney on newspaper and tube "journalists," there's a far more important story buried in the Melbourne confrontation. There's a major principle here, wrapped up in what his attorney, Milton Rudin, said after Sinatra was virtually locked in his hotel room by Australian labor leaders. We are astounded that the decision of a few union leaders can apparently deprive a man of his living, can stop him leaving a county, or possible even stop him being fed. "I've never seen a man so afraid of a union as you are," said the Australian Council of Trade Unions (similar to the AFL-CIO), announced that Sinatra would "never get out of the country." And Richard Hill, head of the Melbourne Theatrical Employees Union, ordered his members to strike against Sinatra and thus prevent the singer from fulfilling four remaining concert dates down under. And Mark Windru, chief of the Melbourne Transport Workers Union, directed his followers not to refuel or load Sinatra's private jet plane unless the "Rat Pack" leader apologized to the Australian press. Further, the service employees at the Southern Cross Hotel, members of the hotel local there, were told not to serve Sinatra with food and drink nor to clean his suite. Finally, Jim North, secretary (leader) of the New South Wales Division, Australian Journalists Association, angrily announced that "if Sinatra doesn't apologize to the media I will call on 114 affiliated unions and ask them to blackball Sinatra unless he apologizes for calling our women journalists whores."

Question Box

QUESTION: What business is it of the National Council of Churches to demand the ouster of President Nixon? Is not a church organization violating the principle of separation of church and state by taking such official action? ANSWER: The National Council of Churches long since has abandoned the idea of keeping church and state separate. However, to be fair, the action was taken by the governing board of NCC and not by the membership. It is the leadership of the NCC which has abandoned the idea of separation of church and state. A perusal of the political actionist type resolutions which are put forth in the name of the big conglomerate of protestant churches clearly demonstrates the attempt by the people leading the group to get political action to achieve the aims of the organization. That the aims many times are desirable is beside the point. The point is that when churches abandon the idea of working toward their own ends, moving into politics, they soon become no more than political actionists. When churches forget to handle their own charity problems, instead turning them over to vote seeking politicians, they are abandoning charity in favor of coercion. When they seek tax money to finance their own endeavors instead of raising funds voluntarily they abandon Christian principles. An when they jump into a political fight such as the current fiasco in Washington they are in the same category as any other political pressure group, such as a labor union, or some employer or trade group organized for the purpose of exerting political pressure. Whether Mr. Nixon should be removed from office is beside the point. The church organization should stay completely out of it. It has a right to try to save an individual soul; it is outside its sphere or authority to jump into a political fight. History has shown that the people of a nation have little chance for liberty when government joins with the church. Churches should deal at arm's length with anything political.

Potomac Fever

By JACK POSNER Planners of the Ellsberg break - in decided not to celebrate the second anniversary of Watergate in Judge Siricas' chambers. Egypt will send us treasures from the tomb of King Tutankhamen for exhibition. We could reciprocate by sending some ancient bills from the Senate pigeonholes. Nixon, Kissinger and Haig were subpoenaed as witnesses for Ehrlichman. That's like getting General Motors to testify for Ralph Nadar. Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) turned over to the State Department an 8-carat gift diamond from Congo President Mobutu. The only gifts he can keep are from ITT and the milk lobby. Sen. Baker got $34,350 and Sen. Ervin $27,900 for speaker fees. Who said crime doesn't pay? The reason Kissinger travels so much is that he's afraid he might be considered guilty by associating with White House suspects.

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE Televising Congress?

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER Pressures are on the increase to permit the televising of actual sessions of the Senate and House of Representatives. In part, of course, this is due to the possibility that the Senate, may one day before long, find itself deliberating the removal of the President of the United States. But those who favor televising Congressional sessions are not talking about just that particular extravaganza; they want to televise Congress year in, year out. I think it is an exceptionally bad idea, based on a whole series of untested assumptions. Of course, meetings of particular committees of the House and Senate have been televised for years. Among the more memorable were the sessions of the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1948 at which Whittaker Chambers identified Alger Hiss as his colleague in the Communist Party, and the 1954 hearings of the Watkins Committee into the activities of Senator Joseph McCarthy. Just a year ago, Sam Ervin was teaching us all how eloquent a white eyebrow can be. But all of these were special grandstand plays, carefully stage-managed for maximum PR effect. To undertake to televise the sessions of the House and Senate in full would be a task of a far larger, and very different, order. Congress is a busy place, and has evolved a way of handling its business with as much dispatch as circumstances permit. Any bill introduced is first referred to a committee in charge of that particular subject-matter. Ordinarily the committee will hold hearings on the bill, at which every conceivable point of view is heard. At this stage too, lobbyists will be heard, representing groups particularly interested, one way or the other, in the fate of the bill. Finally, if the committee reports the bill to the full House (or Senate, as the case may be), there will be a definitive vote on it. As a result, most actual sessions of the House and Senate are downright somnolent affairs, with nothing much going on and comparatively few members in attendance. Only when a vote is imminent do the members scurry to the floor. Otherwise they can be found in one of those numerous committee meetings, or pressing the flesh of visiting constituents.

