Good Evening!

STATE

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would outlaw ticket scalping has again been proposed in the Legislature.

The measure by Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, would prohibit the resale of event tickets for a price higher than that offered to the general public by the event sponsor.

Scalping would be a Class B misdemeanor under the bill. Punishment would include community service for first offenses and fines or a jail term after that.

"Community events such as the Houston and San Antonio livestock shows are out of reach economically for some families because of ticket scalping," Brown said.

"It takes the tickets away from the public we are trying to sell to," said Keith Martin, of the San Antonio Livestock Show and Rodeo. "We want the families to be able to enjoy the show at a very reasonable and fair price."

NATIONAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has seized tens of thousands of bottles of "Rio" hair relaxer products after deciding they can cause severe hair loss or turn hair green.

The FDA last month warned consumers not to use "Rio Hair Naturalizer Systems," a product imported from Brazil and sold through television infomercials by World Rio Corp. of Los Angeles.

While the company said it had stopped selling the products, the FDA received reports that it continued to take orders and bill consumers. Meanwhile, the agency received more than 1,800 reports of people claiming the products caused everything from severe scalp irritation and hair loss to green hair.

So Monday, U.S. marshals in Los Angeles seized tens of thousands of Rio bottles from a packaging center, and the California Department of Health has placed an embargo against future imports.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If some blue ladies don't get red roses on Valentine's Day this year, they can blame California's gloomy weather.

More than half the nation's commercial roses grow in greenhouses south of San Francisco in an area hit by a relentless string of Pacific storms.

Experts say it's the lack of sun — not the rain and accompanying floods — that has hurt the flowers.

"The fog and the gloomy days prevent the roses from blooming properly," said Jack Olsen of the San Mateo County Farm Bureau. "We need sunny days and, basically, this year we've had none."

WORLD

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Five gunmen used jeeps to knock down the doors of an armored car company, then escaped with up to $6.3 million in cash.

The robbers overpowered the staff of the Brinks Allied depot during the 10-minute raid Tuesday night, police said. They said the gunmen fired shots but no one was hurt.

They attacked shortly after 70 sacks of cash, collected from banks around Ireland, were delivered under army guard.

Driving across fields and ditches, the robbers at one point used railroad ties to cross a deep stream. They approached the depot from the rear and smashed through two fences before ramming the heavy inner doors.

City joins in opposing minnow listing

By CHERYL BERZANSKIS
News Editor

Pampa city commissioners Tuesday joined other Texans in voicing opposition to an endangered species listing for a minnow because officials believe such a designation may impact use of surface and ground water in the region.

The panel unanimously passed a resolution in opposition to a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service proposal to name the Arkansas river shiner to the endangered species list.

Director of Public Works Richard Morris is to represent the city at the public hearing on the proposal today in Amarillo, City Manager Bob Eskridge told commissioners.

"I think one of the biggest problems is nobody knows what (a listing) will do," he said.

The resolution signed by commissioners says there is no evidence to support the contention the fish's population has declined in the Canadian River and no evidence to support the assumption that pumpage of Ogallala Aquifer has diminished the flow of the river or affected the habitat of the shiner.

The resolution further states that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has historically proceeded from a designation of endangered species to promulgate stringent rules which limit land and water use in the area of the critical habitat designation and therefore could devastate the economy of the High Plains and could impair the water supply of the cities and towns and therefore the quality of life and possibilities for growth.

David M. Griffith and Associates, Dallas, were hired to develop a schedule of tipping fees for the city to charge area landfill customers for use of the proposed landfill now in the permitting process. Bob McLain of the company told commissioners his firm will develop best and worst case cost of operation projections for the next few years. The study will take about 12 weeks to complete and will include conferences with user cities.

Commissioner Jeff Andrews noted the landfill permitting process required by Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission has taken three or four years and $730,000 and is still not complete. Eskridge estimates the new pit will cost $1 million to open. A Panhandle Regional Planning Commission study pointed out Pampa as a good regional landfill site, the manager said.

The old landfill is permitted to last another two years, Eskridge said. The two largest users are Berger and Pampa with nine other towns dumping here. Total daily trash intake ranges from 180 to 200 tons, he said.

