Reagan Draws Applause For Democratic Attacks

By FRANK BAIN

The outdoor barbecue held Sunday afternoon at the ranch of Congressman Bob Price went off without a hitch.

The honored guest, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California was there as promised, and proceeded to deliver a speech which drew numerous bursts of applause from the five or six thousand persons gathered under a clump of trees on the sprawling cattle ranch northwest of Pampa.

In many ways the whole affair was like an old-fashioned brush arbor revival combined with a modern-day rock festival. Reagan, as he blasted the Democrats, was the incarnation of the hell-fire and brimstone evangelist, telling the crowd their salvation lay in espousing Republican causes.

The people loved it. They also obviously loved the three bands which alternated in providing entertainment, and if Reagan got his share of adulation, well, so did the Country Western band that led off with "Okie From Muskogee."

But right about there the resemblance to a rock festival ended. Not a whiff of the weed, only cactus and sagebrush. And not a cat-call or a boo from the audience when Gov. Reagan enumerated the sins of the Democrats.

True to form, Reagan exhibited, fairly exuded, the fervor of the convert. By his own admission he spent most of his adult life as a Democrat.

After warming up his audience with jokes, some old and some new, the speaker seemed to catch fire and to communicate the fired-up feeling to the crowd. His years in show business prior to becoming governor eight years ago was put to good use.

That is, he gave the people what they wanted to hear, and his sincere, off-the-cuff delivery made many telling points.

Some of these were: "There is no way you can not be involved. The leadership of the Democratic party likes to pretend that the mandate (last election) doesn't exist. They're trying to centralize power in Washington."

"Their economic fallacies have produced fruit, and that fruit is inflation. They should cut their extravagancies. The Democratic leaders do not represent the rank and file of Americans."

Reagan hammered away at his contention that "inflation, our number one problem, is no accident. It was the result of deliberate planning. Raising taxes to cure inflation is like giving a drunk one more drink."

Reagan, leaning into the mike and speaking with conviction and clarity, said the Interstate Commerce Commission should "disappear," and that many other bureaucracies, such as the Federal Trade Commission, should be trimmed of several layers of regulations.

Referring to his years as governor, Reagan noted that his state, formerly famous as the "Welfare Capital of the World," had now instituted reforms which have cut down on chiselers without harming those who "truly need help."

He also pointed to a balanced budget, along with a surplus, as a legacy of his administration.

If it is true, as many political observers seem to think, that the personable, dynamic governor has his eye on the White House, his performance Sunday certainly didn't do him any harm.

In summation, after endorsing his host and other Republican nominees who had been introduced on stage, Reagan urged his listeners to "rally round the banner of the GOP."

If the whole thing was a "Love Feast," and no one denied that it was, well, the Democrats could have learned a lesson.

If you want to raise money for your county and other organizations, invite people to see and hear a real, live hero, hold the event in the great outdoors, give the people hope for better times, feed them copious (Texas style) helpings of barbecued beef, plus entertainment.

Even a hard-nosed Democrat would have to admit that Sunday was a red-letter day for Republicans hereabouts and elsewhere.

One such Democrat was heard to mutter, "The only hanky-panky was this: they must have bribed the weather man. Beautiful early fall day, after all that rain!"

Betty Ford Listed In Good Condition

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI) — Betty Ford was reported in good condition and recovering normally today while awaiting a crucial report on whether the cancer that was removed with her right breast Saturday has spread to other parts of the body.

A spokesman at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Mrs. Ford underwent surgery, WASHINGTON (UPI) — Turning his attention from domestic to worldwide economic ills, President Ford said today inflation was past the point of toleration and pledged the United States would work for "cooperation, not more isolation," among nations in the monetary field.

Ford made the remarks in a prepared address to the opening meeting of the governors of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF). He said that Treasury Secretary William E. Simon would offer "Greater detail" on the U.S. policies and proposed solutions.

Ford's speech came two days after completion of his economic summit conference at the White House which concentrated on the domestic problems.

"The problems that confront us today are serious and complex—a worldwide inflation at a rate in excess of what we can tolerate; unparalleled disruptions in the supply of the world's major commodities; and severe hindrances to the real growth and progress of many nations, including in particular, some of the poorest among us," Ford said in his IMF address.

Band Threatening To Kill Hostages

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — The leader of a guerrilla band holding an American woman and five other hostages in the Venezuelan consulate today gave the Dominican government two hours to meet his demands, but the only response to his new ultimatum were troop maneuvers outside the building.

Radamas Mendez Vargas, the convicted hijacker who leads the band, came close to a window in the consulate building at 5 a.m. (EDT) today and started a group of newsmen dozing in the vicinity of the building when he shouted:

"We have come to the limit of our patience and our force. I warn you that we will proceed against the hostages."

He said if his demands for $1 million ransom and safe passage out of the country for his men along with three dozen political prisoners were not met in two hours, he would not be responsible for the fate of his hostages.

The new ultimatum, the third issued by the guerrillas, expired without any apparent action by the guerrillas.

Dominican soldiers, however, threw up huge walls of sandbags around the building after the shouting scene and took up positions which an officer described as fit for combat.

U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurtwich came to the consulate shortly afterwards.

Negotiations between the Dominican government and the guerrillas started Sunday night when a Roman Catholic archbishop, acting as a go-between, delivered a message from the guerrillas to President Joaquin Balaguer.

The guerrillas have demanded $1 million in ransom and safe conduct to Mexico or Cuba for themselves and three dozen political prisoners.

Archbishop Hugo Eduardo Polanco Brito, who carried food and drink past police barricades into the consulate Sunday, said he hopes for a prompt solution "in the best possible manner."

Barbara Hutchison, 47, director of the U.S. Information Agency in the Dominican Republic, was snatched from her car Friday by six armed guerrillas.

The gunmen took her to the consulate and seized five other hostages — Consul Jesus Gregorio del Corral, Vice Consul Valdemar Alvarado, secretaries Ambrosina Ares and Dulce Mejia, and the Rev. Santiago Fuentes, a Spaniard.

He will succeed Rex McAnelly, manager of Moody Farms, who will wind up the current year at the annual chamber banquet Thursday night, Oct. 17, in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Heritage Room.

FOR NEW YEAR

Chamber Of Commerce Selects Steel President

C.E. (Gene) Steel, general manager of Celanese Chemical Co. plant, today was elected president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce for fiscal 1974-75.

Boyd Taylor, general manager of Cabot Corp. Oil and Gas Division, vice president, and Gary Stevens, Pampa manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., finance director.

Taylor will succeed Steel and Stevens moves into the post held this year by Melvin Kunkel.

brought him to power five months ago.

The end of Spinoza's tenure as president began Saturday when Communist pressure forced him to cancel a scheduled rally by his right wing supporters. Left-wing vigilantes had threatened to break it up and Spinoza cancelled the rally to prevent bloodshed.

Leftists had seen the rally as an attempt by the right-wing factions to depose the military junta and restore the dictatorship that was ousted five months ago.

Spinoza, 64, made the announcement in a television speech that followed three days of crisis provoked by a struggle between conservative and leftwing groups in the five-month-old Portuguese regime.

Spinoza said he was unable to carry out the program of the Armed Forces Movement (MFA) — which toppled the right-wing regime of Premier Marcelo Caetano in a bloodless coup April 25 — because of "the climate of anarchy."

"Peace, progress and well being of the nation are in jeopardy by the economic crisis which is out of control," he said.

