Ford Asks Congress To Cut Budget

Kiwanis Clubs Install Officers At Joint Meet

New officers of the Top O' Texas and Downtown Kiwanis Clubs assumed their posts last night at the joint installation banquet of the two civic groups in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room.

Lt. Gov. Jerry Davis of Pampa installed Sam Motley president of the T O T Club and J.C. Hopkins president of the Downtown Club.

Motley succeeded Ernest Parks and Hopkins took over from James McCoy.

Earl Davis announced Parks as Kiwanian of the Year for the T O T Club and Paul Simmons made special presentations to outgoing president McCoy, secretary Bill Kindle, treasurer Cletus Mitchell and June Allen, executive secretary of the Downtown Club.

Dr. Royce Laycock of the Downtown Club emceed the program and entertainment was by the Smith Family, Jan and Edna Smith and their four children.

Other officers installed in addition to the two club presidents included:

Downtown Club — James McCoy, immediate past president; Jeff Anderson, first vice president; David McDaniel, second vice president; William Kindle, secretary; Cletus Mitchell, treasurer, and June Allen, executive secretary.

Top O' Texas Club — Ernest Parks, immediate past president; Elmer Radcliff, first vice president; Charles Glascock, second vice president; Bob Muncy, secretary, and Wayne Steddum, treasurer.

Also installed 1975 directors for the Top O' Texas Club were R.C. Cary, Ab Conway, Earl Davis, Gene Gates and Wayne Steddum.

Directors for the Downtown Club in the coming year are Glen Courtney Lige Lindsey, Luther Robinson, John Warner, Herman Whatley, Jerry Wilson and Howard Yates.

Guests at last night's banquet included Kiwanis delegations from Vega and Amarillo and representatives of the Pampa High School Key Club, Kiwanis, Ettes and the Pampa Altrusa, Rotary and Lions clubs.

Jaworski Asks For Inquiry On Nixon's Health

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski today proposed that the federal district court make an inquiry into former President Nixon's health to determine if he will be able to testify at the Watergate trials beginning Oct. 1.

Jaworski made the proposals in a motion urging the court not to order a delay in the trial at this time because of reports of the former President's health problems. Jaworski subpoenaed Nixon to be a prosecution witness in the trials and it was served on Nixon personally Thursday night.

Jaworski suggested that Nixon's counsel, Herbert J. Miller, make a personal report to the court, if he is able to do so, on the Nixon's present condition and state whether the former president can be expected to appear as a trial witness.

If the medical team also indicates the former president is unable to testify, the court could then simply see if Nixon responded to subpoenas that have been served on him and if not "take such action at that time as it deems appropriate."

OVER AN INCH OF RAIN HERE

Floods Cover Sections Of State

While floods continued to hit parts of the state, including sections of West Texas, Pampa had recorded over an inch of moisture as of forenoon, with more rain still in prospect for the remainder of the day and possibly into Saturday.

Fog covered the area early today before the rain started falling in Pampa shortly after 6 a.m. and continuing throughout the morning.

As of 9:45 a.m. 1.02 inches had been recorded at KGRO radio station, with more falling afterwards.

With the rainfall recorded Sunday and Thursday, Pampa had received at least 1.70 inches of rain this week, the total rainfall for September. The yearly total reached towards 13 inches.

Gray skies were expected to dominate through Saturday, with showers and heavy thunderstorms in prospect.

After the rain yesterday morning, skies cleared some, enabling the temperature to warm up to a high of 81. Low this morning under the fog and cloud cover was a mild 60.

High today and Saturday is expected to be in the middle 70s, with an overnight low in the middle 50s.

County Agricultural Agent Foster Whaley said this morning, "It's (the rain) just wonderful, couldn't have come at a better time. It's especially good for milo, as it needed more water; also for wheat that's just been planted, and wheat that's already up, for pasture."

"Also very good for maize... haven't heard any complaints."

In (UPI) reports: Heavy rains caused flash flooding across parts of west Texas today closing highways and isolating the town of Iraan.

The high water had closed

Earl Wilson

A lot of our great public servants don't appear in public with their wives until just after they've been indicted... It must be a great relief to Donald Nixon to find that there was another black sheep in the family... Some American wives have found a blackmail device to get their husbands to take them out to dinner. They threaten to cook... This is the time of year that flowers are so beautiful that the real ones are pretty enough to look artificial. (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 8.)

all roads into Iraan and telephone lines were reported down in the area. But most of the flooding was occurring in sparsely populated areas and there were no reports of any homes threatened by high waters.

"We've got some lost livestock and a lot of trucks and traffic stuck along the way," said Irma Herring, a dispatcher for the Upton County sheriff's office in McCamey.

"The roads are impassible. A fire truck went out yesterday to put a fire out on an oil field rig. It's still out in the field and all you can see of the truck is six inches of the top."

The National Weather Service issued flash flood watches for much of southwest Texas and for the western parts of South Central and North Central Texas.

The NWS said the past two days of heavy rains had saturated the ground and increased the chances of flash flooding if the rain continued.

More rain fell at Abilene where high waters forced 200 persons from their homes earlier this week. But police said the flooding threat had apparently ended there.

"We don't have any flooding now. It just all depends on the weather and whether we get any more rain," a police officer said today.

While the rains pounded West Texas for the third straight day, a cold front covered the Panhandle and fog was reported over much of the eastern part of the state.

Tulsa, Okla., got three inches of rain Thursday. Enid, Okla., Pittsburg, Kan., and Springfield, Mo., also targets of the summer drought, each received about an inch of rain. Elsewhere, an isolated thunderstorm lashed Oscoda, Mich., Thursday, dumping almost an inch of rain in an hour and bringing hail and high winds. Wind gusts were clocked at up to 50 miles per hour.

Storms roamed from the central Plains to the Lower Great Lakes. Widely scattered thundershowers also dampened the southern Plateau and Florida and the southern Rockies.

GASOLINE PRICES DECLINE

Consumer Prices Show Another Hike In August

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices rose 1.3 per cent in August on the crest of higher costs for mortgage interests, clothes, meats and medical services, the Labor Department said today. But gasoline prices declined for the first time since last September.

The Consumer Price Index reached 150.2—meaning that goods and services that cost $10 in 1967, cost $15.02 in August.

The rise in the index was the largest since February and the increase was unusual for August, a month when prices normally decline. The index was 11.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

The government also reported that because of the increase in consumer prices and a reduction in the work week, the real spendable earnings of an average worker with a family hit the lowest level since December, 1970.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics data on consumer prices also included some good news, noting lower prices for fresh vegetables, dairy products and fish, in addition to gasoline and oil.

Increases for beef, eggs and pork were much larger than usual for August and poultry and fresh fruit prices went up at a time when they normally go down.

The index for nonfood commodities, which also normally drops in August, increased 1.4 per cent.

Higher prices for clothes caused most of the increase, but there were also increases on household durables, housekeeping supplies, alcoholic beverages, fuel oil and coal and used cars. New car prices also increased slightly instead of going down at the end of the model year.

The Labor Department said that the average price for regular grade gasoline declined 0.8 per cent to 55.4

cents per gallon and the average price for premium gasoline declined 0.6 per cent to 59.1 cents per gallon in August.

A wide range of prices for services also rose, headed by mortgage interest costs. There were also increases in the cost of home repair and housekeeping services and gas, electricity, and water and sewage bills.

Senators Urging Creation Of CIA Study Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without the support of either President Ford or congressional leaders, two senators are urging creation of a special committee to oversee all U.S. intelligence activities.

Sens. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., and Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., with co-sponsors from both parties, Thursday urged creation of a 14-member congressional committee with jurisdiction over the Central Intelligence Agency, the FBI and other agencies involved in intelligence work.

Their idea clearly found little enthusiasm at a 90-minute meeting Thursday among President Ford and a group of congressional leaders of both parties.

The meeting was prompted by controversy over the CIA's backing of opposition newspapers and parties in Chile, against the government of then-President Salvador Allende.

Ford conceded at his news conference Monday that the CIA did this, but said it is common practice among world powers. He insisted the CIA had no role in the coup which later toppled Allende.

House Speaker Carl Albert said Ford reiterated all those points at the White House meeting. Congressional sources said Ford was lukewarm toward any increased congressional overseeing of the CIA.

Albert said Congress should have "some oversight on matters such as these," but he did not push any plan of action.

Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield said the idea of a joint congressional committee was discussed at the White House meeting but was not received "with much favor."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Declaring that budget restraint remains a "crucial factor" in the battle against inflation, President Ford today asked Congress to cut back or postpone about $20 billion in long-range government spending.

In a special message to Congress, Ford said that his request was the first in a series of such proposals and a key step in his administration's goal of reducing government spending and achieving a balanced budget.

Budget Director Roy L. Ash told reporters Thursday that another request for cuts or delays in spending of $4 billion will be sent to Congress in the next few days. He said the two requests totaling about $24 billion will cover some 100 budget items.

The President's message said unless Congress follows his proposal for a $20 billion deferral in these long-range expenditures, federal spending will increase by nearly $600 million in the current fiscal year.

"More significantly," he added, "outlays would rise by over $2 billion in 1976 and even more in 1977, the first year in which the new procedures for congressional review of the budget will be in full effect."

The major items which Ford asked to be deferred were:

— Grants totaling $9 billion for waste treatment plant construction. He said release of all these funds would be highly inflationary, "particularly in view of the rapid rise in nonfederal spending for pollution control." Some of these funds now deferred will be allotted on or prior to Feb. 1, 1975.

— Federal aid highway funds amounting to $4.4 billion for fiscal year 1975 and $6.4 billion for fiscal year 1976. He said that release of these funds also would be highly inflationary and would have to be offset by cuts in higher priority programs. Some of the funds are being now held pending resolution of court cases involving the environmental effects of proposed highway construction.

— Various programs of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare totaling $39.6 million. Pending enactment of the 1975 appropriations, HEW funds are being provided under a continuing resolution and amounts available under the continuing resolution above the budget request are deferred.

Ford asked for two cutbacks of:

— Spending totaling $456 million for the Rural Electrification Administration, which were originally provided for rural electrification and telephone loans at 2 per cent interest rate.

— Appalachian Regional Development airport

WEATHER

Mostly cloudy with showers and heavy thunderstorms through Saturday. High in mid-70s, low in mid-50s. Yesterday's high, 81. Today's low, 60. Moisture: 1.20 inches (at least).

FROM FBI AGENT

Nixon Receives Trial Subpoena

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — An FBI agent handed Richard Nixon a subpoena Thursday that will require him to testify for both prosecution and defense at the Watergate cover-up trial, unless poor health keeps him off the stand.

If he appears, Nixon will have to submit to public questioning under oath on all phases of the Watergate coverup.

An FBI spokesman in Los angeles said the subpoena was served on orders of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski "and was received by Mr. Nixon in person" at his villa here, where he has been secluded since resigning the presidency six weeks ago today.

The FBI would reveal no other details of the incident, and the telephone operator at the Nixon villa, the former Western White House, said there was no one available to handle inquiries.

Nixon was subpoenaed earlier to appear as a defense witness, at the request of defendant John D. Ehrlichman. The trial of Ehrlichman and five other former top Nixon aides is scheduled to begin Oct. 1.

Nixon is known, however, to be suffering from phlebitis, an inflammation of veins in his left leg, and reports have been increasing that he will be hospitalized soon. His former White House physician, Air Force Maj. Gen. Walter Tkach, has publicly said he told Nixon to enter a hospital but the former President refused.

