GOP Congressmen Vary On Impeachment Motions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leader John J. Rhodes was portrayed today as anguished over whether to call for President Nixon's impeachment.

Another influential conservative Republican, Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, predicted Nixon would be impeached by a 3-1 margin in the House.

Ashbrook, who endorsed impeachment over the weekend, said the President would go into a Senate trial as an underdog and would be "hard pressed" to find the 34 Senate votes required to stay in office.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., who led Nixon's defense during the House Judiciary Committee sessions which approved three articles of impeachment, said, "Everybody's been telling me about Republican erosions but I don't find any."

But Republicans who called themselves undecided on impeachment said privately the vote by eight of the Judiciary Committee's 17 Republicans to recommend impeachment made it "respectable" for a Republican to vote to impeach.

An aide described Rhodes, who succeeded Gerald R. Ford as House GOP leader, as "anguished" over what position to take. His office said Rhodes was drafting a statement, to be issued next week, on whether he would support impeachment.

When Nixon's Watergate transcripts were published in April and led to calls by some Republicans for Nixon's resignation, Rhodes said Nixon should consider resigning if the House voted to impeach him.

Ashbrook, who ran against Nixon in 1972 on the grounds the President had betrayed his old conservative supporters, said he struggled for a reason not to come out for impeachment.

"I truly wanted to find a reason I could live with to say, 'Here's why I oppose impeachment.' But I couldn't find any," he said.

In other developments: —At the White House, some of Nixon's aides privately indicated they now think it likely the House would vote to impeach him and he would face a Senate trial.

—Two staunch conservatives, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., and James B. Allen, D-Ala., agreed with the position taken by Senate Democratic leaders that a Senate trial need not stop and start over again if it lasts into the next Congress in January.

—"I am innocent," said John D. Ehrlichman, the President's former chief domestic adviser, after he was sentenced Wednesday to 20 months to five years for conspiracy and perjury in the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. He expressed confidence he would be cleared on appeal.

G. Gordon Liddy got a one to three-year sentence in the case, to run concurrently with his Watergate term.

AMPI Official Pleads Guilty To Conspiracy

HOLDING ON — Snapped coming out of the chute during saddle bronc riding during the opening night action of the Top O' Texas Rodeo is David Merrill of Cleburne. Merrill gained a score of 56 points to tie for third place in the first night's action.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Associated Milk Producers Inc., the nation's largest milk cooperative, pleaded guilty today to conspiracy and making illegal campaign contributions and was fined the maximum $35,000 penalty.

AMPI was the 12th corporation to be charged in Watergate related matters and the first to be charged with a felony. Harold S. Nelson, its former general manager and David L. Parr, its former special counsel, pleaded guilty to similar violations within recent days.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. overruled a recommendation by E.C. Heininger, the AMPI lawyer, that it be fined only $15,000.

The dairy farmers are hard working people who have contributed a great deal to this country," Hart said. "I don't believe the directors of the corporations, even though they were farmers, were not aware the law was being violated. This type of violation of the law has just somehow got to be stopped."

Nelson, 56, San Antonio, Tex., pleaded guilty Wednesday to a single count of conspiracy in a series of allegedly illegal corporate campaign gifts to both Republicans and Democrats involving an alleged $10,000 bribe to Connally.

Nelson was the second former official of the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., and the sixth person to be charged in "milk fund" cases. It was believed other charges were imminent.

In exchange for accepting a plea of guilty to a single count, Deputy Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth Jr. told Nelson he "may be required to testify as a witness called by the United States in matters where he may have relevant information."

Ruth, however, specified Nelson did not receive immunity for possible violations growing out of the 1971 price support decision.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. released Nelson to his attorney pending a probationary report. The charge, a felony, carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

The eight-page information, or report, was filed by Ruth in lieu of a grand jury indictment.

It charged that Nelson authorized former AMPI lawyer Jake Jacobsen to give Connally $10,000 for Connally's assistance in obtaining a 1971 increase in the federal price support for raw milk.

The information also named David L. Parr, former AMPI special counsel, who pleaded guilty last week; Bob A. Lilly, Nelson's former assistant; Robert O. Isham, former AMPI comptroller; Stewart H. Russell, former AMPI lawyer, and Jacobsen as unindicted coconspirators.

Revision Needed In Beef Grading

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa yesterday again urged revision in the meat grading system to allow the upper one-third portion of beef currently graded "good" to be included in the grade "choice."

Price made his comments after the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains held a day of public hearings to consider whether any change in the current meat grading system is needed. Price is a member of the subcommittee and owns and operates a ranch near Pampa.

The Texas legislator wrote Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz last June 20 suggesting revision of the beef grading system.

The Federal Beef Grading Standards were first offered on a voluntary basis to the meat packing industry in the 1920's. Since then, five adjustments in the standards have been made, the latest in 1965. Price reported.

Cattle breeding and feeding programs have materially changed the beef being marketed during that time," Price said. "The trend has been toward the production of younger cattle and since these changes are constantly taking place, it is logical that the grading standards reflect these changes from time to time for the benefit of the consumer and the producer."

The congressman said, "some fat in the muscle of the meat is a desirable quality and the younger carcasses being produced meet this requirement, although present grading standards are designed for the older, heavier beef animal."

"An additional 30 to 40 days on feed is required to insure that the majority of these younger animals grade 'choice,' but the extra days on feed, which add to production costs, add weight that is mostly the kind of fat which is trimmed off by the processor and retailer."

Price concluded, "a modification of the grading standard to include in the 'choice' category the upper one-third of beef now graded 'good' would provide consumers with young, tender, flavorful beef in the 'choice' grade with less fat which is now an economic waste."

AT TO T RODEO Jeana Felts Takes Lead For Girls' Barrel Racing

By MONA WILLIAMS

Jeana Felts, the top ranked girls' barrel racer, took the lead in opening night action of the 28th Annual Top O' Texas Rodeo last night in Recreation Park.

Mrs. Felts, of Cheyenne, Okla., leads the event with a time of 17.3 seconds.

In second place is Ardith Bruce, Fountain, Colo., with 17.8 seconds and third is held by Dorothy Davis, Archer City, Tex., rounding the barrels in 18 seconds.

Riding Blackbird, Danny O'Haco, Winslow, Ariz., leads the bareback bronc riding with 70 points. Marty Richter, Fort Worth, on Apple Mary, holds second place with 62 points, and Mickey Young on Bear Paw received 53 points for his effort. He is from Wellington, Utah.

In the calf roping event, Dave Eastlake, Amarillo, is leading with a time of 10.2 seconds. Tied for second place honors are Steve Haley, Sayre, Okla., and Matt Mills, Texola, Okla., with 11 seconds. Third place is held by Sam Gideon, a hometown rider, with 11.4 seconds.

In the second half of calf roping, Roger Marlowe, Stillwater, Okla., leads the group with 10 seconds while Rex Bland, McCamey, is behind in second with 12.3. Bringing in third place is Arnold Felts, husband of Jeana Felts, with 13.7 seconds.

Holding on in saddle bronc riding for first place is Bobby Berger, Norman, Okla., on Whispering Hope, with 74 points. Coming in second with 66 points is Claude Groves, of Lubbock, riding Teepee. Tied for third are Dayl Jones, Electra, on Lodgepole and David Merrill, Cleburne, Tex., riding Darktown, both with 56 points.

Paul Hughes, Olney, Colo., brought his steer to the ground in 4.7 seconds to lead. Wrestling his 600-pounder to the dirt in 6.2 seconds was Bussy Kaul of Hereford. Four seconds behind is Ernie Johnson, Harrah, Okla., with a time of 10.7.

Only three riders hung on long enough to receive scores in the bull riding event. Charlie Burns, Lawton, Okla., riding Buffalo, hung on for a score of 70 points. Bob Blackwood, on Smokehouse, gained 65 points. He hails from Farmersville, Tex. Riding Durango, Butch Kirby, Greenville, Tex., outlasted the clock and received 63 points for third place.

Lightening the rough action with comedy and specially animal acts each night are Bobby Clark, rodeo clown, and D.C. Cogburn with Snowman, a trained Brahma, and two 100-pound English sheepdogs ridden by Speedy and Pedro Gonzales, two cowboy monkeys.

Directed by Jeff Doughten, the Pampa High School Rodeo Band provides the music for the rodeo and dance music is furnished by Wendy Woods and the New Sons of the West. Dances are held after each night's performance in the National Guard Armory.

Winners in the annual parade yesterday afternoon were typical ranch entry. Jim Devoll, first, and C.C. Rasco, second, both from Pampa. Civic club or organization float, Gray County 4-H Club, first, and Pampa High School Band float, second. "Most attractive commercial entry, Top O' Texas beauty pageant contestants float, and best riding club, Boys' Ranch of Amarillo, first, and Pampa's Leather and Lace Family Club, second.

Winners in the Pony Express Race were members of the Cockrell Cattle Co. team. They defeated Wheeler Riding Club.

Action continues at 8 p.m. today in Recreation Park.

Rodeo officials reminded area residents today that inflation has not as yet made any inroads in the price of admission to the annual event. General admission charge of $2 for adults and $1 for children has remained the same for over 20 years, officials said.

Convict Rejects Late Offer Of Transportation

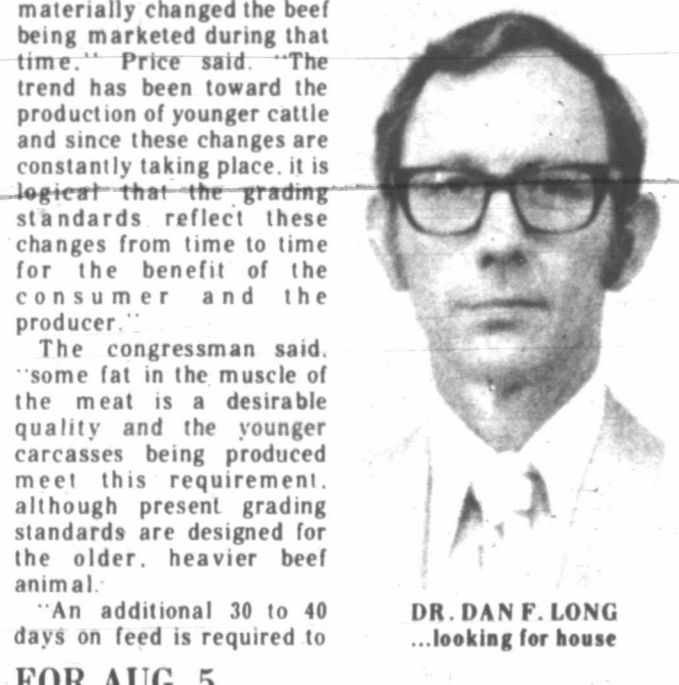

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Fred Gomez Carrasco, who spurned a late night offer of freedom and transportation from his prison fortress as "childish," today negotiated with penitentiary administrators to allow him and two confederates to use all 13 hostages in an escape plan.

"Discussion concerning transportation will be the first order of business—toward either accepting or rejecting Mr. Carrasco's counterproposal of last evening," prison spokesman Ron Taylor said.

"A new offer has not been made," he said. "We are still continuing discussions on Carrasco's counterproposal of last evening. There has been no mention of a deadline."

Taylor said Carrasco did not begin the day's negotiations until about 10:15 a.m. CDT and proceeded to ask for toiletry articles, cigarettes and breakfast.

Carrasco, believed responsible for 50 murders and sentenced to life in the Texas State Penitentiary, has held the 13 hostages at gunpoint for the past nine days, alternately threatening to shoot them or kill them by detonating bombs.

Art, Coin Show & Sale Scheduled At Auditorium

Plans have been completed for the Art and Coin Show and Coin Sale scheduled Aug. 5 at the M.K. Brown Municipal Auditorium.

A display of local and area artists sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association will be held from 1 p.m. and the coin sale will begin at 8 p.m.

In addition to the display of coins especially minted for the Gray County Bicentennial Committee, there will be a display of other area and national coins furnished by the same mint which struck the Gray County coins.

