Nixon To Address Nation Tonight

DEADLINE FRIDAY Budget Getting Final Touches

By TEX DEWEESE
Pampa's proposed operating budget for fiscal 1974-75 will be available for public examination after tomorrow.
City Manager Mack Wofford said today he hopes to file it with the City Secretary before noon Friday.
Finishing touches were being put to the budget today and under provisions of the city charter deadline for filing is 5 p.m. tomorrow.
Members of the City Hall staff and city commissioners have been working on the proposed budget during the past week.
As it stands now the budget total approximates $2,725,000. That's around $200,000 more than the current year's operating expenditures. It is also exclusive of some $382,000 to be spent during the coming year from federal revenue sharing funds for heavy equipment replacements and other capital outlay.
Biggest increase item in the upcoming budget is a salary increase for all city employees totalling $130,000.
It was pointed out by the city manager that the city commission will be asked Tuesday to set Aug. 27 for a public hearing on the budget.
Between filing time tomorrow and the Aug. 27 public hearing date no changes can be made in any of the budget items.

Nothing will be finalized in the proposed budget until budget and tax rate ordinances come up for a final vote of the commissioners Sept. 10.
The new proposed tax rate has been set at $1.92 per $100 of assessed property valuation. That's a 20-cent increase over the current $1.72 rate which has been in effect for the past eight years.
City Manager Wofford said 72 cents of the new rate still will remain the same to meet bonded indebtedness.
The new budget also calls for increases in water rates, sanitation and sewer charges.
It was also learned today possible changes could be made in the proposed re-activation of the old Board of City Development which was dissolved in 1963.
Tentatively, the budget calls for the BCD re-activation and provision for payment of $10,800 financial assistance for the office of the industrial development director of the Chamber of Commerce.
The amount of assistance could either be increased or the BCD proposal could be dropped altogether if the reported change is made, according to reports.

PRIOR CONSULTATION — Vice President Gerald Ford, left, sits across the table from President Nixon at a White House Cabinet meeting earlier this week in which Nixon reiterated his intentions not to resign. Nixon has planned a national telecast at 8 p.m. CDT today at which White House sources have indicated the President will announce his resignation. (UPI Photo)

Source Claims President Has Decided To Resign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon informed Gerald R. Ford today that he was resigning the presidency, a White House aide said. Nixon will make a nationally televised speech at 8 p.m. CDT to tell the American public of his decision.
Nixon met for 70 minutes in the Oval Office earlier today with the vice president to tell him he was stepping down and to lay plans for an orderly transition of power.
"I'm aware of the intense interest of the American people concerning developments over the last two days," said Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, his voice quavering and speaking very slowly.
In announcing the speech by Nixon, Ziegler said, "This of course has been a very difficult time."
Shortly after the Nixon-Ford meeting started, a presidential aide who asked not to be identified said Nixon called in the vice president to tell him he was leaving office.
Nixon's chief speech writer, Ray Price, has been working on his resignation speech for several days.
Ford put off a scheduled western trip shortly before being called to the White House by Nixon.
The meeting started at 11:01 a.m. EDT with only Nixon and Ford present.
Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told reporters only moments before the start of the meeting that Nixon had summoned Ford to the Oval Office.
This followed a statement by a White House aide, who asked not to be identified, that Nixon had decided to resign, leaving only the timing uncertain.

The President's wife and two daughters, Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox, were reportedly to have argued strenuously against resignation.
The White House switchboard has been jammed for more than 24 hours with telephone calls since rumors swept the country that Nixon was on the verge of resigning. Most of the callers begged in very emotional terms that the President not leave office.
But signs were in place suggesting his departure soon from the presidency which he twice won, the last time with a historic landslide victory.
The President, crushed by the Watergate scandal that all but demolished his administration, was told by Republican leaders Wednesday that he faced almost certain removal from office in an impeachment trial.
As the President appeared to be putting the final pieces in place for resignation, his two sons-in-law, David Eisenhower and Edward Cox, were spotted making the rounds of the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House, Wednesday.
A source said they were saying goodbye to old friends.
Nixon's daughters, Julie and Tricia, and their husbands visited the President in his hideaway office in the Executive Office Building Wednesday afternoon after Cox flew in from New York.
The family gathering appeared to be another sign that momentous events were about to occur. Nixon later strolled in the rose garden with Tricia, and the family dined together in the White House.
Nixon broke his isolation late Wednesday afternoon and summoned Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and House Republican leader John Rhodes of Arizona to his Oval Office for a 35-minute meeting.

The three leaders told Nixon the outlook on Capitol Hill was "very gloomy, very distressing" for the President's chances of acquittal in a Senate trial. Nixon and congressional leaders agree that House impeachment is a foregone conclusion.
The leaders told Nixon he had only about 15 votes against conviction in the Senate and perhaps only 10 votes in the House against impeachment.
There were unconfirmed broadcast reports that Scott passed along to Nixon a proposal for a "sense of Congress" resolution to spare the President any prosecution for wrongdoing should he quit.
Scott said he expected the situation to be resolved "reasonably soon... within a matter of days."
There appeared to be other moves in Congress to grant Nixon immunity. Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, the third ranking Republican in the House, said ways were being explored for Nixon "to make a graceful exit."
Rumors that Nixon's resignation was imminent swept Washington Wednesday, bringing hordes of reporters to the White House and expectant crowds along the fence and across the street in Lafayette Park.
They kept a vigil long after dark.
Goldwater told reporters Nixon had made "no decision" when he met with the leaders.

Resignation Rumors Sweep Through GOP Membership

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans in Congress have pulled away from the idea of sending a delegation to ask President Nixon to resign for the good of the nation and the party.
But many remain convinced that he is bound to step down — "retire" is the polite word they use — when he fully evaluates the hopelessness of avoiding impeachment and removal from office.
Nevertheless, a few question whether he will resign. "His whole history has been one of refusing to accept defeat," says Sen. Norris H. Cotton, R-N.H.
Some Republicans believe Nixon outmaneuvered his critics by inviting and then receiving three Republican leaders Wednesday. That visit, they say, killed the idea of sending a delegation of party elders to demand a resignation.

"I think the Goldwater visit ended it," Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said of the delegation concept. "But resignation is still on the front burner, just waiting for the match."
At the end of a day of wild rumor and speculation Nixon received Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Senate Republican leader never to have been recorded, and on Tuesday St. Clair told Sirica that a third demanded by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski fell into the same category.

Jaworski last April subpoenaed 64 tapes for possible use as evidence at the scheduled September trial of six former top Nixon aides accused of plotting to hush up the scandal.
Nixon refused to honor it, but the Supreme Court ruled July 24 that he must.
Thirty-two of the tapes were delivered to Sirica for his review last week and the balance — minus those St. Clair said could not be found — came in right on schedule Wednesday, bringing to 54 the tapes Sirica will listen to and decide which are relevant to the case.
St. Clair said five of the conversations which could not be found were of telephone calls made from instruments in the residential portion of the White House that were not plugged into the taping system.
Two more were meetings held at Camp David. Two other meetings, believed to have been held at the White House, just could not be found, according to St. Clair.

Troops Continue Truce Violations

United Press International Heavy firing broke out across the "green line" dividing the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus today. In Geneva, Greece and Turkey took pessimistic stands going into the second round of talks on the future of the embattled island.
A British newsman was killed and five others injured when their car was hit by a Turkish minefield on the north coast.
Small arms and mortar fire erupted soon after noon in the Cyprus capital of Nicosia and continued two hours later along the "green line." A black pillar of smoke from a burning gasoline station billowed over the old walled part of the city.
There was no indication who started the fighting, the latest in the daily violations of the nine-day Cyprus cease-fire.
A Geneva, a peace conference official said "things don't look good" before the talks scheduled to begin there at 6 p.m. (1 p.m. EDT) among Turkey, Greece and Britain in an attempt to enforce the cease-fire on the island and discuss a new constitution for its Greek and Turkish communities.

In Ankara, Turkey said it would propose plans to divide Cyprus into autonomous regions governed separately by the island's majority of Greek origin and minority of Turkish background.
Turkish forces on Cyprus kept up a westward push from the port of Kyrenia today, extending their beachhead 12 miles west of the key town. They were only two miles from controlling the western approaches to Nicosia.
The fighting on the one-time resort island represented the ninth consecutive day of violations of the truce, which was signed July 30 in Geneva by Britain, Greece and Turkey.
Envoys from London, Athens and Ankara set up today's meeting in Geneva after signing a declaration last week imposing a standstill truce and providing creation of U.N. buffer zones to keep the peace.

Nine More Tapes Said 'Nonexistent'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says another nine of President Nixon's Watergate tapes the Supreme Court ordered him to surrender as potential cover-up evidence do not exist, and apparently never did.
The nonexistence of the nine subpoenaed tapes was disclosed Wednesday by presidential defense lawyer James D. St. Clair when he delivered 22 Nixon tapes to U.S. District Court.
St. Clair said the sought-after conversations apparently never had been recorded because of quirks in the White House taping system, but promised Judge John J. Sirica a further explanation of the missing tapes today.
He was expected at the same time to say whether the President has any further claims that portions of tapes already surrendered should be kept secret on grounds of executive privilege.
St. Clair's disclosure brought to an even dozen the number of subpoenaed White House tapes that cannot be found.
Two sought by the Watergate grand jury were reported last November never to have been recorded, and on Tuesday St. Clair told Sirica that a third demanded by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski fell into the same category.

Jaworski last April subpoenaed 64 tapes for possible use as evidence at the scheduled September trial of six former top Nixon aides accused of plotting to hush up the scandal.
Nixon refused to honor it, but the Supreme Court ruled July 24 that he must.
Thirty-two of the tapes were delivered to Sirica for his review last week and the balance — minus those St. Clair said could not be found — came in right on schedule Wednesday, bringing to 54 the tapes Sirica will listen to and decide which are relevant to the case.

Two more were meetings held at Camp David. Two other meetings, believed to have been held at the White House, just could not be found, according to St. Clair.

More Showers Produce More Welcome Moisture

Although no severe weather was reported in the Pampa vicinity, the city received .27 of an inch of rainfall last night. The moisture brought the total for August to 1.59 inches.
More precipitation is in the forecast for tonight and Friday with a slight chance of thundershowers predicted.
IN (UPI) reports: Heavy winds soaked West and South Texas for the third straight day today and the storm system produced at least one tornado and a funnel cloud.
Cottulla in South Texas received the heaviest reported rainfall in a 24-hour period, 9.15 inches.
"It rained all night and our lawn looks like a pond," Mrs. David Schulze, the wife of the Cottulla fire chief, said.

Highway patrolmen in Amarillo said high winds blew a tractor-truck rig off the side of U.S. Highway 87 about 20 miles north of the Panhandle town of Dalhart. Both men in the truck were uninjured, the officers said.
Thunderstorms generated rain at one inch per hour over much of South Texas today in an area stretching from near Laredo to Corpus Christi and north to College Station and San Antonio.
The National Weather Service reported a funnel cloud south of Fritch in the Panhandle. Wednesday a Tornado was spotted 22 miles south of Victoria Wednesday but no damage was indicated.
Ben Bennett said 17 inches of rain fell near his Balesville ranch near Egle Pass through Wednesday.
"It was a real gutty washer," he said. "It was the most rain I've seen since Hurricane Carla swept through."
J. E. Mims, a rancher near Acuff, said he received about three inches of rain.
"And that's good but it was by no means alleviated the drought. It's too late for us — way too late. Our irrigated cotton is helped, of course, but our dryland cotton — about 400 acres — is virtually gone."

Thundershowers rumbled over much of the South producing heavy amounts of rainfall. Georgia residents braced under the threat of flash floods.
Portions of south Texas collected up to four inches of rain within one three-hour period overnight and parts of northwest Georgia got more than two inches. It was the third straight day of wet weather for Texas.
A flash flood watch, which began Wednesday in northern Georgia, remained in effect.
Scattered thundershowers dumped rains from the Ohio Valley to the south Atlantic Coast during the night. The same was true for the western Plains, the northern Rockies and parts of Arizona, southern Texas and northern Missouri.