Nixon's daughter, Julie Eisenhower, said earlier this week that her father would be hospitalized soon. She flew to Southern California from Washington on a federal courier plane Thursday, for her first reunion with her father since he left the White House.

Nixon's lawyers asked a federal court in Los Angeles Monday to excuse Nixon from a deposition appearance, demanded by subpoena in a Watergate-related civil suit, citing executive privilege and "serious" deteriorating health.

Gromyko, President Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at their first in-depth meeting today that they had "a lot to talk about"—an apparent reference to an impending agreement on trade and the emigration of Soviet Jews.

Gromyko called on Ford as Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., left the Oval Office. Jackson, whose amendment condemning emigration policies toward Soviet Jews has blocked congressional passage of a bill implementing most favored nation trade status for the Soviet Union, indicated the stalemate was about over.

He told reporters the United States and the Soviets are "close to agreement on the numbers of Soviet Jews who would be permitted to leave the country."

"I think we have a lot to talk about," Ford said as Gromyko entered the room, shaking hands with Jackson in passing. The Soviet diplomat agreed with Ford.

The White House also announced that Ford had accepted an invitation to visit South Korea next Nov. 22 and 23 following his trip to Japan. The President also sent a message to Congress asking for deferrals and cutbacks of about $20 billion in government spending to help lead the way in the battle against inflation.

Jackson said there were some remaining issues to be solved before the trade bill can pass Congress, particularly the question of legislative safeguards to guarantee any arrangements with the Soviet Union. He said that a decision probably will be made over this weekend.

Ford and Gromyko were expected to discuss the strategic arms limitations talks which resumed in Geneva last Monday and other possibilities of improving detente between the United States and the Soviet Union.

It was the first meeting between Ford and Gromyko in the aftermath of the resignation of former President Richard M. Nixon, who developed a working dialogue with Soviet Communist party leader Brezhnev during three summit conferences.

Cattlemen File Suit Against Grocery Chains

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Several feed lot owners Thursday filed a $20 million suit in federal court charging price fixing and other violations of antitrust laws by some of the largest food chain stores in the nation.

The defendants were the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. (A&P), Kroger Co., Safeway Stores Inc. and all retail meat and meat products chain stores that are members of the National Association of Food Chains.

Filing the suit were A. L. Black and G. B. Buske, both cattle feeders from Friona, Tex., and Pioneer Cattle Order Buyers Inc. of Friona, Hereford Feed Yards Inc. of Hereford, Solana Corp. of Amarillo, Pro-Chemco of Amarillo and Eureka Cattle Co. Inc. of Hereford.

The suit alleges that the food stores were unlawfully conspiring to fix the price of livestock and concealment in that they used their membership in the association for secret meetings where alleged violations of anti-trust laws were agreed upon.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Despite the rich bounty provided to us by the land, Texans and Americans in general are described as nutritional illiterates. Nutrition is a relatively new science. For this reason there is room for misunderstanding, and even intentional misrepresentation. Although much malnutrition is the result of poverty, a full pocket doesn't mean a nourished body, says the State Health Department.

The focus of the high price of meat has made Texans more aware of their eating habits. But one group of individuals — the food faddists — are willing to pay through the nose (and sometimes through their health) for items no better than those offered in supermarkets.

Like hula-hoops and Nehru jackets, fads come and go. But for some the memory may linger on, since food fads can affect health and the quality of living for a long time.

A big fad at the moment is the weight reduction kick, which is tied in by food faddists with better health and some particular foodstuff which they say can cure all the ills of the believers. Some reducing diets, when followed too long, can lead to permanent health problems.

Nutritionists say there is no one particular cure-all food, and they have scientific proof. Faddists, on the other hand, push hundreds of different contradictory food systems, including the current "organic" food theory.

Many diet or nutrition advocates are opportunists whose major motivations are economic. Some of these persons appear to be sincere, albeit misguided and close-minded in their nutritional beliefs.

A look at some highly-publicized diets gives you an idea of the perplexing situations greeting those interested in dieting — either for weight loss or other health reasons.

The drinking man's diet, Zen diet, grapefruit and egg diet, vegetarian diet, cereal diet, low-protein, high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet — are all a part of the present-day food craze, says the Health Department. Some, such as the Zen macrobiotic diet, can result in malnutrition.

And, there are the vitamin and food supplement faddists who push all types of supplement concoctions off on the willing indulger. Vitamin E and Vitamin C, both essential to the body, are among the vitamins being pushed at present.

Dr. Linus Pauling advocated great amounts of Vitamin C to prevent the common cold. Research has failed to substantiate his claim.

The State Health Department says you can get all the required nutrients, including Vitamins C and E, through a wise selection of foods.

Selecting foods properly will also ensure efficient utilization of the food dollar — something that can shrink rapidly in today's supermarkets. Supplements generally are expensive and unnecessary, unless prescribed by a physician.

The Nutrition Program of the State Health Department says the basic food groups still are the best guide for the average person who needs strength and vitality to meet each day's challenges.

These are divided into the milk group, meat and protein group, fruits and vegetables group, and the bread and cereal group. While giving you sufficient energy, these basic food groups also supply the trace elements of minerals which your body needs.

If these basic food groups remain unchallenged scientifically, why do people succumb to faddism? Nutritional quackery appeals to desperate people who want to believe in the impossible and the incredible. In the case of weight-reducers, they want to believe in something simple and easy, in a cure-all calling for no effort on their part.

Traditional calorie counting is too slow, too limiting for their appetites. People with illnesses want a miracle to help them.

An Ohio State nutritionist writes, "Compared to the exotic nutritional advice, which borders on the occult or is rendered with spiritual fervor, normal everyday nutritional education lacks pizzazz. That is why the voices of the home economists — the dietitian — the nutritionist — food technologist — are not heard when they contradict the often untrue and sensational health claims being made by those who so avidly degrade the American food supply."

Significant progress has been made in the science of diet and its relationship to health, but science advances by slow, difficult steps which are much too slow for impatient, desperate people who want immediate solutions.

But when the fads have run their course, the accepted, scientifically proven food groups still stand tall as the one way to receive proper nutrition from the foods you eat and drink, says the State Health Department.

A place to look for reliable information about nutrition and health to a home economics teacher, or the county extension agent. They too will be able to give you sound advice and information.

Kidnaped Girl Returned Home After 2 Months

HOUSTON (UPI) — Pretty 5-year-old Kimberly Gossett, whose kidnaper shuffled her from city to city with wandering religious sects for two months, today flies home to Belleville, Ill., to be reunited with her parents.

The tiny, blue-eyed blonde was found unharmed and in good health by FBI agents Thursday in a home run by a religious sect.

Later, the agents arrested at a shopping center William Dean Atchison, 28, a former racetrack groom, jockey and carnival worker, named in a federal warrant as her kidnaper. Held on $50,000 bond, he was to be arraigned today.

"I think he only wanted to keep the child," an agent said. "I don't think he ever meant her any harm or intended to ask for ransom. None was ever demanded."

Kimberly, a special education student and the daughter of John and Constance Gossett of Belleville, disappeared after a swimming party July 7.

Agents said Atchison had boarded with different religious groups moving from city to city, but was not affiliated with any of them, nor did they know the tot was kidnaped.

"She was fine, at least she appeared so externally," an agent said. "She's staying overnight in the children's ward of the hospital to be sure. She came in and talked and seemed okay. She was wearing a pretty playsuit."

The day she disappeared, Kimberly was left at her babysitter's, Atchison, who served time in prison for auto theft and passing bad checks, was a boarder there and knew the child well. Illinois police said Atchison had often told fellow workers that he wished he had a child like Kimberly.

The girl, the babysitter and her parents went to Forest Lake Park in St. Clair County, Ill., with Atchison for the party.

Upon leaving the lake later that afternoon, Atchison requested permission from the babysitter to drive Kimberly back to the babysitter's residence in his car and was permitted to do so, the agent said. "He disappeared with the victim from the St. Clair area."

Atchison, who worked at the Cahokia Downs race track in Illinois, was next spotted in New Orleans where the FBI learned he had quit a temporary job Monday and left the next day for Houston.

They traced him through the car he was driving and knew he might stay with another religious group. Thursday, they picked up the little girl and radioed other agents to arrest.

The University of Cincinnati became the nation's first city university in 1906.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS ... it tells you how

BUILD A DIPOLE FM ANTENNA

Feel that morning snap in the air? It won't be long until we'll all be spending a greater portion of every day inside... reading, writing, catching up on small workshop tasks and—probably—listening to the radio. If you're as big a radio fan as I am, you know that the best programming is often broadcast by the FM (instead of AM) stations. And, unless you have a special and rather expensive antenna perched on top of your house, you also know that FM stations can sometimes be difficult to receive.

Well, a young fellow named Hugh Henry has a solution to that dilemma. "Here's a half-wave dipole antenna," he says, "that anyone should be able to make for under $1.00."

Hugh says to start by going down to your local electronics supply house or TV repairman and buying 100 inches of "TV-FM twinlead". Don't worry about sounding technical... anybody in the electronics business will know what you're talking about.

"Measure and cut off 50 inches of the lead, strip an inch or so of plastic from both ends and twist the exposed wires together," says Hugh. "Then, in the exact center of the two-wire lead, cut through just one of the wires. Strip both ends of the cut and attach one to each wire (strip them too, of course) on one end of the remaining 50 inches of twinlead. Connect the stripped opposite ends of the second 50 inches of double lead to the FM antenna terminals on your radio.

"Tape the first section of twinlead to a stick or dowel rod for easiest handling and you're ready to give your handiwork a try. You'll find the antenna to be very efficient and very directional. That is, you may have to move it around the room and turn it one way or another for best results with any particular FM station. But the dramatically improved reception should be worth it!"

Hurricane Fifi Smashes Across Central America

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — International relief teams rushed to Central America today to aid victims of tropical storm Fifi, a churning package of wind and torrential rain that destroyed lives, crops and homes in five countries.

A Red Cross spokesman said reports from northern Honduras put the casualty toll in the coastal village of La Ceiba at 100 persons killed and another 100 missing and probably dead.

The U.S. Embassy in Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, sent out urgent messages to determine the fate of some 80 Peace Corps workers trapped along the Caribbean coast.

Sen. Bentsen Says Country Neglects Allies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., said Thursday that the U.S. has spent so much time improving relations with the Soviet Union and China that it has neglected its responsibilities to American allies.

The Honduras Red Cross spokesman said La Ceiba was one of the hardest hit areas. "Other places are completely isolated and it is impossible to estimate total human casualties at this time," the spokesman said.

In remarks prepared for delivery before the Foreign Policy Association of New York City, Bentsen said, "Naturally, we should seek to improve relations with both Russia and China... but we cannot expect to build a structure of world peace on a special relationship with either China or Russia, while neglecting our traditional allies and our potential allies."

The Honduras Red Cross spokesman said La Ceiba was one of the hardest hit areas. "Other places are completely isolated and it is impossible to estimate total human casualties at this time," the spokesman said.

Organized Crime Threatens Law Enforcement In Texas

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In this second signature story, Attorney General John Hill talks about the immediate threat of organized crime in Texas. "Supporting organized crime is easy," he advises, "you just look the other way. Stopping it is the challenge."

the capture of massive shipments of narcotics. This is the better publicized evidence of organized criminal rings within Texas and their possible links with out-of-state syndicates.

What we observe is that the more profitable an illegal activity becomes, the more apt it is to move from small-time to big-time crime. Greed brings the organizers in. Once here, they will seek to consolidate and expand, fueled by an ever-growing avalanche of money and taking full advantage of human frailties.