A sterling silver replica of the original Revolutionary War Liberty Bell will also be on display through the courtesy of a local collector. It is one of a very limited edition according to a member on the local Bicentennial group.

The actual sale of commemorative coins will be under the direction of Col. Walter Britten, widely known auctioneer who has conducted the annual Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders and Junior Livestock Sales here for years.

A special reception open to the public at 6:30 p.m. will be hosted by the Local Daughters of the American Revolution and the Pampa Junior League. The first ten numbered sets of each of the three-different groups of coins will be auctioned beginning at 8 p.m.

County Okays Tax Roll Firm Contract

Today's meeting of Gray County Commissioners Court featured a brief agenda, with two items of business receiving special attention.

Renewal of a contract with Thomas Y. Pickett Co., of Dallas for industrial tax roll appraisal was discussed, with Jimmie McCracken, commissioner from Precinct 3, voting "no," pending receipt of further information which he felt should be considered.

The matter passed by a four to one vote, McCracken insisting that comparisons with other appraisal firms should be made.

Two representatives of the State Highway Department demonstrated a new "scanner" type radio receiver being considered for installation in Highway Patrol troopers' vehicles.

The units reportedly will become necessary in the near future when radio frequencies of other law enforcement agencies are changed.

Contact between State Troopers, Gray County Sheriff's officers, and Pampa ambulance, Fire Department and police are involved.

Cost to the county of the five units would run about $275 to $300 each.

The matter was taken under advisement, pending consultation between county and city officials.

A report from the local Drug Task Force was presented to the court for their consideration. The task force requested a meeting with the court in the near future.

The following agenda items were approved unanimously:

Payment of salaries and bills; time deposits and transfer of funds is recommended by the county auditor; return to the county from Board of County and District Road Indebtedness at Austin, of lateral road funds; and allowance of 3 percent discount, and 1 percent discount for tax payments in October, November and December, 1974.

Commissioners Court will hold a study session on salary adjustments at 2:30 p.m. on Aug. 8, according to County Judge Don Cain.

This will precede by one week the next regular Commissioners Court meeting, scheduled for Aug. 15 at 10 a.m.

Her hobbies include riding horses and playing basketball. (Staff Photo)

New Gap Found In Another Tape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House lawyers have revealed there is a gap of more than five minutes on a Watergate tape surrendered by President Nixon after a bitter court battle to keep the tapes secret.

Existence of the gap was disclosed Wednesday by presidential defense attorney James D. St. Clair, who at the same time asked U.S. District Court to keep another 48 minutes of presidential conversations out of the hands of Watergate prosecutors on grounds of executive privilege.

He said the gap was discovered in the tape of a meeting Nixon had on April 17, 1973, with key aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman — one of 20 tapes Nixon surrendered to Judge John J. Sirica Tuesday under terms of last week's Supreme Court order.

Judging from the notations on the tape boxes, the tape ran out and was replaced in the midst of this conversation. St. Clair told Sirica in a written analysis.

A timing of the two segments indicates that approximately 5 minutes and 12 seconds of conversation were never recorded.

Prosecutors had noted an apparent gap by scanning notations on the tape boxes when they were delivered to court. St. Clair said then he did not think anything was missing but his subsequent check proved the prosecutors right.

St. Clair's index and analysis was submitted to describe the 20 tapes surrendered to Sirica, who now will listen to them and decide which portions Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski should have for the Watergate cover-up trial due to start Sept. 9.

It was the third major disclosure of problems with subpoenaed White House tapes.

Last fall, after another losing court battle to keep tapes secret, the White House said two sought-after conversations never were recorded and a third had an 18 1/2 minute gap.

Nixon is to surrender 44 other tapes for Sirica's review promptly. His lawyers are to give the judge a progress report on Friday.

Smart Horses Headline Rodeo Or Do They?

By FRANK BAIN
In the news business there's always the chance that, when you're trying to be funny, you may fall on your face.

And there's also the chance that, when trying to be deadly serious, your stuff may turn out to be hilarious.

Take, for instance, Tuesday's story promoting the Top O' Texas Rodeo.

Sports editor Paul Sims was working hard to get his front-page story wrapped up, just ahead of the deadline.

This reporter, in a spirit of helpfulness, offered two paragraphs to be inserted into the body of the story, all about a special performance he'd heard of and which hadn't as yet been mentioned in news accounts of the big event.

Okay, the sports man grabbed the two paragraphs, pasted them in about half way down the story, and handed it in with his by-line on it of course.

Somehow, the following classic of a boo-boo got past the sports editor, the city editor and everyone else, and appeared this way:

"A spectacular portion of opening ceremonies will be the appearance of a remount team from Ft. Sill, Okla.

"Six horses will pull a French '75' field gun into the arena, set up the artillery piece and fire a round just prior to playing of the National Anthem."

Trouble is the sports editor is basking in all the glory when people call to inquire about "those smart horses."

Probably feels no one would believe him if he tried saying he wrote the entire story except for those two paragraphs.

Sims has been in this business only a few years, and I've been in it nearly all my life.

And when finally I manage or mis-manage the English language to turn out my all-time masterpiece, someone else gets the credit!

Anyway, I'm now busy mailing out clippings to my journalist friends all over the country, pointing out that, down here in Texas, when we promise our readers something "spectacular," we don't fool around.

Bentsen Proposes Plans For Economic Recovery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a reply to President Nixon's speech last week urging less consumer spending and more patience, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., has proposed a six-point plan for economic recovery.

In a nationally televised speech on behalf of the Democratic party Wednesday night, Bentsen said Nixon's economic initiatives have been a "patchwork" with "too many changing policies, replacing one another; too many conflicting voices, contradicting one another; too many trials, and far too many errors."

"Sadly, only four things have really been steady — steadily rising prices, steadily dwindling confidence, steadily cheerful assurances from the administration — followed by steadily worsening results," he said.

Nixon planned to meet with his economic advisers today.

Wednesday administration economic coordinator Kenneth Rush said the threat of impeachment was a "disturbing influence on the economy."

But he also said impeachment would have no effect on the economy. The policy we are following is the one we think is correct and people should realize it's going to continue."

Bentsen is a freshman senator and, a possible contender for the presidential nomination.

"It seemed to me, as I listened, almost as if the clock had been turned back 40 years," he said in reference to Herbert Hoover's Depression promise that "prosperity is just around the corner."

The President told us that our present economic troubles are everyone's fault — except his and his advisers," Bentsen said. "I felt I was hearing the language of economic coup."

Bentsen's proposed "workable program" included three immediate steps and three longer-term goals:

—Channeling loan money to the neediest and most productive industries, such as housing.

—Establishing a cost of living task force to keep track of price increases and wage settlements and to provide guidance to business and labor.

—A "step up (in) our efforts to rein in federal spending."

—Reform of the tax system.

Briscoe Refuses Action For Additional Sessions

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe will postpone any action on public school funding and state employees salaries until after the 1974 elections.

Briscoe said Wednesday he will not call a special session of the legislature to act on the proposals but will propose emergency action to the 1975 legislature.

"I have concluded reluctantly that a special session of the legislature at this time would not be practical," Briscoe said.

"To call upon the members of the legislature to reconvene in special session after having met for an exhaustive seven months in a Constitutional Convention is unrealistic at best."

Briscoe, seeking a four-year term, has been asked repeatedly by educational groups to call a special session of the legislature to deal with public school funding.

Briscoe said he will ask the 1975 legislature to take emergency action to increase teacher pensions 10 to 15 per cent, increase retirement benefits for state employees 10 per cent and give all state workers a 10 per cent cost of living increase effective Feb. 1.

The governor said he will recommend an increase of $10 per pupil, based on average daily attendance, in poorer school districts and lesser sums for wealthier districts.

"There is no doubt that the inflationary spiral has affected all aspects of state government just as it has affected all aspects of state government just as it has affected private businesses and individual consumers," Briscoe said. "Individuals on retirement incomes are especially hard hit. Salaried employees of the state have less purchasing power.

There is a $315 million surplus in the state treasury and lawmakers and public employe groups have asked Briscoe to call an emergency session to allocate some of the funds for school districts, teachers and state workers.

House Passes Bill To Allow Gold Ownership

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed a bill allowing Americans to buy, own and trade gold for the first time since the Depression.

The bill was sent to President Nixon, who is expected to sign it soon, according to a statement by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

The legislation passed the House late Wednesday with no debate on a voice vote after the House accepted a Senate amendment providing that no existing law could conflict with private ownership of gold.

The gold clause was included in a bill to extend for three years U.S. participation in the International Development Association. U.S. contributions totaling $1.5 billion over the three years are authorized for IDA, which makes loans to developing countries.

The measure provides that unless ordered earlier by Nixon, private ownership of gold shall be permissible after Dec. 31, 1974.

Private ownership of gold was ended by congressional decree at the request of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his sweeping first-term legislative package to combat the Great Depression.

Two Arrested For Altercation

Two men were arrested for disorderly conduct at 2225 Hamilton St., following an altercation last night.

They were James H. Wells Jr., 18, and L.G. Woodruff, 19. Police confiscated several weapons, including three shotguns and a .35 cal. Marlin.

Police are investigating a break-in at Halliburton Co., 500 W. Brown.

About $50 damage resulted to the building, windows and roof, but apparently nothing was taken.

The incident occurred sometime Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

Cyprus Cease-Fire May Crumble With Violations

United Press International The Cyprus cease-fire threatened to crumble today, with reports of major Turkish truce violations and a Soviet veto blocking the United Nations from expanding peacekeeping efforts on the war-torn island.

Turkish warships anchored off the northern Cypriot port of Kyrenia shelled two Greek Cypriot towns Wednesday, less than 24 hours after the signing of a three-nation cease-fire agreement in Geneva.

Greek Cypriot leaders denounced the attacks as "gross violations" of the truce and accused Turkey of sending more reinforcements to occupied sections of the embattled island.

At the United Nations, Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik rushed to the Security Council from vacation and vetoed a resolution calling for peacekeeping forces to expand their duties on Cyprus in accordance with the Geneva peace agreement.

Immediately after the dramatic vote, Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said Turkey's military commander on Cyprus had demanded U.N. withdrawal from Turkish enclaves.

Waldheim said he had no choice but to comply.

In Moscow, the official Soviet news agency Tass said Malik "foiled the attempts" by some NATO members to impose a change in the U.N. role without "sufficient sounding out."

In Athens, Greece's new civilian government began demobilizing its forces today, 12 days after Turkey's invasion of Cyprus brought the nation to the brink of war.

Britain, Greece and Turkey signed the Geneva agreement Tuesday, imposing a standstill cease-fire and adopting a de facto partition of the former British colony between the majority Greeks and minority Turks.

U.P.I. Correspondent Richard C. Gross said Turkish forces shelled the Greek Cypriot villages of Karavas and Lapithos, 10 miles west of Kyrenia on the northern coast.

A U.N. military source said the villages had been shelled by a Turkish warship anchored off Kyrenia in the Mediterranean, forcing withdrawal of Greek-led Cypriot National Guard troops in the area.

Greek Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides protested to the United Nations that Turkish troops moved reinforcements into areas east of Kyrenia and into Karavas, on the western side of the harbor town.

Foreign Minister Dimity Dimitriou, accused Turkey of "gross violations" of the cease-fire but said Greek Cypriot troops were under orders not to engage the Turks in battle.

"The government has ordered all Greek Cypriot troops not to fire if fired upon and withdraw if necessary," he said.

The International Red Cross, which has taken over from the United Nations in supplying refugees with food and medical supplies, accused the Turks of "flagrant violations" of the Geneva Convention.

Red Cross sources said the estimated 30,000 Turkish troops on the island have been looting Greek Cypriot villages and shipping to Turkey vehicles left behind by fleeing foreign nationals.

Another source said the invaders have stripped capture villages of hundreds of Greek Cypriot men, shipping the prisoners to Turkey. He said the total number was not known but it was "close to 1,000."

"All they have left are the women and children," he said.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Dr. English is like many eminent surgeons in being an artist at heart. So he felt that the mechanical reading of the names of colleagues who had passed away, needed to be made more beautiful and idealistic. Note the reaction to his inclusion of sentiment!