Death Sentence Given To Convicted Murderer

DALLAS (UPI) — Robert Excel White—convicted of the shooting deaths of a grocer and two customers near McKinney, Tex., last May 11—has been assessed an automatic death sentence.

A six man, six woman state district court jury Wednesday answered "yes" to three special issues which will lead to White receiving the death penalty. Under the new Texas Penal Code, if the jury had answered "no" to any of the questions, White would have been given an automatic sentence of life in prison.

The jury deliberated for more than four hours in answering the court's charge for the sentence. District Judge Tom Ryan said formal sentencing probably will occur in the next 10 days.
The three special issues asked if the act was deliberate, if the defendant would be a continuing threat to society and if the killing was an unreasonable response to provocation, if any, from the victims.
The jury deliberated for one hour Wednesday morning before it found White guilty of capital murder.
"I think from a reasonable deduction based on the evidence that he (White) is kind of proud of it, and that frankly he got a kick out of it," Collin County District Attorney Tom O'Connell said during final arguments.
In a five-minute argument He Wanted To Listen
DALLAS (UPI) — A former White House aide says he quit his post last March because he was not allowed to examine Presidential tapes which he learned this week exposed Nixon's role in the Watergate coverup.
"They wouldn't let me listen to the tapes," attorney Cecil Emerson said. "That was my main complaint."
"I wasn't going to do something up there on blind faith. I wanted to hear the tapes and read the documents before I made any affirmation about anything."
Emerson was an adviser to Nixon's personal lawyer, James St. Clair, and also coordinated an investigation of an 18-minute gap in a crucial presidential tape on Watergate. Emerson said White House attorney J. Fred Buzhardt Jr. excluded everyone but himself from listening to subpoenaed tapes of Presidential conversations.
"I couldn't ever figure out who was concealing what," Emerson said. "But I knew something was being concealed between Buzhardt, Gen. (Alexander) Haig and Nixon."

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Michelangelo could easily have answered Milo's question. Why do you readers think the greatest hostility to a great man's discovery or accomplishment comes from his own colleagues and classmates? Maybe Dr. Ivy needs Michelangelo?

CASE B-610: Milo T., aged 29, teaches chemistry. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I am convinced that Dr. Ivy's horse blood hormone beats surgery and X-ray in combating cancer."

"For my mother had a breast removed as malignant; then submitted to all the X-ray the doctors dared give her."

"But the cancer flared up about a year later and invaded her liver."
"Cobalt was employed as a final attempt to save her life but it failed to reduce the enlarged liver."

"So her specialists told us she had not more than 6 weeks left."
"In desperation, we consulted Dr. Ivy, who gave her bi-weekly shots of his Carcalon, derived from horse blood."

"Her intense pain subsided within 72 hours."
"Now, 2 years later, her liver is back to normal, she is active and happy and apparently has no sign of cancer."

"So why does the FDA veto use of Dr. Ivy's hormone, since the FDA even admits that no ill effects result from its use?"
"What is behind this bias against our greatest living American physiologist, namely, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy?"

PAGE MICHELANGELO

Michelangelo could explain the hostility to Dr. Ivy, who is the greatest living physiologist, even admitted by Russia!

A recent survey of 2,000 scientific journals tabulated how many times various scientists were quoted by their colleagues.

And Dr. Andrew C. Ivy of Chicago turned out to be the most quoted scientist in the entire world!

He pioneered the mouth-to-mouth resuscitation method.

He discovered various enzymes and is the world authority thereon, as per medical physiology textbooks!

He also discovered chalcones, now the "hottest" item among cancer researchers.

And he advanced the idea back in 1917 that we have a natural cancer resistant substance that keeps most of us cancer-free till we reach middle age.

Then it often seems to become so reduced that Dr. Ivy suggests we merely inject some of this same hormone from a healthy animal, such as the horse, to bring our own resistance back up to 100%.

His theory re cancer is comparable to the injection of insulin from an outside source to supplement the diabetic's reduced manufacture of its own internal insulin.

But pioneers are usually belittled, ostracized and maligned by their peers, as a face-saving device for the lazier members of their profession.

Local Girl Named To Who's Who

Pam Allen, 1974 graduate of Pampa High School, was recently notified that she is to be featured in the Eighth Annual Edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1973-74, the largest student award publication in the nation.

Students from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community service in the books. Less than three percent of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded this recognition.

Miss Allen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Allen, 1217 E. Kingsmill.

During her school years, she was active in student council, Girl Scouts, Home Economics Cooperative Education work program, Truteens service club, choir and served as a church camp counselor.

She received the Business and Professional Women's Club citizenship award in 1972 and the B and PW scholarship in 1974. She served as vice mayor of her freshman class, secretary of her sophomore class and was a member of the High Plains Area Board of Christian Churches.

In addition to having her biography published in the book, Miss Allen will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers."

Old Woman's Drugs Seized

MIAMI (UPI) — A 74-year-old woman was arrested this week on a narcotics smuggling charge, customs agents said Wednesday.

They said they found 1 1/2 pounds of cocaine with a street value of $350,000 sewn into a rug she brought here aboard an airliner from Bogota, Colombia.

"It wasn't a large seizure, but it sure was unusual to find a little old lady trying to smuggle drugs," a customs spokesman said. "People often ask us for a profile of the typical narcotics smuggler. Who's looking for a 74-year-old woman?"

Compulsory Federal Aid

This newspaper has been warning for over two decades that with federal (tax) money go federal controls. The U.S. Supreme Court made that abundantly clear when in October, 1942 (Wickard v. Filburn, 317 U.S. 111, p. 131) it ruled: "It is hardly lack of due process for the government to regulate that which it subsidizes."

Even so, and despite a wealth of evidence to the contrary, wishful thinkers, greedy for money which the federal government has taken from other individuals, have maintained that such funds could be accepted without the federal bureaucratic ukases that go with them. Such dreams have been exploded time and again.

And, now, not only is it obvious that federal controls are part and parcel of any 'federal money' package but according to a development in Indiana, local governing bodies no longer have the option of refusing federal funds. Swollen with the power obtained by dispensing federal goodies, the bureaucracy in Washington now directs that federal funds WILL BE sought and accepted, along with the controls that go with them.

Editorializing on the Indiana case the Indianapolis News said in part:

"We have long been familiar with the fact that Federal aid means Federal controls. Now we are witnessing the converse of that proposition as Federal controls of our schools is being used as a sledgehammer to force Indianapolis to seek and acquire Federal money. Acceptance of such money, replete with guidelines and standards mandated by Federal bureaucrats, always means still other controls, so that the subjection of our local institutions to the social engineers in Washington and in the Federal judiciary becomes ever more complete."

The News editorial was in reference to an order by Federal Judge S. Hugh Dillin directing the Indianapolis School Board to seek federal funds to pay the costs of forced busing of school children which had been ordered by Judge Dillin, himself.

"This perfection of federal tyranny," the News commented at greater length, "is something new in American government. Hitherto states and local communities, where some vestige of constitutional principle remained, could at least decide for themselves whether or not to seek Federal aid and enmesh themselves in the tools of the Washington bureaucracy — and this option has been used here and elsewhere despite the lure of something-for-nothing and the cry that we should 'get our share.' Now Judge Dillin in his wisdom has decided the Indianapolis schools shall not even have the option of declining to request Federal money."

Writing in the Indianapolis News four days later, Lester Neal, vice president of the Indianapolis School Board, had this to say:

"The problem is not simply Federal aid, but the bureaucrats who administer and control it. It seems that what originally started out as an appealing helping hand to the needy in the form of milk and hot lunches, has mushroomed into programs designed not to fill empty stomachs but to fill the heads of our children with ideas conceived by people in Washington who haven't the slightest idea of what life is like in Indianapolis and couldn't care less."

"Today," the School Board Vice President continued, "we see what I believe is one of the most significant steps ever taken by the Federal government. A duly elected school board is ordered by a Federal court to seek Federal aid regardless of the controls imposed."

"If this decision stands, and as soon as it is established that local governments can be forced to seek Federal aid, there will be no reason for the control artists in Congress to hold back. We will then be placed in a vise from which there will be no escape, and Federal aid will become 'Federal medicine' without the traditional Federal spoonful of sugar."

NOBODY AT HELM? The Leaderless Government

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The withdrawal of President Nixon from active control and direction of the government is beginning to worry Republican leaders in Congress almost as much as the tidal wave of impeachment.

Virtually all contact has been severed between President Nixon's congressional leaders and the White House. Indeed, mesmerized by the fatal turn of events since the House Judiciary Committee voted its impeachment articles with overwhelming by-partisan majorities last week, the White House is also dangerously insulating itself from vital decision-making and workday operations of its own agencies and departments. Only foreign policy seems immune and only because Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has unique standing.

As one high-ranking Republican leader in the House told us: "They have disappeared into the White House bunkers looking for an impeachment strategy that doesn't exist."

The potentially critical loss of administration involvement in non-impeachment congressional business was dramatized last Tuesday on the floor of the House. No Oval Office signal was received on the budget-busting mass transit conference report. The bill, carrying $800 million more for the current fiscal year than the White House wanted, was ticketed for routine passage.

At the last minute, Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, contacted Rep. Chalmers Wylie of Ohio, a Republican member of the mass transit subcommittee of the House Banking Committee. Together, they decided that a motion to recommit the bill to conference with the Senate might pass. Wylie offered it, Anderson spoke for it and the bill was sent back to conference.

"That would have been a White House operation for sure, but we never heard a word," Anderson told us. Likewise, within the administration, cabinet members who have had only one formal meeting with Mr. Nixon since mid-June are steering as clear as they can from asking White House decisions on new policy.

Three cabinet members told us they are spending much of their time outside Washington, concentrating when here on drafting their new budget requests for next year and avoiding contact with top presidential aides inside the White House.

The mood was summed up by one: "I don't even think about impeachment because if I did I might find myself pulling the ripcord and bailing out."

Even in the desperately critical area of the economy President Nixon has been avoiding all but cursory involvement. He has called a couple of highly publicized but meaningless sessions with big business and private economists. Far more important, however, he has had not one single private huddle with Dr. Arthur Burns, the powerful chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, since Jan. 1. In all that time, Burns has been to the White House only for a few formal meetings of the Quadripart, the government's top-level economic policy body.

Nothing the absence of the prestigious Burns at the much-ballyhooed July 11 White House economic session with top industrialists and private economists, Mr. Nixon in an attempt at humor said: "Arthur talks to God and occasionally allows me to talk to him."

What Mr. Nixon did not say was that Dr. Burns was not even invited. Time and again these past few weeks the President has abruptly cancelled or postponed one meeting after another with his top aides. Secretary of the Treasury William Simon on the morning of July 3, Secretary of Housing James Lynn on July 24, both rescheduled, and two meetings of his economic advisers last Thursday which still have not been held.

Each of those postponements directly resulted from the President's impeachment battle.

Yet, despite the desperate 24-hour-a-day search for a way out, the impeachment noos continues to tighten. One top-level Republican strategist is talking about "salvaging" some republican strategist is talking about "salvaging" some Republicans now leaning toward a pro-impeachment vote, not to prevent impeachment but to make the vote slightly more respectable for the President.

A Southern Democratic leader now sees a better than even chance that the entire Democratic delegations of North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama will end up voting for impeachment. A Northern pro-Nixon Republican counts only 28 Southern Democrats against impeachment from Maryland to Texas.

Thus, no matter how much the President continues to withdraw from the workday operations of the federal government in pursuit of self-preservation, his search for salvation may be doomed. The coming months, then, will test a novel proposition: whether the American government can turn itself without direction from the top.

ALL THAT GLITTERS One More Foolish Column?

By VIC GOLD
The President will not resign. — Jerry Warren (Aug. 1.)

WASHINGTON — Like conscience with cowards, Watergate makes fools of us all. I'm not referring to Jerry Warren at this point, though the thrust of what follows will be a foolish prognostication that the White House deputy press secretary is himself a poor prognosticator.

What I mean is that this columnist has once again come to the conclusion — for the fifth (or is it the sixth?) time over a 12-month span — that President will indeed resign. When? Before the snow falls.