The Texas Department of Public Safety developed this 12-part series to educate and involve the Texas public in law enforcement's effort to eradicate criminal conspiracies. The stories are based on interviews with state law enforcement officials and representatives from the ten Texas Organized Crime Task Forces.

While it can be argued that some of these are independent from outside control, it is no longer valid to say that the real Mob — with a capital "M" — has somehow overlooked Texas in its zeal to corner the market in big-money crime. It is here, it is trying to expand, and it is reaching out to corrupt everything it touches.

Until more people understand that crime flourishes best in a climate of apathy, our society will silently sanction its growth. There must be greater public awareness of the insidious threat to all of us and stronger support of effective police and grand jury action against it. Supporting organized crime is easy — you just look the other way. Stopping it is the challenge.

By JOHN HILL, Attorney General of Texas. When I am asked, "What is our greatest potential problem in law enforcement?" the answer comes quickly: the threat of organized crime in Texas. We have already seen gangland killings, open warfare between police and racketeers just across the Mexican border, shadowy visits to Texas by known mobsters from other states.

Their eighth try for a boy is still 50-50

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: You should have told "Mother of Eight Dolls" to tell the doctor who told her, "The law of averages is in your favor, 100 to one," to go back to medical school for courses in genetics and statistics.

Theoretically, no matter how many children of what sex a couple already have, the odds are very close to 50-50 that the next one will be a girl. Before this couple had had any children the doctor could have predicted that if they went on to have eight children, the odds were 256 to one against all eight being girls.

But that isn't the question the doctor was asked. He was asked, "Of all families that have seven girls born already, what are the odds that the eighth will be a boy?"

In summary, the proper prediction to give this couple, if asked for advice concerning an eighth try for a boy, would be, "The normal odds are 50-50, but in your case there may be other factors causing you to bear only girls, so I would have to say that your eighth child is more likely to be a girl than a boy." SARA K. WEINBERG, CLASS OF 1977 UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

DEAR SARAH: You belong at the head of the class, which is probably where you are. Congratulations.

DER ABBY: Please tell me if I am wrong or right. There was a TV program (a special) I had looked forward to seeing for a long time. I was invited to play cards that night, but declined because I wanted to see it.

About 15 minutes before it was to go on, in came my sister-in-law and mother-in-law! They don't live very far from me, and we see each other quite often. I get along fine with my sister-in-law, but my mother-in-law is a different story.

I said, "I'll fix coffee, but I so want to see a TV program which goes on in 15 minutes. Please stay and watch it with me?"

My mother-in-law said, "Don't bother making coffee, we can't stay." Then she pulled my sister-in-law by the arm and they left.

The next day my sister-in-law called and said, "For a smart woman, you sure are dumb!" Then she laid me out because I didn't just skip the TV program and entertain her and Mom.

I want your opinion on this incident. BURNING IN BOSTON

DEAR BURNING: I don't know why anyone (relative or otherwise) should drop in uninvited and unannounced and expect to be treated like an invited guest. They should have called first and given you a chance to say, "I'm sorry, but I have plans. How about tomorrow night?"

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year old girl who has been married for two years. No kids. (I lost the baby I was P.G. with when I got married, and can't have any more kids.) Like most couples, Bill and I have our fights, and when we do I call up my folks and mention it, and they drive right down to "rescue" me.

They live 300 miles away, and by the time they get here I've cooled off and so has Bill, but they make me go home with them to think things over anyway. They treat me like a child—not a grown woman.

They're hoping I'll leave Bill for good because they never wanted me to marry him in the first place. He does run around on me sometimes, but he was only 18 when we got married, and I was the only girl he ever had, so maybe he just has to get it out of his system.

I sure wish my folks would quit trying to talk me into leaving Bill. I really love him even though we fight a lot. I feel like I'm being pulled in two directions.

I'm home now, wishing I was back with Bill. I'll take any advice you can give me. MISERABLE IN KANSAS

DEAR MIS: If you're being "pulled in two directions" you're asking for it whether you realize it or not.

In responding to your calls, your folks understandably think you're asking for help. But if you really love Bill, quit whining to your parents every time you have a fight and get some professional counseling.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Consumer Market Report

COLLEGE STATION — Fresh fruits and vegetables take the market spotlight this month, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reports.

"Peaches, plums and nectarines are the fruits of the week," the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, added. Other fruits worth considering include Thompson seedless grapes, bananas and pineapples.

Vegetables include watermelon, cantaloupe, cabbage, summer squash, mustard greens, carrots, okra, blackeye and purplehull peas, dry yellow onions, radishes, green onions and cucumbers.

"For economy, look to the less tender cuts of meat — watch the ads for lower prices on less popular meat cuts, which you can tenderize by marinating or slow, moist heat cooking."

"Although prices are up a bit, chicken is still a good buy, while turkey is plentiful and often bargain priced," the specialist said.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: This is a good time to tuck a few pot roasts into the freezer for next winter.

The Woman's View

NEW YORK (UPI) — Constance Montgomery didn't plan on knitting as a career. Her mother wanted her to be an actress and she married into the theater.

But a series of circumstances turned her to the handicraft she'd known since her convent school days — knitting. And today her handmade sweaters, sweater dresses and sweater suits are classics in the wardrobes of well dressed and wealthy women.

She doesn't seek credit for the resurgence of all the sweater fashions at all price ranges in fall and winter fashion collections. Some observers call it the year of the sweater.

"There's always been a market for sweaters," said the designer-craftswoman. "They appeal because they're young looking, casual, practical. They're both chic and comfortable."

Mrs. Montgomery does not make the bulky knits that are a big item for the new season. Hers are from fine yarns, many in cotton because "Wool is getting scarcer and costlier. Cotton is very light. I don't think women want heavy things anyway. Today's wardrobes are for year-around."

At present, Mrs. Montgomery is working with Bill Blass, one of the most successful designer-manufacturers in New York's garment district. She also has worked with George Halley, Halston and the late Norman Norell.

"Norell taught me how to fit," said the woman who otherwise is a self-taught knitter and designer. "I was with him until his death." Norell, one of America's fashion greats, died two years ago.

Mrs. Montgomery designs and knits a one-of-a-kind design, working with Blass on ideas, and then contracts with a midwestern firm to produce from the sample. She checks each one for perfection.

Mrs. Montgomery doesn't mind that the only acting she did was two weeks in a trout — "I really didn't like the theater although my mother was stage struck and wanted me to act," she said.

But marriage and career kept her with the stage.

Her husband was James Montgomery, of an old New England family. He wrote several Broadway hits, the most famous of which was "Irene," first on Broadway in 1919. At one time, she said, it had 16 companies playing, one in Australia.

The first "Irene" made $5 million, a record for its time. Now revived as a musical, and a big hit first with Debbie Reynolds, then Jane Powell, there's no telling how much it eventually will tote up in profits. Mrs. Montgomery says she gets 2 per cent of the gross.

tuning of "Good News", another revival with Alice Faye and John Payne, now playing to big crowds in various cities.

Mrs. Montgomery went back to her knitting seriously when her husband became ill and she knew he was dying.

"I was not going to be a professional widow in a flared hat going around the world," she said.

Diana Vreeland, while editor in chief at Vogue magazine, put her in touch with Norell. Mrs. Montgomery has several firsts in the knits world. She claims the first see-throughs, her crocheted suits.

She did the famous checkerboard pattern tops for Norell suits and dresses. And for Vogue she did the first knit stockings.

"I think my handknits are different because I'm absolutely venturesome," she said. "I don't care what it is, I'll try it to see if I'm right."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, Sept. 21

Your birthday today: Finds you taking on increasing responsibility; make sure it's really yours to carry. You meet a great many people, develop a wide range of contacts that produce all sorts of relationships, often involving conflicts and competition for your time and attention. Today's natives are hungry for knowledge, will study and travel to get it.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Close associates are sensitive, disagree over almost anything—and even more tensions mount tomorrow. Do only what you know how to do; keep all negotiations simple.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: A touch of formality is very helpful with complex personal relations now. Caution with machines.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Find a common ground between generosity and extravagance, avoid extreme behavior or attitude. Your attention is likely to be scattered. Leave nothing to chance in unfamiliar areas.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Go slowly, be sure of what you're doing and reap all the benefits. Prepare to set straight past errors as soon as possible and whatever the cost.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: Your indiscretion and overdoing comes all too easily in the rush of today's cross-currents. Pause for meditation; accept guidance from intuition.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Even carefully plotted moves have to be made in a hurry. Financial steps should be confined to well-researched, familiar fields and kept to a minimum.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Aim for serenity through a changing scene, despite possible clashing personalities. You needn't commit yourself to settling any concerns but your own.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: There are factors not readily visible in almost any phenomenon. Take nothing for granted. Get an outside opinion (not that you'll follow it, but you might reconsider).

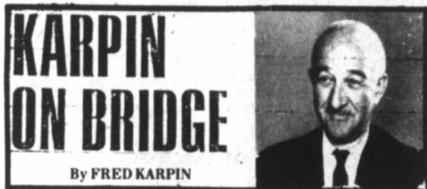

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Friends are useful, but unlikely to be accommodating or flexible. Financial opportunity isn't what it seems, mainly from wishful thinking.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Contingencies may arise for which you have no provisions. Get away from business or commercial transactions where possible. Intuition brings last-minute insight.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Stay clear of complex arrangements, unusual circumstances and odd luck. Let your friends sort out their own problems.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Be thrifty and prudent; there is always a terrific bargain. Fully understand before you make moves involving shared resources.

CREATIVITY
Parents stimulate creativity when they provide their child with opportunities to experiment with and explore his environment. Ilene Carrington, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out.

As all bridge players know, the lure of a finesse is sometimes quite difficult to overcome. Today's deal is a case in point.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

On West's opening lead of the spade six, dummy's queen was put up, the finesse being taken against West's hoped-for king. Upon winning the trick, East returned his remaining spade, driving out dummy's ace and simultaneously establishing West's spade suit.

Dummy's jack of diamonds was led next, and when East followed suit with the six, South put up his ace on the outside chance of catching West with the singleton king. When the king failed to drop, declarer led the diamond queen. West took his king and cashed three spade tricks.

Declarer was correct when he spurned the diamond finesse, thus taking out insurance against West having been dealt the singleton king. His play was aimed at minimizing the danger of West obtaining the lead. Declarer's error was the taking of the spade finesse at trick one. Instead he should have won the trick with the board's ace. Let us see why.

If the seven outstanding spades were divided 4-3, then it didn't matter what declarer played for all he would lose in this case would be three spade tricks. But if they were divided 5-2, then by putting up dummy's ace he would leave East with either the singleton king, the singleton jack, or the singleton ten.

When declarer next attacked the diamonds, he would lose to West's king. West would return a spade to East's king and East would have no spade to play back. If, in theory, East's remaining spade had been either the jack or ten, the same situation would exist. And if West played his (hypothetical) king, felling partner's (hypothetical) jack or ten, South's remaining 9-8 would prevent West from cashing the rest of his spades.

The reason why East, if he held only two spades, had to have the king, jack, or ten, is this: if West had held the K-J-10-x-x of spades and the diamond king, he surely would have made a non-vulnerable overcall of one spade. And West had not overcalled.

She Shows People How To Understand, Teach Others

COLLEGE STATION — Her field is human relations, and she shows people how to understand — and then teach — others, she says of her job.

Myrtle E. Garrett has been a program specialist — limited income — for nine years.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, part of The Texas A&M University System — and after 31 years in the Extension home economics program, Miss Garrett is retiring.