Left-leaning Premier Vasco Dos Santos Goncalves, whom the MFA backed in the power struggle, told the nation in an earlier television speech that Portugal would proceed on the road to democracy "against anyone and anything."

Goncalves made a 15-minute radio and television address after meeting for three hours with Spinoza and members of the MFA, which has controlled the country since it thwarted Saturday's right-wing coup attempt.

"There has been a crisis which is now overcome through unity between the armed forces and the people," Goncalves told the nation.

Dr. Long told the group that, in his opinion, there was no "magic formula" for operation of a school system, and that he had faith in the teachers and the community.

Staunch Conservative Loses House Seat In Primary Bid

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Rep. John R. Rarick, D-La., one of the staunchest conservatives in the House, will not be returning to Capitol Hill next year but he is almost relieved that his controversial incumbency is over.

Rarick, who in 1968 was stripped of his seniority by the Democratic party because of his support for Alabama Gov. George Wallace for president, lost his seat Saturday to political novice Jeff Lacaze.

"I almost feel like I have had a yoke lifted off my shoulders," Rarick said after the votes were counted. "We are all Americans. It's time to wait and sleep and pray over what has happened."

Lacaze, a former Baton Rouge sportscaster, grabbed 52 per cent of the vote to capture the Democratic nomination for congressman from the 6th District. His 4,000-vote margin appeared to have come from Baton Rouge.

"I guess more than the victory I'm proud of the fact that we never deviated from the basic beliefs that we began with, and that was that the people would respond to a clean campaign, that the people would respond to the truth, that the people would respond to politics the way they really want it."

"I'm ready," Lacaze said of the general election, in which he faces Republican Henson Moore. "This'll be our third time down the track and we're just ready to go. I think we'll run another clean, issues-oriented campaign."

Louisiana Supreme Court Justice Pascal O. Calogero held on to his position, fighting off a stiff threat from Jefferson Parish Sheriff Alwynn Cronvich. But the victory was an expensive one for the judge.

Calogero, who edged Cronvich with 54 per cent of the vote, said he had to go into debt by more than $70,000 to wage his successful second primary campaign.

"I think we're going to have to try to raise some portion of the money," he said. "We're hopeful that we can reduce it substantially, but I'll wind up having to bear a good portion of the campaign debt." He said his campaign cost in excess of $400,000 and he still has to face independent candidate B.F. Courtney in the Nov. 5 general election.

Delesseps S. Morrison Jr., son of the late New Orleans mayor and OAS Ambassador Chep Morrison and president of the Young Democrats of America, won the state representative seat in a special election.

Morrison piled up 59 per cent of the vote in Orleans and Jefferson parishes to win nomination to the 88th District. He faces no opposition in the general election.

State Sen. Louis Lambert of Gonzales captured the Democratic nomination for public service commissioner from the 2nd district, defeating Baton Rouge attorney Jerry McKernan with 57 per cent of the vote. Lambert faces no opposition in the November general election.

Charles Castille Jr. and F.A. "Red" Davis were nominated to the Louisiana Board of Education when they beat George Dupuis and James L. Roberson in primary runoffs.

Immunization Clinics Slated

The schedule for the monthly immunization clinics sponsored by the Texas State Department of Health have been announced for the month of October.

Vaccines offering protection against polio, diphtheria, lockjaw, whooping cough, measles, and rubella are administered, free of charge to all persons, infants through adults, although they are meant primarily for pre- and school-age children.

Children who have not been immunized against the above-named diseases cannot be admitted to schools or day care centers.

Following are locations and times of clinics scheduled for this area:

Perryton - from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., Oct. 8 at Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Pampa - from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Oct. 18 at Carver Center.

Calrendon - from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Oct. 28, at Community Action Center.

Busing Foes Protest At Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Antibus demonstrators, some dressed as colonial patriots and others wearing black or green armbands, gathered on historic Bunker Hill today as a court-ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools entered its third week.

A white boycott of classes remained in effect and thousands of children stayed away from school. Some antibusing leaders also planned a stepped up school boycott for Friday.

The demonstrators largely came from Charlestown, South Boston and Hyde Park.

Two white mothers, standing in the shadow of Bunker Hill Monument, said they planned to keep their children out of school for the rest of the year. "I know it's going to hurt his chances for getting a scholarship to college, but he's not going to go to school this year," one mother said.

Aubrey Jones To Speak At TAAO Meeting

One of the principal speakers at the annual conference of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers Oct. 26 - 29 in Galveston will be Aubrey L. Jones, Pampa tax assessor-collector.

Jones, one of the founders and organizers of the association in Dallas in 1952, has been asked to address the conference on the history of TAAO.

The Pampa tax collector drew up and presented the original charter and code of ethics for the organization.

Jones incidentally, is the only remaining charter member of TAAO still active in tax work.

He was first president of the association following its official organization and adoption of the charter.

Humphries Gets Weekly Prize

E.L. Humphries, 1911 Coffee, won the weekly Pampa News football contest and $15 first prize by missing only one game and guessing closest on the West Texas - Wichita tie breaker.

Humphries missed only Mississippi State - Florida as he picked Mississippi State. Humphries correctly guessed Caprock over Perryton, Canadian over Panhandle, White Deer over Lefors, Groom over Wheeler, Baylor over Oklahoma State, Kansas over Florida State, Texas A&M over Baylor, Alabama over Vanderbilt and Giants over Cowboys.

Humphries said West Texas would beat the Shocks, 29 - 20, while the actual score was 41 - 7.

Jete Hink, of 1717 Chestnut won second place and $10 missing only Oklahoma State and guessing West Texas State to win by four, 21 - 17.

Capturing third and $5 was Clint Miller, 415 N. Sumner, who missed two games picking Perryton over Caprock and Oklahoma State over Baylor.

Police Checking Several Cases

Police were called Saturday evening to Ruby's Drive Inn, where a man sitting at a table reportedly was attacked by his wife, who was wielding a knife.

When officers arrived, the couple had left and could not be located, according to the report.

The same night, police arrested John Terry Mullins, 635 N. Dwight, who had been involved in an altercation at Jay's Lounge. He was taken to Highland General Hospital, then released on bond to his home, pending further charges.

James Allen Gregory was arrested for intoxication when the car in which he was a passenger was stopped by police.

Upon searching the car, officers found what they suspected was marijuana. The substance is to be sent to a state laboratory for analysis.

City police are continuing their investigation of a break-in at Keyes Pharmacy, 928 N. Hobart.

One or more persons reportedly gained entry sometime during darkness Friday night or early Saturday morning, by breaking a drive-up window.

An inventory is being taken with a large amount of drugs listed as missing.

IVY CLARENCE AYERS — Graveside services will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Memory Gardens Cemetery for Ivy Clarence Ayers, 72, 312 Tivory.

Officiating will be Dr. Ralph Palmer, pastor of the First Christian Church.

A Pampa resident for 40 years, Mr. Ayers died Sunday morning at Tashomongo, Okla.

He was born May 16, 1902 in Johnson City, Okla., and married Neva C. Pennington in 1920 at Tishomongo. She died in 1973.

Surviving are two sons, Milton and Royce, and three daughters, Mrs. Edna Earl Hyatt, Mrs. J.L. Stone and Mrs. Connie Jean Williams, all of Pampa; a sister, Mrs. Malsie Baker, Tishomongo; eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

T.A. TREADWELL WHEELER — T.A. "Bud" Treadwell, 79, a retired farmer - rancher, died early Sunday in Shamrock General Hospital after a long illness.

Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the First Baptist Church of Wheeler.