Now, as some abstruse readers who don't suffer foolish columnists — gladly are content to recall, the first time prediction along that line appeared in this space the wording was "before the snow melts" — i.e., last spring.

Nice natural allusion, but as predictions go, very foolish. As I say, however, Watergate has proven to be the most ego-deflating political saga ever to have been inflicted on the Washington Society of Pundits and Prognosticators.

Indeed, I don't know how it is around Bill Safire's or Jack Kilpatrick's house. But at mine it's reached a point at which, whenever my wife is looking for an instant rejoinder during a family dispute, she only has to pull out a column I wrote week before last to shut me up.

For example, take the one in which I predicted that because the Rodino committee had dinked so long it wasn't likely the presidential impeachment-trial process could be completed before the 93rd Congress adjourned.

Was I wrong? Well, let me put it this way: In a year of prognosticating on Watergate matters I've learned that crow, when properly seasoned by experienced cooks (like my wife and various letter-writing readers) can actually become passable dinner fare. Particularly when their comfort-to-be taken by other members of the Society of Pundits have also had their share of crow à la Maison Blanche during the same period.

Yes, having said this, there remains that compulsive professional urge to climb out on a limb in search of fresh bird for next week's (or snowfall's) dinner. So it is that I've chosen to take Jerry Warren's official White House projection — like I did my crow feast last week — with a grain of salt.

Oh, I think the deputy press secretary meant every word of what he said. He was passing, his protection of the Nixon staying power along just as it was passed on to him from the Oval Office, as of Aug. 1. But the Watergate circle is closing very quickly. After a year of delay, confusion, hesitation, the Congress is moving, with all deliberate speed. A visitor to the Hill can hear it — practically feel the movement — on both sides of the Capitol.

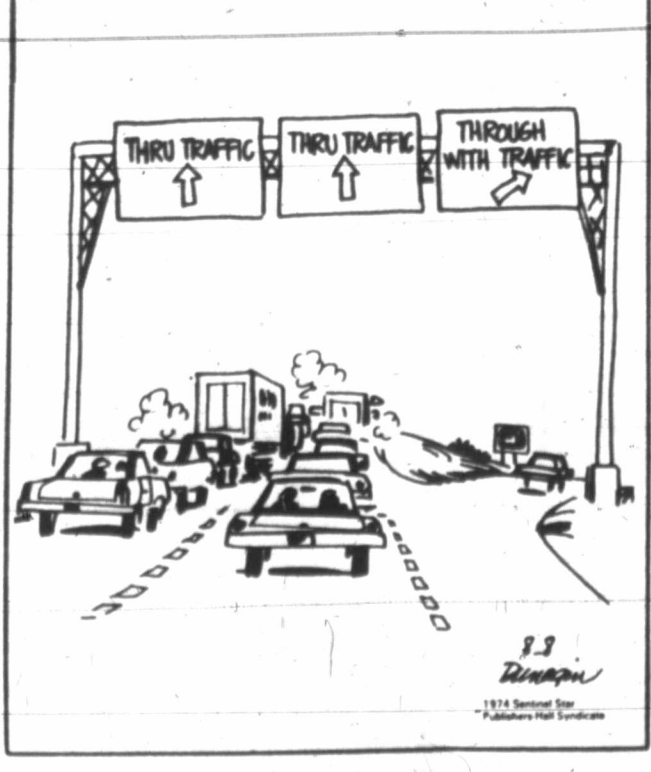

The president's impeachment by the House is a virtual certainty. That the final vote (like that of the Judiciary committee) is going to be criticized as being along partisan lines will make the action no less effective.

On the Senate side, too, what was politically unthinkable when the snows of 1973-74 were melting is now projected as a likelihood moving toward certainty. Nixon's padding against a two-thirds vote for removal from office is now variously estimated at no more than two to six Senators. With the momentum going against the presidential cause.

Thus, facing certain impeachment and conviction, will the President, as he once promised, catty his fight down to the Last Senator? Fry me a crow, but I don't think so. The threat of last-ditch confrontation with his adversaries — used against the special prosecutor, the courts, the Rodino committee — has been one of his tactical weapons at every stage along the Watergate way.

But I believe that after the House votes — and when the Senate head count is taken and duty reported back to him — Richard Nixon is going to follow the same pattern he always has when the time for tactics has passed.

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

INSIDE WASHINGTON President Nixon Facing New Impeachment Peril

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON — President Nixon is squarely up against a dire new impeachment peril.

It's a blunt warning that continued State Department efforts to negotiate a treaty "diluting" U.S.A. sovereignty over the Panama Canal will have direct and highly adverse impact on the impending fateful impeachment battle in the House.

In effect, the President is being told that the fanfare "agreement in principle" signed last February by Secretary Kissinger and Panamanian Foreign Minister Juan Tack must be shelved — or else!

The bare knuckled demand was made by Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., powerful Appropriations subcommittee chairman and leading congressional foe of what he vehemently brands as a "Panama giveaway."

Mincing no words, Flood declared: "Stripped of its ambiguities, contradictions and fallacies, the Kissinger-Tack diplomatic trickery is a blueprint for an abject surrender of U.S. sovereignty, power and authority over our most strategic waterway. I can think of no better way to bring about another time-wasting confrontation with Congress than to send it a treaty calling for a surrender to Panama of the Canal and the Canal Zone."

The real issue in the sovereignty question, Flood maintained, is no U.S. Panamanian control over the strategically vital waterway.

"What is really at stake," he asserted, "is countless undiluted U.S. sovereignty vs. Russian control. Today, Soviet power has Cuba; Soviet submarines cruise regularly in nearby waters; and a main Soviet objective is wresting control of the Panama Canal from the U.S. and making it a pawn in international power politics."

This covert Kremlin objective is being craftily pressed, Flood charged, through the connivance of Panamanian dictator Omar Torrijos and his clique of leftist henchmen — foremost among them Foreign Minister Tack.

"Dictator Torrijos has publicly avowed his esteem for the Red regime in Cuba," declared Flood, "expressed his admiration for the Soviets, and openly threatened violence against the Canal Zone. This is the bombastic strongman of the pro-Soviet defacto government of Panama to which the self-proclaimed liberals in the State Department seek to surrender U.S. sovereignty over the Canal and the Zone, without even stipulating any terms for payment of the billions spent by U.S. taxpayers on the Canal and its defense."

What's Really Involved While avoiding direct castigation of Secretary Kissinger, Rep. Flood pulled no punches in blasting the State Department.

He flatly asserted that in recent years the department has been infiltrated by elements hostile to continued U.S. sovereignty over the Canal, and the fanfare eight-point "agreement in principle" is part of that scheme.

"The State Department's record on this," continued Flood, "has been one of misrepresentation and falsification; a long campaign of deceit characterized by repeated efforts to dismember U.S. sovereignty over the Canal by piecemeal erosion."

As an alarming instance of this, Flood cited the department's attempt to "liquidate" the Panama railroad.

"It actually succeeded in giving away the railroad's freight yards and passenger stations in Panama City and Colon," Flood said. "Fortunately, Congress intervened and after an independent investigation saved the main line. But as a result of the State Department's disruptive meddling, there now is a railroad without designated terminals. Can you imagine anything more stupid and absurd?"

Two basic issues are involved in the Panama Canal problem: (1) Continued undiluted U.S. sovereignty over the waterway; (2) major modernization of the Canal — pending for years in Congress, but not pressed by the Nixon administration.

"The U.S. is not a squatter resting on the banks of the Panama Canal," pointed out Flood, "but its lawful owner with full sovereign rights, power and authority and no amount of demagoguery or sophistry can alter that essential fact. Between 1904, when construction of the Canal was undertaken, and June 1973, the total investment of U.S. taxpayers in the Canal, including its defense, is more than $6 billion."

Furthermore, the U.S. policy of exclusive control over the Canal and Zone is based on realities, including treaties with Great Britain, Panama and Colombia.

"For the United States to assume the obligation of operating and defending the Canal after surrendering sovereignty would place our government in the position of having grave responsibilities without requisite authority," asserted Flood. "That is unthinkable. Moreover, to give nominal control of this vital waterway to a small country qualified neither to administer nor to defend it is an outright act of great power irresponsibility."

The American people will not stand for that, Flood warned the President, and continued efforts to pursue the State Department's "giveaway policy" is certain to react harshly against him.

With impeachment looming menacingly, the President would be well advised to "forget it."

He has neither the personal nor political influence to pursue it further.

And that goes for Secretary Kissinger and the State Department liberals, too.

Addenda: More than 15,000 vessels from 55 countries annually transit the Panama Canal. About 70 per cent of this traffic either originates or terminates in U.S. ports. It cost the U.S. $161 million to acquire title to all privately owned land and property required to constitute the Canal Zone — making it the most expensive territorial acquisition of the U.S. This total is more than the combined cost of all other U.S. territorial acquisitions.

The Canal and Zone provide Panamanians with an annual income of more than $175 million — giving Panama the highest per capita income in Central America. (All Rights Reserved)

H. L. Hunt Writes INFLATION ISN'T INEVITABLE

Another leading economist has called for more responsible government economic policies in order to prevent runaway inflation. Dr. W. H. Hutt, currently Distinguished Visiting Professor of Economics at the University of Dallas, recently wrote in the Dallas Morning News that we must take firm and immediate steps to half inflation, before it ruins "the most honest, generous, responsible and decent citizens of this great country."

Government inflationary policies are said to be necessary to keep up the employment rate. But Dr. Hutt points out that we presently have the worst of both worlds: spiraling inflation and unemployment. Business suffers because the credit it needs for expansion is much too expensive, the working man suffers because the spending power of his wages declines even as his wages rise, and those on fixed incomes suffer most cruelly because they are helpless in the face of rising prices. Inflation is currently rising at nearly 11 per cent per year, while genuine economic growth in this country is declining.

Dr. Hutt recognizes that the cure for such a serious illness will be drastic and unpalatable to many people, especially those in government. But we owe it to our hard-working citizens to take these steps, no matter how unpopular they might seem.

Let's Ask the Cook
by Nan Wiley

Dear Nan:
My grandmother used to make a green tomato pickle which was very good and I am wondering if some of your readers happen to have that recipe. All I remember about them is that through the entire process they were never heated and therefore could not be sealed in a jar. She kept them in a large crockery jar with a plate and a weight on top to hold them under the vinegar solution.

As I recall, she soaked them in brine first for a period of time. The only ingredients I remember her adding to the vinegar solution were chunks of fresh horseradish and some white mustard seed although there must have been other things. They were not sweet pickles. When ready the tomatoes were rather tough and chewy but absolutely delicious. Bette Hagaman, Sheridan, Wyo.

I have one that is close but not all the way and you do can them eventually but in the meantime we'll keep our fingers crossed that someone somewhere will come up with just what you want.

For my recipe you will need some green or dry dill, 3 tablespoons mixed pickling spices, 36 medium or 72 small green tomatoes, 1 1/2 cups salt, 2 cups vinegar and 8 quarts hot water. Wash and dry tomatoes. Place a layer of dill and half the pickling spices in a stone jar or stainless steel container. Top with all the tomatoes. Put in another good layer of dill and the rest of the spices. Dissolve the salt in vinegar and water. Cool; pour over tomatoes. Cover with a dinner plate or glass pie plate. Hold it down with a capped quart jar of water to hold tomatoes under the brine. Cover and store in a cool place (68 to 72 degrees) 2 to 4 weeks.

Check to see that tomatoes are covered with brine at all times. If necessary during the curing process add more brine. Remove scum daily. The pickles are cured when well flavored and even in color. Then drain, pack tomatoes into hot jars leaving 1/4 inch head space.

Prepare fresh hot brine of 3/4 cup salt, 1 cup vinegar and 4 quarts water. Boil 5 minutes. Pour hot brine over tomato pickles, again leaving 1/4 inch head space. Adjust caps. Process pints and quarts 10 minutes in a boiling water bath. While

Consumer Market Report

COLLEGE STATION — Beef counters continue to be well stocked and forequarter cuts show most attractive prices, according to one consumer marketing education specialist.

