STUCKEY FIRM GETS PAVING WORK

Gray County Production Reaches Highest Peak at 22,661 Barrels

PANHANDLE IS OFF, DROPPING 1,195 BARRELS

Texas No. 1 Chapman Makes 400 During First Day

PURPLE SAGE TEST PROMISING

Wildcat Producer May Open Extension of Field

With Gray county the only oil field in the Panhandle showing an increase, the Panhandle production for the last week took a slight drop from last week's report. Gray county production increased 327 barrels a day to make the total production 22,661 barrels, while the Panhandle total dropped 1,195 barrels.

The Texas company's No. 1 A. Chapman in the northwest corner of section 51, block 25, in the southeastern part of the county, swabbed 1,400 barrels of high gravity oil Friday. This well was brought in for 500 barrels a day at 2,828 feet more than a month ago and let flow natural until put on the swab last week.

The same company's No. 1 Chapman in the southwest corner of the same section swabbed 400 barrels the first 24 hours from 2,838 feet. Gas and oil was encountered at 2,750 feet with an increase in oil at 2,780 feet. The well may be drilled deeper or placed on the pump.

The Purple Sage Oil company's No. 2 Johnson in the center of a 9,000 acre lease in block 4, in the south part of the county, about seven miles northwest of Alanreed, is reported to be standing with 400 feet of oil in the hole at 2,840 feet. Oil commenced to show when drillers were fishing for lost tools. The test showed 38 gravity.

Much interest is being taken in this wildcat, as it will prove up at least ten miles of new territory for drilling. The nearest well flowing is the Ray and Massie's No. 1 Chapman in section 31 block 25 which came in last week for 4,000 barrels. This location is about ten miles northeast of the Purple Sage test, which is about ten miles southeast of the Bowers pool.

Baker School To Give Program Tomorrow Night

The five grades of the Baker school will give a program in the high school auditorium Monday night commencing at 8 o'clock. The entertainment will be featured by songs, readings, solos, and drills by the grades and will include a cantata, "The Swallow."

Teachers of the school have been training the children and an excellent program is assured. There are many talented pupils in the Baker school.

101 VOTES ARE CAST SATURDAY

Dodson, Buckler and McConnell Chosen as Trustees

R. S. McConnell and C. P. Buckler were re-elected, and J. M. Dodson was chosen as a Pampa Independent School district trustee Saturday in an election in which only 101 votes were cast.

Delegation Will Go to Austin on Bridge Project

The commissioners courts of Gray, Roberts, and Ochiltree county will be asked to appoint one delegate each to go before the State highway commission meeting this month in the interest of the highway and bridge across the Red river north of Pampa proposed by Charles H. Sharp, J. H. Lavender and E. D. Reed.

A meeting was held in Miami Friday, in which delegations from Pampa, Miami and Perryton were present. After considerable discussion over the proposed route, which follows the Miami road until one mile east of the Red school house and then turns due north to cross the river and follow through until it reaches the Perryton road, the group approved the project.

The committee sent to Austin will endeavor to get the highway commission to make its final report on the course of highway 33.

Young Canuck Leads Runners in McLean Lap

McLEAN, April 7.—(P)—Phillips Granville of Hamilton, Ont., led the pace for the cross-country foot racers in the bunton derby today, negotiating the 38.6 snow-swept miles from Groom, Tex., in 5:29:48. His elapsed time for the 1888.4 miles was 239:44:08.

WEATHER MAN WAS AWAY OFF IN FORECASTS

The weather man is sometimes wrong—as cautious men go—but seldom has prediction been as wrong as those for yesterday and today.

Organization of National Guard Is Local Proposition

Formation of a National Guard unit in Pampa is being suggested to directors of the Chamber of Commerce and other business men and organizations.

PAMPA ONE-ACT PLAY IS WINNER OF SECOND PLACE

CANYON, April 7.—Pampa Central high school's one-act play, "Grandma Pulls the String", coached by Miss VeLora Reed won second place at the district meet here tonight, losing only to Tulsa in the final contest.

Hamer's Testimony on Rankin Bank Bandit Killings Gets Indictments

AUSTIN, April 7.—(P)—Ranger Captain Frank Hamer, who recently charged that a "murder ring" has been feeding on the $5,000 reward offered by the Texas Bankers association for dead bank bandits, was informed by telegram late Saturday from Rankin that two men have been indicted by the Upton county grand jury, before which he testified, in connection with the killing of two alleged bank robbers at Rankin, Jan. 11.

Fiddling Contest Will Be Held Here Next Friday

Gray county old fiddlers are being invited to enter an Old Fiddlers' contest Friday evening at 9 o'clock at the Rex theatre, where contestants may register.