Officiating will be the Rev. David Campbell, pastor. Burial will be in Wheeler Cemetery by Wright Funeral Home.

Born in Erath County, Mr. Treadwell moved to Wheeler County from Childress County in 1929. He was a member of the Mobeetie Masonic Lodge. Surviving are his widow, Lila Eunice, five sons, James A., Hobbs N.M., David, Hereford, Troy, Local busing opponents, most of them from all-white South Boston, said they anticipated 25 per cent participation in Friday's boycott, which they said was part of a nationwide effort. Also slated to boycott schools were busing opponents in Denver, Dallas, San Francisco and Memphis, which also are under order to integrate their schools.

State Education Commissioner Gregory Anrig directed the Boston School Department to enforce attendance laws in the wake of under-attendance at schools stemming from opposition to busing.

According to state law, student absenteeism for seven days or more within a six-week period constitutes truancy and is liable to investigation by the School Department. Any person inducing a student to be unlawfully truant is subject to a fine of not more than $50.

Kissinger Talks With Turkish, Arab Diplomats

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger went into talks with Turkish and Arab diplomats today in a double effort to promote peace in Cyprus and the Middle East.

Kissinger, who returned to New York Sunday afternoon for a second round of United Nations consultations, scheduled breakfast with Turkish Foreign Minister Turan Guner to discuss the Cyprus crisis.

He invited representatives of the Arab League nations at the United Nations to the U.S. mission this evening for a dinner aimed at getting the stalled Middle East peace talks moving again.

The secretary of state conferred Sunday evening with Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros about Cyprus and strained relations between the United States and Greece.

The United States remains interested in a solution to the Cyprus question which is just and fair and respects the dignity of all people," Kissinger said after his two-hour meeting with Mavros.

U.S. officials said Kissinger accepted an invitation to a Greek reception this evening. His attendance was seen as a conciliatory gesture toward Greece, which has criticized America's "tilt" toward Turkey in the crisis.

The State Department was expected to announce soon plans for the secretary of state to leave Oct. 8 on a new Middle East peace mission.

Kissinger was noncommittal Sunday night as to whether he would make a stop in Cyprus, Greece or Turkey during his one-week Middle East tour.

MRS. ROSALINE RAMSEY CANADIAN — Funeral arrangements are pending with Duenkel Funeral Home in Pampa for Mrs. Rosaline M. Ramsey, 77, a longtime Canadian resident who died at 11 a.m. Sunday in Hemphill County Hospital.

Mrs. Ramsey was born June 6, 1897 in Oklahoma and came with her parents to Eller Flats and then to Canadian in 1902. She was a member of First Baptist Church of Canadian.

Her husband, James A., died June 27, 1968.

Survivors include two sons, James A. Canadian, and Wilbert E. Schahalis, Wash.; six brothers, Bill and Lewis Mathews, both of Canadian; Henry, Amarillo, Hallis M. and Ray, both of Cottage Grove, Ore.; and Albert, Schehals; four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

He's a reconditioned exhibitionist

By Abigail Van Buren
 © 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from "Scared," the 19-year-old girl who just found out that her steady boyfriend had been arrested several times for indecent exposure.

Thank you for your compassionate and understanding attitude. You said, "It's an illness. He needs therapy." Abby, you are so right.

I am a 28-year-old man who was cursed with that illness for about 15 years. It's called "exhibitionism." And it's as difficult to control as alcoholism. In plain language, it's an uncontrollable urge to expose oneself.

I was normal in all other respects and couldn't understand this fierce urge I seemed powerless to control. I won't go into the humiliation, problems with the law and tremendous guilt feelings I suffered until I finally found a psychologist who knew how to treat this illness. He used the "conditioning" technique, and it cured me.

I have been married for five years to a woman who stood by me through the worst. She gave me the courage to seek professional help, and the strength the stick with the treatment. Had it not been for her, I could not be signing myself... EX-HIBITIONIST P.S. Abby, because I trust you, and know that you will not betray that trust, I am signing my real name and address. If you print my letter, please don't divulge my name or location. Although I am cured, and, God willing, will never regress, I am still ashamed of my past.

DEAR EX: Because I feel that an unenlightened society has misunderstood this problem for years I shall print your letter.

Perhaps in an effort not to seem self-serving, you failed to mention an important fact: Exhibitionists are usually gentle, non-violent people, and the chances of their attacking anyone are very, very remote.

But in fairness to society, exhibitionists cannot be allowed to go about traumatizing children and shocking adults.

Those who sincerely wish to overcome their problem have an excellent chance of being helped, either by psychotherapy or conditioned reflex therapy. I urge those who are still fighting this battle to seek out such help.

DEAR ABBY: "Stumped Divorcee" didn't know how to say "no" to a man. (She said, "If I had never been married, I could say I was saving myself for marriage, but a divorcee can't say that.")

I have a solution for her: I was a divorcee for ten years. I never said "no" to a man because I didn't want him to think I was a prude. And I never said "yes" because I didn't want him to think I was a tramp. So I always said "maybe."

It worked like a charm. I had so many proposals I couldn't count them.

I am now married to the greatest guy in the world.

THE MAYBE GIRL

DEAR MAYBE: I can only assume that your "maybe" turned into a "yes." What was the time schedule on that?

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman who is very much in love with a man who says he loves me, but I can't seem to hang on to him. He disappears for weeks at a time and I don't know how to locate him. When he is gone I just about go crazy. He is gone now.

I went to a spiritual person who does healing, reads palms, and communicates with people who are far away. She says she can help me get my man back for good, but first I have to sign up for a program which costs $50 for the first session, and $10 every two weeks after that.

I don't have a lot of money, but I would sure pay that much to get my man back. Should I sign up?

LOUISIANA

DEAR LA: Save your money and report that "spiritual person" to the Better Business Bureau and the Bunco Division of your local police department.

If your man loves you, you won't need a third party to get him back. He'll come back.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Mrs. Britt Speaks To Varietas Club

Mrs. Rue Hestand was hostess to Varietas Study Club at a morning coffee Sept. 24, opening the new club year. Co-hostesses were Miss Anna Pierce, Mrs. L.B. Penick, and Mrs. Otis Nace. The table appointments were in pink and silver, featuring a spray of pink flowers in a silver epergne.

Mrs. Aubrey Sprawls, club president, presided and welcomed guests and members. The invocation was given by Mrs. F.A. Cary. Scripture quotation was presented by Mrs. J.R. Spearman.

Mrs. L.B. Penick introduced Mrs. David Britt of Wheeler, president of the Top of Texas District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Britt gave the morning's program, entitled, "Our Link to Federation." She spoke on the values of Federation to clubs, nationally, statewide, and locally. She emphasized the importance of woman-power in law-making, in politics, in community betterment, and in many other fields.

She said, "There is nothing that women cannot achieve when they are united. I urge you to value each other — and value your link to Federation."

Following the program, Mrs. Rue Hestand, yearbook chairman, presented the club books, reviewing the year's study plans. She said, "Our theme is 'America in Today's World — Our U.S. Patriotism.' Our programs will follow an acoustic on this theme and will be built around our country's progress toward the Bicentennial, with the added comparison of our patriotic activities to similar events in other countries of the world."

Present at the meeting were two guests, Mrs. Britt and Mrs. McHenry Lane of Pampa. Members present were Miss Anna Pierce and

ALA Tea Slated In El Paso Oct. 10-11

The American Legion Auxiliary, Unit No. 334, Department of Texas, met recently at Furr's Cafeteria for their regular monthly meeting. After a Dutch supper, the meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Lee Harrah. Mrs. Frank Shotwell, chaplain, led the group in prayer, after which the pledge to the flag was given. The group gave the Preamble to the Auxiliary in unison.