"I've had three different jobs in 'Extension, but working with the limited-income people has been the most rewarding," she reflected.

She teaches county Extension agents — home economics, paraprofessionals and volunteer leaders how to teach the public — often a limited — income public. Many of the paraprofessionals and volunteer leaders have limited incomes themselves.

The specialist refers to her limited — income "students" as "myth dispellers."

"I think I've had some myths dispelled during the past few years — it's been wonderful.

"It has been said many times that low — income people don't want anything, that they don't want to earn, that they're lazy — but this is not true," she said slowly, as if deliberating each word.

"There are many of these people who want to learn, to do — to better their way of life.

"They're lacking in opportunities and in education — and, therefore, money.

"So they are a grateful people, they're a humble people, and it's so rewarding to have them thank you over and over again for coming — to see about them, to help them and to show that your care.

"They're really delighted to show you and to tell you about the small successes they've had — but for them, they're great successes," she mused.

Teaching — and learning — is a matter of approach at meaningful levels, she insists.

It's based on an understanding of the "audience" or "students."

It's no longer enough to gear educational programs exclusively to a standard-level audience, Miss Garrett explains of adult and informal education.

"Our home economics program includes areas such as clothing, foods and nutrition, housing and home furnishings, family resource management, health and family life — areas in which people can learn to better their way of life.

"We find we had to write the kind of material for these programs that our audiences themselves could understand.

"For limited — income audiences, often this means writing on a third — grade reading level."

Most of her work is with county Extension agents — home economics, the specialist noted. She prepares agents in teaching volunteer leaders and paraprofessionals in regular and special Extension home economics programs. They, in turn, take these programs to limited — income families.

Occasionally she works directly with paraprofessionals (Extension aides and program assistants) and volunteer leaders.

She doesn't teach traditional Extension subject matter, such as clothing or foods and nutrition, she stresses.

"I try to help agents and paraprofessionals understand how to be effective in working with people — and particularly the people who are limited in many, many ways.

"Some of what I teach includes understanding characteristics of various ethnic groups in the State of Texas — also, their lifestyles, which encompass their behavior patterns, their attitudes, their beliefs, and the things that make them behave the way they do.

"I try to help the professional realize that if these people can be understood, then success is most likely to occur when you attempt to teach them in the traditional home economics subject — matter areas.

"So the big thrust is understanding, reaching and working with these people to help them grow personally in order to achieve a better way of life."

The pert specialist, who grew up near Longview, describes her own family as "what you might call limited income — my dad was a farmer, ran a small grocery store and a woodyard. He really came from a low — income family and you could say he pulled himself up by his bootstraps."

But in 1938, Miss Garrett earned a B.S. in home economics from Prairie View A&M College. To finance her education, she was an elementary teacher with the Longview Independent School District from 1931 — 38. From 1938 — 43, she taught junior high school home economics.

Then she joined the Extension Service as county home demonstration agent in Falls County. Three years later she became a district home demonstration agent.

In 1954, she earned the M.S. in home economics with a minor in administration and supervision from Prairie View A&M, and since then she has pursued graduate studies in human development — human relations at George Washington University and Texas Tech University. She holds membership in numerous professional organizations.

In 1972, Extension awarded Miss Garrett the Texas Superior Service Award "for effective educational leadership provided county home demonstration agents, program aides and volunteer leaders in the development of programs which improved the level of living of 125,000 limited — income families."

Reaching that many people is something Miss Garrett puts in reports — how she reaches them and what they learn, is what she wants to talk about.

"I teach volunteer leaders how to make a home visit to establish a rapport with homemakers and their families, and I teach them how to work with people in groups.

"I show paraprofessionals how to teach more paraprofessionals — and other people, and I try to help them understand human values, human needs, learning styles, teaching styles, and about adult learning," she explains.

"Really, the paraprofessionals are very receptive to training and teaching, and many of them try — they try very hard to do what is expected of them, and finally, when they gain enough confidence in themselves, they can do things on their own, because they get the feeling of self — esteem.

"This tells me they're growing toward self — actualization — and that they are changing their behavior.

Hand-me-down clothing can be made more attractive to younger children in a family by some simple additions to the garment, such as a collar or a fringe, say home economists.

The average length of stay by elderly persons in Rhode Island hospitals has dropped by two full days in the last five years, according to the state health department. The average stay is now 13.2 days.

BBQ Glaze Ends 'Ho Hum' Ham

If your family gives you that "ho hum" look when you put ham on the table, your ham needs help. Two things can do the trick and brighten those tired ham appetites around the table. First is barbecuing in a covered barbecue kettle to give the ham the rich, smoke-oven flavor that only outdoor cooking can achieve. A covered kettle helps seal in the natural juices and give the outside of the ham a crisp, brown texture. Second is to add one of a variety of glazes to encrust the ham with a distinct sweet or tangy taste. Try one or more of the following on your future hams.

- Cranberry Glaze
 - 1 cup mashed jellied cranberries
 - 1/4 teaspoon ginger
 - 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
- Honey-Orange Glaze
 - 1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
 - 1/4 cup honey
 - 1/4 cup orange juice
- Peach Glaze
 - 1 cup peach preserves
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- Baked Ham Glaze
 - 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons salad mustard
 - 2 teaspoons water

Prepare the charcoal brickets for indirect cooking by stacking them to the sides on the fire grill. Use an aluminum foil drip pan for the area between them. Allow the coals to gray all over before putting on the meat.

To prepare the ham score the fat diagonally and insert a whole clove at the center of each diamond that is formed by scoring. Cook over indirect medium heat for 9 minutes per pound. Thirty minutes before the ham is done brush on the glaze of your choice and 15 minutes before removing ham, garnish with pineapples and cherries and glaze for the last time.

Postmortem On The Pardon

Friends of Richard Nixon were dealt a severe blow when President Ford granted a full, free pardon to the former President for any offenses he committed or may have committed during Nixon's presidency.

It was a bad thing for Mr. Nixon's friends because now they may never know for certain that he was innocent.

It was a bad thing for the Republican Party because office seekers under that banner must now live with the inevitable claim of favoritism granted by the highest office to one of their own.

It was a bad thing for the Constitutional process because the President has chosen not to permit due process of law to operate in its proper form.

But it may have been a good thing for the cause of individual liberty because it is a clear example of how high political power can be used to reward some and punish others without abiding by the rule of law. It should assist more individuals in the realization that the executive branch of government does not consider all men equal under the law.

Now let us reason these statements out.

Why is the pardon a bad thing for Nixon's friends?

First, the exercise of the pardon power is a clear indication that agents of the government would have had a case against Richard Nixon which could have brought him to trial. The Constitution clearly states that a removed official, immune from prosecution while in office, may be held accountable for criminal action. By granting a pardon before any criminal charges are brought, Mr. Ford clearly placed Nixon above the law.

Mr. Nixon's friends must defend him on that basis. We find it impossible to believe that rational people can hold such a position.

Nixon's friends will face a barrage of confrontations concerning the other Watergate principals. What about Ehrlichman? What about Haldeman? What about John Dean, John Mitchell and all the others?

Mr. Nixon's friends are in an uncomfortable position because their only recourse will be to maintain that a former President is above the law, a position that is contrary to American ideals.

Why is it bad for the Republican Party?

With Mr. Nixon out and with Gerald Ford in, building an image as a straight-shooter and popular Nelson Rockefeller coming on, Republican candidates had a chance to ride the errors of the past and for reelection with new, clean leadership untainted by Watergate.

Now they face the nagging suspicions that deals were made and the leader of the party was in on the schemes. Democrats must be rubbing their hands with glee. Watergate which might well have faded into insignificance, is a brand new issue with new targets for the Democrats to shoot at.

Why was it bad for the Constitutional process? Obviously it has been short-circuited. Mr. Ford is on record as upholding the Constitution. He has stated that this is a government of law and not of men. Yet he has shown that the executive branch can and has prevented the due process of law to run its course.

But, we have stated it may have been a good thing for individual liberty because it may awaken more individuals to the reality that politicians will use their power at every opportunity to further their own causes.

They have seen the law can be circumvented when high officials choose to do so.

greater numbers of individuals should be joining with those who have long distrusted political leaders. That's a good sign of hope for future freedom.

Mr. Nixon stands fully pardoned. Pardon for what? The law, which is supposed to judge all men equally, has never charged Mr. Nixon with a crime. Mr. Nixon has not admitted guilt.

His case is left to the opinions of individual Americans. We believe Mr. Ford made a colossal error. He did not end the "bad dream" of Watergate. He turned it into an unending nightmare.

OUTRIDER

The TerHorst Resignation

By GARRY WILLS

There was only one good thing about the pardoning of Mr. Nixon — Jerry TerHorst's resignation as press secretary. One of the worst things about the whole Watergate affair was the fact that not a single White House official resigned in protest at what was going on. Over in the Justice Department, Messrs. Richardson and Ruckelshaus resigned in protest at an order — just as, in this last affair, Mr. Lacovara resigned from the Special Prosecutor's office. But in the source of the rotteness, Nixon's White House itself, even a resignation like that of John K. Andrews was not made as a public act of protest.

We know all the excuses — the wish to stay inside and influence things for the better, or to depart and remain on good terms with the "good guys" left behind — and we saw just how much that helped prevent or correct the Watergate scandals. All these high-minded rationalizations are ludicrous. Mr. TerHorst, despite his friendship with the President, resigned for three very good reasons, professional, procedural, and substantive.

1. The professional reason is that he was lied to and passed on the lies to newsmen. He wastold that no pardon was in the immediate offing. He had come to remedy that kind of misrepresentation. He could hardly stay to perpetuate it.

It was not the first time he had been lied to, even in his brief tenure of office. He was given a misleading story on the ownership of Nixon's tapes during his very first week in office. He corrected that story, and apologized for it, and must have hoped it was only the Nixon holdovers who were still playing that game. But other "misunderstandings" followed — over General Haig's impending departure, or George Bush's mission to China. It became harder to blame all of these things on the Nixon holdovers. Then came the outright lie on pardon.

How long can Nixon's men be held over without becoming Ford's people? Remember the question that was raised so often at the beginning of Mr. Nixon's first term: when would the Johnson war become Nixon's war? It did not take long. Mr. Ford seems not to have learned his lesson: Nixon's scandal is now a Ford scandal. This is another Watergate administration — but, luckily, Jerry TerHorst at least proved he is not another Ron Ziegler.

Mr. Hushen stays on in a tainted atmosphere, and must be held to the highest standards if he is to prove that he is escaping the taint. He is in the position of Mr. Bork after the resignations of Richardson and Ruckelshaus.

2. The second reason for Mr. TerHorst's resignation was procedural, as touching the press secretary's announced policy. He said Watergate was over, as a political matter, and that the courts would deal with it henceforth. Mr. Ford took it away from the courts and put it solidly back in the realm of Republican politics, undermining the whole rationale of the TerHorst performance.

3. The third reason was a matter of substance. TerHorst knew Ford was dead wrong on this particular act, and TerHorst had no stomach for defending it. Some of the earlier commentary on the resignation missed the point by saying that no press secretary can agree with his boss all the time. Without the professional matter of being lied to, and the policy reversal undermining his whole stated terms for taking the job, Mr. TerHorst might have been able to pass on the President's reasoning without interjecting his own misgivings. But taken in conjunction, the three grounds for resignation were overwhelming — and they are three strikes against those who remain in a White House so little repentant of the Watergate practices it has inherited.