CASE B-604: Dr. Harlan English is a nationally noted G-U surgeon.

He was formerly president of our Illinois State Medical Society.

"At a former A.M.A. meeting," he began, "I was disturbed at the perfunctory reading of the list of our faithful leaders who had passed away during the preceding year.

"As I left the auditorium, I met our national president and told him any secretary could have merely recited the names of our departed colleagues.

"So he said I was elected to handle the memorial service the following year.

"I got the cooperation of an attractive wife of one of our members.

"She dressed in a beautiful white evening gown for her part in our ceremony.

"Then I ordered enough big yellow roses to cover the necrology list.

"And obtained a large vase on which I had the spotlight focussed while the auditorium was darkened.

"As I read off the name of each departed member, and added a few words of appreciation, this lady would take a yellow rose and in the full spotlight, place it in the vase.

"In this manner, we personalized our farewell to our dead colleagues and made it a beautiful, inspiring ceremony.

"Moreover, it didn't take much longer than the perfunctory recital of the names, as was done the year previous.

"Since many of our medical delegates were so pleased with this salute to our dead, they asked me to repeat the service the following year.

"But we varied the plan by having the lady, dressed in white, insert an American flag when I read off each name.

JOHN H. HORN

Manager Appointed

Effective July 1, John H. Horn was appointed manager of Carbon Black Research and Development, Pampa, according to an announcement made by Cabot Corporation.

Horn joined Cabot in 1961 as a chemical engineer in the Western Region Division of Research and Development in Pampa. In 1969, he transferred to Billerica, Mass., as staff assistant to the director of Carbon Black Research and Development.

In 1971, he transferred to Cabot Colombiana S.A., Cartagena, Colombia, as plant manager. He returned to Research and Development, Pampa, in 1972, as manager of Processing and Process Development, the position he has held until the present time.

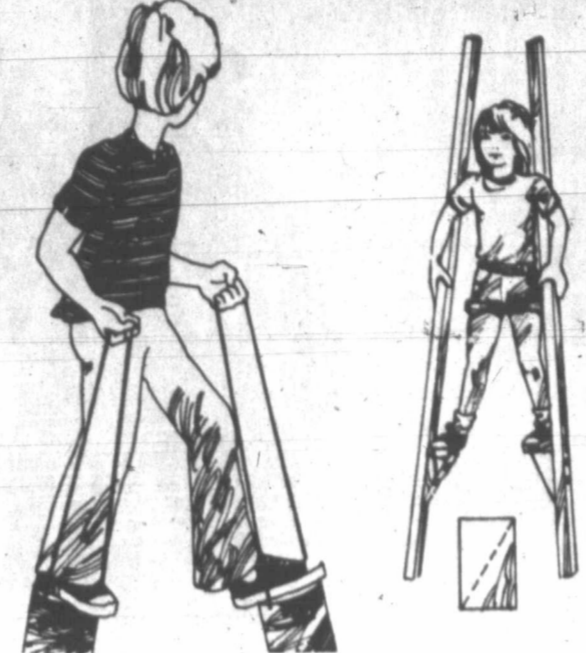

Horn, as manager of Carbon Black Research and Development, Pampa, replaces N. Dudley Steele, who recently retired from Cabot.

Horn is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma with a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering. In 1970, he completed the program for management development from Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration.

Mr. and Mrs. Horn and their two children, Ian, age 10, and Bettina, age 8, reside at 2146 Dogwood.

The lowest recorded temperature in Texas was 23 degrees below zero at Tulla on Feb. 12, 1899.

Sure now, and what's summer without a pair of tin can walkers or stilts for the kids to fight over? There's nothing more traditional or old-timey or fun (or as apt to guarantee a twisted ankle) as these do-it-yourself granddaddies of today's platform shoes.

The tin can walkers, of course, are nothing but large juice containers turned upside down with heavy cord or twine bridges run through holes punched near their bottom rims.

Stilts are a little more complicated. Each is a length of 2 X 2 with a triangular section of 2 X 4 or 2 X 6 securely bolted (try two 1/4" carriage bolts on each support) to the upright. Youngsters who appreciate such equipment the most (those who are about six to twelve years of age) can usually construct their own walkers... but dad should figure on lending a hand with the fabrication of stilts.

Unleaded Gasoline Available

The Environmental Protection Agency has been advised by the Mexican and Canadian governments that beginning in September unleaded gasoline will be available in those countries.

This action is a result of the July 1 availability of the unleaded gasoline in this country in anticipation of the 1975 automobiles and their muffler-like catalytic converters to control hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions.

Fuel containing even small amounts of lead or phosphorus will significantly impair the converters. Those motorists traveling along major routes in Mexico and Canada can be assured of finding a sufficient supply of the unleaded gasoline, particularly along heavily traveled tourist routes and U.S. borders," stated Arthur Busch, regional administrator for EPA's Region VI in Dallas.

"The EPA will continue to work through the U.S. State Department to encourage the widespread availability of unleaded gasoline."

At stations in both Mexico and Canada, gasoline pump hoses are being equipped with small nozzles that will fit the restricted filler inlet on new cars requiring unleaded gasoline. This is intended to prevent leaded regular or premium gasoline from being mistakenly poured into the tank.

"October 1, 1974, is the new deadline for those rural stations that sold at least 150,000 gallons of gasoline in 1971 or later to provide one pump of unleaded gas," he said.

Those who quit when the going gets rough, never get rough when he gets going.

HAROLD FIELD

Field Joins Cabot Corp.

On July 1, Harold S. Field joined Cabot Corporation as special projects manager in the Oil and Gas Division. He will report to Boyd D. Taylor, vice president and general manager, and his office will be located in Pampa.

In this new position, Field will be responsible for acquisitions of oil and gas properties and plants, and for leading special contract negotiations.

Field has been an independent consultant in Tulsa, Okla., since 1971. Prior to that time, he was employed with Amerada Hess Corp. for 19 years, where he was vice president and general manager of Geophysical Research Corporation, a subsidiary of Amerada.

Field received both a bachelor of science degree and a master of science degree in electrical engineering from Oklahoma State University.

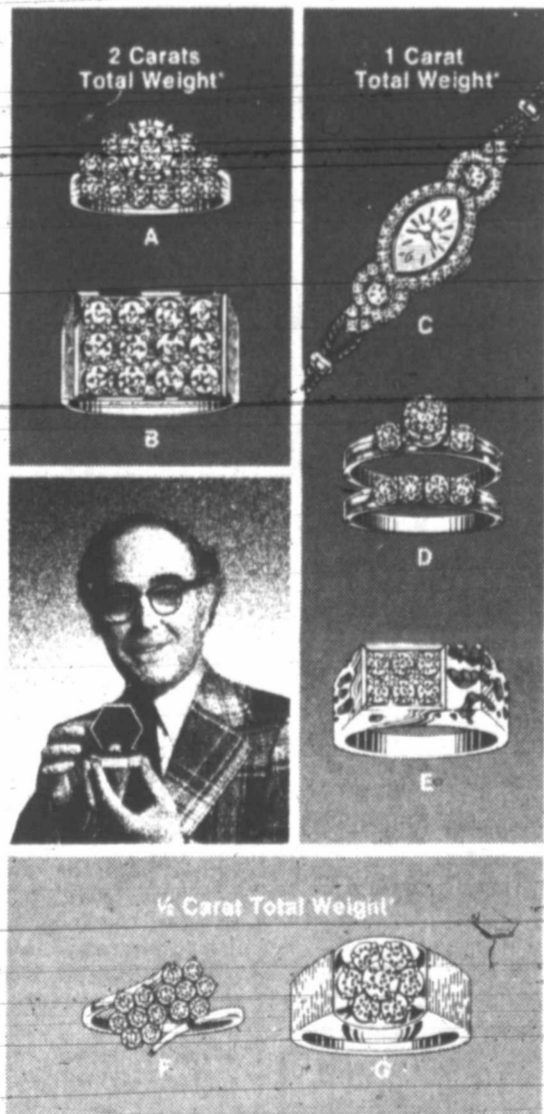

He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, Society of Exploration Geophysicists, Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, and Tulsa Geophysical Society and has served on many industry and society committees, as well as held various offices in these organizations.

He has presented numerous papers and been granted several patents.

Mr. and Mrs. Field are the parents of three daughters, Shelley, 20; Sally, 18, and Sandy, 16; and two sons, Jeff, 15, and Rex, 12. The Field's will be moving to Pampa in the near future.

Rights Of Urbanization

If a person is going to live, he's got to have a place in which to live. If he expects to live in the way he prefers, instead of the way someone else prefers, he has to obtain — through rent or ownership — a parcel of living space that is inviolably his. Therein is the significance of the land control movement funded by the Ford and Rockefeller groups. That movement proposes to terminate the private ownership and the private utilization of landed property.

Apparently the land-use controllers foresee some difficulty in breaking their program to fruition. Their land-use bill twice was turned down in Congress. Judges have limited confiscatory maneuvers such as building moratoriums and zoning techniques that had the effect of a taking property.

In the face of these obstacles, one land-control group came up with a modified suggestion. It proposed that private ownership of land be retained, but that the rights of urbanization be separated from it. The argument went that oil rights are commonly separated from surface rights on the same parcel of land. That is, an owner can sell one with selling the other. Also there is separation of ownership as in the case of utilities etc. So why would it not be possible also to separate the rights of urbanization?

We suppose the term "urbanization" could be defined as the right of subdividing, lot improvement, housing construction and other development that together are necessary for dense habitation.

When the land-use controllers suggest that rights of urbanization can be separated out from the several other entitlements of landed property, they really appear to be taking libertarians generally — and Freedom Newspapers in particular — by our own logic. We have long insisted that the right to develop real estate is a precise part of the title to the real estate, on a par with oil rights or an easement that has been defined by metes and bounds. If that is so, why would it not be possible to add urbanization to the list as a distinct definable, and severable, and severable aspect of the title?

Well, they have us here. We are roped by our own principle. Nothing to do now, but follow such reasoning to ultimate conclusion. If, therefore, the right of urbanization is the same in kind as an oil right or sand and gravel right, it follows then that to be able to develop urban housing or commercial construction is a recognizable value. That value inheres in the particular location of each parcel of land. Some parcels happen to be so located that they have a great dollar-exchange value. But such lucky situation, frequently not foreseen, happen to be true in the case of oil or gas properties; they just happen to be sitting atop a black, oozing fortune.

Thus to deny development rights by means of zoning, a precise plan, restrictions on lot size, or the like, is not different from seizing oil and mineral rights. It is a taking of property without compensation. If a municipality undertakes to prevent urbanization of a land, by the rules of logic it is obligated to purchase the urbanization rights in order to sever them in the title. For to confiscate urbanization rights would be to confiscate property.

Under existing law, development qualities of land are confiscated by zoning and precise planning under the broad general category of the police power of the state, as though the confiscation were a matter of life and death emergency. Of course, usually there is no real emergency at all so confiscation by land-control techniques has been fabricated out of a legal fiction. The concept of urbanization as a part of the title in land would bring the land-use controllers under the limitations of the Constitution. We will buy that will they?

Goldwater For President?

By VIC GOLD
WASHINGTON — All right, I'll say it again, keep your eye on AuH2O as a presidential dark horse two years from now.

Ten years have gone by since the original model hovered into view. But in case it escaped your notice, fresh evidence appeared last week that there's a new, 1976 version of the Goldwater phenomenon on the Republican national horizon.

Check those latest Gallup figures yourself. True, the headline properly notes that Vice President Ford continues to hold a lead among members of his own party and independents who expressed a 1976 presidential preference. But that's only to be expected at this stage of the proceedings.

Yet, while 27 percent of Republicans surveyed listed Ford as their first choice for the White House, the real surprise, came in the runner-up figures. For there, although he's expressed no interest in repeating his 1964 role as Republican nominee, Barry Goldwater's name shows up in a tie with that of California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Each man is the choice of 16 percent of his fellow party members. Former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller ran third trailing with 12 percent.