Mrs. J.M. Turner, membership chairman, reported that 20 members had paid their membership dues for 1975. Mrs. Turner reminded the group if dues were paid by Oct. 21, they would be $4.50 this year, after Oct. 21 dues are $6.50. She urged all members to take advantage of the lesser amount this year.

Mr. Harrah reported that Mrs. Ione Kubby had been elected as the National Auxiliary President, a first from Texas. All auxiliaries in Texas were invited to a tea in El Paso in honor for Mrs. Kubby Oct. 10 and 11.

The Council of Clubs report was given by Mrs. Shotwell. Those attending were Mmes. Ruth Sewell, Lysie K. Stout, Roy Hall, Turner, Shotwell and Harrah. The next meeting will be Oct. 17 at Furr's Cafeteria.

Volunteers Man AA, Al-Anon

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

No doubt everybody who reads this column is aware of what AA (Alcoholics Anonymous) is, as well as its companion group, Al-Anon, which is made up of relatives of slaves to alcohol.

Seldom have I had such an explanatory letter as the following, and you, too, may find it very much worth reading. It is from an Al-Anon member who goes by the pen-name (or phone name) of "Jayci."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mail reaches me with my "anonymous name." We are not supposed to receive personal credit and in this way the recipient of this information (when I send it direct) doesn't know whom to thank -- nor whom to hate, nor do I know how the other person does.

Fourteen years ago I found Al-Anon and I learned "cruel kindness" -- to allow others to make decisions without my interference. Nearly three years later I realized that I, too, had an allergy to alcohol, so I attend both meetings -- AA and Al-Anon.

I learned that an alcoholic stops drinking in one of three ways: gets help, becomes institutionalized, or dies.

Many phone calls come to us (we have private lines) and we never meet the caller; just chat and put the person in touch with various places to contact if he (or she) chooses. (There are

Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017. For Al-Anon: P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 30 and have had ulcers since I was 25. I have been told by friends that if I have surgery for removal of two-thirds of my stomach, I couldn't have children.

Is this true in all cases? W.C.

No, it is not true. Removal of the stomach is done if the ulcer does not respond to medical treatment, or for other causes such as hemorrhaging or obstruction.

There is no effect on childbearing.

Note to Mrs. J.H.: No "writer's cramp" is not the same as Dupuytren's contracture. But unfortunately I don't know any remedy other than ones you've tried, for writer's cramp as severe as your mother's; that is, B-12, muscle relaxants, and possible tranquilizers, and less tension of the hand when writing.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois, 60120, for his booklet, "Ear Noises -- Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents.

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, October 1
Your birthday today: Happens to coincide with the full moon. Self-discipline in emotional expression is a vital area of personal development all year. Habits and preference change abruptly. Relationships are complex, apt to be hectic, dramatic. Today's natives are loquacious, original, fond of strong fragrances and tastes.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Old problems reappear in new forms. Early recognition is half the battle. Expect resistance, no immediate progress in any persuasive effort.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Bide your time. Letting off steam is forgiven by friends -- not by strangers. Strong intuition alerts you to potential hazards -- pay attention!

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Whatever you've obligated yourself to do now comes to the attention of your associates. You may even be forced to redeem an awkward promise made long ago.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You stumble on things which require much thought. Defer important moves, and don't speak of today's insights. Home life continues to clash with business.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Exercise special caution in signing papers, travel, dealing with those in authority. Friends run their own courses, reject any interference or help.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Long-standing obligations should be paid or renegotiated. Strive for a more stable basis. If others behave extravagantly, don't do anything to match.

Wife's Illness Producing Changes In Ford's Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has canceled an out-of-town trip this week, campaign appearances for GOP candidates are up in the air, and one report says he will not run in 1976.

Ford was asked about the future Sunday as he visited the hospital where his wife, Betty, had surgery Saturday morning for breast cancer.

The family now is awaiting the results of tests which would tell whether or not the infection had spread to other parts of her body.

"We haven't thought beyond next week," was all the President would say when asked about a magazine report quoting presidential advisers as saying "if she (Mrs. Ford) says the word, Ford will not run for re-election in 1976."

Another source quoted by Newsweek said, "He would put her physical and mental well being above the presidency. He never really expected to be President. So it would not be like he was being cheated out of a lifelong ambition."

Ford has canceled a three-day visit to Utah and California this week, sending instead his vice presidential appointee, Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Ford had scheduled between 10 and 20 trips around the country to campaign for Republican congressional candidates. Asked about them, Ford gave the same answer:

"We haven't thought beyond next week."

Ford broke away twice to visit the First Lady Sunday. He was expected to maintain the same pattern today, with a series of economic appointments.

Although Ford has cut back his schedule, he still plans to hold a White House dinner with retiring members of Congress this week and a diplomatic reception.

Arnsparger Wins 1st Game With NY

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Bill Arnsparger, who won his first game as a head coach, called it a team effort. Tom Landry, who suffered through his second straight loss, could not have agreed more.

"I don't think I've ever been prouder," said Arnsparger, the former Miami Dolphin assistant coach whose New York Giants whipped Dallas Sunday, 14-6. "They've worked and worked some more and have done everything we've asked them to do."

"We've made great improvement but we have a lot more improving to do. We had a great team effort against Dallas. I say it when we lose and I'll say it when we win, this was a great team effort."

Landry, whose Cowboys bobbled and booted the ball around to the point that they were almost shut out for only the second time in their history, had the same assessment of his club.

"It was a team effort," Landry said. "There was very little overall team play. We had a tough game last Monday (a 13-10 loss to Philadelphia). We didn't work well all week in practice. We hoped we would bounce back, but we didn't. Maybe they thought they had an easy touch against New York. They played that way."

The Giants took a 14-point lead in the second quarter on two touchdowns that came within a 64-second span and then New York's defense cut down the Cowboys' efforts totally.

New York had a shutout going until 11 seconds remaining in the game when quarterback Roger Staubach, who had thrown three interceptions, hit Bob Hayes with a 35-yard touchdown pass.

The Giants had scored on a two-yard run by Doug Kotar (after a 50-yard pass from Norm Snead to Bob Grim) and a 14-yard throw from Snead to Joe Dawkins.

Both clubs are now 1-2 and two games behind NFC East leader St. Louis.

"Dallas is the same club they have been," said Snead. "The same personnel. We were playing them as they came off a bad break the week before and they may have been down a little bit."

Fairbanks, the second-year coach from Oklahoma, credited his new "stack" defense for the upset.

"The key thing was the play of the defensive team; they came through in the clutch," he said. "The defense was excellent in all phases of the game. They blocked an important field goal (in the third period) made interceptions and recovered fumbles."

In other games Sunday, Oakland overwhelmed Pittsburgh, 17-0. St. Louis whipped Cleveland, 29-7. Cincinnati ripped San Francisco, 21-3. Miami overcame San Diego, 28-21. The New York Giants stunned Dallas, 14-6. Buffalo outlasted the New York Jets, 12-6. New Orleans edged Atlanta, 14-13. Philadelphia drubbed Baltimore, 30-10. Green Bay nipped Detroit, 21-19. Minnesota downed Chicago, 11-7. Kansas City beat Houston, 17-7. Denver is at Washington tonight.