Greater consumer demands for beef hindquarters have raised prices on those cuts while lowering prices on forequarters. Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, said this week.

"Look for best beef buys on ground beef, round steaks, chuck roasts and steaks, and liver.

Pork supplies are usually lower in summer and the higher prices reflect this condition now. However, several pork cuts — smoked hams, loin cuts and the Boston butt — are among the better meat values," the specialist noted.

Poultry is another good buy. Whole and cut up fryers are priced low and the quality of the birds on the market is excellent, the specialist reported.

Fresh fruit items in best supply at most economical prices include oranges, bananas, nectarines, peaches, pineapples, plums, cantaloupe, honeydew melons and watermelons.

Best vegetable buys are cabbage, carrots, squash, okra, corn, radishes, green onions and dry yellow onions, the specialist said.

Consumer Watchwords: Cheese is a good bargain now because prices have dropped as a result of larger than usual supplies.

Try combining cheese with small portions of leftovers for a tasty and economical meal.

CRISP, GOLDEN fried chicken, once known as a Southern delicacy, has jumped regional bounds and is now a nationwide favorite.

Fried Chicken Is All-American Favorite

Fried Chicken might well be labeled the All-American dish.

History records that the earliest settlers brought along chickens from their native land and fried chicken was probably being served in pioneer homes long before the colonies became a nation.

Crisp, golden fried chicken, once known as a Southern delicacy, has jumped regional bounds and is now a nationwide favorite.

It's easy to prepare, too, when you follow the basic steps recommended by The National Broiler Council.

An old-fashioned, heavy iron skillet produces the best results but of course you can use your electric frying pan too. Just be sure the fat (about 1/2 inch deep) is hot before adding the chicken. A good test: a drop of water sizzles when it touches the hot fat.

Here's another helpful hint that will cut down on clean-up: mix the flour and seasoning in a plastic or paper bag, drop in a few pieces of chicken at a time and shake to coat thoroughly. If you make gravy, the seasoned flour can be used for thickening. Turn the chicken frequently to brown on all sides. Then, reduce the heat, cover and cook until tender (about 30 minutes more on medium-low heat).

Besides being one food that almost everybody likes, chicken has more protein than any other meat. It's low in calories, too.

Buying just the pieces you prefer, you can feed a family of four all the fried chicken hungry appetites can consume for under two dollars. Or, if you buy a whole broiler-fryer and cut it up yourself, you save even more.

If you plan to serve the fried chicken cold, The National Broiler Council recommends cooling it in the refrigerator after cooking rather than at room temperature. And if you're taking it on a picnic, pack the chicken in an insulated container to keep it cool while traveling.

There are many different ways to prepare chicken for frying. Some cooks dip it in an egg before flouring; others prefer buttermilk or even a pancake-like batter. And for variety, there are a number of different seasonings which can be mixed with the flour.

Try this basic recipe recommended by The National Broiler Council for fried chicken. Then experiment with any variations you choose.

ALL-AMERICAN FRIED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Shortening or salad oil
Mix flour, salt, paprika and pepper in plastic or paper bag. Rinse chicken under cold running water; add pieces, a few at a time, and shake until well coated.
Heat shortening or oil 1/2 inch deep in skillet over medium-high heat. Add chicken, skin side down. Turn pieces to brown evenly on all sides. Reduce heat to medium-low, cover, and cook until tender (about 25 more minutes). Chicken is done when it can be pierced easily with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper.

Variations: 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme, tarragon, basil or poultry seasoning, or 1 teaspoon curry powder may be mixed with flour.

For extra crispness: dip chicken in buttermilk before shaking in seasoned flour. Let chicken stand a half hour to dry coating; then sprinkle moist spots with more flour.

Mamma Mia! Americans Eat Lots Of Pizza

Americans will devour 1-million tons of pizza this year... a world record!

Not even the Italians wolf it down that fast. In fact, Italy now ranks a distant fourth behind world-leading United States in annual consumption of pizza.

And while the true connoisseurs build their pizzas from scratch, using fresh ingredients and authentic recipes, there are many excellent package mixes on the market, as well as countless oven-ready frozen pizzas.

Whether you make your own, or buy the frozen variety, it's a good idea to equip yourself with the basic tools of the pizza chef, the pizza cutter, and the round pizza pan.

Pizza cutters are available for less than one dollar, and United States Stamping Company just introduced a 13-inch pizza pan which sells for about $4. The pan is made of heavy gauge steel for fast and even heating, and has a glass-like ceramic finish for easy cleaning.

The pan is available in two colors, yellow and cocoa brown. United States Stamping, Moundsville, W. Va., is a division of Lisk-Savory Corp.

Before Steaming Clams
Before steaming clams, soak them first for several hours in water to which corn meal has been added. This makes the clams spit out their sand.

This is one of the tips which comes with the popular clam and lobster steamer sold by United States Stamping Company, Moundsville, W. Va., a division of Lisk-Savory Corp.

Dear Abby

She wonders if vitamins improve his hangovers and sex life

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who has always been a bit of a hypochondriac, is now on a vitamin kick. He takes huge doses of vitamin C to "prevent colds." He takes vitamin B-complex in enormous quantities to "cure a hangover." And now he's added massive doses of vitamin E to "improve his sex life and prevent heart trouble."

Please ask some of your medical consultants if those vitamins do what they claim they'll do.

I don't take anything and I'm in better shape than my husband.

DEAR ANTI: "Taking something" has become a popular national pastime. No one should introduce a foreign substance into his body (vitamins included) without the knowledge and approval of his physician.

Dr. Irvine H. Page, who has done exceedingly productive research in the prevention and alleviation of heart ailments says: "There is growing evidence that gross overdosage of vitamins can cause not only harm to your pocketbook, but to your body."

It's not much of an exaggeration to say that half the sick people in the world can be cured by going to bed, and the other half by getting up.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for three months. This is my second marriage and Harvey's third. I am 55 and Harvey is 60.

We are living in Harvey's lovely large home, but I am not happy here. You see, Harvey has shared this home with his two former wives. There are so many memories here for him, as well as things that belong to his first wives.

Also, this house is much too big for just the two of us. I would much rather have a smaller, cozier place. He could easily sell this house at a profit.

I love Harvey very much and he says he loves me. I've never told him how uncomfortable I am here. Would it be wrong to ask him to move?

NUMBER THREE

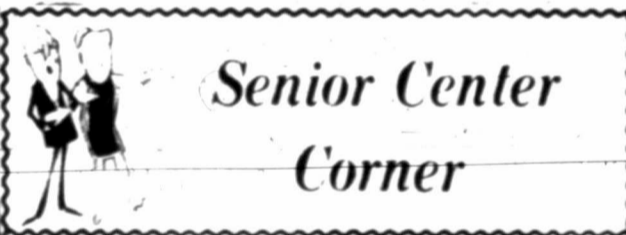

DEAR THREE: Ask him. And if he loves you, you're in for a moving experience.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to "Desperate," whose widowed mother started "running around" at age 62, joining different social clubs, including a "swingers' club." I would get down on my hands and knees and thank God for such a mother. Most sons and daughters complain because their widowed mothers refuse to take an interest in anything other than their children and expect "the family" to entertain them constantly.

And if a 62-year-old widowed mother should be lucky enough to find herself a man for companionship (with or without marriage) it would be a blessing for everyone, for she would then be living her own life, and freeing her children to live theirs.

NOT FREE IN N.J.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS ADVICE IN TULSA": It's pointless to tell a grown daughter: "If you ever get into any trouble, come to me first." If the proper relationship has been built over the years, she will. If it hasn't, the words will be meaningless.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, AUGUST 9
Your birthday today:
Brings on another cycle of destiny's wheel. You may opt to seek a more direct course of personal expression. Material concerns seem to almost resolve themselves once you get past an experimental phase early in the year. Today's natives give little thought to world opinion, preferring pragmatic approaches.

Aries [March 21-April 19]:
Caution is strongly advised as you wind up the work week. Later hours are steadier, a better trend moving in to help you prepare for a busy weekend.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]:
Easy does it! Go slowly all morning, then push hard to advance in the afternoon. Don't argue over anything short of a legal case.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]:
Resolve to continue despite temporary reversals or disappointing results. Postpone nothing, go ahead toward goals for which you started out. Ease tensions later.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]:
Whatever else happens, see that you have extra safety margins. Take no sound judgment for granted—yours included. Evening should bring pleasant, relaxing social encounters.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]:
Afternoon is good for revising morning discrepancies, trouble-shooting. Take pains to tie loose ends, store tools and materials properly.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]:
Time alone brings double benefits. You can be in touch with and sustained by forces beyond your usual reach, and so avoid trivial bickering.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]:
Concentration is easier. You face facts that had been somewhat complex and would do well charting a new course. Add to your reserves. Evening is for fun—no shop talk.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]:
Close cooperation comes naturally if you ask for it in brief, simple terms and first do your part of the bargain. Teamwork, rather than output, is more important now.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]:
Realize at the outset that certain routines must be fulfilled. Do your share peacefully, without complaint. Save your good humor!

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]:
At the moment there's nothing to be resolved, but much to be gained by getting on with what you've started. Gather old friends for celebration tonight.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]:
Pause for rest and reflection at the soonest opportunity. While it's generally quiet, your routines touch on matters of high importance.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]:
Get up and out early. Believe nothing until you're sure of the overall trend.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

Today's deal is a tough one to play correctly — except, perhaps, in retrospect. When the hand arose in actual competition, our South declarer went down a trick. In the subsequent analysis, it was revealed that he could have fulfilled his contract.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

NORTH
♠ A 10 6
♥ Q J 8 5
♦ Q 2
♣ A Q J 5

EAST
♠ 9 7 3 2
♥ J 8 5 4

♠ A 3

♦ K J 9 8 5 3
♣ A 10 7 4

SOUTH
♠ K Q
♥ 10 9 7 5 2
♣ K 10 9 8 4

The bidding:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1♥ 2♦
2♥ Pass 3♣ Pass
4♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Two of ♠.

West's opening lead of the club deuce was taken by dummy's jack. A low trump was then led, East's six being covered by South's seven. West took the trick with his ace.

West now led the three of diamonds to East's ace, after which East returned a club, which West ruffed. In time, East's king of hearts took the setting trick. As will become evident, the contract could have been fulfilled.

Considering North's opening club bid, and South's subsequent raise in clubs, West's opening lead of the two of clubs certainly figured to be a singleton. Thus declarer should have realized that the danger in leading trumps immediately was that West might ruff a second club lead.

Declarer could have presented this from happening by breaking the West - to East line of communication in diamonds. At trick two he should have cashed the spade king, after which the queen of spades would be played. This would be overtaken by the board's ace (no loss, since the king, queen, and ace of spades could never be cashed separately). Then would come the ten of spades, East following suit with a low spade. South would discard his diamond six, and West's jack of spades would win the trick.

As can be observed, East couldn't now obtain the lead with his ace of diamonds. West would lead a diamond, which South would ruff. He would then — at long last — play a trump. If East won the trick with his king, and returned a club, West could trump, but he would be doing so with his high ace of trumps.

And if West won South's original trump lead with his ace, he would still have the three of trumps remaining. But, once again, he could never get to ruff a diamond with it, since East could not be put into the lead.

And so this deal illustrates the proficiency of expert play.

Rains Fail To Help

Rains finally came to the drought-parched Midwest Wednesday, but farmers, many already wiped out by the drought, were not heartened by the showers.

"Why did it wait so long?" asked one Kansas farmer. "I'd have got down on my knees and thanked God for even a few drops of rain two weeks ago. But today, all it's good for is making mud."

The thirsty land drank up the scattered rainfall, but for the crops, it was too late. The drought already has caused $10 billion in losses. And experts say that unless more substantial rainfalls are forthcoming, there will be greater losses.

Bobby Gruben stood under the eaves of his barn in Rotan, Tex., Wednesday as the rain made puddles in his cotton fields and turned the dust-dry soil to red mud. But he wasn't smiling.

The light rains Tuesday and Wednesday were the first to dampen the area since mid-June, and the area has only had about four inches since last October.