JACKSON IS 'OUT'

Labor-Seeking '76 Candidate

By VICTOR RIESEL

NEW YORK — It was much like a long-ago class-reunion, rip-roaring party in the cavernous halls of the Hotel Commodore here, the landmark hostelry to which traditional labor chiefs can wander in their sleep. They've been meeting there for so many decades.

It was Primary Day night. And the old New Deal team had won a smashing victory for their Democratic party gubernatorial candidate — Congressman Hugh Carey. Thus, though the nation knows it not, the labor regulars had made history and were whooping it up. The word team is used very advisedly here — labor's stalwarts such as the laborite latter-day Jim Farley, the Seafarers' Paul Hall, had woven together a coalition of union veterans and such political hall of fame names as Mrs. Herbert Lehman, Averell Harriman, ex-Mayor Wagner and even tiny Mayor Abe Beame.

The Labor Committee for Hugh Carey, headed by another veteran, Sam Kovenetsky, vice president of the Retail and Wholesale Department Store Employees Union, had been the ramrod force in smashing the old political machines allied with the New Politics crowd, which had officially given someone called Howard Samuels, the ex-betting parlor director, the official nomination.

Thus the victory of Congressman Hugh Carey really was a labor victory, an AFL-CIO victory, a win for the Committee on Political Education which, under its raspy director, Al Barkan, had thrown whatever it could to smash the New Politics bid for the governorship of New York.

If this November Hugh Carey defeats Nelson Rockefeller's surrogate, incumbent Gov. Malcolm Wilson (and there now is a strong chance Carey can) — it would put the old labor-New Deal-Fair Deal-Great Society alliance in control of the state capitol and the delegation to the 1976 Democratic National Convention.

I do believe there would have been no Carey primary victory had it not been for the powerful and strategic support thrown him by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the Transport Workers, the International Longshoremen's Assn., the Machinists and a string of small "internationals" such as the Leather Goods Workers. The national significance of this is being overlooked.

Why? Because, despite the New Politics success in capturing delegates to the Democrats' national mini-convention in Kansas City this December, the traditionalists inside labor have unleashed formidable precinct vote-gathering machines everywhere.

In any tight presidential race, the Democrats just can't win without powerful labor support. And at the moment the Democratic National Committee which met in Washington the other day just doesn't have a candidate that can unite the labor movement behind him (or her, of course).

First, there's a strong Republican labor coalition to consider. On Primary Day eve, it too celebrated. Some 700 union delegates, mostly in the construction trades, but with influential white-collar leaders among them too, whooped it up in a special room at the Yonkers Raceway. They drank. They ate. They shook hands with their candidate Gov. Wilson. They bet on the horses. They went home broke but full of solidarity.

Secondly, the national AFL-CIO headquarters had disowned the Democratic National Committee. Labor president George Meany says he has nothing to do with it, doesn't even know its chairman Robert Strauss, and doesn't plan to go to the mini-convention.

Third, labor wants a winner. It doesn't believe Ted Kennedy can outrun Chappaquiddick. And Meany — which means most of the AFL-CIO executive council — is completely "disgusted" with Sen. Scoop Jackson. And not only because the Washington Senator appeared to be brainwashed in Peking recently, according to Meany's intimates, but because of Jackson's stand on trade with Soviet Russia.

Meany and many of his most influential colleagues just don't trust Scoop on the negotiations with the Soviets. The labor chiefs don't really want Soviet trade — and certainly not at the low 6 per cent interest for long-term credits.

What guarantee is there that once the Russians get most-favored-nation treatment (lower tariffs) Moscow's politburo won't break its word, harass the dissidents and defy the U.S.?

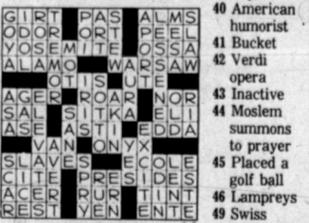

The labor people believe Jackson has crossed them on this and is willing to settle for a political victory.

Thus, since the AFL-CIO executive council won't take Kennedy or Jackson or a New Politics McGovernite typified by Howard Samuels in the New York gubernatorial primary race, who else is there? Labor is hanging loose. It could swing in any direction.

Nuclear-Armed India Also Begging For Food

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON. — India is warily in the process of staging a repeat performance of its world-startling spectacular last spring — sardonically tagged in diplomatic circles "an atomic bomb in one hand and a tin cup in the other."

This ambidextrous feat is being enacted by the unctuously self-righteous Gandhi regime with typical guile and circumspection.

While Indian scientists are speeding preparations for another "peaceful" atomic test soon, Delhi is almost frantically sounding out the U.S., Russia, Canada and Argentina on obtaining 3 to 5 million tons of wheat and rice to cope with an increasingly desperate food shortage and threatening famine.

Agonizingly compounding this fearful need is India's stark lack of funds.

As a consequence, the Gandhi government is seeking "soft" loans or outright grants as it has done so often in the past — as U.S. taxpayers should well know.

Since 1950, the U.S. has poured more than $10 billion into India in various forms of aid, a large proportion of it in food supplies to avert famine. In return, about the only thanks to the U.S. has been widespread Indian hostility — with Prime Minister Gandhi in the van with an incessant stream of carping barbs and strictures.

Now grievously for her and millions of famine-threatened Indians, this harsh diatribe is boomeranging.

The U.S. no longer is a certain and open-handed source of help.

American public sentiment is distinctly critical of continued large-scale foreign aid in general and pampering India in particular. Striking evidence of this is what is happening in Congress — now considering this year's multi-billion dollar foreign aid budget.

Sentiment is strong in the House Foreign Affairs Committee to outrightly exclude India.

How They Feel
Blunt reason is last spring's "peaceful" atomic test.

In this foreign aid budget, India is earmarked for $115 million. That would go a long way to bail India out of its dire food plight. But legislators emphatically see no reason why U.S. taxpayers should do that — in view of the Gandhi government's long record of enmity toward this country, and the cancellation early this year of $2.2 billion of a $3.3 billion debt owed the U.S.

Several months after his huge write-off quietly put over by the State Department without congressional knowledge or approval, India sprang its still-reverberating atomic surprise — testing of an A-bomb for "peaceful purposes."

That disillusioning combination of events has not been forgotten or forgiven in Capitol Hill. Illustrative is the blistering comment of Rep. Frank Brasco, D-N.Y.:

"India's foreign policy reeks of hypocrisy and deceit. The U.S. should not make any more aid available to India in any form for any reason. If Russia can sell weapons to India, it can also feed India. Perhaps when the starving masses of India plead for bread, Mrs. Gandhi will ask them to eat enriched uranium. That ought to make them content with their lot. After all, they are now the starving citizens of a nuclear power. India has an atomic bomb, and surely that ought to satisfy them."

Striking Contrast
While the Gandhi regime is vigorously beating the drums about urgent food needs, it's as silent as a tomb about its atomic operation — estimated by U.S. experts to cost at least several hundred million dollars a year.

Apparently, Delhi has no difficulty in producing money for his deadly purpose.

Buying food for the famine-menaced masses is something else. Or perhaps they are directly interrelated. That is, Madame Gandhi is making the deliberate choice of A-bombs over food for hungry millions, trusting that the good old U.S.A. will take care of them.

That's what happened in the past — to the extent of $10 billion out of U.S. taxpayers' pockets.

President Ford is arduously trying to balance the budget by pruning one-half that amount ($5 billion) in his determined drive to curb inflation. If the billions ladled out to India in the '60s could be regained, that would be a tremendous help to the U.S. in many ways.

But that's a vain hope. Not only is there no likelihood of those generously given billions being repaid, but adroit efforts are underway to wangle more U.S. aid.

Privately, Indian officials ruefully admit they are "embarrassed" to have to, in effect, "rattle the tin cup" again seeking U.S. help. But as the editor of the leading Delhi financial paper frankly wrote:

"The government cannot wish away this problem. We absolutely must replenish our foodstocks. India is short of food and that can't be denied. The situation is increasingly ominous."

Another prominent Indian publication, equally outspoken, put the blame for much of this problem on the Gandhi regime.

While admitting drought and floods played important roles, the blistering editorial also charged that the perilous food shortages are due to gross incompetence and lack of planning by the government, chaotic radicalism, bungling and sluggish bureaucracy, soaring population, lagging industrial production, rampant inflation and skyrocketing oil costs — by Arab countries which although courted by India politically, haven't lifted a finger to help her.

Sternly declaimed the editorial, "It's time India realized who her real friends are, and act accordingly. It's all well and good to prate lofty sentiments, but they don't put bread in the mouths of the masses."

Despite India's drum-tight secrecy about its atomic operations, U.S. experts anticipate one more, and possibly two, tests this year.

As in the case of the first detonation, it goes without saying the next will also be piously labeled "for peaceful purposes." But points out realistically Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee:

"Atomic tests are not peaceful. That's ridiculous. There is only one reason for an atomic test — to test the effectiveness of a nuclear weapon. For peaceful purposes there is absolutely no need for atomic explosion of any kind. The peaceful use of the atom does not require an explosion. To make such a claim is barefaced hypocrisy and deceit."

"India didn't fool anybody by saying that, and they would be well advised to stop talking that way. All they're doing is discrediting themselves."

Need For ERA?

By TOM ANDERSON

The "Libs" very cleverly named their amendment, the "Equal Rights Amen. ment." Women already not only have equal rights, they have more-equal rights.

Some people are for ERA because they think it would give women equal job opportunities and equal pay. The Fair Employment Practices law and the Civil Rights Bill already do that, so ERA is not needed for that.

Women now have, as I believe they should, advantages in the courts, in protecting their persons and their privacy, and in many other ways. ERA would further accentuate the descent of Eve to Adam's level; would inflict another highly damaging blow to marriage and the family, chastity and morality.

Son Wears Her Undergarments

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am worried about my son. He is 3. He takes my undergarments (only the silky ones) and puts them on or just carries them around. I am unsure of how to treat this problem and am also wondering if this means he has a tendency toward becoming a transvestite. — Mrs. P.A.

May or may not presage a problem. Youngsters will cross-dress at a young age, but this usually disappears by the age of 3 or 4, or soon after that.

Psychologists might tell you that some of these children are "seeking their gender status." Babies aren't born with an automatic knowledge of where they fit into society, you know.

But what to do about it? He's only 3, and I would suggest first of all to keep such clothing out of his reach. Prevent temptation. He may, indeed, catch the hint and understand that such things aren't for boys.

A mother's attitude can have a subtle effect. Some mothers think it is "cute" which amounts to both encouragement, so be sure you don't do that.

At the same time, make it a point to emphasize his masculinity. (You're getting to be a big boy now, or praise for other things he does.)

Don't be too permissive in your control over him. If he gets into things he shouldn't (including your "silks") tell him they are not for him to play with.

Your husband can play a quiet but important role, too, by emphasizing masculinity. It should be natural, though, not overdone.

If your son's present trend continues, however, get help from a child guidance counselor or a child psychiatrist. Transvestism can lead to transsexualism in which a child denies his gender. (That does not mean homosexuality, however.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Parents who have experienced the shock of SIDS (sudden infant death syndrome) can write to the following address and find a chapter in their area to help them:

National Foundation for Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, 1501 Broadway, New York, N.Y. — B.M. and R.N.

Losing an infant that way is a very cruel experience — parents quite commonly are tortured with the idea that they must have been in some way responsible. Comments by friends and relatives too often unintentionally add to the misery.

Contact with this foundation and others who can provide the facts can relieve such parents of this misery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've been reading about food combinations recently in order to fully utilize, digest and assimilate food. I mean like protein - acid combinations.