The phenomenon, as indicated, rises out of the fact that alone among those drawing preferential votes, Goldwater is a certified noncandidate for the presidency. He has neither retired from his job nor undertaken a nationwide talent search for a presidential campaign staff.

Further, mention another run for the White House in his presence and all you'll get in return in an Arizona horselaugh.

Reagan and Rockefeller, of course, are everything but announced contenders, busy fleshing out their staffs and gearing up for a full run, presumably to begin after the first of next year. As for Ford, despite all his professions of disinterest in the 76 nomination, the Vice President by the very nature of his job is an automatic presidential candidate. Only a Shermanesque renunciation of White House ambitions could make it otherwise — and Ford hasn't come within a mile and three eighths of uttering anything like that.

So there we have Barry, with his 16 percent, just "pooping along" again, tied with Reagan, ahead of Rockefeller — and far ahead of an avowed candidate for the role of Republican Mr. Clean two years hence, Sen. Charles Percy.

According to Gallup, the Illinois Senator shows only 4 percent support for the nomination among members of his own party — a statistic that has to be somewhat disconcerting, if not downright discouraging, to the only early-bird candidate in the race overtly working to get a presidential campaign in motion.

At this early stage, statistics like these, to be sure, can mean all things to all people. Yet the Goldwater showing isn't to be lightly dismissed — as was done by one liberal observer — simply because the Arizona Senator isn't a "serious" contender for the White House.

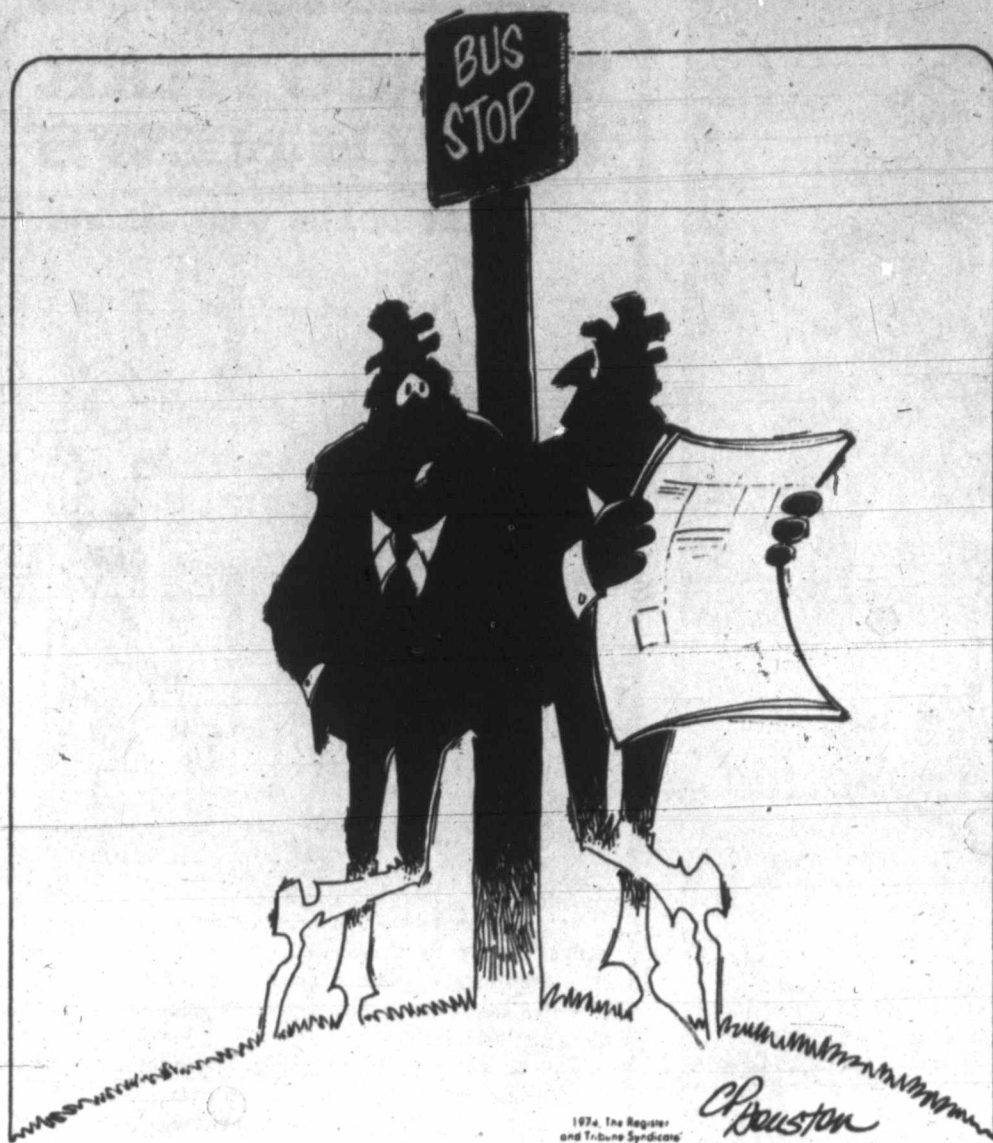

Let me submit that any nationally known political leader running second as his party members' choice for the Presidency, without so much as a "maybe" to encourage a candidacy, is ipso facto serious.

Conceded, Ford could have the nomination if the convention met today. And if two years from now, by the grace of Congress, the Vice President sits as President, the Reagan, Rockefeller, Percy, all might as well start angling for Cabinet positions, because that's as close as they're going to get to the Oval Office.

But if not Ford, then what? Tom Wicker can take it lightly if he wants. But looking at those figures, I'll say it again: keep your eye on a 1964 idea whose time, given the history of the past dozen years, may very well have come.

Budget Billions 'Petty Cash'

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Full-scale war between Turkey and Greece was averted and the seven-year-old military dictatorship in Athens toppled when Washington belatedly abandoned permissiveness and laid down the law to the Greek junta.

There is little doubt Greece would have responded to Turkey's invasion of Cyprus with its own invasion of Turkey were it not for Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco's backstage pressure in Athens. In most undiplomatic language, Sisco told the Greek generals that the U.S. would abandon them if they attacked Turkey. Jolted by this unexpected threat, the military dictatorship backed down and thereby guaranteed its own fall on Tuesday.

But there is no room for a self-congratulatory here. The generals held tyrannical power, so long because of Washington's coddling. The Cyprus crisis which has shaken the NATO alliance should have been averted by the United States. What's more, this menacing question remains: will bitterness by ordinary Greeks toward Washington, for well-nursing the dictatorship eventually propel their nation out of the Western alliance?

U.S. follies toward Athens date back to the Johnson administration, which embraced the Greek military coup of April 1967. U.S. diplomats in Athens felt the obscure colonels masterminding the coup would have collapsed at a single word from Washington, but that word never came. This policy was perpetuated by the Nixon administration, freezing tyranny in Greece.

Despite a growing coolness toward Athens recently, the U.S. has rigidly refused to pressure the military dictatorship. The current junta, dominated by Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ioannides, seemed puzzled that Washington demanded so little for friendship and military aid.

Noting American permissiveness coinciding with increased opposition from the Greek people, Ioannides decided on the ancient expedient of faltering regimes: a foreign adventure. Athens' plot to take over Cyprus should have been foreseen and prevented by Washington. Instead, as the junta expected, there was no U.S. interference.

Moreover, working-level State Department officials who wanted to condemn Athens for the Cyprus plot after it occurred were overruled by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, heeding Pentagon fears of losing Greece as NATO's anchor. Had Kissinger instead aligned himself with the British against the coup, congressional critics believe, the Turks might have been dissuaded from invading Cyprus — a contention bitterly disputed by administration policymakers.

By the time Sisco left Washington at 11 p.m. July 17 for his try at shuttle diplomacy, the administration was resigned to a Greek-Turkish war which would shatter the West's strategic position against Moscow and threaten the NATO alliance. Thankfully, at that belated hour, Sisco talked tough to the Greeks.

When Sisco arrived in Athens Friday morning, July 19, the generals informed him they would respond to Turkish invasion of Cyprus by invading Turkey. Sisco's hardboiled reply, except for the U.S. you have no friends in NATO — or the world. You can expect nothing from the Communist world. In the third world, you are pariahs. And if you attack Turkey, you will lose the U.S. and be totally isolated.

Flying to Ankara that night, Sisco told the Turks that the U.S. would work with Turkey and Great Britain to undo Greek meddling in Cyprus. But the Turks seemed determined to teach Athens a lesson. At 5:45 a.m. Saturday, Sisco was informed of the Turkish invasion of Cyprus to begin 15 minutes later. He left Ankara for Athens at 6:30 a.m.

In Athens, the Greeks reiterated their intention to counterattack against Turkey. Again, Sisco recited his tough line. Stunned that Washington finally meant business, the generals backed down. When Sisco left for Washington last Monday night after negotiating the shaky ceasefire, it was clear the Ioannides regime could not survive.

Luckily, it was replaced not by nationalistic young colonels vowing a redemptive war against Turkey but by a civilian government headed by old conservative Constantine Karamanlis. But the United States has not escaped the consequences of its follies. The harvest from anti-American seed sown in Greece since 1967 by Washington's pro-junta policies has yet to be revealed.

INSIDE REPORT No Room To Gloat Over Sisco's Cyprus Mission

By VICTOR RIESEL
There's no reason for the national budget — the people's money — to be a murky, almost unintelligible, set of volumes. Why is it so arcane, why is public spending suffering from financial elephantiasis? Will the U.S. really be spending a trillion dollars a year by the onrushing '80s? I asked all these questions, and more, of the one man who should have some answers, Roy Ash, Assistant to the President. Here is his reply written specially for this column:

By ROY L. ASH
Director, Office of Management and Budget
WASHINGTON — In my time in Washington, I have learned one of the basic principles of spending the taxpayers' money. Everybody wants the total amount spent to be lower, but nobody on the receiving end wants the cut to come out of his piece of the pie. You might say, everybody wants to go to heaven, but nobody wants to die.

I have rarely appeared before a congressional committee concerning the economy without hearing a speech about the need for economy in government. But the same committee member usually then urges full funding or additional funding for some particular program which he believes to be of paramount importance.

This is not hypocrisy, it is a question of perspective. Everyone is convinced his project is indispensable. But someone, somewhere, has to put all the pieces together and come up with a total budget we can live with.

Thanks to the new Budget Reform Act, we hope to get a better "handle" on government spending in the future than has been possible until now. This act places appropriate responsibility on the Congress to face up to the realities of fiscal policy and the realities of budgeting. In the future, Congress will be required to vote appropriations only in the context of a total spending ceiling — which Congress itself must set.

President Nixon has been trying to get this kind of reform ever since he entered the White House. It gives Congress an opportunity to do something more than orate about government spending.

President Nixon entered the White House in 1969 convinced by his years of experience in the legislative and executive branches that government reform was urgently needed. Wasteful duplication, overlapping and cross-purposing of federal programs were rampant throughout the system; and the national government was becoming so swollen in size and power as to overbalance the state and local governments and distort the whole federal concept on which the Republic was founded.

With literally thousands of laws on the federal statute books, and government daily becoming more complex and difficult to manage, the President recognized that he had only three choices in the conduct of the public business: to dictate, to abrogate or to delegate.

Wisely, he chose to delegate, to restore a proper share of resources and authority to the state and local governments, as well as to bring better management into the federal structure so that he could delegate to the fullest there.

OMB's responsibility is not merely to advise the President on spending levels for the various government programs but on the effectiveness of those programs.

I am sure we have all seen or heard of examples of wasteful government programming. Some of them are almost beyond belief.

Today, we are passing through a time of turmoil and change. Inflation is a continuing and disturbing threat to all of us. When we talk about government spending and the way it affects the economy, we are not engaging in double-dome rhetoric.

The President has said many times that fiscal restraint is one of our most essential weapons for combating inflation. He has directed that we do everything we can to hold down Federal spending for the next two years. Our objectives are to reduce the estimated deficit in fiscal year 1975 to the lowest possible level, and to bring the budget into balance in fiscal year 1976.

A stringent fiscal policy may not always sit with some special groups whose particular interest calls for more, rather than less, government spending. But the President's responsibility is to look after the interest of all American people.