In other business, commissioners:

- Agreed to renew a modified agreement with Parker and Parsley for the sale of raw water at $1 per 1,000 gallons with a 100,000 gallon minimum. All usage over 100,000 gallons per month will cost the company $.50 per thousand gallons except in the event of a leak, the price will be $0.23.
- Agreed to accept bids on delinquent tax properties at 318 W. Thut and 638 S. Somerville.
- Approved November 1994 bills of $366,101.52
- Approved December 1994 bills of $266,807.98.
- Agreed to host the Texas Municipal League's July meeting.

A 30-minute executive session yielded no action on a discussion of the Wilkinson and Fortner vs. City of Pampa lawsuit settlement.

Gingrich pledges a 'fair hearing' for President Clinton's proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Newt Gingrich today pledged a "fair hearing" for the proposals in President Clinton's State of the Union address. But Senate Majority leader Bob Dole said the White House is "going to run into reality fairly quickly" with the GOP majority in Congress.

"Everything in there will be looked at," Gingrich told reporters on the morning after Clinton's address, "even things we disagree with."

Majority Republicans oppose Clinton's call for a minimum wage increase, differ on taxes, welfare reform and other key issues. But, Gingrich said, "it's only fair to the president of the United States to give him a fair hearing."

In a lengthy State of the Union address Tuesday night, Clinton offered few new initiatives but appealed to political opponents to join him in seeking "dramatic change in our economy, in our government and in ourselves."

"We want to work together where we can," Dole said today. "In other areas, we'll just have to battle it out. That's the way it's always been."

The GOP was beginning debate today on the House floor on a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, centerpiece of the "Contract with America" that powered their election sweep.

Strikingly, Clinton spoke neither for nor against that proposal in his address to Congress, even though his opposition helped defeat the amendment a year ago.

In his 80-minute address, Clinton urged a national campaign to combat teen pregnancy. To cut down on illegal immigration, he proposed creation of a national data bank to help employers verify the identification of prospective workers. He called on Congress to stop accepting gifts from lobbyists.

Today, Clinton and a number of administration officials were fanning out across the nation to carry his message that government can do good, providing for immunizations for children; Head Start; clean water and clear air among them.

New Jersey Gov. Christie Whitman, the tax-cutting chief executive tapped by Republicans to deliver an outside-the-beltway rebuttal to Clinton's State of the Union address Tuesday night, pointed back to last November.

"In elections all across America, the voters have chosen smaller government, lower taxes and less spending," said Whitman.

Clinton's speech marked the first time since Harry Truman's tenure that a Democratic president delivered a State of the Union address before a Republican-controlled Congress, and aides said they hoped it would reinvigorate a presidency battered by the midterm elections.

"Let's change the way government works," the president said. "Let's make it smaller, less costly and smarter — leaner, not meaner."

But silences often greeted Clinton from the GOP. At one point, Republicans even booed. About 20 of them left as Clinton went on and on for an hour and 20 minutes.

"Now the hard part comes, working with the new Congress," Dole said this morning. "He's going to run into reality fairly quickly. ... I think the realization is, now that the speech is made, he must deal with the Republican Congress and we have a different mandate. ..."

Republican Sen. Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania said the partisan reaction foreshadowed "a tough year ahead."

"One party was doing the applauding and the other party was sitting on its hands," he said. "I didn't like the atmosphere."

Clinton blended calls for bipartisanship with a pledge to veto any effort to reverse last year's gun control legislation. "I will not let that be repealed," he said to Democratic applause.

With Republicans pledging to pass tax cuts, Clinton laid out his condition for signing them: "Will it build the middle class and shrink the underclass? Is it paid for? ..."

"And I will oppose any attempt to pay for tax cuts with Medicare cuts," he said.

When Clinton called for a line item veto — enhancing his ability to cut spending — Gingrich led the Republicans in vigorous applause.

When Clinton called for a hike in the minimum wage, the speaker and other Republicans sat in silence while the Democrats applauded approvingly.

"By the end of the week, 28 days into the new year, each congressman has already earned as much in congressional salary as people who work under minimum wage make in an entire year," the president said in a populist appeal for the proposal.

He touched on government reform, as well, challenging lawmakers to stop accepting gifts from lobbyists, and then to follow up by approving reform legislation that would place the prohibition into law.

Greenspan warns against increases in federal deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan today warned a president and Congress intent on cutting taxes not to balloon the federal budget deficit and risk igniting inflation and soaring interest rates.

Greenspan also said that a remarkably strong economy is growing too rapidly, a possible signal the Federal Reserve soon will raise interest rates for the seventh time in the past year.