This doesn't seem to me a very natural way to eat, and a lot of trouble to stop and think which food combination you are eating. I would think nature would take care of that when it filters out waste from the nutrition part of food. — M.C.

Your thinking is entirely sound; it is a mistake to attach such importance to goofy theories that we must — or must not — eat certain combinations of food to absorb them. Nature does take care of that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 13 and started my periods three months ago. Would it be harmful if I started using tampons? My mother thinks I am not old enough. — P.B.

No reason why you should not. If you are old enough to have periods you are old enough for this type of protection. Small sizes are available. Tampons are helpful particularly if you are a swimmer or in athletics.

You can lose weight if you really want to. Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him in care of George C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Fall Season Opens In NY Hotels

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — The fall season... as it is lachrymously known because it is supposed to signal the end of summer and the beginning of the autumnal carousing, has opened in the New York hotels.

The vast city is a hot box and the air-conditioning is taxed (but why not, all the rest of us are taxed?) and some brave souls in dinner jackets pretend it is Thanksgiving and rush out to hear Mel Torme opening with 15 musicians at the proud St. Regis Maisonette.

Don Cornell comes into the Plaza Persian Room with 3 musicians but, also with about a dozen gold records.

Jerry Lewis was a surprise guest for Mel Torme, reputedly flying in from LA just to take an unnoticed seat in the audience. Discovering him, Torme faltered, then cried out, "You rat, you lied!" Jerry had managed to phone, ostensibly from LA, to say he wouldn't be there.

Torme introduced his drummer Butch Miles and orchestra of Al Porcino. It is no knock on Torme that there was also a big, big hand for the arrival of an air-conditioning repairman.

Don Cornell was best with his "It Isn't Fair" and other oldies. He told the audience, "You're a small group but an intelligent one."

I wandered into Stevie Wonder's farewell party at Delmonico's (he's starting a tour) and was astonished that Lauren Bacall had quietly come back to town. Eric Clapton, Genevieve Waite, Roberta Flack and Mick Jagger were there. A certain girl told me she didn't know who Eric Clapton was. A rock-and-roll specialist snapped, "Don't ever say anything like that. He made $3 million last year."

There's a movement to nominate Jerry TerHorst for a Pulitzer Prize for resigning his job with President Ford... Under Twenty

By MILDRED PERKINS
During seven weeks this summer three co-ed groups of high school juniors and seniors worked on a "mission" to help three communities. They built homes, schools, baled hay, repaired fences, chauffeured elderly citizens and performed a host of other services for those who needed them.

One group headquartered in Alabama demolished two old homes so carefully that the lumber could be salvaged. Using this lumber they constructed two new homes. In addition, they re-roofed a home, painted another and repaired porches on others.

Another group in Maine lived and worked with Carmelite Sisters who manage a rural cooperative. They built a two-story retail store from which the local handicrafts of the residents can be sold. They also constructed an addition to the nunnery.

In Washington State the campers renovated an old school which had been given to the Payallup Indian tribe. With the help of 17 Indian youths, the entire building was painted and is now in use as the Indian Center.

This was followed by heavy construction where campers spent long days renovating dilapidated homes.

The project was sponsored by the American Jewish Society for Service. These "work camps" have been in operation for 24 summers. There have been a total of 900 volunteers who have worked on 57 projects in 33 states and in Israel.

The camper - volunteers pay $400 for the seven-week period to help offset the cost of food and supervision. The balance is underwritten by the Jewish Society for Service.

In addition to the hard work the volunteers performed each day, the youths planned recreational and cultural events. Weekends during the seven-week period were spent seeing historical and natural places of interest and in getting to know the people.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — It has been the practice in recent years for presidential appointees to disclose their financial holdings at confirmation hearings in Congress.

The idea, of course, is to show whether they have any assets that might conflict with their governmental duties.

If so, they are expected to divest themselves of those holdings.

When Nelson Rockefeller was first nominated to be vice president, there was some feeling that it might be in the national interest to waive the requirement in his case.

This feeling was based on the expectation that Rockefeller's financial statement would show he owned a controlling interest in the whole USA.

Which would add an entire new dimension to the conflict of interest question.

Divesting Rockefeller of such holdings would mean selling half of the United States. And only Arab oil potates have that kind of money.

So, in order for Rockefeller to become vice president, majority control of the nation's resources would pass to the Middle East.

That fear, however, was soon dispelled by other, more clearheaded financial analysts.

They pointed out that if Rockefeller owned 51 per cent of the country, it obviously would be impossible for him to have a conflict of interest — for he would only be in conflict with himself.

After days of discussions along this line, imagine everyone's astonishment when word got out that Rockefeller had filed a preliminary statement estimating he was merely worth a paltry $33 million.

Could it be that a personal fortune reputed to amount to $300 million had dwindled to the point where Rockefeller was down in the common run of millionaires?

As one flabbergasted financial analyst put it, "With $33 million, Rockefeller would rank somewhere between Frank Sinatra and Evel Knievel."

What happened to the other $267 million? Had Rockefeller turned into a wastrel? And, if so, did he blow it all in one place?

The darkest interpretation that has been placed on the shrinkage is that it reflects what has happened to the national economy as a whole.

If that be true, the rest of us are worth only about $32 million all put together, or approximately 15 cents apiece.

Perhaps Rockefeller's final accounting will revise the figure upward. Meanwhile, a few Arabic lessons might be advisable.

DIPLOMA REPLACED — Dr. Roy C. McClung (right), president, Wayland Baptist College, presents a new diploma to Rev. Claude Cone, pastor, First Baptist Church, Pampa. Rev. Cone's original diploma was lost in a fire that destroyed his study and a portion of the church auditorium last year.

Delegates Register For Historic Dallas Meeting

Several delegates from Pampa's First Christian Church have registered for attendance at an assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in Texas, scheduled for Sept. 23-26 in Dallas.

Included are the pastor, Dr. Ralph T. Palmer, and Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. and Mrs. O.W. Allston and Mrs. Lillian Snow.

More than 1,200 members from throughout the state are expected to participate in the assembly, which may be the final assembly of the organization.

One of the main items of business to be considered by delegates is the adoption of new constitution and by-laws which would create a new region of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in the United States and Canada.

The new region, to be called the Christian Church in the Southwest, would merge 465 congregations of the Christian Church in Texas with 17 congregations of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in New Mexico.

Formation of the new region will be the main order of business for the assembly.

Dr. Harrell A. Rea, CCT executive minister, said that the merger has already been approved by the CCT board, the New Mexico congregations and the General Board of the Christian Church.

At the Dallas assembly, delegates also will deal with resolutions on regional implementation of national policies and criteria for ministers, farm workers, the world food crisis and a regional conference of ministers, and will elect officers for the 1974-75 biennium.

Business sessions, worship services and "Practicing Christianity" groups on a variety of subjects will be held at East Dallas Christian Church, home of the denomination's largest congregation.

UM Evangelist Is From Roley

"Encounter With Christ" is the theme of a revival to be held at St. Paul United Methodist Church starting Sunday and continuing through Sept. 26.

Sunday services are scheduled for 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Evening services only (at 7 o'clock) will be held Monday through Thursday.

Evangelist is the Rev. Steve Harper, pastor of First United Methodist Church at Roley, Texas.

He has been active in church work since the age of 15 and has been associated with the Ed Robb Evangelistic Ass'n.

A graduate of Asbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., Rev. Harper will be assisted by Larry Sanders, of Lubbock, who will provide special music and song leadership.

Million-Plus Is Fund Goal

Texas Baptists, in an effort to help alleviate human need, are seeking to raise more than one million dollars this fall.

The exact goal is $1,111,111.11.

It will be raised through the Mary Hill Davis State Mission Offering, conducted among 2 - million Texas Baptists in 4,200 churches and missions around the state.

The money will be re-invested in areas of human need from the Rio Grande River to the teeming metropolitan areas.

A home for runaway teenage girls in San Antonio ... day care centers and counseling services ... ministry to those alienated from society ... new church sites in rapidly developing suburban areas.

These are a few of the ways Texas Baptists will spend the funds.

Of the $1 - million - plus goal, $553,111 will be spent in the cities while another 145,000 will be used to minister to two million people who live along the 890 mile Rio Grande River.

People — from the urban areas like Brownsville and El Paso to the awesome and arid Big Bend area — will be offered spiritual and physical aid.

The money subsidizes free medical and dental clinics, irrigation projects, water wells, instruction in the basics of homemaking, cooking, farming, resourceful crafts, building new churches and holding evangelistic crusades and Bible schools.

The funds also provide scholarships for Black and Mexican American students attending Texas Baptist colleges and for projects manned both by students and retiree volunteers.

Last year, Texas Baptists raised a little over a million dollars for the first time in the history of the offering.

Many believe that courage comes from whom we are, rather than those we are.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

St. Vincent de Paul Church

Rev. Wendelin J. Dunker, C.M.

The story is told of a certain professor from a poor European country who travelled through the United States. When he was leaving someone asked him what impressed him most about the United States.

Without a moment's hesitation he replied: "Your garbage cans."

"Garbage cans! What can be so impressive about garbage cans?"

The traveller explained: "Your garbage cans are loaded with wasted food. You Americans waste more food in a week than it would take to feed the children of my country for a whole month."

All of which reminds us of the gospel we will read in next Sunday's liturgy: the parable of the unjust steward, who lost his job because he "wasted his master's goods."

Now every one of us is a steward. Every one of us is in charge of goods, talents, even people. But all of these things belong to God. Waste them and we commit a sin of injustice and dishonesty.

Most likely the Lord is calling our attention to this injustice by permitting the food, fuel and energy shortages we have been experiencing. There is always some sort of punishment when we break the laws of God and of nature. That is what waste is.

So away with the false thinking that food, for instance, belongs to us, and that we can waste it if we wish. It does not belong to us. It belongs to God who wants us to use it for our necessities, but likewise share it with those who are hungry.

The same holds too of gasoline, electricity, as well as all the other necessities of life.

And just as bad as the garbage cans in our alleys are the attics and closets of our home, loaded with enough never-used clothes to dress up all the naked of the world. There are enough cast-off toys to make every child in the world happy.

And how about waste of money — for drugs, liquor, cosmetics, gadgets without number, etc? And how about our waste of talents? Neglecting to use the brains and abilities God has given us?

We should always remember that we are stewards, not masters, and one day we are going to have to give an account to our Master for all the talents and abilities, both temporal and spiritual, that God has given to us.

So let us stop being self-centered; thinking only of our own pleasure and happiness! The men and women we daily come into contact with are not just "people"; they are our brothers and sisters. And even though we may not actually come into contact with them, even though they may be of another nationality, even though they may have a different color of skin, we all belong to the family of God. They are our brothers and sisters. And Christ died for them on the cross just as well as He did for us.

So let's try to be better stewards; using the material things of this life not so much as our own, but as belonging to our Heavenly Father, and of which one day we must render an account.

Be just, but also be generous, and share with others. It has been truly said: "The only things we can take with us when we die are the things we gave away on earth."

Rev. Joe Lee Tompkins

Nazarenes Will Conduct Revival

The First Church of the Nazarene, 500 N. West St., Pampa, begins a revival meeting Tuesday, Sept. 24, to continue through Sept. 29.

The Rev. Joe Lee Tompkins, an elder in the Church of the Nazarene at McCrory, Ark., is the evangelist.

Sunday services are at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m.

A graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, Tompkins began his ministry of evangelism while still a student, preaching and singing for revivals and special occasions.