We in the executive branch are firmly committed to doing everything we can and to cooperate fully with the Congress to restrain spending. We will not cop out in the battle against inflation.

HOW TO MAKE A DEPRESSION

From October, 1929, until January, 1942, the United States suffered what has come to be known as the Great Depression. We are looking right down the throat of another one. Some experts say that the Depression really did not get going until 1932 or 1933; also the mythology of the leftists tried to credit federal intervention by the "New Deal" with "saving" us from the Depression in 1934 or 1936 or some such early date.

The fact is that there was more unemployment on the average in 1940 than there was in 1930 and more in 1938 than in 1936. This despite the fact that the U.S. became the "arsenal of democracy" to supply munitions to enemies of Nazi Germany and the Axis powers and to prepare ourselves for war — too little and too late to prevent the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Leftist legislators and entrenched bureaucrats are driving headlong toward the same kind of economic disaster that hit the world in the Twenties. Inflation, trade curbs and crippling of business and capital, brought on by foolish policies of most world governments during and after the First World War, set the stage for the Depression and World War II.

Unfair and biased assaults, disguised as news and "documentaries" by the national media, especially network TV, almost have made recession a certainty and a depression likely. Not even during the days of the rush by socialists to posts of power in Washington in the early days of the New Deal was the business climate so hostile and oppressive. If good working people are to save their jobs and incomes, they will have to save the dollar and the tens of thousands of good businesses, large and small, which provide the jobs, necessities and luxuries on which we all depend.

There's a new Pentagon doll. You wind it up and it overruns.

Congressman Aspin (Dem., Wisc.) would like to cross the military budget with a boomerang. When they throw it away, it comes back.

Dean Burch's criticism of the impeachment panel sounded like McCarthy. Not Joe — more likely Charlie.

Congressman Fish (Rep., N.Y.) said Nixon paid enormous attention to detail. No wonder — the help was getting either careless or arrested.

There's a new dance called the Watergate. You break into the dance hall, face the music, then side-step.

Your representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays instead of serving you if he sacrifices it to your opinion.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

When today's deal was played, our South declarer arrived at a good slam contract. As will be observed, his play was top-notch, and the fulfillment of his contract was a well-deserved reward.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:
South West North East
2♣ Pass 3♣ Pass
6♣ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

The bidding was standard. When North raised to three spades, he promised a minimum of 7 high-card points and positive trump support. South now correctly assumed that the hands belonged to a slam.

When the dummy was put down, it was revealed that declarer had two potential losers, one in hearts and one in diamonds. Since the loss of a heart trick was inevitable, the success of the contract depended on the avoidance of the loss of a diamond trick. And the latter, in turn, required guessing, which was to finesse for the queen of diamonds.

After capturing the opening heart lead with his ace, declarer cashed the ace, jack, and ten of trumps, noting that West followed suit to all three trump leads. Next came the ace, queen, and king of clubs, with the observation that everybody around the table followed suit to all three leads.

At this point, I imagine that most players would have tended to finesse against East for the diamond queen, on the knowledge the West had started with three trumps, and East with but one. East, with more "unknown" cards in his hand, was more likely to have the diamond queen. But even as he finessed, it would be with no real feeling that the finesse would win.

After cashing his three top clubs, our actual declarer led the jack of hearts to West's queen (which he was known to possess, based on his opening lead of the heart king). West returned to heart ten, which South ruffed. On this trick, East discarded a low diamond.

West was known to have started with three trumps and three clubs. And with East having failed to have followed suit to the third heart lead, West had to have been dealt exactly six hearts.

Next came the jack of diamonds to the board's king. West playing the four-spot. All of West's original cards were now known. The "guaranteed-to-win" finessses was then taken against East's diamond queen, and that was that.

Sewing Lessons Scheduled In Pampa Friday

The Stretch and Sew Basic Eight sewing lessons will begin Friday, Aug. 2 in the Courthouse Annex meeting room from 1-5 p.m. The public is invited to enroll and participate in these lessons. Cost is $15 for the eight-lesson series to be held August 2, 9, 16, 23.

An instructor from the Stretch and Sew Fabric Center in Amarillo will be teaching the lessons.

This is being sponsored by the County Extension Service and for further information call Elaine Houston, County Extension Agent, 669-7429.

Home Injuries Involve 20 Million Americans Yearly

NEW YORK (UPI)—The vice chairman of the Consumer Products Safety Commission accidentally set fire to her electric dishwasher when a wooden spoon fell into the back after the wash cycle was completed.

Another woman used a celery stalk to push food into her blender while it was running. The blades pulled both the celery and her hand into the cutting assembly.

A 9-month-old baby suffered second degree burns when she turned a coffee pot over on herself.

Each year an estimated 20 million Americans are injured in accidents involving products used in and around the home. Some 110,000 are injured permanently and 30,000 are killed.

Barbara H. Franklin, commission vice chairman, thinks prevention of such accidents will take a combination of consumer education and more stringent safety standards for consumer goods ranging from bicycles and power mowers to small household appliances.

In an interview, Ms. Franklin said consumers are becoming more safety conscious. Her agency hopes to increase their awareness. She was in New York to address a meeting of the portable appliance division of the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM).

She said the commission is compiling a hazard index with data from 119 hospital emergency rooms around the country. Many reports involve small children who burn themselves by tipping over electric coffee pots.

Many others are caused by women who accidentally hit the "on" button of a mixer or blender while inserting or removing the beating or cutting assembly.

"Maybe manufacturers need a label saying 'unplug before dismantling,' or maybe some appliances need safety locks," she said.

Ms. Franklin's views on industry responsibility raised hackles at a press seminar here for appliance editors and writers. Manufacturer opposed what they called government intervention. They said industry was doing all it could to build safety into products. Some said more safety features could be added if consumers were willing to pay extra.

Meantime, a commission hotline established last November on a trial basis keeps ringing at the rate of about 2,000 calls a week. The toll free number—800-638-2666—is manned 12 hours daily, starting at 8:30 a.m.

Some people ask about safety features to look for on products they plan to buy. Others describe hazards they have encountered.

Ms. Franklin said the commission also receives letters and petitions asking for safety rules. It is going to channel all this energy into a consumers' panel to work with industry, government and researchers.

Ms. Franklin is recruiting panelists with a letter to women's organizations. It says, in part:

"I think the safety of a product can best be judged by the way it performs in everyday life. In other words, we need more understanding of the human side of products—how people use and misuse them.

"We need women to ask the questions that technical people in the laboratories might forget.

"We need women who may also have technical expertise."

Anyone interested in joining the roster of consumer volunteers should send name, address, phone number and brief description of interests, experience and occupation to:

Barbara Hackman Franklin, Vice Chairman, Consumer Products Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207.

Charcoal briquets are made by converting forest industry byproducts under very high heat. They are then pulverized, mixed with other ingredients to improve quality, pressed hydraulically into pillow shapes, dried and packaged.

One of the questions I'm most often asked is this one: How do I get my children to drink more milk?

That's easy to answer. Just tell me what your child's favorite flavor is. Combine with milk and/or ice cream and it's easy as sippin' through a straw!

Is it peanut butter? Mix 1/2 cup of peanut butter with 1 pint of softened vanilla ice cream, then add 2 cups of milk and 1/2 teaspoon of vanilla extract, and you'll get 4 to 5 cups that will serve two or three children, nicely, and they'll thank you sweetly.

Is it chocolate and peanut butter? That's easy, too. Just substitute 1/2 cup of chocolate syrup for the vanilla and beat all together. You'll then have a chocolate peanut butter shake.

Oh, peppermint is your child's favorite? Whip a pint of peppermint stick ice cream with 1 quart of milk, then top with scoops of peppermint ice cream. If you like, dress it up with crushed peppermint stick candy or give them a stirrer of a peppermint candy cane. They'll go for it.

A rainbow of milk drinks? Use a pint of sherbet for each quart of milk and stir together. You can select from orange, lemon, lime, pineapple or raspberry sherbets if the youngster wants variety.

Don't forget the frozen fruit juice concentrates, as a base for milk drinks, too. You can thaw 1/2 of a cup for a 6-ounce can of the frozen concentrate, mix with a pint of vanilla ice cream, then add 3 cups of milk and gingerale to fill the glasses.

Woman rescues dogs living in "sin"

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Now I've heard everything. Some woman out in California was so appalled by animals living in "sin" that she has founded The First Religion For Animals. She recently "married" two poodles, so now I suppose she can sleep better knowing that whatever these dogs do is legal, and therefore respectable.

Abby, do you actually believe that dogs are ashamed of anything they do, and that it makes a difference to them if they are "married" or not?

PUZZLED IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR PUZZLED: A "marriage ceremony" won't mean a thing to a couple of poodles, because dogs are not ashamed of their natural biological urges, which is more than I can say for the lady in California. Her "marrying" the dogs will help HER—not them.

DEAR ABBY: As the mother of two and grandmother of none (so far), may I jump into the "to-have-or-not-to-have-children" issue?

When anyone asks my daughter (who's been married for four years) whether she plans to have any children, she says: "We're not ready for children yet. Children are great, but one you have them, if you find out that motherhood isn't all it's cracked up to be, you can't send 'em back."

I think her attitude is far more realistic than the girls who get all dewy-eyed over tiny babies—until they spit up, wet their diapers and cry all night.

I know. My children were no picnic to raise, and I admire my daughter and others in her generation who are wise enough to do their growing up before they have children of their own to bring up.

MRS. S. IN VA.

DEAR MRS. S.: Right on! Nothing is sadder than seeing children trying to bring up children.

DEAR ABBY: My son is being married. His mother and I have been divorced for two years, after 26 years of marriage. She still hasn't married the loverboy who broke up our home.

I have had no contact with my "ex" since our divorce, and although I've forgiven her, I don't care if I never see her again.

I am informed that Loverboy will be at the wedding. I don't wish to shake hands with either him or her.

Wouldn't it simplify matters if I just stayed away? Any suggestions?

MIDWESTERNITE

DEAR MID: If you want to go to your son's wedding, why let Loverboy keep you away? You needn't shake hands with anyone. Keep a comfortable distance, and if you meet head-on, give them a polite nod, and keep walking.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THOSE READERS WHO CHARGED ME WITH CONSULTING A DOZEN EXPERTS INSTEAD OF A DICTIONARY TO LEARN THE DEFINITION OF THE WORD "nescience."

When I came upon the word, whose meaning I did not know, I immediately got out my hermit edition of Webster's New International Dictionary, and looked it up.

I then telephoned a dozen evadite friends, NOT TO LEARN WHAT THE WORD MEANT, BUT TO ASK IF THEY HAD EVER HEARD OF IT.

All were nescient! But after admitting their nescience, each one reached for his dictionary, and looked up the word while still on the telephone.

Am I vindicated?

Thursday afternoon was very enjoyable to the seniors who met in their regular weekly party at Lovett Memorial Library sponsored by Pampa Altrusans.

Altrusans present were Mrs. Louise Sewell, chairman, Geneva Tidwell, Altrusa president, Olive Hills, Lillian Snow and Marian Jameson.

Women of the Moose were hostesses and serving sandwiches, cake and coffee were Mrs. Lula Mae Engle, Wanda Hunt, Virginia Beard, Dovie Toler, Ruby Jones, Nancy Davis, Alleen Bennett and Myra Roth.

Door prizes were awarded the oldest of the group—Mrs. Edith Lawrence, 86, and I. Crumm, 89.

Greeted as visitors were Mrs. Bertha Gates, a former member back after three years away. She now resides in Austin.

Other guests were Mrs. Joe Curtis and her mother, Mrs. Wylolene Hillier of Eunice, La., and Mrs. Bell Harris and Curry White both of Pampa.

Mrs. Troop is reported convalescing nicely in Highland Hospital.

D.C. Reed is a patient in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo for surgery. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmons wish to thank the group for remembering them during their illness.

O. L. Lester lost a grandson and a great-grandson in a plane explosion near San Diego, Calif. Friday. They were returning home from when plane went down, killing three.