Testifying before the Senate Finance Committee a day after President Clinton stressed tax relief in his State of the Union message, Greenspan said the nation must be vigilant against widening the deficit.

"History is replete with examples of fiscal pressures leading to monetary excesses and then to greater inflation," Greenspan said.

"The actions of the Congress and the administration in the fiscal sphere will also be important in maintaining public confidence that inflation will be subdued," Greenspan said.

Both the president and the new Republican-controlled Congress are giving high priority to a middle-class tax cut, a potential bidding war that economists say risks higher deficits unless cuts are matched by reduced spending.

Private economists said Greenspan's comments on the strong state of the economy sounded like he was setting the stage for another increase in interest rates.

"While he isn't going to commit himself, once again he has opened himself to further action," said economist Robert Dederick of the Northern Trust Co. in Chicago.

"The basic message is... if we keep going the way we are, inflation will be there."

Greenspan said the economy grew at a rate of about 4 percent last year, the best performance in a decade. But he said that kind of expansion is too strong to keep inflation at bay.

"I see it as crucial that we extend the recent trend of low and, hopefully, declining inflation in the years ahead," he said. "The prospects in this regard are fundamentally good, but there are reasons for some concern, at least with respect to the nearer term."

"For the Congress, a crucial focus should be continuing the process of fiscal consolidation and rectifying the secular shortfall in domestic saving that is limiting the growth of our nation's productive potential," Greenspan said.

The Federal Reserve's key policy-setting Federal Open Market Committee meets next Tuesday and Wednesday, and analysts predict it will raise interest rates yet again.

The Fed boosted rates six times last year, pushing the prime rate and the cost of borrowing for millions of Americans up 2.5 percentage points.

Greenspan said today the moves, reversing a four-year period of stable or declining rates, appear to have been justified.

"The past year was one of remarkable progress," he said. "It appears that our policy reversal last February was timely. But we won't know for sure except in retrospect."

Mobeetie plans events for Heritage Day in July

MOBEETIE — The Old Mobeetie Texas Association has set Wheeler County Heritage Day for July 1.

This summer's Heritage Day is to celebrate the period between when Fort Elliott was established in 1875 and the date Wheeler County was organized in 1879, according to Bobbye C. Hill, first vice president of the association.

"The theme of the day will be 'How the West Was Fun: Soldiers, Sutlers, Settlers, Sinners and Saints,'" she said. "The focus will be on fort and pioneer life and, specifically, activities in which the soldiers, sutlers and settlers participated for fun and relaxation."

Early documents indicate that entertainment and social events and activities were as important to early pioneers as they are to residents of Wheeler County today, she said.

An art contest is planned for several of the special events, she said.

Artwork from last year was used for postal cancellation and other projects including T-shirts and drinking cup designs, said Louise Hogan of the association.

Panhandle historian Bob Izzard will be master of ceremonies for the celebration, Hill said.

Pioneer dress will be worn by Old Mobeetie Texas Association members and living history groups from the area.

Scheduled to participate are living history groups that represent buffalo hunters, cavalry soldiers and Indian traders. There will also be blacksmiths, stage coach rides, wagon rides, buggy rides, chuck wagons, a Cheyenne interpreter, medicine show and string bands.

Hill said food and craft vendor booths are available.

All re-enactments and living history events are free, she said.

More information is available on the association and celebration from Louise Hogan at 826-3427.

Former Pampan an award winning baker

By LARRY HOLLIS
Managing Editor

Former Pampa resident Robert C. "Bob" Grider III, now living in Jackson, Miss., showed his cooking skills by becoming an award-winning pie baker, with his apple pie recipe being named one of the 10 best pies at American state fairs by McCall's magazine.

A 1957 graduate of Pampa High School, Grider is the son of R.C. Grider of Pampa. He began to do his own cooking while attending Texas Tech University at Lubbock, where he majored in industrial management.

After graduating from Texas Tech, Grider worked with North American Aviation in California and then with NASA in Florida. Now with Deposit Guaranty Bank and Trust, he also has been vice president of For Other Real Estate.

Over the years, though, Grider has garnered praise and awards for his pies and other recipes, including gaining first place at the 1992 Mississippi State Fair for Bob's Best Deep Dish Double Crust Apple Pie. That pie was selected by McCall's as one of the 10 best pies and featured in the August 1994 issue of the magazine.

Grider said one ingredient that makes his pie unique is the Fuji apple, a new hybrid imported from New Zealand.