He is a composer and has had one song published. His wife is also a musician, and arranges all their music. They have produced two long-play records. Now in his fourth year of itinerant revival ministry, Rev. Tompkins has also held pastorates in Texas and Arkansas, and was successful in starting two new churches.

Perryton Church Gets New Pastor

PERRYTON — Trinity Presbyterian Church will have a new pastor as of Oct. 1.

He is the Rev. Joel Peters, who was born in the Punjab State of India.

Rev. Peters has been in the United States for the past 12 years, and has had pastorates in California, the Navajo Indian Reservation in Arizona, and at Crowley, Texas.

He and his wife, Grace, have three children, Jean, June and John. Mrs. Peters is a Registered Nurse.

Central Baptist Starts Revival

The revival to be held at Pampa's Central Baptist Church Sept. 22-29 will feature a widely traveled evangelist, author and conference leader.

He is the Rev. James McGinlay Jr., who was born in Canada and lived there the first eight years of his life.

After graduating from Bob Jones University, he attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

He is married to the former Dorothy Burdett of Chicago, and they have two children, Shannon age 16 and Jim age 11.

Reverend McGinlay was in evangelism for nine years, and during this time held revivals for churches across the United States. He has been widely used in youth work, youth camps, and Bible Conference.

He has been pastor of the First Baptist Church, Archer City, Texas, and the College Avenue Baptist Church, Lubbock. He is presently pastor of the Ridgcrest Baptist Church, Greenville, Texas.

Rev. McGinlay was one of the speakers for the 1967 Texas Evangelism Conference, and participated in the Encounter Crusades in Ohio and California.

He was also invited by the Department of Evangelism of Texas to serve on Personal Evangelism Institute teams, and has helped direct institutes throughout the state of Texas, and in Alabama.

Hours for the revival are 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Musical leadership will be provided by Dan Booher, minister of youth and music.

St. Paul Church Sets Dedication

Special dedication services for their new education building will be held by St. Paul United Methodist Church Sept. 21 at 7 p.m.

Presiding at the ceremony will be Bishop Alsie Carleton, of Albuquerque. He is bishop of Northwest Texas - New Mexico Annual Conferences.

Following the ceremony of paying off the note for construction of the building, a reception will be held for the pastor, the Rev. Charles Graff.

Unbeatens Battle Tonight In Perryton

Dolphins, Bills Tackle Sunday

By PAUL SIMS
 "We're just going to try to play the same old lucky-type football we've been playing," joked Perryton head coach Don Beck about the game against Pampa at 7:30 p.m. today in Ranger Stadium.

Beck's Rangers have beaten two very fine teams thus far — Borger, 8-7 and Dallas Jesuit, 7-6 — and the coach has about decided that either his team is extremely lucky or forecasters were mistaken when they said Perryton isn't near the caliber of last year's team.

Perryton won district (1-AAA) last year behind the quarterbacking of Jim Dear, the blocking and defense of David Johnson and pass catching of Russ Elledge. All three were among the best athletes in the area and were the main reasons Perryton edged Pampa, 7-6.

"They're (this year's version of the Rangers) probably close to as good a ball club as they had last year," said Pampa head coach John Welborn.

Welborn's two-plateau system, giving the Harvesters a fresh offense and defense, has resulted in 725 yards total offense in two games as Pampa belted both Hereford, 35-8, and

SPORTS

The Pampa Daily News

Dumas, 19-0. But Beck doesn't see two-plateauing as an advantage against Perryton.

"Pampa two platoons you, but that won't be an advantage against us," said Beck. "because we do the same thing. We played 31 boys in both games so far. Pampa brings fresh people in against us and we're going to run fresh people right back at them."

The Rangers don't actually two plateau because five defensive players play on offense. But Perryton will alternate two or three men every play.

Perryton is led by two big running backs — right halfback Chuck Bohner (191) and fullback Robert Blodgett (195). Bohner is also the middle linebacker and is one of the best at the defensive position in the Panhandle.

Quarterback Richard Bates (5-8, 150-pound senior) has taken over Dear's job and has done so adequately. "I think he throws the ball reasonably well. His best attribute is his mechanics — his ability to fake and operate play selections."

hero Larry Csonka could manage only 62 yards and Jim Kluck 10. Marlin Briscoe ran for 11 more for only 89 yards total rushing offense.

Bob Griesse's passing was the one bright note for Miami as he completed 19-of-29 for 254 yards and a touchdown, a better than 65 per cent completion percentage.

Ferguson, who had only four TD passes all last season, had three against the Raiders and now gives opponents more to worry about than just Simpson's running.

The Dolphins are nine-point favorites.

In other NFL games Sunday, St. Louis is at Washington, Pittsburgh at Denver, Kansas City at Oakland, New Orleans at Los Angeles, Minnesota at Detroit, New England at the New York Giants, San Diego at Cincinnati, San Francisco at Atlanta, the New York Jets at Chicago, Houston at Cleveland and Green Bay at Philadelphia Monday night.

St. Louis and Washington both come off opening game triumphs and play for a share of the lead in the NFC East. Pittsburgh has lost to Denver in all three previous meetings and the Steelers hope to take a big step toward the playoffs with a victory over the Broncos, who last week to Los Angeles.

Kansas City tries to put favored Oakland two games in the hole in the AFC West, and Los Angeles is a heavy favorite to make New Orleans its second victim. Minnesota also is looking to jump off to a quick lead in NFC Central by beating Detroit while the Patriots try to show the Giants their upset of Miami was no fluke.

Top Dogs Meet Weak Opponents

United Press International
 This looks like a good week for some real blowouts on the college football front.

Such schools as Notre Dame, Nebraska, Arizona State and UCLA, which have past reputations for running up scores, will be going against some of the nation's weaker clubs in Saturday matchups and looking to enhance their positions in the weekly "ratings game."

Second-ranked Notre Dame, idle last Saturday after soundly whipping Georgia Tech in its opener, will be playing a weak Northwestern team which lost to Big Ten rival Michigan State last Saturday. The Irish are rated a 28-point pick and if that isn't bad enough, Northwestern will be playing without three starters, including tailback Greg Boykin, the team's best runner.

Fourth-ranked Nebraska, which crushed Oregon 61-7 in its opener last week, meets Wisconsin and figures to have another rout. The Badgers beat Purdue in their opener but can't measure up in talent or size to the Cornhuskers, who will enter the game a 15-point choice.

Arizona State, ranked No. 10, has been tabbed a 21-point pick over Texas Christian, which squeaked by Texas-Arlington last Saturday, but that might be a conservative line. The Sun Devils are probably college football's most offensive-minded team and in their opener two weeks ago handled a strong Houston club rather easily.

UCLA, another club returning to work after a two-week layoff, also has an easy game against Iowa, which is currently riding a 12-game losing streak.

UCLA, ranked No. 11, fought 12th ranked Tennessee to a 21-21 tie two weeks ago and the Bruins are picked by 21 points to down the Hawkeyes.

Dumas led, 2-0 as Shocker running back David Caldwell was trapped in the end zone for a safety in the first quarter.

Then Pampa came back as quarterback Garland McPherson scored on a four yard run, capping a 60-yard, third quarter drive. The run for extras failed as Pampa took a 6-2 lead.

In the fourth period, Reeves' punt return, his third long one of the season, put the Shockers ahead 12-2, and Ricky Moore made it 20-2 with the conversion run.

Dumas scored again, with a pass from the quarterback to the tight end. The pass for extras fell incomplete.

Dick Rhyhan Holds Lead After Ohio 1st Round

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (UPI) — At age 38, Dick Rhyhan, Jr., figures he may be ready to start making a name for himself on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

The heretofore unheralded native of Columbus, Ohio, was the surprise leader after Thursday's opening round of the $150,000 Ohio-Kings Island Open. Rhyhan shot a sizzling six under-par 65 to take a threestroke lead into today's second round.

In second place with 68s after Thursday's fog-delayed marathon round were Miller Barber and Joe Inman. Fourteen golfers were tied for fourth with 69s and 13 were clustered at one-under-par 70.

Among a group of 14 players at par 71 was Jack Nicklaus, last year's champion and the heavy pre-tournament favorite.

After today's round the field was to be trimmed to the low 70 and ties. The 72-hole tourney, with $30,000 going to the winner, winds up Sunday.

Thursday's start at the "Jack Nicklaus Golf Center" was delayed 75 minutes by fog and the last golfer didn't leave the links until nearly 8 p.m., more than 10 hours after the first player teed off.

Rhyhan, a member of the tour six years but never a tourney winner, fired a one-under-par 35 on the first nine holes and then breezed to a five-under-par 30 on the closing nine.

Rhyhan had two bogeys but overshadowed them with birdies on seven of the final 10 holes.

The bespectacled Rhyhan, brilliantly sombre after his stringently round, called himself a "self-taught" golfer who is now beginning to catch up with younger, better-trained golfers.

"When I was young there were not many good golf teachers around. I had to do it myself. I've been playing very consistent the last two or three weeks," said Rhyhan, who said his scores the last eight rounds have all been in the low 70's.

Throughout his usually uneven career, Rhyhan has had a penchant for changing clubs.

Ninth Grade A-Team Succumbs To Hereford

Johnny Kitchens passed four touchdowns to lead Hereford State to a 32-13 win over the Pampa Junior ninth grade A-team Thursday afternoon in Hereford, highlighting junior high action involving Pampa teams.

In other games, the ninth-grade B-team stopped Canyon, 18-6, the eighth-grade Red blanked Canyon Purple, 12-0, and the eighth-grade Blue fell to Canyon White, 12-6.

Gary Dumas passed to Rusty Ward for a 12-yard touchdown and Dean Smith ran over from seven yards out for P.J.H.'s ninth grade A-team against Stanton.

Ricky Bunton led the B-team with an eight-yard touchdown run and an 80-yard scoring bomb from James Coddington. Bobby Burns scored on a 12-yard run for the other touchdown.

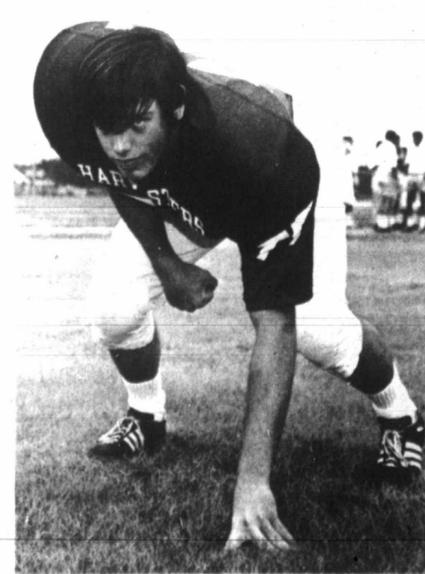

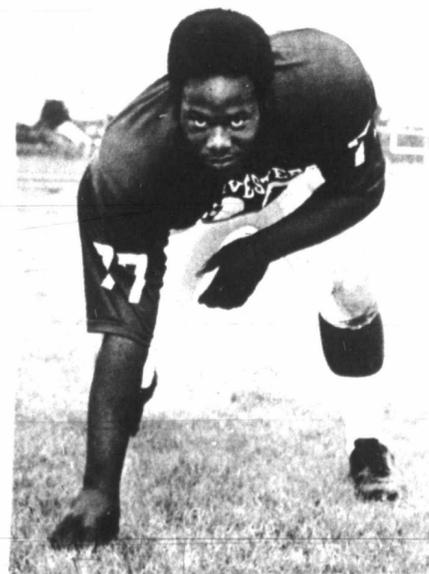

Ricky Dougherty connected with Steve Duke on scoring passes of 60 and 70 yards in the Red contest.