Mrs. Nancy Yoder of Santa Rosa, Calif. spent several days last week with Mrs. Lucy Hale. She was here to attend the Pampa High School '43' class reunion.

Ms. Pearl Slaton accompanied by her son and family, attended a family reunion in Abilene last week.

Mr. and Mrs. O.L. Ray visited relatives in Wichita Falls and Crosbyton last week.

Mrs. Lillie Fulton spent last week with her sister in Amarillo, who had been severely burned.

Island Vacation — In Your Own Backyard

NEW YORK (ED)—Come summer, people start thinking about getting away from it all. That's great if you're entitled to vacation time and have saved your pennies. If not—you can still enjoy a change of pace without ever leaving your own backyard.

One way to compensate for not being able to go to the islands this year is to have a luau that will be the talk of the town. Planning a party can be as much fun as planning a trip. And you can invite your friends along.

First, start working on your suntan when you send out the invitations. For the most successful tanning, your own backyard has many advantages over a tropical beach. At home it's easier to have all your sunning accessories at your fingertips, to avoid the hottest part of the day and to time yourself in the sun. Remember it's best to luau, buy a skin-revealing hostess outfit in bright, tropical colors.

When planning the menu, think in terms of native foods such as seafood and fruit. Packaged sauce mixes will make steak teriyaki and sweet and sour spare ribs easy to prepare. And pre-bottled mixes are the answer for tall cool drinks. Keep everything quick and easy—after all, you're on vacation. Decorations will set the mood for your party. Seashells and flowers with lots of candles or paper lanterns will turn your backyard into a tropical island. Create a relaxed atmosphere and let your guests help themselves to the buffet. Of course, brightly-colored paper plates are a must for easy clean-up. Now relax and enjoy your party!

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, AUGUST 2

Your birthday today: Features a full moon at 2:46 a.m. EDT. Emotional expression is intense all year, colors all relationships, attracts extra personal support. The theme of the year is facing facts, making the best of them for material and spiritual growth. Today's natives are generally pleasant, sociable people who rely on intuition and speak plainly.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Accept cooperation from those on hand, never mind distant celebrities or departing friends. Expect little progress in speculative ventures. Evening brings sudden insight.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Turnover of personnel is typical of today. Take a look at the new faces, give as good as you get. There's much trouble shooting to do today and tonight.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Wind up your work week smoothly and swiftly, adding no extra refinements. Just moving about doesn't serve any useful purpose—stay put and think!

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Mend your home ties, make peace elsewhere, where feasible. You're on your own resources in any financial venture or improvement program: be thrifty accordingly.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Extra work is normal for today. Be sure you have enough time to finish what you accept, as you'll get very little help with it. Avoid people who quibble.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Get your sense of humor into the open, convert the day's stress into strength for adventure. Even routines can be fun. Quit early for a change of pace.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Old problems must be solved as you face new challenges. Some associates are helpful, some have different ideas. Meditate as best you can, but get going on your own.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Use your imagination to evade argument while you prepare further plans. Family incidents require more than your first reaction.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: If you relate well to those within sight and cope with here-and-now conditions, you'll be way-ahead. Lump-sum transactions are favored.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Close out a long-term obligation, clear your space for something new. In disputes, state your case simply. It's a very brisk evening of lively talk.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Nobody is satisfied with the way personal situations develop today, as consequences of past actions come to crisis. Work with what you have toward a fresh start.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: All sorts of long-concealed information comes to light, surprises you. Expect heavier work, but conserve your energy with regular pauses for rest.

Enlarged Blood Vessels In Nose

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have enlarged blood vessels in my nose. The redness is quite prominent and embarrassing. A dermatologist prescribed an ointment some time ago, but it still hasn't cleared up. Is there anything else I can do? — B.A.W.

From the description I would assume it to be acne rosacea, a skin condition seen in older people, particularly women although, as you know, not by any means confined to them.

It's a matter of small blood vessels becoming dilated and more prominent. The nose itself thickens, and flushing extends to other parts of the face as a rule.

Wanting it to clear up completely is probably a vain wish, but there are ways of minimizing it. Alcohol as well as any hot, spicy drink tends to exaggerate the condition — it has been nicknamed "brandy nose" — and while it is not by any means limited to drinkers, drinking is a factor.

The ointment you tried probably was a drying agent, but since it didn't bring results you should see the dermatologist for something more effective. Such local applications are usually ineffective.

Plain "nerves" can be involved in some cases, and mild sedatives often help when that is the situation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any truth to the statement, "If you want to get pregnant you can't have sexual intercourse every night because it will kill the sperm before it has a chance to impregnate you"? Mrs. K.M.

That's essentially nonsense. Intercourse doesn't "kill the sperm." If a husband has a slightly low sperm count, it often helps to avoid intercourse for several days before your fertile period starts. After all, pregnancy is possible only a few days a month at the time you are ovulating.

envelope to me in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on painful tailbone? Would you suggest having it X-rayed? Do you think it could be arthritis? Is it common? — Mrs. D.S.

The term "painful tailbone" may be something of a misnomer. It is painful, to be sure, but the chances are it's not the actual tailbone but the surrounding muscles that are at fault.

The medical term is "coccygodynia," a reference to the fact that the joining of several vertebrae at the base of the spine takes the form of the beak of a cuckoo (coccyx). It is thought to be the vestigial tail in man.

The cause of this common ailment is in most cases poor, slouching posture or the use of uncomfortable chairs over long periods. Secretaries take note.

The cure is fortunately often equally simple — finding a good, firm cushion, changes in posture habits, periodic soaking in a hot tub, anything that relaxes the muscles in the area. The source of the pain is not so much in the coccyx itself as it is spasm of muscles attached to it. Thus, massage of these muscles through the rectum is helpful in most cases.

Such "pampering" usually brings relief while the condition runs its course. The same precautions usually prevent a recurrence.

I doubt that X-rays would tell your doctor any more than he already suspects; however, if there had been in the past a sitting fall, it may reveal a fracture of the bone.

Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is also vital to human life. For this reason Dr. Thosteson has entitled his booklet "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly." For a copy write to him in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Now There's Two Copacabanas

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — The world-famous Copacabana night club — closed in June 1973, in what was then considered a death blow to New York night life — is coming back on the after-dark scene, with double strength... two clubs instead of one.

A group headed by "a very substantial man" is ready to lease the Copacabana site at 10 E. 60th St. where Joe E. Lewis, Carmen Miranda, Martin & Lewis, Ted Lewis, Don Rickles, Sophie Tucker, Jimmy Durante, Frank Sinatra, Eddie Fisher, Bobby Darin and Johnny Ray and the Copa Girls used to star.

This group has an exciting new idea for no-star entertainment in the "showcase" field. It wants anonymity until the lease is signed.

It will not use the famous Copacabana name. That has been bought by another group, some wealthy, headed by Clarence Jones of the Amsterdam News, from Claudia Podell, widow of the Copacabana proprietor Jules Podell. This would be a private club, with 2,000 memberships at $5,000 each and would use "Las Vegas star names with live dance music and a huge backgammon room."

Claude Philippe, head of the April in Paris Ball, may be in demand. It is looking for a site for its "Copacabana" club and would gladly take the Copacabana itself — but that seems to have been grabbed by that secret group. Follow?

Both groups feel there is now a resurgence of night life, although when the "Copacabana" closed last summer (with Dawn and Tony Orlando singing "Tie a Yellow Ribbon" very rousingly every show, everybody believed it was "the end of an era." It may be the start of a new one.

Harry Hershfield, 89 and too ill to keep a speaking date in Milwaukee, thought up an alibi. He explained, "They wanted somebody with more experience."

In Las Vegas, where they have few clocks, Milton Berle wondered what time it was and knocked on a hotel room door, disturbing an amorous couple. The man shouted, "Don't you know it's 6 o'clock in the morning?" Berle backed away meekly saying, "Thank you very much."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... David Frye (no matter what he says) loves President Nixon. Ed Sommerfeld, his mgr., says Frye's anti-Nixon jokes, which could have ruined him, have doubled his price in the colleges. He's now working on Jerry Ford jokes.

William Powell, jiving leisurely in Palm Springs, was 82 July 29. Julie Harris was sitting in a coffee shop in a Holland redlight district while filming "The Hiding Place" — when a procurer asked her to join his stable.

Of interest to Nixon: Linda Lovelace says she'll get $125,000 for a film.

Linda Lovelace for President... Jan Peerce's busted hip will keep him out of "Laugh a Little, Cry a Little," a couple of weeks but he promises to be healed for B'way... Oscar Dark House: Joe Silver in "The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz"... Cornelia Sharpe has two films out soon, "Open Season" and "The Reincarnation of Peter Proud."

Barber Gio Hernandez (of Jerry of Bergdorf - Goodman's shop) will fly to France Aug. 5 on a crucial mission — to trim John Lindsay's locks for his big movie scenes... Ray Stark wants to hold the "Funny Lady" premiere party at the planetarium. (His "Funny Girl" party was in a vast tent on a B'way parking lot.)

Show Biz Quiz: Who are Thelma Ford and Smylla Brind? Ans. to yesterday's: Fed Astaire and Ginger Rogers danced together in films for the first time in "Flying Down to Rio."

Secret Stuff: Insiders have a big laugh at the sexy scenes in a new film — they know the male star is really acting when he appears romantic with any female... Bing Crosby's film company has begun a sequel to its surprise hit, "Walking Tall." (No, it will not star Mickey Rooney!)... Dustin Hoffman'll try his hand at directing a show (for producer Roger Stevens).

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A bachelor complained about the new sliding door closets, without doorknobs: "There's no place to hang shirts."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Anti-Nixonites have a new bumper sticker: "There's a Ford in Your Immediate Future."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Sometimes a man who tells you what a fool he used to be is an optimist."

EARL'S PEARLS: The late Herb Shriver once kidded beauty contests: "We had a fat girl contest back home. The winner wasn't voted most beautiful girl, or most popular girl — she was just voted 'MOST girl.'"

John Markus reports that his '74 car is full of buzzers: "There's a buzzer to warn me when I'm low on gas, and another to warn me what the price of gas is."

That's earl, brother. All Rights Reserved.

Under Twenty

A common complaint from both boys and girls is that the member of the opposite sex they like very much is only interested in having a friendly relationship. They aren't interested in going steady or having a more serious affair.

The complaint is usually accompanied by the question, "How can I get him/her to really like me?" It would be wonderful if there were some formula which could be offered to make the ideal situation come about. Unfortunately, there just isn't. In the meantime, if you're caught in the common situation described above, don't turn your back on the "just friends" arrangement. It has lots of advantages.

A person who turns down a more steady relationship is really trying to tell you that he or she isn't ready to settle down. They prefer to keep their freedom to see others. In place of a serious relationship they offer a warm friendship.

There's a big plus in this arrangement. It is far better to be honest about how one feels than to enter reluctantly into a relationship that probably has little chance of lasting. Under pressure there may be a "yes." Later everything can fall apart.

A boy - girl friendship rather than girlfriend-boyfriend arrangement has lots going for it for both parties. Each enjoys the freedom to spend more time with others and in activities that each enjoys beyond dating.

It means exposure to other people and an opportunity to mature in person - to person relationships. Yet, it offers a companionship and pleasant dates when both wish to see each other.

For the one who wishes the arrangement to be more serious, there is lots of hope in a friendship. Good friendships have an excellent opportunity to grow and grow. Eventually the growth makes for greater closeness and, perhaps, a love that is founded on a very solid relationship.

The feeling of love combined with friendship is an ideal arrangement, one well worth waiting for. While you're waiting it out, don't knock the "just friends" relationship. (Distributed by Columbia Features, Inc.)

Gaylord Loses Fourth Straight

United Press International
Just a month ago, Gaylord Perry couldn't lose. Now he can't win.

Perry, who hasn't won since July 3, was shelved for six runs in four innings by the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night as he failed in his fifth try for his 16th victory. The Orioles wound up with a 7-4 triumph over Cleveland.

Back on July 3, Perry won his 15th straight victory to boost his record to 15-1. He was one game away from tying the American League record for consecutive victories. Now he's 15-5 and has lost four straight.