"It has its own unique flavor that is unlike anything I've tasted before," he said.

When Grider learned that apple was the pie designated for competition at the Mississippi State Fair, he knew that wasn't one of his specialties. When he looked through cookbooks and saw that the recipes were all about the same, he decided he needed a gimmick because part of the score in cooking contests is based on originality.

"You take a standard recipe and adapt to become your own," he said. Besides the special apples, other unique touches included adding ginger and making the pie deep-dish.

"Most people groan when they think about the work involved in making a deep-dish apple pie," Grider said. "That's why I needed to do it. The deep-dish pie is massive. When people see a large double crust creation, they're dying to see what's inside."

Grider, who does most of his cooking late at night, began developing the recipe that July and made it only once in August prior to the 1992 contest.

Because of pie competitions, Grider knew what the judges would be looking for in presentation, the way the pie sliced, whether it stuck to the pie plate and, finally, taste. For presentation, he added a wash of egg whites and water to the crust and sprinkled sugar on top. To ensure that the crust browned evenly, he placed aluminum foil strips around the edge for the first 20 minutes of baking.

Although he is proud of his now-famous pie, Grider thinks his pecan pie is his best. As for being a male contestant, he says he's outnumbered at state fairs but the ladies at the fair association are always glad to see him coming, he said, "because they know I'm up to something good."