Potomac Fever

By JACK POSNER Sen. Buckley didn't say Nixon was guilty — he just wants him to leave the scene of a crime. Since Ford has become his "own man," he's as popular at the White House as Archibald Cox. On the contrary, I think it is a step directly away from both rationality and democracy. Our legislators must keep their finger on the pulse of public opinion — and you can be sure that, for the sake of their own hides, they do. But that does not mean the ultimate moments of the legislative process ought to be seared with the kind of tongues of fire that simplistic television coverage would provide. A quiet, orderly, and above all unpressured atmosphere is desperately needed at that moment above all others. At present Congress' popularity is low — largely thanks, I suspect, to the TV coverage its committees have already received. We will only make matters infinitely worse, and weaken the Congress still further, by televising it as one might televise a circus. Copyright, 1974, Universal Press Syndicate

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

The age-old warning of "let the buyer beware" has a new ring when it comes to product safety, for now there are government agencies looking out for your best interests.

Emphasis was given consumer protection by the "torch sweater" incidents of the early fifties. These soft, furry, like sweaters literally exploded into flames at the drop of a cigarette ash.

Early-day flammability standards resulting from the sweater dangers have been expanded to include a growing number of articles and substances potentially dangerous to the consumer which are used in and around the home.

They may range from children's nightwear and toys to such things as carpets and rugs, stairs and landings, power tools, pool slides, aluminum wiring, baby beds, bicycles, kitchen ranges and tents used in camping. A growing list of these household or personal-use products are contained in present or future product standards.

The State Health Department is active in many areas of health and consumer protection, as well as health and safety of those involved in many occupations.

One of the biggest influences in the product safety area has been the general trend of consumer interest. Says one State Health Department official. This has been reflected by action on both state and federal legislative levels.

It brought about creation of the Federal Product Safety Commission, which is concerned with almost all activities not covered by the Food and Drug Administration or other agencies in Texas, it resulted in changes to the Hazardous Substances Act and doubtless will produce others as the state keeps pace with federal legislation.

At present, four areas are covered in federal legislation by the Federal Product Safety Commission. These are:

1. Federal Hazardous Substance Act, including child protection and toy safety.
2. Flammable Fabric Act.
3. Poison Prevention Packaging Act, and
4. Refrigerator Door Entrapment Act.

The State Health Department's efforts in this field flow through the Product Safety Division, which is divided into two parts — Bedding Sanitation and Hazardous Products.

This field is new and expanding. At present, state flammability safety standards include children's sleepwear through size 6x and other flammable household products. Children's sleepwear through sizes 14 must be in compliance by May of 1975.

On the federal level, safety standards already have been developed for toys (electric, thermal, mechanical and those with sharp edges), fireworks, packing of drugs and poisons, and old refrigerators.

If you have trouble opening the lid on an aspirin container or prescription drug it probably is a safety lid made to prevent its being opened by a child.

A federal ban on certain explosive type firecrackers was put off until after July Fourth celebrations, but the law is aimed at preventing such tragedies as one which cost a 40-year-old man his foot. A friend threw a silver salute at him and yelled the victim stepped back onto the firecracker.

The US Product Safety Commission can cite thousands of painful — sometimes fatal — incidents involving consumer products. Texas has its share. Based on nationwide emergency room treatment, the PSC estimates:

- 356,000 children and adults with injuries involving stairs, ramps and landings;
- More than 50,000 injuries associated with power lawn mowers;
- 8,400 injuries from power hedge trimmers;
- More than 20,000 injuries involving gas and electric kitchen ranges;
- 419,000 injuries in bicycle-related accidents. These are just a part of the toll from use — or misuse of products. The State Health Department hopes that emphasis on consumer education — and consumer protection — can drastically reduce injuries and deaths.

GAY CAUCUS
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Lutherans involved in the homosexual world — either through ministry to or participation in — have formed a caucus to support the cause of homosexuals in the church.

"Lutherans Concerned for Gay People," which claims ties with homosexuals in all three of the country's largest Lutheran bodies, brings to nearly a dozen, the number of gay caucuses in various church groups.