In the Blue-Canyon White game, Pampa's only touchdown came on a 25-yard pass from Jerry Holmes to Kerry Adair.

Orioles Capture Lead From Yankees

United Press International
In first place for the first time since July 13, the Baltimore Orioles are the obvious favorites to win the American League's Eastern race.

They are, that is, unless you talk to Manager Bill Virdon of the New York Yankees.

Virdon thinks the Orioles "still have their work cut out for them," even after they took over first place by a half game with a three-game series-sweeping 7-0 victory over the Yankees Thursday night behind Dave McNally's three-hitter.

"Our pitchers have the experience in the stretch," he said. "They've pitched in close pennant races, playoffs and World Series before. The big thing is that Jim Palmer is off the disabled list and in the starting rotation. It wouldn't be close if we had him all the way."

McNally, a four-time 20-game winner, pitched a beautiful three-hitter against the Yankees Thursday night. He allowed one Yankee to reach third base and faced 22 batters over the last seven innings. The victory raised his record to 16-10.

"This staff is better than when we had four 20-game winners," said McNally, referring to the 1971 season, "because then we had a lot of hitting. This staff doesn't get the runs."

Pirates Within 1/2 Of Cardinals

UPI Sports Writer
Manager Danny Murtaugh sums up the strength of the Pittsburgh Pirates in two words — Dave Giusti.

"Our club this year has been as good as Giusti has been in the bullpen," says the Pirates' skipper.

After Thursday night, what more can the rest of the Pirate club say except "Amen."

Giusti, who missed 11 days because of a back injury, returned to action Thursday night against the National League East Division-leading St. Louis Cardinals and turned in a superb performance to protect an 8-6 Pittsburgh victory which moved the Pirates to within a half-game of the division leaders.

Giusti took over for reliever Ramon Hernandez in the eighth inning and pitched out of jams in the eighth and ninth to preserve Pittsburgh's second triumph in a row over the Cardinals.

His performance in the ninth was spectacular as he got himself into a jam by giving up two singles then struck out the three most dangerous hitters in the Cardinals' lineup, the last one coming with the tying runs in scoring position.

Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore led off the ninth inning with hits for St. Louis, but Giusti fanned Reggie Smith and Ted Simmons. Brock and Sizemore then engineered a double steal only to have Giusti strike out Joe Torre to end the game.

"You do it or you don't do it," said Giusti in reference to his final strikeout. "It's power versus power. I know I'm throwing the fastball and he knows I'm throwing the fastball. There was some exhilaration involved because this isn't April. I think we're the type of team we were in '71. We were down two games to Baltimore (in the World Series) but we don't give up. That's the type of team this is."

Ex-St. Louis Browns Manager Dies Thursday With Heart Attack

NEW YORK (UPI) — The St. Louis Browns were getting murdered this particular day. That in itself wasn't very unusual because the St. Louis Browns used to have that happen to them regularly every day.

They were playing the Washington Senators, trailing something like 10-2, and the Senators had loaded the bases again.

Zack Taylor, staring down at the ground the way most managers do whenever they come out to make a pitching change, was startled to see his players come trotting toward him when he picked up his head.

"Triple play," he was told. Zack got used to seeing anything happen with the Browns.

"Atta way to go, gang!" he cheered, clapping his hands.

Zack Taylor, who died of a heart attack Thursday at the age of 76 in Orlando, Fla., was one of those unsung men of baseball who gave most of his time, energy and devotion to the game without ever becoming materially rich from it.

What happened? he wanted to know.

They worked them harder this week than anytime this season," Green said. "I guess the players are wondering, 'is winning any fun?'"

Heading for Texas City this Friday night in the third weekend of Texas schoolboy play, the newly named No. 8 Bryan Vikings will try to prove to their coach the Conroe game was no fluke.

"One thing we're trying to emphasize to our team is the fact that winning is one thing, but being a winner is entirely something else," Green said. "Anybody can win one game on a given night, but it takes a certain type of team to be a winner. You've got to win every time you go on the field."

Green said it's no disadvantage being in the same town with the Texas Aggies.

Bryan-Texas City Game Tops Slate

United Press International
One game does not make a season, says Bryan High School football coach Merritt Green. Witness practice this week at Bryan which whopped formerly No. 2 ranked Conroe 47-0 last Friday.

Other games involving top teams include No. 6 San Antonio Churchill playing cross-town rival Roosevelt, No. 7 Plano hosting Dallas Kimball, No. 9 San Angelo Central hosting Dallas Carter and No. 10 Arlington Lamar traveling to Grand Prairie.

Wichita Falls Rider, the No. 4 ranked team, opens district play against Hirschi, and Saturday night Odessa Permian, No. 5, hosts Fort Worth Wyatt.

With Conroe's loss, Brazoswood made the biggest jump in UPI's poll by beating Houston St. Thomas 16-0. The competition will get more physical at Lufkin Friday night.

Haughton Captures Little Brown Jug

DELAWARE, Ohio (UPI) — Billy Haughton had another great day Thursday in what has been a great year of great days for him.

Haughton, harness racing's all-time leading money winner, guided Armbr Omaha to victory on the fast Delaware County Fairgrounds track in the 29th annual Little Brown Jug, the second jewel of 3-year-old pacing's triple crown.

The Jug victory, a record fifth for the veteran Haughton, was also his fifth major stakes win of the 1974 racing season, and his 19-year-old son, Peter, has added two others.

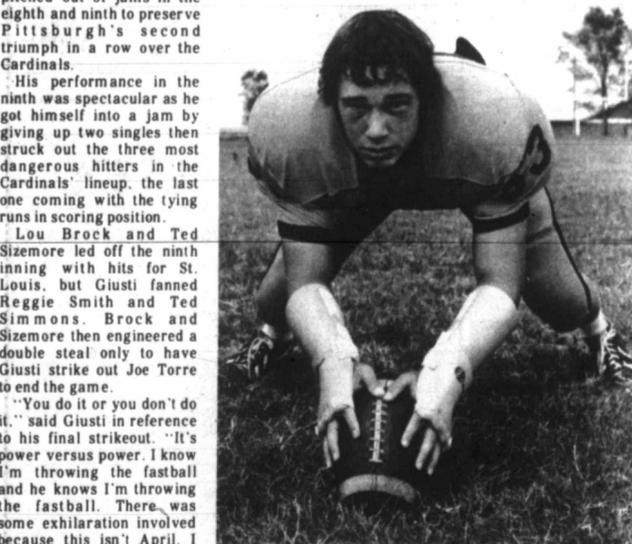

"I wonder when the bubble is going to break," said Haughton. "What a wonderful year."

Armbr Omaha, an Airliner colt, owned by J. Elgin Armstrong of Brampton, Ont., edged Boyden Hanover, one of the pre-race favorites, in both their division heat and the deciding raceoff.

George Sholly was looking for his second triple crown jewel, having won the Cane Pace behind Boyden Hanover last month at Yonkers.

Armbr Omaha, who picked up $49,073 of the record purse of $132,360, ran his 1974 earnings to $198,256 and his record in 22 races.

Bret Star, also trained by Haughton but driven by Mike Gagliardi, captured the first division of the divided 17-horse field and, despite a fourth place finish in the raceoff, collected second best money of $21,883.

Matuszak Won't Play For Gillman's Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI) — John Matuszak, who tried unsuccessfully to jump to the new World Football League from the Houston Oilers, says he wants to play in the National Football League if he is traded.

The giant defensive lineman, the 1973 No. 1 draft choice, said he will never again play for Oiler Coach Sid Gillman. He jumped his four-year contract with the Oilers and signed with the WFL Houston Texans but was sidelined by a court injunction.

Now, the Texans are moving to Shreveport, La. "I don't know how the move will affect my position," Matuszak said. "I still want to play football when I'm free to do so. I'm eager to display my wares."

The one stipulation for his return to the NFL is if he can play for "a sensitive progressive man, like Don Shula, Chuck Noll, Chuck Knox or John Ralston."

Shula coaches Miami, Noll Pittsburgh, Knox Los Angeles.

Houston Texas Hoping For Restraining Order

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tuesday morning, the day before the Memphis game, unless the WFL attorneys are successful before, Leshner will either continue the order as an injunction or allow the Texans to play where they want.

L.A. Frey and Co., sought the order saying they have a promotion geared for the Memphis game and their reputation would be damaged unless it's played in the Astrodome.

U.S. Oil Industry Needs Refineries

HOUSTON (UPI)—An executive of the Continental Oil Co., Thursday said the United States must increase its capability to refine petroleum or it will be useless to become independent of oil imports.

Wyatt L. Walker, vice president of Conoco, told the Federal Energy Administration Project Independent hearings that present refining capacities could not handle the total needs of the country.

He said the nation consumes 17 million barrels of oil each day, but refineries are capable of processing only 14 million barrels a day. The difference must be made up in imports of refined products. To become independent of imports the industry must equal the production and refining capabilities, he said.

"One hundred per cent refining capacity, without an acceptable level of domestic crude oil production, would be no better a solution than would be 100 per cent crude production, coupled with a serious shortfall of refining capacity here at home," Walker said.

He also said the East

Coast must do its share in refining.

"The East Coast accounts for 40 per cent of daily domestic demand, while furnishing only 12 per cent of our refinery capacity—a situation just about the reverse of that here on the gulf coast," Walker said.

Walker said the refinery construction on the East Coast had been blocked mostly for environmental reasons. He said six applications had been blocked in New England, although the average New Englander uses 18 per cent more petroleum than the average U.S. consumer elsewhere.

"Industry must convince the public of safety and environmental controls that make modern refineries good neighbors," he said.

Earlier, Dr. John R. Bradford of Texas Tech University said the lack of fossil fuels might prevent the country from reaching total self-sufficiency by 1980 or even the year 2000.

"It is of the greatest urgency that we cease using our oil and gas as fuels at the earliest possible moment," Bradford said.

"The primary reason we must investigate alternative power sources is that we begin to preserve our petroleum supplies for use as a raw material for manufacture of the kind of products which have become of important use in our daily lives.

"Of what value will it be for the United States to become free of the need of foreign sources of petroleum by 1980, if we ourselves dependent upon such foreign sources for food and fibers?"

"Legislation in itself will not produce one extra barrel of oil."

Aging Parents
NEED OUR LOVE. Especially from mature children who can live close enough to assist them in so many personal ways. The wise offspring will respect their desire for independence and separate living quarters. These two frame 5-room homes in Pampa on one big lot in a good location without City taxes will ease the financial burden. Present owner used much foresight in the most modern interior reconditioning of carpeting, blown on acoustical ceiling, new kitchen sinks and cabinet tops, etc. You need to inspect these to believe the value in this $16,500 offering. Call us for an appointment to see them. MLS 666.

Well Built Older Brick Home
WITH LARGE ROOMS, basically in good condition, will provide your family with a domicile you'll be proud to own and entertain your friends in the formal dining room for years to come. Just $20,750 and within walking distance of downtown Pampa. For personal reasons, it's an exclusive with us. 4-A.

East Side
3 Bedroom and Den on a corner lot offered at $10,000 on an equity purchase and loan assumption. MLS 624.

Northeast 3-Bedroom
1 1/2 Baths ON EVERGREEN to be vacated soon by owners, then cleaned up and central refrigerated air installed for the comfort of buyers. Shown by appointment only. MLS 651.