Bob's Best Deep Dish Double Crust Apple Pie

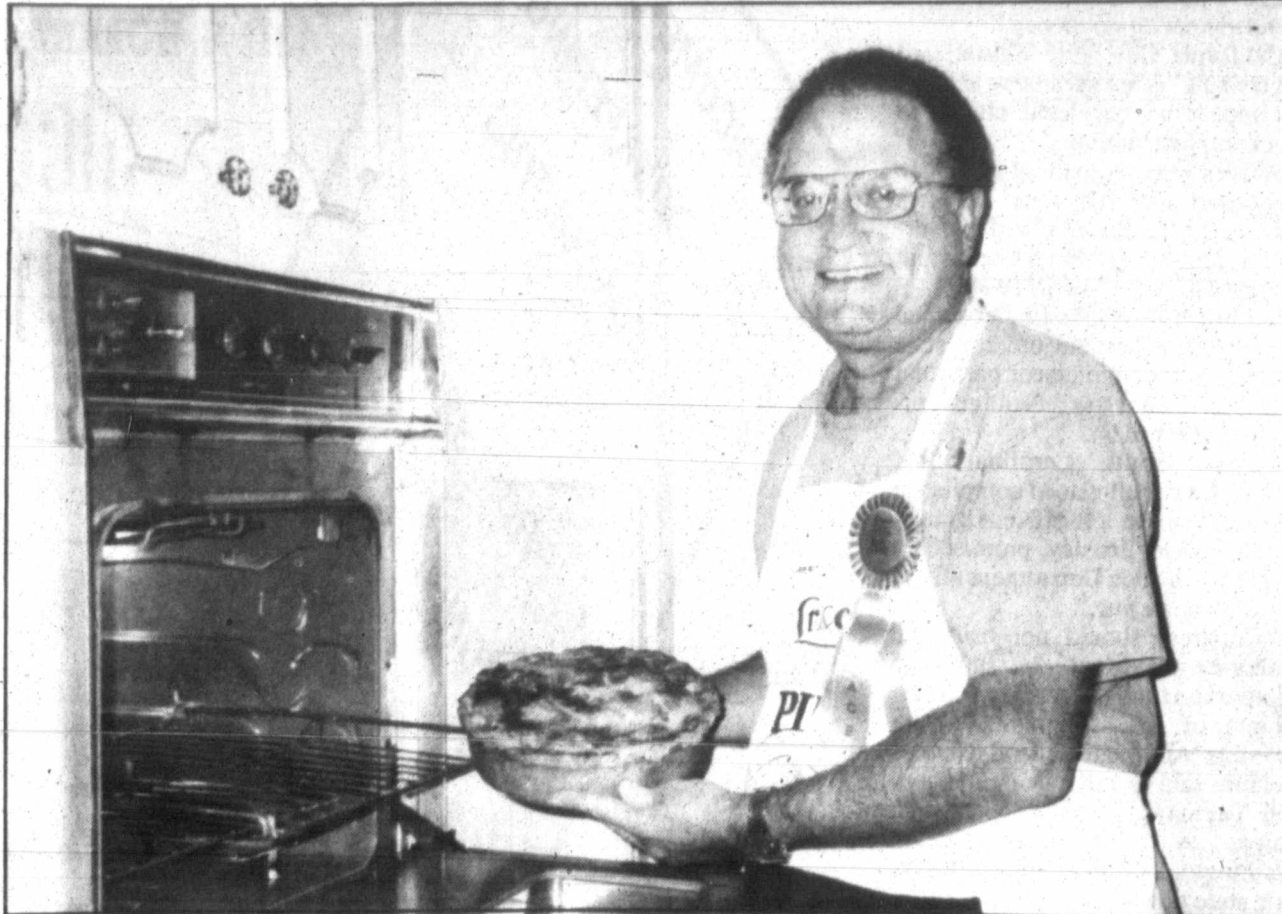

8 cups thinly sliced, peeled, cored Fuji or Gala cooking apples (3 pounds)

1 1/4 cups sugar
3 Tablespoons all-purpose flour
3/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
3/4 teaspoon ground ginger
Dash ground nutmeg
Pastry for Double Crust Pie
1 Tablespoon butter

Combine sugar, flour, cinnamon, ginger and nutmeg. Add mixture to the sliced apples, mix to coat fruit. Line a 9-inch wide pie plate (deep, not shallow) with pastry, dot with butter. Fill with mixture. Cover with top crust. Slit crust. Seal and flute edge. Brush with 1 egg white and 1 Tablespoon water. Sprinkle top with sugar. Cover edge of crust with foil. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Remove foil. Bake for 25 minutes more, or until crust is golden cool.

Crust
(Double or make two for double crust pie)

9-inch pie shell:
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup plus 1 Tablespoon Butter
Flavored Crisco
3 Tablespoons water - ice cold
Combine flour and salt. Cut in Crisco. Sprinkle water onto mixture.

Bob Grider, former Pampa resident now of Jackson, Miss., shows his Best Deep Dish Double Crust Apple Pie which was selected as one of the 10 best pies from American state fairs.

1 Tablespoon at a time. Mix lightly with a fork until all flour is moistened. Gather dough together in a ball. Roll out using more flour to keep pastry from being too sticky. Crust should be 1/16 to 1/8 inch thick. Spray pie plate with Pam or Baker's Joy. Place crust in pan, with 1/2 inch excess around rim.

Here are a couple of other recipes from Grider's kitchen:

Bob's Best Pecan Pie

3 eggs
1 cup dark corn syrup
3/4 cup sugar
2 Tablespoons melted butter
1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 1/2 cups pecans (chopped medium)

Beat eggs slightly. Mix in corn syrup, sugar, butter, vanilla, salt, cinnamon, then pecans. Pour into unbaked shell. Bake for 15 minutes at 400 degrees F., then for 45 minutes at 350 degrees. (Filling should be slightly less set in center than around edge.)

Crust

9-inch pie shell:
1 1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup plus 1 Tablespoon Crisco
3 Tablespoons water - ice cold
Combine flour and salt. Cut in Crisco. Sprinkle water onto mixture. 1 Tablespoon at a time. Mix lightly with fork until all flour is moistened. Gather dough together in a ball. Roll out using more flour to keep pastry from being too sticky. Crust should be 1/16 to 1/8 inch thick. (Spray pan with Pam or Baker's Delight.) Place in pie pan, with 1/2 inch excess around rim. Fill with mixture.

Bob's Best Chili

2 Tablespoons Crisco Oil
2 onions, diced
6 cloves garlic, diced
2 green chili peppers or 1 jalapeno peppers chopped (optional)

1 1/2 pounds ground chuck

Mix together:

1/8 teaspoon McCormick or Schilling black pepper
1/8 teaspoon McCormick or Schilling red pepper
1 Tablespoon McCormick or Schilling chili powder
3/4 Tablespoon salt
1/4 teaspoon McCormick or Schilling cumin

2 cans kidney beans
1 can Mexican stewed tomatoes
1 can Rotel tomatoes (chopped with green chilies)

1 can tomato sauce
Heat oil in Dutch oven. Sauté onions, garlic and peppers. Then brown meat and drain off grease. Add seasonings, beans, tomatoes and sauce. Mix together. Simmer, uncovered, 3/4 to 1 hour (excess liquid will boil off). Enjoy with crackers, green onions, shredded cheese or sour cream.