"It's the same old story—a matter of too little, too late," Gruben said. "Our fields are dead—or pretty near it. If my neighbors and I harvest 15 to 20 per cent of the total amount of cotton we harvested last year, we'll be doing pretty darn good."

A single flower, purple-red in the blazing sun, tells the story of the midlands' worst drought since the Dust Bowl Days of the 1930s.

In Texas' cotton fields, they call it "the funeral flower."

"When you see the funeral flower out, you know you've had it," said Ronnie McNutt, the Childress County, Tex., agricultural agent.

Cotton plants are dying in the fields and those that survive bear the single purple-red bloom at the top of the stalk—a telltale sign of poor production.

Donald Coker, a Roby, Tex., farmer, said his cotton, planted in May, normally would be about three feet high by August. Today, most stand less than four inches high.

McNutt said the rain also was too late to save food grain crops, but he had a single word of optimism.

"With what we've had for the past couple days, we can still make a crop by next fall—we get some more rain," said McNutt.

TV In Review

By FRANK SWERTLOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bette Davis is marvelously outrageous on the Dick Cavett show Thursday night at 11:30. She gives her friends a loving kiss, and the others "shot between the eyes. She also is very candid about herself.

"I was never really very fond of my looks, never," she said during her second 90-minute appearance with Cavett. "I could never stand my face."

Miss Davis not only reminisces about her glory days of Hollywood, but also sings two songs, Frank Loesser's "They're Either Too Young or Too Old," and "Hush, Hush Sweet Charlotte," from the movie with the same name.

She also is joined by Whitney Stone, who has just finished a biography of Miss Davis, titled, "Mother Goddam." He confides that if Miss Davis' more than 80 films were played end to end, they would last five days and eight hours.

Miss Davis' finale was a dramatic reading from her film, "Dark Victory."

But Miss Davis is a delight when she is alone with Cavett, who sits back and lets her talk about Hollywood.

Of the dashing Errol Flynn, who starred with her in the film, "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex," she said:

"He was a beautiful man. But he never pretended to be an actor's actor. He thought I was a fool... that I worked so hard. He never took it seriously. He was a personality plus."

She was not so kind with Miriam Hopkins, who she said always tried to steal scenes from her and other actors.

"She was a pig about it," she said. "She was eaten with jealousy for others."

Miss Davis also reveals that she is a devoted fan of Greta Garbo. She never has met the elusive Garbo, but it's her "dying ambition" to do so.

Then there is her favorite line from a script, which she does with a bit of tongue and cheek: "I'd love to kiss ya, but ma hair is wet." And she is frank about her television appearances:

"A great, great TV talk show," she said, "can be better for your career than a movie."

The five owned-and-operated CBS TV stations have reached an agreement with Lee Radziwill to do six short personality interviews, a highly placed source close to CBS has revealed. Mrs. Radziwill is the sister of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

The source said the five stations will be offered five, two-and-a-half minute interviews with: Rudolph Nureyev, the ballet dancer; Halston, the designer; Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, a Harvard economist; Gloria Steinem, the feminist writer; Peter Benchley, author of "Jaws," and Prof. Robert Coles, a Harvard psychologist.

The five owned-and-operated stations are: WCBS, New York; WBBM, Chicago; KNXT, Los Angeles; KMOX, St. Louis; and WCAU, Philadelphia.

The source said there has been no decision when the interviews will be aired.

The source said Mrs. Radziwill and the stations have not signed a contract. "It is only at the agreement stage," the source said. He said no decision has been made whether or not the interviews will be offered for syndication or to the CBS network.

Mrs. Radziwill, who was recently divorced, made her TV debut several years ago in the remake of the film, "Laura." She received mostly unfavorable notices.

48 Enlisted Men Court Martialed

TOKYO (UPI) — The U.S. Navy has begun court-martialing 48 enlisted men for missing last June's sailing of the aircraft carrier Midway, it was announced today.

A Navy spokesman said military authorities ordered special courts-martial for 41 sailors and informal captain's mast proceedings for seven of the men.

The spokesman said military authorities have yet to decide how to proceed against the rest of the 54 sailors accused of missing the June 14 sailing from the port of Yokosuka.

Most of the missing men were black, leading Japanese newspapers to attribute the mass absence from the ship to racial trouble on the carrier.

The spokesman tried to play down the significance of the absence, saying only a little more than one per cent of the ship's 4,200-man crew missed the sailing, a legal offense in the Navy.

Navy sources said the military trials so far have uncovered no evidence of an organized walkout from the ship. The sources said sailors on trial insisted they acted on their own.

A Navy spokesman said 24 of the 41 courts-martial already have been completed. He said 17 men were found guilty of missing the ship's sailing by design and seven others convicted of absence through neglect.

The spokesman said one sailor was exonerated and six others penalized at captain's mast proceedings, less formal trials presided by the ship's skipper.

He said the most severe court-martial punishment—45 days of hard labor, loss of five months' pay, reduction in rank and a bad conduct discharge—was meted out to a sailor with a record of three previous offenses.

The minimum court-martial sentence was a one-step reduction in pay grade and a temporary withholding of $90-a-month in pay for a half-year.

Captain's mast sentences ranged from a $75 fine and 15 days restriction to a $188 fine and 15 days in correctional custody for missing the sailing from Yokosuka, home port of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

The Navy said the 54 men who missed the ship included 34 blacks and 20 whites. About 11 per cent of the Midway's crew is black.

Alabama Attorney General William J. Baxley believes in team spirit to the extent that he plays catcher for his office's softball team.

Farenthold's Suit Upcoming

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — District Judge Herman Jones hopes attorneys in Frances Farenthold's $2.5 million campaign practices suit against Gov. Dolph Briscoe can reach some understanding today on how the case will be carried out.

Jones said Wednesday the much delayed pretrial hearing scheduled for 9 a.m. today will be informal.

"Generally," he said, "it's to try to get the groundwork laid for disposition of these proceedings."

Jones said he hopes the lawyers can agree on when to hold another hearing on the case to move part of the case to Dallas and on a trial date for the case.

Mrs. Farenthold filed the suit in February and hoped to have it brought to trial before the May 4 primary election. Mrs. Farenthold unsuccessfully challenged Briscoe in that primary.

The suit claims Briscoe illegally raised about $500,000 at a fund raising dinner last October. Jess Hay of Dallas, chairman of that dinner, has filed a plea of privilege asking that the part of the case involving him be tried in Dallas.

Briscoe's campaign manager, Joe Kilgore, is also a defendant since the suit contends that the money was raised before Briscoe had appointed Kilgore as campaign chairman and it was therefore illegal.

A similar pretrial hearing had been set at least twice previously but was cancelled—once for the judge's illness and once at the request of the attorneys.

Six Area Youths 'Texas' Performers

CANYON — Six area residents, four from Pampa, have close connections with "Texas," the musical drama of the Texas Panhandle written by Paul Green, which plays in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park nightly except Sunday through Aug. 24.

Local residents associated with the production are Frank Davis, Lynn and Sheryl Richardson and Viola Parsley, Pampa; Matt Ohmes, Pertyon; and Carol Coleman, McLean.

Davis, son of L. Keith Davis, south of city, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Moore Jones, is a graduate of Pampa High School. He portrays Buck King in the musical. Davis will be a sophomore music major at West Texas State University this fall.

Lynn and Sheryl Richardson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Richardson, 1819 Evergreen and granddaughters of Mrs. Selina Hawkins, both graduated from Pampa High School. Lynn plays Della Hamilton and is a singer in the cast. Sheryl, a senior elementary education music major at West Texas State University, plays Mazie Everett in the production. She is carrying a music minor.

Viola Parsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Parsley, 621 Tignor, has danced in "Texas" for two seasons.

Granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.K. Parsley, 845 Denver, she has been a dance major at Texas Tech University in Lubbock for three years. She studied under Jeannie Willingham while in Pampa and is a 1971 graduate of Pampa High School.

Matt R. Ohmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. B.F. Ohmes, Pertyon, portrays Sandy Hooper, the Hon. Alex Williams and Col. Charles Goodnight in the musical. He is a student at West Texas State University where he was awarded a Branning Iron award for Best Actor in a minor role.

Carol Coleman formerly lived in McLean with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Coleman. A member of the hospitality crew, Miss Coleman has been associated with "Texas" for two years.

"Texas," in its eighth season, has played to more than a half million people. The story of the Texas Panhandle in the 1880's is produced by the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, a non-profit corporation, in cooperation with West Texas State University. It plays in the Pioneer Amphitheatre built as a memorial to the people of the Panhandle in cooperation with the State of Texas.

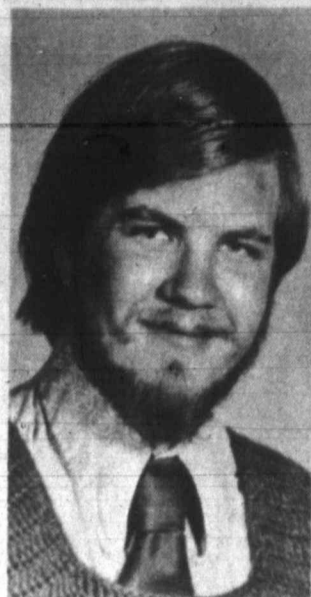

Performance time is 8:30 p.m.

By MATHIS CHAZANOV

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eric C. Cottell of Bayville, N.Y., has invented a device that saves fuel oil by diluting it with water and he is experimenting with similar equipment to save gasoline.

Cottell said the device, called an ultrasonic fuel reactor, breaks down the oil to minute particles, or droplets, with ultrasonic vibrations of 20,000 cycles per second, "atomizing" minuscule bits of water inside each droplet.

The result has a larger total surface area, the fuel burns better, and the water and oil particles are so integrated that a furnace will get almost as much heat out of the result as from 100 per cent fuel oil.

As for automobile fuel, the mechanical engineer said he has fitted some experimental cars with the device, which looks somewhat like a Coca-Cola bottle.

The savings comes not from burning of water but from sharply increased efficiency in fuel oil combustion, he said in an interview.

The process is said to cut certain forms of air pollution by more than 95 per cent.

Cottell said the oil burns better after being treated because water particles expand instantly into superheated steam with no loss to heat or vaporization.

Steam increases the surface of oil particles and improves heat transfer by stripping away heat-inhibiting nitrogen and carbon dioxide. Oxidation takes place as fast as the molecules can be formed from the hydrocarbon process.

What seems certain is that the heat transfer is enormously improved since water replaces excess nitrogen and oxygen.

The Cottell reactor was used at Adelphi University's main heating plant last winter and a spokesman there said there was a 28 per cent savings in fuel over the year before—16 per cent of which was because of the new device. The rest came from more conventional ways of conserving heat.

The boilers in Adelphi's heating plant were set to mix 40 gallons of water an hour with 140 gallons of oil.

Cottell said he started his ultrasound experiments in an effort to cut down on air pollution, but when he ran the "atomized" fuel through test boilers in his laboratory, "I discovered a mysterious component in the performance."

He continued, "I thought that a timer must be overriding the thermostat. But when I looked into it, I found it was a fixed temperature. This meant there must be an improved performance somewhere."

Researchers at Adelphi are looking at the possibility of using the reactor for other fuels, specifically a coal-wateroil mixture.

Ann Reinking Is Special New All-Around Actress

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every Broadway season, the drama critics "fall in love" through their notices, with at least one "new" actress.

This can happen in the case of a complete unknown or to one who has been in a few productions before getting just that right role in that right show that brings her to the fore.

The latter is the way it is with Ann Reinking of the nostalgic 1940s "Over Here!" musical starring the surviving two Andrews Sisters of recording fame at that period.

With all due respect to the sisters and to a sensational Janie Sell, a singing comedienne who, among other chores, fills in for the departed third Andrews sister at times, you'll walk away from "Over Here!" performance remembering Ann Reinking most of all. And that's making out against really tough competition.

To begin with, she is a beauty. She is a lissome brunette a bit over average female height. Primarily, she is a dancer. But she also sings well. Even more important—and there have been many good and successful singing-dancing actresses without this quality—she has an invaluable impish comedienne talent that is impressive.