Rev. Gaston Foote Talks to Masons

Pampa consistory Masons Thursday evening celebrated the annual Maundy-Thursdays services in the Masonic temple in the White Deer Land company building. The services are celebrated to commemorate the Last Supper, held the Thursday evening before Easter.

EIGHT DIE IN BURNING HOUSE

Mystery in Deaths of Cisco Groun Friday Evening

CISCO, April 7.—(P)—A search through the ruins of the home of Boss Jackson, farmer, who with his wife and six daughters was burned to death or killed last night, today had failed to solve definitely the manner in which the eight met death. The girls were from 1 to 12 years of age.

J. H. McDonald, justice of the peace, who returned to Cisco from the farm five miles west of here where the bodies were found after neighbors had discovered the house was afire, said that it would be impossible to hold an inquest at this time. Further evidence must be gathered to support conflicting theories, he said.

Sheriff John S. Hart of Eastland county, who said that his view of the body of one of the girls led him to think her throat might have been cut said after his visit to the farm with Justice of the Peace McDonald that he would prefer not to discuss the murder theory further at this time.

Neighbors said Jackson had resided in that community for about 15 years, that he had no known enemies and that his means were considered moderate and scouting the robbery theory. They emphasized, however, that Jackson's body was found in one room with two children while that of Mrs. Jackson was in another with four children. The Jacksons usually slept in the same room, neighbors said.

Penalty Is Assessed On Unpaid School Taxes by Manager

Joe Smith, manager of the Pampa Independent school district reports a delinquent list of $13,000 in school taxes up to this time. He is preparing delinquent notices which will be mailed to all who have not paid their school tax this year.

VIBROLITHIC IS TYPE CHOSEN BY THE CITY

Local Company Under Competing Bids By Big Margin

TOTAL CONTRACT ABOUT $180,000

Part of Project Will Be 5-Inch, and Some 6-Inch

The Stuckey Construction company of Wichita Falls and Pampa, Friday afternoon was awarded the contract to pave 27 1-2 city blocks with vibrolithic concrete paving. The contract was let at a gross price of $180,536.50, or $12,592.20 under the nearest competitor, the Fuller Construction company of Dallas.

Five companies bid on the vibrolithic and reinforced concrete, and each of the nine companies represented made bids on the brick. Several of the companies made their first bids on city paving, having been devoting their entire time to highway work. In the opening of the city commission, there has never been keener bidding on a city paving contract.

The yardage price on the vibrolithic paving which, after careful consideration, the city commission accepted, was $2.72 a square yard on the 6-inch to be used on the main traveled streets, and $2.43 a square yard on 5-inch paving. The Fuller Construction company price was $2.75 on 6-inch paving and $2.50 on the 5-inch paving.

Other prices submitted on the vibrolithic paving were: Western Paving company $2.89 for 6-inch and $2.69 for 5-inch; Fry Brothers, $2.98 on 6-inch and $2.85 on 5-inch; and Carl Pleasant, $2.98 on 6-inch and $2.75 on the 5-inch.

A comparison of the gross bids on the accepted paving shows the Stuckey Construction company cheaper by a large margin. The Fuller Construction company price was $193,128.75; the Western Paving company $198,170.53, the Fry Brothers $200,291.51, and Carl Pleasant $206,910.83.

Paving operations must, according to the contract, be completed within 150 working days, the work to commence immediately after the legal requirements have been completed. Mr. Stuckey has already placed orders for some of the necessary material and will be ready to start work when notified.

The contract calls for 38,145 square yards of 6-inch vibrolithic paving, 20,423 yards of 5-inch vibrolithic paving, curb, gutter, and excavation work.

Vibrolithic paving has been successfully used in many Texas cities. The city of Dallas laid that type of paving seventeen years ago and it is still in use. Mr. Stuckey placed the same type in Tulsa 20 years ago and it still remains. Cross Plains used the same paving in its recent program.

The 6-inch paving will be used on the following streets: Somerville street from Foster avenue to Francis avenue, two blocks; Francis avenue from Frost street west 5 1-2 blocks; Frost street from Kingsmill to Francis avenue, one block; Ballard street from Kingsmill avenue to Browning avenue, 2 blocks; Kingsmill street from Frost street to Somerville street, 1 block; and Cuyler street from Brown street to Barnes street, 4 long blocks.

THE MOVEMENT of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society to erect a fitting museum to house the relics, specimens, and records which are pouring into the organization is one of the most worthwhile to be brought to general attention in a long time.

At the recent annual banquet in Canyon there were 182 people present, many of them boasting residence in this section well back into the '80's and '90's. Their interest supports the work, and headed by Mayor T. D. Hobart of Pampa, the Society may well command the service and confidence of anyone who would like to see the record of Panhandle life in pioneer days preserved.