Good food, good health: Low-fat vegetarian cooking

AP Special Features

These days, more people are turning to vegetarianism or are cutting back on the amount of meat they eat. Many cite a desire to eat more healthfully as a major reason they're making the switch. What they may not realize is that vegetarian eating is frequently higher in fat than a meat-based diet, especially if it relies on nuts and cheese for protein. To keep the fat low in vegetarian cooking, follow these tips:

Reduce the amount of butter or oil used in cooking. Use non-stick pans and spray them with nonstick cooking spray before heating.

Rely on combinations of beans and grains for protein. Low-fat fish is a good source, too, if it fits your definition of vegetarian eating.

If your vegetarian diet includes dairy products, look for lower-fat versions of yogurt, sour cream and cheeses. Use evaporated skim milk in place of cream or whipping cream (it can even be whipped).

Use nuts and cheeses sparingly, just to add flavor and complement other sources of protein.

Bake, grill, simmer, broil and steam when possible. Keep frying, sauteing and stir-frying to a minimum.

Thicken sauces by adding pureed fruits, vegetables or rice, rather than starting with a butter-flour base.

To replace the rich flavor of fat, turn to citrus peel and juices, fresh herbs and flavored vinegars. Or, use a small amount of an intensely flavored oil, such as sesame, to add flavor without adding much fat.

The Palm Court Theatre Orchestra will perform Monday night at the Borger High School auditorium as part of the Community Concert Association season.

Community Concert set to swing Monday evening

Favorite songs and melodies from 1900 to the 1940s will bring back memories for Community Concert Association members of Pampa and Borger as the Palm Court Theatre Orchestra performs at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Borger High School auditorium.

The program, titled "Puttin' on the Ritz," includes popular music from Victorian salons to Second World War swing. The musicians not only play well-known salon pieces, instrumental solos and classic swing of the periods, but show talent for singing, whistling, tap dancing, dramatic acting, fox trotting and tangoing.

The London-based orchestra was formed in 1978. Then-director Anthony Godwin, principal bass clarinetist of the Bournemouth Symphony, inherited a complete library of music from his father. The music was sweet, sentimental, and also robust, syncopated and humorous.

The musicians from the NBC Symphony, Covent Garden, London Philharmonic, Ted Heath and Joe Loss orchestras blend their talents to present authentic arrangements of each period.

The Palm Court Theatre Orchestra has presented concerts in famous halls and art festivals in England, Europe and Canada as well as the United States.

Admission is by membership in Pampa and Borger Community Concert Associations and by reciprocal agreements with concert association members in Plainview, Hereford and Dumas.

Bissell was a master sculptor

NEW PRESTON, Conn. (AP) — American sculptor George E. Bissell (1839-1920) served in the Civil War and afterward joined his father and brother in the marble-cutting business.

Bissell began designing monuments, then in 1875 went to France and Italy to study the art of sculpture.

He set up a studio in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and visited

Paris frequently between 1883 and 1896.

His works included a statue of Abraham Lincoln in Edinburgh, Scotland, and statues of Gen. Horatio Gates in Schuylerville, N.Y., and President Chester A. Arthur in Madison Square, N.Y.

He also did symbolic sculptures for the Pan-American Exposition in 1901 and for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904.

Why you get white spots on fingernails

If you've ever hit your thumbnail while you were hammering, you may have seen what can happen when a nail gets badly bruised.

A little white spot on your fingernail is often the result of a much smaller injury.

You might rap your nail while digging through a drawer, for example, and not feel any pain at all.

An air bubble under the nail can also leave a white mark.

And in rare cases, a white spot means that there is an infection present or a need for certain vitamins or minerals.

Doctors call the white spots leukonychia (loo-koh-NIK-ee-ah).

Even though doctors give it a serious sounding name, the spots are considered harmless. The white spot will move up as the nail grows and soon it will be cut away while the nail is trimmed.

Tough law keeps teens from access to tobacco

By BRENDA C. COLEMAN
AP Medical Writer

WOODRIDGE, Ill. (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Eric Lemons has tried a half-dozen times to buy cigarettes in his home town. No luck.

"They just won't sell them. They ask for your ID," he says.

In this middle-class Chicago suburb, youngsters under 18 have about as much chance of buying a pack of cigarettes as they do of buying a bottle of vodka.

It's a result of one of the nation's toughest tobacco-control ordinances. Enforced with undercover "sting" operations using teen-age decoys and $25 fines for minors caught with tobacco, the law is credited with cutting teen smoking rates to a fraction of national levels.