Miller Wins Kaiser Open By 8 Strokes Over Casper

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Johnny Miller is having the kind of year Jack Nicklaus used to have and in the opinion of many, he isn't that far away from being the best golfer in the world.

He proved how good his game was Sunday when he shot a six under - par 66 to win the $150,000 Kaiser International by eight big strokes over fading Billy Casper and PGA champ Lee Trevino.

It was Miller's eighth victory of 1974 and after he picked up a check for $30,000 it added up to $346,933 for the year, more than Nicklaus or any other golfer ever made.

Proving success hasn't gone to his head, Miller, 27, said he admitted it had been the kind of year no one really hoped for and that he didn't know what he could do for an encore.

"I'm going to sit home and think about next year," he said. Then taking a dig at Nicklaus, he added that he wouldn't trade 1974 for one major tournament victory.

"I don't care what Nicklaus says about winning only the big ones," Miller said. "I'm not going by Jack's theory that the only ones that count are the major tournaments. To me, every victory is a big one."

Miller will play in the Sahara at Las Vegas this week but he said he wishes he didn't have to.

"If the duck hunting season started tomorrow," he said, "I'd pass and go hunting instead. In many ways, it's been a long year."

Really, though, it hasn't. The Kaiser was only the 20th tournament Miller has played on the U.S. tour this year. He has finished in the top ten 11 times. Additionally, he never missed a cut but withdrew from two events — although he was fined $1,000 at one of them for walking off before completing his round.

In the Kaiser, he shot rounds of 69-69-67-66 for a 17-under-par total of 271. His margin of victory over Casper and Trevino, who wound up at nine under 279, tied the best of the year. Trevino won the New Orleans Open by eight shots.

Pats Surprise LA Rams, 20-14

United Press International

The New England Patriots have surprised a lot of people in the past three weeks but none as much as their own coach, Chuck Fairbanks.

The Patriots opened in stunning fashion three weeks ago by upsetting the World Champion Miami Dolphins and followed that with a triumph over the New York Giants last week.

But Sunday the Patriots outdid themselves as they turned in their second major upset in three weeks by toppling the mighty Los Angeles Rams, 20-14.

This was the year people was speaking of the Rams and Super Bowl in the same sentences but the Patriots let quarterback Jim Plunkett and an aggressive defense fend off the Rams Sunday.

Plunkett threw two touchdown passes and the Patriot defense recovered three fumbles, intercepted two passes and blocked a field goal to send the Rams, who were 13 point favorites, to their first loss of the year.

"Just too much," Fairbanks said. "It's remarkable to me that we could really beat them with all their talent and years of experience."

Fairbanks, the second-year coach from Oklahoma, credited his new "stack" defense for the upset.

"The key thing was the play of the defensive team; they came through in the clutch," he said. "The defense was excellent in all phases of the game. They blocked an important field goal (in the third period) made interceptions and recovered fumbles."

half kickoff 94 yards and Jim Hart threw a 68-yard TD pass to Mel Gray less than four minutes later to highlight a 22-point third period. Norm Thompson also returned an interception 56 yards for a Cardinal TD. Halfback Greg Pruitt threw 55 yards, to Gloster Richardson for the lone Cleveland score.

Bengals 21, Oilers 3

Ken Anderson passed for one TD and ran for another and his sub, Wayne Clark, ran eight yards for a third TD as the Bengals knocked San Francisco from the ranks of the unbeaten. Anderson passed 22 yards to Isaac Curtis and ran 12 yards.

Giants 14, Cowboys 6

Rookie Doug Kotar ran two yards for one TD and Norm Snead hit Joe Dawkins with a 14-yard scoring pass 64 seconds later after Dallas fumbled the kickoff to spark the Giants' upset. New York's defense dropped Roger Staubach six times and held the Cowboys scoreless until the final 11 seconds when Staubach hit Bob Hayes with a 35-yard pass.

Eagles 30, Colts 10

Tom Sullivan scored on runs of 28 and three yards and Joe Lavender returned an interception 37 yards for another score as the Eagles sent Baltimore to its third straight loss. It marked the end for Colt Coach Howard Schnellenberger, who was dismissed by owner Robert Irsay after the game and replaced with General Manager Joe Thomas.

PHS Netters Begin Season At PD Today

Palo Duro, a school noted for giving Pampa tennis teams fits, will be the opponent today as Pampa High begins its fall season at 3 p.m. today in Amarillo.

Pampa's home schedule begins at 3 p.m. Tuesday as Dumas travels to Pampa for a dual match.

Boys making the trip today are Eugene Laycock, Jack Scott, Jerry Allen, Steve Knox, Doug Hughes and Wayne Williams. Girls are Stacy Douglass, Donna Coufal, Karen Hampton, Peggy Wilson, Maria Martinez, Anne Henderson and Dana Maloney.

John Michie, tennis coach at Pampa, is optimistic about his team. "The boys are looking good... We have just as good a chance as anybody in the district. I've been working mostly with the girls. They're really improving."

"Tascosa's always real strong," said Michie concerning 3-AAAA teams. "Borger is the strongest in girls. They have everybody back except Kim Hood (district champion for two years). I'd say Borger has the strongest overall team."

Flag Football Forming Here

Men interested in playing in the Pampa Men's Flag Football League need to form their teams and sign up by Friday.

Team captains need to contact Paul Sims at the Pampa Daily News or George Smith at the Youth Center this week if there are not enough interested men, the league will not be formed. Information on rules, etc. will be available later.

Bucs, Cards Deadlocked

United Press International

The Pittsburgh Pirates are back home, the St. Louis Cardinals are on the road, and the National League East is all even.

What happens next is called scoreboard watching. Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh set the record straight Sunday about something baseball managers and players have been denying for a century. He admitted, as if no one knew, that the players on contending teams do, indeed, look at the scoreboard to see what their opponents are doing.

And that's exactly what Pittsburgh and St. Louis will spend the next three nights doing.

"They'll be looking and we'll be looking," Stargell said. "That is, unless all the lights are out."

That isn't likely.

All the lights will be on tonight, both in Pittsburgh, where the Pirates open a three game series against the last place Chicago Cubs; and in Montreal, where the Cardinals begin their final three against the Expos.

The tie for the lead was created Sunday when the Pirates, held to three singles by Bob Apodaca, were beaten 7-3 by the Mets in New York, and the Cardinals beat the Cubs, 7-3, behind a three-run pinch homer by Jose Cruz and another good relief job by Al Hrabosky.

Now Pittsburgh goes home against a team that already has clinched last place and may not offer much resistance. The Cardinals, on the other hand, are on the road against a team trying for third place and some playoff money. The Expos also happen to be on a six-game winning streak.

Another variable was thrown into the pennant equation when the Cardinals revealed Sunday that the lives of Lou Brock and Bake McBride had been threatened in a letter 10 days ago.

Brock said the announcement "is bound to upset the rest of the players, but it had to be done."

In other NL games, Cincinnati beat San Francisco, 7-3; Montreal topped Philadelphia, 6-3, and Houston defeated Atlanta, 9-6. Los Angeles, which needs one victory to eliminate the Reds in the West, was idle.

Astros 9, Braves 6

Cliff Johnson hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning to give Houston its victory over Atlanta.

Southwest Conference Action Hot And Heavy

United Press International

It's along about this time of year that the Arkansas Razorbacks go ahead and beat TCU again like they do every October and move into the early Southwest Conference lead with Texas. It happens every autumn.

Well, almost every autumn.