Producers, if you have a musical with a role that calls for such an all-around actress as its leading player, this is your girl.

Ann is 24-25. She came to New York in 1968 with $500 in her kick earned as a waitress in restaurant in her home town, Seattle, Wash. Unlike scores of other Broadway theater aspirants, both sexes, she hasn't had it too rough.

"I started out as a ballet dancer at 14," Miss Reinking said. "Thanks to the financial assistance of an aunt, who put up the money for ballet lessons, I won a Ford Foundation scholarship in ballet, and a scholarship that gave me training with the Robert Joffrey ballet company."

With Joffrey, we all had to do class extemporaneous turns after the regular routines. The others did dance bits for some number, always sang a reason. This led to Joffrey advising me that I might

White Admits Murders In Grocery

DALLAS (UPI)—Robert Excel White said in a statement read in court Tuesday he casually killed a helpless grocer and two young customers near McKinney, Tex., last May 11.

One of the two teen-age boys made a "wisecrack" and White said he responded with a shot from a

30-caliber rifle. White, 36, of Waco, Tex., was on trial for the murder of Preston Broyles, 72, during the robbery of Broyles' Hilltop Grocery. Brothers Gary Dale Livingston, 23, and James Owen Livingston, 26, also are charged in the deaths of Broyles and the two youths. The state rested its case

Tuesday. White said he forced the three men to lie down on the grocery floor but then ordered one of the youths to empty the cash register. "I made him hand it to me, and then I made him lie back down," White's statement said. "He got smart with me. That was a wisecrack. I then shot him.

"I turned to the other fellow, who was on the left-hand side, which was the older man, and shot him a bunch of times. As I walked to the other side I told the other fellow he had to go too."

The grocery was robbed of $200. White was arrested a few days later at Cleveland, Miss.

Civilization Has Brought Increasing Sentiment Against Hunting

By C. R. BATTEN
Over 99 percent of men's formative years were spent in the hunting way of life," wrote Dale Shaw in his Ph. D. thesis at Colorado State University, Ft. Collins. "Physical, mental and physiological attributes were imprinted during this period of some three million years."

But man is "civilized" now, it is said. And with civilization has come increasing sentiment against hunting. A summary of Shaw's study of the anti-hunting controversy was published in the Spring, 1974 edition of "The Big Sky," the house organ of the Fred Bear Sports Club.

Increasing anti-hunting sentiment, in general, appears to be related to urbanization, disassociation with the land, and a trend toward adoption of a preservationist philosophy toward all natural resources," wrote Shaw.

A combination of these factors is resulting in a change in social values in our society away from consumptive use and toward appreciative uses of all things wild.

One of the difficulties in the hunting controversy that Shaw pointed out is that "no common definition of 'hunting' exists." To many anti-hunters, hunting is any intentional killing of wildlife by any means.

They seldom distinguish between commercial and sport hunting. They include in their definition of hunting such activities as indiscriminate shooting of birds for target practice, shooting of caged or penned animals, poisoning or trapping predators, release of semi-tame animals in front of a gun, and shooting from aircraft.

None of these activities are included in the pro-hunters' definition of hunting. Hunters "speak only of the legal harvest of what to them is a surplus of game animals which they believe would be lost or wasted if not taken by the sport hunter," said Shaw.

To many anti-hunters, "the total essence of hunting is killing." Shaw pointed out that the hunter takes an entirely different view, for hunting involves far more than the kill.

It "is a total experience" which includes planning, travel, comradeship with companions; and the sights, sounds, smells and feel of the out-of-doors. Hunters believe their sport "is a pleasureable activity which offers challenge, suspense, excitement, and mental, physical and spiritual rewards."

"Sport hunting endangers some species" led all other reasons for anti-hunting sentiment among college students; but Shaw reported that he "could find no basis or documentation to support a statement that sport hunting is now or has ever endangered or caused the extirpation of any wild life species. Most responsible authors agree that wildlife habitat destruction is by far the greatest threat to wild species."

Shaw sampled the attitudes of students in ten colleges and universities selected at random across the nation. He found some degree of anti-hunting sentiment expressed by 67 percent of the students said that television "was responsible for causing them to have negative feelings about hunting or reinforced beliefs already held." Among specific programs, "Wild Kingdom" was most often mentioned, followed by "American Sportsman," the clubbing of baby seals. "National Geographic," Disney programs, Jacques Costeau, Lassie and news programs. Personal experiences, parents, movies, and magazines were also named as influential in creating or reinforcing anti-hunting attitudes. Of all magazines, sporting magazines were most frequently named. It is revealing that "American Sportsman" and sporting magazines ranked so high on the list as influencing students against hunting. Both are produced for sportsmen by sportsmen. There must be a lesson here some place.

While Shaw's survey of college students is discouraging to the sportsman who is concerned about the rising tide of anti-hunting sentiment in the nation, one interesting and hopeful sign was revealed.

"By vote, sport hunting won approval of the students by a margin of 4 to 1 among males and 6 to 4 among girls. Many students stated though their value system didn't permit them to hunt, they didn't believe they had a right to tell others not to hunt."

'Weak Case' Terminated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has decided to drop its four-year-old investigation of Rep. Jim Collins, R-Tex., because it cannot obtain sufficient evidence to prove Collins was guilty of obstruction of justice in connection with salary kickbacks by his employees.

A spokesman for Attorney General William Saxbe said Tuesday Saxbe "felt it was a weak case" and "not enough of a case to proceed on."

Collins did not comment on the disclosure.

U. S. Attorney Earl Silbert said he had been informed of Saxbe's decision to terminate the investigation and understood it was "for a number of reasons, including the age of the case."

A Justice Department spokesman said the decision not to prosecute was made by Saxbe personally because there had been a split among members of the Justice Department's criminal division staff as well as in the U. S. attorney's office on whether the case should proceed.

The investigations began in March, 1970, following complaints by parttime employes in the office of the congressman from Dallas that they had given parts of their salaries to Collins' administrative assistant, George A. Haag.

Haag was convicted in 1972 of taking $13,000 in kickbacks, of mail fraud and obstruction of justice. He served nine months of a maximum three year sentence in the U.S.S. penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., before being paroled effective last October.

GRANTS AWARDED
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Film Institute has awarded grants totaling more than $80,000 to 10 filmmakers to make new movies in the latest cycle of independent filmmaker grants. This brings the total of such grants over the years to $890,000 as financed by the National Endowment of the Arts. The next cycle of grants comes in October.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Medication For Blood Pressure

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send booklet on "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)" for which I enclose 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Also, how about extreme sensitivity to blood pressure medicines? I've tried two which have been almost disastrous to my nervous system. — N.N.

The medications you mention both are a combination of a thiazide (a diuretic, to expel excess fluid from the body) and reserpine, which is commonly used to reduce blood pressure.

Unpleasant sensitivity to either is not common, but you are evidently one of the exceptions. But don't give up. There are other answers, and you'll find them in the booklet you ordered.

First of all, depending on the severity of your condition, you may not need medication containing both of the ingredients I just mentioned. Just the reserpine may be sufficient. Or just the thiazide with perhaps a low salt diet to help. Both of these ingredients are available separately, and in varying proportions, and there are other medications that can be used in suitable cases, methyldopa being one.

You didn't make clear to me what is so "disastrous" in your reaction, and if I knew the details, I might have some further ideas to offer. However I do say this: make sure your physician knows, so he can adjust your medication accordingly.

Only about half of the millions of folks with high blood pressure are getting treatment. Untreated, hypertension can lead to really disastrous results — stroke, heart or kidney trouble.

So it is important that you find some effective means of bringing your pressure down to normal. And again I refer you to the booklet for details about importance of weight, nerves and other related factors.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 70 and in very good health for my age. My doctor prescribed phenobarbital tablets to make me sleep. I take one at bedtime. Sometimes I don't take any if I feel I don't need it.

What has worried me is that my niece told me if I continued taking them I will end up in a mental home. I hope to hear your answer. — Mrs. B.C.

Darn these calamity howlers who don't know what they are talking about! It is true that that drug, or almost any drug you can name, can be harmful if taken to excess. That's what "drug abuse" is all about.

But when you are taking a medication in amounts prescribed by your doctor, you are in no danger. One tablet a night isn't going to hurt you. Too bad we don't have a medication for people who run off at the mouth.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that even the A.M.A. has cautioned against the use of mineral oil as a laxative — quite a while ago. Why do doctors and hospitals still give it to patients? — Mrs. W.S. McL.

The caution isn't necessary on a short-term basis. The caution is applicable only to the folks who go overboard and take too much, and get in the habit of using it every day.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My scalp is covered with a white flaky substance and itches considerably. My ears also itch almost unbearably. I have tried every single thing I have seen on TV and nothing has helped. I would appreciate your advice. — Mrs. B.D.

The scalp and ears may — or may not — be affected by the same thing, and without examining you, there's no way I can even guess. Instead of working in the dark and trying miscellaneous remedies, the smart thing for you to do is to consult a dermatologist (skin specialist).

Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea. Menier's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to Dr. George C. Thosteson at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents. Copyright 1974 Field Enterprises, Inc.

Amarillo Slim Gives The Odds

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — I have it on the best authority that Evel Knievel will not jump the canyon, that Richard Nixon will not serve out his term, that Jimmy the Greek the odds maker will fix the odds but never bet on them and that there will never be a great woman poker player because when the chips are down, they have a heart as big as a pea.

The "authority" is Amarillo Slim Preston, world champion poker player and pool wizard, who further states that the New York newspapermen they had him play poker with were pitiful.

"Most of 'em couldn't track an elephant in 4 feet of snow," he said. "They all got broke playin' with me. It was no fun. I had to give the money back. Some of 'em got broke real fast. Listen," he added, "anybody doesn't get broke doesn't play much."

Amarillo Slim, 45 and tall and drawly, here in connection with a movie with Elliott Gould called "California Split," resented the suggestion he took his name because of another pool whiz called "Minnesota Fats."

"Minnesota Fats is not Minnesota Fats, he's New York Fats, his real name is Rudolph Wanderone," he said. "I played him pool and beat him but he's beaten me more than I beat him. I was doing pool exhibitions since I was 16. I was always Amarillo Slim."

He took a 50 to 1 bet that Nixon won't finish. He's had many an argument with Jimmy the Greek. As for Evel Knievel, "he was going to jump that canyon before but he couldn't get his starter started. I'd like to bet him he won't the next time, too."

Jennifer O'Neill said in Los Angeles that she and Elliott Gould have given up marriage plans. "Neither of us have a divorce and we'll wait and see what happens but I think it's better," she said, "to have a bad announcement than a bad marriage."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Sheralee, the beautiful blond singer on the "Your Hit Parade" TV show, revealed at a party after they'd finished taping the summer replacement series, that she's expecting a baby in five months. She's the wife of basketball star and memory wizard Jerry Lucas. Xavier Cugat flew to Spain to find a chef for his Casa Cugat restaurant in LA opening Oct. 1. He boasted that his bride Charo now earns $50,000 a week.

Elizabeth Ashley told the TV Academy at Jimmy's that she took a pain-killer after hurting her back slightly in a train ride — and forgot two pages of monologue in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" at Stratford.

Keir Dullea realized what had happened and filled in for me and saved me," she said. Liz said her mother was unhappy about a recent interview she gave me. "Mother didn't want anybody to know that I'd ever been in jail, much less FOUR TIMES!"

Toots Shor congratulated Le Minstral Jean Lariaga on the caviar he served him last night — declared it was the best he ever drank. Hal Schaffell will be voluntary advisor on films to Howard Samuels' gubernatorial campaign. The French Crazy Horse show may be next on the NY scene — with naked fellas.

Secret Stuff: Elizabeth Taylor's alleged intimates keep saying she's interested in a tycoon instead of a buffoon.

ROCK STAR Elton John drove up to Alida's grandly in his new white Rolls Royce — eating a hot dog. A multimillion dollar film project from a best-selling book junked its costly screenplay. Tennessee Williams wants Peter Cook and Dudley Moore of "Good Evening" to star in a revival of his "Gnadies Frauleins" — playing women. John Huston's dr. Angelica interviewed Mae West for a magazine article. Harrah's already plans to double the size of its new Lake Tahoe hotel.