"It's considered model legislation across the United States," said Diana Hackbarth, a community-health nursing professor at Loyola University of Chicago.

Outlawing the sale of tobacco products to teens isn't unusual; 44 states set a minimum age for purchasing the product. But actually keeping tobacco out of teens' hands is unusual; federal experts estimate that by high school age, one youth in three smokes or uses smokeless tobacco.

The Woodridge ordinance has its roots in a junior high school principal's complaint in 1988 that a student had bought cigarettes at a store just half a block from school.

The complaint went to police Sgt. Bruce "Buzz" Talbot, who came up with the tough anti-tobacco provisions that were enacted in 1989.

Any Woodridge merchant who sells tobacco to the minor can be fined up to $500. Repeat offenders can have their city-issued tobacco sale licenses suspended or revoked. Violators answer to the mayor, who is also the tobacco control commissioner, so cases don't clog the courts.

Woodridge's law holds minors accountable, too. Anyone under 18 caught with tobacco gets a $25 ticket. If a minor is caught trying to buy tobacco, the ticket is $50.

"Most kids who try to buy (cigarettes) in convenience stores, they'll get told ... 'Get out, or we'll call the cops,'" 13-year-old Lisa Uselis said.

Some youngsters who have been ticketed end up on the other side of the law, as undercover decoys. On a volunteer basis only, they are sent undercover to every licensed tobacco merchant in the city. Each of the city's 35 tobacco merchants gets an announced visit four times a year.

The first teen decoys were the children of police officers, then their friends and other volunteers.

"The kids really enjoy it," Talbot said. "To them it's a big adventure. They feel like they're James Bond, 007, going out there — police undercover agent."

"They're very popular at school when they do it. There was some concern that they would be ostracized. It's just the exact opposite. ... We have more volunteers than we could possibly use."

Smoking rates among adolescents in Woodridge have dropped sharply since the law was enacted, according to psychology Professor Leonard A. Jason of DePaul University in Chicago, who surveyed local youngsters before and after the ordinance went into effect.

The percentage of seventh- and eighth-graders experimenting with cigarettes dropped by half, and the rate of regular smoking among adolescents dropped by two-thirds, he found.

Merchants, too, have accepted the law well.

"I don't think it's that much of a hassle," said Joanne Duffy, manager of Doc's Drugs. "It takes two seconds to look at a license. I don't think it's really good for kids to be smoking."

About 200 local and state governments have passed or are considering anti-tobacco laws with similar enforcement provisions, Talbot said. Chicago has passed a similar law and is using a sting operation on a pilot basis.

"We're finding that if you send (undercover) minors into the stores every two months, rates of sales go down to zero percent," Jason said.

Name game is preoccupation for man who's called to sell

DEAR ABBY: One of my hobbies is collecting names that fit a person's occupation.

My friend, Ralph Bible, is a minister. His roommate in the seminary was named Amen.

Mr. Planke, in Piney Flats, Tenn., is a carpenter, and Mr. Hand is a physical trainer with Watauga Orthopedics.

Mike Cash works for a finance company in Nashville, and Mike Hooker (pronounced "hokum") is director of advertising for a shoe company in Asheville, N.C. Mr. Stamper manages the stamping department of a large machine company in the same city.

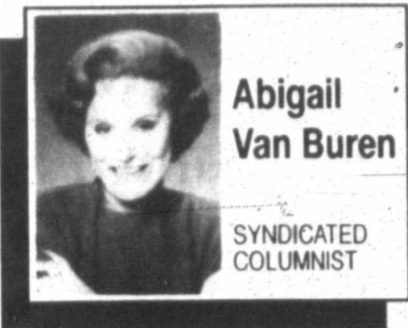

Dr. D.E. Walker is a coach in the physical education department at East Tennessee State University, and Coach Duard Walker is at Milligan College. Walking is an Olympic sport.

There is a doctor in Kingsport, Tenn., who debrides (removes dead tissue) wounds. His name is Skinner. Dr. Mohler, a dentist, retired several years ago.

Oh, yes — I've been in sales most of my life, and my name is ...

MIKE SELLARS,
JOHNSON CITY, TENN.

DEAR MIKE: Thanks for an interesting collection. After this runs, I'll bet my readers will come up with more of the same. Readers?

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a mother who was worried about her middle child, who was very plain.