Before the first scene could be acted out in the Texas Longhorn show this season, Texas Tech changed the script. And if Texas can be manhandled as it was last Saturday, who knows what might happen between now and Thanksgiving.

After all wasn't it Baylor that bumped off Big Eight meanie Oklahoma State last Saturday, 31-14, and wasn't that Rice holding LSU to a 10-10 tie and almost winning the whole thing except for a Tiger field goal in the last seconds?

And could that have been SMU moving the ball up and down the field all day against No. 1 Ohio State before finally falling, 28-9, in front of the second largest crowd in Ohio Stadium history—87,487?

"For there to be that many people watching us," said SMU receiver Kenny Harrison, "they sure were quiet."

And was that TCU that almost knocked off highly favored Minnesota, trying a last minute field goal that failed to leave the score at 9-7?

At least things should not be dull this year in the Southwest Conference, which for the past six years has been the personal plaything of the Texas Longhorns.

Tech's 26-3 win over Texas, highlighted by the three touchdown passes from sophomore quarterback Tommy Duniven to Lawrence Williams, opens the conference race to all sorts of possibilities.

And those possibilities certainly involve seventh-rated Texas A&M (a 28-15 winner over Washington last Saturday) and Arkansas (which demolished Tulsa, 60-0).

The Raider victory in Lubbock underscored the suspected vulnerability of Texas' defense, but everyone in the stadium was stunned by the Longhorns inability to move the ball in the first half.

"That was about as bad as I can remember us looking offensively in a long, long time," said Texas coach Darrell Royal afterwards.

Part of the poor Texas offensive showing, of course, came from Tech's desire to hit people.

"We don't have to get our kids pumped up for Texas," said Raider coach Jim Carlen, who defeated Royal for the first time since coming to Tech in 1970. "They do it themselves. The important thing was that we gave Duniven time to throw the football.

"But you can't take anything away from Texas. It was just that our youngsters went out to play a game. And they did."

Texas Tech, now 2-0-1, must come down off its cloud this week to host Oklahoma State, a club that has got to be a little hot about its loss to Baylor. And Texas (2-1) will face a good Washington club in Austin.

SMU (2-1) will be at home against Oregon State. Baylor (2) will travel to Florida State and Texas A&M (3-0) will try to protect its ranking at Kansas.

And finally TCU (1-2) will host Arkansas (2-1) in their opening conference game.

Watching Those Pennies

President Ford suggested in a speech the other day that the government is "watching its pennies."

We ran across some excerpt of a speech made by John Yantis, president of the Automotive Warehouse Distributors Assn. which suggests some places could stand a closer watch.

It seems the tax payers are providing $250,000 a year to finance the Inter-departmental screw-thread committee, a 13 member body which was established in 1918 to standardize the way nuts and bolts go together. Mr. Yantis wondered what they are doing with the money now.

He also wondered about the Alaskan Chateau, a fancy hotel the Air Force operates in Anchorage which, according to the general accounting office, has only an average of eight guests daily who are waited on by 17 sergeants, one airman and a captain, all on the public payroll at an average salary of $7,700 each.

He mentioned a $375,000 report the Navy produced to explain "Aero Dynamic Analysis of the Self Operated Flare." Yantis said that in plain language was an attempt to find out if Frisbees could be used to carry flares over battlefields.

He asked about a herd of dairy cows the U.S. Naval Academy decided it needed in 1911 so that Midshipmen could enjoy a continuing supply of fresh milk during outbreaks of typhoid fever. The G.A.O. estimates that if Anapolis simply bought pasteurized milk like the rest of us, tax payers would save $84,000 per year.

Yantis said the government has stashed away 1500 tons of feathers in a stockpile of "Strategic and critical materials..." in the event of an emergency. The storage bill is 59,000 a year.

Then there is the $475,000 bill for studying the "theory and practice of Communism" by Rep. Richard Ichord and his committee on internal security. "That's in addition to the $350,000 for paying the salaries of the staff's 42 members," Yantis said.

He also questioned the $41 million requested by Selective Service which remains in business despite the fact that the draft has been abolished.

He also pointed out that the Department of Housing and Urban Development built 54 two-story townhouses in Washington D.C. for low-income residents. The units are small (the three bedroom size has 1,058 square feet) and lack certain conveniences such as air conditioning, but they cost $76,000 each, said Yantis.

NASA paid $310,000 to develop a zero-gravity toilet and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare spent $19,300 for a study to find out why children fall off tricycles.

Yantis appears to have taken a closer look at the government's pennies, and his report, obviously available to Mr. Ford, didn't cost the government a dime.

2 Powerful Monopolists

Did you hear about the two big organizations that got a near monopoly of virtually all the business in one particular line of trade?

Yet, strange to say, no one has hollered for the anti-trust crew. None of the small potential competitors has filed a suit. One rival who showed a disposition to cut into the operation was shot.

This startling case was described by a University of Rochester Professor of Law, Henry G. Manne. He testified before the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Anti-Trust and Monopoly. The text was published verbatim by Barron's National Business and Financial Weekly last May 20.

Professor Manne was speaking of the Democrat and Republican parties.

"In the completely free political structures allowed by the U.S. Constitution," he declared, "we have developed only two significant political parties. And one of these, measured by party registrations, is significantly larger than the other..."

It would seem by all of the criteria used by proponents of the instant bill to judge General Motors Corp. of IBM, that the Democratic Party should be forthwith reorganized into nine, or some other arbitrary number, of smaller, safer, more competitive, more innovative, and less politically powerful organizations.

The professor went on to explain that he was merely paraphrasing some of the rhetoric used by economists who had testified before. "But," he went on, "the analogy is in no sense far-fetched, and indeed the spectre of only two competing political parties in a nation whose central government has become as powerful as ours, is more frightening to any thoughtful citizen than the vision of 200 large domestic corporations each competing in many ways for the consumers' dollars."

Well, it hadn't been for Barron's, that bit would have missed the media.

ALL THAT GLITTERS

Advice To Press Secretary

By VIC GOLD

Washington — A few weeks ago Tom Dowling, the eminently literate and readable Washington Star-News columnist, took this writer and several others to task for unloading unsolicited counsel over Gerald Ford's unprotected head when he first moved into the White House.

Dowling's point was that the new President didn't need our advice, even if it was any good, which, in his opinion, it wasn't.

Well, of course every columnist to his own device — although God knows, the President could have used somebody's counsel, besides the ubiquitous Alexander Haig's, a few Sunday mornings ago.

In any case, the focus of the gratuitous words that follow isn't the man in the Oval Office. It's his newly appointed press secretary, Ron Nessen, who, if recent history is any guide, is going to need all the outside help he can get.

For that matter, even acting press secretaries working in the Ford White House could use help. Take the case of Jack Husen, who filled in at the press room podium for a while after Jerry TerHorst put on his hat and walked out the West Wing gate.

Husen, in my opinion, is one of the best government press relations men in the business. Yet within 36 hours after becoming Ford's acting press aide, he found himself out on a limb (that White House feeler about pardons for all Watergate defendants) with the presidential staffers who put him there busily sawing away behind him.

Which leads us directly to Ron Nessen's biggest problem as he moves into his new role as the country's No. 1 press spokesman. Not the press itself, because Nessen, having worked as both a print and electronic journalist, knows his former colleagues' needs and how to handle them.

The question is: will he be given a chance by the foxes and the lions who prowl the White House grounds? That is, the President's aides who work on the mistaken premise that what the press secretary doesn't know won't hurt them.