A thought for the day: President James Monroe, author of "The Monroe Doctrine," said, "National honor is national property of the highest value."

VA Pamphlet Available

Families eligible for the Veterans Administration's Civilian Health and Medical Program (CHAMPVA) will soon be receiving in the mail a new VA pamphlet on these health benefits services for dependents and survivors, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

The just-published CHAMPVA pamphlet (VA Information Bulletin 13-6) furnishes detailed information on eligibility, medical services, and methods for filing claims. Coker said copies are available at all VA hospitals, clinics, domiciliaries, and regional offices.

at the veterans' assistance centers, nationwide, and at U.S. embassies and consulates overseas.

Request for the pamphlet should be sent to the nearest VA hospital or regional office, not to the VA Central Office in Washington, D.C.

CHAMPVA provides partial VA payment for the health care of wives and children of veterans who are 100 percent disabled from service-connected causes and for the survivors of those who died of such causes after leaving military service.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

The age-old warning of "let the buyer beware" has a new ring when it comes to product safety, for now there are government agencies looking out for your best interests. Emphasis was given consumer protection by the "torch sweater" incidents of the early fifties. These soft, furry like sweaters literally exploded into flames at the drop of a cigarette ash.

Early-day flammability standards resulting from the sweater dangers have been expanded to include a growing number of articles and substances potentially dangerous to the consumer which are used in and around the home. They may range from children's nightwear and toys to such things as carpets and rugs, stairs and landings, power tools, pool slides, aluminum wiring, baby beds, bicycles, kitchen ranges and tents used in camping. A growing list of these household or personal-use products are contained in present or future product standards.

The State Health Department is active in many areas of health and consumer protection, as well as health and safety of those involved in many occupations. One of the biggest influences in the product safety area has been the general trend of consumer interest, says one State Health Department official. This has been reflected by action on both state and federal legislative levels. It brought about creation of the Federal Product Safety Commission, which is concerned with almost all activities not covered by the Food and Drug Administration or other agencies in Texas. It resulted in changes to the Hazardous Substances Act and doubtless will produce others as the state keeps pace with federal legislation.

At present, four areas are covered in federal legislation by the Federal Product Safety Commission. These are: 1. Federal Hazardous Substance Act, including child protection and toy safety; 2. Flammable Fabric Act; 3. Poison Prevention Packaging Act; and 4. Refrigerator Door Entrapment Act. The State Health Department's efforts in this field flow through the Product Safety Division, which is divided in two parts - Bedding Sanitation and Hazardous Products. This field is new and expanding. At present, state flammability safety standards include children's sleepwear through size 6x and other flammable household products. Children's sleepwear through sizes 14 must be in compliance by May of 1975. On the federal level, safety standards already have been developed for toys (electric, thermal, mechanical and those with sharp edges), fireworks, packing of drugs and poisons, and old refrigerators.

If you have trouble opening the lid on an aspirin container or prescription drug it probably is a safety-lid made to prevent its being opened by a child. A federal ban on certain explosive type firecrackers was put off until after July Fourth celebrations, but the law is aimed at preventing such tragedies as the one which cost a 40-year-old man his foot. A friend threw a silver salute at him and yelled. The victim stepped back onto the firecracker. The US Product Safety Commission can cite thousands of painful - sometimes fatal - incidents involving consumer products. Texas has its share. Based on nationwide emergency room treatment, the PSC estimates:

- 356,000 children and adults with injuries involving stairs, ramps and landings; -More than 50,000 injuries associated with power lawn mowers; -8,400 injuries from power hedge trimmers; -More than 20,000 injuries involving gas and electric kitchen ranges; -419,000 injuries in bicycle-related accidents. These are just a part of the toll from use - or misuse of products. The State Health Department hopes that emphasis on consumer protection - and consumer education - can drastically reduce injuries and deaths.

GAY CAUCUS
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) - Lutherans involved in the homosexual world - either through ministry to or participation in - have formed a caucus to support the cause of homosexuals in the church. "Lutherans Concerned for Gay People," which claims ties with homosexuals in all three of the country's largest Lutheran bodies, brings to nearly a dozen, the number of gay caucuses in various church groups.

A thought for the day: President James Monroe, author of "The Monroe Doctrine," said, "National honor is national property of the highest value."

GOOD EXERCISE

LA FERRE, FRANCE
(UPI) - French army Brig. Albert Bonaventure ran 72 miles from the village of Suipes to his artillery regiment's headquarters here in 11 hours 30 minutes. En route he ate two normal military ration meals, two hard-boiled eggs, a sausage, 50 sugar lumps and two pouds of oranges. He didn't say why he made the run.