Judge H. E. Hoover of Canadian, well known attorney, will undertake to raise upward of $50,000 to build the museum, equip it, and otherwise finance the work. There are scores of longtime Panhandle residents who have amassed wealth which could not be more fittingly used.

The "oldtimers", picturesque plainmen, and plainwomen, are being joined in the undertaking by many of the younger generation, which should assure success of the Historical Society project this year.

Blow at Federal Justice

From the New York Herald Tribune.

The Senate has shown its contempt for the nation-wide effort to invigorate criminal procedure by passing Senator Caraway's bill abridging the right of trial judges in United States courts to direct the trial. The bill makes it "reversible error" for the judge to express his personal opinion as to the credibility of witnesses or the weight of testimony.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, alone tried to head off this assault on justice. He disclosed plainly enough the enervating effect of the bill: "It relegates the judge, in my opinion, to a position subordinate to that of counsel. It takes away from him a large part of that wholesome authority he has over the conduct of the trial. It deprives our courts of the same restraining influence that is used so tellingly in the English courts, and to the end of justice in most cases, I believe. . . This seems to be a step backward. The tendency of it will be to bring down the standard of judicial practice in the United States."

But the lawyer-senators knew what they wanted—to hamstring judges. That is a typical attitude of defendants' counsel, as the late Herbert S. Hadley remarked in one of his notable reports to the National Crime Commission. The Hadley committee, in its recommendations for the improvement of criminal procedure, laid the greatest stress on the judge's right to comment on the evidence and the character of witnesses. It instanced as a model the common law practice to which the federal courts adhere. Mr. Hadley spoke of the difficulty of inducing law-enforced legislatures to restore that power in states where it has lapsed.

Indifference of state legislators to a damaging defect in the conduct of trials is not astonishing. Their attitude is simply negative. The United States Senate has the unrivalled distinction of attempting deliberately to weaken the

CHAPTER XVII
 Hours more of "crystal-gazing," of giving lavish promises of "long journeys," success, wealth, sweet hearts, husbands, wives, bumper corn and wheat crops, babies—until 11 o'clock and the merciful winking of the carnival crowds permitted a weary little "Princess Lalla" to slip out of the "Palace of Wonders" tent. Pity Sing the midget woman, cradled in her arms like a baby. For Pity Sing had promptly adopted Sally as her human sedan chair, uncompromisingly dismissing black-eyed Nita, the "Hula-Hula" dancer, who had previously performed that service for her.

"I don't like Nita a bit," the tiny treble voice informed Sally with great definiteness. "I do like you, and I shall compensate you generously for your services. Nita has no proper respect for me, though I command—and I say it without boasting, I hope—twice the salary that that indecent music-dancer does. And she always jugged me," the midget added aggressively.

"Poor Pity Sing!" Sally soothed her as she picked her way carefully over the grass stubble to the big dress tent which also served as sleeping quarters for the women performers of the "Palace of Wonders." "Haven't you anyone to look after you? Anyone belonging to you, I mean?"

"Why should I have?" the indignant little piping voice demanded from Sally's shoulder. "I'm a woman grown, as I've reminded you before, I've been paying Nita five dollars a week to carry me to and from the show tent for each performance. Of course there are a few other little things she does for me, but if you'd like to have the position I think we would get along very nicely."

"Oh, I'm sure of it!" Sally exclaimed, laying her cheek for an instant against the flaxen, marcelled little head. "Thank you, Pity Sing, thank you with all my heart!"

"Please don't call me 'Pity Sing,'" the little voice commanded tartly. "The game does very well for exhibition purposes, but my name is Miss Tanner—Elizabeth Matilda Tanner."

"Oh, I'm sorry!" Sally protested, hurt and abashed. "I didn't mean—"

"But you may call me 'Pity Sing,'" the treble voice suddenly sweetened and sleepy like a child's. One of the miniature hands fluttered out inadequately to help Sally part the flaps of the dress tent, which was deserted except for the fat girl, already asleep and snoring stertorously.

Sally knelt to enable the midget to stand on the beaten down stubble which served as the only carpet of Sally's new "dormitory."

"Thank you, Sally," the midget piped, her eyes lifted toward Sally out of a network of wrinkles which testified that she was indeed a "woman grown." "You're a very nice little girl and your David is one of the handsomest men I ever saw."

"Your David!" Sally's heart repeated the words, sang them, crooned over them, but she did not answer, except with one of her rare, sudden, sweet smiles.

"Nita evidently thinks so, too," the weak little treble went on, as "Pity Sing" trotted toward her cot, looking like an animated doll. "I might as well warn you right now, Sally, that I don't trust the Nita person as far as I can throw a bull by the horns."