The new press secretary, to be sure, opened his tenure on the upbeat note that he would be — pardon me for this one — TerHorst of a different color. That is, he hopes to earn the respect gained by his predecessor, without feeling obliged to agree with his employer on substantive policy matters.

Fair enough. But as indicated, Nessen's problem isn't limited to whether he agrees with Gerald Ford's policies. It's whether anybody around the Oval Office will bother to give him the straight word as to what those policies are.

Far be it from me, however, to give Ron Nessen's boss any unsolicited advice on this subject. Tom Dowling might object. But for an old friend, Ron Nessen, in a new job, this counsel from one who has worked both sides of the press relations podium:

To thine own instincts be true. And if for any reason you can't be just remember what A.J. Leibling once laid down as the wayward pressman's law: "A man with enough guts can always pick himself up off a barstool and throw himself into the street."

Inflation Attack Paralyzed

By VICTOR RIESEL

NEW YORK — In Broadway jargon the review of the performance in an erstwhile nightclub room at the Waldorf would have said, "They bombed in New York." Meaning the show was dull and should have closed before the curtain went up. When I sauntered in on the pre-summit gathering of economists, former Pay Board director C. Jackson Grayson was saying languidly that they had been sitting around, learning much from each other but coming to no conclusion on inflation.

Well, from one of Jerry Ford's top Cabinet members I've learned that the President has come to one conclusion — soon after the "summit" summit he will create a national Labor-Management Commission which won't be "sham." Just what this commission can do is a Churchillian enigma.

For the President it will be a halfway "safe house," to use a CIA phrase. It's midway between those close to the Oval Room who want wage-price controls and those advisers, close indeed to the President, who call controls, "The most asinine mechanism in economic history." The battle between these two White House forces is almost at the bloodletting stage.

The new labor-management commission can do little more than agitate among its constituencies for voluntary price and wage restraint.

In Britain the wage part of this is called the "Social Contract." This is an informal agreement by the unions to restrain their wage demands. I can tell you from personal conversations in London recently, the British national union chiefs either won't or can't deliver. Inflation there is at 17 per cent annually — second in Europe only to Italy's 18 per cent rocketing in living costs. Why?

Well, the United Kingdom's Socialist Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey (sort of Secretary of the Treasury) explains that "much of its success depends on support it gets from the rank and file of the trade unions."

The same is true in this old British colony, the U.S.A. Trouble with the White House men, true but not tired, inexperienced, lacking in realism, woefully unknowing of stresses inside labor is they haven't been to a union hall recently. Or noted the trends in local labor elections.

As in Britain, the rank and file here in America is telling its national and local leaders to go to hell. Much of this trade union membership is under 30 years of age, or just above the mark now. They want their money yesterday.

And they've begun to ride right over their leaders. They're dumping them out of office like pins in a championship bowling match. It's a brutal year for incumbents. Only recently in this state, experienced officials of the operating engineers, sheet metal workers and carpenters, just to mention a few, have been elected out.

It will get tougher and rougher. There no longer is a Construction Industry Stabilization Committee (CISC) to rule the Building and Construction Trades and set reasonable wage rates. So the national leaders can't tell their local officials to tell the rank and file that "the men in Washington just won't go for such big money (pay raise)."

Leaders of other unions are watching this closely — and nervously.

Just look at the Social Contract in Britain where the Trades Union Congress (the counterpart of the AFL-CIO) high command, the General Council, has pledged restraint in return for social reforms.

The Communist-Socialist-led coal miners are set to smash the wage line again. The abrasive left-winger, powerful Hugh Scanlon, leader of the million-member Amalgamated Union of Engineering Workers, said when I was there that there would be industrial chaos in the U.K. if the Labor Party didn't win the (Oct. 10) election.

Well, there won't be industrial chaos here, we hope. But there will be a mighty strike wave this winter if the rank and file, be it in aerospace or the coal pits, don't get what it wants.

Ford promised to work for peace and "heal old wounds reopened." Maybe that means he'll cancel Nixon's pardon.

Martha Mitchell is asking $3,300 a week alimony. And that's only for phone calls.

John Ehrlichman asked for a 60-90 day trial delay so that Nixon will be healthy enough to testify. Hopefully the country will be well enough to take it.

When the military provides cars for congressmen to country clubs, airports, etc., the country gets taken for a ride.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Rodino Holding Out On Confirmation Of Rocky

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — One so-far unmovable obstacle is standing in the way of early confirmation of Vice President designate Nelson Rockefeller — the TV-inflated ego of Judiciary Committee chairman Peter Rodino.

Rapturously enthralled by the nationwide hoopla and political billing accorded him as a result of the televised impeachment proceedings, the New Jersey Democrat just can't resist the temptation to star in another round of tormented hearings — and is balking at expediting consideration of the Rockefeller appointment.

That's what House Democratic leaders privately want him to do. They have been arguing and pleading with him. But Rodino is blandly going his own way.

That's highly unusual for him on the basis of his past record of listening to party "elders" and bowing to their views and wishes. Mild-mannered and conciliatory, he prided himself on being a "team player." He definitely did not fall in the category of an "independent minded" committee chairman.

But Rodino is a transformed politico since the historic televised impeachment proceedings. While not outrightly defying House leaders, he is simply paying them no heed.

That's distinctly embarrassing for Speaker Carl Albert, Okla., and Democratic Floor Leader Thomas O'Neill, Mass.

They are on the spot because of the avowed intention of Senate Democratic leaders to confirm Rockefeller by the middle of next month when Congress shuts down for the Nov. 5 elections. As the Vice President presides over the Senate, that chamber has more at stake on his confirmation than the House.

So the pointed challenge is being raised that if the Senate can dispose of the matter in a few weeks, why can't the House? In fact, why can't joint committee hearings be held?

That's why Albert and O'Neill have become so sensitive to accusations of deliberate stalling to prevent Rockefeller from campaigning in the crucial closing weeks of the elections. They vehemently deny that — and as far as they are concerned, their disavowals are substantially true.

The embarrassing hitch is that the once-meek and complaisant Rodino is headily calling the shots — and having a ball doing it.

Revealing Exchange

How long Rodino will hold out remains to be seen. Backstage word is that the Judiciary Committee chairman may experience an abrupt change of heart once the Senate Rules Committee clears Rockefeller's nomination and sends it to the Senate floor for formal confirmation.

Incidentally, that will probably take not more than one hour. It will be overwhelmingly voted with a minimum of rhetoric and declamations.

Significantly, knowledgeable House insiders close to Speaker Albert and Floor Leader O'Neill are offering bets that the confirmation issue will not drag out into the lame-duck session — slated to convene around the middle of November.

They are confidently predicting that shortly before the scheduled Oct. 11 recess, Rodino's committee will rush out a report recommending confirmation.

Revealingly indicative of the defensiveness of the House leaders on this matter is the following discussion between Democratic Floor Leader Tip O'Neill and Republican Floor Leader John Rhodes, Ariz.:

Rhodes: "I think it would be unconscionable for the House not to confirm the Vice President designate before we recess for the elections."

O'Neill: "Well, I don't agree it would be unconscionable. We are not trying to hold this up. We are trying to expedite the matter as quickly as possible. We're trying to do the honorable thing. There is no political significance either way as far as the elections are concerned, whether Mr. Rockefeller is Vice President or whether he is not Vice President."

Rhodes: "It strikes me as decidedly singular that the Senate will be able to act on confirmation before recessing, and the House will not. I can't help but wonder why the House Judiciary Committee feels impelled to put a higher degree of tests on the Vice President designate than the Senate does. After all, as Vice President, he will be president of the Senate ex officio, and clearly that body has more concern about him than the House."