Perry is philosophical about it all.

"Some nights you don't throw as hard as you do on others," he said. "I felt good. I have no complaints. A couple of base hits went through on the ground, but that's the way the game is played. I went to my breaking ball after the first couple of innings because you've got to try something else."

Rich Coggins got a leadoff walk to start the first inning rally against Perry. Paul Blair singled and Tommy Davis was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

Bob Grich singled to right field on the 8-2 pitch, scoring Coggins and Blair. Boog Powell walked to load the bases again and Baylor singled to center, scoring Davis and Grich. Earl Williams walked and Baylor, who went to second on an outfield error, came around on a pair of groundouts and the Orioles were ahead to stay.

In the other AL games, Kansas City edged Minnesota, 3-2; Texas nipped Oakland, 7-6; California routed Chicago, 14-4; Boston edged Detroit, 5-4; and New York beat Milwaukee, 4-3. In the National League, Pittsburgh downed New York, 8-3; Montreal swept Chicago, 7-4 and 4-0; Atlanta blanked San Francisco, 9-0; Cincinnati beat Houston, 4-0; St. Louis outlasted Philadelphia, 9-8; and Los Angeles routed San Diego, 15-4.

Royals 3, Twins 2
Amos Otis' two-run homer in the ninth lifted Kansas City to the victory over Minnesota. Otis' homer followed a single by John Mayberry and broke up a pitching duel between Steve Busby and Bert Blyleven. Busby needed help in the ninth inning from Doug Bird while recording his 15th win.

Rangers 7, A's 6
Texas starter Steve Hargan blew a 5-0 lead when Oakland scored six runs in the third, but the Rangers came back to get the victory on Tom Grieve's eighth-inning sacrifice fly. Steve Foucault picked up the win with 4 2-3 innings of shutout relief.

Red Sox 5, Tigers 4
Luis Tiant won his fifth straight complete game victory to pick up his 16th triumph and tie Wilbur Wood for the league lead as the Red Sox downed the Tigers. Boston won it with

Houston Edges Florida Blazers

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Texans' offense finally scored a touchdown Wednesday night.

And, surprisingly enough, that was enough to hand the Florida Blazers their first loss of the World Football League season, 7-6, in front of 16,268 at the Astrodome.

"We have to be the No. 1 defensive team in the country," shouted Texas coach Jim Garrett following his club's win, which evened Houston's record at 2-2.

"I'm proud to see a game where we had none of our regular offensive line and only crippled running backs and could still stay in the game and win."

Jim Nance plunged over from the one early in the game after Houston safety John Mallory had picked off a pass from Florida quarterback Bob Davis and romped 59 yards to just short of the goal line.

After Nance's score, the Houston defense limited Florida to 74 total yards and a pair of field goals from Les Perry — one of 26 yards and one of 21.

"The basketball sized scores in the World Football League are atrocious," Garrett said. "By midseason a team with a defense like ours will be in control."

Nation's Best Vying In Top O' Texas

By PAUL SIMS

Although Don Gay and John Davis, the number one and two bull riders in the nation, bypassed the Top O' Texas Rodeo for a rodeo in Great Falls, Mont., the competition is still fierce and top-caliber in the Pampa affair, with several of the best cowboys in the country vying for portions of the $3,000 purse.

Gay, who competed last year, and Davis, who travels with Gay, had intended to come but balked at the last minute, heading north instead. "We'll probably come to Pampa next year," said Gay, who ranks fourth for All-Around Cowboys honors in the Rodeo Cowboys Association Standings.

The absence of the two bull riders probably won't keep people away from the Top O' Texas Rodeo because of entrants who are or will be here, including four of the top 15 cowboys contesting for the nation's All-Around Cowboy.

Larry Mahan of Dallas, last year's All-Around Cowboy and in third place this year despite his semi-retired status, will compete in all three riding events — bull, saddle bronc and bareback bronc — Saturday night.

Mahan has won $22,156 this year, putting him behind Tom Ferguson of Miami, Okla., ($42,574) and Leo Camarillo of Oakdale, Calif. ($25,900). Mahan, six-time world champion, set a new record in money — winnings last year with $64,447, beating Ferguson by exactly $19,000. He also placed second in saddle bronc riding, third in bull riding and sixth in bareback riding.

Bobby Berger of Norman, Okla., has won $17,762 in All-Around Cowboy competition this year and ranks sixth. He competed in saddle bronc and bull riding last night, and did well, despite falling off Wild West to be eliminated in bull riding. Berger racked up 74 points in the saddle bronc event and is the leader going into tonight's performance.

The ninth-ranked All-Around Cowboy, Jack Ward of Odessa, will compete in the bareback and bull riding events Saturday night. Ward finished seventh in the standings last year, picking up $31,881. He is in his fifth year as a professional.

Barry Burk of Duncan

Okla., who placed eighth last year and is in the 13th position this year, vies tonight in calf roping. He holds the fourth position in that event this year in the RCA standings after his impressive second-place finish in the final rankings last year.

Burk, 31, last year finished runnerup for world champion calf roper for the sixth time in his career.

Tonight's performance will have an added flair — John McBeth of Burden, Kan., will compete in saddle bronc riding. He is currently the top-ranked cowboy in the event with $18,173 in earnings this year.

Okla., who will also compete Saturday, roped a calf in 16.3 seconds, giving him the lead in the event. Ford is the number 10 calf roper in the RCA standings.

Dwayne Newton of Smithfield, Tex., who rates 13th as a steer wrestler, had no time last night, failing to force the steer down.

Jena Felts of Woodward, Okla., did as expected in girls barrel racing by finishing in 17.3 seconds to capture the best time thus far.

Mrs. Felts, the number one barrel racer in the country with $10,220, will compete Saturday in the rodeo's final performance.

Friday night, Jerome Robinson of Brandon, Neb., number 13 bull rider and one of the top young cowboy prospects in the country, will compete.

Surprisingly, a small crowd witnessed last night's performance. Action starts at 8 p.m. today, Friday and Saturday.

North Outscores South In Coaches Cage Game

HOUSTON (UPI) — Guard Larry Harris of South Oak Cliff drove for two baskets in the final minute of overtime to pull the North to an 85-77 victory over the South Wednesday night in the Texas High School Coaches Association all-star basketball game.

The North outscored the South, 12-4, in the overtime, led by Harris' six points and the rebounding of Denton's Gary Goodner and Jeff Swanson of Houston Westchester.

Harris got the North out in front in the extra period with a short jump shot, but the South's Rand Hicks of Bandera tied it up. Then the North, which ended a two-game South winning streak, ripped off 10 points to the South's two with Amarillo Palo Duro's Fred Mitchell scoring a basket following Harris' four points to cap the victory.

The North finish overcame a strong South comeback in the final period led by Arthur Edwards of San Antonio Brackenridge.

Clear Lake's David Buchanan and Hicks.

They brought their team back from a 34-47 deficit at the end of three quarters to a 62-62 tie after three and a half minutes into the final period.

The North got 22 points from Goodner, one of three players who tied in the voting for the most valuable player of the game. Goodner was deadecked with Mitchell and Buchanan, who led the South with 15 points and also picked off 10 rebounds.

Stars Stop Jacksonville

United Press International
If the New York Stars have one knack, it's making a game interesting, even if the opponent is reduced to using a quarterback who hasn't played the position since high school.

All three of the Stars' previous games were decided in the last two minutes and Wednesday night was no exception, although both Jacksonville quarterbacks — Kay Stephenson and Kim Hammond — were on the bench in the last quarter receiving medical attention.

Quarterback Tom Sherman gave the Stars a 24-16 lead early in the third period when he leaped over a pile of defenders for a touchdown and then passed to George Sauer in the corner of the end zone for the action point.

Then the Stars' defense, led by former National Football League All-Stars Gerry Phitbin and John Elliott, took over. On the last play of the third period, they descended on Stephenson as he tried to pass and he went out with cartilage damage in his knee and bruised ribs.

In came Hammond and he was thrown for a nine-yard loss in his first play and then knocked unconscious on the second when the Stars' Jerry Ellison fell on his head. That left Jacksonville without a quarterback for almost the entire last period, but the Sharks still almost managed to pull it out.

Jeff Davis, a running back from Mars Hill activated just before game time, was inserted at quarterback and after a rocky start, he twice brought the Sharks into scoring position only to be intercepted once and have a near TD pass ruled out of bounds.

Jacksonville even went to a shotgun formation before the Stars finally held on for the 24-16 win as Davis' pass in the end zone was knocked down with 18 seconds to go.

"I volunteered to go in," Davis said. "We didn't have anybody else. I was nervous before I went out there, but once I got into the game, I didn't have time to think about it."

In other WFL action, Birmingham remained unbeaten by edging winless Detroit, 21-18; Houston upset previously unbeaten Florida, 7-6; and Philadelphia routed Portland, 25-7. Southern California is at Memphis in the national television game tonight.

North Chosen To Win 40th Coaches Grid Tilt

HOUSTON (UPI) — The North, which holds a 22-14-3 edge over the South in four decades of all-star warfare at the Texas High School Coaches Association annual school, rates a slight edge to win the 40th game of the series tonight.

The principal reasons behind the favorite's tag lie in the bruising running of Tyler John Tyler's Earl Campbell and Longview's Mike Mock and the pass catching ability of Dallas Roosevelt's John Washington, the state's most prolific receiver in history.

Washington, whose presence is expected to keep the South defense from jamming against the power thrusts of Campbell and Mock, accounted for 2,973 yards and 36 touchdowns during his career.

Quarterback Rodney Allison and slotback Steve Collier of Forney will round out the North backfield and the North coaching staff has said it expects to be throwing 25-to-33 per cent of the time.

Talks Resume This Afternoon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's chief labor mediator kept the National Football League players and owners grinding away in a marathon negotiating session until the early hours of the morning today, trying to hammer out a settlement of the NFL players' strike.

After recessing a 13-hour and 45-minute round of talks at 1:45 a.m., W. J. Usery Jr. summoned the two sides back for another bargaining session at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Tuesday's session began at 10 a.m., recessed for lunch at 1 p.m. and then settled down for what amounted to an endurance contest at 3 p.m.

Usery declined to say whether there had been substantial progress made during the course of the long day. He said that during the night session the controversial freedom issues had been discussed "long and hard."

"I wouldn't minimize the differences between them," he said of the bargaining. "It's very difficult and very tough."

Most of the morning was taken up with Usery and his aides meeting separately with bargaining representatives of both sides, although there was a joint meeting of one half hour before the luncheon recess.

The NFL players received some moral support from Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, who blasted football owners "for misleading fans and the American public."

Today's Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eddie Mathews picked up the phone the other day to speak with Hank Aaron.

"I see where you're getting your name in the paper," Mathews opened the conversation, laughing.

"Yeah," answered Atlanta's home run king, laughing a little also.

The two, close friends more than 20 years now, yakked back and forth while talking mostly about generalities.

One subject they never even touched on was the Braves' management. Not so much because it's such a sensitive subject but because both knew each other's views on it and neither felt there really was anything more to talk about.

More than a week has passed now since Vice President Eddie Robinson let go Eddie Mathews and replaced him with Clyde King, and Mathews still insists he has "absolutely no resentment" toward anybody connected with the club.

"I listen to the Braves' games on the radio every night and pull for 'em," Mathews says. "Listen, I have no ill feeling toward Eddie Robinson or anybody with the Braves. They did all right by me. I was very fortunate."

"You have to remember I was out of baseball two years and they brought me back as a coach and then named me manager. I managed my own way, too. They didn't put any restrictions on me. I was my own man. They allowed me to be.

"If you get fired managing the way somebody else wants you to, then you've got room for regret. But I did it my way, the way Eddie Mathews wanted to do it. I'm sure rumors are going around about the reasons I was fired. There are always rumors, but I can't help that. I didn't go in there and say 'you have to give me a reason why you're doing this.' They didn't lay out a list of specifications. They just felt a change was in order. That's all there was to it."