I, too, am a middle child between two outstanding brothers.

As a young girl, I was plain and painfully shy. To make matters worse, both brothers were good-looking and had great personalities. It was a struggle growing up, but I turned out OK.

Many years ago, a fellow school-teacher gave me this poem about middle children. There's a lot of truth in it.

I hope you think it's worth passing along: Sorry, the author is unknown.

BARBARA CHEEK WILLIAMS,
LONGVIEW, TEXAS

DEAR BARBARA: It's well worth passing along, and after it appears in my column, I will probably hear from the author:

MIDDLE CHILDREN

Middle children are used to giving in to the younger and the older.

Middle children are used to turning soft, mild cheeks to the child who's bolder.

Middle children make cheer their talent smiling even through hand-me-downings.

Middle children will play a willing audience for the other's clownings.

Middle children are open-hearted.

Middle children will fetch and carry.

Middle children don't need unspilling.

Middle children are nice to marry.

YOUR CHUCKLE FOR TODAY: As a spiritually minded friend said to Mike Royko, Chicago Tribune columnist: "I wept because I had no Guccis, until I met a man who had no Florshems."

Horoscope

Thursday, Jan. 26, 1995

In the year ahead, you could benefit greatly by gaining more knowledge about your field of work. Take advantage of every opportunity to expand your education.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not act on whims today. If you let your guard down, you could open the flood gates to foolish extravagance. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Sometimes the worst thing that could happen is to have your expectations met. Keep this in mind today when you establish your objectives.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You might want to do something uncharacteristically spiteful today to someone who wronged you in the past. Your attempt to get even could backfire.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even when doing business with those you know and trust today, spell everything out so that there won't be any misunderstandings later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might not find easy answers to tough questions today, so be realistic when evaluating possible solutions. Take off your rose colored glasses.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before getting involved in a new endeavor, know exactly what ramifications to expect. Surprises could be counterproductive at this time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Resist the temptation to take undue risks or buck heavy odds today. Try to be cautious instead of capricious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make sure your mate is included in the decision-making process for important family matters today. If a choice is made without his/her input, problems will result.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you might spend more time and energy figuring out ways to dodge tasks than it would take to do them. The unresolved will remain unresolved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to be as generous with friends today as they are with you. In situations where expenses are to be split, pay your fair share.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Although you may make every effort to be a nice guy today, there is a possibility you will encounter someone impossible to please.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Listen carefully today and ask pertinent questions if you want something clarified. Do not pretend you understand what is being said if you really don't.

Wheeler, Groom split games

GROOM — Wheeler tipped off the District 3-1A season Tuesday night with a 73-54 win over Groom. Phil Wiggins topped Wheeler in scoring with 17 points, followed by Justin Heffley and Jarrod Ledbetter, 16 each. Seth Ritter had 10 points and Stanley Homer 9 for Groom. Groom led 20-17 at the end of the first quarter and Wheeler jumped ahead 34-29 at halftime. The Mustangs extended the lead to 12 (49-37) after three quarters. "Our three seniors (Wiggins, Heffley, Ledbetter) stepped up and had good games. When all three of them have good games, we can usually win," said Wheeler coach Shawn Read.

Wheeler sophomore Travis Stephens, who has been out with a foot injury, came back to score 10 points last night. Wheeler is 8-11 for the season and 1-0 in district. The Groom girls also opened district play with a convincing win over Wheeler, 65-29, last night. Misty Homen scored 22 points to lead Groom's scoring attack, followed by Kay Case with 16. Angie Thomas led Wheeler with 9 points. The Tigerettes boosted their overall record to 22-1.

Groom's Misty Homen (pictured with ball) had a 22-point performance against Wheeler Tuesday night in a District 3-1A opener at Groom. The Tigerettes won to boost their record to 22-1. Wheeler won the boys game, 73-54.

Even heroes need a hand.

Our firefighters. All of us in Texas are grateful to them. Every day they brave smoke, heat, exhaustion and fire to save our lives, our homes, our property. Every day they risk their lives. For us. Firefighters have to live with the strains of a uniquely demanding job, one that does not always pay as well as it should. And even though these men and women are heroes to us, they have everyday problems just like we do. It's time we gave them a hand. The makers of Copenhagen® and Skoal® would like to help. We have been in Texas for generations. And now, as part of our continuing involvement in communities all across the state, we would like to give a little something back.

Lefors boys, McLean girls capture District 5-1A games