Show Biz Quiz: What was the last black-and-white film to win an Oscar? Ans. to yesterday's: James Bond was played by Sean Connery, George Lazenby, Roger Moore, and David Niven in "Casino Royale".

I'D RATHER BELIGHT TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: An ad executive told Herb Sherry he lost a big-money tobacco account. "That's another thing cigarets can give you — ulcers." WISH I'D SAID THAT: If Nixon gets called for another tax audit, he should remember to wear his oldest cloth coat and no nink.

EARL'S PEARLS: John Markus says there wasn't much to see in his home town — the sightseeing bus left every two minutes and returned in the same time.

Under Twenty

By JEANNE HARRISON
When all is said and done, trying to predict what will happen in, or who will make it to, the Top Ten is more difficult than forecasting the weather. For instance, this week, it was confusionsville with three NEW hits in the line — up to replace three others.

Meanwhile, "Don't Let The Sun Go Down On Me" merely changed places with "Annie's Song," which was on top of the heap last week.

TOP TEN SINGLES(+) 1. "Don't Let The Sun Go Down On Me" — Elton John 2. "Annie's Song" — John Denver 3. "Rikki Don't Lose That Number" — Steely Dan 4. "Rock and Roll Heaven" — Righteous Bros. 5. "Rock Your Baby" — George McCrae 6. "Rock The Boat" — Hues Corp. 7. "The Night Chicago Died" — Paper Lace 8. "Sideshow" — Blue Magic 9. "Feel Like Makin' Love" — Roberta Flack 10. "Waterloo" — Abba

TOP FIVE ALBUMS(+) 1. "Caribou" — Elton John 2. "Back Home Again" — John Denver 3. "Before The Flood" — Bob Dylan 4. "Journey To The Center of The Earth" — Rick Wakeman 5. "Band On The Run" — Paul McCartney

Although the big build-up given Jobriath didn't insure success for his first album, it looks as if the young man with the by-now-familiar posturing of rock stars and outlandish stage business may have it all together.

In his recent debut at Greenwich Village's Bottom Life Club, his "Rock of Ages" was most acceptable and his "I Love You" created a wave of excitement through the audience. Expect him to do better with his next album even though, as one critic noted, "he is not the promised rock messiah."

Jaworski Gets 5 Tapes Of Nixon Conversations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge Wednesday turned over to Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski tapes of five of 64 presidential conversations that the Supreme Court ordered President Nixon to surrender.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ruled the tapes of Nixon's conversations with key aides in the spring of 1973 as the Watergate cover-up began to unravel contained "material of an admissible and relevant character."

The tapes were of a meeting by Nixon with John W. Dean III on March 17, 1973; a telephone conversation with Dean March 20; a March 30 meeting with John D. Ehrlichman, and two meetings on April 16 with Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldean.

Nixon's lawyers planned to turn over to Sirica this afternoon more of the tapes Jaworski had subpoenaed and for which he won the Supreme Court order for Nixon to yield. The court directed that they be given to Sirica for screening, with only material bearing on the Watergate cover-up to be given the prosecutors.

There was no indication whether any of the tapes given Jaworski Wednesday — out of more than 30 already provided by the White House to Sirica — included one which two White House officials told the Washington Post contained more information damaging to the President.

On Monday, Nixon made available transcripts of another tape, which showed he tried to limit an FBI Watergate investigation six days after the break-in and nine months before the time he previously insisted he first knew of the Watergate cover-up.

Ryan, Moret Get Close But Don't Get No-Hitters

United Press International
Nolan Ryan and Roger Moret weren't unhappy Wednesday night when they lost their bids for no-hitters.

Ryan, the California Angels' 27-year old fireballer, pointed out that he's been through plenty of no-hit pressure before and primarily was disappointed because he wound up losing to the Chicago White Sox, 2-1.

And Moret, the Boston Red Sox' 24-year old right-hander from Guayama, P.R., explained he felt sick throughout his effort and, besides, he wants to pitch his no-hitter in a World Series game. His disappointment was tempered by the fact that he was a 1-0 winner over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Ryan had to be more disappointed than he appeared after his game because he was two putouts away from becoming the fifth pitcher in major league history to hurl three no-hitters in his career when the game blew up in his face. Ryan had pitched 8 1/3 innings of hitless ball when Dick Allen beat out a scratch single. Carlos May was safe on an error and Ken Henderson singled in the tying run.

Ryan, who also has four no-hitters, retired Bill Melton on a popup but Bill

Sharp singled to drive in the winning run.

It was the 12th loss against 14 wins for Ryan, who struck out 13 and got his only run when Frank Robinson homered in the second. Jim Kaat went the distance for the White Sox for his 13th win against eight losses. Sandy Koufax, Cy Young, Larry Corcoran and Bob Feller are the only pitchers with three or more no-hitters during their careers.

Moret carried his no-hitter for 7 2/3 innings before Pedro Garcia singled, giving the Brewers runners on first and second. Dick Drago pitched the Red Sox out of that jam and was in turn rescued by Bob Veale in the ninth. Rick Burleson singled home the only run of the game in third inning after leftfielder Bobby Mitchell misplayed a fly by Doug Griffin into a triple.

Kansas City swept Minnesota, 7-6 and 5-1; Oakland defeated Texas, 8-4; New York beat Baltimore, 4-3, and Detroit shaded Cleveland, 3-2, in other AL games.

National League results were Cincinnati 2 Los Angeles 0, Philadelphia 3 Chicago 2, Montreal 7 St. Louis 5, Pittsburgh 10 New York 1, and Houston 6 Atlanta 4.

Royals 7-5, Twins 6-1
Amos Otis' third single of the game drove in the winning run for the Royals in their first game and enabled reliever Doug Bird to win his sixth game. Consecutive triples by George Brett and Frank White were the big blows of the Royals' 10-hit attack in the second game which brought Paul Splittorff his 11th win with relief aid from Bird. Bill Campbell and Bill Butler were the losing pitchers.

A's 8, Rangers 4
Reggie Jackson's three-run homer in the first inning sent the A's on their way to victory. Joe Rudi also homered for the A's, while Jeff Burroughs hit his 22nd for the Rangers. Jim Bibby was the loser.

Yankees 4, Orioles 3
Sandy Alomar's run-scoring, sixth-inning rally stood up as the winning blow for the Yankees when the Orioles rallied for three runs in the eighth. Pat Dobson went seven innings for his 10th win. Ross Grimsley suffered his ninth defeat against 13 wins.

Tigers 3, Indians 2
Al Kaline capped a three-run, seventh-inning rally with a single—the 2,960th hit of his career—to give the Tigers' Mickey Lolich his 12th triumph. Fred Beene, who took over after Ed Brinkman and Gerry Moses opened the inning with singles off Fritz Peterson, was the loser.

The Senators moved to Arlington, Tex.
The Baltimore Orioles were reported to have consented to serve as the home team for 11 of those games, one each against the

Golfers Pick Player To Win

CLEMMONS, N.C. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, because he is Jack Nicklaus, is the popular favorite to win the Professional Golfers Association championship but for once he is not the choice of his peers.

Nicklaus does not rate himself the favorite for the 56th renewal of the PGA which began its four-day run today over Tanglewood's mean, 7,050-yard layout where accurate driving will be the key to victory.

In the clubhouse the finger was pointed Gary Player's way following his victories in the Masters and British Open.

Slammin' Sam Snead, the

62-year-old wonder of the fairways who made his first PGA appearance in 1937, put it in perspective when he said, "If I had to pick a favorite it would be Gary Player, not Jack Nicklaus. This course is going to put a tremendous premium on accuracy, with its narrow fairways, small greens and high rough. That is Gary's game."

Player, 37, did not rule himself out.
"There's no point in playing if you don't think you can win," said the South African. "Ben Hogan won three of the four big ones in 1953. It would be very nice if I could do the same."

Preparation was the key to Player's success at Augusta and Royal Lytham. He's been here for five days, shot around 70 in practice, and has hit hundreds of balls on the practice tee and on the putting green.

Player has 99 victories, including eight major titles, to his credit on courses around the world.

Nicklaus, the defending champion, already has 14 major championship wins and if he fails to defend his title, it will be only the fourth time he has failed to win at least one major title in 13 years on the pro tour.
"I've gone into major championships with my game in worse shape," Nicklaus said on the eve of the tournament. "But I've been working hard recently."

Nicklaus, in a departure from his normal preparation, only arrived Tuesday, but he was not goofing off. He stayed home to take lessons from his lifelong instructor, Jack Grout.

Americans Stop Detroit Wheels

United Press International
It's what's called progress. Ten years ago, Matthew Reed and Alfred Jenkins couldn't get served in a lot of Birmingham, Ala., restaurants. Today they're the toast of the town.

Reed, a 6-foot-3, rifle-armed rookie from Grambling, threw two last quarter touchdown passes to Jenkins, the last with just 26 seconds left, to rally the Birmingham Americans to a 28-22 victory over the Detroit Wheels Wednesday night. The win, before a home crowd of 40,367, was Birmingham's fifth without a loss and leaves the Americans as the only unbeaten team in the World Football League.

Bubba Wyche ran one yard for a score and threw TD passes of 12 yards to Jerry Phillips and 18 yards to John Henderson for the winless Wheels, now 0-5.

Reed's first TD pass to Jenkins, a rookie from Morris Brown, was a 39-yarder and gave the Americans a 20-15 lead. But Wyche hit Henderson from 18 yards with 69 seconds left.

to lift the Wheels to a 22-20 advantage.
Reed calmly took the Americans to their winning score in just four plays, throwing twice to Dennis Holman and running nine yards himself before throwing the clinching pass.
"I'll never make it through the season like this," said Birmingham Coach Jack Gotta. "Unless you were here and saw it, you wouldn't believe it. I can't see how we can go on like this."

In other WFL action, Florida wuffed Chicago, 46-21; Philadelphia crushed Memphis, 46-15; New York edged Southern California, 11-8, and Houston tied Portland, 15-15, in the league's first overtime game. The Hawaiians are at Jacksonville tonight in the national television game.

Blazers 46, Fire 21
Lenara Bryant blocked a punt and took it in for one TD and Billy Hobbs returned an interception 30 yards for another within a four-minute span of the third period to spark Florida past previously unbeaten Chicago before 31,193 in Orlando. Rod Foster had an 86-yard punt return for another Blazer TD, and Virgil Carter threw two scoring passes for the Fire.

Bell 46, Southmen 15
King Corcoran threw four TD passes and his sub, Frank DiMaggio, threw two more as the Bell crushed Memphis before 12,396 in Philadelphia. Corcoran threw a 64-yard TD pass to John Land on the first play from scrimmage, then hit Linzy Cole for a 14-yard TD. Claude Watts on a one-yard scoring pass and Don Shanklin on a 45-yard TD throw. DiMaggio hit Cole on a 43-yard TD pass and Shanklin with a 43-yarder.

Outlaws Romp Over Coaches
Rick Foster batted in seven runs, which was more than the National League coaches scored altogether, to lead the Pampa Outlaws to a 19-6 rout over the coaches Wednesday night at Optimist Park.

Foster had two doubles and a homerun, the second homerun of the game for the Outlaws as Jerry Lindsey hit a solo blast.
Gene Brown led the coaches, belting two doubles.
Winner was Jerry Heasley and loser was Jay Fielding. The teams will play again sometime next week.

Fracas Gives Los Angeles Preview Of Fight To Come

United Press International
The Cincinnati Reds are determined to take the fight out of the Los Angeles Dodgers — one way or another.

The Reds, who have trailed the Dodgers in the National League West for practically the entire season, used their fists in addition to their baseball skills Wednesday night to defeat the division leaders, 2-0, for the second night in a row and reduce their deficit in the standings to 5 1/2 games.

A two-run homer by Johnny Bench and the sixth-inning pitching of Jack Billingham were the primary ingredients in the Reds' victory. But the aggressiveness the club showed in a ninth inning free-for-all was indicative of the team's winning spirit and gave the Dodgers a hint of what to expect from the defending division champs in the final seven weeks of the season.