To this apparently unanswerable argument, O'Neill replied with the wholly irrelevant comment:

"Well, I think we are all proud of the job the Judiciary Committee has done. It enhanced the image of Congress, and we appreciate the position they are in. I am sure they are acting with thorough conscientiousness."

This evasive profundity prompted veteran Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, to ask wryly, "Can the distinguished gentleman advise whether a golf tournament is programmed for the coming week?" (a reference to O'Neill's recent golfing with President Ford).

Chuckling at Gross's sly barb, O'Neill said, "No tournament is programmed, but if the gentleman is interested, perhaps I can arrange something for him."

"Don't bother," shot back Gross. "As the Majority Leader well knows, I don't play golf. I get my exercise just by walking. That's good enough for me."

Expensive Economy

Those prestigious new budget committees set up by the House and Senate, to enable Congress to exercise more effective control over government spending, are starting off resoundingly — by asking for around $500,000 for staff salaries and other expenses. From the unannounced plans of Senate Committee Chairman Edmund Muskie, D-Me., and House Committee Chairman Al Ullman, O-Ore., they contemplate large staffs of accountants, investigators, clerks, etc., etc. It's a safe bet that within a couple of years, these committees will be among the largest and most costly on Capitol Hill.

New White House press secretary Ron Nessen is hinting to former media colleagues that significant changes are under discussion in the formula for presidential press conferences. Nessen is indicating President Ford may shift these nationally televised affairs to cities other than Washington. In other words, hold press conferences in other metropolitan centers instead of limiting them to the capital.

As Nessen is telling it, presidential press conferences would be held in every section of the country with the thought of giving them a distinctly regional flavor and tenor.

H. L. Hunt Writes

Inflation Persists

Mounting inflationary pressures continue to dog the American economy. The stock market is hard hit but above all the American housewife is hard pressed to keep wholesome food on the table and the budget under control at the same time. These problems can be attributed to many factors. Whatever the causes, something has to be done to alleviate the situation now.

The first big step should be aimed at reducing — and balancing — the national budget. The fat must be carved out of government spending and one thing that should go first is foreign aid. Unessential bureaucrats should feel the axe. Give-away programs in the field of the domestic economy, such as the welfare dole to persons who refuse to work, should be whacked.

Something good may come from the round of high level economic conferences but no good can come from a program of government wage and price controls. The various "phases" of controls employed in the Nixon Administration failed, just as those of other eras flopped. The market place is the logical control area. This is the way of sound economics.

Within the next 30 years, Brazil's vast Amazonian rain forest will be wiped out if the current trend towards deforestation continues, says professor Marvick Kleer of the University of Riberáo Preto.

The Almanac

United Press International Today is Monday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1974 with 92 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

American industrialist William Wrigley Jr. was born Sept. 30, 1861. This also is actress Deborah Kerr's 53rd birthday.

On this day in history:

In 1846, a dentist in Charleston, Mass., extracted a tooth for the first time with the aid of anesthesia—ether.

In 1938, Germany, France, Britain and Italy met in Munich for a conference, after which British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain promised "peace in our time." That "peace" lasted 37 days before World War II started.

In 1953, Earl Warren was appointed Chief Justice of the United States.

In 1972, resident Richard Nixon signed a congressional resolution approving an interim Soviet-American offensive arms agreement.

A thought for the day: American playwright Louis Kaufman Anspacher said, "Marriage is that relation between man and woman in which the independence is equal, the dependence mutual, and the obligation reciprocal."

The center of attention in the case more than any of these will be Richard M. Nixon, an unindicted coconspirator.

The former president is the star witness. He is no longer subject to federal prosecution for whatever he did, because of the full pardon he received Sept. 8.

The trial might provide the fullest airing of whatever his role was.

Nixon resigned as president Aug. 9. He has been in a hospital 3,000 miles away for a week, and his lawyers suggest he is too ill to testify at the trial, or to answer questions the lawyers say only he can answer.

Both Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and Ehrlichman have subpoenaed Nixon.

Presumably, Jaworski needs him to certify the authenticity of the 30 hours of White House tapes the pros House wants to use, and Ehrlichman wants to show he was acting as the

Nixon—Center Of Attention For Watergate Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate cover-up trial will begin some time close to 9:30 a.m. EDT Tuesday — Judge John J. Sirica is either early or late but rarely on time.

The list of defendants includes a former attorney general, John N. Mitchell; two former top White House aides, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman; Haldeman's one-time aid Gordon C. Strachan; a former assistant attorney general, Robert C. Mardian; and a Nixon re-election campaign committee lawyer, Kenneth W. Parkinson.

The center of attention in the case more than any of these will be Richard M. Nixon, an unindicted coconspirator.

The former president is the star witness. He is no longer subject to federal prosecution for whatever he did, because of the full pardon he received Sept. 8.

Nixon resigned as president Aug. 9. He has been in a hospital 3,000 miles away for a week, and his lawyers suggest he is too ill to testify at the trial, or to answer questions the lawyers say only he can answer.

Both Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and Ehrlichman have subpoenaed Nixon.

Presumably, Jaworski needs him to certify the authenticity of the 30 hours of White House tapes the pros House wants to use, and Ehrlichman wants to show he was acting as the president's agent. Chief trial prosecutor James F. Neal will take six weeks to two months to make his case.

Since five burglars were arrested inside the Democratic National Committee at the Watergate complex June 17, 1972, a series of events have come to light wilder than any Washington fiction.

There were the White House "plumbers" and their 1971 break-in at the office of a psychiatrist treating Pentagon Paper defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

There were allegations of widespread wiretapping — including eavesdropping in the Oval Office — "enemies lists" and a campaign to raise illegal corporate political campaign contributions.

Four former Cabinet members and several top aides in the Nixon White House and reelection committee were accused — and in 14 cases, convicted — of crime.

Nixon resigned as the House neared an impeachment vote.

The trial will begin in the large ceremonial court room on the sixth floor of the U.S. District Court house, with jury selection expected to consume several days and the trial most likely lasting until Christmas.

James F. Davey, clerk of court, said between 650 and 675 persons were on call for jury duty. Of these, 170 have been told to report Tuesday, 190 on Wednesday and 150 on Thursday.

After the jury is selected, the trial will be moved to Sirica's own Courtroom No. 2 on the second floor.

Dennis Bracey of the General Services Administration, who is handling the physical arrangements, said between 100 and 125 news organizations have asked for credentials. About 65 will be admitted, leaving only 15 seats for the general public, to be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Sirica, who presided over most Watergate legal proceedings, including the 1973 burglary trial of the original seven defendants, will preside.

Neal, who took leave from private practice in Nashville to become an associate Watergate prosecutor, will head the team of government lawyers including Richard Ben-Veniste and Jill Wine Volner, the 31-year-old assistant Watergate prosecutors who gained fame during hearings on the missing White House tapes.

John J. Wilson, 72, shrewd and wily, is Haldeman's lawyer. He heads an array of defense attorneys that are drawn heavily from service in previous Democratic administrations.

William G. Hundley, Mitchell's lawyer, was the organized crime section chief under the late Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. Nixon's lawyer, Herbert J. Miller Jr., was an assistant attorney general under Kennedy.

The six defendants were indicted by the original Watergate grand jury March 1.

The King Ranch, founded by Capt. Richard King in 1853 in southern Texas, covers 823,000 acres.