She flung her dire pronouncement over a tiny, pink-silk shoulder as she knelt before a small metal trunk and reached into her bosom for a key suspended around her neck on a chain.

Sally's desire to laugh at the preposterous picture of the midget throwing a bull by the horns was throttled by a new and particularly horrid fear.

"What—do you mean, Betty?" she gasped. "Has Nita—"

"—been vamping your David?" tiny Miss Elizabeth Matilda Tanner finished her sentence for her. "It would not be Nita if she overlooked a prospect like your David. It is entirely obvious that he is a person of breeding and family even if he is helping Buck in the 'privilege' car kitchen. Nita is always so broke that she has to eat her meals in the cook tent, but she borrowed or stole the money today to eat in the privilege car, and she found it necessary to confer with your David on a purely fictitious domestic problem, and then went boldly into the kitchen to time the eggs he was boiling for her. That Nita!" the tiny voice snorted contemptuously. "She's as strong as a horse and has about as much need for a special diet as an elephant, has for galoshes. Oh, she's up to her tricks not a doubt about that. I just thought I'd warn you in time. Nita's a man-eating tigress and once she's smelled blood—"

"Thank you, Betty," Sally interrupted gently, as she knelt beside the midget to help her with the lid of the trunk. "But David isn't my David, you know. He's—he's just a friend who helped me out when I was in terrible trouble. If Nita likes David, and—he—likes her—"

"Don't be absurd!" the midget scolded her, seating herself on a tiny stool to take off her baby-size shoes and stockings. "Of course you're in love with him, and he's crazy about you—a blind person could see that. Will you untie this shoe-lace, please? My nightgown is in the tray of the trunk, and you'll find a nightcap there, too. I wear it," she explained severely, on the

"Certainly I read!" Miss Tanner informed her severely, climbing, with Sally's help, into her low cotbed. "My father, who had these little books made especially for me, was a university professor. I have completed the college course, under his tutelage. If he had not died I should not be here," and her little eyes were suddenly bitter with loneliness and resentment against the whimsy of a Province that elected to make her so different from other women.

Sally found the miniature book, small enough to fit the midget's hand, and gave it to her, then stooped and kissed the little faded, wrinkled cheek and set about the difficult and unaccustomed task of removing her make-up. Beside her cot bed she found a small tin steamer trunk, stenciled in red paint with the magic name, "Princess Lalla." She stared at it incredulously for a long minute, then untwisted the wire holding duplicate keys.

When she threw back the lid she found a shiny black tin make-up box containing the burnt-sienna powder Mrs. Byee had used in making her up for the first day's performances; a big can of theatrical cold cream; squares of soft cheese-cloth for removing make-up; two new towels; mascara, lip rouge, white face powder, amullitrian black comb and brush; tooth paste and tooth brush.

"Oh, these kind people!" she whispered to herself, and bent her head upon the make-up box and wept grateful tears. Then, smiling at herself and humming a little tune below her breath she lifted the tray and found not the tell-tale dress which Pearl Carson had given her and which had been minutely described by the police in the newspaper account of the near-tragedy on the Carson farm—but two new dresses, cheap but pretty, the little paper ticket stitched into the neck of each showing the size to be correct—14.

She was still kneeling before her trunk, blinded with tears of gratitude when a coarse, nasal voice slashed across the dress tent:

hated.

Sally backed away, instinctively, from the snake-tongues of venom in those black eyes. "I'm sorry I've offended you, Miss—Nita—"

"If you're not you will be! Want me to tip off the police? Well, then, if you don't listen, because I want you to get this—and get it good, all of it!"

Sally rose slowly, the new dresses alighting to the floor in stiff folds. She batted the tears from her eyes with quick flutters of her eyelids and then stared at the girl who stood at the tent flap, taunting her.

"She saw a thin, tall girl, naked to the waist except for breastplates made of tarnished metal studded with imitation jewels. About her lean hips and to her knees hung a skirt of dried grass the regulation "hula dancer" skirt.

"You're—Nita, aren't you?" Sally's voice was small, pleading. "I'm—"

"Oh, I know who you are! You're the orphan hussy the police are lookin' for!" the harsh voice ripped out, as Nita swung into the tent, her eyes sizzling like the hiss of snakes.

"Furthermore, you're Pcp Bybee's blue-eyed baby girl! And—you're the baby-faced little she-devil that stole my graft with that little midget! Well, Princess Lalla, I guess we've been introduced proper now, and we can skip formalities and get down to business. Huhh?" And she bent menacingly over Sally, evil black eyes glittering in to wide, frightened blue ones, her mouth an ugly, twisting, red loop of