The fight, which broke out with one out in the last of the ninth, was triggered by a collision at second base between the Dodgers' Bill Buckner and the Reds' Joe Morgan. Before it was over, Reds' leftfielder Pete Rose was the man in the middle.

Buckner and Morgan squared off at second when the Dodger outfielder went into the base hard after being forced by Jim Lynn in the ninth. The fight emptied both benches and Rose, a stranger to baseball brawls, ran in from his outfield position and began tangling with utility infielder Rick Auerbach.

Rose, whose fiery competitiveness makes him the favorite target of the opposition, fell to the ground in the commotion and was attacked by a horde of Dodger players who fell on him near the pitcher's mound. The whole thing lasted only three minutes and no one was hurt.

Billingham notched his 14th victory and eighth in nine games. Bench's homer, his 22nd this year, handed Andy Messersmith only his third loss of the year against 13 wins.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh walloped New York, 10-1; Houston defeated Atlanta, 6-4; Philadelphia nipped Chicago, 3-2, and Montreal downed St. Louis 7-5. San Francisco and San Diego were not scheduled.

New York topped Baltimore, 4-3; Detroit edged Cleveland, 3-2; Chicago trimmed California, 2-1; Oakland whipped Milwaukee, 1-0, and Kansas City took a pair from Minnesota, 7-6 and 5-1, in American League contests.

Pirates 10, Mets 1
Rookie Larry Demery tossed a three-hitter and Ed Kirkpatrick and Manny Sanguillen belted homers to lead the Pirates' rout of the Mets. Demery, 21, raised his record to 2-4 in turning in his first complete game. The triumph was the Pirates' 17th in their last 25 games.

McIntire Cards 75 In JToC

MIDLAND — Wiley McIntire of Pampa was in good shape going in to today's round, as the young golfer fired a four-over-par 75 to tie him for third place in the first round of the West Texas Junior Tournament of Champions Wednesday at Champions Hills Country Club.

McIntire, who is in the 14-15 division, was tied with Britt Lindsey of Abilene and Rick Rankin of Pecos at 75 going into today's play, which will conclude the final tournament on the West Texas Junior Tour.

David Tudor of Abilene was leading the 14-15 pack with a 72, followed by Brad Hicks of Odessa with 74.
Leaders in the 16-18 division were Montie Watson of Abilene, 70, and Len Freemester of Odessa, 72. Watson had the only subpar round of the day.

In 12-13 division, Larry Huckman of Peducall led after the first day with 76, followed by John Slaughter of Abilene with 77.
There are 64 players, including four girls in a girls' division, playing in the tournament.

Kuhn Wants Franchise To Be Given To Tokyo

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bowie Kuhn envisions a major league franchise in Tokyo in 10 years, according to a spokesman for the baseball commissioner.

But expansion of a more immediate nature will be discussed today at the conclusion of baseball's annual two-day summer meetings with Washington, D.C., New Orleans, Seattle and possibly Toronto among the cities figured in the running for franchises.

Representatives of all 24 major league clubs will finish their separate league meetings today before getting together for an official joint session during which time expansion will be reviewed.

Even if no concrete action on further expansion is taken today, still to be considered is a plan whereby 20 games next season would be played in the nation's capital which has been without major league baseball since the end of the 1971 season when the Senators moved to Arlington, Tex.

The Baltimore Orioles were reported to have consented to serve as the home team for 11 of those games, one each against the

Pitcher's Heart In Good Shape Say Specialists

DALLAS (UPI) — Doctors don't know for sure what caused the chest pains suffered by Oakland pitcher Vida Blue this week but they are sure of one thing—he does not have heart trouble.

After examining EKGs taken on Blue last month and again Tuesday, heart specialists concluded Blue's heart was in fine shape.

Blue was kept in Baylor Hospital for a second straight night, however, so that further tests could be run. Physicians said they were particularly interested in tests on Blue's gall bladder.

Oakland Manager Alvin Dark said Blue would be released from the hospital today and would accompany the team tonight when it returns home following the A's series with Texas.

Handbook Edition Out

Lawyers, accountants and others who advise people on their social security rights and responsibilities should add the new edition of the Social Security Handbook to their reference library, according to Howard L. Weatherly, manager of the Pampa Social Security office.

Intended for professional people and others who need detailed information, the handbook explains regulations and rulings relating to retirement, survivors, disability, and health insurance, black lung benefits, and the new supplemental security income program.

The fifth edition of the handbook contains the major provisions of the Social Security Act, as amended through JKan. 1, 1973.

Copies may be purchased directly from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., at $4.30 per copy.

College Notes

LAS CRUCES, N.M. — Susan Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Chambers, 1921 N. Zimmers, was named to the deans list for the spring semester in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at New Mexico State University.

To be named to the dean's list of one of NMSU's five under-graduate colleges, a student must have earned at least a 3.2 ("B plus") grade point average of a possible 4.0 while carrying a minimum of 12 hours for a grade.

Chambless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Chambless, 1908 Fir, and Kathy Jo Gallman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Gallman, 501 Magnolia, were recently initiated into the University of Texas chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, scholastic honorary society for freshman women.

The national organization offers membership to freshman women who have attained a scholastic average of 3.5 or above ("A" equals four points) while taking at least 12 hours of academic work.

HOUSTON — Two Pampa students were named to the President's Honor Roll for the second semester at Rice University.

Jane Dingus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dingus, 1821 Mary Ellen, and Frank Warren Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Henderson, 419 E. Foster, were named to the list.

John C. Duggan, of Pampa, has completed his studies at Texas Tech University through the assistance of a Skelly Oil Company Foundation scholarship.

John's father, Don Duggan, took disability leave from Skelly's manufacturing department in 1969.

Outstanding students who maintain high grade averages are honored each semester through the publication of the President's Honor Roll, and the distinction is made a part of the student's permanent record.

For the past four years, John has held a $2,000 grant from Skelly which he used to earn his bachelor's degree in music education.

The Skelly Oil Company Foundation annually awards ten $2,000 grants and three $500 freshman scholarships to high school seniors who are sons or daughters of employees and retirees of Skelly and its wholly owned subsidiaries.

DENTON — Gary Joe Skelton, son of Mrs. Dorothy J. Freeman, McLean, was named to the 3.5 honor roll for the spring semester at North Texas State University. He was one of 1,017 students who achieved the honor.

While at Texas Tech, John was listed on the dean's honor roll and participated in the Texas Tech Choir and the First Christian Church Choir.

He is employed by Panhandle Insurance in Pampa.

BRENAHM, Tex. — Billy Wayne Lemons is on the Blinn College honor roll for the first semester of summer school. He is one of a total of 59 students who made the honor roll during the first summer session.

DENTON — Floyd Andrew Killough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Killough, 318 N. Faulkner, is attending North Texas State University, studying psychology, interning at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth and working in the Rehabilitation Counseling Department at the hospital.

This elite group of 100 male students embodies "the traditions of old, the progress of today and the plans of the future."

Saddle Tramps were instituted in 1936 and have been an important part in the growth of Texas Tech. Among their varied activities are academic and athletic recruiting, campus tours, coordination of freshman orientation and promoting spirit at athletic events.

PORTALES, N.M. — Helen June Reed, Pampa, received the master of science degree in physical education from Eastern New Mexico University recently.

Sims will be a junior accounting major.

Dudley Paul Warner, of Pampa, a senior in Chemical Engineering at Texas Tech University, has been awarded the Lubrizol Foundation scholarship by the school's College of Engineering.

AUSTIN — Lewis Kirk Webb, 1105 N. Starkweather, received his bachelor of science degree in physics from the University of Texas College of Natural Sciences in recent ceremonies.

Q. You are always urging people who feel they can qualify for Supplemental Security Income to sign up promptly. What's the rush?
A. There are several reasons. But perhaps the most important one is that no payment can be made for any month prior to the one during which a claim is signed. Waiting too long can result in loss of payments that can never be collected.

HOG FARM
FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — For years A. L. Milner raised hogs on land near downtown Fort Worth despite protests from city officials who said the hog farm was an eyesore than detracted from the city's image.

A jury refused to convict Milner of violating any ordinances and Milner claimed he was a victim of harassment by a motel on a bluff overlooking his hog farm.

But Milner finally sold his property and moved his hogs to a new location.

Ironically, the city now announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will construct a school for swine inspectors on the site of Milner's farm.

Social Security Q & A

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly, Branch Manager, Social Security, 1541 N. Hobart, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

By H.L. WEATHERLY
Q. You are always urging people who feel they can qualify for Supplemental Security Income to sign up promptly. What's the rush?
A. There are several reasons. But perhaps the most important one is that no payment can be made for any month prior to the one during which a claim is signed. Waiting too long can result in loss of payments that can never be collected.

Since this program is in operation to offer relief to certain people who are in need, they should make claims and collect as soon as possible.

Q. I understand that the basic premium rate for the Supplementary Medical Insurance coverage under Medicare will go up from $6.30 to $6.70 per month effective July 1, 1974. Who authorized this increase?
A. The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the medical insurance program and adjustment of the monthly premium rate to cover the estimated medical expenses of Medicare patients. The $0.40 increase beginning July 1, 1974 is related to a rise in the cost of medical services.

Q. I have never worked in a job covered by social security. I was hospitalized recently and I now realize how expensive a hospital stay can be. Can I get hospital insurance?
A. You can get premium insurance if you apply for it and if you meet the age and other eligibility requirements. Beginning July 1, 1974, the cost per month is $36. You must also enroll for medical insurance and pay the required premium.

You should contact your nearest social security office for additional information about when you can enroll and when your coverage will be effective.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®

...it tells you how

HOW TO MAKE WHITEWASH

What with the new latex paints and all these days, hardly anyone uses—or even remembers how to make—whitewash. Which is kind of foolish. Because, when it comes to sheer ease of application and extreme economy, I don't believe there's a paint on the modern market that can compete with whitewash. If you'd like to test that theory, here's a formula recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture:

Soak 50 pounds of hydrated (slaked) lime in six gallons of water until you have a paste. If you can't get slaked lime, put 25 pounds of quicklime into 10 gallons of boiling water, cover the mixture and let it set for four days or longer. Either method will yield about eight gallons of lime paste.

Next dissolve six pounds of salt in three gallons of boiling water, let the solution cool and add it to the eight-gallon batch of paste. Then stir in three pounds of white portland cement. That's it. You're ready to paint!

Whitewash applies most smoothly to a slightly damp wall... and if you want to do a really good job on a surface that's been coated before, wash off the old layer with hot water and vinegar or a weak solution of hydrochloric acid. You can then spray on your low-cost paint substitute with a gun (after straining the mixture through three thicknesses of cheesecloth)... or, in the spirit of Tom Sawyer, just slap it right on with a brush. I prefer the second form of application.

New Ethiopian Constitution May Split Armed Forces

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — A new Ethiopian draft constitution stripping Emperor Haile Selassie of the monarch's age-old absolute powers may split the country's armed forces, diplomats said yesterday.

Prime Minister Lij Michael Imru said Tuesday Selassie's powers would be taken over by an elected parliament and the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government would be completely separated.

Imru disclosed an outline of the draft constitution in the wake of six months of unrest in the armed forces against alleged official corruption in the remote, northeast African kingdom.

The armed forces chafed from power or arrested hundreds of politicians, local officials, businessmen and aides of Selassie on charges of corruption.

The armed forces coordinating committee approved the draft constitution in principle, diplomats said. But the diplomats predicted a struggle between "radicals and moderates" over how it goes into effect.

Selassie, 83, the country's "King of Kings, Conquering Lion of Judah and Protector of Faith," has ruled Ethiopia for 43 years with absolute powers dating back centuries.

According to legend, he is the descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. He is also head of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church — a post he would continue to hold under the draft constitution.

The Armed Forces

Coordinating Committee announced it planned to arrest two more close aides of Selassie in the continuing cleanup drive.

They were his personal aide-de-camp Lt. Gen. Assefa Demissie and his private treasurer Blatta Adamassu Retta.