"When they told me they were making a change, I said 'you're the boss.' I understand baseball well enough to know changes sometimes are necessary. But my relationship with the Braves isn't any different than it was. It's fine. I'm talking to them about a job now. I want to stay in baseball in some capacity."

"Manage again? Right now I think talking about it would be a little premature."

On Aaron, Atlanta's ex-manager says:

"I think if a man wants to change his mind, he's entitled. Women do it all the time. The thing some people never really understand is that Hank has been under tremendous pressure. Being Hank Aaron, he's watched so carefully and every word he says is listened to intently."

"I'm not saying he was misquoted. He said what he did over television as well as to the press. But aren't you and I allowed to change our opinions? Isn't everyone? Why shouldn't Hank Aaron be allowed the same privilege as any other individual?"

"Now I see where they're saying he's listening to the Rev. Jesse Jackson too much and that he's only saying what Jesse Jackson tells him to say. I don't know anything about that. I know I have people here in Atlanta I rely upon a great deal. What's wrong with that?"

"I'm the same as I ever was," Stargell said afterward. "When I'm hitting, I hit 'em all and when I'm not hitting, I don't hit any of them."

Usery declined to say whether there had been substantial progress made during the course of the long day. He said that during the night session the controversial freedom issues had been discussed "long and hard."

"I wouldn't minimize the differences between them," he said of the bargaining. "It's very difficult and very tough."

Most of the morning was taken up with Usery and his aides meeting separately with bargaining representatives of both sides, although there was a joint meeting of one half hour before the luncheon recess.

The NFL players received some moral support from Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, who blasted football owners "for misleading fans and the American public."

The Kitchen Almanac

"Fruit balls" add a festive touch to summer desserts and salads... Summer cooler — to cool the kitchen while cooking hang a wet bath towel in front of an open kitchen window. Incoming air is cooled by the moisture of the towel.

Cooking tips from the pros... The chefs at the Black Angus in Minneapolis make their renowned hush brown potatoes using baked potatoes. (The baked variety make the difference!) Potatoes are baked the night before and stored overnight in the refrigerator. The next day the potatoes are shredded and cooked to a golden brown in vegetable oil. (The oil is repeatedly drained off after the potatoes have been turned.)

Perhaps the only thing better than a cup of freshly brewed coffee is a cup of freshly brewed coffee freshly ground. A coffee mill—say KitchenAid researchers—releases the full-bodied flavor of coffee when you want it. Remember, most dark green and deep yellow vegetables excel as inexpensive and dependable sources of vitamin A.

Plan some "freeze it" meals. Cooked turkey or chicken casseroles freeze well. Matter of fact, any type of cooked meat used in combination with vegetables will freeze well. Flaky pastry makes a good topping before freezing.

Know The Mixing Lingo
 Cream—To beat shortening and sugar until thoroughly blended and creamy.

Meringue—A stiffly beaten mixture of egg whites and sugar.
Planetary Action—The most efficient means yet discovered for mixing and blending foods. In this time-tested mixing technique, long ago developed by engineers at KitchenAid, a single beater turns in one direction while revolving around the bowl in the opposite direction. The bowl itself remains stationary, helping to mix ingredients faster and more thoroughly.

This is the same method used by commercial bakery mixers, and—like the commercial units—two of the three KitchenAid Food Preparators use a special "dough hook" for mixing and kneading home-made yeast breads... And, what's better than home-made bread???

(This drawing shows the complete mixing coverage of the bowl made by the path of the beater.)

Whip—To beat rapidly to incorporate air and produce expansion—i.e., egg whites and heavy cream.

Cabbage is a good source of vitamin C and one-half cup of shredded cabbage contains only 10 calories.

Did you know? Mild cheese refers to the degree of curing (or ripening) and the term is generally applied to cheddar cheese. Sharp or "aged" cheese is cured longer and held at a specific temperature and humidity.

Editorial note: You may want to clip this feature and keep these worthwhile tips in your own "kitchen file."

Berry Dips For Vegetable Bouquets

A veritable delight are miniature bouquets of summer's fresh-from-the-garden vegetables. Serve these enchanting arrangements on the patio with delectable saucy cranberry dips at cocktail hour, or as individual relish treats to tastefully enhance a dinner party table. When dipped they're too good not to eat.

CHICKEN RELISH DIP
 (Makes about 2 cups)

- 1 can (4 1/2 ounces) chicken spread
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 cup Ocean Spray cranberry-orange relish (from a 14-ounce jar)
- Salt

Mash spread and gradually blend in sour cream. Fold in cranberry-orange relish. Add salt to taste. Chill until ready to serve. Serve as a dip with fresh raw vegetables.

PRUNE RELISH DIP
 (Makes 1 1/2 cups)

- 1 cup prune whip yogurt
- 1/2 cup Ocean Spray cranberry-orange relish (from a 14-ounce jar)
- Grated rind and juice of 1/2 a lemon

Beat prune whip yogurt until smooth and well blended. Fold in cranberry-orange relish and lemon rind and juice. Chill until ready to serve. Serve as a dip with fresh raw vegetables.

TO MAKE VEGETABLE BOUQUETS

Score cucumber with tines of fork and cut in slices. Cut carrot slices from small end of carrot and cut tiny wedges at intervals around edge. Cut thin slice from end of radish, then cut five thin slices around sides of radish, being careful not to cut through. Place vegetables in ice water to crisp. Cut slice from end of green pepper and remove seeds and pulp. At serving time, pierce cucumber and carrot slice with cocktail pick or wooden dowel and place in green pepper "flowerpot." Use scallions and celery leaves as "foliage" around base of vegetable flowers.

United Press International
 Turkey should continue to be a good buy. A crop six percent larger than 1973 is forecast for this year. Much of it will be available before the traditional fall marketing period.

Broilers and young turkeys contain less fat than most red meats and consequently are lower in calories. A 3-ounce serving of boneless broiled chicken or turkey supplies 115 calories.

Freshen slightly wilted celery by placing its freshly trimmed butt end in water. Badly wilted celery cannot be freshened satisfactorily.

If you plan to smoke food on your barbecue grill, soak hickory, oak, apple or cherry wood chips in water about an hour before adding them to the fire. Soaking makes them burn slowly.

Wear a tightly fitted swim cap to avoid swimmer's ear, an infection of the external ear canal caused by bacteria and fungi in polluted water.

Worcestershire Is Secret Of Tasty Budget Salad

Fortunately frozen fish fillets are usually budget-priced and, when cooked and smartly seasoned with a couple dashes of Worcestershire sauce and other flavor-rich ingredients, these less-expensive fillets make an excellent summer salad.

If you like, you can "stretch" this salad further with raw or cooked vegetables, diced potatoes, macaroni or rice.

- THRIFTY FISH SALAD
- 2 packages (12 oz. each) frozen fish fillets, thawed
  - 1 cup diced celery
  - 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
  - 2 tablespoons diced pimiento
  - 1/4 cup salad oil
  - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
  - 1 1/2 teaspoons original Worcestershire sauce
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt

Poach fish in 1-inch boiling water for 6 to 8 minutes. With slotted spoon remove fish from water to mixing bowl. Cool and flake. Chill thoroughly. Add celery, onion and pimiento. Mix oil with lemon juice—Worcestershire sauce and salt. Pour over fish mixture. Toss well. Serve on lettuce leaves garnished with tomato wedges and radish roses, if desired. Yield: 8 portions.

Let's Ask the Cook

by Nan Wiley

Dear Nan, I have a question regarding my pressure cooker. I have used it for quite a few years but all of a sudden it has turned dark inside. I am wondering if it is safe to use. I have tried scouring but it's no use. Mrs. O.R. Seyton, Lexington, Mo.

What was the last thing you cooked in it? Some foods have a tendency to darken cast aluminum pans. Our grandmothers' classic remedy was to cook up a mess of rhubarb in such a pan with the result that it shone like new. The rhubarb sauce was still edible.

Boiling vinegar in the pan should remove much of the dark. Cream of tartar added to boiling water is another old remedy although I have never tried it.

At any rate I am sure your cooker is safe to use providing the petcock still works properly. It is recommended that pressure cookers or canners be given an annual checkup to insure perfect performance.

USDA county home extension agents or utilities economists can tell you where to have that done if they can't do it. In our area product representatives often hold spring clinics at no charge, always well before canning season.

Dear Nan: I would like to try my hand at making catsup, chile sauce, etc. Could you please tell me what kind of kettle to use so mixtures don't scorch or burn to the bottom? Mrs. George Studniski Rogers, Minn.

The type of kettle used has very little to do with scorching prevention of thick mixtures like those you mention as well as various fruit butters even when pans have "non-stick" linings or you spray with a dry-fry product before each use.

You just stand there and stir constantly over no more than medium heat until the mess is ready to be turned into jars. At times I have switched heat to a mere simmer and gone about other brief chores that would give my arm a 5-minute rest break but I never get very far away. I have also had some scorched pans risking that so mostly it's stir, stir. Using a long handled flat-sided wooden spoon helps keep mixtures from sticking.

Talk Turkey With an Italian Accent

Top turkey breasts with cheese and a savory sauce. It's the Italian way to enjoy the all-American bird. Serve with salad.

NEW YORK (ED)—Homemakers who relegate turkey to the special occasion shopping list are making a big mistake. Turkey is actually a versatile delicacy—as continental cooks have long known. The all-American bird isn't stuffed and roasted in cost-conscious European homes. Instead turkey parts are prepared in a variety of ways—one of them more delicious than Italian-style turkey breasts, enriched with cheese and a lusty sauce. It's "Filetto de Tacchino alla Bolognese" in Italian; in any language, that spells delicious.

TURKEY BREAST BOLOGNESE
 3 whole small turkey breasts; split, skinned, boned and slightly flattened

- 1/2 cup prosciutto ham
- 1/2 cup Progresso spaghetti sauce with meat flavor
- 6 thin slices boiled ham or prosciutto ham
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup flavored Italian bread crumbs
- 6 Tbsps. butter
- 1/2 cup chicken broth or dry white wine
- 6 thin slices Gruyere or Fontina cheese, cut to size of turkey breasts

Season breasts lightly with salt and pepper, dust with flour, dip in egg, dredge generously in bread crumbs. Heat turkey in large skillet; brown breasts over medium-high heat 3-4 minutes on each side. Reduce heat to low, add broth or wine, cover; simmer 25 minutes or until breasts are fork tender. Remove cover. Place slice of ham then slice of cheese on each breast; broil 1-2 minutes; until cheese melts. Heat sauce right from jar. Arrange turkey breasts on platter; top with spaghetti sauce with meat flavor. Serves 6.

Extension Service Offers Pamphlet On Used Sewing Machines

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 25 cent pamphlet from the U.S. Department of Agriculture extension service can save you time and trouble if you're thinking of buying a used sewing machine.

used machines and how to check them before you buy. Before you decide between a used or a new one, consider your sewing needs. Do you want a simple machine for family mending? A learning machine for someone first starting to sew?

Ms. Ogilvy recommended a straight stitch type for beginners and those who sew infrequently. A zigzag stitch machine is more expensive, but it may be a better value if you sew a lot of stretch fabrics and knits. It's also good for "blind" hemming, overcasting seams, mending and decorative stitches and straight stitching. The least expensive probably is an old-fashioned treadle. Ms. Ogilvy wrote. It is simple to operate and to clean but parts might be hard to get, especially if it uses long shuttle bobbins.

Portable electric machines represent good value if you're short on storage space. Before you buy any machine, look for dents or scratches, check for missing parts and signs of wear. Ms. Ogilvy advised carrying fabric and thread when shopping so you actually can operate the machine. Make sure the machine is easy to thread and that the bobbin is easy to remove and return to place. Decide if the foot or knee control is comfortable and easy to operate. Check out both straight and curved seams. Is the stitch good on both long and short settings? Straight, zigzag and decorative ones? Does the stitch length remain uniform during slow and fast operation? Does the machine vibrate excessively or noisily? Is the electrical wiring un-trayed and in good condition generally? Are belts or chain belts in good shape—neither worn, frayed nor loose? And does an instruction book come with the equipment?

Not for my sakes would God preserve but because of his loving kindness.
